

Provisional At-Risk Program/Practice Annual Data Submission Form

The Provisional At-Risk Program/Practice Annual Data Submission Form is for school districts who are using at-risk funds to implement provisional programs/practices for their selected at-risk populations. This form is open annually from May 1st through August 31st.

After receiving provisional approval, school districts may use at-risk funds on provisional programs or practices for up to three school years. During this three-year period, school districts should submit annual data to KSDE that demonstrate the effectiveness of the program or practice on their identified at-risk student population. The annual data collection is intended to support the evaluation and continuous improvement of programs and practices used to serve at-risk students. As a reminder, submitted data will not be used for accountability purposes. Rather, the information provided helps KSDE determine whether a program or practice demonstrates sufficient evidence of effectiveness for statewide approval.

At the conclusion of the three-year provisional period, KSDE will review the submitted data to determine whether the program or practice should be added to the Approved List of State At-Risk Evidence-Based Programs and Practices. If the program/practice is added to the approved list, school districts will no longer need to complete the annual data submission or apply for a provisional approval. If the program/practice is not added to the list, districts will need to reapply using the provisional application form if they wish to continue to use at-risk funding for the program/practice.
