Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a 10-year old male student enrolled in the 4th grade at Park Hill Elementary School during the 2023-24 school year. According to the student's mother, he was first diagnosed with Level 3 Autism around three years of age. He was also diagnosed with Post-traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD) in May 2024 and Disruptive Mood Dysregulation Disorder (DMDD) in June 2024.

The student's October 23, 2023 IEP goals include naming objects and their corresponding functions, comprehension skills, verbal/sign/symbolic communication, following a visual schedule, subtraction, identification of coins, story comprehension, and striking a ball/object with a bat, hand or racket. Related services include indirect OT, indirect and direct speech, adapted physical education, indirect counseling and special education services. Support for school personnel includes OT as a resource for fine motor and handwriting. The student may use the special education bus for transportation to and from school. The supplementary aids and services in the IEP include visual supports, sensory items, adaptive paper, pencils and writing board, consistent schedule, choice when possible and verbal reinforcement. The student qualifies to take the alternate state assessment, does not receive program modifications but does qualify for extended school year.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, four issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

The USD #260, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to notify the parent with a Prior Written Notice (PWN) including the rationale for the district's placement decision and the parent's recourse if in disagreement with the schools decision for school year 2024-2025.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(b)(3) require that the PWN sent by the school district includes, "(3) A description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action;". State regulations at K.S.A. 72-3430(d) require, "a description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action;".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

1. The student had a serious behavioral incident on April 25, 2024 resulting in an out of school suspension.
2. The mother was able to get the student admitted to a local children's mental health hospital on April 25, 2024 where he stayed until April 30, 2024.
3. On May 1, 2024 there was a serious behavioral incident which resulted in an out of school suspension.
4. On May 7, 2024 there was an additional serious behavior incident which did not result in an out of school suspension, but rather the second admission to a children's mental health hospital May 7 to 9, 2024
5. Upon the student's release on May 9, 2024 the mother requested a meeting to discuss student's behavior support at school and a possible alternative placement.
6. An IEP update meeting was held on May 14, 2024 to discuss behavioral support and potential change in placement. Attending were the principal, social worker, special education teacher, assistant director of special services, the mother and a family friend.
7. At the meeting the district shared a conversation they had with the hospital's physician who stated that the student was now diagnosed with PTSD as a result of interactions with his biological father. The doctor also shared that, "public school may not be the place" for the student but did not suggest private placement or a reevaluation, according to the principal.
8. There are no minutes from this meeting.
9. A PWN dated May 17, 2024 was sent as a result of the May 14, 2024 meeting and signed by the mother on May 17, 2024.

10. The PWN did not include evaluation procedures, assessments, records or reports used in the district's decision making, as required by IDEA.

Conclusion

In this case, the May 17, 2024 PWN included most of the required information; however, it lacked any descriptions of evaluation procedures, assessments, records, or reports used to determine the district's response, as required in both federal and state law. The statement included in the PWN to fulfill the requirement for 34 C.F.R. 300.503(b)(3) and K.S.A. 72-3430(d) reads, "Teacher observations, data collection, parent input, Special Services Administration Input." This statement does not mention evaluation procedures, assessments, records or reports used in the district's decision making. Further, the district reported that they did not have behavior data summaries to use in the meeting, but rather daily data sheets. There are no meeting minutes reflecting the use of data in the district's decision making. The student's recent behavior had become severe enough to warrant three days of out of school suspensions; two days in April and one day in May, 2024, as well as two emergency hospitalizations at mental health facilities in a two week period (April 25 and May 7, 2024). Given these serious events, summarized and easy to understand behavior data, current behavioral assessments, the BIP, FBA or other relevant information would have been appropriate for the team to review and use for data-based decision making.

The requirement in this portion of the PWN is to give a "description" of the evaluation procedures, assessments, records, or reports, that the district used. Merely inserting a list of reports, as the district did here, is insufficient.

As stated above, the description may be summarized and in easy to understand language. It does not have to include excessive detail. It may be a general description, but it does need to sufficiently "describe" any evaluation procedures, assessments, records, or reports used to determine the district's response. For example, this PWN says "teacher observations." It does not "describe" the teacher observations. It simply "lists" teacher observations. The parents in this complaint have not been informed of what the teacher observations were or even whether those observations supported the team's decision. The district could have complied with the requirement of this section by providing a short statement in the PWN indicating that there were: (a) teacher observations of serious behavior incidents and signs of emotional distress in the student; (b) parent concerns about the state of the student's mental health; Special Services Administration concerns about the safety of this student and other students; and data collection showing that serious behavior incidents were accelerating.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD #260 failed to issue a PWN on May 17, 2024 which included a sufficient description of data used as a basis for decision making including evaluation procedures, assessments, records, or reports.

Issue Two

The USD #260, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to get parent consent for a change in placement during the 2023-2024 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a)(1) requires a school district to provide PWN when it "(1) Proposes to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child;" Kansas regulation KSA 72-988(b)(2) states that parents have the right to prior written notice whenever an agency proposes to initiate or change; or refuses to initiate or change, the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of a free appropriate public education to the child.

Additionally, KAR 91-40-27(a)(3) requires that each agency shall obtain parental consent when making a material change in services to or a substantial change of the placement of an exceptional child. Substantial change in placement means the movement of an exceptional child for more than 25% of the child's school day from a less restrictive environment to a more restrictive environment, or from a more restrictive environment to a less restrictive environment, according to KAR 91-40-1(sss).

K.A.R. 91-40-21(c)(1) offers, "(c) (1) In determining the educational placement of a child with a disability, including a preschool child with a disability, each agency shall ensure that the placement decision meets the following requirements: (A) The decision shall be made by a group of persons, including the child's parent or parents and other persons who are knowledgeable about the child, the meaning of the evaluation data, and the placement options."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

1. The Mother reported that in the last few months of school her son was in a "small room throughout the day with only a paraeducator for instruction and companionship, missing out on social interaction such as recess and lunch with his classmates."
2. The Assistant Director of Special Services shared in an interview on July 10, 2024 that the district was not aware until the May 14, 2024 IEP update meeting that the special education teacher had moved the student to the sensory room for instruction and that he was not having lunch or recess with his classmates.
3. This change in educational environment constitutes a substantial change in placement, for which parent consent is required.
4. The special education teacher is no longer employed by the district as of the end of the 2023-2024 school year.

5. The district was not able to provide documentation of how many days instruction was solely provided to the student in this location, nor the level of supervision provided to the paraeducator by the special education teacher.
6. There is no record of a team meeting, data review or meeting with the mother to change the location of instruction for the student and remove him from recess and lunches with his classmates.
7. Although at some point mom knew her son was in this new location with a paraprofessional as sole instructor, she was not provided a PWN including a rationale for this decision nor a meeting to discuss a path for the student to resume instruction, recess, and lunches with his classmates, nor given the opportunity to either grant or withhold consent.
8. There is no mention of the use of the sensory room as a location for instruction in the student's October 23, 2023 IEP.

Conclusion

In this case, the mother was not provided a PWN as a result of the change of placement for instruction, nor was notified that her son would not have recess or lunch with his classmates, nor provided with the opportunity to grant or to withhold consent for this substantial change in placement.

The mother reports that the student was in the sensory room all day with a paraprofessional for the last few months of school. The district is not able to offer records or reports that show where the student received instruction. The school has no record of what date this arrangement first took place, no record of how many days it occurred and no information on the level of supervision the special educator offered to the paraprofessional who delivered instruction to the student.

It appears the decision to move the student to one-on-one instruction by a paraprofessional in a small room was made unilaterally by the special education teacher who is no longer at the district and not available for an interview. There was no team meeting prior to, or during this change in placement.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that the USD #260 failed to issue a PWN or to obtain the mother's consent for a change of placement of more than 25% made unilaterally by the special education teacher for the last few months of the 2023-2024 school year.

Issue Three

The USD #260, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop and follow an appropriate behavior intervention plan, including emergency procedures during the 2023-2024 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1)(ii) require that the IEP team revises "the IEP, as appropriate to address—(A) Any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals described in §300.320(a)(2), and in the general education curriculum, if appropriate;".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

1. The most recent BIP update occurred in October of 2023 and was included in the IEP dated October 23, 2023.
2. The district states there is a current Functional Behavior Assessment, but is not able to produce it.
3. The district reports that staff training on the student's BIP is ongoing although they are not able to provide documentation as to who has been trained or when the training took place.
4. The student's current IEP behavior goals include reducing behaviors such as; yelling, laying on the floor, hitting, kicking, biting and spitting at others. Each of these behaviors has baseline data collected from August 15, 2023 to October 22, 2023.
5. The behaviors first summarized by the district at the end of the 2024 school year in graphic form reflect data for; disruptive vocalizations (screaming/verbal refusal), physical aggression, elopement, throwing, refusal to move, destruction of property, and climbing.
6. The behaviors summarized by the district at the end of the 2023-2024 school year do not match the behaviors in the student's current BIP thus determining progress from baseline is difficult.
7. The district has behavior data for much of the 2023-2024 school year but is missing data for October and the first half of November.
8. Elopement, a potentially life threatening behavior, which occurred between 10-15 times during the 2023-2024 school year, is not addressed in the BIP.
9. There were seven days of out of school suspension during the 2023-2024 school year: December 6, 2023 for two days; January 5, 2024 for one day; April 11, 20204 for two days; April 25, 20204 for one day and May 1, 2024 for one day.
10. On April 3, 2024 staff reported that an Emergency Safety Intervention (ESI) was used to deal with the student's behaviors.
11. Law enforcement officers were called to the school to physically restrain the student at least once in the spring of 2024.
12. There were two emergency mental health hospital placements (April 25 and May 7, 2024) due to extreme behaviors at school.

13. There was a team meeting to discuss the student's behavior and possible alternative placement on May 14, 2024, there are no minutes from this meeting.
14. The mother reports in her July 2, 2024 complaint that her son's classmates were often instructed to evacuate the room due to her son's behavior, "at one point, the need for evacuation had become a daily occurrence for an entire week".

Conclusion

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1)(ii) require that the IEP team revises the IEP as appropriate to address the lack of expected progress toward the annual goals.

In this case, the quarterly progress reports for 2023-2024 school year for this student do not include progress on his behavior goals. In the BIP section of the student's IEP it states that for progress monitoring, "a Behavior Tracking Sheet/Report will be reviewed quarterly". There is no evidence that these quarterly reviews occurred. In the interview with district personnel on July 18, 2024 they reported that although they have a team process to review behavioral issues for students without an IEP, there is no team process in place to review behavioral issues for students who have IEPs. The district reports they have no record of the student's BIP being reviewed, can not locate the most current FBA, are missing data for October and the first half of November 2023, and can produce no record of staff training on the BIP. The only team review of the raw data (not graphed or summarized) is at the May 14, 2024 IEP update meeting. IDEA requires that the IEP team revise the IEP to address lack of progress. In spite of the dangerous and disruptive nature of the student's behaviors, there is no evidence of ongoing monitoring of behavior data necessary to gauge progress.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD #260 failed to revise the IEP, specifically the BIP to address lack of progress toward the annual goals during the 2023-2024 school year.

Issue Four

The USD #260, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow the student's IEP by providing Occupational and Behavioral therapies during the 2023-2024 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

1. The IEP dated October 23, 2023 states the student will receive indirect OT once per month, for 10 minutes.
2. USD #260 shared OT logs which confirmed that indirect services were delivered once per month for 10 minutes as agreed upon in his October 23, 2023 IEP for each month of the 2023-2024 school year except December 2023, January and February 2024 for which documentation is not available.
3. The October 23, 2023 IEP includes a Positive Behavior Intervention Plan, however it does not require behavioral therapies as a related service.

Conclusion

In this case, the student's October 23, 2023 IEP required indirect OT services to be provided for 10 minutes, one time per month. A review of OT therapy service logs reflected that these services were provided as required in the IEP except for the months of December 2023, January and February of 2024 for which there are no service logs. The district was asked, but was not able to provide additional information such as teacher schedules or OT progress reports which reflected provision of OT services as written in the October 23, 2023 IEP.

A review of related services in the October 23, 2023 IEP contains no mention of behavioral therapy outside of the Positive Behavior Intervention Plan.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #260 failed to follow the student's IEP by providing behavioral therapies during the 2023-2024 school year. However, it is substantiated that USD #260 failed to follow the student's IEP by ensuring provision of Occupational Therapy during the 2023-2024 school year.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.503(b)(3) and K.S.A. 72-3430(d) was found based on the incomplete PWN sent on May 17, 2024 which did not include a specific description of the data used as a basis for the district's action. Corrective action is required.
    a. CORRECTIVE ACTION:
        i. The district shall immediately, within 21 days, by August 22, 2024 submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state statutes and regulations at Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(b)(3) and K.S.A. 72-3430(d) which requires a description of the data used as a basis for the district's action.
        ii. The district shall train IEP team members responsible for completing the PWN document to include a description of the data used as a basis for the district's action within 60 days, by September 30, 2024.
        iii. The district shall submit documentation of staff training to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) within 65 days, by October 5, 2024.

iv. The district shall, by August 9, 2024, provide a PWN to the parents that includes an appropriate description of any evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report used in making any proposed change to the student's IEP at the May 14, 2034 IEP meeting.

b. Dates Due: (i) August 22, 2024; (ii) September 30 ,2024; (iii) October 5, 28, 2024 (iv) August 9, 2024.

2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a)(1), KSA 72-988(b)(2), KAR 91-40-27(a)(3), KAR 91-40-1(sss), and K.A.R. 91-40-21(c)(1) was found based on the failure of USD #260 to issue a PWN for the mother's consent for a change of placement of more than 25%, made unilaterally by the special education teacher, for the last few months of the 2023-2024 school year. Corrective action is required.

a. CORRECTIVE ACTION:

i. REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #500
ON JULY 22, 2024

DATE OF REPORT: AUGUST 9, 2024

This report is in response to a complaint -------- filed with our office, on behalf of their child, ---------. For the remainder of this report -------- will be referred to as "the student." -------- will be referred to as "the parent."

Investigation of Complaint

K.A.R. § 91-40-5(c)(5) requires that the complaint investigation include "[a] discussion with the complainant during which additional information may be gathered and specific allegations of noncompliance identified, verified, and recorded." Laura Jurgensen, complaint investigator, held this discussion with the parent through a phone call with a translator on July 24, gathering additional information and verifying the specific allegations to be investigated. Laura Jurgensen provided the specific allegation to be investigated to the parent (in Spanish) and the district (in English) via email on July 24. The parent did not dispute how the complaint investigator framed the issue to be investigated. The parent and investigator also exchanged multiple emails in Spanish. The district special education director provided the investigator with a response to the issue the investigator identified, as well as all documentation and data the investigator requested.

In completing this investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed the following:

- District's Response to the Complaint, Aug. 6, 2024.
- Student 2023–24 Attendance Summary, Aug. 5, 2024.
- Student 2023–24 Attendance Detail, Aug. 5, 2024.

- Student Occupational Therapy Evaluation, Nov. 7, 2023.

Background Information

This complaint focuses on a student in first grade during the time period covered by the complaint investigation. The student's IEP describes her as "kind and outgoing." The student's IEP also indicates that she exhibits needs in math and speech-language.

Issues

In the written complaint and the complaint investigator's discussion with the complainant, the parent alleges one issues upon which this investigation will focus:

> Did USD 500 ensure that the student's IEP Team determined whether the student needed Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) therapy to receive a free appropriate public education? (34 C.F.R. §§ 300.101, .320(a)(4); K.S.A. § 72-3410(a)(2); K.A.R. § 91-40-2.)

Issue

ABA Therapy through the IEP

Applicable Law

State and federal special education legal requirements obligate a district to make a free appropriate public education to a child identified with a disability through an IEP. (34 C.F.R. § 300.101; K.S.A. § 72-3410(a)(2); K.A.R. § 91-40-2.) Each child's IEP must include the:

> special education and related services and supplementary aids and services . . . to enable the child . . . [t]o advance appropriately toward attaining [their] annual goals; [t]o be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum in accordance with [the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance], and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and [t]o be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children in the activities described in this section . . . .

(34 C.F.R. § 300.320(a)(4).)

In the comments to the 2006 regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, the United States Department of Education weighed in on who decides whether a child with a disability needs a specific instructional methodology. "The Department's longstanding position on including instructional methodologies in a child's IEP is that it is an IEP Team's decision. Therefore, if an IEP Team determines that specific instructional methods are necessary for the child to receive FAPE, the instructional methods may be addressed in the IEP." (71 Fed. Reg. 46,665 (2006).)

In the complaint and the initial discussion with the complaint investigator the parent maintains that the district is not addressing the student's behavior needs and the parent must obtain outside therapy. The parent has secured applied behavior analysis (ABA) therapy for the student through KinCare. (Parent's Complaint, Jul. 12, 2024.) The parent maintains that she made a request to school staff that the student be permitted to leave school to participate in ABA therapy and school staff indicated that if the student left early once a week or once a month, the school would excuse the absence, but if the student leaves early each school day, then school staff will mark the student absent for the entire school day. (Complaint Investigator and Parent Phone Call, July 24, 2024.) The district maintains the school has not received a request from the parent for the student to be absent to receive outside therapy. (District's Response to the Complaint, Aug. 6, 2024.) The complaint investigator's initial understanding of the parent's concern is that staff at the student's school was marking the student absent each time the student left early for therapy so in the district's response it provided the student's attendance records showing the student was not leaving school early. (District's Response to the Complaint, Aug. 6, 2024; Student 2023–24 Attendance Summary, Aug. 5, 2024; Student 2023–24 Attendance Detail, Aug. 5, 2024.) The parent later clarified that the student was not leaving school early for ABA therapy because the parent believed school staff would mark the student absent for the entire school day. (Email from Parent to Complaint Investigator, Aug. 6, 2024.) The parent did not respond to the investigator's request for more detail around the parent's perception that school staff would mark the student absent if the student left school early to participate in ABA therapy. (Email from Complaint Investigator to Parent, Aug. 7, 2024.)

The focus of the parent's concern in this complaint is whether the district ensured that the IEP Team determined whether the student needed ABA therapy to receive a free appropriate public education (FAPE). (Complaint Investigator and Parent Phone Call, July 24, 2024.) The role of the IEP Team is to determine what the student needs to receive FAPE. (71 Fed. Reg. 46,665 (2006).) This investigation will focus on the student's needs and the IEP Team's discussion and decisions about how to meet those needs to provide the student with FAPE. (71 Fed. Reg. 46,665 (2006).)

The parent indicates that the district is not meeting the student's behavior needs, forcing the parent to obtain outside ABA therapy to meet the student's needs. (Email from Parent to Complaint Investigator, Aug. 6, 2024.) The district maintains that the parent did not request that the district provide ABA therapy through the student's IEP. (District's Response to the Complaint, Aug. 6, 2024.) KinCare provides information on its website on the types of needs that it can treat with ABA therapy "that will bring several benefits to a learner's life." (https://www.kincarebh.com/aba-frequently-asked- questions/) "Examples of benefits include increasing social skills, increasing requesting, improving and developing daily living skills, communication, toilet training, bedtime routines, feeding, and self-management. ABA can also be used to address repetitive and interfering behaviors." (https://www.kincarebh.com/aba-frequently-asked- questions/)

The student's evaluation/eligibility report includes several needs that align with ABA therapy, as KinCare offers. (Student Evaluation/Eligibility Report, Feb. 2, 2024; https://www.kincarebh.com/aba-frequently-asked-questions/.) In the area of Social/Emotional, the evaluation indicates that the student "has difficulty using verbal and non-verbal communication appropriately to initiate, engage in, and maintain social contact with peers and adults. She has trouble tolerating changes in routine, engages in apparently purposeless, stereotypical behaviors, and overreacts to certain sensory experiences. She also has deficits in attention and/or motor/impulse control." (Student Evaluation/Eligibility Report, p. 4, Feb. 2, 2024.) The student's needs articulated here could, theoretically, be supported through KinCare's ABA therapy with a focus on "increasing social skills," "communication," and "self-management." (https://www.kincarebh.com/aba-frequently-asked-questions/) In the area of Speech- Language, the evaluation indicates that "the student showed delays in her core language, and language content and use, due to lack of vocabulary for her age, difficulty constructing sentences to communicate a message, understanding information that is being said, giving questions-related answers, and staying on topic during an interaction." (Student Evaluation/Eligibility Report, p. 11, Feb. 2, 2024.) The student's needs articulated here could, theoretically, be supported through KinCare's ABA therapy with a focus on "communication." (https://www.kincarebh.com/aba- frequently-asked-questions/) In the area of behavior:

> Clinically Significant concerns were reported in the areas of Atypicality and Functional Communication . . . [meaning that the student] . . . engages in behaviors that are considered strange or odd . . . [and] . . . At-Risk to Clinically Significant concerns were reported in the areas of Hyperactivity, Withdrawal, and Leadership Communication . . . [meaning that the student]
> . . . displays a moderately high number of disruptive, impulsive, and uncontrolled behaviors, has difficulty making and maintaining friendships, and may have some difficulty making decisions.

The student's needs articulated here could, theoretically, be supported through KinCare's ABA therapy with a focus on "communication." (https://www.kincarebh.com/aba-frequently-asked-questions/) Speaking to the district's understanding of the student's needs, the district also submitted the student's occupational therapy evaluation, a component of the student's overall evaluation, that concluded that the student did not display needs in this area that impacted her educational performance. (Student Occupational Therapy Evaluation, Nov. 7, 2023.) The district also submitted a screenshot of the behavior detail report for the student for the 2023–24 school year showing that the district did not log any behavior related incidents for this student. (Student 2023–24 Behavior Detail Report Screenshot, Aug. 7, 2024.)

Following the student's evaluation, the student's IEP Team developed an IEP for the student. (Student IEP, Apr. 8, 2024.) The evaluation report identified three need areas that correspond with ABA therapy, as offered by KinCare. (Student Evaluation/Eligibility Report, Feb. 2, 2024; https://www.kincarebh.com/aba-frequently-asked-questions/) Stated generically these three need areas are: (1) Using verbal and non-verbal communication appropriately to initiate, engage in, and maintain social contact with peers and adults; (2) Vocabulary; and (3) Disruptive, impulsive, and uncontrolled behaviors. (Student Evaluation/Eligibility Report, Feb. 2, 2024.) The student's IEP Team has the responsibility of putting together an IEP that provides the student with FAPE. (34 C.F.R. § 300.101; K.S.A. § 72-3410(a)(2); K.A.R. § 91-40-2.) The student's IEP Team must determine which special education and related services and supplementary aids and services the student needs to > advance appropriately toward attaining [their] annual goals; [t]o be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum in accordance with [the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance], and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and [t]o be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children in the activities described in this section

To do this, the IEP Team may choose to select a specific instructional methodology to include in the IEP, such as ABA therapy. The United States Department of Education, through its Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP), included a comment in the federal special education regulations, explaining: "There is nothing in the [Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)] that requires an IEP to include specific instructional methodologies The Department's longstanding position on including instructional methodologies in a child's IEP is that it is an IEP Team's decision. Therefore, if an IEP Team determines that specific instructional methods are necessary for the child to receive FAPE, the instructional methods may be addressed in the IEP." (71 Fed. Reg. 46,665 (2006).) For this student, the IEP Team chose to address the student's vocabulary needs through a vocabulary goal. (Student IEP, Apr. 8, 2024.) Without explanation, this student's IEP Team, including the parent, did not address the student's needs in the areas of using verbal and non-verbal communication appropriately to initiate, engage in, and maintain social contact with peers and adults and disruptive, impulsive, and uncontrolled behaviors. (Student IEP, Apr. 8, 2024.) There is no explanation in the student's evaluation report, IEP, or the Prior Written Notice the district provided to the parent requesting her consent for the initial provision of special education services of why the student does not need support through her IEP in these areas. (Student Evaluation/Eligibility Report, Feb. 2, 2024; Student IEP, Apr. 8, 2024; Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent for the Initial Provision of Services on the Student's IEP, Apr. 8, 2024.) Additionally, the parent did not provide any information or documentation showing that she requested that the district meet the identified needs through the student's IEP.

Federal and state special education legal requirements indicate that a parent must provide consent for the initial provision of special education services. (34 C.F.R. § 300.300(b); K.A.R. § 91-40-27(a)(2)). The parent provided consent for the initial provision of special education services for this student despite the student's IEP not including services in areas where the parent remains concerned about the student's needs. (Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent for the Initial Provision of Services on the Student's IEP, Apr. 8, 2024.) The parent did not provide information to explain this decision nor did the parent provide any documentation to show the parent had voiced the concerns in this complaint to the district prior to filing this complaint.

The district certainly has access to information about the student's social/emotional, communication, and behavior needs, but the IEP Team, including the parent, chose not to address those needs within the student's IEP and the parent consented to the initial provision of services. The IEP Team, including the parent, decided on the initial provision of services approximately a month before the school year ended and neither the district nor the parent presented any information during the investigation that showed that the IEP Team should consider a different decision.

Conclusion

As a member of the IEP Team, the parent participated in creating an IEP to provide the student with FAPE and consented to the initial provision of services. (Student IEP, Apr. 8, 2024; Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent for the Initial Provision of Services on the Student's IEP, Apr. 8, 2024.) The IEP Team could have chosen to put a specific instructional methodology into the student's IEP to meet her needs, but it did not, choosing to meet the student's needs through the goals and services articulated in the IEP. (Student IEP, Apr. 8, 2024; 71 Fed. Reg. 46,665 (2006).) Therefore, this investigation concludes that USD 500 met its obligation to ensure that the student's IEP Team determined whether the student needed Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) therapy to receive a free appropriate public education. 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.101, .320(a)(4); K.S.A. § 72-3410(a)(2); K.A.R. § 91-40-2. As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed. The parent and district could choose to address the concern in this complaint by convening an IEP Team meeting.

Background Information

The student is 6 years old and attended kindergarten in USD #263 during the 2023-24 school year. The student also attended preschool in the district. The student's most recent IEP states eligibility for special education as a student with autism and speech language disorders. During the 2023-24 school year, the student received speech language therapy, pull out special education resource services, and special education support in the general education classroom, along with numerous accommodations to address sensory, disability and behavioral concerns. The student has numerous health considerations and a health plan at school. The student had a behavior intervention plan included in the IEP.

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: The USD #263 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the student's behavior plan, accommodations, paraprofessional services, placement in general education, providing behavior data to the parent providing specific behavior information to parent
2. ISSUE TWO: The USD #263 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop an IEP that addressed the child's disability, specifically considering parental concerns and input into accommodations and behavior planning, avoiding use of restraint and isolation, and staff training on student support needs.
3. ISSUE THREE: The USD #263 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to providing Prior Written Notice to parent for actions such as denying parental requests

The USD #263 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the student's behavior plan, accommodations, paraprofessional services, placement in general education, providing behavior data to the parent providing specific behavior information to parent

Applicable Law

Federal/State statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.39 defines special education as specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent to meet the unique needs of a child with a disability. Further 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) requires that the IEP include "a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child: (i) To advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; (ii) To be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum. . . and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and (iii) To be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children. "

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The parent alleged that the student's IEP had not been followed in a number of ways, especially with regard to his behavior. The parent alleged that the staff were not using de escalation techniques, that the student was in seclusion for more than 30 minutes at a time, and that the district was supposed to provide detailed daily behavior notes to the parent. In the written complaint, the parent alleged that the student's behavior plan had not been followed when he was injured with a rug burn on his back. The parent believed that this event was unwitnessed at school because the paraprofessional who was assigned to provide 1:1 services to the child was not present and providing special education services. The parent alleged that she did not believe the child was getting his general education time and that the district was not using the child's communication device. The parent alleged that the student was not getting his general education time and that the field trip had not been appropriate for the student due to his allergies. The parent alleged that the student's accommodations had not been provided by the school, and that the district had not provided the required speech language device to the student or the behavioral data to the parent as required by the IEP.

The district responded that it had followed the IEP by providing the services, accommodations, and staff training required by the student's IEP. The district responded that they met many times with the parent to discuss the student's needs and communicated frequently with the parent about the implementation of the IEP, including the provision of accommodations during the school day and the student's behavior. The district responded that the student's schedule provided for a special education teacher or special education paraprofessional to provide support for the student, along with speech language therapy services. The district responded that staff were trained in CPI.

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the parent and staff in USD #263. The findings will be organized to show the timeline of special education actions and the midyear re-evaluation, followed by IEP services including assistive technology, behavior intervention plan, accommodations and supplementary aids and services, staff training to implement the IEP, and daily behavior communication with the parent.

Timeline of special education events

During the past year, the student had two IEPs which were amended through a series of IEP meetings. IEP 1: The student's IEP dated December 7, 2022 was amended on May 10, September 8 and October 24, 2023. IEP 2: The student's annual IEP meeting including the triennial reevaluation was held on December 4, 2024, with continuation meetings on February 7 and 8 2024, followed by two meetings on May 8 and May 17, 2024 that resulted in an IEP amendment.

IEP Required Services and Implementation

The student's IEP dated December 7, 2022 amended on May 10, 2023 required a gradual lengthening of the student's school day over the first 4 weeks of kindergarten, beginning with 245 minutes beginning August 14, 202) and increasing to a full day of 435 minutes a day beginning September 16, 2023. The IEP was amended on September 8, 2023 to alter the schedule slightly, add a strategy to the behavior plan, and to add two additional accommodations. On September 15, 2023, the parent requested revisions to the IEP and according to the district, student and staff illnesses interfered with scheduling the IEP meeting until October 24, 2023. The following paragraphs summarize the student's services and accommodations for this period of time.

After the student's day was increased beginning September 23, 2023, the IEP as amended on September 8, 2023 required following services: speech language services (10 minutes 4 days a week), special education support in special classes (45 minutes 4 days a week), attendant care at lunch, special education services in special education setting (30 minutes 4 times a day 5 days a week), special education support in general education classes (195 minutes 4 days a week, 175 minutes 1 day a week), special education support in general education (recesses) (45 minutes 5 days a week). Purposes listed for special education in special education settings (pull out) were for arrival and dismissal requirements, sensory breaks, movement activities, social/emotional instruction, practice with headphones, relationship building and restroom breaks. The IEP did not specify one to one adult to student services in the services.

The IEP team met on December 4, 2023 to develop the IEP and complete the re-evaluation. The IEP included 8 goals (in brief): (1) sit in designated area during group activities, (2) work independently on assignments, (3) have no more than one physical aggression 3 of 5 days a week, (4) increase receptive and expressive language, (5) increase grammar and language structure, (6) write letters and numbers, (7) produce sounds in words, and (8) name 6 coping strategies.

The student's services listed in this IEP were: speech language services (10 minutes 4 days a week), special education support in special classes (45 minutes 5 days a week), attendant care at lunch, special education services in special education setting for emotional support (30 minutes 4 days a week), special education support in mathematics (30 minutes 5 days a week), special education support in reading (125 minutes 4 days and 95 minutes 1 day a week), special education services in general education for social emotional and adaptive behavior (45 minutes 5 days a week), special education services in special education setting for sensory breaks throughout the day (60 minutes 5 days a week), social work services in social worker's office (20 minutes 1 day a week); ESY speech language and ESY special education services were also listed.

PWN dated December 4, 2023 was provided to the parent, who signed it giving consent for the material change in services (social work) on February 17, 2024.

The district reported that the student's IEP services had been provided, as evidenced by the staff and student schedule. The student schedule, after full time kindergarten was established beginning September 23, showed: Arrival 7:50-8:00; Morning Meetings 8:00-8:15 a.m.; Math in Kindergarten 8:15-9:15 a.m.; Recess 9:15-9:30 a.m.; SEL Time (Special education classroom) 9:30-10:00 a.m.; Special education support in kindergarten or special classes 10:00-11:40; Lunch 11:40 a.m.-12:10 p.m.; Recess 12:10-12:25 p.m.; General education support for academics, specials and recesses till dismissal at 2:50 p.m., with speech therapy 12:40-12:50 p.m. 4 days a week.

The paraprofessional's schedule showed that she was assigned to the student from his arrival at school through his departure, except during her assigned lunch period, 11:40 a.m.-12:30 p.m. During that period, the teacher was assigned for the student's lunch period and recess each day. In addition, the special education teacher's schedule showed that he supported the student with the paraprofessional at arrival time as needed (10-20 minutes 4 days a week). The special education teacher provided social emotional learning for one hour 4 days a week in the special education classroom, and special education in the kindergarten class 50 minutes 3 times a week, 20 minutes one time a week, and in special classes 30 minutes 2 times a week and 20 minutes one time a week. The district showed the speech language pathologist's service log showing speech language services 10 minutes 4 times a week.

Assistive technology

The IEP as amended May 10, 2023 required the following assistive technology: school provided speech generating device (currently proloque2go Ipad app) AAC for communication of emotions and needs at school and a second AAC device for communication of emotions and needs in the home. The IEP dated December 4, 2023 required a school-provided dedicated speech generating AAC device (currently ProLoQuo2Go) for communication of emotions and needs at school, to be used at times of dysregulation.

In an interview, the assistant special education director reported that, at the beginning of the school year when she realized only one device was being used (going back and forth with the student), she talked with the parent. She reported that she believed that the parent agreed to have only one device being used in two settings and the IEP would be updated at the next meeting.

Accommodations

Fourteen accommodations were listed in the student's IEP as amended May 10, September 8, and October 24, 2023: (1) Access to headphones, (2) First then phrasing, (3) Delayed arrival early departure, (4) Task boxes, (5) Reinforcers for leaving school and getting in the car (6) Visual schedule, (7) Dismissal Social Story, (8) Separate setting for testing, (9) Parent supplied

Jiobit tracker, (10) Parent supplied Seizure bracelet and cell phone, (11) 20 minutes story time Google Meet, (12) Separate arrival and dismissal location, (13) Brain breaks and Sensory breaks, and added October 24, 2023 was (14) Extended time on assignments and assessments

The accommodations in the IEP dated December 4, 2023 maintained these ten accommodations: Access to headphones, First then phrasing, Task boxes, Visual schedule, Separate setting for testing, Parent supplied Jiobit tracker, Parent supplied Seizure bracelet and cell phone, Separate arrival (7:50 am and 8:50 am on Wednesday) and dismissal (2:50 pm) location, and Brain breaks and sensory breaks. It added these five accommodations: Extended time on assignments and assessments, Parent provided wrist support resting pad, Reduced workload by 50%, Multi modal assignments (paper, chromebook, Ipad, apps), and Access to sensory tools (fidgets, seating, apps, or other preferred sensory objects). Three accommodations were deleted: 20 minutes story time Google Meet, reinforcer leaving school and getting in the car and dismissal social story.

In interviews, the paraprofessional reported that she used the student's accommodations throughout the day. In an interview, the principal reported that accommodations were used in the general education classroom.

Undated text messages between the parent and the principal showed that the parent alerted the principal to the student's allergies related to the class field trip and that the field trip was discussed at the student's IEP meeting. The principal then offered the parent an alternative field trip, which the parent refused.

Behavior Intervention Plan and Implementation

The student's Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) associated with the first IEP amended on May 10, September 8, and October 24, 2023 identified the following problem behaviors resulting from skill deficits in communication, emotional regulation and social skills: refuse to complete transition, hide behind person/object, throw items, vocalize frustrations, push, attempt to leave area, lay on ground/floor. The BIP focused on one problem behavior, refusing to transition, and identified the motivation as escape/avoidance. The BIP included the following strategies. Environmental Structure & Supports were: first/then phrasing, visual schedule, consistent schedule, high rate of positive reinforcement, offering choices when appropriate, visual supports to communicate emotions and needs choices, access to a sensory room, with an addition on September 8, 2023 of escorted walk in the hallway when dysregulated. Proactive Interventions were: social story, promissory reinforcer, early dismissal, visual schedule, first/then phrasing, offer visual supports to communicate emotions and needs, choices, allowed to pull a wagon during transitions, delayed arrival. Teaching New Skills (replacement) were: Modeling AAC use, yes/no teaching, teaching emotions-recognizing own and emotions of others teaching calming strategies teach use of visual aids to help identify emotions and replacement choices. Consequence Interventions were: rewarded with chosen reinforcer at dismissal rewarded with replacement activity when communicating emotions and needs.

The student's Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) associated with IEP dated December 4, 2023 and amended on May 17, 2024 continued the provisions of the prior IEP. The parent provided consent to the PWN dated December 4, 2024 on February 18, 2024. The BIP identified the two problem behaviors, continued to focus on refusing to complete transitions, added a second behavior, physical aggression/throwing/crawling under staff, and identified the motivation as escape/avoidance for both and added sensory needs as a second motivation for physical aggression. The BIP strategies to address both behaviors remained largely the same as in the prior IEP, now addressing two behaviors. For Environmental structure and supports, access to the special education classroom as needed was added, and "as needed" was added to access to the sensory room. For Proactive Interventions, social story and promissory reinforcer were deleted and "visual" schedule was changed to "posted classroom" schedule. Teaching new skills section was unchanged. The Consequence Interventions section was slightly changed, rewarded with chosen reinforcer "when the reinforcement chart is full" instead of "at dismissal." and verbal praise was added.

No mention of the use of de escalation techniques was found in the IEPs in place during the 2023-24 school year.

When asked in an interview and follow up email, the district staff reported that documentation of the sensory breaks occurred in behavior sheets provided to the parent. When asked in an interview, district staff reported that the procedure for the use of the sensory room required the student to be calm for a period of time before exiting.

In an interview with the parent, the parent stated that the student was being left in isolation for longer than 30 minutes. The paraprofessional, special education teacher and assistant director were asked about any use of isolation in interviews. The district staff reported a description of the sensory room's use, which was witnessed by the parent. The sensory room is near the main office with no harmful things within it and the procedure is that the student must remain regulated for a period of time before leaving, although the student is never blocked from leaving the room and the door is open. If they leave, they are redirected to the room to restart the calming process.

The parent reported in the written allegation and provided in email a description and photo related to an incident on or before March 6, 2024, when the parent found what appeared to be a rug burn on the student's back. An examination of the daily behavior sheet for March 5, 2024 found it to be incomplete, with entries only through 10:05 a.m. showing participation in activities. An examination of two daily behavior sheets for March 6, 2024 found that during reading class the student had 8 instances of hitting/kicking, 2 instances of running around the classroom, 5 instances of throwing objects and stated that the student went home early. On March 6, 2024, the parent sent a text with a picture of the child's back injury to the principal and requested a phone call. In an interview, the principal stated that she investigated the incident by asking the special education teacher about what happened. The special education teacher reported to the principal that the student had mentioned it to him, that he had examined it, and believed it to be a few days old at that time. In an interview, the paraprofessional reported that she did not see any incident causing the injury; in addition, the paraprofessional reported that she was present every day according to her schedule, except for leave, lunch and bathroom breaks.

The district reported and showed documentation that the student had been restrained 5 times on the following dates: January 18, January 24, February 1, February 28, and May 10, 2024. The district did not have access to detailed reports for 3 of the 5 incidents due to loss of electronic records (emails) eliminated automatically when the student's teacher resigned in March, 2024. The district reported that the student had been restrained for less than one minute each time. Daily behavior sheets on February 1, February 27, 2024 and May 10, 2024 described the procedure used for restraint. The district provided evidence that the current special education teacher, prior special education teacher and the paraprofessional had attended Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI) training at the beginning of the school year.

Staff use of behavior intervention plan and accommodations.

In interviews, the current special education teacher and the paraprofessional were asked if they followed the student's behavior plan and used his accommodations. The paraprofessional, who described her work as a "high needs para", listed the following accommodations and strategies when asked about a typical day: sensory break and de escalation (when dysregulated), sensory breaks, sensory apps if dysregulated, noise canceling headphones, wrist rest, Chromebook, Ipad as alternate for paperwork, communication device (although unused by student), walks in hallway, offering choices for activities and work, first/then requests, reinforcers, schedule choices, train stamps, prizes from box, and verbal praise "good job." The special education teacher added social emotional support during pull out services, including talking about feelings and coping strategies, first/then, choices, alternative settings for work, and breaks. The assistant special education director reported that she observed the previous special educator using times, reinforcers, games with timers, and strategies to begin work.

Support for Staff (training) in the Student's IEP

All three district educators interviewed reported having extensive work experience with persons experiencing autism; two reported experience as family members of persons with autism. The district reported and showed evidence that the teacher and paraprofessional received CPI training. Implementation of health plans is related to the investigation through the IEP requirement for staff training, which is the focus here.

The IEP as amended May 10, September 8, and October 24, 2023, required support for staff (training) in three areas: seizures and allergic reactions, AAC device, and use of and location of the AED [defibrillator], detailed as: (a) training in seizures, including absent seizures, procedures and allergic reactions by the school nurse once a semester (b) training staff in modeling and use of speech generating AAC device once a month and (c) use of and location of the AED once a year. The IEP dated December 4, 2023 continued the staff support, slightly reworded as: (a) training in seizures, including absent seizures, procedures and allergic reactions, location of AED by the school nurse to occur one time a semester or for new staff and substitutes and (b) Training staff in modeling and use of a dedicated speech generating AAC device one time a semester.

Text messages submitted by the parent showed that district staff were in frequent conversation with the parent regarding the student's health and diet at school (see August 15, August 30, September 12, 2023; January 30, February 6, March 6, 2024). In interviews, the district staff working with the student reported that they had been trained on the student's health plan and the specific elements in the student's IEP, including anaphylaxis plan/procedure, seizures and seizure watch, and the use of the communication device. In an interview, the special education teacher reported being trained by the nurse on health plans and meeting with the speech language pathologist on the communication device when he was hired.

The principal reported that the district staff working with the student received training on the student's health plan needs from the school nurse, including AED device, seizures, first aid, allergies and reactions, special wipes, soap and hand sanitizer, and "look fors." In an interview, the principal reported that the nurse, trained nursing assistant or both were present in the building each day. Nursing records showed that the student was taken to the nurse for ailments listed in his health plan or other health concerns (such as fever) on 9 occasions during the school year on the following dates: August 15, October 17 (2 times), November 28, and December 11, 2023; February 6, February 14, April 1, and May 2, 2024.

Daily communication - behavior sheets

Neither IEP in place during the 2023-24 school year included the requirement that behavior data be communicated to the parent daily. However, the parent is to receive IEP reviews as progress reports each quarter.

The parent reported that she wanted detailed behavior sheets in order to understand why the student was having behavior problems at school that were not evident at home. The parent reported that she believed these were required by the IEP and that the district had changed the format enough that she no longer had detailed information on the student's behavior at school.

Photos of the behavior sheets in the parent's text messages corresponded to those provided by the district as evidence. Behavior sheets sent home from August, 2023 to March, 2024 were in the form of a schedule with participation or problem behavior tally marks, with narrative descriptions at the bottom of the page that detailed any significant behavioral events. Behavior sheets sent home from beginning February 14, 2022 - May 10, 2024 showed the student's schedule and a 3-choice rating scale for each period, with space for brief notes along the side and at the bottom, with some of the daily sheets having a second page with the student's schedule and tally marks for number of prompts, aggressions, and leaving the area, with space for written descriptions.

The IEP team met on May 9 and May 17, 2024 to amend the IEP. No changes to the BIP or special education and related services were made. Home school communication (daily behavior data) format was discussed. According to the transcript of the May 17, 2024 meeting, the team looked for where the home communication format was located in the IEP, and not finding it, added the behavior sheet format to parental concerns.

According to the PWN dated May 9 and May 17, 2024, the IEP was amended (1) to state that substitute teachers would receive the student's medical information with their lesson plans, with two changes to the rationale for this change (2) to delete the accommodation of the seizure bracelet (3) to update conditions for the use of the headphones at his request or when the need is seen by an adult, and (4) to add to the parent concerns regarding the daily communication tool being used.

According to the district and the progress reports provided, the parent received progress reports quarterly, in October and December, 2023 and March and May, 2024.

Conclusion

In this case, the student's team met many times during the school year to address parental concerns, to complete the student's re-evaluation, and to review the IEP for needed changes. The student had detailed health plans in place, and during the investigation, the parent disclosed allegations of particular instances when the health plan precautions were not properly followed, such as providing specific parent provided birthday cupcakes instead of previously provided frozen ones or wiping the lunchroom table with special wipes before the student's lunch box was placed on it. However, these were not investigated beyond staff training and support required by the IEP to implement the student's IEP which referred to the health plans and communication needs. The health plans themselves were not included in the student's IEP. Evidence showed that the staff had been provided training and support to implement the student's health plan, that nursing services were in the building and accessed by staff for the student, and the staff communicated with the parent about the student's diet, allergic reactions and other health related concerns.

In the written complaint, the parent specified an alleged incident of abuse. This could not be investigated by this investigator and other resources were provided to the parent. In the IDEA issue clarification interview with the parent, the parental concern for implementation of the behavior plan, accommodations, paraprofessional services, and time in general education were expressed and included in the issues provided to the district and are addressed in this report.

As noted above, the district reported and provided staff schedules showing continual paraprofessional support throughout the day except for breaks and lunch, when the special education teacher was scheduled to be present to provide attendant care. The staff schedules showed both pull out special education services and special education support by both paraprofessional and teacher in the general education setting. At times during the student's day, both the teacher and the paraprofessional were present to provide special education and supplementary aids and services including accommodations.

Evidence in interviews, supported in part with daily behavior sheets, showed that the district staff were familiar with and providing accommodations listed in the student's IEP, including relying frequently on the use of the sensory room for breaks and student calming. The sensory room and breaks are included as accommodations and in the student's behavior intervention plan. It cannot be determined the extent to which the use of sensory breaks detracted from the student's general education participation. However, these were accommodations and behavior intervention strategies required by the IEP and being used routinely by district staff.

The format of the daily behavior sheets was discussed at IEP meetings but not listed in the IEP as a requirement. The parents were provided quarterly IEP reviews reporting progress. Therefore, the district's daily communication with the parent is seen as ordinary home school partnership efforts. The alternative for the field trip (discussed at the October 24, 2023 meeting and in the associated PWN) was offered by the principal to the parent when the parent expressed her concern regarding possible allergens at the chosen field trip site.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #263 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the student's behavior plan, accommodations, paraprofessional services, placement in general education, and providing behavior data to the parent.

Issue Two

The USD #263 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop an IEP that addressed the child's disability, specifically considering parental concerns and input into accommodations and behavior planning, avoiding use of restraint and isolation, and staff training on student support needs.

Federal statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.324(a) require that in developing the child's IEP, the IEP team shall consider the following: the strengths of the child, the concerns of the parents, the results of the child's evaluation, the academic and functional needs of the child, the use of positive behavior interventions and supports if the child's behavior impedes learning, the need for braille or the impact of limited English proficiency, the child's communication needs, and the need for assistive technology. In particular, 34 CFR 300.324(a)(2)(ii) states that in the case of a child whose behavior impedes the child's learning or that of others, consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address that behavior. Federal and state statutes at 34 CFR 300.324(b)(ii) and K.S.A. 72-3429(f) require that the IEP team reviews the child's IEP periodically, no less than annually, to determine if the goals are being achieved and revises the IEP as appropriate to address lack of expected progress toward goals or general education curriculum, results of a reevaluation, information about the child provided by the parents, the child's anticipated needs or other matters.

The parent alleged that the district did not take their concerns into account when developing the IEP, including suggestions for accommodations, curriculum needs (advanced mathematics), and staff understanding of alternative communication when the student is unable to speak, and staff use of parent suggested strategies for behavior and communication support to prevent the need for restraint and isolation. The parent stated the staff did not understand the student's disability and could not tell the difference between "melt down" and "temper tantrum" in the student's behavior and that the staff did not use de-escalation techniques.

The district responded that they had met with the parent multiple times to address the parent's concerns and had incorporated multiple parent suggested strategies into the IEP. The district responded that the staff were trained in behavior prevention techniques and that the district had maintained the student's communication device at school despite their assessment that the student now communicated his wants and needs orally. The district responded that the staff are familiar with many unique individuals with autism, including the student.

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the parent and staff in USD #263.

The IEP team amended the student's IEP on May 10, 2023 in anticipation of the student's entry into kindergarten, with a delayed start time beginning August 14, 2023 to allow the student to adjust to the new schedule, gradually increasing to a full day schedule by September 23, 2023. The IEP team amended that schedule with participation by the parent on September 8, 2023.

On September 15, 2023, the parent wrote to the district requesting specific accommodations and technology applications to be integrated into the IEP and to have an amendment or an IEP meeting prior to the annual IEP. The district responded to begin scheduling the meeting, which was delayed until October 24, 2023 due to student and staff illnesses. The parent requested (1) zoom in for reading time, (2) allowed to complete missed school work at home within 3 days, (3) electronic formats for school work, (4) iPad Air 5 and I Pencil 2, (5) Floreo VR preloaded on the Meta Oculus 2. In the letter, the parent asserted that the student could do advanced mathematics and would learn social interaction and other skills by using the virtual reality headset and apps suggested. In response, the IEP team met on October 23, 2024 and amended the IEP to include two new accommodations: (1) Google meet for reading time when absent, (2) extended time on all assignments needed for processing time or absences.

According to the October 24, 2023 PWN, the district added that the student would have 3 days to complete school work, in electronic formats as requested by the parent, In addition, the PWN stated that the upcoming re-evaluation would address the continued need for the communication device and, rather than providing a virtual reality headset (with risk of seizures and lack of research with young children) that the student be assessed for social work services to develop his social interaction and coping skills. The PWN also stated that the parent-requested IPAD Air 5 and I Pencil 2 would be purchased and used as a trial device for the student.

The district provided a PWN dated October 24, 2023 which stated that the team met to discuss accommodations related to work completion and assistive technology requested by the parent. The PWN stated that the school would purchase, collect data, and trial an IPAD Air 5 and Pencil 2 as the student's assistive technology, and that the upcoming evaluation would include assessing the student's need for AAC. In response to the parent's request for social interaction software, the IEP team discussed an evaluation for social work services to meet the student's social development needs. The PWN listed an accommodation for work completion when he missed school due to medical concerns. In response to the parental concerns about participation in a field trip, the IEP team discussed two possible accessible field trip options or virtual participation, which were not listed as accommodations on the IEP amendment, nor are they listed on the LRE considerations of the IEP amendment. The parent signed the PWN giving consent on October 26, 2024.

Triennial Reevaluation

The prior written notice for re-evaluation (PWNE) dated September 19, 2023 and signed by the parent giving consent on September 20, 2023. The PWNE stated that existing data would be examined for health and motor skills, and new data would be collected in social emotional, academic performance, general intelligence, and communicative status.

The student's re-evaluation dated December 4, 2023 stated that the purpose of the re-evaluation was to determine continued eligibility and levels of services needed to allow the student to make progress toward state standards. The re-evaluation found that the student was eligible for special education as a student with autism and speech language disorder. Testing found cognitive ability in the below average range and academic achievement in the impaired, below average or borderline impaired ranges.

Social emotional skills were assessed and delays were found. The evaluator used the BASC-3, using the parent, general education teacher and special education teacher to complete the scales on internalizing, externalizing, behavioral symptoms and adaptive skills. Across the raters, behavioral difficulty and social emotional delays were noted in adaptability, hyperactivity, atypicality, with some raters noting problems in activities, daily living, functional communication, anger control, and withdrawal. Teachers reported level of aggression at school to be similar to other children the same age.

The communication portion of the re-evaluation used both assessments and observations, stating that during testing the student had access to a communication device but used only verbal language during the session. During classroom observations, the student used age appropriate, 3-8 word sentences; expressed his requests, questions, comments and thoughts about an activity; used adjectives; and answered yes and no questions. Standardized testing found the student to be impaired in general language ability with needs in both expressive and receptive language. The re-evaluation found that the student had made progress in expressing his wants and needs, asking and answering questions and commenting on activities, with a need for continued speech language services to expand receptive and expressive language, language structure and articulation skills.

The district reported and pointed to the student's reevaluation as evidence that the student did not show the need for an advanced mathematics curriculum. The district reported that they tried advanced math with the student as requested by the parent but did not find the student responsive.

The district provided the social work evaluation that found the student eligible for social work services and the teacher reports showed that the student deficit in emotional awareness, responsibility, following directions, relationships, self control, and executive functioning.

The meeting notes dated December 4, 2023 showed that the parent participated in the discussion about the evaluation on the following topics: handwriting, using restroom at school, dominant hand, digital and paper instructional format, speech and language progress, use of pronouns, and verbal agreement to social work services. During the IEP discussion on December 4, 2023, the meeting notes showed that the team discussed that the communication device was not needed due to the student's vocabulary and the IPAD that was used for communication would remain at school. The meeting notes showed that the parent asked about what would be done when the student hit or acted violently, and the district staff discussed teaching replacement behavior and using CPI techniques. The notes showed "keeping hands and feet to self" to be added to the intervention plan.

Following the December 4, 2023 IEP meeting, the district provided PWN dated December 4, 2023 to the parent for the student's continued eligibility and special education services; continuing the existing services and adding social work services for 20 minutes one time a week. The PWN listed services to be provided as listed in the IEP dated December 4, 2023

(listed above), removed three accommodations (reinforcer for getting in the car after dismissal, dismissal social story and 20 minute story time google meet) and added four (wrist rest pad, reduced assignments by 50%, multimodal assignments, access to sensory tools). The PWN continued the AAC device and listed the need to continue to collect data on the special education trial device (IPad Air 5 and Pencil 2) initiated in October, 2023.

In an exchange of emails with the parent beginning December 18, 2023, the district followed up to ask for consent for the PWN's material change in services, and the parent expressed concern with the new IEP's provisions, including the changed assistive technology communication device requirement, from two to one device, used at school.

In interviews, the district reported that, although the assistive technology device was available to the student at all times and he was prompted to use it at times of duress, the student used understandable oral language instead of the device. The district further reported that the December 4, 2023 reevaluation of the student's communication showed that he did not need the assistive technology device for communication and it was maintained in the IEP at the parent's request. The district reported that the parent had asked for assistive technology in the form of an IPAD Air 5 and I Pencil 2 for school work along with specific apps for learning and coping, which the district purchased and the student used at school, as per the October 24, 2023 PWN.

The district reported that, due to the parent's concerns and lack of consent for the PWN dated December 4, 2023, the district convened the IEP team on February 7 and 8, 2024 as a continuation to the December 4, 2023 IEP determination and evaluation review.

According to meeting notes, the parental concerns were discussed as the evaluation results and IEP provisions were reviewed, section by section. According to the meeting transcript for February 7, 2024, multiple topics were discussed including: medical records provided to the school and permission to contact health providers, the health plan, hand dominance, reviewing of the evaluation assessment results, content of the evaluation report showing teacher responses to test protocols, discussion of regressive autism and OCD, the student's communication assessments by the school and other providers, other syndromes, medication, allergic reactions, birthday cupcakes, hand sanitizer, using the trial device for academic work, chromebook versus IPAD for classroom work, historical discussion of communication device and rationale for two devices due to therapist recommendations, discussion of unique communication and phrasing by the student to express needs, communication apps and programs, use of AT when student self harms if seen at school. The February 8, 2024 transcript showed discussion of the behavior plan, social work services, social/emotional/behavior goal, teaching coping skills and using timers, assistive technology, questions about pictures used in testing, reading and writing, math, staying on task and in place, IEP goals, using fidgets and headphones, listing and use of IEP accommodations.

A revised PWN dated December 4, 2023 with services to be implemented beginning February 8, 2024 was provided to the parent, who signed the PWN on February 18, 2024 giving consent for the services. Revisions to the PWN dated December 4, 2023 included rewording two accommodations (separate arrival and dismissal to "agreed upon location," and visual schedule was changed to posted classroom schedule). The PWN determined the student's continued eligibility for special education, listed the student's services as per the December 4, 2023 IEP including the new social work service, reworked the list of accommodations, maintained the AAC device at school and continued the trial of the assistive technology initiated in October. The PWN did not include a change to the student's behavior intervention plan.

Concerns regarding behavior

As noted previously, the parent and school discussed the student's aggressive behavior as early as the December 4, 2023 IEP meeting, and physical aggression was added to the BIP as a second focus behavior. Teacher input into the reevaluation (occurring in the fall of 2023) did not report that the student was more aggressive than other students his age. As noted previously, the student's behavior required restraint five times from late January to mid May.

Undated text message exchange between parent and principal, on or before April 16, 2024, showed that the parent alerted the principal that the daily behavior sheets being sent home were not acceptable due to lack of detail. An April 26, 2024 text exchange showed that the parent repeated her disagreement with the form of the behavior sheets and her contacts with the school about them. A reply from the principal showed that they had contacted the assistant special education director to discuss alternatives to the behavior sheets.

The parent wrote an email on April 25, 2024 to the assistant special education director to express her concern that the home communication format (daily behavior notes) had changed and she no longer found them as useful as those notes sent previously. In it she stated, ". . .when we had our last IEP meeting it was agreed at that time that an account of each class lesson and [student] behaviors as well as what he did in that class would be recorded and sent home daily to allow us to track patterns and behaviors of [the student] with a hope of better aiding this team with [student] needs during IEP meetings and throughout the year. It was at that time asked if we could use a pre-existing form the school already used and it was agreed that this would be fine as long as EACH class/lesson had an accounting of that activity and how [student] did."

In an interview when asked, the assistant special education director reported that the parent did not ask for a functional behavior assessment in the discussions of information needed on the student's behavior problems occurring at school.

An examination of the quarterly progress reports on the student's behaviorally related IEP goals showed that the student had not met the IEP goals related to social emotional behavior as of May 17, 2024. Data provided showed that the student stayed in place, "in his designated area during whole group instruction 0 of 5 trials for 80% he sat an average of 55% of the time over the 5 trials." Data provided showed that the student "demonstrated no more than 1 physical aggressive behavior throughout the school day in 0/5 school days. Over the 5 days observed [the student] averaged 3 physical aggressions."

According to the transcript of the meeting on May 17, 2024, the IEP team discussed the student's behavioral needs. The parent asked for the district staff to get down to the student's level (on the ground if needed) as a behavior strategy. The district pointed to staff training in CPI which has preventive strategies, and stated that the district would suggest getting closer to the student's level but wouldn't require staff to get on the ground. The parent expressed her concern about the use of restraining and the extensive use of the sensory room which she called seclusion. At the IEP meeting on May 17, 2024, the parent stated her concern that the student's behavior was worsening, that his "manipulative" problems needed to "stop before he's too big," and that she believed the student was being placed in seclusion too much, whether or not the conditions of the sensory room accommodations met the definition of seclusion (as defined by the district). In the meeting, the district stated that the procedures for seclusion are specified by law and include if the student is being blocked from exiting a room. At the meeting, the district attempted to clarify what the parent wanted to occur when the student was dysregulated and removed from the general education for sensory breaks, to go to the special education classroom, or to otherwise calm himself. Discussion included calling the parent if the student was dysregulated for 30 minutes at a time, or in the sensory room for 3 times in a day. The district responded positively to the parent's suggestion of using the headphones more often and to repeat the offer of them when the student declined them.

The PWN resulting from this meeting does not change the student's behavior intervention plan. The PWN dated May 17, 2024 and signed by the parent giving consent on May 22, 2024 includes the following additions to staff supports for student's medical needs:

> "1. Substitute teachers will be provided with his relevant medical information to be included with the teacher lessons plans. This was added in the description of the training. 2. [The student] will have a red folder in his backpack with all his medical information to transition with him across the school campus so information is readily available if he is in a location where it is not readily available, was added into the rationale. 3. Substitute teachers will be provided with his relevant medical information to be included with the teacher lessons plans so they are aware of all medical needs and plans, was added into the rationale."

The PWN dated May 17, 2024 also stated: "Health Care Plan was updated. Deleted Accommodation record 7 referring to the seizure bracelet and no longer using it. Updated Accommodation record 1 regarding headphone usage and to not limit it to noisy environments but at his request at any time in the day or when an adult sees he may benefit from it to offer it and remind him that he has them available. Added record 3 under parent input/concerns to address daily communication tool back and forth."

In an interview with the parent, the parent reported that she believed the school agreed at the May 17, 2024 meeting that the IEP would be amended to show that the school would call the parent if the student had need of the sensory room for more than 3 times in one day or if the student stayed in the sensory room for 30 minutes at one time. However, an examination of the IEP as amended and the PWN of that date did not show this provision.

Conclusion

In this case, the district and the parent had many meetings and interactions pertaining to the student's needs. The staff were professionally and personally familiar with individuals with autism and their needs. The staff were attentive to the communication and social development needs of the child, and implemented the IEP's services and technology to address them. The district provided a health plan to address parental concerns regarding the student's health. The district conducted a timely re-evaluation that included an assessment of the student, including the need for social work services for social development, assistive technology and other services. The IEP included multiple accommodations and assistive technology, which was extensively tried using school provided technology including apps suggested by the parent. The parent brought student needs and requirements to the IEP team and the district implemented many of the suggestions and services to meet those student's needs.

Therefore, it is found that the district did develop an IEP that addressed the student's disability, specifically considering parental concerns and input into accommodations, and staff training on student support needs.

Although the student's teachers did not note physical aggression as problematic in the fall when they completed their assessment for the reevaluation, the student's physically aggressive behavior was being discussed at the December 4, 2023 and February 8, 2024 IEP meetings. Although a new behavior (physical aggression) was added to the BIP, the strategies were not substantially changed from that in place from the beginning of the school year, carried forward from the IEP developed in 2022. The student's behavior plan called for sensory breaks throughout the day, not defined as seclusion by the school or consequent strategies in the behavior plan. It is noted that the sensory breaks may have operated as consequent strategies, but it is beyond the nature of this investigation to make this determination.

The student's behavior apparently began to deteriorate after January 18, 2024, requiring brief periods of restraint 5 times between late January and mid-May. Progress report data in May reported that the student had physically aggressive behavior more than one time each school day. In late April, 2024, the parent began to communicate with the school about the student's behavior problems and her lack of information on the reasons for the student's behavior problems at school, which took the form of protesting the format of the daily behavior notes sent home. After the two IEP meetings May 9 and May 17, 2024, the district amended the IEP with regard to accommodations, staff support for the health plan, and the student's health plan, but the district did not move to address the core concern lodged by the parent or its own evidence that the student's behavior was deteriorating across time at school.

Therefore, it is found that the district failed to meet its obligation to revise the IEP to address the lack of progress (C.F.R 300.324(b)(ii)(A), K.S.A.72-3429(f)(ii)(A)).

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #263 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop an IEP that addressed the child's disability, specifically considering parental concerns and input into accommodations and behavior planning, avoiding use of restraint and isolation, and staff training on student support needs. However, it is substantiated that USD #263 failed to consider the parental input into behavior planning and avoiding use of restraint and isolation.

Issue Three

The USD #263 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to providing Prior Written Notice to parent for actions such as denying parental requests

According to federal regulations at 34 CFR § 300.503(a)(2) and K.S.A 72-3430(b)(2) a procedural safeguard afforded to parents is the Prior Written Notice for certain proposed special education actions. The Prior Written Notice documents a description of the action proposed or refused by the district. It is required when the district proposes to initiate or change or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, placement, or provision of FAPE to a child. This requirement is triggered regardless of whether it is the school or the parent who is initiating the request.

State regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3) require school districts to obtain parent consent before making a material change in services or a substantial change in placement. The Kansas Special Education Process Handbook clarifies a material change in services: "A change in the instructional methodology used to provide a service, even if the methodology is specified in an IEP, is not a material change in services. For example, a change to a strategy within a behavior intervention plan is a change in the instructional methodology, not a material change in services" (p.8).

The parent alleged that the district did not provide PWN to her when making changes to the IEP, specifically the assistive technology requirement of a "school provided speech generating device (currently proloque2go Ipad app) AAC for communication of emotions and needs at school and a second AAC device for communication of emotions and needs in the home." The parent alleged that the district did not provide timely PWN to the parent and that her requests were denied at IEP meetings.

The district responded that the parent's requests were discussed at IEP meetings and proper PWN was provided to the parent.

The findings of Issue One and Issue Two are incorporated herein by reference.

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the parent and staff in USD #263.

Six instances of PWN were provided to the parent during the 2023-24 school year.

1. Prior written notice dated September 8, 2023 for changes to the IEP including material change in services and substantial change in placement signed by the parent giving consent on September 8, 2023
2. Prior written notice for re-evaluation dated September 19, 2023 and signed by the parent giving consent on September 20, 2023
3. Prior written notice dated October 24, 2023 for changes to the IEP including material change in services for a meeting on October 24, 2023 signed by the parent giving consent on October 26, 2023
4. Prior written notice for eligibility, services and changes to the IEP with material change in service and change in placement dated December 4, 2023 unsigned by parent
5. Prior written notice (revised) for eligibility, services and changes to the IEP with material change in service and change in placement dated December 4, 2023 signed by the parent giving consent on February 18, 2024
6. PWN dated May 9, 2024 for meetings on May 9, 2024 and May 17, 2024 for changes to the IEP including a material change in services, with parental signature dated May 22, 2024 giving consent

The assistant special education director reported in an interview that she contacted the parent to discuss the second device and that she believed the parent agreed to use only one device to meet the student's needs at school and at home until the IEP could be amended.

Conclusion

Based on the evidence reviewed above and in Issue One and Two, the district provided PWN associated with each IEP amendment with or without IEP meetings through the year. The evidence did not show that the district denied parental requests for services. The IEP meeting on October 24, 2023 discussed the virtual reality technology requested by the parent and determined an alternative (assessment for social work services for social development).

With regard to the student's assistive communication device, the IEP dated December 4, 2023 changed the IEP stating that only one, not two, assistive technology devices for communication were required. The IEP as amended on October 24, 2023 and the PWN associated with it required two devices, one for school and one for home.

It is noted that the district provided a device that functioned for the purposes of the IEP's provisions as a communication device in both settings. However, the district should have provided PWN at the time they realized that a single rather than two devices could serve the purposes of the IEP. Unless this change met the definition of a material change in services in K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3), parental consent would not be required.

Findings in Issue Two point to a second issue with the district's provision of PWN. After the discussion at the May 17, 2024 IEP meeting, the parent believed that the IEP team had agreed to change the behavior plan to call her when the student was in the sensory room 30 minutes at a time or 3 times in a day. It is unclear if the parent requested it, the district suggested it in the course of the discussion, or the IEP team agreed to it. However, as an important option related to the student's behavior problems, the PWN dated May 17, 2024 should have included it in its provisions as proposed or refused. It is noted that the parent signed the PWN dated May 17, 2024.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD #263 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to providing Prior Written Notice to parent for actions such as denying parental requests

The student is a 13-year-old young man who was enrolled in the seventh grade in USD #435 during the 2023-24 school year at Abilene Middle School. The student was initially determined eligible for special education in 2015 and his most recent reevaluation was conducted on May 9, 2021,at which time the student was determined to continue eligibility for special education services under the exceptionality category of Speech Impairment. Documentation shows the required three-year reevaluation was waived during the April 3, 2024 IEP team meeting and that the student continues to receive speech therapy to address articulation errors for the phoneme /r/ in conversational speech.

The parent reports and the district staff acknowledged the student has multiple medical diagnoses including Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), and gastrointestinal (GI) problems. The parent stated that the student is also diagnosed with Spina Bifida, scoliosis, Sensory Processing Disorder, Oppositional Defiant Disorder (ODD) and Disruptive Impulse Control Disorder (DIDC). However, the district staff indicated the parent has not provided any written documentation of these diagnoses and noted that they have requested, but not yet received, written consent for release of information to confirm and gather additional information regarding the impact of these diagnoses on the student's education.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint, three issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

USD #435, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parent with appropriate notification of the May 16, 2024 IEP team meeting, specifically by not listing the names or positions of all of the participants invited to the IEP team meeting.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.322(b)(1)(i) require that the district provide the parent with notification of the IEP team meeting indicating the purpose, time, and location of the meeting and who will be in attendance.

Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-17(b) allow the district to use either the names and/or the titles or positions of the persons who will attend on behalf of the school. The school is to notify the parents about who will be in attendance at an IEP team meeting, however, individuals may be indicated by position only. The school may elect to identify participants by name, but they have no obligation to do so.

The parent reported that she requested an IEP team meeting at the end of the school year to discuss concerns with multiple absences due to health issues and the district's decision to retain the student in 7th grade for the 2024-25 school year. She indicated that this meeting was held on May 16, 2024 and that she was unaware that all of the student's general education teachers would be in attendance at the IEP meeting in addition to the required IEP team members and the two persons working with the student from The Family Initiative (TFI) who she had invited to the meeting because they had expertise and knowledge about the student. The parent stated that she felt "blind-sided and overwhelmed" by having 17 people in her son's IEP team meeting on that date.

The district reported and documentation showed that the parent requested an IEP team meeting on May 8, 2024 and the meeting was actually held on May 15, 2024. The parent acknowledged that she was aware of the purpose, location, and time of the IEP team meeting and that she attended and participated in the IEP team meeting for the student.

Documentation showed that a Notification of Meeting (NOM) dated May 10, 2024 was emailed to the parent stating "As required by federal and state law, in addition to you, we will have the following people at our meeting:" The NOM then listed who would be invited to the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting including: "a general education teacher(s) of your child; a special education teacher(s) of your child; a school representative(s); a person who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results; the student for transition purposes; and any other person(s) who can help explain the evaluation results or who have special knowledge or expertise regarding your child or services that may be needed". This statement is followed by a section titled "TEAM MEMBERS / POSITION" which was left blank.

The district provided copies of previous NOMs showing the district's practice is to only list the positions of the people who will be attending the scheduled IEP team meeting and not list the names of each person.

Conclusion

Federal regulations require that parents are informed of who will be attending a student's IEP team meeting. Kansas state regulations allow for school districts to list the names of the persons and/or the positions of the persons who will be attending the student's IEP team meeting. There is no obligation for the district to identify the IEP team participants by name.

However, the district should be cautious of lumping a group of people under some general title such as "any other person(s) who can help explain the evaluation results or who have special knowledge or expertise regarding your child or services that may be needed". That kind of lumping of "any other person(s)" can result in exactly what happened here: where the parent feels "blind-sided and overwhelmed" by the number of people at the meeting. This IDEA notice requirement was intended to ensure that parents would not be subjected to this kind of surprise at IEP meetings. When not using names, the district must at least notify parents of the titles of those who will be invited, such as school psychologist, speech therapist, school counselor, special education director, assistant special education director, school attorney, county sheriff, etc. There should be no surprise guests for parents walking into these meetings. That is the purpose of this part of the notice requirement.

In this case, the NOM did not rely on the "any other person(s) " statement. The NOM stated that "a general education teacher(s) of your child" would attend the meeting. While this description did not specifically inform the parent that every general education teacher of her child was going to be invited, the use of the plural "teacher(s)" did adequately notify the parent that she could expect that multiple general education teachers could be invited.

In this case, the LEA provided the parent with a written NOM on May 10, 2024 listing the positions of the persons invited to the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting. While there may have been some confusion on the part of the parent as to who would be attending because the ambiguous "teacher(s)" and the section of the NOM titled "TEAM MEMBERS / POSITION" being left blank, the district did meet the compliance requirement to list the positions of the persons who would be attending the by stating "a general education teacher(s) of the student" would be attending the IEP team meeting in addition to the parent. Based on the foregoing, the district is found to be in compliance for this issue.

Issue Two

USD #435, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parent with appropriate prior written notice following the May 16, 2024 IEP team meeting addressing the actions refused by the district.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) requires school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

It is noted that the IDEA does not address grade placement or retention of a student with a disability. Instead, this authority is granted to local school boards by the state of Kansas and described in local school board policy. For this reason, the decision to retain the student will not be addressed in this investigation other than as a parent request for a re-consideration of the decision made at the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting.

As noted in Issue One, the date of the IEP meeting was May 15, 2024.

The parent reported that she requested another IEP team meeting be held so soon following the April 3, 2024 IEP team meeting because of the Middle School Principal's unilateral decision to retain the student in 7th grade due to absences during the second semester. She indicated that she also requested that the student be reevaluated to determine eligibility for special education services under the exceptionality category of Other Health Impaired (OHI) as well as the development of a behavior intervention plan (BIP) to address the student's significant absences during the second semester.

The parent indicated she did not have any notes from the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting and that she would contact the two persons from TFI who had also attended the IEP team meeting and provide any notes they took. No additional documentation has been received from the parent in regards to May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting notes to date.

The Conference Summary of the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting showed that the IEP team discussed the parent's request for a reevaluation for possible eligibility under the exceptionality category of OHI. The notes reflect that the IEP team agreed that a reevaluation was necessary and proposed gathering additional information in the areas of Health, Academic, Social/Emotional/Behavioral as well as conducting a functional behavioral assessment (FBA) in order to gather the necessary data to develop a BIP, if determined necessary.

The Conference Summary also showed that the retention decision was discussed and the parent advised that this was an issue that fell under USD #435 School Board Policy. It is noted the parent subsequently requested and was granted a hearing with members of the USD #435 Board of Education to consider reversing the building administrator's recommendation for retention per the school board policy.

The district provided a copy of a Prior Written Notice (PWN) for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent dated May 15, 2024 and the CKCIE Coordinator reported this notice was provided to the parent along with multiple Release of Information forms for various health agencies at the conclusion of the IEP team meeting. District staff reported that no response was received from the parent and that the CKCIE Coordinator wrote a letter to the parent dated July 20, 2024 which summarized the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting and again requested consent for the proposed reevaluation. Documentation shows the PWN was emailed and mailed to the parent again on July 22, 2024. The parent was unsure if she had originally received the PWN at the IEP team meeting but acknowledged receiving the emailed copy.

Conclusion

Federal regulations require that districts provide prior written notice of any decisions proposed or refused related to the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

In this case, the parent requested the district consider a reevaluation of the student for the exceptionality category of OHI, the development of a BIP to address attendance concerns, and re-consideration of the retention decision at the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting. Documentation showed these topics were discussed by the IEP team, including the parent, and that the district provided the parent with PWN requesting consent to conduct a reevaluation and FBA of the student on order to gather additional data to determine eligibility for the exceptionality category of OHI and the development of a BIP, if necessary, following the IEP team meeting on May 15, 2024. When consent had not been provided, the district staff provided the parent with additional information and another copy of the PWN requesting consent to conduct the reevaluation.

It is noted that the parent's request for reconsideration of the retention decision was not included in the PWN; however, retention does not fall under the jurisdiction of the IDEA. Accordingly, the IEP team refused to address the issue by taking no action, neither refusing nor accepting the parent's proposal. While the district might have included the rationale for the refusal to address the issue of retention at the IEP team meeting or in a PWN to clarify this issue for the parent, it was not required and subsequent actions taken by the parent reflect an understanding of School Board Policy JFB titled "Promotion and Retention".

Based on the foregoing, USD #435 is found to be in compliance with the requirement to provide the parent with appropriate prior written notice following the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting.

Issue Three

USD #435, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by not providing the required special education services during the 2024 extended school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that the special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. In addition, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.106(b) require that the IEP team must consider the need for extended school year services in order to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to each student with a disability.

Federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) also require school districts to review and revise, if needed, a student's IEP periodically, but not less than annually. In addition, the LEA must reconvene a student's IEP team to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum; to consider the results of any reevaluation; and to consider any information about the student provided by the parents.

Federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. 300.303(b)(2) require that a reevaluation of the student with a disability be conducted at least once every three years unless the parent and the district agree that a reevaluation is unnecessary. In addition, federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. 300.304(b)(6) require that any special education evaluation be sufficiently comprehensive to identify all of the child's special education and related service needs.

Finally, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.327 require that, consistent with 34 C.F.R. 300.501(c), each public agency must ensure that the parents of each child with a disability are members of any group that makes decisions on the educational placement of their child.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue Two are incorporated herein by reference.

During the 2023-24 school year, the student had two IEPs in effect. The first was developed on April 6, 2023 at the end of the 2022-23 school year and the second was developed on April 3, 2024 at the end of the 2023-24 school year. Both IEPs required 20 minutes per week of speech therapy during the 2023-24 school year. Neither IEP required extended school year (ESY) services.

The parent reported and the district acknowledged that the student missed the majority of second semester due to medical and mental health issues and that the parent provided multiple medical excusals to the district and made efforts to get the student to school including calling the police for assistance. Both parties stated that school district staff also assisted in attempting to get the student to school by going to the student's home as well as providing 1-1 assistance between the car and the school entrance on several occasions.

The second semester grade card showed the student failed all 7th grade classes and missed a total of 62 school days during that time frame.

IEP goal progress report for the third quarter indicated the student was not making progress towards his IEP goal and stated, "Student has been absent since last report. No new data to report."

The annual IEP team meeting was held on April 3, 2024. Documentation and interviews showed that the IEP team waived the required three-year reevaluation and continued eligibility and special education services for a Speech Impairment. Handwritten notes from the meeting kept by the Middle School Principal stated that the student had recently been hospitalized and his medications updated but that he was able to return to school with no restrictions after the parent kept him home for one week.

The IEP goal progress report for fourth quarter indicated the student was making progress towards his IEP goal and stated, "Student has frequent absences since his last IEP. No new data to report at this time."

The parent indicated the district reported her for truancy during the third quarter and then determined the student would be retained in the 7th grade for the next school year. She was informed of the retention decision at a meeting with the Middle School Principal on May 2, 2024. The parent stated that she was told to return the student's computer and to keep the student home for the remainder of the school year because there was no way he would be able to pass the 7th grade at this point.

Handwritten notes from the Middle School Principal dated May 2, 2024 stated:

- Discussed attendance and explained that he hasn't attended more than 11 days this semester, so we have to retain.
- Mom/student asked about summer school but understands it's not an option because of lack of exposure to curriculum.
- Asked student about why he isn't into school – bullying? issues with teachers? issues with peers? Student said only issue is he doesn't want to wake up early because he is up late on game.

Attendance records show the student's attendance was not marked beginning May 3, 2024; previously, the student's attendance was recorded as "U" when the student was absent.

The parent requested an IEP team meeting on May 8, 2024 which was held on May 15, 2024, which was two days prior to the last day of the school year and nine school days following the May 2, 2024 meeting between the parent, student, and Middle School Principal.

At that meeting, the district offered a plan to allow the student to attend summer school to complete assignments to show mastery of the 7th grade standards in an effort to avoid retention and the parent reported she decided to start the student back in school at the beginning of summer school. The parent reported the student was assigned to work in the principal's office with no teacher assistance during summer school, and the student did not complete the assigned work.

Documentation showed that the parent requested and the district proposed a reevaluation of the student during the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting to determine if the student met the eligibility criteria for an exceptionality in the area of OHI and needed special education services including a BIP to address the significant number of absences from school.

The parent reported that she has subsequently requested for the student to transfer to USD #473 for the 2024-25 school year.

Conclusion

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.106(b) require that the IEP team must consider the need for extended school year (ESY) services to provide a student with FAPE. In this case, there is documentation to support that ESY was considered at the April 3, 2024 IEP team meeting and a determination made by the IEP team that speech therapy services were not necessary during the summer for the student to address the /r/ phoneme in conversational speech.

It is noted that the parent's original allegation specifically stated that services were not provided to the student during ESY. Based on interviews during the investigation, it appears that the parent confused ESY services for speech therapy with the district's plan to allow the student to demonstrate mastery of 7th grade standards during summer school. The IDEA does not address the provision of general education summer school nor of grade placement / retention and both issues fall under the jurisdiction of school board policy and, as such, no findings related to these allegations will be made in this report.

However, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that the special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP and federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) require school districts to reconvene a student's IEP team to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum.

In this case, IEP goal progress reports for the third and fourth quarters of the 2023-24 school year both reflect that there was no new data to report during both reporting periods. In addition, the grade card showed the student had failed all 7th grade classes during this period and had been absent the majority of the second semester due to medical and mental health issues.

The district reported it was ready, willing, and able to provide the student with the 20 minutes per week of speech therapy during the third and fourth quarters of the 2023-24 school year and that the lack of services and data collection was the result of student absences rather than any failure on the part of the district.

Interviews and documentation show that the student's IEP team was reconvened on April 3, 2024 and again on May 15, 2024 to review and revise the IEP. In both instances, documentation showed the medical diagnoses and student absences were considered in the development of the IEP at each meeting and the parent was provided with PWN continuing the 20 minutes per week of speech therapy on April 3, 2024 and again on May 15, 2024. Based on the foregoing, it appears the district followed the appropriate procedures required by the IDEA and noncompliance is not identified for failing to implement the student's IEP or for failing to reconvene the student's IEP due to lack of progress towards IEP goals.

It is also noted that federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300. 303(b)(2) require that a reevaluation of the student with a disability be conducted at least once every three years unless the parent and the district agree that a reevaluation is unnecessary. In addition, federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. 300.304(b)(6) require that any special education evaluation be sufficiently comprehensive to identify all the child's special education and related service needs.

In this case, IEP goal progress report for the third quarter of the 2023-24 school year reflected that there was no new data to report during this reporting period because of student absences and the grade card showed the student had failed all 7th grade classes during third quarter as well. However, while the district was aware of multiple medical issues that may have been contributing to these concerns, the parent and district agreed to waive the three-year reevaluation of the student at the April 3, 2024 IEP team meeting and to continue eligibility under the category of Speech Impairment after consideration of the student's most recent hospitalization, change of medication, and release to return to school with no restrictions as documented in the handwritten meeting notes as well as the PWN.

On May 15, the parent requested and the district agreed to conduct a reevaluation of the student to determine eligibility and the need for special education and related services under the suspected exceptionality category of OHI. Documentation shows the district provided the parent with appropriate prior written notice to conduct the proposed reevaluation. Based on the foregoing, noncompliance is not identified in regards to conducting a reevaluation at least once every three years and to determine all of the special education and related service needs of the student.

Finally, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.327 require that parents be included in any decision to change the educational placement of the student and be provided with appropriate PWN describing any such proposed changes.

In this case, the parent reported the Middle School Principal told her to not send the student to school at the May 2, 2024 meeting, which was held to discuss retention. The Middle School Principal reported and notes do not reflect this statement being made during the meeting.

While It is unclear what was actually said at the meeting, it is obvious that the parent believed the student was no longer allowed to return to school for the remainder of the 2023-24 school year because of the decision to retain the student in 7th grade due to excessive absences as evidenced by the student's lack of attendance after May 2, 2024 and the parent's subsequent request for an IEP team meeting to discuss a reevaluation for an eligibility determination under the exceptionality category of OHI, to discuss the need for a BIP to address the significant absences, and the request to reconsider the retention decision.

Documentation and interviews showed the district appropriately responded and conducted an IEP team meeting on May 15, 2024 to address the parent's requests and clarified that the student was allowed to attend summer school in an effort to avoid retention. While a finding of noncompliance is not identified for parent's perception that the Middle School Principal unilaterally changed the placement of the student at the May 2, 2024 meeting because of the decision to retain the student in accordance to School Board Policy JFB, it is recommended that training, or at least additional information, be provided to administrators in USD #435 regarding any decisions that might impact the educational placement of students with disabilities and the requirement that placement decisions are made by the IEP team, including the parent, in order to avoid future misunderstandings with parents.

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.322(b)(1)(i) and Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-17(b) w*as not found* because the district provided the parent with a NOM for the May 15, 2024 IEP team stating the positions of the persons who would be in attendance.
2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) was not found because the district did provide the parent with appropriate PWN regarding issues that fell under the jurisdiction of the IDEA and not local school board policy, specifically retention.
3. ISSUE THREE: A violation of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.106(b) i*s not substantiated* because the IEP team did consider the need for ESY services for the student during the 2023-24 school year. In addition, a violation of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300. 323(c)(2) and 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) is not substantiated because the lack of services provided to the student was the result of student absences not the district's failure to have services available and the IEP team was reconvened on April 3, 2024 and again on May 15, 2024 to address absences of the student. A violation of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300. 303(b)(2) and 34 C.F.R. 300.304(b)(6) is also not substantiated because the district considered and determined the required three-year reevaluation was not necessary at the April 3, 2024 IEP team meeting but subsequently determined a reevaluation was necessary at the May 15, 2024 IEP team meeting a provided the parent with appropriate PWN to gather additional data to determine eligibility for the category of OHI and to determine the need for any special education services including a BIP. Finally, a violation of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.327 is not substantiated because it is unclear whether the Middle School Principal actually told the parent not to send the student to school for the remainder of the school year because of the decision to retain the student in accordance with School Board Policy JFB or if this was just the parent's interpretation of the discussion following the May 2, 2024 retention meeting. Regardless, this issue was clarified with the parent at the IEP team meeting held on May 15, 2024 and, while noncompliance was not identified, it is recommended that USD #435 provide additional training and/or information to school administrators regarding careful communication with parents in regards to any decisions that might impact the educational placement of students with disabilities and the requirement that placement decisions are made by the IEP team, including the parent, in order to avoid future misunderstandings with parents.

K.A.R. § 91-40-5(c)(5) requires that the complaint investigation include "[a] discussion with the complainant during which additional information may be gathered and specific allegations of noncompliance identified, verified, and recorded." Laura Jurgensen, complaint investigator, held this discussion with the parent through a phone call with a translator on July 24, gathering additional information and verifying the specific allegations to be investigated. Laura Jurgensen provided the specific allegation to be investigated to the parent (in Spanish) and the district (in English) via email on July 24. Background Information

This complaint focuses on a student in early childhood during the time period covered by the complaint investigation. In December 2023 this parent filed a complaint asserting that the district was not meeting child find requirements with her child. The district agreed to evaluate the child and the parent withdrew the complaint. On July 12, the parent filed the present complaint, which is identical to the December 2023 complaint. When the district questioned the complaint, Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) staff informed the district that the complaint investigator would clarify the allegation and that nothing prevented the district from reaching out to the parent to clarify the concern and see if there was anything the district could do to resolve it. (Email from KSDE Staff to District, Jul. 19, 2024.)

Issues

Through the complaint investigator's discussion with the complainant, the parent alleges one issues upon which this investigation will focus:

Issue: Child Find

Did USD 500 follow child find requirements with this student? 34 C.F.R. § 300.111(a)(1)(i); K.A.R. §§ 91-40-7(a), (c)(1), (2).

Applicable Law

The regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) require that each state, "must have in effect policies and procedures to ensure that . . . [a]ll children with disabilities residing in the State, including children with disabilities who are homeless children or are wards of the State, and children with disabilities attending private schools, regardless of the severity of their disability, and who are in need of special education and related services, are identified, located, and evaluated." 34 C.F.R. § 300.111(a)(1)(i). Kansas fulfills this responsibility through K.A.R. § 91-40-7, which requires each local board of education to "adopt and implement policies and procedures to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in its jurisdiction " K.A.R. § 91-40-7(a). A local board may refer a child who is enrolled in public school for an evaluation if one of the following conditions is met:

(1) School personnel have data-based documentation indicating that general education interventions and strategies would be inadequate to address the areas of concern for the child.

(2) School personnel have data-based documentation indicating that before the referral or as a part of the referral, all of the following conditions were met:

(A) The child was provided with appropriate instruction in regular education settings that was delivered by qualified personnel.

(B) The child's academic achievement was repeatedly assessed at reasonable intervals that reflected formal assessment of the student's progress during instruction.

(C) The assessment results were provided to the child's parent or parents.

(D) The assessment results indicate that an evaluation is appropriate.

K.A.R. § 91-40-7(c)(1), (2).

The parent maintains that the decision not to find the child eligible in the March evaluation was incorrect. (Complaint Investigator and Parent Phone Call, July 24, 2024.) A review of the evaluation report and the meeting notes from the evaluation/eligibility meeting shows that the parent signed to indicate her agreement of the evaluation report and the meeting notes do not provide any information regarding the parent's disagreement. (Student Evaluation/Eligibility Report, Mar. 7, 2024; Student Evaluation/Eligibility Meeting Notes, Mar. 7, 2024.) This complaint investigator explained to the parent that if the parent disagrees with the evaluation, the parent may request that the district provide an independent education evaluation. (Complaint Investigator and Parent Phone Call, July 24, 2024.) The parent did not indicate that the evaluation was inappropriate in any way, only her disagreement with the evaluation's conclusion. (Complaint Investigator and Parent Phone Call, July 24, 2024.) The parent asserts that the student did not make progress for the remainder of the school year, which she believes should have led the district to evaluate the student again and find him eligible for special education. (Complaint Investigator and Parent Phone Call, July 24, 2024.) Therefore, this investigation focused on whether the district fulfilled its child find obligations to this student following the March 7 evaluation and decision not to find the child eligible for special education.

The complaint investigator requested information and documentation from the parent to support her concern that the student did not make progress following the March 7 evaluation that should have led the district to evaluate the student. (Emails from Complaint Investigator to Parent, July 24, Aug. 6 and 7, 2024.) The parent indicated she had no documentation to provide and did not provide any anecdotal information to support her concern. (Email from Parent to Complaint Investigator, Aug. 6, 2024.)

The district provided a great deal of information to support that it met the requirements of K.A.R. § 91-40-7(a) and K.A.R. § 91-40-7(c)(1), (2). First, to show that it meets the requirement in K.A.R. § 91-40-7(a) to "adopt and implement policies and procedures to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in its jurisdiction," the district provided its written child find policies and procedures. (Kan. City Kan. Pub. Sch. Bd. Policies, Child Find, Identification, and Eligibility, last updated Aug. 28, 2018.) Second, to show that it met the requirements of K.A.R. § 91-40-7(c)(1), to consider an evaluation if the district has "data-based documentation indicating that general education interventions and strategies would be inadequate to address the areas of concern for the child" the district provided the data upon which it based its decision that general education interventions and strategies continued to be appropriate to address the child's needs. The March 7 initial evaluation contained a great deal of data and information that led the student's evaluation and eligibility team, including the parent, to conclude that the child was not eligible for special education. (Student Evaluation/Eligibility Report, Mar. 7, 2024.) The district did not have access to any information that would have indicated the data and information relied on in this evaluation was no longer relevant or had changed in the just over two months of the school year following the evaluation. (District's Updated Response to the Complaint, Aug. 9, 2024.) Additionally, the student participated in the district's general education progress assessment with his peers on March 6 and May 22, 2024, and that assessment indicated he was performing at the level just below kindergarten performance, as expected for a student in the spring before his kindergarten year. (Student's DRDP Assessment Instruments, Mar. 6 and May 22, 2024.) The district also provided informal data from the student's teacher and information on the child's consistent school attendance to further support the district's conclusion that, "the student continued to make progress in the general education setting and there were no concerns raised by the parent or the school that would trigger the district to complete a second evaluation." (District's Updated Response to the Complaint, Aug. 9, 2024.)

To support that it met the requirements of K.A.R. § 91-40-7(c)(2) in not referring the child for a second evaluation, the district provided several items. To show that the district provided the child with "appropriate instruction in regular education settings," the district provided lesson plans from the child's teacher, grounded in the district's early childhood curriculum, from the time of the evaluation through the end of the school year. (K.A.R. § 91-40-7(c)(2)(A); Lesson Plans for Student's Classroom, Feb.–May 2024.) These lesson plans are detailed and provide alignment in each subject to the district's early childhood curriculum. (Lesson Plans for Student's Classroom, Feb.–May 2024.) The district also provided information to show that the district delivered instruction to the student through "qualified personnel" by providing a copy of the license for the student's teacher, which the complaint investigator independently verified through KSDE's Educator License Lookup. (K.A.R. § 91-40-7(c)(2)(A); Kan. State Bd. of Educ. License for Student's Teacher, Nov. 6, 2022–Nov. 6, 2027; https://appspublic.ksde.org/TLL/SearchLicense.aspx.) Additionally, the district provided the previously referenced general assessments for this student to show that the district "repeatedly assessed" "[t]he child's academic achievement . . . at reasonable intervals that reflected formal assessment of the student's progress during instruction." (K.A.R. § 91-40-7(c)(2)(B); Student's DRDP Assessment Instruments, Mar. 6 and May 22, 2024.) The student's general education assessments support the district's conclusion that the, "student demonstrated knowledge and results [that] were in the last tier in preparation for Kindergarten. [The student's] data, outside of English Development [the student's first language is Spanish], never fell in the responding or exploring levels, all of his scores fell in the building [level] meaning that the student understood how something works and not just exploring or responding with senses." (Student's DRDP Assessment Instruments, Mar. 6 and May 22, 2024.) Reviewing this student's general education assessments shows that this student was progressing appropriately to be ready for kindergarten. (Student's DRDP Assessment Instruments, Mar. 6 and May 22, 2024.) The district indicated that it met the requirements of (K.A.R. § 91-40-7(c)(2)(C) to provide the referenced assessment results to the child's parent by sending the results "home with students at the end of each quarter in their take home folders. The principal reports that the student's portfolio of work was also sent home to the parent at the end of the year." (District's Updated Response to the Complaint, Aug. 9, 2024.) All this information led the district to conclude that a second evaluation would be inappropriate. (District's Updated Response to the Complaint, Aug. 9, 2024.)

Conclusion

The district was able to provide clear information to show that it met its child find obligations by having written child find policies and procedures. The district was able to provide a great deal of clear information to show that the child continued to make progress in the just over two months of the school year following the student's evaluation and that evaluating the student again would not have been appropriate. Neither the parent nor the district could point to any information that would provide justification for the parent's assertion that the district should have evaluated the child again between the child's first evaluation and the end of the 2023–24 school year.

Therefore, this investigation concludes that USD 500 met its obligation to follow child find requirements with this student under 34 C.F.R. § 300.111(a)(1)(i) and K.A.R. §§ 91- 40-7(a), (c)(1), (2). As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed.

Background Information

The student was a junior during the 2023-2024 school year where he was eligible for special education and related services under the category of Autism and Other Health Impaired because of a medical diagnosis of ADHD. He had an additional medical diagnosis that required an accommodation but was not considered for eligibility. During the 2023-2024 school year the Student had two IEPs in effect. The student received special education and related services for speech language and psychological services.

This complaint addresses the student's transition plan, implementing a student accommodation, inappropriate release of personally identifiable information, appropriate teacher certification, appropriate use of paraeducators, and procedural practices associated with Notice of Meetings, Prior Written Notices, planning meetings and school attorney role in IEP preparation, and IEP present levels.

Issues Investigated

Eleven issues were investigated and are listed below.

1. Did USD #107 provide the parent a Prior Written Notice either agreeing to or refusing to conduct a transition evaluation when requested during the 2023-2024 school year?
2. Did USD #107 include transition goals for the student in the April 9, 2024 IEP based on current transition evaluation?
3. Did the USD #107 share Personally Identifiable Information (PII) about the student and other students with the staff and the parent during the 2023-2024 school year?
4. Did the special education teacher(s) at the student's high school in USD #107 hold current and appropriate Kansas certifications during the 23-24 school year?
5. Did USD #107 use paras in the role of teachers during the 23-24 school year at the student's high school?
6. Did USD #107 use paras to teach the student life skill goals included in the student's IEP during the 23-24 school year?
7. Did USD #107 provide a NOM for the 4/9/2024 annual IEP meeting to the parent, incorrectly listing the parent as an outside member of the IEP team?
8. Did the student's IEP team hold staffing meetings and collect feedback from the district's attorney prior to holding the April 9, 2024 IEP meeting with the entire IEP team?
9. Did USD #107 provide the student his IEP accommodation paper to take notes during his April 9, 2024 IEP meeting?
10. Did the student's draft IEP dated April 9, 2024 contain incorrect information about the student's present levels and the student receiving para help?
11. Did USD #107 provide the parent a PWN reporting IEP team decisions for the April 9, 2024 IEP annual meeting to the family prior to the annual IEP meeting?

Issue One

Did USD #107 provide the parent a Prior Written Notice either agreeing to or refusing to conduct a transition evaluation when requested during the 2023-2024 school year?

Applicable Law

According to Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503 (a)(1) and 34 C.F.R. §300.503 (a)(2), and Kansas state statutes at K.S.A. §72-3430(b)(2) prior written notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency (1) proposes to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child; or (2) refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that she requested that the student have a new transition evaluation done during the April 9, 2024 IEP. She stated that this request was denied by the director of special education because the parent had agreed to refer the student to vocational rehabilitation, and they would evaluate the student. The parent stated that the vocational rehabilitation evaluation was not timely for the IEP planning for the April 9, 2024 annual IEP.

The District responded that the district had completed transition evaluation the previous school year as part of the three-year reevaluation for the student and they felt they had enough information to develop the IEP with the updated assessment. Further, the student was being referred to vocational rehabilitation services and another comprehensive evaluation would be conducted as part of that.

The staffing summary/team report dated April 9, 2024 does not record any discussion or decision about the transition plan, evaluation, or assessment.

A document submitted by the parent on April 9, 2024 titled, "Parent Concerns" records, "I would like another transition evaluation done with a hands-on skills assessment. [Student] can tell you how to do different skills, but he has never actually physically done them."

The director of special education stated during the August 19, 2024 interview with the investigator that the transition coordinator for the Coop had completed a comprehensive transition evaluation the previous school year as part of the three-year reevaluation.

The mother stated during the August 19, 2024 interview that when she asked for a transition evaluation, she was told the district would not do another one because a thorough evaluation will be conducted as a part of the student's referral to vocational rehabilitation services.

In a letter from the special education director to the parent on April 19, 2024 in response to the parent's April 9, 2024 document it states, "[Student] was referred to Voc Rehab during the meeting and the parent signed the release of information form at that time. Voc Rehab is in the process of scheduling a time to meet with [Student] and parents to discuss a functional vocational assessment.

The prior written notice for evaluation or reevaluation and request for consent, dated April 18, 2024 documents that the cooperative refuses to conduct a reevaluation, with the explanation, "The parent has requested a re-evaluation of [Student's] transition skills with a hands-on assessment. The cooperative completed a re-evaluation on 03/27/2023 which included a transition assessment with parent, teacher, and student interviews. The assessment also included Life Centered Career Education Knowledge & Performance Battery and the Enderle-Severson Transition Rating Scale. These results were included in the reevaluation at that time. At the IEP meeting on 4/9/24, the parent signed a release between the Cooperative and Voc Rehab. Voc Rehab is in contact with both the transition coordinator for [cooperative] and the parents. Voc Rehab will be scheduling a time for a functional vocational assessment to be completed with [student]."

Conclusion

It is found that the parent made a request for a transition reevaluation on April 9, 2024 in the form of a written request. On April 19, 2024, the district rejected the request through a prior written notice. Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #107 failed to provide the parent a Prior Written Notice either agreeing to or refusing to conduct a transition evaluation when requested during the 2023-2024 school year.

Did USD #107 include transition goals for the student in the April 9, 2024 IEP based on current transition evaluation?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(b)(1) and Kansas state statutes at K.S.A. §72-3429(c)(8)(A) state that the IEP for each exceptional child shall include, beginning at age 14, and updated annually thereafter: (A) Appropriate measurable postsecondary goals based upon age-appropriate transition assessments related to training, education, employment and where appropriate, independent living skills.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged during her discussion with the investigator that the district used transition evaluation from the previous year to develop the transition plan for the student during the April 9, 2024 IEP. She stated that because the student would be evaluated as part of his referral to vocational rehabilitation, as explained to her by the special education director it was not necessary to evaluate him. She stated however, that the student had accomplished many things and learned more about what he wanted to do post school since his last IEP and a current evaluation was necessary to develop an appropriate IEP that includes current and appropriate postsecondary goals.

The District responded that as noted in the student's April 9, 2024 IEP the student was given a transition assessment on February 5, 2024 and that assessment was used to develop the goals and activities of the transition plan.

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

The IEP dated April 9, 2024 documents the date of the Enderle-Severson Transition Rating Scale (TRS 1.0) as February 5, 2024 and records the following informal assessments scores as Employment: 62%; Recreation/Leisure: 100%; Home Living: 71%; Community Participation; 50%, Post-Secondary Education: 56%.

The Enderle-Severson Transition Rating Scale findings from the February 5, 2024 administration reported the following needs:

Area	Skills
Employment	• Hygiene and grooming skills • Job seeking skills • Experience completing a job application • Job interviewing skills • Career research • Create a resume • Community-based work experience
Home Living	• Develop an understanding of government/civics and how to register to vote • Develop an understanding of concepts related to physical, emotional, and relational awareness • Basic banking skills • Experience in making medical/dental appointments • Money management skills such as budgeting, paying bills on time, and taxes • Basic parenting skills • Experience planning & cooking a balanced meal
Community Participation	• housing • options for large purchases (credit cards & loans) • insurance
Post-Secondary Education	• Identify post-secondary options Identify higher education support services • Prepare for and take ACT, Accuplacer, or other college entrance exam • Apply for post-secondary education • Apply for financial assistance to access post-secondary training
Recreation	• No needs identified

The IEP records transition services in the areas of life skills for the remainder of the 2023-2024 school year and speech/language skills for the remainder of the 2023-2024 school year, continuing into the 2024-2025 school year. The speech goal which includes benchmarks for initiating communicative interactions, conversational turn-taking, identifying and understanding non-verbal social communication, identifying breakdown, in communications and making appropriate adjustments, and learning and applying strategies for resolving conflicts with peers and adults, will support the student's post-secondary goals, as these types of communication skills are necessary for students who plan to attend a community or technical college and/or work as a law enforcement dispatcher. The life skill goal, taught during the life skills class covered the needs identified in the IEP.

During the August 19, 2024 interview with the investigator the special education teacher described that the focus of life skills was writing checks and checking accounts as well as guided towards being a senior and what life would be after that. The textbook and curriculum used have sections designed to address the student's needs. The special education teacher stated that the plan was to focus on post-secondary education (along with his senior classmates) and application of living skills during the senior year.

The mother stated during the August 19, 2024 interview that she thought the February 5, 2024 assessment and findings were not an accurate view of what he could do because they only asked him to self-rate his ability to do the skills rather than asking him to do anything hands-on. She stated that he was very knowledgeable about how to do many adult life skills but would struggle with actually performing the skills.

Conclusion

It is found that the needs assessment conducted to develop the April 9, 2024 IEP was current and that the goals and activities were derived from the assessment. It is acknowledged that the life skills were simulated and not hands-on, but it was not specified in the IEP that the activities would be taught or practiced in the community (or applied environment). It is further acknowledged that the student, parent, and district agree that hands-on instruction and practice in the community or natural environment in which the skill will be performed will be important for the student. Therefore, it is not substantiated that USD #107 failed to include transition goals for the student in the April 9, 2024 IEP based on current transition evaluation.

Issue Three

Did the USD #107 share Personally Identifiable Information (PII) about the student and other students with the staff and the parent during the 2023-2024 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§300.610 though 300.626 identify the confidentiality requirements that apply to children under Part B of the IDEA. They protect the personally identifiable information (PII) in education records collected, maintained, or used under Part B of the IDEA.34 C.F.R §300.32 define PII as information that contains: the name of the child, the child's parent, or other family member; the address of the child; a personal identifier, such as the child's social security number of student number; or a list of personal characteristics or other information that would make it possible to identify the child with reasonable certainty.

Under 34 CFR § 300.622(a) of the IDEA Part B regulations, parental consent must be obtained before PII is disclosed to parties, other than officials of participating agencies. Under IDEA Part

B and pursuant to the FERPA regulations at 34 CFR § 99.31(a)(1), prior written consent is not required to disclose PII from student education records to school officials, including teachers, within the educational agency or institution, whom the agency or institution has determined to have legitimate educational interests. 34 CFR § 99.31(a)(1)(i)(A).

The Kansas Open Records Act (KORA) is a state law that requires public agencies, including school districts, to make their records available to the public upon request. This means that parents and students can request access to documents, emails, and other records held by the school district.

The Parent alleged that a letter from the student's pediatrician containing a medical diagnosis, direction for classroom staff and the pediatrician's name and practice that was submitted to the principal was distributed to the student's teachers, rather than kept private with the information shared at a meeting. The parent alleged that the staff did not need to know where the student goes to the doctor. The parent additionally alleged that the principal sends a weekly email to all high school staff with the names and dates of students with upcoming IEP meetings. Finally, the parent alleged that information she received through a Kansas Open Records Act request disclosed information about other students at the high school.

The District responded that the principal shared the letter concerning the student's diagnosis with five of the student's teachers during the second semester of the 2023-2024 school year. Additionally, the district responded that the principal began sending weekly emails to staff each Sunday in response to staff climate survey results indicating a desire for more timely and complete information on events for planning purposes – including collaboration between general and special education staff. The principal includes IEP meetings because they are a regular part of school activities. The date that an IEP meeting is held is not personally identifiable information. Finally, the district responded that KORA requests do not require the district to redact the information.

The findings of Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.

Distribution of student's pediatrician letter to school staff.

Documentation demonstrated that the principal distributed the pediatrician's letter dated December 12, 2023 in an email to the PE teacher, business teacher, art teacher, social studies teacher, and English teacher on January 5, 2024 at 7:43 a.m. with the following direction, "Please see the attached doctor's note for [Student]. If you have to leave the room and there is not another adult in there, bring him to the office to sit and wait. This does not say anything about locker rooms or bathrooms or passing periods or anything like that. Please let me know if you have any questions."

The director of special education stated during the August 19, 2024 interview with the investigator that the principal shared the letter after teachers had asked for clarification about what to look after they had heard that he was not to be left unattended. The district's attorney expressed that they invited the mother to an IEP meeting after this information (letter) was given to the school and she did not accept.

The April 9, 2024 Staffing Summary/Team Report recorded, "Clarification of Health PLEP – can be left alone in a classroom without an adult up to 5 min. Staff will check on him if he has left the room (e.g. bathroom, locker) & hasn't returned within 10 min."

The director of special education stated during the August 19, 2024 interview with the investigator that the parent was invited to talk with the staff about the pediatrician letter, but she declined.

Weekly emails from principal to school staff and superintendent containing names of students with upcoming IEPs.

The parent and district provided emails from the principal to the high school teachers and superintendent dated August 27, 2023 at 8:26 a.m.; September 24, 2023 at 11:17 a.m.; October 8, 2023 at 8:33 a.m.; October 15, 2023 at 9:28 a.m.; October 29, 2023 at 10:08 a.m.; November 5, 2023 at 7;46 a.m.; November 12, 2023 at 7:27 a.m. January 14, 2024 at 10:22 a.m.; January 18, 2024 at 10:02 a.m.; February 4, 2024 at 9:13 a.m.; February 18, 2024 at 9:20 a.m.; March 17, 2024 at 12:33 p.m.; April 7, 2024 at 9:04 a.m.; April 8, 2024 at 5:56 a.m. containing the names of students with his or her IEP date, time or location.

The district's attorney stated during the August 19, 2024 interview with the investigator that the principal started the weekly emails in response to a staff climate survey. He decided to include IEP meetings because they are part of school activities and propose staff planning.

The district response stated, "Nevertheless, to resolve any potential concern about identifying students in these weekly emails, [principal] has been instructed that if he is going to include an IEP meeting in these weekly emails, he is to list the IEP meeting without including the student's name or initials and/or to identify the staff members who need to attend the meeting. This is in place now and going forward."

Incomplete redaction of names and student grades of high school students as part of KORA request made by parent.

The parent provided an undated three page excel spreadsheet with the first page redacting identifying information and the last two pages unredacted. The final two pages showed the last and first name of student, grade, five things of interest and any notes for the 6-12 school counselor to consider of twenty-five 8th graders, fifteen 9th graders, 22 10th graders, nineteen 11th graders (including student) and fifteen 12th graders.

The district's attorney stated that they may have missed redacting everything, but they are not required to redact KORA documentation but did so (for most/not all) documents because they thought it was a good idea to do so. She stated it was not an IDEA issue.

Conclusion

There were three specific incidences alleged regarding sharing PII and are addressed separately in the conclusion. The first case regards the principal sharing a letter containing the name of the student's pediatrician and pediatrician's practice to the student's teachers regarding a medical diagnosis and medical advice while the student was at school. It is found that the principal correctly distributed the information to school personnel who had a need to have this information. While the parent objected to the principal sharing the name of the pediatrician and location of the practice, this is not covered as PII.

The second instance addressed the principal sharing the names of student (PII) who are eligible for special education, that they have an IEP planned and the date of the meeting with all school staff at the high school and superintendent.

IDEA regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.622(a) require parent consent before PII is disclosed to parties, other than officials of participating agencies, unless the disclosure is authorized by the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA). FERPA permits disclosure of PII to school officials who the agency has determined to have legitimate educational interests (34 C.F.R. 99.31(a)(1)(i)(A)). A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the school official needs to review an education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility (See, Letter to Anonymous, 22 FAB 42 (FPCO 2018). Thus, under FERPA and IDEA regulations, each school official who receives an education record must have a need to review that education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility. When a school official is given an education record that includes the PII of students for which the official has no professional responsibility, a violation of both FERPA and the IDEA has occurred.

There is one exception. IDEA regulations 34 C.F.R. 300.622(b)(1) adds that parent consent is not needed when PII is released to school officials for the purpose of meeting the requirements of the IDEA. However, that does not mean PII can be given to all school officials when only one needs the information for the purpose of meeting the requirements of the IDEA. This regulation means that the release of information may be made to school officials who need the information for the purpose of meeting the requirements of the IDEA. When PII is released to school officials who do not need that information to fulfill his or her professional responsibility or to otherwise meet the requirements of the IDEA, a violation of both FERPA and IDEA results.

Therefore, it is concluded that the principal's sharing the names of students (PII) who are 1) eligible for special education, 2) have an IEP meeting planned, and 3) the date of the IEP meeting, with all school staff at the high school, without consideration of whether staff needs that information to fulfill his or her professional responsibility or to otherwise meet the requirements of the IDEA, a violation of the IDEA has occurred.

Finally, the third instance addressed the district providing an excel spreadsheet containing the first and last names and grades of high school students, partially redacted with the parent through a Kansas Open Records Act (KORA) request. The district admitted this error. While this is concerning, and the district should examine their redaction practices it does not fall under the IDEA in this case for two reasons. There is no indication that the student's information was disclosed to people other than the parents. The list does not indicate a student's special education status.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD #107 incorrectly shared Personally Identifiable Information (PII) about the student and other students with the staff during the 2023-2024 school year. It is not substantiated that USD #104 incorrectly shared PII with the parents.

Issue Four

Did the special education teacher(s) at the student's high school in USD #107 hold current and appropriate Kansas certifications during the 23-24 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.156(c)(i) states that each public school special education teacher who teaches in a secondary school have obtained full state certification as a special education teacher and holds a license to teach in the state as a special education teacher.

While the initial complaint alleged that it was rumored that teachers hired for the 2024-2025 were not certified teachers, during discussion with the complaint investigator the complaint was clarified that the parent alleged that the teachers who provided the student special education services were not appropriately or currently certified.

The District responded that during the 2023-2024 school year the student's special education teacher is the special education teacher assigned to the high school. Another teacher in the district co-teaches with the student's special education teacher and holds a Kansas emergency substitute license.

The findings of Issues One through Three are incorporated herein by reference.

The district's website lists the student's special education teacher as the only special education teacher for the high school. Another staff is listed as a 6-12 Special Education Paraprofessional/Teacher.

According to the KSDE teacher licensure lookup, the special education teacher is listed as a 6-12 Special Education Teacher on the district website and holds professional certificates for Elementary –(K-9); Gifted (K-12): Special Education Interrelated (K-12); Special Education English Language Arts and Math (PreK-12). Her teacher license expiration is February 13, 2027. The 6-12 Special Education Paraprofessional/ Teacher holds an Emergency Substitute Teacher PreK-12 license which expires June 30, 2026.

During the interview with the district on August 19, 2024 the special education teacher stated that she was the student's teacher and stated she was a co-teacher who delivered instruction but did not function as the student's teacher.

An email from the district's attorney dated August 20, 2024 at 10:41 p.m. reported that the 6-12 special education paraprofessional/teacher has an associate's degree and is working toward her Bachelor of Arts in Education. At 10:48 p.m. the district attorney further explained, "[6-12 special education paraprofessional/teacher] primarily functions as/performs the duties of a special education para, as she works toward obtaining her Bachelor of Arts in Education. The [6-12 special education paraprofessional/teacher] is not a special education teacher and is not in charge of a caseload, IEPs, documentation, lesson plan development, etc. When [special education teacher] is absent, [6-12 special education paraprofessional/teacher] fills in as a substitute, since she is licensed by KSDE as an emergency substitute."

The April 9, 2024 IEP shows that the special education teacher signed the IEP, and the special education paraprofessional/teacher did not.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that the district failed to employ currently and appropriately certified teachers for the student during the 23-24 school year.

Issue Five

Did USD #107 use paras in the role of teachers during the 23-24 school year at the student's high school?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.207 and state regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-1(kkk)(2), (3) state that each school district must ensure that all personnel necessary to carry out the requirements of IDEA are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. All special education personnel, as appropriate, shall have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with exceptionalities. This includes special education teachers, related services personnel and paraeducators.

According to the KSDE Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, "The State of Kansas has no statewide requirements for employment as a paraeducator or paraprofessional in a school;

however, state, and federal funding for certain positions may have requirements pertaining to those positions. Individual local education agencies (LEAs) may set requirements for employment. Paraeducators (paras) cannot be given responsibility for designing or be the primary person in charge of delivering classroom content." It should be noted that in order to receive state reimbursement for part of the cost of employing a paraeducator, the paraeducator must be a high school graduate or have a GED certificate, and complete an orientation session (Special Reimbursement Guide).

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that one of the special education professionals is listed as a 6-12 special education paraprofessional/teacher but has no teaching qualifications or education and is an emergency substitute.

The District responded that it licenses personnel who deliver instruction to special education students. Paraprofessionals work with the special education students to practice and reinforce content taught by special education teachers.

According to the district website staff directory this staff is listed as a 6-12 special education paraprofessional/teacher. An email from the district's attorney dated August 20, 2024 at 10:48 p.m. asserted the, "[6-12 special education paraprofessional/teacher] primarily functions as/performs the duties of a special education para, as she works toward obtaining her Bachelor of Arts in Education. The [6-12 special education paraprofessional/teacher] is not a special education teacher and is not in charge of a caseload, IEPs, documentation, lesson plan development, etc. When [special education teacher] is absent, [6-12 special education paraprofessional/teacher] fills in as a substitute, since she is licensed by KSDE as an emergency substitute."

The special education teacher stated during the August 19, 2024 interview with the investigator that when her students are attending general education classes the paraprofessionals monitor the students to assist with understanding the lessons; to assist with reading and/or writing for students who need this accommodation or take notes. In the resource room paraprofessionals often reteach or review content or assist with homework or reading tests to students. The special education teacher stated that she collects all data collection for IEP goals. She states she meets with the paraprofessionals before and/or after school and relies on the paraprofessional's reports of the student's behavior in general education classes as she does not have regularly scheduled times to observe the students in their general education classrooms.

The student stated during his interview with the investigator on August 19, 2024 that when in the resource room the special education teacher taught him about half of the time and in the remaining times paraprofessionals taught him. He said there was not a consistent paraprofessional with him. He described that he used textbooks and worked on worksheets during this time.

Conclusion

According to the Kansas paraprofessionals cannot be given responsibility for designing or be the primary person in charge of delivering classroom content. It is found that in this situation that the paraprofessionals or any one paraprofessional was not the primary person in charge of designing or delivering classroom content. Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #107 used paras in the role of teachers during the 23-24 school year at the student's high school.

Issue Six

Did USD #107 use paras to teach the student life skill goals included in the student's IEP during the 23-24 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.207 and state regulations at K.A.R. §91-40-1(kkk)(2), (3) state that each school district must ensure that all personnel necessary to carry out the requirements of IDEA are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. All special education personnel, as appropriate, shall have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with exceptionalities. This includes special education teachers, related services personnel and paraeducators.

According to the KSDE Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, "The State of Kansas has no statewide requirements for employment as a paraeducator or paraprofessional in a school; however, state and federal funding for certain positions may have requirements pertaining to those positions. Individual local education agencies (LEAs) may set requirements for employment. Paraeducators (paras) cannot be given responsibility for designing or be the primary person in charge of delivering classroom content."

The Parent alleged that the student received at least 50% of his life skills class instruction from a para. Further, most of the time this was when the student was learning new content.

The District responded that the special education teacher delivered the student's life skills instruction. On rare occasions, when the special education teacher was absent the emergency substitute delivered instruction. There were also times that the emergency substitute teacher supervised the student's independent work during the portion of the day he was in the resource room for life skills instruction.

The findings of Issues One through Five are incorporated herein by reference.

The special education teacher stated during the August 19, 2024 interview with the investigator that life skills were taught in the resource room where she provides special education services. She stated that during the 2023-2024 school year that life skills were taught individually and were primarily simulated instruction. The special education teacher stated that she used the curriculum, You're On Your Own for the life skills. You're On Your Own is a comprehensive consumer education curriculum out of Tennessee developed to simulate living in the real world after high school. She stated she is the student's case manager and prepares the student's special education services. She stated that when she was absent the emergency substitute taught the life skills.

The special education teacher stated during the August 19, 2024 interview that she meets with the paraprofessionals before and after school to go over the lessons, review data findings and discuss student progress or changes. She stated that paraprofessionals go through student IEPs at the beginning of the year to become familiar with the student's accommodations and goals.

The student stated during an interview with the investigator on August 19, 2024 that at least four paraprofessionals had taught the activities in the life skills class about half of the time and the special education teacher taught him alone about half of the time. . He verified the class was in the resource room and used a textbook and worksheets. He stated it did not prepare him for life because he was not actually doing these things, but rather learning information about them.

Conclusion

It is found that paraprofessional did deliver life skills instruction to the student. Although the district and student differ on the amount of time in Kansas it is permissible for paraprofessionals to deliver instruction as long as these staff have been appropriately and adequately prepared and trained (34 C.F.R. §300.207; K.A.R. §91-40-1(kkk)(2). Based on the interviews with the district staff the paraprofessionals participated in training on their roles, the individual student IEPs and how to deliver instruction prior to the start of the school year. Further, the paraprofessionals meet regularly with the special education teacher to debrief and problem solve on student progress and instruction. Therefore, it is concluded that the district is in compliance with 34 C.F.R. §300.207 and K.A.R. §91-40-1(kkk)(2) in using paraprofessionals to deliver the life skills instruction to the student.

Issue Seven

Did USD #107 provide a NOM for the 4/9/2024 annual IEP meeting to the parent, incorrectly listing the parent as an outside member of the IEP team?

Applicable Law

According to C.F.R. §300.322(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-17(a) parents must be members of the IEP team and are equal partners, playing an active role in providing critical information about their child's abilities, interests, performance, and history. They are involved in the decision-making process throughout the development of the IEP. Therefore, each public agency must take steps to ensure that one or both parents of a child with a disability are present at each IEP Team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate.

According to C.F.R. 300.501(b)(2) parents are to be provided notice of meetings related to eligibility, evaluation, reevaluation, IEP development, provision of a free appropriate public education (FAPE) for their child and educational placement decisions, to ensure that they have the opportunity to participate in the meetings.

The Parent alleged that the Notice of Meeting for the IEP meeting occurring on April 9, 2024 "has the parent listed as an outside agency not a team member. That is how most of the staff treat the parents."

The District responded that a copy of the Notice of Meeting for the April 9, 2024 IEP meeting identified the mother and father as legal educational decision makers on page 1. No agencies or people from outside agencies are included in the Notice of Meeting.

The findings of Issues One through Six are incorporated herein by reference.

The Notice of Meeting dated March 26, 2024 prepared and distributed to the parents for the April 9, 2024 IEP meeting did not include a section for outside agency persons, nor list any persons or roles representing outside agencies. Each parent was indicated next to LEDM (Legal Education Decision Maker).

Conclusion

It is found that the parents are indicated as the legal education decision makers for the students. Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #107 provided a NOM for the 4/9/2024 annual IEP meeting to the parent, incorrectly listing the parent as an outside member of the IEP team.

Issue Eight

Did the student's IEP team hold staffing meetings and collect feedback from the district's attorney prior to holding the April 9, 2024 IEP meeting with the entire IEP team?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.501(b)(3) state that a meeting does not include informal or unscheduled conversations involving public agency personnel and conversations on issues such as teaching methodology, lesson plans, or coordination of service provision. A meeting also does not include preparatory activities that public agency personnel engage in to develop a proposal or response to a parent proposal that will be discussed at a later meeting.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that "it is also a known fact in the [district] that there is a staffing before any special education meeting. The Elementary principal told one of her parents that they must get their "story" straight or make sure everyone was on the same page. I have also seen that in emails from past meetings, when [student] was in 10th grade." Further, in a response to a question to the special education director, "it was clear these answers were provided to her by her attorney."

The District responded that staffing meetings to prepare for IEP meetings and obtaining legal advice are not prohibited by the IDEA.

The findings of Issues One through Seven are incorporated herein by reference.

The special education director stated in the interview with the investigator on August 9, 2024 that there is not a formal procedure or practice of preemptively alerting the district's attorney and inviting him/her to participate in a meeting. The only time they would involve the district's attorney is when a parent files a due process or a formal complaint. She stated that the purpose in this instance would be to be doubly sure that they were doing what was needed with procedure. The district attorney then stated that the parent had previously submitted a variety of complaints to KSDE and threatened to sue so in that instance it is in the district's best interest to reach out to the attorney.

The special education teacher described that in preparation for the student's IEP she followed the district practice and the practice she follows of emailing the student's teachers and related services in advance to collect information and generally gather dates to be offered to the parents to meet the IEP. She stated that because the student was transition age the transition coordinator at the coop was involved in collecting assessment information and that the student participated in preparing and reviewing the draft of the IEP. She stated that the notice of meeting is sent once a date is determined and a draft of the IEP is sent. Right before the meeting date she prints out copies of the draft IEP and a copy of the prior written notice in anticipation of signatures. She stated that she did not have a meeting with school staff prior to the April 9, 2024 IEP meeting and does not have meetings with school staff to prepare or discuss a student's IEP. Instead, she said she regularly relies on emails to gather information. She stated she would not rule out an in-person meeting with school staff, if necessary, but the logistics of scheduling the meeting would be very challenging. She stated she is more likely to talk with a single person if she needs clarification.

Emails from the special education teacher and the student's teachers between March 21 – 25, 2024 document that the special education teacher asked for input about the student's behavior and performance in their respective classes and suggested dates for the student's IEP meeting.

Documentation shows that the notice of meeting was sent to the parent on March 26, 2024.

Conclusion

It is found that the district has a regular practice for preparing and drafting the student's annual IEP and the special education teacher described it and followed it. It is further found that the district has regular practices for what triggers the district to contact the district attorney, and the director of special education described why she reached out to the district attorney, and it was compatible with the district practices. Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #107 held student's IEP team staffing meetings and collected feedback from the district's attorney prior to holding the April 9, 2024 IEP meeting with the entire IEP team.

Issue Nine

Did USD #107 provide the student his IEP accommodation paper to take notes during his April 9, 2024 IEP meeting?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged the student was not provided paper during his IEP meeting in spite of his asking and a need to accommodate his remembering by writing things down on paper to better remember.

The District responded that the IEP in place for the student at the time of the April 9, 2024 meeting did not require the provision of paper for him to take notes during the IEP meeting.

The findings of Issues One through Eight are incorporated herein by reference.

The IEPs dated April 19, 2023 and April 9, 2024 did not include an accommodation for providing paper to the student for notetaking.

The special education teacher stated that the student was provided a draft paper copy of the IEP so he could follow-along and that pens were available for him to take notes. She stated she did not hear the student ask for paper nor was aware that the student wanted paper. She stated that the student appeared comfortable during the IEP meeting and participated by providing preferences and input.

The mother stated during the interview with the investigator on August 19, 2024 that the student was not initially in the meeting due to his preference to not attend. She stated that she asked the student to come into the meeting to provide information about paraprofessional use. She and the student who joined the interview stated that they shared a draft copy of the IEP.

Conclusion

It is clear that the parent and district disagree as to whether the student had access to paper and writing instruments during the IEP. The IDEA at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts ensure that the special education and supplementary aids and services be available not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted, but this accommodation was not included in either IEP. Therefore, the district had no IDEA obligation to provide paper and writing instruments to the student during the IEP and it is not substantiated that USD #107 failed to provide the student his IEP accommodation paper to take notes during his April 9, 2024 IEP meeting.

Issue Ten

Did the student's draft IEP dated April 9, 2024 contain incorrect information about the student's present levels and the student receiving para help?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(1) define the individualized education program as including a statement of the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.618-300.621 describe amendment of records at parent's request. They state that 1) a parent who believes that information in the education records collected, maintained, or used under this part is inaccurate or misleading or violates the privacy or other rights of the child may request the participating agency that maintains the information to amend the information; 2) the agency must decide whether to amend the information in accordance with the request within a reasonable period of time of receipt of the request; and if the agency decides to refuse to amend the information in accordance with the request, it must inform the parent of the refusal and advise the parent of the right to a hearing under §300.619. §300.619 through §300.621 describes the opportunity, procedures, and results of a hearing.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the IEP was not marked "Draft," and contained false information about the student's having help, wanting to use notes and para support written in the present levels. She indicated two statements in the IEP she received were incorrect, "[Student] has developed confidence in his abilities and typically completes his assignments in the general education classroom setting without special education services such as para, when one is provided. He is completing the same assignments in the same manner as his peers." in the Student Strengths section and "[Student] did not want to use notes or have help on 3 History tests and received scores or 81%, 94%, and 76% and was very proud of himself for his accomplishments." in the Staff Concerns section of the present levels. Further, she stated that the information about him receiving para support was incorrectly written as discovered in the previous child complaint 24FC107-001.

The District responded that the IEP document provided to the parent prior to, or at the IEP meeting was a draft and not having it marked as "draft" was an oversight. The district stated that it was stated during the meeting that it was a draft. They further stated that present levels in the student's April 9, 2024 IEP are accurate and do not include these statements.

The findings of Issues One through Nine and 24FC107-001 are incorporated herein by reference.

The special education teacher stated during her August 19, 2024 interview with the investigator that she got the information about the present levels from her daily experience as the student's special education teacher, from other teachers and from discussion with the student. She stated that she and the student went over every section of the IEP prior to the meeting for completeness and accuracy.

The history teacher responded to the special education teacher's request for present level information to prepare the IEP on March 21, 2024 at 11:21 a.m. "The student is cooperative and polite. The student attends to the lesson and has thoughtful comments."

The IEP dated April 9, 2024 provided by the parent and district as evidence contains the following statement in the Student Strengths section of the PLEP - "[Student] has developed confidence in his abilities and typically completes his assignments in the general education classroom setting without special education services such as para, when one is provided. He is completing the same assignments in the same manner as his peers."

The child complaint 24FC107-001 was completed June 18, 2024 and substantiated that USD #107 failed to implement the student's IEP during the 2023-2024 school year by discontinuing paraeducator support and committed a procedural error in not meeting and/or amending the IEP.

The IEP dated April 9, 2024 provided by the parent as evidence contained the following statement in the Staff Concerns section of the PLEP - "[Student] did not want to use notes or have help on 3 History tests and received scores or 81%, 94%, and 76% and was very proud of himself for his accomplishments." In the Staff Concerns section of the present levels section of the IEP." This statement is not contained in the final IEP dated April 9, 2024 provided by the district and implemented.

Conclusion

Complaints alleging that information in education records is inaccurate or misleading is subject to the amendment process described in 34 C.F.R. 300.618-300.621, not this complaint process. Therefore, while the parent provided instances of discrepancies in the document versions the parent needs to follow the procedures described in 34 C.F.R. 300.618-300.621 to reconcile any concerns of incorrect information. Therefore, this issue was not investigated.

Issue Eleven

Did USD #107 provide the parent a PWN reporting IEP team decisions for the April 9, 2024 IEP annual meeting to the family prior to the annual IEP meeting?

Applicable Law

According to Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503 (a)(1) and 34 C.F.R. §300.503 (a)(2), and Kansas state statutes at K.S.A. §72-3430(b)(2) prior written notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency (1) proposes to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child; or (2) refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that a prior written notice dated April 8, 2024 was printed on April 9, 2024 at 7:22 a.m. prior to the IEP meeting at 8:30. It was not provided five days before the meeting and the district has never provided a prior written notice before a meeting; it is always provided at the end for a signature. Further, the prior written notice was already filled in with the IEP decisions prior to the meeting.

The District responded that the prior written notice dated April 9, 2024 outlined IEP changes that school staff planned to propose, in anticipation of consensus, but in no way intended it was the decisions prior to the meeting. The preparation of the document is to avoid using signed consent via email or hand delivery if consensus with the draft is achieved, but it is district practice to discard the prepared prior written notice and make changes to reflect any decisions made during the meeting.

The findings of Issues One through Ten are incorporated herein by reference.

The mother stated during the interview with the investigator on August 19, 2024 that the prior written notice was dated April 8, 2024 and it was presented to her during the meeting.

The prior written notice for identification, special education and related services, educational placement, change in services, change in placement, and/or request for content for the IEP meeting on April 9, 2024 is dated April 8, 2024. The prior written notice proposes both a material change in services and a substantial change in placement. It reports that "The team, including [student], feel that the proposed services are most appropriate to meet the student's needs."

The proposed decisions included in the prior written notice include,

> The team is proposing that [student's] service time in the resource room setting change after the 2023-2024 school year. For the 2024-2025 school year, the team proposes that [student] only receive direct instruction for a Study Skills call for 45 minutes, 5 days a week. He will participate in the general education math class and an elective class of his choice. The team is also proposing the dismissal of special education support services in general education for English and Science. This is being proposed because [student] has found that he would rather depend on the general education teacher for help or choose to go to the resource room for special education services if needed. [Student] will receive 20 minutes, every other week, for psychology services and 25 minutes weekly for speech/language.

The mother stated to the investigator in a phone conversation on August 2, 2024 that the prior written notice served as the agenda during the April 9, 2024 IEP meeting, causing the mother to not be prepared for the decisions that were being made. She stated this practice diminished her ability to participate in discussing her student's IEP and give input as to decisions, as the document portrayed them as completed. She stated that she prepared and distributed a document listing her concerns at the meeting.

The parent sent an email to the district on April 5, 2024 at 9:53 stating, "I receive the draft IEP. [Student] and I looked through the draft IEP and discussed the changes [special education teacher] wants to make. [Student] is not Happy about the changes, he said 'They didn't listen to anything I said Wednesday!' Please, allow extra time for the IEP meeting because it's going to be a long one. I understand that it is a draft, but to a parent it appears that the Changes have already been decided."

The special education teacher stated during the interview with the investigator on August 19, 2024 that it would have been prepared prior to the meeting and that it would be reviewed at the meeting and altered as needed.

The staffing summary/team report noted the following decisions, the use of headphones/listening to music is up to the teacher and will be kept as a special education accommodation; the Health PLEP will be clarified to state that the student can be left alone in a classroom without an adult up to 5 minutes and staff will check on him if he leaves the room to go to bathroom or locker after ten minutes; notes will be provided for general education classes, note taking instruction will occur during life skills or study skills classes, life skills will focus on application and will be incorporated into speech, a visual clock or option of vision 360 application will be added to the IEP. While the staffing summary/team report documented the parent document, it is recorded that, "parent concerns provided in writing - did not want to review further during meeting."

An email from the district's attorney to the investigator on August 22, 2024 at 11:43 a.m. was sent in response to the investigator asking how the prepared prior written notice was discussed at the IEP meeting. "Per [special education teacher], the Prior Written Notice was discussed at the IEP meeting. The team reviewed, discussed, and made changes to the draft IEP. At the conclusion of that discussion, [special education teacher] led (sic) the parent and the team through the Prior Written Notice, which she identified as a 'shortened version of the IEP.' She reviewed each section of the Prior Written Notice and asked [mother] and the other IEP team members if there were any concerns. No concerns were identified and [mother] signed consent for the changes to the IEP."

Documentation shows that the parent signed the April 9, 2024 prior written notice on April 9, 2024.

The student's IEP shows that the decisions contained in the April 9, 2024 prior written notice and staffing summary/team report were incorporated into the IEP.

Conclusion

It is found that the PWN provided at the IEP meeting reported decisions that were discussed and further required parental consent. Consent from the parent was acquired at the conclusion of the IEP meeting. The staffing summary/team report documented two additional decisions were made during the meeting, 1) teaching notetaking during life-skills class or study skills classes and 2) teaching application of the life-skills. These two instructional decisions impact the provision of FAPE to the child and should have been documented in a prior written notice. Therefore, it is substantiated that USD #107 failed to provide the parent a PWN reporting these two IEP team decisions resulting from the April 9, 2024 IEP annual meeting.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 107
Rock Hill Public Schools: 25FC107-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on July 30, 2024, by ------, on behalf of her child, ------. In the remainder of this decision, ------ will be referred to as "the parent," and ------ will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the parent's allegations, was issued on August 30, 2024. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations on Issue 3 and Issue 11, and there was not a violation on any of the remaining issues.

Thereafter, the parent filed an appeal of the Complaint Report with regard to Issues 1, 2, 9, 10 and 11. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed, and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the complaint report, the parent's appeal; and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Issues on Appeal

There are 5 issues on appeal, Issues: 1, 2, 9, 10, and 11. They are:

Issue One

Did USD #107 provide the parent a Prior Written Notice either agreeing to or refusing to conduct a transition evaluation when requested during the 2023-2024 school year?

Issue Two

Did USD #107 include transition goals for the student in the April 9, 2024 IEP based on current transition evaluation?

Issue Nine

Did USD #107 provide the student his IEP accommodation paper to take notes during his April 9, 2024 IEP meeting?

Issue Ten

Did the student's draft IEP dated April 9, 2024 contain incorrect information about the student's present levels and the student receiving para help?

Issue Eleven

Did USD #107 provide the parent a PWN reporting IEP team decisions for the April 9, 2024 IEP annual meeting to the family prior to the annual IEP meeting?

This complaint, and the parents appeal, are difficult to follow. The original complaint was filed on July 30, 2024, listing four issues. First, the parent alleged a failure to provide FAPE because the district denied the parent's request for a new transition evaluation and that "There were no measurable transition goals put into the IEP." Second, the parent under the heading "Concern #3" listed a privacy concern regarding a communication with staff members. Third, the parent under the heading "Concern #4," alleged that the cooperative allowed special education students to be taught by unqualified teachers. Fourth, also under the heading "Concern #4," the parent alleged that the student's placement was pre-determined at a meeting where a Prior Written Notice (PWN) was drafted prior to the IEP meeting.

Four days after the complaint was filed, on August 3, 2024, the investigator sent an email to the parent and the special education director of the cooperative, saying, "Based upon the written complaint and an interview with the mother, the following allegation(s) will be investigated (emphasis added)." The list of allegations expanded from four concerns to eleven. This is a customary, and even required, procedure under both federal and state regulations.

