24. PWN, dated May 6, 2026, indicated that on April 23, 2026, the team proposed a material change in services, a substantial change in placement, and other changes not involving services or placement, and included:
    a. Action proposed/refused: The IEP team met on February 11, 2026, March 12, 2026, and April 23, 2026, and proposed to "Decrease special education pull-out services to 90 minutes daily from 210 minutes daily," add a BIP, and add the following accommodations in all subjects:
        i. Alert the Student to transitions five minutes before each transition throughout the day.
        ii. Allow extra time for transitions to give the Student time to process expectations throughout the day.
        iii. Allow frequent breaks when the Student has finished a task/assignment, has requested a break, or is feeling overwhelmed. Breaks should not last more than 10 minutes. When the timer goes off, ask whether more time is needed and offer one or two more minutes.
        iv. Alternative chairs, a sitter, or a stander when the Student is feeling fidgety throughout the school day.
        v. Extended time during oral and written responses, assignments, and tasks for the length of the assignment or task.
        vi. Frequent reminders of the rules before leaving the classroom and entering another space. Review classroom/hallway expectations for the length of the school day.
        vii. Positive Behavior Supports System used throughout the school day for the length of the day.
        viii. Use of visuals (first/then) and frequent reminders of the rules when transitioning to a less preferred activity. Present an object or picture representing what the Student needs to do first/then until the Student transitions between activities independently.
    b. A reinforcement system used during teacher-led activities to reinforce positive behavior during teacher-led activities until the Student sustains attention independently.

c. Rationale: The Student has made progress toward their IEP goals but continues to need instruction in behavior and executive functioning.

d. Options considered: The team considered not changing the pull-out services time, but it was determined the Student's needs could be met in the general education setting with additional supplementary aids and services and a BIP. The team considered the Parent's input that the Parent did not think the Student needed fidgets, extra time, or supports. The team determined the proposed accommodations were necessary.

e. Data: IEP progress monitoring data, observations, parent feedback, and consultations from staff.

f. Relevant factors: "There may be some social stigma associated with receiving special education services. In addition, the [S]tudent will not be with non-disabled peers or participating in the general education curriculum when [the Student] is receiving specially designed instruction in a special education setting. The team believes identified services are necessary for a FAPE and outweigh any potential harmful effects. The team will continue to monitor [the Student's] progress to inform future IEP team decisions." (D101-D104)

g. A Request for Consent for Special Education Action was not signed. (D105)

25. An additional PWN, dated April 23, 2026, indicated the LEA refused to initiate or change the identification, placement, or provision of special education and related services.

a. Action refused: The IEP team met on February 11, 2026, March 12, 2026, and April 23, 2026. "The Parent requested the IEP team to indicate that [the Parent] can observe and support [the Student] a minimum of 3 full school days per week for 3 to 6 months as part of [the Student's] IEP services, which [the Parent] indicated was [their] right for meaningful participation. This request is declined."

b. Explanation: "Progress monitoring data indicates that [the Student] is making progress toward [their] IEP goals with the services outlined in the IEP. The team also proposed changes to services given this progress and to increase [the Student's] access and participation in the general education classroom. Parent support at school is not needed to provide the student with a FAPE. The team listened to the reasons [the Parent] provided for [their] request to directly support the student at school and/or observe the student as noted above. These included that as [the Parent], [the Parent] is the one to provide services/support as [the Parent] does not trust anyone else. [They] also stated as the parent, [the Parent] needs to be the student's voice at school. [The Parent] shared that if [the Parent] were at school, supports wouldn't be necessary as [the Parent] would only need to look at [the Student] to behave, the student doesn't have to guess at what [the Parent] might think, and that [the Parent] could speak directly to [the Student] about expectations and routines and check in to see if [the Student] is alright [sic].