Federal regulation 34 C.F.R. 300.152(a)(2), states that a State Department of Education, as a "minimum procedure" must:

> (2) Give the complainant the opportunity to submit additional information, either orally or in writing, about the allegations in the complaint;

our Kansas regulations, at K.A.R. 91-40-51(c)(1) are even more explicit, saying:

> (c) Upon receipt of a complaint, an investigation shall be initiated. At a minimum, each investigation shall include the following:
> (1) A discussion with the complainant during which additional information may be gathered and specific allegations of noncompliance identified, verified, and recorded (emphasis added);

As happened in this case, the mandatory discussion between the investigator and the parent often results in a change to the allegations in the complaint, or the addition or subtraction of allegations. In this case, as indicated previously, the number of allegations expanded from four to eleven.

Also as indicated previously, on August 3, 2024, four days after the complaint was filed, the investigator sent an email to the parent and the special education director of the cooperative saying, "Based upon the written complaint and an interview with the mother, the following allegation(s) will be investigated (emphasis added)."

This communication was written notice to both parties of the issues to be addressed in the complaint. That communication listed eleven separate allegations, each of which were addressed in the report. If the parent believed that any of the issues identified in this notice were inaccurate she should have promptly notified the investigator instead of waiting until the investigation was completed and a report issued. In this appeal, the parent submitted no evidence that after receiving the revised list of issues to be investigated, she made any contact with the investigator about the accuracy of the issues she wanted to be addressed. Under that circumstance the Appeal Committee will not conclude that an issue identified by the investigator prior to the investigation, and reported in writing to both parties, was incorrectly described.

This interpretation is consistent with state regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) permitting the appeal of "findings or conclusions of a compliance report…" There is no appeal of issues that were not addressed in the report.

In addition, federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.152(a)(3) require that school districts be given the opportunity to respond to any complaint allegation. A school district is denied this opportunity when an allegation first arises in the appeal of a complaint report.

For all these reasons, the Appeal Committee concludes that issues one, two, nine, and ten in the complaint report, as the parent described them in this appeal, and none of which were in the initial complaint filed by the parent or addressed by the investigator, are not subject to appeal.

Because these issues were not addressed in the complaint report, the parent may submit them in a separate complaint. If these issues are submitted in a separate complaint, the Appeal Committee suggests that if, after the obligatory "discussion" between the parent and the investigator, there is any change to the issues exactly as stated by the parent, the parent provide written acknowledgement to the investigator that the change is, or is not, an accurate description of the parent's allegation.

With regard to Issue 10, the investigator correctly cited 34 C.F.R. 300.618 through 300.621 as the process for parents to challenge the accuracy of information in education records. The investigator's conclusion is correct with regard to the issue as stated in the investigator's correspondence with the parties. In this appeal, the parent states her real issue is not that the records are inaccurate. Her appeal clarifies that the issue she intended to allege is that that because of alleged false information in the draft IEP, she was denied meaningful parent participation in the IEP development process to the extent that her child was denied a free appropriate public education (FAPE). The Appeal Committee recognizes the distinction and agrees the parent may use this complaint process to present this allegation in a subsequent complaint. To be successful in such a complaint, the investigator must find that, (a) the specified information in the draft IEP was false; and (b) the false information in the IEP significantly impeded the parents opportunity to participate in the decision-making process or the false information in the IEP impeded the child's right to a free appropriate public education (FAPE).

That leaves only the appeal of the conclusion in Issue Eleven. That issue was stated in the report to be: Did USD #107 provide the parent a prior written notice (PWN) reporting IEP team decisions for the April 9, 2024 IEP annual meeting to the family prior to the annual IEP meeting?

In her appeal, the parent confirms that her complaint was that she was provided with the proposed changes to the IEP in the prior written notice (PWN), dated April 8, 2024, before the meeting that occurred on April 9, 2024. The parent alleges that this April 8, 2024 prior written notice amounted to predetermination of parts of the child's IEP and that it denied the parent's right to involvement in the decision of the IEP team.

With regard to this issue, the Committee notes that It is not a violation of law to provide parents with a draft PWN and a draft IEP proposing specific changes in an IEP before the IEP meeting is held. The office of special education programs (OSEP), which is the office in the United States Department of Education that writes the federal special education regulations, addressed this very question in its comments to the special education regulations, in the Federal Register, August 14, 2006, page 46691. In that document, OSEP responded to a comment suggesting that the regulations require the IEP meeting to occur before a prior written notice is given to the parents. OSEP replied:

> A public agency meets the requirements in Sec. 300.503 so long as the prior written notice is provided a reasonable time before the public agency implements the proposal (or > refusal) described in the notice. The commenter confuses the Act's prior written notice requirements with the requirements governing IEP Team meetings. Section 300.503(a), consistent with section 615(b)(3) of the Act, requires prior written notice whenever a public agency proposes to initiate or change (or refuses to initiate or change) the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of a child, or the provision of FAPE to a child. A public agency meets the requirements in Sec. 300.503 so long as the prior written notice is provided a reasonable time before the public agency implements the proposal (or refusal) described in the notice. A public agency is not required to convene an IEP Team meeting before it proposes a change in the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child, or the provision of FAPE to the child (emphasis added).

It is clear from this guidance that providing parents with a draft IEP and with an accompanying PWN, before an IEP meeting, each proposing changes to an IEP or refusing to adopt proposed changes to an IEP, is a common practice that is not, by itself, a violation of law. Rather, the requirement is that the parent be provided with a prior written notice of the IEP teams ultimate decision before the implementation of the proposal or refusal.

On pages 31 and 32 of the report, the investigator fully discussed the issue presented, including a discussion of an email from the district's attorney to the investigator stating that the initial prior written notice was discussed at the IEP team meeting. The team (including the parent) reviewed, discussed, and made changes to the draft IEP. The special education teacher led the parent and the team through the initial prior written notice. The special education teacher reviewed each section of the initial prior written notice and asked the other IEP members if there were any concerns. No concerns were identified and mother signed consent for the changes to the IEP. There is no evidence indicating that the district implemented any of the proposed changes in the PWN before presenting the proposals at the IEP meeting for consideration by the team.

The courts which have considered this matter have reached the same conclusion. See Nack v. Orange City Sch. Dist., 106 LRP 44290 (6th Cir. 2006), adding that predetermination is not synonymous with preparation and that the school may draft an IEP in advance as long as they are willing to listen to the parents and the parents have the opportunity to make objections and suggestions. The committee believes this interpretation also applies to a draft PWN that is discussed later at an IEP meeting.

The appeal committee finds nothing in the description provided to the investigator by either the parent or the special education teacher that is a violation of law. Team members can prepare for an IEP meeting by speaking with each other and developing a proposal that will be discussed at a later meeting, as long as a decision is not made until the team meets (See federal regulation, 34 C.F.R. 300.501(b)(3)).

The committee notes that the complaint report found a violation in Issue 11 for making two additions to the student's IEP without including these additions on a prior written notice. That conclusion was not contested in this appeal.

Conclusion

The Appeal Committee concludes that the complaint report is sustained in its entirety.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 19th day of September, 2024.

Background Information

This investigation involved a 4-year-old preschool Student enrolled at an elementary school in the District in their morning inclusive preschool classroom. The Student receives special education as a child with a disability under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). The Student was enrolled and screened for the four-year-old At-Risk Preschool Program on June 18, 2024. After the Student's initial screening, the Parent informed the School District that the Student had an IEP from the Student's Previous District. Upon reviewing the current IEP, dated April 9, 2024, it was noted that the Student did not demonstrate a need for special transportation. Therefore, transportation services were not required as a related service in the IEP. The Student was assigned a general education bus before school started.

Positions of the Parties

The Parent alleged that on August 13, 2024, the Student's IEP failed to be implemented at the beginning of the school year when specialized transportation was not provided to the Student on the first day of school. The Student was enrolled and screened for the four-year-old At-Risk Preschool Program on June 18, 2024. After the Student's initial screening, the Parent informed the School District that the Student had an IEP from the Student's Previous District. On the morning of August 13, 2024, the Parent contacted the Transportation Department, expressing concern that the special education bus did not arrive to pick up the Student. The Transportation Department confirmed the Student was not routed on special transportation and explained that several buses were delayed due to it being the first full day of school. The Transportation Department offered to send a bus for the Student, but the Parent declined transportation, choosing to transport the Student on their own.

The District acknowledged that the Student was enrolled and screened for the four- year-old At-Risk Preschool Program on June 18, 2024. After the initial screening, the Parent informed the District that the Student had an IEP from their Previous District. The District received records from the Previous District and shared them with the service providers on July 29, 2024. Upon reviewing the IEP dated April 9, 2024, it was noted that the Student did not demonstrate a need for special transportation. Therefore, transportation services were not required as a related service in the IEP. The Student was routed on a general education bus. The Elementary Special Education Coordinator noted that a consent to evaluate for transportation as a related service and sensory needs was signed on April 9, 2024, the day of the Student's eligibility in the Previous District. When reviewing both District calendars the District was within the 60 school day timeline for evaluation with 26 days remaining. The District continues to evaluate the need for special transportation as a related service by collecting data through September 3, 2024.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a documentation review and interviews with staff in the District.

1. The Student is four years old and attends the At-Risk Preschool Program at an elementary school.
2. The Student is eligible for special education under developmental delay and a receptive/expressive language disorder.
3. The Student's strengths are, "[The Student] is kind and quiet. … [The Student] is compliant to teacher directions when [they] want to be. … [The Student] enjoys playing with [their] siblings. … [The Student] enjoys playing with preferred peers and interacting with preferred adults. [The Student] loves anything crafty … and playing outside on the playground."
4. A Special Education Action dated April 9, 2024 indicated the Previous District proposed to conduct a reevaluation to consider "[W]hether any additions or modifications to the special education and related services are needed to enable your child to meet the measurable annual goals set out in the IEP of your child and to participate, as appropriate, in the general education curriculum."

   A Prior Written Notice from the Previous District dated April 9, 2024, indicated that the Student was eligible for special education services. The proposed action indicated, "[The Student] meets criteria for special education services and is demonstrating a need for specialized instruction. Speech and language services in the general education setting is proposed to work on social-communication skills within [the] preschool setting."
5. On April 9, 2024, an IEP meeting was held for the Student in the Previous District. Parent concerns included, "[The Student] will point to or get items if [the Student] is not understood. … [The Parent] mentioned [the Student] does demonstrate anxiety at home and are not sure how to support them." (D32) According to the IEP, Transportation Services indicated, "The [S]tudent does not require transportation as a related service."
6. According to the Director of Special Services, the Student was enrolled and screened for the At-Risk PreSchool Program on June 18, 2024. After the initial screening, the Parent informed the District that the Student had an IEP from their previous District. The records from the Previous District were shared with the current District's service providers on July 29, 2024.
7. The Student was "[E]nrolled in the School's morning inclusive preschool classroom as a Student with a disability, with a start date of August 13, 2024. Upon reviewing the current IEP, dated April 9, 2024, it was noted that [the Student] did not demonstrate a need for special transportation. Therefore, transportation services were not required as a related service in the IEP. Prior to school starting, [the Student] was routed on a general education bus, as all students in [the District] receive free transportation from their homes regardless of [sic] from school."

8. According to the Director of Special Services, "On the morning of August 13, 2024, [the Parent] contacted the transportation department, expressing concern that the special education bus did not arrive to pick up [the Student]. The transportation department confirmed that [the Student] was not routed on special transportation and explained that several buses were delayed due to it being the first full day of school. Transportation offered to send a bus for [the Student], but [the Parent] declined transportation, choosing instead to transport [the Student] on [their] own."
9. According to a Contact Log dated August 13, 2024, the Parent contacted the Director of Special Education, "I am writing to formally lodge a [C]omplaint against the transportation department of [the District]. My [Student] has an [IEP] that explicitly states that [they require] specialized transportation. However, on [their] first day of school, there was no bus available for [the Student], and we were told that we would have to transport [the Student] ourselves, with no reimbursement for our expenses or compensation for the time we would miss from work. I have previously dealt with the head of transportation, and I can attest to the fact that [they lack] basic customer service skills and does not seem to care about the needs of students."

   The Transportation Department indicated, "A bus was offered to come and pick [the Student] up. [The Parent] was abrasive and threatening. [The Parent] also would not allow any type of response from [the Transportation Workers]. … [A Transportation Worker] then terminated the call due [to the Parent's] intimidating threats and scare tactics."

   According to the Elementary Special Education Coordinator, on August 13, 2024, "Transportation called to offer to send a bus to pick [the Student] up, but [the Parent] refused to consider [sic]. I explained special transportation is not included on [the Student's] IEP or noted in [their] eval. [The Parent] said the school system amended the IEP to include [sic]. I explained we have nothing to indicate that the IEP was amended but there is a signed consent to evaluate for transportation that was signed on the same date as the initial eligibility meeting. [The Parent] said transportation should already be on it. I explained that [the Previous District] did not complete the evaluation before the end of the school year and that we are happy to pick up where [the Previous District] left off. I explained that we are still within the 60-school-day timeline for evaluation. The IEP clearly states it was not a need at the time of eligibility. I do not understand why they obtained consent, but we will consider [the Parent's] request for special transportation and respond through [Prior Written Notice] PWN. … Considering the [Previous District] school year calendar and [the District] school year calendar, we are within the 60-school-day timeline, as today marks day 34."
10. "[The Parent] contacted the Special Services Office and spoke with [the Elementary Special Education Coordinator] regarding [the Parent's] transportation concerns. [The Elementary Special Education Coordinator] explained that special transportation was not included on [the Student's] current IEP. [The Elementary Special Education Coordinator] did note that a consent to evaluate for transportation as a related service and sensory need was signed on April 9, 2024, the day of [the Student's] initial eligibility meeting in [their] previous District. Additionally, conference notes from the eligibility meeting indicated that a follow-up meeting was scheduled for April 26, 2024, to review data and determine the need for transportation as a related service."

11. On August 13, 2024, the Elementary Special Education Coordinator indicated, "However, during our meeting with [the Parent] today, [the Parent] reported that no [Team Meeting] occurred to determine the need for special transportation."
12. On August 13, 2024, a Notice of Meeting was sent to the Parent due to the Parent "requesting a meeting to consider special transportation as a related service. The Parent agreed to waive their right to a ten-day notice, according to the District. The Director of Special Services indicated, "[The Parent] was provided Procedural Safeguards and signed the Notice of Meeting. During the meeting, [the Parent] reported that no [T]eam [M]eeting had occurred in the previous [D]istrict on April 26, 2024. [The Parent] was provided the opportunity to share [their] concerns regarding [their] request for [the Student] to receive special transportation. [The Parent] stated [they] would like [the Student] to ride the special education bus because [the Student's] older [sibling] receives special transportation, and it would be a comfort to [the Student]. Due to the lack of data from [the Previous District] showing a need for special transportation, [the District] denied [the Parent's] request through Prior Written Notice." The Notice of Meeting indicated, "The IEP [T]eam will review information related to the evaluation for special transportation and consider [the Parent's] request for special transportation."

    "The [T]eam is continuing to evaluate the need for special transportation as a related service by collecting data through September 3, 2024. The [P]arent verbally agreed to meet on September 4, 2024, to review the data and determine the need for special transportation. [The District] will still be within the 60 school day timeline."
13. A PWN for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent dated August 13, 2024, indicated, "The [LEA] refuses to initiate or change the identification, educational placement, or provision of special education and related services as explained … . [The District] considered the request by [the Parent] to add special transportation as a related service to [the Student's] current special education services. [The District] is declining to add transportation as a related service at this time. General transportation has been offered and will continue to be offered for [the Student]."
14. The Parent was given the following documents on August 13, 2024, at the meeting to discuss Parent concerns:
    a. "Procedural Safeguards";
    b. "Signed Notice of Meeting";
    c. "Signed Conference Notes";
    d. "Prior Written Notice responding to [P]arent request for special transportation"; and
    e. "Notice of Meeting for September 4, 2024."

15. According to a Conference Form dated August 13, 2024, the Parent shared that it took a while to get the Student assessed at the Previous District. The Parent shared that they wanted special transportation to be provided and extended time to eat because the Student is a slow eater. The Parent indicated the Student did not have transportation at the Previous School last year because of an age requirement. The Parent would like the Student to ride the bus with the older sibling to help the Student get to school. The Parent feels the sibling would provide comfort to the Student due to the Student's anxiety.
16. According to the Previous District's 2023-24 School Calendar and the current District's 2024-25 Calendar, the District was within the 60-day timeline for assessment completion with 26 days remaining at the time of the file review.
17. The Complaint was filed on August 13, 2024.
18. According to the Director of Special Services, the School spoke with the Student's family when they came in for their at-risk screening over the summer. They stated that because the Student was in general education, any transportation information would have gone through the transportation department. "So whenever parents enroll, we ask them to enroll and ride. … I think it's called Ride 360. It's an online app that shares all of the transportation information and then they send that information out to parents."
19. The Special Services Coordinator said, "And I can tell you that the day that [the Student] came in for a [sic] preschool screening, I did not know that [they] had an IEP until right before [sic] parent left. [The Parent] said [the Student] went through the screening process for our at-risk preschool, and [the Parent] said … '… just so you know, [the Student] has an IEP.' And I said, 'oh … [they] did not have one the previous year before.' And [the Parent] said, 'yes, they wrote an IEP for [the Student] … .' … And I said, '… I haven't gotten any information.' [The Parent] said, 'well, I can send it to you.'

    The Special Services Coordinator recalled the Student came in on June 18, 2024 for their screening, and confirmed the Student had never previously attended the District before.
20. According to the Director of Special Services, since the Student was not assigned to specialized transportation under their IEP, the School had no direct contact with the Parent about special transportation. They stated the process for the Student's transportation was the same as that for general education students, following standard procedures before the school year began.

    The Special Services Coordinator said, "Nothing was said to me about transportation. Only that there was an IEP."
21. According to the Director of Special Services, "[The Parent] did speak with transportation and they offered to send a bus back around to get [the Student]. And [the Parent] ended that phone conversation and brought [the Student] to school [themself]. But … transportation was offered to come back and get [the Student] that day, and [the Parent] refused it."
22. The Director of Special Services said, "And I have not had any contact with [the Parent] at all until the morning that [they] had sent me the email that [they] had filed the complaint and then met [them] for the first time that afternoon in person." The Director of Special Services stated that when the Complaint was filed, the Special Services Coordinator spoke with the Parent several times that morning.

23. The Special Services Coordinator said, "It was the first day for our preschoolers. And as soon as I got into the office, I had notifications that [the Parent] was upset about transportation. … I pulled the child's file … it clearly said in the IEP that transportation was not a need for this child at the time. The evaluation report did not indicate that there was a need for this child. When I spoke with [the Parent], [they] said that they had amended the IEP … and added transportation. And I said, '… I don't see anything that shows that they amended the IEP regarding transportation.' [The Parent] said, 'well, I can send you the form.' So [the Parent] sent me a consent to evaluate that was actually signed on the date of the IEP meeting."
24. The Special Services Coordinator explained that when addressing concerns raised by the Parent, they proposed a meeting to discuss what would be most appropriate for the Student. They informed the Parent that a notice of meeting was required but offered to meet sooner if they were willing to waive their 10-day notice right, allowing the team to address the Parent's concerns and decide on next steps.
25. The Special Services Coordinator stated the Parent agreed to meet, but stated they were bringing an attorney with them. The Special Services Coordinator said they met with the Parent that day. The Special Services Coordinator stated that during the meeting they listened to the Parent's concerns and clarified that no special transportation had been added to the IEP. They reviewed conference notes from the Previous District, which indicated a meeting was supposed to take place on April 26, 2024 to review special transportation data. The Special Services Coordinator stated the Parent explained to them that the April 26th meeting was canceled because the Parent informed the Previous District that the Student was transferring to this School, which they believed would handle it. According to the Special Services Coordinator, the current School's team is in the process of collecting data to assess the need for special transportation.
26. The Special Services Coordinator stated in the interim, the Student has rode general transportation to and from school.

    According to the Special Services Coordinator, daily data has been collected on the Student's bus rides. They explained there was one incident where the Student had a disagreement with another child, but the bus driver separated their seats, resolving the issue. The Special Services Coordinator stated that reports from teachers and the bus driver have been positive, noting that the Student had excellent rides and no issues boarding or riding the bus.

Applicable Regulations and Conclusions

According to 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a),(c) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(3), each school district must make Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE) available to all eligible children beginning on their third birthday, and continuing until a reevaluation indicates the child is no longer eligible and the parents consent to termination of services. For children with disabilities, age 3 through 5, an Individualized Family Services Plan (IFSP) may serve as the Individualized Education Program (IEP) of the child if the school and parents agree. An IEP must be developed within 30 calendar days of a determination that the child needs special education and related services and must be implemented within 10 school days after written parent consent is granted for the services in the IEP or IFSP unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown. In addition, the school is required to ensure that an IEP or IFSP is in effect at the beginning of each school year for each child with an exceptionality.

The Student was eligible for special education as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). After the Student's initial screening on June 18, 2024, the Parent informed the District that the Student had an IEP from the Student's Previous District. The District received records from the Previous District and shared them with the service providers on July 29, 2024. Upon reviewing the IEP from April 9, 2024, it was noted that the Student did not demonstrate a need for special transportation. The Student was assigned a general education bus before school started, a free service for all students in the District.

According to the Director of Special Services, the process for the Student's transportation was the same as that for general education students, following standard procedures before the school year began.

According to the Director of Special Services, the Parent contacted the transportation department on the morning of August 13, 2024 and expressed concern that the special education bus did not arrive to pick up the Student. Transportation offered to send a bus to pick up the Student, but the Parent declined and chose to transport the Student on their own.

The Special Services Coordinator stated they listened to the Parent's concerns during a meeting held on August 13, 2024 and clarified that no special transportation had been added to the IEP. They reviewed conference notes from the Student's Previous District, which indicated a meeting was supposed to take place on April 26, 2024 to review special transportation data. The Special Services Coordinator stated the Parent explained to them that the April 26th meeting was canceled because the Parent informed the Previous District that the Student was transferring to this School, which the Parent believed would handle the services.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is unsubstantiated that the District failed to implement the Student's IEP. The IEP did not state the Student required transportation services at the time of eligibility. While an evaluation to consider transportation services was part of the IEP, a meeting between the Parent and the Student's Previous District to discuss the matter never took place, and the IEP was never amended.

Background Information

The student was a junior during the 2023-2024 school year where he was eligible for special education and related services under the category of Autism and Other Health Impaired because of a medical diagnosis of ADHD. During the 2023-2024 school year the Student had two IEPs in effect. The student received special education and related services for speech language and psychological services. The student is no longer enrolled as a student in the district.

This complaint addresses the district's obligation to provide related services to the parents and conduct a functional behavior assessment for the student.

Issues Investigated

1. Did the district offer parent counseling and training as a related service to the complainant or any other parents the complainant asked during the 2023-2024 school year?
2. Did the district develop appropriate services for the student's ADHD by conducting an FBA for work refusal or distraction during the 23-24 school year?

Issue One

Did the district offer parent counseling and training as a related service to the complainant or any other parents the complainant asked during the 2023-2024 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.34(c)(8)(i)(ii)(iii) and Kansas Regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-1(ww) define parent counseling and training' in three ways, 1) Assisting parents in understanding the special needs of their child; (2) providing parents with information about child development; and (3) helping parents to acquire the necessary skills that will allow them to support the implementation of their child's IEP or IFSP.

Issue One was both an individual complaint on behalf of the complainant/student and a systemic complaint. On August 23, 2024, the district responded in their response that parent counseling and training is considered and will be provided when students' needs require this related service. They further stated that they have not been informed of additional parents who were not offered parent counseling and training. The investigator requested that the complainant provide additional information to fully investigate the systemic complaint, and the parent replied on September 5, 2024, at 2:16 p.m. that "I reached out to these parents but have not heard back from them. You can just investigate for just myself." As such this issue will be investigated specifically to this child and additionally to determine if the procedures and practices are in place in the district to implement the regulation for other students in the district.

The Parent alleged that the district did not offer parent counseling and training as a related service to the complainant. She stated the district should have offered this service. "There has been nothing but a power struggle over [Student's] Education. I believe a lot of the disagreements could have been avoided if the 'TEAM' had worked with us and explained the reasoning of the way they wanted to do things. Instead, I was turned into DCF for interfering with my Boy's education. This was only information the school staff would know."

In a clarification of the complaint on September 5, 2024, at 2:16 p.m. the complainant wrote in an email, "I do not want anything regarding this complaint, I cannot go back in time. Had they offered parent support or training, perhaps the last year would not have been such a nightmare for our family. I guess more training would help." Further, "They made sure to put staff support in [student's] April 23/24 IEP. They didn't even offer any to the parent. The [special education director] asked if I wanted someone from Families Together to attend the IEP Meeting on April 9, 2024. That was the only thing ever offered."

The District responded that parent counseling and training must be included in an IEP when it is necessary for the student to receive a free and appropriate public education (FAPE). The IEP team did not identify parent counseling and training as a service required to provide the student FAPE in either IEP during the 2023-2024 school year. The district responded that several factors support the conclusion that parent counseling and training was not necessary. First, at the mother's request the student completed all of his work at school. Second, there was frequent communication between district/coop personnel about the student, including the student's mother providing regular feedback about various aspects of the student's schooling. Next, there was no indication that any behaviors were happening at home that would have triggered the need for the student's mother to receive assistance or training regarding how to handle them. In regard to district practices and procedures the coop and district state that parent counseling and training is considered and provided when students' needs require this related service.

The April 29, 2023 and April 9, 2024 IEPs do not include parent counseling and training as a supplementary service.

The parent wrote in an email to the investigator on September 15, 2024 at 10:01 p.m. "I feel it (not getting parent counseling or training) greatly impacted [student] receiving FAPE. The school chose to turn [student's] education into a power struggle, by doing this his needs were not met. I did not realize that parent training or counseling was something the school should offer until towards the end of the year. Had this been offered perhaps I could have explained my thoughts for [student's] needs in a different way so that everyone understood what my concerns were, not that I was interfering in his education."

The April 9, 2024 IEP staffing notes referenced a document written by the parent and appended to the April 9, 2024 IEP that referred to concerns about parent involvement. This document states, "We know that the DCF report came from the school, just by what was said in the report. If anyone has an issue with me holding the staff accountable, please let me know. This is [student's] future. When he is not provided the instruction to learn the skills he needs, It only lessens the chance for [student] to successfully live independently."

The district stated that the school-based IEP team has not considered recommending parent counseling or training because "the parent had a very good understanding of her child's needs and offered suggestions to school staff on accommodations and how to meet her child's needs. She presented information from various resources (doctors, therapists, previous services on IEPs, resources from websites regarding her child's disability) to the IEP team for their consideration and engaged in multiple conversations regarding programming and planning for services to meet the needs of her child. The team did not have any reason to believe that the parent required additional counseling or training in order to understand her child's disability or how it impacted him on a daily basis in the school environment and parent did not request parental counseling or training, so there was not any specific discussion about this topic during IEP meetings." As such, the district responded that the IEP team focused on the student's needs and developed a plan to meet his needs.

On September 3, 2024 at 11:38 a.m. in an email to the investigator the district responded to the question, Under what conditions or circumstances do you recommend parental counseling or training as a special education service, "Parents are provided detailed information regarding their child's disability in multidisciplinary evaluation reports which encompass summarizing testing results, eligibility criteria for the state of Kansas, impact of the child's disability on their academic achievement and performance, and recommendations for school supports/services. Parent counseling and/or training would be considered and/or recommended when consistency between home and school is necessary in order to provide appropriate programming and for the student to make progress on IEP goals. A non-exhaustive list of examples include: providing some instruction in American Sign Language if the student is hearing impaired, working with parents on how to utilize an FM trainer that the student uses at school or at home, training parents how to use different AAC devices for communication that the student uses at school or at home, providing cane training resources to assist a visually impaired student in her home and the community, and training parents to assist with generalization of skills in non-school environments. In addition, a team would consider parent counseling or training upon parent request."

Conclusion

There is no requirement in the IDEA that an IEP team offer everything that is available through special education. What is required is that the IEP team offer a free appropriate public education (FAPE). That is, the IEP team must offer only the special education and related services that the team believes the child needs. In this case, the evidence does not show that the parents needed assistance in understanding the special needs of their child, information about child development or skills to support the implementation of the student's IEP (34 C.F.R. §300.34(c)(8)(i)(ii)(iii)) and (K.A.R. 91-40-1(ww)). So, not offering parent counseling or training during the IEP meeting when there was nothing that indicated parent counseling or training was necessary in order for the child to make appropriate progress does not constitute a violation. According to the district they stated they would consider offering parent counseling or training if the parent requested the service, but no evidence was found that the parent specifically requested parent counseling or training.

As a part of interviewing the district about their practices and procedures for including parent counseling or training as a related service they stated that they do not routinely offer this related service for families of students with IEPs, but instead consider it on an individual basis when any one of the three conditions outlined in IDEA and Kansas regulation are identified with the IEP team.

Therefore, it is not substantiated that USD #107 did not offer parent counseling and training as a related service to the complainant or any other parents the complainant asked during the 2023-2024 school year.

Issue Two

Did the district develop appropriate services for the student's ADHD by not conducting an FBA for work refusal or distraction during the 23-24 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.304(c)(6) and (7) state that when evaluating a child with a disability under §§300.304 through 300.306, the evaluation must be sufficiently comprehensive to identify all of the child's special education and related services needs, whether or not commonly linked to the disability category in which the child has been classified, and further the assessment tools and strategies that provide relevant information that directly assists persons in determining the educational needs of the child are provided.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324 state that in developing each child's IEP, the IEP Team must consider the strengths of the child, the concerns of the parent for enhancing the education of their child, the results of the initial or most recent evaluation of the child, the academic, developmental, and functional needs of the child and in the case of a child whose behavior impedes the child's learning or that of others, consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address that behavior.

The Parent alleged that there are numerous emails that state the student had refused to work or was frequently distracted. There was no correspondence with parents about this issue, nor was an FBA suggested or completed. These emails "had a feeling" that the student was just being lazy rather than struggling with the work.

The District responded that the IEPs were developed with goals and accommodations to address work refusal and distraction associated with ADHD based on the ongoing assessment and the most current reevaluation, and therefore a functional behavior assessment was not needed.

The Multidisciplinary Team Report dated March 27, 2023, documented that the student' medical diagnosis of ADHD, predominantly inattentive type was confirmed during June 2020. The IEPs dated April 19, 2023 and April 9, 2024 indicate the student's secondary eligibility category of special education was other health impaired due to the ADHD.

The most recent Multidisciplinary Team Report, dated March 27, 2023 noted that there was evidence of a severe discrepancy between the performance in mathematics, communication, transition/student skills, and executive functioning. Additional comments in the report addressed not staying on task during English and math class observations. Suggested instructional strategies were noted throughout to maintain or regain attention to academic work. In the staff concern section, "figure out how to help get himself focused. He gets distracted by activities going on in the room and loses track of what he is working on. This often keeps him from getting his work completed in a timely fashion." was documented. The student's ability to complete work tasks appropriately and/or in a timely fashion was evaluated to be clinically elevated. The student's ability to begin an activity was clinically elevated as rated by the parent and one of three teachers. The student self-evaluated himself as "I often get distracted." And finds it hard to concentrate the whole time when sitting in a long class or meeting. And his mother stated he is inattentive. The special education and general education teachers completing the evaluation did not identify distractibility or work refusal as concerns.

The IEP dated April 19, 2023 listed staff concerns derived from the March 27, 2023 reevaluation as: when the student is off task and a teacher is trying to help him with strategies to get refocused, he views these prompts as "bugging him." His special education teacher stated she would like him to improve his focus and getting work done on time. The parent indicated that the work gets overwhelming and he needs assignments that match his learning style. "Formal cognitive testing found that it is possible his focus/attention to task may have led to the variance of cognitive testing scores." Functionally, it was noted that the primary weakness/concern for the student was figuring out how to get himself focused. The special education teacher stated, "he gets distracted by activities going on in the room and loses track of what he is working on. This often keeps him from getting his work completed in a timely fashion."

The April 9, 2024 IEP documented the following data collection to develop the annual IEP: input from classroom teachers and student, updated transition assessment, Fastbridge scores, the BRIEF 2 for executive functioning, parent concerns and strengths. The IEP indicates that two of the student's goals are impacted. First, the student's independent ability to focus and complete math activities, and implement executive functioning skills are impacted and will be met in the IEP through: general education supports, accommodations, modifications, supports for school personnel, assistive technology, supplementary aids and supports and positive behavioral supports.

The April 9, 2024 IEP included accommodations to address focus and work refusal, including alternate place to complete work, use of personal headphones (to improve focus during learning activities), a visual timer (to assist with task completion), planner (to assist with time management), breaking down assignments to daily task requirements (assist with time management), and checking for understanding (to ensure the student knows how to start assigned work).

The parent wrote in an email to the investigator on September 15, 2024, at 10:01 p.m. that there was never a discussion with the district about conducting an FBA for distraction or work refusal because the special education teacher "refused to correspond with me." The parent further wrote, "[student] was able to focus better in all of his classes, except for the classes in [special education teacher's] room. Which were Math, Study Skills and Social Skills. If an FBA would have been done, we could have narrowed down the issues he was having in these classes."

The parent stated in her email to the investigator dated September 15, 2024, at 10:01 p.m. that the student told his mother when asked about any accommodations or strategies that allowed the student to keep focus that, "really did not have any strategies to help him stay focused. He tried his headphones, but [special education teacher] had an issue with him taking too long to pick songs etc."

Conclusion

In determining if the district had an obligation to conduct an FBA for work refusal or distraction the investigation examined if the March 27, 2023, Multidisciplinary team evaluation was sufficiently comprehensive to develop an IEP for the student. Based on report and assessment used in preparation of the April 19, 2023 IEP and April 9, 2024 IEPs it is found that the two IEPs implemented during the 2023-2024 school year appropriately and adequately identified student strengths, parent concerns, incorporated most recent evaluation, assessment and did not indicate additional assessment was needed to address the work refusal and distraction. Therefore*, it is not substantiated* that USD #107 failed to conduct an FBA for work refusal or distraction during the 23-24 school year.

Background Information

This investigation involved a ninth-grade student who received homebound instruction in the District. The Student is currently eligible for special education or related services as a child with an Autism Spectrum Disorder disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). The Student has been on a homebound instruction plan since 2023 due to the disagreement between the District and the Parent about the appropriate placement. Homebound instruction was delivered in the morning during the 2023-24 school year.

The Student Services Director indicated in an interview that the Student had been with the District for three years and, during his first year, exhibited behavioral challenges that led to various placement changes, starting from the least restrictive environment (LRE) in a Special Education setting with inclusion to a more restrictive, self-contained setting. The escalating behavior, which included physical aggression, elopement, property destruction, disrobing, urination, throwing objects, physical contact with staff and students, and self-harm, ultimately led to homebound instruction toward the end of the Student's first year in the District. However, the Director of Student Services described that there had been significant progress with the homebound instruction and the Board-Certified Behavior Analyst (BCBA) Team's plan, and the Student is ready to return to a self-contained program in the District.

USD #469, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the Student's IEP at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year. 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3).

Positions of the Parties

The homebound instruction was executed in the morning during the 2023-24 school year. During the 2024-25 school year, the District sent an afternoon schedule as opposed to "the status quo," which interfered with the Student's afternoon therapy sessions. (Parent Complaint, August 27, 2024)

The District's position is that they attempted to provide homebound services under the Student's current IEP. The District acknowledged that due to internal miscommunication, the District did not send service providers to the home on the first two days of the school year. Since then, the District has attempted to provide services daily, but they have been denied access to the Student. (District Response, September 6, 2024)

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and District staff.

1. The Student is 13 years old, in 9th grade, and was scheduled to receive homebound instruction for the 2024-25 school year.
2. The Student is eligible for special education as a student with Autism.
3. On February 15, 2024, an IEP meeting indicated the Student had IEP goals for communication, motor, sensory, social-emotional, reading, math, and written language. The IEP also indicated:
    a. Student strengths indicated the Student used total communication to communicate their basic wants and needs. "The Student uses words, phrases, gestures, body language, and a speech-generated device (SGD) for communication. … When given a visual model, [the Student] is able to correctly copy numbers in regular lined paper … [The Student] is a joy to be around. [The Student] is a fun student and has high energy."
    b. Accommodations included visual models, access to a scribe, access to sensory strategies, decreased visual and auditory input, priming of upcoming transitions, access to prompts, manipulatives for math, and read-aloud supports.
    c. Support for school personnel included a team meeting every other week for 30 minutes, starting on 12/11/2023 and ending on 04/16/2024.
    d. Assistive technology included an AAC device provided weekly to the Student.
    e. The Educational Placement and Special Education Services section described the range of services tailored to the Student's specific challenges, including occupational therapy consultations to address self-regulation and fine motor skills impacted by sensory processing difficulties. For communication needs, the Student received both homebound and pull-out speech-language therapy. Due to significant behavior concerns and low academic skills, the Student received direct instruction in behavior, life skills, and academics. This instruction was provided both in a homebound setting and in a specialized educational setting, with varying frequencies and durations throughout the school year.
    f. The potential harmful effects included "time away from same-aged peers in this setting."
4. According to the Student Services Director, the Student's homebound instruction included three hours of daily instruction from a Special Education teacher and paraprofessional, with virtual support from a BCBA Team that utilized video recordings and headsets for real-time feedback and communication. One time each week, the Student received 30 minutes of speech-language services.
5. The Student did not receive a full day of services. The Student's services were "based on what [the Student's] tolerance and stamina are related to how long [the Student] can participate and engage in instruction."

6. The Student Services Director indicated that the IEP Team met to review and revise the Student's IEP on the following dates: August 17, 2023, October 27, 2023, December 11, 2023, January 12, 2024, and April 12, 2024.
7. A Teacher Log with a date range of June 3, 2024, through June 27, 2024, indicated the Student received ESY instruction in reading, writing, math, and behavior support on average for 3 hours a day for 14 days.
8. According to a Teacher Log with a date range of August 16, 2024 through September 5, 2024, the teacher went to the home to deliver instruction on 13 different days during the date range, arriving before 12:30 p.m. The Parents did not answer the door on any occasion.
9. According to a Response to Formal Complaint Letter dated September 6, 2024, the Director of Student Services indicated, "Due to [a] miscommunication internally, the [D]istrict did not send service providers on the first two days of the school year. August 14th was the first day of school at [the District High School] for freshmen only. School personnel have attempted to provide services every day since then and have been denied access to the [S]tudent."
10. In an interview, the Parent shared that the District maintained a homebound plan with a morning schedule for the Student throughout the summer. For the start of the 2024-25 school year, the District provided an afternoon schedule, which the Parents disagreed with, citing the Student's poor performance in the afternoon and therapy sessions that the Student needed to attend in the evening. The Parent indicated that they and their attorney had indicated that this schedule was unsuitable.
11. On August 9, 2024, the Parent's Attorney emailed the Director of Student Services and the Parent, "I have spoken with my clients, who have the following concerns":
    a. "Regarding the proposed 1-4 p.m time:"
        i. "[The Student] has [a] long[-]standing therapy appointment in the afternoon."
        ii. "[The Student] is at [their] best for academic learning in the morning."
        iii. "The proposed hours also affect after[-]school obligations and opportunities for [their sibling]."
    c. "The plan for addressing the 2500+ hours of lost education time." "Parents have shared their long-standing concerns about [the Student's] needs, including training of staff, interaction with peers, and accelerated times to address the education time lost. To that end, they are renewing their request for [the Student's] placement at [the Private Academy]. That placement provides the FAPE to which [the Student] is entitled and addresses both the educational hours deficit and provides additional support for critical staff training for delivery of [the Student's] FAPE."

12. The Student Services Director indicated that the time the School had available to serve the Student was from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m. and that last year, they provided services from 8:00 a.m. to 11:00 or 8:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. The paraprofessional they had scheduled for the afternoon time slot worked with the Student during the extended school year and knew the Student well, "… we've got our new teacher trained up as well. So we are ready, but they don't answer the door." The Student Services Director understood that the Parents had some schedule conflicts with the afternoon time slot. The Parents indicated that the Student has afternoon therapy services and their other child's activities may affect their availability. The Student Services Director mentioned that regarding the afternoon time slot, "We don't have another time available. So that is the time that we currently have available with the staffing that we have." The Attorney for the District added that the District has offered to provide services in the morning in the self-contained program, and the Parent had refused this option.
13. When asked about not answering the door when the teachers arrived at 1:00 p.m. to provide home instruction, one of the Parents indicated, "Yeah … [the Relative] has heard … somebody ring the bell." One of the Parents indicated that the Student is at home from 1:00 p.m. to 4:00 p.m.
14. The Parents shared in an interview that the Student has two therapy sessions in the afternoon on Mondays and Wednesdays, and tutoring for sign language on Tuesdays and Thursdays. The Parents shared that the therapies begin at 5:00 p.m., and they leave the house at "4:20ish." The Parents indicated that the Student does not do well in the afternoon, that the Student is excited and unfocused, and that having instruction in the afternoon until 4:00 p.m. and then going to therapies does not work for the Student.
15. On September 6, 2024, the Director of Student Services reported in a Response to Formal Complaint Letter, "the [D]istrict is following the [S]tudent's current plan. … The IEP [T]eam met on several occasions since the current plan was agreed upon, but [sic] new plan has been agreed to or consented to. … the [T]eam met on April 12, 2024." Meeting notes indicated the Parents refused to consent to the change offered in the plan.

According to 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), each school district must make FAPE available to all eligible children beginning on their third birthday and continuing until a revaluation indicates the Student is no longer eligible and the parents consent to termination of services. An IEP must be developed and implemented within ten school days after written parent consent is granted for the services in the IEP.

At the beginning of the 2024-25 school year, the District attempted to provide homebound instruction to the Student, in compliance with 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) and

K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3). The District's proposed afternoon instructional period conflicted with the Parents' preference for morning instruction and scheduled therapy appointments. The Student's IEP did not require special education services be provided in the Student's home in the afternoon. The scheduling of services is an administrative function of the District. District personnel reported being unable to access the Student during the scheduled afternoon sessions. Despite the disagreement between the Parents and the District on the scheduling of the instructional sessions, the District fulfilled its obligation to offer services in accordance with the Student's IEP.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to provide a FAPE to the Student.

Issue Two

USD #469, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to convene an IEP meeting and obtain parent participation before refusing parent-requested special education. 34 C.F.R 300.320 and K.A.R. 91-40-21.

Positions of the Parties

The Parents proposed an alternative placement at the Private Academy. According to the Parent, the District promised to discuss the Parent's proposed placement at an IEP meeting. The Parent alleged the District reached a decision to deny the placement before the IEP meeting convened. (Parent Complaint, August 27, 2024)

The District maintained that they adhered to the Student's existing IEP. Although the IEP Team met multiple times, most recently on April 12, 2024, no new plan had been agreed upon or consented to.(District Response, September 6, 2024)

1. According to meeting notes dated October 27, 2023, there was a discussion regarding the Student's reintegration into the school building. The Director of Student Services indicated they would send the data points to the Parent to give them an idea of how the integration plan was going. The Attorney for the Parent explained that the Team needed to be better about communicating, and the Parent "need to know about schedules and the process of integration."
2. A Prior Written Notice (PWN), dated February 13, 2024, indicated the Team met to review the special education and related services for the Student and the appropriate educational placement to provide special education and related services identified in the Student's IEP. "The IEP [T]eam proposes for [the Student] to begin in transition from homebound to receive services in a special education classroom. The [T]eam proposes a five-week transition plan starting with an hour in the building each day and increasing the time by 30 minutes each week. Homebound services would decrease weekly as special education classroom minutes increase until [the Student] attends for 3 hours in the special education classroom setting. Each week, the sum of minutes is the homebound and special education each day will equal 180 minutes."

3. In an interview, the Parent shared that the original transition plan involved gradually reintroducing the Student to the School through incremental visits. However, this plan was scrapped in favor of a direct transition to what the Parent described as "seclusion" in the School. The Parents and the private BCBA disagreed with this change, citing the previously agreed-upon plan. According to the Parent, the District remained firm on their decision, leading to a stalemate.
4. Staffing Notes dated April 12, 2024, indicated, "Proposed placement/services: remain receiving services in the homebound setting and change to services within the high school building in August. Discussion of [the Private Academy]."
5. The Parent described in an interview that the Student's doctor recommended "for [the Student] to be sent to an alternative placement, a private placement at [the Private Academy]. [The doctor] put that in writing, and we submitted that to the School and requested for them to send [the Student] to [the Private Academy]. And they said no, that they would not. They said initially that it'll be discussed by the IEP [T]eam during the IEP meeting. So we went to the IEP meeting … close to the end of the meeting, we asked, 'What about our request for private placement?' They said, 'Well … the [T]eam has decided against it.' And I asked them, 'Are the Parents part of the IEP [T]eam?' They say, 'Yes.' I say, 'So who and who decided against it.' They wouldn't answer me."
6. Regarding the discussion about the out-of-district placement, the Student Services Director recalled, "It was a proposal by the Parents to initiate just the conversation about the out-of-district placement at this … Academy. … Our proposal had been, we worked on it for a while … was for [the Student] to come back into our school environment because the data suggests that [the Student's] behavior is under control. We have instructional control, and so the data supports coming back into the School. … [The] prior written notices that we provided with the different proposals … there was like a five or six- week plan that we were going to increase [the Student's] time each week. It was to start out in the self-contained setting, and then we work our way to see how [the Student] transitions … . But the plan was to set up the School as close as possible to what the homebound looks like with just [the Student] and the staff working together because that was successful and the behavior was managed. … So we propose for that five, six-week plan to introduce [the Student] back into the school setting because the data shows that our homebound works and that we're ready for that next step, but they don't like starting out in the self-contained setting. So they brought that proposal for the out-of-district placement to us at our meeting in April."
7. A PWN dated April 22, 2024, indicated, "The [T]eam considered the least restrictive environment and potential harmful effects. The special education classroom is a less restrictive environment as compared to home bound [sic], but [the Student] will still have limited access to peers. Considering safety and helping [the Student] adjust to the new environment, limiting access to peers is important but necessary for now, but being in the school building will bring [the Student] closer to supervised, structured interactions with peers and ultimately being able to work toward transition back into special education and general education classroom and environments."

"The [T]eam will continue to review behavior data to determine the appropriate placement for [the Student] to receive special education services. The [T]eam will consider the continuum of special education services to include an alternative program outside of school district boundaries if the data indicates this level of service/support is needed and would consider and meet with [the Private Academy] at that time. The [T]eam will meet weekly to discuss behavior data and plan to incorporate inclusion opportunities into [the Student's] school day." The Parent did not consent to the special education placement specified in the PWN.

8. The Parent shared in an interview, "They're insisting on bringing [the Student], transitioning [the Student] back to school but to a seclusion in the high school, not even in the middle school. … we also rejected that idea. So we remained on the homebound plan, but they are not executing as expected."
9. The Student Services Director shared in an interview that "Our response is that we make data-based decisions, and our data suggests that [the Student] is ready for reentry into the School setting. If the data were to show differently that the behaviors were ramping up and we weren't successful, then we would be able to try that. But, we didn't have the data to support the need for an out-of-district alternative placement at this time. And also that we will consider that with the data to support it."
10. The Student Services Director believed that the Parents viewed the self- contained setting as "solitary confinement" and wanted their child to be included with peers as much as possible. The School explained the new High School's setup, which allowed for easy transitions between the self-contained setting and inclusion based on the Student's behavior.
11. The Parent indicated in an interview that they asked again about sending the Student to the Private Academy when they received the afternoon homebound schedule for the 2024-25 school year. According to the Parent, the School declined that option without reason. The Parent described that the first time the family asked about the out-of-district placement, the School indicated that they didn't know much about the program. According to the Parent, the second time they asked about the out-of-district placement, the School said that "they have similar services as [the Private Academy]." The Parent disagreed and indicated that at the Private Academy, the Student would not be in "seclusion."

According to 34 C.F.R 300.320 and K.A.R. 91-40-21, in determining the location of special education and related services, the IEP team must consider the continuum of educational placements necessary for the IEP. The school must ensure that each student's parents are members of any group that makes decisions on the educational placement of their child. The placement decision must be made in conformity with the requirement of providing services in the LRE. The educational placement is to be determined at least annually and based on the Student's IEP.

The District proposed a gradual reintegration plan from homebound instruction to classroom instruction at the School for the Student, starting with one hour in the School building and increasing incrementally, which demonstrated consideration for the LRE. The District issued PWNs detailing the proposed changes to the Student's placement and services, ensuring the Parent was informed and had an opportunity to participate in the decision-making process. The District's decision to transition the Student back to the school setting was based on data indicating improved behavior and instructional control, which aligned with the requirement to make placement decisions based on the Student's individual needs. Although the District ultimately rejected the Parent's request for an out-of-district placement at the Private Academy, they considered it and stated they would reconsider if data supported the need.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to involve the Parent in the decision-making process regarding the Student's placement.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 469
Lansing Public Schools: 25FC469-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on August 27, 2024, by -------- on behalf of his son, --------. In the remainder of this decision, -------- will be referred to as "the parent," and -------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on September 26, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there were no violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the parent filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the parent's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

From Parents

The report identified two issues: (1) the district failed to implement the student' IEP at the beginning of the 2024-2025 school year and (2) the district failed to convene an IEP meeting and obtain parent participation before refusing parent-requested special education.

The parent's appeal, in its entirety, states:

> I wish to submit my Notice of Appeal for the findings and conclusions indicated in the attached. The investigator failed to use the pieces of evidence we supplied and did not even mention them as part of this investigation. Page 2 of this report failed to mention video evidence that we provided. The investigator was made aware of the daily schedule of -------- to keep his morning educational routine as the School is not providing educational instructions, but that was not indicated in this report also. False reports to the DCF report by the school that was part to be part of this investigation is not mentioned anywhere in this report. With these reasons and more, I wish to file a Notice of Appeal.

The Appeal Committee has already noted, above, that Kansas regulations specify minimum requirements for appeal of a complaint report, namely: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect," and that the appeal process allows for an appeal of only the "findings and conclusions" in the report. A copy of this regulation was included in the complaint report sent to the parent, on pages 14-15 of the report.

Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function is to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report."

The Committee finds this appeal to be lacking the clarity required by K.A.R. 91-40-51(f), for the following reasons:

The appeal states:

1. The investigator failed to use the pieces of evidence we supplied and did not even mention them as part of this investigation.

The Committee finds that this portion of the notice of appeal fails to describe the evidence that was supplied, but not used, or relevance of such evidence to any finding or conclusion;

2. The report failed to mention video evidence that we provided.

The Committee finds that this portion of the notice of appeal fails to describe what video evidence was provided or how that evidence is relevant to the findings or conclusions in the report.

3. The investigator was made aware of the daily schedule of (the student) to keep his morning educational routine as the School is not providing educational instructions, but that was not indicated in this report.

The Committee finds that this portion of the notice of appeal is difficult to interpret, does not indicate which issue it addresses, and that it fails to describe how the omission of this information from the report is relevant to any of the findings or conclusions in the report.

4. False reports to the DCF by the school that was to be part of this investigation is not mentioned anywhere in this report.

The Committee reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent and found no reference to a DCF report. The Committee finds that the omission of information regarding DCF reports in the complaint report is not error.

The Committee has reviewed the report in its entirety and finds that sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 16th day of October, 2024.

The complaint is against USD # 469. In the remainder of the report, USD #469 will be referred to as "the district", "the local education agency (LEA)", or "the school".

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date in which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on September 3, 2024, and the 30-day timeline ends on October 3, 2024.

Evidence Reviewed

During the investigation, the Complaint Investigator, Gwen Beegle, reviewed all evidence and documentation, which was provided by both the district and the complainant(s). Because the parent alleged that the district had failed to provide required special education service time to other students in addition to the student in this case, a systemic inquiry into this issue was conducted to determine if the issue identified by the parent affected more children in the school. The parent was interviewed to clarify the complaint on September 3, 2024 and interviewed again on September 30, 2024.

Interviews with Tyler Hays (Assistant Principal), LaKrystal McKnight (Special Education Coordinator) and Jennifer Kolb (Principal) were held on September 10, 2024. Interviews with the prior year school staff held on September 10, 2024 included: Lori Geise (Special Education Case Manager), Nevada Runnebaum (Paraprofessional) and Emily Pendergras (Paraprofessional). Interviews with the current year teaching staff held on September 10, 2024 included: Brandi Lynn (Third Grade Teacher), Bishama Samuel (Paraprofessional), Geovanni Popoca (Special Education Case Manager), and Ellie Schwinn (Social Behavioral Skills Special Education Teacher). Background Information

The student attends the third grade at the district's elementary school where he receives special education services in special education and general education settings. The student was identified with Autism Spectrum Disorder with cognition in the average range, primarily due to language delays and stereotype language at three years of age. Having attended a Tiny K and the district's preschool program prior to transitioning to kindergarten in January, 2022, the student's current IEP includes goals in language development and social skills, with the majority of the school day in the general education third grade classroom. A behavior intervention plan, speech language therapy, extended school year (ESY) and transportation are included in the IEP.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

The USD # 469 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by providing the amount of special education and related services required by the student's IEP.

Because the allegation included the assertion of knowledge of this issue occurring in at least two grades in the school, the investigation included an inquiry into the lack of special education support in the general education classroom in the school.

Federal/State statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.39 defines special education as specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent to meet the unique needs of a child with a disability. Further 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) requires that the IEP include "a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child: (i) To advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; (ii) To be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum. . . and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and (iii) To be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children. "

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE (free appropriate public education) to a child who has or is suspected of having a disability. State regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3) require school districts to obtain parent consent before making a material change in services or a substantial change in placement. The Kansas Special Education Process Handbook clarifies a material change in services: "A change in the instructional methodology used to provide a service, even if the methodology is specified in an IEP, is not a material change in services. For example, a change to a strategy within a behavior intervention plan is a change in the instructional methodology, not a material change in services" (p.8).

The parent alleged that last year, a paraprofessional brought it to the parent's attention that the para often left the student in the general education setting in order to provide services to other children. The parent alleged that she inquired about the practice and found it to be in place this year, depriving her child of needed special education support in the general education classroom and support to be dismissed to the bus or car pick up line appropriately.

The district responded that it acknowledged that mistakes had been made, depriving the student of special education service minutes in the general education classroom. "General education inclusion service minutes are impacted when staff absences occur. The beginning of the current school year has had days where multiple staff members have been absent on the same day. . .. When this occurs, our current practice is to prioritize student safety and cover the students with the most intensive needs and shuffle/rearrange the schedules of available staff.

The district response continued: "The needs hierarchy is individualized, and takes into account each student's independence level and adaptive skills to navigate the school environment safely, and level of disruptive social-emotional behavior exhibited by the student. General education teachers are provided a log to track/log missed minutes; this log is shared with the student's case manager and building administrators. Then, special education case managers monitor student progress toward IEP goals. When the student's progress report indicates that the student has continued to make progress and/or achieved their goals, the team then uses this data to inform decisions about Least Restrictive Environment; the student may no longer need the same level of special education inclusion support, and placement changes can be made at that time per the IEP team discussion and decision and ultimate parent consent. If progress monitoring data indicates the student is not making progress toward their IEP goals, the student is then prioritized in the intensive needs hierarchy when staff absences occur and staff schedules are shuffled/rearranged. Regarding the student in question, a log of missed minutes is [provided] for the current school year. Additionally, [the student's] last progress report, dated 4/23/24, indicated [the student] continues to make adequate progress towards his IEP goals; the next progress report is due to parents on 10/16/24. The IEP team will review [the student's] progress and determine the best placement for services and LRE based on the results."

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the parent and staff in USD #469.

The student's IEP dated December 7, 2023 includes the following goals (in brief): (1) communicate seven communicative functions (e.g. request objects, request/direct actions, request assistance, request, recurrence, request cessation, ask questions, express opinions, inform, protest, complain, etc.), (2) to return a greeting with unfamiliar adults and students, and (3) demonstrate appropriate play skills, peer relations, cooperative learning and assertiveness. The student's behavior is supported by a positive behavior support plan and the IEP includes a functional behavior assessment. The student's IEP does not include reading goals, math goals, or health needs that impact his educational plan.

The student's IEP dated December 7, 2023 requires special education services in both the special and general education settings. In the special education setting (pullout): direct social skills instruction, 45 minutes, 5 days per week; attendant care for transitions, 10 minutes, 5 days per week; speech/language therapy, 20 minutes, 2 days per week, every 3 out of 4 weeks. In the general education setting (inclusion): electives (specials) 50 minutes, 5 days per week and inclusion in the classroom for social and behavior, 225 minutes, 5 days per week. The IEP also requires indirect speech/language consultation (15 minutes, every 4th week), assistive technology (speech generating device), special transportation and extended school year (ESY). Accommodations and modifications include a separate quiet setting for assignments, tests and assessments to process what is expected; access to a more restrictive setting, visual schedules, whole daily and individual task schedules.

The parents declined to send the student to ESY in the summer of 2024. The district emailed the Prior Written Notice (PWN) reflecting this service change to the parents dated June 24, 2024.

The district provided a summary of missed special education services in general education (inclusion) minutes as follows: August 19, 2024: 50 minutes. August 20-23, 2024: 50 minutes. August 26-29, 2024: left blank. September 3, 2024: 105 minutes.

The student's schedule, cross referenced with the paraprofessional absence schedule (through September 10, 2024) showed that the paraprofessional assigned to the student's third grade classroom was absent on August 19 and September 3, 2024. The paraprofessional assigned to assist the student for dismissal at the end of the day (3:00-3:10 p.m.) was not listed as absent; however, during interviews with the district, the district acknowledged that a different (new) paraprofessional had failed to properly dismiss the student at least one time since the beginning of the current school year.

In an interview with the current teaching team, the paraprofessional and case manager stated that the paraprofessional had been pulled several times to cover more intensive need classrooms and students since the beginning of the current school year. The investigator inquired to determine the extent to which this occurred in two ways. First, in the interview, the paraprofessional estimated that it had happened a few times each week since the beginning of school. Second, with a follow up email dated September 23, 2024 with a chart cross referencing all paraprofessional absences with the paraprofessional assigned to the student's general education setting. At times, the paraprofessional's services in the third grade classroom were replaced by other special education staff. The district reported that the paraprofessional who supported the student in the third grade was pulled away or was absent on the following dates resulting in lost special education support for the student, as follows:

August 8 (225 minutes), August 19 (85 minutes), August 21 (50 minutes), August 22 (50 minutes), August 23 (50 minutes), August 29 (145 minutes), August 30 (15 minutes), and September 3, 2024 (105 minutes) for a total of 725 minutes. On four days (August 22, August 23, August 26, and August 27, 2024), the teacher noted on the service log that an uncertain amount of in-class support was missed.

Conclusion

In summary, extensive paraprofessional absences and policy procedures followed by the district resulted in removing special education services from the student in the third grade setting. It is noted that the district's policy prioritizes student safety and that the district has taken actions to ameliorate service interruption due to staff absences.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD # 469 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individual with Disabilities Act (IDEA), failed to provide the amount of special education and related services required by the students' IEPs in the school, specifically in the kindergarten and third grade.

Systemic Inquiry

The USD # 469 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individual with Disabilities Act (IDEA), failed to provide the amount of special education and related services required by the students' IEPs in the school, specifically in the kindergarten and third grade.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The parent alleged that other students in the school were also affected by the lack of paraprofessional support in general education classes. The parent alleged that she had learned this through speaking with school staff persons and that the problem of lack of support in general education classes was school-wide.

The district responded: "Staff attendance and depth of the hiring pool, especially for paraeducators, has been a challenge for the district for the past few years as it has been for most districts across the state. To ensure that we are still able to meet the needs and required IEP minutes for all students, job postings for paraeducator positions are always available and accepting new applicants. Building administrators schedule interviews weekly when new applicants become available. Since the first day of school, five new paraeducators have been hired to join the team at Lansing Elementary school (LES)." The district also responded that the Elementary Special Education Coordinator "focused on a multi-year plan to provide consistent support and build structural systems in the areas of resources for teaching and learning, collaboration amongst general education and special education, training and professional development, and finally overall systems of support and processes."

The district also responded, "we have prioritized working to increase our special education staffing as well as provide them with resources. . . to provide additional training and support for our current paraprofessionals." The district listed the following steps: (a) Registered Behavior Technician (RBT) training for current paraprofessionals and RBT contracting with outside agencies (b) adding a full time Board Certified Behavior Analyst primarily supporting the elementary building students and staff, (c) having floater staff (.50 FTE) to cover absences (d) having a lead paraprofessional at the building to provide training and to cover absences (e) supporting a Paraprofessional PLC for training and support, and (f) holding weekly administrative meetings to discuss any concerns related to special education to work together to address problems collaboratively.

The district summarized its response by saying, "In conclusion, this complaint implies that we have a systematic flaw in implementing student IEPs by not providing the amount of special education and related services required by the student's IEPs as regulated by the Individuals with Disabilities Act (IDEA) and state and federal guidelines. Lansing USD 469 refutes this claim based on the evidence provided . . . We do recognize that student inclusion minutes are not provided when staff absences reduce the building's support staff to student ratio, however, as outlined in this response, we have district practices in place to monitor and adjust to meet the needs of all special education students."

Interviews with district administrators along with the district's response show that the district policy is to pull paraprofessional staff from providing services in the general classroom when needed to cover intensive need classrooms or ensure student safety in the building.

Interviews with district administrators and the district's response to the allegations stated that five paraprofessionals were hired since the beginning of the year. The district submitted evidence of paraprofessional assignments schoolwide. The district reported policy and practices to provide adequate special education services according to students IEPs, including a regular hiring process, a half time "floater" position, a lead para to provide training and coverage for absences, quarterly paraprofessional training, a classroom-based tracking system for missed minutes, and weekly administrative review of service provision in the school. Interviews with school personnel showed awareness of the staff reallocation/paraprofessional substitute policy based on need and paraprofessional skill as well as the implementation of the service tracking system reported by the district.

In a follow up email dated September 25, 2024, the district reported, "All of our paras are not able to work in higher needs programs (SLC and/or SBS) due to the intensity of the programs and various health needs, so we have specific staff members we utilize when absences in these programs cause us to shift our supports." One interrelated resource para is pulled from general education support services to cover other absences, the Para Lead is not assigned service minutes but serves as a floater and trainer, and one para serves only as an SLC substitute on a half time basis. Based on all the paraprofessional absences till September 13, 2024 when the evidence was submitted, there were 49 days of absences during which the school would have needed to cover paraprofessional services in the school.

Using a paraprofessional absence chart showing the 49 absence days the district was asked to provide a list of additional students affected by the paraprofessional substitute policy, focused on when a para was pulled from the general education classroom to provide services elsewhere in the school. The district reported that four students lost a total of 2 hours of special education services due to the policy, as follows: Student 1 (60 minutes), Student 2 (60 minutes), Student 3 (30 minutes) and Student 4 (30 minutes).

Conclusion

In summary, the district's policy appears to accept failure to provide general education support services when absences require the reallocation of staff in the school. The district acknowledged that four additional students were affected. It is noted that the school has put into place additional strategies that minimize the effect of staff absences since the beginning of the school year.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD #469 failed to provide the amount of special education and related services required by the students' IEPs in the school (systemic inquiry).

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) was found, based on reported absences of special education staff in the student's third grade classroom. Corrective action is required (as follows):

        i. By November 1, 2024, USD #469 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2 which require that the district implement the student's IEP.
        ii. By November 1, 2024, USD #469 shall offer the parents 725 minutes of compensatory education directed toward assisting the student to make progress on IEP goals or in the general education curriculum. The parents shall have till November 15, 2024 to accept all, some, or none of the compensatory education offered by the district. The district shall provide the parents prior written notice regarding the compensatory education offer and parental reply by November 30, 2024.

iii. By November 1, 2024, USD #469 shall provide training to any and all paraprofessionals who have responsibility for dismissing the student.

iv. By November 30, 2024, USD#469 will provide documentation of completion of 1(a)ii and 1(a)iii to SETS.

2. Systemic Inquiry: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) was found, based on the loss of 120 minutes of special education services by four students in addition to the student. Corrective action is required (as follows):

a. CORRECTIVE ACTION:

i. By November 1, 2024, USD #469 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2 which require that the district implement all students' IEPs in the building by providing the special education support services in general education classrooms regardless of staff absences.

ii. By November 30, 2024, USD #469 shall revise as necessary the staff reallocation/para substitute policy in light of the corrective action in order to provide special education services in general education classes in the school as required by student IEPs, and the district shall submit the revised policy to SETS for approval. USD # 469 may contact TASN to request assistance in revising this policy.

iii. By November 1, 2024, USD #469 shall notify the parents of the four additional students that service minutes were missed, offer to meet with the parents, and provide an offer of equivalent compensatory service minutes to those missed by the students due to the staff reallocation/para substitute policy, directed toward assisting the students to make progress on IEP goals or in the general education curriculum. The parents shall have till November 15, 2024 to accept all, some, or none of the compensatory education offered by the district. The district shall provide the parents prior written notice regarding the compensatory education offer and parental reply by November 30, 2024.

iv. By November 30, 2024, USD#469 will provide documentation of completion of 2(a)ii and 2(a)iii to SETS.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.org The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;

(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;

(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or

(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 469
Lansing Public Schools: 25FC469-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on September 3, 2024 by _____ on behalf of her son,_____. In the remainder of this decision, _____ will be referred to as "the parent," and ____ will be referred to as "the student." _____ is the father of_____, and in the remainder of the report will be referred to as "the father." Together, _____and _____ will be referred to as "the parents." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on October 3, 2024. That Complaint Report concluded that there were violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the district's notice of appeal, and the parent's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

The Committee also notes that the Kansas regulation, cited above, permits appeal of the "findings or conclusions" of a complaint report. it does not permit an appeal of the corrective actions specified in a report.

The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The basis for this appeal is summarized in the second paragraph of the districts appeal, as follows: "Compensatory services are required to remedy for learning gaps due to missed educational opportunities. There is no data supporting a learning gap, therefore there was no denial of FAPE. There is no evidence of a decline in progress toward IEP goals, and the students continue to have access to the general education curriculum."

The investigator's findings and conclusions are summarized in the report, under the title: "CONCLUSION," as follows:

> In summary, extensive paraprofessional absences and policy procedures followed by the district resulted in removing special education services from the student in the third grade setting. It is noted that the district's policy prioritizes student safety and that the district has taken actions to ameliorate service interruption due to staff absences (emphasis added).

This appeal does not object to this or any other finding or conclusion of the investigator. Rather, it objects to the corrective action ordered in the report. The Appeal Committee has no legal authority to set aside corrective action ordered by an investigator when it can locate no error in any fact or conclusion, as is the case here.

A Kansas complaint investigator has discretion to withhold an order for compensatory services upon a finding that missed services did not interfere with a student's progress in the general education curriculum and/or the student's progress toward IEP goals. When a district asserts that missed services did not adversely affect a student's progress, it should provide clear and convincing evidence to that effect to the investigator so that the investigator can make findings and conclusions on that assertion. There is nothing in the report or the appeal that indicates the district made any such assertion or produced any evidence that supported any such assertion. The Appeal Committee notes, however, the investigator's summary statement (under the heading "CONCLUSION" that "extensive paraprofessional absences and policy procedures followed by the district resulted in removing special education services from the student in the third grade setting."

The Appeal Committee agrees with this conclusion that the district's failure to provide services was extensive. Moreover, the district's assertions in this appeal, that the student remained successful in the classroom and so was not adversely affected by the missed services, is not supported by any direct evidence provided in the district's appeal.

The district also stated, in its appeal that:

> "Finally, the complaint report extends past 12 months in reference to instances that occurred when the student was in kindergarten; this exceeds the formal complaint time frame."

The Appeal Committee notes that the investigator concluded that the there was a substantiated a violation "specifically in the kindergarten and third grade." The Appeal Committee finds that including kindergarten in that conclusion was improper. Therefore, the word "kindergarten" in this conclusion, shall, by operation of this decision, be removed as part of the investigation report. this does not affect the corrective action specified in the report.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the word "kindergarten" is removed from the conclusion portion of the Complaint Report. Otherwise, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 30th day of October, 2024.

Background Information

The complainant is a graduate of USD #490. Though not a resident of the district, he reports that he has family members who are currently served by or employed by USD #490. While able to identify family members who have interacted with district staff regarding preschool services, the complainant told the investigator in a telephone call on September 16, 2024 that he does not personally know the names of individual students whose circumstances he has addressed in his complaint. Rather, he has become aware of these situations through conversations with his wife and other staff members. The complainant provided contact information for those individuals as well as for a family member with a preschool-aged child.

The website for the district includes a section entitled "Preschool Programs" (https://www.usd490.org/pagepreschool-programs) which states that the district offers > "…half day preschool programs at [three elementary school sites]… taught by certified, high-quality teachers who provide a solid educational and social foundation for children to learn in a developmentally appropriate setting. Children attend a half-day preschool program, either in morning or afternoon sessions, at their residence elementary school."

In addition to Early Childhood Special Education preschool classrooms that serve students who have been determined eligible for special education support, the district offers two other preschool options. These general education options fall under the supervision of the superintendent and members of her staff.

- Role Models: "Role Model" students are – according to the superintendent – children who demonstrate age appropriate skills and are enrolled in Early Childhood Special Education preschool classrooms. Applicants for these slots must have a completed application on file and must complete screening using the ASQ (ASQ: SE-2 and ASQ-3), developmental and social-emotional screening tools for children from birth to 6 years. They must be 3 years old on or before February 28 of the current year and no older than 5 years old on or after August 31 of the current year. A "Try Out" for the program is required and students must live in the district. These try outs are conducted in the Spring for positions in August and again in the late Fall for openings in January. Approval during try out is based on the following factors:
    - The date of Application, school of residence, and the availability of openings; and
    - screening in the areas of language, speech, motor, social, self-help, and pre-academic skills.
- Pre-Kindergarten Program: Children applying for this program must be 3 years old on or before August 31 of the current year and no older than 5 years old on or after August 31 of the current year. Students must live in the district. Application approval is based on the date of application and "boundary school," in addition to the following "Qualifying Factors" which mirror the "At-Risk" criteria established under the 2024-5 Preschool-Aged At-Risk Program Requirements established by the Kansas State Department of Education. These factors include:
    - Eligible for food assistance;
    - Single-parent family;
    - Limited English Proficiency;
    - Either parent lacking high school diploma or GED;
    - Teen parent when child was born;
    - Agency referral;
    - Concern for developmental delays based on screening results; and
    - Child qualifies for migrant or transitional housing status.

Applicants are required to meet at least one of these criteria in order to be considered eligible under the "at-risk" category.

Pre-Kindergarten classrooms are located in district elementary schools. These programs are funded through at-risk funds from the State of Kansas and through a Kansas Preschool Pilot (KPP) grant which establishes criteria regarding the classrooms. The adult-to-child ratio for the Pre-Kindergarten classrooms must be no more than 1:10 at all times, with a classroom size not to exceed 20 students, although districts may request a waiver for unique circumstances that lead to class size exceeding 20 students. The district currently maintains a maximum class size of 15 students for each of the Pre-Kindergarten classrooms.

According to the grant application submitted by the district, the Pre-Kindergarten classrooms serve both at-risk and not at-risk students. Across the three district programs, the ratio of at-risk to not at-risk students cannot at any time include more not at-risk students than students who are designated as at-risk.

Applications for the Role Models and Pre-Kindergarten preschool programs are, according to the district website, available at any school or district administrative office or online. Parents are also asked to provide the child's birth certificate and immunization record.

As noted on the application form, a child's application is considered "completed" only when the paper application has been submitted and the two required ASQ screening questionnaires have been finalized. If parents submit only an application without the ASQ forms, the child is placed on an "ASQ needed" list where the date the paper application was received is shown. Parents are subsequently notified that completed ASQs are needed in order to finalize the application process.

As stated on the district website,

> "Submitting an application/interest form does not guarantee admittance. [Applicants] will be placed per review of district policies and qualifying factors set forth by the Kansas State Board of Education."

Once a child's application is complete, he or she is either given a slot in a Pre-Kindergarten classroom or his/her name is placed on a waiting list which is maintained by the district and is used when filling vacancies in the Pre-Kindergarten programs. Children on the waiting list fall into two categories:

- students who meet criteria to be considered at-risk, and
- students who are not at-risk.

Vacancies are filled by the district in a manner that maintains a ratio of at-risk to non-at-risk students whereby no more than half of the Pre-Kindergarten class roster across the district is made up of not at-risk students. Classes are generally full at the start of the school year. As vacancies occur, the superintendent or her staff determines whether the vacancy is for an at-risk or not at-risk position. A child from the appropriate cohort is selected for enrollment based on the date his/her application was considered to be completed.

Issues

The United States Code – a consolidation and codification by subject matter of the general and permanent laws of the United States prepared by the Office of the Law Revision Counsel of the United States House of Representatives - cover a wide range of areas beyond education including such topics as National Park services, Patents, Highways, Banks and Banking, and Navigable Waters. The complainant asserts that the district's actions in the case of Student A are representative of systemic violations of Title 20 of these laws – those related to education.

Title 20 includes 80 chapters addressing a broad range of education-related subjects including the National Zoo, Foreign and Exchange Students, and the Education of Individuals with Disabilities. Sections 1412 and 1414 (referenced by the complainant) establish standards regarding how States are deemed eligible to receive federal assistance for the provision of services to students with disabilities. To receive such support, the state of Kansas is required to provide assurances that policies and procedures are in effect to ensure that the State meets requirements in a number of areas.

The complainant asserts that the district has violated four elements of Title 20:

1) Denial of FAPE (free appropriate public education): 20 USC 1412(a)(1);
2) Violation of Least Restrictive Environment (LRE): 20 USC 1412(a)(5):
3) Failure to Fulfill Child Find Obligations: 20 USC 1412(a)(3); and
4) Violation of IEP requirements: 20 USC 1414(d).

The State has complied with requirements to provide Title 20 assurances and has developed regulations associated with the four areas identified by the complainant. In his complaint, the complainant does not assert that the State has failed to provide assurances that it is complying with these four elements. Rather, the complainant asserts that the district has violated special education laws regarding the implementation of statutes and regulations established by the State with regard to each of these areas. Relevant state statutes and regulations will be cited below as each of these areas is addressed later in this report.

In his complaint, the complainant alleges multiple violations of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) regarding the provision of services to preschool-aged children with disabilities. Specifically, the complainant asserts that the superintendent for the district and the district's administration have taken actions that delay the provision of special education services to children aged 3 to 5 years in order to manipulate grant requirements and funding structures to the benefit of the district. According to the complainant, the superintendent has stated that children who qualify for special education services (specifically speech therapy) are being denied access to the district's preschool program despite there being available openings. The complainant asserts that the superintendent has stated that these students do not qualify as "at-risk" for the program if they are receiving special education services, and that the reclassification has had an impact on the funding the district receives from the State.

The complainant contends that parents are being forced to choose between enrolling their child in the preschool without accessing needed special education services or receiving "walk-in" speech therapy without the benefit of full preschool participation.

The complainant cites the case of one particular child who was determined eligible for speech therapy under an IEP who was denied a spot in the district's preschool program where openings existed because the superintendent stated that "receiving special education services makes the child ineligible to be counted as "at-risk." When asked if the student could potentially receive services later in the year while enrolled in the preschool program, the superintendent is alleged to have replied that "it was not a count day issue, but due to KPP grant assurances that run the length of the year." Therefore, according to the complainant, the family had to decide between preschool enrollment with no special education services or "walk-in" speech with no preschool participation for this year and potentially next year depending upon at-risk numbers, enrollment, and available openings.

Issue One

Denial of FAPE

Complainant's Position Regarding a Denial of FAPE:

The complainant asserts that the district is denying students their right to FAPE by refusing to provide special education services in a timely manner and forcing parents to choose between receiving necessary services or enrolling in preschool. The complainant contends that this is a violation of IDEA because FAPE must be provided to all children with disabilities, regardless of their classification as "at-risk."

Applicable Statutes and Regulations Regarding FAPE:

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.101, require states to ensure that a free appropriate public education (FAPE) is made available to all children with disabilities residing within the state. Accordingly, Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-2(b)(1) require that each school district makes FAPE available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction. The regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.17, define FAPE, in part, as special education and related services provided in conformity with an IEP.

An IEP must be developed within 30 calendar days of a determination that the child needs special education and related services and must be implemented within 10 school days after written parent consent is granted for the services in the IEP unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown. It is important to keep in mind the requirements of IEP development and implementation of the IEP are both part of the 60 school day timeline of initial evaluation (K.S.A. 72-3429(a)(1); K.A.R. 91-40-8(h), (i); K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(1)–(3); K.A.R. 91-40-16(c); 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a), (c)).

Investigative Findings Regarding the Denial of FAPE:

The complainant did not – in either his written complaint or in a subsequent telephone call with the investigator – name any specific child who had been denied FAPE by the district. Rather, the complainant referenced a written statement in an email exchange between the superintendent and the complainant's wife wherein the superintendent stated that in certain situations parents would be asked to choose between having their child (who had been determined eligible for special education support) participate in a district preschool program

OR having their child receive special education services. The complainant wrote that if the parent opted to have the student participate in the preschool program, the IEP proposed for the student would not be implemented, thereby denying the student FAPE.

The complainant referred the investigator to his wife, a speech/language pathologist employed by the Interlocal to provide services in the school district. When the investigator spoke by telephone with the complainant's wife, she identified one student (Student A) who had been evaluated and determined eligible for speech language support. It was this student who had been the subject of email exchanges between the complainant's wife and the superintendent which contained the statement referenced by the complainant.

The paper application for Student A to participate in the Pre-Kindergarten program was submitted by the parent on May 17, 2024. The application did not, however, include completed ASQ forms. An email was sent to the parents on May 21, 2024 to let them know the application was considered incomplete. In mid-July, staff contacted the parents to let them know that Student A's application remained incomplete. The parents submitted completed ASQ forms on July 30, 2024.

Student A's name was added to the waiting list for the Pre-Kindergarten as a "not at-risk" student. On the paper application form, the parent noted possible communication and adaptive delays, but none of Student A's scores on the ASQ fell at level 3 ("further assessment with a professional may be needed").

The student participated in the district Child Find process and demonstrated problems in the area of speech sound production. On August 23, 2024, the parents of Student A provided written consent for an evaluation to determine his eligibility for special education services. That evaluation was completed, and an eligibility meeting was held on September 6, 2024. Following eligibility determination, an IEP was proposed. The mother of Student A told the team that she wanted to discuss recommendations with her husband and said she would get back to staff with a decision soon.

The parents of Student A gave written consent for the student to be provided special education services under the district's proposed IEP on the same day this complaint was filed (September 10, 2024). The superintendent contacted Student A's mother on September 13, 2024 to discuss Pre-Kindergarten program options – including enrollment in a preschool program with an opening for a not at-risk student.

The student's mother told the superintendent that she preferred that the student participate in the program at the school Student A's siblings were attending. Because there were no "not at-risk" vacancies in the program at the preferred school, Student A's mother opted to have him put on the waiting list for a future opening for not at-risk students in her preferred school.

Walk-in speech services for the student were initiated on September 23, 2024, less than 10 school days after consent for services was given by the parents.

In a telephone conversation with the investigator on September 27, 2024, the mother of Student A reported that after only three speech sessions, she had already seen improvements in her son's articulation skills.

Neither the complainant's wife nor a school psychologist with whom the investigator spoke could identify any other student whose parents had been asked to choose between receiving special education services or participating in a district-sponsored preschool program. In a telephone conversation with the investigator on September 17, 2024, the complainant's wife stated that this situation was a "one off" – the first time she had been told that parents would be required to make such a choice.

Summary and Conclusions Regarding the Denial of FAPE

This investigation did not uncover any evidence of a systemic denial of FAPE by the district. Neither the complainant nor any other individual to whom the investigator was referred by the complainant identified more than one child who may have been denied FAPE.

When facts associated with that identified student were investigated, the investigator determined that the district had followed legal requirements regarding his evaluation and subsequent placement in special education services. The written email statement by the superintendent (which will be discussed in greater detail below with regard to LRE and Placement) in no way impacted the decision of the parent with regard to the provision of special education services to Student A nor the decision by the parent to have the student remain on a waiting list for the preschool program at the parent's preferred school.

A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Issue Two

Least Restrictive Environment (LRE)

Complainant's Position Regarding LRE

The district is not placing children in the least restrictive environment. By denying preschool enrollment to children solely based on their eligibility for special education services, the district is preventing the children from being educated alongside their typically developing peers in an inclusive setting.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations Regarding LRE and Relevant Grant Information

The Kansas Preschool Pilot Grant provides a funding opportunity for districts to provide preschool services to children who are considered to be at risk of entering Kindergarten socially, emotionally, or academically unprepared for success. The school district applied for and received a KPP grant for the 2024-25 school year.

At-risk criteria for the KPP grant include

"1. Poverty – Qualifies for free or reduced-price meals under the National School Lunch Program on September 20, 2024 (family income is less than 185% of the Federal Poverty Level).

2. Single Parent families – Custodial parent is unmarried on the first day of school.

3. Children in foster care, custodial grandparents/kinship care, or out of home placement, or children who have been referred by the Department for Children and Families – Child is in foster care, custodial grandparents/kinship care, or out of home placement at the time of enrollment. For children referred by DCF, the reason for referral must describe the need for the child to attend the Pre-K program or receive the early childhood service and be documented and signed by the DCF agent.

4. Teen parents – At least one parent was a teenager (19 or younger) when the child was born.

5. Either parent is lacking a high school diploma or GED – At least one parent is lacking a high school diploma or GED on the first day of school.

6. Limited English Proficiency – Documentation that the student qualifies for bilingual weighting and ESOL services must be provided. Forms must be in the child's file…

7. Lower than expected developmental progress in at least one of the following areas: cognitive development; physical development; communication/literacy; social emotional/behavior; adaptive behavior/self-help skills – Based on appropriate and valid assessment results, the developmental progress of the child has been determined by a trained professional to be lower than typically expected for his/her chronological age, yet above what would be considered eligible for special education services (based on the procedural manual and guidance materials of specific assessment instruments). Scores that fall at or below the 40th percentile indicate 'at-risk'.

8. Child qualifying for migrant status – Copy of Certificate of Eligibility must be on file.

9. Children who experience chronic or episodic homelessness – Residence of homeless student while homeless must be completed in the KIDS Collection System as determined by local educational liaison.

10. Children lacking health insurance – At the time of enrollment, the child has no health insurance coverage."

The guidelines require children to meet one or more of the above criteria in order to be considered "at-risk."

Having an IEP neither automatically conveys at-risk status nor precludes a student from being considered at-risk. Page 7 of a document entitled Kansas Preschool Pilot (KPP) Grant Requirements and Application contains the following statement:

> "[School districts who apply for this grant] should prioritize services for children most at-risk of entering kindergarten socially, emotionally, or academically unprepared for success. At a minimum, 50% of students served using Kansas Preschool Pilot grant funds must meet one or more of the at-risk criteria…A student with a disability who also meets an at-risk criterion may be included as an at-risk student when determining that 50% of students served by the Kansas Preschool Pilot meet an at-risk criterion" (emphasis added).

As noted in Chapter 6 of the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook:

> "For preschool children ages 3-5 with disabilities, placement and LRE requirements are the same as for school-aged children (K.A.R. 91-40-21(b)(c)). This means that preschool children with disabilities are to have a continuum of placement options available and have the right to be educated with their peers without disabilities to the maximum extent appropriate. As with school-aged children, the needs of preschoolers are to be considered individually. The individual needs of the child would determine the most appropriate setting for services to be provided. Most preschoolers benefit from placement in a preschool program with typically developing peers.
>
> School districts that do not operate programs for preschool children without disabilities are not required to initiate general education programs solely to satisfy the LRE requirements. However, various educational placement options are possible, both within the community and at the school. School districts that do not operate early childhood programs for children without disabilities may seek alternative means to provide inclusive options for young children through collaborative relationships with private preschool programs or other community-based settings. The key question for the IEP Team to consider is where this child would be if the child did not have a disability. The full continuum of placement options at K.A.R. 91-40-21(b), including integrated placement options with typically developing peers, must be available to preschool children with disabilities. Examples include Head Start, community-based preschools (may be in churches, whether or not religiously affiliated), child care centers or family child care homes, mothers'-day-out programs, Title I programs, at-risk 4- year-old preschools, migrant or bilingual programs, Even Start, play groups, and other such early childhood programs. If a preschool child with a disability is already attending a general education preschool program, the IEP team should consider whether special education and related services can be provided in that setting with the use of supplementary aids and services, or supports for school personnel (Federal Register, August 14, 2006, p. 46589)."

Investigative Findings Regarding LRE

The district offers preschool programs for at-risk students in three elementary schools in the district. Two classrooms at Blackmore Elementary serve 3-year-olds in the morning and 4-year-olds in the afternoon. Grandview Elementary houses one classroom where 4-year-olds are served in morning or afternoon sessions. Skelly Elementary is the site of one classroom where 4-year-olds are served in the morning and 3-year-olds are served in the afternoon. The district is responsible for staffing and overseeing these programs.

The district has established a procedure for families to apply for acceptance into the KPP supported at-risk preschool program. Applicants must complete a paper application and submit two developmental screening forms before an application is considered to be completed. Applications are reviewed by the superintendent and her staff to determine whether a child meets at-risk criteria. Children are accepted into the program based upon the date of their completed application and slots are filled in a manner that maintains a balance of no more than 50% not at-risk enrollment. Once a base level of openings has been filled – typically no more than 15 students per class – remaining applicants are placed on a waiting list for future openings and flagged as at-risk or not at-risk. As of September 27, 2024, the ratio of at-risk to not at-risk students across all three site locations was 60% at-risk and 40% not at-risk.

On May 17, 2024, the parent of Student A completed a paper application for the student to participate in the district's Pre-Kindergarten program. When completing the application, the parent noted that she was concerned that her son was demonstrating lower than expected developmental progress in the areas of communication/literacy and adaptive behavior/self-help skills. No other at-risk criteria were cited by the parent.

The initial paper application was not accompanied by the required developmental screenings. Those requirements were not completed until July 30, 2024 at which time the student's application was considered completed and his name was added to the wait list for openings in the KPP program.

Student A was, on August 23, 2024, evaluated to determine his eligibility for special education services. An eligibility meeting for Student A was held on September 6, 2024. At that meeting, the team determined that Student A did not demonstrate overall developmental delays in any area including adaptive/self-help skills or language development that would warrant early childhood special education intervention. However, Student A did evidence significant delays with regard to the production of speech sounds. The team recommended that he receive direct speech therapy. According to his evaluation and eligibility report, "services [could] be provided if he attends the 3-year-old preschool classroom or on a walk-in appointment basis."

The student no longer could be considered "at-risk" because of a developmental delay because – as stated in the KPP criteria – his speech deficit fell low enough to qualify for special education services under an IEP (criteria #7). Student A evidenced none of the other at-risk criteria. He could, however, continue to be listed on the wait list as a "not at-risk" student.

At the time the student was being considered for an opening in the program, 48% of the students in the KPP preschool were "not at-risk" while 52% were "at-risk." Three of the students who were already enrolled in the preschool class were being evaluated for special education – an action that could lead to them being re-categorized as "not at-risk." Additionally, 7 other students who were attending classes did not yet have documentation of eligibility under their lunch status (criteria #1). The possibility remained that some of these students would have to move to "not at-risk" status. If any of these students were moved to not at-risk status, that action would mean a longer wait for Student A to enter the program as a not at-risk student since the already enrolled students would not be removed from the program.

The team presented a "draft IEP" to the parent of Student A on September 6, 2024 proposing the provision of 30 minutes per week of speech services. The parent told the team that she wanted to speak to her husband about the services and would get back to the team with a decision within a few days.

Following the eligibility meeting, the speech/language pathologist (the complainant's wife) and the Director of Instructional Supports exchanged a series of emails regarding placement of the student in a KPP program. On Friday, September 6, 2024, the speech/language pathologist wrote the director stating that the student qualified for "speech only" support. The speech/language pathologist wrote that the eligibility team had discussed with the parent of Student A the option of enrollment of the student in an afternoon preschool program at Skelly (an elementary school that is the site of one of the KPP preschool programs) or "walk-in speech at Blackmore [another elementary school where another KPP classroom is located]." The Director of Instructional Supports responded that there were no openings for the student in the Skelly program and the student would "need to stay on [the] waitlist." The director also stated that Student A would "need to receive walk-in services at [Blackmore]. Please contact the mom and let her know."

The speech/language pathologist wrote back to the director, including the school psychologist, building principal for Blackmore, and an Assistant Director for the Interlocal. The pathologist asked

> "Can you explain why there is not space for him when they're sitting at 7 out of 10 students and his application was submitted in May [the date the student's paper application was received minus the developmental screening information]? Some of the other students listed on that same class roster submitted applications in August? Also, [the school psychologist] has an email dated from 8/23/24 when our team initially emailed about [Student A], and at that time you said you there was a spot."

The director responded

> "This has to do with grant funding for the KPP, and the associated count day and audit paperwork. Because of [Student A's] classification, he cannot be counted under at risk numbers and would have to be paid for under KPP. It all comes down to where we are in relation to the threshold, and right now we are not in a position to allow another not at risk acceptance at this time. That is why the waiting list is used. If the balance shifts, that could change at a later date.
> Additionally, I have located the email in question. My statement on the 23rd was only that he was on the waitlist pending evaluation results. No placement was guaranteed. We have to be very careful with state-provided grant funding and we cannot surpass the mandated threshold."

The speech/language pathologist responded

> "I guess it confuses me as to why he wasn't already offered a spot, since his preschool application was submitted on 5/17/24, and all other students currently placed in that 3-year-old program are dated from 6/12/24 and later? I know his Child Find was in May, but his evaluation could've taken place while he was already in school this August.
> Since we just had a student in green (that KPP covers) move to a role model spot at Blackmore, could [Student A] take that spot instead? Wouldn't the numbers be the same for funding?"

The school psychologist included on the email chain responded that she too was confused about the situation. The Director of Instruction suggested that the group meet in person the following Friday to discuss the issue.

On September 9, 2024, the speech/language pathologist sent an email to the superintendent stating

> "I spoke with [the assistant director of the Interlocal assigned to work with this district] on the phone this afternoon. I asked her a question that she wanted me to clarify with you about [Student A] before I call his mother. If she decides to decline the speech IEP so that he may attend Skelly, can he be monitored and receive RTI and eventually be picked up after count day? Or do I need to tell her that he can be monitored and receive RTI this year, and we can look at a speech IEP placement before next year if it is still needed?"

The superintendent responded on September 9, 2024, writing

> "It's not count day that is the concern- it's our grant assurances that run the length of the school year. We have to maintain assurances as an At Risk preschool program. He would count as at risk with no sped services – sped services would make him ineligible to be counted as at risk. We can't offer him a preschool spot when he is a non-at risk student on an iep- that is the conflict.
>
> His parents would have to decide between preschool enrollment with no sped services or walk in speech with no preschool for at least this year and possibly next year depending on at risk numbers, spots, and enrollment."

The speech/language pathologist wrote back asking

> "Based on that information, does that mean moving forward throughout this year that any other students that may need services in those rooms can also not be identified due to the grant assurances that run through the length of the year? I just want to make sure I'm understanding correctly, as I already have speech referrals and I believe the [speech pathologists from other schools] do as well."

The superintendent responded

> "Any preschooler could qualify for speech services anytime throughout the year, but the parents would need to make a decision about which supports to engage: either Speech with SpEd (ie. walk in) and no more At Risk programs (ie. give up spot in preschool) or no SpEd program supports but keep spot in the preschool At Risk program."

In a telephone call with the investigator on September 17, 2024, the speech/language pathologist stated that this statement from the superintendent represented what the pathologist considered to be a new position. According to the pathologist, she was not aware of any other family having been asked to choose between enrolling their child in preschool or having that child receive special education services.

The parent gave written consent on September 10, 2024 for the student to receive speech services. In a telephone conversation with the investigator on September 27, 2024, Student A's mother reported that the superintendent, in a telephone call with the parent on September 13, 2024, had told her that there was an opening for Student A in the preschool program at Skelly. According to the parent, the superintendent offered two speech service options for Student A: one 30-minute session per week at Blackmore (the walk-in option) or two 15-minute sessions per week if the student enrolled at Skelly.

According to both the superintendent and the parent, the parent opted for the student to participate in walk-in speech services, did not want to have the student attend the Pre-Kindergarten classroom at Skelly, and preferred to have him remain on the waiting list for the Blackmore classroom located in the same school attended by Student A's siblings. The student began receiving speech/language services on September 23, 2024. The student has – based on the decision of his mother – remained on the waiting list for the parent's preferred school (Blackmore). Another student, whose application was completed after the application for Student A was finalized, was placed in the KPP program at Skelly, the position that would have gone to Student A had his mother allowed him to be enrolled there.

As of September 27, 2024, eight of the students being served in the KPP preschool programs were receiving speech services. Three other students in these programs have been referred for additional speech screening. Five of the 8 students currently receiving speech support also demonstrate another at-risk factor but are not currently being counted as "at-risk" for the KPP class roster.

There is no evidence to show that any student enrolled in the KPP preschool program has been removed from that program if he/she was determined to be eligible for speech support.

No evidence was found to show that the evaluation of a child has been delayed in order to preserve his/her status as "at risk."

Summary and Conclusions Related to LRE

Despite written email statements from the superintendent to the wife of the complainant, there is no evidence of any systemic action on the part of the district to require the parents of prospective preschool students to make a choice between enrolling their child in a district KPP program with no special education services or having their child receive special education speech support. Further, there is no evidence to show that students have been removed from a preschool program they were attending if they were subsequently determined to be eligible for and in need of special education speech services. Currently, there are a number of students who are receiving speech services while concurrently being enrolled in the district KPP preschool.

A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

It should be noted, however, that while this investigation did not identify a current violation regarding LRE, a violation would have been substantiated had the district acted in accordance with the written email statement made by the superintendent on September 9, 2024 that Student A's parents would > "have to decide between preschool enrollment with no sped services or walk in speech with no preschool [because the district] can't offer him a preschool spot when he is a non-at risk student on an iep – that is the conflict."

In an email to the State Preschool Programs Consultant for the Early Childhood Department of the Kansas State Department of Education dated September 13, 2024, the superintendent wrote

> "Just to clarify: We have 15 total spots in each of our PreK program classrooms- all funded by KPP. I understand that we could offer [a] spot to [Student A]- however, doing so while the student also receives SpEd services would either throw our current KPP 50/50 ratios or take a classroom spot from another At Risk student. This is the immediate concern. Last year during our audit, we had to drop many SpEd students from our KPP roster because of their "not at risk" factor status changes to SpEd. This changed our ratio with remaining KPP students (almost voiding the assurances) and ended up tying up many of our spots that should have been for At Risk students."

In a conference call with the investigator on September 27, 2024, the superintendent continued to assert that a child who was being served under an IEP could not be counted as at-risk if they demonstrated another at-risk factor unrelated to the developmental delay that led to the student being served under an IEP.

The district cannot ask the parent to choose between having the student attend the preschool program without special education support OR having the student continue to receive walk-in speech services at the same school. Rather, Student A's IEP should continue to be implemented while the student also participates in the preschool program.

State funding requirements can be complicated. A school district cannot collect funding under both the IDEA and the Preschool-Aged At-Risk slots that are available. However, children with disabilities must have an equal opportunity to participate in at-risk classrooms, even though they cannot participate in this preschool aged at-risk source of funding. For that reason, a district might try to avoid putting special education students in their at-risk classrooms. That practice would result in an LRE violation because the school has made placement decisions for funding reasons, and not based on an IEP team decision that is addressing each student's individual needs.

Additional Issue

While the complainant did not specifically call out federal regulations at 34. C.F.R. 300.110, it became clear during the course of this investigation that this regulation is central to the facts of this complaint.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.110, state that school districts must make the same variety of educational programs and services that are available to general education students, also available to special education students. This federal regulation is the IDEA's counterpart to the Section 504 regulation at 34 C.F.R. 104.4 which says that no qualified handicapped person shall, on the basis of handicap, be excluded from participation in, be denied the benefits of, or otherwise be subjected to discrimination under any program or activity which receives federal financial assistance.

34 C.F.R. 300.110 requires that when schools are filling at-risk program slots, decisions must be made in a neutral way so the children with disabilities are neither excluded from the at-risk classrooms nor given an unfair disadvantage in being selected.

This means that the fact that a child has an IEP cannot, by itself, be used to deny that child an equal opportunity to participate in any program or service available to nondisabled children. It also means that a district cannot interpret state guidance to allow it to deny a child with a disability an equal opportunity to participate in any program or service available to nondisabled students.

When we say a district cannot "interpret "indicator 7 in a way that places an extra burden on a child with a disability, what does that mean? An example might be a child with a disability who attends preschool for three hours a day to get special education and related services and only appears to qualify as at-risk under factor 7. That child could be placed in the non-at-risk group due to having an IEP. That would not be a disadvantage for that student because that student would not have to choose either speech services or pre-school. The student would receive services as a non-at-risk student and would not take up any at-risk funding, regardless of the ratio the district uses to fill its at-risk slots. What a district can't do is to interpret indicator 7 in a way that makes it more difficult for a child with a disability to participate in pre-school, which may be more likely to occur when the child's IEP consists of only 30 minutes of speech services per week.

This provision in 300.110 in the federal regulations makes no exception for how district programs are funded. When funding and the right of children with disabilities to participate in public school programs clash, the participation rights of children with disabilities must prevail.

In the case of this district, acceptance into the KPP program is determined in a manner that maintains an equal balance of at-risk and not at-risk students. A balanced classroom roster is developed before the start of the school year with students being selected for enrollment from these two categories based on the date their completed application was received. Applicants who were not selected for participation in the program before the start of the school year are put on a waiting list – divided into two categories in order of application date. As vacancies occur throughout the school year, waiting list students are moved into the program based upon the nature of the vacancy – at-risk or not at-risk.

The district continues to accept into the Preschool program students with an IEP whom they have categorized as "not at-risk." Student A was placed on the waiting list as a not at-risk student based on criteria established for the KPP program. Should an opening for a not at-risk student arise at Student A's parents' preferred school for which Student A was eligible based on the completion date for his application, Student A will be enrolled in the KPP program without regard for the fact that he has an IEP.

The enrollment criteria adopted by a district should be applied in a neutral manner to fill all available slots. The fact that a child has an IEP should not affect the selection of students for the at-risk classrooms, positively or negatively. The fact that a child has an IEP should not put a child at the front or the back of the line, it should, instead, be a nonfactor. That means when a district sets its criteria for a student to qualify for an at-risk program that criteria cannot include the fact that a child has an IEP.

In the case of this district, children are placed in the preschool based on a "first come, first served" basis, looking at the date the child's application for the program was finalized, and are identified for enrollment in a manner that keeps a 50/50 balance of at-risk to not at-risk. If a not at-risk vacancy arises and Student A is next in line to fill such a vacancy, he should fill it, regardless of the fact he has an IEP.

At the time this report was completed, there was no opening in the parent's preferred school for Student A to fill. Should an opening arise in that preferred school, another child could still fill that vacancy ahead of Student A if that child's completed application had been received prior to the date Student A's completed application had been received. His status as a student with an IEP would neither disadvantage him nor give him priority in the process.

If the ratio of at-risk to not at-risk students in this program changes in a manner that reflects an imbalance between these two categories whereby more at-risk students are placed than not at-risk students, the fact that this student is considered not at-risk because he has an IEP could result in a violation. However, at this time, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Through the course of this investigation, it became evident that there is confusion among staff as to how a student with a speech only IEP is to be managed with regard to his/her participation in the KPP preschool program. There also appears to be confusion as to where such students stand on the waiting list for entry into these programs. The superintendent remains reluctant based on her past experience with the audit process to count as "at-risk" on the KPP roster those students with IEPs who demonstrate additional at-risk qualifying criteria. The superintendent is encouraged to seek out additional direction from the Early Childhood division of the Kansas State Department of Education in this regard.

While no corrective actions are required in response to this complaint, training for staff is strongly encouraged in order to ensure that there is a clear understanding as to how to proceed should another student with similar circumstances to Student A be identified.

Issue Three

Child Find

Complainant's Position

The complainant asserts that the district has a duty to identify, locate, and evaluate all children who may have disabilities. It is the position of the complainant that delaying evaluations and services, or denying services based on grant funding requirements, violates the Child Find provision of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

A formal complaint must allege that a violation of special education laws has occurred within the twelve-month period prior to the date the complaint is received (K.A.R. 91-40-51(b)(1)).

At K.A.R. 91-40-7, Kansas statutes establish requirements regarding "child find." Districts are required to adopt and implement policies and procedures to > "identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in [their] jurisdiction…[P]olicies and procedures under this regulation shall include age-appropriate screening procedures that meet the following requirements:

>
> (1) For children younger than five years of age, observations, instruments, measures, and techniques that disclose any potential disabilities or developmental delays that indicate a need for evaluation, including hearing and vision screening…
> Each board, at least annually, shall provide information to the public concerning the availability of special education services for exceptional children, including child find activities conducted by the board.

Programs are required to ensure each child receives a valid, reliable developmental screening. The tool must be approved by KSDE, and programs must share results with the child's family. Programs may determine whether children receive screenings prior to the start of the school year or once school begins. Students who enroll after the beginning of the school year must receive a screening within 90 days of enrollment. KSDE recommends but does not require that the program select the ASQ:3 and ASQ:SE-2 developmental and social-emotional screenings for preschool-aged students.

Investigative Findings

Child Find screenings are conducted monthly at the three elementary school locations that house the district's KPP funded preschool programs. The district website at https://www.usd490.org/pagepreschool-programs states that > "[the district] also offers early childhood special education classes at [three] elementary schools to qualifying children ages three to five. The [interlocal] offers free Child Find developmental screenings for infants and preschool children throughout the school year. The purpose of the screening is to help parents identify potential learning problems and find help.

>
> If your child has difficulty walking, talking, seeing, hearing, or learning, please call the Special Education office… to schedule a free appointment.
> If you have developmental concerns about an infant or toddler (0-3 years), please call Rainbows of Butler County at 316-320-1342.
> Please note that Child Find screenings are by appointment only."

As a part of the application process for participation in the district's KPP preschool program, parents are asked to complete ASQ developmental screening questionnaires regarding their child. These ASQs are reviewed by the superintendent and her staff. If these questionnaires yield results that show that further assessment may be needed, parents are provided information regarding the Child Find screenings. If the majority of the areas on the ASQ suggest that the child may need further assessment, the ASQ data and parent information is forwarded to a school psychologist for follow-up and possible special education evaluation to determine eligibility and need for special education services.

Information regarding Child Find screenings is shared with the district's KPP-related Task Force.

Referrals from outside agencies that come through the Interlocal are also funneled through the Child Find process.

The complainant did not – in either his written complaint or during a telephone call with the investigator on September 16, 2024 – identify any specific instances when the district had failed in its child find responsibilities. Instead, he referred the investigator to others who he felt could provide that information. These individuals included the complainant's wife, a school psychologist, and the complainant's sister.

In a telephone call on September 27, 2024, the investigator spoke with the sister of the complainant regarding her son, hereafter referred to as Student B. According to Student B's mother, he has a diagnosis of Autism. While the parent stated that she had called the district about having her son enrolled in the Pre-Kindergarten (KPP) program, the district has no record of a paper application for the student nor any other application-related documentation.

Student B's mother told the investigator that she did receive a call from the Interlocal and that Student B was evaluated, but she reports that no one from the district has contacted her about the preschool classroom.

Records show that the student was evaluated on September 6, 2024. The parent reports that the Interlocal staff clearly explained the evaluation process. She acknowledged that staff spoke with her about services for the student. According to the parent, she did not feel comfortable having the student start school "late" and opted not to move ahead with the process.

The parent stated that she was disappointed that no one from the district contacted her about the district's (general education KPP) preschool program, noting that she would have been "open to any school."

In a telephone call on September 27, 2024, the school psychologist was asked by the investigator whether she knew of students who had been missed by the preschool-level Child Find process. The school psychologist identified one student who is now in first grade and is receiving services under an IEP. The school psychologist stated that the student – who was also referenced by the complainant's wife during a telephone call with the investigator – experienced problems shortly after the start of his Kindergarten year. It is the opinion of both the school psychologist and the complainant's wife that this student should have been identified earlier. However, this student would have gone through the preschool child find process more than two years ago, well outside the 12-month period prior to the date this complaint was received. The case of this student was not investigated.

The school psychologist spoke about another student who went through the process last year at age 3 and was identified as needing special education services but the parent opted not to place the student in services offered in a school outside the student's area of attendance.

Summary and Conclusions Regarding Child Find

The district and Interlocal have policies and procedures in place related to Child Find. No specific evidence was provided by the complainant or those individuals contacted by the investigator to show that the district or Interlocal have failed in their Child Find responsibilities. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Issue Four

Violation of IEP Requirements

Complainant's Position Regarding IEP Requirements

The complainant asserts that children with IEPs are legally entitled to receive all services outlined in their IEPs. It is the complainant's position that the district's refusal to allow preschool attendance unless the parents opt out of special education services violates this legal requirement because the child's IEP should be implemented in a manner that provides both educational opportunities and the necessary support services.

Investigative Findings, Summary, and Conclusions Regarding IEP Requirements:

As shown above under Issue Two, evidence has not been found in the course of this investigation to show that the IEP for Student A has not been implemented. In fact, the student is currently receiving walk-in speech and language support, and Student A's mother feels that he is making progress.

Neither the complainant nor any other individual to whom the investigator spoke have identified any other student whose parents have agreed to the provision of special education services but whose IEP has not been implemented. The only examples provided are students whose parents have declined to complete the identification/eligibility process or declined proposed services.

A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has not substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations on an issue presented in this complaint. Therefore, no corrective actions are warranted.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 490,
El Dorado Public Schools: 25FC490-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on September 10, 2025, by ------- on behalf of unnamed children. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the complainant," and the unnamed students will be referred to as "the students." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on October 4, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there were no violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the complainant filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint, the Complaint Report, the complainant's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

The complainant is not the parent of any child connected with this complaint. Due to confidentiality requirements, the complainant will be advised only that the Committee has met and issued a decision on this matter, but will not be given a copy of the decision nor advised of the content of the decision.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

From Complainant

The report identified four issues: (1) Denial of FAPE; (2) Least Restrictive Environment violation; (3) Child Find violation, and (4) IEP implementation violation.

Only Issue 2 is being appealed. The appeal states:

> "My appeal specifically addresses the findings related to the least restrictive environment LRE mandate, which, I believe, was not fully substantiated in the initial investigation."

In explanation, the complainant states:

> "Basis for Appeal:
> The investigation found no systemic violation of the LRE mandate but acknowledged that a violation would have been substantiated had the district acted in accordance with the written e-mail statements made by the Superintendent, Ms. Jennifer Davis, on September 9, 2024. The superintendent's statements indicate a misunderstanding of the LRE requirements, suggesting that parents must choose between enrolling their child in the district's preschool program or receiving special education services, such as speech therapy, which directly contradicts federal regulations under the individuals with disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and Kansas special education process handbook."

The investigator wrote a 28 page report which included a detailed analysis of the pre-kindergarten "At-Risk" program, how district officials interpret the participation requirements of that program, and how the district actually selected students to participate in that program.

The investigator found a discrepancy in how the district interpreted the participation rules and how participation was actually calculated. This is an important distinction because the complaint regulations, at K.A.R. 91-40-51(a)(1) state that a complaint "shall" include a "statement that the agency has violated a requirement of state or federal special education laws or regulations (emphasis added). In other words, it is not enough to allege that a district has misstated or misunderstood a legal requirement sufficiently to presume a violation has occurred or is likely to occur. To be actionable, the complaint must allege that a district "has violated" a special education law or regulation.

With regard to Issue 2, alleging a violation of the Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) requirement, the report concluded that:

> Despite written email statements from the superintendent to the wife of the complainant, there is no evidence of any systemic action on the part of the district to require the parents of prospective preschool students to make a choice between enrolling their child in a > district KPP program with no special education services or having their child receive special education speech support. Further, there is no evidence to show that students have been removed from a preschool program they were attending if they were subsequently determined to be eligible for and in need of special education speech services. Currently, there are a number of students who are receiving speech services while concurrently being enrolled in the district KPP preschool.

In the appeal, the complainant cites only the superintendent's statements in emails, indicating that those emails "clearly stated that parents of a child receiving special education services under an IEP would need to decide between preschool enrollment without special education services or receiving walk in speech therapy without preschool participation. This statement reflects a direct misinterpretation of the LRE requirements."

In the report, the investigator said:

> It should be noted, however, that while this investigation did not identify a current violation regarding LRE, a violation would have been substantiated had the district acted in accordance with the written email statement made by the superintendent on September 9, 2024 that Student A's parents would:
>
> "have to decide between preschool enrollment with no sped services or walk in speech with no preschool [because the district] can't offer him a preschool spot when he is a non-at risk student on an iep – that is the conflict."

However, after examining the evidence regarding what actually happened, the investigator concluded that:

> Despite written email statements from the superintendent to the wife of the complainant, there is no evidence of any systemic action on the part of the district to require the parents of prospective preschool students to make a choice between enrolling their child in a district KPP program with no special education services or having their child receive special education speech support. Further, there is no evidence to show that students have been removed from a preschool program they were attending if they were subsequently determined to be eligible for and in need of special education speech services. Currently, there are a number of students who are receiving speech services while concurrently being enrolled in the district KPP preschool. (Emphasis added.)

The Appeal Committee agrees that the complaint could have been substantiated if the facts had been different and agrees with the investigator comments on pages 19 – 20. The Appeal Committee also agrees with the investigator's analysis of federal regulation 34 C.F.R. 300.110 on pages 20 - 21 of the report, that the district's view, as stated in the emails of the Superintendent, would be a violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.110 if actually put into practice. According to the investigator there was no evidence to substantiate that a parent was forced to decide between special education services and participation in an at-risk pre-school program.

The Appeal Committee has already noted, above, that Kansas regulations specify minimum requirements for appeal of a complaint report, namely: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect," and that the appeal process allows for an appeal of only the "findings and conclusions" in the report. in this appeal, the complainant merely restates the original complaint issue, citing the Superintendent's emails, and does not provide a detailed basis of why the report reaches the wrong conclusion on the specific facts of this complaint.

Again, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function is to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report." With regard to this issue, the Appeal Committee finds that there is sufficient evidence to support the findings related to Issue 2.

The Committee has reviewed the report in its entirety and finds that sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 30th day of October, 2024.

Background Information

The 5 year old student attends kindergarten at an elementary school in USD #385. The student was medically diagnosed with Leber's Congenital Amaurosis (LCA9), a rare eye condition likely to worsen over time, with retinal degeneration, nystagmus, and hyperopia. The student attended the district's early childhood program and qualified for special education due to vision impairment and speech language delay. The student's evaluation dated September 9, 2022 noted difficulty in getting the student to complete the diagnostic assessments and therefore used existing testing data from an outside agency from 2021. For the evaluation, the student was observed in the school environment and the assessor noted when frustrated during the assessment, the student would yell, cry, kick and hit. The student used a cane and wore glasses. The evaluation also found the student eligible for speech language services due to language delays along with occupational therapy and physical therapy services. At the time of the complaint, the student was receiving indirect occupational therapy services, direct and indirect speech/language services, physical therapy, special education services in the regular kindergarten classroom, attendant care, and special education (vision) services.

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: Did USD #385 implement the student's IEP, specifically by providing the amount and type of special education, related services (including attendant care) and accommodations required by the student's IEP?
2. ISSUE TWO: Did the district's attendants follow the written procedures and regular classroom and/or individual student toileting schedule with the child?

Issue One

Did USD #385 implement the student's IEP, specifically by providing the amount and type of special education, related services (including attendant care) and accommodations required by the student's IEP?

Applicable Law

Federal/State statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.39 defines special education as specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent to meet the unique needs of a child with a disability. Further 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) requires that the IEP include "a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child: (i) To advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; (ii) To be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum. . . and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and (iii) To be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children "

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE (free appropriate public education) to a child who has or is suspected of having a disability. State regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3) require school districts to obtain parent consent before making a material change in services or a substantial change in placement. The Kansas Special Education Process Handbook clarifies a material change in services: "A change in the instructional methodology used to provide a service, even if the methodology is specified in an IEP, is not a material change in services. For example, a change to a strategy within a behavior intervention plan is a change in the instructional methodology, not a material change in services" (p.8).

Analysis: Findings of Fact

In the written complaint and interview to clarify the issues of the complaint, the parent alleged that the student's IEP had not been followed. The parent alleged that the staff removed the student from the general education classroom for unwarranted lengths of time for breaks, including for playing with a flashlight in a darkened room that the parent believed was leading to behavioral problems with the student who then demanded more of these play opportunities. The parent alleged that the staff were not providing the attendant care and intimate care policy written in the IEP and alleged that the student had not had adequate bathroom breaks each day resulting in wet or soiled diapers that were left unchanged for long periods of time. The parent alleged that she alerted the district staff to the student's current bathroom needs prior to the beginning of kindergarten.

The district responded (in brief) that the student's IEP dated May 10, 2024 required services (Speech/Language, Physical Therapy, Special Education) outside the classroom and the student "receives most special education services (335 x 1 and 305 x 4) in the general education classroom plus attendant care services (95x1 and 105 x 4). Additionally, per [the student]'s IEP, [the student] may be out of the general education classroom for: 'Frequent breaks when [the student] has reached a level of frustration', 'until [the student] is ready to continue learning'. [and] 'Separate testing location on all assessments' 'until all assessments are completed.'"

The district responded that administrator interviews with staff showed no evidence that the student spent time outside the general education classroom for anything not listed in the IEP such as special education or related services and breaks; breaks associated with escalated behavior have included calming activities in the special education classroom or the school psychologist's office. The district further responded that the student had meltdowns in the classroom that included screaming, kicking and hitting, and the adults have usually been able to return to working, but if not either paraprofessionals or the VI Teacher removed her from the classroom for a break.

The district's response concluded: "Since all of [the student's] time out of the classroom is associated with time in service listed on the IEP or in association with a break that is listed as an accommodation, there is no evidence that the district is in violation of IDEA nor is it a failure to provide FAPE."

Findings

The IEP team including the parent met on May 10, 2024; the IEP team directed no change to the student's current early childhood program and proposed services for the student's kindergarten program. The district provided Prior Written Notice (PWN) of services to occur at the outset of the students kindergarten year, beginning August, 2024, to include: special education support in the general education classroom 305 minutes 4 days a week and 335 minutes 1 day a week, 105 minutes of attendant care 4 days a week and 95 minutes one day a week; that Speech Language (SPL) services would shift to a blended approach both in and out of the general education classroom, that Occupational Therapy (OT) services would be consultation only, and direct Physical Therapy (PT) 20 minutes one time a week. The parent signed giving consent for the material change in services in the PWN.

The present levels of functional and academic performance in student's IEP dated May 10, 2024 found that the student was exploring tactilely, experiencing anxiety over new things including food, and lacking in social skills. Quiet voices and using musical instruments were recommended as strategies to assist the student when needed. The student's IEP dated May 10, 2024 stated that the student's health strengths and needs included vision limitations, using a cane, transitioning from a visual to tactile learner, braille readiness and sensory training. The parent's additions related to the vision conditions of retinitis pigmentosa, macular degeneration, optic atrophy, nystagmus, and hyperopia. There was no health plan included in the IEP.

The IEP dated May 20, 2024 found that the student had needs in the social emotional area that required special education, including voicing her social emotional needs with support and that when her needs are anticipated "staff can usually guide [the student] to communicate needs in a more effective manner, calming [the student] down. [The student] will generally repeat speech models provided in these moments." Parental input noted anxiety about new things and tantrums due to being frightened of new things including food; the parent also noted difficulty introducing new activities and the need to communicate and socially interact with children. Because the student would scream, hit, bite and kick when overstimulated, the IEP recommended that the student be introduced to things slowly by staff trained to do so and to be assisted in transitions. The parent asked that the student's speech language needs be prioritized due to her delayed language. The student's fine motor skills had improved to allow discontinuation of OT but her motor needs indicated the continued need for PT services.

The student's IEP dated May 10, 2024 had the following goals (in brief)

1. Listen to a social or perspective story, understand, comment and answer questions
2. Participate in conversations and play routines with peers and adults, sharing thoughts and feelings, taking turns, commenting and requesting
3. Improve listening, language understanding and expressive speech by responding to questions, indicating understanding, using personal pronouns, and identifying sounds
4. Use a cane to improve functional mobility, playground exploration, safety awareness, and participation
5. Open interior school doors and travel through
6. Discriminate shapes (preacademic)
7. Set, clear and read numbers on an abacus
8. Braille name

Services on the IEP dated May 10, 2024 were listed as: Speech Language (SPL) in special education room - 15 minutes one day a week, SPL indirect services - consultation 10 minutes one day a week, OT indirect services - consultation 10 minutes one day a week, PT 20 minutes one day a week, special education in the special education classroom for vision 20 minutes 4 times a week, special education support in the general education classroom for academics 305 minutes four days a week and 335 minutes one day a week, Special education support in the general classroom for nonacademics 105 minutes four days a week, and attendant care 95 minutes one day a week.

Notes following the listing of services stated "325 minutes four days per week support in the general education setting - 105 minutes four days per week attendant care support [and] 335 minutes one day per week support in the general education setting - 95 minutes attendant care support. General education support includes ELA. . . , ,math, science, social studies, AMP. . ., social development, class meeting/calendar, story time, and library. Attendant care support includes bathroom, lunch, recess, car rider pick up, and dismissal."

Classroom accommodations listed on the student's IEP dated May 10, 2024 included: magnification devices, materials adapted to braille, auditory instruction to supplement visual instruction, additional time to complete assignments, frequent breaks "when [the student] has reached a level of frustration in all academic and nonacademic settings until [the student] is ready to continue learning," modified physical education activities, on task supports-audio input timer, use of a scribe, separate testing location, manipulatives and concrete objects to assist in understanding, tasks broken into smaller increments, alternative seating/fidgets for hands, and verbal cues and countdowns for transitions.

The IEP dated May 10, 2024 included the following: "Intimate Care Policy: "[The student] is currently not potty trained and needs assistance in the bathroom. Staff will assist in removal of clothing and helping with cleaning [the student's] body as needed. We will work on assisting [the student] in managing her own clothing and communicating when needing to use the restroom. When [the student] needs help in the bathroom, there is one staff member in the class bathroom with the door only partially closed and another staff member standing nearby on the other side of the door. Gloves are to be worn by staff during any changing or assisting the student in using the restroom."

Special education services

The first day of school for Kindergarten students according to the district calendar was August 19, 2024.

The speech language schedule for the student showed SPL services on Wednesdays 9:05 am-9:20 a.m., and Wednesdays and Thursdays at 2:05-2:20 p.m. Speech language attendance and data provided by the district showed that the student had speech language services on the following dates: August 21 (Indirect), August 22, August 28 (2 times), August 29, September 4 (3 times), September 11, and September 12, 2024. The notes say the student was absent at the time of therapy on September 18, 2024. An interview with the Speech Language Therapist stated that she provided additional support to the student and the classroom due to the new classroom for the student, whom she knew from the preschool setting, as shown in the schedule.

PT data and schedule showed that the student received PT services for 20 minutes on the following dates: August 27, September 3, September 10, and September 17, 2024.

The VI Teacher stated in an interview that she did not take the student out of kindergarten but provided direct services there, during language arts or math time; the VI Teacher's service log also stated that she did not remove the student from general education to provide direct services and listed the following service dates: August 19, 20, 22, 23, 26, 27, 28, 29, and 30, 2024; September 3, 4, 5, 6, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 16, and 17, 2024. The VI Teacher stated that she provided training support for some but not every para on the student's language, braille, using materials, talking to the student before doing things, giving wait time, limiting competing voices, and helping the student in the classroom.

The paraprofessional schedule provided by the district showed that the student had paraprofessionals or a special education teacher or therapist present from the beginning of the school day through dismissal. Two paraprofessionals, Para JK (who has since left the district) and Para S were considered to be the student's "regular" paras. The district provided two staff schedules, Schedule 1 showing when the former paraprofessional (Para JK) was present and Schedule 2 showing two days when Para JK was absent (September 16 and September 17, 2024). Schedule 1 showed that Para JK was assigned to be with the student from arrival (8:35 a.m. to 12:35 p.m.) when Para JK had lunch. Para V was also present on Fridays during the lunch period. The schedule showed that Para S was assigned to be with the student from 12:35 p.m. to 2:45 p.m., and that Para V was present in the classroom but not specifically assigned to the student (2:45-3:00 p.m.) and that Para V was assigned to the student from 3:00-3:30 p.m. at dismissal.

Schedule 2 showed that on September 16 and 17, 2024: Para V was assigned to be with the student from arrival at 8:30 to 10:30 a.m., Para D was assigned to be with the student at 10:30 through 11:55 a.m., Para V was assigned from 12:00-1:15 p.m., Para D was assigned 1:10-2:20 p.m., Para S was assigned 2:20 - 2:45 p.m., and Para V was assigned from 3:00-3:35 dismissal. Para V was present in the classroom but not assigned to the student from 2:45-3:00.

Interviews with and statements from district staff members show that the student was assisted by paraprofessionals in the general education classroom with accommodated lessons and materials, and that the student had an alternative to the "brain break" activity in the kindergarten classroom, due to student preference. An interview with the VI Teacher showed that she provided brailling lessons when kindergarten activities were not easily accommodated. Examples of accommodations provided in the classroom according to interviews were: talking to prepare for an activity, math workbook (tactile) adaptations, using the abacus, tallies and dots for math, braille reading and writing.

Breaks

The parent reported that the former paraprofessional told them that some school staff were concerned about the student being removed for breaks that were too long and that the long breaks were due to socializing among staff while allowing the student to play with a flashlight.

Interviews with the district staff indicated that student breaks were frequently given each day. The student was removed from the classroom at signs of frustration (screaming, hitting toward adults) and during activities like the brain break when an alternative break was provided. Breaks were also used to assist with difficult transitions (after lunch when paraprofessionals changed) or as a positive reinforcer in a "first/then" option after completion of work. In an interview, the kindergarten teacher said the breaks occurred two to four times a day, more often at the beginning and end of the day when the student was frustrated with being asked to do things she found difficult and that the regular paras took her to the resource room next door for 5-10 minutes. The paraprofessional said she used a 5 minute timer for the break period. The VI teacher said, 5 or 10, or 20 minute breaks occurred depending on the student's level of frustration. The district reported that the VI teacher used the flashlight activity for breaks in the school psychologist's office. The VI teacher reported flashlight play as a student preferred activity.

In a timeline prepared by the district, the kindergarten teacher reported that on 3 occasions the student was out of the room when not her normal break time or when escalated; most breaks are scheduled or due to being escalated, usually at the beginning of the day transition and during whole group reading. In the timeline, the district reported that the school psychologist stated that breaks in her office were timed at 10 minutes and didn't last longer than 20 minutes. In the timeline the district stated that the VI teacher stated that one break in the school psychologist's office lasted 20-30 minutes due to the student's level of escalation.

The district provided a break log by the VI Teacher which provided dates and times of breaks, as follows: August 19, 9:16 a.m. piano (in resource room) 12:24 p.m. piano and afternoon piano; August 20, 1:17 Theresa's room (school psychologist's office), afternoon Theresa's room, and 3:18 p.m. Theresa's room; August 22, 1:22 p.m. piano, August 23 Theresa's room, August 26 Theresa's room (flashlights as a reward), August 30, 2:00 p.m. piano, September 5, 2:40 p.m. violin (in resource room), September 6, 1:11 p.m., violin, September 9, Theresa's room, September 10, 10:15 a.m., Theresa's room (piano), September 13, 3:19p.m., piano in resource room.

Breaks were not always logged, according to staff interviews. Staff interviews also indicated that the student's escalated behavior was not being recorded or charted.

Attendant care

Kindergarten schedule provided by the district showed:

*8:35-8:55: Greetings, attendance taking, lunch count 8:55-9:10: Morning meeting/calendar 9:10-10:00: Whole group reading (CKLA) 10:00-10:30: Panther Time *10:35-10:50: Recess *10:50-11:10: Snack & Story *11:10-11:55: AMP [Specials] 11:55-12:05: Lunch procedures *12:05-12:35: Lunch *12:35-12:50: Rest time	12:50-1:20: Phonics/Phonemic Awareness Math Brain break 1:20-1:45: Whole Group Math (iReady) 1:45-2:20: Math centers 2:20-2:50 S.S/Science/Writing *Library on Thursdays 2:20-3:00/ Counselor every other Tuesday 2:20-2:40 2:50-3:10: Developmental Play & Pack up *3:10-3:25: Recess 3:30-3:40: Good things/rater for social contract/line up for dismissal (launch) 3:40- Dismiss *bathroom opportunities scheduled

The kindergarten schedule and interviews with the kindergarten teacher showed that, in addition to going upon request, kindergarteners were taken to or "welcome to use the bathroom" in the morning upon arrival, at the scheduled break/snack time (around 10:50), after rest time (around 12:55 p.m.), each time the class left the classroom [lunch, AMP, library/counselor], and before the last recess of the day. These opportunities are noted on the class schedule table above with an asterisk (*).

Text message exchanges dated August 13, 2024 between the parents, Para JK and the VI teacher showed that the parent stated, "I wanted to talk with you two about [the student's] potty training. [The student] still requires a diaper although much more eager to use a toilet, but the issue remains that [the student] is not fully potty trained. In that case, I wanted to know if she would be allowed frequent bathroom breaks to help encourage her to use the toilet rather than waiting until her pullups are full and needing changed." The reply from Para JK showed her support for the idea and the VI teacher suggested going every 45 minutes at natural breaks in the kindergarten classroom schedule.

The student's first day of school was August 19, 2024. The parents reported that the student returned home with "pee soaked clothes" on August 19 and August 20, 2024. School records show the student was absent on August 21, 2024 for illness.

According to district staff interviews, the district purchased a child-size potty seat to go over the regular sized toilet and the Health Office allowed for privacy to assist the student with using the toilet and changing her pull up. According to an interview with the nursing assistant, it was an established practice to log each time the student used the bathroom in the Health Office, including noting which staff person brought her to the office and the witness. The nursing assistant stated that each time she was present in the building, the intimate care procedure for changing and witnessing was followed and logged. The nursing assistant stated that on one occasion, (September 16, 2024) around 1:00 p.m. or after, paraprofessionals who did not usually work with the student brought the student to the Health Office with a bowel movement in her pull up that had dried, indicating to her that it had not been immediately changed despite the evident smell. The nursing assistant and the nursing log showed that the nursing assistant instructed the paraprofessionals that paras were capable and responsible for the student's toileting needs and changing, and that the nursing assistant notified her supervisor (the nurse) of the situation so that administration could respond.

The nursing logs provided by the district and the parent showed the following documentation of toileting using the intimate care policy on the IEP by date, number of visits to the Health Office, and visit start times as recorded for each day.

The nursing logs show that the student was assisted in toileting as per the intimate care policy three or four times on 7 days, two times on 5 days, and one time on three days, for a total of 15 days logged. The student was in attendance at the school for a total of 20 days beginning August 19, 2024 and ending September 17, 2024, according to the school calendar and student record of attendance provided by the principal.

According to the parents, the district and the nursing logs, the nurse called the parents to alert them to the bathroom incidents on September 16 and 17, 2024, when she called the parents to discuss the lack of bathroom visits to the Health Office, specifying that on September 9, 2024, the student was not brought until 14:33; on September 16, 2024 the student was not brought to change until 13:20 when the student was "caked in BM, dried to skin, diaper rash noted;" and on September 17, 2024 when the student was brought only at 10:30 am.

Conclusion

The student's IEP required that she receive special education and related services, and the district provided the requisite amount of services, with discrepancy in location from the IEP, with the VI Teacher providing special education services in the general classroom rather than in the special education room as stated in the IEP.

The district was correct in its response that the student was not removed from the classroom for any purpose not stated in the IEP. The district has the authority to choose the instructional methods used at school, which would include the flashlight play in this instance.

The IEP specifies frequent breaks "when she has reached a level of frustration in all academic and nonacademic settings until she is ready to continue learning;" and the IEP does not specify the frequency, duration, or activity of the breaks. District staff used breaks for this purpose and also as reinforcement in a "first/then" instructional strategy. Breaks were not routinely logged nor escalated behavior charted.

The Kansas Special Education Policy Manual (p. 108) states: "Sometimes it is difficult to be precise in determining just how much service will be required throughout the year. Sometimes services are provided on a situational basis, such as 'reading the math test to the child.' The IEP should not indicate these services are 'as needed.' The IEP has to describe when and how the service will be provided throughout the year". In this situation, the district is directed to use existing data to estimate the amount of service to be provided. In addition, "the amount of services to be provided must be stated in the IEP so that the level of the school's commitment of resources will be clear to parents and other IEP team members. The amount of time to be committed to each of the various services to be provided must be (1) appropriate to the specific service, and (2) stated in the IEP in a manner that is clear to all who are involved in both the development and implementation of the IEP (Federal Register, August 14, 2006, p. 46667)."

In this case, the accommodation of "frequent breaks 'when [the student] has reached a level of frustration in all academic and nonacademic settings until [the student] is ready to continue learning" was not logged or otherwise measured, precluding an estimation of how much time the student was being removed from required services in the general education classroom. In addition, the IEP does not specify the amount of time committed to the breaks in a manner clear to those implementing the IEP. It is noted that this is a kindergarten child during the first weeks of her kindergarten year, and thus a period of adjustment may have been expected.

At the time of the IEP (May 10, 2024), the district was aware that the student was not potty trained and made a plan known as an intimate care policy by which she could have her toileting needs met in kindergarten. The IEP's intimate care policy implied that incidental teaching related to toileting would occur, stating, "We will work on assisting [the student] in managing her own clothing and communicating when needing to use the restroom," as well as helping with cleaning her body. Attendant care was specified in the IEP as a service requiring either 95 or 105 minutes per day. "Attendant care involves providing assistance for people with disabilities to perform tasks they would normally be doing for themselves" in order to maximize independence across settings and situations (KSDE (2017).

The kindergarten schedule and interview with the kindergarten teacher showed ample opportunities offered to kindergarteners to go to the bathroom, either as part of the group, individually, or by request at any time. In a text prior to the beginning of school, the parent asked and was assured that the student would be toileted at naturally occurring opportunities in the kindergarten schedule, as frequently as every 45 minutes. The district is correct in that the frequency of toileting is not specified in the IEP. However, attendant care for "bathroom" is specified. It is a reasonable assumption that the adult assigned to provide attendant care would provide the structure and assistance needed for the visually impaired and language-delayed 5-year-old to use the toilet at least as often as the sighted kindergarteners with typical language and more often if individually needed.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD #385 did not implement the student's IEP, specifically by providing the amount and type of special education, related services (including attendant care) and accommodations required by the student's IEP.

Issue Two

Did the district's attendants follow the written procedures and regular classroom and/or individual student toileting schedule with the child?

Applicable Law

Each IEP for a child with an exceptionality must include a statement of: the special education services; related services; supplementary aids and services (including accommodations), based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child; a statement of the program modifications; and supports for school personnel that will be provided for the child to: advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum, and participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and be educated and participate with other children with exceptionalities and nonexceptional children in these activities (K.S.A. 72-3429(c)(4)).

The IEP team must determine whether the child requires supplementary aids and services, that are appropriate and necessary, to afford the child an equal opportunity for participation in nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities. K.A.R. 91-40-3(b)(1) states: "Each agency shall provide nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities in the manner necessary to afford children with disabilities an equal opportunity for participation in those services and activities, including the provision of supplementary aids and services as determined to be necessary by the child's IEP team." Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.117 states that "The public agency must ensure that each child with a disability has the supplementary aids and services determined by the child's IEP Team to be appropriate and necessary for the child to participate in nonacademic settings."

The parent alleged that the student's attendant care for toileting was not carried out frequently enough. The parent alleged that not all days of attendant care for toileting were logged in the nurse's bathroom, indicating that the student either did not go to the bathroom on those days or the intimate care policy was not followed. Further, the parent alleged that she had alerted the student's teacher of the need to frequently assist the student in the bathroom, and she alleged she had been assured that the student would be assisted in this manner. The parent alleged that the student's toileting needs were neglected by the district.

The district responded (in full): "For the last two IEPs, including the current IEP (Dated 5/10/24), there has been no reference to an individual toileting schedule. The only reference to needing support for toileting is in the special considerations section of the IEP, it reads:

> Intimate Care Policy: [the student] is currently not potty trained and needs assistance in the bathroom. Staff will assist in removal of clothing and helping with cleaning her body > as needed. We will work on assisting [the student] in managing her own clothing and communicating when needing to use the restroom. When [the student] needs help in the bathroom, there is one staff member in the class bathroom with the door only partially closed and another staff member standing nearby on the other side of the door. Gloves are to be worn by staff during any changing or assisting the student in using the restroom.

Per interviews, there is no evidence that the intimate care policy was not followed as there was never a time two people were not present when [the student] needed help in the bathroom or with help cleaning her body.

While there is no reference in the IEP to a toileting schedule, the staff did work to provide consistent bathroom opportunities. Per interviews with staff, these normally occurred at 9:30am, 11:30am and 2:30am. There is evidence that on 9/9, 9/16 and 9/17 [the student] only went to the nurse's office one time for a bathroom break. On these days, she was found to have urinated in her diaper (9/9), had a bowel movement (9/16) and there is no documentation of either urine or a bowel movement on the 9/17 date. The district acknowledges that on these days [the student] should have had more frequent restroom opportunities based on her normal routine. On each of these days, the paraeducator assigned to [the student] was different from her normally assigned staff and unfamiliar with the bathroom expectations. On 9/16, per interviews, the paraeducator assigned to [the student] from 12:35-1:00 was new and under the assumption that it was not her responsibility to take [the student] to have her pullup changed when she became aware that [the student] had had a bowel movement in her pullup. [The student] was then taken to the nurse's office at 1:10 when the paraeducators were directed to do so. It should be noted that staff indicate that [the student] usually lets them know if she needs to go to the bathroom or if she has had an accident by saying 'You need potty?' or 'You poopy?'.

The district acknowledges these missed bathroom opportunities need to be addressed and did so to staff in an email on 12:13 pm on 9/17 as soon as the principal was made aware of the situation. Additionally, on 9/18/24 at 8:17am, an email was sent to parents by the principal with a plan for implementation and letting them know that personnel matters would also be addressed.

While these issues do need to be addressed and have been per email documentation, the district does not believe these three missed bathroom [times] are a violation of IDEA nor is it a failure to provide FAPE."

Findings

Findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

The nurse's log reported that the student had at least three bathroom breaks as specified in the district's response, approximating the schedule given (9:30am, 11:30am and 2:30am.) on 7 of the 20 days when the student attended school.

Conclusion

In this case, the student's IEP included an intimate care policy that focused on a two-person procedure and stated that staff would assist the student in requesting and using the bathroom. The district was aware that the student was not potty trained and established an intimate care policy to assure that the student's toileting could be done in privacy, supported by two adults. The district's response to the complaint showed that the minimum number of toileting opportunities to be offered by staff was three times a day. The district failed to assure that the student had the opportunity to go to the bathroom each day at this rate, as often as the child needed, or as often as other kindergarten children could within the classroom schedule. It is noted that nursing logs and interviews indicated that when the student was taken to the Health Office, the two-person procedure was followed. Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD 385 district's attendants did not follow the written procedures and regular classroom toileting schedule with the child.

Background Information

This investigation involved a twelfth grade student enrolled in the District.. The Student is currently receiving services as a child with a Specific Learning Disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

Issue One

USD #512, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the Parent with access to educational records after repeated requests by the Parent for specific details regarding the dyslexia consultant hired by the district to support [the Student], including meeting notes, consultation goals, and actions taken. K.A.R. 91-40-50.

Positions of the Parties

The Parent alleged that despite repeated requests for specific information about the District's Dyslexia Consultant and their support for the Student, the Special Education Coordinator and Team "consistently failed" to provide this information, therefore "violating" the Parent's rights to be fully informed about the services and support provided to their child. The Parent further alleged that "On January 18, 2024, I requested that [the Chief of Special Education] provide details on where [the Student's] records were being stored. Despite this formal request, [the Chief of Special Education] did not provide the requested information."

The District rebutted that they provided copies of the Student's special education records multiple times at the Parent's request, including an electronic submission of special education records on May 28, 2024. The District asserted that they provided information about the dyslexia consultation in accordance with how it is listed as a support on the Individualized Education Program (IEP); dyslexia consultation occurred between staff members, so there are no educational records concerning this information. However, information and updates were provided verbally to the Parent at various IEP and in-person meetings.

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the District.

1. On October 6, 2023, an email was sent from the Parent to the School Psychologist asking for the latest information from the dyslexia consultant. The School Psychologist replied via email on October 10, 2023 indicating that they were going to meet with the Dyslexia Consultant and update the Parent afterward. The School Psychologist also indicated that check-ins with the Consultant occurred one time each semester.
2. On November 26, 2023, an email was sent from the Parent to the District Team indicating that they had not yet received any updates about the Dyslexia Consultant and requested to attend any future meetings with the Consultant. More emails were sent between the District Team and the Parent on December 1, 2023. The School Psychologist clarified that the Dyslexia Consultant was contracted to work with the District to consult with teachers and answer questions about reading strategies and instruction, and their role did not include working with individual students or families.

3. On December 3, 2023, the Parent emailed the School Psychologist and indicated discrepancies in the information they had been given about the dyslexia consultant. They had been told they could look up contact information for the Consultant and contact them, but then they were told the Consultant's role did not include working with families directly.
4. On December 11, 2023, emails were exchanged between the Chief of Special Education and Parent verifying agenda items for an upcoming meeting. These items included the Parent's request for the Dyslexia Consultant to attend the meeting. The Chief of Special Education replied that the Dyslexia Consultant would not attend the upcoming meeting, but any information regarding consultation could be provided by the Case Manager during the meeting.
5. On December 20, 2023 and January 3, 2024, emails were sent between the District and Parent outlining notes from the December 14, 2023 meeting during which the Parent's concerns regarding the Student's records and Dyslexia Consultant information were discussed. The Parent clarified that they wanted specific details about what the Dyslexia Consultant was doing with, or for the Student, including who the Consultant met with, for how long, goals for the meeting, meeting notes, findings, conclusions, action items, service recommendations, and any other relevant information.
6. A January 17, 2024 email from the Chief of Special Education to the Parent verified adding agenda items for the January 19, 2024 IEP meeting to include discussing the utilization of the Dyslexia Consultant as a resource.
7. Via email on April 12, 2024 to the Chief of Special Education, the Parent requested the removal of the dyslexia consultation from the Student's IEP stating that it was not benefitting the Student or the IEP Team. The Chief of Special Education replied April 17, 2024 that the dyslexia consultation would be removed per the Parent's request. The Parent replied April 20, 2024 that they were requesting the removal because they never received details about the services provided and it should be noted in parental concerns as such.
8. On May 28, 2024 the Special Education Department sent five batched emails to the Parent containing special education records as requested by the Parent.

Applicable Regulations and Conclusions

According to 34 C.F.R. 300.613 and K.A.R. 91-40-50, Parents of a child with a disability have the right to inspect and review all of their child's education records related to identification, evaluation, educational placement, and the provision of a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE). An education record means those records that are directly related to a student and maintained by an educational agency. According to FERPA regulation 34 C.F.R.99.3, the term "education record" does not include records that are kept in the sole possession of the maker.

The Parent requested records about consultation activities noted in the IEP between the District and the Dyslexia Consultant. When the Parent did not receive this information, they requested to attend consultation meetings between the District and the Dyslexia Consultant or to have the Dyslexia Consultant attend IEP meetings. The Parent asserted that the reasons for the requested information and attendance at these meetings was due to their desire for detailed information about the basis for educational services being provided, or decisions being made for the Student. District records indicated that utilization of the Dyslexia Consultant was an IEP meeting topic multiple times. The Parent requested the dyslexia consultation be removed from the IEP due to the District not providing information about the content of the consultation.

On May 28, 2024, the District provided the Parent with special education records and notified them that student records are housed in two online databases. The District also noted that as a designated support for school personnel, consultation by a dyslexia consultant occurred one time per semester as per the IEP, but there were no educational records specific to dyslexia consultation to provide to the Parent.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the District failed to provide the Parent with access to educational records.

Issue Two

USD #512, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), denied the Parent's request for counseling services to address the safety and emotional needs of the Student. The Parent's concerns were not addressed in the IEP or the IEP process. Further, the paraprofessionals working with the Student have not received adequate training to support the Student. K.S.A. 72-3429(1)(3)(4); K.A.R. 91-40-18(b); K.S.A. 72-3429(c)(4).

Positions of the Parties

The Parent alleged that the Student had experienced bullying at school and they requested for the School to introduce the Student to the School Counselor so they would have a safe place to go when issues arose. The Parent alleged the School

> "disregarded" their request and stated the Student had 'organically met the counselor.' The Parent stated that this response "failed to address the severity of the situation and left the Student without proper emotional support during a critical time."

The Parent further alleged that "[f]or a significant part of the 2023-2024 school year, the IEP team refused to include our documented parental concerns in the main body of [the Student's] IEP. Instead, they relegated these concerns to attachments, making them harder to locate and diminishing their importance in the decision-making process." The Parent further stated, "although our parental concerns have now been reinstated in [the Student's] IEP after a year of escalation, this delay has caused significant harm to [the Student's] educational progress. The issue took an entire year to resolve and demonstrates a pattern of neglect in addressing parental concerns."

Finally, the Parent alleged that the District only offered to re-train paraprofessionals after four years of raised concerns and "significant pressure" from the Parent. Furthermore, the Parent stated that their request for a paraprofessional to attend an IEP meeting was denied and the lack of support hindered the Student's progress and "[t]he reactive nature of these actions has caused ongoing delays in providing appropriate services for [the Student]."

The District responded that they fully complied with requirements in developing an IEP for the Student. The District also stated that the Parent "informed the team that the Student was engaged in a romantic relationship not approved by Parents.

> ... and [d]uring this discussion, there was no request by Parents or evidence the Student demonstrated a need for counseling services to address the safety and emotional needs of the Student." The District acknowledged the Parent requested for the Student to be introduced to their assigned counselor to help with the relationship the Parents did not approve of, but the team explained to the Parent that this was the role of the social worker instead. The District stated that following this request, the School ensured that the Student knew who their assigned social worker was and the "Student was re-introduced to the social worker on November 14, 2023, and then again in January 2024. At no time did [the] Parent request counseling services be included in the Student's IEP. Rather, this was an informal inquiry by [the] Parent about how the Student could be supported if necessary."

The District further asserted that all students at the School have access to a social worker and do not need services listed on an IEP to access the support.

Furthermore, they noted that in an IEP meeting on March 29, 2024, there was a discussion about the Student's behavior and according to IEP documents, "the IEP team including Parents indicated that the Student's behavior did not impede the learning of [themself] or others. ... [T]here was not a need for accommodations, a goal, or a behavior intervention plan." In regards to paraprofessional training, the District responded that all staff at the School were trained in implementation of accommodations and modifications and provided a schedule of multiple trainings that occurred from August 11, 2023 through April 26, 2024. The District also stated that following an IEP meeting in December 2023 where the Parent shared concerns about paraprofessional training, a refresher training about the Student's services was provided to paraprofessionals in January 2024.

1. During interviews, the Parent stated there has been "back and forth" over the years about parental concerns being included as an attachment to IEPs instead of included within the document. The Parent questioned if someone would actually receive all the IEP information, including these attachments, when requesting records, so they wanted that information included within the IEP document. The Parent acknowledged that the District did start putting their parental concerns back in the parental input section of the IEP rather than as an attachment.
2. A PWN dated October 9, 2023, indicated that the Student had access to the "Student Services Center" and could see their "Counselor or the School Social Worker." It also indicated that paraeducators were given each student's IEP for the students they work with. They met with case managers to review student needs, and were instructed to work specifically with students who have IEPs, but were available to assist all the students in a class. It was noted that the Parent asked if teachers were trained on the nuances of student personality and behavior. The Associate Principal replied that paraeducators and teachers were having ongoing one-to-one conversations about how to work with the Student and problem-solve with team members. District and building-level training was also explained.
3. On October 15, 2023, via email to the Chief of Special Education, the Parent specified that they wanted the School to proactively introduce the Student to any counselors available at the School so the Student would know who to go to if needed. They did not want the Student to have to seek out counseling services on their own. The Parent further stated that the Student had demonstrated social and emotional changes over the previous two weeks that they alleged were a direct result of the Student's frustration with curriculum and services being provided. The Parent also noted that these behavior changes were new and had not been demonstrated or noted throughout any previous IEPs. The IEP dated May 14, 2024 indicated behavior was not an area of concern.
4. From December 20, 2023 through January 3, 2024, emails were exchanged between the District Team and Parent with follow-up items from a December 14, 2023 meeting. The Chief of Special Education stated that paraeducators who were supporting the Student's classes would be re- trained on accommodations and modifications in January 2024. They indicated they had been told in a meeting on October 6, 2023 that paraeducators received training for each student on a one-to-one basis, but the Parent said the Student was not receiving support in the classroom. The Parent alleged they had requested on December 4, 2023 to have paraeducator attendance at a meeting but were denied and re-training was only offered by the District when the Parent further pressed their concerns.

   Further, the Parent asked what training plan was being proposed, would the training be repeated after the next IEP was written, what the plan was for new paraeducators, if the Parent or Parent's advocate could attend the training, and what the solution would be if the Student had concerns with the support they were receiving from the paraeducators. The Chief of Special Education replied January 17, 2024 that paraeducator training would be specific to the Student's current IEP accommodations and modifications, a re-training would occur at the conclusion of any changes to the IEP, and if the Student had difficulties with paraeducator support received, they could report to the Case Manager, General Education Teacher, or the Associate Principal. The Chief of Special Education also stated that paraeducators new to the school would receive an overview of IEP information for any student they support.

5. On September 17, 2024, the Parent emailed notes to the Chief of Special Education about the September 10, 2024 meeting. It was noted that the Case Manager had met with all teachers and paraprofessionals before the start of classes to review the Student's IEP. Ongoing communication and regular check-in meetings with specific teachers was also noted. It was mentioned that the Student reported that work modifications helped them feel less overwhelmed. Further, it was noted that there was inconsistent paraprofessional presence in American Government class and that per the School IEP Team, no paraprofessional support was needed in special education settings (Math, Strategic ELA, Strategies for Success).
6. During interviews, the Parent stated there has been inconsistent training for paraprofessionals regarding the content of the Student's IEP, including accommodations and modifications. The Parent also indicated inconsistency in staffing paraprofessional positions within the School or paraprofessionals not showing up in classes where the Student expects to receive support. The Parent stated that at every meeting they have now, they check-in to understand what documents are being provided to paraprofessionals.
7. During interviews, the Chief of Special Education stated that all staff, certified and classified, received a required District overview of accommodations, modifications, and requirements and then spend time with their special education case managers to review specific details of assigned students with IEPs.

   The Chief of Special Education noted that in response to the Parent's concerns about paraeducator training and support in the science class, the IEP Team changed from providing paraeducator support to providing a certified special education teacher to support the Student in the class.

Applicable Regulations and Conclusions

According to the IDEA and Kansas State regulations, exceptional children must have an IEP at the start of each school year. The IEP team is responsible for developing and modifying the IEP, including addressing special factors like behavior, language needs, visual or hearing impairments, and the need for assistive technology. Changes to the IEP can be made through written agreements or team meetings, and the IEP should be reviewed and revised at least annually. K.S.A. 72-3439; K.A.R. 91-40-16

If the IEP team determines that a child requires specific supports like behavioral interventions, accommodations, assistive technology, or program modifications to receive FAPE, those supports must be included in the child's IEP. K.S.A. 72- 3429(d)(4); K.A.R. 91-40-18(b);

A statement is required to outline the special education-related services, supplementary aids, and program modifications or supports that will be provided to the child. These services and supports are intended to help the child make progress toward their goals and enable the child to participate in the general education curriculum with their peers. K.S.A. 72-3429(4)

Paraprofessionals and assistants who are appropriately trained and supervised may be used to assist in the provision of special education and related services to children with disabilities. C.F.R. 300.156(b); K.A.R. 91-40-16(4)(5)

The Parent requested that the School directly introduce the Student to the school counselors. The District asserted that they informed the Parent and the Student of the accessibility of social workers to all students whenever needed. Further, that at no time, was it discussed during an IEP meeting that the Student demonstrated a need for behavioral support or counseling services. The District records confirmed this.

The Parent alleged that their parental concerns were not being documented within the IEP document and they were concerned this information wouldn't be available to professionals who requested and/or viewed the Student's records. The Parent acknowledged that this eventually was resolved.

The Parent alleged that the Student was receiving inconsistent support in the classroom and requested specific details about paraeducator training. The District provided a schedule of multiple required and informal trainings or meetings designated for paraprofessionals regarding accommodations, modifications, and working with specific students. Further, the District asserted that they responded each time they were notified about the Parent's concerns by involving paraeducators and IEP Team members in reviewing, updating, adding, or adjusting supports for the Student. District records documented paraprofessional trainings, meetings where support for the Student was discussed, and any related IEP changes.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the District denied the Parent's request for counseling services to address the safety and emotional needs of the Student. It is further not substantiated that the Parent's concerns were not addressed in the IEP or the IEP process, or that the paraprofessionals working with the Student had not received adequate training to support the Student.

Issue Three

USD #512, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to remove a District staff member from the IEP Team when the Parent requested it. K.S.A. 72-3404(4).

Positions of the Parties

The Parent alleged that the Student's IEP was "mismanaged" continuously by the Special Education Coordinator and that "[d]espite ongoing efforts to resolve these issues, [the Special Education Coordinator's] repeated failures have significantly delayed [the Student's] educational progress and have led to serious concerns about [their] ability to fulfill [their] responsibilities." The Parent cited the other issues investigated in this report as part of the reason for the request for removal of the Special Education Coordinator from the IEP team.

The District responded that the Parent made requests for the Special Education Coordinator to be removed from the team, but "[t]he expressed basis for this request is that the Parent does not like working with the staff member, disagrees with statements that the staff member has made at meetings, and disagrees with the summaries of meetings that the staff member partnered in preparing." The District added, "Please note that, while [the] Parent has voiced their dissatisfaction with this staff member, through direct observations and interviews of IEP team members, there were no findings that this staff member had engaged in any negative or unprofessional interactions with [the] Parents." The District further asserted that there are no IDEA, state or federal regulations requiring a school district to remove required IEP team members at a parent's request or because a parent does not like, or agree with, team members. The District stated that the Special Education Coordinator was serving a required role of district representative for the IEP team and that the Parent had "never, either in email correspondence or in this second child complaint, made an allegation that the staff member who serves as the District representative is not sufficiently qualified or knowledgeable."

Finally, the District stated that there were multiple attempts, including by the Associate Superintendent of Leadership and Learning, to resolve the Parent's concerns about this issue, but they were unsuccessful and the Parent continued to demand the removal of the team member. "There is no qualification or knowledge deficiency that would justify removing the staff member from the IEP team, and so the staff member has not been removed."

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the District.

1. On December 6, 2023, the Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education requesting the removal of the District Special Education Coordinator from the IEP Team and cease their involvement in the Student's education. The Parent stated, "We have not seen a level of professionalism or competence from … them when taking [the Student's] data, history and needs into consideration for [their] IEP." The Chief of Special Education replied that the Special Education Coordinator supported the School and would continue serving on the IEP Team. The Chief of Special Education further stated personnel matters would be addressed by them should they occur.

2. On April 12, 2024, the Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education requesting that a new special education coordinator be assigned to the Student. The Parent stated, "We have provided you data over multiple occasions why we believe [the Special Education Coordinator's] behavior, attitude, and lack of understanding of [the Student's] longitudinal data have created a severe impact on [the Student's] success, IEP teams [sic] ability to develop proper goals, and overall progress. This is my 3rd request for this since October. If you are denying it, we would like to have written details as to why." On April 17, 2024, the Chief of Special Education replied, "As previously explained, I am unable to accommodate requests to assign or not assign a specific special education staff member to a student based on parent preference. [The Special Education Coordinator] is the secondary coordinator, and [the School] is currently one of [their] assigned buildings."

According to 34 C.F.R. 300.321-322 and K.S.A. 72-3404(u)(4), the IEP team must include a school representative or designee who is directly involved in providing educational services and who is qualified to provide, or supervise the provision of, special education services, and is knowledgeable about the general curriculum and the agency's available resources.

The Parent requested removal of the Special Education Coordinator from the IEP Team due to alleged continuous "mismanagement" of the Student's IEP that they believe significantly delayed the Student's educational progress. The District asserted that the basis for the Parent's request was due to the Parent's dissatisfaction with the staff member, rather than negative or unprofessional behavior on the part of the staff member. The District further asserted that the Special Education Coordinator fulfilled a legally required role on the IEP Team and that there was no evidence suggesting a deficiency in qualification or knowledge that justified removal from the IEP Team.

Federal regulations , at 34 C.F.R. 300.156 require that qualification standards for special education staff be set by each state. The judicial authorities that have considered this issue have uniformly agreed that as long as personnel meet qualification standards established by state law, determinations as to which personnel will provide services to a child with a disability is left to state and local educational authorities. For example, in Slama by Slama v. Independent Sch. Dist. No. 2580, 39 IDELR 3 (D. Minn. 2003), this federal district court said, "School districts have the sole discretion to assign staff. In addition the district is not required to replace personnel with someone with equal or better qualifications. The services of any appropriately trained person is sufficient."

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the District failed to implement the requirements for IEP Team members.

Issue Four

Positions of the Parties

The Parent alleged that the Special Education Coordinator, "failed to ensure that the accommodations and modifications outlined in [the Student's] IEP are implemented correctly. This includes core subjects like science, where [the Student] has not received the necessary support from teachers and paraprofessionals. These failures have prevented [the Student] from making meaningful academic progress."

The District responded that they "ensured that the Student's IEP was in effect and implemented at the beginning of the school year." They further stated that they implemented a process ensuring all general education teachers were informed about IEPs and received mandatory training regarding accommodations and modifications. The District asserted that each of the Student's general education teachers received a copy of the IEP at the beginning of the year and as changes were made to the IEP. Teachers were allowed to ask any clarifying questions regarding accommodations and modifications. The District provided a schedule of multiple trainings that occurred from August 11, 2023 through February 5, 2024, including for the Science Teacher specifically. Additionally, following receipt of the Parent's concerns, the Associate Principal met with the Case Manager and the Science Teacher in December 2023 and January 2024 to review accommodations.

1. On November 29, 2023, the Parent emailed the Associate Principal indicating an immediate need to get modifications updated for the Student's science class. They mentioned the Student was working in seminar and with the Case Manager to complete assignments, but hadn't been able to keep up.
2. On December 4, 2023, the Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education requesting to address modifications being delivered to the Student in their Science class. They stated that the Case Manager and Student had been working together to get caught up and manage the classwork, but that all work that was being turned in late was only receiving 50% of the credit.

   According to the Parent, the Student believed even if they turned in all the work, they wouldn't receive a passing grade. Concerns were also raised about a number of required outside volunteer hours counting toward the grade. The Parent requested a phone call with the Chief of Special Education, the Case Manager, and the Classroom Teacher to review modifications, consider a waiver of volunteer hours, and determine that work assignments be given 100% credit.

3. On December 6, 2023, emails were exchanged between the District Team and Parent. The Chief of Special Education stated that the Case Manager had access to the Canvas course and could modify assignments, the outside volunteer hours would not impact the Student's ability to pass the class, and that the Case Manager, the Science Teacher, and the Administrator would review grades in comparison to IEP modifications and accommodations. The Chief of Special Education further stated that the Associate Principal would meet with the Classroom Teacher to review the Student's IEP and ensure understanding of the accommodations and how to implement them.
4. On January 3, 2024, the Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education noting feedback given at a December 14, 2023 meeting regarding modifications and accommodations. They stated that implementation was more of a concern than how these were documented on the IEP.
5. The IEP amended April 25, 2024 contained "The Accommodations/Modifications/Supplementary Aids and Services" listed as:
    a. "State/District/Classroom Assessments:"

k. Supports for School Personnel were listed:

i. "Consultation with Dyslexia Consultant, 1x semester, online or phone"; and

ii. "Assistive Technology Specialist will train [the Student's] team on assistive technology when new technology or new staff are added."

6. A PWN dated April 5, 2024 showed documentation of:

a. Review of special education and related services based on meetings from January 29, 2024, February 13, 2024, February 27, 2024, March 29, 2024, and April 5, 2024;

b. "Material change in services (Parental Consent Required)";

c. Proposal to add the following accommodations and modifications to the Student's IEP;

i. "Accommodations proposed on 12/19/23 via a [PWN]: Shorten [the Student's] assignments by 50% and then chunk them into small manageable parts to demonstrate mastery of key concepts/priority standards";

ii. "[The Student] will complete the assignments relating to the key concepts/priority standards of a unit prior to taking the summative assessment";

iii. "Accommodations proposed at the annual review of [the Student's] IEP (1/29/24): Due to working memory challenges, allow [the Student] to use a teacher-approved 'cue card' or an index card during assignments, quizzes or tests"; and

iv. "Accommodations proposed at 4/5/24 annual review meeting: Provide [the Student] with additional processing time when directions are given, a question is asked in class, or if [the Student] is asked to start an activity (up to 2 minutes). After necessary processing time is given, check in with [the Student] to allow [them] to advocate if further clarification is needed."

d. Explanation of why the actions were proposed;

i. For December 19, 2023 accommodations: "[The Student's] team, including Parent, met to discuss concerns regarding volume of work, pacing and timing of summative classroom assessments. The proposed accommodations/modifications are a result of that discussion. [The School] team is proposing these accommodations/modifications due to demonstrated need";

ii. For the January 29,2024 accommodation: "Findings of an Independent Educational Evaluation [IEE] indicate significant delays in working memory and processing speed. The IEE evaluation team recommended that [Student] utilize a 'cue card' to assist with working memory concerns. The [School] team has reviewed this recommendation and agrees";

iii. For the April 5, 2024 accommodation: "Due to slower processing skills, the team is proposing that [the Student] be provided with additional processing time following classroom directions"; and

e. Parent signature and date of April 25, 2024.

7. An additional PWN dated April 5, 2024 showed documentation of:
    a. Review of special education and related services and appropriate educational placement based on meetings from January 29, 2024, February 13, 2024, February 27, 2024, March 29, 2024, and April 5, 2024;
    b. "Material change in services (Parental Consent Required)";
    c. "Substantial change in placement (Parental Consent Required)";
    d. Proposal to add Study Skills "(50 minutes, 1 time a week and 90 minutes, 2 times a week in Special Education Setting) starting 8/13/2024." This was explained as, "An [IEE] recommends that [the Student] be provided the opportunity for organizational check-ins and assistance with learning and utilizing strategies to support organization and time management. Data collected by the school team indicates that [the Student] demonstrates the need for specially designed instruction in the area of executive functioning skills. Study Skills curriculum addresses these executive functioning skills and would provide the appropriate environment for [the Student] to learn organization and time management strategies";
    e. Proposal to remove in-class Science support starting May 29, 2024 due to the Student meeting science credit requirements at the end of junior year. A note was added that if the Student enrolled in a science class during senior year, support could be added back to the IEP;
    f. Proposal to remove in-class Social Studies support starting December 21, 2024 due to the class being only a semester long; and
    g. Parent signature and date of May 14, 2024.
8. On April 25, 2024, emails were exchanged between the District Team and the Parent regarding parental consent and the implementation of accommodations. The Associate Principal acknowledged there were accommodations proposed at an IEP meeting on April 5, 2024. A PWN dated April 10, 2024 was sent to the Parent requesting signature, and the consent was signed and returned April 25, 2024. Therefore, the accommodations on the IEP would be implemented beginning April 25, 2024. The Associate Principal also acknowledged that the Parent requested the "shortening of assignments by 50% be retroactively applied to the start of the 2nd semester," but stated that would go into effect beginning from the date of the signed PWN, April 25, 2024.

    The Associate Principal also stated that teachers would be informed of the modifications and accommodations and updated on expectations for the remainder of the school year. The Parent replied that the accommodation for reducing assignments by 50% was originally proposed and included on a PWN dated December 19, 2023 and alleged there were five IEP meetings held to perform a review of the draft before having the final meeting and that the Student should not be impacted by this. The Parent also asked for more information regarding the decision that it could not be retroactive.

The Associate Principal replied, "The District cannot implement accommodations until parental consent is granted, and the IDEA and Kansas law do not provide for retroactive application of parental consent. Implementation starts after the parental consent is provided. To the extent that you are asking about 'who decided that it cannot be retroactive,' this is not a matter of an administrative decisions/discretion, but rather a matter of the requirements concerning parental consent to accommodations."

9. The IEP amended May 14, 2024, included a note stating that science support in general education would end on May 29, 2024 per a PWN signed by the Parent. A PWN dated for April 2024 (no day) also noted that the Student did not enroll in a science class for their senior year.
10. On May 19, 2024, the Parent emailed the Associate Principal suggesting a detailed plan for the last week of school that included a list of needed assignments, who would be assisting the Student with them, what final exam study materials would be provided, and what accommodations the Student could expect for each exam.
11. On May 20, 2024 via email, the Associate Principal explained that a list of missing science assignments represented priority standard work and needed to be completed, but were not. They further stated that accommodations and modifications had been in place and that time after- school had been given to work on them. The Associate Principal explained that a plan for early final exams had been developed between the Student and their teachers and was signed off by the Parent, the Student, and the Associate Principal. They also explained that locations and staff members to deliver the exams according to IEP accommodations had been identified and that the exams would be modified according to the IEP.
12. In a May 20, 2024 email reply to the Associate Principal, the Parent stated that they had done an audit of all Science assignments and found no consistency in what had been modified.
13. During interviews, the Science Teacher was asked to describe how science assignments were modified for the student. They explained, "I followed the IEP modifications and accommodations in conjunction with the case manager and my cooperating teacher as well." When asked about each specific accommodation or modification listed on the Student's IEP, the Science Teacher confirmed for each that it was either implemented as written, the Student chose not to use the support, or the support was not applicable to the class assignments. They could not recall a time when an accommodation or modification was not provided to the Student in their classroom.

    When asked how a student or parent would know if an assignment had been modified, the Science Teacher replied that it would have been noted in the Canvas platform. "I always had a regular assignment and then I had a modified assignment, and that was always communicated with the cooperating teacher, the case manager, the student, and if the parent ever asked, I would always volunteer that information."

When asked about receiving required trainings for the Student or for students with special needs, the Science Teacher confirmed they attended a District required meeting about that topic and then various meetings throughout the year. They confirmed meeting weekly with the Case Manager or other professionals specifically about the Student.

According to 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(4) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), the IEP must outline the specific services, aids, and program modifications that will enable the child to progress toward their goals, participate in the general education curriculum and extracurricular activities, and be educated alongside other children with and without disabilities. It also must list the projected start date, frequency, location, and duration of the services and modifications.

The Parent alleged the District failed to ensure correct implementation of the Student's IEP accommodations and modifications, particularly in their science class. Some of their primary concerns included the volume of work in the science class and modification of assignments. The Parent believed that the accommodation of "shortening assignments by 50%" should have been retroactively applied, but the District stated that as legally required, they began implementation on the date that parental consent was given. The Parent indicated that implementation of modifications and accommodations was more of a concern to them than how they were documented on the IEP.

The District asserted that they fulfilled all requirements in ensuring the Student's IEP was in effect and implemented as written and that all teachers received mandatory training regarding accommodations and modifications. The District also asserted that they responded to the Parent's specific concerns by holding meetings, reviewing the IEP and making necessary updates or adjustments.

Regarding IEP accommodations and modifications for the Student, the District records indicate IEP documentation of necessary supports, a staff training schedule, ongoing communication between the Parent and District staff, multiple meetings about the Student, including with the Science Teacher, and related IEP changes as determined by the IEP Team. The District further asserted that the Student completed the Science class requirements with the IEP Team's support.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the District failed to implement accommodations and modifications for the Student during their science class.

Issue Five

USD #512, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide an accurate PWN to the Parent and did not provide a PWN regarding the Parent's request for a neutral third-party note taker. K.S.A. 72-3430; K.S.A. 72-3432; K.A.R. 91-40-26.

Positions of the Parties

The Parent alleged that the PWNs provided by the School "have consistently included biased and inaccurate information that do not reflect the discussions during the IEP meetings. Our requests for neutral third-party note-taker were ignored, further undermining our trust in the process and hindering our ability to advocate for [the Student] effectively."

The District responded that the Parent's allegation "does not concern any circumstance in which the District would be required to issue a PWN. With regard to this allegation, the District did not propose or refuse to take action with regard to the Student's educational plan. [The] Parent requested that the District cover the expense of a third[-]party notetaker selected by [the] Parent to take notes at IEP team meetings. This request did not relate in any way to the Student's disabilities or accommodations or to the Student's IEP. Further, there is no requirement in the IDEA, or in state or federal regulations, which requires a school district to meet a Parent's request for a third-party notetaker at IEP meetings." Additionally, the District asserted there was no requirement per the State Process Handbook for them to issue a PWN in regard to this request.

Finally, the District stated that the Parent took notes during the IEP meetings using an artificial intelligence (AI) platform and requested for those notes to be included in the Student's special education records, which the District honored each time these notes were received. The District also noted that they were originally attaching the Parent notes to the end of the Student's IEP due to length and as an attempt to reduce confusion within the IEP document, but when the Parent requested their notes be included within the IEP rather than attached to the end, the District honored this request by placing the Parent's notes in the 'Parental Input' section of the IEP. The District communicated this change to the Parent via email on January 17, 2024. Additionally, the District noted that they and the Parent were audio recording each IEP meeting and these recordings would have been made available to the Parent if requested.

1. During interviews, the Parent stated, "I'm not saying there's any inaccuracy of the timing or delivery of PWNs. I am talking specifically to the notes that are being now included in a PWN document." The Parent further explained that they were asking for their version of the notes to be added to the District's version of the notes, so that anyone reading them would understand the Parent point of view. The Parent asserted that their versions of the notes were more "comprehensive" and included next steps. The District confirmed that since receiving notice that the Parent requested their AI version of notes to be included in the IEP, the notes were dated when received from the Parent and then copied and pasted directly into the parent portion of the IEP. Additionally, if the Parent believed there were submissions missing from the Student's record and provided dates of these materials, the Chief of Special Education stated they would work with the records clerks to ensure accuracy.

2. A PWN dated October 9, 2023 showed that no changes were being proposed or refused, but that the document contained notes taken during an IEP meeting on October 6, 2023. On October 10, 2023, the School Psychologist emailed the Parent including an attachment of this PWN and stated that its purpose was not to propose or refuse any changes, but to serve as notes documentation from the October 6, 2023 meeting.
3. On October 15, 2023, the Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education a list of notes they wanted added to the PWN regarding the October 6, 2023 meeting. These notes included topics of the Parent's primary concerns and complaints, occupational therapy, speech therapy, communication with teachers, careers class, counseling services, and general IEP meeting communication. The PWN dated October 9, 2023 references these topics from the meeting, but does not include the Parent's notes verbatim.
4. On November 26, 2023, the Parent emailed the District Team stating they did not receive a reply to have their notes regarding the October 6, 2023 meeting added to the PWN and requested an updated PWN from that date to include their notes as outlined in their document attached to the email.
5. On December 1, 2023, the School Psychologist replied via email to the Parent, "Your request on 10/15/2023 to have your parent concerns added was received and your notes were added to [the Student's] educational record. The PWN document is used to capture what is discussed; it documents the proposals and refusals of actions from the school team from the IEP meeting. The PWN is not appropriate for documentation of parent concerns but attaching your concerns to [their] educational record is the appropriate action, which the school team has done." The Parent replied, "You state the PWN is not the appropriate documentation for Parent Concerns. Our request was to add our meeting notes in addition to the meeting notes you added to the PWN. We never framed it as parental concerns."
6. On December 20, 2023, the Chief of Special Education emailed the Parent and included PWN attachments stating that one was to serve as meeting notes.

   The Parent replied to the Chief of Special Education via email January 3, 2024 alleging, "The notes provided on the PWN were very biased and did not accurately reflect what was said during our meeting. This is now the second time this has happened. The first time [the School Psychologist] added biased notes to the PWN, we requested our notes be added in addition to accurately represent what was covered at that meeting. That request was denied. We have since asked to record the meetings as a source of truth. Going forward we are now requesting that a 3rd party attend the meetings to serve as the non-biased note-taker for future PWNs."

7. On March 2, 2024, the Parent emailed the Deputy Superintendent requesting a meeting to discuss concerns and alleged inaccuracies on a "proposed" PWN dated March 1, 2024. In this same email, the Parent clarified they did not agree with what the Team had proposed on the PWN in regards to providing outside services based on the IEE recommendations via telehealth rather than in-person. The Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education on March 6, 2024 and outlined their concerns and stated their disagreement with the proposal. The District's records indicated IEP meetings on March 29, 2024, April 5, 2024, and May 14, 2024 to continue discussing concerns and proposals for the IEP. Additionally, a PWN dated May 22, 2024 and signed by the Parent May 23, 2024 outlined the proposed actions from March 1, 2024 and the updated actions the Team agreed to May 2024.
8. On April 12, 2024 and April 20, 2024, the Parent emailed the District about their concerns that the PWNs were not accurate or inclusive of the Parent input.
9. A PWN dated May 14, 2024, indicated that no IEP changes were being proposed or refused and the document contained notes from annual IEP review meetings of January 29, 2024, February 13, 2024, February 27, 2024, March 29, 2024, April 5, 2024, and May 14, 2024.
10. An email on May 21, 2024 from the Chief of Special Education to the Parent included an attached PWN with updated notes and items requiring parental consent on a separate PWN. Additionally, it was indicated that the notes provided by the Parent on May 14, 2024 were added to the parent portion of the IEP. The amended IEP dated May 14, 2024 shows inclusion of the Parent's notes received via email on the same date and those also received on February 12, 2024.
11. During interviews, the Chief of Special Education explained that their PWN procedure is "multifaceted." Sometimes there would be more than one PWN for a meeting based on the number of action proposals or refusals, requests for parental consent, or the volume of information. Based on recent legal guidance, the District began using PWNs to "outline meeting notes, to outline all of the components that are covered, even if the action isn't required … ." They stated that each PWN and its purpose was explained to the Parent and that the Parent was told that their notes could be added to the Student's record either by way of attachment to the IEP or in the parental concerns/input section of the IEP document itself.

The parents of a child with a disability must receive prior written notice before any proposed or refused changes regarding their child's identification, evaluation, educational placement, or a FAPE. The notice must clearly describe the action, the reasons behind it, other options considered, reasons those options were rejected, any supporting documentation, and available procedural safeguards. 34 C.F.R. 300.503; K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2); K.S.A. 72-3432; K.A.R. 91-40-26

Additionally, in Kansas, school districts must obtain written parental consent before making a change of 25% or more of a special education service. K.S.A. 72- 3430(b)(6).

The Parent specified that their concern was that the notes being documented in PWNs only showed the District's perspective and did not fully capture the contents of the IEP meetings. They wanted their notes to be added to the District's notes so that the Parent's perspective was also documented and they believed their notes were more comprehensive. The District explained they utilized PWNs for multiple purposes and recently began documenting meeting notes on PWNs separate from any other proposals or refusals of action. The District acknowledged that their prior practice was to attach the Parent's notes to the end of the IEP, but upon request for the notes to be added within the IEP document instead, the District began documenting the Parent's notes, once received, within the parental input portion of the IEP. The District explained to the Parent that this was the process for including their notes in the Student's record instead of adding them to the PWNs. The Parent and District did not agree on this.

The District's records indicated multiple interactions between the Parent and the District about this subject. The District's records also indicated that the Parent's notes that were received in February and April 2024, were added to the parental input section of the IEP. The District's records indicated that the Parent's notes were not added to the PWNs with the District's notes.

The Parent also alleged that the District did not respond to their request for a third-party notetaker to help ensure accurate and nonbiased notes. The District asserted that there is no legal or procedural requirement for them to meet the Parent's request for a third-party notetaker. They also asserted that this was not a circumstance that required a PWN, because it wasn't related to a proposal or refusal of action regarding the Student's IEP.

The Investigator agrees with the district analysis. A PWN is required when the District makes a proposal, or refuses a proposal, to make changes to any matter related to identification, evaluation, placement, or the provision of FAPE. The use of a PWN for any other purpose is at the discretion of the District and is not regulated by law.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the District failed to meet the PWN requirements.

Issue Six

USD #512, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to review the results of an IEE and revise the IEP, as appropriate, in a timely manner. K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2)(B).

Positions of the Parties

The Parent alleged that "[w]hile the team ultimately acted on the Independent Educational Evaluation (IEE) data, it took the entire year to accomplish, and the process was not conducted as a team effort. This further hindered [the Student's] ability to maximize [their] education during that year. The delay in acting on the IEE findings resulted in a significant loss of time and educational opportunity for [the Student], which should have been addressed much sooner."

The District responded that they "fully complied" with all regulations regarding timely review and revision of the Student's IEP to address the results of the IEE.

The District reported they were alerted by the Parent on December 29, 2023 that the report was finished. The District was closed for winter break from December 21, 2023 through January 3, 2024. The District stated that they received the IEE report on January 4, 2024. The District contacted the Parent via phone on January 3, 2024 and January 7, 2024 to schedule a time to review the IEE and to schedule an IEP meeting. An IEP meeting was scheduled for January 29, 2024. The Parent requested a pre-meeting to only include some members of the IEP Team in order to review the IEE prior to the IEP meeting due to the Parent's concern that one scheduled meeting would not be enough time to review the IEE and review and revise the annual IEP. Members of the team honored this request and met with the Parent to review the IEE on January 19, 2024.

The District further explained that they "met multiple times to review the IEE and to develop an updated IEP. The District developed and provided a crosswalk of information connecting the IEE to the draft IEP developed by the District." Additionally, the District asserted that they "proposed additional supplemental services for the Student" in response to the Parent's concerns about the Student's progress. The District noted they also "offered to provide the Student private tutoring during the school day. The Parent rejected this request (the original offering was March 1, 2024). The District agreed to contract services to provide tutoring during the summer for the [S]tudent. [The] Parent consented to this on May 23, 2024."

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the District.

1. On October 11, 2023, the Chief of Special Education sent a letter to the Parent notifying them of receipt of their request for an IEE and agreement for the District to cover the cost up to a designated amount. It was also noted that the results would be considered by the District once received and that "[U]nless notified to further discuss an extension, the IEE results need to be received by the school district by Friday February 23, 2024."

2. On December 11, 2023, the Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education asking what out-of-school options or resources could be brought into the School based on the IEE report. The Chief of Special Education emailed the Parent and their advocate stating, "This will be an IEP team decision based on data obtained from the IEE at [the Outside Agency]. This could look like independent services being contracted through outside agencies who have a specialty in deficit areas identified within the IEE. For your reference, I have pulled the excerpt of the process for an IEE as it is outlined in the [Kansas] process handbook and embedded below. The team will meet and follow requirements outlined below."
3. The IEE report dated December 20, 2023 contained a section called "Recommendations," and it included subsections titled: "Medication Reevaluation," "General Considerations for the School," "Instruction & Learning Strategies," "Accommodations & Supports," "Academic Skill Building," "Reading Interventions & Strategies," "Writing Interventions & Strategies," "Math Interventions & Strategies," "Home Interventions for Academics," "Improving Productivity," "Structure and Routine," "Visual Cues and Reminders," "Heath and Nutrition," "Regular Exercise," and "Social and Emotional Support."
4. The Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education on January 3, 2024, proposing a meeting to review the IEE prior to the annual IEP. The Parent said they would like the meeting to include the Parent, the Chief of Special Education, the Case Manager, and the Parent's Advocate.
5. On January 4, 2024, a psychologist from the agency that conducted the IEE emailed the IEE report to the Chief of Special Education and the School Psychologist and noted that the Parent had also received a copy.
6. On January 11, 2024, an IEP meeting was scheduled for January 29, 2024 to review the results of the evaluation and develop the annual IEP.
7. On January 18, 2024, the Parent confirmed via email to the Deputy Superintendent and Chief of Special Education that they were meeting with the Case Manager on January 19, 2024 to review the IEE prior to the IEP meeting scheduled for January 29, 2024. They also noted that it was not an IEP meeting, and that the Chief of Special Education's attendance, along with anyone else, was optional.
8. On January 19, 2024, the Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education stating that they had been informed that only the Case Manager and School Psychologist planned to attend the meeting to review the IEE later that day, but they also wanted the Chief of Special Education to participate in the meeting. The Chief of Special Education confirmed they would not attend the meeting due to other commitments. The Parent said they would send a meeting link anyway so the Chief of Special Education could attend remotely because they thought it was important for them to attend. The Parent also requested additional time for the IEP meeting on January 29, 2024 in order to thoroughly review the IEE and IEP.

9. During interviews, the Parent stated, "When we requested to come back together and review [the IEE] as a team, the [Chief of Special Education] and team refused to." The Parent said that after multiple phone calls and emails, they showed up to the School to review the IEE and only two people from the IEP Team joined them in doing so. The Parent stated that they asked the Team members for feedback about the report, but the Team "refused to speak about it." The Parent stated that further discussions occurred in IEP meetings making sure goals and other IEP areas were "correlating correctly."
10. On January 22, 2024, the Parent emailed the Chief of Special Education an attached recording of the IEE review meeting and asked that all appropriate team members read the IEE and listen to the recording prior to the annual IEP meeting.
11. On January 26, 2024, the Chief of Special Education emailed the Parent confirming a meeting on January 29, 2024 to draft an IEP and discuss recommendations from the IEE. They indicated the Team had prepared a "crosswalk document" linking the IEE and draft IEP and attached the document to the email. A PWN dated April 2024 contained notes from the January 29, 2024 meeting indicating this discussion had occurred.
12. On January 29, 2024, February 13, 2024, February 27, 2024, March 29, 2024, and April 5, 2024, IEP meetings occurred to continue reviewing the IEE and to continue reviewing and revising the annual IEP.
13. The IEP dated April 5, 2024 and amended April 25, 2024 contained an "IEE Synopsis" under the "Student's Current Level of Performance" section that listed diagnoses from the IEE report and explained some of the evaluation findings.
14. A PWN dated May 14, 2024 referenced a "crosswalk document" linking the IEP and the IEE. The document listed the recommendations from the IEE, how the District addressed those recommendations in the Student's current IEP, and IEP proposals. The sections covered include: "Instruction & Learning Strategies," "Accommodations & Supports," "Reading Interventions & Strategies," "Writing Interventions & Support," and "Math Interventions & Strategies."
15. During interviews, the Parent stated that the District's "crosswalk" document was created after an escalated Parent complaint. The Parent stated that they told the District they wanted to know how the IEE was being utilized and explained that the document was not collaborative, but "dictated," and that it included outdated information that was not in the actual IEE.
16. A PWN dated May 22, 2024 showed documentation of:
    a. "Material Change in Services (Parental Consent Required)";
    b. A May 23, 2024 updated proposal: "Parent requested the district determine if the proposed services outlined below (and included in a PWN dated 3/1/24) could be provided in person. Services will be able to be provided in person 1 time per week for 6 weeks (June-August). Services will be 45minutes per session. No sessions will occur the week of July 8th due to the office being closed. … The services will target the language deficits identified in the IEE received from [Outside Agency]."

"[The School] is proposing [the Student] receive supplemental services to provide specific instruction targeting [their] language deficits. These services would be delivered via telehealth from a licensed provider with expertise in language disorders for 6-8 weeks (beginning March 5, 2024) based on the student's response to the specially designed instruction. [The District] staff will attend sessions that occur ranging from 1 time per week for up to 45 minutes to 3 times per week for up to 45 minutes per session. The outside provider and [the District] staff will provide parents with an update every two weeks regarding the areas targeted during the service as well as the student response";

c. An explanation of: "The IEP team is proposing [the Student] access private services from a licensed provider with expertise in language disorders. This specific instruction will target [the Student's] identified needs in the area of Application-Based Learning as identified in the IEE from [Outside Agency]. Regular communication with the parent providing updates and sharing the specific components being targeted and the student response is proposed to allow the parent to be fully informed regarding the supplemental services occurring"; and

d. Parent signature and date of May 23, 2024.

Applicable Regulations and Conclusions

The school must review the child's IEP at least annually to assess progress toward goals. Revisions should address any lack of progress, reevaluation results, new information from parents, anticipated needs, or other relevant matters. Schools are required to review the information from the IEE, if it meets the agency's criteria, to make decisions regarding the provision of FAPE to the child. 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b), 34 C.F.R 503(c)(1), and K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2)(B)

On October 11 2023, the District agreed to pay for an IEE. On December 9, 2024 the Parent notified the District that the IEE was complete and a report was forthcoming. Following the District's winter break closure, on January 4, 2024, the District received the IEE report. The District contacted the Parent on January 3, 2024 and January 7, 2024 to schedule a meeting to review the annual IEP. The IEP meeting was scheduled for January 29, 2024.

The Parent requested a pre-meeting to review the IEE prior to the scheduled IEP meeting. It was held January 19, 2024 between the Parent and select IEP Team members. It was noted by the Parent that this meeting was not an IEP meeting and that attendance of certain staff members was optional.

On January 22, 2204, the Parent sent the District a copy of the recording of the IEE review meeting and requested other IEP Team members review it. Following this meeting, the Parent alleged that school staff "refused" to participate in discussion about the IEE or give feedback.

On January 26, 2024, the District confirmed that the IEE recommendations would be a topic of discussion at the January 29, 2024 IEP meeting and that the District had created a crosswalk document linking the IEE and the IEP. The Parent claimed the IEE crosswalk was not a collaborative effort and contained outdated information.

Six IEP meetings were held from January 29, 2024 through May 14, 2024 to continue reviewing the IEE and revising the annual IEP. Finalized District records from April 2024 and May 2024 document multiple discussions about, and references to, the IEE and related updates to the IEP. Additionally, the Parent and District agreed to outside tutoring sessions based on IEE recommendations at the District's expense. The Parent acknowledged that the District "ultimately acted on the IEE data," but alleged that it took "an entire year to accomplish."

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the district failed to review the results of an IEE and revise the IEP, as appropriate, in a timely manner.

Background Information

This complaint addressed a ninth-grade student who is enrolled part-time in the district. A special education evaluation to determine eligibility and special education services was being conducted at the beginning of the 2024-2025 school year with a meeting to review the results of the evaluation scheduled for September 25, 2024. The student had an IEP dated March 8, 2018 from another district but was not dismissed from special education services. Between grades 3-8 the student was homeschooled and during that time the student moved to another school district. In the spring of the 2023-2024 school year the parent reached out to the new Kansas school district to consider returning part or full time to school and obtain post-secondary transition services. The parent provided an outside psychological evaluation and requested special education services for the student.

Issue Investigated

Issue One

Did the district appropriately respond to a parent request for an IEP for a child with a disability?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at § 300.323(a) and state regulations at K.A.R. § 91-40-16(b)(1)-(3) state that at the beginning of each school year, each public agency must have in effect, for each child with a disability within its jurisdiction, an IEP as defined in § 300.320.

Letter to Siegel, 74 IDELR 23 (OSEP, February 19, 2019) is a guidance letter written by the United States Department of Education's Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) in response to a series of questions regarding a child with a disability who transferred to a new local educational agency (LEA) during the summer. The letter explains that IDEA does not specifically address this situation. However, "IDEA requires that at the beginning of each school year, each LEA, State educational agency, or other State agency, must have in effect, for each child with a disability in the agency's jurisdiction, an IEP. 20 U.S.C. § 1414(d)(2)(A) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.323. Therefore, public agencies must ensure that an IEP is in effect at the beginning of the school year for children who move into a new public agency during the summer. How a public agency meets this requirement is a matter to be decided by each individual new public agency. If the parent requests that the new public agency convene the IEP Team prior to the start of the school year and the public agency refuses to do so, the agency must provide written notice to the parent of the refusal. The prior written notice must include, among other content, an explanation of why the agency determined that conducting the meeting is not necessary to ensure the provision of appropriate services to the student. 20 U.S.C. §§ 1415(b)(3) - (4) and 1415(c)(1); and 34 C.F.R. § 300.503."

Eagle Mountain-Saginaw Independent School District, is a Texas special education due process decision that reiterates that public agencies must ensure that an IEP is in effect at the beginning of the school year for children who move into a new public agency during the summer, but did not require the district develop a new IEP for the first day of school. How a public agency meets this requirement is a matter to be decided by each individual new public agency. (60 IDELR 178 (SEA TX 2012)).

The Parent alleged that the family had been in contact with the special education department of the district since last spring about enrolling the student with a disability and an IEP from March 8, 2018 and it was not until Day 20 that any type of special education assistance was provided even though the student was visibly struggling and even then, the support was inadequate. The parent stated that she had been trying to get the school to put something in place to assist the student until the new IEP is finalized.

The district responded that following a spring meeting with the student and family, they followed their procedures for enrolling a part-time student and conducted an initial special education evaluation to determine whether the child is a child with an exceptionality and the educational needs of the child. They stated that they were aware the student had a disability, but they were not aware the student had an IEP until receiving it from the parent. They further stated they provided comparable services during the special education evaluation as they listened to the parent input. They assert they expedited the evaluation and met with the family on September 25,

The IEP dated April 8, 2018 documented that the student was eligible for special education as a child with other health impairments and provided services for special education and social work. It included accommodations for the use of graphic organizers, use of fidgets, quiet settings or small groups, and stress breaks. The IEP documented that the student received direct special education services as needed for breaks, behavior, and assistance with accommodations for testing. A daily check-in each morning and check-out was provided by special education staff on a daily basis, each day of the week for 15 minutes each morning and afternoon.

An email exchange among the parent, secondary special education coordinator and transition coordinator between April 23 and 24, 2024 documented the parent arranged for a tour of the high school, explained the student's history, disabilities, and shared the April 19, 2024 neuropsychology evaluation.

An email from the district office to the transition coordinator on April 23, 2024 at 12:10 p.m. documents that the parent sent an email to the district describing that the student has ASD (moderately on the spectrum), dyslexia/dysgraphia and ADHD. The parent further stated that school testing was recently completed for IEP purposes.

A neuropsychology report dated April 19, 2024 from a private evaluation center recorded the student had diagnoses of ASD Level 2, Dyslexia, dysgraphia, and ADHD.

An email from the parent to the transition coordinator on May 8, 2024 documented that the parent intended to enroll the student part-time in the district beginning during the 2024-2025 school year and the student would need special education services.

The parent and aunt stated during an interview with the investigator on October 6, 2024 that they offered to provide a copy of the student's IEP during the interactions with the district between April 23, 2024 and the end of the school year, but the district declined stating they would obtain the last IEP directly from the district.

The Request to Evaluate consent form dated May 16, 2024 documented that the district notified the parent that the student would be evaluated for special education services in response to receiving the March 2024 neuropsychology evaluation and parent information. The Request to Evaluate form documented that the parent signed consent for a special education evaluation on May 25, 2024.

Email exchanges between July 18, 2024 and August 6, 2024 between the parent and principal's secretary show that the student's enrollment and transition to the high school were discussed.

An Email from the mother to the transition coordinator documented that on August 6, 2024 a request was made for the student to walk the building and discuss credits/schedule and student needs. The parent asked for meetings to discuss special education services and implementation of the accommodations when the student began the school year. The transition coordinator proposed August 8 to meet to go over evaluation paperwork, half-time enrollment, and credits.

The student schedule showed that the student was enrolled for attendance for three courses, biology, drama, and physical education. Interview with the district revealed that the student received 1:1 para support during the school start up to aid in observation for the special education evaluation. The district reported during the interview that observation noted that the student was easily redirected with unfamiliar school routines. The student was provided a laminated "break" pass to show to teachers when he needed a break. The parent stated that the student did not understand how or when to use the pass and as a result did not use it when it was truly needed.

An email on August 19, 2024 to the parent provided the name of the student's case manager. An email on August 20, 2024 at 12:51 p.m. from a special education teacher to the parent clarified an error, "[student] is listed as a potential student on [teacher's] caseload but is still 'in referral'." To which the parent responded, "[student] should already be considered eligible for SpEd, if that is the eligibility you're talking about."

On September 8, 2024 at 10:00 p.m. the parent emailed the district checking in on obtaining supports for the student and inquiring how the student's needs are communicated with the classroom teachers. On September 9, 2024, the school psychologist emailed the mother that, "We have been in the process of completing the transition portion of the evaluation. The school has 60 school days to complete any evaluation. The transition has now been completed." The mother replied that the student transferred into this district with a Kansas IEP so expected that something would be in place at the start of the school year, even as additional evaluation was occurring.

On September 9, 2024 at 8:23 a.m. the school psychologist wrote the mother, "This is the first I have heard of an existing IEP. There was no mention during our in person meeting prior to school starting nor have I seen this IEP. It is my understanding that he has been homeschooled and this is the first [student] has been in public school for quite some time…If there is a current IEP, please forward immediately."

On September 9, 2024 at 2:53 p.m. the school psychologist wrote in an email to the parent, "The IEP from 2018 is no longer current and [student's] present level of performance and needs would likely not be that same. That is why time is needed to obtain data to determine needs." The parent responded, "I understand it's an old IEP, but when he is gone for a whole class period or, like today, the principal calls me telling me that a [classmate] complained that [student]s put [student] hands on [classmate] I expect you to move quicker to get some sort of oversight in place. I started this process in April to avoid this."

An email from the mother to the district on September 10, 2024 at 9:32 a.m. documented, "Please find attached [student] IEP from [previous district]. Though it is old, it is not expired and I believe there are things that could have been put in place on the first day of school. It is now Day 19, which is an unreasonable time to have lapsed, especially when [student] is struggling and has since Day 4. I don't know if you attempted to get any records from [previous district], but you have had the academic testing done by [outside agency] evaluation since last spring."

The Reevaluation/Continued Eligibility Report dated September 24, 2024 and discussed on September 25, 2024 concluded that the student qualifies for special education and related services as a student with autism and specific disability with dyslexia. As well the student has dyslexia.

A draft IEP was reviewed and discussed during the evaluation meeting and full-time enrollment was recommended. The prior written notice dated September 25, 2024 documented the purpose of the meeting was to determine "whether your child was eligible for special education, special education and related services needed by your child and the appropriate educational placement to provide special education and related services identified in your child's Individualized Education Program (IEP)." A description of the action proposed was that the student "qualifies for having an exceptionality and needs special education services.

Conclusion

In summary the district and parent agreed the student had a disability, but the district proceeded with this student's enrollment in the district by determining eligibility and appropriate services, either assuming the 2018 IEP was no longer current or in effect due to the lengthy period of homeschooling or not being aware that the student had an IEP. The parent believed she was enrolling the student as a transfer student with an IEP as demonstrated by contacting the special education department, describing the disability, providing current outside evaluation for IEP purposes, and requesting a meeting prior to the start of the school year to determine services. As well, she referred to the student as a transfer student from another Kansas district.

The regulations are not clear as to how this situation should be addressed, but a number of courts have found that the appropriate regulation is §34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) which says, "At the beginning of each school year, each public agency must have in effect, for each child with a disability within its jurisdiction, an IEP as defined in §34 C.F.R. 300.320." Eagle Mountain-Saginaw Independent School District. 60 IDELR 178 (SEA TX 2012) further clarified that a new IEP does not need to occur prior to the school year, but the prior IEP does need to be implemented.

The investigator considered whether federal regulations at §34 C.F.R. 300.323(e) regarding treatment of a transfer student applied, however the student in this case did not move in during the school year in which the IEP was operating, and Letter to Siegel, 74 IDELR 23, (OSEP 2019) clarified that when a student does not move in "within the same school year," § 300.323(e) does not apply. Thus, when a student does not move "within the same school year," the student should not be treated as a transfer student.

Finally, the investigator considered whether child find federal regulations at §34 C.F.R. 300.111(a) and Kansas Regulations at K.A.R. § 91-40-7(a) applied, however the student was already identified as eligible in the previous district and no action had occurred to dismiss the student from services.

Therefore, according to §34 C.F.R. 300.323(a), this is a student with an IEP who lived within the jurisdiction of the district since 2018 and was homeschooled during those years. When the parent enrolled that child in public schools the district had an obligation to ensure that an IEP was in effect at the beginning of the school year for the student by implementing the last agreed upon IEP, which would include any revisions made by the student's new IEP Team (if any). The district had an obligation to request and receive a copy the previous IEP (§ 300.320(g)(1). It is acknowledged that the district implemented many of accommodations from the previous IEP to provide comparable service during the evaluation. It is found that the parents requests to discuss the students supports while the evaluation was occurring should have triggered an IEP Team meeting prior to the start of the school year. No prior written notices or other special education actions document the request or refusal of such request.

Therefore, it is found that USD #383 did not appropriately respond to a parent request for an IEP for a child with a disability by implementing an IEP to the student from the start of the 2024-2025 school year until the district conducted an IEP meeting on September 25, 2024.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) was found, based on the facts above. Corrective action is required.
    A. CORRECTIVE ACTION:
        i. By November 22, 2024, USD #383 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with federal regulations 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) which require that at the beginning of each school year, the school district must have in effect, for each child with a disability within its jurisdiction, an IEP.

ii. By November 22, 2024, or as soon as practicable convene the IEP team to implement the March 8, 2018 IEP and consider revisions to the IEP. This IEP meeting will be documented by a prior written notice. *This correction action step need not be completed if, prior to November 22, 2024, the continuing eligibility decision has been completed and a new IEP is developed for the student.

iii. By November 22, 2024, the IEP team will reconvene to offer compensatory services for the number of days between the start of the school year and the implementation of the March 8, 2018 IEP as ordered in 1(a)I or new IEP is written, whichever occurs first.

iv. By December 8, the district will provide evidence of completion of 1(a)i, 1(a)ii and 1(a)iii to SETS.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 383,
Manhattan-Ogden Public Schools: 25FC383-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on September 20, 2025, by ------- on behalf of her child, -------. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the parent," and ------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on October 22, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the school district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of this appeal, an appeal committee was appointed, and it reviewed the original complaint, the Complaint Report, the district's notice of appeal, and the parent's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal from Complainant

The report identified one allegation:

Did the district appropriately respond to a parent request for an IEP for a child with a disability?

The investigator concluded that, pursuant to 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a), "this is a student with an IEP who lived within the jurisdiction of the district since 2018 and was homeschooled during those years. When the parent enrolled that child in public schools the district had an obligation to ensure that an IEP was in effect at the beginning of the school year for the student by implementing the last agreed upon IEP…" Report, p 10-11.

In its appeal, the district states that it was not obligated to have an IEP in place on the first day of school for this student because it was unaware of the existing IEP until September 10, 2024, and was in the process of conducting an initial evaluation. The district made this information available to the investigator (Report, p. 6). The Appeal Committee agrees with the district and, for the reasons specified herein, reverses the conclusion in the investigation report.

The investigator acknowledged that there is some ambiguity with regard to the application of 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) to the situation where a district is uninformed that a resident of the district has an IEP developed by another Kansas district (Report, p. 10). However, the investigator concluded that the district had adequate notice that this student was a child with a disability with an active IEP. That conclusion was based on the following:

- "An email exchange among the parent, secondary special education coordinator and transition coordinator between April 23 and 24, 2024 documented the parent arranged for a tour of the high school, explained the student's history, disabilities, and shared the April 19, 2024 neuropsychology evaluation (Report p. 6)."
- "An email from the district office to the transition coordinator on April 23, 2024 at 12:10 p.m. documents that the parent sent an email to the district describing that the student has ASD (moderately on the spectrum), dyslexia/dysgraphia and ADHD. The parent further stated that school testing was recently completed for IEP purposes (Report p. 6-7)."
- A neuropsychology report dated April 19, 2024 from a private evaluation center recorded the student had diagnoses of ASD Level 2, Dyslexia, dysgraphia, and ADHD (Report p. 7).
- An email from the parent to the transition coordinator on May 8, 2024 documented that the parent intended to enroll the student part-time in the district beginning during the 2024-2025 school year and the student would need special education services (Report p. 7).
- An Email from the mother to the transition coordinator documented that on August 6, 2024 a request was made for the student to walk the building and discuss credits/schedule and student needs. The parent asked for meetings to discuss special education services and implementation of the accommodations when the student began the school year (Report p. 7-8).
- An email on August 20, 2024 at 12:51 p.m. from a special education teacher to the parent clarified an error, "[student] is listed as a potential student on [teacher's] caseload but is still 'in referral'." To which the parent responded, "[student] should already be considered eligible for SpEd, if that is the eligibility you're talking about (Report p. 8)."

The complaint report (p. 8-9) noted that the school psychologist was unaware that the student had an IEP on the first day of school, stating, "September 9, 2024 at 8:23 a.m. the school psychologist wrote the mother, 'this is the first I have heard of an existing IEP. There was no mention during our in person meeting prior to school starting nor have I seen this IEP. It is my understanding that he has been homeschooled and this is the first [student] has been in public school for quite some time…If there is a current IEP, please forward immediately."

The complaint report (p. 9), adds:

On September 9, 2024 at 2:53 p.m. the school psychologist wrote in an email to the parent, stating, "The IEP from 2018 is no longer current and [student's] present level of performance and needs would likely not be that same. That is why time is needed to obtain data to determine needs." The parent responded, "I understand it's an old IEP, but when he is gone for a whole class period or, like today, the principal calls me telling me that a [classmate] complained that [student] put [student's] hands on [classmate] I expect you to move quicker to get some sort of oversight in place. I started this process in April to avoid this."

An email from the parent to the district on September 10, 2024 at 9:32 a.m. documented, "Please find attached [student's] IEP from [previous district]. Though it is old, it is not expired and I believe there are things that could have been put in place on the first day of school. It is now Day 19, which is an unreasonable time to have lapsed, especially when [student] is struggling and has since Day 4. I don't know if you attempted to get any records from [previous district], but you have had the academic testing done by [outside agency] evaluation since last spring."

This record documents that the parent first told school officials that the student had a previous IEP on September 9, 2024, and first gave school personnel a copy of her child's IEP on September 10, 2024. That is something that, if done in April of 2024 or at any time through the summer months, may have avoided the very delay that prompted this complaint. The information that actually was provided by the parent was sufficient to trigger the child find obligation of the district to conduct an initial evaluation. The district met this obligation by: (a) issuing a prior written notice proposing an initial evaluation; (b) obtaining parent consent for an initial evaluation; and (c) completing the initial evaluation within an expedited timeline.

What the record does not document is that the parent notified the district that the student had an IEP at any time during this long process. Instead, beginning in late April of 2024, and extending into the second week of September 2024, the parent notified the district that the student would be enrolling the following school year, had frequent conversations with school personnel, toured the district's high school, and told the district that the student had various disabilities and should receive special education services. in all of the frequent communications between the parent and school officials between April and mid-September there is no verified instance in which the parent notified the district that the student had an existing IEP. By withholding disclosure of this vital information of a student who has not attended any public school for approximately five years, and has never attended school in this district, the Appeal Committee finds the district was without the requisite knowledge to have a legal duty to have an IEP in place on the first day of school for this student.

*In her response to the district's appeal, the parent states: "On July 15, 2024, I submitted (student's) school registration. I responded "yes" to the question, "Has this student ever received any special education services." I also responded "yes" to the question, "Has this student previously been enrolled in a Kansas school?" However, the parent provided no evidence to support this assertion and the investigator reported to the committee that she had not been informed of any such information. As stated in the "Preliminary Matters" portion of this decision, the appeal process is not a separate investigation. When the Committee is provided with unsupported information in an appeal, the Committee does attempt to locate the missing support.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the conclusion in the Complaint Report of a violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) is overturned. The Appeal Committee concludes that there is no failure to comply with the law that requires a school district to have an IEP in place on the first day of school. All corrective action required in the report is rescinded.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued on the 18th day of November, 2024.

The Investigator contacted the district and parent several times by phone and email to clarify evidence. The Investigator spoke with the mother by phone on September 17, 2024 and by email on several occasions to clarify specific points. The investigator later interviewed the mother on October 21, 2024 by phone. The Investigator interacted with the district and cooperative by email to clarify evidence and a phone interview occurred on October 7, 2024 with Kris Holt, Director of Special Education; Janniel Crader, Principal; Emily Maize, School Nurse; Jennifer Wilson, Speech Language Pathologist; Melissa Rodgers, School Psychologist; and Traci Kenner, Physical Therapist. The student's teacher was not available due to a previous obligation but provided clarifications by email.

Background Information

The student was a five-year-old kindergartener during the 2023-2024 school year and was eligible for special education and related services under the category of Developmental Delay based on the most current reevaluation dated May 13, 2021. He remains in the district as a first grader during the 2024-2025 school year. The student's placement is at the elementary school that is not the student's home school placement. Due to the student's needs the IEP team determined that the student's needs were better met at an elementary school in a different district, but within the same cooperative. During the past twelve months the student had two IEPs in effect. The student received special education and related services for speech and language and occupational therapy services. This complaint addresses developing and implementing an IEP that meets the safety needs of the student and implementing the student's service minutes during the past twelve months due to transportation.

Issues Investigated

1. Did the student's IEP include the appropriate special education and related services and supplementary aids and supports to supervise the student's safety written during the past 12 months?
2. Did the district follow the student's IEP during the past 12 months to provide the special education and related services and supplementary aids and supports written into the IEP to supervise the student's safety?
3. Did the district follow the student's IEP during the past 12 months to provide the special education and related service minutes written into the IEP?

Issue One

Did the student's IEP include the appropriate special education and related services and supplementary aids and supports to supervise the student's safety written during the past 12 months?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b) mandates that the IEP team must review the IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to ensure that it is effective in addressing the student's needs. If the IEP is not working, the team is required to revise it to address: 1) any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals; 2) the results of any reevaluation; 3) information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; and 4) the child's anticipated needs.

The Parent alleged that the student was repeatedly injured during the past twelve months due to lack of appropriate supervision of the student and other students. Specifically, during the 2023-2024 school year the student was not properly supervised while he was toileted and fell off the toilet, cutting open the back of his head. Later in the school year the student was not properly supervised, and another student hit and pushed the student resulting in his receiving a bloody nose and scratches on his neck. This school year the student was not properly supervised while on the playground, in spite of four staff being present on the playground, and the student fell approximately six feet off a piece of playground equipment and broke his arm. Given the student's disabilities and history of injuries during this short period of time, the mother alleges that the IEP clearly does not have enough support or supervision to keep the student safe.

The District responded that a safe learning environment for all students is a priority. They stated they believe that the student's IEP includes the appropriate special education and related services and supplementary aids and supports to supervise the student's safety.

The IEP dated April 27, 2023 noted fine, gross, and visual motor delays that impacted the student's ability to participate in developmentally appropriate activities. He received adaptive physical education and had a goal for 25% assists with safe playground activities. He additionally had a goal to show improvement in his balance in mobility by transitioning and sitting in a circle sit position during circle time in preschool.

A student office report, communication log with the parent and emails exchanges between the parent and school staff document that the student was injured on the October 31, 2023 while toileting. The parent claimed during the October 21, 2024 interview with the investigator that she was told the student fell off the toilet to the floor. The district described the incident during the October 7, 2024 interview as the student was placed on the toilet and as he was adjusting himself on the toilet, he thrust his head backward striking hit his head on the toilet's handle.

The parent reported that she was contacted by the district nurse and told he may need stitches, but it turned out he needed the laceration to be glued. The parent and district reported that no meetings to discuss changes to his toileting routine were made following the incident. Emails between the school and parent on November 23, 2023 documented that the school explained that the size of the toilet contributed to the student's injury.

The communication log documented that the student was scratched on the neck by another student on November 15, 2023 and that the parent was notified by the teacher and the teacher apologized for injury. The staff reported during her October 7, 2024 interview with the investigator that the other child's parent was notified about hurting the student and the staff were notified to take precautions for safeguarding children.

Emails between the parent and teacher and the communication log explained that the student was injured on March 29, 2024 when a classmate pushed the student in the lunchroom resulting in the student getting a nosebleed and half dollar size red mark on the student's forehead. It was documented in an office report that the student was examined by the school nurse and given ice. The parent emailed the school stating she was not happy that he continues to get hurt and concerned that para coverage is not keeping this from occurring. She stated that when the student started at the school the parent had ABA support available, but the district declined that support, assuring the parent they had plenty of help. No meetings or changes to the IEP were found.

The school staff stated during their October 7, 2024 interview that when the student transitioned from preschool to kindergarten the student developed more motor skills and improved from needing hands on assistance walking in the hallways to being independent. Additionally, during his kindergarten year, the student became much more independent on the school playground.

The student's progress reports that the student is independently climbing stairs, crossing steppingstones, and going down slides. He still requires full adult support for climbing ladders, swinging and teeter totter. The progress report documents that the student continues to be independent and needs occasional cues to try new things.

The prior written notice dated April 17, 2024 requested consent to reevaluate the student to consider dismissing physical therapy services. The mother signed consent for the reevaluation on April 26, 2024.

Using existing data, the reevaluation report dated April 17, 2024 summarized that the physical therapy goals were met, and dismissal was appropriate.

The IEP team met on April 19, 2024 to review the results of the reevaluation and an April 19, 2024 prior written notice proposed a dismissal of physical therapy as the goals have been met, with the parent signing consent on April 26, 2024.

The IEP dated April 22, 2024 did not include specially designed adaptive physical education and described the student as independent and safe in his mobility throughout the school and that he plays safely on the playground with his peers. Delays with motor imitation and coordinator skills impact his ability to access and participate in the general education setting. No accommodations, or supports for school personnel are included. It described the student as being dependent on staff to carry out tasks throughout the day. The student's current communication skills have a significant impact on the student's ability to get needs and wants met along with participating in developmentally appropriate activities.

The parent stated during her interview on October 21, 2024 that she did not agree that all of his physical therapy needs were met but agreed that he had improved. She stated that the student continues to have a limp. Although the family has pursued this through private medical professionals his walking is still not good, and he needs supervision.

A video of the fall on the playground, incident report, interviews with both the parent and school staff and emails document that the student fractured his right proximal humerus falling from a cork toy on the playground August 29, 2024. The office visit note, dated 8/29, 2024 at 2:23 p.m. documented the student came to the nurse's office upset and crying. He was observed to have a small scrape on his bottom lip, right elbow had a small scrape, his upper right arm/shoulder were swollen. 5ml of Tylenol were administered and the parent was called to pick up.

The urgent care report shows that the student had a fracture of the proximal humerus, and a shoulder immobilizer was recommended. Orthopedic follow-up was recommended. The doctor ordered a 1:1 para for the student at school since the injury was not casted. The parent and district both report that the 1:1 para was provided by the district while the student was in the immobilizer.

An email/text on August 30, 2024 showed that the mother contacted the school requesting to see the video of the incident and asking for a meeting. The mother made an email request to see the video again on September 4, 2024. A request was made for the father to have availability to view the video. The mother reported that the father did not view the video.

The IEP amendment not requiring a full meeting, dated August 14, 2024 proposed a material change of services to change speech therapy to 30 minutes one time every week and documented that the student does not require specially designed adaptive physical therapy, and is independent and safe with mobility throughout the school. He plays safely on the playground with his peers. This IEP amendment was refused by the parent and is not being implemented.

Conclusion

In this case a student was injured four times in the space of a year during kindergarten and in the first grade. The parent's allegation was that the district should have met with the IEP team to amend the IEP to ensure safety by providing 1:1 para support and reinstating physical therapy services.

The evidence shows that after each injury the parent was contacted in a timely manner and according to district procedures. In none of the incidents where the student was injured did the IEP team meet and discuss if the student's IEP needed to change. The district did not call an IEP meeting and the parent did not request an IEP meeting. In all instances the district followed their procedures and in their communications with the parent and documentation of the incidents no mention was made that the student's IEP services or supports needed to change.

Therefore, it is not substantiated that USD #416 that the student's IEP did not include the appropriate special education and related services and supplementary aids and supports to supervise the student's safety written during the past 12 months.

During the course of the investigation, evidence was provided showing that a procedural error occurred that impacted the student's services; dismissal of physical therapy services, which the parent stated contributed to the student's fall on the playground. The parent signed consent for conducting the reevaluation of the student's physical therapy services on the same date she signed consent for dismissing the services. According to K.S.A. 72-3428(b); K.S.A. 72-3430; 34 C.F.R. 300.304(a) whenever a school proposes to conduct a reevaluation, the school must provide Prior Written Notice to the parents of the child that describes any evaluation procedures the school proposes to conduct prior to conducting the reevaluation. The parent signed consent after the evaluation was conducted so prior notice was not adequately provided.

Issue Two

Did the district follow the student's IEP during the past 12 months to provide the special education and related services and supplementary aids and supports written into the IEP to supervise the student's safety?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

The Parent alleged that the student's IEP was not implemented to keep her child safe. The student has disabilities that required that the student have supports and supervision to be safe and those were not implemented resulting in the student ending up with several significant injuries.

The District responded that they followed the student's IEP providing the special education and related services and supplementary aids and supports that were written into the IEP to supervise the student's safety. Further, the student has multiple staff members throughout the day supervising him.

The IEP dated April 27, 2023 included goals 1) using signs/pictures/icons/speech to communicate needs and wants; 2) touching named items from an array of 3 photos/icons/pictures when give a verbal directive to indicate receptive knowledge; 3) imitate 5 functional play actions of an adult or peer; 4) respond to student's name within 5 seconds of being called; 5) complete three tasks/activities and indicate "all done" by sign/icon/verbalization; and 6) need (use) 25% assist on the playground for safety and access to equipment.

The student received 180 minutes of special education service 3 days every week; 160 minutes 1 day every week and 12 minutes 1 day every week. The student received 20 minutes of speech services 2 days every week and 20 minutes each of occupational therapy and physical therapy services 1 day every week and 30 minutes of extracurricular services 1 day every week. The student did not receive accommodations or supports for staff and did receive special education transportation services.

The IEP dated April 22, 2024 and IEP amended August 14, 2024 states that the student requires a Health care plan due to visiting the nurse twice daily for tube feedings. His IEP goals include: 1) manage items when presented with bilateral coordination and grip strength self care and too management skills; 2) maintain shared attention for 5 minutes by following one step simple directions; 3) use functional communication to protest, greet, request want and needs; 4) count as many as 10 objects and represent the quantity with the corresponding numeral; 5) identify student's own name by touch in an array of multiple student names.

The student received 120 minutes of speech services 4 days every week and 15 minutes of occupational therapy 1 day every week. The student did not receive accommodations or supports for staff and did receive special education transportation services 60 minutes 5 days every week.

The district stated during the October 7, 2024 interview that the student's class was comprised of 8 students supported by 5 to 6 staff in the classroom at all times.

The district stated during their October 7, 2024 interview that they followed the doctor orders and assigned a 1:1 para to the student while in the arm sling to assist with safety.

The district stated during the October 7, 2024 interview that while in the past the student's IEP present levels stated a need for adult support in walking in the hallways and on stairs he has progressed, and he is safe to walk in the hallway alone. He just needs guidance to not wander and remain focused on where he is going. Additionally, the use of an adaptive seat worked in the same way. It was not for motor or trunk stability, but to encourage him to remain seated with the class.

Progress notes show that the student was learning to use a communication system to express needs and wants.

Conclusion

The IEP does not contain special education, related services, or goals for physical safety due to health or medical conditions. Instead, the district staff and parent described the safety concerns were related to the student not having learned to use a communication system and consistently follow a one-step direction. The IEP contains services and goals to teach symbolic communication and follow one-step directions. Progress reports and interview with the staff documented that those services were provided and those goals taught. It is noted that the student was assigned a paraeducator on a temporary basis following his broken arm at the order of the student's medical doctor and the district followed that order.

As there were no specific services, supplementary aids or supports or goals directed specific to student safety and goals and services were directed to teaching safety skills it is not substantiated that USD #416 failed to follow the student's IEP during the past 12 months to provide the special education and related services and supplementary aids and supports written into the IEP to supervise the student's safety.

Issue Three

Did the district follow the student's IEP during the past 12 months to provide the special education and related service minutes written into the IEP?

Applicable Law

Transportation is a related service when it is needed in order for the child to benefit from special education. If the IEP team determines that a child will not be able to access special education services without transportation being provided by the school district, the IEP team needs to add transportation to the IEP as a related service, even if the need for transportation is not related to the disability. (Kansas Special Education Handbook)

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

South Washington County Indep. Sch. Dist. #833, 114 LRP 34477 (SEA MN 04/24/14) and Baltimore County Pub. Schs., 119 LRP 14587 (SEA MD 12/28/18) found that a district's failure to remedy consistent delays in a student's transportation may lead to a denial of FAPE requiring compensatory services.

Special Sch. Dist. (MO) of St. Louis County, 23 IDELR 1189 (OCR 1995), and Hood River County (OR) Sch. Dist., 16 IDELR 314 (OCR 1989) found that service interruptions that lasted a day or two did not likely amount to a finding that denied FAPE. However, even occasional, brief interruptions can violate a student's right in this regard when they occur frequently and repeatedly throughout the course of the school year.

The findings of Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.

The Parent alleged that during the last school year when the weather was becoming inclement during the school day and the student's school van was called to the school by the district and staff loaded the student into the van and transported him home approximately an hour before dismissal. While the weather was a concern the district did not dismiss early so the student was mistakenly sent home. Of more concern was that the parent or family members were not notified the student was returning home early and no one was at home to meet the student when he arrived at home.

The District responded that they follow the student's IEP providing the special education and related services minutes. The student is in a special day program and due to miscommunication with transportation during a winter storm the student left early in the district van when school was not dismissed early. This is not a routine situation. The principal stated that following this incident the school principal contacted each district to ensure all of the districts in the cooperative have more unified procedures in case of inclement weather.

The IEPs dated April 27, 2023 and April 22, 2024 include special transportation as a service.

The district shared during the interview on October 7, 2024 that the student rides in a district van between the home and school daily almost 2 hours daily roundtrip. They stated that the driver that picked up the student early on January 8, 2024 is no longer working in the district and the student has a new driver.

The district stated during the interview with the investigator on October 7, 2024 that the weather was becoming more inclement, and the student's van arrived, so the staff took the student out to meet the van as is their general practice. Since the van had arrived early, they assumed the student's home district was closing schools, and the student would follow the home district's weather closing procedures. The teacher then contacted the parent through email to let the mother know he had not eaten yet.

An email exchange on January 8, 2024 documented that the district notified the mother at 1:40 p.m. that transportation came early to transport him due to road conditions. The parent replied that the bus company had not notified her, and she was making arrangements to be home to meet the bus.

An email from the mother to the bus company documented that neither the bus company nor van driver notified the mother of bringing him home early. The parent stated during an interview with the investigator on September 17, 2024 that on January 8, 2024 there was a chance of winter mix at some point during the day and that she was called by the teacher about midday to let her know that the van had arrived and picked up her child without being tube fed. The mother spoke with the principal at the end of the day and in response to the mother describing the situation stated, "he has eaten by now, right, sometimes these times need to happen to find out where the gaps are."

The principal of the student's school contacted all of the districts in the coop to ensure that everyone's dismissal protocols were the same according to a communication log with the mother on January 8, 2024 at 3:30 p.m.

Attendance records show the student was absent 3.5 days during the 2024-2025 school year and the communication log documented that the teachers do not count the student tardy when the bus delays the student's arrival in the morning.

Communication logs show that van transportation was approximately 30 minutes late on October 5, 2023, did not show up on October 30, 2023, and was approximately 15 minutes late on November 28, 2023, January 5, 2024.

In an email exchange with the investigator on October 21, 2024 the parent wrote that the van has shown up every day and there have been no early pick-ups; the only time the bus returned the student home late is when there is a substitute driver.

Conclusion

The student receives special education transportation services as indicated on the IEPs of record and this related service is needed for the student to receive FAPE. While the January 8, 2024 incident when the student was brought home early for inclement weather without notification to the parent was the impetus for the mother's complaint, the student additionally missed approximately four total hours of service during the past twelve months due to late pick ups or not showing up. In reviewing court findings this situation did not constitute an ongoing consistent pattern of late arrivals or early dismissals. Further, the school principal reached out to the other districts to resolve the early dismissal and have replaced the van driver who was involved in the late pickups and not showing up one day.

Therefore, it is not substantiated that USD #416 failed to follow the student's IEP during the past 12 months to provide the special education and related service minutes written into the IEP in regard to early dismissals or late pickups of the student who had transportation as a related service.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a 14-year young man enrolled in the 9th grade at the high school during the 2024-2025 school year. He lives with both his mother/stepfather and father/stepmother who share custody and are actively involved in his education. The only language spoken in the home is English.

The student has medical diagnoses of Rubinstein-Taybi syndrome, Eosinophilic Esophagitis, and Asthma. He participated in early intervention services, birth to three years, via an Individualized Family Service Plan (IFSP). The student attended an Early Childhood Special Education Classroom beginning at age three until kindergarten. He entered kindergarten with an Individualized Education Program (IEP) and has had a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) since first grade. Prior to enrollment in the high school, he attended a district middle school. The local special education cooperative has provided services to the student from 4th grade to current. The student's qualifying exceptionalities include intellectual disability and speech language impairments. His most recent reevaluation was conducted in December of 2021 and the district is currently in the process of conducting a reevaluation with additional assessments including a Functional Behavioral Assessment (FBA) and an Occupational Therapy (OT) assessment for sensory needs.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, four issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

Did USD #266 appropriately implement the student's IEP during the past 12 months?

Parent Position

The parent reported that the district has failed to provide the required special education and related services to the student because the IEP does not include any specific service minutes. The parent also indicated the special education teachers do not engage the student meaningfully during the school day and fail to provide necessary accommodations and modifications. The parent complained that the student does not have access to curriculum approved by the school board and does not have regular and consistent access to his augmentative communication device throughout the school day. The parent believes USD #266 has denied the student access to extracurricular activities by not allowing him the same opportunities as other students. Finally, the parent reports the IEP was updated on September 13, 2024 to require daily communication with parents; however, this was not done in a timely manner.

For clarity, please note that each of these specific allegations will be investigated separately with a finding of facts, the applicable law, and a conclusion under Issue One.

It is also noted that the district response dated October 21, 2024 shared that a project specialist was hired by the district on October 9, 2024 to work with the student's team to assist the special education personnel in the development and implementation of effective teaching techniques, service delivery, classroom management skills, data collection, materials, and equipment to help each student in the FAA classroom to achieve their IEP goals and objectives.

Allegation

- Failure to include a specific amount of special education services in the student's IEP.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(7) require the IEP to include the projected date for the beginning of the special education and related services as well as the anticipated frequency, location, and duration of each of those services.

1. In the parent complaint dated October 7, 2024 and in a phone interview on October 8, 2024, the mother expressed concern that the instructional minutes in the student's IEP are not specific.
2. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024, under Special Education and Related Services states the student will receive special education services for all core academic instruction in English Language Arts (ELA), Math, Science and Social Studies, "in a special education classroom," "per enrolled schedule" and "for the same amount of time that peers receive instruction".

3. Although the current IEP does not specify the number of days per week or the minutes/hours required for specialized instruction, it does so for related services such as speech, occupational therapy, adaptive physical education and social work.

4. In the district interview on October 24, 2024 the general counsel for the special education cooperative shared that the cooperative had been advised by Kansas State Department of Education that it was not necessary to specifically state the number of days per week or the minutes/hours the student is to receive core academic instruction.

5. The district shared the student's Teacher Information Page (TIP) dated October 24, 2024 which specifies the service, setting, number of minutes of provision, days per week, start and stop dates and frequency of services including instruction.

6. An October 29, 2024 email from the Special Education and Title Services Attorney responded to the lack of instructional minutes specified in the IEP. The attorney shared that based on a guidance letter from Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP), "with regard to frequency and duration of services, the IEP must include sufficient information about the amount of services that will be provided so that the level of the agency's commitment of resources will be clear. But, that does not require that duration of services be stated in minutes per session. And, the duration of services may vary due to the needs of the student as long as adequately described in the IEP".

Conclusion

Based on a review of the IEP, the document includes the number of times per week and number of minutes for the frequency and duration of related services such as OT social work, adaptive PE, and Speech/Language Therapy. For core academic classes such as English, Math, Science and Social Studies the frequency is "per enrolled schedule" and duration, "for the same amount of time that peers receive instruction".

The district shared the student's Teacher Information Page dated October 24, 2024 which specifies the service, setting, number of minutes of provision, days per week, start/stop dates and frequency of services including instruction. However, parents typically do not have access to this information unless it is included in the IEP.

It is important to note that the IEP is not required to specifically state the duration of services in minutes per session, but should include enough information to convey the level of services offered. Based on the foregoing, the district is found IN compliance with IDEA which does not require that duration of services be stated in minutes per session.

Allegation

- Failure to provide appropriate special education services and program modifications which meaningfully engage the student during the school day.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(3) require the IEP to include a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and to be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.17 states that when special education and related services are provided in conformity with the IEP so that the student is making progress towards achieving the IEP goals, the student is receiving a free appropriate public education.

1. In the parent interview on October 8, 2024 the mother shared that she does not see instructional planning or modifications happening and that her son reports that his work is too hard.

2. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024, under Program Modifications, states the student will participate utilizing a modified curriculum for core academic areas and participate in elective classes using modifications as necessary to participate.

3. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024, under Special Education and Related Services states the student will receive special education services for all core academic instruction in ELA, Math, Science and Social Studies.

4. An October 4, 2024 PWN added, "clarifying language to Special Education Service record 1, to read "[student] will receive special education services for all core academic instruction in ELA, math, science, and socials studies in alignment with board-adopted modified curriculum"

5. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024, states that the student uses his iPad with Words for Life (LAMP) to communicate in structured activities. The student also uses a communication device provided by the parents. Additional examples of modifications noted in his IEP include: accessing digital books through the Unique Curriculum, TarHeel Reader, epic!, and Storylineonline for reading. He also uses a Chromebook to access most of his written language tasks including typing slides, an online typing game as well as computer to text speech. For math he uses a number line, touch points on numbers, manipulatives, a calculator and counts out objects.

6. In audio recordings of IEP meetings on September 27 and October 9, 2024 the team discussed the use of instructional modifications to support the student's learning.
7. In the October 24, 2024 district interview two of the student's special education teachers (ELA/math and health, life skills, P.E.) described strategies used to ensure specialized instruction for the student. Strategies included; re-teaching, breaking down the task to one step at a time, use of manipulatives, use of video to support the content, utilizing errorless practice, and providing hands-on support. These teachers also shared that along with the SLP who is embedded in the classroom, they model these behaviors and offer on-the-spot training for the paraprofessionals.
8. The district shared a folder which includes examples of lessons and aids including multi-modes of delivery including video, powerpoints, schedule boards, written words, photos and pictorial representation. There were also examples of modified curriculum lessons from the Unique Curriculum.

Conclusion

In this case, the current IEP dated September 13, 2024, under Program Modifications, states the student will participate utilizing a modified curriculum for core academic areas and participate in elective classes using modifications as necessary to participate. An October 4, 2024 PWN added, "clarifying language to Special Education Service record 1, to read, "[student] will receive special education services for all core academic instruction in ELA, math, science, and socials studies in alignment with board-adopted modified curriculum"

The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 includes several modifications including Words for Life (LAMP), a communication device provided by the parents, digital books through the Unique Learning System curriculum, TarHeel Reader, epic!, and Storylineonline for reading, a Chromebook to access most of his written language tasks, including typing slides, and an online typing game as well as computer to text speech. For math he uses a number line, touch points on numbers, manipulatives, a calculator and counts out objects.

In the October 24, 2024 district interview two of the student's special education teachers (ELA/math and health, life skills, P.E.) described strategies used to ensure specialized instruction for the student. These teachers also shared that along with the SLP who is embedded in the classroom, they model these behaviors and offer on-the-spot training for the paraprofessionals.

The district shared a folder which includes examples of lessons and aids including multi-modes of delivery including video, powerpoints, schedule boards, written words, photos, pictorial representation. There were also examples of modified curriculum lessons from the Unique Curriculum. The IEP document, IEP meeting audio recordings, and district staff interviews reflect the use of many different modifications utilized to provide specialized instruction for this student.

The district reported that at times the student will put his head down in an effort to self-regulate. The district and parents both shared that the student has had medication changes this summer, began wearing glasses and at times has not felt well. The district also shared that the transition from middle school to high school includes a big change in his environment including more students and staff in his classrooms and in the building as well as a change in his schedule.

The district and family continue to problem solve ways to help the student engage academically as evidenced by IEP audio recordings on September 27 and October 9, 2024 when the team discussed the nuances of when to offer the student a break and when to try and re-engage him in work. The team also discussed that the instructional coach will share through the daily communication log the number of minutes the student is off schedule.

Based on the foregoing, USD #226 is found to be IN compliance with the requirement to provide program modifications or supports for school personnel which will be provided to enable the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and to be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Allegation

- Failure to provide the student with access to the Unique Learning System curriculum.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(3) require the IEP to include a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and to be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.17 states that when special education and related services are provided in conformity with the IEP so that the student is making progress towards achieving the IEP goals, the student is receiving a free appropriate public education.

1. In the parent complaint dated October 7, 2024 the mother stated that, "Based on daily sheets home the Unique curriculum is not being used across [student's] day".
2. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states the student utilizes the Unique Curriculum for reading.
3. A PWN dated October 4, 2024 added, "clarifying language to Special Education Service record 1, to read "[student] will receive special education services for all core academic instruction in ELA, math, science, and social studies in alignment with board-adopted modified curriculum".
4. The district response dated October 21, 2024 includes a list of board approved curriculum utilized in the FAA program where the student engages in instruction. On this list is the Unique Learning System curriculum for 7th-12th grade students.
5. Unique Learning System Curriculum Transition Passport was used for the student's transition assessment dated December 4, 2023.
6. A review of 12 daily communication logs dated between September 16 and October 17, 2024 provided by the district mentions the use of the Unique Learning System curriculum twice. The logs vary in the specificity of information provided.
7. The headers on the daily communication logs state, "activity", the logs do not prompt the name of the curriculum being used for the activity.
8. The district shared documentation from the instructional coach that she worked with the staff on the use of the Unique Learning System curriculum on October 7 and 16, 2024.
9. The district shared the student's activity report from the Unique Learning System curriculum dated September 19 through October 9, 2024.
10. In the district interview on October 24, 2024 the ELA/math and the health, life skills and P.E. teacher shared that the student utilizes the Unique Learning System curriculum for expressive communication, math, and reading. The staff also uses embedded assessment elements in the Unique Learning System curriculum.
11. The district shared a folder which includes several examples of modified curriculum lessons for the student utilizing the Unique Curriculum.
12. On October 28, 2024 the instructional coach shared a screenshot of the Unique Curriculum dashboard which the coach uses to monitor the number of Unique Learning System curriculum activities the student completes each day.

Conclusion

In this case, the current IEP dated September 13, 2024, under Program Modifications, states the student will participate utilizing a modified curriculum for core academic areas and participate in elective classes using modifications as necessary to participate. An October 4, 2024 PWN added, "clarifying language to Special Education Service record 1, to read "[student] will receive special education services for all core academic instruction in ELA, math, science, and socials studies in alignment with board-adopted modified curriculum"

The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states the student utilizes the Unique Learning System curriculum for reading. Interviews and documentation support a finding that USD #266 is IN compliance with the requirement for providing the student access to the Unique Learning System curriculum as stated in the student's IEP.

Allegation

- Failure to provide the student with access to his augmentative communication system throughout the school day.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(2)(iv - v) requires IEP teams to consider the communication needs of the child and consider whether the child needs assistive technology devices and services.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.17 states that when special education and related services are provided in conformity with the IEP so that the student is making progress towards achieving the IEP goals, the student is receiving a free appropriate public education.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. In the parent complaint dated October 7, 2024 the mother stated that, this fall "During multiple observations, [the student] has not had access to his device." Also, "During multiple observations, across many hours the stepfather, father and mother have not seen any staff engage with [student] using his augmentative and alternative communication (AAC) device."
2. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states the student will carry his communication device, daily, in all school settings, for the duration of the school day.
3. The district response dated October 21, 2024 notes that the SLP is full-time at the student's high school and primarily works in the FAA program where the student spends his instructional time. The duties of the SLP include, but are not limited to:

a. "Tailored Support: The SLP provides personalized interventions, collaborating with teachers, related service providers, and paraprofessionals to align strategies with each student's unique communication abilities and challenges.

b. Collaborative Strategies: She works closely with the educational team to develop and implement communication strategies that enhance student engagement across various subjects, helping them participate more fully in classroom activities.

c. Peer Interaction: The SLP facilitates opportunities for nonverbal students to communicate with their peers, promoting social interaction and inclusion through group activities and collaborative learning experiences.

d. Training and Resources: She equips teachers, related service providers, and paraprofessionals with tools and training to support augmentative communication methods, such as speech-generating devices or picture exchange systems, fostering a more supportive environment.

e. Monitoring Progress: The SLP continuously monitors students' communication progress, working with the team to make necessary adjustments to interventions and ensure effective communication skills are developed."

4. In the district interview on October 24, 2024 the SLP shared that staff prompt use of multimodal communication in addition to the student's device. The communication device, which is from home, is always with the student, at his desk or with the paraprofessional who is supporting the student. The student also has a backup pocket communication device.

5. The SLP noted that at times the student may throw his communication device if he does not want to use it. She also stated that they are now working with the student to use a backpack in which the student can carry the device with him at all times.

6. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states that staff working with the student will be trained on the use of his communication device/program on an annual basis and there will be monthly check-in meetings with providers, general and special education teachers and paraprofessionals to discuss the student's communication device.

7. The district shared training outlines and sign-in sheets documenting staff training on the student's use of the communication device on August 21 and September 25, 2024.

8. Staff were trained on October 2, 2024 on LAMP (Language Acquisition through Motor Planning) Words for Life vocabulary which the student utilizes.

9. An October 16, 2024 outline shared that the instructional coach was available to answer teacher's questions about student's communication and corresponding attendance spreadsheet

10. Communication concerns and updates were discussed at least monthly at his September 13, 2024, September 27, 2024 and October 9, 2024 IEP meetings. Documentation shared by the district reflects that several staff, including the SLP and at least one of his special education teachers was in attendance at these meetings.

Conclusion

The IEP states the student should carry the device with him daily, in all school settings and for the duration of the school day. The parents report that on multiple occasions they observed that the student did not have his communication device with him and that staff were not prompting use.

The district provided documentation that the SLP and the instructional coach support the student and staff in using the communication device. The SLP emphasized in the district interview on October 24, 2024 the staff actively works with the student to ensure possession and use of the communication device. The district also provided a number of documents which reflect several instances of training in the classroom related to the communication device.

It is acknowledged that the parent observations took place early in the school year, in a new school, a new classroom, and with new staff. It is further noted that USD #266 responded appropriately to the parent concerns related to access and use of the augmentative communication device by meeting to discuss these concerns, collaborating with the parents, and changing practices in relationship to the access and use of the augmentative communication device. Based on the foregoing, USD #266 is IN compliance for implementing the student's IEP, specifically related to use of the augmentative communication device.

Allegation

- Failure to provide access to extracurricular activities by not allowing him to have the same interaction opportunities as other students.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.42 and 300.107 requires school districts to provide aids, services, and other support in regular education classes, other education-related settings, and in extracurricular and nonacademic settings, to enable children with disabilities to be educated with nondisabled children to the maximum extent appropriate.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services, including any accommodations or modifications described in the BIP, are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The complaint dated October 7, 2024 states, "School staff are discriminating towards [student] by not allowing him the same opportunities as other students in his classroom, and has indicated he is sad and does not want to go to school due to not being allowed opportunities."

2. In the district interview on October 24, 2024 and in review of records provided by the district it was clear that the student has access to a typical variety of extracurricular opportunities and is not restricted or limited in his attendance. The student is a member of the Circle of Friends club, attended the Homecoming pep rally and dance, enjoys bowling, and attends sporting events at the school.

3. In an October 27, 2024 email to clarify the concern with the mother, she stated that this concern was not based on extracurricular opportunities but rather, "...the segregation that [student] was experiencing, which we note has already significantly changed based on our observations. Even outside of the "break room" he was segregated within classrooms and sat away from peers." Further she clarified that he is less segregated now than he was at the beginning of the school year.

4. The current BIP dated September 13, 2024 states that, "Sometimes he chooses to sit alone for a while, take deep breaths (adults will model this with [student]), lie down, or have quiet time." It also adds, "He will have a safe space that can have a large pillow or a bean bag for a break in a quiet space."

5. In the October 9, 2024 IEP audio recording the team discussed that they are supporting the student to engage in alternative ways to calm himself rather than leaving the instructional setting, while continuing to offer the quiet spaces if needed.

6. In the October 9, 2024 IEP audio recording the mother also stated that she is happier that he is now spending so much less time out of the classroom.

Conclusion

Interviews and documentation found the student engages in a rich array of extracurricular activities in USD #266. The Investigator then clarified the parent concern to be "...the segregation that [student] was experiencing, which we note has already significantly changed based on our observations. Even outside of the 'break room' he was segregated within classrooms and sat away from peers."

The student's IEP and BIP include the option of time alone in a safe, quiet space when the student is feeling upset. Again, it is noted that the student experienced a significant change in educational programming when he transitioned between the middle school and high school buildings at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year. And again, it appears that the district responded appropriately to the parent concerns by meeting to discuss these concerns and collaborating with the parents. In the October 9, 2024 IEP recording, the IEP team discussed this concern and the mother indicated that she is happier that he is now spending so much less time out of the classroom.

Based on the foregoing, USD #266 is IN compliance for providing the student with access to extracurricular activities and for implementing the student's BIP by allowing the student the option of time alone in a safe, quiet space when the student is feeling upset.

Allegation

- Failure to provide daily communication logs to the parent required by the student's IEP.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services, including any accommodations or modifications described in the BIP, are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. On August 27, 2024 the parents requested regular daily communication including specifics on what the student does in class, what curriculum is being used, and any adjustments made to the work during the student's day.
2. The current IEP was developed on Friday, September 13, 2024 and states there will be daily communication home to parents regarding daily activities, when the student is not participating in his schedule or is not with his peers.
3. The first day the daily communication log was shared with parents was on September 16, 2024.
4. The stepfather shared daily communication logs, the template of which was created by the mother and completed by school staff. These logs are dated September 16-19, 23-26, October 1 and 8, 2024.
5. The district shared daily communication logs dated September 17-20, 23-25 and October 4, 8, 9, 15, 16 and 17, 2024.
6. Daily communication logs are missing for September 27 and 30 as well as October 2, and 7, 2024. These are days when the student was in attendance.
7. As evidenced by the October 9, 2024 IEP meeting recording the special education teacher expressed concern that the log may not get put in the student's backpack if she is not present at the end of the school day.
8. As evidenced by the October 9, 2024 IEP meeting recording the district and parents continue to work together to create a daily communication log that has all of the information the parents requested and is accessible to the parents every day.

Conclusion

In this case, On August 27, 2024 the parents requested regular daily communication including specifics on what the student does in class, what curriculum is being used, and any adjustments made to the work during the student's day. The district responded to the parent request and held an IEP team on September 13, 2024.

The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states there will be daily communication home to parents regarding daily activities, when not participating in his schedule or not with peers. The first daily communication log came home with the student on Monday, September 16, 2024.

Documentation and interview found USD #266 provided the daily communication logs to the parents all but four days when the student was in attendance. The district is aware of the missing logs and is making a good faith effort to remedy the issue as evidenced in the October 9, 2024 IEP meeting recording.

As evidenced by the October 9, 2024 IEP meeting recording the district and parents continue to work together to create a daily communication log that contains all of the information to meet the parents needs.

Based on the foregoing, USD #266 is IN compliance for implementing the student's IEP, specifically related to provision of daily communication with parents when not participating in his schedule or not with peers.

Issue Two

Did USD #266 appropriately implement the student's IEP, specifically the Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP), by providing access to calming tools and support during behavioral incidents and appropriately addressing increases in behaviors during the last 12 months?

Parent Position

The parents report that USD #266 has failed to consistently implement the student's BIP during the 2024-25 school year based upon their observations. USD #266 has not conducted training with school staff regarding the implementation of the BIP nor held at least monthly meetings to review data related to the student's behavior.

Failing to provide this training and staff support this school year has resulted in the student experiencing more frequent behavioral difficulties. When these behavioral difficulties occur, the parent indicates the student is isolated in room J114b; however, he does not have access to the required calming materials and tools in that location which has then resulted in an increase of the duration of inappropriate behavior in the school setting.

The parent believes the student has not made progress on either the BIP or the behavioral goals included in the IEP during the past 12 months and USD #266 has failed to respond appropriately to the increases in the frequency and duration of the student's behavioral difficulties and lack of progress.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(2)(i) requires IEP teams to consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports and other strategies to address the behavior of a child whose behavior impedes that child's learning or the learning of others.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1)(ii) requires that the IEP team revises the IEP as appropriate to address the lack of expected progress toward the annual goals.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.17 states that when special education and related services are provided in conformity with the IEP so that the student is making progress towards achieving the IEP goals, the student is receiving a free appropriate public education.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

Required Training and Meetings

1. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states staff working with the student will be trained on his behavior plan and instructional control scale on an annual basis, and there will be monthly meetings with providers, general and special education teachers and paraprofessionals to discuss the student's behavior plan and data sheets.
2. The district shared an August 21, 2024 training outline with a sign in sheet documenting school staff reviewed the student's behavior plan.
3. The district provided a summary of the student's BIP issues discussed with all pertinent staff on August 23, 2024.
4. The district provided a record of training topics related to implementation of the student's BIP along with teacher attendance, dated September 25, 2024.
5. The district provided a spreadsheet of teachers attending the October 16, 2024 training for student's BIP, but no outline or agenda.
6. The student's behavior plan and data sheets were also discussed at his IEP meetings on September 13, 27 and October 9, 2024. Documentation shared by the district reflects that several staff and at least one of his special education teachers were in attendance at these meetings.
7. The special education teacher, who attended all three of the fall 2024 IEP meetings mentioned above, reported in the October 24, 2023 district interview that after each IEP meeting she shared relevant updates about the student's BIP and data sheets with the paraprofessionals.

8. October 9, 2024 the district hired a project specialist to work with the student's team to support them with classroom management skills as well as refine data collection and analysis.

Access to the calming kit or calming strategies.

1. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states the student will have access to a break/safe space in each work/learning location and have access to a calming kit or calming strategies.
2. In the district interview on October 24, the OT shared specific examples of the items the student has access to which help him become calmer when he is having difficulty staying calm. These items are now kept in his backpack so that he will have them with him in all locations throughout the school day; however, this was not the case at the beginning of the school year.
3. The special education teacher shared in the October 24, 2024 district interview that staff regularly prompt the student to use agreed upon calming strategies which include; deep breathing, counting, muscle tension and release, imagining calm places, using a Zones of Regulation visual and matching strategy, using a thumbs up/thumbs down to respond to choices, and preferred pictures kept in his folder.

Respond appropriately to Increases in behaviors

1. The Progress Reports dated November 6, 2023, March 7, 2024 and May 20, 2024 indicate the student made progress on his behavior goal. The Progress report dated October 21, 2024 indicates the student is maintaining progress on his behavioral goal.
2. A PWN dated September 13, 2024 states that the team "updated information to the BIP clarifying the use of a token economy" at the September 13, 2024 IEP meeting as a strategy to better support the student.
3. The behavior goal in the student's current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states, "By the next annual IEP, during a transition or non-preferred activity, [student] will show instructional control (for example but not limited to quiet voice, ready hands, and safe feet) and/or use his self-regulation skills (by using deep-breathing, taking a break, etc.) to get back to demonstrating instructional control 8 out of 10 times with 4 or less prompts."
4. The most recent Progress Report dated October 16, 2024 states that the student maintained progress over the first quarter and "showed tremendous growth starting with week 6 to the end of the first term! He was able to show instructional control 70% of the time which is a wonderful progression for him."

5. Behavioral data provided by the district ranging from August 26, 2024 to October 8, 2024 reflect instances of physical aggression toward peers, toward staff or property destruction 28 times.

6. The district hired a Project Specialist on October 9, 2024 to work with the student's team including these areas of focus:

    a. Classroom Management Skills: Support special education personnel in developing and maintaining a positive classroom environment. This includes creating behavior management plans, implementing positive reinforcement strategies, and fostering social-emotional learning among students.

    b. Data Collection and Analysis: Aid in the systematic collection of data on student performance and behavior. This includes using tools and methods to track progress toward IEP goals, ensuring that data is accurate, relevant, and used to inform instructional decisions.

7. The district response dated October 21, 2024 states that the father requested assistance from Kansas Technical Assistance System Network (TASN) and the district agreed on September 26, 2024.

8. In the district interview on October 24, 2024, the social worker shared that a behavioral flowchart was created with the mother to specify the student's behaviors more clearly.

9. In the district interview on October 24, 2024 the director of special services added that the TASN visit includes a Functional Behavioral Assessment (FBA) which is scheduled November 4, 2024. The visit consists of a morning observation and afternoon team meeting, including the parents, to discuss results and possible strategies.

10. In the district interview on October 24, 2024 the special education teacher stated that in the classroom they actively document behaviors including the antecedent, behavior and consequence to better understand the function of the student's behaviors.

11. In an email from the instructional coach on October 28, 2024 she shared that the number of instances of target behaviors has been declining since mid-September. She also shared that mid-September is when the amount of time out of schedule, per incident, also decreased.

Conclusion

In this case, there were three IEPs in effect during the 2024-25 school year. The IEP team met on September 13, September 27 and October 9, 2024 and made amendments to the December 12, 2023 annual IEP. None of these meetings resulted in any changes to the personnel training requirements, monthly check in meetings or the use of the calming kit and strategies.

Interviews and documentation showed school staff were trained on the student's BIP on August 21, 2024 and USD #266 followed up by providing a summary of the BIP issues to staff on August 23, 2024. Interviews and documentation also support the fact that meetings to review student data were held in August, September, and October during the 2024-25 school year and concerns were identified and strategies developed to address these concerns.

It is unclear if the student had access to his calming kit in all environments throughout the school day at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year; however, documentation and interview showed the district addressed this concern through the use of the backpack of calming tools strategy during one of the monthly meetings. Based on IEP goal progress reports and interviews with staff, the student has made progress towards his IEP goals despite a potential error in consistent implementation of the IEP in regards to the calming tools.

Finally, the Progress Reports from the past 12 months indicate the student is making or maintaining progress on his behavioral goal. However, it is noted that from August 26, 2024 to October 8, 2024 the student exhibited instances of physical aggression toward peers, toward staff or property destruction 28 times, which may account for the parent's concerns that the student's behaviors are increasing. However, due to the way behavioral data is being collected for the IEP goal, "...demonstrating instructional control 8 out of 10 times with 4 or less prompts.", the student is progressing according to his IEP goal yet still exhibiting instances of serious behaviors.

In an email from the instructional coach on October 28, 2024 she shared that the number of instances of target behaviors has been declining since mid-September. She also shared that mid-September is when the amount of time out of schedule, per incident, also decreased.

The collaboration with TASN and addition of a program specialist to support the student's classroom reflects the capacity of the family and district to work together and the district's willingness to address the family's concerns even though there was not an increase in behaviors as measured and reported by the BIP goal.

Based on the foregoing, USD #266 is found to be IN compliance for implementing the student's IEP, specifically related to addressing increases in behaviors. In addition, there is evidence to support a finding of compliance with the requirement that school staff received training on the student's BIP and held at least monthly meetings to review data. It is noted that USD #266 proactively sought out additional support to address the student's behavioral issues by hiring a project specialist to help train and facilitate the student's IEP team for implementing the student's IEP and BIP with fidelity.

Finally, it is unclear if the student had access to the calming objects at the very beginning of the school year when the student was taking a break or placed in the safe space. However, interviews and documentation shows the IEP team implemented the backpack strategy during the first quarter of the 204-25 school year to ensure the student had access to his calming kit at all times and in all locations throughout the school day. Additionally, interviews show that the calming strategies were used by the staff even if the calming objects are not available. IEP goal progress reports reflect the student was making progress towards achieving his annual IEP goals.

Based on the foregoing, USD #266 is found to be IN compliance with IDEA regulations to implement the IEP as written and address lack of progress during the 2024-25 school year.

Issue Three

Did USD #266 ensure instruction was planned and delivered by appropriately certified staff during the past 12 months?

Parent Position

The parent believes the student is receiving specialized instruction from classroom paraprofessionals rather than the special education teacher.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.156 requires that each school district must ensure that all personnel necessary to carry out the requirements of IDEA are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. All special education personnel, as appropriate, shall have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with exceptionalities. This includes special education teachers, related services personnel and paraeducators.

In Kansas, paraeducators must meet the requirements outlined in the "Special Education Reimbursement Guide State Categorical Aid". Paraeducator duties are allowed to include providing instructional or related services under the supervision of a licensed or certified special educational professional in both special education and general education settings. If the paraeducator provides instructional services under the supervision of a qualified special education teacher, the time will be counted as student contact hours for the purposes of reimbursement. However, paraeducators must not be responsible for selecting, programming, or prescribing educational activities or materials for the students without the supervision and guidance of the special teacher or be solely responsible for preparing lesson plans or initiating original concept instruction. Paraeducators must not be assigned to implement the IEP for students with exceptionalities without direct supervision and involvement from the professional and may not be hired in lieu of appropriately certified special education teachers.

The following facts are based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

1. In the parent complaint dated October 7, 2024 the mother stated, "[student] is not gaining access to direct instruction from teachers daily." "In observing the classroom we have seen that [student] will be taught by one para for an entire activity/class period."
2. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states the student will need special education support daily, in all school settings.

3. In the district interview on October 24, 2024, school staff acknowledged that paraprofessionals regularly work with the student to review, practice, and reinforce skills and concepts under the supervision of the special education teacher.

4. In the district interview on October 24, 2024 the special education teacher stated that she designs all new instruction after which she has the paraprofessionals observe her while she introduces or reintroduces the lesson to the student. She stated that the paraprofessional's role is to review and practice the concept with the student; they may use a variety of activities to teach the content, but the content is always first introduced by the teacher.

5. In an email provided by the district on October 25, 2024 the health, life skills and P.E. teacher stated that he plans and introduces new instruction for the student.

6. In an email provided by the district on October 25, 2024, the special education teacher from the 2023-2024 school year stated that, "either [special educator] or I would sit with him, provide direct instruction for an assignment, get him started, and often a para would switch out to provide support for him to complete the task(s). We also had an area with tasks /concepts that [student] had been previously instructed in, and a para could grab anything to work with him on during either down-time, or to supplement curricular activities."

Conclusion

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.156 require school districts to ensure that special education teachers, related services personnel and paraeducators who implement student IEPs must have the content knowledge and training to provide the special education and related services to each student.

In Kansas, paraeducator duties may include providing instructional or related services under the supervision of a licensed or certified special educational professional in both special education and general education settings. However, paraeducators must not be responsible for selecting, programming, or prescribing educational activities or materials for the students without the supervision and guidance of the special teacher or be solely responsible for preparing lesson plans or initiating original concept instruction. Paraeducators must not be assigned to implement the IEP for students with exceptionalities without direct supervision and involvement from the professional and may not be hired in lieu of an appropriately certified special education teacher.

In this case, interviews and documentation found the district's procedures and practices consisted of an instructional model where the special education teacher designs and provides initial instruction of concepts and uses paraprofessionals to regularly review, practice, and reinforce skill and concept acquisition with students.

Based on the foregoing, USD #266 is found to be IN compliance with IDEA regulations and Kansas requirements that allow for paraprofessionals to provide specialized instruction to review, practice, and reinforce skills and concepts under the supervision of appropriately certified staff during the past 12 months.

Issue Four

Did USD #266 appropriately report progress toward IEP goals to the parents during the past 12 months?

Parent Position

In the parent complaint dated September 7, 2024 the parents stated there has been no data shared to indicate the student's IEP is being followed or that he is making progress on his IEP goals.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(3) require the IEP to include a description of how the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals will be measured and when periodic reports on the progress the child is making toward meeting the annual goals will be provided, e.g quarterly or other periodic reports, concurrent with the issuance of report cards.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

1. The current IEP dated September 13, 2024 states that, "Parents will receive progress reports at the same time intervals as general education parents. For this student, this will be through written reports and/or conferences."
2. In the past 12 months, the district shared IEP progress reports with the student's parents on November 6, 2023, March 7, 2024, May 20, 2024 and October 21, 2024.
3. The progress reports include how the student is performing based on the IEP goal as well as a narrative description of performance under the Progress Report Comments header.
4. In addition to the progress reports, the district shared documentation of meetings to discuss student progress held in the past 12 months which include; December 12, 2023 IEP meeting, May 20, 2024 meeting to discuss transition to the high school, September 13, 2024 IEP meeting, September 27, 2024 IEP meeting and October 9, 2024 IEP meeting.
5. The district shared agendas, minutes, and/or audio recordings for each of the above meetings which all include discussions of the student's progress on his IEP goals.

Conclusion

The district reported student progress on IEP goals to the family periodically, and at least quarterly as required by the student's IEP. IEP Goal Progress Reports were shared with the family on November 6, 2023, March 7, 2024, May 20, 2024 and October 21, 2024. These progress reports reflected where the student's performance was in relationship to his IEP goals and included a description of the student's progress.

Also, there have been several team meetings in the past 12 months to discuss the student's IEP goals: December 12, 2023 IEP meeting; May 20, 2024 meeting to discuss transition to the high school; September 13, 2024 IEP meeting; September 27, 2024 IEP meeting; and October 9, 2024 IEP meeting. In each of these meetings progress toward IEP goals was discussed according to meeting agendas, meeting notes, and meeting audio recordings.

Based on the foregoing, USD #266 is found to be IN compliance with the requirement to appropriately report progress toward IEP goals to the parents during the past 12 months.

1. ISSUE ONE:

   ALLEGATION: Failure to include a specific amount of special education services in the student's IEP. A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(7) is not found based on the lack of IDEA requirement for duration of services to be stated in minutes per session. Corrective action is not required.

   ALLEGATION: Failure to provide appropriate special education services and program modifications which meaningfully engage the student during the school day. A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(3), 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) and 34 C.F.R. 300.17 is not found based on provision of program modifications and specialized instruction as written in the IEP. extracurricular activities and reduction in the amount of time the student is away from his peers due to behavioral concerns. Corrective action is not required.

ALLEGATION: Failure to provide the daily communication logs to the parents as required by the student's IEP. A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) is not found based on provision of daily communication logs with parents when the student is not participating in his schedule or not with peers. Corrective action is not required.

2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2), 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(2)(i), 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1)(ii) and 34 C.F.R. 300.17 was not found based on implementation of the IEP as written and progress on the BIP goal as noted in the IEP Progress Reports in the past 12 months. Corrective action is not required.
3. ISSUE THREE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.156 was not found based on the fact that paraeducators are allowed to provide instructional or related services under the supervision of a licensed or certified special educational professional. Corrective action is not required.
4. ISSUE FOUR: A violation of 34 C.F.R. Federal regulations at 300.320(a)(3) was not found based on the provision of timely IEP goal progress to the parents. Corrective action is not required.

Background Information

The student is a second grader at the elementary school where he is eligible for special education and related services under the category of developmental delay. The student has been receiving special education interventions in the area of articulation since he was in preschool. He has a medically diagnosed skin condition, and the IEP includes a health care plan and accommodations for that condition. He receives 20 minutes of speech services two days every week to work on two IEP goals regarding articulation. He has met criteria for those two goals.

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: Did the district develop an IEP to meet the student's need for adequate supervision to not leave the school premises during the 2024-2025 school year?
2. ISSUE TWO: Did the district follow correct procedures to discontinue special education services from the student services during the 2024-2025 school year?

Issue One

Did the district develop an IEP to meet the student's need for adequate supervision to not leave the school premises during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324, Development, review and revision of IEP state In developing each child's IEP, the IEP Team must consider—1) The strengths of the child; 2) The concerns of the parents for enhancing the education of their child; 3) The results of the initial or most recent evaluation of the child; and 4) The academic, developmental, and functional needs of the child.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The parent alleged that the student was wrongly sent home as a walker to an intersection that is very busy and dangerous, and he could have lost his life. He was allowed to leave school premises multiple times by the principal's reckless authority, but the principal blamed the parent instead. The parent stated that the teacher and multiple staff members knew he was not a walker and begged for him not to leave as a walker, but the principal told him to leave.

The district responded in their October 28, 2024 response that no members of the IEP team, including the mother, have previously raised concerns about the student's supervision. No concerns were ever raised that he was a risk for elopement from the school building or that the dismissal procedures, if followed, would not work for him. The incident on September 11th was the result of a serious mistake, but it is not an IEP issue. The district took responsibility for the mistake, quickly and deeply examined and improved internal procedures. The district quickly and thoroughly addressed the personnel aspects of the incident. Finally, the district staff have repeatedly and sincerely apologized to the parent and genuinely want to regain her trust.

The IEP dated December 12, 2023 does not include any services, goals or supplementary aids and supports for the student's safety in leaving the building. The IEP does not list a need for special transportation. Present levels of performance and parent concerns do not document a need for safety in leaving the building.

The classroom teacher wrote as part of the October 28, 2024 district response, "There was no concern that [student] would need additional supervision to not leave school premises, such as elopement or trouble getting on and off the bus. [Student] is always a bus rider and I have had no instances where he could not handle getting to and from the bus by himself or any troubles on the bus."

The principal reported in the district response dated October 28, 2024 that, "The IEP team did not identify any concerns of [student] needing any additional supervision when leaving the school premises. This has never come up by school personnel or by [student's] parents. There was no recommendation from SPED coordinators or the district office to develop an IEP to meet any needs for supervision of [student] at dismissal. There would be no need for any accommodations for dismissal supervision. He has always been a very responsible and trustworthy student." Further, "As soon as we realized [student] walked home instead of riding the bus on 9/11/24, I immediately tried calling [student's] mother. I repeatedly tried calling that afternoon and also sent an email apologizing and trying to check in to verify [student] had safely made it home." "Mom emailed me the same afternoon (9/11/24) saying she had no reason to talk to me, she refused to visit with me." "In an in-person conversation I had later that week with [director of elementary education] later that same week I let [director of elementary education] know I was not having any luck getting Mom to answer her phone or talk to me. She told me at this point it was okay for me to stop calling."

During the October 31, 2024 interview with the district staff they stated there were no discussions about safety in leaving the building. The staffing notes from the October 8, 2024 Reevaluation and IEP meeting did not document any discussion or decisions about safety of the student leaving the building.

During the October 31, 2024 interview with the district staff they stated there were no other instances during the 2024-2025 school year where the student's safety when leaving the building occurred.

The parent stated during the November 2, 2024 interview that she was never given a good explanation of how and why the mistake was made and that many staff persons tried to stop the mistake from happening. She stated that this lack of full transparency and any accountability on the behalf of the principal makes it difficult for her to trust the district with her student.

Conclusion

After reviewing the student's IEP and interview with the parent and district it is found that a significant safety incident occurred with this student and IDEA regulations do not apply in this particular situation. There were no safety concerns identified in the student's IEPs or reevaluation document. The student did not have a history of leaving or needing additional monitoring. The incident put a student's safety in jeopardy, but it was a breakdown of district procedures, not a result of the student's IEP not being appropriately developed or the services not being implemented. Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #231 developed an IEP that did not meet the student's need for adequate supervision to not leave the school premises during the 2024-2025 school year.

Issue Two

Did the district follow correct procedures to discontinue special education services from the student services during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.305(e)(1) provides that a public agency must evaluate a child with a disability in accordance with §§300.304 through 300.311 before determining that the child is no longer a child with a disability.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503 state that written notice must be given to parents before the district proposes to or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child.

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

The parent alleged that the district withheld the truth of the events resulting in the student being wrongly sent home as a walker putting the student's safety in jeopardy. She alleged that shortly thereafter the district concluded that the student's special services were no longer needed and finds the timing suspicious, especially after she was told that the student's speech services would not start until late August or early September.

The district responded in their October 28, 2024 response that they followed IDEA procedures in determining if dismissal from speech/language services were warranted following an evaluation. In fact, the district continues to follow procedures by continuing to provide speech/language services since the mother has not provided consent for dismissal.

The IEP dated December 7, 2023 documents the student is eligible for special education and related services as a child with developmental disabilities. The student receives 20 minutes of pull out speech services for articulation twice a week. No supplementary aids or supports are included. This IEP further documents "[student] has a diagnosis of [name of diagnosis] which causes [describes results of condition]. [Student's] needs will be met through a healthcare plan and accommodations."

The IEP dated December 7, 2023 documented that the next reevaluation was due December 12, 2025.

The speech and language pathologist stated during the October 31, 2024 interview with the investigator that the reevaluation was indicated for two reasons, 1) the student was on track to meet the two IEP goals early in the school year, and 2) the speech and language pathologist mistakenly thought the reevaluation was due in 2024 after the IEP tracking system was changed at the beginning of the school year.

Documentation shows that a prior written notice for evaluation or reevaluation and request for consent was provided to the parent on September 18, 2024 and the parent signed consent to reevaluate on September 24, 2024. The reevaluation plan listed new testing for communication and the use of existing data for hearing, vision, academic performance and communication. Considerations in conducting the evaluation included, "not conducting an evaluation but this option was rejected because the IEP Team feels that more information is needed in order to determine [student's] current level of functioning in the area of speech sound production and language skills."

A notice of meeting dated September 24, 2024 was provided to the mother for a planned October 8, 2024 meeting to discuss 1) your child's academic achievement, functional performance, and educational needs; 2) whether your child has or continues to have an exceptionality; and 3) whether your child needs special education and related services. The parent waived her rights to a 10-day prior written notice to develop, review or revise the IEP for the student on September 27, 2024.

The Progress Report dated October 8, 2024 documents that both IEP goals were met. The speech and language pathologist logs show that the student worked with the student between August 30 and October 8, 2024.

The October 8, 2024 reevaluation report, titled, Evaluation Team Report▪3-Year Reevaluation documented that "A reevaluation is needed to determine if [student] continues to qualify and or demonstrate a need for direct speech/language therapy." The report included existing documentation for vision, hearing, academic performance and communication. Speech and language reevaluation information was gathered using standardized assessments, therapy sessions and classroom data and input from the student's teacher. The Summary and Conclusions of the report is, "Based on the re-evaluation information, [student] demonstrates developmentally appropriate articulation skills when compared to same age peers. [Student] also demonstrate developmentally appropriate voice/fluency skills and language skills at this time. [Student] no longer demonstrates a need for speech services to support [student] in the area of articulation skills in order to effectively participate in the general education classroom. It is proposed to dismiss [student] from speech services at this time."

The principal reported in the October 28, 2024 district response that "During [student's] IEP meeting on 10/8/24, Mom attended via speaker phone. She asked the team questions about having [student] evaluated for a 504 Plan. I let her know that our school counselor facilitates all 504 evaluations and I would have our counselor reach out to Mom. I did share with her that [student] would likely be a good candidate for a 504 plan since he currently has an IHP for his [condition]. I asked mom what would be the best way for the counselor to get in touch with her. Mom requested email communication. An hour later after the IEP meeting had ended, Mom emailed me asking for the counselor's contact info. I emailed her back, sharing the counselor's email and phone number."

The staffing summary (IEP meeting notes) from the October 8, 2024 meeting record, "The results of the articulation testing that was completed with [student] were shared. [Student] scores fell in the average range in this testing. Testing around [student] voice and fluency was also completed and no concerns found in these areas. [Student language was screened. [Student] used age-appropriate grammar and language and no concerns were found. [Student] progress on [student] two current articulation goals was shared. [Student] had met both of these goals and is no longer showing a delay in articulation. [Student] no longer needs specialized training in these areas. The team recommends dismissal from [student] IEP. Mom will be sent a hard copy of the dismissal paperwork to sign. Mom is wanting a 504 plan due to [student] health needs. [Student] currently has an Individualized Health Plan to consider. The school counselor facilitates all 504 requests. The counselor will email Mom with more info on the 504 evaluation process."

The prior written notice for identification and request for consent dated September 18, 2024 stated, "On October 8, 2024 we met to review the evaluation/assessment data on your child." The PWN recorded three decisions, 1. "Special education services are not necessary to enable your child to receive educational benefits in accordance with his/her abilities or capabilities." 2. "… we are proposing a change that results in a decrease or increase of 25% or more of the duration or frequency of a special education service, a related service, or a supplementary and or a service specified on your child's IEP." 3. "…we are proposing a change in placement that results in the movement of more than 25% of your child's school day from a less restrictive environment to a more restrictive environment, or from a more restrictive environment to a less restrictive environment." The description of the proposed action is that the student be dismissed from speech/language services. As speech/language goals are met and recent reevaluation information indicated speech and language skills within normal limits. The speech and language pathologists acknowledged that the date of the PWN recording the decisions of the October 8, 2024 meeting is incorrect and the PWN should be dated October 8, 2024.

The mother stated during a phone conversation with the investigator that she spoke with Families Together about concerns with the student not having an IEP and concerns that it was in retaliation to the mother's actions to discover the truth about the student being dismissed as a walker when staff tried to overrule the principal insisting the student was a walker and to consequences for this incident that put her child's life in jeopardy. The mother stated that after talking with Families Together she decided to not sign consent to dismiss special education services.

The principal reported in the October 28, 2024 district response that "On 10/14/24 the school counselor let know that Mom had contacted her saying she no longer wanted to pursue a 504 plan. Counselor forwarded me the email conversation that she and mom had."

The district and parent report that the PWN dated September 18, 2024 regarding the October 8, 2024 meeting was not signed by the parent for consent.

The district and parent agree that the student continues to receive the services from the December 7, 2023 IEP and that IEP continues to be in effect.

Conclusion

When a district or parent suspect that a child is no longer eligible for special education and related services a reevaluation must be conducted. If the IEP team, then determines, using that reevaluation that the child is no longer a child with a disability the district must provide the parent prior written notice of the decision to discontinue services and obtain parental consent before discontinuing services. It is found that the district completed all of these steps. In this case parental consent was not obtained in response to the prior written notice and therefore the services continue. Both the parent and district agree that the services are continuing. Therefore, it is not substantiated that USD #231 failed to follow correct procedures to discontinue special education services from the student services during the 2024-2025 school year.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.324 was not found, based on documentation and interview with parent and district staff. Corrective action is not required.
2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.503 was not found, based on documentation and interview with parent and district staff. Corrective action is not required.

Background Information

This investigation involved an eighth-grade student enrolled in the District. The Student is currently receiving services as a child with a Specific Learning Disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the District.

1. The September 18, 2023 Individualized Education Program (IEP), active at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year, indicated the following:
    a. "[The Student's] reading abilities are below [their] typical developing peers, special education services and accommodations are recommended… ."
    b. "[The Student's] parents are concerned that [they] are not receiving the proper services or accommodations to provide [them] with the ability to be successful. [They have] been struggling and feeling overwhelmed in specific classes where the environment is chaotic or loud."
    c. Goals in math, reading, and written language.
    d. "Special Education Services" provided by "Case Manager" with "[d]irect services in [the] general education setting, 120 minutes 5 times per week" for September 18, 2023 through May 23, 2024 and August 8, 2024 through September 17, 2024.
    e. The following accommodations to begin September 18, 2023 within the location of the general education classroom:
        i. "Text read aloud via human or electronic reader, for all testing and assessments, for the length of the test or assessment."
        ii. "Clarification of directions, whenever oral directions are given. [The Student] will be given initial directions with all students, and then asked for understanding. If [they do] not understand, directions will be restated for [them] individually until content is understood."

iii. "Extended time to complete assessments, for all testing and assessments, for the length of the test or assessment."

iv. "Quiet setting, for all testing and assessments, for the length of the test or assessment."

v. "Access to fidgets, whenever [they are] asked to work at [their] desk, for the length of time that [they are] asked to work at [their] desk."

f. "School Setting: [The Student] will fully participate in the general education curriculum during the school day except for 120 minutes daily for five days a week, where [the Student] will receive indirect services for ELA (30min), math (30 min), science (30 min), and social studies (30 min)."

2. A September 18, 2023 "IEP at a Glance" listed the Student's demographic information, IEP review date, case manager, primary disability, classroom accommodations and modifications, goals, and service time. A "[d]escription of Specially Designed Instruction and Related Service" explained, "[the Student] needs to have directions clarified so that [they] can begin [their] work in a timely manner and have assessments read to [them] so that [their] reading deficit does not impede [their] ability to understand what is being asked."

3. Pertinent staff attended these District trainings from July 22, 2024 through October 14, 2024:

    a. District professional development (PD) on special education

        i. Principal, Assistant Principal, Special Education Consulting Teacher

    b. Special education [Consulting Teacher] "CT" PD

    c. School-based PD on " Tier 1" staff expectations

        i. Principal, Assistant Principal, Special Education Consulting Teacher, Case Manager, Math Teacher, Paraprofessional

    d. School-based PD on certified expectations

        i. Principal, Assistant Principal, Special Education Consulting Teacher, Case Manager, Math Teacher

    e. School-based PD on classified expectations

        i. Paraprofessional

    f. Emergency safety intervention

        i. Principal, Assistant Principal, Special Education Consulting Teacher, Case Manager

g. School-based PD on " Tier 1 Behavior and Reactive Plan"

    i. Principal, Case Manager, Math Teacher

h. School-based PD on tiered instruction and tier 2 and 3 interventions for academics and behavior

    i. Principal, Case Manager

i. School-based PD on small group instruction

    i. Principal, Case Manager

j. School-based PD on student behavior and tier 1 staff expectations "to include a few slides regarding [special education] (Continuum, MDR, Data Collection, Suspensions)"

    i. Principal, Assistant Principal, Special Education Consulting Teacher, Case Manager, Math Teacher, Paraprofessional

4. During interviews with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal confirmed the staff training was all "laid out in an effort to build capacity of [the] special education department." The trainings were intended to make implementing accommodations and modifications "as impactful as possible." The Special Education Consulting Teacher confirmed they led teachers through pre-service training about accessing IEPs and who to contact with questions. However, they provided no other direct training or consultation to staff or paraprofessionals working with the Student except by providing the Math Teacher with a copy of the Student's IEP information on October 16, 2024.

   The Case Manager confirmed that the Paraprofessional assigned to the Student's classes for the 2024-25 school year was the same as last year and they met at the beginning of the year to discuss the Student's IEP information and needs.

5. During interviews, the Principal also explained that teachers access special education information through Synergy, the student information system, or from the case manager or consulting special education teacher. Long-term substitutes have access to Synergy for this information, but short-term substitutes do not and typically receive special education notes from the absent teacher. The Case Manager also stated that they will inform long-term substitutes about specific IEP information for students in their classes but cannot for short-term substitutes.

   The Principal and Case Manager further stated that the Student did not experience a long-term substitute but multiple instances of a "daily substitute as needed" in their math class. The Principal also noted that the same paraprofessional was assigned to three of the Student's classes and was familiar with the Student's accommodations. As of November 4, 2024, the math teacher had reportedly missed twenty-five of the Student's math classes, and the same substitute covered all but two of those days. The Paraprofessional was also absent on four of those twenty-five days.

6. A September 16, 2024 IEP indicated the following:
    a. "[The Student] is a hard worker in [their] math and reading classes. [The Student] always tries [their] best and asks for help when [they] need it. [The Student's] math and reading teachers both state that [the Student] can work at grade level with support or reassurance. [The Student] is sometimes slower at completing more difficult work in reading and math. When [the Student] is asked to complete reading assignments, [the Student] sometimes misses some components and needs to work with an adult 1:1 to understand the concept and redo [their] work which [they] do without complaint."
    b. "[The Parent] has not stated any concerns this year with [the Student's] academic progress."
    c. Goals in math and reading.
    d. Special education and related services for September 16, 2024 through May 22, 2025 listed as follows:
        i. "Special Education Services" provided by the "Case Manager" as "Direct Services in Special Education setting" for "10 minutes 1 time every week. Weekly check[-]in for up to 10 minutes with the case manager or consulting teacher to check on grades and an email will be sent to [the Parent] once a week."
        ii. "Special Education Services" provided by the "Case Manager" as "Direct Service in [the] general education setting" for "30 minutes daily for three days a week for [subject] that is taught by a general education teacher with assistance from a special education paraprofessional with support through accommodations." This was listed for science and social science.
        iii. "Special Education Services" provided by the "Case Manager" as "Direct Service in [the] general education setting" for "30 minutes daily for five days a week for [subject] that is taught by a general education teacher with assistance from a special education paraprofessional with support through accommodations." This was listed for math and English language arts.
    e. Accommodations and modifications beginning September 16, 2024 listed as:
        i. "Text read aloud via human or electronic reader, for all testing and assessments, for the length of the test or assessment."

ii. "Separate quiet setting, for all testing and assessments. [The Student] will receive a time extension of the next day to complete the assessments if not completed on time."

iii. "Clarification of directions, whenever oral directions are given. [The Student] will be given initial directions with all students, and then asked for understanding. If [they do] not understand, directions will be restated for [them] individually until content is understood."

iv. "Extended time to complete assignments, for all testing and assessments. [The Student] will receive a time extension of the next day to complete assessments if not completed on time."

v. "Access to fidgets, whenever [they are] asked to work at [their] desk, for the length of time that [they are] asked to work at [their] desk."