Other reasons provided were to ensure [the Student] is connected to friends and teachers and that [the Student] needs to know [the Parent] is there. In considering [the Parent's] request, the team is refusing to initiate the parent[-] requested change as the school is responsible for implementing the IEP, the school is able to implement the IEP, and data indicates that [the Student] is making appropriate progress. Also, the parents are able to meaningfully participate in the IEP process without providing support or observing for extensive time periods. This could also be disruptive to the school's instruction, learning environment, and IEP implementation, for which the school is responsible. School staff have explained how the IEP is implemented and the content of specially designed instruction including services delivered by district staff. The parents do have the right to request to visit the school, following board policy and administrative procedures, which includes the decision of whether or not the observations are allowed by the school principal."

c. Options considered: "The team considered the parent [sic] request to observe and directly support [the Student]. The team ultimately determined that the IEP services, supplementary aids, and supports are appropriate to meet [the Student's] needs and to provide [the Student] with a FAPE."

d. Data: Parent requests, parent input, and IEP progress.

e. Relevant factors: "In addition to the district's visitor policy, the principal shared opportunities for the parent to be included in [the Student's] classroom, such as attending Friday morning openers, volunteering, reading to the class, joining [the Student] for lunch, marathon club, Friends and Family Day and Field Day." Additionally, "The team anticipates no harmful effects as a result of this refusal. The school is able to implement the IEP and provide a FAPE." (D113-D115)

26. The Student's 2025-26 Report Card noted the Student incurred 22 excused absences during the school year. Report Card marks indicated the Student met the majority of the English Language Arts (ELA) and math standards addressed. The Student received "targeted for growth" marks in two of the three standards addressed in science and "making progress" marks in the one standard addressed in social studies. Regarding the Student's "successful learner behaviors," the Student's marks declined from either "successful" or "making progress" in semester one to "targeted for growth" in semester two in the following areas: self-control, listening and following directions, accepting responsibility for behavior, responding appropriately to feedback from adults and peers, and managing transitions and changes in routines. (D4-D8, D10)

27. The Student's behavior was documented in the student information system (SIS) for the 2025-26 school year and included:

a. 13 behavior incidents between September 11, 2025 and April 15, 2026.

i. Six of the incidents involved the Student hitting, slapping, kicking, shoving, or holding down peers.

ii. Seven of the incidents involved the Student screaming, yelling, kicking, running, throwing, eloping, or disrupting. (D12-D13, D14-D25)

28. According to the LEA's "Visitors to the School Policy," last revised on January 27, 2026, the board encouraged parents to visit LEA facilities. It stated visitors were required to check in at the office to obtain a visitor's pass before contacting anyone else in the building or on the grounds. The policy stated any visitor to the building would be under the jurisdiction of the building principal, and the principal had the authority to request assistance from law enforcement if any visitor refused to leave or created a disturbance. Violators of the board policy and its rules could be subject to the state trespass law. (P18; D27)

a. A document titled "Visitors to Schools" referenced Board Policy KM and included:

i. "Visits to district schools must be scheduled in advance and require approval from the building principal. … Visitors are required to check in at the office to obtain a visitor's pass immediately upon entering the building. Visitors must be accompanied by a district staff member at all times."

ii. According to the document, the following "Class Observation Procedures" are required:

1. "When a request is received from a patron (defined as a parent, noncustodial parent, grandparent, cousin, retired person, etc.) to observe a classroom, the following procedures apply":

a. "A written request should be submitted to the principal." The Principal will contact the "teacher for [their] permission. If the teacher agrees to the observation, the teacher will suggest a date and time when a planned classroom activity would lend itself to an observation (test[-]taking and other inappropriate days should be avoided). Only a one[-]time observation on a space available basis will be allowed." The principal "will notify [the] patron as to the date/time of the observation." The patron must sign in and secure a visitor's badge and is requested to "not participate in class discussions or activities." (D26)

2. A separate document titled "Guideline for Ob[s]ervations of Individual Students or Programs by Parents or Representative from Other Agencies" described the observation requirements and restrictions. (D29)

Parent Interview

29. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent explained the Student was struggling with behavior "because [the Student had] been through a lot. So I know that [the Student] needed some extra help." (P1, 03:03) The Parent stated they had sole educational decision-making rights for the Student. (P11, 46:22)