7. During interviews with the Complaint Investigator, the Case Manager explained that the Student receives IEP services via paraprofessional support within their core general education classes but prefers to avoid being identified as needing support. Hence, the Paraprofessional keeps a distance and interacts with the Student when they ask for help. The Special Education Director corroborated this and added that based on attendance logs, they know the Paraprofessional has been present in the Student's classes and is aware of their accommodations and modifications. However, because of the Student's hesitancy to "draw attention to [themself] and the Paraprofessional not being more insistent, they couldn't say the School had been "maximizing what [the Student] needed to have that help."

8. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent stated that during the September 16, 2024 IEP meeting, they expressed concerns about the Student's experience in math class because the Student was telling the Parent they did not understand the material. The Parent said they asked the IEP Team what resources were available to help. The Case Manager then asked for time to find available resource options and reconnect with the Parent. During interviews with the Complaint Investigator, the Case Manager and Principal confirmed these statements. The Parent stated that until filing this complaint, they received no follow-up about math resources or a copy of the IEP to sign.

9. A 2024-2025 "Middle School Grade Report" indicated the Student's grades for the first quarter as follows:

    a. Language Arts: C

    b. Math: C

    c. Science: B

d. US History: F

During interviews with the Complaint Investigator, the Case Manager and the Special Education Consulting Teacher mentioned that the Student's math grade had been changed (to C) sometime some time after the Parent raised concerns about the math grade and the Math Teacher received a copy of the IEP At a Glance

10. An October 11, 2024 email from the Math Teacher to the Special Education Consulting Teacher stated, "Apparently, [the Student] has an IEP according to the list attendance. However, I cannot get to [their] accommodations from that list and [they] are not pictured in [the] Synergy seating chart for me to click on. Who is [their] PI so I can get this info? I have not been following [the] IEP since I cannot access it and didn't realize [the Student] was SPED [sic]."

    During interviews with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal and Special Education Consulting Teacher confirmed the statement made by the Math Teacher that due to student information system issues, the Student's IEP had not been implemented in the math class for the 2024-25 school year until they received a copy of the IEP information and accommodations on October 16, 2024.

11. In a written statement, the Math Teacher reported that they began implementing the IEP once they received a copy of the "IEP At a Glance," wrote this information into their sub plans, and reviewed it with the Paraprofessional.

12. An October 15, 2024 email from the Parent to the Case Manager stated the Parent's concern with the Student's math grade. The Parent also said the Student had told them several times they didn't understand the material being taught in class and that the Case Manager had not gotten back to the Parent with different resources or tools the Student could utilize to improve their grade as discussed at the September 16, 2024 IEP meeting. The Parent also stated they had shared their concerns with the Student's teacher and did not like the teacher's response. The Parent said, "I am highly concerned [the Student's] IEP is not being followed accordingly. … There is a disconnect somewhere here and I would like to get this resolved before taking any action necessary to make sure [the Student's] IEP is being followed … ."

    The Parent also said they still had not received the newest IEP to sign.

13. In an October 16, 2024 email, the Case Manager notified the Parent about recently discovered issues and proposed a call to discuss solutions. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Case Manager clarified that these issues were with the student information system, which had hindered the implementation of the Student's IEP in math class.

The Case Manager and the Parent agreed they had spoken via phone later that same day about options for the Student to receive more help in math. They disagreed on the content of that conversation, and both stated no solutions had been decided.

14. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent stated they believed the Student was not receiving the designated IEP support in any of their core classes, especially in math and history. The Parent also did not believe that the accommodation of reading instructions to the Student and ensuring they understood was being implemented.

15. On October 16, 2024, the Parent filed this complaint.

16. On October 24, 2024, the Special Education Director facilitated a "Case Review" meeting via Zoom. It included the Parent, Principal, Case Manager, Social Studies Teacher, Special Education Consulting Teacher, and Lead Consulting Teacher. It was noted that the meeting was in response to the Parent's concerns regarding the IEP and their belief that the Student was not receiving services in the general education setting.

17. A Prior Written Notice (PWN) dated November 1, 2024 documented proposals from the October 24, 2024 meeting. These included:

    a. The District "offered tutoring services virtually outside of [the Student's] IEP for 20 minutes two times per week" for backfilling, frontloading, and receiving assistance with current work. "The use of tutoring will be reviewed throughout the school year to determine if [the Student] continues to need extra help."

    b. The Student "will have general education intervention in reading and math as determined by the general education teacher in collaboration with [the] IEP case manager."

    c. "[The Student] will have services of 10 minutes weekly for check-ins with the case manager or consulting teacher and then email [the Parent] of progress or of work that needs [to be] done."

    d. "Teachers and paras to sign off that they have read and understand [the Student's] services, accommodations and modifications they are responsible for providing to [the Student]."

    e. "[The Student] will have special education support in the general education setting. This support could result in [the Student] feeling self-conscious and refusing services. The team has discussed ways to provide accommodations that will help [the Student] be more comfortable asking for and/or accepting assistance."

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

According to 34 CFR §300.323(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3-4), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year and be accessible to each teacher and provider who is responsible for its implementation.

The Parent alleged that the District did not implement the Student's IEP from the beginning of the 2024-25 school year. The Parent claimed that the Student was failing math and history, did not understand the presented material, and was not receiving the accommodation of having things read aloud and ensuring the Student's understanding. The Parent also questioned the Paraprofessional support being provided in the classroom. They began contacting the School staff for an explanation. They alleged that the Case Manager "verbally expressed" that they were unsure how to implement the IEP with long-term substitutes who have "no training" and asked the Parent for solutions.

The District responded that the "building level staff at [the] School have implemented the Student's IEP since the beginning of the 2024-25 school year" and "[t]he [S]tudent's required special education support has been and is being provided for 30 minutes in each of [their] core academic classes." The District claimed discrepancies in the reported conversation between the Parent and the Case Manager. The District acknowledged that the Math Teacher reported on October 11, 2024 that they could not view the Student's IEP on their computer. The District claimed the Special Education Consulting Teacher made corrections for the Math Teacher on October 15 or 16, 2024.

Analysis & Conclusion

The Student had two IEPs in effect for the 2024-25 school year. The September 18, 2023 IEP documented special education services and accommodations for the Student due to reading abilities below their peers and related parental concerns.

The IEP outlined goals in math, reading, and written language, provided 120 minutes of direct services in the general education setting five times per week divided evenly between four core subjects, and included accommodations such as text read aloud, clarification of directions, extended time, a quiet setting for assessments, and access to fidgets.

The September 16, 2024 IEP outlined goals in math and reading, direct service in the special education setting for 10 minutes one time per week, and direct service in the general education setting with a paraprofessional for 30 minutes three times per week for science and social science and 30 minutes five times per week for math and reading. No parental concerns were noted, and accommodations were similar to the previous IEP. The Parent stated that they did express concerns at this IEP meeting, particularly about the Student's experience in math class, and asked for available resources to help. No solutions were determined at that time. A month later, the Parent's concerns persisted and remained unresolved at the time of the complaint. School staff corroborated these statements.

School and District staff also acknowledged that although a paraprofessional had been present in the Student's classes to provide IEP services, the support may have been limited due to the Student's desire to avoid attention and the Paraprofessional's passive approach. This has led to concerns about the effectiveness of the support and discussions to improve it. On October 11, 2024, it was discovered that due to technical issues with the student information system, the Student's IEP was not implemented in their math class until October 16, 2024. The Parent and all interviewed School and District staff acknowledged this.

Due to ongoing concerns about the Student's declining math grades, the Student's persistent reports of not understanding the material or feeling unable to ask for help, and a perceived lack of adequate response from the school staff to address these issues, the Parent believed the Student's IEP was not being implemented and filed this complaint.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the District failed to implement the Student's IEP from the beginning of the 2024-25 school year in the Student's math class.

Issue Two

USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to inform each teacher and provider of their specific responsibilities to implement the Student's IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(5).

According to 34 CFR §300.323(d) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(5), Regardless of whether a person attends the IEP meeting, every teacher and service provider responsible for carrying out the IEP must be informed about their specific responsibilities. This includes understanding the accommodations, modifications, and support that must be provided according to the IEP.

The Parent alleged that some of the Student's teachers were unaware of the IEP until October 16, 2024, ten weeks after school started.

The District responded that each teacher and special education provider was informed of their specific responsibilities for implementing the IEP. A new student information system was implemented in the District in July 2024. The District claimed that the Student's IEP was accessible to regular education and special education teachers and other team members responsible for implementing the IEP.

The District also claimed that the Special Education Consulting Teacher provided preservice training for the 2024-25 school year to show teachers how to independently access each student's IEP and print "IEPs At a Glance" for their use.

Analysis & Conclusion

The Special Education Consulting Teacher confirmed that teachers were shown how to access IEP information via the new student information system at the beginning of the year. The Case Manager confirmed informing paraprofessionals assigned to the Student's classes of the Student's service times and accommodations.

According to interview information, while long-term substitutes can access student IEP information through the student information system or the Case Manager, short-term substitutes rely on the absent teacher's notes. Despite the frequent absences of the Math Teacher, the District reported that the Student primarily had the same substitute teacher. However, that substitute was not considered long-term with access to the student information system. The Math Teacher confirmed they were unaware of the Student's IEP and did not add the Student's IEP information to their substitute plans/notes until October 16, 2024.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the District failed to inform each teacher and provider of their specific responsibilities to implement the Student's IEP. District records and interview information indicates that IEP information is accessible to School staff and related generalized training is provided. However, according to interview information, due to the Math Teacher's inability to access IEP information, their frequent substitute, who did not have long-term access, was also unaware of the IEP information until October 16, 2024.

Issue Three

> USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to ensure that all personnel necessary to carry out the requirements of IDEA for the Student are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. 34 C.F.R. §300.156 and 34.C.F.R. §300.207; K.A.R. 91-40-43(e).

According to 34 C.F.R. §§300.156 and 300.207, each school district must ensure that all personnel necessary to carry out the IDEA requirements are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. All special education personnel, as appropriate, shall have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with exceptionalities. This includes special education teachers, related services personnel, and paraeducators.

The Parent asserted that school staff should have been proactively trained to recognize and address the Student's needs based on their IEP, rather than relying primarily on the Student to request assistance. Furthermore, the Parent emphasized the need for substitute teachers to be knowledgeable about IEPs and equipped to implement them effectively, ensuring continuity of support even in the teacher's absence.

The District responded that the School staff had been "appropriately and adequately prepared and trained to provide special education services to students."

Analysis & Conclusion

District records indicated adequate, valid licensure for all teachers working with the Student. The District also provided ten trainings between July 22, 2024 and October 14, 2024 to build general capacity amongst certified and classified staff regarding delivering special education services, accommodations, and modifications. No other direct consultation or training specifically related to this Student was reported.

According to interview information, to support the Student's learning during frequent absences of their math teacher, the School staff assigned a paraprofessional already familiar with the Student and their IEP to three of their four core classes.

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to ensure that all personnel necessary to carry out the IDEA requirements for the Student are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. District records and interview information indicate that the District meets federal requirements for personnel qualifications.

Issue Four

USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the Student with a free appropriate public education (FAPE). K.A.R. 91-40-1(z).

According to 34 CFR §300.17 and K.A.R. 91-40-1(z), a “free appropriate public education" and "FAPE" means special education and related services that meet the following criteria:

a. Are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge;

b. Meet the standards of the state board;

c. Include an appropriate preschool, elementary, or secondary school education; and

d. Are provided in conformity with an individualized education program.

The Parent alleged that the Student was being denied an appropriate education as defined by their IEP, citing the Student's lack of comprehension, declining grades, and inconsistent implementation of IEP services and accommodations. Despite raising these concerns with various school staff members, the Parent felt their complaints were not adequately addressed, leaving them with the impression that the School was either not equipped to support the Student or expected the Student to initiate requests for assistance. While acknowledging the District's recent offer of new resources, the Parent wanted assurance that these resources would be consistently implemented and effectively address the Student's needs.

The District responded that all teachers received notification and training on accessing IEP information through the new student information system, with additional support offered by the Special Education Consulting Teacher.

Acknowledging the intermittent absences of the Student's Math Teacher, the District explained that the Student was intentionally scheduled with a familiar paraprofessional across multiple classes to ensure continuity of learning and support. The District also noted that the Case Manager had discussed alternative support options with the Parent to address concerns about the Student's workload and collaboration with the Paraprofessional.

Analysis & Conclusion

District records and interview information indicated that the Student was enrolled in an appropriate public education program, and there was no evidence of cost to the Parent. However, District records and interview information indicated that the Student's education was not provided in conformity with the IEP for the Student's math class prior to October 16, 2024. The IEP also indicated direct special education services by paraprofessionals in the general education setting for the Student's four core classes. Interview information indicated a reliance on the Student asking for help instead of receiving it directly and consistently, which may have minimized the effectiveness of the support.

Following the filing of this complaint, School and District staff scheduled a meeting with the Parent to review the IEP, discuss concerns, and generate actionable solutions. A PWN from this meeting indicated proposals for the IEP that included District-sponsored virtual tutoring outside of school hours, general education intervention for reading and math, weekly check-ins with Special Education staff followed by home communication, and a requirement for teachers and paraprofessionals to sign a statement indicating that they read and understood the Student's IEP services, accommodations, and modifications.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the District failed to provide the Student with FAPE. District records and interview information indicate the Student did not receive education in conformity with the IEP in their math class from the beginning of the school year until October 16, 2024. Although the Student's grade was changed from an F to a C, it is unclear if this change was due to the Parent's concerns about the grade or if the Student actually met the standards needed to achieve the grade. The Student also received an F in History. It should also be noted that during this investigation, clerical errors and discrepancies in the IEP document were noticed that may impact the interpretation or implementation of required services. Furthermore, the interview information indicated the IEP Team's acknowledgment of concerns regarding the effectiveness and consistency of the IEP services provided by the Paraprofessional.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following areas:

A. Federal regulations 34 CFR §300.323(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3-4) specify that an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

   In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #501 did not implement that Student's IEP during the Student's math class from the beginning of the 2024-25 school year through October 16, 2024.

B. Federal regulations 34 CFR §300.323(d) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(5) specify that every teacher and service provider responsible for carrying out the IEP must be informed about their specific responsibilities. This includes understanding the accommodations, modifications, and support that must be provided according to the IEP.

   In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #501 did not inform the Student's Math Teacher sufficiently about how to access the Student's IEP, which resulted in the teacher not understanding their role in implementing the Student's IEP.

C. Federal regulations 34 CFR §300.17 and K.A.R. 91-40-1(z) specify that districts must provide a FAPE to the Student.

   In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #501 did not provide the Student with a FAPE when it failed to provide special education services in conformity with the Student's IEP.

Based on the foregoing, USD #501 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 10 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #501 shall submit to Special Education and Title Services (SETS), documentation of the corrective actions developed on October 24, 2024. The documentation shall address how the proposals in the (PWN) dated November 1, 2024, appropriately address the issues related to implementing the Student's IEP in math class and developing a system for informing staff implementing IEPs in the District of their responsibilities.

2. Further, within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #501 will convene an IEP meeting to determine how to implement schedule up to 30 hours of compensatory services to be delivered within the current school year. One calendar year. The Parent may accept all, a portion of, or none of the offered compensatory services, by notifying the district in writing within 15 school days of the date the offer is delivered to the parents. The District shall provide copies of the amended IEP and a schedule of when the compensatory services will be provided to SETS.

3. Within 90 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #501 shall develop and implement a written procedure to ensure that the requirements of 34 C.F.R.300.323(d) are met by (1) making IEPs accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related services provider, and any other service provider who is responsible for its implementation; (2) informing each teacher and provider described above of his or her specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP; and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.
4. Within 80 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #501 shall submit a copy of the procedure developed in accordance with corrective action 3 (above) to SETS.
5. Within 15 calendar days of this report, provide to SETS a written statement of assurance that the district will comply with: (a) 34 CFR §300.323(d) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(5), requiring that every teacher and service provider responsible for carrying out the IEP must be informed about their specific responsibilities, including the accommodations, modifications, and support that must be provided according to the IEP; (b) 34 C.F.R. §§300.156 and 300.207, requiring that each school district must ensure that all personnel necessary to carry out the IDEA requirements are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. All special education personnel, as appropriate, shall have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with exceptionalities. This includes special education teachers, related services personnel, and paraeducators; and (c) 34 CFR §300.323(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3-4), requiring that an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a four year-old girl who lives with her mother in USD #290. She has a medical diagnosis of Autism spectrum disorder and additional diagnoses of Mixed Receptive and Expressive Language Disorder and lack of coordination. Records show that the student was initially identified and received early intervention services in Iowa through an Individualized Family Support Plan (IFSP). The family moved into USD #290 in November 2023 and the student was enrolled in the preschool program at Sunflower Elementary School.

Her initial special education evaluation was completed on March 5, 2024 when the student was determined eligible for special education and related services under the exceptionality category of Autism. An IEP was developed and the student received the required special education and related services in the preschool program located in Sunflower Elementary School for the remainder of the 23-24 school year and during the summer 2024 extended school year (ESY). The student began the 2024-25 school year in the preschool program at Sunflower Elementary School but the parent requested a transfer to the preschool program at Lincoln Elementary School on September 26, 2024. This transfer request was approved on September 27, 2024 and the student began attending preschool at Lincoln Elementary School on October 4, 2024.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, two issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

USD #290, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by not providing the required special education and related services at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year.

Parent Position

The parent reported that the student is supposed to receive 15 minutes of speech/language therapy and 15 minutes of OT twice per week in addition to 60 minutes per day of specialized instruction according to the IEP. After the first week of school, she requested to know what was being done during the therapy but was told by the Preschool/ECSE Teacher that the IEP services would not start until the following week. She also reported being informed that the specialized instruction would be provided by the Preschool/ECSE Teacher in the classroom "as often as she [the Preschool/ECSE Teacher] thought the student needed it to meet her goals".

The mother stated that she provides the student's diapers for classroom use and that the student is allergic to LUVs diapers. The mother indicated that this allergy is written in the student's IEP; however, the student was sent home in a LUV's diaper on the second day of school which resulted in an allergic rash. The mother stated, "The Preschool/ECSE Teacher blamed it on a para and said they were unable to find the student's diapers that I brought when the student met the Preschool/ECSE Teacher". The parent believes that the school staff working with the student were unaware of her IEP and failed to provide the required IEP services beginning on the first day of the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(7) require the IEP to include the projected date for the beginning of the special education and related services as well as the anticipated frequency, location, and duration of each of those services.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) require that school districts have an IEP in effect at the beginning of each school year.

In addition, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.17 states that when special education and related services are provided in conformity with the IEP so that the student is making progress towards achieving the IEP goals, the student is receiving a free appropriate public education (FAPE).

Finally, federal regulation implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. 300.156 require each state education agency (SEA) to establish and maintain qualifications to ensure that personnel necessary to provide special education and related services in accordance with the IEP are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. The Kansas Department of Education (KSDE) details personnel qualifications in the Special Education Reimbursement Guide: State Categorical Aid and allows paraprofessionals to provide direct instruction to students with disabilities under the supervision of an appropriately certified teacher.

Findings of Fact

Based upon a review of documentation and interviews, the following are a finding of the facts related to this allegation:

1. USD #290 has a 2024-25 School Year Calendar and a separate 2024-25 Preschool ONLY School Year Calendar.
2. The first day of the 2024-25 school year for the student was on August 14, 2024.
3. The IEP in effect on the first day of the 2024-25 school year is dated March 5, 2024 and requires OT for 15 minutes twice per week; speech/language therapy for 15 minutes twice per week; and 60 minutes per day of specialized instruction five times per week. All of these services are to be provided in the Early Childhood setting beginning on March 5, 2024 and ending on March 4, 2025.

4. The present level of academic and functional performance in the March 5, 2024 IEP states. "According to the school nurse, the student has food sensitivities to grape juice, carrots, and dairy".

5. Under the Participation with Nondisabled Peers section of the March 5, 2024 IEP, the following three clarifications are made:

   a. "When provision of the regularly-scheduled special education and related services is not possible due to events that are beyond the control of the school such as school closure due to weather or other emergencies, emergency drills, or when the child is absent from school, compensatory services will not be provided. Special education services will not be provided when school is not in session according to the school calendar".

   b. "The IEP team has determined that for the student to have opportunities to participate with non-identified peers in extracurricular and nonacademic activities, regularly scheduled special education and related services may not occur when their delivery would prevent the child from participating in field trips, assemblies, special events for the general education classroom or school, state- or district-wide assessments, and other activities".

   c. "At the beginning of each school year, elementary students receiving services under an IEP may remain in the general education classroom in order to establish an understanding of classroom procedures and routines and to facilitate participation in general education classroom/building activities. Special Education pull-out services will commence no later than 5 (five) school days following the first full day of the school year.

6. Documentation shows the SLP provided services to the student on August 14, 15, and 16, 2024 by pushing into the student's classroom. No services were provided to the student during the week of August 19 - 23, 2024. The student also received speech/language therapy services on September 4, 9, 11, 16 and 25, 2024. The records note that the student was absent on September 18 and 23, 2024.

7. Documentation shows the OT provided services to the student on August 15, 16, 19, 22, 26, and 28, 2024 as well as on September 4, 9, 11, 16, 23, and 25, 2024. The records note that the OT was unavailable to provide services on September 30 and the student was absent on October 1, 2024.

8. Documentation shows that data was collected on the student's IEP goals in the classroom setting during the weeks of August 19 and 26 as well as September 2, 9, 16, and 23, 2024.

9. The Daily Communication Logs support the provision of services reported on the OT and SLP Logs and the IEP goal data collection sheets.
10. The student's Daily Schedule shows classroom instruction occurring from 12:45 PM to 2:50 PM each school day. Documentation support that the student is being supervised 100% of the time by a school staff member e.g. ECSE teacher, OT, SLP, and/or one of the paraprofessionals.
11. Documentation found the parent requested a transfer to the preschool program at Lincoln Elementary School on September 26 and this request was granted on September 27, 2024. Due to staffing, the student was not allowed to transfer to the new school until October 4, 2024 and the parent chose to keep the student home in the interim.
12. The parent reports that since that time, the student is happy to go to preschool at Lincoln Elementary School and that the student is making progress towards achieving her IEP goals.

Analysis / Conclusion

In this case, the parent had three concerns. The first concern was that the related services of OT and speech/language therapy required by the student's IEP were not being provided when school started on August 14, 2024. Documentation and interviews found that speech/language and OT services began during the first week of the school year. However, the documentation shows the student was not offered the required 30 minutes per week of speech/language therapy during the week of September 9 - 13, 2024 and, thus, USD #290 failed to implement the IEP as written during that time period. Subsequently, the student was transferred at parent request from the preschool program at Sunflower Elementary School to the preschool program at Lincoln Elementary School where the parent reports the IEP being implemented and the student making progress towards her IEP goals.

Based on the foregoing, USD #290 is found OUT of compliance with 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) because the IEP was not implemented as required for the provision of the speech/language services during the week of August 19 - 23, 2024. However, while USD #290 did not implement the student's IEP as written for one week at the beginning of the school year, USD #290 did provide the student with a free appropriate public education during the 2024-25 school year to date as the student is making progress towards her IEP goals despite missing the 30 minutes of required speech/language therapy.

In addition, the parent was worried that the 60 minutes per day of specialized instruction was not being provided by the special education teacher. However, the IEP requires the 60 minutes per day of specialized instruction to be provided in the early childhood setting, which in this case is the preschool classroom taught by the Preschool/ECSE Teacher with the support of two classroom paraprofessionals and the related services staff. The student's schedule shows the student is receiving instruction between 12:45 and 2:50 PM each day from the classroom teacher, related services providers, and/or one of the paraprofessionals. Based on the foregoing, USD #290 is found IN compliance with the requirement to implement the IEP as written and to provide the student with FAPE.

Finally, the parent was concerned that the mistake that was made in regards to the use of the appropriate diapers was a result of the Preschool/ECSE Teacher not being aware of what was included in the student's IEP. Documentation found that the allergy to LUV's diapers is not included in the student's March 5, 2024 IEP. While the student's teacher and classroom staff should be aware of any allergies or medical conditions which may impact the student in the school setting, the LUV's allergy is not included in the student's current IEP and, as such, the district was not required to know and implement this information under the IDEA. Therefore, in this particular case, USD #290 is found to be IN compliance with the requirement to implement the IEP as written.

In the future, the parent may want to have this information documented in the Legal Educational Decision-Maker Input and Concerns section of the student's IEP if she believes it is relevant to providing the student with FAPE.

In addition, USD #290 is cautioned to review and revise the three clarification statements in the Participation with Non-Disabled Peers section of the IEP which describes the district's procedures and practices regarding the implementation of an IEP which directly affects when compensatory services must be considered for student's missing specialized instruction and/or related services during specific periods of time during the school year as well as directly affecting when a student who receives "pull out" minutes will start to receive their required IEP services when school begins.

The first two clarification statements unilaterally deny the need for any compensatory services due to situations in which the district is unable to provide the required specialized instruction or related services due to a variety of reasons.

The third clarification statement is not individualized for each student with the wording of "may remain in the general regulation classroom" as well as "Special Education pull-out services will commence no later than 5 (five) school days following the first full day of the school year". This subjective language makes it unclear to the parent and does not pass "the stranger test" for making the IEP clear to all parties.

It is noted that the first two clarification statements do not apply to the student who is the subject of this investigation because that particular student did not miss any services due to any of the specific situations described. The third clarification statement also does not apply to this particular student because the student is placed 100% of the time in the general education preschool setting and receives no "pull out" services.

However, these statements appear to unilaterally make a predetermination that compensatory services are not necessary and usurps the IEP team's authority to determine whether a student was denied educational benefit because of a disruption in educational services which may have impacted the provision of FAPE. Please refer to the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) Dear Colleague Letter to Wolfrum dated January 10, 2022 which states,

> . . . Generally, the decision to provide "make up" or compensatory education when there is a disruption in the provision of educational services, and the nature and amount of the special education and related services that are to be provided as compensatory education, is an individualized determination made by the individualized education program (IEP) Team in accordance with the requirements in 34 C.F.R. 300.320 - 300.324.

Issue Two

USD #290, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by not providing the required paraprofessional support on September 5, 2024.

Parent Position

The parent reported that USD #290 failed to provide the required paraprofessional support for the student on September 5, 2024 which resulted in the child suffering an injury leaving a bite mark/bruise on the child's arm. The parent communicated with the Preschool/ECSE Teacher regarding her concern and was told that the injury did not occur at school because the student is always supervised by a paraprofessional. The parent was later told that the paraprofessionals were not with the student at all times on September 5, 2024.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Findings of Fact

1. On September 6, 2024, the parent sent a Class Dojo message to the Preschool/ECSE Teacher reporting a bite mark on the student's arm and questioning what had happened the previous school day.
2. The Preschool/ECSE Teacher responded to the parent in Class Dojo that same day stating, "She is with a para all day and was not in close contact with any other child in her class and none of us saw her fall or hit her elbow/arm at any time during school."
3. The parent reported she was told by Paraprofessional #1 that neither para was with the student the whole day on September 5, 2024 because the Preschool/ECSE Teacher stayed in the classroom with the student while the two paraprofessionals assigned to the classroom took the rest of the class to the lunchroom.

4. USD #290 stated in the Response to the Allegations that "The Preschool/ECSE Teacher was conveying the fact the student was never alone and no one saw her get hurt. The student is supervised 100% of the time she is on school property. That does not mean it is always by a paraprofessional. On the day in question, the student may have stayed in the classroom with the Preschool/ECSE Teacher while the paras took the other students to the lunchroom. She was, however, supervised."

5. The IEP in effect on September 5, 2024 was developed on March 5, 2024.

6. The March 5, 2024 IEP requires 30 minutes per week of OT; 30 minutes per week of speech/language therapy; and 60 minutes per day of specialized instruction in the early childhood setting. No supplementary aids or services are included in the IEP and the IEP specifically does not require access to paraprofessional support throughout the school day.

7. During an interview with Paraprofessional #1, it was reported that the student remained in the classroom with the Preschool/ECSE Teacher on September 5, 2024 while the two paraprofessionals accompanied the rest of the class to the lunchroom.

Analysis / Conclusion

In this case, the parent was concerned that the student came home from school with a bite mark/bruise on September 5, 2024. The parent was told the injury did not occur at school because the student is supervised 100% of her school day. The parent believes this supervision is required by the student's IEP and is being provided by either one of the two paraprofessionals assigned to the student's classroom.

However, the IEP in effect on September 5, 2024 is dated March 5, 2024 and only requires 30 minutes per week of OT; 30 minutes per week of speech/language therapy; and 60 minutes per day of specialized instruction in the early childhood setting. The IEP does not include any supplementary aids or services and the IEP specifically does not require access to paraprofessional support throughout the school day. Regardless, USD #290 did report that the student is supervised 100% of the time she is on school property and interview and documentation found this supervision was provided through a combination of the two classroom paraprofessionals and the Preschool/ECSE Teacher on September 5, 2024.

Based on the foregoing, USD #290 is found to be IN compliance with the requirement to implement the student's IEP as written.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: Interviews and documentation support a finding that USD #290 did have an IEP in effect for the student at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year as required by federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(a) . However, USD #290 is found OUT of compliance with the requirements of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) because the IEP was not implemented as required for the provision of the speech/language services during the week of August 19 - 23, 2024.

The following corrective action is ordered:

1. No later than January 15, 2025, USD #290 will provide the KSDE with an assurance statement that it will meet the requirements of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) and ensure that the IEPs of all students are being implemented as written.

2. While noncompliance is identified because the district failed to provide the required speech therapy services during the week of August 19 - 23, 2024, the student's subsequent progress towards achieving her IEP goals indicates this noncompliance did not impact the provision of FAPE to the student. As such, no compensatory services are ordered.

ISSUE TWO: Interviews and documentation support a finding that USD #290 in IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) which requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. In this case, the student's current IEP does not require any supplementary aids or services, specifically paraprofessional support services. As such, no corrective action is ordered.

It should be noted that while the current IEP does not require any paraprofessional services, there is evidence that the student is supervised 100% of the school day due to behaviors associated with her exceptionality of Autism. USD #290 provides this level of support through the structure of the district's preschool program.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 290
Ottawa Public Schools: 25FC290-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on October 30, 2025, by --------, on behalf of her child, --------. In the remainder of this decision, -------- will be referred to as "the complainant," and -------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on November 29, 2024. That Complaint Report concluded that there were violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the complainant filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint, the Complaint Report, the complainant's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues On Appeal From Complainant

The report identified two issues:

ISSUE ONE: USD #290, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by not providing the required special education and related services at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year.

ISSUE TWO: USD #290, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by not providing the required paraprofessional support on September 5, 2024.

The complainant appealed the conclusions of the investigator in two separate emails, both dated November 30, 2024. The first email stated in its entirety:

> "Good morning. I'd like to appeal the decision about (the student's) case with USD 290. I'll be printing off pictures of conversations and sending them."

This communication did not identify what issue was being appealed, or why the complainant believed any fact or conclusion in the report to be incorrect

The complainant also asked for a copy of a photo showing the student at a Lego station. That picture was sent to the complainant by the investigator.

In the separate email, also dated November 30, 2024, the complainant sent a screen shot of undated face book messages and undated personal notes made by the complainant. This email did not identify what issue was being addressed nor how these messages and notes demonstrated an error in the findings and conclusions in the report.

Both issue one and issue two in the report alleged that the district failed to implement the student's IEP. Nothing in this appeal identifies or describes a failure to implement the student's IEP. Even if the student was briefly unsupervised on September 5, 2024, which is not supported by the preponderance of the evidence, that does not support a finding of a failure to implement the IEP because the IEP did not require paraprofessional support throughout the school day (See Report, p. 12).

The Appeal Committee has already noted, above, that Kansas regulations specify minimum requirements for appeal of a complaint report, namely: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect."

Again, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee's function is to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

With regard to this appeal, the Appeal Committee has reviewed all of the material submitted in this appeal, and has identified no basis to overturn any portion of the report. Therefore, the Appeal Committee finds that there is sufficient evidence to support the findings and conclusions related to Issues one and two in the report.

The Appeal Committee received an additional notice of appeal from the parent on December 12, 2024. The original complaint report was issued on November 29. The time in which to submit an appeal expired on December 10. Therefore, the Appeal Committee is prohibited by state regulation to consider this additional notice of appeal. However, the Appeal Committee notes that the additional notice of appeal contained nothing that would have altered the decision in this appeal because it did not comply with the state regulation, requiring each notice of appeal to include a: "detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect."

The additional notice of appeal listed two grounds for appeal. The Appeal Committee has provided a brief statement explaining why this additional notice of appeal would have been found to be insufficient for each of the stated grounds for appeal:

1. Factual Inaccuracies - The investigation report contains multiple misrepresentations of events - Statements attributed to parties are demonstrably incorrect - Critical context and evidence have been omitted or mischaracterized . The Appeal Committee notes that this "ground for appeal" does not state what statements in the report are incorrect, omitted or mis-characterized, nor how such alleged statements make any finding in the report incorrect.
2. Procedural Concerns - Failure to conduct a comprehensive and impartial investigation - Apparent bias in fact-finding process - Lack of due diligence in verifying submitted statements
   The Appeal Committee notes that this "ground for appeal" does not state how there was a failure to conduct a comprehensive and impartial investigation, what bias was used in the fact-finding process, nor what in the report supports the contention that there was a "Lack of due diligence in verifying submitted statements."

This decision does not mean the complainant has no remedy for the concerns expressed in this appeal. The complainant, for example, can request an IEP meeting and ask for the team to amend the student's IEP to include specific supports for which the investigator concluded were not addressed in the student's IEP, for example: use of appropriate diapers due to the student's allergy to LUVs diapers (Report, p. 9) and with regard to a bruise possibly occurring at an unsupervised time, but which the investigator found that "the IEP specifically does not require access to paraprofessional support throughout the school day." (Report, p. 12).

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 19th day of December, 2024.

Background Information

This complaint addressed a systemic issue regarding student information in a resource room not being protected by the staff and a child complaint regarding IEP implementation and producing progress notes using accurate data collection for an eight-year-old third grader in the resource room. The student in the child complaint is eligible for special education and related services under the category of emotional disability. The student is in a classroom for students with social emotional needs and is staffed by a certified teacher, social worker and paraeducators. As well, this student received special education services from an occupational therapist and the behavior intervention plan is monitored and revised by a board certified behavior analyst (BCBA).

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: Did the district protect personally identifying information (PII) of the students in the resource room during the 2024-2025 school year?

2. ISSUE TWO: Did the district use accurate data to complete IEP progress reports for the first quarter of the 2024-2025 school year for the student?

3. ISSUE THREE: Did the district implement the IEP of the student, specific to services during the 2024-2025?

Issue One

Did the district protect personally identifying information (PII) of the students in the resource room during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§300.610 through 300.626 identify the confidentiality requirements that apply to children under Part B of the IDEA. They protect the personally identifiable information (PII) in education records collected, maintained, or used under Part B of the IDEA.34 C.F.R §300.32 defines PII as information that contains the name of the child, the child's parent, or other family member; the address of the child; a personal identifier, such as the child's social security number of student number; or a list of personal characteristics or other information that would make it possible to identify the child with reasonable certainty.

Federal regulations at 300.623(a) and (c) state that each participating agency must protect the confidentiality of personally identifiable information at collection, storage, disclosure, and destruction stages and all persons collecting or using personally identifiable information must receive training or instruction regarding the State's policies and procedures under §300.123 and 34 CFR part 99.

Under 34 CFR § 300.622(a) of the IDEA Part B regulations, parental consent must be obtained before PII is disclosed to parties, other than officials of participating agencies. Under IDEA Part B and pursuant to the FERPA regulations at 34 CFR § 99.31(a)(1), prior written consent is not required to disclose PII from student education records to school officials, including teachers, within the educational agency or institution, whom the agency or institution has determined to have legitimate educational interests. 34 CFR § 99.31(a)(1)(i)(A).

Unless the district has parent consent, or a FERPA exception applies, a district must prevent the disclosure to any unauthorized person of personally identifiable information from student records. Disclosure is the release, transfer or other communication of records, or the personally identifiable information contained in those records, to any party, by any means, including oral, written, or electronic.

The complainant alleged that clipboards containing student data tracking sheets, visual schedules and detailed behavior intervention programs that were identified with the student's name were left lying around or had been misplaced for hours at a time. Further, confidential information regarding specific student's involvement with the District of Child and Family (DCF) and the student's family were discussed between staff members in a location where the students or peers could overhear.

The district responded that they take the confidentiality of students and IEP materials very seriously. All classified staff and paraprofessionals participate in training at the start of each school year regarding FERPA, confidentiality and protecting personally identifying information. The district states that the classroom teacher, social worker and paraprofessionals who support the students meet in the resource room to discuss information related to implementing the IEP and improving instruction for student progress following district policy and procedures. They state they utilize a clipboard case to store important IEP information (data collection sheets, student accommodations, BIP directions) for each student. This system allows the paraeducator to securely and confidentially carry the necessary documentation when accompanying the student to a general education class. While the clipboards initially contained the name of the students they now include the student's initials following the complainant talking with the principal about the names of student's being exposed on the data sheets.

Photo images of a student's clipboard and contents show that the student's behavioral data sheet contained the student's initials on October 29, 2024 in a clipboard case that is opened. The student's first name is contained on an undated behavior cheat sheet stored in a clipboard case that is opened, The student's name and photos of the student on the student's token board in a notebook with a closing cover; a behavior intervention plan with the student's name and date of birth and parent's name is in an opened 3-ring notebook; student's schedule and the student's BIP and iPad plan with the student's initials are placed in an opened clipboard case.

The building principal and classroom teacher acknowledged during their November 18, 2024 interview that the complainant had spoken to each individually about concerns that student information could be exposed. The building principal stated that out of extra precaution the documents replaced the student's names with his or her initials. They stated that prior to the complaint speaking with the teacher and principal they already used a distinct color of clipboard case for each student, so the cases were not identifiable on the outside with any student. The building principal stated that this practice was to balance the need for privacy with all staff having convenient access to review and implement student behavior intervention plans and collect data wherever the student was in the building. The staff stated that at all times the clipboard cases were under the control of school staff and not left out or behind in unsecured parts of the building.

The building principal and classroom staff stated that token economy charts and visual schedules containing personally identifiable information are used directly by students during instruction whether in the resource room or general classroom. These teaching accommodations may include photos of the student to assist the student to transition to become a more symbolic communicator. Further the district staff stated that the students in some cases carried these accommodations since they used them for self-management.

The district staff stated during the November 18, 2024 interview that students are not in the general educational classes for academic instruction so the resource teacher and general education teacher schedule time to talk about the student as needed. Paraprofessionals implement the social, behavioral, management IEP goals using the materials contained in the clipboard cases. They further stated that when a conversation needs to occur about a student, they access the social worker's office and any phone conversations with parents or other staff, or agency can office in that office as well.

The District Policy Manual, Section 3000 Students, Directory Information Records Code 3820 defined the following as directory information "that is general in nature and is usually regarded as non-detrimental to the student, including the following: Name, address, e-mail address, telephone listing, date and place of birth, grade level, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, awards and honors received, and the most recent previous educational agency or institution attended by the student." The manual further stated, "Directory information may be released without authorization from the adult student, the student's parents, or the student's legal guardian." A parent may inform the district in writing that he or she does not want information about the student designated as directory information. The director of special education in an email to the investigator confirmed that none of the parents in the classroom made this request.

Documentation provided by the district showed that all six paraeducators in the classroom completed a training on Confidentiality and Communication training as part of their orientation. In this training there is a training video with a review of FERPA and a statement, "Share student information only with staff responsible for the student." Another slide includes three bullets for student confidentiality, 1) protect student information from being disclosed, shared, released; 2) do not share student information regarding special education, exceptionality, characteristics; 3) protect student identities and special educaiton status. The para training video associated with the district SPED Paraeducator Orientation specified that the IEP at a Glance document contains confidential information. Further, on the slide titled, "Relationship with Students and Parents" it is listed that a role of the paraeducator is to "respect the dignity and privacy of all students and families." Additionally, spreadsheets for each paraprofessional documented the date each took the courses and additionally, the paraprofessionals had completed training in Student Privacy Rights (FERPA), Paraprofessional Behavior Basics, Autism, and ESI: What School Staff Need to Know.

Conclusion

Two issues were considered for the investigation. First, whether the personally identifiable information was safeguarded and second, whether the district only allowed authorized persons with legitimate educational need to access the personally identifiable information.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§300.610 through 300.626 protects the personally identifiable information (PII) in education records collected, maintained, or used under Part B of the IDEA. IDEA and FERPA define PII as: information that contains the name of the child, the child's parent, or other family member; the address of the child; a personal identifier, such as the child's social security number of student number; or a list of personal characteristics or other information that would make it possible to identify the child with reasonable certainty. In this case it is found that the district safeguarded the student's PII by storing student data sheets and IEP documents in closing clipboard cases as described in the findings. Any materials that showed the image of a student were determined to be an instructional accommodation that the student used for self-management and was regularly carried by the student. Further, the classroom had secure locations and time allocated after school to discuss student information related to the student's IEP or instructional plan. Evidence was not found that the staff discussed personal student information in front of students or staff.

The second part of this investigation addressed FERPA and IDEA regulation 34 C.F.R. 99.31(a)(1)(i)(A) which permits disclosure of PII to school officials who the district has determined to have legitimate educational interests. A school official has a legitimate educational interest if the school official needs to review an education record in order to fulfill his or her professional responsibility

There is one exception. IDEA regulations 34 C.F.R. 300.622(b)(1) adds that parent consent is not needed when PII is released to school officials for the purpose of meeting the requirements of the IDEA. However, that does not mean PII can be given to all school officials when only one needs the information for the purpose of meeting the requirements of the IDEA. This regulation means that the release of information may be made to school officials who need the information for the purpose of meeting the requirements of the IDEA. When PII is released to school officials who do not need that information to fulfill his or her professional responsibility or to otherwise meet the requirements of the IDEA, a violation of both FERPA and IDEA results.

In this case it is found that PII was shared only with those with a professional responsibility for the student's education. The district created behavior cheat sheets so that those with a need to know had access by storing it in the clipboard cases which were transported by the staff. The paraprofessional staff training that occurred was inclusive of the responsibilities for guarding PII. As a part of the para training, they are instructed, "Share student information only with staff responsible for the student." This statement is defined as any staff member who is the teacher or supervising the student for any part of the school day could be considered "responsible for the student."

Based on the foregoing, it is found that USD #229 protected personally identifying information (PII) of the students in the resource room during the 2024-2025 school year and no violation occurred.

Issue Two

Did the district use accurate data to complete IEP progress reports for the first quarter of the 2024-2025 school year for the student?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(3)(i) states that a description of how the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals will be measured will be provided to the parents.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

The complainant alleged in the complaint that "data tracking is not done with fidelity. The operant definition for the trackable behavior is disregarded by staff based on their opinions. Other paras have expressed that they think the expectations put in place by the special education team and the student's father were too rigid and would prevent him from earning a reward. As a result, the student began receiving zero tallies."

The district responded that paras are trained, and the data is collected with fidelity, under the oversight of a district BCBA. The data collection sheets, and graphing of the collected data are used to accurately report progress to parents.

The IEP dated September 4, 2024 indicated that progress on goals will be reported with the same frequency as general education report cards. Three goals were identified with measurable goals

a. By the end of the IEP year, given modeling, direct instruction and practice in social skills, [student] will demonstrate increased cooperative interactions with peers in a small group activity as measured by achievement of an 83% on a related rubric across 3 consecutive trials. Baseline = 8%, 17%, 8% across 3 consecutive trials

b. By September 2025, when rated on the Replacement Behavior Rubric, [student] will score an average of 12/15 or (80%). Currently [student] scores 4/15 (27% overall); 1/5 on emotional dysregulation, 1/5 on time to regulate, 2/5 using a replacement behavior.

c. By the end of the IEP year, given direct specialized instruction and opportunities to participate in problem solving practice, [student] will demonstrate an improved capacity to self-advocate and communicate about the factors that are making it difficult to for him to maintain emotional regulation at school as measured by achievement of 88% on a related rubric across four consecutive measured instances Baseline: Currently when triggered, [student] will elope from the area and hide. When approached by an adult, [student] becomes physically aggressive (hitting and kicking, throwing objects, and breaking items). On the related rubric, [student] scored 25%, 31%, 25%, 25%

The Progress Report dated October 11, 2024 used data collected on the behavior excel spreadsheet

The behavior graph and excel spreadsheet corroborated the scores reported on the Progress Reports.

Conclusion

The complainant's concern was that the student's data were not accurately collected due to those collecting data not being appropriately or adequately trained and not agreeing with the student's expectations. IDEA does not expressly provide regulation or guidance about accurate data collection. Instead, accurate data collection is paramount for reporting accurate progress to the parent and IEP team at regular intervals to ensure the student is making progress.

The Kansas Process Manual states: Once the IEP team has developed measurable annual goals for a child, the team must include a description of how the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals will be measured. This measure of progress will enable parents, children, and educators to monitor progress during the year, and, if appropriate, to revise the IEP to be consistent with the child's instructional needs. The idea is to use progress monitoring information in a formative way, to help with decision-making about instructional changes that may be needed. If a measurable annual goal is written correctly with the 4 components (behavior, criteria, condition, and timeframe) the requirement of how progress toward the goal is measured is contained within the goal and no additional information is required. … Whatever the method chosen, progress toward the goals must be monitored in the method indicated on the IEP and progress reports should include a description of the child's progress towards the child's measurable annual goals."

Each of the IEP goals contain the behavior, criteria, condition, and timeframe. Interview with the district staff described strategies for ensuring data were collected with fidelity. Progress Reports were written based on data entered into the excel spreadsheet. Initial training was provided by the district and ongoing training was described by the district staff.

Therefore, it is found that USD #229 used accurate data to complete IEP progress reports for the first quarter of the 2024-2025 school year for the student.

Issue Three

Did the district implement the IEP of student, specific to services during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

According to Federal Regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) as soon as possible following development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP and State Regulations at (K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(2) further define implementation as "once the IEP has been developed services are to be initiated within 10 school days after written parent consent is granted."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.

The complainant alleged that paras expressed that they thought the behavioral expectations of the student were too rigid and would prevent the student from earning rewards and from that point on the student received zero tallies. The complainant alleged that eight weeks into the school year the student had not been doing the same schoolwork as every other third grader despite earning rewards and receiving zero tallies as if the student had participated. The complainant wrote in the complaint that the staff did not strictly follow the behavior plan, track data, implement token boards and had not received adequate training to implement the IEP with fidelity. Finally, the complainant alleged that the student had told the social worker that he does not do work and that he hadn't completed phonics or mathematics since the first few weeks of school.

The district responded that they implemented the student's IEP with fidelity. They stated in their November 13, 2024 response that they have daily schedules and service logs documenting that service minutes were provided and that progress reports show the student's progress on each of the student's goals.

The IEP dated September 4, 2024 developed based on the September 4, 2024 Evaluation Report includes a behavior intervention plan, three goals and nine accommodations. The student received service minutes for special education, social work and occupational therapy. This IEP was revised on October 2, 2024 to revise placement to a more restrictive setting and decrease social work services while equally increasing special education minutes the same amount.

The student's daily schedule showed times in which the goals were taught, and that phonics and mathematics were taught. The behavior excel spreadsheet and reinforcement plan showed that data were collected on the behavior goal. The Progress Report dated October 11, 2024 reported progress to demonstrate that IEP goals and behavior intervention plan were implemented. Interview with the staff and student work showed that the accommodations were used.

Conclusion

It is found that the data, student work, progress notes support that the amended IEP dated October 2, 2024 was implemented. Interview with the district staff demonstrated that they were able to describe the evidence provided. Therefore, it is found that USD #229 implemented the IEP of the student, specific to services during the 2024-2025 school year.

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #231
ON NOVEMBER 1, 2024

DATE OF REPORT:DECEMBER 2, 2024

This report is in response to a complaint ---------- filed with our office, on behalf of their child, ---------- For the remainder of this report ---------- will be referred to as "the student." ---------- will be referred to as "the parent." USD 231 will be referred to as "the district."

Investigation of Complaint

The parent filed a complaint on November 1 and an amended complaint on November 4. Because the amended complaint was filed early enough in the investigation to give the opportunity for the complaint investigator to investigate the additional issues and the district to respond to all issues, the investigator combined all issues from the initial and amended complaints into this investigation. K.A.R. § 91-40-5(c)(5) requires that the complaint investigation include "[a] discussion with the complainant during which additional information may be gathered and specific allegations of noncompliance identified, verified, and recorded." Laura Jurgensen, complaint investigator, held this discussion with the parent through a November 4 phone call, gathering additional information and verifying the specific allegations to be investigated. Laura Jurgensen provided the specific allegations to be investigated to the parent and the district via email on November 7. The parent did not dispute how the complaint investigator framed the issues to be investigated by the date the complaint investigator set and so the complaint investigator provided the issues to be investigated to the district on November 11. The parent and investigator also exchanged multiple emails. The district provided the investigator with a response to the issues the investigator identified, as well as all documentation the investigator requested. On November 20, the investigator interviewed the district special education director, school psychologist, IEP case manager, special education coordinator, assistant principal, and attorney for the district.

Kansas regulations require that a complaint "allege a violation that occurred not more than one year before the date the complaint is received " K.A.R. § 91-40-51(b)(1).

Therefore, this complaint investigator did not consider any information either party submitted dated prior to November 1, 2023, except for the indicated purpose. The parent's initial and amended complaints included allegations that occurred prior to November 1, 2023, and this complaint investigator did not investigate those allegations as they did not meet the requirements of K.A.R. § 91-40-51(b)(1).

Additionally, the parent alleged a violation of 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(1), indicating the district changed the student's draft IEP between the November and December 2023 meetings without parent consent. The investigator informed the parent in the November 11 email identifying the issues to be investigated that this is not an allegation of a violation of special education law as there is no requirement for a district to obtain parent consent when revising draft documents.

In completing this investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed all information the parties provided to determine its relevance to the issues being investigated. The investigator relied on the following information in analyzing the issues in this complaint investigation:

Background Information

This complaint focuses on a student in the tenth grade during the 2023–24 school year, the main period covered by this complaint investigation. The period for this complaint investigation began toward the end of the initial evaluation of the student.

Issues

Through the complaint, the amended complaint, and the complaint investigator's discussion with the parent, the parent alleges eight issues upon which this investigation will focus:

Issue One: Whether the district properly obtained informed consent from the parent before the initial provision of special education and related services to the student. 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.9, .300(b)(1); K.A.R. §§ 91-40-1, -27(a)(2), (f)(4).

Issue Two: Whether the district held a meeting to develop an IEP for the student within 30 days of the determination that the student needed special education and related services. 34 C.F.R. § 300.323(c); K.A.R. § 91-40-8(f)(2).

Issue Three: Whether the district obtained informed parental consent, in accordance with 34 C.F.R. § 300.300(a)(1), prior to conducting a December 2023 reevaluation of the student. 34 C.F.R. § 300.300(c); K.A.R. § 91-40-27(a)(1).

Issue Four: Whether the IEP Team and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, reviewed existing evaluation data on the student, as part of the December 2023 reevaluation. 34 C.F.R. § 300.305(a)(1); K.A.R. § 91-40-8(c)(1).

Issue Five: Whether the district accurately provided the purpose of the December 2023 meeting in the notice of meeting. 34 C.F.R. § 300.322(b)(1)(i); K.A.R. § 91-40-17(b)(1).

Issue Six: Whether the district responded to the parent's request for a neuropsychological evaluation of the student with a prior written notice in a reasonable time. 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a); K.S.A. § 72-3430(b)(2).

Issue Seven: Whether the district used the parent's refusal to consent to the district's offer of special education and related services to the student to deny the student's enrollment in the district for the 2024–25 school year. 34 C.F.R. § 300.300(d)(3); K.A.R. § 91-40-27(h).

Issue Eight: Whether the district's alleged failure to develop an IEP for the student within 30 days of the determination that the student needs special education and related services denied the student a free appropriate public education (FAPE). 34 C.F.R. § 300.101(a); K.S.A. § 72-3410(a)(2); K.A.R. § 91-40-2(a)(1), (e).

Issue One

Parent Consent for the Initial Provision of Special Education Services Applicable Law

The regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) define consent as, "(a) The parent has been fully informed of all information relevant to the activity for which consent is sought, in his or her native language, or through another mode of communication; (b) The parent understands and agrees in writing to the carrying out of the activity for which his or her consent is sought, and the consent describes that activity and lists the records (if any) that will be released and to whom; and (c)(1) The parent understands that the granting of consent is voluntary on the part of the parent and may be revoked at any time." (34 C.F.R. 300.9(a)–(c)(1).) The regulations implementing the IDEA also require, "A public agency that is responsible for making FAPE available to a child with a disability must obtain informed consent from the parent of the child before the initial provision of special education and related services to the child." (34 C.F.R. § 300.300(b)(1).)

The beginning of the timeline for this complaint investigation coincides with the end of the student's initial evaluation. On October 23, 2023, the student's evaluation and eligibility team met to review the draft Evaluation Team Report. This occurred prior to the timeline for this complaint investigation, but the complaint investigator reviewed this as part of determining the date of the evaluation and eligibility team's determination that the student needed special education and related services. The parent requested that district staff gather additional information as part of the initial evaluation and so the district agreed to gather the information and meet again. (Email Exchange Between Parent and District School Psychologist, Oct. 24–Nov. 15, 2023.)

On November 15, 2023, the student's evaluation and eligibility team, including the parent, met to review the evaluation report and determine whether the student had a disability and needed special education services. (Notice of Nov. 15, 2023, Meeting from District to Parents, Nov. 3, 2023; Evaluation Team Report, Nov. 15, 2023; Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent, Nov. 15, 2023; and Evaluation, Eligibility, and IEP Team Meeting Notes, Nov. 15, 2023.) All evaluation and eligibility team members, including the parent, signed that they agreed that the student is eligible for special education services. (Evaluation Team Report, Nov. 15, 2023.)

The district explained, both in its response to the complaint and in the interview with the complaint investigator, that the district provides a Prior Written Notice to the parent regarding student eligibility and seeks parent consent, despite this not being required by federal or state special education law. In the Prior Written Notice the district gave to the parent to request the parent's consent for eligibility for services, district staff checked the box for the "IDENTIFICATION/ELIGIBILITY" section and indicated in that section that the student is eligible for special education. (Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent, Nov. 15, 2023.) The district also checked the "INITIAL SERVICES & PLACEMENT" section and indicated, "As explained below, an Individualized Education Program (IEP) proposing appropriate Special Education and related services and an appropriate instructional environment for delivering special education and related services was written for your child." (Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent, Nov. 15, 2023.) There is not any explanation below regarding an IEP. (Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent, Nov. 15, 2023.) All explanation in this Prior Written Notice focused on eligibility. (Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent, Nov. 15, 2023.) Again, despite parent consent not being required for eligibility, the district sought and obtained parent consent on the November 15, 2023, Prior Written Notice that mostly referenced the student's eligibility with one statement, and no explanation, of the initial provision of special education services to the student. (Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent, Nov. 15, 2023.) District staff acknowledged during the investigation that the box next to the "INITIAL SERVICES & PLACEMENT" section should not have been checked as the district did not intend for this Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent to request the parent's consent for the initial provision of services and did not include any information on the initial provision of services. (Email from District's Attorney to Complaint Investigator, Nov. 25, 2024.) Because district staff checked this box by mistake, district staff did not treat the parent's consent for eligibility as consent for the initial provision of special education services and made clear in nearly all communication to the parent from December 2023 through October 2024 the parent had not consented to the initial provision of special education services.

The team could not come to consensus on the content of the student's IEP and so the team ended the November 2023 meeting and scheduled a December 2023 meeting. (Initial Discussion with the Parent, Nov. 4, 2024; Interview with District Staff, Nov. 20, 2024; Notice of Dec. 8, 2023, Meeting from District to Parent, Dec. 5, 2023.) Between the November and December 2023 meetings, the district incorporated all items the parent requested into the draft IEP that the district provided for discussion at the December 2023 meeting. (Email Exchange Between District Special Education Director and Parent, July 16–18, 2024.) The notes from the December IEP Team meeting indicate that the team reviewed the draft IEP, and the team could not come to consensus as the parent had multiple concerns. (IEP Team Meeting Notes, Dec. 8, 2023.) Following the December 8, 2023, IEP Team meeting, the district provided the parent with a Prior Written Notice for the initial provision of special education services which delineated the services discussed at the December 8, 2023, IEP Team meeting, a Request for Consent, and the draft IEP the IEP Team discussed at the December 8, 2023, IEP Team meeting. (Email from IEP Case Manager to Parent, Dec. 14, 2023.) This investigation did not come across any evidence that the parent ever signed this request for consent for the initial provision of special education services for the student or that the district provided the student with special education services.

Following its offer for the initial provision of special education services for the student, the district made numerous efforts from January through October 2024 to obtain the parent's consent for the initial provision of special education services. Nearly every communication referenced in the Investigation of Complaint section of this report from the district to the parent during this period included a reminder of and encouragement to consent to the district's offer of the initial provision of special education services. The district held additional meetings with the parent in March and May 2024 to continue to listen to the parent's concerns and encourage the parent to consent to the initial provision of special education services. (District's Response to the Complaint, Nov. 18, 2024.) On multiple occasions, the district also provided the parent with information on the parent's right to request special education mediation or file for a due process hearing to come on the initial provision of special education services to the student. (Email Exchange Between District Special Education Director and Parent Regarding District's Request to Mediate, Feb. 29–Mar. 2, 2024; Email Exchange Between Parent and District Special Education Director Regarding Consent for the Initial Provision of Special Education Services, Mediation, and Due Process, May 17–21, 2024; Email Exchange Between District Special Education Director and Parent, Jul. 16– 29, 2024.)

Sometime in the summer of 2024, despite the district's consistent communication that the parent had not consented to the initial provision of services, the parent seemed to get the impression that the parent had at least partially consented to the initial provision of services, including pointing to the errant checkmark in the November 2023 Prior Written Notice. The district special education director's response to the parent is very clear that a parent may not provide partial consent to the initial provision of special education services and that the parent had not provided consent to the initial provision of special education services, as those services are described in the December 2023 Prior Written Notice. (Email Exchange Between District Special Education Director and Parent, July 16–18, 2024.)

Conclusion

District staff inadvertently checking the box next to the "INITIAL SERVICES & PLACEMENT" section in the November 2023 Prior Written Notice was unfortunate and confusing to the parent but does not represent properly obtained consent for the initial provision of special education services. To obtain proper consent, the Prior Written Notice must, ". . . fully [inform the parent] of all information relevant to the activity for which consent is sought " The November 2023 Prior Written Notice does not provide any information at all on the initial provision of special education services and, therefore, must not be interpreted as a proper method of obtaining consent for the initial provision of special education services.

The December 2023 Prior Written Notice fully explains the district's offer of the initial provision of special education services to the student. The district requested the parent's consent in writing through the IEP case manager's December 14, 2023, email to the parent and numerous following instances. Neither party provided any documentation to show that the parent consented to the initial provision of special education services. Because the November 2023 Prior Written Notice was not a proper method of obtaining consent for the initial provision of special education services, the parent's consent on this Prior Written Notice does not constitute consent for the initial provision of special education services. The December 2023 Prior Written Notice fully informed the parent of all information relevant to the initial provision of special education services and the parent never consented. Therefore, this investigation concludes that the district did not violate its obligation to ensure that it obtained parent consent prior to the initial provision of special education services under 34 C.F.R. § 300.300(b)(1). As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed.

Issue Two

Meeting to Develop IEP Within 30 Days of Eligibility Determination

Applicable Law

The regulations implementing IDEA require each public agency to ensure that, "A meeting to develop an IEP for a child is conducted within 30 days of a determination that the child needs special education and related services; and [a]s soon as possible following development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP." (34 C.F.R. § 300.323(c).)

The relevant findings from Issue One are incorporated here by reference. On November 15, 2023, the student's evaluation and eligibility team, including the parent, met to review the evaluation report and determine whether the student had a disability and needed special education services. (Notice of Nov. 15, 2023, Meeting from District to Parents, Nov. 3, 2023; Evaluation Team Report, Nov. 15, 2023; Prior Written Notice and Request for Consent, Nov. 15, 2023; and Evaluation, Eligibility, and IEP Team Meeting Notes, Nov. 15, 2023.) All evaluation and eligibility team members, including the parent, signed that they agreed that the student is eligible for special education services. (Evaluation Team Report, Nov. 15, 2023.) The district then had 30 days from the date of the determination that the student needed special education and related services to develop an IEP for the student. For this student, the district was required to develop an IEP by December 15, 2023.

The team could not come to consent on the content of the student's IEP at the November 2023 meeting and so the team ended the meeting and scheduled a December 2023 meeting. (Initial Discussion with the Parent, Nov. 4, 2024; Interview with District Staff, Nov. 20, 2024; Notice of Dec. 8, 2023, Meeting from District to Parent, Dec. 5, 2023.) Between the November and December 2023 meetings, the district incorporated all the items the parent requested into the draft IEP that the district provided for discussion at the December 2023 meeting. (Email Exchange Between District Special Education Director and Parent, July 16–18, 2024.) The notes from the December IEP Team meeting indicate that the IEP Team reviewed the draft IEP and could not come to consensus as the parent had multiple concerns. (IEP Team Meeting Notes, Dec. 8, 2023.) Following the December 8, 2023, IEP Team meeting, the district provided the parent with a Prior Written Notice for the initial provision of special education services which delineated the services discussed at the December 8, 2023, IEP Team meeting, a Request for Consent, and the draft IEP the IEP Team discussed at the December 8, 2023, IEP Team meeting. (Email from IEP Case Manager to Parent, Dec. 14, 2023.)

Conclusion

The student's evaluation and eligibility team found the student eligible for special education at its November 15, 2023, meeting. At the November and December 8, 2023, meetings, the IEP Team reviewed and discussed the student's draft IEP. On December 14, 2023, the district provided the parent with a Prior Written Notice outlining its proposal for the initial provision of special education and related services to the student, within 30 days from the date of the determination that the student needed special education and related services. Therefore, this investigation concludes that the district did not violate the requirement to develop an IEP for this student within 30 days from the date of the determination that the student needed special education and related services under 34 C.F.R. § 300.323(c) and K.A.R. § 91-40-8(f)(2). As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed.

Issue Three

Parent Consent for Reevaluation

Applicable Law

The regulations implementing IDEA require that a public agency meet the following requirements for parental consent for reevaluations. "(1) Subject to paragraph (c)(2) of this section, each public agency—(i) Must obtain informed parental consent, in accordance with §300.300(a)(1), prior to conducting any reevaluation of a child with a disability. (ii) If the parent refuses to consent to the reevaluation, the public agency may, but is not required to, pursue the reevaluation by using the consent override procedures described in paragraph (a)(3) of this section. (iii) The public agency does not violate its obligation under §300.111 and §§300.301 through 300.311 if it declines to pursue the evaluation or reevaluation. (2) The informed parental consent described in paragraph (c)(1) of this section need not be obtained if the public agency can demonstrate that—(i) It made reasonable efforts to obtain such consent; and (ii) The child's parent has failed to respond." (34 C.F.R. § 300.300(c).)

Analysis: Findings of Fact

In the parent's amended complaint, it is alleged that in December 2023, the district reevaluated the student without the parent's consent. In the complaint investigator's initial discussion with the parent, the parent explained their understanding of the events as the student's initial evaluation concluded in November 2023 with a meeting of the evaluation and eligibility team. The team came to consensus on the student's eligibility but could not come to consensus on the content of the student's IEP, so the team ended the November meeting and scheduled a December 2023 meeting. Based on the information the parent said the district shared at the December 2023 meeting, the parent believed that the district reevaluated the student without parent consent. In the initial discussion with the parent, the parent indicated the documentation from the November and December 2023 meetings would support the assertion that the district reevaluated the student without parent consent. The parent submitted a great deal of information during the investigation. This complaint investigator reviewed all of it and none of the information supported that the district conducted a December 2023 reevaluation.

In the district's response the district asserts that it "did not conduct a reevaluation of Student in December 2023." During the complaint investigator's district staff interview, district staff explained that the district did not complete further evaluation of the student after the team agreed in November 2023 that the student was eligible for special education services. District staff indicated that they made some changes to the student's draft IEP based on the parent's requests at the November 2023 meeting.

Review of the information associated with the November and December 2023 meetings does not show any indication that the district reevaluated the student in December 2023.

Conclusion

Because the parent could not provide any documentation to support the assertation that the district reevaluated the student in December 2023 and the documentation both parties submitted showed no indication of a December 2023 reevaluation, this investigation concludes that the district did not violate its obligation to ensure that it obtained parent consent prior to conducting a reevaluation under 34 C.F.R. § 300.300(c) and K.A.R. § 91-40-27(a)(1). As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed.

Issue Four

Reviewed Existing Evaluation Data As Part of Reevaluation

Applicable Law

The regulations implementing IDEA require, "As part of an initial evaluation (if appropriate) and as part of any reevaluation under this part, the IEP Team and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, must—(1) Review existing evaluation data on the child, including—(i) Evaluations and information provided by the parents of the child; (ii) Current classroom-based, local, or State assessments, and classroom-based observations; and (iii) Observations by teachers and related services providers." (34 C.F.R. § 300.305(a)(1).)

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings from Issue Three are incorporated here by reference. As the investigation showed that the district did not conduct a December 2023 reevaluation, there can be no violation of the regulations applicable to this allegation.

Conclusion

Because the parent could not provide any documentation to support the assertation that the district reevaluated the student in December 2023 and the documentation both parties submitted showed no indication of a December 2023 reevaluation, this investigation concludes that the district did not violate its obligation under 34 C.F.R. § 300.305(a)(1) and K.A.R. § 91-40-8(c)(1). As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed.

Issue Five

Whether Purpose Was Included in December 2023 Notice of Meeting

Applicable Law

The regulations implementing IDEA require that the notice for an IEP Team meeting, "[i]ndicate the purpose, time, and location of the meeting and who will be in attendance." (34 C.F.R. § 300.322(b)(1)(i).)

Analysis: Findings of Fact

In the parent's amended complaint and the initial discussion with the complaint investigator, the parent alleged that the district misrepresented the purpose of the December 8, 2023, IEP Team meeting. The parent claimed that the request for the December 8, 2023, IEP Team meeting was to discuss the parent's confusion with the November 15, 2023, IEP Team meeting. The parent claimed this request was clear to the district at the November 15, 2023, meeting and again in emails following the meeting. The parent indicated that based on the Notice of Meeting for the December 8, 2023, meeting the parent believed that the IEP team would discuss the parent's confusion from the November 2023 meeting, but then the parent claimed that the December 8, 2023, meeting did not include any discussion of the parent's questions.

The Notice of Meeting for the December 8, 2023, meeting indicated that the purpose of the meeting was to "develop an individualized education program (IEP) for your child and determine the appropriate placement." The district provided an agenda from the December 8, 2023, meeting that included the following items: "Introductions, Review draft IEP, General Education Teachers Comments, Questions/Concerns for Gen. Ed.

Teachers from parents/guardians, Sign forms, present copy of parental rights." The district also provided a document from the December 8, 2023, meeting titled IEP Team Considerations that included the following concerns from the parent, "Mom expressed concern with [the student's] overall attitude toward school. [The student] has struggled significantly academically the past year, Reading and Math are both areas that [the student] would like to see addressed. [The parent] would also like to see [the student] improve [their] self-advocacy." The December 8, 2023, meeting notes provide several examples of the parent expressing concerns.

Conclusion

In the Notice of Meeting for the December 8, 2023, meeting the district's provided purpose of developing the student's IEP logically followed the conclusion of the November 2023 meeting that ended when the IEP Team could not come to consensus on the initial provision of services for the student. The December 8, 2023, IEP Team meeting agenda provided an opportunity for the parent to express concerns. The December 8, 2023, meeting notes and documentation of IEP Team considerations include multiple instances of the parent expressing concerns. Along with expressing concern, the parent could have raised questions on any items of confusion from the November 2023 meeting. The parent did not provide any documentation that showed the district prevented the parent from raising questions on the November 2023 meeting. The evidence showed that the district followed the next step in the process for a student determined eligible for special education, to convene the IEP Team to develop an IEP for the student. The district's documentation shows ample opportunity for the parent to raise questions on the November 2023 meeting. Because the parent could not provide any documentation to support the assertation that the district misrepresented the purpose of the December 2023 IEP Team meeting and the district documentation showed it provided the parent with the opportunity to ask questions about the November 2023 IEP Team meeting, this investigation concludes that the district did not violate its obligation under 34 C.F.R. § 300.322(b)(1)(i) and K.A.R. § 91- 40-17(b)(1). As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed.

Issue Six

Response to Parent's Request for a Neuropsychological Evaluation

Applicable Law

When a parent requests an independent educational evaluation, the regulations implementing IDEA require that the public agency must provide the parent with "information about where an independent educational evaluation may be obtained, and the agency criteria applicable for independent educational evaluations as set forth in 34 C.F.R. § 300.502(e)." (34 C.F.R. § 300.502(a)(2).) When a parent makes a request regarding initiating or changing the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child, the public agency must respond with a notice that meets the requirements of 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(b). (34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a).) The regulations implementing IDEA define evaluation as, "procedures used in accordance with [34 C.F.R.] §§300.304 through 300.311 to determine whether a child has a disability and the nature and extent of the special education and related services that the child needs." "When parents make a request for an evaluation (whether oral or written), KSDE has determined that, unless there is an unusual circumstance, 15 school days is a reasonable time for providing parents with a Prior Written Notice of the district's proposal to conduct the evaluation or the district's refusal to conduct the evaluation." (KSDE Memo, 'Reasonable Time' to respond to parent request for evaluation, January 8, 2002, at https://www.ksde.org/Portals/0/SES/legal/forms/ReasonableTimeMemo-20020108.pdf.)

The parent wrote a January 22, 2024, letter that the IEP case manager indicated the student dropped off at the very end of the day on January 24, 2024. (Letter from Parent to District Request Neuropsychological Evaluation of Student, Jan. 22, 2024; Email from IEP Case Manager to Special Education Coordinator and Special Education Director with Attached Letter from Parent to District Requesting Neuropsychological Evaluation of Student, Jan. 25, 2024.) The letter requested "a psycho-neurological educational evaluation be conducted for" the student. On January 25, 2024, the IEP case manager emailed the parent's letter to the district special education coordinator and special education director. That same day the special education director emailed the parent stating, "We are a bit confused by your request for another educational evaluation since you signed that you were in agreement with the results of our evaluation. I am happy to meet with you to discuss this request and to ensure you are aware of and understand your procedural rights." The parent and special education director agreed to meet on February 1. The special education director emailed the parent on January 29 to confirm the meeting and stated, "The purpose of this meeting is to go over your parent rights, discuss your options, discuss your request for additional testing and to explain the districts [sic] response to your request. This is not an IEP meeting and no educational decisions will be made." The district's attorney indicated that on February 1 the parent, special education director, and school psychologist met and reviewed the parent's rights, district staff referred the parent to Families Together to obtain additional assistance on understanding parent rights, and to clarify the parent's request from the January 25, 2024, letter. (Email from District's Attorney to Complaint Investigator, Nov. 29, 2024.) District staff concluded that meeting believing that the parent agreed with the district's evaluation, did not have a request for another initial evaluation or an independent educational evaluation, and the next step was to schedule another IEP Team meeting. (Email Exchange Between Special Education Director and Parent Regarding Parent's Jan. 25, 2024, Letter, Feb. 6– 10, 2024; Email from District's Attorney to Complaint Investigator, Nov. 29, 2024.) The district memorialized its understanding of the parent's January 25, 2024, letter and February 1, 2024, meeting with the parent in an email to the parent on February 6, 2024, stating, in part, "As we stated last week, you agreed with our evaluation and the determination that [the student] is eligible for special education. You signed that you agree, what seems to be the hold up is that you do not agree on the recommended services. We have invited you back to the table to continue discussion on the services to be provided to [the student] We want to provide services to [the student]. What do you want the district to do at this time?" The parent responded to this email on February 10, 2024, but did not clarify the January 25, 2024, request or correct the district's understanding that the next step was to schedule another IEP Team meeting.

The district then made multiple efforts to schedule an IEP Team meeting. (Email from District's Attorney to Complaint Investigator, Nov. 29, 2024.) These efforts culminated in a March 7, 2024, IEP Team meeting. (Email from District's Attorney to Complaint Investigator, Nov. 29, 2024.) The March 7, 2024, IEP Team meeting notes reference multiple requests from the parent for additional testing. In response to these requests, the district sent a March 22, 2024, letter that granted the parent's request for an independent educational evaluation and provided the parent with information on how to obtain one. On April 2, 2024, the parent emailed the district special education director and stated:

> The requests that I made for an evaluation was in the form of a letter and was hand delivered at my child's school . . . and the request was not for an the comprehension [sic] educational evaluation that you are referring to. I was told that [the student] had already received that from the evaluations conducted by the school. The problem here is that they have not been able to identify [the student's] specific areas of need and can not [sic] be used alone to do so. My child requires a more in depth thorough evaluation conducted by a > neuropsychologist that is experienced in the educational field and can identify specific areas of need and provide recommendations and tailored supports fot [sic] those specific identified areas. I believe it's called a neuropsychological assessment by a neuropsychologist who has experience in the education field and can provide insight and recommendation [sic] specific to my child's learning processes and abilities.

The special education director responded the same day and stated, "We have offered you a IEE for a comprehensive educational evaluation."

On May 17, 2024, the parent emailed the district special education director and stated, "I recommend . . ." a "[n]europsychological evaluation could provide valuable data on cognitive profile and appropriate eligibility category." On May 22, 2024, the parent again emailed the district special education director and requested that the district, "provide and fund a neuropsychological evaluation for [the student] to collect data that will identify [the student's] areas of need and provide recommendations that are tailored to [the student's] individual needs, abilitues, [sic] and learning style, specifically targeted to meet [the student] where [the student] is at." The parent's change in language from "recommend" in the May 17, 2024, email to "provide and fund" in the May 22, 2024, email led the district to respond with a June 10, 2024, Prior Written Notice that stated, "The [LEA] refuses to conduct an initial evaluation." As explanation for this refusal the Prior Written Notice stated:

> [The district] is refusing to conduct another initial evaluation of [the student]. The District conducted an initial evaluation of [the student] in the Fall of 2023, and [the student] was determined to be eligible for special education services. Parent agreed with that evaluation but has declined to provide consent to initiate services despite numerous attempts by the District. Parent informed [the district] [the student's] doctor has recommended that [the student] be referred to a neurologist and has requested the District to pay for a neurological assessment. Parent previously requested an independent educational evaluation. The District granted the request for an IEE but, to date, the parent has not obtained one. Parent continues to request that [the district] authorize and fund a neuropsychological evaluation. To the extent that the parent's request is for the District to conduct another initial evaluation of [the student], that request is being refused.

Conclusion

The district indicated in writing to the parent that district staff were unclear on the parent's January 22, 2024, request. The district met with the parent to clarify the request on February 1, 2024, and believed the parent agreed with the district's evaluation. District staff memorialized this understanding in writing to the parent on February 6, 2024. During this investigation, the parent did not provide any documentation that showed the parent disagreed with district staff's understanding and the parent's response to the district does not show that the parent corrected district staff's understanding regarding the parent's January 22, 2024, request. Based on the definition of evaluation in the regulations implementing IDEA, district staff could have interpreted the parent's January 22, 2024, request as a request that required a response with a Prior Written Notice, but district staff were clear in writing to the parent that district staff did not fully understand the parent's request and wanted to meet to discuss. Following that meeting, district staff again clarified in writing what they believed the parent's request to be (i.e., not an evaluation request, but an IEP Team meeting request) and the parent did not dispute district staff's understanding. Based on the correspondence between the parties, this investigation determines that the parent's January 22, 2024, request, as clarified at the February 1, 2024, meeting and February 6, 2024, email was not a request regarding evaluation that required the district to respond with a Prior Written Notice.

The March 7, 2024, IEP Team meeting notes include multiple instances of the parent requesting further assessment and the district responded with a March 22, 2024, letter granting the parent's request for an independent educational evaluation. The regulations implementing IDEA require that when a parent requests an independent educational evaluation that the district provide the parent with information on obtaining one and the district's criteria and the district does that in its March 22, 2024, letter. The district's response came 15 calendar days following the parent's request.

These 15 calendar days included four weekend days, meaning the district's response was within the 15-school day timeline KSDE has established as reasonable for such requests.

The parent's May 17, 2024, email included the word "recommend," which is not a clear request regarding evaluation. The parent's May 22, 2024, email included the words "provide and fund," a clearer request regarding evaluation and the district responded with a June 22, 2024, Prior Written Notice refusing the parent's request. The district's response came 19 calendar days following the parent's request. These 19 calendar days included six weekend days and one holiday, meaning the district's response was within 12 business days. The 2023–24 school year likely ended within this timeline.

KSDE has indicated that "unless there is some unusual circumstance, a reasonable time in which to provide such notice to the parents is 15 school days." (KSDE Memo, 'Reasonable Time' to respond to parent request for evaluation, January 8, 2002, at https://www.ksde.org/Portals/0/SES/legal/forms/ReasonableTimeMemo-20020108.pdf.) The district waiting to respond until the next school year would not have been reasonable and so the district understandably responded within a reasonable time of receiving the parent's request.

Because the parent's January 22 and May 17, 2024, requests were not requests for an evaluation, the district was not required to respond with a Prior Written Notice. The parent's March 7, 2024, request was for an independent educational evaluation and the district responded appropriately, within a reasonable time. The parent's May 22, 2024, request was a request for an evaluation and the district responded with a Prior Written Notice, within a reasonable time. Therefore, this investigation concludes that the district did not violate its obligation under 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a) and K.S.A. § 72- 3430(b)(2). As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed.

Issue Seven

Student's 2024–25 Enrollment

Applicable Law

The regulations implementing IDEA require that a public agency "not use a parent's refusal to consent to one service or activity under 34 C.F.R. § 300.300, (b), (c), or (d)(2) . . . to deny the parent or child any other service, benefit, or activity of the public agency, except as required by this part." (34 C.F.R. § 300.300(d)(3).)

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The parent's amended complaint included the allegation that the district placed conditions on the student's 2024–25 enrollment. In the initial discussion with the parent, the parent indicated that they had completed the district's online enrollment requirements and received several automatic emails from the district's student information system regarding the student's 2024–25 absences and grades. The parent provided the automatic emails from the district's student information system regarding the student's 2024–25 absences and grades but did not provide any documentation showing that the district prevented the student's 2024–25 enrollment.

The district indicated that each school year it requires students continuing into the next school year to enroll. (District Response to Complaint, Nov. 18, 2024.) On July 17, 2024, the special education director emailed the parent to ask if the parent planned to enroll the student for the 2024–25 school year. (Email Exchange Between District Special Education Director and Parent, July 16–18, 2024.) From late July through early September, district staff exchanged emails about whether the student had enrolled.

This email exchange did not indicate the district was preventing enrollment. The special education director, registrar, and special education data clerk communicated regarding the student's lack of enrollment and attendance and attempted and successful communication with the parent regarding student's enrollment.

On September 5, 2024, the principal emailed the parent and outlined that the: (1) district registrar called the parent multiple times about the student's enrollment; (2) clearly informed the parent that the student was not enrolled and encouraged the parent to enroll the student; and (3) informed the parent that if the student enrolled in another district to contact this district so district staff could facilitate a records transfer. The parent and principal continued to exchange emails through October 28, 2024, in which the principal navigated multiple parent questions and consistently encouraged the parent to enroll the student. As part of the district's response to the complaint, district staff provided a November 1, 2024, screenshot of the student's 2024–25 enrollment which showed the status as "In Progress," started on August 14, 2024, by the parent and the same date, also by the parent, for the most recent activity. During the complaint investigator's district staff interview, the complaint investigator asked why the parent received automatic emails from the district's student information system if the student was not enrolled. District staff explained that there were some issues with the rollover of the student information system from the 2023–24 to 2024– 25 school year and thought the automatic email feature may have been turned on for students who attended in the 2023–24 school year even if those students had not enrolled for the 2024–25 school year.

Conclusion

The parent had not provided consent to the district's offer of the initial provision of services under 34 C.F.R. § 300.300(b). 34 C.F.R. § 300.300(d)(3), which prevents the district from using the parent's refusal to consent to the initial provision of special education services to deny the student any other district service, benefit, or activity, such as enrollment. Because the parent did not provide any information showing the district denied the student's 2024–25 enrollment and the district provided multiple internal communications and communications with the parent that showed no evidence of supporting this student's 2024–25 enrollment, this investigation concludes that the district did not violate its obligation under 34 C.F.R. § 300.300(d)(3); K.A.R. § 91- 40-27(h). As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed.

Issue Eight

Free Appropriate Public Education

Applicable Law

For students with a disability determined to be eligible for special education services and whose parent has consented to the initial provision of special education services, the regulations implementing IDEA require that the public agency make available a free appropriate public education. (34 C.F.R. § 300.101(a).) However, 34 C.F.R. 300.300(b)(3) clarifies that when parents have not provided consent for the initial provision of special education services, a district's failure to provide services in an offered IEP is not a failure to provide a free appropriate public education.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings from Issue One are incorporated here by reference. As the investigation showed that the parent did not consent to the initial provision of special education services, there can be no violation of the regulations applicable to this allegation as the district has no obligation to provide the student with a free appropriate education without parent consent.

Conclusion

Because the investigation into Issue One determined that the parent did not consent to the initial provision of special education services, this investigation concludes that the district did not violate its obligation to provide a free appropriate education under 34 C.F.R. § 300.101(a), K.S.A. § 72-3410(a)(2), and K.A.R. § 91-40-2(a)(1), (e). As there is no violation, no corrective action is needed.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 231
Gardner-Edgerton Public Schools: 25FC231-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on November 1, 2024,, by -------, on behalf of her child, -------. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the parent," and ------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on December 2, 2024. That Complaint Report concluded that there were no violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the parent filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint, the Complaint Report, and the complainant's notice of appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal from Complainant

The complaint report identified eight separate issues. The appeal did not identify which issue(s) were being appealed. The appeal consisted entirely of two e-mails.

One e-mail, dated December 4, 2024, consisted entirely of this statement:

> "clearly states that the November meeting was intended for finishing writing my child's IEP not for eligibility. This is one account of record that I have regarding the November partial consent."

The second is a copy of an email sent by a teacher to the parent, saying:

> "I have scheduled a meeting on Wednesday, November 15, at 8:15 AM. This meeting will be to make sure we have addressed your concerns and finish writing your daughters individual education program (IEP). If you are planning to attend, please check the box, sign and date, and then return the form to me. If this date and time will not work for you, please let me know right away."

The Appeal Committee presumes this appeal is aimed at the decision in Issue 1. In that issue, the parent alleged that the district issued a prior written notice requesting consent for initiating an initial IEP before the initial IEP was developed by the IEP team. With regard to that issue, the investigator found that the district inadvertently checked the box next to the "Initial Services and Placement" section of the Prior Written Notice (PWN). The investigator justified this finding that the checked box was inadvertent because that PWN said the meeting was for considering the initial evaluation and there was nothing in that PWN that dealt with initial services (Report, p. 8). The provision of initial services, and request for consent for initial services, was first addressed in a PWN dated December 14, 2024 (Report, p. 8).

With these findings, the investigator concluded that the district held the November 15, 2024, meeting only to review the evaluation report and to determine initial eligibility, and not to request parent consent for initial services (Report p. 6). Nothing presented in this appeal provides any basis for concluding otherwise.

The Appeal Committee finds there is sufficient evidence to support the investigator's conclusions on this issue.

The Appeal Committee received an additional documents from the parent by e-mail on December 18, 2024. The original complaint report was issued on December 2, 2024. The time in which to submit an appeal expired on December 12. Therefore, the Appeal Committee is prohibited by state regulation to consider this additional notice of appeal. However, the Appeal Committee notes that the additional notice of appeal contained nothing that would have altered the decision in this appeal because it did not describe how the complaint report was incorrect, and so did not comply with the state regulation, requiring each notice of appeal to include a: "detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect."

The additional appeal information consisted of fifteen separate e-mails, none of which included any statement in them explaining to the Appeal Committee why the complaint report is incorrect.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 19th day of December, 2024.

Background Information

The student is 14 years of age and attends the high school in USD 230, primarily receiving her education in life skills with attendance in special classes and physical education in a general education setting with special education support. The student was previously identified as a student with emotional disturbance and other health impairment and currently is served as a student with intellectual disability as primary. The parent identified the following additional health conditions: asthma, food allergies, trauma, and bipolar disorder. According to the parent, the student was placed in a Psychiatric Residential Treatment Facility (PRTF) during part of the 2023-24 school year, and she was not retained in middle school over the objection of the parent.

Issues Investigated

- ISSUE ONE: Did the district update the student's health considerations and follow the IEP's provisions accordingly during the 2024-25 school year?
- ISSUE TWO: Did the district consider the student's need for special education or related services during extracurricular activities in the IEP?
- ISSUE THREE: Did the district follow the student's placement in general and special education during the 2024-25 school year, specifically by not removing the student from the school settings in her schedule?

Issue One

Did the district update the student's health considerations and follow the IEP's provisions accordingly during the 2024-25 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.618 state: "(a) A parent who believes that information in the education records collected, maintained, or used under this part is inaccurate or misleading or violates the privacy or other rights of the child may request the participating agency that maintains the information to amend the information. (b) The agency shall decide whether to amend the information in accordance with the request within a reasonable period of time of receipt of the request. (c) If the agency decides to refuse to amend the information in accordance with the request, it shall inform the parent of the refusal and advise the parent of the right to a hearing under Sec. 300.619."

The parent alleged that she had regularly provided health care reports to the district, but the district failed to update the student's IEP and the student's health plan. The parent alleged that the district unduly restricted the student's movements and participation in school settings and activities such as snacks, resulting in behavioral problems. The parent alleged that the student was not given snacks like other students and made to sit by herself in the second hour. The parent alleged that the student reported to the physician that the school was not providing access to the inhaler as required by the IEP.

The district replied that the parent had not provided or communicated (a) "consistently accurate information to the school and IEP team," (b) "updated documentation of medical diagnosis to the school and IEP team," (c) "updated documentation of medications for the child, as there have been many changes over the course of time" or(d) consent signature for "Interagency Release Forms to support open communication between various agencies that serve the child." The district replied that "Despite these challenges, USD 230 and its staff have worked hard to accommodate and support [the student] to make adequate progress and also provide meaningful participation for the parent in the IEP process."

Two IEPs were in place during the 12-month period preceding the date of the complaint. First, the IEP dated February 8, 2023 included the following special education services: (a) special education support in general education settings for special classes and PE for 135 minutes 5 days a week; (b) special education support in general education settings for transitions for 25 minutes a day 5 days a week; (c) special education in special education settings for math/ELA for 90 minutes 5 days a week; (d) special education in special education settings for MTSS time for 25 minutes 5 days a week; (e) special education in special education settings for lunch for 30 minutes 5 days a week; and (f) special education in special education settings for life skills instruction for 45 minutes 5 days a week. One related service was required: indirect occupational therapy for 15 minutes every 9 weeks. Accommodations listed on this IEP were: guided notes, technology alternatives to fully handwritten assignments, writing tools, allow frequent breaks, Alternate/quiet/separate setting, read aloud to self, read aloud to student, repeated/restated directions, shortened assignments, use of manipulatives, number line or fact sheet, dictation or scribe, graphic organizers or outlines, and reinforcement system.

The student's IEP team including the parent met on January 25, 2024, for the annual IEP meeting. The IEP dated January 25, 2024 included the following special education and related services through the end of the student's middle school year (2023-24) (a) special education support in general education settings for special classes and PE for 135 minutes 5 days a week; (b) special education support in general education settings for transitions for 40 minutes a day 5 days a week; (c) special education in special education settings for math/ELA for 90 minutes 5 days a week; (d) special education in special education settings for lunch for 30 minutes 5 days a week; (e) special education in special education setting for science, 45 minutes 5 days a week, (f) special education in special education setting for social studies, 45 minutes 5 days a week, and (g) special education in special education settings for MTSS time for 25 minutes 5 days a week, with indirect OT services one time for 15 minutes each 9 week period. The parent signed the PWN giving consent for the IEP services on February 4, 2024.

The IEP dated January 25, 2024, also included services for the following 2024-25 school year. Special education and related services were similar in nature and included: (a) special education direct services in the regular setting for special classes and PE for 200 minutes 5 days a week; (b) special education direct services in the general education setting for in general education settings for transitions for 30 minutes a day 5 days a week; (c) special education in special education settings for math for 50 minutes 5 days a week; (d) special education in regular education setting for lunch for 30 minutes 5 days a week; (e) special education in regular education setting for social studies 50 minutes 5 days a week, (f) special education in regular education setting for advisory for 20 minutes 5 days a week, and (g) special education in special education setting for reading, 50 minutes 5 days a week, with continued indirect OT services one time for 15 minutes each 9 week period.

The IEP dated January 25, 2024, was amended as follows, based on IEP amendments and PWNs provided. On April 30, the IEP team met at a high school transition team meeting to align the minutes in the IEP to the current high school schedule, with no new services being added or current services being removed. On August 14, 2024, a PWN amended the IEP to adjust minutes and some services; it stated, "Increasing service minutes from 150 to 200 minutes per day of instructional support in electives, Separating English and Math and making each 50 minutes per day. Changing lunch support from direct to instructional support. No Science. Changing advisory from direct to instructional support. Changing Social studies from direct to instructional support. These changes will be in effect throughout the school year to reflect the high school schedule." The PWN dated August 14, 2024, was signed by the parent giving consent on August 20, 2024. On October 29, 2024, the IEP was amended to update the general health section, at the parent's request.

Health care and the IEPs

The IEP dated February 8, 2023 included the following present level of performance (general health) : "[The student] has healthcare plans on file in the nurse's office for mood disorder, food allergies, and asthma. [The student] often elopes and struggles with mental health concerns. She needs a paraprofessional with her at all times."

In an email to the investigator dated December 2, 2024, the district reported that, "In regards to the Individual Health Care Plans created by the school nurses, these are not updated at the same time as the IEP unless there is a need or new information that the parent has shared or is willing to share." Health care plans and physician's orders in the nurse's office at the time of the IEP dated February 8, 2023 were: Food Allergy and Anaphylaxis Emergency Care Plan, signed by the physician on January 9, 2023 and Individual Health Care Plans for the student for both allergies and asthma dated January 27, 2023. The student's medication record for the 2023-24 school year showed zero administration of medications.

The Medical Statement to Request School Meal Modification dated February 13, 2023, for the student was put into place and implemented, according to interviews with school staff. This document directed a meal modification to omit tree nuts, peanuts and peanut butter and for a "heart healthy diet." According to interviews with the school nurse and special education director, the policy is that this document is updated when the parent provides new information, and this is the current documentation of meal modification. Interviews said cafeteria food would be heart healthy and that no further restrictions regarding the meals were made for cafeteria food. This is considered the current meal requirement by the school.

In the "general health" section, the IEP dated January 25, 2024, stated: "[The student] has a peanut/tree nut, shellfish, and tomato allergy, ADD, emotional/mood concerns. bipolar mood disorder other. Asthma -Inhaler is in Nurse's office. Epi-Pen in nurse office. [The student] is suicidal and is a runner. [The student] needs a para near at all times. No added sugar diet/diabetic diet." The IEP dated January 25, 2024, addressed the student's behavior with a goal to "identify expected and unexpected behaviors in self" rather than a BIP. According to the parent, the student was temporarily placed in a PRTF during the 2023-24 school year.

Kansas Asthma Action plan, signed by the physician on January 8, 2024, was in the nurse's office at this time. The student's individual health care plan dated August 9, 2024, for allergies to peanuts, all tree nuts, shellfish, and tomatoes described symptoms and interventions. According to the special education director, the Food allergy plan dated August 9, 2024, was in place on January 25, 2024; "the date would have changed with the new medical orders on August 9, 2024, because it is the same calendar year" (email dated December 2, 2024, to the investigator). The director further reported: "The same would have been true for the Asthma plan currently dated 11/18/24 - It would have had a prior 2024 date - the date would then be changed when new information/orders was updated in this calendar year."

According to an interview with the school nurse and special education director, the physician orders that direct medication associated with student health care plans are updated at the beginning of each school year for the period of that year or at the time when a need to use medication emerges. At the outset of the 2024-25 school year, physician's orders given to the school and in place with the school nurse were: (a) Kansas Asthma Action Plan, signed by the physician on August 20, 2024, and(b) Food Allergy and Anaphylaxis Emergency Care Plan, signed by the physician on August 20, 2024. The student's medication record for the 2024-25 school year showed zero administration of medications.

The district reported that the staff were made aware of student health care plans and emergency information in the district's "Skyward Student Information system. The district reported that in this case, the Skyward would also state that the student has an IEP. It is an expectation that teachers review each student's health care plan yearly, and the school nurse alerts staff to any changes or updates provided by the parents. Teachers also use the Skyward system gradebook and attendance. Students' names are in red text if they have emergency plans.

As noted above, the IEP dated January 25, 2024, was updated on October 28, 2024 at the parent's request to alter the information on the present levels of performance, general health section. The PWN dated October 28, 2024 stated: "The team proposes updating the general health section of present levels to reflect the current medical and health standing of[the student]. The general health section will be updated as follows: [the student] has several health concerns, including allergies to peanuts, tree nuts, shellfish, and tomatoes, as well as Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD) and bipolar mood disorder. She also has asthma, with her inhaler and Epi-Pen located in the nurse's office for emergency use. The following was taken off the IEP as a request from [the parent], who stated that the records were outdated and were from years past. [The school nurse] found the records that displayed the outdated information were from 2017 and found newer orders from 2023 that did not reflect the 2017 orders. There have not been records from 2024 given to the school nurse this year. The following was also taken off per [parental] request: She is suicidal and is a runner. She needs a para near at all times. No added sugar diet/diabetic diet."

Student Behavior

The IEPs for the student for the past 12 months do not include behavioral intervention plans. The IEP dated February 8, 2023, included a goal on self-regulation, and the IEP dated January 25, 2024 included a goal on social skills to identify expected and unexpected behaviors in herself and in scenarios.

The student's teacher, in an interview, stated that she was very aware of the student's food allergies and asthma, including the availability of the plans in the nurse's office, the location of the inhaler, and the specific foods identified as severe allergens. The teacher stated that the exchange of food among students caused her to contact the parent. In an email with the parent dated October 10, 2024 , the teacher clarified the type and timing snacks that the student could have in the life skills classroom In an email exchange with the parent dated October 21, 2024 to October 23, 2024, the teacher asked the parent to talk with the student about allowable food, as the students sometimes trade or barter for food and the teacher was concerned that the food may have nuts or other allergens. In the email exchanged, the teacher asked for the parent's input and stated that the student had become increasingly focused on food at school.

The behavior notes for the 2024-25 school year provided by the school showed that the student had an incident of "bossy" behavior in the lunchroom on September 25, 2024. The student also had an Emergency Safety Intervention (ESI) on October 3, 2024, which began during the afternoon snack in the life skills classroom, during which the student left the classroom, went to the office and began exhibiting self-harm behavior, for which she was briefly restrained. An email to the parent dated October 4, 2024, showed that the administrator called the parent on that day to provide transportation separately from another student involved in the incident, and the parent arrived to take the student home 6 minutes before the regular dismissal time.

Conclusion

In this case, the student's IEP did not include any related services for nursing. Instead, the IEP referred to individual health records maintained by the school nurse and disseminated to staff in the typical ways for students without disabilities. These health records were regularly updated and showed no lapse during the school year. The life skills teacher in an interview was knowledgeable about the student's health requirements and the teacher had email exchanges with the parent to clarify dietary restrictions and to inform the parent about the student's food related behavior. The district demonstrated that it had systems available to disseminate health and IEP information to staff who interacted daily with the student information system.

The parent had the right per 34 C.F.R. 300.618 to ask for records to be corrected, and the district complied with the IEP amendment and PWN dated October 28, 2024 which updated the health section of the IEP at the parent's request.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #230 failed to update health records in violation of the provisions of IDEA.

Issue Two

Did the district consider the student's need for special education or related services during extracurricular activities in the IEP?

Applicable Law

According to K.A.R. 91-40-3 (ancillary FAPE requirements) "(a) Each agency shall ensure that children with disabilities have available to them the same variety of educational programs and services that are available to nondisabled children served by the agency, including art, music, industrial arts, consumer and homemaking education, and vocational education. (b) (1) Each agency shall provide nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities in the manner necessary to afford children with disabilities an equal opportunity for participation in those services and activities, including the provision of supplementary aids and services as determined to be necessary by the child's IEP team."

According to the Kansas Special Education Procedural Handbook, "The IEP team must determine whether the child requires supplementary aids and services, that are appropriate and necessary, to afford the child an equal opportunity for participation in nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities. These are nonacademic and extracurricular activities that are school sponsored during the regular school year. Nonacademic and extracurricular services may include counseling services, athletics, transportation, health services, recreational activities, referrals to agencies that provide assistance to individuals with exceptionalities, and employment of students, including employment by the school (K.A.R. 91-40-3(b)(2); 34 C.F.R. 300.107)."

The parent alleged that the district did not provide services for the student to attend extracurricular activities such as a football game. The parent alleged that when she allowed the student to attend the football game, the school would not allow her to attend independently, reporting the parent to child protection authorities. The parent alleged that either the child is capable to attend the game or she is in need of support for extracurricular participation.

The district responded that "Over the course of [the student's] time while in USD 230 [the student] has had challenges with self-regulation, managing emotions, attention and elopement. [The student] has been hospitalized for short and long term care (PRTF) multiple times (at least 9) by [the parent]. [The parent] reports these hospitalizations have been for suicidal attempts and aggression." The district further responded: "USD 230 and its employees are mandated reporters required by law to report any suspected or known abuse or neglect of vulnerable populations to authorities." The district further responded: "Parent has not requested changes to the IEP, however, the IEP team has reached out and is always willing to meet to make changes to the IEP.

The findings of Issue One are hereby incorporated by reference.

During the time period of the investigation the parent attended two IEP meetings (February 8, 2023, and January 25, 2024) and provided consent for the PWNs associated with each meeting. According to the IEP meeting notes, the parent (virtual attendance) and the school met on April 30, 2024, for a transition to high school meeting during which the IEP services were amended to match the high school schedule. The district provided PWN to the parent dated April 24, 2024. The IEP was amended without a meeting on August 14, 2024, and the parent signed providing consent for the changes on August 21, 2024.

According to interviews with the teacher and special education director, the teacher notifies students and parents of upcoming events such as the Homecoming game and dance. In an email dated September 24, 2024, the teacher informed the parent that while special education staff would be present at the Homecoming game, their responsibilities were to support other students who were sports participants and that no special education support would be provided to the student for the game. In an email dated October 4, 2024, the teacher informed the parent and an educational advocate that the student did attend the Homecoming dance on September 27, 2024 and that the assistant principal familiar with the student was the contact person for that dance as a school sponsored event. In an interview with the assistant principal, he stated that the student is one of his administratively assigned students.

Conclusion

In this case, the parent alleged that the school district should have provided special education support for the student to attend the Homecoming game in addition to the Homecoming dance. Special education or related services needed for the student to participate in athletics were not present in the student's IEP, although the parent attended the student's IEP meetings and the IEP was amended at a transition to high school meeting in April, 2024, before the 24-25 school year began in August, 2024, and again to amend the health considerations section in October, 2024. The student attended the school dance which was made available to the student in a manner that allowed the opportunity to participate, as is required by K.A.R. 91-40-3 (b)(1).

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD 230 failed to consider the student's need for special education or related services during extracurricular activities in violation of the provisions of IDEA.

Issue Three

Did the district follow the student's placement in general and special education during the 2024-25 school year, specifically by not removing the student from the school settings in her schedule?

Applicable Law

According to guidance by the Office of Special Education Programs, (2022): "Frequent use of short-term disciplinary removals or informal removals of children with disabilities may indicate that the child's IEP does not appropriately address their behavioral needs, which may result in a denial of FAPE."

The parent alleged that the school was pulling the student out of lunch and that she was isolated from the cafeteria and school functions.

The district responded: "USD 230 denies all allegations in Parent's Request unless specifically admitted herein. To the extent Parent's Request alleges any substantive or procedural violations of the IDEA, USD 230 denies any such allegations, and further denies that any procedural violations, whether alleged or proven, impeded [the student's] right to a free appropriate public education, her parent's right to participate in the decision-making process regarding the provision of a free appropriate education to [the student] or caused deprivation of educational benefits to [the student]..

The findings of Issue One and Issue Two are hereby incorporated by reference.

When asked in an interview if the student was isolated at lunch, the teacher stated that the life skills class went to the lunchroom a few minutes before or after the school passing periods to avoid hall crowding and confusions. The teacher and special education administrator stated that a paraprofessional attended the lunch period with the students. In the interview, the teacher stated that she has witnessed the paraprofessional's interactions with students at lunch and other times and characterized the paraprofessional as gentle in her interactions with the students.

When asked in interviews, the teacher and assistant principal stated that the student had not been removed from any classes or activities. According to the assistant principal, the student had not been suspended or required to leave school early due to disciplinary action. Behavior logs provided by the school do not show any disciplinary action that removed the student from her placement.

As previously noted, on October 3, 2024, an incident that resulted in ESI occurred with the student. According to the ESI report, at about 1:20 p.m., the student and another student had a disagreement about snack time, after which the teacher urged the student to use the calming methods available in the classroom. According to the ESI report, the student left the classroom in search of an administrator and became increasingly disregulated when she reached the office, "screaming, crying, shouting" and trying to hit her head while hitting and kicking staff members. The ESI occurred from 2:10-2:12 p.m., after which she laid on the floor and the parent was called. The parent talked to the student on the phone and came to pick up the student. An interview with the assistant principal and an email dated October 4, 2024 stated that the parent was asked to take the student home to prevent interaction with the other student who took the same school vehicle home. The ESI report and the email stated that the student left with the parent about 5-6 minutes before her regular dismissal time.

Conclusion

In this case, the student followed the schedule as set by the life skills classroom to lunch, avoiding regular passing periods. The student was not removed from the school for disciplinary actions such as suspensions or repeated early removals. Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD 230 failed to follow the student's placement in general and special education during the 2024-25 school year, specifically by not removing the student from the school settings in her schedule, in violation of the provisions of IDEA.

Background Information

This investigation involved two students in grade 10 enrolled at Oakley High School in USD #274. The Students are eligible for special education services under the category of Autism Spectrum Disorder. The Students are receiving special education or related services as children with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). On October 29, 2024, the Parent observed all coaches on the football field with a few students. The remainder of the team was in the locker room after practice. The Parent observed no coaches or male adults supervising the locker room. The Students have female paraprofessionals. The Parents have asked that a football coach be present as a safety protocol for their non-verbal Students. The Parents alleged the School offered exclusion rather than 1:1 support for their Students.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the District.

1. Student 1 and Student 2 are students at a high school in the District who experience Autism Spectrum Disorder. The Parent described the students as "primarily non-verbal and non-communicative." (P1)

Student 1: (Connor Dinkel)

A description of the action proposed was, "[Student 1] will receive special education support for extracurricular activities for 150 minutes/5 days a week for 34 instructional weeks."

5. According to a PWN dated April 10, 2024, the Parents agreed that no 1:1 support was needed for Student 1 during away games. Special education support staff would be present. (S1,9) An explanation of why the action proposed was, "[Student

(D4, P8) The Superintendent confirmed on October 9, 2024 that "… [Coach 1] will be in the locker room for the remainder of the season to supervise all of the athletes." (D4, P7)
14. According to a Timesheet Week Detail form, Paraprofessional 1 and Paraprofessional 2 were both 1:1 assistants for Student 1 and Student 2 during football practice from 10/28/24 through 10/31/24. (D90, D103)
15. In a written statement dated October 29, 2024, Paraprofessional 2 stated, "After the October 29th football practice, I walked back with [Student 1 and Student 2] to the locker room from the football field. While [Student 1 and Student 2] entered the locker room, I stood outside right by the end of the concession stand where I could hear in the locker room. Many of the football players that entered the locker room left quickly after practice without showering … [Coach 1] did enter the locker room after practice when [Student 1 and Student 2] were in the locker room." (D7)

16. In a written statement dated October 29, 2024, the Principal indicated that they had received an email from the Parent regarding paraprofessional supervision in the locker room on October 29, 2024 after football practice. The Principal watched video footage of the incident. The Principal stated the following:
    a. "5:51 pm [sic] All football players and coaches were on the East [sic] side of the football field in a large huddle."
    b. "5:56 pm [sic] A large group of football players entered the locker room, and other players were still on the field for extra conditioning. [Student 1 and Student 2] were among the large group entering the locker room. Paraprofessionals can be seen by the concessions [sic] stand waiting on [Student 1 and Student 2] to leave the locker room."
    c. "5:57 pm [sic] [Coach 1] enters the locker room. This is less than 2 minutes after [Student 1 and Student 2] enter."
    d. "5:58 pm [sic] [The Parent] is shown on camera driving [their] pick up and parking in the senior parking lot."
    e. "Paraprofessionals stated that [the Parent] was parked behind the guest stadium during most of the practice on 10/29/24." (D8)
17. Coach 2 indicated, "On Tuesday, 10/29/24, practice had finished and the coaches were standing around talking about how practice went. I was conditioning other athletes by running for discipline due to school issues. Once conditioning started, [Coach 1] headed to the locker room to supervise [Student 1 and Student 2]. Basically there was a 30 sec [sic] to a minute that transpired from when the kids left to go to the locker room and when [Coach 1] went into the locker room." (D9)
18. According to the Special Education Teacher regarding emails between the District and the Parent pertaining to the October 29, 2024 football practice event, "No where [sic] in the IEP does it state, like [the Parent] is referring to in the correspondence on 10/30/2024 about 1:1 paraprofessional support in the locker room. From part of the 10/30/2024 email from [the Parent], 'The IEP states that [Student 1 and Student 2] receive 1:1 paraprofessional support for practice. This also includes the locker room.' Two female paraprofessionals were right outside the locker room." (D11)
19. On October 30, 2024, the Parent emailed the Principal, "I was able to observe the end of practice last night (10/29/24) and noticed that all coaches [Coaches 1-5] remained on the field while most of the players went to the locker room and dressed. Could you provide me with the name of the adult who supervised the locker room after practice? I would also like to request the archival of footage from the camera stationed on the south side by the west entry of [a Teacher's] classroom for the time period dating 10/29/2024 between the times of 5:40 pm and 6:30pm [sic]. I understand, due to privacy, that I may not be able to view the footage, but [I] would like to have proof of the identity and when the adult supervisor went into the locker room. If there is another way to confirm this request I would greatly appreciate that information as well." (D2, P4)

20. On October 30, 2024, the Principal emailed the Parent, "From watching the cameras, I see [Student 1] and [Student 2] are both at the beginning of the line when entering the locker room. Both paraprofessionals were right outside the locker room when they entered. [Coach 1] started students running for after-practice conditioning. [Coach 1] followed the players to the locker room as soon as [Coach 2] started conditioning. When [Coach 1] arrived at the locker room, all of the athletes, including [Student 1] and [Student 2], were still in their practice uniforms." We do not allow parents to watch video footage of students, as it would also show other students on video, which, as you know, is a privacy issue."

    "We came up with some ideas that may alleviate this in the future. Most days, all the football boys meet in the weight room to group and watch the film before going to the football practice field. 1) We can have [Student 1] and [Student 2] get dressed in the bathroom/locker room on the East side of the weight room before practice.

    Paraprofessionals can be outside in the weight room when they are dressing. Changing in the weight room would be the new routine, before practice and after practice. 2) We can have [Student 1] and [Student 2] get dressed for practice in the locker by the stadium first before other students get in the locker room. Then, after practice, they can also get changed before other students are in the locker room. 3) If you have another option in mind, please let us know so we can consider it." (D3,P3) The Parent responded the same day, indicating a disagreement with the proposed solutions, "We do not agree that the simplest solution is to exclude [Student 1] and [Student 2] from the team activities as it is presented. The whole point of inclusion is the opportunity to safely participate in every aspect of the team activities. When we met with [Teacher 2] and [the Superintendent] the directive later confirmed by email stated that a coach would be in the locker room to supervise the athletes while dressing. The IEP states that [Student 1] and [Student 2] receive 1:1 paraprofessional support for practices. This also includes the locker room. We understand that female paraprofessionals are not allowed in the male locker room, but that does not relinquish responsibility to facilitate the provision set forth in the IEP's. All that we ask is that the promise kept of a coach, which there are 5 on the football team, supervises the locker room while athletes are in there respectively." (P5)

21. On October 30, 2024, Paraprofessional 1 indicated that they walked directly behind Student 1 and Student 2 while they walked into the locker room after practice on October 29, 2024. Paraprofessional 1 stated, "I stood with [Paraprofessional 2] by the end of the concession stand where I could see into the locker room hallway and hear the football boys. [Coach 1] did go into the locker room after talking with some football players on the field within a short amount of time. The remaining coaches stayed on the field." (D6)

22. On [October] 30, 2024, Coach 1 wrote a statement in which Coach 1 received an email from the Parent which stated that the Parent had observed practice and at the end of the practice, the Parent had observed that none of the coaches "beat athletes to the locker room to be in there while changing. However [,] I walked in about 2 minutes after athletes to be present while they all changed & [sic] grabbed belongings. I wasn't the first in due to punishing students for low grades and being disruptive in class. My staff didn't go to the lockerroom [sic] as they were discussing plans for practice and leave [sic] for our trip to Blue Rapids for our playoff game." (D10)

23. Coach 1 is a physical education teacher and football coach at the School, and said the Students were on the football team. (Coach 1 Interview, P1, 00:39)
24. Coach 1 explained the Students had paraprofessionals with them at football practice to help them dress and offer support. Coach 1 said the paraprofessionals had been with the Students since they started high school football practice, and that each Student had their own paraprofessional. (Coach Interview, P1, 01:11) Coach 1 said this was the Students second year playing football. (Coach 1 Interview, P1, 01:55)
25. Coach 1 explained they never had to help the Students "dress down" and that the Students had always dressed themselves. (Coach 1 Interview, P1, 01:59) Coach 1 said, "And I had their IEP with them before they were freshmen. I asked their parents if they needed help, getting, dressed, showered, anything like that. And [the Parent] told me they did not, they could do all of that themselves." (Coach 1 Interview, P2, 02:20)
26. Coach 1 stated since the paraprofessionals were females, they could not go into the locker room, and said, "So if they needed any help, they would come outside once dressed and they would help them from there." (Coach 1 Interview, P2, 03:11) When asked if there was ever a need for adult supervision for the Students in the locker room, Coach 1 said, "Not to my understanding." (Coach 1 Interview, P2, 03:26) Coach 1 indicated that a couple of days prior to October 29, 2024, School administration told them that there always needed to be a coach that was in the locker room and they would be the one that went in with the Students. (Coach 1 Interview, P2-3, 03:41) Coach 1 said they were instructed by their principal and superintendent to do this. (Coach 1 Interview, P3, 04:28)
27. Coach 1 explained they had a conversation with the administration because allegedly photos had been taken of the Students in the locker room. Coach 1 stated that nothing had been found, but they had to be in the locker room from then on. (Coach 1 Interview, P3, 04:34) Coach 1 said neither of the Parents approached them about the Students needing supervision in the locker room prior to their conversation with the School administration. (Coach 1 Interview, P3, 05:01)
28. Coach 1 described the events of October 29, 2024, and explained that before releasing practice, they spoke to some of the students about their grades and had others do extra conditioning. Coach 1 stated the students who did not stay after walked to the locker room, and Coach 1 followed them shortly after. Coach 1 stated they perceived about 1-3 minutes passed between the students walking to the locker room and Coach 1 following them. (Coach 1 Interview, P4, 05:49)
29. Coach 1 said they walked into the locker room and the students were changing clothes, and the Students had changed. Coach 1 said the Students exited the locker room, Coach 1 waited for the rest of the kids to leave, then Coach 1 locked the door and left. (Coach 1 Interview, 4, 07:37) Coach 1 indicated they went into the locker room and supervised the Students on October 28, 2024 also. Coach 1 said, "I walked in right after I got done talking to the kids. I followed all the kids in and kids changed. We walked out. Same thing." (Coach 1 Interview, P4, 07:53)

30. Coach 1 said, "So [the Parent] didn't tell me anything. The only thing I see is an email that is sent to my staff to my administration and to me saying that [the Parent] observed that no ... coach walked in after. And I clearly walked in afterwards." (Coach 1 Interview, P5, 08:31)
31. The Principal explained that prior to October 29, 2024, their understanding was that the Students had one-on-one paraprofessional support with them during football practice and in the classroom. (Principal Interview, P1, 01:17)
32. When asked about their understanding as to the level of support the Students are to receive in the restrooms or locker rooms, the Principal said, "So their support is not on [sic] locker rooms or restrooms is not written in. ... during the school day [the Parent] has always been adamant that they go to the bathrooms by themselves, that they don't have a paraprofessional following them back and forth to the bath restrooms during class time. And so as far as locker room supervision, it's not written in the IEP." (Principal Interview, P1, 02:00)
33. When asked about how long it took Coach 1 to enter the locker room on October 29, 2024, the Principal described what they saw on a School surveillance video, "... but what you can tell is a large group's going in and then less than two minutes you can see [Coach 1] going in. ... But it's pretty obvious it was less than two minutes. When [Coach 1] did get in there, according to [Coach 1], ... no one had really even started changing yet. They were just getting to their area ... where they keep their bags and stuff." (Principal Interview, P2, 02:49)
34. Regarding what may have precipitated the request for more adult supervision in the locker room, the Principal explained the situation stemmed from an incident reported by the Parent, who claimed there was inappropriate behavior in the locker rooms, possibly involving photos of the Students being circulated. According to the Principal, no evidence of sexual misconduct or photos was found, and the matter was reported to the police, with the School cooperating fully. (Principal Interview, P2, 03:29)
35. Paraprofessional 2 stated they are a paraprofessional at the School and have worked with the Students for five months. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P1, 00:41) Paraprofessional 2 explained they helped the Students with their schoolwork, and participated with them in track and football practices. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P1, 01:00) Paraprofessional 2 believed they started participating in the football practices with the Students on August 16th. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P1, 01:25)
36. Paraprofessional 2 explained their instructions to help the Students during football practice was to make sure they were taken care of and help with any needs, such as going to the bathroom. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P1, 01:34) When asked if there was any discussion about how or if the Students needed to be supervised in the locker room, Paraprofessional 2 said, "... since I'm a female I didn't feel like it was right to go into a locker room full of boys. I stood right outside the locker room. I could hear everything that was going on." (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P1-2, 01:58) Paraprofessional 2 did not recall a plan that someone had to be in the locker room to supervise the Students. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P2, 02:25)

37. Paraprofessional 2 said, "[The Parent] had told us last year that ... the paraprofessionals, they got their stuff ready for 'em, but [the Parent] said this year they were doing great, that they didn't need to have help in the locker room." (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P2, 03:03) Paraprofessional 2 stated this conversation with the Parent took place in the beginning of September. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P2, 03:50)

38. Paraprofessional 2 indicated they were supervising the Students during football practice on October 29, 2024. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P3, 04:15) Paraprofessional 2 said they remain on the sidelines while the Students practice, and after practice is dismissed, the Students are ready to leave and usually the first in the locker room. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P3, 04:33) Paraprofessional 2 explained that on October 29, 2024, the Students entered the locker room and their teammates followed. Paraprofessional 2 stated it was only about a minute where the Students were in the locker room with their teammates before Coach 1 entered the locker room. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P3, 6:10)

39. Paraprofessional 2 said they saw Coach 1 run to the locker room, but perceived they were running because they are "always running." (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P4, 06:36) Paraprofessional 2 confirmed they saw Coach 1 enter the locker room on October 29, 2024 and that the Students were only without Coach 1 for about a minute. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P4, 07:13) Paraprofessional 2 believed the Students were in the locker room for about five minutes before exiting on October 29, 2024. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P4-5, 08:06)

40. Paraprofessional 2 stated they heard the students and coach talking in the locker room. Paraprofessional 2 said nothing transpired in the locker room that concerned them. (Paraprofessional 2 Interview, P5, 08:59)

41. Paraprofessional 1 stated they are a special education paraprofessional with the School and had been working with the Students since the beginning of April 2024. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P1, 00:44)

42. Paraprofessional 1 said their duties were to make sure the Students complete their academic work and offer general support. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P1, 01:13) Paraprofessional 1 confirmed they supervised the Students during football practice. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P1, 01:34) Paraprofessional 1 explained their duties were to meet the Students' needs while they are at football practice, and they started offering support during football practice around September 2024. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P1-2, 01:45)

43. In regards to providing support during football practice, Paraprofessional 1 said they were told to help the Students stay focused and stay on task. (Paraprofessional

1 Interview, P2, 02:27) Paraprofessional 1 said, "... but as a, as a woman ... we're not allowed to be in the, I felt like we're not allowed to go in the locker rooms while, especially with the rest of the team being in there." (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P2, 02:45)

44. Paraprofessional 1 initially said they were not told by anyone not to enter the locker rooms. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P2, 03:17) Paraprofessional 1 did not recall when they were notified that there needed to be adult supervision in the locker room for the Students. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P2-3, 03:21) Paraprofessional 1 eventually stated they recalled either the Principal or the Students' special education teacher telling them they could not go into the locker room. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P3-4, 03:58)

45. According to Paraprofessional 1, on October 29, 2024, they were with Paraprofessional 2, followed the Students to the locker room, and then waited by the concession stand. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P4, 05:53) Paraprofessional 1 said they heard the football team talking inside the locker room. Paraprofessional 1 explained the locker room door was open but they could not see inside. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P5, 06:51) Paraprofessional 1 said they did not recall having football practice on October 30, 2024.

46. Paraprofessional 1 said they waited outside the locker room for about 5-10 minutes on October 29, 2024. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P5, 07:54) Paraprofessional 1 perceived it took Coach 1 about 3-4 minutes to enter the locker room after the Students had entered. (Paraprofessional 1 Interview, P5-6, 08:17)

47. The Students' Special Education Teacher indicated this was their second year working with the Students. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P1, 00:58) The Special Education Teacher described the Students as non-verbal, well-behaved, and eager to learn. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P1, 01:21)

48. The Special Education Teacher explained that the Students could get dressed by themselves, use their talkers, get to their lockers and classes on their own, and use the restroom by themselves. They said the Students did not require one-on-one support in various activities, such as art class and when working on community projects. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2, 02:42)

49. The Special Education Teacher said, "Locker room was never discussed. That is not in the IEP." (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2, 04:21) The Special Education Teacher believed the Parent may have requested one-on-one paraprofessional support in the locker room after a specific incident occurred. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2-3, 04:39) The Special Education Teacher said, "Evidently there was some allegations that [the Students] ... had a picture taken of them in the bathroom. There has been no evidence of this picture. I didn't find out until ... October 7th had I even heard of the incident. And because of that we went and had a ... meeting with the superintendent and I, and the coach, and we decided that the coach can go in there ... to supervise ... but it was not part of the IEP meeting or anything like that." (Special Education Teacher Interview, P3, 05:19) The Special Education Teacher said having one-on-one adult support in the locker room was not discussed prior to October 7th or 8th and was not in the IEP. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P3, 06:19)

50. The Special Education Teacher explained they addressed the special education services in Student 1's IEP by having paraprofessionals with them at football practice, and these paraprofessionals stood outside the bathroom door, which stays open. They stated there had not been a discussion about the paraprofessionals going into the locker room. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P4-5, 09:13)

51. The Special Education Teacher said, "... the time that they were not supervised, it sounds like ... a minimal time, like 20 seconds, 30 seconds ... and that's just from walking from the football field into the locker room. And those paraprofessional pairs [sic] were right there. So I don't feel like they were unsupervised in the bathroom, per se, because all the kids were leaving for parent-teacher conferences." (Special Education Teacher Interview, P5, 10:26) The Special Education Teacher indicated the IEP had since been revised, stating a new provision that when there is a team in the bathroom, an adult male will be in the bathroom also. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P5-6, 12:15)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

ISSUE ONE: USD #274, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to educate the two Students in the least restrictive environment, including extra-curricular activities since the beginning of the 2024-25 school year. K.A.R. 91-40-1.

According to 34 CFR 300.320 and K.A.R. 91-40-1, each agency shall ensure that the children with disabilities served by the agency are educated in the least restrictive environment (LRE). The least restrictive environment means the educational placement in which, to the maximum extent appropriate, children with disabilities are educated with children who are not disabled, including extra-curricular activities. Children with disabilities are to be removed from the general education environment only if the nature or severity of the disability is such that education in general education classes with the use of supplementary aids and services or modifications cannot be achieved satisfactorily.

Parent Position: The Parent alleged that on October 29, 2024, the Parent observed all coaches on the football field with a few football players while the remainder of the team went to the locker room after practice. The Parent alleged they did not observe any coach or male adult enter the locker room for supervision. The Students have female paraprofessionals and the Parents had asked that a football coach be present as a safety protocol for their non-verbal Students. The Parents asked the School to review the process, and the School proposed dressing in their own locker room or at a different time than everybody else. The Parent alleged the School offered exclusion rather than the 1:1 support.

District Position: The District disputes the claims made in the Complaint. The District stated upon the knowledge of the less than 2-minute coach entry into the locker room, after the District reviewed video footage of the football locker room entry by Student 1 and Student 2, the District was not in violation of the Complaint.

Conclusion

The IEP in effect for Student 1 on October 29, 2024 did not specify that adult support was required in the locker room. Student 2's IEP in effect on October 29, 2024, specifically noted that Student 2 did not require adult support in the locker room. The District's records and investigative interviews reflect that adult support in the restroom had not been the expectation of the Parent until October 27, 2024, at which time the Parent made the request for adult support to be provided in the restroom. The District agreed to this support and an adult started going into the locker room within 1-2 minutes after practice starting on October 28, 2024, and including October 29, 2024.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to educate the two Students in the least restrictive environment.

And then the schedule is one for so [the Student] can know when [they're] supposed to work, when [the Student] has breaks, when specials are, and when [the Student's] supposed to transition to the cafeteria." The IEP manager indicated that the visual supports started when the Student "moved into the room" and the crash pad came shortly thereafter. The IEP Manager described that the alphabet blocks were introduced after a meeting with the Agency. (IEP Manager Interview, P2, 02:23)

On September 20, 2024, the Parent emailed the District to request an IEP meeting to change the Student's behavior plan, indicating that they would like to meet "as soon as possible, but no later than October 4, 2024." (D51) A Notice of Meeting was generated for a meeting scheduled on September 26, 2024, to discuss possible changes in the IEP. (D293-D294) On that same date, the IEP Manager and the Parent exchanged texts regarding dates and times for an IEP meeting. The IEP Manager indicated they would send the consent to electronically communicate, a waiver of the 10-day notice, and paperwork to invite outside agencies. (D17-D18)
23. The IEP dated September 26, 2024, included the following:

    c. The Student's BIP listed the following target and peak behavior examples and non-examples:

i. "The target behaviors look like [the Student] walking up to others and biting, pinching, hitting, and or kicking them. It can also look like [the Student] throwing objects at them or the walls. The target behavior does not look like [the Student] working, sitting quietly, or following directions of staff."

ii. Peak behavior was listed as noncompliance, "Peak behavior can look like [the Student] being disregulated [sic], throwing things, headbutting others or windows and doors to gain escape from the activity. It can also look like [the Student] walking up to others and hitting, kicking, biting, or pinching them to try and escape the activity or safe area."

iii. The function of the target behavior was to "Avoid Tangible/Activities." The hypothesis was "to avoid/delay a non[-] preferred task or activity or to gain access to a preferred item, activity or person."

iv. The updated baseline was described as follows:

1. "Physical aggression - 4 times weekly";
2. "[H]itting - 8 times per aggressive behavior";

4. "Once regulated go back to the previous task for completion."
5. "If [the Student] uses [their] words then the communication must be honored unless unable to do so."

vii. The fidelity of the BIP was measured by classroom observations, which were reported to the Parent quarterly by the IEP Manager. (D316-D336)

viii. The Parent signed the September 26, 2024 IEP. (D337)

24. Meeting Notes dated September 26, 2024 listed the reason for the meeting as "[The Parent] requested an IEP Review." The Team discussed ignoring maladaptive behaviors, using a timer, adding a personal visual schedule, adding a work/task break schedule, minimizing verbal directives when dysregulated, and "suggestion of bringing the classroom or tasks to [the Student] so [the Student] has less opportunity to elope." The IEP Manager indicated that the "Classroom has a duct tape section in the room that is a designated space for [the Student]." The Notes listed that "[The Parent] would like the classroom to have more structure for [the Student] to have set areas and to help [the Student] know [their] expectations. [The] Classroom currently has a visual schedule on the board. [The Parent] is requesting a specific schedule posted for [the Student]. Suggestions of 2 or 3 tasks, such as cards for [the Student] to know which task occurs at each time. A developed work system for [the Student] knows what is expected and how long [the Student] is required to be completing each task. [The Parent] suggested [the] use of a timer to provide a visual for [the Student] to see the time left." Additional notes included looking into switching the Student's communication device, adding a work/break schedule, limiting transitions to certain areas. The BIP was reviewed and they "will add a behavior goal after completing the new FBA [Functional Behavior Assessment]." It was noted that the social worker would get consent from the Parent to complete a new FBA. (D295-D296)

25. A PWN dated September 26, 2024, indicated the District proposed conducting a reevaluation, which included a social/emotional/behavioral assessment. Proposed actions were described and explained, and a description of the data used to make the proposal was included. The Parent consented. (D297-D302)
26. A PWN dated September 26, 2024, listed the changes in service:

    b. "Added supplementary aide of visual times."
    c. "Added supplementary aide of visual schedule."
    d. "Added supplementary aide of limiting verbal feedback."
    e. "Added supplementary aide of planned ignoring of maladaptive behaviors."
    f. "Added supplementary aide for limiting transitions to areas within the building that are enclosed and secured." (D328)
    g. "The team recognizes that [the Student's] behavior is changing and the team agrees that a new FBA may provide further information to guide the team in supporting [the Student] in finding success. Removed an accommodation for within the behavior plan."
    h. Other relevant factors indicated that the Student "may have some struggles in adapting to some of the new accommodations. However, the potential of [the Student] finding greater success and remaining safe in [their] school environment far outweighs the potential negative effects." (D305-D307;D338-D342)
    i. The PWN was signed by the Parent on November 18, 2024, consenting to the changes. (D342)
27. The Parent recalled that during the September 26, 2024 IEP meeting, some of the Student's accommodations were missing from the IEP. The Parent shared that the accommodations were added back in and that the District was "…very willing and supportive of doing that. We have met Friday and today and I don't know if it's just paperwork errors or some of those things did not make it to the final copy of the September 26th meeting paperwork. I don't know if they were implemented and just not in the paperwork." (Parent Interview, P3, 07:31) The Parent was unsure as to whether the accommodations were provided after the September 26, 2024 meeting. (Parent Interview, P4, 09:42)

28. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent was asked which sections of the Student's BIP were not implemented. The Parent replied, "[The Student] did not have a break card available to [the Student] on [their] desk. Then … is [the] use of a schedule, and I don't think [the Student] had a schedule available to [them] at that time. Again, the communication book or device is always within reach. … The response to behavior on this says, 'Take into break area if too unsafe.' And with their new regulations, they cannot put hands on a child unless the child is in [imminent danger to themself or others]. … I mean, like a black eye isn't even on the list. It's like broken bones, profuse bleeding is of imminent danger. And so a lot of what we're seeing is their failure to be able to back up their expectations with any kind of firm boundary with [the Student]." (Parent Interview, P5, 12:14) The Parent believed that the District needed to put "… some physical boundaries into place without hog tying. I'm not saying I want [the Student] hogtied or anything like that, but just some firm boundaries of 'This is where you need to be and you need to stay there.' … And these last two days are all initiated by me … 'Hey, we need different strategies, we need different supports, we need to be gathering different information to put something together' has not been happening." (Parent Interview, P6, 14:27)
29. The IEP Manager shared how the accommodations from the September 26th, 2024 IEP meeting were implemented, "… We do limit verbal feedback and do the planned ignoring that [the Parent] wanted whenever [the Student] starts getting escalated. We have limited [the Student's] transitions. If [the Student's] having a bad day, we do what [the Parent] asked, and we don't even offer the specials or the times out of the classroom. [The Student] does have a visual schedule that is posted in the room. … And then there's the visual timers that we use on the staff member's phone or on [the Student's] iPad. And then we also, it's a visual/audio timer that plays [the Student's] favorite song, 'You've got a friend in me,' so [the Student] knows that … is time to transition." (IEP Manager Interview, P4, 09:51)
30. The IEP Manager shared in an interview with the Complaint Investigator that the implementation of supports were impacted by the Student's behavior. The IEP manager indicated that "Planned ignoring takes a lot of time, and if we are supposed to be doing academics, the planned ignoring winds up being more of the hour than the teaching … because every time you bring up anything academic or anything that isn't related to [the Student's] iPad or something that [the Student] is requesting, the behavior start[s] all over again." (IEP Manager Interview, P6, 12:47)
31. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent shared that they felt like the Student's individual needs (intellectual, developmental, sensory, and communication) were disregarded in the Student's special education plan. They argued that while restraints were not a long-term solution, they should be available as a last resort to prevent serious harm, particularly because the Student's sensory differences and developmental level impair their ability to protect themself. The Parent wanted to ensure the Student's safety needs were met and to understand what alternatives existed. (Parent Interview, P6, 16:10)

The Parent described that their understanding was that "physical restraint could only be used in situations in which it is imminent. … And it includes situations such as physical disfigurement, broken bones. A concussion is imminent. … I was told that at the moment that [the Student] leaves the building, [the Student's] not in any imminent danger, and thus they cannot physically stop [the Student]. And, according to that definition, when [the Student] is soaking wet in the rain … 60 degrees isn't terribly cold. I totally know that. But when you're wet for a long time, it kind of is. [The Student's] not in imminent danger and imminent severe danger to [themself] or others. And so they cannot physically escort [the Student] against [their] will into a dry setting." (Parent Interview, P6, 18:51)

The Parent believed the District was providing supervision to the Student. (Parent Interview, P7, 21:40) The Parent shared that on one occasion, the Student was banging their head on the pavement in the parking lot. Staff were unable to restrain the Student or effectively protect the Student's head with mats due to training restrictions that prevent them from touching the Student once any part of the Student's body was on the ground. This policy, stemming from state regulations against prone or supine holds, left staff powerless to intervene even when the Student was harming themself. The Parent highlighted the conflict between safety and strict interpretation of the regulations. (Parent Interview, P7, 23:13)

32. The Special Education Director shared in an interview with the Complaint Investigator that the School followed a strict policy on physical restraint, using it only as a last resort when a student is a serious danger to themselves or others. The Special Education Director shared that the new Department of Justice (DOJ) requirements add an extra layer of scrutiny to ensure that restraints are used only when absolutely necessary and in accordance with the nonviolent crisis intervention model. Seclusion was also being phased out. The School emphasized that any physical intervention would be a last resort, used after all other options had been exhausted. (Special Education Director Interview, P2, 02:49) The Special Education Director described that before the DOJ requirements were in place, there were occasions in which the Student was physically restrained. (Special Education Director Interview, P3, 04:32)
33. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the IEP Manager expressed that the Student's behavior changed several weeks after the start of the school year. The IEP Manager described that initially, the Student seemed well-adjusted, using their iPad in their own space. However, the Student's behavior quickly escalated to include aggression towards staff and students, attempts to damage furniture, elopement from the building, and self-harm. The school responded by planned ignoring and attempts to de-escalate situations, which was in line with the new DOJ guidelines that restrict the use of restraints and seclusion. (IEP Manager Interview, P3, 04:58)

34. The Parent indicated in an interview with the Complaint Investigator that if the District did not "… have the skills and if FAPE cannot be achieved at this current setting, then they need to be offering the more restrictive setting … ." The Parent requested that the District look at a local boarding school to support the Student's needs, but the District had not yet responded to that request. (Parent Interview, P8, 26:38)
35. The IEP Manager indicated in an interview with the Complaint Investigator that additional supplementary aids and services discussed at the September 26, 2024, IEP meeting were added to the Student's services on the accommodations and modifications page. The IEP Manager described that there were several people working on the Student's IEP, and the document was not signed by the Parent because "… it just slipped through the cracks that none of us had gotten that signed, because when we had the actual meeting a PWNE was brought to the meeting and not the PWNP, and then we said that we would get it back to [the Parent], and I think it just slipped through the … cracks." (IEP Manager Interview, P7, 15:41)
36. On September 26, 2024, the Assistant Principal emailed the Parent to share that "[The Previous School] said they didn't require an FBA for a behavior plan at the time so there is not one for [the Student] so having an actual FBA done is a step in the right direction." (D52)
37. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent shared, "One of the things that was brought to their attention and my attention back in September was that [the Student] did not always have a communication device, a nonverbal way to communicate [their] wants and needs with [the Student]. And I will be honest, I think it's hit and miss still at this point. Some of the reasoning … is because [the Student] uses [their] communication book as a weapon and throws it at people, which makes it difficult. Other things in place are visual schedules first. Then scheduling the things that [the Student] needs that help [them] to regulate and maintain [their] anxiety in the classroom." (Parent Interview, P1, 02:35)

    The Parent continued, "… in the beginning, [the Student] wasn't in a classroom at all. So I don't think [the Student] had it available really at all to [them]. And that was for the first seven weeks of school until they created a private classroom for [the Student] … which I think it's more often available to her. But if [the Student] is eloping and moving away from it, it's not always taken when [they're] in a new location." (Parent Interview, P2, 04:25) The Parent did not recall who told them the Student did not have access to the communication book. (Parent Interview, P2, 05:29)
38. The Board Certified Behavior Analyst (BCBA) described the following in their observation notes dated October 7, 2024:
    a. Staff provided access to a calming space.
    b. The Student engaged in preferred activities/reinforcers.
    c. Staff attempted to address sensory needs.
    d. Staff attempted to engage the Student with a puzzle/academics.

e. "[The Student's] staff were new and it appeared they were not trained on [the Student's] BIP or tasks … ."

f. "I did not observe [the Student] having access to [their] communication book. I checked [their] backpack and I only found a stack of family pictures in a ziplock bag. Does [the Student] have access to a communication book? What was offered was several poster sized communication boards for [the Student] to use. [The Student] did not approach the communication boards when [the Student] was in the classroom."

g. "I did not observe staff using First/Then being used [sic]."

h. "I did not observe anyone taking data during the school day. I too was unable to take frequency data throughout the day due to [the Student] engaging in dysregulated behavior most of the day." (D71-D73)

39. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the IEP Manager shared that the Student used an iPad and communication books. The books were usually kept in different places in the classroom, but sometimes another student took them. On the day of the BCBA observation, the books were out of sight, and the staff working with [the Student] that day were unfamiliar with their usual locations. As a result, they couldn't find the communication books. (IEP Manager Interview, P5, 11:51)

40. An IEP Progress Report dated October 16, 2024 indicated the following:

    a. Math: Progress was made toward 30% accuracy and 45% accuracy. For 50% accuracy, progress was not made "due to refusal and behaviors." The 60% accuracy, "… will be addressed in December."

    b. Reading: Progress was made toward 30% accuracy and 45% accuracy, but the annual goal may not be met. 50% accuracy was not met "due to refusal and behaviors."

    c. Communication: This goal was not "target[ed] this quarter" for 3 / 8 opportunities or 4 out of 8 opportunities and was not met in 5 out of 8 opportunities or 6 out of 8 opportunities. (D303-D311)

41. From October 24, 2024 through October 31, 2024, data was collected on the Student's rate of hitting, biting, kicking, and screaming. All of those behaviors occurred together on 16 different occasions over the course of six days. Biting did not occur on 17 other occasions in which the other behaviors occurred. (D312-D313)

42. On October 29, 2024, the Assistant Principal emailed District Personnel to describe that there was frequent communication with the Parent and that the Student struggled with getting on and off the bus. The Assistant Principal indicated that the Student's personalized space and consistent routine were contributing to the Student's progress. The Assistant Principal shared that an assistant provided valuable support for the Student and that the next step was to integrate more academics into the Student's day because they were currently practicing tasks and breaks. (D60)

43. On November 4, 2024, the Parent emailed the District to request an update on the FBA, "… it has been over 9 weeks this school year that [the Student] has been exhibiting these behaviors. I do not get daily or weekly updates as promised … ." That same day the Assistant Principal responded via email, "We are in the middle of [the Student's] FBA. [The School Psychologist] or [the School Social Worker] will contact you to schedule the FBA meeting. [The IEP Manager] will be able to answer your data questions. Our district[-]wide behavior collection system has been down a few weeks which could be why you haven't seen it. [IEP Manager], can you make sure [the Parent] is getting data daily?" (D62-D64)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #259, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the Student's IEP during the 2024-25 school year. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3).

According to 34 CFR §300.323(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year and be accessible to each teacher and provider who is responsible for its implementation.

The Parent alleged that during the first twelve weeks of school, the Student had not been assigned to a classroom but spent the days either in the hallway refusing to move or in a private classroom. The Parent further alleged that the School failed to implement behavior supports and structure that kept the Student in the classroom. The Parent stated that the Student has "maladaptive behaviors to seek attention and gain control of [their] environment" and had "eloped from the building numerous times."

The District indicated that "… it was in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA in part in implementing the Student's IEP during the 2024- 2025 school year by not providing the student their anticipated services for the entirety of the student's total monthly speech/language service minutes for two months; the district has offered to [the] parent that it will make-up 40 minutes of speech/language. The school also made procedural and clerical errors and for which the school currently is working to correct and will be re-training staff." (D1)

"Accommodations provided to the student were per [the Student's] IEP, including those the team discussed and added at the 9-26-24 meeting. The school failed to present the parent with the PWNP at the conclusion of the 9-26-24 meeting but presented the parent with a PWNE at that time for the FBA to be conducted, which the team believed was necessary before reviewing and possibly revising the student's current BIP. While the team reached consensus about implementing the new accommodations, the school was in error not to provide the parent with a PWNP regarding the IEP amendment; the school has followed up by asking the parent for their consent to implement the accommodations per the 9-26-24 meeting (see email). Training will be provided to the staff so that they understand in the future to request consent for IEP items requiring consent before implementation, which is included in the Proposal to Resolve provided to KSDE." (D1)

The District believed that they implemented the Student's "… current IEP during the 2024-2025 school year with those exceptions to which the district has stipulated … and worked with the parent as a team to address the student's behavioral needs, including elopement. Altogether, the team has met and revised the IEP, consulted outside resources, and is in the middle of conducting an FBA to help inform the team as to the function(s) of specific behaviors and what they should include in the student's IEP to meet [their] needs in light of [their] circumstances. The school is committed to correcting any errors and/or making up any missed services. Staff training provided regarding procedural/clerical errors should lessen the chances of these types of errors occurring in the future." (D4)

The District described that "The meeting notice for that meeting sent on 12-13-23 contained a typographical error showing the meeting on 1-8-24, but everyone came to the meeting on 1-11-24 and no corrected [Notice of Meeting] (NOM) was found." (D5)

The IEP Amendment, dated March 25, 2024, stipulated a reduction in speech-language service minutes from 20 minutes per week to 20 minutes per month. However, service logs indicated the Student did not consistently receive these services, even at a reduced frequency. The SLP acknowledged that the Student did not receive all of their minutes in September 2024, and there was no record of speech-language services provided in October 2024. Additionally, the Student's communication book, which should have been "always within reach," was, at times, unavailable for the Student to use. The primary challenge in implementing the Student's BIP was the "planned ignoring," which impacted the School's ability to provide academic instruction.

There were procedural errors with Prior Written Notices (PWN) that were not properly signed by the Parent, and the September 26, 2024 IEP did not contain the additional supplementary aids and services documented in the PWN.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the District failed to consistently implement the Student's IEP.

Issue Two

Whether USD #259, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to offer the appropriate IEP services and denied the Student a free appropriate public education. K.S.A. 72-3429; K.A.R. 91-40-18; K.A.R. 91-40-1(z).

When creating or reviewing an IEP, the team must follow these guidelines:

a. Use state and district test results to inform the IEP.

b. Evaluate the student's needs in all areas, including behavior, assistive technology, and accommodations.

c. Include any needed support in the IEP to ensure the student receives a free appropriate public education (FAPE). K.S.A. 72-3429, K.A.R. 91-40-18, and 34 CFR §300.320

A "free appropriate public education" and "FAPE" means special education and related services that meet the following criteria:

a. Are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge;

b. Meet the standards of the state board;

c. Include an appropriate preschool, elementary, or secondary school education; and

d. Are provided in conformity with an individualized education program. 34 CFR §300.17 and K.A.R. 91-40-1(z)

The Parent alleged that the School was unable to maintain a safe and orderly learning environment for the Student and asserted that the situation impeded the Student's ability to receive an effective education. The Parent stated that the District should implement a behavior intervention plan (BIP) that will provide a FAPE, including the use of physical restraint and consider a more restrictive setting if needed.

During the 2023-24 school year, the District used physical restraint as an emergency safety intervention for the Student. Since then, the United States DOJ has issued a directive that prohibits the District from using physical restraint except for imminent risk of harm (Settlement Agreement between the United States of America and Wichita Public Schools, July 2, 2024). In this case, the Student did not engage in behaviors that constituted "risk of substantial physical harm." The use of physical restraint was not part of the Student's IEP during the complaint period and the District was not required nor authorized to implement this type of intervention for the Student.

The District indicated that "… it is in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) by failing to implement the Student's IEP speech and language services in their entirety, this [sic] denying the student [their] FAPE … but did not fail to offer the appropriate IEP services for the remainder of the time." (D5) The Student's progress report dated October 16, 2024, indicated that the communication "goal was not target[ed] this quarter" and the Student had not made progress toward the goal.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it substantiated that the District's failure to provide speech and language services denied the Student a Free Appropriate Public Education as required by law.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.323(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3) specify an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 259 did not provide 40 minutes of speech and language instruction to the Student.

Based on the foregoing, USD # 259 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD # 259 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) at 34 CFR §300.323(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3) and provide the required 40 minutes of missed speech and language instruction.
2. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD # 259 shall also submit the corrected Notice of Meeting(s) found in error during the District's internal investigation.
3. Further, by February 1, 2025 USD #259 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) that the District's practices and procedures for IEP implementation have been reviewed and revised as appropriate to be responsive and compliant with evaluation procedures of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and the Kansas Special Education for Exceptional Children Act.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #259
ON NOVEMBER 8, 2024

DATE OF REPORT: DECEMBER 10, 2024

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office by ------ on behalf of their daughter, ------. For the remainder of this report, ------ will be referred to as "the student." ------ will be referred to as "the parents." Individually, ------ will be referred to as "the student's father." ------ will be referred to as "the student's mother." USD #259 will be referred to as "the district."

Investigation of Complaint

On November 13 and 19, and December 3, 2024, the complaint investigator spoke via telephone with the Mediation/Due Process Supervisor for the district. On December 6, 2024, the investigator spoke via conference call with the social worker, school nurse, classroom teacher, building principal, the speech/ language pathologist, a Director of Special Education, and the Mediation/Due Process Supervisor.

The investigation of a formal complaint requires the investigator to contact the complainant in order to gather additional information and verify specific allegations of noncompliance that may be relevant to the investigation. To that end, the investigator spoke twice by telephone with the student's father on November 18, 2024 and later that same day spoke by telephone with the student's mother. On November 18, 2024, the investigator sent the parents an amended summary of their complaint issues for their review and approval. The student's mother responded with questions which the investigator answered by email that same day. On November 19, 2024, the student's father provided documents requested by the investigator.

The investigator and the student's father exchanged emails regarding additional documents on November 20 and 21, 2024. On November 22, 2024, the student's father sent the investigator an email regarding an email the parents had received from the district and asking for the investigator's thoughts regarding the district's request for an IEP team meeting, noting that the parents were "under the impression that [they] had a right to put the IEP meeting on hold, especially when there is an open complaint." The investigator sent an email response to the student's father on November 22, 2024 stating that she would call him on November 23, 2024. The student's father did not answer the investigator's first or second call on November 23, 2024, but the investigator left a message responding to the parents' question about the IEP team meeting.

The student's father called the investigator on December 3, 2024 to ask again about the district's proposal to conduct an IEP team meeting. The student's father stated that he had not received the previous voicemail message left by the investigator.

Background Information

This investigation involves a 6-year old girl who is currently attending a performing arts and science magnate elementary school in the district. According to her current IEP dated April 15, 2024, the student demonstrates deficits in her cognitive and communication skills that meet the criteria for her to be identified as a special education student under the category of Developmental Delay. The IEP also states that she has chronic lung problems and asthma. According to the student's father, the student was delivered at 23 week's gestation and has experienced a number of medical issues due to her premature birth.

As reported by the student's father, the student has been diagnosed with Stage III IOP, a significant decline in vision due to advanced glaucoma, where the intraocular pressure (IOP) is significantly elevated, causing noticeable damage to the optic nerve and resulting in significant peripheral vision loss.

During the 2023-24 school year, the student participated in a half-day "PreK" classroom where she received special education support throughout the school day. On February 2, 2024, the parents provided written consent for evaluations to determine the student's eligibility for speech/language and other special education services. On February 8, 2024, a Section 504 Plan was implemented for the student which outlined a number of accommodations. Additionally, the student received 30 minutes of speech/language services each week.

For the 2024-25 school year, the student has been enrolled in a full-day general education kindergarten classroom. Her April 2024 IEP states that she would be provided 180 minutes of special education support in the general education classroom for ELA (English/Language Arts), math, and "other curriculum activities as determined by the special education team." She has continued to receive 30 minutes per week of speech/language services.

Medical issues have contributed to the student missing many days of school this year. School records show that she had missed all or part of 35 days of school by the time this complaint was received.

Issues

In their complaint, the parents identified 10 concerns. Following telephone calls with the parents on November 18, 2024, these concerns were - for the sake of clarity - reorganized into 5 issues.

Not every action taken by a school district with regard to a student who has been determined to be a student with an exceptionality is covered under special education law. Similarly, special education law does not address everything experienced by an exceptional student within a school setting. At K.A.R. 91-40-51, Kansas regulations state that, when filing a formal complaint, the complainant must allege that a violation of federal or state special education laws or regulations has occurred during the 12-month period preceding the date the complaint is received and filed with the commissioner of education.

In their written complaint, the parents have presented some concerns which are not eligible for investigation under this complaint process as they do not represent an allegation that the district violated state or federal special education legal requirements (K.A.R. 91-40-51(a)). Concerns focused on alleged bullying, for example, are not eligible for investigation through this process. Likewise, district homework policies are not covered by special education laws. This investigator does not, therefore, have the authority to resolve these concerns.

Issue One

The district has failed to properly implement the student's IEP.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.101, require states to ensure that a free appropriate public education (FAPE) is made available to all children with disabilities residing within the state. Accordingly, Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-2(b)(1) require that each school district makes FAPE available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction. Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.17, define FAPE, in part, as special education and related services provided in conformity with an Individualized Education Program (IEP).

The parents contend that the district has failed to provide the student with six of the accommodations that are specified in the student's April 16, 2024 IEP. Each of these areas will be addressed separately below.

Communication Binder

Position of the Parents

The parents state that they made numerous requests via phone and email for the communication binder to be implemented. They assert that they met with the building principal on September 27, 2024 and were assured that the communication binder would be implemented correctly. The parents contend that the binder was not sent home until October 28, 2024. According to the parents, the binder was subsequently provided on an inconsistent basis, was incomplete, and was managed by the IEP manager for the student rather than the classroom teacher.

Position of the District

The district stipulates that the accommodation of a communication binder was not implemented at the start of the school year on August 14, 2024.

Investigative Findings

The "Supplementary Aids and Services (Accommodations and Modifications)" section of the student's April 16, 2024 IEP includes the following statement:

> "Communication book between parents and teacher regarding [the student's] school day, services that were provided that day and nutrition log...This will keep the family in the loop and knowledgeable about [the student's] nutrition intake at school to decipher what is needed to be given once she comes home."

The IEP states that the book will be provided "every school day." According to the student's father, the book was completed daily and sent home approximately once a week during the 2023-24 school year.

For the 2024-25 school year, the communication book was not sent home to the parents until October 25, 2024. On that date, the parents received reports for the previous four days. The speech/language pathologist created a form for communication which reflected the student's day on a 4-point scale with room for comments. The form included a 3-point scale to describe how much of her lunch the student had eaten by mouth as well as a 4-point scale to describe her transitions. The form also showed what classes and services the student had during the day, what special education services she had received, and when she went to the bathroom.

The parents sent an email to the teacher on October 25, 2024 asking:

> " What are these pages? Is this her 'communication binder?' Because it should be a daily binder coming home with her from school. Where are the other missing days? It needs to have on there also what school work she has worked on and what she needs to continue to work on, from her Teacher with all of the rest of the stuff that was on the paper."

The investigator determined that the communication sheet has been completed on a daily basis since October 22, 2024. The information needed to complete the form has been given to the case manager by the classroom teacher, nurse, and speech/language pathologist.

The district has reached out to the parents to schedule an IEP team meeting to discuss the content and structure of the communication book. The parents had requested an IEP team meeting for the same purpose, though they subsequently notified the district that they wanted to have the IEP meeting put on hold. At the time this complaint was received, no IEP meeting to address this concern had yet been conducted, but a meeting is scheduled for December 17, 2024.

The district is also working on creating an electronic version of the communication binder to share with the parents at the upcoming IEP meeting.

Summary and Conclusions

Because the accommodation calling for a communication book was not implemented until the end of October 2024, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Pulse Oximeter

Position of the Parents

According to the parents, the principal at the student's building confirmed on September 27, 2024 that a pulse oximeter was not being used to check the student's oxygen levels and staff had not yet been trained on the use of the pulse oximeter.

Investigative Findings

> The "Supplementary Aids and Services (Accommodations and Modifications)" section of the student's April 16, 2024 IEP includes the following statement:
>
> "Pulse oximetry monitor in the room and staff have been trained on it...to ensure [the student's] oxygen is within normal limits and if not, she will need oxygen or a breathing treatment..."

According to the "Health/Physical" portion of the "Summary of Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance - Needs as They Affect Learning" section of the student's April 16, 2024 IEP,

> "Due to her chronic lung disease, [the student] will be affected by respiratory infections worse than her peers. She may need oxygen and breathing treatments in the nurse's office."

In a telephone conversation with the investigator on November 18, 2024, the student's father stated that, during the 2023-24 school year, the parents would notify classroom staff if the student had been experiencing breathing problems at home that might make it advisable to check her oxygen levels at school. If oxygen levels fell outside the normal range when checked, staff would notify the school nurse who would then determine what - if any - additional actions were needed. If staff observed the student to be breathing with difficulty, they would initiate a check on her oxygen levels and contact the nurse if levels warranted.

A nurse is assigned to the student's building of attendance on a full-time basis. The nurse sees the student every day she is in school to address her feeding-related needs. The school nurse and the student's mother communicated via email at least once regarding the student's O2 level (October 23, 2024).

According to a record provided by the district, the school nurse completed training on oxygen saturation monitoring for the social worker and the behavior specialist on September 4, 2024. The district provided the guidance document used for that training.

The nurse reports that no one in the general education classroom has been trained on the use of the pulse oximeter, and a pulse oximeter is not available in the classroom.

According to the nurse, she has not received any requests from the parents to check the student's O2 levels during this school year. In a conference call on December 6, 2024, the nurse stated that she had checked the student's O2 level once during this semester - on December 4, 2024 when the student came in after recess with a cough. The student was subsequently sent home "sick." The student used her inhaler while in the nurse's office on one separate occasion earlier in semester.

Summary and Conclusions

A pulse oximeter is not currently available in the student's Kindergarten classroom. Training on the use of the pulse oximeter for two other staff members was not completed until September 4, 2024. Because this accommodation is not being fully implemented as written in the student's April 16, 2024 IEP, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Documentation of Speech Therapy Services

Position of the Parents

The parents assert that the student's IEP requires the district to notify them of the "dates [and] times" when speech therapy services were provided to the student and to document the "objectives addressed." It is the position of the parents that they have not been provided with this information through the communication book. The parents contend that they have only received a "single general progress note," making it hard for the parents to "monitor her progress and confirm the consistent delivery of required speech therapy services."

Investigative Findings

The "Supplementary Aids and Services (Accommodations and Modifications)" section of the student's April 16, 2024 IEP includes the following statement:

> "Communication book between parents and teacher regarding [the student's] school day, [including] services that were provided that day [emphasis added]..."

The "Annual Goals and Benchmarks or Short Term Objectives" section of the student's April 2024 IEP also includes the following statement:

> "A report of progress toward meeting annual goals will be provided to the parents in the same manner and frequency as general education report cards."

According to the student's father, the district speech/language pathologist who provided services to the student during the 2023-24 school year communicated with the parents frequently on an informal basis.

On October 23, 2024, the student's mother sent an email to the speech/language pathologist (SLP) asking about services to the student, writing:

> " I would like to get a copy of the data from [the student's] speech therapies, times, dates and progress notes please."

The SLP responded in an email dated October 24, 2024, writing:

> "I have attached the [IEP] progress note for you to review. Her service minutes are 15 minutes 2 times a week (30 minutes total) and I do my best to serve those when she is available to me here at school. I absolutely adore working with her and would love to get you guys in to talk further about her progress and more about what I do with her and go over her IEP and develop it to better serve her. Is there a time that works best for you? Please let me know. Hope this helps!"

According to the progress report, the student's skills had been monitored on October 18, 2024. At that time, she was making adequate progress toward attaining the following goal:

> "By the next annual IEP, given speech services, and with no more than 1-2 cues/prompts, [the student] will correctly produce phonemes /f/, /v/, and various /r/-blends and /l/ blends with 80% accuracy at the phrase level as measured by SLP data and observation."

The progress report stated that the student was doing well "given verbal and visual cues by the SLP." The student had improved from a baseline level of 43% at the word level for the /f/ to a 70% level. For the /v/ sound, she had maintained 70% correct production.

The student's mother responded to the email from the SLP on October 24, 2024, writing :

> "Thank you for the progress attachment. Do you have any date that shows what dates and times you've worked with her? I'm so glad you enjoy working with her. Thank you... Sorry I ment [sic] Data. Could we get data for the dates and times you've worked with her please."

The SLP replied:

> " I pull her from class on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 11:10-11:25."

The student's mother wrote back:

> " Thank you. Is there a log or any data or notes you have on the days you do speech with her?"

The speech/language pathologist did not respond to the parent's last question and has not provided the parent with additional data.

Once the communication book was implemented in late October 2024, the SLP provided the classroom teacher with information regarding speech services for inclusion in the binder. The parents subsequently told the SLP that they expected to receive more information, including the raw data which the SLP provides in aggregate form in quarterly IEP progress reports.

Medicaid treatment logs provided by the district reflect the provision of speech/language services to the student over the period of August 20 through November 7, 2024. A calendar of speech/language services for the student for the period of August 20, 2024 through November 11, 2024 was provided by the district. The document shows that the student received services on 12 days during this period and was absent 9 days.

Summary and Conclusions

Records provided by the district show that when the student was present at school, she was provided with the speech/language services called for in her April 16, 2024 IEP. As noted above, the communication book which was to convey information to the parents regarding what services were provided to the student each day was not implemented until the end of October 2024. Therefore, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

To be clear, however, the accommodation as written in the student's April 16, 2024 IEP states only that the parents are to be notified of what services were provided on a given day. The IEP does not require that daily information regarding what specific skills were addressed during the therapy sessions be provided to the parents nor does the accommodation require that parents be given raw data collected during therapy sessions. If that information is maintained by the district, the parents may request access to those records under the requirements established by FERPA (Family Education Rights and Privacy Act).

Maintenance of a Nutrition Log and Provision of Assistance in Opening Food and Drink Items

Position of the Parents

The parents contend that they have not been provided with a nutrition log during this school year. If the student is observed to have eaten less than half of her lunch, she is to be given a tube feeding. The parents state that in the absence of a nutrition log, they cannot make informed decisions regarding her dietary needs.

The parents also allege that the classroom teacher is neither providing nor allowing the provision of assistance to the student in opening food and drink items in order to ensure adequate nutrition. According to their complaint, the classroom teacher discouraged them from assisting their daughter with opening food and juice containers when they attended the classroom Halloween party.

Position of the District

The district stipulates that it did not, at the start of the school year on August 14, 2024, implement the accommodation regarding the provision of a nutrition log.

Investigative Findings - Nutrition Log

The "Supplementary Aids and Services (Accommodations and Modifications)" section of the student's April 16, 2024 IEP includes the following statement:

> "Communication book between parents and teacher regarding [the student's] school day, services that were provided that day and nutrition log [emphasis added]...This will keep the family in the loop and knowledgeable about [the student's] nutrition intake at school to decipher what is needed to be given once she comes home."

The district provided a copy of a daily nutritional intake record that has been maintained by the school nurse. In that log, the nurse records when bolus feedings are given to the student and in what amount. The school nurse and the student's mother have communicated frequently about the student's nutritional intake since the start of the school year. Once the communication binder was implemented, the nurse provided information for inclusion in the binder. Any remainder from the student's daily lunch was also sent home so the parents could see what was left and supplement as needed.

The school nurse administers daily tube feedings each morning that the student is in school. Supplemental feedings are also administered by the nurse at lunch unless the student consumes more than 50% of her lunch. (The student has only eaten more than half of her lunch on two occasions this school year - when pizza was on the menu.) The school nurse also completes a water flush for the feeding tube at the end of each school day. The school nurse and the student's mother have communicated via email at least twice (September 27 and November 1, 2024) regarding tube feedings for the student.

On October 29, 2024, the student's mother sent an email to the student's classroom teacher and the school social worker stating "I will need to know what she is eating orally at lunch from now on." The building principal told her staff that she would contact the student's mother and ask her to "join us on a phone conference or in person to discuss all her questions."

Summary and Conclusions -Nutrition Log

While the school nurse has since the beginning of the school year maintained a record regarding the student's nutritional intake, that information was not for a period of several weeks provided to the parents through a communication log as required by the student's April 16, 2024 IEP. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Investigative Findings - Assistance in Opening Food and Drink Items

According to the "Health/Physical" portion of the "Summary of Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance - Strength" section of the student's April 16, 2024 IEP,

> "[The student] asks for help when needing a package opened or a milk carton during snacks."

The "Needs as They Affect Learning" section of that same section states,

> "[The student] is working on independently opening her snacks and milk."

There is no requirement in the student's IEP for the student to be provided with assistance when opening food or drink items.

In a conference call with the investigator on December 6, 2024, the classroom teacher stated that it is her practice to ask this student - and her peers in the classroom - to try to manage food and drink containers on their own before offering assistance. According to the classroom teacher, the student has been increasing in her independence with this task but is provided with assistance if she is unable to access her food or drink on her own.

Summary and Conclusions - Assistance in Opening Food and Drink Items

The student's current IEP does not require the provision of assistance to the student in opening food and/or drink items. The classroom teacher's request that the parents not provide assistance to the student during the classroom Halloween party is not a violation of requirements of the student's IEP. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Bathroom Access

Position of the Parents

The parents assert that the teacher has on at least two occasions refused to allow the student to use the restroom upon request. It is the position of the parents that the student should immediately be granted permission to use the restroom whenever she asks, since failing to allow the student to do so could result in her wetting herself.

Position of the District

It is the position of the district that the requirements of the student's IEP related to bathroom access have been implemented.

Investigative Findings

The "Supplementary Aids and Services (Accommodations and Modifications)" section of the student's April 16, 2024 IEP includes the following statement:

> "[The student] will need a separate bathroom break with a visual checklist of bathroom steps. This will help [the student] successfully use the restroom and take care of her hygiene needs. This will also help with the growth of developing independence as time progresses due to the consistent use of the visual bathroom step checklist."

In a statement provided to the investigator on November 20, 2024, the school nurse stated that the student has two daily tube feedings and a flush at 9 am, 12:20 pm, and 3 pm respectively.

"At each of those times, she is in the nurse's office with a private bathroom. She is offered a separate bathroom break at each of those feedings - connecting and disconnecting times. Disconnect times are around 9:25 am and 12:55 pm."

In a conference call with the investigator on December 6, 2024, the nurse reported that the student wears a lanyard with attached picture prompts to encourage her independence in toileting. According to the nurse, the student has toileted without assistance and has not had an accident in the school setting during the 2024-25 school year.

In the Kindergarten classroom, students are given multiple opportunities to use the bathroom and reminders to do so. Students have the opportunity to use the bathroom before instructional time and are encouraged to do so (since there are no bathroom breaks during instructional time). The class as a whole has a bathroom break after Alphabet Arcs and before lunch. The class also takes a bathroom break after first recess at noon, and breaks are taken before afternoon special classes.

In a conference call with the investigator on December 6, 2024, the classroom teacher stated that it was her general practice to allow the student to take a bathroom break if she asks. According to the classroom teacher, the student has rarely asked to use the restroom outside of the opportunities she is routinely provided.

Summary and Conclusions

The student is provided with three to five extra bathroom breaks throughout the school day in conjunction with tube feeding and flushing. While the parents want the student to be allowed to use the bathroom any time she makes a request, the student's April 16, 2024 IEP only requires that the student be provided "a" separate bathroom break daily. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Preferential Seating

Position of the Parents

The parents report that they have personally observed and have been told by others that the student has been seated at the back of her classroom, well away from the blackboard where instructions are provided. The parents further assert that the student has been seated next to another student who has been reported to have bullied the student.

Investigative Findings

The "Supplementary Aids and Services (Accommodations and Modifications)" section of the student's April 16, 2024 IEP includes the following statement:

"Preferential seating near a staff member and the board as able. This will help [the student] see the materials and lessons being taught better and she will have an adult providing frequent redirects along with someone to further explain the information being taught for better comprehension."

The section of the student's April 16, 2024 IEP entitled "Statement of Special Education/Related Services" includes the following statement:

> "For the 2024-25 school year, [the student] will start in full-day kindergarten. She will be served in a general education classroom with special education support. She will receive 180 minutes that will include ELA, math, and other curriculum activities as determined by the special education team."

In a conference call with the investigator on December 6, 2024, the classroom teacher stated that while the student's assigned desk is in the back of the classroom, the student moves throughout the room for instruction. Little instruction is delivered by the teacher from the large classroom board, and when instruction is presented at the front of the room, the student and her group are moved to the front of the classroom. Similarly, the student is moved to the front row during classroom library time and circle time. If the student is working from her assigned desk, she is working with her own individual white board and is assisted by a Paraeducator who is seated between the student and a classroom peer. During this type of instruction, the teacher moves throughout the room using instructional materials placed at various locations around the classroom.

Summary and Conclusions

The classroom teacher is aware of the student's visual needs and provides flexible preferential seating near the teacher and/or a Paraeducator. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Issue Two

> By failing to provide homework and other academic materials for the student when she was absent, the district has denied the student a free appropriate public education (FAPE).

Position of the Parents

The parents contend that the district has failed to provide any "makeup work and homework" necessary for the student to maintain academic progress consistent with her IEP and grade level. It is the position of the parents that the withholding of academic materials has limited the student's ability to engage with grade-appropriate curriculum and interferes with her right to FAPE. The parents assert that the classroom teacher has discriminated against the student by failing to recognize the student's disability and by stating that "all she does is scribble."

The parents state that the student has only been provided with homework on one occasion - on September 10, 2024 - following a specific request from the parents.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

"FAPE" is defined as "special education and related services that meet the following criteria:

1. Are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge;
2. meet the standards of the state board;
3. include an appropriate preschool, elementary, or secondary school education, and
4. are provided in conformity with an individualized education program." (K.A.R. 91-40-1(z)

Special education statutes and regulations do not establish any requirements for the provision of homework to a student unless failure to do so results in a failure to comply with the student's IEP. Districts and individual schools are free to establish their own policies and practices regarding the assignment of homework so long as those policies are applied consistently for students who are and are not determined eligible for special education services.

The investigation of a formal complaint is intended to determine whether, in the 12-month period prior to the receipt of the complaint, there has been a violation of special education statutes and regulations. If the parents believe that the district has - with regard to the implementation of its homework policy or through other actions - discriminated against the student because of her disability, these allegations must be presented to the Office of Civil Rights.

Investigative Findings

The student's April 16, 2024 IEP does not include any specific reference to the provision of homework.

Attendance records provided by the district show that the student had been absent for part or all of a total of 35 days during the 2024-25 school year at the time this complaint was received on November 8, 2024.

The district's "School-wide Homework Policy (24-25)" guidelines state:

1. "1. All students will receive a minimum of the following as homework every night not to exceed 30 minutes:
    a. Reading-fluency practice from decoding routine or 6-minute solutions (20 minutes).
    b. Math-computation practice from Facts Strategies (10 minutes).
2. All parents are expected to read with or to their students and have discussions about what was read.
3. All parents are expected to ask students to share something about their day at school."

In a letter dated August 23, 2024 to all parents of Kindergarten students, the student's classroom teacher wrote:

> "Starting next week, I will send homework home on Tuesday. It's due back on Friday. Please help your student manage their time and complete their homework."

In an email to the classroom teacher dated August 27, 2024, the student's mother wrote:

> "[The student] said she left her homework under her desk. Can someone remind her before leaving to bring it home please? Thanks!

The classroom teacher responded on August 27, 2024:

> " If she brought her folder back today after she get her sticker, she would have put her homework in the folder and then in her backpack. There is never anything left under desk or the floor without being noticed. If she has her folder, she can trace her upper and lower case and her numbers. Hope this will help."

The student's mother replied:

> "That was helpful. I thought shed [sic] have more homework and didnt [sic] realize the folder she has all the sheets in to practise [sic] was her homework. Weve [sic] been working on those everyday [sic] after school and she did come home with stickers today. And we used her purple folder and white board to practice. Thank you!"

On August 28, 2024, the student's mother sent an email to the classroom teacher asking the following:

> "Is there any schoolwork/workbooks or anything I need to pick up to keep her on track with the rest of the classroom?"

On September 4, 2024, after the student had missed school for a period of days due to illness, the student's mother wrote to the classroom teacher asking:

> "Could you please send me homework for this week and any other things you've been working on with the kids so I can keep her up to speed with the class. I can also pick it up if need to be. Workbooks, papers etc. I don't want her grade to drop since she's missing so much school."

In a written statement provided to the investigator on November 20, 2024, the building principal described a meeting with the parents on September 27, 2024 to discuss their concerns about homework:

> I met with parents on September 27[,2024] to answer questions they had about [the student]. One of the topics discussed was homework. I explained the homework policy to the parents and also explained that Kindergarten students do not usually have homework. The bulk of what they are doing does not involve writing other than practicing handwriting. They said they were working on handwriting at home. I explained that since students are in early literacy and learning letters and sounds, they do a lot of oral activities like Heggerty. I went on to describe the Alphabet Arc that is used in class and they said they already had one that the teacher had given. [T]he classroom teacher was present and shared a homework folder that she had given all students containing activities (practice writing letters and numbers, alphabet arc and plastic letters) for parents to practice at home with their students if they chose. We went on to discuss how school is very different and how we prefer teachers to do the heavy lifting; especially with teaching the letter sounds and steps to reading. Reading with students is what we prefer parents to focus on. I explained that there aren't many worksheets or packets because that is not best practice and schools have really moved away from that. I offered both parents to visit the classroom to observe what is being taught so they would have a better understanding of what I was saying. They visited on October 31 for the Fall party."

In a conference call on December 6, 2024, the classroom teacher told the investigator that she had at the beginning of the year told all of her classroom parents that she would be sending homework home on Tuesday for return on Friday. The homework folder contained a number of pages that could be used by parents to work with their children on basic Kindergarten skills such as color and shape recognition, letter sounds, number and alphabet recognition, letter formation, and pencil grip. According to the teacher, she determined that only about 40% of her students were working on these activities with their parents, and she discontinued the practice of sending homework home on Tuesdays. When asked by classroom parents about what activities to work on with their children, the teacher encouraged them to review the skills covered under those initial pages. No other "homework" has been assigned.

Despite her many absences, the student is progressing through the Kindergarten curriculum. On a scale of 0 ("Even with help, student is not successful, or no evidence is shown") to 4, ("Advanced. Student demonstrates knowledge which exceeds grade level standards"), she demonstrates proficiency at a Level 2 ("Developing: Student demonstrates understanding of the foundational skills related to the grade level standard") or above in 23 of the 28 areas assessed according to her Elementary Progress Report. Her IEP Progress Report shows that she is making progress on attaining 3 of her 5 annual goals that should enable her to achieve those goals by the time of her annual review. She has made progress on the two remaining goals but may not attain them by the time of her annual review; there may be a need to review instructional strategies and supports in these areas (working independently and identifying sounds).

Summary and Conclusions

The student's April 16, 2024 IEP does not include any special requirements with regard to homework. At the present time, homework is not assigned to any student in the Kindergarten classroom. Despite her numerous absences, the student is making progress in both her general education and special education skills. Under these circumstances, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Nonetheless, the investigator strongly encourages the student's IEP team to take a close look at strategies for mitigating the potential impact of the student's chronic absenteeism on her future educational development.

Issue Three

The district has failed to provide the student with adult supervision during transitions.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

As stated above under Issue One, federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.17, define a free appropriate public education (FAPE), in part, as special education and related services provided in conformity with an Individualized Education Program (IEP). In other words, a student's IEP must be implemented as written.

Position of the Parents

The parents contend that while the student's IEP requires adult supervision of the student during transitions within the school building, the student has in fact been assisted on multiple occasions by classmates. The parents allege that on one of those occasions, when the student was escorted to the restroom by a male peer, the student went into the boys' restroom.

Investigative Findings

The student's current April 16, 2024 IEP does not contain any mention of a requirement for adult supervision during transitions nor does that IEP prohibit the use of a peer to assist the student during transitions within the school environment.

In a written statement provided to the investigator on November 20, 2024, the building principal wrote:

> "[The student] is one of our students that we believed through observations required hand to hand pass off during the school day. All adults in contact with her were made aware that she should not be left alone. She transitioned with her class in line to move from one location to the other, but when she was required to go somewhere without the entire class, she was guided by an adult or responsible student."

Summary and Conclusions

Because the student's April 16, 2024 IEP contains no requirement for the student to have adult supervision for every transition, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Issue Four

The district has failed to promptly and effectively communicate with the parents on issues impacting the student's well-being and IEP compliance.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

As stated in the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook:

> "To address the requirement to strengthen the role of parents in the special education process, Congress mandated that schools afford parents the opportunity to be members of any decision making team for their child, including eligibility, initial evaluation and reevaluation, and development of an individualized education program (IEP) for the provision of a free appropriate public education (FAPE)...Additionally, parents have a responsibility to participate and provide their input into their child's educational progress (K.A.R. 91-40-25(a); K.A.R. 91-40-17(a); 34 C.F.R. 300.501(b),(c))."

Districts are required to attempt to schedule IEP Team meetings at a mutually agreed-upon time and place (K.A.R. 91-40-17(1)) and must make reasonable attempts to secure parent participation. Reasonable attempts are defined as at least two contacts by two different methods and documentation of such attempts should be kept including records of telephone calls, copies of written correspondence sent to the parents, and the response, if any, from parents. (See K.A.R. 91-40-27(g); K.A.R. 91-40-17(e)(2); 34 C.F.R. 300.322(d)(1)).

Position of the Parents

According to the parents, multiple emails to school staff have gone unanswered including an email request for an IEP meeting sent on October 4, 2024. The parents additionally assert that the district has not been responsive to their need for information regarding their identified concerns including an allegation of unsupervised outdoor exposure on November 4, 2024. The parents also contend that the district has failed to respond to their concerns about the bullying of the student and denial of access to the restroom. (See Issue One.)

IEP Meeting

Investigative Findings - IEP Meeting

On September 18, 2024, the school social worker called the student's mother to discuss the accommodations shown in the student's April 16, 2024 IEP as well as a possible referral of the student for an Occupational Therapy evaluation.

The student's father sent an email to the student's classroom teacher on October 4, 2024 writing:

> "I am writing to request an IEP meeting for my daughter...to discuss adjustments to her plan that accommodate her medical needs and ensure a supportive learning environment. I would like to discuss a concern regarding [the student's] health management at school. As you may know, [the student] has several medical issues, including low blood sugars and oral aversion. Getting her to eat by mouth is a big step for her, even if it's just a small piece of candy. To help manage her condition, we've packed a couple of small chocolates in her backpack. She had one in her hand when she got off the bus yesterday. She mentioned that a teacher took the chocolate from her and threw it away, stating "no candy allowed." Could > you please help me understand why it was necessary to throw it away instead of putting it back in her backpack? Additionally, [the student] has expressed concerns about an incident during math class yesterday, where the classmate sitting next to her pulled her hair. This is one of four similar incidents that have come to our attention. We are worried that these occurrences have not been formally addressed or communicated to us..."

The classroom teacher forwarded the parent's message on to the social worker who has been designated by the building principal as having the responsibility of working with parents to schedule all IEP Team meetings except for annual review meetings.

The student's IEP case manager contacted the student's mother on October 11, 2024 to schedule an "amendment meeting" regarding the student's IEP and placed a follow-up call on October 14, 2024 leaving a message for the student's mother regarding that meeting. On October 22, 2024, the case manager again spoke with the student's mother about the parents' concerns and about scheduling an amendment IEP meeting.

On October 22, 2024, the social worker and the student's mother exchanged a series of emails. The social worker initiated the exchange, asking:

> "I am just seeing if you have the ability to schedule your IEP review. I believe [the case manager] reached out to you regarding scheduling it, but I have not heard of a date that works for you. Please let me know as soon as possible. Thanks!"

The student's mother responded:

> "She did reach out with [the building principal]. We are looking at some more information and options and I let her know I'll reach out soon with a date. With [the student] being sick so much and trying to get our schedules to match also. I did let [the building principal] know to follow the current Iep because it hasn't been completely been followed since beginning of school, until we get the new iep meeting done. She said she just now today got the communication binder done."

The social worker replied:

> "For the more information and options you are looking into, is there anything I can help with? Just trying to meet the request that was made in a timely manner. Thanks again!"

The student's mother wrote back:

> "Do you know why [the case manager] is suddenly pushing this iep amendment? As you know we do want an iep meeting."

The social worker responded:

> "It's being scheduled because it was requested by [the student's father] in an email on 10/4/2024. We have an obligation to hold the meeting within a certain timeframe once it's requested."

The student's mother then wrote:

> "He did request it but didn't receive any response. Appreciate the explanation though. I'll reach out soon with some dates and see if it works for you guys."

On October 24, 2024, the student's mother sent an email to the social worker and case manager, writing:

> "[The student's father] and I have decided to put a hold on the IEP amendment meeting for now until we look through all our options. We will notified [sic] you when we would like to reopen it. For the parent teacher conference, a email with her progress and grades would be fine. If we are required to attend, then please have [the classroom teacher] reach out on what evening time and days might work."

In a telephone conversation with the investigator on December 3, 2024, the student's father stated that the parents were open to holding an IEP team meeting but wanted the results of this investigation to be available to the parents before that meeting was held.

Summary and Conclusions - IEP Meeting

The district has provided ample evidence to show that a good faith effort was made to schedule an IEP Team meeting. The district first proposed an IEP Team meeting on September 18, 2024, well before such a meeting was requested by the student's father. The district followed up with the parents to find a mutually agreed-upon time for the meeting, but the parents subsequently withdrew their request for a meeting and declined the district's attempts to schedule such a meeting. Under these circumstances, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Outdoor Exposure

Investigative Findings - Outdoor Exposure

The parents state that the principal told them that the student would never be in the hallway alone, but the student reported to them that she was left outside the building in the rain on November 4, 2024 until she was found by a teacher who brought her inside.

In response to the parents' expressed concerns, security camera footage from the date of the alleged incident was reviewed, and, according to the security supervisor for the district, the student was not seen outside of the building in the rain. The building principal notified the student's father of this finding via email on November 8, 2024.

The student's father wrote back to the building principal on November 8, with a series of follow-up questions to which the building principal responded on November 12, 2024. That exchange follows:

The student's father asks: "Are you able to tell me which areas were checked by both security supervisors? Was it the playground, recess doors, or hallways leading up to either of those around lunch time? Of course give or take a little after lunch."

The building principal responds: "I had them check the recess doors leading out to the playground, and the playground itself because those are the locations you mentioned."

Regarding the alleged incident of November 4, 2024, the classroom teacher gave the following written statement which was provided to the investigator on November 20, 2024:

> "It has come to my attention that there is a misunderstanding about an incident on November 4, 2024, regarding a student being taken outside in the rain and left. I want to address this matter directly and assure you that this did not occur. On that date[, not]only my class but the entire school had indoor recess due to the rainy weather. The students [sic] in question spent the recess time playing with Barbies inside the classroom, along with her peers. I am responsible for supervising my entire class of 23 students and if we had gone outside, I would have had to take all of them with me. However, since it was raining, we remained indoors the entire time. As our policy prioritizes student safety and comfort[, w]e do not go outside for recess when it is raining, I hope this clears up any confusion."

Summary and Conclusions - Outdoor Exposure

The district responded to the parents' expressed concerns by conducting an internal investigation and studying security footage from the day of the alleged incident. Evidence provided by the district documents responsiveness to the parents' concerns. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Other Concerns

Investigative Findings and Conclusions - Other Concerns

At 8:36 m on Wednesday, September 25, 2024, the student's mother sent an email to the building principal writing:

> "My Husband and I would like to schedule a meeting for the concerns we are having to hopefully resolve the issues. It's for our daughter [in the Kindergarten] class. What days/time work for you? I'm normally free after 330pm."

The building principal responded by email at 8:50 am on September 25, 2024 writing:

> "I am available Friday after 3:30. Does that work for you guys?"

The meeting with the parents was held on September 27, 2024.

On October 28, 2024, the social worker sent an email to the parents, writing:

> "We would like to schedule a phone conference with both of you to discuss what was missed during parent/teacher conferences. [The classroom teacher] has her plan time around 3 pm so we would like to meet around then. Please let me know dates that would work for you. If you would rather do it in person, we can do that too!"

On November 4, 2024, the student's father and members of the school staff exchanged a series of emails. The student's father first wrote:

> "[We] are available to have a parent teacher conference on Wednesday the 6th at 3:30. To be able to make it work, we would need to do it by phone. Please let us know if this time works for you all."

The social worker confirmed the time and asked for a phone number to call at the designated time. The student's father responded with the number and wrote:

> "Also, to confirm, this is only a parent-teacher conference, and not an IEP meeting, correct? Lastly, if I can just get a list of staff that will be on the call."

After receiving a list of the meeting participants from the social worker, the student's father wrote:

> "Are the people listed here involved in all parent-teacher conferences? I'm just a little confused as to why we need campus support, a psychologist, a nurse, the principal and the IEP manager when this call is only regarding he school grades. Were the listed indivduals [sic] also at the in-person parent-teacher confernces [sic] on Oct 15?"

The social worker responded:

> "Yes, we have all of those supporting positions available for parent teacher conferences. We are including those staff members due to the emails and concerns that have come up this year. We want to make the best of the time you are willing to give us to ensure communication is effective in helping [the student] be successful."

The building principal added her comment to the exchange:

> "I asked the team to sit in on the meeting for my benefit. I have been trying to keep up with the various emails and conversations between all of you, so this way if there are any questions or concerns that need attention, we can get immediate feedback. It helps me problem solve in a timely manner if I don't have to relay messages to everyone at different times. I hope this is ok with you guys."

The student's father replied;

> "Thank you both for the reply. Respectfully, [addressing the building principal], all the issues we have been emailing about are in regards to her IEP, which at the point we have on hold, because nothing was being taken care of and we are now going through our options. Also, how come all the emails are being referred to you and not the normal parent/teacher communication relationship that could have fixed most all of the issues like we have expressed to you before in our meeting. You had a conversation with [the student's mother] last week about scheduling a whole team meeting and we will be reaching backout to you in order to schedule that. At this time we would like to have just a normal parent-teacher conference about [the student's] grades. We would prefer this meeting to only be between us and [the classroom teacher]."

The building principal responded:

"Of course, you can hold a meeting with [the classroom teacher] for parent/teacher conference. Let me know when you would like to meet to address the IEP. Thank you."

At 10:07 am on November 5, 2024, the student's father sent an email to the building principal, writing:

"When you can, do you mind giving me a call to discuss an incident?"

The principal responded at 10:36 am that same date, writing:

"Yes, sir, I will call you in a few minutes. I am wrapping up a meeting."

At 10:41 am, the building principal sent an email to the student's father, writing:

"I just called and didn't get an answer. You can call me when you have a minute..."

At 4:17 pm on November 5, 2024, the building principal sent an email to the student's father, writing:

"I just tried calling you back again. I'll be here until about 5:00 if you would like to call me..."

In an email on November 8, 2024, the student's father posed a series of questions in an email response to a message from the building principal. The questions and the building principal's responses follow:

The student's father asks: [C]an you tell me why [the student] is being sent to [the student's case manager's] office a lot? During the Halloween Party, she was sent to [the case manager] after we left and [the case manager] also brings her out to the bus at the end of the day. What exactly is she doing in there? We just didn't know and haven't been made aware of any classes she has in there. I know the Para...had mentioned during the party that she 'was not trained to handle' [the student], but [the case manager] is?

The building principal responded: "[The case manager] is the IEP manager for [the student] so she may service her at any time. She could have been filling in for the para because of an absence, checking progress, or collecting data for her reports."

The student's father asks: "A week or so ago, [the student] says [the classroom teacher] would not let her keep her jacket on during class and made her hang it up. Again yesterday the same thing happened. Is this normal? I'm just confused as to why [the student] wouldn't be allowed to keep her jacket on. The first time [the student] says she was 'shivering'."

The building principal responded: "[The classroom teacher] said she asks the students to take their jackets off when they go to PE because the students get hot in the gym. When they get hot, they take their jackets off in the gym and forget to bring the jackets back with them to class."

The student's father writes: " Lastly, per our phone conversation about a boy taking [the student] to the bathroom on two occasions, bringing her to the office (which I witnessed) on at least one occasion, and Monday the boy continued to mess with [the student's] shirt. I went back through some notes and the name I have from the shirt incident is 'Amari' or 'Amar'?"

The building principal responds: "I could not verify who was messing he [sic] [the student's] shirt. There isn't a student in the class by that name. I visited with specials teachers and no one sends a boy to escort a girl to the bathroom. It is possible that a boy walked her to the office, but I couldn't verify which boy."

Summary and Conclusions - Other Concerns

Substantial evidence has been provided by the district to show timely responsiveness to parent concerns on an ongoing basis. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated.

Issue Five

The district failed to properly document the reasons for the student's absence from school.

Position of the Parents

The parents assert that the student's absences due to illness on September 12 and October 14 and 15, 2024 was incorrectly coded as unexcused. They contend that the district did not timely respond to their repeated contacts with school staff in order to have the record corrected.

Position of the District

The district asserts that student absences are recorded through an automated system with some inherent delays in updating after receipt of excusal notes from parents. The district contends that attendance records show absences on the three dates in question as excused.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

Procedures regarding the recording of daily attendance are not covered by special education laws. Districts establish policies and procedures regarding the reporting of absences. Accordingly, the handbook for the student's school states:

> "Good attendance is critical for steady academic growth, and, by law, children are required to attend school.
> Please call the school office any time your child will not be in school.
>
> If you are asked to leave a voice mail, please give the following information:
>
> - Name of the parent or guardian calling
> - Student's name and grade

- Date(s) of absence
- Reason for absence; please be specific

Absences will only be excused for the following reasons:

- Illness
- Medical or dental appointment
- A family death or serious illness
- Court/judicial appearance
- Religious observations
- School-sponsored activities"

Investigative Findings and Conclusions

While absences may have initially been coded as "unexcused" as reported by the parents, attendance records provided by the district on November 20, 2024 show the student absent on all three days cited by the parents due to "Medical/Dental" reasons. Records show that there was a "Dr. Note on file."

The student's current April 16, 2024 IEP does not require the district to address this student's absences differently than it would the absence of any other student in the district. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations on an issue presented in this complaint. Specifically, a violation was substantiated with regard to 34 C.F.R. 300.101 and 34 C.F.R. 300.17 which require the provision of a FAPE through conformity with a student's IEP. In this case, the district failed to implement two accommodations:

- providing the parents with a communication book which included a daily record of services provided to the student and a log of her nutritional intake; and
- making a pulse oximeter available in the classroom and timely training staff to use the device.

Therefore, USD #259 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Submit to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) by no later than January 6, 2025, a written statement of assurance stating that it will comply with 34 C.F.R. 300.101 and 34 C.F.R 300.17 by providing special education services in conformity with the student's IEP.
2. By no later than January 7, 2025, USD #259 shall
    a. Place a pulse oximeter in the student's general education classroom (unless the student's IEP has been revised to no longer include this accommodation).
    b. Conduct an IEP team meeting for the purpose of clarifying the content and structure of the communication "book."

c. Provide the parents with prior written notice of any proposed changes to the student's IEP with regard to her accommodations and request parental consent for any material change (25%) in services.
d. The district shall provide SETS a copy of the revised IEP within 5 business days of the day the proposed IEP is presented to the parent and shall at that same time provide SETS with a copy of the associated prior written notice form.

Further, USD #259 shall, within 20 calendar days of the date of this report, submit to SETS one of the following:

a) A statement verifying acceptance of the corrective action or actions specified in this report;
b) a written request for an extension of time within which to complete one or more of the corrective actions specified in the report together with justification for the request; or
c) a written notice of appeal. Any such appeal shall be in accordance with K.A.R. 91-40-51(f).

The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.org The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

Background Information

The student is a 7 year old attending second grade who, in 2018, was diagnosed as experiencing autism spectrum disorder, global developmental delay, and mixed receptive-expressive disorder. The student attended the Tiny K program before transitioning to ECSE services as a student with autism and attended Kindergarten in the district for half of the school day at the time of re-evaluation in 2023. The reevaluation found that the student needed support to engage in classroom activities like play and to follow the routine and schedule, needed to develop receptive and expressive language including to use an assistive communication device, and needs in the adaptive behavior domain such as handwashing and putting on and taking off a coat. At the time of the evaluation, the IEP team continued a shortened school day, adding the lunch period to the schedule. The student's placement is in the district's elementary school, in a special education classroom and general education classroom settings.

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: Did the district implement the student's IEP, specifically to provide special education, related services, attendant care, and placement as identified in the IEP?
2. ISSUE TWO: Did the district provide adequate staff qualified to implement the IEP, including having the ability to understand the student's disability, communication, and to provide the IEP services?
3. ISSUE THREE: Did the district develop an IEP designed to meet the needs of the student in light of their disabilities?

Issue One

Did the district implement the student's IEP, specifically to provide special education, related services, attendant care, and placement as identified in the IEP?

Applicable Law

Federal/State statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.39 define special education as specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent to meet the unique needs of a child with a disability. Further 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) requires that the IEP include "a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child: (i) To advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; (ii) To be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum. . . and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and (iii) To be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children. "

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE (free appropriate public education) to a child who has or is suspected of having a disability. State regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3) require school districts to obtain parent consent before making a material change in services or a substantial change in placement. The Kansas Special Education Process

Handbook clarifies a material change in services: "A change in the instructional methodology used to provide a service, even if the methodology is specified in an IEP, is not a material change in services. For example, a change to a strategy within a behavior intervention plan is a change in the instructional methodology, not a material change in services" (p.8).

The parent alleged that the district has failed to implement the student's IEP due to staff shortages that have required the student to remain in the special education classroom rather than follow the scheduled placement in the student's IEP. The parent alleged that the district didn't provide proper care to the student and that the district was unable to provide the student's special education and related services as required by the IEP.

The district replied: "The student's IEP did not require "attendant care" support but all related services were regularly provided and/or adequately staffed to provide. Time out of schedule does not mean that services were not provided. When the student is in an emotional state that does not enable him to attend class he still receives instruction in communication strategies, self-regulation, and sensory desensitization. A review of attendance and staffing data indicates that the student received services in the resource room between 10:50-11:30 rather than with para support in the general education classroom as specified on the IEP. There are no accurate explanations for missed class periods so we must assume that every class period since the beginning of the year, minus the days that the student was absent (11 days) were not provided as required on the IEP. That is 1600 minutes (40 class periods) in the general education classroom missed due to staff absences, vacancies or the student's inability to attend due to sensory issues (refuses to go to class). The details of unscheduled interventions (de-escalation) are not documented so the impact of such interventions are impossible to support or deny."

The district offered to resolve this issue: "We will offer compensatory education by providing additional support in general education classes after his typical departure time by extending his day, and/or in summer programs in which general education students attend, or in other options agreed upon by the IEP team. The IEP team will make the decision regarding the number of minutes needed to compensate for these missed minutes for a time not to exceed 1600 minutes."

Findings

The district reported and documents showed that no attendant care was included on the student's IEP. Special education support was scheduled for recess, lunch and other nonacademic activities.

The student's IEP dated January 31, 2024, included goals in the following areas (in brief): (a) use speech or AAC device to request preferred items, (b) complete interverbal tasks, (c) match, point to alphabet letters, (d) count to ten, (e) make sets of five objects, (f) use scissors, and (g) engage in parallel play. The student's accommodations included using LAMP on an Ipad, visual schedule, visual timer, modified reading curriculum, modified math curriculum, sensory breaks and sensory time before activities.

Two IEP amendments occurred. On April 25 2024, the IEP was amended to include Extended School Year (ESY) for the student during the summer, 2024 due to his lack of progress toward his IEP goals, according to the PWN dated April 25, 2024. On August 13, 2024, the IEP was amended to review the criteria for and to qualify the student for alternate assessment. The student was rated as having the most significant cognitive limitations in every category of the Kansas Alternate Assessment (DLM) for Students with the Most Significant Disabilities.

The IEP dated January 31, 2024, included the following special education and related services to continue through January 30, 2025: pull out speech language 20 minutes three times a week; pull out occupational therapy 20 minutes two times a week; pull out social work 20 minutes, one time each four weeks; and social work consult 15 minutes, one time each week. Special education and related services included through the end of the 2023-24 school year included pull out core instruction for reading and math 210 minutes, five times a week and special education support in general education settings for lunch, specials, recess and social emotional learning 125 minutes, five times a week. Along with the 20 minutes of related services daily, the student would receive 355 minutes of special education and related services daily.

Beginning August 16, 2024, through January 30, 2025, according to the IEP dated January 31, 2024, the amount of services changed to pull out core instruction for reading and math 165 minutes, five times a week and special education support in general education settings for lunch, specials, recess and social emotional learning for a total of 180 minutes, five times a week. Along with the 20 minutes daily of related services, the student would receive 365 minutes of special education and related services daily.

The parents and the district agree that the IEP services were not provided as described on the IEP. The parents and the district agree that the student did not receive time in general education as scheduled.

The student's daily schedule showed an attendance day of 7:55 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., with morning activity (20 minutes), recess (30 minutes), lunch (30 minutes), and specials (40 minutes) totaling 120 minutes in general education settings each day of an attendance schedule of 335 minutes. Follow up questions to the district via emails dated December 8 and 9, 2024 verified that this reflected the student's current schedule in general. According to an interview with the principal, the student began his schedule in the general education classroom each day till about 8:20 a.m. In the interview, the principal stated that the school staff were flexible in working with the student to get him to attend general education activities and that his behavior interfered with standard scheduling. In an email to the investigator, the principal stated that neither the afternoon "free time" period (15 minutes) nor the story time (30 minutes) occurred in general education.

The BCBA training notes provided by the district showed that the provider believed that the student's schedule in general education was 120 minutes daily: "His inclusion times would have been the same as they are now…going into his second grade class until 8:15, recess from 10:30 - 11:00, going to a first grade classroom for Science/SS/SEL from 11:00 - 11:20, lunch, and specials from 1:00 - 1:30."

The district reported in its response that the student did not go to his general education classroom as scheduled from 10:50-11:20 a.m. (30 minutes) each day for an undetermined number of weeks during the 2024-25 school year, with an assumption that each of these scheduled periods were missed by the student except when the student was absent from school.

The speech language therapy attendance form for the 2024-25 school year showed that the student did not receive speech language services three times a week (scheduled Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday). For the 12 weeks reported, the student received speech language services three times a week 5 times, two times a week 4 times (4 missed sessions) and one time a week 3 times (6 missed sessions). Student absences or no school days accounted for 8 of the 10 missed sessions.

Occupational therapy service logs for the 2024-25 school year showed that occupational therapy was provided one time a week for 10 of the 14 weeks reported. Student absences accounted for three missed sessions and staff unavailability for one missed session.

A statement provided by the social worker stated that the social worker provided one-time weekly indirect service to the student's classroom staff and one time monthly direct services to the student to gauge his social interaction with peers and to monitor progress.

Progress reports for the IEP dated January 31, 2024 showed that the quarterly reporting was completed for all 7 IEP goals in May, 2024 and only one goal (goal 6) had progress reporting in March, 2024. In each rating, the district answered "yes" to the question: "Is progress toward the annual goal adequate to achieve goal?"

Conclusion

In this case, the student's IEP in place for the current school year required the district to provide 180 minutes of special education support in general education settings, including the general education classroom. The district acknowledged that the student missed one scheduled general education period (30 minutes) each day, and documents and interviews revealed that the student missed an additional 30 minutes of time in general education each day. Therefore, it is found that the district did not provide the required amount of service during the current school year.

Additionally, according to documentation submitted by the district, the related services in the IEP (speech language 20 minutes 3 times a week and occupational therapy 20 minutes 2 times a week) were not provided in total. Two speech language sessions were missed (not due to student absences or unavailability) and only one rather than two OT sessions was scheduled weekly and one session was missed due to staff unavailability, accounting for 15 missed OT sessions.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that the district failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically to provide special education, related services, and placement as identified in the IEP. It is not substantiated that the district failed to provide attendant care to the student.

Issue Two

Did the district provide adequate staff qualified to implement the IEP, including having the ability to understand the student's disability, communication, and to provide the IEP services?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.156(a) require public agencies to ensure that children with disabilities are provided special education and related services by appropriately and adequately prepared and trained personnel who have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with disabilities.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.156(c) require that each special education teacher providing special education services has obtained full State certification as a special education teacher (including certification obtained through an alternate route to certification as a special educator), or passed the State special education teacher licensing examination, and holds a license to teach in the State as a special education teacher and holds at least a bachelor's degree.

Under some circumstances if a fully certified individual is not available, school districts are permitted to use emergency certified personnel. According to K.A.R 91-31-34(a)(4): "If a substitute teacher holding a valid Kansas substitute teaching license is not available, the education system shall use a person who holds a baccalaureate degree and an emergency substitute teaching license or certificate. An education system shall not allow a person who holds a baccalaureate degree and an emergency substitute teaching license or certificate to teach for more than 45 days in the same assignment."

In addition, in Kansas there is a tiered paraprofessional training requirement that describes the number of hours of professional development that must be provided to persons employed as paraprofessionals based on the number of years of experience working as a paraprofessional. Paraprofessionals with three or fewer years of experience must have a minimum of 20 hours annually while paraprofessionals with more than three years of experience must have 10 hours of professional development annually.

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

The parent alleged that the special education staff have repeatedly been replaced during the past two school years resulting in the failure of the staff to be appropriately prepared to provide special education, personal care, and related services to the student. The parent alleged that special education staff reported to the parents that they were left alone with no supervision and no support in the classroom. The parent alleged that a new paraprofessional accompanied the student when dismissed from school to his parent, when both the child and the paraprofessional appeared to be emotionally distressed. The parent alleged that upon returning home, the parent found a large deep bruise on the student's buttock in the shape of the student's boot print. The parent alleged that the school staff reported that they had toileted the student that day, and that in the past two years at the school, the staff had never toileted the child at school. The parent alleged that the student can communicate his protest during toileting.

The district responded: "A multidisciplinary team was assembled to create and implement the complex elements of this student's IEP. Members of the team include a behavior specialist BCBA; speech language pathologist, occupational therapist, social worker in a consultation role, and teachers and paraprofessionals. Everyone with an educational need to know has access to the student's IEP and the paraprofessionals and sped teachers have received special training in positive behavior support and deescalation. In collaboration these team members have created and implemented educational task baskets, a multimodal communication system, and sensory diet to provide access to the curriculum and help the student navigate his day. . ." The document entitled Jeff West Team shows that vacancies were filled relatively quickly and we maintained a staff to student ratio that provided the opportunity to cover required sped minutes. The documents in staff credentials show that most of our team members were licensed for the position in which they serve. All staff members at Jeff West Elementary participated in de-escalation training based on CPI standards. The district has access to certified CPI trainers on staff . . All paraprofessionals attend an orientation training within their first month on the job. This included instructional strategies, behavior management, and confidentiality etc. . . The related service providers (OT, SLP, BCBA, and SW) provided ongoing support and strategies to develop materials and to meet the sensory and communication needs of the student. . . There are times during the day that the student does not have the emotional energy to fully participate in his schedule. Strategies are employed to help him return to a cooperative state but the time period of these out-of-schedule experiences and the team's responses are not documented.

The district proposed the following: "Resolution: Implement a recording system that accurately reflects the implementation of all services and the student's time in schedule. Notify the parents daily and the IEP team will make a decision regarding the circumstances under which a meeting will be scheduled for time out of the schedule or lack of progress on a goal."

Findings

The parent reported that the staff turnover affected the student's education this school year. The district provided documentation that the emergency substitute teacher was replaced with a fully qualified teacher when that teacher was hired (October 23, 2024).

Upon request for staff qualifications and credentials, the district provided information such as job applications, resumes and licenses for 20 individuals.

The district listed the following certified or licensed staff members and their direct current or former roles in the student's classroom.

Neely Gower Special Education Teacher Professional License # 9135895292 Building Administrator K-9 Elementary K-9 Master of Education Administration Date-of-Hire: 10/23/2024	Sherri Caldwell Emergency Substitute Teacher License Number: 9492955873 Date-of-Hire: 08/02/2022 Date-of-Separation: 10/20/2024

The district reported that the following current or former staff provided paraprofessional services in the classroom.

Brianna Cobb Paraeducator for #340 Elementary 2023-2024, transferred to JDLA for 2024-2025. 11/11/2024 temporarily transferred to #340 elementary due to resignations from (Bingham and Scott) Em. Sub. License # 6897667765 Date-of-Hire: 04/03/2024	Melissa Strawn Nurse Aide Certification # 154889 Nursing Support / Paraprofessional Date-of-Hire: 11/21/2024

Tammy Scott Paraprofessional Date-of-Hire: 09/05/2023 Date-of-Separation: 11/01/2024

The district provided an additional list and credentials of persons who support the classroom in the case of absences or vacancies: Stacy Fleeker (Special Education Teacher), Jesse Stitt (Paraprofessional, BA in Social Work), Marlene Jolly (Paraprofessional), Nicole Presnell (Paraprofessional) and Laurel Lidman (Paraprofessional).

The district reported that all paraprofessionals receive orientation training within one month of their hire and the district provided content documentation on de-escalation, confidentiality, behavior support and specialized instruction. The district reported that paraprofessionals meet monthly for 3 hours of professional development and provided an example agenda.

The district provided documentation in the form of BCBA notes that paraprofessional staff received in classroom coaching on student specific needs and all staff received de-escalation training October 14, 2024 and the BCBA reported extensive coaching of the Emergency Substitute Teacher on student specific needs (language, assistive communication device, transitions, curriculum and specialized instruction). The BCBA reported providing training on structured learning to the classroom staff on November 11, 2024.

The district provided documentation in the form of the SPL therapist's statement that the classroom staff were trained in student specific needs such as the LAMP, visual schedules and timers, first/then boards, token boards, reinforcement and prompts, and evidence-based practices for students with autism.

Conclusion

In this case, the district provided documentation that the classroom personnel were qualified to hold the positions for which they were employed. An emergency substitute was in place at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year and was replaced with a fully qualified educator. The paraprofessionals were provided initial orientation (6 hours), monthly professional development (3 hours) and in classroom student specific training. Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #340 failed to provide adequate staff qualified to implement the IEP, including having the ability to understand the student's disability, communication, and to provide the IEP services.

Issue Three

Did the district develop an IEP designed to meet the needs of the student in light of their disabilities?

Applicable Law

Federal statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.324(a) require that in developing the child's IEP, the IEP team shall consider the following: the strengths of the child, the concerns of the parents, the results of the child's evaluation, the academic and functional needs of the child, the use of positive behavior interventions and supports if the child's behavior impedes learning of self or others, the need for braille or the impact of limited English proficiency, the child's communication needs, and the need for assistive technology.

Additionally, under 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(b), IEP reviews and revisions are appropriate to address, among other issues: any lack of expected progress toward meeting the annual goals; the results of any reevaluation; information about the child provided to, or by, the parent; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters. Other matters can include behavior that leads to short term removals from schooling, with the potential to affect the student's progress or free appropriate public education.

Recent OSEP (2022) guidance states: "frequent use of short-term or informal removals of children with disabilities may indicate that the child's IEP does not appropriately address their behavioral needs. . . School staff should be aware of, and gauge the need for and effectiveness of, behavioral interventions when implementing exclusionary disciplinary measures that continually or significantly interfere with a child's instruction and participation in school activities (e.g., a pattern of office referrals, repeatedly sending a child out of school on "administrative leave" or regularly requiring a child to leave the school early and miss instructional time)."

The parent alleged that the student had a shortened school day, which was being gradually lengthened to allow the student to participate in general education settings during the school day. The parent alleged that the student has autism with global developmental delays, and that the student is nonverbal, learning to use a communication device at school and home, and communicates his wants and needs in ways his parents understand. The parent alleged that the school is not providing an individualized program that allows the student the opportunity to be integrated with the general school population throughout the school day. The parent alleged that during the 2023-24 school year, the student developed behavioral problems, like hitting himself, which the parent associated with the student's experience at school. The parent alleged that during the past 12 months, school staff were abruptly changed without regard for maintaining the student's school routines and without communication to the parents so they could support the student through the changes. The parent alleged that the school did not appear to take their concerns regarding the toileting incident seriously.

The district responded: "District Response: The IEP and notes reflect that a multidisciplinary team of required IEP team members including the parents developed and amended IEPs that were designed to meet the complex needs of the student in light of his disabilities. The district wrote and implemented IEPs on 2/6/23 and 1/31/24 and the associated amendments included in this folder. The IEP documents and associated notes demonstrate that all aspects of special education and related services were considered and amended as needed by the team with parent input. The parent's responses to these recommendations were also noted."

The district continued: "Response: The IEP reflects a team that was sensitive to the social emotional needs of the student and his capacity to tolerate unpredictable or "loud" environments as he engages in school activities. The team was focused on sensory integration activities to help increase his ability to stay engaged in non-preferred tasks throughout the day. They also implemented a multimodal communication system to increase his opportunities for successful social Interactions. The progress on his goals and the efforts to increase time spent in general education and the lengthening of his school day demonstrates progress in light of the student's circumstances. Unfortunately, accurate records of time in schedule are not available for review."

In addition, the district stated: "Resolution: Data has not been collected regarding the student's ability to tolerate school work and social settings in a consistent manner. The school team will document time in schedule and time out of schedule each day on the communication form and the reasons for those deviations. As always, the district is willing to meet to review and amend an IEP at parent request. We will always consider all information provided when making an IEP team decision."

Findings

The findings of Issue One and Issue Two are incorporated herein by reference.

The district and the parent agree that the student's behavior, including reluctance to attend school or activities within school, was a concern through the past 12 months. Both the parent and district reported that the student at times would strike himself during a tantrum. The parent and the principal agreed that the IEP team determined the shortened school day to address the student's behavior such as meltdowns at school.

The PWN dated February 6, 2023, stated that the student would continue to attend half day through the kindergarten (2022-23) school year. The PWN dated February 6, 2023 stated that student's school day was to be extended by 20 minutes, to include a total of 110 minutes in general education (lunch, recess, morning activities, and read aloud; and 210 minutes in the special education classroom, along with related services (20 minutes of speech three times a week and 20 minutes of occupational therapy two times a week), for a total of 355 minutes per day.

The IEP dated January 31, 2024, showed that during the current school day, the length of the school day was from 7:55 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., or 335 minutes per day. The PWN dated January 31, 2024, stated that special education services would be 165 minutes in a special education classroom, 180 minutes in a general education classroom, and 20 minutes daily of related services for a total of 365 minutes. The school website (Elementary School Handbook) showed that the regular school day ended at 3:15 p.m.

At the time of the IEP dated January 31, 2024, according to parental concerns in the IEP, "Mom is concerned about [the student] not wanting to go to school and having more meltdowns at school." to be addressed in the social emotional PLAAFP of the IEP. According to an interview with the principal, this would have stimulated a compassionate response from the team to support the parent. The IEP's social emotional section states, "[The student] needs to continue to grow his ability to interact with his peers so that he can develop relationships with people who will be going to school with. In order to increase his ability to engage with his peers he will have to be offered more opportunities to interact with those peers" and that the need will be addressed through a goal. No further mention of meltdowns are in the IEP document or addressed in the IEP goal or behavior intervention plan.

The PWN dated January 31, 2024, stated: "[The student] is making progress with his speech and OT goals. It is believed he would make more progress in social emotional skills with more support given through general ed and special education teacher/paras rather than directly through the social worker. He will be increasing the length of his school day, which will increase his special education pull out and inclusion services."

In its response to the complaint, the district stated that they were not able to provide the investigator with information related to the impact of the student's behavior, stating: "Data has not been collected regarding the student's ability to tolerate school work and social settings in a consistent manner."

The parent and the principal agree that the student has not attended parts of the school day as scheduled, as found in Issue One.

The attendance daily summary report showed that the student had 10 "other approved" absences during the 2024-25 school year: August 14, September 4, October 4, 15, and 24, November 13, 14, 15, 18, and 20, 2024, five of which occurred prior to the complaint being filed. The principal reported that an example of the use of "other approved" was when the student would not enter the school building in the morning, which had occurred on the day of the investigator's inquiry (December 9, 2024). The parent reported that prior to the complaint being filed, the school called the parent upon an unspecified number of occasions to come pick up the student when the student had a "meltdown."

The parent reported that the student was injured at school on November 12, 2024. The parent reported that the student was reluctant to enter the school on that day, and at the end of the day, the parents discovered the injury. The parent reported that he contacted school administrators and other authorities in response to the incident and that the parents withheld the student from school following the incident (November 13, 14, 15, 18, and 20, 2024). The parent reported that the school administrators, including the special education director, had contacted him after filing the complaint to attempt to resolve the issues of the complaint and to address his concerns. The parent also reported that the school was providing more information to the parents regarding the student's day at school and that they are no longer sending the student home when he has a tantrum.

The district reported that the student received instruction in a structured learning model with individualized task boxes. The district reported and provided evidence through interviews and staff statements that the student's special education classroom was supported by multidisciplinary team members with specialties in social work, behavior intervention, autism, and communication/language. In interviews with the district, the principal reported that the classroom staff used calming techniques when the student had a meltdown at school, laid down on the floor, or refused to attend scheduled activities.

The parent reported that the parents were reluctant to have the student attend school for a full day, due to both the student's behavior and the student's lack of toilet training that may stigmatize the student at school. The parent reported in an interview that he was unaware that the functional daily living skills such as toileting could be included as IEP goals.

The IEP Progress Report entry dated May 24, 2024, for the IEP goal 7 (engage with peers in parallel play) stated that the student's progress was adequate and that the student's willingness to engage appeared to be mood and preferred activity dependent.

Conclusion

In this case, the student's IEP team used a shortened school day as a solution to the student's unique behavior at school, described by school and parent as meltdowns. The student was also reported to refuse to attend certain activities, show preference for others, and to be administratively excused as absent if he refused to get out of the parent's car to enter the school building. The district reported that a multidisciplinary team, including specialists in social behavior, communication, specialized instruction, and behavior intervention provided direct, indirect, and training services to the student and the student's special education classroom staff. In its response to the complaint, the district acknowledged that no data were kept monitoring the student's absences from all or parts of school days or specific activities due to behavioral refusals or other indications of protest. The parent expressed concern about the student's reluctance to attend school and "meltdowns" at the IEP meeting on January 31.

2024, and these meltdowns were reported by both parties to be a continuing feature of the student's behavior at school. Both the parent and the school reported the use of informal removals (such as calling parent to pick up student, excusing student absences when the student refused to enter the building, or student refusal to follow his schedule at school) which were not systematically tracked by either party.

It is noted that the IEP team determined the shortened school day and the mother participated in the development of both IEPs that required the shortened school day, and that the father relayed the parents' concern regarding the student's tolerance for a full day of school. It is noted that, although no IEP team meeting has been held following the November 12, 2024, incident, the school district has attempted to address the parent's concerns and that the parent has reported improved communication regarding the student's educational program from the school.

However, the IEP team, including the school personnel, did not address the student's behavior through a goal, service, assessment, or intervention plan included in the student's IEP which had been amended in April and in August 2024 for other purposes. Additionally, the parent expressed reluctance to have the student attend a full day of school due to his lack of toilet training, which could have been addressed by the IEP team as an individual need of the student.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD 340 failed to develop an IEP designed to meet the needs of the student in light of their disabilities.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) was found, based on facts above, including the failure to provide special education services in the general education classroom, speech language, and occupational therapy services as required by the student's IEP. Corrective action is required (as follows):

    a. CORRECTIVE ACTION:

        i. By January 13, 2025, USD #340 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2 which require that the district implement the student's IEP as soon as possible after it is developed.

        ii. By January 13, 2025, USD #340 shall calculate the number of minutes of services lost to the student and offer the parent compensatory education specifically directed toward assisting the student to achieve the student's IEP goals, to include no fewer than 2880 minutes special education services in general education settings (Figured at 57 days of school till November 13, 2024 minus 9 days of student absences during that period is 48 days @ 60 minutes daily), 40 minutes of speech language therapy, and 300 minutes of occupational therapy. The parents may accept all, some or none of the compensatory education offered by the district and must reply to the district with their decision no fewer than 15 business days following the date of the district's offer. Only at the parent's request and within 10 days of the date of the district's offer, the IEP team may meet to negotiate changes to the special education in general education minutes but not the speech language therapy or occupational therapy portions of the district's compensatory education offer.

iii. The district will provide PWN to the parents resulting from the parents' response to the compensatory education offer. The district shall submit the parent's request for the meeting to negotiate the special education in general education settings portion of the district's offer of compensatory education (if any), the parent's response to the offer of compensatory education, the PWN, and any notice of meeting, IEP team meeting notes or IEP amendments to SETS as evidence of the completion of this corrective action by February 10, 2024.

2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.156(a) was not found based on the facts above, including that the district provided adequate staff to provide student services. Corrective action is not required.

3. ISSUE THREE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a) and (b) was found based on the facts above, including the additional informal removals and separations of the student in addition the shortened school day required by the IEP, the unaddressed concern of the parent about student meltdowns and reluctance to enter school. Corrective action is required (as follows):

    a. CORRECTIVE ACTION:

        i. By January 13, 2025, USD #340 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will, subject to consent requirements, comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a) and (b) which require that the district develop and revise the student's IEP to address the strengths of the child, the concerns of the parents, the results of the child's evaluation, the academic and functional needs of the child, the use of positive behavior interventions and supports if the child's behavior impedes learning of self or others, the need for braille or the impact of limited English proficiency, the child's communication needs, and the need for assistive technology.

        ii. By January 13, 2025, USD #340 shall provide notice and convene the student's IEP team to consider each of the provisions of 34 C.F.R.

300.324(a) listed above and specifically the barriers to the student's full attendance at school including behavioral interventions, communication, and functional needs, including whether a functional behavioral assessment and behavior intervention plan is appropriate. The IEP team must discuss the length of the student's day and determine the appropriate services to ensure that the IEP addresses the student's needs.

iii. The district will provide PWN to the parents resulting from the parents' response to the compensatory education offer. The district shall submit the notice of meeting, IEP team meeting notes, any IEP amendments, and PWN to SETS as evidence of the completion of this corrective action by February 10, 2024.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 340
Jefferson West Public Schools: 25FC340-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on November 13, 2024, by -------, on behalf of his child, -------. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the complainant," and ------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on December 13, 2024. That Complaint Report concluded that there were violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint, the Complaint Report, and the district's notice of appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

From Complainant

The district appeals two issues:

Issue One

Did the district implement the student's IEP, specifically to provide special education, related services, attendant care, and placement as identified in the IEP?

In its appeal, the district states that the two missed speech language therapy services "do not rise to a level of substantive educational impact on the educational performance of the student" to require compensatory education.

The IEP for this student specified that speech services were to be provided for "20 minutes – three times per week (Report, p. 7)." The report described the delivery of this service as follows: "For the 12 weeks reported, the student received speech language services three times a week 5 times, two times a week 4 times (4 missed sessions) and one time a week 3 times (6 missed sessions). Student absences or no school days accounted for 8 of the 10 missed sessions."

In short, when the student was in school, he received all but two twenty-minute sessions over a twelve week period.

When asked about this very question, regarding the need to schedule make-up sessions when speech-language pathology sessions are missed due to a child's absence from school cancellation for a class or school activity, or absence of the speech language pathologist, the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) said that the:

> "IDEA and the regulations do not address these issues: States and local educational agencies (LEAs) are required to ensure that all children with disabilities have available to them FAPE (Free Appropriate Public Education), consistent with the child's individualized education program (IEP) (see 34 CFR ? 300.101). We encourage public agencies to consider the impact of a provider's absence or a child's absence on the child's progress and performance and determine how to ensure the continued provision of FAPE in order for the child to continue to progress and meet the annual goals in his or her IEP. Whether an interruption in services constitutes a denial of FAPE is an individual determination that must be made on a case-by-case basis." See Letter to Clarke, 48 IDELR 77, (OSEP 2007).
> *OSEP is the office within the United States Department of Education that writes and enforces the federal special education regulations.

Courts have ruled in a substantially similarly manner, saying that, "a party challenging the implementation of an IEP must show more than a de minimis failure to implement all elements of that IEP, and, instead, must demonstrate that the school board or other authorities failed to implement substantial or significant provisions of the IEP. This approach affords local agencies some flexibility in implementing IEP's, but it still holds those agencies accountable for material failures and for providing the disabled child a meaningful educational benefit (emphasis added). See, Houston Indep. Schl Dist. v. Bobby R, 200 F.3d 341, 31 IDELR 185 (5th Cir. 2000).

While the Appeal Committee does not minimize the importance of implementing an IEP as written, OSEP clarifies that perfection is not the legal standard. The Appeal Committee finds that speech language services for this student were in substantial conformance with this student's IEP, and there was no evidence in the report that the investigator made an individual determination that the failure to provide two twenty-minute speech sessions in a twelve week period (where the IEP specified three sessions per week) adversely impacted the student's educational progress or performance. Therefore, the Appeal Committee finds that the investigator's conclusion on this part of issue one should be overturned.

The district also appeals the finding and conclusion in Issue one that the district failed to provide Occupational Therapy (OT) in accordance with the IEP.

The IEP requires that OT be provided two times per week for twenty minutes per session (Report, p. 7). The investigator found that, OT "was provided one time a week for 10 of the 14 weeks reported. Student absences accounted for three missed sessions and staff unavailability for one missed session (Report, p. 9)."

Counting the session where staff were unavailable, 15 sessions were missed over the 14-week period. In its appeal the district submitted written documentation (COTA Daily Treatment & Goal Progress Monitoring log) confirming that in addition to the above services that were provided by the OT, the Certified Occupational Therapist Assistant (COTA) also provided OT services to the student on 8/23/24, 8/30/24, 9/624, 9/13/24, 9/20/24, 9/27/24, 10/9/24, 10/16/24, 10/23/24, 11/1/24, 11/8/24 and 11/22/24. The COTA provided these services with twelve sessions over the 14 week period. The student was absent for two sessions.

With this documented additional information, the Appeal Committee finds that the district substantially complied with the OT services component of the student's IEP.

For Issue 1, the Appeal Committee finds that the investigators conclusions that the district failed to implement the occupational therapy and speech therapy services in the student's IEP should be overturned. The remainder of the findings and conclusions regarding Issue 1 remain.

Issue Three

Did the district develop an IEP designed to meet the needs of the student in light of their disabilities?

Districts are required by law to provide a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE). FAPE has been defined by the United States Supreme Court to mean that schools must offer an IEP reasonably calculated to enable a child to make progress appropriate in light of the child's circumstances." See, Endrew F. v. Douglas County School District, 117 LRP 9767, 137 S.Ct. 988 (2017).

For the purpose of analyzing the school's FAPE requirement for this student the Appeal Committee notes that this student's circumstances are significant. The student "was rated as having the most significant cognitive limitations in every category of the Kansas Alternate Assessment (DLM) for Students with the Most Significant Disabilities (Report, p. 7)."

The investigator concluded that the district failed to provide a FAPE for this student (Report, p. 21)

In its appeal of this issue, the district describes this conclusion to be "Monday Morning Quarterbacking," and cites two U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals as authority, including, O'Toole v. Olathe USD 233, 144 F.3d 962, 28 IDELR 177 (10th Cir. 1998). As indicated above, the O'Toole v. Olathe case is a Tenth Circuit case, and its rulings are binding in Tenth Circuit states, such as Kansas.

In O'Toole, the 10th Circuit said:

> "...if we are evaluating an IEP prospectively only, we agree with the Third Circuit...that the measure and adequacy of an IEP can only be determined as of the time it is offered to the student, and not at some later date. . . . Neither the statute nor reason countenance 'Monday Morning Quarterbacking' in evaluating the appropriateness of a child's placement.' However, an IEP is a program, consisting of both the written IEP document, and the subsequent implementation of that document. While we evaluate the adequacy of the document from the perspective of the time it is written, the implementation of the program is an on-going, dynamic activity, which obviously must be evaluated as such. Thus, we do not hold that a school district can ignore the fact that an IEP is clearly failing... " (citations omitted and emphasis added with bold/underlined print)."

In the cited case, the Tenth Circuit is saying that courts should not "Monday Morning Quarterback" or otherwise use the benefit of hindsight to second guess the judgement of an IEP team, when the team makes reasonable decisions based on what the team knows at the time it develops the IEP. However, the court is also saying that the IEP teams work is not done when the IEP team meeting ends. The team must also track the student's expected progress. An IEP team cannot continue to idlily sit by when it becomes evident that a student is not progressing. Hence, when looking over an extended time, an investigator has a duty to distinguish between a reasonably developed IEP and a later unreasonable failure to address a failing IEP.

For this student, a shortened school day was included in both the 2/6/23 and 1/31/24 IEPs (Report p. 18). The students mother gave written consent for both IEPs (Report p. 2).

The report states that the district and the parent agreed that the student's behavior, including reluctance to attend school or activities within school, was a concern through the past 12 months, and that the IEP team determined the student would have a shortened school day to address the student's behavior such as meltdowns at school (Report p. 18).

The report included this comment:

> In its response to the complaint, the district acknowledged that no data were kept monitoring the student's absences from all or parts of school days or specific activities due to behavioral refusals or other indications of protest. The parent expressed concern about the student's reluctance to attend school and "meltdowns" at the IEP meeting on January 31, 2024, and these meltdowns were reported by both parties to be a continuing feature of the student's behavior at school. Both the parent and the school reported the use of informal removals (such as calling parent to pick up student, excusing student absences when the student refused to enter the building, or student refusal to follow his schedule at school) which were not systematically tracked by either party.

Noticeably missing from the report is reference to data/information occurring after development of the January 31, 2024 IEP. The few references are:

April 25, 2024 – IEP amended to include Extended School Year (ESY) services (p. 7)
August 13, 2024 – IEP Amendment – to review criteria to qualify for alternate Assessment (p. 7)
August 16, 2024 – Service times changed according to January 31, 2024 IEP (p.8)
March 2024 – Reported on only one goal (goal 6): Adequate progress (p. 9)
May 2024 – Progress reports for all 7 goals: Adequate progress (p. 9), including engaging with peers in parallel play (p. 20)
November 12, 2024 – Parents reported an undisclosed injury to the student at school, after which parents withheld student from school for 5 days (p. 19-20)

None of these references (with the possible exception of the November 12, 2024 injury) indicate a lack of appropriate progress for this student since his January 31, 2024 IEP was initiated. Further, the report added:

> It is noted that the IEP team determined the shortened school day and the mother participated in the development of both IEPs that required the shortened school day, and that the father relayed the parents' concern regarding the student's tolerance for a full day of school. It is noted that, although no IEP team meeting has been held following the November 12, 2024, incident, the school district has attempted to address the parent's concerns and that the parent has reported improved communication regarding the student's educational program from the school.

However, the investigator concluded that the IEP was insufficient because it "did not address the student's behavior through a goal, service, assessment, or intervention plan included in the student's IEP."

In its appeal, the district states that the student's diagnosis of autism and his demonstrated needs are addressed through materials and strategies that are in the student's IEP goals and in accommodations in the IEP. That is, his entire program is based on the structured teaching model designed for students with autism and for these reasons the IEP team did not feel that it was necessary to add an additional behavior plan as all behavioral needs were being addressed within a structured teaching program which included: the LAMP app on his iPad to access "his voice," a visual schedule in all settings, a visual timer during transitions throughout the school day, sensory breaks scheduled before instruction time and whenever he needs a break throughout the day, and sensory needs met before instruction time (a proactive strategy to ensure that he has the best chance possible to tolerate non preferred tasks).

In the conclusion portion of the report on this issue, the investigator said: "the students IEP team used a shortened school day as a solution to the student's unique behavior at school described by the parent as meltdowns." The Appeal Committee disagrees with this description.

While a behavior intervention plan (BIP) targeting specific behaviors might be advisable in this situation, the law does not require that the district's strategies for addressing behaviors include developing a BIP. A BIP is required by law in the single situation where a student has been suspended and relevant members of the student's IEP team determine that the student's conduct was a manifestation of the student's disability (34 C.F.R. 300.530(f)(1)). That situation did not arise with this student.

The Appeal Committee finds that, during the time period for this complaint, the evidence supports the following: (1) the parents and other members of the IEP team fully participated in the development of both of this student's IEPs; (2) the parents agreed and gave consent for each of the IEPs, including the provision for a shortened school day; (3) the student's IEPs included strategies to address the student's behavior; (4) the student's progress reports indicated the student is making adequate progress, and (5) the district was gradually increasing the student's time at school (Report p. 18).

Conclusion

With these findings on Issue 1, the Appeal Committee concludes that both Speech and Occupational Therapy services were substantially provided in accordance with this student's IEP and, on Issue 3 the district, in cooperation with the parents, developed an IEP that was reasonably calculated to meet the needs of this student in light of his significant disabilities.

The Appeal Committee further concludes that the Corrective action in the report for Issue 1 is amended to remove the requirement to calculate and provide 40 minutes of speech language therapy and 300 minutes of occupational therapy. The remainder of the corrective action on Issue 1 remains in force.

Corrective action for Issue 3 in the report is removed in its entirety.

Nothing in this decision should be construed to limit any future review of this student's IEP by his IEP team. The IEP team has a continuing responsibility to afford this student's parents the right to participate in the decision making process and to make a FAPE available to this student.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 16th day of January, 2025.

18. De-escalation procedures dated November 1, no year
19. Interval Data Summary dated November 7, 2022 through November 12, 2024

Background Information

This investigation involved a fourth-grade student enrolled at an elementary school in the District. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a Specific Learning Disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). Records indicate the Student also has a diagnosis of Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). The Student has had an IEP since second grade and a regulated medication regime for ADHD since third grade. The Student splits their time between their Parents' homes.

Findings of the Investigation

1. Student de-escalation procedures updated on November 1 [2022-2023], outlined who to contact for assistance: the Special Education Teacher, the Principal or Assistant Principal, the Caseworker or Therapist, and then the Parent. (D151, Principal Interview, P1-P2, 02:12)
2. A December 7, 2023 "Reevaluation Team Report" indicated that the Student underwent an evaluation, and it was determined that the Student "struggles with a learning disability in the areas of math, reading, and written expression, and [the Student] continues to need special education services … ." The report included academic and behavioral assessment data, observation information, and input from parents, teachers, and other relevant school staff. A December 7, 2023 eligibility statement supported these findings. (D102-108, D120-121)
3. A December 7, 2023 District request for special transportation documented a need based on behavior information from the 2022-23 school year. (D100-D101)
4. A December 7, 2023 "Conference Record" documented an IEP annual review meeting on the same date. It was noted that a Functional Behavior Assessment (FBA) was in process, reading and math goals would be added to the IEP, the Parent requested support for field trips, and there was an increase in the Student's ability to focus following a medication change. (D93-D94)
5. A December 7, 2023 PWN indicated that services were determined as 270 minutes daily in the resource room, 180 minutes daily of inclusion support with a paraprofessional, and 45 minutes daily of special transportation. It was also noted that the Student would be served under the primary identification of "learning disability." (D95-D98)
6. A "Functional Behavior Assessment Report" dated January 5, 2023 indicated the assessment was conducted by the Special Education Teacher and the Behavior Specialist (signed January 11, 2024). During an interview with the Director of Special Education, it was determined that the date of the report should have been 2024 instead of 2023. The report included the following relevant information:
    a. Background and purpose of the assessment:
        i. The Student transitioned to an alternative learning environment in first and second grade and had spent the majority of their school days in a special education setting.
        ii. The Student's parents were separated and shared custody. The Student also spent time with a babysitter after school and sometimes before school.
    b. Student strengths:
        i. Intelligence assessment scores in the normal range;
        ii. Kind, creative, friendly, helpful, with a great imagination;
        iii. Performed well with a schedule; and

iv. Performed well with math, but it could be a trigger.

c. Student deficits:

i. Could escalate quickly when they did not want to do something;

ii. Was lagging behind academically;

iii. Could become angry quickly;

iv. Low tolerance for nonpreferred activities;

v. Hard time being around peers for extended time periods; and

vi. Was determined to have a learning disability at a three-year reevaluation.

d. Setting events:

i. Changes in medication, home environments, schools, staff; and

ii. Lack of ability to express themselves around other people.

e. Antecedents/triggers, precursors/signal behaviors, escalation process, challenging behaviors, and interventions in place (as listed in the IEP below).

f. Considerations:

i. Team approach;

ii. Consistent communication;

iii. IEP accommodations;

iv. Calm and consistent staff;

v. Distracting the Student;

vi. Debriefing with the Student and staff; and

vii. A Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP). (D48-D54; Director of Special Education Interview, P5, 15:09)

7. A BIP, no date, included all of the information from the FBA plus proactive strategies for addressing the target behaviors, implementation steps, de-escalation strategies, and an "If…Then…" chart. (D86-D92)

8. A PWN, a "Conference Record" with notes, and an "IEP Amendment" document dated January 11, 2024, indicated that the IEP Team had reviewed the FBA, including the Student's triggers and target behaviors. It also noted reviewing the strategies and interventions in the BIP and adding field trip support to the IEP accommodations. It was also noted that the Student "did well on [their] field trip to the movies." (D61-D67)

9. Two IEP cover pages with the same amendment date of January 11, 2024, indicated different signatures and signature dates.

a. One was dated January 11, 2024 and was signed by the Parent, the Math/Science teacher, the 3rd Grade Reading Teacher, the Behavior Specialist, the Principal, and the Special Education Teacher.

b. Another was dated January 17, 2024 and was signed by the Mental Health Case Manager, the School Psychologist, the Father, the Parent, the Classroom Teacher, the Assistant Principal, the Principal, and the Paraprofessional. (D28-D31)

10. A January 17, 2024 "Manifestation Determination Review" listed the following relevant information:

a. A summary of the Student's behavior on January 12, 2024 including tipping desks over, knocking things off other desks, knocking down room dividers, picking up and swinging a dowel rod, and running out of the room. It was noted that the Student's stepfather came to pick them up and they cleaned up the room before leaving the school.

b. A summary of the Student's IEP information.

c. Regular Education/Homeroom Teacher observation information that noted the Student's schedule (only in regular education classroom at the beginning of the day, and then specials and lunch) and refusal to participate in nonpreferred tasks. It was also stated that the Student was reading at a kindergarten level.

d. A summary of information provided by the Parent regarding the Student's behavior at each home.

e. A list of the Student's medications.

f. A list of dates with noted behaviors:

i. January 3, 2024: threw things in class and kicked the teacher's desk;

ii. January 8, 2024: eloped from specials;

iii. January 9, 2024: eloped from the resource room; and

iv. January 10, 2024: eloped from music.

g. Two statements marked "NO:"

i. "Was the conduct in question caused by or have a direct and substantial relationship to the child's disability?"

ii. "Was the conduct in question a direct result of the school's failure to implement the IEP?"

h. Determination: The Team determined that the behavior was not a manifestation of the disability, and disciplinary removal could occur. However, the District had to continue providing the Student with a free appropriate public education (FAPE). It was also noted that the School would conduct an FBA and develop a BIP.

i. Signatures from the IEP Team. (D57-D59)

11. An "IEP Amendment Between Annual IEP Meetings" document (no date) described a proposed change of "[R]educing/increasing minutes from resource room and general education classroom. Switching PE and music to music then PE with another classroom. Everything else will stay the same and we will meet again in about a month." The Parent and the Principal signed it on January 17, 2024. (D43)

12. A PWN dated January 17, 2024 and signed by the Parent on the same date stated, "[The Student] will receive 270 minutes of daily resource room time and 180 minutes of daily inclusion para[professional] support. [They] will receive special education transportation 45 minutes per day. All services will be 5 days per week for the duration of the IEP. [The Student] will be served under the primary identification of learning disability. Breaching the gap in [their] learning on [their] level going back to the basics. Changing minutes to resource room and general education classroom. Switching [physical education] PE and music were [sic] [the Student] goes to music first then PE." (D44-D47)

13. A "Conference Record" dated January 17, 2024 included notes from a meeting with both of the Parents and stated that the Student preferred the resource room to the classroom, had one-to-one support when working on grade-level tasks, demonstrated more behaviors in the morning, had paraprofessional support during specials, and was going to switch when they went to PE and music. (D56, D60)

14. An "IEP Amendment Between Annual IEP Meetings" document (no date) stated proposed changes of adding Extended School Year (ESY) services to the Student's IEP to help the Student from "falling further behind in academics" due to the Student "regressing during the summer and to give [them] the support [they need] during ESY." It indicated the change was proposed via phone call to the Parents. The document was signed on May 14, 2024 by the Parent and the Principal. (D20)

    A May 7, 2024 PWN documented this change to the IEP and was signed by the [Parent] on May 9, 2024. (D21-D24)

15. An IEP with an amendment date of May 7, 2024 and an "annual initiation" date of December 7, 2023, indicated:

    a. "Social and Emotional: "[The Student's] behavior impedes the learning of self or others. [The Student] requires a Behavior Intervention Plan."

    b. Present level statement: "[The Student] has met [their] IEP goal from last year: using appropriate responses at least 25% of each day. [The Student] exhibits appropriate behaviors throughout the school day when at baseline and [they] often [want] to demonstrate for others what appropriate behaviors look like. [The Student] exhibits appropriate abilities to listen, attend to tasks, and follow through with assignments and/or task completion when at baseline. [The Student's] ability to maintain a safe body (no displays of physical aggression) has increased and [the Student] has a safe body between 90-100% of the day and has throughout November and December ... ."

c. Concerns included the Student's display of the following behaviors at school:

   i. Physical aggression: "hitting, kicking, punching, grabbing, forceful pushing, biting, scratching, pulling hair and slapping."

   ii. Property destruction: "throwing items, pushing dividers over, altering items from their original state."

   iii. Verbal aggression: "screaming, cussing, and calling others names, whining, screaming, yelling."

   iv. Eloping: "running away from staff and not stopping when directed to wait, running around the hallways in the school, and running out or attempting to run out of the school building."

   v. Refusal: "moving away from the desk, saying, 'I am not going to do this,' running from the work area to another area in the room, and/or not completing a task/activity after 2 minutes with multiple prompts."

   vi. "After the most recent data collection, given interactions with peers and staff, [the Student] is able to appropriately respond to a situation with 3-5 adult prompts across staff, settings, and subjects with an average of of [sic] 60% of the time across 5 data days."

d. Area of need: "[The Student] struggles with a learning disability in the areas of social-emotional skills and [their] adaptive behavior which greatly impacts [their] educational day and other students around [them] to the point that it is difficult for [them] and others in class to learn. [The Student's] behaviors are aggressive and impulsive, and they can escalate quickly. This need will be met by goal(s) and accommodations or modifications."

e. Goals for social-emotional (appropriate requests), reading (sight words), and math (multiplication facts). Discrepancies in the reading and math goal sections were noted during this investigation. Both areas stated that [the Student] did not need specially designed instruction in the area and could access the general education curriculum with general education interventions and supports. However, both areas also indicated strengths and concerns and included baseline data and "area of need" statements with correlating goals.

f. "Academic/Functional Performance: The Team has no concerns about [the Student] in the area of Academic/Functional Performance at this time."

g. Accommodations for "social-emotional, reading, and math" for general and special education settings with a start date of December 7, 2023 and an end date of December 6, 2024:

   i. "[The Student] will utilize breaks throughout the day, upon appropriate request or after task completion, [for] 3-5 minutes."

ii. "[The Student] will utilize manipulatives for both math … and spelling … assignments, for the duration of the assignment." The end date was written as December 7, 2023.

iii. "[The Student] will receive assignments, broken down into smaller steps … Staff may also read the work to [the Student] upon [their] request or have [the Student] complete an answer and then have the staff complete an answer, [for] all assignments, through the completion of the assignment."

iv. "[The Student] will be provided a choice of [two]. 'Do you want to do this or this first?' 'Are you going to write fast or slow' etc., when [the Student] has difficulty getting started on an assignment, [for] 3-15 minutes."

v. "[The Student] will be given a movement break to aid with focus in the general education setting and during transition times or in between learning tasks, until [they are] able to withstand longer amounts of time with focus without excessive movement. [The Student] will also have access to sensory items such as a pop it, theraputty, or moon sand, etc., upon appropriate request, during transition out of the classroom, between learning tasks, or when [the Student] needs to decompress, [for] 3-15 minutes." The end date was written as December 7, 2023.

vi. "Prompt [the Student] to do things or answer questions that [they] [know] the answer to when [the Student] is displaying challenging behaviors (touch your head, touch your nose, 1+1=2, 2+2=4, etc.) You may need to model or complete them first and then [the Student] typically will start to answer … You can also prompt [the Student] to take slow breaths. Talk about something that is not related to what [the Student] is saying when [they] [are] upset; When [the Student] is displaying a challenging behavior, [for] 3-5 minutes."

vii. "[The Student] will be seated in an area that is considered [theirs] and an environmental position that will allow [them] to be successful, [for] all seated activities, through the duration of seated activities."

viii. "If [the Student] says that [they want] to lay down to sleep, allow [them] to do that in [their] area. If [they] are restless, it helps to have a staff member sit next to [them] and rub [their] back; Upon request to lay down until [the Student] is rested."

ix. "[The Student] requires special transportation as there are delays in [their] self-expression and social skills, daily for 45 minutes."

h. "Supports for school personnel" in the areas of "social-emotional, reading, and math" in the general and special education settings with a start date of December 7, 2023 and an end date of December 6, 2024:

i. "Staff will seat themselves positioned between [the Student] and the nearest exit so that if [the Student] attempts to run out of the immediate area, staff are with him, during all seated activities, through the completion of the assignment."

ii. "If [the Student] is physically aggressive or throwing items, staff will move items out of [their] immediate area/reach, when [the Student] becomes physically aggressive or is throwing items, until [they are] no longer physically aggressive."

i. A social-emotional accommodation was added with a start date of January 11, 2024 and an end date of December 6, 2024. It stated, "[The Student] requires support staff for field trips as there are delays in [their] self-expression and social skills, [for] all field trips outside of school with [the] class, for the entire duration of the field trip."

j. A description of the Student's behavior plan was included within this IEP document. It noted the following:

i. Student's strengths and motivators

ii. Behaviors of concern (as listed previously)

iii. Possible triggers for the behavior (academic and nonpreferred tasks, loud noises or environments, transitions, the beginning of the day or of a task, lunchtime, recess, and being woken from a nap)

iv. Hypothesis/reasons for the behaviors (escape demands, avoid specific adults, get tangibles, escape environment, communicate wants/needs, avoid other students, gain attention or control)

v. Strategies (provide choices, redirect/distract, use rewards, identify and review clear expectations, sensory break, visual cues, academic accommodations)

vi. Other strategies (mental health services, access to food, staff support, alternative learning environments, choices of where to go, modifying tasks, shortening tasks, choice of assignments, break space, work toward preferred items, work/break system, movement breaks)

vii. Three targeted behaviors:

1. Physical aggression;
2. Eloping; and
3. Refusal.

viii. A crisis management plan that included:

1. Signs of escalating behavior;
2. Signs of crisis; and
3. Implementation steps/de-escalation strategies.

k. A statement regarding the regular education environment read, "[The Student] will receive a total of 270 minutes of specialized instruction in the resource room for all [their] academics, 5 days per week and will receive 180 minutes of inclusion para[professional] support 5 days per week. This includes 45 minutes for transportation 5 days per week. All services will be for the duration of the IEP. The IEP team has determined that for the student to have opportunities to participate with non-identified peers in extracurricular and nonacademic activities, regularly scheduled special education and related services may not occur when their delivery would prevent the child from participating in field trips, assemblies, special events for the general education classroom or school, state or district-wide assessments and other such activities."

l. Extended school year: "The IEP team has enough information to determine that [the Student] does require extended school term services."

m. Parental concerns: "Parents expressed concerns that [the Student] has missed out on a lot of time with non-identified peers. They both expressed that [the Student] wants to be back in [their] classroom as well. A reintegration plan has been formulated so that [the Student] can spend more time with [their] non-identified peers."

n. Service summary:

    i. For the year 2024, with start dates of December 7, 2023, and end dates of May 16, 2024:

        1. Special education direct service outside the regular education classroom, "addressing deficits in the area of social[-]emotional support, 2024 minutes, 5 days per week." This was discrepant from another section of the same IEP that stated the same service for 270 minutes, 5 days per week.

        2. Special education direct service in the regular education classroom as "in[-]class support for social[-]emotional support, 180 minutes, 5 days per week."

        3. Special education transportation, "extracurricular, 2024 minutes, 5 days per week." This service was also listed as "45 minutes, 5 days per week" with a start date of August 16, 2024 and an end date of May 10, 2024.

    ii. For the year 2025, with start dates of August 16, 2024, and end dates of May 30, 2025:

        1. Special education direct service outside the regular classroom, "addressing deficits in the area of social[-] emotional support, reading, and math, 2025 minutes, 5 days per week." This was listed on previous versions of the IEP as "270 minutes, 5 days per week."

2. Special education direct service in the regular classroom as "in[-]class support for social[-]emotional support, reading, and math, 180 minutes, 5 days per week. (D6-D19, D41, D86-D92)

16. An "Interval Data Summary" ending May 15, 2024 indicated behavior data collected from August 28, 2023 through May 15, 2024 at regular intervals. Data on physical aggression, property destruction, verbal aggression, eloping, refusal, on-task behavior, appropriate refusals, and appropriate requests was collected. Overall, daily percentages of physical aggression showed a decrease in occurrence. Eloping showed an inconsistent pattern of decreasing and increasing. Refusal showed an increase in occurrence with several spikes on certain days. (D154)

17. A "Student Progress Report" for the 2024-25 school year indicated three goal areas and corresponding progress. Relevant information included:

    a. "Social-Emotional Goals: Appropriate Requests - by the end of the IEP year (December 2024, given interactions with peers and staff, [the Student] will be able to appropriately respond to a situation (appropriate request and safe body) with 3-5 adult prompts across staff, settings, and subjects with an average of of [sic] 85% of the time across 5 data days."

        i. Baseline behaviors included physical aggression, property destruction, verbal aggression, eloping, and refusal.

        ii. Progress updates:

            1. January 12, 2024: average of 30% of the time;

            2. March 22, 2024: average of 50% of the time;

            3. May 1, 2024: average of 40% of the time; and

            4. October 21, 2024: average of 65% of the time.

    b. Two additional goals in reading (sight words) and math (multiplication facts) were reported with progress. As of October 21, 2024, neither goal had been met. (D1-D3)

18. An "Interval Data Summary" ending November 12, 2024 indicated behavior data collected from August 20, 2024 through November 12, 2024 at regular intervals. Data on physical aggression, property destruction, verbal aggression, eloping, refusal, on-task behavior, appropriate refusals, and appropriate requests was collected. The data shows increases and decreases in occurrence but no significant decrease in targeted behaviors over time or significant increase in positive behaviors. (D156)

19. During interviews with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent stated they believed the Student was prevented from attending two field trips last school year and two field trips during the current school year. The Parent also noted that the School would often tell the Student that if they did not improve their behavior, they would not be allowed to attend whatever field trip was coming up, regardless of how close or far away the trip date was. Then, if the Student perceived they had corrected their behavior, the field trip was still taken away. The Student's Parent added that when they asked the school why the field trip was taken away, the answer was just that the Student lost the opportunity (with no specific details) or that the School didn't have enough support staff for the Student to attend "even though it is mandated in [the Student's] IEP." The Parent confirmed they'd been verbally told more than once by the Principal, usually the day before or the day of a field trip, that there wasn't enough support staff for the Student to attend. (Parent Interview, P1-P2, 02:54)

To the Parent's knowledge, there were no incidents of the Student eloping from campus last school year or the current school year. Additionally, they understood that the Student had attended one field trip last school year, and the School had given a positive report. "They said [the Student] behaved really well. [The Student] did really great, and [they] enjoyed it." (Parent Interview, P3, 06:19)

20. During interviews with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal stated that the Student had not attended three field trips with their class last school year and two this school year. They also said that other students did not attend this year's field trips due to similar behavior as the Student's and for other behaviors such as classroom outbursts, physical aggression, and not following directions. (Principal Interview, P2, 04:26; P4, 07:25)

    When asked for the reasons for the Student's non-attendance on the field trips last school year, the Principal responded, "Elopement out of the classroom, not following directions, and violent responses to being asked to do unwanted tasks." The reasons for non-attendance of the current school year's field trips were "[e]lopement and violence. Again, when being asked to not do the task. Also, not following teacher directives. If a teacher were to say, 'Go down this hallway, go to this room,' [the Student] does not follow directions like that." (Principal Interview, P3, 04:56)

    The Principal stated that parents have generally been offered to accompany their students on field trips if the students' school behavior warranted it. They described accommodating the Student for the one attended field trip last school year by sending a paraprofessional to provide one-to-one support. They said [the Student's] behavior near the trip date had been better and that the field trip day "was a struggle, but [the Student] was able to mostly make it through." The Principal elaborated that the Student had difficulty sitting and listening during the trip and needed to be up and moving around, so the paraprofessional walked around with them. The Director of Special Education added that per the Student's IEP accommodation of field trip support staff, someone would have been available to attend other field trips with the Student. They said, "We had adequate staff if [the Student's] status would've been, made [them] eligible to go, yes." (Principal Interview, P5, 09:06; P4, 08:49)

    The Director of Special Education also indicated that after missing the second field trip this year, the Student was offered an opportunity to "re-earn an equal opportunity for a field trip" but that the Student's behavior was "very volatile during that timeframe and it did not happen because of that." They explained that the trip would not have been with the Student's peers but that the staff would have taken the Student to do "something of equal, extra curriculum … ." (Director of Special Education Interview, P6, 16:16)

The Principal further explained that their greatest concern is safety for all the students, especially given that the two field trips this year were out of town. They said, "And outbursts of violence are less, but they're still there. … When [the Student] does have outbursts, they're significant. When [the Student] elopes and [they're] mad, there's [sic] some times that you cannot reason or calm [the Student] down in a decent amount of time that would keep [them] safe and others safe. And I think these are things that we have to be aware of for a student, and in the end, [the Student's] safety is my responsibility, and can I send a child somewhere and know that they're going to be able to be safe and follow directions. The reality is I do not feel like [the Student's] behavior this year or last year warranted [them] going and being safe. When it did, I did give [them] the field trip and [they] can for the rest of the year, if [their] behavior is better, can also go on field trips. And again, we will accommodate and provide all the support that [the Student] needs to go." (Principal Interview, P3, 05:49; P5, 10:04)

Additional Findings

During this investigation, several discrepancies or errors were found within the IEP paperwork and provided documents. The Complaint Investigator attempted to clarify these via interviews with District staff. However, the Special Education Teacher was new and did not participate in developing any of the provided documents, so could not speak about them. The Director of Special Education did not have the Student's file with them during the interview, so attempted to clarify based on memory. The Director of Special Education indicated that some errors may have been due to a change in the IEP computer software system and a need for staff training. When asked to clarify the discrepancies in the present levels and functional performance statements, the Director of Special Education said they would need to get clarification from the IEP Team. They also added, "Every meeting I've attended, it hasn't been about ability. It's been about the interfering behaviors." (Director of Special Education Interview, P2, 05:11)

The following discrepancies or errors were noted:

1. The most recent IEP with an amendment date of May 7, 2024 indicated:
    a. The Student did not need specially designed instruction for reading or math and could access the general education curriculum. However, both areas had concerns, areas of need, and goal statements.
    b. "The Team has no concerns about [the Student] in the area of Academic/Functional Performance at this time." However, numerous concerns about academics or functional performance were indicated.

c. Listed service times for "direct service outside of the regular education classroom" and specialized transportation were input as 2024 and 2025 minutes.

d. Listed end dates for some accommodations were input as December 7, 2023 instead of December 6, 2024. (D6-D19)

2. A January 17, 2024 PWN indicated a change in service minutes, but no aligned changes were documented on the IEP for that date. (D44-D47)

3. Meeting notes from December 7, 2023 indicated the Parent had requested support for field trips, but the accommodation was not added and documented until January 11, 2024 (D65, D94)

4. The FBA report listed a date of January 5, 2023, but it was confirmed that it should have been January 5, 2024. (D48-D54; Director of Special Education Interview, P5, 15:09)

5. A BIP was provided that was not dated. It was unclear when it was written. Interviews indicated it would have been from January 2024, but then it was mentioned that other associated documents had come from previous years at a different school. (D86-D92)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

According to 34 CFR §300.320 and K.S.A. 72-3429(d), the IEP team must consider student strengths and needs, parental concerns, evaluation results, and language or communication needs when developing an IEP. Additionally, K.A.R. 91-40-18 indicates that if an IEP team determines that a child needs behavioral interventions, strategies, accommodations, or modifications, those must also be included in the IEP.

The Parent alleged that the Student was struggling and lacked the resources necessary to succeed. The Parent claimed the Student had been frequently excluded from field trips over multiple years due to their behavior. To address this, the Parent ensured the Student's IEP included an accommodation requiring support staff on field trips. However, despite having an IEP since second grade, the Student had only attended one field trip in their five years of schooling.

According to District records, an IEP had been developed and was in place for the Student. It had also been amended twice based on the Parent's input and behavior data including an FBA.

A reevaluation report from December 7, 2023 indicated that academic and behavioral assessments and observations had been completed, and this information was combined with input from school staff and the Parent to determine eligibility and develop an IEP. The IEP outlined baseline data and goals for reading, math, and social-emotional areas. It listed specific behavior concerns, including physical and verbal aggression, property destruction, elopement, and refusal. It also included pull-out and push-in services and accommodations for academic and social-emotional support and special transportation. An FBA was also completed in January 2024, resulting in a team-developed BIP that included proactive strategies for addressing target behaviors, implementation steps, and de-escalation procedures. The IEP was amended in January 2024 based on information from the FBA and BIP. Field trip support was added as an accommodation at this time. Following a Manifestation Determination Review in January 2024, the IEP Team decided to switch the order of specials in the Student's schedule to help improve behavior. In May 2024, the IEP was amended again, and Extended School Year services were added to help maintain academic support for the Student over the summer. An IEP Progress Report indicated progress and regression toward the social-emotional goal from January 2024 through October 2024. The Student ultimately made progress from their baseline score but did not meet the criteria set for accomplishing the goal.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the district failed to develop an IEP with the necessary special education and related services needed for the Student to make adequate progress. District records indicated that all areas of concern were evaluated and then considered in developing the IEP, FBA, and BIP. Multiple meetings were held during the year to address behavior information and input from the Parent and to amend the IEP accordingly.

Issue Two

USD #234, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the Student's IEP accommodation of providing "support staff on field trips." K.S.A. 72-3429(a)(1)

According to 34 CFR §300.320 and K.S.A. 72-3429(a)(1), an IEP must be in effect at the beginning of each school year.

The Parent alleged the District failed to provide support staff for field trips. According to the Parents, the Student was often excluded from field trips due to their behavior and lack of staffing. This occurred again on November 5th, when the Student was not allowed to attend a field trip with their class due to behavior. The Parent expressed concern that the Student's behavioral issues stemmed from missing this field trip. They felt the Student was still struggling despite having supports in place, including appropriate medication and the IEP accommodation intended to ensure field trip participation with support.

The District responded via interviews that the Student's school behavior did not warrant participation in field trips, but if it had, there were support staff available to accompany the Student, or Parent accompaniment would have been considered. The District indicated that the Student had been given an opportunity to earn a substitute field trip this year but had displayed volatile behavior, and therefore, that field trip did not happen. The District claimed that their decision to prevent the Student from attending field trips was based on significant safety concerns for the Student and other students.

The IEP accommodations stated that the Student required support staff for all field trips outside of school with their class for the entire field trip. However, it did not list specific field trips or state that Student attendance was required for all scheduled field trips. The District stated that the Student was afforded similar opportunities to attend field trips as other students and that support staff was available to accompany the Student if they had "earned" the field trips. They also stated that when the Student had displayed appropriate behavior, they attended a field trip with paraprofessional support as indicated by the IEP accommodation. According to information obtained through interviews with the District and the Parent, the Student was not the only one excluded from attending field trips due to behavior or safety concerns. The Parent and the District gave discrepant information regarding the availability of support staff to fulfill the IEP accommodation regarding field trips. No other written or recorded documentation was provided to corroborate either stance. The IEP, as written, did not require the District to ensure the Student's attendance for class field trips or specify criteria for determining whether or not the Student was permitted to attend a field trip. It only indicated that support was required when the Student did attend a field trip.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.320 and K.A.R. 91-40-18 specify that an IEP must be developed, reviewed, and revised in a meeting and include certain components, including a statement of the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance, the projected dates and anticipated frequency, location, and duration of services and modifications, and any necessary behavior interventions or supports.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 234 did not develop an IEP that accurately reflects the Student's present academic and functional performance levels or includes accurate dates and frequencies for all services, accommodations, and behavior interventions.

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #234 shall review and revise the IEP and associated documents listed in this report, correct errors, and submit updated paperwork to the Parent and KSDE Special Education and Title Services (SETS).

2. No later than May 16, 2025, USD #234 will train all staff responsible for writing IEPs and related documentation on the requirements for the content of IEPs and PWNs and the steps for reviewing, revising, and ensuring accuracy. USD #234 will provide SETS with a copy of the sign-in sheet documenting who received this training as well as the name and credentials of the person who provided the training. In addition, USD #234 will provide SETS with any handouts and/or a copy of the presentation.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is an 11 year old girl enrolled in the 6th grade at the sixth grade building during the 2024-2025 school year. She lives with her mother and younger siblings, one of whom receives special education services at the elementary school and the other an infant who has had serious health challenges since birth.

According to the most current evaluation narrative dated March 21, 2024, the student achieved her developmental milestones and did not participate in early intervention services. Prior to enrollment in the sixth grade building, she attended pre kindergarten through 4th grade in a nearby district and entered 5th grade at an elementary school in the current district.

According to the most recent evaluation conducted in the spring of 2024, the student's qualifying exceptionality is a specific learning disability in math and she also qualifies for social work services. Additionally, the student was hospitalized November 21-24, 2024 for threats of self harm following an altercation at school with her grandfather. While in the hospital the student was diagnosed with Major Depressive Disorder (MDD), recurrent episode, moderate (HCC), anxiety, suicidal ideation, grief, trauma and stressor-related disorder, attention deficit, and aggressive behavior.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, two issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

Did USD #202 conduct a complete, comprehensive Functional Behavioral Assessment to develop the student's Behavior Intervention Plan during the last 12 months?

Applicable Law

K.A.R. 91-40-8. Evaluations. (c) As a part of an initial evaluation, if appropriate, and as a part of any reevaluation, each agency shall ensure that members of an appropriate IEP team for the child and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, comply with the following requirements: (1) The evaluation team shall review existing evaluation data on the child, including the following information: (A) Evaluations and information provided by the parent of the child; (B) current classroom-based, local, and state assessments and classroom-based observations; and (C) observations by teachers and related services providers.

K.A.R. 91-40-9. Evaluation procedures, (a)(3) A variety of assessment tools and strategies shall be used to gather relevant functional and developmental information about the child, including information provided by the parent, (5) If an assessment is not conducted under standard conditions, a description of the extent to which the assessment varied from standard conditions shall be included in the evaluation report.

A district must ensure the child is observed in the child's learning environment (including the regular education classroom setting) to document the child's academic performance and behavior in the areas of difficulty (K.A.R. 91-40-11(c); 34 C.F.R. 300.310).

Parent Position

The advocate and parent report that USD #202 did not complete a comprehensive FBA as requested on November 28, 2023, in order to develop a BIP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

1. According to district records, the student was involved in a serious physical altercation on the bus with another student, November 17, 2023 resulting in a Due Process Hearing on November 27, 2023 and out-of-school suspension (OSS) from her elementary school for the remainder of the first semester and from district transportation for the remainder of the school year. Beginning the second semester, the student was assigned to a new placement, the district's sixth grade building where the student would be in a general education In-School Suspension (ISS) room for a shortened day until reevaluated at conferences and if doing well, return to her elementary school prior to 4th quarter.
2. Emails shared by the advocate note that on November 28, 2023 she sent the coordinator an email requesting a special education evaluation, including a FBA. District records reflect that on November 30, 2024 the coordinator responded to the advocate requesting that the mother complete a release of information (ROI) to communicate and share information regarding the student. The coordinator also acknowledged the request for an initial evaluation, sharing that a request must be made by a parent or guardian in writing or verbally and that she would be happy to speak with the mother.
3. The advocate provided a copy of an email from special education coordinator to advocate confirming the request for an expedited evaluation dated December 5, 2023.
4. Advocate provided a copy of an email sent to the coordinator on December 5, 2023 stating that the mother finds the district communication related to the student's needs difficult to understand. The email also shares concern that the student is failing two classes with written documentation of educational interventions currently being used as well as given access to a calm down area and yet the child has not yet been identified through Child Find by the district. The email also restates the need for an expedited evaluation due to the student's current OSS placement.

5. The district response notes that on December 6, 2023, the director and coordinator went to the student's home to attempt to speak with the parent and obtain PWN to begin an initial evaluation. There was no response from the parent. On the same date, the advocate emailed to request that the PWN be sent home in the sibling's backpack.
6. The advocate provided a copy of an email from the coordinator on December 6, 2023 to the advocate and mother to get the PWN for evaluation signed. The email was sent to an outdated address for the mother.
7. The advocate provided a copy of an email from the coordinator on December 7, 2023 that the PWN and Parent Rights would be sent the following day in the sibling's backpack.
8. The district response stated that on December 8, 2023, the Parent Rights and PWN for an initial evaluation were sent home in the sibling's backpack as requested.
9. The advocate provided a copy of an email from the advocate to the coordinator with an attached photo of the signed PWN dated December 12, 2023.
10. The advocate provided a copy of an email dated December 13, 2023 from the coordinator to the mother and advocate that there was missing information in the PWN and that she will send it back home in the sibling's backpack. This email was sent to an outdated address for the mother.
11. The district response states that the PWN signed by the parent was received by the district on December 14, 2023.
12. The district response shares that the team initiated the evaluation with a record review of existing data on December 18, 2023.
13. The advocate shared an email dated December 19, 2023 from the coordinator to the mother requesting any additional information related to a diagnosis of anxiety, depression or trauma. This email was sent to an old email for the mother.
14. The advocate shared an email dated December 20, 2023 sent to the coordinator listing the student's current diagnoses found in the student's medical record.
15. The advocate shared in the November 26, 2024 interview that the mother did not have transportation in order to take the student to school at the alternative placement beginning January 8, 2024, which is nearly a mile from the student's home.
16. During the district interview on December 12, 2024 staff shared that the mother chose not to send her daughter to the alternative placement beginning January 8, 2024 and that the district provided special transportation for the student during the evaluation period.
17. January 12, 2024, the district contact log reflects an email sent from the coordinator to arrange specialized transportation for the purpose of the special education evaluation. It is noted that according to evidence provided by the advocate, this email went to an outdated address for the mother.

18. January 16, 2024: District snow day.
19. As noted in the district's response, the coordinator called and emailed the mother on January 19, 2024 to notify her that transportation to the sixth grade building would be canceled the following week since the mother had not responded to emails. The coordinator also requested that the student attend school January 29–February 2, 2024 with the district providing transportation for the purpose of evaluation. It is noted that according to evidence provided by the advocate, this email went to an outdated address for the mother.
20. The in-school portion of the evaluation did not begin until January 29, 2024 due to the student's lack of attendance, according to the district's response.
21. During the district interview on December 12, 2024, staff shared that the primary sources of data for the FBA included observations, interviews, record reviews and completion of the CAFAS.
22. The district shared 17 FBA observation data collection sheets from the ISS classroom in the sixth grade building which occurred between January 29 and February 23, 2024. The targeted behaviors listed on the FBA data collection sheets include: Non-compliance/refusal, off task behaviors, disruption, inappropriate language, throwing objects, hitting, kicking, inappropriate voice volume, and verbal aggression. During the classroom observations there were no target behaviors observed. The social worker, school psychologist and special education teacher conducted the observations. The district attendance record shows that the student was present for 11 of the 17 days of FBA observation data collection.
23. It is noted in the evaluation report dated March 21, 2024 that these FBA observations took place in the sixth grade building in a general education ISS room, rather than the student's home classroom in the elementary school due to the student's change in placement as a result of the November 27, 2023 Due Process Hearing.
24. According to staff in the December 11, 2024 district interview, during the observation period there were anywhere from 2-5 students in the room as it is used as a "recovery room" for students who need a small setting in which to gain behavioral self-control.
25. In addition to the FBA observations, district staff shared in the December 12, 2024 interview that past discipline records and student attendance records were reviewed as well as information gathered in a background history interview with the mother. The student, IEP case manager and teachers from the student's elementary school were also interviewed The record review also included information from the student's elementary school where she attended pre kindergarten through 4th grade in a nearby district.
26. During the district interview on December 11, 2024, staff shared that the CAFAS was completed by the district's social work department head who is a clinical licensed social worker. to complete the CAFAS. The district shared documentation that the social worker completed CAFAS training August 25, 2023. In an interview with the social worker on December 12, 2024 she shared that the team chose to use the CAFAS because it examines domains that were relevant for the student's challenging behaviors. She also reported that the CAFAS is sensitive to high intensity, low frequency behaviors which are the types of behaviors the student has typically struggled with.

27. According to the district response, the special education evaluation was completed on February 23, 2024.
28. According to the district response, the Eligibility Determination and IEP meeting was held at the elementary school on March 21, 2024. The team agreed the student met the criteria for a Specific Learning Disability in the area of math, however due to the lack of target behaviors during the FBA observations the team was unable to identify a hypothesis upon which to create a BIP. In the IEP, the baseline notes explosive behaviors such as yelling, refusing to follow directions, using profanity and assaulting others, but does not include rates of these behaviors. The team did agree to include a social work goal to increase appropriate conflict management skills with peers. Related services include 15 minutes extracurricular special education transportation, 2x daily and 20 minutes social work services in the special education setting, 1x week. The team determined it would be appropriate to address previous behaviors through a school-wide positive behavior support plan when the student returned to school.
29. According to the district interview on December 11, 2024 the team held a meeting on March 25, 2024 to discuss ways to help the student transition easily back into her elementary school; the mother and advocate were in attendance. The team strategized ways to help the student connect with the school community and better manage her behaviors. The student returned to school on March 27, 2024.
30. According to the district response, on May 10, 2024 the IEP team met to discuss parent concerns and update the school-wide positive behavior support plan. The team also discussed the option of conducting another FBA this school year, but with only seven school days left, decided it would be most appropriate to request Prior Written Notice and conduct a new FBA in the fall when school resumed.
31. According to the district contact log, on May 10, 2024 district staff facilitated the student's intake process with PACES in order to get additional social emotional support.
32. According to the district response and the contact logs, since August 16, 2024, the district has sent emails or made phone calls eight times in an attempt to get a signed PWN for an FBA.
33. The signed PWN for the FBA was received by the district on December 4, 2024.

Conclusion

In this case, the advocate requested, on behalf of the mother, a special education evaluation including a FBA in response to the student's Due Process Hearing decision which resulted in OSS from her elementary school for the remainder of the first semester and from district transportation for the remainder of the school year.

The FBA portion of the initial special education evaluation consisted of interviews, record reviews, classroom observations and the CAFAS. Ideally, the FBA observations which help to determine a hypothesis for the challenging behaviors, would have been conducted in the school environment in which the problematic behaviors occurred. However, due to the results of the Due Process Hearing on November 27, 2023, the student was assigned to an alternative setting in the ISS room at the sixth grade building for the 3rd quarter of the 2023-2024 school year. The district noted the change in FBA observation location in the evaluation, as required.

The district provided the student transportation to school during the special education evaluation period as the mother chose not to send her daughter to this alternative setting in part, due to the lack of family transportation.

Observational data was collected over the 11 days the student was in attendance as evidenced by the FBA data collection sheets from January 29 to February 23, 2024, during this time there were no instances of the target behaviors. The IEP team agreed to implement a school-wide behavior intervention plan based on the interviews, record review and CAFAS data to support the student to be successful in spite of the lack of observational data. The district met its obligation for a comprehensive social emotional assessment, including a FBA. The district has made ongoing efforts to get consent to conduct another FBA as the student's behaviors continue to need addressing.

An additional consideration for this issue is that the special education laws and regulations do not define the term "Functional Behavioral Assessment." In short, a FBA has no required elements. Thus, even if the FBA was somehow conducted in an unsatisfactory manner (which is not substantiated in this complaint), there cannot be a violation of special education laws or regulations as a result.

Based on the foregoing, USD #202 did conduct a complete, comprehensive FBA and is IN compliance with IDEA regulations.

Issue Two

Did USD #202 conduct an expedited Functional Behavioral Assessment for the student during the past 12 months?

Applicable Law

34 C.F.R.300.534 (d)(2)(i) "If a request is made for an evaluation of a child during the time period in which the child is subjected to disciplinary measures under § 300.530, the evaluation must be conducted in an expedited manner".

Parent Position

The advocate and parent report that USD #202 did not complete the FBA in an expedited manner upon receiving consent on December 14, 2023.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties. The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The district shared an annotated 2023-2024 school calendar that reflects during the evaluation period of December 14, 2023 to February 23, 2024 when the evaluation was completed, there were 35 school days, only 11 of which the student was in attendance.
2. The district's winter break was December 21, 2023 – January 8, 2024.

3. According to the director interviewed on December 11, 2024 the Due Process Hearing findings stated that the student could begin attending the sixth grade building for shortened days on January 8, 2024.
4. The district response states that on January 8, 2024, there was a parent meeting with the sixth grade building principal and director of administrative services to discuss ISS placement at the sixth grade building as a result of the November 27, 2024 Due Process Hearing.
5. January 9, 2024: District snow day.
6. January 12, 2024: District snow day. The district contact log reflects an email sent from the coordinator to arrange specialized transportation for the purpose of the special education evaluation. It is noted that according to evidence provided by the advocate, this email went to an outdated address for the mother.
7. January 16, 2024: District snow day.
8. As noted in the district's response, the coordinator called and emailed the mother on January 19, 2024 to notify her that transportation to the sixth grade building would be canceled the following week since the mother had not responded to emails. The coordinator also requested that the student attend school January 29–February 2, 2024 with the district providing transportation for the purpose of evaluation. It is noted that according to evidence provided by the advocate, this email went to an outdated address for the mother.
9. January 22, 2024: District snow day.
10. Noted in the district response is an email sent by the mother to the coordinator on January 24, 2024 confirming the student would attend the sixth grade building January 29–February 9, 2024 for evaluation purposes.
11. According to the district response, the student was called in sick on February 1, and had unexcused absences on February 2, 6, and 8, 2024.
12. The district timeline reflects that February 12-14, 2024 the evaluation and transportation were extended due to student's absences.
13. The district attendance log reflects that the student had an unexcused absence on February 13. 2024.
14. The district timeline reflects that February 20-23, 2024 the evaluation and transportation were again extended due to student absences.
15. The district attendance log reflects that the student had an unexcused absence on February 20, 2024.
16. According to the district contact log, the coordinator notified the mother on February 23, 2024 that the team had completed gathering initial evaluation information and that specialized transportation would no longer be provided for purposes of the evaluation. She informed the mother that the team would contact her to schedule an eligibility determination meeting.
17. According to the district timeline the Notice of Meeting and Parent Rights were sent home with the younger sibling, as requested by the parent on March 7, 2024.

18. According to the district response, the Eligibility Determination and IEP meeting was held at the elementary school on March 21, 2024.

Conclusion

IDEA requires that districts complete a special education evaluation and initiate services within 60 school days of receiving parental consent. The regulations also state that when a student is subject to disciplinary measures during the evaluation period the evaluation should be expedited.

In this case, the district received consent for the special education evaluation on December 14, 2023 and held the Eligibility Determination and IEP meeting on March 21, 2024, which is within 46 school days. Although IDEA does not offer a definition of "expedited", 46 school days is reasonable, particularly given the number of days the student missed school during the evaluation period.