30. The Parent believed a February 11, 2026, meeting was only supposed to be a parent-teacher conference. They stated they had not received notice of a meeting for an IEP meeting on that date. (P1, 01:16; P2, 06:34; P4, 15:47) The Parent shared, "Previous to that meeting, I have been a part of the IEP allowing me to come to observe [the Student], but I always stood in the hallway. In that meeting, I asked to … write that into a plan." (P1, 03:03) The Parent said the Special Education Provider and the Principal objected, while the General Education Teacher reportedly said, "I think that's a great idea to have [the Parent] … coming to the classroom." The Parent described their previous observations as "I've been standing out[side the classroom] looking in, not interrupting." They believed their presence was beneficial to the Student, stating the General Education Teacher told them, "You being there has greatly affected and moving [sic] [the Student] forward." (P1-2, 04:17; P2, 05:39, 06:34)
31. The Parent shared they observed the Student from outside the classroom for approximately two to three weeks sometime between August and October 2025. They stated they would come once a day, for 10-15 minutes. They said they coordinated with the General Education Teacher to visit at the time of day the Student needed the most help redirecting. (P7, 28:44, 30:07, 30:32, 30:51) The Parent explained they had to be "buzzed" into the building, and signed in as a visitor. Then the Parent "went down to [the] classroom and I looked … through the window and then I see [the Student] [is] not doing right and I point to wherever [the Student] needs to be going from there and then I step away so that [the Student] doesn't keep looking back and then … I see … [the Student] [is] doing what [they] [are] supposed to do. I just walk away, walk out the side door and leave." (P7, 29:09)
32. The Parent explained the reason for requesting to have parental observations written into the IEP was "to give [the Student] more support and to understand what the goal is for [the Student] so that [they] can get on the right track and … become an independent student." The Parent stated their goal was "to see what's going on in the classroom that does not allow [the Student] to be successful. What is it [the Student] [is] doing that's not allowing [them] to move forward with the rest of the kids?" They reiterated the General Education Teacher had previously appreciated their presence and believed it resulted in social-emotional and academic progress for the Student. (P6, 25:16; P15, 01:01:34) The Parent stated it was only after they requested the observations be written into the IEP that the LEA informed them of the visitor policy. (P20, 01:21:29)
33. The Parent recalled an unspecified date when they were observing the Student and the Principal had interacted with them. According to the Parent, the Principal said the Student was "okay" and indicated the Parent should leave the school. After the Principal walked away, the Parent stayed for a few more minutes before leaving. The Parent reported they called the LEA and requested an IEP meeting. According to the Parent, they were told the meeting could happen in "about two hours." The Parent sat in their parked vehicle across the street to wait. The Parent stated the Principal called the police to have the Parent trespassed; however, the police were not able to do so because the Parent was not on LEA property. The Parent shared they waited for two hours, settled the situation with the police, and no IEP meeting was held that day. (P8, 32:36; P9, 37:29, 38:57; P19, 01:17:27, 01:18:23)

34. The Parent said because of the interaction involving the police, they felt uncomfortable physically attending the subsequent IEP meetings. They shared, "You're using [the] IEP as a way to restrict [the Student], as a way to try to punish [them], a way to punish [their] parents. This is why I said I was scared to go to the [S]chool." Additionally, the Parent reported LEA "only" offered meeting times when the Parent had unmovable work obligations. Therefore, the Parent attended at least one meeting via video conference. (P11, 46:22; P16, 01:06:03; P17, 01:08:41; P19, 01:20:21)

35. The Parent reported they had made multiple records requests and had not received any of the Student's educational records. They stated their first request was in January 2026, and they made subsequent requests after the February 11, 2026, IEP meeting. They stated they were not given a copy of the draft IEP before the February 11, 2026, meeting. (P9-10, 40:13; P10, 43:48; P17, 01:09:06) The Parent stated the LEA never released any records. They believed there should be documentation to support the feedback about the Student they were receiving from the LEA. (P17, 01:09:32, 01:09:33) The Parent said, "Give me the data. You have to have some type of data that says, 'This child needs this. … .' I haven't been presented with any data." (P3, 10:04) They also said, "Every time we ask for data, every time we ask for reports, every time we ask for things that will support what they're doing, not to discredit the support, … [w]e can't get it." (P3, 11:50)

36. Regarding the use of "noise-canceling headphones" with the Student, the Parent believed the headphones were a type of restraint. They stated, "There's nothing in [the] IEP that says so or anything. … I asked, 'Why are we trying things on … [the Student] … that's not in [their] IEP?" The Parent stated the Principal recalled the Student asking to use the headphones. The Parent reported the Student denied requesting the headphones. (P2, 06:34, 07:53) The Parent shared, "We have an IEP so you can … find out what [the Student's] needs are and accommodate [their] needs so you can get the right response and so [the Student] can go through [their] education process. This was not done." (P2, 09:05)