Based on the foregoing, USD #202 did conduct an expedited FBA and is found to be IN compliance with IDEA regulations.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of K.A.R. 91-40-8(c)(1)(A-C); K.A.R. 91-40-9 (a)(3)(5); (K.A.R. 91-40-11(c); and 34 C.F.R. 300.310) was not found based on the completion of a comprehensive FBA as part of the initial special education evaluation. Corrective action is not required.

    iii. "Movement breaks when needed. (walks, sensory activity, buddy room, in the classroom or out of the classroom)" beginning on November 15, 2023 during academic portions of the day, during transition if possible or when the Student demonstrated a need in the regular education or special education classroom. The duration section described "10 minute breaks after completing a required task, either 10 minutes of work or completing an assignment that satisfied the work expectation."
    iv. "Visual cards for first, then" beginning on November 15, 2023 throughout the core academic portion of the day in the regular education or special education classroom for the academic (core) portion of the day.
    v. The Least Restrictive Environment section described the rationale for the selection.
    vi. Parental Rights/Procedural Safeguards were provided on November 15, 2023.

        iv. "Safe space to use when [the Student] is upset";
        v. "Small group instruction for most instruction";
        vi. "Connections behavior chart";

vii. "Frequent monitoring redirections";
viii. "Repeated directions";
ix. "Extra time"; and
x. The general education teacher indicated that "[The Student] does much better when offered these accommodations and they are needed most of [their] day for [the Student] to be successful."
xi. According to the IEP Manager, "[The Student's] goals and accommodations established in November 2023 were reviewed prior to this meeting; however goals have not been met and no changes were made."

e. The following Classroom Accommodations and Modifications were listed in addition to the accommodations from the November 15, 2023 IEP:
i. "Proactive support from adults regarding student's concerns" beginning on March 29, 2024, occurring throughout the day in all settings for the duration of the day, especially at times when the Student begins to show behaviors or agitation.

iii. "Separate area for testing" beginning on March 29, 2024 throughout the school day in all settings. (D72-D90)

4. A PWN indicated that the Parent consented to the Student's placement and services on March 29, 2024 by checking the "I give consent" box and signing in the same section. (D115-D121)
5. The Special Education Teacher explained they use a work break system in their classroom, which includes 20 minutes of work time. Then the Special Education Teacher started a five minute timer which denoted the start of a break time. The Special Education Teacher said this totaled about 10 minutes. To meet the Student's accommodation, the Special Education Teacher explained that anytime the Student was getting overstimulated or required a movement break, whether the Student asked for the break or it was offered to the Student and they accepted, the movement break was always granted. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P1, 00:56)
6. Regarding the Student calling home, the Special Education Teacher reported during interviews, "[The Student is] able to, but we like [them] to do it when [they are] in a safe area and not around other students because [they] can get pretty physical and start throwing things. So [the Student] tends to try to just pick up any and every phone [they] can grab to try to call and we're like, 'Hey, let's go to this area so that you can call your [the Parent].' But [the Student] takes that kind of out of context of we're not letting you call [their Parent] at that exact moment." (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2, 03:20)
7. The Special Education Teacher stated the Parent had not asked for the accommodation of calling home to be added to the IEP. The Special Education Teacher said, "No, we just met with [the Parent] and [they] mentioned that [the Student] is not allowed to call whenever they wants [sic]. … So we were adding that accommodation for specific times that [the Student] can call [the Parent], … . And that was by [the Parent's] request." (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2, 04:09) The Special Education Teacher indicated the Parent made this request after the complaint was filed. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2, 04:41) During the interview, an Administrator explained that calling home was not a formal request for the IEP and the Parent did not mention it prior to filing the complaint. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2, 04:46)

8. The Special Education Teacher stated they did not know why the Parent believed the Student was not receiving movement breaks. The Special Education Teacher said, "… [the Parent] knows our work break system and we have told [the Parent] that several times. We've also told [the Parent] that we do offer [the Student] movement breaks when [they are] becoming escalated, and oftentimes [the Student] will deny them. So we can't obviously force [the Student] to get up and go take a movement break." (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2, 05:08)
9. According to the Classroom Teacher, during classroom rotations, students moved every 10-12 minutes during instructional time. They stated the Student was given flexible seating options such as a rocking chair, wobble stool, inflatable donut seat or rocking seat for carpet time. (Written Statement from Classroom Teacher, December 17, 2024)
10. The Classroom Teacher explained the Student had scheduled movement breaks after every 10 minutes of work time, where the Student could go on a walk with a paraprofessional, or go to a sensory room to play in a sand/rice table. The Classroom Teacher indicated the Student could ask for a break during their work time. The Classroom Teacher would pause the Student's timer and the Student could go on a break if needed. Then the Student would return and complete the remainder of work time before their next break. (Written Statement from Classroom Teacher, December 17, 2024)
11. The Classroom Teacher said, "The [S]tudent had never requested to me to call the parent. There were times when [the Student] was dysregulated where I would call [the Parent] and [they] would request to speak to [the Student]. Some of the time, this would help support de-escalation and other times I saw no effect." (Written Statement from Classroom Teacher, December 17, 2024)
12. During interviews, the Parent stated there was initially no structure regarding how the Student should be allowed to call home. The Parent indicated the Student said there were numerous times the School would not allow them to call home. The Parent did not have dates for these incidents. (Parent Interview, P1, 01:03) The Parent said they spoke to the school on several occasions about the Student calling home, which they recalled taking place from August through December 7, 2024. The Parent said they told the School the Student was supposed to be able to call the Parent to help stop the Student from escalating. (Parent Interview, P1, 02:31)
13. The Parent believed the accommodation to call home was in the Student's IEP from their previous school. The Parent explained in March 2024, they and a previous teacher created an undocumented routine for when the Student was supposed to call home. (Parent Interview, P2, 04:26) The Parent said, "That it wasn't going to be written … it was just something that we agreed on to try to assist with some of [the Student's] behaviors. But it wasn't because of how we had the IEP set up. It wasn't going to be written down… ." (Parent Interview, P2, 05:44) The Parent believed the accommodation to call home was in the Student's March 2024 IEP. (Parent Interview, P2, 06:51) During the interview, the Student's Grandparent said, "… it was discussed about the calls and the teacher agreed, again, it wasn't written in the IEP or anything … ." (Parent Interview, P3-4, 08:10) The Parent indicated the Student would elope and call the Parent, right up until their last day at the School. (Parent Interview, P4, 10:41)

14. The Parent believed the School was counting the Student's movement breaks as a free break. The Parent believed the School would not allow the Student to go into another room when they wanted to do so. (Parent Interview, P5, 13:07) The Parent indicated the School told them they had a place for the Student to go. The Parent believed the School did not start putting the Student into another room until they gave the Student an in-school suspension. (Parent Interview, P5-6, 14:16)
15. The Parent indicated the Student was given a free break if they completed their work, in addition to a separate break for calm down and movement based on how they were regulating. The Parent believed the Student wasn't receiving either break because the Student told them they were not getting breaks. (Parent Interview, P6, 15:08)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #259, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement accommodations on the Student's IEP by not allowing the Student to call home or receive movement-calm down breaks. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3).

According to 34 CFR § 300.320 and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), an IEP is in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

Parent Position: The Parent alleged the School failed to implement the Student's IEP by not allowing the Student to call home or receive movement-calm down breaks.

District Position: The District responded that it did not violate state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), and it did not fail to implement accommodations included in the Student's IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3).

Analysis & Conclusion: In accordance with the Student's IEP, the Student received certain accommodations, including movement breaks. In interviews with District staff, it was explained that a movement break was granted any time the Student was getting overstimulated or required such a break. This was also documented in data sheets provided by the District.

Additionally, while calling home was not listed as an accommodation in the IEP, contact logs documented times when the Student was allowed to call their Parent/home.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to implement accommodations listed in the Student's IEP.

Background Information

The student is a 10-year-old young man who is currently enrolled in the fourth grade at Chanute Elementary School in USD #413. Interviews and records show the student received early intervention services and was initially identified for early childhood special education services at age three under the exceptionality category of Developmental Delay. He has received special education and related services through an IEP since that time. The parent reports and the district staff acknowledged the student also has a diagnosis of Dyslexia from Pittsburg State University.

It is noted that eligibility for the exceptionality category of Development Delay ends at age 10 so a reevaluation with additional assessment was conducted during the 2024-25 school year. As a result of that reevaluation, USD #413 determined that the student continued to be eligible for special education and related services under the exceptionality category of Intellectual Disability on November 18, 2024.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint, two issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

USD #413, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parents with IEP goal progress reports during the past 12 months which negatively impacted their opportunity to participate meaningfully in the IEP team meetings.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(3)(ii) require school districts to provide parents with periodic reports on the progress a child is making toward meeting the annual IEP goals such as through the use of quarterly or other periodic reports, concurrent with the issuance of report cards.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based on interviews and record review:

The student's IEPs in effect during the past 12 months include a statement regarding Progress Report Distribution which indicates these will be provided to parents at the same time as progress is reported for the general education peers. According to USD #413 staff, this progress is reported quarterly through grade reports and parent conferences.

The parents initially reported that they were not provided with progress reports on the student's IEP goals during the last 12 months. However, the parents later acknowledged that they did receive these reports and had copies of each one in their possession.

The district provided copies of the IEP Goal Progress Reports retrieved from the IEP system which included the date that each was provided to parents as well as the manner in which they were delivered. USD #413 staff also reported that the student's parents attended the 2024 fall parent teacher conference and have visited with staff on multiple occasions to discuss the student's progress during the 2024-25 school year.

The district reported and the parents acknowledged that the district specifically responded to this allegation in the child complaint as follows:

Superintendent Matt Koester and Special Education Director Korenne Wolken met with parents on December 3, 2024 to discuss their complaint. At this time, the parents provided verification that they had received copies of the progress reports during the last 12 months. They were very organized and had each progress report in a manilla folder that indicated the date they received them and the teacher who sent it to them. Mr. Koester and Mrs. Wolken reviewed the progress reports with the parents in an effort to provide clarification on how to read them. The parents expressed frustration that there were items such as "common core standards" and "baselines" indicated on the progress report and shared that they "contained a bunch of gibberish." Mr. Koester and Mrs. Wolken spent over 1 hour walking the parents through how to interpret a progress report.

Conclusion

Federal regulations require school districts to provide parents with periodic reports of student progress towards the annual IEP goals. In this case, both the parent and the district acknowledge that the IEP goal progress reports were provided as required. Based on the foregoing, the district is found to be IN COMPLIANCE with the requirements of the IDEA.

It is noted that the district identified miscommunication as the underlying issue which resulted in this allegation and subsequently met with the parents to address their concerns and provide information on how to understand and interpret the IEP Goal Progress Reports in the future.

Issue Two

USD #413, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to the student during the past 12 months, specifically by failing to provide the educational support required the for the student's learning disability of dyslexia.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(4) require school districts to include a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services to be provided to enable the child to 1) advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; 2) be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum and participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and 3) be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

Again, the following finding of facts is based on interviews and record review:

Meeting notes document that the parents shared a Pittsburg State University evaluation diagnosing with the student Dyslexia with the staff in USD #413 on February 14, 2024. The parents expressed concerns that the IEP was not addressing the student's difficulties with basic reading skills and reading comprehension. They indicated they were confused as to when the student actually received his specialized reading instruction.

The IEP team met on March 29, 2024 to review and revise the student's IEP. The IEP documented the parents' concerns for increasing the student's reading decoding skills and the request for "help with dyslexia concerns". This IEP included two reading goals - one to increase reading decoding skills and another to increase reading comprehension skills. The IEP required 150 minutes per week of specially designed reading instruction in the special education resource classroom setting and 300 minutes per week of specially designed functional academic reading and math instruction in the special education functional skills classroom setting in order for the student to make progress towards achieving these two goals. IEP goal progress reports indicate the student was making adequate progress towards these goals at the end of the 2023-24 school year.

USD #413 initiated a reevaluation at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year as the student would be turning age 10 and no longer be eligible for special education under the eligibility category of Developmental Delay. The parents reported they were informally told by the school psychologist that the student would now qualify under the eligibility category of intellectual disability and not Dyslexia prior to the eligibility determination meeting scheduled for November 18, 2024. The IEP team met on November 18, 2024 and proposed a change in eligibility from Developmental Delay to Intellectual Disability with delays in reading, writing, and math.

The IEP team also met on this same date to review and revise the student's IEP in light of the proposed change in eligibility for special education and the results of the additional assessments. This IEP noted the parents continue to be concerned with the student's reading deficits and whether the proper interventions were being provided to address these deficits. In addition, the parents "expressed concerns with staff using jargon that is not descriptive enough for understanding".

The November 18, 2024 IEP proposed by USD #413 continued to include a reading decoding goal and a reading comprehension goal. Specially designed instruction in reading was continued at 150 minutes per week in the special education resource classroom and changed to include 200 minutes per week of functional reading instruction in the functional skills classroom along with 150 minutes per week of special education reading instruction and support in the general education classroom. However, the parents disagreed with the proposed change in eligibility and the proposed IEP and refused to provide consent when provided with appropriate prior written notice by USD #413.

During telephone calls with the parents, the investigator encouraged them to clarify their specific concerns and requests and to share these with the LEA staff. Throughout the investigation window, the parents, the LEA staff and the investigator communicated frequently regarding these concerns and parent recommendations related to eligibility, the IEP goals, additional special education services necessary for the student to achieve the IEP goals, and the addition of several accommodations/modifications which would need to be provided so the student could more effectively access the general education curriculum.

On December 11, 2024, USD #413 amended the proposed November 18, 2024 IEP to include all of the parent requests and provided the parents with an appropriate prior written notice explaining the change in eligibility and the material change in services. In addition, the district provided the parent with a proposed schedule showing when the specialized reading instruction would be provided to the student. On December 16, 2024, USD #413 again communicated with the parents expressing their desire to continue to work together to provide the student with a free appropriate public education.

Conclusion

Federal regulations require that districts include a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services to be provided to enable the child to 1) advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; 2) be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum and participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and 3) be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

In this case, the parents shared an outside evaluation with the district which identified the student with dyslexia in February 2024. The IEP team met on March 29, 2024 to review and revise the IEP and included goals to address the reading concerns shared by the parents. This IEP required specially designed instruction in the area of reading to enable the student to make progress towards achieving these IEP goals and subsequent IEP goal progress reports showed the student was making progress.

The IEP team met again on November 18, 2024 and again reviewed and revised the student's IEP based on the most recent reevaluation with assessment which identified the student under the exceptionality category of intellectual disability with delays in reading, writing, and math. The parents refused to provide consent for a material change in services at that time but subsequently worked with the LEA staff to amend the proposed November 18, 2024 IEP on December 11, 2024 to include goals, services, as well as accommodations/modifications to provide the student with FAPE in light of the identified intellectual disability with delays in reading, writing, and math.

Based on the foregoing, USD #413 is found to be IN COMPLIANCE with the requirement to develop an IEP to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to the student during the past 12 months, specifically by addressing the educational support required the for the student's learning disability of dyslexia.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(3)(ii) was not found because the parents did receive copies of IEP Goal Progress Reports for the student during the past 12 months. It is noted that the LEA provided an explanation of these reports when it learned the parents did not fully understand the information provided.

2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(4) was not found because the district did include IEP goals, specially designed instruction, and accommodations/modifications to address the parents' concerns related to reading skills and dyslexia when the student's IEP was reviewed and revised on March 29, 2024. In addition, the district reviewed and revised the IEP again on November 18 and again on December 11, 2024 to address the parents' concerns regarding reading as well as new information resulting from a reevaluation of the student. It is noted the district also provided the parent with a copy of the proposed schedule showing when all specialized instruction in reading would be provided to the student as the parents had expressed concerns that all services were not being provided.

Stephanie Beattie on December 21, 2024. The Investigator interacted with the district by email to clarify evidence. The district declined to participate in an interview with the investigator.

Background Information

The student is an eleven-year-old sixth grader and was eligible for special education and related services under the category of Other Health Impaired based on the most current reevaluation dated December 11, 2023. He additionally has a medical diagnosis of ADHD and epilepsy. At the time of the complaint the student had an IEP developed on December 11, 2023 and amended May 28, 2024 to include three goals, one in reading, math and behavior. it is marked that the student has behaviors that impede his learning or the learning of others. These needs are met by accommodations and goals. The behavior goal uses a rubric to improve behavior in four areas: following directions, having a safe body, activity completion and listening. The IEP lists specially designed instruction in a special education setting 60 minutes daily for reading and math goals and 15 minutes daily for behavior goal and OT consultation 20 minutes monthly. The student's accommodations include: positive, concrete reinforcement for positive behavior and best effort; shorten assignments to demonstrate mastery; directions presented in multiple formats-written, verbal, etc.; Math resources including but not limited to hundreds charts, multiplication chart, etc.; provide "CLOZE" or fill-in-the-blank notes; when possible, provide redirection in quiet, individual manner; frequent and structured sensory breaks to help with focus and attention; separate setting and frequent breaks for assessments; visuals of test-taking strategies and positive self-talk; copies of stories or text read aloud for the purpose of highlighting and note taking; let student know about schedule changes in advance; access to fidgets, opportunities to stand, flexible seating options, visual schedule; independent activities available during downtime; seating near the board; option of speech to text and text prediction for written assignments; read aloud for all state and district assessments. No staff supports were written into the IEP.

Issues Investigated

The child complaint submitted by the mother referred to a November 22, 2024 incident. It was later verified that the date of the incident was November 21, 2024. All evidence and issues were updated to refer to the correct date of November 21, 2024 in the report.

ISSUE ONE: Did the district follow the student's IEP when addressing a school conflict occurring on November 21, 2024?

ISSUE TWO: Did the district follow IDEA procedures in regard to parental contact regarding the school incident on November 21, 2024?

Issue One

Did the district follow the student's IEP when addressing a school conflict occurring on November 21, 2024?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the staff accused the student of lying about a peer conflict and sent the student to the office. During that exchange, the police were called when the student stated he wanted to die and was handcuffed. As a result of this the parent stated she does not feel it is safe for her student to attend the school.

The timeline of the incident provided by the district confirmed that a teacher approached the student asking about an incident, "10:56- Witness reports (6th grade teacher, 5th grade teacher, and [Student]) share 6th grade teacher and [Student] were asked to speak with 5th grade teacher. 6th grade teacher and [Student] come inside from recess and meet with 5th grade teacher. She asks [Student] if [Student] told one of [the] students [Student] "[description of incident]. [Student] denied the statement. 5th grade teacher brings the accuser into the hallway to speak with [Student]. The accuser sticks with [the] story. 5th grade teacher asks if anyone heard it. The accuser names two people. One heard something but could not remember what it was. The other confirmed the accuser's story. 5th grade teacher makes a statement about how [the] student has never lied to [teacher]."

The family friend reported during an interview with the investigator on December 21, 2024 that in addition to being a friend of the family [they] work at the school as an instructional aide and meet with the student at the end of each school day to do a "checkout" . The family friend is also known in the school, along with the social worker to be a person that the student can go when frustrated or needs a quiet place. The family friend reported that [they] were not aware of the incident at the time it was occurring and was not contacted about the situation to be a resource to the student. The family friend reported that they met with the principal after the incident to reiterate a desire to be available to the student.

The IEP dated December 11, 2023 and amended May 28, 2024 is marked that student has behaviors that impede learning or the learning of others and the needs are met by accommodations and goals. The IEP includes a behavior goal to teach appropriate behavior for following directions, having a safe body, activity completion and listening with 15 minutes of special designed instruction provided daily in the special education setting. The student had accommodations for 1) positive, concrete reinforcement for positive behavior and best effort; and 2) when possible, provide redirection in quiet, individual manner.

In the present levels of performance section of the student's December 11, 2023 and amended May 28, 2024 IEP, the teacher and social worker rated, the student's Social Participation on The Sensory Processing Measure – 2nd Edition (SPM-2) as "Never" for "handles frustration without outbursts or aggressive behavior."

The district described in their response dated December 16, 2024 that the student was significantly dysregulated and trying to harm self by banging head against the wall or climbing the railing in the stairwell and attempting to jump over the railing triggering Emergency Safety Interventions (ESI). When emergency personnel arrived, the student kicked a law enforcement officer and was handcuffed according to the district timeline. The district reported that since the student did not have a behavior intervention plan (BIP), nor emergency procedures in the IEP the district administrators followed their district procedures and contacted law enforcement to keep the student safe when the emergency situation was occurring.

The timeline of the incident provided by the district documented that the parents and district staff debriefed about the event and discussed strategies to prevent incidents from happening again at approximately 1:00 p.m. on the same day of the incident. Additionally, according to the student's mother the IEP team met afterward and made changes to the student's IEP accommodations.

According to the district and parent the student returned to school and was not given a suspension.

Conclusion

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and state regulations at K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) require a district to implement the IEP in a timely fashion. While the student's IEP documented the student had behaviors that impeded the student or other's learning, and the student had goals and accommodations related to behavior these services did not address emergency procedures. Since the IEP did not include any services or provisions related to emergency procedures when the student was attempting and/or threatening self-harm the district did not have any IEP implementation obligations in this situation.

Therefore, it is found that since the student's IEP did not include emergency procedures for the district to implement when responding to the student's behavior, it is not substantiated that the district failed to implement the student's IEP in regard to the November 21, 2024 incident.

Issue Two

Did the district follow IDEA procedures in regard to parental contact regarding the school incident on November 21, 2024?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference. The parent alleged in the complaint that the parent was not contacted about the incident in a timely manner and the student was not allowed to contact the parent during the incident.

The timeline of the incident provided by the district reported that at, "11:04- [Student] paces around the office and is picking up phones, saying [Student] wants to call [Student's] mom. Building Administrator says let's call from my office. [Student] exits the office from the nurse's office."

The IEP dated December 11, 2023 and amended May 28, 2024 does not include any reference to contacting a parent during a crisis. The timeline narrative for the day of the event provided by the district documented the mother was called using speaker phone to allow the student to speak to the mother at 11:06 a.m.,11:09 a.m.,11:13 a.m., 11:25 a.m.,11:27 a.m.,11:36 a.m., and 11:48 a.m. The timeline further documented that the district placed phone calls to the father at 11:18 a.m., 11:22 a.m. and 11:26 a.m.. At 11:27 a.m. the district called all emergency contacts by phone and emailed both parents, At 11:49 a.m. the father was reached via text and at 12:10 p.m. the family friend called back. A phone log provided by the district verified the times listed on the timeline.

Conclusion

IDEA regulations do not address fundamental rights or timelines for contacting parents or student's request to call a parent. However, procedures for parent and student contact may be addressed by the IEP team if needed and included in the student's IEP. In this case the student's IEP did not include any statement that the family should be contacted in the event of a behavioral incident, nor that the student should be allowed to contact a family member in the event of a behavioral incident.

Since the IEP did not address contacting the family in the case of a behavioral incident IDEA regulations do not address the November 21, 2024 incident.

While not addressed by IDEA nor the student's IEP it is noted that the district documented attempts to reach both parents and persons listed on the emergency phone list within two minutes of the student asking to call his mother.

Based on a review of the student's IEP and review of IDEA regulations, it is found that USD #512 met their obligation and followed IDEA procedures in regard to parental contact regarding the school incident on November 21, 2024.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300. 323(c)(2) K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) was not found, based on the facts above. Corrective action is not required.

ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) was not found, based on the facts above. Corrective action is not required.

Background Information

This investigation involved a sixth grade student who is on the autism spectrum, and has dyslexia and ADHD. The Student is enrolled at a middle school in Cheney Public Schools USD #268.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent.

1. The Parent stated the Student is in sixth grade at a middle school in the District, and receives educational accommodations. (Parent Interview, P1, 00:55)
2. The Parent indicated they first learned that special education services were not being provided to the Student at parent-teacher conferences in October 2024. The Parent explained that during a conversation with the English Language Arts (ELA) teacher, the teacher commented that if the paraprofessional was present in the class for the entire time, then maybe the Student could get extra help. The Parent identified this as a problem because they know the Student's Individualized Education Program (IEP) requires full paraprofessional coverage for English Language Arts and other classes.

3. The Parent stated the Student requires support because they frequently have questions, require repeated instruction and to have things broken down, and intervention with comprehension. The Parent said the Student is on the autism spectrum, and has dyslexia and ADHD.
4. When asked by the Investigator about any impacts from the lack of paraprofessional support in English Language Arts class, the Parent said, "[The Student] has failed every single AR or accelerated reader book tests that they have to take on their library books. [The Student has] failed every single test except the one that I read with [them] at home. [The Student] is not at a place where [they] can be independent with [their] reading. And so the para [sic] was actually not there for the silent reading time. And so that has been a direct impact."
5. The Parent stated they emailed the special education teacher and principal about the lack of paraprofessional support after learning about it at the parent-teacher conference. The Parent explained the special education teacher replied and indicated there was a paraprofessional shortage and they were working to serve the students at their time of greatest need. The Parent disagreed with this statement because it was not what was stated in the Student's IEP. The Parent then met with the principal and during that conversation, said it was their understanding that the shortage and hiring of paraprofessionals was the responsibility of the COOP.
6. After their meeting with the principal, the Parent stated they spoke with the COOP director, who said they were not aware of a shortage of minutes for paraprofessionals. The Parent indicated they received conflicting information from the school and the director of the COOP as to whose responsibility it was to hire paraprofessionals. The Parent said, "At that point, the superintendent had some time to look into it and did confirm with me that it is the school's responsibility. [The Superintendent] explained to me what that process looks like with the [COOP] support. … And [the Superintendent] is also the one who had the data about how many minutes were missing in ELA and specifically why they were missing because … it was due to a decision that was made by a special education teacher because [they] wanted [the Student] to be more independent."
7. The Parent stated they disagreed with the decision to remove the paraprofessional from the English Language Arts class, and that it went against the Student's IEP. The Parent indicated they were made aware of this decision by the Superintendent after they had brought up their concerns to the Superintendent.
8. The Parent indicated the School failed to provide 180 minutes of social work support. The Parent explained the Superintendent took steps to address the issues with the paraprofessional support, get the minutes covered, and put the Parent in contact with COOP assistant directors to address concerns the Parent had regarding a Study Skills class. The Parent stated the assistant COOP director informed them that during their investigations into the Student's IEP, it was discovered that there were also missing social work minutes. The Parent indicated they learned that the Student was only being provided one session of social work per week rather than the two, which was what was written in the IEP.

9. The Parent explained the School offered to provide the Student with the missing minutes with compensatory services, and the Parent accepted this offer. The Parent said that a resolution is in process.
10. According to the Parent, "The reason that the social worker said that only one session was being provided instead of two is because [they] misread the IEP. … we've got one special education teacher making a decision … to go against the IEP with ELA, and then we've got one misreading the IEP. … And we've got people making decisions that are wrong and making mistakes and, and both are not acceptable."
11. The Parent said, "I appreciate the co-op [sic] and the district offering compensatory services. … [The Student] was owed those minutes and [they need] to be … delivered those minutes. They need to be made up."
12. The District did not contest the allegation. Once the District realized they were out of compliance with the IEP, they offered compensatory services to the Student for the minutes and sessions that had been missed.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #268, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement 600 minutes of paraprofessional support in the Student's English Language Arts Class and 180 minutes of social work support as described in the Student's IEP K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3).

According to 34 CFR §300.323 and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

The Parent alleged the Student's teacher did not follow the IEP when the Student did not receive paraprofessional support for their English Language Arts class. A special education teacher indicated to the Parent this was due to a paraprofessional shortage. The Parent alleged the Student only received social work support once per week, when the IEP required it to be twice per week.

The District acknowledged in the District Response that 600 minutes of paraprofessional support in the Student's English Language Arts class and 140 minutes of social work support was not provided as described in the Student's IEP. The superintendent emailed the Parent on October 25, 2024 stating the Student was not provided special education services for 24 class periods. The Superintendent also stated in their email that the District would agree to compensatory services which would be discussed at an upcoming IEP meeting. The COOP also agreed to provide compensatory services for the Student.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the District failed to offer support services as outlined in the Student's IEP.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations 34 CFR §300.323 and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #268 did not provide 600 minutes of paraprofessional support in the Student's English Language Arts class and 140 minutes of social work support as described in the Student's IEP.

Based on the foregoing, USD #268 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #268 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) at 34 CFR §300.323 and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.
2. By February 15, 2025, USD #268 shall submit written verification that District staff responsible for implementing IEPs or supervising the implementation of special education and related services received training on requirements at 34 CFR §300.323 and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.
3. Within 15 calendar days, USD #268 will offer compensatory services to make up for 600 minutes of paraprofessional support in the student's English Language Arts class and 140 minutes of social work support. To the extent that the offer of compensatory services is less than 600 minutes of paraprofessional support in the student's English Language Arts class and 140 minutes of social work support, the parent must agree in writing to the lesser amount.
4. Further, within 15 calendar days USD #268 will submit to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) a detailed accounting of the compensatory services to be provided and the anticipated completion dates, along with a copy of any written statement of agreement from the Parent to the amount of compensatory services.
5. Within 10 calendar days of completing the compensatory services specified above, USD #268 shall submit written notice to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) that the compensatory services have been completed. USD #268 shall send a copy of that notice to the Parent.

Background Information

The student is a 6-year-old boy who is currently enrolled in kindergarten at the Belle Plaine Elementary School for the 2024-25 school year. The parent reported the student has always had "erratic behavior and was moody" even as a toddler. The parent stated that the student was initially diagnosed with emotional problems by the Sumner County Mental Health Center (SCMH) at the age of four due to "Other Trauma- and Stressor-related Disorders". The Diagnostic and Statistical Manual – Fifth Edition lists the following disorders under this category: Acute Distress Disorder, Post-traumatic Stress Disorder, and Adjustment Disorder.

The student has received counseling services through SCMH since that time and was subsequently diagnosed with Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and Oppositional Defiant Disorder (ODD).

Following a significant behavioral incident at school on November 19, 2024, the parent reported that law enforcement required the student to have an emergency in-patient evaluation at the Camber Children's Mental Health Center (CCMHC). As a result of that evaluation, the parent indicated the student was referred for a Serious Emotional Disturbance (SED) waiver and additional counseling services through CCMHC. The parent noted that an eligibility meeting for the SED waiver is scheduled for January 6, 2025.

The parent reported the student has not attended the public school since November 19, 2024 at the recommendation of the CCMHC but that he continues to be enrolled so that the initial special education evaluation can be completed and an IEP developed that will provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to the student. The parent stated that she calls the student in absent each school day so that she will not be reported for truancy by the school district.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint, two issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

Did USD #357 and USD #619, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), fail to identify a student with a disability in need of special education and related services and to provide that student with a free appropriate public education (FAPE) by not following the appropriate procedures when conducting a special education evaluation of the student during the 2024-25 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.301 require school districts to conduct a full and individual initial evaluation of a student within 60 days of receiving parental consent to determine if a child is a child with a disability and in need of special education and related services. This evaluation may be initiated by either the parent or the school district.

Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-8(f) define the "60 days" as "60 school-days" and allow for an extension of the 60 school-day evaluation timeline If the parent consents in writing to extend the timeline.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.305(a)(1) require the IEP team and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, to review existing evaluation data including any evaluations or information provided by the parents of the child; current classroom-based, local, or State assessments, and classroom-based observations; and any observations by teachers and related services providers.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.305(b) allow for this review of existing data to be conducted in a meeting or through consultation with all required IEP team members and other professionals, as appropriate.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.305(a)(2) require that, based upon that review and input from the child's parents, the IEP team must identify what additional data, if any, are needed to determine whether the child is a child with a disability and the educational needs of the child; the present levels of academic achievement and related developmental needs of the child; whether the child needs special education and related services; and whether any additions or modifications to the special education and related services are needed to enable the child to meet the measurable annual goals set out in the IEP of the child and to participate, as appropriate, in the general education curriculum.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.305(c) require the school district to administer such assessments and other evaluation measures as may be needed to produce the data necessary to identify if the child is a child with a disability and in need of special education and related services.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.306(a-c) require that, upon the completion of the administration of assessments and other evaluation measures, a group of qualified professionals and the parent of the child determines whether the child is a child with a disability. This eligibility determination must consider information from a variety of sources, including aptitude and achievement tests, parent input, and teacher recommendations, as well as information about the child's physical condition, social or cultural background, and adaptive behavior. The child must not be determined to be a child with a disability if the determinant factor is a lack of appropriate instruction in reading or in math or because of limited English proficiency.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(b)(1) and (6) as well as Kansas statutes at K.S.A. 72-3428(b) require that this prior written notice includes a description of any evaluation procedures the school district proposes to conduct as well as a description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based upon interviews and record review.

The student initially enrolled in kindergarten at Belle Plaine Elementary School on August 13, 2024. As part of the screening process, the parent completed the Ages and Stages Questionnaire (ASQ). The parent noted concerns with the student's behavior and shared the student's mental health diagnoses and services. Prior to the beginning of the school year, USD #357 placed the student with the Hope Team, the district's student intervention team as a means of providing the required multi-tiered system of support (MTSS) based the enrollment information.

The first day of school was August 20, 2024 but because of inappropriate behavior, the student was sent home at approximately 1:00 PM that day and was assigned one day of out-of-school suspension (OSS). The student returned to school on August 22, 2024 and again displayed inappropriate behavior resulting in the student being sent home at approximately 12:45 PM with another day of OSS. The student returned to school on August 26, 2024 but again displayed inappropriate behavior and was sent home at 12:25 PM. The student was then suspended for an additional two school days.

Records reflect the following inappropriate behaviors are seen in the school setting: impulsivity; running around the classroom; crawling under desks/tables; jumping or standing on chairs, tables, cabinets, walls; refuses to comply with requests and is argumentative; uses inappropriate and foul language; defiant; makes disruptive noises and sounds interrupting teaching and learning in the classroom; eloping; pretending to use guns and engages in violent play with peers; threatens to hit staff and peers; throws objects such as books, toys, rocks, etc. at peers and staff; knocks over chairs and classroom items; is physically aggressive with others including hitting, kicking, spitting, biting, pinching, and punching a staff member in the face twice.

Documentation shows the school staff spoke with the parent regarding the student's inappropriate behavior in the school setting on August 26, 2024 and the parent reported she requested an IEP for the student at that time.

The Hope Team met on August 27, 2024 regarding the student. It is noted that the Hope Team consists of the building principal, the classroom teacher, a reading interventionist, the school nurse and the school social worker from USD #357 as well as the school psychologist from Interlocal #619.

The USD #357 staff recommended an initial special education evaluation be conducted in a 45-day alternative educational setting at the Sumner County Academy because the student had been suspended on three separate occasions during the first two weeks of the school year, required an emergency safety intervention (ESI), and had never attended a full day of kindergarten due to the extreme behaviors. However, Interlocal #619 staff reported that because the student had never been in any type of a structured preschool program, general education interventions (GEI) were required to be attempted prior to moving the student to such a restrictive setting.

Interlocal #619 staff provided Crisis Prevention and Intervention (CPI) training to USD #357 staff working with the student on August 28, 2024.

An email dated August 29, 2024 written by the Interlocal Assistant Director showed that the student was "on the radar for SCA [Sumner County Academy]". The email stated:

> We had a meeting this morning that included Tammy [building principal], Tearra [complainant], and parents to get consent signed for special education evaluation and to give parents documentation for suspensions and ESI paperwork. They had a SIT [student intervention team – the Hope Team] meeting for him earlier this week and one of the interventions was to move him to half days. It was agreed that he would attend mornings until lunch and leave at 11:20 a.m. His major behaviors have occurred in the afternoon, so hopefully a shortened day will help him adjust to school structure, routines, and expectations. Plan is to meet again October 1st with parents to assess his progress. A 45-day placement was discussed with the parents as an option should there be a need due to his behavior and completing the evaluation with valid and reliable results.

On August 29, 2024, the parent was provided with a prior written notice for an initial special education evaluation and request for consent. The "Action Proposed" section documents the following check marked statement:

> The Sumner County Educational Services Interlocal proposes to conduct an initial special education evaluation. (Parent consent required) Based upon a review of existing data (if appropriate), the IEP team (including the LEDM [legal educational decision maker]), is proposing to conduct an initial evaluation of your child. Information will be collected in the areas checked on the following page that provide relevant information that directly assists the team in determining:

- whether your child is a child with an exceptionality and the educational needs of your child;
- the present levels of academic achievement and related developmental needs of your child; and
- whether your child needs special education and related services.

The following areas were marked both as having existing data and for needing new data: Health/Motor Ability; Vision; Hearing; Social/Emotional Status / Behavioral Status; General Intelligence; Academic Performance; and Communicative Status. Each of these areas includes a description of what may be included in an assessment of that particular area; however, no area includes any specific assessment tool or lists an observation of the student as a possible assessment. For example, the Academic Area description states:

> May include assessment of academic or preacademic skills and achievement levels in relation to the general curriculum such as oral or written expression, reading skills or comprehension, mathematical calculation or reasoning. For a child who is blind or visually impaired, the need for Braille instruction may be assessed.

With the exception of single disciplinary e.g. "speech only" evaluations, the Interlocal Director and Assistant Director reported that their practice is to routinely mark all areas as potentially needing new data so parent consent is obtained in case additional assessment in a particular area is later found to be necessary to determine categorical eligibility. They stated that the parents were being provided with prior written notice that additional data "may" be collected in an area rather than providing the parent with prior written notice that additional data "shall" be collected in a particular area to assist the multidisciplinary team to determine categorical eligibility.

The Options Considered section of the PWN notes that not conducting an initial special education evaluation was considered but rejected because of "Kansas guidelines and a need for information for appropriate program planning". The consideration of the 45-day placement option for conducting the initial evaluation discussed with the parents and documented in the August 29, 2024 email written by the Interlocal Assistant Director was not documented as being either considered or rejected.

Interviews and documentation showed that the USD #357 team and the Interlocal #619 team met at the end of October to review the evaluation data collected and discussed the student's eligibility for special education services. An email dated October 22, 2024 written by the Interlocal Director stated:

> Following up from our meeting yesterday morning, I would like to start by saying that it felt like it did not go at all as planned from my perspective. I understand that there are definitely some concerns and based on the reading in the room, it felt as if the team was very upset. I want to make sure that we go through the full process to ensure complete understanding. When looking at a student and whether or not they are placed in special education, we must look at both prong one and prong two.

Prong one is "Does the student have a disability?" When looking at prong one, the student in question is coming out low average to average. We must keep in mind that while there are some low average scores, the student has been out 30% of school days from ten suspension days and three additional days of illness. This is an exclusionary factor under chronic absenteeism as he is not receiving any instruction when at home. The State of Kansas defines Chronic Absenteeism as: "Being chronically absent means a student is missing 10 percent or more of school, for both excused and unexcused reasons. This puts the student at a higher risk of not graduating high school and possibly becoming a high school dropout." Kansas Eligibility Criteria Indicators. A child must NOT be determined to be a child with an exceptionality if the determinant factor is: Exclusionary Factor: The child does not otherwise meet the eligibility criteria as a child with an exceptionality if evidence shows that the child's learning difficulties are due to factors other than those associated with the criteria for disabilities as defined in IDEA. For example, frequent moves, incarceration, substance abuse, chronic absenteeism, etc.

Absenteeism is leading to the lack of exposure to curriculum and instruction in reading, math, and social/emotional learning which is an exclusionary factor. IDEA Section 1414. Evaluations, eligibility determinations, individualized education programs, and educational placements. Special rule for eligibility determination. In making a determination of eligibility under paragraph (4)(A), a child shall not be determined to be a child with a disability if the determinant factor for such determination is— (A) lack of appropriate instruction in reading, including in the essential components of reading instruction (as defined in section 6368(3) of this title, as such section was in effect on the day before December 10, 2015); (B) lack of instruction in math; or (C) limited English proficiency. These are all factors that go into his evaluation when we are looking at the eligibility indicators to determine placement. Based on the exclusionary factors and the low average to average scores, the student does not qualify under prong one.

Prong two states "Is the student's disability impeding his learning?" Prong one indicates no disability. Regardless, when looking at prong two as the team could see, the student scores have increased since the beginning of the year. While he did not have any prior education, he is still showing in the low average to average range with the minimal days he has been in school. He is showing growth, while his suspensions and outbursts have decreased. In the first six days of school, he had already been suspended for an accumulative of four days. We are now at the end of 10 weeks and he has only been suspended an additional six days. While I understand that the behaviors do appear extreme at times, he is showing growth, therefore, it is very important that the interventions continue with the student.

I understand that being in the middle of the situation and handling it day-to-day first hand can feel like there is no growth and like no one is supporting you and there is no assistance. Please rest assured, even though he is not qualifying for special education, Leah [Psych Paraprofessional] will continue to work with him on social stories. We need to get with Mr. R [SCMHC Therapist] to see what he's working on and try to provide some further guidance in that area. I would suggest that we pick out two to three target behavior areas to focus on specifically with him, taking data to see how frequently these behaviors are occurring with the goal of decreasing these behaviors. At this time, he will need to remain in the HOPE team. Please note that when we provide suggestions, we are not saying you are not doing these things. We are saying that these things must continue to be done with fidelity in order to see growth which takes time. Even if the student were to be placed, he would still remain at the elementary school with his current teacher. However, the team can make decisions, such as a potential teacher change, which is not a placement change. Prek was also another option that was brought up. This is something that could occur if necessary, since PreK is play based and focused on getting acclimated with school. This is a decision the general education team can make.

We understand all of the frustrations that can arise from this situation and we did share that extinction bursts could occur when adding time. When he did have a pretty severe outburst last Tuesday, he had only been attending with the additional time of recess and math for four days. While frustrating, this is normal and expected, and is needed in order for the student to work towards growth where we want him to be. He was able to make it four days before an outburst, this is huge. I know there has been a mention of concern for his safety and the potential of breaking glass. Hannah [Interlocal Assistant Director] did train staff in Belle Plaine in CPI for assistance with any potential safety issues. It is acceptable to put him in a hold when he is being harmful to himself or others. Hannah is more than willing to assist with paperwork.

There was mention that there was concern that the students in the room are not able to learn. This is a great point that I appreciate you bringing to the table. It would be valid to look at student data for all students in the room to show progression or lack thereof. This is important data we can take into consideration when looking at eligibility.

I am concerned that it was asked when he would have a meeting to show results from special education testing. It appeared that the immediate thought was to lean towards an expulsion for this student. I understand he is challenging, however, he deserves the right to a free and appropriate public education. This includes being educated on how to behave in school. The more he is sent home, the more he misses instruction he is needing and the more he is potentially rewarded for his misbehavior. Further, even if he is expelled and sent out, he is a Belle Plaine resident and he will come back to Belle Plaine eventually. Please take this into consideration and let us know how we can assist you in moving this student forward in a positive direction.

> There was a question of how long it would take for the exposure factor to no longer be exclusionary. When he has been in school and is not considered to have chronic absenteeism with no further growth in his learning, then we could possibly look at a potential IEP.

An eligibility determination meeting was held on November 6, 2024. The evaluation report only considered the disability category of Developmental Delay and concluded that the student was not eligible for special education. The parent and the USD #357 staff were not in agreement with this conclusion and Interlocal #619 requested and was granted consent from the parent on November 13, 2024 to extend the initial evaluation in order to collect the following additional data:

> The team was informed at a meeting on 11/06/2024 that there were sensory and other fine motor concerns that were never discussed previously. Therefore, the Occupational Therapist needs time to work with the student to assess how these concerns impact his education. However, the student has been sick multiple times since that meeting and he is currently only attending school for half the day. The proposed, new due date is 12/20/24.

Emails between the Interlocal Director and the Superintendent dated between November 18 and 19, 2024 reflect concerns related to the need to extend the student's initial evaluation because additional assessments were needed despite the parent providing consent for additional assessment in these areas. The Interlocal Director reported they were not provided with the student's diagnosis until the November 6, 2024 meeting and that the additional concerns in the area of sensory and fine motor were never shared so testing in those areas was not conducted prior to the November 6, 2024 eligibility determination meeting. The Interlocal Director stated in an email:

We would like to further assist, though the interventions appear to not be provided on a consistent basis with fidelity. These are 357 students and it falls back on the district as to whether FAPE is being provided. Our responsibility is to the ensure that we are providing the least restrictive environment as a Special Education entity. We take fault for agreeing to gain consent for an evaluation too early in the school year.

Interviews and documentation found the following GEI were provided to the student during the initial and extended evaluation periods: shortened school day; access to a paraprofessional in the kindergarten classroom; social stories; if/then options; frequent breaks; redirection; behavior charts, preferential seating, small groups, 1-1 instruction, Tier 3 interventions, etc. It is also noted that the student received counseling services at the school building from R'Darby Whitsitt, Therapist from SCMH. Despite these interventions, the student had major behavioral incidents on September 3, 9, and 27; October 3, 10, and 15; and November 14, 2024. ESI procedures were required on September 3 and again on November 14, 2024. On November 19, 2024, law enforcement became involved due to incident involving assault/battery which resulted in the student being hospitalized.

The student's grade card for Quarter 1 rated the student as needing improvement in seven of the eight Social & Emotional Development Skills: Listens & follows directions; Makes good use of time; Waits turn; Participates in group activities; Keeps hands, feet & objects to self; Works & plays well with others; Manages emotions appropriately; and Completes work independently.

The Progress Report for Quarter 2 indicated the student was not making expected progress in reading (recognized 8/26 uppercase letters, 7/26 lowercase letters, 0 letter sounds, 2/10 color words), math (recognized 13 numbers 0-20, rote count to 12/100), and writing (unable to write last name or numbers 1-10 due to shortened school day).

Interviews with the parent and USD #357 staff indicated that an eligibility determination meeting was held on December 16, 2024. The OT evaluation and a Functional Behavioral Assessment were reviewed, eligibility was discussed, and the student was determined eligible for special education under the category of Other Health Impaired. The team then began developing a proposed IEP and BIP for the student. This meeting was stopped at approximately 4:30 PM and the IEP team is scheduled to reconvene to complete the IEP after the holiday break.

An email dated December 19, 2024 at 3:05 PM written by the Interlocal Director stated:

> Eligibility was not decided in full at this meeting. A draft IEP was started and the ETR entered and reviewed as it relates to a prospective IEP due to parents and the LEA being adamant of an IEP needed though there is data missing from the parent as well as additional data with frequency, duration, and location of the target behaviors. It is listed in the draft IEP that they are considering DD or OHI . . . The meeting was stopped at 4:20 by the Belle Plaine building principal. It is my understanding that a follow up meeting has been scheduled for 2:15 on January 9th.

Interlocal #619 requested and was granted consent from the parent on December 16, 2024 to extend the initial evaluation. The justification for the extension states, "The IEP team, including the parent, wants to do a follow-up to complete the IEP and finish discussing needed supports for the student". The new due date for completion of the initial special education evaluation is January 31, 2025.

Conclusion

Federal and state regulations require that school districts to conduct a full and individual initial evaluation of a student suspected of having a disability and in need of special education and related services within a 60 school-day timeline unless parents provide written consent to extend the timeline.

In this case, the parent made a request for a special education evaluation on August 26, 2024 and the school district responded appropriately by conducting a review of existing data on August 29, 2024 with the parent in attendance. On that same date, the parents provided written consent to conduct an initial evaluation of the student as described in the PWN.

Interlocal #619 requested and the parent consented to extensions to the evaluation timeline on November 13 and again on December 16, 2024 in order to conduct additional assessments and gather additional data. The initial evaluation is now required to be completed and eligibility determined no later than January 31, 2025. It is noted that Interlocal #619 did follow the appropriate procedures to extend the 60 school-day timeline for completing the initial special education evaluation.

Interviews and documentation show that while Interlocal #619 did conduct a review of existing data as required, the only suspected area of disability considered was Developmental Delay despite the mental health diagnosis at the age of four and the significant behavioral concerns noted both at home and at school. Interlocal #619 did not develop an appropriate plan for conducting a full and individual special education evaluation by failing to consider other possible categories of disability including Other Health Impaired or Emotional Disturbance.

In addition, Interlocal #619 failed to describe the evaluation procedures to be conducted as part of the initial special education evaluation being proposed by marking that additional assessments would be conducted to obtain "new data" in all areas but then failed to collect this new data in all of the areas for the November 6, 2024 eligibility determination meeting.

Specifically, the August 29, 2024 PWN did not include a clear description of the areas to be assessed which caused miscommunication between the parent, USD #357 and Interlocal #619. While both the parent and USD #357 staff understood that the parent was consenting to additional assessments in all the checked areas, Interlocal #619 staff believed that the parent consent was only being sought because additional assessments may be needed in one or more of the areas to determine eligibility for special education. This miscommunication resulted in the need to extend the 60 school-day timeline twice and to delay the initial eligibility determination of the student.

One of the purposes of a PWN proposing to conduct an initial evaluation is to provide sufficient information to enable the parents to give consent for that proposed evaluation. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.9 clarify that part of the definition of "consent" is "the parent has been fully informed of all information that is relevant to the activity for which consent is sought…" A district fails to comply with this requirement when it gives a broad description of the areas to be evaluated but does not intend to conduct assessments for which it has requested consent. In this kind of situation, parents are not fully informed of what the district is proposing. Parents should reasonably expect districts to complete all assessments specified in a PWN.

It is also noted that the August 29, 2024 PWN did not include information regarding the 45-day alternate placement to conduct the evaluation option considered and why it was rejected nor did it inform the parent of the need to conduct observations of the student as part of the evaluation

The Kansas Special Education Process Manual provides guidance regarding the need to individualize the special education evaluation on page 36 as follows:

> When preparing the prior written notice of its proposal to conduct an initial evaluation, the school staff must plan which assessments and other evaluation measures may be needed to produce the data needed to meet the requirements of eligibility determination (K.A.R. 91-40-8(e)(1); 34 C.F.R. 300.305(c)). Every evaluation should be approached and designed individually based on the specific concerns of the child to be evaluated and existing data. Thoughtful planning is required to ensure the use of appropriate tools to collect the data needed, while eliminating time spent collecting information that is either unnecessary or overly time-consuming for no clear purpose. It would be inappropriate to use the same battery of assessments for all children or to rely on any single tool to conduct an evaluation. To ensure that the necessary and sufficient data will be collected as part of the evaluation, school staff are reminded of the importance of using a variety of assessment tools and strategies to collect relevant functional, developmental, and academic information about the child. There are also requirements that each child be observed in the child's learning environment which will also need to be included on the Prior Written Notice. The team must ensure that each evaluation is sufficiently comprehensive to identify all of the child's special education and related services needs. All appropriate domains should be considered via review of screening and/or GEI data. If potential educationally related deficits are suggested by screening, then the evaluation must provide in-depth assessment in the domain. If screening suggests adequate functioning, then in-depth assessment may be wasteful and irrelevant. In addition to these considerations, the proposed evaluation must yield information needed to rule out any exclusionary criteria when making eligibility decisions, and therefore should plan to collect any needed information related to the exclusionary criteria: lack of instruction in reading, including the essential components of reading instruction; lack of appropriate instruction in math; or limited English proficiency (K.A.R. 91-40-10(c); 34 C.F.R. 300.306(b)).

Documentation and interviews indicate the procedures for determining eligibility have not been followed by Interlocal #619 staff. There is confusion regarding if an eligibility determination was made at the December 16, 2024 meeting, which included the parent. Documentation provided by Interlocal #619 includes a PWN for initial eligibility and a draft IEP. However, the email dated December 19, 2024 written by the Interlocal Director states that eligibility has "not yet been fully determined" and that the development of the "prospective IEP was due to parents and the LEA being adamant of an IEP needed though there is data missing from the parent as well as additional data with frequency, duration, and location of the target behaviors."

While it is unclear whether the parent received the copy of this PWN document for initial eligibility following that meeting as parent consent is not required for this proposed action, it is clear that the parent believed initial eligibility had been determined because the team proceeded to develop an IEP and BIP for the student and a meeting is already scheduled to complete this process following the holiday break.

Documentation and interviews support that USD #619 staff have misinterpreted several eligibility requirements. First, they failed to conduct a "full and complete" evaluation to determine eligibility in all areas of suspected disability. In this case, based upon the student's mental health diagnosis and services combined with the significant behavioral concerns which occurred prior to the review of existing data meeting with the parent, there was reason to suspect the student may be eligible under the IDEA categories of Developmental Delay, Other Health Impairment, or Emotional Disturbance. The first evaluation report dated November 6, 2024 only considered the category of Developmental Delay which resulted in an extension of the evaluation timeline to gather additional data to determine eligibility under the other categories that should have been suspected.

It is noted that the evaluation did correctly include providing GEI prior to determining eligibility for special education. These interventions were provided concurrently during the evaluation and provided data necessary for the team to consider when determining eligibility for special education.

Second, Interlocal #619 staff appear to misinterpret the exclusionary factors required to be considered during the eligibility determination. Interviews and documentation show Interlocal #619 staff believe the student is not eligible for special education because of lack of instruction in reading and math as a result of "chronic absenteeism". However, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.306(b) require that this lack of instruction cannot be the "determinant factor" when making an eligibility determination.

Documentation and interviews support a finding that the student's lack of instruction in reading and math is a result of the significant behaviors displayed as a result of the student's mental health diagnoses which have resulted in OSS and never attending a full day of school during the first two weeks of the school year; partial day attendance as GEI beginning on August 29, 2024 and ending on November 19, 2024 when the student was hospitalized at the Camber Children's Mental Health Center; and the parent keeping the student at home at the recommendation of the Camber Center until special education eligibility can be determined.

Based on the foregoing, the district is found to be OUT of compliance for this issue.

Issue Two

Did USD #357 and USD #619, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), fail to follow appropriate disciplinary procedures for a student suspected of having a disability during the 2024-25 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.534(d) state that if a request is made for an evaluation of a child during the time period in which the child is subjected to disciplinary measures, the evaluation must be conducted in an expedited manner. Until the evaluation is completed, the child remains in the educational placement determined by school authorities, which can include suspension or expulsion without educational services. If the child is determined to be a child with a disability, taking into consideration information from the evaluation conducted by the agency and information provided by the parents, the agency must provide special education and related services to the student for any disciplinary change of placement that occurred.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.530 require specific procedures to be followed when a student with a disability or suspected of having a disability are subject to a disciplinary change of placement as a result of a violation of the student code of conduct.

Federal regulations as C.F.R. 536(a) define a disciplinary change of placement as occurring when a student's educational placement has been changed for more than 10 consecutive school days or for more than 10 cumulative school days when a pattern exists due to disciplinary action resulting from a violation of the student code of conduct.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

The parent initially requested a special education evaluation for the student on August 26, 2024 when USD #357 staff sent the student home on that date with an additional two days of OSS.

On August 29, 2024, the parent agreed to GEI of partial day attendance in kindergarten with the student leaving at 11:20 a.m each school day. The parent signed consent for an initial special education evaluation on this same date.

Documentation shows the student was sent home early on September 3, 2024 and was assigned OSS due to violations of the student code of conduct on September 4, 2024; however, no other early dismissals or disciplinary actions were noted in behavior logs. As a result of the success of the GEI, the student's partial day attendance was extended to 12:40 p.m. each school day beginning on October 9, 2024.

Documentation shows the student was sent home early due to violations of the student code of conduct on the following dates: October 14 and 15, 2024. The student was then assigned five additional days of OSS starting on October 16 and ending on October 22, 2024. As a result of the behavioral concerns, the student's GEI partial day attendance was changed back to 11:20 a.m. each school day beginning on October 23, 2024.

Documentation shows the student was assigned OSS on October 30, 2024 and was sent home early on November 14, 18, and 19, 2024. The student was hospitalized and was not sent back to school by the parent at the recommendation of the Camber Children's Mental Health Center. It is noted that the student does continue to be enrolled in USD #357 awaiting the results of the initial special education evaluation.

Conclusion

In this case, the parent initially requested a special education evaluation of the student on August 26, 2024 as a result of disciplinary action resulting from a violation of the student code of conduct and the district was required to expedite the initial evaluation of the student. As noted in Issue One, this did not occur and noncompliance has actually resulted in two extensions to the evaluation timeline. Currently the evaluation must be completed no later than January 31, 2025 which is more than five months from the date the parent signed consent for the initial special education evaluation.

It is noted that since the date of consent for the initial special education evaluation, the student has been subject to disciplinary action due to violations of the student code of conduct on 13 days between August 29, 2024 and the last day of school attendance on November 19, 2024. In addition, the student has been enrolled and waiting for the eligibility determination for 18 school days through the end of the first semester plus any additional days missed during the second semester until eligibility for special education is determined. Based on this data, the student has missed a total of 31 days due to leaving early or OSS. Because a disciplinary change of placement occurs starting on day 11, the student is found to have experienced a disciplinary change of placement for a total of 20 days during the first semester of the 2024-25 school year due to early dismissals and OSS.

Based on the foregoing, USD #357 and Interlocal #619 are found to be OUT of compliance in regards to this issue.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: Violations of federal and state regulations are found in the following areas:

1) Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.301 and state regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-8(f) which require school districts to conduct a full and individual initial evaluation of a student within 60 school-days of receiving parental consent to determine if a child is a child with a disability and in need of special education and related services.

    a) Corrective Action Required

        i. Within 10 days of this report, both Interlocal 619 shall provide to SETS an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.301 and state regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-8(f).

        ii. Per the most recent evaluation timeline extension, an eligibility meeting shall be held with parent participation and "full" eligibility for special education determined no later than January 31, 2025 considering, at a minimum, the eligibility categories of Developmental Delay, Other Health Impaired, and Emotional Disturbance. The parent will be provided with appropriate PWN regarding the eligibility determination and SETS will be provided with a copy of the Evaluation Report and the PWN no later than 10 days following the eligibility determination meeting date.

2) Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.305(a)(2) which require that, based upon that review and input from the child's parents, the IEP team must identify what additional data, if any, are needed to determine whether the child is a child with a disability and the educational needs of the child; the present levels of academic achievement and related developmental needs of the child; whether the child needs special education and related services; and whether any additions or modifications to the special education and related services are needed to enable the child to meet the measurable annual goals set out in the IEP of the child and to participate, as appropriate, in the general education curriculum.

a) Corrective Action Required

i. Within 10 days of this report, both Interlocal 619 shall provide to SETS an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.305(a)(2).

ii. iInterlocal 619 shall review all policies, procedures, and practices to ensure that, specific data is identified at all future reviews of existing data which will be needed to determine eligibility for all the areas of suspected disability. A summary of this review and the changes/edits, if any, shall be provided to SETS within 60 days of the date of this report. If changes/edits are made, the summary must include a plan to inform all relevant staff of these changes.

3) Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.305(c) which require that all such assessments and other evaluation measures be administered in order to obtain the necessary data in order to determine eligibility for special education.

a) Corrective Action Required

i. Within 10 days of this report, both Interlocal 619 shall provide to SETS an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.305(c).

ii. No later than the last day of the 2024-25 school year, Interlocal 619 shall provide SETS with three samples of completed evaluation reports completed following the date of the review of policies, procedures, and practices which document that all assessments and other evaluation measures were administered to determine eligibility in the suspected area(s) of disability based upon the review of existing data.

4) Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.306(b) which require that a lack of instruction in reading and math must not be the determinant factor for making an eligibility decision.

a) Corrective Action Required

i. Within 10 days of this report, both Interlocal 619 shall provide to SETS an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.306(b).

5) Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(b)(1,6) which require the parent be provided with appropriate PWN describing the evaluation procedures proposed to be conducted as part of the special education evaluation as well as a description of the other options considered and why those options were rejected.

   a) Corrective Action Required

      i. Within 10 days of this report, both Interlocal 619 shall provide to SETS an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(b)(1,6).

      ii. No later than the last day of the 2024-25 school year, Interlocal 619 shall provide SETS with three PWNs requesting consent for initial evaluations for the evaluation reports provided per the corrective action ordered in 3(a)(ii) above which show the specific evaluation procedures that were proposed and the other options considered and rejected.

ISSUE TWO: A violation of federal regulations is found in the following area:

1) Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.534(d) which state that if a request is made for an evaluation of a child during the time period in which the child is subjected to disciplinary measures, the evaluation must be conducted in an expedited manner. In this case the parent requested an initial special education evaluation of the student on August 26, 2024 when informed of the student's suspension from school resulting from a violation of the student code of conduct. The district appropriately responded to the request but failed to expedite the evaluation to determine eligibility for special education and has sought two extensions to the evaluation timeline to date.

   b) Corrective Action Required

      i. Within 10 days of this report, both USD #357 and Interlocal 619 shall provide to SETS an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.534(d)

      ii. Per the most recent evaluation timeline extension, an eligibility meeting shall be held with parent participation and eligibility determined no later than January 31, 2025 and the parent will be provided with appropriate PWN regarding the eligibility determination. If the child is found to be eligible for special education and an IEP developed, the IEP team will offer a minimum of 20 days of services to compensate for not providing services following the disciplinary change of placement that occurred during the first semester of the 2024-25 school year. Documentation of the eligibility determination and the offer of compensatory services shall be provided to SETS no later than February 15, 2025.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 357
Belle Plaine Public Schools: 25FC357-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on November 22, 2025, by both the district and by -------, a social worker employed by the district, on behalf of -------, a student attending school in USD 357. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the complainant," and ------- will be referred to as "the student." ------- is the student's mother and she will be referred to as the "parent" in this decision. It is noted that the parent provided written consent to share personally identifiable information regarding the student to the complainant on December 11, 2024, and, as such, a copy of this decision is being provided to the school district, the interlocal, the parent, and the complainant.

An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on January 2, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there were violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the complainant and district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed, and it reviewed the original complaint, the Complaint Report, and the complainant's notice of appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal from Complainant

The report identified two issues. The appeal relates only to Issue 2, which is: Did USD #357 and Interlocal #619, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), fail to follow appropriate disciplinary procedures for a student suspected of having a disability during the 2024-25 school year?

In its appeal, the complainant and district state:

> USD 357 appeals the decision from Issue Two. USD 357 has advocated for this student since August 20th, 2024 to receive vital special education services and provide adequate support from 619 for the student to be successful at USD 357. 619 failed to expedite the evaluation, and failed to identify the student as having a disability on numerous occasions. USD 357 provided adequate behavior data information to place the student for special education services. 619 has been less than cooperative with collaborating with 357, and the parents to ensure that this student received crucial interventions and support.

In its appeal, the complainant and district do not refute the findings and conclusions in the report, except to the extent the findings and conclusions apply to the district. The essence of this appeal appears to be that the findings and conclusions should be directed solely to the Interlocal.

The Appeal Committee sustains the findings and conclusions in the report for the following reasons:

The disciplinary protections for children with disabilities under Kansas law are directed at school districts, not interlocals. K.A.R. 91-40-35 through 91-40-38, regarding the services to be provided during suspensions, state that the duty to provide such services belongs to the "agency." The term "agency" is defined in K.A.R. 91-40-1(b) to mean "any board or state agency (emphasis added)." The term board is defined in K.A.R. 91-40-1(h) to mean "the board of education of any school district." Accordingly, when it is required, the duty to provide special education and related services during suspensions falls entirely on the school district where the student is enrolled. In addition, K.S.A. 72-3436 specifies that it is the "school district" that is obligated to apply the disciplinary protections for students for whom the district has knowledge that the child is a child with a disability prior to identification.

K.S.A. 72-13,000 permits districts to enter into interlocal agreements. Paragraph (b) of the statute says: "Except as otherwise specifically provided in this subsection, any power or powers, privileges or authority exercised or capable of exercise by any school district of this state, or by any board of education thereof, may be jointly exercised pursuant to the provisions of a school district interlocal cooperation agreement (emphasis added)."

Although permitting the joint exercise of powers or authority by districts and interlocals, notably missing from this statute is any transfer of the legal responsibility for providing necessary services under the Kansas Special Education for Exceptional Children Act. K.S.A. 72-3410(a)(2) states that, "Each board shall provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) for exceptional children enrolled in the school district (emphasis added)." Thus, while districts are authorized by statute to enter into interlocal agreements for providing special education services, such agreements do not exempt districts from their duty under K.S.A. 72-3410(a)(2) to assure that all exceptional children that are enrolled in the district are provided with a FAPE.

Although not under appeal, the Appeal Committee applies the same analysis to the "child find" responsibilities of districts. The applicable statute, K.S.A. 72-3410(a)(1) says: "Each board shall adopt and implement procedures to assure that all exceptional children residing in the school district, including homeless children, foster care children and children enrolled in private schools, who are in need of special education and related services, are identified, located and evaluated (emphasis added). Nothing in K.S.A. 72-13,000, permitting districts to enter into interlocal agreements, exempts such districts from their child find and FAPE responsibilities under K.S.A. 72-3410.

When member districts of an interlocal or special education cooperative believe the interlocal or cooperative is in breach of the agreement, they may either provide the services themselves, negotiate, take legal action, or use the statutory process for partial or complete termination of the agreement. What member districts cannot do is to use an interlocal or cooperative agreement to absolve themselves of their statutory duties. In short, member districts cannot contract their way out of complying with their legal responsibilities to exceptional children.

The Appeal Committee has reviewed all of the material submitted in this appeal, and has identified no basis to overturn any portion of the report. Therefore, the Appeal Committee finds that there is sufficient evidence to support the findings and conclusions related to Issues one and two in the report.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 22nd day of January, 2025.

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #305
ON AUGUST 12, 2024

DATE OF REPORT: SEPTEMBER 10, 2024

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office by -------- on behalf of her daughter, --------. For the remainder of this report, -------- will be referred to as "the student." -------- will be referred to as "the student's mother." USD #305 will be referred to as "the district."

Investigation of Complaint

On August 13, 2024, the complaint investigator spoke via telephone with Sarah Loquist Berry, General Counsel for the Central Kansas Cooperative in Education (CKCIE). CKCIE provides services for special education for students who are enrolled in the district. On August 21, 2024, the investigator again spoke with the General Counsel via Zoom. Also participating in the call were Tiffany Lowe, Assistant Principal for the student's school of residence and Brandi Duskie, Special Services Coordinator for the district.

The investigation of a formal complaint requires the investigator to contact the complainant in order to gather additional information and verify specific allegations of noncompliance that may be relevant to the investigation. To that end, the investigator left a voicemail message for the parent on August 16, 2024 asking the parent to call the investigator to discuss this complaint. On that same date, the investigator also sent an email to the parent providing contact information for the investigator. On August 28, 2024, the investigator spoke briefly by telephone with the parent who stated that she was a full time student and had been very busy since filing this complaint. The parent told the investigator that because of her busy schedule, she had not been able to contact the investigator. Further, at the time of the August 28, 2024 call from the investigator, the parent was unable to discuss the complaint but stated that she would contact the investigator later in the evening of August 28, 2024.

Having received no return call from the parent the preceding evening, the investigator sent the parent an email on August 29, 2024. In the email of August 29, 2024, the investigator again provided contact information and told the parent that – absent the presentation of additional information by the parent – the investigative findings would be based upon the information provided by the parent in her August 12, 2024 complaint as well as on information obtained from the district by the investigator.

The parent responded via email on August 30, 2024 stating that the email address used by the investigator (while used by the parent for the submission of her complaint) was for an account used only infrequently by the parent. The parent stated that she would be available to talk with the investigator after 3:00 PM on August 30, 2024 and asked the investigator to confirm availability for a call on an email account used more frequently by the parent. The investigator responded on that account telling the parent that the investigator could call at 3:30 PM if that time worked for the parent. The investigator asked the parent to let the investigator know if that time was not workable.

At 3:30 PM on August 30, 2024, the investigator placed another telephone call to the parent and, when the parent did not answer, left another voicemail message telling the parent that the investigator would be available for the next hour for a return call. The investigator also sent a text message with the same information. The parent did not return the call or respond to the text message.

In completing this investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed the following materials:

- IEP Progress Report for the student for the period of March 9, 2023 through December 19, 2023
- Section 504/ADA Student Services Plan dated April 17, 2023
- IEP for the student dated January 17, 2024
- IEP Progress Report for the student for the period of January 17, 2024 through May 18, 2024
- Grade Reports for the student covering school years 2021-22 through 2024-25
- District Board of Education Policies regarding Internal Transfers and Nonresident Enrollment dated March 2024
- Transfer and Nonresident Enrollment Information on the district website (https://www.usd305.com/parents/resources/transfer-and-nonresidnet-enrollment-information)

Background Information

This investigation involves a 17-year old girl who is enrolled in the 12th grade in her neighborhood high school. According to the student's current IEP, the parent has reported that the student has diagnoses of Depression and Anxiety as well as Ulcerative Colitis. The student also has been diagnosed with ADHD but refuses to take prescribed medication.

Medical issues have contributed to the student missing many days of school. During the student's freshman year (9th grade), she missed 34 days of school. During her sophomore year (10th grade), she was absent for over 42 days. During the student's junior year (11th grade), she missed 64 days of school. The majority of these absences were considered excused.

Under IEPs developed during the student's sophomore and junior years, she has been receiving special education support to address deficits in the area of math as well as identified needs with regard to the planning, organizing, initiating and completing of tasks. She has struggled with time management and maintaining attention to task. Her organizational needs have impacted her ability to keep class work together in a place where it can easily be located.

Since the last revision of the student's IEP on January 17, 2024, the student's needs have been addressed through the implementation of two annual goals and through the provision of 5 accommodations. According to that IEP,

- when given an assessment, the student would be provided with a separate, quiet, or individual setting within which to complete the assessment;
- assignments were to be presented one page at a time so that the instructor could check for understanding before moving on;
- the student would be given preferential seating whenever complete focus was required;
- when note-taking was required, the student would be provided fill-in-the-blank notes with a full copy of notes to supplement/fill in any missing material; and
- the student was allowed to use a calculator for completing math assignments or assessments (unless basic calculation skills were being assessed).

A Section 504/ADA Student Services Plan was developed for the student on April 17, 2023 while the student was in 10th grade. The student, the parent, a school counselor, the assistant principal, the student's case manager, and two instructors developed the plan to address needs associated with "a*ttendance due to health causes" – specifically the student's Ulcertive Colitis. That plan, which was in place throughout the student's 11th grade year, allowed the student to "use the school nurse as needed*." If the student missed school, she would be given additional time to make up missed assignments.

The plan also allowed the student to use an alternative setting in the school – the school office – rather than remaining in her classroom when she was fatigued. By report of the assistant principal, this accommodation was put in place to encourage the student to remain in school rather than going home when she didn't feel well. It was thought that the accommodation would help minimize missed assignments and lessen the impact of absences.

According to the assistant principal, the student was discouraged from coming to the office alternative setting during core content classes or during special education service time. Before coming to the office, the student was to first report to the nurse who would contact the parent to inform the parent that the student was reporting fatigue. If the student asked to remain in the office for an extended period (which could include core content or special education classes) because she felt she could not get comfortable using the beanbag chair available for her in the office, the parent was to be notified.

Issues

In her complaint, the parent asserts that the student was bullied throughout her sophomore and junior years which led to flare-ups of her colitis. The parent states that she requested a transfer of the student to another high school so that the student could escape ongoing bullying, but the district denied that request even though the student is receiving services under an IEP. The parent further contends that the student was not appropriately served under her 504 plan because it was not appropriate to isolate the student instead of protecting her from those students who bullied her.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

Not every action taken by a school district with regard to a student who has been determined to be a student with an exceptionality is covered under special education law. Similarly, special education law does not address everything experienced by an exceptional student within a school setting. At K.A.R. 91-40-51, Kansas regulations state that, when filing a formal complaint, the complainant must allege that a violation of federal or state special education laws or regulations has occurred during the 12-month period preceding the date the complaint is received and filed with the commissioner of education.

In her written complaint, the parent presented several concerns, many of which are not eligible for investigation under this complaint process as they do not represent an allegation that the district violated state or federal special education legal requirements (K.A.R. 91-40-51(a)). Concerns focused on alleged bullying, for example, are not eligible for investigation through this process. Likewise, district transfer policies are not covered by special education laws. This investigator does not, therefore, have the authority to resolve these concerns. However, this complaint investigation can and must determine, based on the parent's complaint, whether these underlying concerns impacted the student's right to FAPE. (K.S.A. 72-3410(a)(2); K.A.R. 91-40-2, -51(a).) "FAPE" (free appropriate public education) is defined as special education and related services that are provided in conformity with an individualized education program (K.A.R. 91-40-1(z).

In this complaint, the parent also alleges that an accommodation provided to the student under a Section 504 plan failed to properly address the student's needs. As stated in a letter to the parties dated August 12, 2024 from the Education Program Consultant for the Special Education and Title Services division of the Kansas State Department of Education,

> "This complaint process may be used only for alleged violations of special education laws and regulations. There are times when an allegation may involve more than one law…[T]his complaint process will only address the special education process. Complaints regarding alleged violations of Section 504 must be presented to the Office for Civil Rights [OCR]…"

If the parent believes that the student's current Section 504 plan is not appropriately addressing the student's needs, the parent may file a complaint with OCR or she may request a meeting with the student's Section 504 team to discuss that plan.

Investigative Findings

Bullying:

The parent reports that the student has been bullied in classes and hallways during school time and outside of school by a former boyfriend and the girl that the former boyfriend was dating. According to the district, the student was on August 23, 2023 involved in an altercation off school grounds with the new girlfriend. According to the assistant principal, following that altercation the district made sure that the student did not have any classes with either the former boyfriend or his new girlfriend and kept the students separate during passing times and lunch periods.

The student's former boyfriend stopped attending school on September 27, 2023 and formally withdrew from school on November 27, 2023. The girlfriend also stopped attending the high school shortly after the off-school-grounds altercation with the student.

Neither the student's former boyfriend nor his current girlfriend are attending the student's high school of enrollment/residence for the 2024-25 school year. One of the students has graduated, and the other has dropped out of school with the intention of obtaining a GED.

Attendance records provided by the district show that the student spent part of 16 school days in the alternative setting (office) during the 2023-24 school year, first taking advantage of the accommodation on August 28, 2023. On the majority of these 16 days, the student left only one (on 8 days) or two (on 5 days) classes. The record shows that the student did not miss any special education classes on those 13 days. The student utilized the office accommodation on one day in each of the months of August and September. The accommodation was implemented on two days in each of the months of January, March, and April. The student went to the office on three days in November and five days in May. The student did not come to the office during the months of October, December, or February.

During the 2023-24 school year, the student did not attend school on 64 days. The attendance record shows that the student missed most or all of 42 school days due to illness and 13 additional whole or part days because of appointments. Family emergencies of out-of-town travel accounted for 6 additional days of absence.

For the 2024-25 school year, the student has enrolled in and has been attending the high school she has previously attended, having missed three days of the first week of school.

Transfer Request:

According to policies established by the Board of Education for the district last revised on October 13, 2020,

> "A student shall enroll in his/her assigned attendance center except where a special assignment is granted or made. A lawful custodian or school administrator may request a pupil be assigned to a school other than the school indicated by the student's legal residence. Requests must be approved by the executive director of educational programs.

The student's legal residence will be construed to mean the abode or home where the legal guardian(s) resides except when the student is 18 years of age or older and is no longer dependent upon his/her family. Reasons for considering a special assignment are the following:

Additional conditions for special assignments include the following:

Health of Student: A statement prepared by a licensed physician must accompany the request for assignment. The statement must state explicitly the nature of the disability and why the desired school will be more beneficial to the student's health. Length of Assignment: Determined by the executive director of educational programs.

Administrative Recommendation: A building administrator or the executive director of educational programs may recommend the initiate a special assignment (sic) when there are substantial educational reasons to indicate that a change in schools may be in the best interest of the pupil. This includes matters of personal safety and/or emotional well-being. Length of assignment: For the current school year.

In March of 2024, the Board of Education for the district established additional specific policies regarding internal transfers. According to those policies, "the school that resident students are attending in 2023-2024 will be considered the student's attending school moving forward."

This student attended Central High School for the 2023-24 school year. At that time, the student also resided within the attendance boundaries of Central High School as she does currently. Although the student had been granted a transfer to attend a middle school outside of her residence area, she has been enrolled in Central High School since her sophomore year. According to district policies, if a student who has been granted a transfer chooses to return to their school of legal residence, "the student will not be eligible for a future transfer."

District policies state that "a transfer application will be required for the 2024-25 school year." Applications for transfer were made available online as of March 6, 2024 or could be requested at the district office. The number of available seats for each building was posted on the district website on March 6, 2024. According to district policies, "applications [would] only be accepted for buildings that have not exceeded school or grade-level capacity." According to the district website (https://www.usd305.com/parents/resources/transfer-and-nonresidnet-enrollment-information), there are no open seats at any grade level in the high school to which the parent has requested the student be allowed to transfer.

Applications for transfer were due by March 27, 2024 at 5:00 PM. According to policies, applications received after the deadline would not be accepted. Open seats would be filled through a drawing with a waiting list established should a seat become available at a later date.

No evidence was provided by the parent to show that a formal request for the transfer of the student was submitted by the March 27, 2024 deadline. In a Zoom call with the investigator and others on August 21, 2024, the assistant principal reported that the parent did speak with the secretary for the Deputy Superintendent for the district about a transfer. According to the assistant principal, the parent was told that there were no openings at the requested high school. It was also reported that the parent made a verbal request for transfer for the student with the district's Curriculum Coordinator.

The assistant principal told the investigator that she met with the student and the parent on August 12, 2024. According to the assistant principal, the parent requested that the student be allowed to transfer to another high school to avoid the bullying that had triggered colitis flare-ups for the student during the 2023-24 school year. The assistant principal told the investigator during a Zoom conference call on August 21, 2024 that, until the parent informed her of the cause of flare-ups during the previous year, she had not been aware of any connection between alleged bullying and colitis flare-ups.

The assistant principal reported that during the August 12, 2024 meeting she asked the student why she wanted to transfer out of her high school of residence. According to the assistant principal, the student stated that she did not want to leave the school and preferred to graduate with the students she had been with since her sophomore year.

FAPE:

According to the IEP Progress Reports for the student, she made adequate progress toward attainment of all her annual goals for the first and second semester of the 2023-24 school year.

The IEP Progress Reports for the third and fourth quarter of the 2023-24 school year indicate that the student made progress – although minimal – toward attainment of her math goal. Progress was also made on attainment of her organizational goal during the third quarter of the school year, but the student failed to demonstrate adequate progress on this goal during the fourth quarter.

According to the student's grade report, she had, by the beginning of her senior year, earned 21 of the 24 credits needed for graduation despite having failed one class (Graphic Design 2D) during the first semester of her junior year as well as 3 of 7 credit courses during the second semester (English, Physical Science, and Study Skills).

No evidence was provided by the parent to show that the special education services required by the student under her current IEP are unavailable to the student in her high school of residence.

Summary and Conclusions

In her complaint, the parent alleged several issues which are not covered under special education laws. While this investigation cannot focus on these non-special education issues, this investigator must determine whether the actions of the district resulted in a denial of FAPE to the student.

The district followed its established policies when denying the request for the transfer of the student. No evidence was provided by the parent to show that the student's special education needs could not be addressed or were not being addressed in her building of residence, and that the denial of a transfer resulted in the loss of FAPE. Neither of the students whose alleged bullying behavior had, by report of the parent, triggered colitis flare-ups for the student were attending the student's school after the first few weeks of the 2023-24 school year, and neither are enrolled in the school for the 2024-25 school year.

No evidence was provided by the parent to show that it was the implementation of a Section 504 plan that led to the student's minimal progress toward attainment of annual goals or to the student's having failed a number of classes. On the contrary, the student was able to remain in school and attend the majority of her classes on days when the 504 plan's office accommodation was utilized. It appears far more likely that the student's complete absence from school for 64 days during the 2023-24 school year played a greater role in the student's progress or lack thereof.

A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not established on the issues presented in this complaint.

Corrective Action

Background Information

This investigation involved a second-grade student who attends an elementary school within the same special education cooperative but outside of their resident district in USD #458. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) due to Autism, speech and language delay, and a hearing loss.

The current complaint coincides with a period of interaction between the Parent, the District, and the Kansas Department of Education. Multiple complaints filed by the Parent during this timeframe resulted in scheduled mediations and a Due Process Hearing convened on September 16, 2024. While the outcomes of those prior complaints hold no direct relevance to the present complaint, it is important to note the overlap in the timeframe.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and the Director of Special Education for the District.

1. A May 1, 2023 IEP indicated the Parent's participation in the IEP development and included information and documentation regarding the Student's strengths and needs in the areas of fine motor, gross motor, language, reading, math, sensory, and social/emotional. Placement considerations were the following:
    a. The Projected Date of the Annual Review was April 30, 2024.
    b. The Special Considerations Section indicated that the Student did not require Assistive Technology devices and/or services and was not considered deaf or hearing impaired.
    c. A continuum of six different placements was considered.
    d. Placement Selected:
        i. "Special Education Direct Services in a General Education Classroom in a[n] Elementary or Secondary Building"; and
        ii. "Special Education Classroom in General Education Elementary or Secondary Building."
    e. Placement decisions regarding possible harmful effects were discussed.
    f. Placement Considerations:
        i. "Is the nature or severity of the student's disability such that placement in the regular education environment with supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily?"
            1. Marked "Yes:" "The team determined that [the Student] would most greatly benefit from placement within a specialized program that would meet [their] social/behavioral needs more directly than the regular education environment with supplementary aids and services only. [The Student] will be away from [their] non-disabled peers during written expression, small group reading, social studies, science, [and] whole group math."

ii. "Is the student's placement as close as possible to the student's home and/or in the school he/she would attend if nondisabled … ?"

1. Marked "No:" "The team determined that [the Student's] least restrictive environment was within a specialized program housed at a school that is not [the Student's] neighborhood school." (D370-D388)

2. A January 3, 2024 Notice of Meeting indicated a meeting to "address parent concerns" was scheduled for January 12, 2024. (D70-D71)
3. A January 18, 2024 Notice of Meeting indicated a meeting to "discuss parent concerns" was scheduled for January 24, 2024 and was signed by the Parent on January 18, 2024. (D68-D69)
4. Meeting Notes and a PWN from January 24, 2024 indicated a change in the IEP. The Student met two communication goals, and two new goals were added. All other IEP services and goals remained the same. The meeting notes included a conversation regarding missed IEP services due to inconsistent staffing and options for providing compensatory services. (D74-D79, D526-D528)
5. In an interview, the Director of Special Education shared that in January 2024, the Student had achieved some of their speech goals, so new goals were set. However, these new goals were mistakenly left out of the Student's IEP, leading to confusion. Progress Reports from March 2024 showed data from the old goals, even though the Student was working on the new ones. According to the Director of Special Education, this error was acknowledged, and the reports were re-issued with the correct goals. The Director of Special Education described that the Student "made progress in speech despite their hearing loss." (Director of Special Education Interview, P12, 32:42)
6. In an interview, the Director of Special Education indicated that "… the District received the audiogram on February 1, 2024. The information was considered and addressed in the IEP meeting … on April 10th … ." (Director of Special Education Interview, P4, 11:37)
7. A March 3, 2024 Notice of Meeting indicated a meeting to "[d]iscuss possible [IEP] changes" and "[c]onduct an annual [IEP] review" and was scheduled for March 29, 2024. (D80-D82)
8. The Progress Report for the IEP year May 1, 2023 through March 13, 2024 indicated that the Student was making progress in five of ten goal areas and had met their goals in the remaining five areas. (D356-D362)
9. On March 22, 2024, the Special Education Teacher emailed the Parent, "I just wanted to follow-up [sic] on our conversation from this morning. I talked with the team and they all were in agreement that we can move the annual IEP to April and proceed with the BIP meeting this Friday, March 29th. I will chat more with everyone to see what dates in April work best for that annual IEP meeting. I will send you a couple of dates to see what works best with your schedule." (D390)

10. On March 26, 2024, the Parent completed the Notice of Parent's Request for Special Education Due Process Hearing. (D490) The District received the Notice on the same day and indicated that a "resolution session was convened within 15 days of the receipt of request for due process." April 10, 2024 was listed as the "date of the resolution session." The District and Parents signed and dated the document and marked, "We agree to use the mediation process (This will retain the 30[-]day resolution period)." (D493)
11. On March 28, 2024, the School Psychologist emailed the IEP Team and the Parent and attached documents related to a Functional Behavior Assessment (FBA) and Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) for a March 29, 2024 IEP meeting. The Parent responded on the same day, "I am reaching out to address some confusion we as parents have encountered regarding the recent email correspondence with [the Special Education Teacher] and [the School Psychologist] regarding [the Student's] IEP meeting." The Parent wrote, "We kindly request that the team and [the District], [Director of Special Education] provide clarification, verification, and confirmation in a transparent and easily understandable manner, with detailed sources, to explain why [the District] is requesting [the Parents] to attend an official IEP meeting in light of this information." The Special Education Teacher apologized for the confusion and wrote, "Tomorrow, Friday March 29th we will conduct a BIP meeting to discuss the FBA and BIP. We will not be holding an annual review of [the Student's] IEP. However, we will be able to schedule a date for the annual review at that meeting." (D389-D390)

    The Director of Special Education replied on March 28, 2024 to explain the purpose of the scheduled IEP meeting and how it correlated with the complaint investigation results, including certain required timelines and actions. The Director of Special Education mentioned a required team meeting due by April 16, 2024 for a different issue and listed options for the Parent. The Director of Special Education wrote, "Since the annual review is due before May 1, 2024 you can choose whether to schedule two separate meetings or add this to the agenda while conducting the annual review".

    The Director of Special Education listed attendees for the March 29, 2024 IEP meeting to discuss the FBA and BIP and clarified that the original meeting notice was sent on March 3, 2024. The Director of Special Education wrote, "There could be confusion regarding the phrase 'IEP meeting.' On the Notice of Meeting there is a list of several options as to why the IEP team can convene. Based on the Notice that was sent on 3/3/24 the options selected were to 'Discuss possible changes in your child's [IEP]; and 'Conduct an annual review of your child's [IEP].' My understanding, based on the email correspondence you attached, is that there was a request to only review the FBA and BIP and to move the annual review to April. So, the IEP team can meet if you are agreeable to changing the purpose of the meeting to 'Discuss possible changes in your child's [IEP]' and 'Other: Discuss results from [FBA] and review [BIP],' and that the school invited additional people to the meeting. The revised Notice is attached to this email." (D389-D391)

12. On March 28, 2024, the Director of Special Education sent a follow-up email and said, "There has been a lot of information to take in this week. If you would prefer, we are happy to reschedule. The only issue is that the timeline for the FBA is 60 days, and if we reschedule we would have to extend the evaluation timeline, which requires your consent. Please let us know if you would like to reschedule … ."

    The Parent replied, "As you mentioned, we have already rescheduled the meeting that was initially set for March 29, 2024, and the IEP team for [the Student] has agreed to this rescheduling for a later date in April 2024. However, I would like to seek clarification on your recent email. It seems to imply that there is a plan for an IEP meeting tomorrow without prior notice. Could you please provide an explanation for this and clarify the circumstances surrounding the proposed meeting? … The tone of your email has raised concerns that you, [the Director of Special Education], [the School], and [the District], are pressuring us into complying with demands that could infringe upon our rights." (D392)

13. A March 28, 2024 Notice of Meeting described a meeting to "[d]iscuss possible [IEP] changes" and to "[d]iscuss results from Functional Behavior Assessment [FBA] and review Behavior Intervention Plan [BIP]" and was scheduled for March 29, 2024. (D83-D85)

14. On March 29, 2024, email exchanges occurred between the Parent and the Director of Special Education regarding an IEP meeting scheduled for that day. The Director of Special Education explained that the Parent received a meeting notice on March 3, 2024 to review the FBA and BIP information. The Director of Special Education wrote, "My intent is to clarify that today is indeed an IEP meeting, although not an annual review since we are discussing changes to [the Student's] IEP (the BIP is part of the IEP)." They asked the Parent if they wanted to reschedule or proceed with the scheduled meeting.

    The Parent acknowledged receipt of the Notice of Meeting on March 3, 2024, and added that they had also received confirmation on March 22, 2024 that the IEP Team agreed to reschedule the IEP meeting in April 2024. Their understanding was that the March 29, 2024 meeting was to "discuss data and answer questions about data, that today was NOT [emphasis added] an IEP meeting." They added, "Your email responses have made us feel that you are compelling us and the IEP team to meet and deliberately schedule an IEP MEETING for TODAY [emphasis added] while only providing [Notice of Meeting] yesterday 3/27/2024. Because we fear direct reprisal against us as parents, [the Student], and members of the IEP team, pending future interactions and their outcomes with [the District] we will [emphasis added] be at [the School] today at 1 pm. … Your conduct for us is a blatant retaliation for the [Agency] report."

The Director of Special Education replied, "My intent is to provide clear, direct communication so that everyone can make decisions that are in [the Student's] best interest. Given that there is clear confusion about the IEP meeting today, I am cancelling [sic] the meeting scheduled for 1:00 [p.m.] today. We will reschedule the meeting prior to April 15th, as required by the timeline given. In addition, we will have legal counsel at our next meeting. You have the right to bring guests as well. We will be in touch to set up the next meeting." (D393-D394)

15. In a March 29, 2024 email exchange, the Parent asked the Special Education Teacher, "In light of [the Director of Special Education] cancelling [sic] the IEP meeting, would you still be willing to meet with me today at 1 pm to discuss methodology in regards to [the Student] as previously agreed upon?" The Special Education Teacher replied, "We are not able to meet outside of the time that we have scheduled for our team meetings. Transparency fosters trust and ensures that everyone is hearing the same message and on the same page to do what is best for [the Student]." (D531)
16. The Parent described in an interview that the March 29, 2024 meeting "was to go over the behavioral, it was an FBA that was due on [the Student] and we were just going to go over that data and hold off on the IEP meeting. We were currently doing [a] mediation situation. We were going through the formal complaint process, attempting to do mediation, and so we were holding off." (Parent Interview, P7, 18:14)
17. A March 29, 2024 email from the Director of Special Education to the Parent listed two dates in April 2024 to schedule the next IEP meeting. They also notified the Parent of the duration and location of the meeting and a proposed agenda. It was noted that once the Parent picked a date, a Notice of Meeting would be sent. (D363)
18. An April 1, 2024 Notice of Meeting indicated a meeting to "conduct an annual review" of the IEP and "[d]iscuss results from [FBA] and review [BIP]" was scheduled for April 10, 2024 and signed by the Parent on April 2, 2024. (D86-D87)
19. April 10, 2024 IEP amendments showed an updated present levels statement in the area of health to reflect the unilateral hearing loss and the addition of support for school personnel via consultation with the DHH Teacher for 15 minutes, one day every 4th week. The accommodations of minimizing background noise, using closed captioning, preferential seating, and getting the Student's attention before speaking to them were added to the IEP. (P17-P36)
20. April 10, 2024 Meeting Notes indicated the Parent's participation in the meeting and included the following topics of discussion:
    a. Reviewing the PWN section of the Special Education Process Handbook.
    b. Reviewing the due process resolution process and mediation.

c. Reviewing the FBA and BIP.
d. A new diagnosis of hearing impairment and the determination to amend the current IEP to add related services and accommodations.
e. "Determine whether [the Student] was denied educational benefit because of the disruption in education services and whether compensatory education is needed to make up for the denial including addressing any skills that [may] have been lost." The Team agreed to discuss this topic during mediation.
f. "[The Parent] did not want to review the draft IEP at this time. The team decided to wait to review the draft IEP until after a mediation session." (D88-D89)

21. In an interview, the Director of Special Education indicated that there was no discussion about an Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC) device at the April 10, 2024 meeting. (Director of Special Education Interview, P3, 7:21)
22. An April 15, 2024 PWN for the April 10, 2024 IEP meeting indicated:
    a. "Addition of the [FBA] and [BIP]."
    b. Updated present levels of performance in the areas of health to address the recent hearing loss diagnosis.
    c. An agreement to amend the IEP to reflect the above services and accommodations rather than conducting an annual review.
    d. The Team's discussion regarding the denial of educational benefits because of a disruption in services and possible compensatory services.
    e. "The team proposed determining if the nature or severity of [the Student's] disability is such that placement in the regular education environment with supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily." It was noted that a draft IEP documenting that the Team addressed this prompt was provided to the Parent, but the Team did not continue with the annual review of the draft IEP per the Parent's request.
    f. The Parent gave consent for the changes and signed the PWN on April 18, 2024. (D90-D95)
23. "Clinical Documentation" from the Hospital, dated May 6, 2024, described the Student's hearing testing, diagnosis, summary, findings, and recommendations. It stated, "Due to the severity of the hearing loss, traditional amplification is no longer an appropriate recommendation as the device would not provide enough power to properly aid [the Student's] loss." It was noted that the Student had "normal hearing" in one ear, which indicated "adequate auditory access for speech-language development." The report mentioned, "We reviewed communication goals, and [the Parent] understands that [the Student] may benefit from exploring multi-modal communication – especially if speech development is not progressing or is difficult to understand. [The Parent] understands that [American Sign Language] ASL or augmentative alternative communication (AAC) devices could be incorporated should [the Student] show improved communications using these resources."

Relevant recommendations for the School/District were to "continue with therapy/school support per primary therapist" and "consider multi-modal communication strategies to increase access to language." (D365-D367)

24. A May 7, 2024 Notice of Meeting indicated a meeting to conduct an annual IEP review and discuss possible IEP changes was scheduled for May 13, 2024. (P9)
25. A May 8, 2024 email indicated the Parent sent the Hearing Clinical Documentation report to the Deaf and Hard of Hearing (DHH) Teacher. (P14) The Parent confirmed in an interview that they shared the May 6, 2024 Hearing report to the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Teacher and scheduled an IEP meeting for May 13, 2024. That meeting was later rescheduled for May 21, 2024. (Parent Interview, P3, 8:12)
26. A May 9, 2024 email from the School Psychologist notified the IEP Team that the annual IEP meeting was being rescheduled from May 13, 2024 to May 21, 2024 in order to have time to receive an additional audiology report for the Student. A Notice of Meeting documented this change. (D110-D111, P5)
27. On May 13, 2024, the Mediator emailed the District and wrote that the Parent communicated to the Mediator that "they would like to end post-mediation discussions and move forward with their due process and formal complaints." (D503)
28. On May 14, 2024, the Parent confirmed in an email to the Special Education Teacher that the Student would be participating in Applied Behavior Analysis (ABA) instead of Extended School Year (ESY) during the summer. (P8)
29. On May 17, 2024, the Deaf and Hard of Hearing Teacher emailed the Parent to check if the Parent had received "any other medical records this week." The Parent replied the same day and shared, "We have an appointment next Friday to review [the Student's] results and information." (P15)
30. In a May 20, 2024 email, the Director of Special Education stated, "We are canceling the IEP meeting scheduled for tomorrow for [the Student]. As a reminder, the purpose of tomorrow's meeting was to conduct the annual review for [the Student] which includes the most recent health information, specifically, [their] hearing loss." It then listed reasons for canceling:
    a. "On April 10th we met to have the annual review, but this did not occur because both parties agreed to wait until after mediation was complete. Since we did not reach resolution via mediation, we are at the same point as at the April 10th meeting."
    b. "[The Student] has had some additional appointments regarding [their] hearing loss. When I spoke with [the DHH Teacher] last week [they] did not have the most recent report from [the Hospital]. The team will use this report to consider how to address the need in the IEP. If the report is available, please send it [the DHH Teacher's] way so that it can be reviewed and we can reschedule the annual review, which includes addressing [the Student's] hearing loss."

"If you would like to meet tomorrow to attempt to come to a resolution, please let me know. The meeting tomorrow would be an opportunity to resolve any concerns that you have documented." (D112)

The Parent responded to the Director of Special Education on May 20, 2024 stating that they had sent [the DHH Teacher] the Student's audiology report, including the diagnosis and results. They added, "We seem to be a bit confused about the request for [the Student's] medical results from [their] MRI and EKG to address [their] hearing loss. … Could you kindly clarify if these medical records are necessary for the district to provide services for [the Student]? Additionally, we are interested in knowing which qualified team member will be reviewing [the Student's] personal medical records. Could you please share the policy or law that outlines why [the District] requires access to [the Student's] private medical records for [them] to receive [Free Appropriate Public Education] FAPE?"

The Director of Special Education replied, "You are not required to provide any medical reports for the team. If you choose to share, the IEP team is required to consider the information in making decisions for [the Student]. The records that I was referencing were in regard to the hearing loss specifically and the possibility of the hearing loss being degenerative." The Director of Special Education shared that the DHH Teacher would interpret the medical information regarding the hearing loss.

The Parent responded that moving forward, they would no longer be sharing additional medical documentation because they had already provided all necessary details, such as "test results, diagnosis, and treatment options." They also stated, "The recent cancellation of [the Student's] IEP meeting after suggesting mediation and resolution has raised concerns for us. By choosing to cancel the meeting and making comments implying a need for resolution without elaboration, it has left us unsure of the direction you intend to take. We firmly believe that there is already substantial medical documentation available to facilitate the implementation of appropriate accommodations and to allow the team to assess the recent results objectively." The Parent added that they believed the Student was being targeted and that their rights were being infringed upon. (D112-D114)

31. In an interview, the Director of Special Education indicated that one of the reasons the May 21, 2024 IEP meeting was canceled was because "… we were in due process at that time and we were also in mediation. We had met on … April 10th to have an IEP meeting, but it ended up being an amendment [meeting] where we discussed the most recent results that we had regarding [the Student's] hearing loss … and made some changes to [the Student's] IEP." The Director of Special Education indicated that at the April 10, 2024 meeting, "[The Parent] said it was degenerative hearing loss. [The Parent] states that, and so we were like … well, we will consider any of that medical information once we have it, because that's what we do. Any medical information, we take it, we consider it and how that's going to affect programming for the Student moving forward." According to the Director of Special Education, "We didn't receive any additional information regarding [the Student's] hearing loss specifically. We didn't receive anything related to it being degenerative, which could potentially impact how we programmed for [the Student] which was alluded to many times in the 4/10/24 IEP meeting."

The Director of Special Education described additional reasons they canceled the May 21, 2024 IEP meeting and referred to an email they sent the Parent detailing the reasons. The Director of Special Education said, "The first one was because on April 10th, we agreed to go to mediation because there was [sic] some trust issues. And so we said, okay, let's not do the annual review. Let's go through mediation, get some resolution, and then we can move forward from there. Well, the mediation ended without resolution, so we were in the same place there. And then, basically, the second reason was … we were going to get more information regarding that degenerative hearing loss, and we did not receive that. Therefore, there was nothing to take action on. Yes, the annual review, but we couldn't have the annual review because [the Parent] doesn't trust us. … So now we're in due process. So we did not move forward with an annual review at that time." (Director of Special Education Interview, P1, 1:05)

32. In an interview, the Parent indicated that the Student's May 13, 2024 IEP meeting was rescheduled for staffing scheduling issues. That meeting was rescheduled for May 21, 2024 and then canceled by the Director of Special Education, and, according to the Parent, "… [The Student's] IEP went noncompliant for four months over the summer and the end of the school year, partially beginning of the new school year. And we were not allowed to have that meeting because, according to the director, we did not meet a resolution in mediation and [the Director] wanted access to … [the Student's] medical doctor." (Parent Interview, P1, 1:18)
33. According to the Parent, the May 21, 2024 meeting "was an opportunity for my [Spouse] and I to bring a new diagnosis. … [The Student] was diagnosed with unilateral deafness, and that was an opportunity for us to bring that to the meeting so that we could get accommodations and set up any type of support systems for … [the Student]. [The Student] struggles with autism, ADHD, unilateral deafness, and vision issues. … And so this would give us an opportunity to kind of participate and help [the Student], and unfortunately, we were not provided that. And so we had to go through other alternatives throughout the summer and throughout … the end of the school year for assistance for children with deaf-hard of hearing. We had to go through … our hospital to learn sign language. We had to go through our insurance to help us purchase an AAC device. We had to get classes on how to help [the Student] in public school, whether or not it was an appropriate setting for [the Student] so that when the Director allowed us to have a meeting, we could ask these questions. We could formulate a plan with the team. Unfortunately, we were not provided that opportunity … until the beginning of the school year." (Parent Interview, P1, 2:15) The Parent believed, "… When we were denied the meeting and our doctor on the prognosis said that [the Student] needed an AAC device because of [the Student's] communication issues … that would be the best outcome. And because we weren't allowed to go through [the School], we had to go through our insurance, we had to go through a private speech therapist to get an assessment done so that [the Private Speech Therapist] could send it to our insurance so that we could get approved … We had to send in all that paperwork so that [the Student] could get an AAC device … ." (Parent Interview, P4, 9:55)

34. Regarding the Student's least restrictive environment, the Parent described in an interview that "there were no concerns because we didn't know to have any concerns. We didn't know what the options were. [The Student's] in a SLC room, a structural learning classroom, and [the Student] goes to gen[eral] ed[ucation] class part of the time. But for [the Student's] diagnosis, we weren't asking for anything other than change of school, change of replacement [sic], but [the Student] was restricted in the fact that nothing was done until September, and [the Student] had this diagnosis and we had to reach out to [the] School for the Deaf to have [the Student] evaluated … ." (Parent Interview, P5, 14:10)
35. The District Calendar listed the last day of school for the 2023-2024 school year as May 24, 2024. The District Calendar listed the first day of school for the 2024-2025 school year as August 13, 2024. (District Website)
36. The Parent filed an insurance claim on behalf of the Student on July 8, 2024 that was processed on July 13, 2024. The Claim Details indicated that the Insurance company paid $3,746.25 to a company and that no money was paid to the Parent. The Claim Details section does not describe the specifics of the request. (P16)
37. The Director of Special Education shared in an interview that the May 21, 2024 IEP meeting was not rescheduled until August 15, 2024, "In August, it was scheduled … our school year ended at the end of the year in May. People were [off] duty and then we scheduled it in August. Even though Due Process was still in play, we did not come to mediation. We wanted to meet together to try to come to [a] consensus on items, and we were able to successfully do that." (Director of Special Education Interview, P3, 7:29) The Director of Special indicated that they did not receive any additional documentation or additional diagnoses for the Student between May 20, 2024 and August 15, 2024. (Director of Special Education Interview, P3, 8:40)
38. The Director of Special Education said in an interview, "… We had been advised from [the State] Department of Education that because we're in Due Process, that actually in the timeline for [the] IEP, it's on pause, so you're not in violation of not having the IEP meeting." The Director of Special Education shared, "Now we're in Due Process, and that was not scheduled until September 16, [2024]. So, I guess in my mind … we're at a standstill right now … . Mediation, we could not come to consensus. I'm not sure what we're going to accomplish in an annual review because we're in the very same place that we ended when we tried to have the annual review before. But in the meantime, now [the Parent's] asking for an annual review. And so we did acquiesce. … So we did have an IEP review … on 8/15, which moved us into the new school year." (Director of Special Education Interview, P9, 23:23)

39. An August 13, 2024 Notice of Meeting indicated that a meeting to review the IEP and discuss possible changes was scheduled for August 15, 2024. It was signed by the Parent indicating their planned attendance and willingness to waive the 10-day notice on August 15, 2024. (D138-D139)
40. The August 15, 2024 IEP included Parent concerns, current performance in language, fine motor, reading, math, social/emotional, independence, challenging behavior, sensory, adaptive behavior, and a hearing update.
    a. The Sign Language section described, "The IEP team has identified the following situations where sign language support in the related service and/or classroom settings could be utilized in an effort to reinforce [the Student's] understanding: Signing wh- questions, signing targeted content vocabulary (such as 'all together' in the area of math), signing classroom routines & directions (sit down, stand up, line up, open your book, etc). Additionally, sign language may assist [the Student] if [the Student] is dysregulated by providing a visual mode of communication instead of bombarding [the Student] with verbal requests. [The Student] may also be more able to sign "help" rather than verbalize it if [the Student] is escalated."
    b. The Special Considerations section described that the Student required Assistive Technology devices and/or services and had communication needs that were addressed in the IEP. The Student was deaf or hearing impaired, and the IEP team has considered the student's language and communication needs, opportunities for direct communication with peers and professionals in the student's language and communication mode, academic level, and full range of needs, including opportunities for direct instruction in the student's language and communication mode in the development of the IEP."
    c. Baselines, Goals, and Benchmarks/Objectives were listed.
    d. The Related Services listed included Adapted PE, Attendant Care, OT, OT consultation, and Special Education Transportation.
    e. Special Education Services, including Speech/Language Therapy and "specials," were listed.
    f. The Student's Extent of Participation in Regular Education indicated, "… the student will not participate 100% of the time with non-disabled peers in the regular education environment. The regular education environment includes all academic instruction as well as meals, recess, assemblies, field trips, etc. [The Student] will not participate with [their] non-disabled peers when [the Student] is receiving special education services in the special education setting. [The Student] will be away from [their] non-disabled peers during written expression, small group reading, social studies, science, whole group math." The Student will participate in regular physical education and will have an equal opportunity to participate in extracurricular activities offered.

g. The following Placement Considerations and Decisions were listed:
   i. "Alternative School";
   ii. "Regular class environment with supplementary aids and services";
   iii. Special Education Direct Services in a General Education Classroom in a[n] Elementary or Secondary Building";
   iv. "Outside regular class 21-60% of time";
   v. "Outside regular class more than 60% of time"; and
   vi. "Special Education Classroom in General Education Elementary or Secondary Building."

h. Placement Selected:
   i. "Special Education Direct Services in a General Education Classroom in a[n] Elementary or Secondary Building"; and
   ii. "Special Education Classroom in General Education Elementary or Secondary Building."

i. Placement decisions regarding possible harmful effects.

j. Placement Considerations:
   i. "Is the nature or severity of the student's disability such that placement in the regular education environment with supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily?"
      1. Marked Yes: "The team determined that [the Student] would most greatly benefit from [a] placement within a specialized program that would meet [their] social/behavioral needs more directly than the regular education environment with supplementary aids and services only. [The Student] will be away from [their] non-disabled peers during written expression, small group reading, social studies, science, [and] whole group math."
   ii. "Is the student's placement as close as possible to the student's home and/or in the school he/she would attend if nondisabled … ?
      1. Marked No: "The team determined that [the Student's] least restrictive environment was within a specialized program housed at a school that is not [the Student's] neighborhood school." (D158)

k. ESY was considered, and services were described.

l. Program Modifications, Accommodations, and Supplementary Aids and Services included access to alternative writing tools, access to a sentence strip, access to sensory tools, access to visual schedules, alternative seating, minimized background noise, closed captioning, frequent sensory/movement breaks, and optional homework. Additionally, the Teacher for the Deaf will share the ASL signs for certain vocabulary words with the IEP team, and the Student's classroom teacher will use the classroom sound system. The Student will receive assistance during writing tasks, and modeling will be provided during writing assignments. Also, preferential seating, sign language paired with visuals, and standing with scissors were listed. Teachers will repeat or rephrase comments and will secure the Student's attention before speaking to the Student.

m. The Assistive Technology Access Help Form indicated a request to "initiate the use of a sound system in the classroom for [the Student]." According to the notes on the form, "The option of a sound system will assist with signal-to-noise ratio, and potentially improve [the Student's] ability to access language and learning." (D142-D168)

41. Meeting Notes from the August 15, 2024 meeting indicated that the IEP Team discussed various aspects of the Student's needs, including their academic performance and communication challenges. They reviewed the Student's strengths and weaknesses and noted the Student's difficulties with language at home. A key concern was determining the best way to support the Student's communication and education needs, "[The Parent] indicated that [the Student] has a personal communication device, but at this time the focus is ASL instruction. [The Parent] indicated that [the Student] is not using the device at this time. The Team determined that [the Student] does not require an assistive technology device or services." Additionally, the Team discussed the need for goals focused on improving the Student's language skills, "the school team asked [the School for the Deaf] when it is appropriate to create goals that focus on sign vs. verbal language. [The School for the Deaf] shared that this is a unique situation and given that [the Student] has hearing in one ear it would be good to capitalize on [the Student's] hearing at this time." The Team reviewed accommodations and modifications and discussed the creation of visual supports like schedules. They also discussed the Student's most appropriate placement. (D174-D175)

42. An August 15, 2024 PWN described the actions proposed or refused:
    a. "Attendant care in the general education setting for 50 minutes, 5 days per week."
    b. "Special education services in the general education setting for 125 minutes, 5 days per week and 50 minutes, 5 days per week (for specials)."
    c. "Consult Adaptive PE services for 20 minutes, 1 day every other week."
    d. "Special education transportation services for 90 minutes, 5 days per week."
    e. "Occupational therapy services in the special education setting for 20 minutes, 1 day per week, and indirect occupational therapy services for 30 minutes, 1 day every fourth week."

f. "Speech[-]language services in a special education setting for 20 minutes, 2 days per week."
g. "Supports for school personnel for deaf/hard of hearing teacher consultation for 15 minutes every 4th week."
h. BIP.
i. "[The Student] qualifies for Extended School Year [ESY] services."

The Explanation of the proposed action indicated that "Revisions to [the Student's] IEP are necessary to reflect [their] current level of academic performance, functioning, and update annual goals in order to continue to address [the Student's] individual needs. The Student was recently diagnosed with a hearing loss, and deaf/hard of hearing consultation was added to provide teachers and school staff with support and information regarding [the Student's] hearing loss, accommodations, and hearing technology."

The PWN indicated that "The team considered the input from the parent regarding the goals for verbal communication versus a focus only on sign language. The team determined that the goals are appropriate because [the Student] has hearing in one ear and it capitalizes on [the Student's] hearing and verbal communication skills at this time." The Parent signed their consent to the changes on August 22, 2024. (D169-D173)

43. A September 19, 2024 Notice of Meeting indicated a meeting to discuss possible IEP changes was scheduled for October 2, 2024, and was signed by the Parent on October 2, 2024. (D303-D304)
44. The IEP was amended on September 26, 2024 to include "[a]ccess to a speech[-]generating AAC device" in "all areas for the duration of the communication exchange." (D240-D262)
45. A September 25, 2024 IEP Amendment Between Annual IEP Meetings and a PWN indicated a proposed IEP amendment to "indicate a need for assistive technology and add an accommodation that outlines access to a speech[-]generating AAC device." The Parent signed their consent on September 26, 2024. (D265-D268, D270)
46. When asked if it was established at the September 25, 2024 meeting who would be providing the AAC device, the Director of Special Education described in an interview that while they were not at the September 25, 2024 meeting, the "communication device from home was going back and forth." (Director of Special Education Interview, P6, 15:58)
47. October 2, 2024 meeting notes indicated the Parent's participation in the meeting and supported the following amendments documented on the IEP and PWN:

a. "Special Education Services" from October 2, 2024 through August 14, 2025 for "145 minutes 5 days per week" as "Special Ed[ucation] Direct Services in a Regular Ed[ucation] Classroom."
b. "Special Education Services" from October 2, 2024 through August 14, 2025 for "165 minutes 3 days per week" as "Special Ed[ucation] Direct Services outside Regular Ed[ucation] Classrooms, programs, other locations."
c. "Special Education Services" from October 2, 2024 through August 14, 2025 for "185 minutes 2 days per week" as "Special Ed[ucation] Direct Services outside Regular Ed[ucation] Classrooms, programs, other locations." (D294, D306-D307, D308-D312)

48. An October 11, 2024 Notice of Meeting indicated a meeting to "review progress with change in service minutes, discuss reevaluation assessment tools; [and] review progress reports from March 2024 per resolution complaint 25FC458-001" was scheduled for November 19, 2024. The Parent signed the notice on November 19, 2024. (D54-D55)
49. November 19, 2024 meeting notes indicated the Parent participated in the meeting. Discussed topics included:
    a. Complaint resolution.
    b. Previous phone communication that the Parent believed "tainted [their] relationship with [them] and the school." As a result, the Director of Special Education would "plan to not be at future meetings unless there is state complaint/due process or any litigious situation."
    c. Addition of service time and accommodations to the IEP to support the Student with participation in science and social studies.
    d. A Parent request to receive sign language videos once a month instead of once a week. (D57)
50. A November 19, 2024 PWN documented changes to the IEP for science and social studies support (alternating weeks) and was signed by the Parent on December 4, 2024. The IEP was amended to include the following:

    c. "Special Education Services" from November 20, 2024 through August 14, 2025 outside the regular education classroom:
        i. "205 minutes 2 days every other week";
        ii. "185 minutes 3 days every other week";
        iii. "185 minutes 2 days every other week"; and
        iv. "165 minutes 3 days every other week."

d. An accommodation for the Student to attend social studies in the general education classroom when their class "is working on a project or other hands[-]on activity." (D59-D62, D339-340, D346)

51. December 4, 2024, the Parent filed this complaint.
52. The Parent believed that the Student's current placement is the least restrictive for the Student and shared that the Student is excelling. (Parent Interview, P6, 15:35)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #458, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), provided the Parent the opportunity to participate in IEP meetings. K.A.R. 91-40-17 (a).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-17 (a), Agencies (Districts) should take steps to ensure that one or more of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each IEP meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate. Meetings should be scheduled at a mutually agreeable time and place, and parents should be provided information via written notice at least 10 days in advance of the meeting unless the 10-day notice is waived by the parent.

The Parent alleged that on May 20, 2024, the District canceled a meeting unless "certain conditions are met, including granting access to [the Student's] medical records, signing a waiver for the school to communicate with the doctor, and reaching a resolution." (Complaint, 12/17/24)

The District responded, "With respect to the issue of parent's ability to participate in IEP meetings [the District] disagrees with this complaint and feels the … parent had the opportunity to participate meaningfully in IEP meetings." (District Response, no date, D570-D572)

The Parent participated in numerous IEP meetings throughout the year, including those held in January and April of 2024 during the 2023-24 school year and in August, September, October, and November of 2024 during the 2024-25 school year. In each instance, the Parent either received proper notice, requested the meeting themselves, consented to a shorter notice period, or expressed their intention to attend.

While the March 29th, 2024 meeting was initially postponed due to a need for clarification regarding its purpose, it was promptly rescheduled for April 10th, 2024. The Parent acknowledged the revised meeting date and waived the 10-day notice requirement. The May 21, 2024 meeting was postponed due to the District's understanding of procedural timelines during the due process period.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations regarding Parent participation in IEP meetings, the allegation is not substantiated.

Issue Two

Whether USD # 458, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to annually review the Student's IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16, agencies must ensure that a child with special needs has an IEP in effect at the beginning of each school year and in place before receiving any special education or related services. Those services in which written consent is required by law must be implemented no later than ten school days after consent is granted unless a reasonable justification for a delay can be shown. Each teacher and provider must be informed of their responsibilities related to implementing the IEP and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

The Parent alleged that the Student's "annual IEP was non-compliant due to [the Director of Special Education], this would be the 2nd time that year." The Parent indicated that the Student would need "ASL, AAC, and ABA services according to the treatment prognosis for [the Student]" and alleged that they were denied opportunities "… to advocate for [the Student] to modify [their] IEP to include [the Student's] diagnosis which was the direct result of parents being forced to purchase an AAC device with the LAMP communication application." (Complaint, 12/17/24)

The District responded that "the school team began attempts to start the annual IEP review process in late March of 2024 before the required due date. The IEP meeting process was started with the first meeting on 4/10/24. At this time, both parties agreed to address some aspects of the IEP while pausing on other aspects of the IEP until parents and the school team completed mediation. As noted in the timeline, communication continued between parents and the school in an attempt to resolve disagreements including responding to state complaints and participating in due process. Mediation was conducted with [the Mediator] on May 1, 2024. There was no agreement reached on that day, but [the Mediator] continued to engage both parties via email and phone until the parents ended mediation on May 13, 2024, which moved the parties into due process proceedings. These were scheduled for September 16, 2024. The team met to complete the IEP review process on August 15, 2024. The Kansas State Department of Education was consulted regarding timelines for annual IEPs during due process and were advised that once due process is filed that these timelines are paused. Despite this, the team continued to try to work in good faith to resolve issues with the parents, including scheduling IEP meetings. Of note is that [the] annual IEP meeting occurred prior to the due process hearing." (District Response, undated, D571)

The Annual Review of the IEP was due by April 30, 2024. At the March 29, 2024 IEP meeting, the Team decided to conduct the annual review in April. At the April 10, 2024 meeting, the Parent requested to wait to review the IEP until after a mediation session. An Annual Review was scheduled for May 13, 2024 and then rescheduled to May 21, 2024. The District engaged in mediation beginning on April 10, 2024, and ending on May 13, 2024. According to the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, Chapter 10 and K.S.A 72-3438 (b)(2), "The mediation process should not be used to deny or delay a parent's right to a due process hearing, or to deny any other rights afforded under this act … ." (Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, Chapter 10, Section A; K.S.A 72-3438) The District erred by not conducting the Annual Review by April 30, 2024. By not conducting the Annual Review within the appropriate timeline, the Student did not begin the 2024-25 school year with an updated IEP. The IEP was updated on August 15, 2024, two days after the start of the school year.

Based on the foregoing, the District violated K.A.R. 91-40-16 by failing to conduct the annual IEP review and implement an updated IEP for the Student by the beginning of the 2024-25 school year.

Issue Three

Whether USD # 458, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the Student with an AAC device, the least restrictive environment, and a free appropriate public education (FAPE). K.A.R. 91-40-1.(II); K.S.A. 72-3420; K.A.R. 91-40-1(z).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1.(II) and K.S.A. 72-3420, the least restrictive environment is the educational placement, which requires that each school district, to the maximum extent appropriate, educate children with disabilities with children who are not disabled. The LRE must be determined annually, based on the Student's IEP, and provided in the environment as close as possible to the child's home. School Districts are required to provide special classes or separate schooling. Children with disabilities are only removed from the regular education environment when the nature or severity of the disability of the child is such that education in regular classes with supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily. According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(z), a "free appropriate public education" and "FAPE" mean special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge, meet the standards of the state board, include an appropriate preschool, elementary, or secondary school education; and are provided in conformity with an individualized education program.

The Parent alleged that the District's actions violated the Student's right to the least restrictive environment, the Student's annual IEP was not compliant, and that the Parent was "denied opportunities to advocate for [the Student] to modify [their] IEP to include [their] diagnosis which was the direct result of parents being forced to purchase an AAC device with the LAMP communication application." (Complaint, 12/17/24)

The District responded regarding the provision of an AAC device, "The possibility of use of an AAC device and/or sign language was prompted by an evaluation at [the Hospital]. The report dated 5/6/24 was provided to our teacher of the deaf and hard of hearing on 5/8/24. In part, the report says ' ASL or augmentative alternative communication (AAC) devices could be incorporated should [the Student] show improved communication using these resources.' The district received the audiogram on February 1, 2024. This information was considered and addressed in the subsequent IEP meeting on April 10, 2024 through supplementary aids and services. The school team supports the use of the device, by ensuring that [the Student] has it with [them], modeling, and prompting. [The Student's] primary mode of communication is verbal. [The Student] is able to communicate for all functions of communication verbally (request, ask questions, socially interact, protest, etc.). Goals in IEPs for communication are based on [the Student's] primary communication, which is verbal communication. Data indicates continued progress. The team also supports the use of sign language in the same manner. This is noted in accommodations as well as supports for school personnel. On 9/25/24, "access to a speech[-] generating device" was added to [the] student's IEP."

The District responded regarding the least restrictive environment, "On 10/2/24 - An IEP meeting was held and [the] least restrictive environment was discussed. Adjustments to the IEP were made including a change to increasing the amount of time the student will be in the general education classroom. On 11/19/24 - An IEP meeting was held. At this meeting, follow up occurred as to the student's progress since adding additional time in the general education classroom. After [a] review of data and IEP team discussion, further adjustments were made to the amount of time the student attended the general education classroom. The team considered the student's needs, based on data in the present levels of performance, developed goals reasonably ambitious in light of [the Student's] circumstances, determined services and then placement. The team always had in mind how [the Student] could be included in the general education classroom to the maximum extent appropriate."

Regarding the provision of a FAPE, the District responded, "At all IEP meetings noted in the attached timeline, the school team reviewed data to determine reasonably ambitious goals, as well as services to address those needs in the least restrictive environment. Data has [been] reviewed IEP adjustments [sic] have been made throughout the IEP progress. First quarter progress reports on IEP goals indicate student progress." (District Response, undated, D570-D591)

At the April 10, 2024 IEP meeting, the IEP team reviewed the results of the Student's February 1, 2024 audiogram and updated present levels statement, support for school personnel, and accommodations. According to the medical report from May 6, 2024, "We reviewed communication goals, and [the Parent] understands that [the Student] may benefit from exploring multi-modal communication – especially if speech development is not progressing or is difficult to understand. [The Parent] understands that ASL or augmentative alternative communication (AAC) devices could be incorporated should [the Student] show improved communications using these resources." While the meeting to address this new information was not held until August 15, 2024, the Team did not implement the use of an AAC. The incorporation of the AAC occurred at the September 25, 2024 meeting. The Parent sought the AAC on their own accord. The Parent did not ask the District to provide it as the Student already had one and, according to the Director, the "communication device from home was going back and forth."

The District did not complete the Student's Annual Review of the LRE prior to April 30, 2024. However, at the August 15, 2024 IEP meeting, the Student's LRE and placement were determined.

The IEP Team revised the Student's IEP on multiple occasions to make adjustments and update goals. According to the Progress Report data, the Student either met or made progress toward meeting their goals.

Based on the foregoing, the allegations regarding the provision of an Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC) device and Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE) are not substantiated.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following areas:

A. The District violated K.A.R. 91-40-16 by failing to conduct the annual IEP review and implement an updated IEP for the Student by the beginning of the 2024-25 school year.

   In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 458 did not conduct an IEP meeting to conduct an annual review of the Student's IEP by the annual review date.

   Based on the foregoing, USD # 458 is directed to take the following actions:

   1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #458 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) at 34 C.F.R. § 300.323 and K.A.R. 91-40-16 by conducting annual IEP reviews within 365 days.
   2. By March 15, 2025, USD #458 will complete the following submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) that the district's practices and procedures for annual IEP reviews have been reviewed and revised as appropriate to be responsive and compliant with the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and the Kansas Special Education for Exceptional Children Act.
   3. Further, by March 15, 2025, USD #458 will provide training, pre-approved by KSDE, to all staff responsible for scheduling and conducting annual IEP reviews on the District's obligations to comply with the IDEA and Kansas State regulations for annual IEP reviews.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 458
Tonganoxie/Basehor/Linwood Public Schools: 25FC458-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on December 17, 2024, by ----------, on behalf of her child, ----------. In the remainder of this decision, ---------- will be referred to as "the parent," and ---------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on January 14, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations on Issue 2.

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint, the Complaint Report, the district's notice of appeal, and the parent's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of the Issues on Appeal

Issue Two

Whether USD # 458, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to annually review the Student's IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16.

This is the only issue under appeal.

The annual IEP review date for this student was April 30, 2024. (Report - p 27)

The findings of fact in the complaint report, from finding 7 to finding 39, describes a series of extensions for the scheduling of this student's annual IEP meeting, ranging from a March 3, 2024 Notice of Meeting scheduled for March 29, 2024 to an August 13, 2024 Notice of meeting scheduled for August 15, 2024. The Committee notes that the first proposed meeting date, on March 29, 2024, was well in advance of the annual review date of April 30, 2024. The Committee also notes that an IEP meeting was held on April 10, 2024, in advance of the April 30, 2024 due date, but was not considered a full IEP review (Report, p 29).

The reasons for the extensions included legitimate concerns of both parties, including that the parties were involved in both mediation and due process proceedings.

The first day of the 2024-2025 school was August 13, 2024, and the IEP meeting was held on August 15, 2024.

The conclusion of the investigator was that there was a violation based on Kansas statute, K.S.A. 72-3438(b)(2), saying that the mediation process may not be used to deny or delay a parents right to a due process hearing, or to deny any other rights afforded under this act…" Accordingly, the report concluded that, "The district erred by not conducting the Annual Review by April 30, 2024." (Report, Pg. 27).

Although this statute is clear that the mediation process may not be used to deny or delay any parental right, it does not mean that there can be no exceptions to any legal requirement of special education. Federal regulations regarding the mediation process, at 34 C.F.R. 300.510, do not address the issue of whether, or to what extent, parents and school districts can delay the annual review of an IEP.

The statutes and regulations are also silent on whether parents and districts may agree to extend an annual IEP review, as these parties did. However, the courts that have considered this question, have ruled that when meeting the requirement for an annual IEP review date would interfere with the right of a parent to meaningfully participate in the decision making process, the better choice for the district is to give preference to the parent's right to participate.

For example, in Doug C. V. State of Hawaii, 61 IDELR 91 (9th Cir. 2013), the United States Circuit Court of Appeals addressed a situation where a district held an IEP meeting without the parents in order to meet the annual review requirement. The court said, "The more difficult question is what a public agency must do when confronted with the difficult situation of being unable to meet two distinct procedural requirements of the IDEA, in this case parental participation and timely annual review of the IEP." It answered its own question stating, "When confronted with the situation of complying with one procedural requirement of the IDEA or another, we hold that the agency must make a reasonable determination of which course of action promotes the purposes of the IDEA and is least likely to result in the denial of a FAPE. In reviewing an agency's action in such a scenario, we will allow the agency reasonable latitude in making that determination (emphasis in bold and underlined print added)."

The court added, "the Supreme Court and this court have both repeatedly stressed the vital importance of parental participation in the IEP creation process. We have further held that delays in meeting IEP deadlines do not deny a student a FAPE where they do not deprive a student of any educational benefit. See A.M. v. Monrovia, 627 F.3d 773, 779 (9th Cir. 2010) ("Whether or not Defendant exceeded the thirty-day limit, A.M. suffered no deprivation of educational benefit and therefore has no claim."). Under the circumstances of this case, the Department's decision to prioritize strict deadline compliance over parental participation was clearly not reasonable (emphasis in bold and underlined print added)."

With this guidance from the highest level court that has considered this issue of weighing procedural timeline requirements and substantive participation rights of parents, the Committee finds as follows:

The district first proposed an annual IEP review for March 29, 2024, well in advance of the April 30, 2024 annual review date. On The parties agreed to reschedule the annual IEP review from March 29, 2024 to a date in April (Report Finding 12 & 14). A meeting actually occurred on April 10, 2024, and the prior written notice (PWN) issued April 15, 2024, stated that there was "An agreement to amend the IEP to reflect the above services and accommodations rather than conducting an annual review (Finding of fact 22)." At the April 10 IEP meeting the parent requested to wait to review the IEP until after a mediation session (Report, pg. 27)

The next proposed annual review was made in a May 7, 2024 Notice of Meeting, which indicated a meeting to conduct an annual IEP review was scheduled for May 13, 2024. (Finding of fact 24).

A May 9, 2024 email from the School Psychologist notified the IEP Team that the annual IEP meeting was being rescheduled from May 13, 2024 to May 21, 2024 in order to have time to receive an additional audiology report for the Student (Finding of Fact 26).

On May 13, 2024, the Mediator emailed the District and wrote that the Parent communicated to the Mediator that "they would like to end post-mediation discussions and move forward with their due process and formal complaints (Finding of fact 27).

The district canceled the IEP meeting scheduled for May 21, 2024 because the student had additional appointments regarding hearing loss and the team had not received the most recent report from the hospital. That report was needed to assess the student's needs. The notice of cancellation included this statement: "The team will use this report to consider how to address the need in the IEP. If the report is available, please send it [the DHH Teacher's] way so that it can be reviewed and we can reschedule the annual review, which includes addressing [the Student's] hearing loss." (Finding of fact 30).

The IEP was updated on August 15, 2024, two days after the start of the school year (Report pg. 27).

The IEP Team revised the Student's IEP on multiple occasions to make adjustments and update goals. According to the Progress Report data, the Student either met or made progress toward meeting their goals (Report, P. 29).

Findings

This is not a situation where a school district failed to track timelines and negligently let a due date slip by. The decisions to delay IEP meetings were conscious choices made largely in consultation and agreement with the parents, and for the purpose of accommodating the participation of parents, who had expressed disagreement about multiple issues and with whom it was engaged in due process and mediation procedures. Illustrating the effort to cooperate, the district and parents actually met and conducted a limited IEP meeting on April 10, 2024, in advance of the April 30, 2024 due date, but acknowledged that the team did not conduct a full IEP review at that meeting (Report, p 29).

During the period in question, the district exercised due diligence when it first scheduled an annual review of this student's IEP well in advance of the annual review date. That first scheduled IEP review did not take place, in significant part, because the parent and district agreed that holding the annual review was inappropriate in light of ongoing disputes that included the filing of a request for a due process hearing, a request for mediation, and incomplete assessments. Despite an initial readiness to schedule and proceed with an IEP meeting to meet procedural timeline requirements, the district deferred to the parent's concerns by agreeing to multiple delays of the IEP meeting. The district canceled the IEP meeting scheduled for May 21, 2024, only because the student had additional appointments regarding hearing loss and the team had not received the most recent report from the hospital. The time between May 13, 2024, when the mediator emailed the district and wrote that the Parent communicated to the Mediator that "they would like to end post-mediation discussions and move forward with their due process and formal complaints" to the annual IEP meeting on August 15, 2024 involved a minimal number of school days (days when school is not in session during the summer months are not school days). Moreover, the report indicates that the student met IEP goals.

Conclusion

In reaching its conclusion on this matter, the Committee, gives due consideration to the foregoing findings, and to the D.C. Circuit's admonition that: "When confronted with the situation of complying with one procedural requirement of the IDEA or another, we hold that the agency must make a reasonable determination of which course of action promotes the purposes of the IDEA and is least likely to result in the denial of a FAPE. In reviewing an agency's action in such a scenario, we will allow the agency reasonable latitude in making that determination (emphasis in bold and underlined print added)."

The Committee, giving the district "reasonable latitude" in its decision to delay the annual IEP review for this student, concludes that the decision of the investigator on Issue 2 should be, and is reversed. Under the unique facts of this case, where the district reasonably believed that complying with a procedural timely IEP meeting requirement conflicted with the parents substantive right to meaningfully participate in the IEP process, the district did not violate the law when it reasonably deferred to the participation rights of the parent.

Because the decision in Issue 2 is reversed, and because all corrective action in the report resulted from the conclusion in Issue 2, all corrective action ordered in the report is rescinded.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 11th day of February, 2025.

NOTE: As guidance for future IEP meetings, the Appeal Committee suggests that a full annual IEP meeting be scheduled and held by the annual IEP review date, with the written commitment to meet again upon request of the parent. That could have been done by these parties by conducting a full IEP review at the meeting that occurred on April 10, 2024, with a written commitment to reconvene the IEP team at a later date, upon request of the parent.

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #294, OBERLIN UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT
ON JANUARY 2, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: JANUARY 27, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #294, Oberlin Unified School District on behalf of -------- by his grandmother, --------. Background Information

The student is an eleven year old sixth grader who is eligible for special education and related services under the category of Emotional Disturbance. The student returned to the district this school year for a shortened school day in a self-contained setting after being placed out of district the previous school year for behavior concerns. Parent concerns identified in the January 15, 2025 IEP focus on increasing the student's tolerance for attending a full school day and catching up to grade level academically. This IEP includes five goals addressing reading, mathematics, writing, and behavior. It additionally includes a behavior intervention plan, general education supports, accommodations, modifications and supports for school personnel. The January 15, 2025 IEP includes 105 minutes of resource room special education service five days every week, 100 minutes of special education service in the general education setting five days every week and 20 minutes of emotional behavior disorder consultant services two times every week.

Issues Investigated

1. According to 34 C.F.R. §300.322 did the district appropriately consider parental input in the development of the student's IEP specific to educational placement and services during the 2024-2025 school year?
2. According to 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2), did the district follow the student's IEP specific to increasing the student's service minutes by 20 minutes after 10 days of "good" behavior from initially 20 minutes of education service daily at the beginning of the school year during the 2024-2025 school year?
3. According to 34 C.F.R. §300 114-118 did the district provide the student's education in the least restrictive environment when providing a shortened school day in a self-contained special education classroom with 2 to 3 other students receiving special education during the 2024-2025 school year? [as specified in regulation]
4. According to 34 C.F.R. §300.324 did the district include academic goals in the student's IEP during the 2024-2025 school year to address any gaps that may have occurred as a result of a shortened school day.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

In the District's Response dated January 16, 2025 it states, "The District requested a possible Resolution IEP meeting with his parents to remedy concerns about [Student's] program, placement, and plan to increase [Student's] school day participation On January 15, 2025 (sic) the meeting was held. Both parents, the grandmother (who filed the initial complaint), a mental health case manager, and school team met and developed a new IEP. Copies of the IEP, new schedule, Behavior Intervention Plan, meeting notes, and consent have been included in the shared drive of requested documents. At the conclusion of the meeting the mother (the Grandmother and father had left the meeting prior to the conclusion) was asked if the new IEP and Plan was acceptable as a resolution to the complaint. The mother indicated it was." The call between Dr. Wickham and the mother dated January 20, 2025 confirmed this statement. The call on January 20, 2025 between the complainant and Dr. Wickham reported that the complainant wished to continue the investigation to ensure that the decisions made during the meeting were implemented.

Conclusion

It is found that the mother and grandmother verified that the concerns identified in the Formal Complaint dated January 2, 2025 were resolved by the January 15, 2025 IEP meeting. It is noted that the grandmother expressed concern on January 20, 2025 that the district would follow through with the decisions recorded in the January 15, 2025 IEP and Prior Written Notice dated January 15, 2025 and signed by the mother on January 16, 2025.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is an 11 year old young man enrolled in the 5th grade at the elementary school during the 2024-2025 school year. He lives at home with his family including five siblings. The student was diagnosed with high functioning autism at 18 months. He attended preschool in the current district with typically developing peers for three years prior to starting kindergarten. The student uses a communication device and also types with a keyboard as his primary means of communication.

According to the most recent reevaluation conducted March 19, 2024, the student's primary qualifying exceptionality is autism and secondarily, communication, he also qualifies for academic support in the general education setting, Occupational Therapy and Speech/Language Therapy. Additionally, the student has an Individualized Healthcare Plan for a seizure disorder and asthma. Although not included as an IEP goal the following is noted as a need in his September 17, 2024 IEP, "Due to concerns with safety, [student] needs adult supervision. He will often elope from the classroom and needs prompting to return to the appropriate setting".

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, two issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

Did the district follow the student's IEP specific to minutes of educational services during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Parent Position

The parent reported in the January 10, 2025 complaint and the January 13, 2025 phone call that her son is not receiving the number of minutes of special education services as stated in his IEP, she shared, "his minutes hardly ever get met."

District Position

The district stated in the January 15, 2025 response, "We assert that [student's] services have been provided consistently all school year. We acknowledge that there have been infrequent disruptions to scheduling which result in deviations from the daily route. However, [student] continued to have his services provided in the appropriate setting."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

1. The September 17, 2024 IEP states that the student is to receive 214 minutes of instruction in the resource room per day, five days per week for English/Language Arts (ELA), math and daily living skills.
2. The student's schedule reflects 215 minutes of special education services each day related to ELA, Math and Daily Living Skills.
3. The IR teacher who is responsible for instruction commented in an email, "I basically just work off of the schedule each day. It fluctuates depending on his day. (if he is feeling well, gets enough sleep, etc). However, all his schedule is followed for meeting the minutes in the Special Ed class and regular ed class."
4. Walk-Through Observation record of the IR teacher, dated November 12, 2024 reflected that the "Student completed about eight minutes of academic work during the 30 minute observation". It is noted that during the observation there was a fire drill.
5. The September 17, 2024 IEP states that the student is to receive speech therapy twice per week for 30 minutes and OT once per week for 20 minutes.

6. The Medicaid Service Log Report reflects that the student received speech therapy twice per week for 30 minutes when the student was in attendance, all but three sessions when the provider was absent between August 19, 2024 and January 17, 2025. Missed minutes have been delivered through extended sessions during the 20 week period as reflected in the log.
7. The Medicaid Service Log Report reflects that the student received OT once per week when the student was in attendance for all but 4 sessions when the provider was absent between August 21, 2024 and January 15, 2025. Missed minutes have been delivered through extended sessions during the 20 week period as reflected in the log.

Conclusion

The LEA is responsible to ensure minutes of services noted in the IEP are delivered. In this case, the IR teacher reports that the 214 minutes per day she is responsible to provide including ELA, Math and Daily Living Skills are delivered through following the student's daily schedule, although there is no documentation available to support her statement as she is not required to keep a log of activities related to each student in her classroom. The district shared an observation record that reflected the student was academically engaged for 8 out of 30 minutes during the observation, although there was a fire drill during the observation. The district shared the Medicaid Service Log Reports for both OT and SLP providers who are responsible for two or the four IEP goals. These records and provider interviews reflect that although there were missed sessions due to provider absences, the minutes of services stated in the student's IEP are more than accounted for through extended therapy sessions.

Based on the foregoing, USD #459 did follow the student's IEP minutes of educational services during the 2024-2025 school year and is IN compliance with IDEA regulations.

Issue Two

Did the district address lack of academic progress on IEP goals during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b) mandates that the IEP team must review the IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to ensure that it is effective in addressing the student's needs. If the IEP is not working, the team is required to revise it to address: 1) any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals; 2) the results of any reevaluation; 3) information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; and 4) the child's anticipated needs.

Parent Position

The parent reported that her son is not making expected progress on his IEP goals in the 2024-2025 school year. In the parent interview the mother stated, "We have backtracked instead of moving forward. It seems like he gets more testing than educating".

District Position

The district stated in the January 15, 2025 response, "We find no fault in the IEP's team's ability to provide an opportunity for [student] to make progress in light of his circumstances.". The district more specifically stated, "According to [student's] December 2024 progress report, he made improvement, maintained his performance or experienced slight regression on each associated benchmarks measurement. While individual benchmarks may not have met their targets, his overall progress is always measured toward the underlying goals. Therefore, even when a slight regression is reported, this does not indicate that the overall goal is expected to be unmet or that a sufficient education is not being provided. His service providers all indicated that he has demonstrated sufficient progress to meet the goal's objective within the timeframe identified."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with both parties. The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. IEP meeting dates that fall within the investigation period include; March 19, May 14, and September 17, 2024.
2. The district response states, "On August 28, 2024, [mother] requested an IEP meeting to discuss her son and to ensure that the new staff understood his IEP. As a result, an IEP team meeting was held on September 17, 2024 to address the parent's concerns. This meeting also included staff from the TASN-ATBS team." An email from the TASN director confirms her attendance as a member of the TASN-ATBS team as well as a follow-up consultation with the IR teacher and elementary school principal on October 23, 2024.
3. According to the student's most recent IEP dated September 17, 2024 there are four goals: visual motor skills, communication, math and reading.
4. According to the student's most recent progress report:
    a. Progress reported for goal #1 visual motor skills, reflects a slight regression on October 11, 2024 as well as a slight regression on December 13, 2024. It is noted that although "slight regression" was entered for the December 13, 2024 progress status, progress is mentioned in the Progress Report Comments, "He has sat in a chair and wrote his name which is an improvement."
    b. Progress reported on goal #2 communication, reflects a slight improvement of on October 15, 2024 and December 15, 2024.
    c. Progress reported on goal #3 math, reflects a maintenance of performance on October 15, 2024.
    d. Progress reported on goal #4 reading, reflects a maintenance of performance on October 15, 2024.
5. The district response states, "The [cooperative] Autism team and Emotional Support Team have observed and met with the special education staff on a regular basis this past semester to help support his special education programming to ensure that [student] is making progress." It is noted that the EST was utilized by the classroom teacher due to behavioral challenges the student experienced which interfered with instruction as shared in interviews with school and cooperative staff.

   a. The cooperative website shares, "The Emotional Support Team (EST) at [cooperative] provides a school-based team of mental health professionals to assist students (and teachers) in methods to better manage emotions. We provide direct mental health services to students with exceptionalities and we provide on-site training for their teachers and parents."
   b. Dates of EST support provided by the Licensed Professional Counselor (LPC) includes, in person support, email or phone consultation on the following dates: August 27, September 3, 10, 13, 24, 25, October 2, 8, 15, 29, November 5, 8, 12, 20, 26, December 3, 4, 10, 11, 2024 and January 7, 16, and 21, 2025.

6. In the interview with the cooperative's executive director she stated that the, "IR teacher actually started working with [student] over the summer since she was a new teacher to him and mom was concerned about how he would respond".
7. The IR teacher shared in an email that she met with the student whenever he was in attendance over the summer but that he attended only, "5-6 times of the 15 days…". She also shared, "There were multiple times that I would drive to the school to meet with [student], but he and his mother did not attend ESY. I was ready to provide him services, but he was absent…". She also shared in the interview, "I think he is doing really well, since Christmas he has done especially well. He and I are really starting to bond and work well together. He is catching on really fast, but there are days when he doesn't want to. He's come a long way since the summer."
8. The school psychologist provided a log which included 16 consultations from August 12, 2024 through January 22, 2025 in person, by email or phone to support the student's transition to new teaching staff and as well as address behavioral support for elopement behaviors. These consultations included activities such as team meetings with the parents, working on the student's daily schedule with the IR teacher, and offering strategies for behavioral and academic support.
9. The district response shares, "[the cooperative] has a Mixed Abilities coach who has worked with the IR teacher to ensure that instructional practices are aligned with his IEP goals to ensure academic progress." The documented support shared by the mixed abilities coach primarily includes in person consultation along with emails 8 times in the first semester of the 2024-2025 school year beginning in June 2024. The mixed abilities coach shared, "I was there in person assessing and training for the curriculum."
10. Lastly, the district response states, "[the cooperative] has an instructional coach assigned to [elementary school] which has also been assisting on a weekly basis with instructional practices to ensure that [student] is getting appropriate instruction and has materials and lessons that are aligned with his IEP goals." The instructional coach shared a record of support provided to the IR teacher dated August 23, 2024 through

January 17, 2025. This record reflects 11 instances of in person contact, 47 phone calls, 22 texts and 5 emails.

11. In the interview with the Certified Occupational Therapy Assistant (COTA) she stated that although the student is not making progress as measured by his IEP benchmark, the student is able to sit in a chair and write his name and that paraprofessionals report that the student is writing more during class and they share these examples with the COTA. She stated, "I feel like he is progressing but it may not be captured by the benchmark he is working on." The COTA also shared that the student has had many changes this fall including a new IR teacher and new paraprofessionals which may be impacting progress.

Conclusion

IDEA requires that the IEP team must review the IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to ensure that it is effective in addressing the student's needs.

In this case, the IEP team met on March 19, May 14, and September 17, 2024 to address the student's needs. While the student's lacks of progress particularly in goal #1 is noted, the evidence of progress is also noted.

Additionally, the district has made good faith efforts to support this student including; IR teacher availability prior to the beginning of the 2024-2025 school year, the TASN director's engagement, instructional coach support, mixed abilities coach support and the EST support.

Based on the foregoing, USD #459 is addressing academic progress and is found to be IN compliance with IDEA regulations.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) was not found based on evidence that the student's IEP minutes of educational services during the 2024-2025 school year were delivered. Corrective action is not required.
2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b) was not found based on the regular review and provision of multiple supports to address academic progress. Corrective action is not required.

Background Information

The student is a 14-year-old student who attends USD 501 at Topeka High School. His last special education evaluation in 2022 stated that the student was diagnosed in 2017 with dyslexia and ADHD. The student's current IEP stated needs in the area of reading comprehension with good progress being made during the past (2023) year, with the student being on grade level. The student was described as friendly, personable, hardworking, and quite concerned about grades. The student intends to pursue higher education upon graduation from high school with a regular degree.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

Did the district implement the student's IEP, specifically by providing the accommodations and special education services related to grade monitoring and support to the general education teachers as specified in the IEP?

Applicable Law

Federal statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.39 define special education as specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent to meet the unique needs of a child with a disability. Further 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) requires that the IEP include "a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child: (i) To advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; (ii) To be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum... and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and (iii) To be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children."

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE (free appropriate public education) to a child who has or is suspected of having a disability. State regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3) require school districts to obtain parent consent before making a material change in services or a substantial change in placement. The Kansas Special Education Process Handbook clarifies a material change in services: "A change in the instructional methodology used to provide a service, even if the methodology is specified in an IEP, is not a material change in services. For example, a change to a strategy within a behavior intervention plan is a change in the instructional methodology, not a material change in services" (p.8).

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The complainant alleged that "The cornerstone of [the student's] IEP is the SPED teacher is to check in with regular teachers weekly to monitor grades to ensure if they drop immediate support can be given to [the student] or [the] teacher. This has not been followed and despite assurances that the SPED teacher would "do better" that were given to me at the fall mid-term parent teacher meetings, this has not happened. Very few of [the] teachers report being contacted more than once all term by [the] SPED teacher, and no intervention or help was given to [the] teachers (or to [the student]) to help improve [the student's] grades once they went below the agreed- upon threshold that was put in [the student's] IEP. After a semester, it is apparent that the school is not following the IEP, and the burden has been heavily put on [the student's] gen-ed teachers when they are the ones who need support to best teach [the student]. Also, when pointed out that the SPED teacher has dropped the ball in one specific class (owing to a grade drop on [the] report card), the SPED teacher emailed to say she only needs to support [the student's] core classes - which is not written in [the] IEP and this is the first I've heard of this." Further, the parent requested "a new special education teacher who will actually keep in contact with [Student's] teacher" and the Principles of Illustration grade "should be changed to reflect the work that was done (3 pieces were not submitted, despite being in Google classroom, and if the [special education teacher[had followed up when the grade dropped, [the teacher] could have determined the problem quite easily..."

The district responded in its January 28, 2025 response letter that the district had implemented the student's IEP as written in partnership with the parents and provided the accommodations and special education services. The district asserted the IEP goal and services refer only to grade maintenance for the student's core classes and state that grade maintenance is a goal rather than an assured outcome. They reference the student's recent grades as "A" in Honors Biology, Honors Geometry, Honors World History, and Honors English. The student had two elective classes, Spanish (grade A) and Principles of Illustration (grade B). In spite of the IEP not addressing grade maintenance for elective classes the district is working with the parent to grade materials not previously considered. The district also refutes that the special education teacher did not support the general education teachers and an interview and emails show that the special education teacher was in communication with the student's general education core and elective teachers. Also, the special education teacher set up a meeting in response to a parent request concerning workload with Honors courses. Finally, the district responded that assigning a new teacher is not in the best interest of the student and is a remedy outside the parameters of both state and federal special education requirements as the district makes personnel decisions.

The student's IEP dated January 23, 2024, stated that the student would be in general education classes all his school day. This IEP included one goal (Study Skills): "The student will maintain a grade of 90% or higher in core classes." Supplementary aids and services (accommodations and modifications) per the IEP included: small group or individual settings for assessments, chunking of larger assignments, extended/double time on assessments with full credit, frequent breaks during assignments and assessments, copy of notes when note taking is required, extended time (10 additional days) on assignments with full credit, spelling errors not counted against the student, modified curriculum /assessments to be determined by case manager and classroom teacher in consultation with parent to meet student's dyslexia needs, and preferential seating. The student services recorded 42 minutes of direct special education services in the special education setting three times every week from January 23, 2024 through the end of the 2023-2024 school year and 20 minutes of indirect special education services one time every week by the special education teacher beginning the 2024-2025 school year as recorded on a PWN dated January 23, 2024 and parent signed consent on January 26, 2024. The parent attended the IEP conference and signed as a participant.

The first report of student progress on October 17, 2024, showed "[The student] currently has two Bs in core classes. It is recommended that [the student] works with teachers to see what [the student] can do to get [the] grade[s] to an A Maybe next semester, [the student] shouldn't take honors classes. Honors Biology 91%, Honors Geometry 89%, Honors World History100%, Honors English 9 84%." A second progress report dated January 8, 2025, stated: "[The student will be taking regular English 9 for Spring semester. Honors Biology 90%, Honors Geometry 90%, Honors World History 95.7%, Honors English 9 87.1%." For both progress reports, the student's progress was rated as: "2 - Prog - Progress has been made towards the goal, but the goal may not be met by the annual IEP. Goal, Instructional strategies, and student supports may need to be reviewed." Progress reports were disseminated through the school's parent Vue grading system.

The Semester 1, 2024-2025 grades reported the following core grades: Honors Biology 90% (A), Honors Geometry 90%(A), Honors World History 95.71%(A), Honors English 9 87.6% (A).

The special education teacher stated that the student did well in his classes without the need of curriculum modifications that would alter the curriculum of the honors classes' curriculum. The special education teacher stated that the student was offered accommodations in classes and allowed choice in settings for working or testing, extended time on assignments, which he generally did not need to use. Feedback from the teachers was that the student might become focused on one aspect of the assignment and spend too much time there, then rush through the remaining work or run out of time to complete it.

Email interactions between the special education teacher and core teachers were recorded on September 9, 2024 (3 teachers); October 23, 2024 (3 teachers); October 24, 2024 (1 teacher); November 25, 2024 (1 teacher); December 11, 2024 (2 teachers) January 2, 2025 (1 teacher); January 15, 2025 (5 teachers); January 16, 2025 (2 teachers). The special education teacher stated that she did not track informal interactions with teachers regarding the student.

A spreadsheet entitled [Student] Fall Grade Check showed 8 grade check entries for each of the student's classes dated September 18, September 25, October 8, October 18, November 1, November 20, and December 10, and December 16, 2024. The principal stated that in addition to the special education grade checks the student's seminar class regularly checked grades and discussed weekly goals for classwork with the students as part of the curriculum.

The special education teacher stated during her interview with the Complaint Investigator that in addition to these grade checks, she met weekly with one of the student's teachers as part of a teaching team, responded to and offered resources for another teacher who asked for differentiation options for honors assessments, and followed up with teachers when the parent made an inquiry regarding the student's grade. The special education teacher provided an example of how she spent her indirect service minutes with the biology teacher who had not worked with students with IEPs before during the interview. She coached the biology teacher on how to correctly use the accommodation, "utilizing verbal assessment" during biology and discussed the possibilities of record student giving answers, speech to text, read aloud, and text to speech.

An email from the mother to the special education teacher on December 10 stated, "I'm just following up to make sure that you're working with the teacher's where [student's] grade is below a 90. I've asked a couple teachers and they both said they haven't heard from you, so I thought I better check in with you. He's got mostly As, but it looks like you'll need to work with [English teacher] and at least 1 other to see what supports you can give them and if differentiated assessments or limiting the assessments that count to his GPA, etc. are appropriate."

An email in December from the English teacher to the student, parent and the special education teacher stated, "He is at an 86% currently. He is working on a research paper that is worth multiple grades due to multiple standards being assessed. My policy is that if a student has an 88% at the end of the semester, I bump them to an A because the highest grade given on any standard is 95%. So he is closer to the A than it looks. He can also take the final to raise his grade, even though he has the attendance and the grade to be exempt. He was coming in after school every day for help from me. He has not done that the last couple of weeks. He can continue to do that."

Email exchanges during January show the parent and district staff answering questions and discussing the student grade of Bin an elective class.

According to the principal during the interview with the investigator, the school's electronic system includes an icon by the student's name that links to an IEP at a glance that shows the students goals and accommodations. This system was introduced during the 2023-2024 school year and replaced a less efficient pencil and paper notification system. The principal stated that the student's teachers were alerted to the student's IEP using this system. The Student Access Log showed the student accessed the Student Vue 93 times from August 21, 2024 through January 15, 2025.

The parent accessed the electronic system 117 times between August 3, 2024, and January 14, 2025.

An email from the District Legal Counsel to the Complaint Investigator on February 3, 2025 at 10:04 stated, "[Principal], [Director of Special Education] and I have visited based on [Principles of Illustration teacher's] testimony on Friday that [teacher] had received [student's] work and gave all the students the opportunity to make it up, [Principal] will ask [Principles of Illustration teacher] to grade the work and adjust [student's] grade if the two assignments change the grade."

Conclusion

The parent's concern was that the IEP was not followed in regard to grade monitoring and support to the general education teachers as specified in the IEP. Regulations at 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) and 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require the IEP to outline the services and supplementary aids and supports and to implement the services as soon as possible after the IEP occurs. The IEP in effect during the 2024-2025 school year contained one goal to maintain a grade of 90% or higher in core classes. The student received small group or individual settings for assessments, chunking of larger assignments, extended/double time on assessments with full credit, frequent breaks during assignments and assessments, copy of notes when note taking is required, extended time (10 additional days) on assignments with full credit, spelling errors not counted against the student, modified curriculum /assessments to be determined by case manager and classroom teacher in consultation with parent to meet student's dyslexia needs, and preferential seating. These services were provided through 20 minutes of indirect special education services once every week by the special education teacher. Documentation showed that the student was maintaining grades, 90% or higher in core classes. An interview with the school staff, emails among and between the special education teacher, school counselors and general education teachers showed that the special education teacher communicated regularly with the general education teachers regarding the student's progress, use of accommodations and discussed the student's progress and participation in the core classes. Although the special education teacher was not able to provide a log of each communication with general education teachers, the nature of the emails and detail the school staff provided to the investigator during interviews demonstrated that the special education teacher was communicating with the general education teachers to implement the indirect service minutes.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #501 failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by providing the accommodations and special education services related to grade monitoring and support to the general education teachers as specified in the IEP.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

Background Information

The student is a 14-year-old girl who is currently enrolled in in the 7th grade at Leawood Middle School in USD #229 for the 2024-25 school year. The student has a medical diagnosis of Down's Syndrome. Her most recent reevaluation was conducted on October 21, 2022. At that time, the student was found to continue to be eligible under the primary exceptionality category of Intellectual Disability and the secondary exceptionality category of Speech/Language Impairment.

The student initially received early intervention services until age three and early childhood special education services until age 5 in the state of Texas. The student has attended USD #229 since kindergarten with an IEP in place to provide special education and related services. At the beginning of the 6th grade, the student transferred to the Prairie Star Middle School for the 2023-24 school year. After a disciplinary incident involving the School Resource Officer in February 2024, the parent requested an in-district transfer for the student to attend Leawood Middle School. This request was granted and the student transferred to the new building on March 19, 2024.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, three issues were identified and investigated.

It is noted that the IDEA only allows child complaint investigations to consider allegations that have occurred within the preceding 12 months from the date of the filing of the allegations. In this case the allegations were filed with the KSDE on December 6, 2024 and, as such, the investigation window started on December 6, 2023.

It is further noted that the parent only made allegations regarding issues that occurred when the student was enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School during the 2023-24 school year. The parent reported she believes USD #229 is in compliance with the requirements of the IDEA with the special education program provided at Leawood Middle School subsequent to her in-district transfer which occurred on March 19, 2024.

Issue One

USD #229, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to employ an appropriately certified special education teacher to provide special education services to the student between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024 while enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.156 require that each school district must ensure that all personnel necessary to carry out the requirements of IDEA are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. All special education personnel, as appropriate, shall have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with exceptionalities. This includes special education teachers, related services personnel and paraeducators.

In Kansas, special education teachers must meet the requirements outlined in the "Special Education Reimbursement Guide State Categorical Aid". Appendix B contains a chart which describes the various classroom assignments and the required licensure requirements for each setting. Teachers who hold the appropriate licensure for their teaching assignment are considered to be adequately prepared and trained in the state of Kansas.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based upon interviews and record review.

The parent believes the special education teacher, Natalie Shepherd, was not appropriately licensed for teaching the student during the 2023-24 school year. The parent reported the student started having behavioral problems and did not like going to school once she transferred into Ms. Shepherd's classroom at Prairie Star Middle School. She indicated the situation became so bad that the student was placed on medication. However, the parent noted once the student transferred to Leawood Middle School in mid-March 2024, the student's behavior dramatically improved.

USD #229 assigned the student to a low incidence special education classroom at Prairie Star Middle School for the 2023-24 school year. Ms. Shepherd was assigned as the special education teacher and special education case manager for the student's classroom. Documentation showed that she held a valid Limited Apprentice License to teach special education (PreK-12), and an Emergency Substitute License between the dates of December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024.

Appendix B in the "Special Education Reimbursement Guide State Categorical Aid" requires a teaching license with an endorsement in any of the following areas for the teacher to be considered adequately prepared and trained for an assignment in a low incidence classroom: Low Incidence; Functional; Intellectually Disabled – Functional; Severely Multiply Handicapped; Intellectually Disabled; or Elementary Ed. Unified. Appendix B also allows for substitutes to fill a teaching assignment in a low incidence classroom.

USD #229 stated:

> In the spring of 2023 the district needed to fill 10 low incidence teaching vacancies. Unfortunately, we were not able to fill all of these with teachers holding low incidence licenses. Rather, as with many other districts in Kansas, we identified individuals who had other teaching licences and relevant experience to fill in as long-term substitutes. In Natalie's case, she was hired as a teacher with the expectation she earns the low incidence license or move to a high incidence position (which she did in fall 2024). The alternative was to place a sub teacher with no experience in special education. Please note that Natalie has lots of support from Jimmie Cosby, special education consultant (instruction), and Mikayla Dreyer, BCBA (behavior) to ensure sound instructional practices.

In the case of Natalie Shepherd, she was qualified to fill this position with her emergency sub license, later earning her high incidence Limited Apprenticeship License. Either of those licenses qualified her for the position. In addition, she had served as a long-term substitute in a low incidence elementary classroom for the previous school year.

Conclusion

Federal and state regulations require that each school district must ensure that all personnel necessary to carry out the requirements of IDEA are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained. All special education personnel, as appropriate, shall have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with exceptionalities. In Kansas, the requirements for a special education teacher to be considered appropriately and adequately prepared and trained are found in Appendix B of the "Special Education Reimbursement Guide State Categorical Aid".

In this case, interviews and documentation found that between the dates of December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024, Ms. Shepherd was assigned as the case manager and special education teacher in a low incidence classroom where the student was assigned.

During that timeframe, Ms. Shepherd had a valid Limited Apprentice License to teach special education (PreK-12), and an Emergency Substitute License. Either of those licenses allow for Ms. Shepherd to serve as a substitute in a low incidence classroom, when a teacher with a low incidence license is not available.

Based on the foregoing, the district is found to be IN compliance for this issue.

Issue Two

USD #229, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the behavior intervention plan (BIP), which resulted in the student being removed from the classroom setting for more than 20 minutes between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024 while enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.300.324(a)(2)(i) requires the IEP team to consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address any behavior that impedes the learning of the student or that of others.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based upon interviews and record review.

The parent reported that the student's IEP was not implemented while the student attended Prairie Star Middle School during the 2023-24 school year. The parent noted that the student's attendance was often coded as yellow for class periods during the school year indicating an "undetermined absence" from that particular class period. During these "undetermined absences", the parent reported the student was secluded in the special education classroom due to behavioral issues as a result of staff not implementing the BIP and thus preventing the inappropriate behavior from happening in the first place. The parent believes that the yellow "undetermined absences" resulted in the student being denied access to general education on December 12, 2023; January 23 and 29; February 1, 2, 5, 6, 20, and 28; and March 4 and 6, 2024.

The parent indicated that the student's IEP included a behavior intervention plan (BIP) which contained a number of positive supports and strategies which were not being provided. This lack of implementation resulted in the student exhibiting inappropriate behavior during the school day which culminated in the student being removed from her general education classroom setting for greater than 20 minutes at a time and secluded in the special education setting. The parent reported the student was traumatized, felt unsafe, and became unwilling to go to school as the result of the seclusion.

The parent reported that this lack of implementation also resulted in the student being medicated and ultimately led to a situation in February 2024 when the school resource officer was required to intervene and the parent was forced to request a transfer for the student to attend a different middle school within the district. The parent noted that the student has not displayed the same types of inappropriate behavior since transferring to Leawood Middle School in March 2024 and is no longer taking medication.

The IEP in effect between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024 was developed on October 16, 2023. The IEP notes that the student's behavior does impede her learning and that of others. The IEP states,

> The student occasionally demonstrates avoidance and attention seeking behaviors including: avoiding non-preferred tasks, throwing materials, drawing on herself with markers/ink, and hiding under tables. The student also periodically demonstrates unexpected behaviors interfering with others including: messing with / taking other student's materials, hitting, and kicking. Hitting/kicking/other physical behaviors are very rare.

The IEP includes a BIP which describes the positive behavioral interventions and supports that are needed to support the student throughout the school day. These include visual support such as visual schedules and timers; reinforcement for appropriate behavior based on student preferences; and sensory input including fidgets and sensory breaks. The BIP also describes prompting and instructional strategies such as giving choices, priming the student for transitions, sandwiching more difficult tasks between two easier tasks, etc.

The Present Level of Academic and Functional Performance (PLAAFP) also describes the environmental supports required to support the student's appropriate behavior including an alternate work space, and peer mentoring.

During an interview, the BCBA and the Special Education Consultant for Intensive Resource Classrooms noted that the student transferred from the elementary school setting to the middle school setting at the beginning of the 2023-24 school year which involved new staff, new peers, and a new schedule which involved class changes for each period of the school day. Both staff reported the student had a difficult time adjusting to these changes and there was an escalation in the student's inappropriate behaviors when the student transferred to Prairie Star Middle School. Both staff indicated they consulted with and provided extra support to the Special Education Teacher. They stated that the district proposed a functional behavior assessment (FBA) and the parent provided written consent for the FBA on December 12, 2023. These staff noted that they continue to work with the student at her new school of attendance, Leawood Middle School and have seen a significant decrease in inappropriate behaviors since the transfer.

USD #229 provided copies of a variety of visuals showing a variety of sensory choices the student could make when feeling dysregulated. During the interview, school staff described how these visuals were used in the school setting to provide the student with options when her behavior began to escalate.

School staff also reported and documentation showed that a student specific reinforcement list was created with at least two options for each sensory modality for the student to choose from during daily scheduled sensory breaks. In addition, a reinforcement system was established where the student earned a puzzle piece to complete a Taylor Swift picture of her choice each school day for exhibiting appropriate classroom behavior.

The Present Level of Academic and Functional Performance (PLAAFP) states, "It is best when the student has a behavior to allow her some time by herself so that she can calm down and apologize for her actions."

The District's Response to the Allegations states,

> The district acknowledges that the student's behaviors were at times disruptive to the educational environment and interfered with her ability to learn alongside peers in general education classrooms. These behaviors were a known aspect of her disability that were acknowledged and interventions identified in the student's IEP dated 10/16/2023.
>
> The summary of present levels of academic achievement and functional performance, includes a section on behavior. The section notes that "(i)t is best when the student has a behavior to allow her sometime by herself so that she can calm down and apologize for her actions." As it is impossible to "(provide) time by herself" in a classroom with 20+ peers, this accommodation would occur in the special education classroom.

An email written by the Special Education Teacher to the parent dated February 2, 2024 describes the interventions provided on February 1, 2024, one of the days when the student's attendance was coded yellow for "undisclosed absence" for her Social Studies and Science classes. The email states,

> I was absent on Wednesday, so I was not present for the behavior that occurred on that day. I was told yesterday morning that she had a rough Social Studies on Wednesday. Yesterday Allie told the student that it was time to head to Science and she refused to leave the IR room until Murphy, her peer mentor, came before she would go to class. So, there was a lot of non-compliance. Mrs. Gabel has been out all week sick and with the refusal to leave IR with a sub in class we decided to work in IR [Intensive Resource Room] for Science and have her peer mentor come to IR room to work with her. After science was over, she refused to go to Social Studies wanting to wait on peers again, but we were able to get her to begin social studies work in IR room, her peers then showed up and worked with the student on her work for the remainder of her day. She has done this a few times this week, wanting to wait for her peers before going to class. She actually worked pretty well in IR and was able to get her work done with no issues and earn her end of day activities, it was just refusal to leave IR room. To end her day on a good note and not escalate her further we let her be by herself and allowed her to calm herself on her own, which she did and began work in IR for her end of day. Today she will be in class. If that changes, I will email you an update. Please let me know if you have any other questions.

Conclusion

In this case, the student's IEP and BIP required a number of sensory accommodations and environmental supports to assist the student in demonstrating appropriate behavior in the school setting. Interviews and documentation show that the student displayed an increase in inappropriate behavior upon enrollment in the sixth grade at Prairie Star Middle School.

However, It is also noted that the student experienced a significant transition from a familiar elementary school building to a new middle school setting at the beginning of the 2023-24 school year. On October 16, 2023, the IEP team determined that the student's behavior impeded her learning and the learning of others and developed a BIP to address the behavior. Documentation and interview show that the student continued to exhibit these behaviors and the district responded by providing additional consultation and support for the Special Education Teacher from the BCBA and the Special Education Consultant for Intensive Resource Classrooms.

Interviews and documentation found evidence to support a finding that the sensory accommodations and environmental supports described in the student's IEP and BIP dated October 16, 2023 were available to the student while enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School between the dates of December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024.

Based on the foregoing, USD 229 is found to be IN compliance in regards to this issue.

Issue Three

USD #229, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the sensory accommodations including breaks, between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024 while enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.300.324(a)(2)(i) requires the IEP team to consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address any behavior that impedes the learning of the student or that of others.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue Two are incorporated herein by reference.

The parent believes the student was not allowed to take the required sensory breaks while attending Prairie Star Middle School which resulted in the student becoming dysregulated and displaying inappropriate behavior in the school setting.

The October 16, 2023 IEP and BIP includes an accommodation for "sensory breaks – as needed".

Interviews and documentation showed the BCBA consulted with the Special Education Teacher and incorporated scheduled sensory breaks into the student's schedules beginning in January 2024.

Interviews and documentation show that an IEP Team Meeting was held on February 13, 2024 to discuss the parent's concerns regarding the sensory breaks. Attending the meeting were the Special Education Teacher; the BCBA; the Special Education Consultant for Intensive Resource Classrooms; the Principal; Emily LaBelle, the Regular Education Teacher; the parent; and Yvette Nguyen, the family advocate.

The notes from this meeting document that the team discussed parent concerns regarding the sensory breaks. It was reported that currently there were three sensory breaks built into the student's daily school schedule. However, it was reported that the student had been resistant to take these breaks because she preferred to be with her peers. It was suggested to allow the student to invite a peer to join her for the sensory breaks.

The notes also reflect that the parent disagreed with the student being assigned to lunch detention for pulling a peer's hair and arm and that she does not want the student to be secluded. The notes state, "Mom said her trust is broken".

An email dated February 21, 2024 written by the Assistant Principal to the parent states, > 9:20-9:30, 1:45-2:00, and 2:45-3:00 are her scheduled break times. In addition to those, she has flex from 8:49-9:14 in which she typically has the opportunity to read, color, or play games with peers and lunch from 12:40-1:05.

> Johnnea [the Occupational Therapist] completed a preference inventory with the student earlier in the year which identified that the student prefers tangible items such as silly putty, stickers, and coloring books, movement such as swing, spinning, and running, and miscellaneous items such as board games and listening to music. That is not the full list (just a representation) but we've utilized that list for options during break times. Additionally, Johnnea has completed the sensory profile for the student and is looking at those results for specific recommendations.

During the interview with the BCBA and the Special Education Consultant for Intensive Resource Classrooms, both staff indicated they had observed the student taking both her scheduled and "as needed" breaks in multiple informal observations in the classroom setting at Prairie Star Middle School.

Conclusion

In this case, the student's IEP and BIP required the student to take sensory breaks on an as needed basis. After the student's inappropriate behavior increased during the first semester, the BCBA consulted with the Special Education Teacher and developed a schedule for the student to take three scheduled sensory breaks throughout the school day. Based upon the documentation and interviews with school staff, evidence supports a finding that the student was provided with sensory breaks, both scheduled and "as needed".

Based on the foregoing, USD 229 is found to be IN compliance in regards to this issue.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: Interviews and documentation support a finding that the district did employ an appropriately certified special education teacher to provide special education services to the student between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024 while enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School. Based on the foregoing, no corrective action is required.

ISSUE TWO: Interviews and documentation support a finding that the district did implement the student's IEP, specifically the behavior intervention plan (BIP). In this case, the student was removed from the classroom setting for more than 20 minutes on several occasions between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024 in order to allow her to use the sensory strategies to regulate herself prior to returning to the general education classroom. The IEP states, "It is best when the student has a behavior to allow her some time by herself so that she can calm down and apologize for her actions." Based on the foregoing, no corrective action is required.

ISSUE THREE: Interviews and documentation support a finding that the district did implement the student's IEP and BIP which require sensory breaks "as needed". In this case, the student was provided with both scheduled and "as needed" sensory breaks between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024. Based on the foregoing, no corrective action is required.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 229,
Blue Valley Public Schools: 25FC229-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on December 6, 2024, by ----------, on behalf of her child, ----------. In the remainder of this decision, ---------- will be referred to as the "complainant" or the "parent," and ---------- will be referred to as the "student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on February 12, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there were no violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the complainant filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint, the Complaint Report, and the complainant's notice of appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

From Complainant

The complaint report addressed three issues. The appeal does not specify which issues are being appealed. However, it appears that the complainant is appealing all three issues and so the committee will address each of the three issues separately.

Issue One

USD #229, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to employ an appropriately certified special education teacher to provide special education services to the student between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024 while enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School.

The investigator concluded that the district was in compliance with Kansas standards, reporting that, "the requirements for a special education teacher to be considered appropriately and adequately prepared and trained are found in Appendix B of the "Special Education Reimbursement Guide State Categorical Aid"," and that the teacher subject to this complaint met those requirements (Report p. 6), because the student's teacher was an appropriately certified special education teacher (Report p. 13).

Issue Two

> USD #229, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the behavior intervention plan (BIP), which resulted in the student being removed from the classroom setting for more than 20 minutes between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024 while enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School.

The investigator cited interviews and documentation supporting that "the sensory accommodations and environmental supports described in the student's IEP and BIP dated October 16, 2023 were available to the student while enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School between the dates of December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024," in concluding that the student's IEP and BIP were implemented (Report, p. 11).

Issue Three

> USD #229, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the sensory accommodations including breaks, between December 6, 2023 and March 18, 2024 while enrolled at Prairie Star Middle School.

The investigator cited documentation and interviews with school staff members to conclude that "the student was provided with sensory breaks, both scheduled and "as needed" (Report, p. 13)."

In her appeal of this complaint report, the complainant does not describe how any of the findings or conclusions of the investigator are incorrect.

Instead, the appeal asserts:

- For a number of reasons, "the use of seclusion in the manner described within the investigation is in conflict with the foundational principles of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, including a Free Appropriate Education (FAPE) and Least Restrictive Environment (LRE)."
- The investigation conclusion does not adequately address how the use of seclusion may have violated IDEA's requirement for an individualized, supportive approach to education. The failure to provide timely communication with parents, inadequate documentation, and the improper use of seclusion all represent serious concerns that require corrective action, rather than a simple dismissal.
- The report seems to minimize the severity of the misuse of seclusion.
- Seclusion should never be considered a substitute for adequate training, resources, and individualized interventions tailored to each child's needs.
- Some individuals who interacted with the student daily not interviewed?
- There are specific advantages in using certified personnel.

The Appeal Committee has already noted, above, that Kansas regulations specify minimum requirements for appeal of a complaint report, namely: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect."

Again, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee's function is to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

With regard to this appeal, the Appeal Committee notes that:

(1) Special education complaints, such as this one must allege a violation of special education laws and regulations, 34 C.F.R. 300.153(b)(1) and K.A.R. 91-40-51(a).
(2) Neither the federal nor state special education laws or regulations prohibit the use of seclusion in appropriate circumstances and, for that reason, complaints alleging a misuse of seclusion are more appropriately made in accordance with the Kansas regulations on the use of Emergency Safety Interventions, at K.A.R. 91-42-1 through 91-42-7.
(3) Complainants cannot be expected to know the legal requirements for filing an appeal, such as the duty to provide a "detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect". It is for that reason that every complaint report includes both a statement at the end of the report on how to file an appeal and a copy of the appeal regulation, K.A.R. 91-40-51(f).

The Appeal Committee has reviewed all of the material submitted in this appeal, and has identified no basis in this appeal to conclude that any finding or conclusion in the report is incorrect or to overturn any portion of the report. Therefore, the Appeal Committee finds that there is sufficient evidence to support the findings and conclusions in the report.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 4th day of March, 2025.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a documentation review and interviews with the Parent and the District.

1. The Student is 13 years old, in the eighth grade, and attends a District middle school that is not the Student's resident middle school. (D1)
2. The Student is eligible for special education services under the exceptionality of Other Health Impairment. (D1)
3. According to an Evaluation Report dated January 30, 2024, the Evaluation team conducted a re-evaluation to determine if the Student continued to need special education services. The Student had a diagnosis of Other Specified Disruptive, Impulse-Control, and Conduct Disorder and Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder. The Student "struggles with social situations, (at times), [the Student] can become physically aggressive when angered or triggered, [the Student] has done better with using [their] coping skills at home and school." (D32)

Classroom Observations indicated the Student was observed by the School Psychologist on January 26, 2024. The Student finished their work and asked if they could play games. The teacher told the Student "no" and handed out a paper that the Student was to read and answer questions. The Student immediately started to read the assignment. The Student sat at a table by themself in a class of seven students. The Student worked quietly for the full 15-minute observation.

No standardized norm-referenced assessments were conducted. The Parent reported, "[The Student] has grown a lot during this last year, [the Student] has always had a struggle with school and homework. [The Parent] has seen a significant improvement. … [The Student] does not know who [they] can trust anymore. [The Parent] would also like to focus on trauma symptoms. The SW [social worker] will focus on tools and strategies to help, but can not due [sic] therapy for trauma in a school setting." (D34)

"Based on observations, teacher input, record review, Parent input, and behavioral assessments, [the Student] continues to qualify under the descriptive category of Other Health Impairment. [The Student] continues to show ADHD-like symptoms (distraction, unfocused, inattention, etc.) which is adversely affecting [the Student's] education[.] [The Student] is struggling to retain information as [the Student] is constantly unfocused." The Evaluation team "recommends continuing [the Student] under the descriptive category of Other Health Impairment and continuing specially designed instruction with the Social Worker and Special Education Teacher." (D33)

4. Relevant items from the IEP dated January 30, 2024 indicated the following:
    a. The re-evaluation for the Student was due on January 29, 2027.
    b. The Student's Current Academic Achievement and Functional Performance included:
        i. Student strengths: The Student had a relative strength in reading. The Student was especially strong in language, craft, and structure of both fiction and non-fiction text. The Student was strong across most areas in math. The Student interacted with others and worked in groups if required.
        ii. Parent Input: The Parent wanted to make sure the School is not just focusing on Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) but also focusing on the trauma.
    c. The Student performed at grade level in reading, writing, and math and did not exhibit needs in those areas. It was noted that in the area of geometry, the Student needed "to work on it as they progressed through the math curriculum." The Student was described as struggling with social skills in the classroom. The Student withdrew, ignored others, and was not working in groups.

d. The Student was given the [District] Public Schools Social Emotional Skills Assessment (TPS SESA). The assessment had five domains. The Student scored:
    i. "Behavior with adults-78%, and 48% for special education students with social work."
    ii. "Behavior with peers-76% for a general education, and 48% for a special education student with social work."
    iii. "Emotional regulation -80% for a general education student, and 40% for a special education student with social work."
    iv. "Engagement -80% for a general education student, and 42% for a special education student with social work."
    v. "Social skills-80% for a general education student, and 42% for a special education student with social work."
    vi. "Overall Average- 80% for a general education student and 46% for a special education student with social work." (D16-D17)
    vii. "The Student's behavior impedes their learning, that of others, and the Student's ability to access the general curriculum." (D18)
e. The Student's social-emotional goal was, "By the end of the IEP year, [w]hen interacting with peers, [the Student] will demonstrate age-appropriate interaction skills and understanding of social rules (eye contact, sharing, courtesy, taking turns, listening to others) as evidenced by a 28% on the Social Skills domain of the [District] Public Schools Social Emotional Skills Assessment." The Service Provider is the Social Worker assisted by the Special Education Teacher. The following objectives were listed:
    i. Objective 1: "By the end of the IEP year, [w]hen interacting with peers, [the Student] will demonstrate age-appropriate interaction skills and understanding of social rules (eye contact, sharing, courtesy, taking turns, listening to others) as evidenced by a 22% on the Social Skills domain of the [District] Public Schools Social Emotional Skills Assessment, by March 25, 2024."
    ii. Objective 2: "By the end of the IEP year, [w]hen interacting with peers, [the Student] will demonstrate age-appropriate interaction skills and understanding of social rules (eye contact, sharing, courtesy, taking turns listening to others) as evidenced by a 24% on the Social Skills domain of the [District] Public Schools Social Emotional Skills Assessment, by April 23, 2024."
    iii. Objective 3: "By the end of the IEP year, [w]hen interacting with peers, [the Student] will demonstrate age-appropriate interaction skills and understanding of social rules (eye contact, sharing, courtesy, taking turns, listening to others) as evidenced by a 26% on the Social Skills domain of the [District] Public Schools Social Emotional Skills Assessment, by October 14, 2024."

iv. Objective 4: "By the end of the IEP year, [w]hen interacting with peers, [the Student] will demonstrate age-appropriate interaction skills and understanding of social rules (eye contact, sharing, courtesy, taking turns, listening to others) as evidenced by a 28% on the Social Skills domain of the [District] Public Schools Social Emotional Skills Assessment, by January 6, 2025." (D20)

f. The Statement of Special Education/Related Services indicated:

i. Special education services would be provided by the Special Education Teacher with direct service in the general education setting for 90 minutes five times a week, beginning on January 30, 2024 and ending on January 29, 2025.

ii. Social Work Services would be provided by the Social Worker with direct services in the special education setting for 20 minutes, 1 time, every fourth week beginning on January 30, 2024 and ending on January 29, 2025. (D21)

g. The following Supplementary Aids and Services would be provided (Accommodations and Modifications) during all core and elective classes with a start date of January 30, 2024 with no end date noted:

i. "Speech to text (when available and/or when requested), for lengthy writing tasks that exceed two paragraphs, [the Student] may utilize, when it is available, the speech to text feature in order to complete the written text, for the length of the written assignment."

ii. "Separate, quiet, individual setting (when requested) [during] those times that [the Student] is distracted from noises or things that [their] peers are doing that prohibit [them] from completing an assignment or assessment, for the duration of the assignment or assessment."

iii. "Extended time, [the Student] may need additional time to complete an assignment or assessment because time in class isn't enough time. [The Student] may utilize additional time to complete work when [they] has [sic] been responsible for the time that [the Student] was given originally, 1.5 times the allotted time." (D22)

h. Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) indicated, "[The Student] attends [their] local public school, where [the Student] is in the general education classroom. [The Student] will receive special education inclusion (in class) support, and [they] will have time in a special education setting for time with the Social Worker. … [The Student] will not participate in the general education curriculum for 20 minutes, one day every 4 weeks when [they] are pulled out to receive one one-on-one Social Work services." (D24)

5. According to meeting notes dated January 30, 2024, the Parent agreed with the goals, the accommodations, and the modifications. (D28)
6. The Special Education Instructor described the Student's academic skills and behaviors in an interview. They indicated that the Student had strong math scores and average reading scores. They shared that the Student was capable of independent work. However, the Student exhibited task avoidance behaviors, which sometimes required encouragement to complete assignments. The Special Education Instructor shared that last year they noticed work refusal behaviors and the Student withdrawing, and noted that those behaviors, "seemed a lot more intense this year." Additionally, the Special Education Instructor noticed that this year, "[The Student] was not arriving on time. [The Student] was showing up very late. [The Student] [would] miss half the class, or sometimes [The Student] [would] miss all of the class. I do remember there were days where [the Student] would show up and [they] would not want to go to math class in the morning because it had already started and it has started so long ago that [the Student] was like, 'I can't go.'" (Special Education Instructor Interview, P5, 10:29; 14:33)
7. The Parent described that regarding the Student's accommodations, "I know that we had made it where [the Student] would be able to stay after school once or twice a week to get caught up in the beginning. And it worked for the first quarter. And once we got [the Student] caught up, then it kind of eased up. No more staying after school. But then the second quarter, when I had attempted to try and get [the Student] to stay after school to catch up on assignments and everything, they were always too busy and never wanted to make time for getting [the Student] caught up." The Parent shared that, regarding the IEP meeting the Student's behavioral needs, "I know [the Student] has stated that [the Student] feels like [they] hover and do the work for [the Student]. [The Student] says they give [the Student] the answers, so [the Student] doesn't learn it right." (Parent Interview, P5, 18:37)
8. An email exchange between the Special Education Instructor and the District Public Schools Social Worker on September 24, 2024 noted Parent concerns that needed to be addressed, "[The Student] has a failing grade in Math. [The Parent] said [the Student] has expressed frustration that [the Student] does not understand. [The Student] is trying to catch up on missing work. [The Special Education Instructor], who is [the Student's] PI? Is this something that they can help with? [The Student's] also now failing ELA." The Special Education Instructor emailed the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher in response to the email exchange. The 8th Grade Special Education Teacher indicated the Student's low grade in math was due to attendance. (D49-D50)
9. On September 25, 2024, an email exchange between the Special Education Instructor and the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher stated, "[The Student] has a lot of math homework and I know [the Student] has several missing assignments in other classes, too. [The District Public Schools Social Worker] and I are wondering if we can come up with a plan for [the Student] to have some of [their] assignments either excused or reduced to ½ or less (depending on the content area), so the [the Student] feels that it is doable to get through this situation." (D53)

10. On September 25, 2024, the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher emailed the Special Education Instructor, "Can we have a meeting regarding [the Student]? And I would like to invite [Classroom Teacher 1 and Classroom Teacher 2] because it seems like there is a MISCOMMUNICATION concerning accommodations/modifications provided in the classrooms." (D54) In an interview, the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher said they noticed that the Student was frequently late, missing all or parts of classes. They requested a meeting "to clarify that with the gen[eral] ed[ucation] teachers, that the Student has an extended time when it comes to assignments and tests." The 8th Grade Special Education Teacher was not aware of any instances where this accommodation was incorrectly implemented. The 8th Grade Teacher also described that when they check the Student's grades, they remind teachers of the Student's accommodations and modifications on their IEP. (8th Grade Special Education Teacher Interview, P3, 07:35; P5-P6, 14:59)
11. On September 25, 2024, the Principal emailed the Special Education Instructor and the Assistant Principal, "Please let me know the outcome of the meeting with [the Student's Parent]. I am seriously considering revoking [the Student] transfer due to attendance concerns." The Assistant Principal responded, "[The Student] will go into [the behavior, social, and academic room] BASR 2nd and 8th hour to work on math and ELA. [The Parent] was supportive. We can revisit the week before [the] quarter and revoke then if [the Student] doesn't shape up." (D61)
12. The Parent emailed the District on September 26, 2024 to request the names and email addresses of the individuals involved in the Student's daily schedule. The Parent questioned the decision to refrain from sending late work home, which was intended to alleviate some of the Parent's responsibilities. The Student had expressed frustration regarding the inability to bring work home for completion. The Parent believed that staying after school once or twice a week would help the Student manage their workload more effectively. (P60)
13. According to a Synergy Contact Log, on October 8, 2024, the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher contacted the Parent concerning the Student's attendance and stated the Student's math work was posted on Google Classroom. (D173) The 8th Grade Special Education Teacher shared in an interview they did not understand the Parent's comment about the Student not being allowed to bring work home because all of the materials for the class were in Google Classroom, and if there were copies provided, they wrote the Student's name on them.to provide them at a later time. (8th Grade Special Education Teacher Interview, P4, 11:54)
14. On October 23, 2024, the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher suggested to the Parent "the idea of virtual schooling." The Parent mentioned that the Student had expressed interest in online education, "Since I have limited knowledge about the [D]istrict's virtual school, I accompanied [the Parent] to the principal's office to explore this option further. … However [the Parent] noted that gaining approval for virtual schooling might be challenging, [the Foster Care Support Program] may deny [the Parent's request]." The Principal stated during conferences that the Parent requested to move the Student to virtual learning because the family was going through a lot. Feedback from the teachers was that the Student was highly distracted at school. (D81,D86) (8th Grade Special Education Teacher Interview, P3, 09:08)

15. During an email exchange on October 28, 2024 between a staff member and the Principal, "[The Student's] Parent showed up this morning wanting to talk to someone. … [The Parent] was telling me that [the Foster Care Support Program] is not on board with [the Student] doing virtual and said [the Parent] wants help from [the] school to advocate for virtual school. [The Parent kept saying this wasn't [their] idea and [the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher] was the one who brought up virtual." (D89; Parent Interview, P1, 02:24)
16. The District Virtual School Special Education Consulting Teacher called the Parent three times between October 28, 2024 and November 5, 2024 regarding the Student's referral to the District Virtual School. The phone conversations included the following:
    a. Call #1: Established the Parent was concerned about the Student's attendance, and when discussing the concerns with the Student's Case Manager, the Parent was told about the District Virtual School. A discussion occurred regarding special education services and how the Student could access those services. When asked if the Parent would like to enroll the Student, the Parent replied that they would have to discuss the change of schools with the Foster Care Support Program.
    b. Call #2: A follow-up with the Parent about enrollment occurred. The Parent shared that the Foster Care Support Program was "being difficult and was not in favor of [the Student's] changing schools. [The Parent] was going to speak to the guardian ad litem." The District Virtual School Special Education Consulting Teacher agreed to call the Parent back on Friday.
    c. Call #3: In a follow-up conversation with the Parent about how the conversation with the guardian ad litem went, the Parent stated that they were told the Student needed to remain at the Current Middle School. The Parent shared that they were evicted from their home and staying at the hotel across from the Current Middle School. The Parent was waiting one week to get into a new place. The District Virtual School Special Education Consulting Teacher let the Parent know the Student's name would be removed from the transfer list. (D293)
17. On November 5, 2024, the Parent emailed the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher, "I have the CASA worker asking me to see when [the Student] is due for [their] next IEP meeting [sic] can I get some clarification on this please." (P37) The 8th Grade Special Education Teacher replied, "[The Student's] IEP is due [at] the end of January 2025." (P38)
18. On November 6, 2024, the McKinney-Vento (Homeless) Coordinator emailed the Parent to let the Parent know, "Under the McKinney-Vento Act, [the Student] has the option to remain at [their] school of origin, [the Current Middle School], or to attend the school assigned to [their] residential area." (P54)

19. On November 6, 2024, the Parent emailed the District, "I did not decline transportation[.] I would like to set the record on that as I have been fighting for help getting [the Student] transportation since these other issues became a concern[.] I did say I was concerned about [the Student] refusing to go because [they have] stated [they] wouldn't ride the bus which would lead to more difficulties." (P56) The Parent confirmed in an interview that the Student refused to ride the bus. (Parent Interview, P4, 14:09)
20. The District emailed the Parent on November 8, 2024 to let the Parent know that their request for a transfer to another school, not the resident middle school, was denied. (P49) The Parent emailed the District, "I am writing to formally appeal the decision regarding [the Student's] school placement. While I understand that transfers are currently per case, I would like to emphasize that placing [the Student] at [the Home Middle School] would not be in [their] best interest, and I have serious concerns about the potential challenges [the Student] would face there. Currently, I transport my other child to school and [the Third Middle School] is on the way, which is why I feel this would be a better option for both of my children, rather than placing [the Student] at [the Home Middle School], where I am aware of numerous issues that could arise." (P53)
21. When asked about their understanding of special education placement and school location, the Parent shared, "I don't know what the difference is, honestly. I know with [the Student's] specific behavioral needs, [the Student's] not hard. … [The Student] can adapt pretty much anywhere. [The Student] probably could even adapt to [the Home School]. It's just with everything else going on in our lives, I was trying to make it easier. And so I was trying to do [the Third School] because [the Student's] already got a friend there. I felt the transition would be easier. It would be easier to get [the Student] to go to school." (Parent Interview, P9, 37:06)
22. In an interview, the Parent shared that the Student experienced "… a lot of anxiety around the [Current School], and it's not just [the Student]. I have anxiety around [the Current School] too. I don't even [like] calling to let them know [the Student's] not going to be there because there's a tone of prejudice." (Parent Interview, P2, 07:26)
23. On November 15, 2024, the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher emailed the Parent that students were working on their missing assignments in class. "However, [the Student] said [they] left [their] [C]hromebook at home. I gave [the Student] my school laptop just so [the Student] could work on some of it. Also, [the Student] has assignments that were supposed to be turned in yesterday (extended time already)." (P66)
24. On November 22, 2024, the Parent emailed the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher and the Special Education Instructor, "In retrospect, I tried to get [the Student] into a different school as requested and with the school suggesting that [the Student] was better off there that became impossible so if I would have had the school's support in moving [the Student] as we felt would be more beneficial as well as the guardian ad litem of our case felt would be more beneficial then we might be seeing a little more progress [sic] something is bothering [the Student]. … This has been one of the issues that I have brought up a couple of times is the lack of communication does not help in me helping [the Student] if I don't know there's issues. … I had stressed assistance for getting [the Student] more reliable transportation because now we are running into the issue of a bus situation." (D115-D116)

25. The Career and Life Planning Teacher emailed the Parent on December 4, 2024, "I wanted to make you aware of an opportunity I am offering to get help to make up missing work in Career and Life Planning. Anyone that needs help completing their work would be able to stay after school tomorrow (Thursday) from 2:45-3:30, and I will have my room open to offer that help. … Of course, I am available to help students during class time as well." (D123)
26. In an email exchange between the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher and the Special Education Instructor on December 6, 2024, an alternative breakfast location was discussed, "[The Student] is asking me this morning as to what [the Student] can do if [they] come in on time? [The Student] doesn't want to eat breakfast/stay in the cafeteria with all [the] other students. I am not sure if BASR room is an option." The Special Education Instructor replied, "BASR opens up at 7:30 and [the Student's] on the guest list." (D127)
27. On December 11, 2025, the counselors and Principal were notified that the Student was absent "4 or 5 days." The Principal indicated that if the Student was not at school today, "I will make a phone call home and home visit if needed." (D129)
28. The 8th Grade Special Education Teacher emailed the Parent on December 12, 2024, "[The Student] has several assignments in IXL that remain incomplete, despite having full access to it. … The other option I am thinking is to pull [the Student] out of [their] electives today so that [the Student] can do some of those missing assignments in Math. However, the drawback to this is that [the Student] will miss elective classes that are high school credits as well." (P67)

    The Parent responded, "[The Student] is more than capable of achieving excellent grades when given the right tools and support. Unfortunately, I feel that these supports are not being offered at the level they should be, and I am concerned about the long-term impact on [the Student's] education. I have requested that [the Student] be allowed to bring [their] late work home to complete it, but this request was initially refused in person … I have also been informed that the [P]rincipal believes it would be in [the Student's] best interest to remain at [the Current School]." The Parent indicated that they thought that recommendation was contradictory since the staff suggested virtual schooling for the Student. (P68)
29. In an email exchange on December 16, 2024, the Communication Specialist from the Third Middle School in the District indicated the Parent wanted to "see what could be done to grant [the Student] a transfer to [the Third Middle School]. [The Parent] stated that [the Student] started at the [Current Middle School] while [the Student] was in foster care, and since [the Student] was doing okay, [the Parent] kept [the Student]

there this year while [the Parent] worked on getting housing. … Early in the school year, no one told [the Parent] that [the Student] was failing classes, [the Parent's] after[-]school care person told [the Parent] that." (D131)

The Current Middle School Principal replied, "There is far more to this story than what [the Parent] is sharing. … I am in daily conversation with [the Student's] case manager from [the Foster Care Support Program] as well. [The Parent] tells each person a different story. [The Parent] asked to transfer [the Student] to virtual, so I provided the paperwork. [The Foster Care Support Program] became involved at that time and stated it was not in [the Student's] best interest. [The Student] will go several days without coming to school and when [the Student] does, [the Student] has doctor notes from multiple doctor's offices in a week. We have followed protocol with filing truancy and that is what has upset [the Parent] as [the Parent] is ordered by [the Foster Care Support Program] to have [the Student] at school." (D131)

30. In an interview, the Principal indicated that they wrote a letter to the Agency "stating that the Parent had requested … [the Virtual School], but that we believe that [the Student] needed to attend in person, that we were concerned with [the Student's] number of absences. And academically, we felt like being in person, [the Student] would receive the best supports, the special education piece, and then just overall, instructionally, would be better than if [the Student] were doing it behind a computer with a self-guided independent program." The Principal indicated that the Agency had the educational decision-making power and determined that the virtual setting was not appropriate for the Student. (Principal Interview, P4, 10:07)
31. The Parent shared they had requested a meeting with the School, "I had request[ed], so when I pulled [the Student] from the School, I want to say, two days after I had called and asked for a meeting with [the Current School], and instead I was told about [the Student's] truancy. … instead of offering a meeting." (Parent Interview, P7, 27:11)
32. The Parent shared in an interview that the Home School does not "… communicate with me. They communicate with the agency. I'm the Parent. I don't know when [the Student's] grades are bad, but the State does." (Parent Interview, P3, 09:10)
33. The Lead Principal for the District emailed the Student's current Principal on December 16, 2024, "Please reach out to the Parent and set up a meeting. [The Student] is not required to attend virtual. I feel like [the Parent's] choices are [to] remain at [the Current Middle School] where the Student is currently enrolled or attend [the Home Middle School]." (D132)
34. According to an email exchange between the Principal and the Parent without a date, the Principal stated, "I understand you do not feel [the Current Middle School] is a good fit for [the Student]. I am sorry you feel that way and want you to know the teachers and staff have worked very hard for [the Student]. … When it comes down to [the Student's] grades and missing work, [the Student's] attendance has greatly affected those areas. The District has stated they would grant [the Student] a transfer to [their Home Middle School] if you do not want [the Current Middle School]. [The Third Middle School] is not an option." (P18)

The Parent stated, "I am writing to follow up regarding [the Student's] schooling and the ongoing efforts to transfer [the Student] out of [the Current Middle School], as I understand this process has encountered significant delays. … there is an urgent need to address [the Student's] educational and behavioral needs in accordance with [the Student's] IEP. As you know, I have been advocating for an alternative to [the Home Middle School], as [the Student] has made it clear that [they] would refuse to attend, which I fear would lead to ongoing issues. … I have raised these concerns in multiple communications but have not yet seen a viable solution that considers [the Student's] behavioral needs." (P22)

35. On December 18, 2024, the Parent emailed the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher, "I just wanted to reach out about [the Student's] IEP and let you know I'm not sure about scheduling until I hear back from the people I have been talking to over the week." The 8th Grade Special Education Teacher responded, "Okay. [The Student's] IEP is not due till 01/29/2025." (D107, P42)
36. According to a grade book update with a date range of December 18, 2024 through December 20, 2024, the Student scores were listed:
    a. Math 8, F.
    b. Science 8, F.
    c. FACS 8, C and D.
    d. Phys Ed 6, A.
    e. Language Arts 8, D. (P2-P3, P17)
37. According to an email from the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher (no date) to the Parent, the Student was given an extra 30 minutes to complete a math assignment but only finished 1 out of 4 problems. Additionally, the student still had several math assignments missing. (P44)
38. In an interview, the Parent shared that the Current Middle School is not meeting the Student's needs because "… they're not communicating with me to let me know that [the Student's] not getting things turned in. [The Student's] grades aren't sufficient. … I've asked for [the Student] to stay after school, but they don't have time, and they don't make any accommodations or any other suggestions of other times [the Student] could stay after school to make up school work, and they're letting [the Student] fall behind and it feels more so that they can paint a portrait of me." (Parent Interview, P3, 11:16)

    The Parent shared, "I know that I've had my worker, my Current Worker, tell me that [the Current School] has reached out to [the Current Worker] to let [the Current Worker] know when [the Student] wasn't there. And, I'm like … they have yet to contact me. Obviously, I knew [the Student] wasn't there, but what if I had dropped [the Student] off and then [the Student] skipped? What if that was a thing? Nobody contacts me." (Parent Interview, P4, 13:05)

39. The Parent shared in an interview that their impression was that the Parent had to initiate communication with the Current School. When asked about the communication they received from teachers about the Student's progress, the Parent shared that only one teacher reached out to the Parent regarding a high school credit course, "And [the Student] was behind on a couple assignments and [the Teacher] asked if [the Student] could stay after. And I was like, 'Of course.' That was the only time I've had a teacher specifically reach out to me." (Parent Interview, P4, 15:23)
40. The January 6, 2025 IEP Progress Report described the Student's progress toward meeting their goals on several different reporting dates.
    a. On March 25, 2024, the Student met their social-emotional objective.
    b. On May 23, 2024, the Student met their social-emotional objective.
    c. On October 15, 2024, the Student met their social-emotional objective.
    d. On January 6, 2025, "Progress has been made towards the goal, but the goal may not be met by the annual IEP. Goal, Instructional strategies and student supports may need to be reviewed." (D41)
        i. The Student had a baseline average of 20% on the social skills assessment.
        ii. The short-term objective related to the goal indicated, "By the end of the IEP year, [w]hen interacting with peers, [the Student] will demonstrate age-appropriate interaction skills and understanding of social rules (eye contact, sharing, courtesy, taking turns, listening to others) as evidenced by a 28% on the Social Skills domain of the [District] Public Schools Social Emotional Skills Assessment."
        iii. The Student scored 27% in the social skills domain. "[The Student] is close to meeting [their] goal. [The Student's] comfort level with some staff has clearly improved but this is not generalizing to all staff and peers. [The Student] is introverted and that is just part of [their] personality. The Teacher's biggest concern is attendance." (D44)
41. A Notice of Meeting dated January 13, 2025 indicated a meeting to develop, review, or revise the IEP had been scheduled. The meeting was scheduled for January 28, 2025. A social worker was invited to the meeting. (P11-P12) According to a telephone message, the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher left a message which stated there was an attempt to schedule an IEP meeting and the District was told to wait. (P62)
42. On January 13, 2025, the District Communication Specialist emailed the Homeless Coordinator and the Principal, "[The Parent] was back … [The Parent] said [they] hadn't heard anything back from [the School] previous from right before the break. [The Parent] stated [they] received contact from [the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher] to set up the IEP meeting. [The Parent] said on the phone [the Parent] requested a couple of days before the time and date of the IEP not to be set as [the Parent] wants to have someone attend with [the Parent]. [The Parent] doesn't trust the school. Within an hour, [the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher] scheduled the meeting. [The Parent] responded with an email telling [the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher] how disrespectful it was to schedule a meeting when [the Parent] asked to wait. … [The Parent] feels like [their] rights to decisions for [their] children are being taken away." (D134, P2, Parent Interview, P8, 30:48)

The current Principal responded, "My SPED teacher reached out on December 18 that they needed to get a date set. [The Parent] wasn't sure so my teacher went ahead and penciled in Jan.10. Obviously that did not happen so my teacher called [the Parent] back this morning proposing [the meeting]." (D134, D209)

43. In an interview, the Parent shared, "I have been a part of every IEP meeting when they're in foster care, [and] when they're not in foster care. I've been in every IEP meeting." Regarding the scheduling of the IEP meeting in December/January, the Parent shared they had previously requested an advocate to help navigate a situation due to past tensions. After a three-week communication gap due to winter break and weather, they were ready to schedule a meeting but wanted to reconnect with people they'd already consulted on the matter. According to the Parent, they indicated they would communicate with the school within a day or two to schedule, but the meeting was scheduled immediately "before I even made it out of the house for the day." The Parent indicated that "… because they went and scheduled the appointment that goes against my rights and my consent." The Parent indicated they "… pulled [the Student] from school, and I was trying to get [the Student] transferred out of there because of that." (Parent Interview, P5, 20:36)
44. In an interview, the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher shared that they attempted to schedule the Student's IEP meeting multiple times. Their first attempt, in December, involved an email and phone call to the Parent. The Parent stated they were seeking an advocate and could not commit to the proposed date. According to the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher, subsequent attempts to contact the Parent after winter break, including calls after a snow day, were also unsuccessful. The Parent had not found an advocate. The 8th Grade Special Education Teacher explained the IEP deadline and the 14-day notice requirement. Finally, after consulting with the Special Education Instructor, the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher scheduled the IEP meeting for January 28th, the day before the IEP was due. (8th Grade Special Education Teacher Interview, P1-P2, 02:43)
45. Communication Log entries included the following:
    a. The District contacted the Parent on September 25, 2024 by phone and in person regarding missing assignments, attendance, and tardies.
    b. The District emailed the Parent regarding the Student's absences on October 2, 2024 and October 3, 2024, and called the Parent on October 18, 2024.
    c. The Parent requested supervision for the Student due to a late pick-up on October 11, 2024.
    d. The Parent asked about the IEP due date in an email on November 5, 2024.

e. The Parent requested after-school supervision for the Student on November 15, 2024, and November 20, 2024.

f. The District proposed an IEP meeting schedule by email on December 17, 2024 and December 18, 2024.

g. On January 13, 2025, the District emailed and called the Parent regarding a proposed IEP meeting date. (D47-D48)

46. According to a Synergy Contact Log, on January 13, 2025, the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher contacted the Parent for an IEP meeting date. The Parent was still undecided due to the "request to transfer [the Student] to another middle school." (D171, D173) In an email exchange between the Principal, the Special Education Instructor, and the 8th Grade Special Education Teacher, dated January 13, 2025, the Special Education Instructor stated, "I was hoping the last email that I sent would cover it; I can respond to [the Parent] letting [the Parent] know that we are obligated to schedule a meeting 10 or more days before, as previously stated, but that we can always change the date with the 10 day waiver if [the Parent] would like to move to a different day." The Principal responded, "That is exactly what you should do-Continue documenting your attempts to schedule the meeting and pick a date and time. If [the Parent] does not attend, services will revert back to [the] current IEP." (D109)
47. On January 13, 2025, the Principal emailed the Parent, "We will take the meeting off of that date since it doesn't work with your schedule. We look forward to talking with you about a date and a time that works for you and [the Student's] school team. … We are obligated by law to schedule a meeting 10 days before the IEP is due, and as you noted, we can definitely create a Notice of Meeting to waive those 10 days, if necessary, we just have to show the state that we are following the law on our end. We will do our best to have the meeting on a day/time that works best for you. Reach out by phone or email when you are able to and we will go from there." (D143, P13)
48. According to a Synergy Contact Log, on January 22, 2025 and January 23, 2025, the District contacted the Parent to follow up, confirm the agenda, and confirm that the Guardian Ad Litum and a Foster Care Support Program representative would be attending via Google Meet. (D163-D165)
49. In an undated, Parent-created document, the Parent noted a concern about scheduling an IEP meeting against their wishes. In the document, the Parent expressed their discomfort with talking to anyone from the Current Middle School the Student attends and felt the School staff was staging their emails to the Parent. (D152)
50. An undated email indicated the Parent emailed the District, "The focus should be on finding constructive solutions that will help [the Student] move forward, rather than continuing to focus on punitive measures that do not address the root of the problem. I kindly request that a constructive and timely solution be provided, or that we schedule a meeting as soon as possible to address these concerns diligently. It is important that we work together to find a resolution that allows [the Student] to get back into school and continue [their] education in a supportive and effective environment. A prompt response and action on this matter would be greatly appreciated, so we can move forward and ensure [the Student's] success." (P7)

51. According to a 2024-2025 Period Student Attendance Profile, the Student was absent:
    a. "Unexcused absences -10 times."
    b. "Left early absences - 5 times."
    c. "Late arrival absences - 32 times."
    d. "Unexcused absences - 9 times."
    e. "Excused absences - 135 times." (D93-D94)
52. The Parent shared in an interview that the Student's reasons for not wanting to attend school were primarily related to the Student's anxiety, "You can tell there's a lot of anxiousness about it at this point. I don't know if it's because of how the school and me [sic] are together, or if there's something going on." (Parent Interview, P4, 16:18)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to schedule an IEP meeting at a mutually agreeable time. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b1)(b4)(c)(e), K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.A.R. 91-40-25; 34 CFR §§ 300.328, 300.322(a-d), 300.501(b)(c).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b1)(b)(4)(c), each agency shall take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each IEP meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate. These steps shall include the following: scheduling each meeting at a mutually agreed-upon time and place and informing the parents of the information specified in subsection (b) of this regulation, and except as otherwise provided in K.A.R. 91-40-37, providing written notice, in conformance with subsection (b) of this regulation, to the parents of any IEP team meeting at least 10 days in advance of the meeting. The notice shall indicate the purpose, time, and location of the IEP team meeting and the titles or positions of the persons who will attend on behalf of the agency. Parents have the right to invite individuals to the IEP team meeting whom they believe to have knowledge or special expertise about their child. If neither parent of an exceptional child can be physically present for an IEP team meeting for the child, the agency shall attempt other measures to ensure parental participation, including individual or conference telephone calls.

K.A.R. 91-40-17(e) An agency may conduct an IEP team meeting without parental participation if the agency, despite repeated attempts, has been unable to contact the parents to convince the parents that they should participate. If an agency conducts an IEP team meeting without parental participation, the agency shall have a record of the attempts that the agency made to contact the parents to provide them notice of the meeting and to secure the parents' participation. The record shall include at least two of the following: detailed records of telephone calls made or attempted, including the date, time, and person making the calls and the results of the calls; detailed records of visits made to the parent's home or homes, including the date, time, and person making the visit and the results of the visit. Also required are copies of correspondence sent to the parents and any responses received, as well as detailed records of any other method attempted to contact the parents and the results of that attempt.

The Parent alleged that the District scheduled an IEP meeting even though the Parent requested time to invite an additional IEP team member who knew the Student.

According to the District, the Current Middle School staff scheduled an IEP meeting at a mutually agreeable time.

The core issue was the lack of mutual agreement between the Parent and the District regarding the IEP meeting time. While the District communicated with the Parent, the Parent explicitly stated they needed time to consult with others before scheduling and asked the District to wait. The District's subsequent scheduling of the meeting contradicts the requirement for a mutually agreeable time. The District's argument that they needed to schedule the meeting due to the impending IEP deadline does not justify overriding the Parent's request to wait. The law prioritizes parental participation and mutual agreement. While deadlines are important, they shouldn't impact the Parent's right to participate meaningfully in the process. The District's documentation does not demonstrate sufficient attempts to collaborate with the Parent on scheduling after the Parent requested time to consult with others.

Rescheduling the meeting on January 13, 2025, after the initial problematic scheduling was an attempt by the District to rectify the scheduling situation. The Principal's email indicated a willingness to reschedule, but it does not, on its own, demonstrate the repeated attempts to contact the Parent specifically about scheduling that is required by the regulations. The District still needed to show they made genuine efforts to find a mutually agreeable time after the parent expressed their need to consult with others.

The statutes and regulations are also silent on whether parents and districts may agree to extend an annual IEP review, as these parties did. However, the courts that have considered this question, have ruled that when meeting the requirement for an annual IEP review date would interfere with the right of a parent to meaningfully participate in the decision making process, the better choice for the district is to give preference to the parent's right to participate. For example, in Doug C. V. State of Hawaii, 61 IDELR 91 (9 th Cir. 2013), the United States Circuit Court of Appeals addressed a situation where a district held an IEP meeting without the parents in order to meet the annual review requirement. The court said, "The more difficult question is what a public agency must do when confronted with the difficult situation of being unable to meet two distinct procedural requirements of the IDEA, in this case parental participation and timely annual review of the IEP. The court added, "the Supreme Court and this court have both repeatedly stressed the vital importance of parental participation in the IEP creation process. We have further held that delays in meeting IEP deadlines do not deny a student a FAPE where they do not deprive a student of any educational benefit. See A.M. v. Monrovia, 627 F.3d 773,779 (9th Cir. 2010).

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the District failed to schedule an IEP meeting at a mutually agreeable time. (RELATED FACTS: 37, 43-52)

> NOTE: When school officials are confronted with this "difficult situation " of meeting both the annual IEP review requirement and the parent participation requirement, they may attempt to meet both requirements by offering (and requesting agreement) to schedule an IEP meeting that meets the annual review requirement and also agrees, in writing, to promptly schedule another full or supplemental IEP meeting at a later date upon request of the parent.

Issue Two

> Whether USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the Student's IEP, including accommodations, after[-]school support and providing the Parent with IEP progress reports. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3); 34 C.F.R. § 300.323.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16 (b)(3), except as otherwise provided in subsection (c), each agency shall ensure that the following condition is met: an IEP is in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

The Parent alleged that the District created a plan with the Parent for after-school support to help the Student, but the plan was not followed.

The District asserted that the Current Middle School staff had implemented the Student's IEP, including "accommodations, after[-]school support, and provided the parent with IEP progress reports." (D4)

The District implemented the IEP as written. Accommodations were available to the Student, and the School made efforts to address the Parent's concerns. While after-school support was not a specific IEP requirement, the School explored other options and provided additional help. Communication home regarding the Student's grades and attendance, as well as an IEP Progress Reports from the 2023-25 school years indicated the School was fulfilling its reporting obligations.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to implement the Student's IEP, including accommodations and after[-]school support, and providing the Parent with IEP progress reports. (RELATED FACTS: 1-13, 23, 25, 28, 38-42, 47, 53, 54)

Issue Three

Whether USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to convene an IEP meeting requested by the Parent to consider their concerns for the Student's needs. K.S.A. 72-3429(f); 34 C.F.R. § 300.324.

According to K.S.A.72-3429(f), each agency shall ensure that the IEP team reviews the child's IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved. The IEP team may revise the IEP, as appropriate, to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum. Where appropriate, the IEP team should include the results of any reevaluation conducted under this section, information about the child provided by the parents, the child's anticipated needs, or other matters.

The Parent alleged that the District did not respond to the Parent's request to set up a meeting to discuss support for the Student's poor academic performance.

The District explained that the Current Middle School "attempted to convene an IEP meeting requested by the Parent to consider concerns for the [S]tudent's needs." (D6)

It is the obligation of the District to review and revise a Student's IEP periodically to address a lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum and should consider information about the child provided by the parents, the child's anticipated needs, or other matters. While the Parent didn't overtly communicate, "Please schedule an IEP meeting to address my Student's needs," the information communicated to the school by the Parent and the School's internal communications around the Student's behaviors, grades in math and ELA, along with the Student's attendance clearly indicated a need for a review and revision of the Student's IEP prior to the January 2025 annual review deadline.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the District failed to convene an IEP meeting to review and revise the Student's IEP to address their unique needs. (RELATED FACTS: 6, 8-13, 15, 17, 33)

Issue Four

Whether USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop an IEP for the Student that met their behavioral needs. K.A.R. 91-40-18(b); 34 C.F.R. § 300.320.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1,8(b), if, as a result of its consideration of the special factors described in K.S.A. 72-3429(c) and amendments thereto, an IEP team determines that a child needs behavioral interventions and strategies, accommodations, assistive technology devices or services, or other program modifications for the child to receive FAPE, the IEP team shall include those items in the child's IEP.

The Parent alleged that the district did not implement behavioral support to increase the Student's attendance at school.

The District asserted that the Current Middle School staff "were implementing an IEP for the Student that met [their] behavioral needs." (D7)

Despite implementing the January 2024 IEP, the District failed to convene an IEP meeting to address the Student's evolving needs. This failure occurred even after the Parent provided information regarding the Student's academic, behavioral, and attendance challenges during the 2024-25 school year, and the District itself documented an increase in the intensity of the Student's behaviors.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the District failed to develop an IEP for the Student that met their behavioral needs. (RELATED FACTS: 6, 8-13, 15, 17, 33)

Issue Five

Whether USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to offer the Student an alternate school arrangement [placement] and the Parent an opportunity to participate in decision-making regarding the School the Student would attend. K.A.R. 91-40-21(c)(1) ; 34 CFR § 300.116.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-21(c)(1), in determining the educational placement of a child with a disability, each agency shall ensure that the placement decision meets the following requirements:

a. The decision shall be made by a group of persons, including the parent and other persons who are knowledgeable about the child, the meaning of the evaluation data, and the placement options.
b. The decision shall be made in conformity with the requirement of providing services in the LRE.

The Parent alleged that the District failed to include them in the discussion of alternative school placement options and the District did not offer options.

The District responded that the Current Middle School Staff "offered the Student an alternate school arrangement [placement] and the Parent had an opportunity to participate in decision[-]making regarding the School the Student would attend." (D8)

There are three prongs in this allegation: Educational Placement/Least Restrictive Environment, School Location, and Parent Participation.

1. The educational placement and Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) of the Student was determined in the January 2024 IEP meeting to be the general educational classroom with inclusion support, with periodic pull-out time with the Social Worker. The location was a local public school.
2. The Parent wanted to discuss an alternative location where the Student could receive services. They pursued virtual school and the school transfer process.
3. The virtual schooling option was denied by an outside agency, and the Transfer request was denied by the District. However, the District offered the Student two location options: the school of origin or the Current School.

While the Parent's understanding of the nuances between educational placement and LRE and school location may have been unclear, the District's decision-making process lacked the required collaboration. Given the Parent's expressed concerns regarding the Student's academic and behavioral progress, the District should have proactively convened an IEP meeting. This meeting would have provided an opportunity to review and, if necessary, revise the Student's IEP, including a discussion of potential adjustments to their educational placement and LRE. This meeting would have also allowed the District to clarify the distinction between placement/LRE and school location, ensuring the Parent had a clear understanding of these concepts.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the District failed to offer the Parent an opportunity to collaboratively participate in decision-making regarding the Student's educational placement/LRE.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following areas:

A. Federal regulations at 34 CFR §§ 300.328, 300.322(a-d), 300.501(b)(c) and K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b1)(b4)(c)(e), K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.A.R. 91-40-25) specify the each agency shall take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each IEP meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate.

   In this case, the District failed to schedule an IEP meeting at a mutually agreeable time that allowed for the Parent to meaningfully participate.

B. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.324 and K.S.A. 72-3429(f) specify the District's obligation to convene an IEP meeting to review and where appropriate, revise, a student's IEP due to lack of expected progress or information about the child provided by the parents.

In this case, the District failed to convene an IEP meeting requested by the Parent to consider their concerns for the Student and to review and revise the Student's IEP to address their unique needs.

C. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.320 and K.A.R. 91-40-18(b) specify when an IEP team determines that a child needs behavioral interventions and strategies, accommodations, assistive technology devices or services, or other program modifications for the child to receive FAPE, the IEP team shall include those items in the child's IEP.

   In this case, the District failed to develop an IEP for the Student that met their behavioral needs.

D. Federal regulations at 34 CFR § 300.116 and K.A.R. 91-40-21(c)(1) specify each agency shall ensure that placement decisions shall be made by a group of persons, including the parent and other persons who are knowledgeable about the child, the meaning of the evaluation data, and the placement options.

   In this case, the District failed to offer the Parent an opportunity to collaboratively participate in decision-making regarding the Student's educational placement/LRE.

Based on the foregoing, USD # 501 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #501 shall convene an IEP meeting to review the IEP, including information from the Parent. As appropriate, the IEP team shall revise the IEP and consider any appropriate special education placements that allows the District to implement special education and related services, as described in the Student's IEP and affords the Student a FAPE. The District shall submit a copy of the IEP, IEP amendments, meeting notes, and prior written notices to to Special Education and Title Services (SETS).
2. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #501 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) at:
   a. 34 CFR §§ 300.328, 300.322(a-d), 300.501(b)(c) shall take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each IEP meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate.
   b. 34 C.F.R. § 300.324 district's obligation to convene an IEP meeting to review and where appropriate, revise, a student's IEP due to lack of expected progress or information about the child provided by the parents.
   c. 34 C.F.R. § 300.320 when an IEP team determines that a child needs behavioral interventions and strategies, accommodations, assistive technology devices or services, or other program modifications for the child to receive FAPE, the IEP team shall include those items in the child's IEP.

   d. 34 CFR § 300.116 each agency shall ensure that placement decisions shall be made by a group of persons, including the parent and other persons who are knowledgeable about the child, the meaning of the evaluation data, and the placement options.

3. Further, by March 14, 2025, USD #501 will submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) that the District's practices and procedures for the following have been reviewed and revised to align with federal and state requirements:
   a. IEP meetings and parent participation,
   b. IEP review and revisions,
   c. Content of IEP, and
   d. Special education placement determination.

The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

From Complainant

The appeal addresses the findings and conclusions for Issues 1, 3, 4, and 5.

Issue One

> Whether USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to schedule an IEP meeting at a mutually agreeable time. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b1)(b4)(c)(e), K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.A.R. 91-40-25; 34 CFR §§ 300.328, 300.322(a-d), 300.501(b)(c).

The investigator concluded that, in violation of Kansas regulation K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(1) and federal regulation 34 C.F.R. 300.322(a)(2) the district failed to schedule an IEP meeting at a "mutually agreed upon time."

The findings of fact, from finding 41 on page 20 of the report to finding 49 on page 23 adequately supports that conclusion.

This a perplexing area of the law, where legal requirements clash. The IEP meeting scheduled for January 28, 2025 was indisputably not an agreed upon time. Yet, it is clear from the report findings (41 to 49) that school officials were willing to be flexible on the meeting date, as long as the meeting took place within the timeline of another regulation that requires IEP meetings to occur at least annually. Finding-of-fact 47, on page 23 illustrates the district's good faith attempt to comply with both the requirement to meet at a mutually agreed upon time and to meet within the annual timeline, quoting the principal's January 13, 2025 e-mail, saying,

> We will take the meeting off of that date since it doesn't work with your schedule. We look forward to talking with you about a date and a time that works for you and [the Student's] school team. … We are obligated by law to schedule a meeting 10 days before the IEP is due, and as you noted, we can definitely create a Notice of Meeting to waive those 10 days, if necessary, we just have to show the state that we are following the law on our end. We will do our best to have the meeting on a day/time that works best for you. Reach out by phone or email when you are able to and we will go from there.

What are school officials to do when these two legal requirements clash? The regulations do not address that question. When there is ambiguity in the law, we look to how the courts have interpreted the ambiguity. That is precisely how the investigator handled this conflict in the investigation report. On page 26 of the report, the investigator cited the highest level court (the United States Circuit Court of Appeals) to ever rule on this exact issue: choosing between parent participation in an IEP meeting or meeting the annual IEP review requirement. There the investigator explained that:

> The statutes and regulations are also silent on whether parents and districts may agree to extend an annual IEP review… However, the courts that have considered this question, have ruled that when meeting the requirement for an annual IEP review date would interfere with the right of a parent to meaningfully participate in the decision making process, the better choice for the district is to give preference to the parent's right to participate. For example, in Doug C. V. State of Hawaii, 61 IDELR 91 (9th Cir. 2013), the United States Circuit Court of Appeals addressed a situation where a district held an IEP meeting without the parents in order to meet the annual review requirement. The court said, "The more difficult question is what a public agency must do when confronted with the difficult situation of being unable to meet two distinct procedural requirements of the IDEA, in this case parental participation and timely annual review of the IEP.

This court answered its own question, saying:

> When confronted with the situation of complying with one procedural requirement of the IDEA or another, we hold that the agency must make a reasonable determination of which course of action promotes the purposes of the IDEA and is least likely to result in the denial of a FAPE. In reviewing an agency's action in such a scenario, we will allow the agency reasonable latitude in making that determination (emphasis added)."

The court added:

> "the Supreme Court and this court have both repeatedly stressed the vital importance of parental participation in the IEP creation process. We have further held that delays in meeting IEP deadlines do not deny a student a FAPE where they do not deprive a student of any educational benefit. See A.M. v. Monrovia, 627 F.3d 773, 779 (9th Cir. 2010) ("Whether or not Defendant exceeded the thirty-day limit, A.M. suffered no deprivation of educational benefit and therefore has no claim."). Under the circumstances of this case, the Department's decision to prioritize strict deadline compliance over parental participation was clearly not reasonable."

Based on this guidance, the investigator concluded that the district made the wrong choice by proceeding with scheduling the IEP meeting to meet the annual IEP review date instead of scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed upon time. The Appeal Committee has reviewed all the evidence it received from these parties and agrees with the conclusion of the investigator.

Although, the Circuit Court instructed that school districts are to be given "reasonable latitude" when making this decision, the background for that instruction is that the agency must "make a reasonable determination of which course of action promotes the purposes of the IDEA and is least likely to result in the denial of a FAPE." The Appeal Committee interprets this instruction to mean that the better choice for school districts is to give reasonable preference to the parent's right to participate. Thus, when balancing these two requirements, the greater weight must be applied to parent participation. This means that the "reasonable latitude" to be afforded to school districts that choose the option of meeting the annual review date over parent participation rights applies only when districts have given parents multiple options to participate and the parents have unreasonably rejected all the options presented to them. That is not what happened in this case.

The report indicates that the district proposed an IEP meeting by e-mail on December 17 and 18, 2024, but makes no further reference of that request (Finding 45(f). On January 13, 2024, a Notice of Meeting was issued indicating a meeting to develop, review, or revise the IEP had been scheduled for January 28, 2025, the day before the annual review date (Finding 41 & 44). Thereafter, on the same date (January 13, 2024), there were a series of e-mail exchanges ending with the district agreeing to remove the scheduled meeting (Finding 46, 47). Nevertheless, on January 22 and 23, the district contacted the parent to confirm the meeting agenda (Finding 48), and the meeting was held on January 28, 2025.

The Appeal Committee believes the district officials acted in good faith. They did what they believed they were legally required to do under difficult circumstances. However, the Appeal Committee finds that the district erred by placing greater weight to the IEP timeline requirement than to the parent participation requirement when it scheduled this IEP meeting without first giving parents multiple options to participate and the parents unreasonably rejected all the options presented to them. Under the specific facts of this case, the Appeal Committee concludes that the district did not meet the requirements for "reasonable latitude" in making its decision.

*The Appeal Committee is aware that the relevant regulations, K.A.R. 91-40-25(b)(1) and 34 C.F.R. 300.322(a)(2) require that districts are to schedule IEP meetings at a "mutually" agreed upon time, not at the parent's sole discretion. The conclusion on this issue reflects the Committee's view that the district failed to sufficiently try to find a "mutually" agreed to meeting date, and not that parents have sole discretion over the decision.

*The Appeal Committee also agrees with the investigator's note on page 27 of the report, where she advises:

> When school officials are confronted with this "difficult situation " of meeting both the annual IEP review requirement and the parent participation requirement, they may attempt to meet both requirements by offering (and requesting agreement) to schedule an IEP meeting that meets the annual review requirement and also agrees, in writing, to promptly schedule another full or supplemental IEP meeting at a later date upon request of the parent.

Issue Three

Whether USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to convene an IEP meeting requested by the Parent to consider their concerns for the Student's needs. K.S.A. 72-3429(f); 34 C.F.R. § 300.324.

The investigator determined that the district was in violation of federal regulation 34 C.F.R. § 300324(b)(i) and state statute K.S.A. 72-3429(f), which requires periodic review of the IEP to determine whether IEP goals are being met and to address "any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum." This requirement is in addition to the annual review requirement and is conditioned on the extent to which a student is making appropriate progress.

The reason given in the report for concluding that the district was in violation of this additional requirement was,

> While the Parent didn't overtly communicate, "Please schedule an IEP meeting to address my Student's needs," the information communicated to the school by the Parent and the School's internal communications around the Student's behaviors, grades in math and ELA, along with the Student's attendance clearly indicated a need for a review and revision of the Student's IEP prior to the January 2025 annual review deadline (emphasis added). See p. 28 of Report.

The district's appeal cites multiple attempts it made to help the student catch up on his school work. Ultimately, the plans were not successful, in large part because of excessive absences.

Finding 51, on page 24 of the Report says:

1. According to a 2024-2025 Period Student Attendance Profile, the Student was absent:
    a. "Unexcused absences -10 times."
    b. "Left early absences - 5 times."
    c. "Late arrival absences - 32 times."
    d. "Unexcused absences - 9 times."
    e. "Excused absences - 135 times." (D93-D94)

Finding 36, on page 18 of the report says:

1. According to a grade book update with a date range of December 18, 2024 through December 20, 2024, the Student scores were listed:
    a. Math 8, F.
    b. Science 8, F.
    c. FACS 8, C and D.
    d. Phys Ed 6, A.

e. Language Arts 8, D. (P2-P3, P17)

The Appeal Committee agrees with the investigator's conclusion that the combination of severe absenteeism and poor grades were ample cause for early intervention by this student's IEP Team well in advance of the annual IEP review date.

Issue Four

Whether USD #501, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop an IEP for the Student that met their behavioral needs. K.A.R. 91-40-18(b); 34 C.F.R. § 300.320.

The student's behavior was addressed in Finding of Fact 4(d) as follows:

a. The Student was given the [District] Public Schools Social Emotional Skills Assessment (TPS SESA). The assessment had five domains. The Student scored:
   i. "Behavior with adults-78%, and 48% for special education students with social work."
   ii. "Behavior with peers-76% for a general education, and 48% for a special education student with social work."
   iii. "Emotional regulation -80% for a general education student, and 40% for a special education student with social work."
   iv. "Engagement -80% for a general education student, and 42% for a special education student with social work."
   v. "Social skills-80% for a general education student, and 42% for a special education student with social work."
   vi. "Overall Average- 80% for a general education student and 46% for a special education student with social work." (D16-D17)
   vii. "The Student's behavior impedes their learning, that of others, and the Student's ability to access the general curriculum." (D18) (Emphasis added).

Finding of Fact 6 is as follows:

> The Special Education Instructor described the Student's academic skills and behaviors in an interview. They indicated that the Student had strong math scores and average reading scores. They shared that the Student was capable of independent work. However, the Student exhibited task avoidance behaviors, which sometimes required encouragement to complete assignments. The Special Education Instructor shared that last year they noticed work refusal behaviors and the Student withdrawing, and noted that those behaviors, "seemed a lot more intense this year." Additionally, the Special Education Instructor noticed that this year, "[The Student] was not arriving on time. [The Student] was showing up very late. [The Student] [would] miss half the class, or sometimes [The Student] [would] miss all of the class. I do remember there were days where [the Student] would show up and [they] would not want to go to math class in the morning because it had already > started and it has started so long ago that [the Student] was like, 'I can't go.'" (Special Education Instructor Interview, P5, 10:29; 14:33) (Emphasis added).

Finding of Fact 34 (in relevant part), is a portion of an undated e-mail from the parent to the principal as follows:

> "there is an urgent need to address [the Student's] educational and behavioral needs in accordance with [the Student's] IEP (Emphasis added). As you know, I have been advocating for an alternative to [the Home Middle School], as [the Student] has made it clear that [they] would refuse to attend, which I fear would lead to ongoing issues. … I have raised these concerns in multiple communications but have not yet seen a viable solution that considers [the Student's] behavioral needs."

The district's appeal says that "The evidence suggests the student did not have behavioral needs and that when he attended school, his behavior was appropriate." The Appeal Committee disagrees. Instead, the evidence supports the investigator's finding on page 29 of the report that, "Despite implementing the January 2024 IEP, the District failed to convene an IEP meeting to address the Student's evolving needs. This failure occurred even after the Parent provided information regarding the Student's academic, behavioral, and attendance challenges during the 2024-25 school year, and the District itself documented an increase in the intensity of the Student's behaviors (emphasis added)."

The Appeal Committee agrees with the investigator's conclusion that, "the District failed to develop an IEP for the Student that met their behavioral needs (Report, p. 29).

Issue Five

> Whether USD #501 in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the individuals with disabilities Education Act (IDEA) failed to offer the student an alternate school arrangement [placement] and the parent an opportunity to participate in decision making regarding the school the student would attend.

The alternate school arrangement involved whether the student would attend school at either the school of origin or the "current middle school" (Report, p. 13, 17, 18, 30). The investigator treated this issue as a "change of placement" issue that included least restrictive environment (LRE) components, and concluded that "the district should have proactively convened an IEP meeting (Report, P. 30). The district appeals this conclusion, characterizing the request as a "building transfer" request.

The Appeal Committee agrees with the district. This was not a placement or LRE dispute because it did not involve educational environment issues such as whether the student would be educated in a regular education or a special education environment. It involved only physical location issues, principally what school building the student will attend. That kind of decision, relating only to the physical location of attendance, is made by school administration officials, not by IEP teams.

The report is reversed on this issue.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the conclusions in the Complaint Report are sustained on issues one, three and four.

The conclusion in the Complaint Report is overturned on Issue five. Corrective Action ordered for Issue 5 is rescinded, meaning any corrective action related to the placement issue is rescinded. That specifically includes the "placement" considerations in Corrective Action 1, paragraph d. of Corrective Action 2, and Line-d. of Corrective Action 3. All other Corrective Actions remain in effect.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 4th day of March, 2025.

ON JANUARY 28, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: FEBRUARY 27, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -----, by their parent, -----. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #458, Basehor-Linwood Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, the "School," the "District," and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #458.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the school district. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on January 28, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ended on February 27, 2025.

Allegations

The following issue will be investigated:

Issue One

Whether USD #458, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), disclosed confidential mediation information and provided this confidential information in subsequent proceedings. K.S.A. 72-3438(g); 34 CFR(b)(6)(8).

Investigation of Complaint

Tania Tong, the Complaint Investigator, interviewed the Parent by video on February 13, 2025. The District's Director of Special Education and the Mediator were interviewed on February 14, 2025.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the District. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following relevant materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Complaint (25FC458-003), 1/28/25
2. District Response, 1/31/25

3. KSDE Special Education Services, re: formal complaint request form, 01/27/25
4. NOTICE OF MEETING, 04/01/24
5. Meeting Notes, 04/10/24
6. Prior Written Notice, 04/15/24
7. Investigation Finding Appeal, 01/24/25
8. Email, re: 24MN458-001 Mediation Request, 05/13/24
9. REQUEST FOR MEDIATION, 04/11/24

Background Information

This investigation stems from a prior Complaint (25FC458-002) filed by the Parent, which the District appealed. While the District's appeal successfully overturned the initial decision on one allegation, the District submitted a Mediator's email as evidence that mediation had concluded. Following the reversal of the initial decision, the Parent filed this Complaint in response to the documentation the District provided during the appeal of Complaint 25FC458-002.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent, the Director of Special Education, and the Mediator.

1. A Notice of Meeting dated April 1, 2024 indicated:
    a. A proposed meeting for April 10, 2024 to discuss possible changes to the IEP, conduct an annual review of the IEP, and discuss results from the Functional Behavior Assessment (FBA) and the review of the Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP).
    b. The Parent signed the document on April 2, 2024 and indicated they would attend the meeting.
2. Meeting Notes dated April 10, 2024 indicated:
    a. The Director of Special Education requested mediation, and the Parent agreed.
    b. The team reviewed the FBA and BIP.
    c. The Parent did not want to review the draft IEP at the time of the meeting.
    d. The team agreed to have a mediation session prior to reviewing the draft of the annual IEP.
3. A Prior Written Notice (PWN) dated April 15, 2024 indicated:

a. The team met on April 10, 2024 to review special education and related services needed by the Student and any additions, changes, or modifications required for the Student to meet their IEP goals.

b. The Parent proposed, and the team agreed, to amend the IEP to reflect new services and accommodations rather than conduct an annual review.

    i. The team wanted to participate in mediation before moving forward with an annual review to hopefully resolve confusion about data being used in the progress reports.

c. In the section titled "Explanation of Why the Action is Proposed or Refused," the PWN stated, "The team agreed to amend the IEP rather than conduct the annual review per the parent's request because there is confusion about the data being used via the progress reports. The team would like to participate in mediation to resolve this prior to moving forward with the annual review."

d. A draft IEP was provided to the Parent before the meeting, but the team did not continue with the annual review per the Parent's request.

4. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Mediator indicated that the parties engaged in an "… in-person mediation on May 1st, 2024, and then I was engaged with the parties with, I would call them informal post-mediation communications through email and telephone … . I know that at some point, the Parents asked me to end the mediation process, and then I sent an email telling the State Department basically that I'm stopping the post-communications, and so we ended in an impasse. … On May 13, 2024, I sent an email talking about that the Parents had communicated to me that they would like to end the post-mediation discussions, and so I let the School District and my contact at the State know that information, and I considered my file closed at that point."

5. Regarding the sharing of confidential information in the email that the Mediator sent to the District on May 13, 2025, the Mediator shared in an interview with the Complaint Investigator that "… so I think I can tell you, so I told the School District that the [Parents] communicated to me that they would like to end post-mediation discussions and move forward with their due process, and formal complaints. So I don't consider that confidential information, but I did communicate that to them."

6. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Mediator described the communication process to end mediation and indicated that "I wouldn't say it's standard. … I thought this was a little bit unusual … unusual that I get this abrupt, "I want to end the mediation now," and I don't remember specifically the details of what was going on, but it looks like from my emails that I felt like I needed to let the State and the School District know. … I know in my email I say I was in another mediation today, so I think what happened is somehow I got this message from the Parents that day, and so in the evening, I sent these emails because I felt like it was important communication that I needed to pass along."

7. An email dated May 13, 2024, from the Mediator to the Director of Special Education stated, "… the [Parents] communicated to me that they would like to end post-mediation discussions and move forward with their due process and formal complaint(s)."

8. The Confidentiality Pledge, signed by the parents on April 11, 2024 and the Director of Special Education on April 10, 2024, indicated:

    a. "The parties are not allowed to tell anyone about discussions which occur during the mediation process. This includes statements made, settlement proposals made or rejected, and the reasons an agreement was not reached … . … However, the parties may discuss information, on a need[-]to[-]know basis, with appropriate staff and professional advisors."

9. The District's Investigation Finding Appeal, dated January 24, 2025, indicated:

    a. While the District contended the annual IEP was not completed by the IEP due date, it was not a violation of state and federal regulations because:

        i. The District held an annual IEP review meeting on April 10, 2024, which demonstrated a good faith effort to meet the required time frame. During this meeting, both parties agreed to mediation, which took place on May 1, 2024, and was ended by the Parent on May 13, 2024; and

        ii. "The district scheduled the IEP meeting for August 15, 202[4], which is 10 school days after the parents chose to end post-mediation discussions and move forward with due process and state complaints (see email from [the Mediator] dated May 13, 202[4])."

10. On January 27, 2025, the Parent alleged in their Complaint that the "… District's appeal includes references to confidential communications from the mediation process [the Director of Special Education] authorized and included these references." In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent specified that the District "used an email from our mediator … the KSDE mediator that we had. [The Director of Special Education] used that as evidence as to why the KDSE found [it] wrong, that it was not an appropriate finding." The Parent's understanding was that neither party "that agrees to be in mediation is allowed to use any type of communication of mediation in any subsequent cases, appeals court cases, anything along those lines because it's protected communication for all parties."

    The Parent indicated in an interview with the Complaint Investigator that to enter into mediation, "There's a contract that we signed … [and] … mediation communication was very protected for just that duration."

11. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Director of Special Education shared, "I just included the email … from the mediator that mediation has ended, and I think that upset [the Parent]. … I did not state anything that occurred during mediation. I just stated that I … included the email from [the Mediator]. The Director of Special Education indicated that their only experience regarding the notification of changes during the mediation process was … "with [the Mediator] and [the Mediator] responded. [The Mediator] let us know that mediation ended via email."

12. The Director of Special Education shared in an interview with the Complaint Investigator that they did not share the Mediator's email dated May 13, 2024 with anyone else or in any other documents or communications, "I did not violate the confidentiality agreement, and I don't know what the regular course of action is to indicate that a mediation has ended because I've only done this once and the mediator responded via email without disclosing any additional information." The Director of Special Education indicated that their reasoning for providing the May 13, 2024 email in the appeal communication was to show that mediation ended on that date.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #458, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), disclosed confidential mediation information and provided this confidential information in subsequent proceedings. K.S.A. 72-3438(g); 34 CFR(b)(6)(8).

According to K.S.A. 72-3438(g), "Discussions that occur during the mediation process shall be confidential and may not be used as evidence in any subsequent due process hearings or civil proceedings and the parties to the mediation process may be required to sign a confidentiality pledge prior to the commencement of such process."

The Parent alleged that on May 13, 2024, the Mediator emailed the Director of Special Education and shared that the Parents "had decided to terminate post-mediation discussions and proceed with due process and formal complaints." The Parent indicated they believed that the information "disclosed in this email reflects substantive discussions and decisions directly connected to the mediation process," violating confidentiality protections afforded during the mediation process.

The District alleged the email they shared from May 13, 2024, did not reveal any details about mediation discussions. The District stated the email only indicated the Parent's desire to conclude the post-mediation process. According to the District, nothing was shared regarding statements made, settlement proposals made or rejected, or the reason an agreement was not reached. The District indicated this did not violate confidentiality. The District stated the email was sent to the KSDE, which appointed the special education mediator and already knew who the mediator was. The District alleged the email was sent as evidence in an appeal to the findings of a complaint lodged by the Parent. The District stated a response to a state complaint was not a due process hearing or a civil proceeding.

Kansas law K.S.A. 72-3438(g) states that mediation discussions are confidential and cannot be used as evidence in later civil proceedings or due process hearings. Participants may be required to sign a confidentiality agreement before mediation begins.

The purpose of mediation confidentiality is to foster open communication and encourage settlement by protecting all aspects of the mediation process from later use in specified proceedings. The statute explicitly states that mediation discussions "cannot be used as evidence in later civil proceedings or due process hearings," both of which are formal legal processes. A special education appeal is neither a civil proceeding nor a due process hearing. The appeal was an administrative process within the Kansas education system. Additionally, the District's use of the Mediator's email from May 13, 2024 was limited to establishing a timeline of events for the appeal. The date on which the mediation process ended was a relevant fact for demonstrating the District's efforts to comply with procedural timelines. The District did not use the email to gain any strategic advantage or to reveal any protected information about the mediation itself.

Finally, the statute needs to be read carefully. The statute (K.S.A. 72-3438(g)), as indicated earlier in this report, says, "Discussions that occur during the mediation process shall be confidential and may not be used as evidence in any subsequent due process hearings or civil proceedings… ." Accordingly, it is only the "discussions" that occur during the meeting that are confidential. For example, a participant could not allege in a later civil proceeding that in the conversation during the mediation session a school official admitted that certain IEP services were not provided or that a parent admitted his/her child did not need a particular service. it is these kinds of "discussions" that cannot be used in a subsequent proceeding. This statute does not make any other information confidential, including the agreement itself (which is certainly admissible in a court proceeding seeking to enforce the mediation agreement), as contemplated by paragraph(f)(4) of the very same statute, stating that "the agreement may be enforced in state or federal court." How could that occur if the agreement could not be used later in court. For the purpose of this complaint, there is nothing that prohibits the parties or the "mediator" from reporting the results of the mediation to the parties or to the state department of education. Indeed, the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) is required to report mediation resolution data to the United States Department of education (USDE), and routinely asks the mediator to send KSDE a copy of any mediated agreement so that it can verify that resolution was achieved. Moreover, in order to ensure that special education mediations are completed as required by law, KSDE requires state mediators to inform it, at minimum, whether the mediations they handle are successful or unsuccessful.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District disclosed confidential mediation information and provided this confidential information in subsequent due process or civil proceedings.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a 13 year old young woman enrolled in the 8th grade at the middle school during the 2024-2025 school year. She lives at home with her family including three siblings. The student attended a Head Start program in the community where she also attended elementary school. In November of 2022 the student was formally diagnosed with level 2 autism and a receptive speech delay. According to the mother, she first qualified for an IEP in third or fourth grade with other learning disabilities as the qualifying exceptionality. It is also noted in her 2022 IEP that the student has a diagnosis of ADHD and essential tremors. The student entered the current middle school in December of 2022, transferring from a cooperative member district.

The student's current IEP as of the filing of this complaint is dated February 20, 2024. It states that she has a math goal and a behavior goal. She qualifies for 232 minutes per day, 5 days per week of special education support outside of the general education setting for specially designed instruction in math, language arts, science and social studies. Additionally the student receives special transportation 5 days per week. There are 14 supplementary aids and services noted in the current IEP including; 1) checking for understanding, 2) frequent breaks, 3) extended time for assignments, 4) audio/visual cues or prompts, 5) alternative setting for testing, 6) text-to-speech for district and state assessments, 7) guided notes during note taking, 8) assignments read aloud, 9) use of music as a sensory aid, 10) chunking assignments, 11) calculator and multiplication chart, 12) folder to organize paperwork, 13) use of fidgets and 14) permission to doodle during class. The student also has access to school counselors and emotional check-ins with her case manager.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, three issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

Did USD #253 follow the student's IEP specific to the implementation of the behavior intervention plan during the past 12 months?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Parent Position

The parents expressed concern that their daughter's BIP is not being consistently implemented and reported in the January 30, 2025 complaint that "I have on record that administration/teachers did not follow the BIP" and "The school did not follow the BIP today per the admission on [phone] recording by the assistant principal." In the February 4, 2025 interview the mother shared, "the crisis intervention part of the BIP was not implemented at all in this current OSS [Out of School Suspension] issue".

District Position

In the district response dated February 7, 2025 they stated, "The district believes they have followed the BIP for this student over the past 12 months. We believe that the fidelity of the implementation of the BIP is one of the primary reasons this student is experiencing her current level of success. This student has had few, if any behavioral issues during the past 12 months".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with both parties.

1. It is noted that the behaviors of "severe disrespect to adults and inappropriate language" as they are defined in the Written Notice of Short-term Suspension document, which resulted in ISS and OSS are not included as a BIP goal nor is there mention of these behaviors anywhere in the IEP.

2. The most current FBA was completed on February 28, 2023 and states that the behavior being evaluated was "not following directions".
3. In the current IEP, February 20, 2024, in the Goal and Benchmarks/Objectives section the behavior goal states, "By the end of the IEP year, when presented with a classroom task, [student] will comply with teacher requests with 2 or fewer prompts 90% of the time". In the Positive Behavioral Intervention Plan (BIP) the goal is listed as, "Tend to task (tending to task looks like following directions given from an adult). For clarity, in the remainder of the report the behavior goal will be noted as tending to task/following requests.
4. In the interview with the director on February 13, 2025 she stated that tending to task/following requests was the behavior chosen by the IEP team at the February 2024 IEP because "it was the most troubling behavior the student was dealing with at the time".
5. The February 20, 2024 IEP recorded parent and teacher concerns supported by classroom observations that the "chromebook continues to be a problem", particularly when related to transitioning from the use of her chromebook.
6. In the BIP, under the header Crisis intervention and Supports for the targeted behavior of tending to task/following requests, is a list of "options to offer for de-escalation" include; offering a cool down space, giving her space to regulate, adults limiting interactions, and positive praise from adults when the student makes a positive choice. Additionally, strategies to use during a crisis include; no staff talking to the student, providing the student with space and avoiding power struggles.
7. Also in the Crisis intervention and Supports sections is guidance for "Instances of chromebook misuse" which include; redirection if she is not using her chromebook appropriately, loss of chromebook for the remainder of class if behavior continues, return of chromebook before leaving the classroom and paper copy or alternative materials so she can complete her work.
8. In the interview with the IR teacher/case manager, he shared that he was "well trained on the student's BIP by the previous case manager, the special education director, school administrators and the counselor". Additionally he met with the general education teachers who had worked with the student to gather additional information.
9. The student's IR special education teacher also reported that prior to the student's first day in his classroom he met with the paraprofessionals who work in his classroom to review the student's BIP, ensured they each had the student's IEP Snapshot and took primary responsibility for the student until the paraprofessionals had an opportunity to build relationships with the student.
10. In the email exchange with the ELA teacher on February 12, 2025 when asked whether he implemented and trained on the student's BIB he stated, "I have always done my best to follow her behavior plan, though I have never had to progress beyond offering a place to cool down. I feel [current IR teacher] and [special education teacher for 2023-2024] explained her plan to me and helped me put it into practice.

11. In a phone interview on February 20, 2025 the 2nd IR special education teacher stated that she knew the student had a BIP and that she was trained on the BIP.
12. A screenshot of the special education instructional coach's calendar reflects a team meeting to discuss the student's IEP on September 9, 2024. In attendance were the assistant principal, school counselor, general education teachers and the IR teacher.
13. In the interview with the director she shared that each grade level has a "color team" who meet regularly to discuss curriculum modifications and accommodations and that special education teachers are members of these teams.
14. In an email from the assistant principal when asked how the school administrators ensure implementation of BIPs, she replied, "BIPS are shared with all staff. We know all staff are implementing BIPs by observing through classroom walk throughs, team and individual discussions, and through classroom data tracking sheets created by teachers."
15. In the parent complaint and during the interview with the parents, they shared that the school did not follow the BIP strategies during the January 28, 2025 incident resulting in three days of OSS and one day of ISS.
16. When asked if the January 28, 2025 incident had anything to do with use of the student's chromebook or following staff instructions, the assistant principal replied, no.
17. In a phone interview on February 20, 2025 the 2nd IR special education teacher, the teacher who initially notified the counselor that the student was struggling behaviorally on February 28, 2025, that the incident was not related to use of the chromebook. She also shared that the student was not using her chromebook that day.
18. In email communication with the assistant principal she stated that the use of OSS and ISS for the student on January 28, 2025 was inline with the consequences for any student exhibiting these types of behaviors.

CONCLUSION

The LEA is responsible to ensure the IEP is followed and in this case the BIP goal of attending to task/following requests was not the presenting behavior for the behavior incident of concern in the parent's complaint. Teacher reports and school training documentation reflect appropriate training and implementation of the stated BIP goal.

The parent's claim that the BIP was not followed during the January 28, 2025 incident resulting in OSS and ISS. While it is certainly understandable that the parents were concerned about their daughter missing instruction, the behavior goal stated in the IEP of tending to tasks/following requests, was not related to the behaviors (severe disrespect to adults and inappropriate language) for which the student received OSS and ISS. Nowhere in the IEP does it discuss severe disrespect to adults and inappropriate language, the behaviors noted in the January 28, 2025 incident, but rather references the student's difficulty transitioning from the use of her chromebook and attending to task/following requests. It does not appear that the BIP was in any way meant to address severe disrespect and inappropriate language. Per IDEA, staff are responsible to follow the strategies stated in the BIP for the behavior goal stated in the BIP, however staff are not responsible to follow the strategies in the BIP for any challenging behavior the student might exhibit. IDEA protections specifically include implementation of behavior goals stated in the BIP, not all challenging behaviors.

It is also important to note that, unless specifically excluded by an IEP, nothing in the law of special education removes the authority of school administrators to impose an OSS or ISS when deemed appropriate. While a BIP must be implemented as written in an IEP, school officials retain their authority to suspend students who violate school rules, even for behavior that is specified in a BIP. This authority is limited only to the extent that the law limits the number of days of suspension for any student with a disability who has an IEP.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the student's behavior intervention plan was not developed to address the behavior that resulted in the disciplinary action on January 28, 2025 and therefore the district is found to be IN compliance with IDEA regulations for this incident.

Issue Two

Did USD #253 address lack of progress on the student's IEP specific to the behavior intervention plan during the past 12 months?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b) mandates that the IEP team must review the IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to ensure that it is effective in addressing the student's needs. If the IEP is not working, the team is required to revise it to address: 1) any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals; 2) the results of any reevaluation; 3) information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; and 4) the child's anticipated needs.

Parent Position

The parents feel their daughter is not making sufficient progress on her BIP and reported in the January 30 2025 complaint that, "we are in the third year and no change in her behaviors". In the February 4, 2025 interview the mother stated, "This has been an ongoing, consistent issue and has taken too much time. I have been called out of work repeatedly and actually not able to have a job due to the number of times I've been called away from work".

District Position

The district stated in the February 7, 2025 response, "There has been no lack of progress on the student's IEP that has been specific to the behavior intervention plan", and that according to the student's progress reports she is showing consistent progress on her current behavior goal of "complying with teacher requests". Additionally, the district notes they are proposing to add a behavior goal at the upcoming IEP meeting on February 10, 2025 to address the socially inappropriate language which was the reason for "3 of the 5 behavior log entries" in the past 12 months.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with both parties. The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The most recent annual IEP meeting at the time of the filed complaint was held February 20, 2024 with meetings to update and amend the IEP on September 4, 2024 and October 21, 2024. The annual IEP meeting was held February 10, 2025.
2. According to the IR teacher/case manager, data are collected daily as to whether the student was on task and followed directions.
3. The district shared the student's progress reports for the student's behavior goal of tending to task/following requests for May 2024, October 2024, and December 2024, each of which reflect progress on the behavior goal.
4. According to the student's behavior log entries in the past 12 months there have been six documented behavioral issues which include; one refusal to give up her computer, two instances of taking something without asking, and three instances of inappropriate language, the last of which occurred on January 28, 2025 resulting in the three days of OSS and one day of ISS.
5. According to email communication from the assistant principal, the parents have been asked to pick-up their daughter from school once in the past 12 months, which was on January 28, 2025.
6. It is noted that the drafted BIP prepared for the February 10, 2025 IEP meeting includes the following new behavior goal, "By the end of the IEP year (February 2026), [student] will use school-appropriate language in social situations and academic settings 90% of the time as measured by staff observation".

Conclusion

IDEA requires that the IEP team must review the IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to ensure that it is effective in addressing the student's needs.

In this case, data was collected and progress reports shared with the family in a timely manner. Additionally, the student made sufficient progress on the IEP behavior goal in the past 12 months.

It is also noted that in the IEP meeting held during this investigation period, on February 10, 2025, the team agreed to include "use of school-appropriate language" as an IEP behavior goal as a response to the January 28, 2025 incident.

Based on the foregoing, USD #253 did address behavioral progress and is found to be IN compliance with IDEA regulations.

Issue Three

Did USD #253 fail to hold a manifestation determination meeting as required by IDEA in the past 12 months?

Applicable Law

§300.536(a)(1)(2)(i) Change of placement because of disciplinary removals. (a) For purposes of removals of a child with a disability from the child's current educational placement under §§300.530 through 300.535, a change of placement occurs if—(1) The removal is for more than 10 consecutive school days; or (2) The child has been subjected to a series of removals that constitute a pattern—(i) Because the series of removals total more than 10 school days in a school year;

Parent Position

The parents reported that their daughter has experienced a change of placement as a result of multiple Out of School Suspensions (OSS) and is due a manifestation determination review. In the January 30, 2025 complaint report they stated, "I have a right to request a manifestation determination and I am".

District Position

The district stated in the February 7, 2025 response, "This student has experienced no Out of School (OSS) or In School (ISS) Suspensions, aside from the consequence that was implemented as a result of the 1/28/2025 behavior incident".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with both parties. The findings of Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The February 7, 2025 district response states, "After reviewing all behavior documentation, there were a total of 3 days of OSS for the student so far for the 24-25 school year." They also shared, "There were also no ISS or OSS days for this student from January 2024 to December 2024".
2. Behavior log entries shared by the district confirm the district's statement above.

Conclusion

In this case, the student has only received three days of OSS in the 2024-2025 school year, nor were there removals in the 2024 spring semester. The removal of the student for three days of OSS does not meet the IDEA definition of change of placement because the student was not removed for more than 10 consecutive school days in a school year, or subjected to a series of removals that constitute a pattern within a school year.

According to IDEA, change of placement is necessary to require a manifestation determination review.

Based on the foregoing, USD #253 was not required to hold a manifestation determination meeting as required by IDEA in the past 12 months and is found to be IN compliance with IDEA regulations.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) was not found based on evidence of the implementation of the behavior intervention plan during the past 12 months. Corrective action is not required.
2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b) was not found based on the regular review and documented progress on the behavior intervention plan during the past 12 months. Corrective action is not required.

Background Information

This investigation involved a third-grade student enrolled at the Transitional Learning Center (TLC) on a shortened day schedule in USD #418. The Executive Director described the TLC, "… The TLC is a special purpose day school. This is the most restrictive setting available for students. There are no students that attend TLC without a disability. The special purpose day school does not offer all of the same opportunities to students in a typical general education setting due to the nature and focus of the program. The goal is to always work with students to support the development of emotional regulation skills and student success in order to begin a transition back to a less restrictive environment."

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the District.

1. The Student is nine years old and attends third grade at the TLC at a non-school location. The Student is on a shortened day schedule.
2. A medical report dated April 19, 2024 indicated, "[The Student] … needs special educational services due to a complex genetic neurological disability."
3. On May 15, 2024, the Student was found eligible for special education services under the category of Other Health Impairment (OHI) and Speech Language Disabilities (SL). The Student was diagnosed with the following:
    a. Cerebellar Cortical Dysplasia;
    b. Dystonia;
    c. Joubert Syndrome with ocular defect;
    d. Oculomotor Apraxia; and
    e. Type 1 Diabetes.
4. According to an Evaluation and Eligibility Report (Re-evaluation) dated May 15, 2024, the re-evaluation indicated that additional modifications to services were needed to enable the Student to meet IEP annual goals and participate as appropriate in the general curriculum. Gross and fine motor concerns were noted. The following assessments and results were listed:
    a. The Test of Visual-Motor Integration (VMI): average visual attention.
    b. Fine Motor: No dominant hand preferred, struggled with cutting; can dress themself.
    c. The Student did not attempt any handwriting trials.

d. Physical Therapy: Test of Gross Motor Development-3rd Edition (TGMD-2) indicated the following results:
    i. "Locomotion-25%."
    ii. "Ball Skills-1%."
    iii. "Gross Motor Quotient-4%."
e. Social/Emotional Behavior: The Behavior Assessment System for Children-Third Edition (BASC-3) listed the following results:
    i. "Externalizing Problems-Clinically Significant, Parent 85, Teacher 88."
    ii. "Hyperactivity-Clinically Significant, Parent 76, Teacher 79."
    iii. "Aggression-Clinically Significant, Parent 90, Teacher 89."
    iv. "Conduct problems, Clinically Significant, Parent 76, Teacher 88."
    v. "Learning problems, Clinically Significant, Teacher 70."
    vi. "Behavioral symptoms index, Clinically Significant, Parent 77, Teacher 79."
    vii. "Atypicality, Clinically Significant, Parent 77, Teacher 93."

5. Relevant items from the IEP from the Student's previous school dated May 15, 2024 indicated the following:
    a. The Student's re-evaluation was on May 15, 2024.
    b. Student Strengths: The Student could identify when they were getting angry in three out of five situations before showing physical aggression. The Student was curious and interested in trying new things. The Student made progress in reading. Additional Student strengths were:
        i. Could spell the words cat, fat, mat, bat, hat, rat, sat, pat, wet, bet, set, met, mop, and top, using phonemic hand gestures to prompt in sounds in 4 out of 5 sessions. The Student could give a verbal sentence independently with practiced words in 2 out of 5 sessions.
        ii. Could write their name without assistance.
        iii. Could add or subtract lower-level numbers with the answer being five or less using mental math and can add or subtract using manipulatives with the answer being 10 or less.
        iv. Could identify numbers 0-20 in 2 out of 5 learning sessions.
        v. Could be very sweet and hardworking when they were up to it.
        vi. Had some good receptive language skills.
    c. The Student's Present Levels of Academic and Functional Performance included:
        i. Health: The Student was diagnosed with diabetes mellitus type 1 on December 15, 2023.
        ii. Motor: The Student did not require specially designed adaptive physical education.

iii. Fine Motor: The Student demonstrated average visual attention on the Visual Motor Integration but had difficulty cutting and holding scissors.

iv. General Intelligence: The Student was not administered any formal cognitive assessment "owing to [their] reluctance to engage and the manifestation of extreme behaviors in situations where the Student feels overwhelmed." The Special Education Teacher completed a comprehensive Kindergarten Readiness Checklist. It was noted that "[The Student] can complete simple puzzles, focuses and pays attention during an activity such as story time, and engages in memory games."

v. Social-Emotional: The Student's behavior impeded the learning of themself and others. The Student had shown extreme physical aggression, resulting in being placed in the safe room for [their] safety, the staff, and other students' safety. "The Student has spit at the window, urinated on the floor, taken off [the Student's] clothes, made threats to kill staff, curses and other verbal aggression."

d. The Student's goal in behavior was "In 36 instructional weeks, [the Student] will be able to refocus, use safe hands, calm body while choosing a calming technique (deep breathing, calming corner, safe room, asking for one more minute) when given a verbal prompt (green day behavior) by staff and or adult, in 4 out of 5 situations."

e. The Student's goal in reading was, "In 36 instructional weeks, [the Student] will be able to identify the letter names and sounds of all 26 letters in 4 out of 5 sessions."

f. The Student's goal in written language was, "In 36 instructional weeks, [the Student] will demonstrate improved letter formation and legibility in writing [their] first and last name with appropriate size, shape, and spacing by using the three-lined writing paper or similar paper. [The Student] will demonstrate this skill in 4 out of 5 trials as measured by teacher-generated writing probes and or district allowable measures, while inside the resource room."

g. The Student's goal in math was, "In 36 instructional weeks [the Student] will score 5/16 correct on a curriculum based second[-]grade math numbers and operations probe in 2 out [of] 3 trials as measured by teacher[-]generated math probes and or district allowable measures, while inside the resource room."

h. The following communication goals were listed:

i. Goal 1: "Within 36 instructional weeks, [the Student] will produce age-appropriate sounds (l,s,z) in all positions of words and phrases with at least 80% accuracy as demonstrated on 3 of 4 data opportunities."

ii. Goal 2: "Within 36 instructional weeks, when completing activities or picture description tasks, [the Student] will use grammatically correct sentences targeting subject-verb agreement (verb tense-present/past regular and irregular, future tense) with 80% accuracy, over two consecutive data collection dates, as measured by the SLP, when completing targeted activities in the speech room."

        1. Frequency: "When given a task, progress monitoring, directions given, and assignment is given."
        2. Duration: "[The Student] will be given the task, progress monitoring, directions read aloud, and or assignment. Once item is read, [the Student] will receive 2 minutes of think time prior to being prompted to answer the question/task. After 3 total wait times, (total of 6 minutes, 3 prompts), [the Student] will be moved to the next item to complete."

viii. Record 8: "[The Student] will be given a soft task (something easier than the task asked of [the Student] prior to escalation, these are already learned skills that come easy to [the Student] after being escalated to assist in returning to work task."

1. Frequency: "[The Student] will be given a soft task after exiting the safe room, or high escalation situation.'
2. Duration: "[The Student] will be given a soft task after a high escalation behavior. [The Student] will be given a soft task such as (1 to 1 correspondence, matching, felt board activity, etc.) before returning to previous task asked of [the Student] to complete. Once the soft task is completed, [the Student] will be given the initial task prior to escalation."

j. Supports for School Personnel indicated, "The special education staff is available to help with questions that the general education staff may need assistance with. This may include working to modify assignments or teaching strategies to help [the Student] be successful within the least restrictive environment."

k. Educational Placement indicated the Student received special education outside of the general education classroom. The team first considered placement in the regular environment with supplementary aids and services. The team determined that the "nature or severity of the Student's disability is such that placement in the regular education environment with supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily." The Student was placed outside of the regular environment. No harmful effects were anticipated as a result of the recommended placement.

l. The Parent was informed of the Student's progress at least one time every quarter, at least as often as parents are informed of their nonexceptional children's progress.

m. Specially Designed Instruction beginning August 14, 2024 and ending May 15, 2025, included:

   i. Special education services in a Non-School Location for 250 minutes one day every week and 270 minutes 4 days every week for "core math, core ELA, social[-]emotional learning, and other academics."
   ii. "Consult occupational therapy services [for] 10 minutes, [one time] every month in a [s]pecial [e]ducation setting."
   iii. "Pull-out speech and language services [for] 20 minutes [one] day per week in a [s]pecial [e]ducation setting."
   iv. "Consult physical therapy services for 15 minutes, [one time] every 9 weeks in a [s]pecial [e]ducation setting."

6. A Prior Written Notice For Identification, Special Education, and Related Services, Educational Placement, Change in Services, Change in Placement, and/or Request for Consent dated May 15, 2024 indicated a substantial change in placement and documented the IEP amendments.
7. An email exchange between the Executive Director of Special Education and the Program Coordinator stated, "We have a student moving in from [the Previous District]. In talking with [the Previous District], the behavior classroom was not successful and they created their 'own' specialized program off-site for [the Student]. It was staffed with a teacher and a para (so 2 on 1). [The Student] will need a TLC placement and parents are on board. [The Student] is only able to manage ½ day of school: 8-12:30 at the end of the year. I don't know if [the Student] can transport with others or not. That's a convo [sic] I'll need to have with [the Parent] now that we know the TLC is [their] LRE."
8. Regarding the Student's placement, the Executive Director of Special Education described the following in an interview with the Complaint Investigator:
   a. The Student moved into the District with an existing IEP in which the District County Cooperative was able to provide an equivalent LRE, ensuring continuity of services, which explained the rationale for not considering a more restrictive placement like a placement in a TLC.
   b. The PAUSE program was a less restrictive setting for students who experienced autism with lower-level behaviors. The Student was not considered for this program.
9. A TLC Notice of Meeting dated August 6, 2024 indicated a meeting to develop the IEP for the Student.
10. The amended IEP dated August 12, 2024 indicated a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) was needed. The Service Summary indicated the Student would receive the following from August 14, 2023, through May 14, 2025:
    a. Special Education/Specialized instruction at a special day school for behavior, 200 minutes weekly, behavior 195 minutes four days a week, and speech/language 20 minutes, one day a week.
    b. Social Work Services at a special day school for behavior 45 minutes, four times a week and 45 minutes four days a week for emotional regulation and appropriate social skills.
    c. Special Education/Transportation, extracurricular, behavior, 80 minutes five days a week.

d. Special Education Services/Instructional Support, indirect services for behavior, 15 minutes 1 day every 4 weeks for behavioral consultation to assist behavioral management and updates.

e. Related Services included:

i. OT for indirect services: fine motor, 10 minutes, one day every week.

ii. PT for indirect services: gross motor, 10 minutes, one day every week.

iii. School Nurse services- indirect services, health, 30 minutes, one day every four weeks.

iv. School Nurse services: special day school, health, 30 minutes, five days every week. "The Student requires nursing services to address/support [their] diabetes."

11. A Request for Consent for Special Education Action indicated the Parent consented to the special education placement dated August 12, 2024. IEP Meeting Notes reported, "The Student attends a day school program outside of [their] neighborhood school building, will only have access to identified peers 100% of [their] school day and will not have access to the general education curriculum and experiences. [The Student] currently has a shortened school day due to inability to maintain for a longer period of time."

12. A Checklist for Proper Documentation of Initial Placement dated August 13, 2024 indicated the Student would be provided special transportation and that the nurse was notified about the Student.

13. The unsigned, amended IEP dated August 13, 2024 [sic] added the following to the social-emotional performance: "When [the Student] becomes dysregulated, [the Student] demonstrates aggressive behavior towards staff that includes biting, pinching, hitting, scratching, hair pulling or lunging towards adults. [The Student] also engages in self-injurious behaviors by biting [themself]. On occasion, [the Student] will try to elope from the classroom, remove [their] clothing, and urinate. These behaviors occur on average about 1 time per week and last 7 to 10 minutes." The Executive Director of Special Education indicated in an interview with the Complaint Investigator that the dates on the goals for this document were incorrect and 2024 was the correct year. The following new goals were described:

a. Social/Emotional Goal 1: "By October of 202[4] [the Student] will display appropriate responses to frustration 80% of the time by displaying self[-]calming strategies (sensory support, movement break, deep breathing, deep pressure, activity etc.) or taking a break when frustrated."

b. Social/Emotional Goal 2: "By October of 202[4], [the Student] will use [their] words 75% of the time to express [their] emotions and needs."

c. Social/Emotional Goal 3: "By October of 202[4], [the Student] will increase [their] school day, from 90 daily minutes to 420 daily minutes (Full School Day)."

d. Reading and writing goals were created.

14. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent shared the following:

a. Regarding occupational and physical therapy, "My understanding is that [the Student] is supposed to have hands-on physical, speech, and occupational therapy … . Unfortunately, we've never actually been able to get [the Student] to cooperate with occupational therapy. So, if they're actually doing it, I'm very surprised. But as I understand it, at this school, they have the paras do the physical therapy. I don't know anything about occupational, and as for speech, it is done through a Zoom call, which [the Student] does not participate in."

b. Regarding physical education, the Parent shared, "They do not allow [the Student] to go outside for anything. They don't allow [the Student] out of the room that [the Student] is in. They don't even allow [the Student] to go to the bathroom. So there is no outside time. There is no playtime, there is no physical exertion at all throughout [the Student's] day there. They don't have a gym. They don't do any of that, not with my child." The Parent described that the Student is confined to a room for long periods of time with minimal movement. The Parent shared that the Student was not allowed to go outside because, on one occasion, the Student refused to come back into the school and was found naked outside. The Parent indicated the school refused to take the Student outside after that incident.

c. The Parent described that while the Student was not a big fan of being outdoors, the Student played with siblings outside. The Parent confirmed that when the Student is determined to stay outside, it is difficult to get the Student to come back inside.

15. The Teacher shared the following in an interview with the Complaint Investigator:

a. The Student rarely used the restroom at school, even when prompted during natural breaks in activities. The Teacher indicated the Student would typically decline, saying, "No thank you." While the Parent took the Student to the bathroom upon arrival, and staff offered throughout the day, the Student infrequently went to the bathroom. According to the Teacher, a bathroom schedule was not initially in place but was added to the Student's schedule after the Parent raised concerns. The Teacher described that the Student had not been present to implement the scheduled bathroom breaks.

b. According to the Teacher, the Student's "best" attendance occurred in August and September.

c. The Teacher shared that the Student is allowed to stand in class, but when the Student becomes aggressive, they asked that the Student sit to determine compliance, "So if [the Student] [has] been escalated and [the Student] hasn't been safe … then we'll say, 'If you want us to return to work with you, then you need to sit down so that we can know that you're safe.'"

d. Regarding drink breaks, the Teacher shared, "… I don't really count them. They are offered drinks, but kind of at the same time after physical activities, they've gone to the bathroom and coming back and just the natural breaks. [The Student] was always asked if [they] needed a drink. [The Student] also has the ability to have snacks because of [the Student's] diabetes."

e. The Teacher indicated they were not involved in the implementation of the healthcare plan. Regarding snacks and water, the Teacher shared, "The snacks [the Parent] provides don't have anything that needs insulin or non-carbs" and that the Student didn't usually want them.

f. Regarding the Student's access to water, the Teacher shared, "[The Parent] always said to try to push water if [the Student's] blood sugar was getting high. So we always encouraged [the Student] to drink more … ." The Teacher said the Student was never denied water and that it "was offered at least every hour."

16. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Nurse shared the following:
    a. Regarding eating lunch and checking blood sugar, "I do know that [the Student] would refuse to have [their] blood sugar checked because of the neurological disorder [the Student] has and behaviors, and also at times [the Student] would refuse to eat. … So we would give [the Student] some time and ask [the Student] if [the Student] was ready to be checked and if [the Student] wasn't, we would set a timer and give [the Student] some time to calm down if [the Student] needed to and ask [the Student] to be checked again. And if [the Student] refused, we would give [the Student] one more chance after 10 or 15 minutes to be rechecked. And then, at that time, if [the Student] refused, the three chances is what [the Parent] and staff agreed on." After three chances, the Nurse indicated that they would let the Student go and would later ask, "Are you ready to be checked?" The Nurse was not aware of a time when the Student did not receive blood checks or meals due to staff errors or staff shortages.
    b. Regarding bathroom usage and water breaks, the Nurse shared, "Staff would offer [the Student] to go to the bathroom or offer [the Student] water and if [the Student] would say no, they would just wait and offer that again at another time." The Nurse was not aware of any specific intervals or set times for offering the Student water or bathroom breaks and did not know if they were ever denied due to staffing issues or errors.
    c. The Nurse shared that they did not provide direct services to the Student; they were provided through nurse delegation. Staff, including a licensed practical nurse, received training from the Nurse on August 16, 2024, covering blood sugar checks, doctor's orders based on blood sugar levels, and insulin administration based on carbohydrate intake. According to the Nurse, no follow-up training was needed, and the nurse delegation training was included in the health plan review.
17. According to a Medical Management for Diabetes Record dated August 2024 the Student's blood glucose monitoring occurred mid-morning and pre-lunch by staff. During the A.M. time, the Parent would send a snack. The Student would drink 6-8 oz. of water every hour when glucose was elevated.
18. An undated Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) was completed when the Student was in third grade. "Data from the FBA indicated a need for the following BIP:"
    a. Behavioral Descriptions:
        i. "Emotional/Behavioral Outburst. … yelling, crying, physical aggression toward self and others, verbal aggression, elopement."
        ii. "Removal of [the Student's] own clothes and/or peeing in inappropriate places, and destruction of property or attempts for destruction."

b. Behavior Data:
    i. "[The Student] [attended] the TLC on August 19, 2024, … attendance a total of ten days."
    ii. "Physical aggression toward others: on 8 of 10 days."
    iii. "Aggression toward self: on 6 of 10 days."
    iv. "Elopement: on 2 of 10 days."
    v. "Removal of clothes: on 5 of 10 days."
    vi. "Peeing: on 3 of 10 days."
    vii. "Verbal aggression/Threats: on 6 of 10 days."
    viii. "Episodes lasted a minimum of 8 minutes …. to as long as 2 hours and 40 minutes."
    ix. "Fire alarm pulled on two occasions."
c. "Behavior function- Attention: positive or negative from staff."
d. "Behavioral goal: [The Student] will be able to refocus, use safe hands, calm body while choosing a calming technique (deep breathing … safe room, asking for one more minute) when given a verbal prompt by staff in 4 out of 5 situations."
e. "Reinforcement:
    i. "Give frequent positive reinforcement."
    ii. "Opportunity to participate in desired activities."
    iii. "Opportunity to reintegrate back into more activities with [their] peers."
    iv. "Individual/Flexible schedule."

19. A Behavior Consultation Log indicated the following:
    a. August 20, 2024 - the School Psych/Behavior Consultant met with the TLC Principal and TLC Teacher to discuss learning strategies to meet the Student's needs. "The Behavior Consultant will observe the Student."
    b. August 23, 2024 - an observation of behaviors during blood sugar level testing was completed. A discussion of using a preferred task while checking blood sugar such as videos on the Promethean Board [occurred]. TLC concerns continue to be [the Student's] physical aggression during [their] checking of blood sugar levels."
    c. August 30, 2024 - a "Team meeting /discussed creating a Crisis Cycle for staff to follow during [the Student's] escalation. [The Behavior Consultant] met with the CPI trainer regarding strategies for prevention of restraints. [The] Team did discuss the safety of staff and other students."
    d. November 14, 2024 - "Provided TLC Principal an example of a regulation schedule. This schedule provided relationship[-]building with staff and peer times, sensory times, academic work times, and movement times. These activities are built into the day, and times of work expectations are around 15 min. Use of first/then language for non-preferred tasks. Recommended to have a peer come to [the Student] for unconditional relationship building with peers."

20. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Executive Director of Special Education shared that they were involved in all of the Student's meetings. They also shared the following related to the team considering whether the Student may experience autism:
    a. The decision to not further pursue or consider the autism diagnosis for the Student related to the Parent's assertion that the Student's behaviors were due to Joubert syndrome. The School focused on supporting the Student based on Joubert syndrome's characteristics.
    b. The School had "… both our behavior consultants and autism consultants … to look at physical space, present some ideas for increasing visuals, helping structure because we recognized [the Student] had [their] own unique needs and we wanted to make sure we were aligning our strategies and supports to be more similar" to what had been at the Student's previous school.
    c. The School consulted with TASN and Kansas Behavioral Support, and adjustments were made to support the student. A daily preference assessment was implemented to identify the Student's current interests and use them as motivators. According to the Executive Director of Special Education, the Student's irregular attendance prevented consistent implementation of the strategies.
21. According to a Comment Log with a date range of August 12, 2024 through January 17, 2025, the following relevant entries included:
    a. "8/16-Nurse's Training for Health Care Plan."

24. The following information was listed in a Field Trip Documentation spreadsheet:
    a. On September 12, 2024, the Student was present at school but did not attend the field trip to the State Fair because the Student "did not meet expected 75% for weekly behavior data to attend field trip." There were 15 aggression codes from September 3, 2024 through September 11, 2024 resulting in a 55% for weekly behavior data.
    b. On October 18, 2024, the Student was neither present at school nor did the Student attend the field trip to the pumpkin patch. According to the spreadsheet, "[The Parent] indicated [the Student] refused to come to school. [The Parent] reported [the Student] barricaded self in room." Behavior data from October 7, 2024 through October 18, 2024 indicated 66% with six aggression codes.
    c. On October 31, 2024, the Student was present at school and participated in trick-or-treating.

The notes indicated: "IEP Team determined [the Student] would stay home until Winter Break to attend multiple Dr. appointments and work with new ABA technician. Both Kansas Behavior Supports and Parents wanted [the Student] to have consistent time to work with new ABA therapist and build relationships."
25. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent indicated that the Student did not participate in field trips or extracurricular activities at this School. According to the Parent, the District did not provide a reason for the Student's lack of field trip participation. The Parent was unsure if the School offered field trips.
26. The Teacher shared in an interview with the Complaint Investigator, "I don't believe [the Student] was here when we attended the field trip. I don't think we took one in August. … [The Student] was absent October. I'm trying to remember when we even went on field trips. [The Student] has not attended a field trip. [The Student] went trick or treating with us upstairs, but I don't think [the Student] hasn't [sic] made it to any field trips, but I'd have to look back at the corresponding dates to tell you why that was. It could have been because … [the Student's] behaviors were too unsafe to take into the public if it was around the time that [the Student] had not been safe." Regarding communicating that information with the family, the Teacher said, "There would've been conversations if [the Student] didn't turn in the field trip. I sent [the Student] a letter about what the requirements are to make it to field trips. I'd have to look back at the dates and [the Student's] corresponding attendance to see if that was the reason why [the Student] didn't make it or if it was because of behavior."