37. The Parent perceived the LEA was isolating the Student. They stated they had observed an interaction between the Student and a classmate where "The paraprofessional walked in and gave my kid something to play with and allowed the other kid to do whatever." The Parent interpreted the paraprofessional's intent as to "single out" the Student. They shared, "They're telling other kids when [the Student escalated], 'get away from [the Student], stand away from [them],' isolating [the Student] farther and causing more problems with [the Student] because now [they] [feel] different. [The Student] feeling [sic] like nobody wants to talk to [them]." (P4, 18:34; P5, 19:44) The Parent claimed, because of behavior issues, the LEA "won't let

[the Student] go out to recess. … [They] do an alternative recess, put [the Student] in [a room] playing with blocks." The Parent perceived the "alternative recess" as a way to "restrict [the Student] from other children." (P5, 20:44; P11, 48:50)

38. The Parent recalled visiting the School and being shown a room in the School office that the Student had been taken to during recess. The Parent stated, "It is just a room where [the Student] can play with blocks … . It's just a room, just a regular room with nobody else in there." The Parent believed the room was "isolating," and stated they were told "Well, your kid doesn't know how to be [sic] behaved." (P12, 51:08, 52:07, 52:50; P13, 53:50)

39. The Parent believed the IEP "sort of regressed [the Student]." They said the Student spent "[the] majority of the [school] time playing with blocks." (P4, 17:39) The Parent stated the IEP was not implemented correctly, adding "They're just doing whatever." (P5, 21:35; P18, 01:13:44, 01:16:07) The Parent also believed the LEA "began to communicate with [the Other Parent] to circumvent" them. The Parent believed the LEA was using the IEP "incorrectly to circumvent people[,] to restrain [the Student], to … alienate [the Student] from other students." (P11, 46:22, 47:43)

40. The Parent shared that because the Student was put into a "restricted area," the Student was not able "to understand how to relate to other children, … and how to conduct [themself] because [they] [are] in an isolated building or situation." The Parent believed this "caused [the Student] emotionally [sic] harm … [the Student] doesn't have any resolution, any conflict resolution because [they] [have] been playing by [themself]." (P12, 49:57) The Parent said, "You shouldn't restrict a child from public education. You shouldn't restrict a parent to understand what is going on with [their student]. You shouldn't restrict a parent from getting public information from the school … . You shouldn't not [sic] document things that was [sic] alleged to happen to [the Student]. You shouldn't … tell the other students, 'Don't play with [the Student].' … You shouldn't put [the Student] in a room because that's best for you. … [They] [are] still a student. … [They] still have the same rights as the student who's able to stay in the classroom." (P18, 01:15:04)

Special Education Provider Interview

41. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Provider verified a document detailing "push-in and pull-out services" contained the scheduled services specific to the Student. (P1, 01:53) They explained it was "[the Student's] daily schedule that [they] [have] at [their] seat. [The Student was] to check off as [they] [go] through each section of it." (P2, 02:11, 02:50)

42. The Special Education Provider stated the Student's teachers were given a copy of the Student's "IEP at a glance" within the first week of school, which began on August 14, 2025. (P2-3, 03:27, 03:47, 03:53)

43. Regarding the February 11, 2026, meeting with the Parent, the Special Education Provider reported the IEP team combined the Student's parent-teacher conference with an IEP meeting. The Special Education Provider indicated the Parent interrupted the conference portion of the meeting to give input on the IEP. They shared, "But we never truly got through the IEP during that first meeting. It was just [the Parent] talking a lot about a lot of different things." (P3, 04:13)