27. According to a Communication Log with entry dates ranging from August 2, 2024 through October 11, 2024, the District requested Technical Assistance System Network (TASN) support. The TASN TA Provider indicated they would observe the Student and work with the TLC staff. On October 11, 2024, the Program Coordinator emailed to indicate the Student was "beginning ABA services in the home the following Wednesday (10/16/24) so [the Student] would not be at school for an observation on that date. Confirmed new observation date/time of 10/25/24." The TASN TA Provider inquired about the TLC Autism/Behavioral Supports.
28. According to a behavioral log dated September 9, 2024, the Student started "throwing things, kicks feet, becomes louder with 'no' and moves out of the assigned area." The adult response was to provide space, shorten directions, and distract the Student with preferred activities. Behavioral plan notes described ideas that could help enforce behaviors, including social stories, teaching emotions, and calming.
29. A Notice of Meeting dated September 3, 2024 indicated a meeting request to discuss possible changes to the IEP.

physical interventions, de-escalation, and safety strategies. On November 18, 2024, ABA Pairing techniques were presented to the staff of the Student. On December 9, 2024, the Autism Specialist gave feedback and support for the Student. The ABA Technician shared ideas "that could be quickly implemented, and also strategies, and staff training ideas." 33. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Executive Director of Special Education shared that a Director from Kansas Behavioral Support trained the staff on two different occasions. The training focused on relationships and task completion as opposed to academics. The Executive Director of Special Education indicated that the Student's attendance impacted the School's ability to determine whether or not these strategies were effective for the Student.

Meeting Notes dated October 15, 2024 indicated concerns for Student and peer safety due to behaviors and noted the lack of ABA therapy, "there has been a 'huge regression' over the period of 5 months and will take a longer period to build back up to where [the Student] was before. … ABA will be attending 1 day per week to evaluate this Student's needs to provide services and supports."
36. A Student Observation Summary dated October 25, 2024 indicated the Student was observed to "gain insight into the current strategies, environment, and behaviors of the Student to support the team in future planning." Strategies observed were:

    d. "Positive engagement was observed during OT and PT activities."
    e. "Incorporated timers and countdown."
    f. "Provided the option of 'one more minute' when [their] time was up."
    g. "Materials for each task were organized … outside the classroom."
    h. "A behavior chart was filled out by staff after each activity."

i. "During escalation, one para remained outside the door at all times while another para documented events, including timestamps, verbalizations, and staff responses."

j. Professional Development recommendations included Registered Behavior Technician (RBT) Modules and ABA Therapist Resources.

37. On November 7, 2024 a Notice of Meeting indicated a meeting request for November 14, 2024 to consider possible changes to the IEP. Meeting Notes dated November 14, 2024 indicated that according to data, the Student exhibited physical aggression towards staff and bit themself. The Student's daily schedule was discussed. The staff gave the Student choices of activities and shortened activities. A reintegration plan described "3 days of 80% safety." A suggested update to the FBA and BIP was recommended to reinforce activities daily.

    The Parents wondered if a behavioral decline occurred in the academic room. The Student was used to going to a safe room when having behavioral issues. When the Student showed they were calm, they were able to leave the safe room. According to the Parent, now, the Student "views the room as punishment at TLC."

38. According to a message from the Parent dated November 14, 2024, the Student would try a soft start with their peers first thing and then transition to a smaller room for social skills after meeting with the Behavioral Support Technician.

The Parent declined, stating that they did not want two different techs. The team discussed the least restrictive environment and a time frame before placement, having some concerns with home status, with other children, and a need to look at residential placement.

41. On December 4, 2024, a Notice of Team Meeting requested a meeting for December 9, 2024 to discuss possible changes to the IEP. According to Team Meeting Notes dated December 9, 2024, the purpose of the meeting was to discuss concerns that the Student had not been in attendance at the TLC since November 18, 2024. "Of the 12 days since then, [the Parent] has attempted to get [the Student] to school twice, but [the Student] has not successfully entered the school building. [The Student] had:

    a. Been sick for two days.

    b. Had high blood sugar for four days.

    c. Refused to leave the house one day.

d. Did not attend due to a lack of sleep for three days.

The team met to discuss the Student's "current health and behavioral needs and to discuss if any changes needed to be made to [their] school plan at this time." The team discussed several potential changes, which included:

a. Transportation: discussed a type of safety harness to use for transport.
b. Adjust start time to start at 9:30 a.m. drop-off and stay later in the day.

    g. Transportation: The ABA Technician would ride the special education transportation with the Student to and from the TLC and home.
44. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent shared that the last day the Student attended was in January 2025, "It was a Wednesday, and it was the first day [the Student] rode the bus. So [the Student] got to go, and [the Student] was doing fine, and then they checked [the Student's] blood sugar and [the Student] was high, so they had to send [the Student] home. And I asked … can [the Student] please stay because if you make [the Student] go home, I'm never going to get [the Student] to go back. I was like, 'Give [the Student] water. [The Student] has [their] insulin. We can try and get [the Student] to come down by giving [them] water.' And they said, 'No.'"

45. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent shared information about the implementation of the Student's healthcare plan, "I don't think they failed to implement it. They implement it because if [the Student's] at 280, they send [the Student] home. I think it was the fact that they would not check [the Student]. They do not give [the Student] water … . Because [the Student] is a type one diabetic, [the Student] needs the water to help regulate and keep [the Student] low because [the Student] pees out [their] sugars. And so if [the Student's] not given the water, then [the Student] does not urinate enough. And so, not that it matters, because they don't take [the Student] to the bathroom. But that was the problem with the health plan is that they were not checking [the Student] regularly. They would say [the Student] was unsafe or stuff like that, and so they wouldn't check [the Student's] blood sugar, and they wouldn't give [the Student] the water."
46. The Parent shared, in an interview with the Complaint Investigator, "… I asked them to see about sending [the Student] to [Another Location], which is a TLC school because they're saying that [the Student] can't go less restrictive. And I understand I'm not asking [the Student] to go less restrictive. I'm asking [the Student] to be able to join a class instead of be by [themself]. I'm asking them … the teachers and staff be open to the engagement with [the Student]. The School that [the Student] is currently in, they do not engage with [the Student]. [The Student's] not allowed to be with the other students. The paras are afraid of [the Student]. They stand in the doorway and like I said, whenever [the Student] stands up, they shut the door so there is no engagement."
47. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent shared that "[The Student] refuses to go to school. [The Student] refuses to have anything to do with that school. They've tried to do Zoom meetings with [the Student], and [the Student] [will] throw the phone. [The Student] just says [the Student] doesn't want to go. … I just know that I can ask [the Student] three times if [the Student's] ready to get on the school bus. [The Student] [will] get up in the morning, [the Student] [will] take [their] meds, [the Student] [will] eat breakfast, [the Student] [will] get dressed, and then the school bus shows up and I am like, 'Okay, the school bus is here' and [the Student] refuses. And I'm like, 'Okay, let's at least walk to the door.' And [the Student's] like, refuses. I can get three refusals and then [the Student] [will] get violent." The Parent indicated that they did not have a problem getting the Student to school last year. The Parent shared that the School had not offered solutions for reengaging the Student in school except for Zoom meetings with the para.
48. According to a message to the Parent from the TLC staff, dated January 15, 2025, the Student had a bathroom break before heading to the classroom. "It seemed a positive time here."
49. An email exchange between the Executive Director of Special Education and the Program Coordinator dated January 22, 2025 indicted, "On the document of [the Student's] data summary that provides the analysis of data (validity, daily performance summary, safety data, trends, etc.), what program does [the] TLC use to run/analyze that data? Walk me through the process as I need to include that in the Formal Complaint Process." The Program Coordinator replied, "The validity statement is based on the consistency of the data collected as stated (i.e., the percentage of data entered versus data cells with nothing entered). Based on the message you receive; it lets you know how much is missing and changes the interpretation and presentation in subsequent summaries."

50. An undated Student Data Summary indicated that based "on the overall consistency of data collection (0%), the summary is likely an accurate representation of the Student's performance:"
    a. "Daily performance summary - Reviewing the overall data collected to date, there is a small upward trend in [the Student's] average performance."
        i. "Made gains on the goal: On-time, follows routine, stays in area/seat over the last 30 days (100%) compared to the overall 51.61%."
        ii. "Progress has been made with completes assigned work, stays on task, participates appropriately over the last 30 days (100%, overall 56.9%."
        iii. "Progress has been made with Safe words and actions over the last 30 days (100%, overall 57.19%)."
        iv. "Progress has been made with Cooperates with neutral/positive interactions to students and adults over the last 30 days (100%, overall 46.28%)."
        v. "Progress has been made with Positive peer interactions over the last 30 days (100%, overall 50.51%)."
    b. Safety data included:
        i. "84 instances of aggression - zero occurred within the last 30 days."
        ii. "22 instances of property destruction - zero occurred within the last 30 days."
        iii. "39 instances of verbal/gestural threats - zero occurred within the last 30 days."
        iv. "38 instances of self-harm - zero occurred within the last 30 days."
    c. "Currently, there is no day of the week that [the Student] performs notably better or worse."
    d. "[The Student's] performance across activities (times of day) is similar (average 100%)."
    e. Intervention Impact-Ten intervention changes were noted with the following results, which indicated not enough data had been collected to examine the impact of the intervention change:
        i. "Tier 3 (off classroom) intervention."
        ii. "Rotation of staff each hour."
        iii. "Visual schedule and picture of [the Parent] intervention."
        iv. "Changed … time at am, [the Student] escalated, and [the] service provider was unable to deliver services. Continue[d] with escalated behavior and was unsafe at speech time so service was not delivered."
        v. "Impact of intervention."
        vi. "Began PT/OT services from consult recommendations intervention."

f. "Overall, [the Student] has had the most success with the staff going to [the] vehicle to encourage coming in intervention - and the least success with the Intervention-could call [the Parent] on [the] phone to talk."

51. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Teacher shared the following:
    g. The data collected, including task completion, safe actions, cooperation, and peer interactions, and IEP goals were not accurate due to the Student's limited attendance.
    h. The Student's day consisted of lunch, pe, a social skills activity, and "towards the end of the time," ABA. According to the Teacher, "People were telling us to not do any academics and just try to do pairing and getting to know [the Student] … . "
    i. The Teacher's understanding of the ABA support was to help the Student with compliance at home and school.
52. A PE Time document with no date indicated the following PE delivery methods:
    j. Tier 1 PE Time: In playground area, whole class participation.
    k. Tier 2 PE Time: The Student worked with a staff member in a separate location, away from peers.
    l. Tier 3 PE Time: The Student worked with a staff member in a separate location, inside, away from peers.
        i. The Teacher shared in an interview that Tier 3 PE was "PE away from [the Student's] peers."
53. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Teacher shared, "When [the Student] first started, [the Student] was going to all of those with the rest of the class. After [the Student] became aggressive, then the plans kind of changed. [The Student] was still getting the social skills, but it was just [the Student] and … somebody delivering the social skills activities with [the Student] and PE. [The Student] was was doing activities within another area that was free of the other students that [the Student] was getting to play and work out and [the Student] played with [parents] and those kinds of things and and lunch [the Student] had here because [the Student] had to do [their] insulin and count [their] carbs and [the Parent] said [the Student] wouldn't walk as far as we have to walk to get to lunch." The Teacher indicated that they had to walk to the high school for lunch. Additionally, the Teacher clarified that the Student participated in parallel activities during PE within their special education classroom. The School lacks a gym and general education classrooms, so activities occur in the special education classroom. All classrooms at the School were special education classrooms.
54. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent shared that the Student's behavior worsened at their current school. The Parent attributed the Student's behavioral regression to the Student's isolation in the current school. The Parent believed that this led to the Student experiencing anxiety, an inability to sleep alone, and clinginess.
55. At the conclusion of their interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Executive Director of Special Education shared that they attributed the Student's attendance challenges to a lack of consistent in-home and behavioral support since the family's move. Previously, consistent support was effective, and the move, along with inconsistent staffing from Kansas Behavioral Supports, created a gap in home and school support. The Executive Director of Special Education indicated they believed that this gap impacted the Student's functioning and attendance.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #418, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), provided the least restrictive environment when the Student was "separated and secluded in a room … " and not able to participate in the general education classroom. K.A.R. 91-40-1.(II); K.S.A. 72-3420; 34 CFR § 300.116.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1.(II), K.S.A. 72-3420, and 34 CFR § 300.116, The least restrictive environment (LRE) means the educational placement in which, to the maximum extent appropriate, children with disabilities are educated with children who are not disabled and meet the requirements of K.S.A. 72-976, and amendments thereto. The placement shall be determined at least annually, based upon the student's individualized education program, and provided as close as possible to the child's home.

The Parent alleged that when the Student was excluded from the main classroom, the Student did not have opportunities to rejoin their classmates.

The District indicated that the Student's current educational placement at the TLC, "the most restrictive environment in the [District] is appropriate." The District indicated that this placement decision was based "on a comprehensive reevaluation that was completed in May 2024 by … the entity that had provided [the Student] special education services since age 3. The TLC modeled and implemented supports similar to those provided by [the Previous District] in collaboration with Kansas Behavioral Supports and TASN. The [S]tudent's attendance has been very limited, and there is no data to support that a move to a lesser [sic] environment is appropriate at this time. Parents have provided consent for this educational placement both in the previous [District] and in the [current] [District]."

The Student entered the District with an existing IEP that placed them in a specialized program outside of the general education setting. The District determined that an equivalent LRE could be provided at the TLC to provide continuity of services, and the Parent consented. As the year progressed, the Parent was concerned about instances of the Student's isolation and lack of access to the "main classroom" and peers. The Student's behaviors escalated, and their attendance declined, limiting their access to education. The IEP team met on several occasions and discussed the Student's LRE. Safety, peer interaction, and access to curriculum were discussed.

The District and the Parents made an individualized placement decision based on the Student's unique needs and the Student's IEP and periodically reviewed factors that impacted that decision through the IEP meeting process. While the Student's access to the "main classroom" was, at times, limited due to the Student's behaviors, the District made efforts to maximize inclusion where appropriate and provided specialized supports to address the Student's behavioral challenges.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to provide the least restrictive environment for the Student.

Issue Two

Whether USD #418, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the Student's healthcare plan or accommodations related to the Student's Type 1 Diabetes and other health needs, including not allowing the Student to drink water or use the restroom, and failing to offer restroom breaks or change the Student's pull-ups. Further alleged was that the Student was receiving occupational and physical therapy from a paraprofessional, the online speech therapy was not effective for the Student, the behavior intervention plan was not being implemented, and the social skills instruction was not being provided. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3); 34 C.F.R. § 300.323.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.323. An IEP is to be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

The Parent alleged the Student was not provided water to drink and needed to have access to water because of the Student's diabetes. According to the Parent, the Student was required to stay in the classroom, required to sit for four hours each day, and was not provided opportunities to use the bathroom facilities, and the Student's pull-ups were not changed. The Parent alleged the Student did not receive occupational therapy. According to the Parent, physical therapy was provided by a paraeducator in the same classroom. Speech services were provided on ZOOM, which, according to the Parent, was not productive for the Student.

The District "… acknowledges that it has been challenging to provide all identified services at [the] TLC due to the [S]tudent's dysregulation and limited attendance. Daily logs will show the desire of staff and attempts made to deliver special education services and educational instruction. The TLC staff continue to be willing to receive training and adjust interventions to try to impact the [S]tudent's success."

To manage their diabetes, the Student required regular blood sugar monitoring, insulin administration, and access to water and bathroom breaks, all of which were documented in their healthcare plan. The Student received consultative occupational therapy and physical therapy services per their IEP. The Student received speech services virtually but frequently missed sessions due to absences and behavioral issues.

The Student exhibited significant behavioral challenges, including physical aggression, self-harm, and verbal aggression. A BIP was implemented, however, the Student's inconsistent attendance impacted its effective implementation. The Student also struggled with social-emotional skills and received that instruction in various settings to address these needs. Despite these services, the Student showed little to no progress on their IEP goals primarily due to persistent absences and behavior challenges.

While concerns were raised by the Parent regarding the consistency of the healthcare plan implementation, the effectiveness of certain related services, and the Student's limited progress, the District demonstrated a good faith effort to implement the Student's IEP despite the Student's behavioral and attendance challenges. The District monitored the Student, consulted with specialists, and trained staff to support the Student's behavioral and educational needs.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to implement the Student's healthcare plan. Regarding speech, OT, PT, and social skills, the Student's lack of progress and engagement was not a result of the District's failure to implement the IEP. Those allegations are not substantiated.

Issue Three

> Whether USD #418, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), offered the Student access to non-academic and extra-curricular activities such as recess. K.A.R. 91-40-1(ttt); 34 CFR § 300.117.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(ttt) and 34 CFR § 300.117, "Supplementary aids and services" means aids, services, and other supports that are provided in regular education classes or other education-related settings, as well as extracurricular and non-academic settings to enable children with disabilities to be educated with non-disabled children to the maximum extent appropriate.

The Parent alleged that the TLC refused to provide alternative accommodations to the Student, despite repeated Parent requests. The Parent alleged that the Student was subjected to prolonged separation and seclusion from their peers. Additionally, according to the Parent, the Student was not provided an opportunity to engage in physical exercise and was asked to remain seated for the duration of the Student's school day.

The District indicated that "… the educational environment in a non-school setting is not the same as a traditional educational environment. The structure and support provided, as well as access to non-identified peers and opportunities, are different from a traditional educational setting. The Student attends a partial day, which is in alignment with the school day structure provided previously. Parents have provided consent for this placement both in the [Previous District] and in the [District]."

The District indicated that the setting in which the Student received their special education services was very different from a traditional general educational environment. The Parent reported concerns regarding the Student's access to non-academic and extracurricular activities. The Student's participation in physical education was limited. The School did not have a gym, and the Student primarily participated in physical activities in the classroom as a modification for the Student's aggressive behaviors. The Student was excluded from one field trip for documented behavioral challenges and either attended or was absent for the other opportunities. The Student's attendance and behaviors impacted their educational progress.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to offer access to non-academic extra-curricular activities.

Issue Four

Whether USD #418, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), developed an IEP that included accurate data regarding the Student's behavior, positive behavioral supports, or an accurate behavior intervention plan. The Complaint further alleged that the staff working with the Student were not appropriately trained to work with the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-18; 34 CFR §300.320.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-18 and 34 CFR §300.320, in developing or reviewing the IEP of any exceptional child, each agency shall comply with the requirements of K.A.R. 91-40-18 and shall consider the results of the child's performance on any general state or districtwide assessment programs. As a result of its consideration of the special factors, an IEP team determines that a child needs behavior interventions and strategies, accommodations, assistive technology devices or services, or other program modifications for the child to receive a FAPE, the IEP team shall include those items in the child's IEP.

The Parent reported repeatedly informing the TLC that the Student does not learn when isolated. According to the Parent, the Student's Behavioral Therapist witnessed the staff shutting the door to the room the Student was in while the Student escalated. If the Student did not comply with the sit-down directive and moved to get up, the staff at the TLC would shut the door from the outside. If the Student went to open the door, the staff held the door closed, which escalated the Student's behavior further. Additionally, the Parent alleged that the staff presented inaccurate percentage data regarding the Student's behaviors and believed that the percentages reported were largely skewed due to low attendance.

The Parent reported that while staff documented an increase in the Student's aggression, they failed to mention that it was due to severe isolation. The Parent asserted that the staff was hyper-focused on negative behaviors and established unachievable goals for the Student. Additionally, the Parent identified deficiencies in the Student's BIP and cited the poor identification of targeted behaviors and their functions, as well as a failure to include comprehensive teaching strategies for replacement behaviors. Finally, the Parent believed that the staff at the TLC lacked documented training to appropriately address the needs of the Student.

The District indicated that the "… staff at the TLC have been willing to engage in regular collaboration, communication, and reflection to support [the Student's] needs. This is evidenced by communication with [the Previous District], Kansas Behavioral Supports, TASN, and internal consultants. Staff have repeatedly demonstrated a responsiveness to behavioral data and have continued to seek the best approaches to use with the [S]tudent to impact [the Student's] success. A barrier to implementing [the Student's] educational plan has been daily attendance. The limited attendance has impacted the consistent delivery of special education services and for enough opportunities to implement and assess effectiveness of the current plan."

An IEP was in place at the beginning of the year and was revised as needed. A BIP was in place to document the Student's behavioral challenges. Data from August 2024 revealed concerns about the Student's aggression and elopement. IEP meetings were held to discuss the documented concerns, which led to revisions in the BIP and adjustments to the Student's schedule.

Staff received various training to address the Student's needs, including autism best practices, crisis management techniques, and individualized strategies focused on relationship building and task completion. Medical training on blood sugar management was also provided. However, the Student's inconsistent attendance limited the School's ability to assess the training's effectiveness.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the District failed to develop an IEP that included accurate data regarding the Student's behavior, positive behavioral supports, or an accurate behavior intervention plan. It is also not substantiated that the staff working with the Student were not appropriately trained.

Issue Five

Whether USD #418, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), provided the Student with the special education placement as described in the Student's IEP. Further, the Complaint alleged that the Parent requested an alternate placement, and the District had not considered this request. K.A.R. 91-40-21 ; 34 CFR §§ 300.224, 300.116.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-21 and 34 CFR §§ 300.224, 300.116, each agency shall ensure that a continuum of alternative educational placements is available to meet the needs of children with disabilities. These alternative placements shall include instruction in regular classes, special classes, and special schools, instruction in a child's home, instruction in hospitals, and other institutions. Alternative educational placements shall make provisions for supplementary services, including resource room and itinerant services, to be provided in conjunction with regular class placement. Each placement decision shall be made by a group of persons, including the parent and other persons who are knowledgeable about the child, the meaning of the evaluation data, and the placement options.

The Parent reported that alternative schooling options were denied and that the TLC would not offer alternative accommodations, despite repeated requests. According to the Parent, both the TLC staff and the special education department cooperative personnel, including the Director, acknowledged the detrimental effects of the room and the TLC on the Student. According to the Parent, the Director replied by citing adherence to educational guidelines. The Parent detailed the Student's regressions academically, behaviorally, and in their potty training and suggested the Student also showed signs of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). Finally, the Parent indicated they were informed that the special education cooperative had a contract with the TLC and that they would not fund the Student's placement at an alternative location.

The District "… do[es] not believe that the [S]tudent would be safe in a less restrictive setting at this time. In [the District], the TLC is the most restrictive environment for students that demonstrate intensive social/emotional needs. The TLC is designed to have additional support and resources available for students that demonstrate those needs. This is the same setting (non-school location) identified to be the [S]tudent's least restrictive learning environment by [the Previous District] through a comprehensive re-evaluation in May of 2024. There is not sufficient data to indicate that a move to a less restrictive environment would be appropriate at this time. The [District] acknowledge[s] that a Prior Written Notice should have been presented to Parents to formally document the request and the school's decision to deny that change of placement based on current performance data."

The Student's initial placement in the TLC was discussed and documented through the IEP process and prior written notices. However, in November, when the IEP team reconvened to discuss the Student's current needs and supports, other placement options were discussed. For this discussion, there was no PWN to document the Parent's request or the District's response regarding the consideration of an alternative placement for the Student.

violated K.S.A 72-3430(b) and K.S.A 72-3432 (a-c), describing that Parents of exceptional children have the right to written prior notice whenever an agency proposes or refuses to initiate or change the "... educational placement of the child ... ." Documentation of special education decisions must include a clear description of the proposed or refused action, a detailed explanation for the reasons behind the decision, and a summary of alternative options that were considered and/or rejected.

Issue Six

Whether USD #418, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), provided the Student with a free appropriate public education (FAPE). The Complaint alleges that "[the Student] has regressed academically, behaviorally, and on [their] potty training, and now shows signs of P.T.S.D., anxiety, and stress." K.A.R. 91-40-1(z); 34 C.F.R. § 300.101.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(z) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.101, every child with an exceptionality is entitled to receive a free appropriate public education (FAPE). FAPE is defined as special education and related services that are provided at public expense, meet the standards of the state board, include appropriate preschool, elementary, and secondary education, and are provided in conformity with an individualized education program.

The Parent alleged that the Student was secluded in a separate room and was not afforded opportunities to rejoin the other students. The Parent believed that the Student was prohibited from outdoor play. This restriction stemmed from a previous incident where the Student, when upset, refused to return indoors and proceeded to take off all of their clothes. According to the Parent, the Behavior Therapist attended the School to observe the Student, and after two hours, the Behavior Therapist inquired about scheduled bathroom breaks. The Paraeducator responded that the Student was not allowed to leave the room because their behavior was unpredictable. Additionally, the Parent indicated the Student did not receive occupational therapy and that physical therapy was provided by a paraeducator within the same room.

The Parent reported that the Student had experienced significant regression across multiple areas, including academic performance, behavior, and potty training, and was now exhibiting signs of PTSD, anxiety, and stress. The Parent further indicated that the Student began to engage in self-harm when a door is closed and refuses to sleep alone in their room. Additionally, the Parent noted that if the Student was left alone in their room for an extended period, they would seek out a family member and express fear. Finally, the Parent indicated that the Student became visibly upset and displayed both physical and verbal aggression when school was mentioned.

The placement of the Student in a non-school location was approved by the IEP team, provided a continuity of services, and was determined necessary to meet the Student's needs. The Student's attendance impacted the School's ability to provide services. The Student's healthcare plan was implemented to the extent possible despite the Student's refusals and safety issues. The School engaged in ongoing communication and collaboration with the Parent regarding the Student's needs.

The School made reasonable efforts to provide a FAPE to the Student. The Student's challenges with attendance, behavior, and medical needs presented obstacles, but the School continued to adjust the Student's program, seek support and training, and communicate with the Parent.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the district failed to provide a FAPE to the Student.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with a special education statute and regulation. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 303.503(a-b) and K.S.A 72-3430(b) and K.S.A 72-3432 specify the requirements for PWN.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #418 did not provide a PWN to describe the proposed or refused action and the reasoning behind it regarding the educational placement of the Student. Documentation and the District Response letter dated February 6, 2025 document this.

Based on the foregoing, USD #418 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD # 418 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) at 34 C.F.R. 303.503(a-b) and K.S.A 72-3430(b) and K.S.A 72-3432 by providing parents with PWN when refusing to implement requests made by parents.
2. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #418 shall submit a PWN to the Parent documenting the proposed and refused actions and an explanation of those actions regarding the educational placement of the Student.
3. Within 20 days of the date of this report, USD #418 shall submit documentation that the PWN was provided to the Parent.
4. Within 45 days of the date of this report, USD #418 shall train District special education staff and administrators on the PWN requirements. The District shall submit copies of the training materials and attendance sheets.

The complaint is against USD #229 Blue Valley Schools. In the remainder of the report, USD #229 will be referred to as "the district", "the local education agency (LEA)", or "the school".

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date in which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on February 17, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ends on March 19, 2025 or with the publication of this report.

Evidence Reviewed

During the investigation, the Complaint Investigator, Gwen Beegle, reviewed all evidence and documentation, which was provided by both the district and the complainants. The parent was contacted to clarify the issues of the complaint and to provide interview evidence on February 18, 2025. The written complaint alleged broad noncompliance was present in the student's school, and the investigator asked the parent about their knowledge beyond the experience of their child. When the investigation was initiated, the investigator determined that a systemic inquiry was premature based on the existing evidence. Questions pertaining to district policy and practices were included in the interviews to determine if there was reasonable evidence requiring a systemic inquiry to open during the course of the investigation. Emails were exchanged with the parent through March 12, 2025, to gather additional information or clarification.

The district was contacted on February 19, 2025, and the IDEA issues to be investigated were included in a memo to the LEA dated February 19, 2025 (with a one sentence correction dated February 20, 2025), and the parent's concerns regarding educational records request was redirected to FERPA complaint options, and a 2022 evaluation request was set aside as preceding the 12-month time period preceding the formal complaint.

The district offered the following persons for interviews: Steven Beeler (IEP Case Manager and IRR Special Education Teacher), Erica McDonald (School Principal), Kristen Leaming (Special Education Administrator), and Mr. Heston (Fourth Grade Teacher). Emails and phone calls were exchanged with the district from February 19, 2025, to March 7, 2025, during which the district provided additional documents and information requested by the investigator.

Background Information

The student attended the fourth grade at an elementary school in USD#229 Blue Valley Schools. The student was evaluated and found eligible for special education as a student with learning disabilities in May 2022, at the end of the student's first grade year. In the summer of 2022, based on the district's special education evaluation's informal note regarding the student's speech language performance, the parent had the student independently evaluated at Children's Mercy Hospital in the summer of 2022, before the student's second grade year. According to the parent, the Children's Mercy Hospital evaluation recommended speech language services; the CMH report was provided to the school district and in September 2022, the parent was informed that the student did not qualify for speech language services based on the district's evaluation. In 2025, when the parent requested a copy of this evaluation, the district disclosed that the decision was based on informal observations and a full speech language evaluation was not conducted.

The student's IEP dated May 1, 2023, and the current IEP dated April 24, 2024, showed that the student received 30 minutes of special education services in the special education setting and 60 minutes of services in the general education setting, with IEP goals in reading and writing along with classroom accommodations to access the general curriculum.

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: Did USD #229 implement the student's IEP by providing special education services, accommodations or other requirements of the student's IEP? (page 6)
2. ISSUE TWO: Did the district meet the IEP team in response to the parent's concern voiced at the October 2024 parent teacher conferences and the student's lack of progress in mathematics with the current IEP? (page 14)
3. ISSUE THREE: Did the district provide proper PWN in response to parental requests for accommodations or services? (page 18)

Issue One

Did USD #229 implement the student's IEP by providing special education services, accommodations, or other requirements of the student's IEP?

Applicable Law

Federal/State statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.39 define special education as specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent to meet the unique needs of a child with a disability. Further 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) requires that the IEP include "a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child: (i) To advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; (ii) To be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum. . . and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and (iii) To be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children." Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The parents allege in the written complaint that the student's accommodations were not provided during the current 2024-25 school year, including to be ungraded on spelling, to be excused from reading aloud in class, and to have tests in a quiet location. The parents alleged that there was no evidence that the student's special education services provided 60 minutes of support in the general education classroom five times per week, and that the student's general education performance in mathematics had deteriorated after the removal of prior special education support in that area.

The district responded that the student's spelling accommodation had been provided in writing and spelling itself was monitored for standards based curricular grading, and that this was clarified during the January 24, 2025, IEP meeting. The district responded that the student has not been required to read aloud in class but been permitted to do so after volunteering. The district further responded that the teacher had provided two options to meet the student's testing accommodation and that the student was given a choice of which to choose during classroom testing. The district stated that the testing accommodation was discussed at the January 24, 2025, IEP meeting and it was adjusted to the parent's request for only one option for testing. The district provided evidence and rationales further described in findings, below.

Findings of Fact

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the parent and staff in USD #229.

The student's IEP dated May 5, 2023, included two IEP goals, one in reading and one in writing. IEP goal progress reporting showed that both goals were met as of April 24, 2024. The IEP dated May 5, 2023, included 30 minutes of special education services in special education and 60 minutes of special education in general education for five days each week.

The student's IEP dated April 24, 2024 included two goals, one in reading and the other in writing: (1) "By April 2025, when given words with Vowel-R combinations and two short vowel syllable words with common endings, [the student] will read them with 85% accuracy or greater," and (2) By April 2025, when given Vowel-R words and words with common suffixes (ing, ed, er, est), [the student] write them with 85% accuracy. This IEP included 60 minutes of special education direct services in the general education classroom five times per week, and 30 minutes of special education in a special education setting five times each week.

When asked to clarify the meaning of direct special education in the general education classroom, the special education director stated that it is a service setting on the district's IEP software, which reflects, "Our view has been to consider any support listed on the IEP, that is provided to a student as direct SPED support, regardless of who is providing it (as directed by the IEP and/or SPED teacher). . . in the description of specially designed instruction, the services are defined [further]. In this case, it is "(s)he will receive in class support for 60 minutes daily. This support will be utilized to support her goal areas and facilitate her independence within the classroom."

IEP goal progress reports for the student showed that the student made progress on the reading and writing goals of IEP dated April 24, 2024, showing that the student was rated as making progress on each goal, with percentages at 80% and 90% at the December 10, 2024, marking period.

The student's Winter Acadience test scores showed that the student read 113 words correctly, which fell in the 50th percentile; the student's reading accuracy was 98% in the 46th percentile; and the student's retelling passages score of 48 words was in the 75% percentile. The student's Maze assessment fell in the 77th percentile. The Winter Fastbridge test, taken in the resource setting, showed a score of 520, which was in the 64th percentile nationally, and 47th percentile at the district level.

The IEP dated April 24, 2024, provided for instructional and testing accommodations. For testing, the accommodations were (1) to take the test in a quiet, noncompetitive setting ("Testing in a separate setting, away from distractions, will allow [the student] to adequately show what [the student] knows. This will also allow for test items to be read and rephrased, as allowed, to increase [the student's] understanding of the items being assessed") and (2) text to speech directions/test items ("[The student] has difficulty decoding and reading accurately and efficiently"). Instructional accommodations were: "Access to spell check and voice to text for writing assignments, fraction strip, alphabet strip, 100's chart, multiplication chart, student not to be graded on spelling, teacher will read directions, and test items if computer audio not available for assessments/assignments. [The student] will not be required to read out loud in class."

The special education teacher notified the parents in an email dated January 15, 2025, that one of the student's testing accommodations would no longer be allowable under new KSDE guidelines, requiring an IEP amendment to remove this accommodation. Specifically, the email stated that the new ELA KAP assessment for grades 3-5 "uses the science of reading and integrates a measurement of the ability to read (decoding and fluency) and the ability to understand what is read (reading comprehension) . . . Because of this significant change of what is measured in the new ELA KAP, for the district to be in compliance with Sec. 300.160 of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), the IEP team needs to consider an amendment [to] your child's IEP to remove the TTS [Text to speech] accommodation for the Questions and Response sections, which is no longer allowable."

On January 16, 2025, the parent sent an email to the district members of the IEP team in which she stated her concerns "noncompliance with current accommodations, proposed additions to [the] plan, and time sensitive submission of the Text to Speech Passages and Graphics Application to [KSDE] by January 31, 2025, in light of KAP's new testing methodology." In the email, the parent asserted that the noncompliance with the student's IEP was in the area of spelling being graded, read aloud participation in class, testing in a quiet noncompetitive situation and the 60 minutes of special education in the general education classroom. In this email, the parent proposed 16 instructional accommodations organized into five categories (reading, spelling, writing, math, and homework) and three testing accommodations for the IEP team to consider, along with placement in special education (to consider services offered by the reading specialist rather than the special education teacher). The special education teacher replied on January 16, 2025, to schedule the IEP meeting on January 24, 2025, and the parent brought a list of requests in writing to the IEP meeting, which were discussed, according to the IEP minutes dated January 24, 2025.

The IEP team met and discussed a proposed IEP amendment on January 24, 2025, which stated that the student's services would change as follows: "[The student] will now receive 60 minutes of special education services in the special education classroom to focus on reading and math goals. [The student] will continue to receive 60 minutes of support in the general education setting during reading, writing, and math to help facilitate accommodations, modifications, and promote independence. [The student] will continue to utilize manipulatives (i.e. hundreds chart, multiplication chart, fraction strips) during math. [The student will] begin receiving math instruction in the special education setting and will no longer utilize the "MyPath" program within iReady." In addition, the IEP team increased the student's accommodations from those in the IEP dated April 24, 2024, which were largely continued with some rewording and to specify detail, to add reduced homework assignments at teacher discretion, using audio along with reading, a quiet environment for reading, extended time for assignments, frequent checks for understanding on multi step assignments, and to provide a copy of notes. The testing accommodations were expanded to include testing in a noncompetitive situation, text to speech directions and test items, extended time, text to speech math diagnostic, and text to speech classroom accommodations.

The district provided PWN dated February 3, 2025, regarding the IEP amendment dated January 24, 2025. Along with other changes to the IEP, the district modified the student's access to text-to-speech for assignments in the general education classroom, "unless it would invalidate the construct of the assignment or assessment or measure." In the explanation of actions proposed or refused, the PWN stated: "The District proposes to modify the following assessment accommodation: text-to-speech for directions and test items. This modification is proposed to reflect the allowable accommodations on classroom, district, and state testing."

The parents replied in an email dated February 11, 2025, that the district had not accurately recorded their concerns and that their specific requests made in the January 24, 2025, meeting, which they believed were agreed upon in the meeting, had been changed in the PWN's proposed actions. The district prepared a chart of the parent's requests and their responses, and a special education administrator met with the parent on February 28, 2025, to review each request and response, which resulted in a revised IEP amendment dated March 7, 2025, with two associated PWNs. The district and the parent remained in discussion regarding the proposed IEP amendments during the investigation period and the parent did not sign consent to for the proposed IEP amendments with material changes in services, dated January 24, 2025, or March 7, 2025. This is further discussed as part of ISSUE 3.

Special Education Services and Paraprofessional Support in General Education Class

The district reported and a contact log provided by the district showed that the special education in the special education classroom was provided for 30 minutes each day school was in session, except on February 24, 2025. According to the district, the parent was notified, and the district submitted documentation that the 30 minutes were provided by pulling the student from a general education activity time on February 27, 2025, to make up the services. The parent reported in an email to the investigator that she believed there were two days when services were not provided, February 21 and February 24, 2025, and that the student reported to the parent that the teacher had not made up the time on February 27, 2025. The contact log showed that a paraprofessional provided the make-up session rather than the teacher.

To examine classroom special education services, the investigator asked the district to provide the schedule for paraprofessionals assigned to the student's classroom. The district provided the paraprofessional absence schedule and the paraprofessional classroom assignments when one or more paraprofessionals were absent, dated August 13, 2024, through March 7, 2025. Through December 5, 2024, the school was considered fully staffed with four paraprofessionals, providing the student's classroom with 105 minutes of special education support. With three paras present, the classroom had 60 minutes of special education support.

After December 5, 2024, through March 7, 2025, the schedule showed that when the fifth para was added the student's classroom had 120 minutes of paraprofessional support and when four paras were present, the student's classroom had 130 minutes of paraprofessional support. When three paras were present, the student's classroom had 55 minutes of special education support.

Four para schedule. From August 13, 2024, through December 5, 2024, the records showed that there were 16 full days and one partial day when 3 paraprofessionals were present. On these 17 days, the student's classroom had 60 minutes of paraprofessional support assigned. In addition, there was 1 partial day when three paras were present, and on this day, no special education support was present in the classroom (November 1, 2024). On three days (September 3, 6, and 9, 2024), there were only 2 paraprofessionals present, and on these days, the student's classroom had no special education paraprofessional support. On the remaining school days, all four paras were present and provided 105 minutes of support to the student's classroom.

Five para schedule. After December 5, 2024, through March 7, 2025, the schedule showed that the student's classroom had four (or five) paraprofessionals present for 24 days when one para was absent for a full (or partial) day. On three days, there were three paras present. On two days, there were four paras present, except for 23 minutes on February 21, 2025, and 45 minutes on February 4, 2025, neither of which affected the student's classroom.

In summary, from August 13, 2024, through March 7, 2025, the schedule showed that when paras were absent, the student's classroom had no special education support on 4 days, 60 minutes on 18 days, 55 minutes on 3 days, and 120 or 130 minutes on 30 days. On the remaining days of the school schedule, the student's classroom had 105 minutes of support through December 5, 2024, and 120 minutes after the district added a fifth para to the school's staff.

When asked, the parent reported that she had not been told that staffing shortages caused missed service time for her child, and she replied that she had not been told that by the district. In an interview, the general education teacher stated that when paraprofessional support was absent in the classroom, he adjusted instructional activities (such as not giving a test that would need to be read aloud) and he provided accommodations for the student as they were required by the adjusted instructional schedule. When asked directly if the student missed accommodations due to staff absences, he stated that she received her accommodations in his classroom in this situation.

In an email dated March 6, 2025, to the investigator, the principal explained the school's response to providing special education services in general education classes when special education paraprofessionals were absent: "Our focus is always on making sure the accommodations on the IEP are provided by an adult in the general education classroom. These can be provided by a special education teacher, para, or when necessary, a general education teacher. During the three days where paraprofessional support was not scheduled

[in September], the special education team reviewed student needs with the teacher and made sure those accommodations would be provided during the short time additional coverage wasn't available. This results in the teacher supporting short term the responsibility of accommodations and providing access to the general education curriculum in the classroom in the absence of the para.

Interviews with the general education teacher for the first semester of 2024-25 and the special education teacher found that the district reported that the student's specific accommodations were implemented in the general education classroom. According to these interviews, the student volunteered but was not required to participate in Readers Theater; spelling test corrections of concern to the parent were seen by the district as feedback on spelling development, and spelling errors were not graded as part of writing assignments for the student; and the student had been given a choice to leave the general education classroom or sit with the teacher in a small group as a quiet noncompetitive testing option. The district reported in its response that each of these accommodations were discussed and further clarified at the IEP meeting dated January 24, 2025, to alleviate any misunderstandings and to respond to parental requests.

Conclusion

In summary, the district provided a contact log that showed that the student received special education services in the special education classroom as required by the IEP dated April 24, 2024. Evidence showed that the district implemented the student's accommodations in the general education classroom, including those of special concern to the parent as expressed in the January 16, 2025, email to the district and at the January 24, 2025, IEP meeting. Further, progress monitoring of the student's IEP goals and related academic testing showed that the student made progress in the areas addressed by the IEP.

Also, the district provided special education staff in the general education classroom to provide special education services to the student. While staff absences affected the amount of special education staff in the classroom, the district had a systematic plan in place to provide prioritized paraprofessional support in the form of the two-, three-, and four- paraprofessional classroom schedules. Further, the district had an articulated policy on how to maintain the student's accommodations and access to the general education curriculum when support was lacking, including accommodations being offered by the general education teacher, who wisely also amended the student's instructional program on days when staffing affected the classroom. The district administrators demonstrated attention to the needs of this student and others when short term staff shortages occurred, and the district added an additional staff person to provide special education services by the end of the first semester. Based on the foregoing, it is found that USD#229 implemented the student's IEP by providing special education services, accommodations or other requirements of the student's IEP and the district is in compliance.

Issue Two

Did the district meet the IEP team in response to the parent's concern voiced at the October 2024, parent teacher conferences and the student's lack of progress in mathematics with the current IEP?

Applicable Law

Federal/State statutes and regulations at C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) and KSA 72-3429(f) state that each agency shall ensure that the IEP team reviews the child's IEP periodically but not less than annually to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved; and revises the IEP, as appropriate, to address: Any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum, where appropriate; the results of any reevaluation conducted under this section; information about the child provided by the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or (E) other matters. The Kansas Special Education Process Handbook states: "Although the school is responsible for determining when it is necessary to conduct an IEP meeting, the parents of a child with an exceptionality have the right to request an IEP meeting at any time. The child's teacher or other school staff may also propose an IEP meeting at any time they feel the IEP has become inappropriate for the child and revision should be considered (K.S.A. 72-3429(f))."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The parents alleged that their concerns about the student's mathematics performance were raised at a parent teacher conference in October 2024, with the classroom and special education teachers. At this time, the parent alleged that the district stated that the school did not provide special education support in mathematics. The parent alleged that the teachers stated that they would monitor the student's progress and performance in mathematics and that they dismissed her concerns. The parent alleged that the student's mathematics performance dropped precipitously from the beginning to the end of the fall, 2024 semester and alleged that the district failed to act and provide support during this period of time.

The district responded that: "While parents shared concerns about math achievement during the general education, October 2024 parent/teacher conference, the data available at that time did not indicate any level of special education intervention, nor did the parents request an IEP meeting." The district further reported that the student's August 21, 2024, IReady scores showed that the student scored at the third grade level at the beginning of the 4th grade year, which is expected performance for a fourth grade student and in the 57th percentile nationally. The district reported that such students are "well- positioned for grade-level instruction, though, differentiation is likely needed in certain domains." The district responded that when the student's December 2024 math scores showed one subdomain at two years below grade level, a general education tier 2 intervention was begun in mid-January 2025, and that the student's need for special education services was discussed at the January 24, 2025, IEP meeting.

Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the parent and staff in USD #229.

The IEP developed at the end of the student's third grade year, dated April 24, 2024, stated that the student did well in math and listed the following academic achievement tests as evidence: iReady Winter Diagnostic Overall Grade 2; Number & Operations: Early Grade 3; Algebra & Algebraic Thinking: Grade; Measurement & Data: Early Grade 3; Geometry: Grade 2; and Nationally placed at the 52nd percentile. The IEP did not include a goal or services in mathematics. The IEP included math accommodations.

The district reported and the student's Fall iReady Diagnostic Assessment (August 21, 2024) showed that the student scored 450 in the 57th percentile nationally, with math domain scores as follows: Numbers and Operations: 442, grade 3, one grade level below; Algebra and Algebraic Thinking: 435, grade 3, one grade level below; Measurement and Data: 456, grade 3, one grade Geometry: 475, early grade 4, on grade level. In its response, the district reported that the student's test data "did not indicate a need for special education services" at the time of the October 2024, parent teacher conferences, nor did the student qualify for Tier 2 general education interventions based on her test scores.

At the October 2024, parent teacher conference, according to interviews and the district response, the parent raised a concern about the student's mathematics performance. The parent and the district agree that the student's mathematics performance was discussed at the parent teacher conference. The district and the parent agreed that the parent did not ask for an IEP meeting at that time. The parent reported in an interview that the district assured her that the student's mathematics performance would be monitored. According to interviews, the parent believed that the case manager told her that the school did not offer mathematics support, while the district reported that the case manager communicated that the student did not have mathematics support on her IEP at the time. According to the district response, regarding the parent teacher conference in October 2024, the case manager reported: "[The] parents expressed that math was a concern after looking at the Fall iReady Diagnostic score. They did not mention anything specific about math that was a challenge. I believed they wanted to know that she is using manipulatives while completing assignments. We discussed how we will continue to support [the student] through routine checks on work and small group instruction in the classroom. They (parents) did not request an IEP meeting to discuss math concerns. We shared that we will let them know if we see any regression or particularly difficult lessons/concepts."

The district reported and student Winter iReady Diagnostic Assessment (December 11, 2024) scores showed that the student had a decrease in performance to a score of 439 at the 28th percentile, with domain scores of "Numbers and Operations: 442, grade 3, one grade level below (remained the same from fall); Algebra and Algebraic Thinking: 449, grade 3, one grade level below (increased from fall); Measurement and Data: 456, grade 3, one grade (decreased from fall); Geometry: 421, grade 2, two grade levels below (decreased from fall)." The district reported that based on the geometry score, the student qualified for MyPath, a Tier 2 general education intervention, and began lessons on January 17, 2024, completing 3 lessons at 100% accuracy each.

The district reported and IEP meeting documents dated January 24, 2025, submitted by the parents and the district showed that the parents requested that the student be excluded from MyPath and receive direct special education services in mathematics. At the IEP team meeting dated January 24, 2025, the school team members agreed to this request and the draft IEP dated January 24, 2025, showed a new goal and service in mathematics.

Conclusion

In this case, the parent and the teachers discussed the student's math performance at the October parent teacher conference. At that time, the student's beginning of the year quarterly test scores did not indicate a need for special education or additional general education intervention, nor did the IEP dated April 24, 2024, include a math goal or special education services in math. It is noted that the parent may have anticipated emergent math needs that subsequently became evident on district's quarterly iReady monitoring December 12, 2024. When the student's math scores dropped, the district responded to implement a general education tier 2 intervention by mid-January 2025. An IEP team meeting was held January 24, 2024, and a mathematics goal and special education services were added to the proposed IEP resulting from that meeting.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the district met its obligation to meet with the IEP team under C.F.R 300.324(b)(1) and there is no violation.

Issue Three

Did the district provide proper PWN in response to parental requests for accommodations or services?

Applicable Law

Parents have the right to bring questions, concerns, and recommendations to an IEP meeting for discussion (Federal Register, August 14, 2006, p. 46678; Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, p. 93). In addition, while the IEP team should work toward reaching a consensus, if the team cannot do so, the Local Education Agency (LEA) representative at the meeting has the authority to make a decision and to then provide parents with the appropriate notice and consent for the action, if consent is required.

According to K.S.A 72-3430(b)(2) a procedural safeguard afforded to parents is the Prior Written Notice for certain proposed special education actions. The Prior Written Notice documents a description of the action proposed or refused by the district. It is required when the district proposes to initiate or change, or refuses to initiate or change, the identification, evaluation, placement, or provision of FAPE to a child. This requirement is triggered regardless of whether it is the school or the parent who is initiating the request.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE (free appropriate public education) to a child who has or is suspected of having a disability. State regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3) require school districts to obtain parent consent before making a material change in services or a substantial change in placement.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The parents alleged that they provided a list of their concerns prior to and in the January 24, 2025, IEP meeting, and that the discussion in the meeting appeared that the school members of the IEP team were in concord with their positions. The parents alleged that following the team meeting they received an IEP amendment and prior written notice that did not align with the discussion in the IEP meeting. Further, in reviewing a previous PWN from April 24, 2024, the parent alleged a discrepancy in what was discussed in the meeting and the subsequent PWN provided by the district.

The district responded that "the schools members of the IEP team provided the PWN February 4, 2025 in good faith based on: our understanding of the parent requests from January 24, 2025; information provided to the parents at the IEP meeting; modifications that were necessary to comply with IDEA Sec 300.160 Participation in assessments; and new requirements of the Kansas Assessment Program (KAP) for Reading that does not allow text to speech to be used on the test section that measures 'decoding' (reading) because 'text to speech' would invalidate the test."

The district's response to the complaint on February 19, 2025, continued that, "After reviewing the PWN, the parents responded with two emails on February 11th "...requesting clarification and possible revisions" to the IEP amendment and PWN. The school team is currently working on responding to the parents' questions and concerns. Given weekends and the days school was not in session due to weather and conferences (February 12, 14, 17, 18, 19, or 20), there was only one school day between the school receiving parents' requests and the filing of 25FC229-003. The team is currently working on a PWN that will provide a written response to all of the requests for clarification and modification included in the two February 11th emails. We plan to complete this response within 10 days that will address all questions/concerns including any that the parent's perceive were not addressed in the original PWN."

Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One and Issue Two are incorporated herein by reference.

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the parent and staff in USD #229.

The parent reported that the conversation in the April 24, 2024, IEP meeting did not include discussion of new IEP goals. The IEP meeting notes dated April 24, 2024, provided by the district as evidence said only this about the discussion: "Parent wanted [the student" to continue to have access to math manipulatives instead of relying on rote memory," and "[the student] has made good progress in 3rd grade and the team celebrated her growth, especially in reading."

The district provided PWN dated April 24, 2024, to make changes to the student's IEP of the same date with this explanation: "Any additions, changes or modifications to the special education and related services or educational placement that are needed to enable your child to meet the measurable annual goals set in the IEP and to participate, as appropriate, in the general curriculum." Changes proposed were for new reading and writing goals, "as [the student] continues to need direct, individualized instruction in both areas." Parental consent was not requested or provided for these changes.

The parent reported that testing accommodations were changed from the student's IEP dated May 1, 2023, to the IEP dated April 24, 2024, and that these changes were omitted from the April 24, 2024, PWN. In both IEPs, the testing accommodations were to take tests in quiet noncompetitive environments and text to speech for directions and test items.

The parent provided a list of concerns prior to the January 24, 2025, IEP meeting that included a concern regarding the student's speech and its deleterious effect on the student's reading performance. She requested a copy of the student's speech and language evaluation that she believed was conducted at her request in 2022.

The parent reported that she was informed by the special education administrator that the speech language evaluation was not completed in 2022. In notes of a phone call on February 4, 2025, between the parent, the principal and the school administrator, the district offered to provide immediate screening, observation and teacher questionnaire conducted by the speech and language pathologist, with the options to proceed immediately to a speech language evaluation or to include speech language as part of the student's upcoming triennial evaluation, due May 10, 2025.

In an email dated February 11, 2025 to the district, the parent stated disagreement with aspects of the PWN dated February 3, 2025, including: the attendance page, the nature of the math goals, inaccuracy of parent concerns recorded with a restatement of their concerns, and specific aspects of the following nine accommodations on the proposed IEP amendment dated January 24, 2025: (a) Text-to-Speech & Keyboard Usage for Writing Assignments, (b) Extended Time for Reading Assignments & Assessments, (c) Quiet Environment for Reading When Audio Versions Are Unavailable, (d) Spell Checker for Written/Typed Work, (e) Pre-Written Notes for Lessons Requiring Board Copying, (f) Grading Based on Content Rather Than Spelling or Form, (g) Frequent Accuracy Checks for Multi-Step Assignments, (h) Parent Discretion to Modify Homework Without Repercussions, and (i) Extended Time for All Tests & Assessments (Testing Page).

The district elaborated in its response, stating: "During the January 24th IEP meeting, parents provided a list of requested changes to the IEP. We were able to agree to some of these verbally during the meeting, but others needed more time to consider the facts and legal requirements. It appears that in some cases, the parents viewed not verbally objecting as agreement with their proposals. We did not feel the need to object to every area of concern as the parents stated in writing that they wanted the response in the form of a PWN."

The special education administrator met with the parent on February 28, 2025, to provide detailed information on accommodation and other aspects of the IEP amendment to address the parent's concerns. On March 7, 2025, the special education administrator sent an email to the parent that attached (a) an IEP amendment dated March 7, 2025 revised in response to February 11 and 28, 2025 parent concerns and input, (b) two Prior Written Notices for the IEP Amendment formatted as requested by the parent (a PWN for the items that do not require consent dated March 3, 2025 and a second PWN for the items that do require consent that indicate the items or parts of items that were accepted and rejected and why, dated March 4, 2025), (c) a Working Document the district team used to respond to parent requests and revised based on ongoing input, including a chart with changes, (d) The PWN-E for evaluation and consent dated March 6, 2025 for [the student's] three-year reevaluation to share a proposed evaluation plan and seek input, and (e) an additional copy of the parent rights document.

The Working Document included the original language of the IEP amendment dated January 24, 2025, the parent concerns from their email dated February 11, 2025, the districts proposed revisions or the district's acceptance/rejection/rationale statement for each concern, and the proposed revisions following the February 28, 2025, meeting including parent input. In addition to the nine accommodations listed above, the Working Document included similar discussions of the student's (revised) math goal, a summary of the other accommodations that did not require further revisions, updated present levels of performance in reading and math requested by the parent, revised reading goals, and the revised statement of parental concerns and how these were addressed by the district.

The revised IEP amendment dated March 7, 2025, summarized the process and changes in this way: "*After the IEP meeting on 1/24/25 an IEP Amendment was developed and sent on 2/3/25. It included the following changes: -Updated PLAAFP in the area of math -Addition of math services for 30 minutes daily -Addition of math goal -Updated parent concerns and how team is addressing parent concerns -Updated classroom and assessment accommodations. *After further input from parents on 2/11/25 and 2/28/25 additional changes were made to the IEP Amendment on 3/7/25: -Updated staff members in attendance for 1/24/25 IEP meeting - attendance reflects the presence of team members on 1/24/25 -Additional data in the area of math, reading and spelling in PLAAFP and baseline -Updated parent concerns and how team is addressing parent concerns -Updated classroom and assessment accommodations after input provided by IEP team, including parents -Updated Specially Designed Instruction section after input provided by IEP team, including parents."

As requested by the parent, the district provided two associated PWNs, one requiring parental consent for material changes in services dated March 4, 2025, and one with revisions that did not require consent, dated March 3, 2025. Parental consent was not sought for changes to the IEP based on the IEP team meeting on January 24, 2025, for the following district proposals: to add a math goal, modify current reading and spelling goals, update present levels of functioning, update parental concerns, and to excuse the student from participating in MyPath within the IReady curriculum. The district proposed to reject the parent's request to have special education services provided by a reading specialist in this PWN. The PWN included the rationales for accepting or rejecting changes, other options considered, and evidence used for decision making.

The second PWN dated March 4, 2025, for changes to the IEP sought parental consent for changes to the IEP noting a material change in services. This PWN stated, "The District proposes to revise or expand upon existing accommodations from the IEP dated April 24th, 2024. Each accommodation now indicates the accommodation, rationale, location, frequency, and duration, a new IEP system update, which was not included in the previous IEP. An amendment was sent on February 3rd, 2025. Revisions were made based on parent feedback received on February 11th, 2025, and February 28th, 2025." The district proposed to revise 7 previous accommodations. Similarly, the district proposed to add 8 accommodations based on the same IEP meeting and other communication with the parent. Finally, the district stated: "The District proposes to reject the following accommodation based on further team discussion after the IEP meeting on January 24th, 2025. The team considered parent feedback received on February 11th, 2025, and also discussed this further during a meeting on February 28th, 2025. 1. Reject "Allow access to a spell checker for all written and typed assignments and assessments to support [the student's] spelling needs" 2. Remove "Text-to-Speech directions/test items" for the ELA KAP Assessment." The PWN proposed to increase special education services in the special education classroom from 30 minutes to 60 minutes daily to add math services. The PWN included the rationales for accepting or rejecting changes, other options considered, and evidence used for decision making.

Conclusion

Regarding the PWN provided on April 24, 2024, it is found that the district provided PWN to the parent on a change to the IEP that did not require parental consent. It cannot be determined if these changes were discussed in detail at the meeting based on the evidence available. There is no violation found with this PWN.

In this case, the parent expressed concern that the district's PWN did not agree with the parent's perception of the events of the January 24, 2025, IEP meeting. The district in response reported that further consideration was required for some of the requests made by the parents before the February 3, 2025, PWN was provided.

Following the January 24, 2025, IEP meeting, the district provided PWN dated February 3, 2025, to the parent asking for consent for material changes in services, adding a math goal and 30 minutes of direct special education services in special education, removing the KAP-disallowed test accommodation, and adding or amending accommodations. In response to the email dated February 11, 2025, of parental concerns with the PWN, the district met with the parents February 28, 2025, to review detailed information regarding their concerns with the proposed IEP amendment's contents. The district again revised the IEP amendment now dated March 7, 2025, and provided associated PWNs dated to the parents showing changes that required parental consent and those that did not. The district provided supporting documents clearly showing the IEP process and changes to the parent and the investigation. It is noted that the parent and the district continue to work extensively together toward reaching agreement through the IEP process.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the district provided proper PWN in response to parental requests for accommodations or services and there is no violation.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 229,
Blue Valley Public Schools: 25FC229-003

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on February 17, 2025, by ---------, on behalf of their child, ---------. In the remainder of this decision, --------- will be referred to as "the parents," and --------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on March 14, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there were no violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the parents filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed, and it reviewed the original complaint, the Complaint Report, the parents' notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

From Complaintant

The report identified three issues:

1. ISSUE ONE: Did USD #229 implement the student's IEP by providing special education services, accommodations or other requirements of the student's IEP? (page 6)
2. ISSUE TWO: Did the district meet the IEP team in response to the parents' concern voiced at the October 2024 parent teacher conferences and the student's lack of progress in mathematics with the current IEP? (page 14)
3. ISSUE THREE: Did the district provide proper PWN in response to parental requests for accommodations or services? (page 18)

The parents appeal the findings and conclusion of the investigator on each of the three issues. The Appeal Committee has addressed the issues separately, below.

Issue One

Did USD #229 implement the student's IEP by providing special education services, accommodations or other requirements of the student's IEP?

The investigator concluded that the district did implement the student's IEP by providing special education services, accommodations or other requirements of the student's IEP (report, p. 14). This conclusion was based on:

- A contact log showing that the student received services as required by her April 24, 2025 IEP;
- Interviews with school staff members;
- Use of a "systematic plan" to provide paraprofessional support in the form of two, three and four paraprofessional classroom schedules;
- Use of accommodations provided by general education classroom teachers; and
- Use of additional staff members when staff shortages occurred. (Report, p. 14)

The parents' appeal of this issue is divided into three "subsections" listed as Subsection A, Subsection B, and Subsection C. the Appeal Committee will address each subsection separately.

Subsection A

The parents assert that the district failed to implement "direct" services as specified in the student's IEP by using paraeducators to provide a portion of those services, and thereby implementing a material change of services without IEP Team consideration, prior written notice, parent consent, or least restrictive environment (LRE) concerns.

The basis for the parents' assertions in Subsection A is that: "Per federal and state guidance, paraprofessionals *may assist under supervisio*n but may not independently deliver SDI or substitute for credentialed special educators (Notice of Appeal, p. 5)."

The Appeal Committee disagrees with this assertion.

The applicable law regarding the use of paraprofessionals in providing special education and related services is in federal regulation 34 C.F.R. 300.156(b)(2)(iii), which states:

> (b) Related services personnel and paraprofessionals. The qualifications under paragraph (a) of this section must include qualifications for related services personnel and paraprofessionals that--
> (iii) Allow paraprofessionals and assistants who are appropriately trained and supervised, in accordance with State law, regulation, or written policy, in meeting the requirements of this part to be used to assist in the provision of special education and related services under this part to children with disabilities. (Emphasis added).

Whether described in an IEP as a "direct service," or otherwise, this federal regulation permits paraprofessionals who are appropriately trained and supervised, in accordance with state written law or policy to assist in the provision of special education and related services. There is nothing in this regulation that prohibits such assistance from being independently delivered by a paraprofessional or other assistant, as long as the assistance is in accord with state law or written policy.

Kansas policy describing the use of paraprofessionals is stated in the Kansas Special Education Reimbursement Guide (KSERG), and includes the following:

> Paraeducators provide instructional or related services under the supervision of licensed or certified special education professionals in an accredited or approved special education program. Examples of allowable activities include: • instructional support under the supervision of a professional; • participation in IEP meetings; • parent-teacher conferences; • staff development; and • student data collection and record-keeping, such as maintaining observational and anecdotal records;. • assisting the special teacher with paperwork related to support provided to students with exceptionalities for whom the para is responsible; • supporting students with exceptionalities in a general education program if the paraeducator is supervised by a special teacher. (KSERG, P. 27, emphasis added).

There are specified limits:

> Paraeducators must not be: • Responsible for selecting or administering formal diagnostic or psychological instruments or for interpreting the results of those instruments; • Responsible for selecting, programming, or prescribing educational activities or materials for the students without the supervision and guidance of the special teacher; • Solely responsible for preparing lesson plans > or initiating original concept instruction; • Assigned to implement the IEP for students with exceptionalities without direct supervision and involvement from the professional; • Employed in lieu of certified or licensed special education personnel. Staff claimed as paraeducators but employed as professionals to avoid licensing issues will not be reimbursed; • Used as substitute teachers, unless paraeducators possess the appropriate Kansas license; • Performing nursing procedures or administering medications without appropriate supervision/training from an approved health care professional. (KSERG, p. 27).

The supervision requirement is described as follows:

> Unless otherwise indicated, instructional paraeducators must be directly supervised a minimum of 10% of the time they are working with students (emphasis added). (KSERG, p. 29).

Accordingly, although there are limits, paraprofessionals in Kansas are authorized to provide a wide range of direct IEP services to children with disabilities, provided that they are directly supervised at least 10% of the time they are working with a student. No evidence has been presented to the Appeal Committee that paraprofessionals providing direct services to this student were not supervised in accordance with the Kansas Special Education Reimbursement Guide.

Subsection B

(Notice of Appeal p. 6-7) asserts that there were "multiple failures to provide mandated services and to accurately report or notify parents about changes in service delivery."

Subsection B asserts that the parents were not notified of missed services on February 21 and February 24 or how those services would be made up, that the cumulative reduction in services over these dates exceeded 25% (constituting a material change in services that required consent, not provided by the parents) and that special education services were provided by a general education teacher.

A material change in services means, "an increase or decrease of 25 percent or more of the duration or frequency of a special education service, related service, or supplementary aid or service specified on the IEP of an exceptional child (K.A.R. 91-40-1(mm). This increase or decrease means the IEP has been changed to increase or decrease the frequency or duration of a service over the time-period of the IEP, not over the time period of a single service. The Appeal Committee finds that the parents failed to provide sufficient information in this appeal as to how missed services on February 21 and February 24 (if correct) constituted a material change in services that required consent or a PWN.

The Appeal Committee also finds that the Notice of Appeal does not explain why a change in service delivery (presumably due to a change in service providers) requires a prior written notice. The Appeal Committee has already addressed the issue of using paraprofessionals to deliver direct special education and related services in Subsection A, but re-states here that changes of personnel who are qualified to provide services does not constitute a change of services. A change in the delivery or educational methodology of services (when, as here, the delivery or educational methodology is not specified in the IEP) is not a change in the frequency or duration of any service and so does not require a PWN or consent.

Finally, a failure to provide services in an IEP does not, by itself, change the IEP or require a PWN. A missed service may be a failure to implement the IEP, but failing to implement the IEP is not the same thing as changing the IEP (which would require a PWN). With regard to implementation of an IEP, not every failure to implement an IEP is a failure to provide a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE). The Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) is the office in the United States Department of Education that both writes and enforces the federal special education regulations. OSEP has issued guidance stating that the IDEA statute and regulations do not address whether a school district must make up for missed services. That guidance advised that whether a missed service needs to be made up is a matter of FAPE and must be addressed on a case by case basis with emphasis on the impact of the missed service on the child's ability to continue to progress and meet the annual goals in the IEP (See, Letter to Clarke, 48 IDELR 77 (OSEP 2007)).

The courts that have considered the impact of missed services agree that an IEP implementation failure must be material to be actionable. See, Abigail P. v. Old Forge School District, 124 LRP 21769 (3d. Cir. 2024), joining the 4th, 5th, 8th, 9th, and 11th Circuits, saying: "Several of our sister courts have held that "a party challenging the implementation of an IEP must show more than a de minimis failure to implement all elements of that IEP, and, instead, must demonstrate that the school board or other authorities failed to implement substantial or significant provisions of the IEP." This court went on to explain that perfection is not the standard for implementation of an IEP, and that "a requirement of perfect adherence would ignore the realities and the challenges that the IDEA was built to accommodate…A materiality standard affords local agencies some flexibility while still holding those agencies accountable for material failures and for providing the disabled a meaningful education benefit."

The Appeal Committee finds that the evidence does not support the parents' contention that there was a material failure to implement the student's IEP or that the district failed to provide a required PWN.

Subsection C

This subsection of issue 1 is stated as: "Misapplication of IEP accommodation and Misrepresentations."

The Appeal Committee first addresses the "misrepresentations" portion of this subsection. The parents state that the investigator "relied solely on district accounts and failed to fully represent parent statements submitted during interviews and in documentation." The Appeal Committee finds no basis for that assertion in either the report or the parents' appeal.

The report shows that the investigator used information from the parent to conduct a comprehensive investigation into this issue. Most of the report dealing with this issue describes the district's responses to the investigator's inquiries. That is typical for these kind of reports where an investigator is tasked with substantiating allegations made against the district. That investigative technique does not indicate that the investigator "relied solely" on district accounts. Moreover, these reports are not intended to be exhaustive to the extent that they "fully represent parent statements submitted during interviews and in documentation." That kind of procedure would require the same application to statements of school officials and result in unnecessarily long and difficult to read reports that include significant amounts of irrelevant information. Instead, investigators are trained to identify in the report only the pertinent facts needed to explain and support their conclusions.

As for the "Misapplication of IEP accommodation"' portion of this subsection, the Appeal Committee agrees that there is evidence that the student's IEP may not have been perfectly implemented. However, as already addressed above, perfect implementation is not required, and there is no showing of a material failure to implement the IEP.

Finally, the complaint report states that: "progress monitoring of the student's IEP goals and related academic testing showed that the student made progress in the areas addressed by the IEP," thus meeting the FAPE standard articulated by both OSEP and the 3rd Circuit, cited in Subsection B. (Report, p. 7), and finding that December 10, 2024 progress reports showed the May 5, 2023 goals in reading and writing were met with percentages at 80% and 90% (Report, p. 8).

For the reasons stated above, the conclusion in Issue 1 of the report is sustained in full.

Issue Two

> Did the district meet the IEP team in response to the parent's concern voiced at the October 2024 parent teacher conferences and the student's lack of progress in mathematics with the current IEP? (page 14)

This issue is awkwardly stated, but alleges that the district failed to convene an IEP meeting in response to concerns of the parents and the student's lack of progress in math. This involves several undisputed facts, including:

- The parents voiced concerns at an October, 2024, Parent/Teacher conference regarding the student's lack of progress in mathematics;
- The parents did not ask for an IEP meeting at that time;
- District personnel indicated they would conduct routine checks and report any noted regression to parents; and
- No IEP team meeting was held to address this concern until three months later, on January 24, 2025, at which a math goal and service were added to the IEP.

The investigator found no violation because the investigator judged the quarterly test scores, at the time of that Parent/Teacher conference, did not indicate a need for special education nor for additional general education intervention (Report, p. 17).

Subsection A

This subsection of the of the parents' appeal cites statutes and regulations requiring school districts to revise an IEP to address a lack of student progress based on information provided by parents, specifically 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) and K.S.A. 72-3429(f).

Subsection A omits important language in both the cited federal regulation and Kansas statute. Both 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) and K.S.A. 72-3429(f) require an IEP team to revise the IEP, as appropriate, to address information provided by parents. These provisions involve the use of judgment in determining whether an IEP needs to be revised, and do not require IEP teams to revise IEPs whenever a parent requests a revision or brings up a concern.

The investigator included, in her findings, that the October, 2024 meeting was a parent–teacher conference. At that parent–teacher conference the parents expressed concern about the student's mathematics performance (Report, p. 16). The report also noted that the parents and school officials agreed that the parents did not ask for an IEP meeting at that time (Report, p. 16). In addition, the investigator reviewed the student's Fall iReady Diagnostic Assessment (dated August 21, 2024), saying it, "showed that the student scored 450 in the 57th percentile nationally, with math domain scores as follows: Numbers and Operations: 442, grade 3, one grade level below; Algebra and Algebraic Thinking: 435, grade 3, one grade level below; Measurement and Data: 456, grade 3, one grade Geometry: 475, early grade 4, on grade level." (Report, p. 16), and, based on these scores, in the judgement of school officials, the student did not need special education services nor Tier 2 general education interventions in math.

The investigator concluded that, at the time of the October parent–teacher conference, "the student's beginning of the year quarterly test scores did not indicate a need for special education or additional general education intervention." (Report, p. 17).

Parties sometimes, as here, disagree with how data should be interpreted. As noted in the "Preliminary Matters" portion of this decision, the Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation, but instead, determines whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee agrees that the evidence (see paragraph immediately above) supports the conclusion by the investigator that, under these facts, the district was not compelled by law to convene an IEP meeting or revise the student's IEP.

Subsection B

This subsection alleges a violation of "child find" requirements. While the law uses the term "child find," there is no definition for the term "child find" in the law. These "child find" provisions, requiring the evaluation and identification of children who may have a disability and be in need of specially designed instruction, apply to unidentified children, not those, such as this student, who have already been identified as eligible for special education. This student has had an IEP in place since at least May of 2022 (Report, p. 5). Accordingly, these "child find" requirements have no application to this student.

The pertinent Federal regulation is 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b), which requires public schools to review and revise IEPs at least annually and as appropriate to address: "any lack of expected progress toward annual IEP goals (Emphasis added)." The Appeal Committee's finding in Subsection A of this issue applies equally to this subsection. The evidence supports the conclusion by the investigator that, under the facts presented, where significant progress was made toward the student's IEP goals and math deficits were not yet apparent, the district was not compelled by law to convene an IEP meeting or to revise the student's IEP.

The conclusions of the investigator on this issue are sustained in full.

Issue Three

Did the district provide proper PWN in response to parental requests for accommodations or services?

Subsection A

This subsection addresses alleged violations within the PWN provided after the April 24, 2024 annual IEP meeting (dated 4/24/2024) and the February 4, 2025 PWN following the emergency IEP meeting on January 24, 2025.

With regard to the April 24, 2024 meeting, the parents' appeal states: "Following the April 24, 2024 IEP meeting, the IEP removed language regarding accommodations for district assessments, limiting them to state assessments only. This change was not discussed in the meeting and not disclosed in the April PWN (Appeal, p. 16)."

The parents do not explain in this appeal precisely what language was removed from the previous IEP. The Appeal Committee reviewed the IEPs dated 5/1/23 and 4/24/24. Under the title: "Supplementary Aids and Services (Accommodations and Modifications)," the IEPs are identical. Both IEPs allow accommodations, including Text to Speech, on both state and district level assessments. On page 9 of 13, both IEPs say: "Does the student require Accommodations/Modifications for Assessments"? The "yes" box is checked on both. On page 10 of both IEPs, under the heading of "Participation in Statewide Assessments," both IEPs state that "Text to Speech" is permitted for Mathematics and Englash Language Arts (ELA). A plain reading of these identical provisions cannot be interpreted to mean that Text to Speech, or any specific testing accommodations in the IEP, are limited to only state assessments.

With regard to the January 24, 2025 meeting, the district provided a PWN dated February 3, 2025, to the parents asking for consent for material changes in services, including the removal of the Text-to-Speech test accommodation for the ELA KAP assessment. The parents did not give the requested consent. The parties met again on February 28, 2025 and the district issued another PWN, dated March 7, 2025, again requesting consent for removal of the Text-to-Speech test accommodation for the ELA KAP assessment. The parents did not give the necessary consent. These exchanges clearly indicate that neither party believed the district had already removed the Text-to-Speech test accommodation for the ELA KAP assessment from the IEP.

The investigator concluded, as follows: "The district provided all supporting documents to the investigator, who found that the documents, "clearly" showed that the IEP revision process was continuing (Report, p. 24). The Appeal Committee agrees with the investigator. The Appeal Committee finds that this exchange was, and is, an on-going process that has not yet reached a conclusion. It is, therefore, still in the proposal stage. As of the date this complaint was filed, the student's IEP was not changed with regard to this Text to Speech testing accommodation.

Subsection A of this issue also includes the following allegations:

- The February 4, 2025 PWN, which followed the January emergency IEP meeting:
    - Omitted two accommodations previously listed in the student's IEP.
    - Altered one accommodation's language without prior discussion.
    - Excluded five new accommodations discussed and agreed upon during the IEP meeting.
    - Revised six additional accommodations in a way that diluted or contradicted their intended support.
    - Failed to accurately reflect the parents' concerns or the rationale for the changes proposed or rejected.
    - Failed to accurately account for participants in the January 24, 2025 meeting.
        - Omitted two participants who were in attendance.
        - Falsely added a participant who was not in attendance.

This portion of Subsection A lacks sufficient information for consideration on appeal. As stated in the Preliminary Matters portion of this decision, when a party submits an appeal of a complaint report and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support. The above statements do not provide any supporting information. For example, The first statement alleges that the 2/4/2025 PWN "Omitted two accommodations previously listed in the student's IEP." It does not identify what those two accommodations were, making it impossible for the Appeal Committee to review. Each of the following allegations in this portion of Subsection A have the same lack of sufficient information needed for review. As a result, the Appeal Committee finds these allegations to be without the necessary support for review.

NOTE: the parents cite M.C. v. Antelope Valley Union High School, 852 F.3d 840 (9th Cir. 2017) as ruling that "IEP changes must be mutually agreed upon and documented." The Appeal Committee agrees with the decision in that case, but finds no application to the facts in this complaint. In the Apple Valley Union High School case, school officials saw an unintentional error in the IEP and changed the IEP to correct that error, without informing the parents. That is not what happened here. Here, the school district has made multiple attempts to meet with the parents to discuss proposals to change this student's IEP. The district has not received the required consent to do so, and has not made the proposed changes to the IEP. As a result, the process continues and the school district has not changed the student's IEP where consent is needed but not obtained.

Subsection B

IEP meetings held without parent participation.

On page 17 of their appeal, the parents cite statements of school personnel, made to the investigator, and disclosed in the report, indicating that IEP issues were further considered and decisions were made by the IEP team after the January 24, 2025 IEP meeting, without participation of the parents. These statements, submitted to the investigator by school officials were recorded in the report as follows:

KSDE Report Citations:

> "The team is currently working on a PWN that will provide a written response to all of the requests for clarification and modification included in the two February 11th emails." (KSDE Report, p. 19)
>
> "We were able to agree to some of these verbally during the meeting, but others needed more time to consider the facts and legal requirements. It appears that in some cases, the parents viewed not verbally objecting as agreement with their proposals. We did not feel the need to object to every area of concern as the parents stated in writing that they wanted the response in the form of a PWN." (KSDE Report, p. 21)
>
> "The District proposes to reject the following accommodation based on further team discussion after the IEP meeting on January 24th, 2025." (KSDE Report, p. 23), (emphasis added).

> "The district in response reported that further consideration was required for some of the requests made by the parents before the February 3, 2025, PWN was provided." (KSDE Report, p. 24)

This allegation that the IEP team met without the parents to further discuss and make final decisions on the revision of the student's IEP was first alleged in this appeal. It was not an issue presented in the original complaint and so it is not subject to review on appeal. However, because this information comes from the district, itself, it is highly credible. The department has general supervision duties that obligates it to make an inquiry into highly credible allegations of a failure to comply with law, and will do so on this issue in a separate procedure. The parents will be copied on all correspondence relating to this action, including any resolution or required corrective action.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 15th day of April, 2025.

A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on February 10, 2025.

Evidence Reviewed

During the investigation, the Complaint Investigator, Nancy Thomas, reviewed all the documentation provided by both the complainant and USD #320.

Interviews were conducted with both parties. The parent was interviewed by telephone on February 15, 2025 and provided additional information and clarifications via email during the investigation.

Background Information

The student is an 11-year-old boy who is currently enrolled in in the 6th grade at Wamego Middle School in USD #320 for the 2024-25 school year. It is noted that the student transferred from an elementary school within the district at the beginning of this school year with an IEP in effect.

The student has a history of medical diagnoses of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), anxiety, and Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). His most recent neuropsychological evaluation conducted on December 31, 2024 noted diagnoses of ADHD and Disruptive Mood Regulation Disorder (DMRD).

The student was initially evaluated for special education services during the fourth grade in USD #320. At that time, he was found eligible for special education and related services due to meeting the exceptionality category of Other Health impaired. A reevaluation was conducted with additional assessment on September 30, 2025 while the student was attending Wamego Middle School. At that time, the student was found to continue to be eligible under the exceptionality category of Other Health Impaired.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, four issues were identified.

Issue One

USD #320, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to protect personally identifiable information (PII) when it shared a copy of another student's IEP with the parent on October 7, 2024.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.123 which require public agencies in the State to protect the confidentiality of any personally identifiable information collected, used, or maintained under Part B of the IDEA.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

After requesting a copy of the student's IEP, the parent alleged that the Special Education Teacher emailed her a copy of another student's IEP on October 7, 2024. The parent was concerned that she received confidential information about another student as well as was concerned that confidential information about her student had been shared with another parent.

USD #320 acknowledged the district was out of compliance with the IDEA in regards to the IDEA requirements for Issue One. The district proposed a resolution to address the noncompliance to the KSDE and the KSDE accepted the proposed corrective action plan. As such, no findings of fact will be made in this report.

Conclusion

As a result of the district's self-assessment and acknowledgement of noncompliance, USD #320 proposed a resolution to the KSDE for correcting the noncompliance. KSDE accepted the proposed corrective action plan and notified both parties on March 10, 2025.

Issue Two

USD #320, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate disciplinary procedures when suspending the student during the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.530 require specific procedures to be followed when a student with a disability or suspected of having a disability are subject to a disciplinary change of placement as a result of a violation of the student code of conduct.

Federal regulations as 34 C.F.R. 300.536(a) define a disciplinary change of placement as occurring when a student's educational placement has been changed for more than 10 consecutive school days or for more than 10 cumulative school days when a pattern exists due to disciplinary action resulting from a violation of the student code of conduct.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based upon interviews and record review.

The parent alleged the student has been suspended for more than 10 school days during this school year through a combination of out-of-school suspensions (OSS) and in-school suspensions (ISS). The parent believes these suspensions have been for behaviors that are directly related to the student's disability. The parent also reported that the School Psychologist and Principal informed her during a phone call on the morning of October 22, 2024 that a manifestation determination meeting needed to be held.

Disciplinary records show and interviews confirmed that the student received a total of five days of OSS on the following dates during the 2024-25 school year: September 9, September 10, October 3, October 4, and October 7.

Disciplinary records show and interviews confirmed that the student received a total of eight days of ISS on the following dates during the 2024-25 school year: August 21, September 4, September 5, September 6, October 31, November 1, November 20, and November 21.

The Disciplinary Log documents the behavior which resulted in the ISS and OSS included harassment, physical aggression, and noncompliance/classroom disruption.

USD #320 staff reported that the district's practice is for ISS to be served in the Adverse Child Experience (ACE) classroom under the supervision of the ISS Teacher. This is considered a general education setting as the classroom serves students both with and without disabilities. The curriculum in the ACE classroom provided by the general education teachers who consult with the ISS Teacher for providing individual instruction on each lesson and providing assignments for each assigned student. The district provided an email dated September 4, 2024 written by the Principal to all of the student's general education teachers which supported this practice.

The ISS Teacher and the Special Education Teacher indicated that whenever a student with an IEP is assigned to ISS, they meet at the beginning of the school day to plan for providing the specialized instruction and supports required by the IEP for that particular student and they meet again at lunch to monitor progress.

While no documentation was provided, the ISS Teacher and the Special Education Teacher reported that the student was provided access to the general education curriculum and received his accommodations and special education support as required by the IEP during the eight days he served in ISS during the first semester.

USD #320 staff noted and documentation showed the student has not received either ISS or OSS due to any disciplinary actions since the Thanksgiving Break in November 2024. However, the student has been sent to the office for verbal warnings and reteaching of expectations by the Principal on December 12, 2024 and January 13, 27, and 29 and February 5, 2025 for behaviors related to disrespect and use of inappropriate language and behavior.

The School Psychologist and Principal acknowledged that they mistakenly told the parent that a manifestation determination meeting needed to be held during the phone call on October 22, 2024. The Principal reported that he corrected this statement in an email to the parent later that same day and requested the parent to call him so he could explain.

Conclusion

An educational change of placement as a result of disciplinary action occurs when a student does not receive the special education and related services required by the IEP as a result of disciplinary action resulting from a violation of a student code of conduct for either more than 10 consecutive school days or 10 cumulative school days when a pattern exists.

It is noted that an educational change of placement can occur during an in-school suspension as well as during an out-of-school suspension for the purposes of 34 C.F.R. 300.530. In the Analysis of Comments and Changes accompanying the Part B regulations at 71 Fed. Reg. 46715 (Aug. 14, 2006), the Department explained:

> It has been the Department's long term policy that an in-school suspension would not be considered a part of the days of suspension addressed in 34 C.F.R. 300.530 as long as the child is afforded the opportunity to continue to appropriately participate in the general education curriculum, continue to receive the services specified on the child's IEP, and continue to participate with nondisabled children to the extent they would have in their current placement.

In this case, interviews and documentation found that the student received a total of 14 days of suspension as a result of disciplinary action taken as a result of violations to the student code of conduct during the 2024-25 school year to date. Of these 14 days, eight were served through ISS where it appears the student continued to receive the required special education services and supports and access to the general education curriculum and his peers. The other five days were served through OSS and are considered to be an educational change of placement as a result of disciplinary action because the student did not receive the required special education services and supports during the OSS days.

Based on the foregoing, the district was not required to follow any special procedures at this time as the student had not been subject to an educational change of placement of more than 10 consecutive or 10 cumulative school days with a pattern. As such, USD #320 is found to be IN compliance in regards to this issue.

Issue Three

USD #320, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP and behavior intervention plan (BIP), specifically by not providing support staff, during the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The parent alleged that the student's IEP requires that he be supervised in unstructured settings. She believes this has not occurred during the 2024-25 school year and, as a result, has displayed the impulsive behaviors associated with his disability which caused the student to violate the student code of conduct and be disciplined with multiple ISS and OSS. In addition, the student's IEP was updated in October 2024 to provide supervision during passing times between classes. However, this support has also not been provided on a regular basis as demonstrated by the student being tardy to class on multiple occasions.

The findings of Issue Two are incorporated herein by reference.

Documentation and interview found there were two IEPs in effect during the 2024-25 school year. The first IEP was developed on October 23, 2023 and required 45 minutes per day of specialized instruction provided in the special education setting; 45 minutes per day of paraprofessional support in the physical education class; and 75 minutes per day of paraprofessional support in the core classes taught in the general education setting. A Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) was also included which required several accommodations including the use of a daily behavior chart and reward system. The second IEP was developed on September 30, 2024 and continued the same special education services and BIP as required by the previous IEP. In addition, this IEP requires 28 minutes per day of supervision during passing times between classes.

While both IEPs and BIPs include statements indicating the student has difficulty handling unstructured settings, there is nothing specifically requiring supervision in all unstructured settings in either the October 2, 2023 IEP and BIP or the September 30, 2024 IEP and BIP.

School staff stated that a schedule was developed to provide the student with the special education services and supports required by the October 23, 2023 IEP beginning on the first day of the 2024-25 school year. When the IEP was reviewed and revised on September 30, 2024, school staff noted that a schedule was developed to provide the extra support for each of the four-minute time periods between each class allowed for passing time.

The Cooperative acknowledged there is currently a staffing shortage of five paraprofessionals at Wamego Middle School. On-going efforts to fill these vacancies include advertising job openings, participating in community job fairs, and conducting budget reviews to explore options for increasing pay to support recruitment and retention efforts.

In the interim, the LEA has implemented efforts to mitigate the impact of the staff shortage on students. The Special Education Director stated:

> Building-level special education staff prioritize support for students with the highest needs, including this student. While efforts to hire additional paraprofessionals are ongoing, the building is utilizing other staff members to provide attendant care support when paraprofessionals are unavailable. General education teachers, special education teachers, counselors, and office staff are assisting with hallway supervision and escorting the student between classes. There is a specific plan in place to secure hallway coverage for this student.

The parent provided a list of dates the student has been tardy during the second semester prior to the filing of the child complaint. These dates include January 23, 24, 27, 28, 31, and February 3, 5, and 10, 2025.

USD #320 noted that their practice is to excuse the student's classroom tardy if he arrives late to a class with a staff member. School staff acknowledged the student has been tardy to class and this is because the student does not always wait to be escorted in the hallway between classes. He will dart and run away from staff when they are attempting to provide supervision in the hallway and often does not respond to re-direction in the hallway. Staff also noted that he will be observed to enter the assigned classroom but then leaves and is tardy when he returns back to the assigned classroom. Staff acknowledged that there are times when the assigned staff person is unavailable to provide the escort and an effort is made to find a substitute; however, this is not always feasible and, in those situations, the general education teachers assigned to hall duty monitor the student from their posts in the hallway along the route to the student's next class.

The district provided a copy of an ABC (Antecedent / Behavior / Consequences) Chart dated between October 29, 2024 and February 9, 2025 showing 14 days of observations. The consequences reported did not show any type of reward system for appropriate behavior.

Conclusion

In this case, the student's IEP dated September 30, 2024 requires 28 minutes per day of supervision in the hallway between classes. The Cooperative acknowledged that there is currently a staffing shortage of five paraprofessionals at Wamego Middle School and, despite the LEA's efforts to provide the hallway supervision by utilizing multiple staff members including office staff, teachers, and administration staff, the student is not always supervised in the hallway as evidenced by the student receiving tardies to his classes on at least eight school days between January 23 and February 5, 2025. In addition, there is no evidence that the daily behavior chart and reward system required by the BIP has been implemented during the 2024-25 school year.

Based on Interviews and documentation, there is evidence to support a finding that the LEA is OUT of compliance for this issue.

Issue Four

USD #320, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the student with the opportunity to participate in non-academic and extracurricular activities, specifically the field trip to Central Elementary School to be a reading buddy on October 29, 2024.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.107 require public agencies to provide students with disabilities with an equal opportunity to participate in nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities. Nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities may include[1] counseling services, athletics, transportation, health services, recreational activities, special interest groups or clubs sponsored by the public agency[2], referrals to agencies that provide assistance to individuals with disabilities, and employment of students, including both employment by the public agency[2] and assistance in making outside employment available.

[2] https://www.law.cornell.edu/definitions/ Public agency
Public agency includes the SEA, LEAs, ESAs, nonprofit public charter schools that are not otherwise included as LEAs or ESAs and are not a school of an LEA or ESA, and any other political subdivisions of the State that are responsible for providing education to children with disabilities.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue Two and Three are incorporated herein by reference.

The parent reported the student was denied the opportunity to participate in the field trip to Central Elementary School to be a reading buddy on October 29, 2024 because there was not enough staff available to provide supervision. The parent believes the district denied the student the opportunity to participate in this extra-curricular activity due to his disability. An email dated October 29, 2024 written by the parent to the Special Education Teacher stated:

> . . . The student came home today disappointed that he did not get to go to Central today with all the 6th graders, because there wasn't enough staff to go with him. He also said that it was said to him to let this be a lesson that that he needs to behave to do fun things like field trips. I feel like he was treated completely unfair. He should get the same opportunity that the other kids get and para or teacher support should be there if needed.

USD #320 acknowledged that selected students from the student's sixth grade English/Language Arts class went to Central Elementary School to read to younger students on October 29, 2024. This is an extension of the curriculum where students pre-read books and prepare activities to implement with one or two assigned elementary students. The Special Education Teacher reported that the student was not the only 6th grade student who remained in class instead of participating in the reading buddy class activity that day.

The Special Education Teacher acknowledged that the building was short-staffed for paraprofessional support on the day of the class activity but that was not the primary reason the student did not participate as a reading buddy. An email dated October 29, 2024 written by the Special Education Teacher to the Principal stated:

> If a student has behaviors, such as what Aiden demonstrated previously and then this morning where he cannot keep his hands to himself, I don't feel comfortable sending him with other students in a separate building when I don't have a body to be with him 1:1. His behavior this morning proved that provided time alone without adult supervision, even when that time frame is a 3 minute period, he cannot make the appropriate choices. I did not have the bodies to be able to send with him, being that we were down 3 paras, and when students have had behaviors in the past they either cannot go if not covered, or depending on the behaviors they may not go to the event at all, even to the simple extent that it was today at Central.

An email dated October 30, 2024 written by the Special Education Teacher to the parent stated:

> The student is correct, he was not able to go. It is true that we are short-staffed, and I had a conversation with the teacher the student was walking with where that was mentioned. However, he was not the only 6th-grade student who stayed back. The reason I did not feel comfortable with him attending was that the event was more unstructured, and we are still working on preparing him for these type of activities. Additionally, there was an incident that morning between the student and another student.

The Principal reported that the criteria for being able to participate in this class activity was no disciplinary actions for ten days prior to the date of the activity. Based on the student's disciplinary history and an incident that occurred the morning of the activity, the Principal reported that he made the determination that the student did not meet the criteria to participate in the class activity on October 29, 2024 and therefore, the student remained in class at the building with the other students who did not participate in the class activity at Central Elementary School.

School staff reported that the student has subsequently been eligible to participate and has participated in other school activities including attending after-school volleyball and basketball games as well as being a reading buddy at Central Elementary School on March 3, 2025.

Conclusion

The district reported that the criteria to be able to participate in the class activity on October 29, 2024 was no disciplinary incidents for 10 days prior to the activity. Interviews and documentation show that, prior to the date of the activity, the student's last disciplinary action was on October 7, 2024; however, the student had an altercation with another student on the morning of October 29, 2024 and was therefore ineligible to participate in the class activity. It is noted that there were other 6th grade students who were also not eligible to participate and remained in class the day of the activity.

Based on the foregoing, the district is found to be IN compliance for providing the student with the opportunity to participate in nonacademic and extracurricular activities.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: USD #320 acknowledged noncompliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.123 which require public agencies in the State to protect the confidentiality of any personally identifiable information collected, used, or maintained under Part B of the IDEA. USD #320 proposed a corrective action plan to address the noncompliance which was accepted by the KSDE on March 10, 2025. Based on the foregoing, the district is determined to be IN compliance with the requirements of the IDEA and no corrective action is required.

ISSUE TWO: Interviews and documentation support a finding that the district was not required to follow any special procedures based on disciplinary actions assigned to the student during the 2024-25 school year because the student has not been suspended for more than 10 consecutive or 10 cumulative school days with a pattern during the 2024-25 school year. Based on the foregoing, the district is determined to be IN compliance with the requirements of the IDEA and no corrective action is required.

ISSUE THREE: Interviews and documentation support a finding that the district did not consistently implement the student's IEP for providing 28 minutes per day of supervision in the hallway between classes nor and BIP for implementing a daily behavior chart and reward system. Based on the foregoing, the district is determined to be OUT of compliance with the requirements of the IDEA for implementing the IEP as written and corrective action is required.

a. CORRECTIVE ACTION:

    i. The LEA will review its practices to ensure that the student receives the required 28 minutes per day of supervision in the hallway between classes as required by the IEP. This plan must include both the hallway supervisor and the general education classroom teachers. The current supervision plan will be reviewed and revised as necessary and shared with all relevant staff no later than five school days from the date of this report.

    ii. A daily log will be maintained to document that the supervision is being provided in the hallway and that the student remains in the classroom and is not unsupervised in the hallways between classes no later than six school days from the date of this report.

iii. The Cooperative will train any non-certified staff including, but not limited to, paraprofessionals and office staff assigned to the hallway supervision on strategies for managing the student's behavior prior to supervising the student.

iv. The LEA will create the daily behavior chart and reward system as required by the BIP and train all relevant staff on how to implement and monitor the behavior chart and reward system within five school days of the date of this report.

v. The LEA will implement the daily behavior chart and reward system no later than six school days from the date of this report. The chart will be reviewed weekly and revised as necessary to ensure that it addresses the student's needs effectively.

vi. No later than 10 days after the last day of the 2024-25 school year, the LEA will provide the KSDE with a copy of the Hallway Supervision Log, the Daily Behavior Chart, the student's Daily Attendance Record, and the district's 2024-25 school calendar to document that the requirements of the IEP and BIP were met on each day the student attended school starting six school days from the date of this report.

ISSUE FOUR: Interviews and documentation support a finding that the district did provide the student with the same opportunity to participate in the class activity on October 29, 2024 as was provided to other 6th grade students. In this case, there were eligibility criteria in place and the Principal determined that the student, as well as other students, did not meet the eligibility criteria to participate in this particular event. It is noted that the student has subsequently been eligible for participation and has participated in nonacademic and extracurricular activities for 6th grade students held in the district. Based on the foregoing, the district is determined to be IN compliance with the requirements of the IDEA and no corrective action is required.

Background Information

This investigation involved an 8th grade student enrolled at a school in the District. The Student has been diagnosed with Oppositional Defiant Disorder and Generalized Anxiety Disorder. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the District.

1. A Neuropsychological Evaluation of the Student, dated February 15, 2024, indicated:
    a. The Student had difficulties regulating their emotions.
    b. "[The Student] has been a victim of bullying for several years at school. Most recently, some of [their] peers will make encouraging statements to harm or kill [themself]. [The Student's] parents do not feel that [their] IEP is being carried out and feel that this resulted in failing grades for the semester."
    c. The Student could be oppositional when upset.
    d. The Student's score was in the clinically significant range on the Externalizing Behaviors composite scale.
        i. "A clinically significant Hyperactivity score suggests a very high number of disruptive, impulsive, and uncontrolled behaviors … . A clinically significant Aggression score indicates a severe level of aggressive behaviors and [the Student] may be reported as being argumentative, defiant, and/or threatening to others… ."
    e. A diagnostic impression of:
        i. "Intellectual Development Disorder (mild)";
        ii. "Generalized Anxiety Disorder";
        iii. "Social Anxiety Disorder";
        iv. "Major Depressive Disorder"; and
        v. "Oppositional Defiant Disorder."
    f. "[The Student's] experiences with bullying and negative social interactions have likely contributed to social anxiety as well." (D113-D126)

2. The Student reported to the District that on February 19, 2024, after school, they were walking with Student H and the other students followed. Then Student H stepped back into the group of students that were walking further back.
    a. When they arrived in the teachers' parking lot, the Student said Student A grabbed them around the neck, put them in a choke hold and threw them to the ground. The Student said they told Student A to stop and asked why they were doing that. The Student said they tried to get up when Student A threw them down again and told them to stop talking about their cousins. Student H returned to help the Student.
    b. The Student reported they did not text Student J that Student A was going to beat them up, and did not tell Student A that Student J was going to beat them up.
    c. The Student requested that seven students, including the student who physically attacked them, be kept away from them.
    d. The District indicated that after several IEP meetings and attorney discussions, the Parent's concerns with the incident were resolved through the creation of a general education safety plan.
    e. During their interview, the Parent indicated one of the students involved in this incident was the same student who later sent the text message to the Student on January 28, 2025. (D2-D3, D42, D43-D44, Video Footage, February 20, 2024, Parent Interview, P4-5, 18:52, Special Education Teacher Interview)

3. The Parent explained that after the incident, the Student was out of school from mid-February through April 2024. They stated the Student would get their assignments on Google classroom or send the assignments home. The Parent would also pick up the Student's assignments once a week, and then send photos to the teachers after they were completed. (Parent Interview, P5-6, 21:53)

4. The Student's IEP was amended on February 22, 2024 to add that the Student would start and end their day with an Emotional/Functional check-in/check-out with an adult to identify their mood and gauge emotional temperature. The Parent signed the amendment.
    a. A PWN dated February 22, 2024 summarized the amendment, which had been requested by the Parent and their attorney. The Parent signed the PWN. (D127, D129-D132)

5. A general education safety plan for the Student was drafted on March 1, 2024 and signed by the Parent on April 9, 2024. It contained ten items, including one which indicated the Student had had conflict with several students, and the Student should not be grouped with them, sit with them, go places with them or be seen with them.
    a. The Parent said, "They did a safety plan, but … the safety plan was making [the Student] feel that [the Student] was the criminal and … was the one being punished. The safety plan was [the Student] would sit at the front of the bus … [they] would have to leave the class early or [they] would have to leave the class later to avoid any hallway contact with any of the [students]."
    b. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal explained the safety plan was created in 2024 after a physical altercation between the Student and another student. No special needs or concerns were identified during the creation of the safety plan.

c. A Conference Summary IEP Team Considerations dated March 4, 2024 reported there was a meeting to review a plan to keep the Student safe based on an incident which happened in February 2024. Staff was instructed to not release the Student until all students were in their classrooms after the bell rang, and then the Student could switch rooms. (D45, D144-D145, Parent Interview, P5-6, 21:53, Principal Interview, P2-3, 02:13)

6. A PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation, signed by the Parent and dated March 26, 2024 indicated a proposal to conduct a re-evaluation of the Student. (D138-D143)

7. An IEP amendment dated March 26, 2024 described a change to the IEP that when the Student showed signs of dysregulation, to encourage them to communicate the need for a functional break. The Parent signed the amendment. (D146, D147-D150)

8. A Notice of Special Education Meeting, dated May 6, 2024, proposed a meeting date for May 15, 2024 to review the evaluation feedback meeting results. The Parent signed the notice. (D158-D162)

9. A Re-Evaluation Report dated May 15, 2024 indicated:
    a. The Student reported that the bullying made it difficult for them to be successful at school.
    b. The Student's current special education services.
    c. Assessment findings.
    d. The diagnostic impressions from the Neuropsychological Evaluation.
    e. The purpose of the re-evaluation was to determine if the Student met the criteria for an Intellectual Disability.
    f. The Student continued to meet the criteria as a student with a Learning Disability, specifically in mathematics.
    g. The Student had missed a significant amount of school due to incidents with peers on school grounds. (D162-D177)

10. A Conference Summary IEP Team Considerations dated May 15, 2024 included a summary of the re-evaluation meeting. The summary indicated the Parent wanted the attorney to review the documents before they agreed to the exceptionality, and the Parent asked if the safety plan would be in place for the next school year. (D178-D180)

11. The Student's Progress Report for their Measurable Annual Goals for the 2023-24 school year indicated:
    a. As of May 16, 2024, the Student had not made adequate progress toward achieving their annual goal in reading.

13. A Notice of Special Education Meeting dated August 8, 2024 proposed a meeting for August 16, 2024, and was signed by the Parent.
    a. A Conference Summary IEP Team Considerations dated August 16, 2024 indicated the Parent requested the District dismiss the Student's general education safety plan. (D188-D191, D28-D29)
14. When asked about the Student's safety plan, the Special Education Teacher said, "When we had a meeting prior to school, … [the Parent] did not want the safety plan implemented." (Special Education Teacher Interview, P4, 06:26) The Special Education Teacher stated it was a general education safety plan and unrelated to special education. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P5, 07:05) They added that when the Parent stated they did not want to implement the safety plan, the District complied. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P5, 07:05)
15. The Special Education Teacher stated the Parent did not like the safety plan because they thought it isolated the Student. The Special Education Teacher indicated they had observed the Student not following the safety plan, and that the School tried to get the Student to follow the plan. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P6, 09:12, Principal Interview, P3,05:24)
16. An IEP amendment on October 4, 2024 indicated a new service and new accommodation for the Student. These were also summarized in a PWN from October 4, 2024.
    a. The new service was that the Student would receive special education services in the special education classroom for the core contents, for 20 minutes once a week for the duration of the IEP. The accommodation was that the Student would start their day with an emotional/functional check-in with an adult. (D192-D198)
17. An IEP draft dated December 5, 2024 was signed by the Parent and IEP team. It included reports from the Shop, Science, English and Social Studies teachers that the Student interacted little with others, would sometimes "push the buttons" of other students, struggled to work in groups, and that their work ethic had declined from the start of the year.
    a. Special Education Services for the Student included:
        i. Starting on December 5, 2024, the Student would receive special education services in the special education classroom for math direct instruction for 40 minutes five days a week, and for science independent work for 15 minutes one day a week, for the duration of the IEP; and
        ii. Starting on January 7, 2025, the Student would receive special education services in the special education classroom for social studies direct instruction for 40 minutes five days a week, and for English direct instruction for 40 minutes five days a week, for the duration of the IEP.
    b. Accommodations and Modifications stated that beginning December 5, 2024:
        i. When the Student started to show signs of dysregulation, the Student would be encouraged to communicate the need for a functional break;

ii. When working on an assignment, the Student would be required to do the problems, but not so many they would get overwhelmed;
iii. When the Student escalated to a level 3 or higher, they would be prompted to use sensory tools;
iv. When given multi-step directions, the Student would be provided the tasks into smaller steps;
v. When given an assessment, the Student would be provided with a separate, quiet area;
vi. When solving math problems that were not testing math fact knowledge, the Student would be provided with a multiplication chart, a 100's chart, and a calculator;
vii. The Student would have access to a text-to-speech tool and read aloud option on Chromebook; and viii. When in the general education or special education classroom, the Student would be given preferential seating in each class.

c. A PWN dated December 5, 2024 summarized the IEP draft and was signed by the Parent. (D199-D216, D217-D222)

18. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Teacher explained the Student had in-class services the first half of the 2024-25 school year, which were changed to pull-out services when the School noticed the Student required more assistance. The Special Education Teacher stated the Student had social studies, science (one day a week), English, and math in the Resource Room. They indicated that they provided math support, and direct instruction for math, reading, and social studies. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2, 01:58) The Special Education Teacher did not recall any lapse in services during the 2024-25 school year, and stated that materials were provided either through Google Classroom or at home when the Parent requested. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P2, 02:50)

19. On January 28, 2025, the Parent emailed the Principal a screenshot of a text message sent to the Student earlier that night. The sender of the text wrote, "… You got me sent down to the office because you wanted to talk shit on me. Oh don't worry, baby girl this is gonna get turned around don't worry."
    a. The Parent explained that the student who sent the text was not supposed to be in the same class as the Student, per the Student's IEP and safety plan. The Parent stated they sent the message to the Social Emotional Counselor, the School Resource Officer and the Principal. According to the Parent, the sender of the text was told by the School Resource Officer during the previous school year they were not supposed to contact the Student. (D1, D12-D13, Parent Interview, P2-3, 07:06, Principal Interview, P2, 01:55)

20. According to the District Response, the District was only aware the Student had been involved in one physical altercation during the 2024-25 school year, which the District stated stemmed from unkind comments that the Student made to another student the day before the incident. The District indicated the physical altercation was investigated by the administration and the School Resource Officer.

a. A log entry dated January 29, 2025 described an incident on January 28, 2025 in which the Student "… antagonized another student by making fun of [their] appearance and family situation."
b. According to a counseling session dated January 29, 2025, the Student had said via text that another student "thinks [they're] better than everyone," "throws around [their] money," and acts like a "me girl." The Student admitted to making the statements. The counselor concluded the Student instigated conflict by making negative comments about one student and falsely claiming another student had been talking about the first student. (D1, D5, D248-D249)

21. A log entry dated January 31, 2025 reported that on January 30, 2025, the Student "… was involved in a physical altercation with another student stemming from comments made earlier in the week."
    a. At approximately 8:05 a.m. on January 30, 2025, Student D entered the locker room with knowledge that the Student was in there. Student D found the Student sitting on the floor and sat on a bench nearby. Student D questioned the Student about comments the Student had made about another student. The Student did not respond and started to use their phone. Student D asked the Student if their phone was more important than their conversation, grabbed the phone, and tossed in across the room. When the Student went to retrieve it, Student D followed, grabbed the Student and threw them to the ground. Student D punched the Student as they lay on the floor. Students who were present left to get help. These events were corroborated by five students, including Student D and the Student.
    b. The Parent said, "… I received a phone call from the [P]rincipal stating that [the Student] was a victim of a physical altercation." The Parent stated that as a result of the incident, the Student had wet their pants, scraped their knee, and had a busted lip and swollen face.
    c. The Principal explained that after the incident, they changed the other student's schedule so they could keep them out of the same classroom as the Student as much as possible. The Principal also spoke with the PE teacher about making sure that the two students were not in the locker room at the same time. The Principal stated that at that time, they had not spoken to anyone about the Student's IEP. (D8, D11, Parent Interview, P2-3, 04:21, Principal Interview, P3-5, 07:45)

22. On January 31, 2025, the Parent emailed the Principal and explained the Student was seen by their doctor and the Student was on mild concussion protocol. The Parent said, "[The Doctor] wanted to know what the bullying/ physical contact repercussions/guidelines looked like?"
    a. The Principal replied to the Parent the same day and said the doctor could call them directly.
    b. In an undated text message, the Doctor wrote the Student had a mild concussion.
    c. An undated text message from the Doctor contained pictures of the Student's legs and knees, with abrasions on one knee.

d. In the District response, the Principal received a doctor's note on February 5, 2025 indicating the Student would be out for five weeks, but also indicated they would return the following Monday. The School later learned "weeks" was supposed to be "days."
e. During the Student's absence, the Parent indicated they would look into enrolling the Student with another district, doing home school, or virtual school. After learning of this, the District sent a PWN informing the Parent of their willingness to continue to provide special education services for the Student, whether at the school building or through partial enrollment for home school. (D2, D14, D15-D16, P47, P185, P299-P301, Principal Interview, P5, 15:11)

23. According to the Parent, the School put the Student's assignments on Google Classroom after the incident on January 30, 2025. The Parent said, "… I'm dealing with a child who's on concussion protocol and … they tell you to stay off of screen time [sic] limits your screen time, give your brain a rest." The Parent indicated the District was not providing specially designed instruction for the Student during their recovery, and only used Google Classroom. The Parent stated this lasted from January 30, 2025 through February 2, 2025, and then from February 4, 2025 through when the Parent unenrolled the Student from the School. (Parent Interview, P10-11, 36:17)

24. When asked about the Student learning from home in February 2025, the Special Education Teacher reported that the Student was absent due to a medical reason, and the Parent did not request that assignments be sent home. The Special Education Teacher stated they informed the Parent that materials from their classes would be posted on Google Classroom. They noted the Student did not complete any assignments when they were gone, which the Special Education Teacher assumed was due to a concussion. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P3, 03:40) The Special Education Teacher explained that the assignments they were unable to post on Google Classroom were left in the physical classroom to be taken home. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P3, 04:37) The Special Education Teacher stated the Student came to school on February 3, 2025, left, and did not return to the School after this date. (Special Education Teacher Interview, P4, 05:42)

25. The Principal did not recall the Parent asking for services or materials to be provided to them during the Student's absence after the physical altercation on January 30, 2025. (Principal Interview, P6, 15:32)

26. The Parent stated the Student was bullied in the special education classroom on February 3, 2025. The Parent explained another student said, "… [the Student's] family's poor white trash and that [their] family's coming for [the Student's] family. And that's when [the Student] got upset and asked the special education teacher to leave the room. And [the Student's] request was denied. So then [the Student] got up and [they] walked out of the room. But this is being allowed and visible in front of special education team." (Parent Interview, P4, 16:32)

27. The Special Education Teacher stated the Student was never denied a break and said, "[The Student] could take one whenever [they] wanted. [They] never asked for one [on February 3, 2025]." (Special Education Teacher Interview, P7-8, 11:11)

28. The Parent materials contained a list of the Student's absences from school in January and February 2025. In that period, the Student had:
    a. Five absences.
    b. Two excused absences.
    c. Three medical-related absences. (P16-P33)

29. A PWN dated February 13, 2025 indicated:
    a. "[The Student's] last date of attendance at [the School] was 2/3/2025. We understand you would like to enroll [them] at another school; however, if [the Student] does not attend school at another location and you choose to homeschool [them], we are able to provide special education services through [the School]. Potential homeschool services could be provided online in the afternoon 4 days a week and focus on IEP goals." (D17-D22)

30. A Progress Report for the Student, dated February 13, 2025, indicated the Student had made a "slight improvement" between December 5, 2024 and February 4, 2025 in the Student's goals for reading, math and social/emotional. (P90-P93)

31. In an email dated February 24, 2025 from the Parent to the Principal, the Parent stated the Student was not returning to the School. The District responded with a stand ready to service letter on February 27, 2025. (D288)

32. The District materials included calendars with handwritten notes from February 2024 through February 2025 which demonstrated when the Student received daily instruction and in which subjects, in addition to school breaks, snow days, and Student absences. The calendars showed the Student received consistent instruction on the days the Student was in school. (D233-D247)

33. The Student's 2024-25 Attendance Sheet indicated they had two "A's", one "B", and one "C" at the end of semester one. By the end of semester two, the Student had one "B", two "C's", one "D", and one "F". (D50, Parent Interview, P8, 29:38)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #307, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the Student's IEP during the 2024-25 school year due to bullying and an unsafe school environment. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3); 34 CFR §300.323(a).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3) and 34 CFR §300.323(a), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

The Parent alleged that the Student is not receiving the special education services they should receive. They claimed that the Student does not feel safe at school, that administration is not available when crises arise, and bullying is impeding the Student's education. Additionally, the Parent alleged the Student has been physically attacked twice, and the school administration has minimally responded.

Respondent/District Position: The District stated that documentation showed the Student received services while attending the School. The District indicated that the two incidents in which the Student had been physically hurt were the result of statements initially made by the Student. The District perceived the incidents were the result of the Student's unkind comments or the Student's attempts to sow discord between other students.

A Neuropsychological Evaluation of the Student indicated difficulties with regulating their emotions, being oppositional, and clinically significant areas for externalizing behaviors. "[The Student's] experiences with bullying and negative social interactions have likely contributed to social anxiety as well."

After school on February 19, 2024, the Student had a physical altercation with another student. The Student requested they be kept away from this student and other students. The District indicated the Parent's concerns were resolved through a general education safety plan. The Student's IEP was amended on February 22, 2024 and added that the Student would start and end their day with a check-in/check-out. A PWN dated the same day summarized the amendment. The Parent signed both documents. After the incident, the Student received their assignments on Google Classroom, had them sent home, or the Parent collected them.

On March 1, 2024, a safety plan was drafted and signed by the Parent on April 9, 2024. The safety plan indicated the Student had been in conflict with several students, and instructed that the Student should be kept away from those specific students. The safety plan was unrelated to special education and was not included in the Student's IEP. On March 4, 2024 there was a meeting to review the safety plan. An IEP amendment dated March 26, 2024, and signed by the Parent, added functional breaks to the IEP.

A PWN dated March 26, 2024 proposed a Student re-evaluation. A Notice of Special Education Meeting proposed a meeting for May 15, 2024 to review the Student's evaluation. The Parent signed both documents. A Re-Evaluation Report dated May 15, 2024 indicated the Student reported challenges with bullying, and that the Student met the criteria as a student with a Learning Disability. During the meeting, the Parent inquired about the safety plan for the 2024-25 school year. A PWN dated May 21, 2024 indicated the Student was eligible for special education services.

In a meeting on August 16, 2024, the Parent requested the District dismiss the Student's general education safety plan because it made the Student feel like they were being punished. The District complied with the request. An IEP amendment on October 4, 2024 indicated the Student would receive special education services in the special education classroom for the core contents, for 20 minutes once a week. The added accommodation was that the Student would start their day with a check-in with an adult. These amendments were summarized in a PWN.

An IEP draft dated December 5, 2024, signed by the Parent, described special education services that would take place in the special education classroom, starting on December 5, 2024 and January 7, 2025. The IEP listed Accommodations and Modifications, including, "When the Student started to show signs of dysregulation, the Student would be encouraged to communicate the need for a functional break." The Parent signed a PWN summarizing the IEP draft. The Student's special education services changed from in-class to pull-out due to greater needs.

On January 28, 2025, the Student had a negative interaction with another student. That night, the Parent emailed the Principal a screenshot of a text message sent to the Student. The Parent explained that the sender was not supposed to contact the Student or be in the same class, per the Student's IEP and safety plan. On January 30, 2025, the Student had a physical altercation with another student and sustained a mild concussion.

When the Parent considered alternative schooling, the District sent a PWN offering continued special education services. The Parent indicated the District did not provide specially designed instruction for the Student during their recovery from the concussion. The Special Education Teacher stated the Parent did not request that assignments be sent home. They informed the Parent that materials would be posted online and available in the physical classroom to be taken home.

The Parent stated the Student was bullied in the special education classroom on February 3, 2025, and did not receive a break, which the Special Education Teacher denied. A PWN dated February 13, 2025 indicated the Student's last day at the School was February 3, 2025. On February 24, 2025, the Parent informed the School the Student was not returning. The Student missed 10 cumulative days of school from January through February 2025.

The Student's Progress Report for the 2023-24 school year indicated the Student made progress on two of their three IEP goals. Another Progress Report indicated the Student made a "slight improvement" on their goals between December 5, 2024 and February 4, 2025. Calendars from February 2024 through February 2025 contained handwritten notes which demonstrated the Student received consistent instruction on the days the Student was in school. During the 2024-25 school year, the Student had two "A's", one "B", and one "C" at the end of semester one, and one "B", two "C's", one "D", and one "F" by the end of semester two.

Documentation showed that the District responded to the Parent's concerns, including through the creation of a safety plan and different IEP amendments. There were regularly documented and consistent PWNs, IEP amendments and drafts, meeting notices, and evaluations. Progress reports demonstrated the Student made progress toward their IEP goals, and staff documented when the Student received certain instruction, per their IEP.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the district failed to implement the Student's IEP during the 2024-25 school year due to bullying and an unsafe school environment.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #500
ON FEBRUARY 7, 2025 AND FEBRUARY 11, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: MARCH 18, 2025

This report is in response to two complaints filed with our office against USD #500 by two individuals who work with Wyandotte County Infant Toddler Services (hereafter referred to as ITS). Complaint 25FC500-004, received by the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) on February 7, 2025 was filed by --------, a social worker for ITS, on behalf of -------- In her complaint, in addition to specific concerns regarding --------, she also alleges that systemic violations of special education statutes and regulations have impacted other students going through the transition process. For the remainder of this report, --------, will be referred to as "Complainant 1." -------- will be referred to as "Student 1."

Complaint 25FC500-005, received by the KSDE on February 11, 2025, was filed by --------, a Family Service Coordinator for ITS. For the remainder of this report, -------- will be referred to as "Complainant 2." Complainant 2 alleges systemic violations of special education statutes and regulations related to the transition process, including the development of IEPs, for students who are transitioning to Part B services through the school district. These allegations involve the same cohort of students identified under the February 7, 2025 filing by Complainant 1.

For the remainder of this report, USD #500 will be referred to as "the district."

Evidence Reviewed

The investigation of a formal complaint requires the investigator to contact the complainant in order to gather additional information and verify specific allegations of noncompliance that may be relevant to the investigation. To that end, the investigator spoke with Complainant 1 on February 11 and 13, 2025. On February 28, 2025, the investigator spoke by telephone with Complainant 2.

On February 12 and March 6, 2025, the complaint investigator spoke via telephone with the Director of Special Education for the district. In the process of this investigation, the investigator spoke with additional staff from both ITS and the district in order to develop a list of students whose services could have been impacted by issues raised by these complaints. From the cohort of students who have transitioned from Part C to Part B services during the 12-month period covered by these complaints, a total of 25 students were identified by the parties (complainants and district). Each of these students will be identified by number in the remainder of this report.

In completing this investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed the following materials:

Background Information

This investigation involves students who are transferring from Part C services through ITS to Part B services through the district. All district evaluations to determine eligibility for special education services through Part B are conducted by a single designated team of professionals. At the beginning of the 2024-25 school year, that team was comprised of a school psychologist, an "Academic Evaluator" (a special education teacher) and a Speech/Language Pathologist, (SLP) with an Occupational Therapist (OT), Physical Therapist (PT), and Audiologist available on an on-call basis. The school psychologist - who works from a remote location - is assisted in-district by a paraeducator.

For most transitions during the time period investigated, the task of scheduling evaluations and IEP team meetings fell to the school psychologist and the school psychologist's paraeducator. It was the job of the Academic Evaluator to assist with evaluations and to develop IEPs for transitioning students.

The Academic Evaluator who began the 2024-25 school year with the district was a contracted employee - not a direct district hire. That individual resigned her position for personal reasons as of November 12, 2024 and was replaced by a second contract employee. That second individual gave notice on January 24, 2025 that she would be leaving her position on January 31, 2025 to accept a position with another agency.

The Executive Director of Special Education for the district was copied on the evaluator's email notice of resignation on January 24, 2025 but was out of the office at the time and did not become aware of the vacancy until the Program Coordinator for ITS sent her an email on January 29, 2025 notifying her that IEPs had not being completed on two transitioning students.

Issues Investigated

Issues One through Three below were presented by Complainant 1. Issue Four below outlines the systemic concerns specified by Complainant 2. Because Issue Three and Issue Four both allege systemic violations regarding the provision of FAPE, the applicable statutes and regulations, investigative findings, and summary/conclusions for both issues are combined below.

Issue One

Although Student 1 has been found by the district to be eligible for special education services and has reached the age of three, an IEP has not yet been developed for the student, and he is not yet receiving special education services from the district.

Position of Complainant 1

Complainant 1 asserts that while Student 1 was, on February 4, 2025, determined to be eligible to receive special education services from the district, no IEP was developed. As of the filing of this complaint on February 7, 2025, Complainant 1 contends that no IEP had been developed for the student, no date for an IEP meeting had been proposed to the parent and no special education services were being provided to the student by the district even though the student was now age 3.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

As required by K.A.R. 91-40-2(b)(1) and (2),

"Each agency shall make FAPE [a free appropriate public education] available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction beginning not later than the child's third birthday [and] an IEP or IFSP shall be in effect by the child's third birthday [unless that birthday occurs during the summer when school is not in session]."

Position of the District

The district stipulates that an IEP had not been developed for Student 1 by his third birthday, and no district-provided special education services were being provided by that date.

Investigative Findings

The resignation of the contracted academic evaluator (special education teacher) for the district's Part C to B team on January 24, 2025 (discussed in the "Background" section of this report and below under Issue Two) left the team without anyone tasked with the specific responsibility of developing a draft IEP for Student 1 (as well as other students). The decision was made by the executive director of special education on January 29, 2025 to have the team conduct evaluation/eligibility meetings for transitioning students but to delay the development of IEPs for those students until a new academic evaluator had been hired and appropriately trained.

Student 1 turned age 3 on February 6, 2024. On January 17, 2025, the parent was given 7-day written notice of a meeting on January 24, 2025 for the purpose of determining the student's eligibility for special education services and developing an IEP. An evaluation/eligibility meeting for Student 1 was held on January 24, 2025, before a new academic evaluator was in place, so the IEP meeting for the student was delayed.

On February 7, 2025 the parent was given 5-day prior notice of an IEP team meeting on February 12, 2025. That meeting was conducted as scheduled on February 12, 2025 - 6 days after the student's 3rd birthday.

According to his February 12, 2025 IEP, Student 1 was to receive 15 minutes a week of speech/language services in an Early Childhood location, 15 minutes a week of speech/language services in a special education setting, and 30 minutes of Early Childhood special education services 4 days a week in an Early Childhood setting.

While the student's IEP shows that the district was prepared to implement services to the student beginning on February 12, 2025, and the student's father provided written consent for those services on the same date, preschool students did not attend class on February 12, 2025, so services for the student actually began on February 13, 2025 at the earliest - 7 days (4 school days) after his 3rd birthday. As a result, Student 1 did not receive the special education support shown in his IEP and is entitled to the following compensatory services:

- 15 minutes of speech/language services in an Early Childhood location;
- 15 minutes of speech/language services in a special education setting; and
- 120 minutes of Early Childhood special education services in an Early Childhood setting.

Summary and Conclusions

Student 1 was not being provided a FAPE through the implementation of an IEP by his 3rd birthday and for four school days after that time. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is substantiated on this issue.

Issue Two

The district provided the parents of Student 1 with a statement that compensatory services would be provided to the student, but that statement lacked any tangible information regarding what services would be provided to the student.

Position of Complainant 1

According to Complainant 1, the LEA representative read aloud at the evaluation/eligibility meeting for Student 1 a written statement which told the parent that compensatory services would be offered to the student. Complainant 1 questions the legality of such a statement and contends that the parent was given no clear explanation regarding the nature of the compensatory services to be provided.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

Districts are encouraged to be open and transparent when talking with parents regarding the provision of special education and related services for their children. Special education statutes and regulations do not prohibit districts from providing parents with information regarding the provision of services.

Position of the District

It is the position of the district that the reading of the written statement was designed to provided consistency for teams who were transitioning students under the circumstances described above.

Investigative Findings

In an email sent on Wednesday, January 29, 2025 at 10:44 AM, the program coordinator for ITS notified the executive director of special education for the district that, at meetings for two Part B eligible students, their parents were informed that no one from the district was available to write IEPs for their children. As a result, no IEP would be proposed for these two students - one of whom was turning 3 on the following Monday. The names of both students (Student 21 and Student 22) were provided to the executive director.

The executive director called a meeting with the Part B evaluation team at 3:30 PM on January 29, 2025 to discuss the situation reported by the ITS program coordinator. In attendance (virtually or in person) were 3 school psychologists, the Part C to Part B SLP team evaluator, the school psychology paraeducator (also called the "Psych Facilitator"), and the special education coordinator for Part C to B who oversees the Part C to B team. According to the executive director, she was told by the school psychologist at the meeting that the exiting teacher had provided the psychologist a list of students who were still in the transition process at the time of her resignation. The psychologist forwarded that list of students to the executive director during the meeting.

The executive director, after hearing about what the evaluation team had been trying to handle on their own, told the evaluation team to pause any further action until they had received follow up from the executive director who would also follow up with the principals of the early childhood centers to ensure that everyone was "on the same page" regarding next steps.

At 6:49 PM on January 29, 2025, the executive director sent an email to the Director of Early Childhood and to the KSDE Assistant Director of Special Education to inform them of the situation and the actions she had taken, writing:

> "I am reaching out to communicate about a situation I am currently facing in [the district].
>
> I have had 2 sped teachers assigned to part c to b evals resign recently and I have not been able to fill their positions and have been without a teacher for almost 2 weeks. I now have a contracted teacher who will begin next week, but as a result of no staff, I have about 20 students who will not have an IEP in place by their 3rd birthday, but we have been able to or will be holding eligibility meetings before their 3rd birthday, with the exception of some that were scheduled during the winter blizzard that happened earlier this month that we weren't able to hold, but those have been rescheduled and our psych will be doing those.
> My plan is to communicate honestly with the parents and staff that we will not be able to hold those IEP meetings before the child's 3rd birthday, and I will offer compensatory services for anytime missed. I am providing the building LEAs with uniform communication to share with parents at their eligibility meetings about the situation but I can only anticipate that parents may be encouraged to file state complaints due to this, which is absolutely their right to do so, but I just wanted to check with you to see if there was anything else I should consider?

Once the teacher starts next week, her priority will be to contact these families and schedule their IEP meetings and we should be good moving forward with our late February and March students.

I am trying to be as proactive as possible, but I am also a realist and I know we are out of compliance for these students.

Any advice will be appreciated.

Thank you."

The KSDE Assistant Director of Special Education responded:

"I agree with being proactive with the parents, and this is consistent with our guidance, if a district cannot provide a service, notify the parents as to why, what the district is doing to remedy the issue, and will evaluate potential compensatory services when remedied. Also, you are correct, parents may still file a complaint, and it may occur…Again, thank you for working with the families and continuing to be transparent with them, and for letting us know."

At 7:00 PM on January 29, 2025, the executive director sent an email to the building principals as well as the Director of Early Childhood and the Executive Director of Leadership and Learning for the district writing:

"SPED has had some changes in staffing for the part C to B evaluation team. We no longer have an in-person academic evaluator to conduct academic testing for students C to B or to write the initial IEPs for those students. To ensure we are able to meet the evaluation needs for our Part C to B students, please see our plan below:

- We will have a virtual sped teacher, with experience in Early Childhood to join the C to B eval team the first week of February
- The virtual sped teacher will be responsible for drafting the C to B IEPs and facilitating the C to B IEP meetings
- Our C to B school Psych will conduct the evaluations with her facilitator and continue to use the data from the evaluation results and IFSP to determine eligibility for C to B students
- Our SLP for C to B will continue to conduct her evaluation and hold IEP meetings for Speech only students.

Since last week, we have only been able to hold eligibility meetings with the C to B eval team. All of those students who qualified for DD (not Speech Only) will have to have their IEP meeting held once we have onboarded the new sped teacher. There are about 20 students from last week through the first week, maybe 2nd week, of February who most likely will be delayed with having an IEP in place by their 3rd birthday, and I do understand what this means for our SPED compliance, and I will navigate that piece with the state.

Please note, any C to B meetings scheduled for tomorrow through the end of the first full week in February (could be longer, but hoping not) will only be eligibility meetings (No IEP meetings).

As the LEA for these C to B meetings, please state the information below to parents before starting the meeting (please print and have available for the meeting to ensure the message for all parents is the same):

Today's meeting will only be an eligibility meeting to determine if your child is eligible for Part B services. After this meeting, you will be contacted by a SPED teacher within 10 days to schedule an IEP meeting for your student to initiate SPED services. The district is unable to offer your child services until an IEP meeting is held and initiated by you, the parent, and unfortunately due to staffing constraints, we will not be able to implement an IEP by your child's 3rd birthday, as required, however the district is making all efforts to remedy this situation to get your IEP meeting scheduled as soon as possible.

Any services missed as a result of this delay, will be considered for compensatory services by the district's SPED Department, which are special education services offered to you for your child, to make up for the services not provided by your child's 3rd birthday.

To answer any further questions, please contact Dr. Lawrie, our Director of Special Education office at 913-627-5674.

Thank you.

I have attached a copy for you to print to have readily. Once you state this message, it will be captured in the meeting notes. You will receive an email from [the Part C to B coordinator] introducing you to the new sped teacher once everything is confirmed with her.

Please direct any questions the parent, parent advocate or Infant Toddler worker may have to me in the SPED department. I will keep you updated on any changes.

If you have any questions for me, please contact me...

Thank you."

At 7:14 PM on January 29, 2025, the executive director sent an email to the ITS program coordinator writing:

"I had a chance to meet with the C to B eval team and I have provided guidance to the LEAs on how to address the situation for those students who only have had eligibility meetings or will have only eligibility meetings and no IEP meetings.

We have secured a teacher this evening, but we will be out of compliance for part B for not having an IEP in place by the child's 3rd birthday due to this transition with staffing.

Each parent will be contacted by the end of this week to have a discussion about the situation and how we plan to remedy the situation for part B by offering compensatory services for these families impacted by this delay.

It is our priority to quickly onboard the new teacher and she will get those IEP meetings scheduled accordingly. I anticipate there to be an impact on part C to B students through mid February and then we should be caught up.

I understand this is not an ideal situation, but thank you for bringing this to my attention and know we are addressing it on Part B side.

I have asked the LEAs and Part B team to direct all parent concerns to me, but I understand parents have a right to file complaints, but it's my hope that I can explain and offer remedy to the parent regarding the situation.

What will be helpful for you and your staff to understand and communicate with parents?"

The ITS program coordinator responded:

"This will help explain to parents. I'm sorry this is happening.

We will let the parents know they will all be contacted for explanation and a plan to develop and implement the IEP. We will also explain to parents that in this situation, concerns should be directed to you if they need more clarification on the plan.

We will inform parents that no matter what we will remain in support of family until the IEP is implemented. If there is anyway you can keep providers updated as parents are contacted I believe it will help us guide parents back to you.

We will also ask parents to let us know when IEP will be scheduled so we can document and attend.

We will inform KDHE that they will see billing logged after the child's 3rd birthday but I will direct staff to log it as non-billable. Any idea how many IEPs could be late?

Is there anything I can do for you to help with this? I know onboarding a new teacher is not easy."

The executive director replied:

"Thank you, I appreciate it. I also reached out to the state too, but not KDHE.

I can make sure the new teacher keeps the ITS worker in the loop of the date so they can attend.

I'm over projecting but I think it will impact about 20 students, but hopefully not that many.

> Let me think about if there is anything that you can do to help, I don't think so, but once the state responds back they may give me some ideas."

On February 12, 2025, the executive director sent a follow-up email to building leaders, the Part C to B team, the ITS coordinator and supervisors directing staff to stop the reading of the January 29, 2025 statement. The executive director told staff that the newly hired academic evaluator was working with parents to schedule IEP meetings and that the team would be returning to the previous practice of holding evaluation/eligibility and IEP team meetings if feasible.

Summary and Conclusions

Special education statues or regulations do not prohibit a district from developing and/or presenting a statement such as the one written by the executive director. As will be discussed below in subsequent issues, such a statement does not in any way obviate the district's obligation to provide the compensatory services due students as a result of the circumstances alluded to in the executive director's statement.

While the statement prepared by the executive director did incorrectly state that the subsequent delayed IEP meeting would need to be "initiated by...the parent," there is no evidence to show that the district abdicated its responsibility to schedule and hold these meetings.

A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Issue Three

The district is failing on a systemic level to provide special education services in a timely manner to students who are transitioning from Part C services through Infant Toddler to Part B services from the district.

Position of Complainant 1

Complainant 1 asserts that, in addition to Student 1 and his family, other parents and students have also been read the statement referenced above under Issue Two. Complainant 1 contends that services to other students have been delayed beyond those students' third birthday with no specific discussion of what compensatory services would be provided.

It is also the position of Complainant 1 that IEP meetings are not routinely timely held in order to smoothly transition ITS students to Part B services by the time that those students turn 3.

Issue Four

The district has failed on a systemic level to properly develop and implement IEPs for students prior to their third birthday.

Position of Complainant 2

Complainant 2 states that she attended an eligibility meeting on February 3, 2025 for a student who was transitioning from ITS to the district. She reports that at this meeting the Local Education Agency (LEA) representative - the building principal - began the meeting by reading the following statement:

> "Today's meeting will only be an eligibility meeting to determine if your child is eligible for Part B services. After this meeting, you will be contacted by a SPED teacher within 10 days to schedule an IEP meeting for your student to initiate SPED services. The district is unable to offer your child services until an IEP meeting is held and initiated by you, the parent, and unfortunately, due to staffing constraints, we will not be able to implement an IEP by your child's third birthday, as required, however, the district is making all efforts to remedy this situation to get your IEP meeting scheduled as soon as possible.
>
> Any services missed as a result of this delay, will be considered for compensatory services by the district's SPED Department, which are special education services offered to you for your child, to make up for the services not provided by your child's 3rd birthday. To answer any further questions, please contact...our [Executive] Director of Special Education office...Thank you."

Complainant 2 asserts that this action denied the student a free appropriate public education (FAPE) by his third birthday by failing to timely develop and implement an IEP for the student.

Complainant 2 further asserts that the parents were informed that the evaluation report which was developed through the eligibility meeting would be forwarded to a "virtual case manager" who would "write the IEP" for the student. It is the position of Complainant 2 that the parents had not met the virtual case manager but were told that she had not participated in the evaluation of their child and would not be providing services for their child. Complainant 2 contends that having a virtual case manager write the IEP does not comply with the State's expectations regarding the appropriate development of a student's IEP.

According to Complainant 2, she was informed that this virtual case manager would be "writing all of the IEPs" and that numerous families being served by ITS have been informed that an IEP for their child would not be developed and implemented by the child's third birthday - a systemic violation of special education statutes and regulations. Complainant 2 states that the ITS Coordinator had - during the week of February 3, 2025 - been informed by the Executive Director of Special Education that more than 28 children had not/would not have an IEP developed and implemented by their third birthday with that number expected to grow over the weeks ahead.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

As stated in the Kansas State Department of Education document entitled "Kansas Early Childhood Transition from IDEA [Individuals With Disabilities Education Act] Part C to Part B - Frequently Asked Questions" published in July 2023,

"A vital part of providing quality services to children with disabilities is assuring a smooth transition from Infant Toddler Services to Preschool Services. Part C of IDEA is a federal program that assists states in operating a comprehensive, statewide program of early intervention services for infants and toddlers with disabilities, from birth through 2 years of age. Part C Indicator 8 identifies the responsibility of Part C service programs in transition planning and engaging in timely planning in support of the child's transition to Part B preschool services or other community services by their 3rd birthday.

Part B of IDEA defines the preschool program, which guarantees a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to children with disabilities ages 3 through 5. Part B Indicator 12 covers the transition from IDEA Part C to IDEA Part B, documenting the children referred by IDEA Part C prior to age 3, who are found eligible for IDEA Part B, and who have had an IEP developed and implemented by his or her third birthday.

...A referral to a local education agency (LEA)/state education agency (SEA) is required for every child potentially eligible for IDEA Part B that has been referred to or is receiving IDEA Part C services (at least 90 days and no more than 9 months prior to the third birthday). Potentially eligible is defined in the Kansas Infant-Toddler Services Procedures Manual, XIV-2 as children receiving services [Part C] 90 days prior to their 3rd birthday or determined eligible for Part C services at least 45 days prior to their 3rd birthday.