44. The Special Education Provider indicated they sent adequate communication to the Parent regarding the Student's special education services. They stated they sent copies of the current and draft IEP along with a notice of meeting in January 2026. (P4, 05:55) The Special Education Provider reported, "In September, [the Parent] was provided a copy of the IEP that was current, then a copy of the evaluation and copies of signature pages. … And then [the Parent] was provided a copy again of the IEP [in] January [2026] and the draft IEP as well." (P4, 06:59)
45. Regarding a series of emails sent on February 24, 2026, the Special Education Provider said, "I did not respond to those. … I didn't feel comfortable with what [the Parent] was asking, honestly." They stated an FBA was not in place at the time, and a behavior plan had been drafted, but they were waiting on parental consent. The Special Education Provider was unclear as to whether the Parent believed an FBA had already taken place, or if the Parent was requesting an FBA, and indicated they deferred to the LEA to address the records request. (P4, 07:57, 09:07; P5, 09:55, 10:51)
46. The Special Education Provider indicated they were not responsible for PWN to the Parent regarding an FBA or classroom observation. (P5, 12:04)
47. The Special Education Provider stated, "At the beginning of the year, we had a meeting with [the Parent] just to go over what the IEP was. … That was in September [2025]. So I can't speak to why [the Parent] didn't feel informed because there was plenty of communication … ." (P4, 05:55) They observed, "In September [the Parent] did not know what an IEP was and there was no questioning or asking of anything of the current IEP. There was some kind of fallout that happened in February [2026] that all of a sudden the emails started coming." (P6, 12:56)

Principal Interview

48. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal stated they followed policy when they denied the Parent's classroom observation request. They reported the Parent requested to observe "… all day for three days a week, … with clauses that they could change at any moment if they wanted to or cancel at any moment if they wanted to." (P1, 01:38) The Principal explained, per policy, "We want to be able to schedule the set date and time of [the observation]. I need to be able to ensure that the staff member feels comfortable … . I need to ensure that a building personnel was with the visitor at all times during [the observation] and that we needed to have prior notice that these things would be taking place, making sure that there wasn't a special event going on, a substitute, those kind[s] of things." (P1-2, 02:25) They stated they received policy guidance from the LEA, and the documents they used were a mix of internal documents and public-facing documents. The Principal stated they sent the Parent copies of the policies they used to make their determination. (P5, 08:20, 08:40, 09:15)

49. The Principal described the Parent's request for classroom observation of the Student as "persistent." They shared, "It also came in a flurry of different emails and other requests that we were trying to acknowledge and address and make sure that we heard all of the requests of [the Parent] and that the request that [they] did make, we then followed administrative procedures." (P6, 11:42) The Principal noted a conflict between the Parent's requested observation schedule and the Parent's reported work schedule. The Principal stated the Other Parent was "not interested in this investigation." (P6, 12:51)

50. The Principal reported multiple IEP meetings were held before a decision about the Parent's request to observe the Student in their classroom was made. The Principal indicated meetings were held in February, March, and April 2026. They stated three meetings were necessary because "We weren't able to move through initial steps in those first IEP [meetings]." (P4, 05:38) The Principal reported the IEP team "… waited until we had an IEP meeting … to review all of the components of the IEP and to better understand what the function and purpose of the observations were … and if clarity in the IEP meeting would provide … answers [for the Parent], and … were observations going to be necessary to support the student's individual goals and specially design instruction." (P3, 04:56) The Principal stated at the end of the April [2026] meeting "It was decided[,] … that understanding the functionality of [the] observations[′] that … as a team that would not be supportive of the student's goals and functions through the accommodations and modifications we had discussed." (P4, 06:22) Therefore, at the end of the April 2026 IEP meeting, the request for full day classroom observations was denied.

51. The Principal stated they did not send PWN. They indicated the "case manager or [Director of Special Education]" would have sent it. (P4, 07:28)

52. The Principal shared, "[The Parent] feels strongly that [they] [know] what's best for [their] child … We had differing beliefs on how to help students be successful at school, which is okay." (P6, 13:50)

Director of Special Education Interview

53. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Director of Special Education verified three separate IEP meetings were held to review the Student's IEP. (P2, 03:48) They stated the IEP written on April 23, 2026, was the Student's current IEP. They were unsure if parental consent had been received in order to begin implementing changes. (P1, 01:54)

54. Regarding the Parent's requests for an FBA and classroom observation, the Director of Special Education stated, "There were several emails that came in in a very tight timeframe … and we were trying to meet to figure out all of [the Parent's] requests so that we could talk through those requests and consider the request." (P5, 15:36)

They confirmed the emails were received on February 24th, 2026, and the second IEP meeting was held March 12, 2026. (P6, 16:27, 16:41)

55. The Director of Special Education verified the IEP was not completed at either the February or March meetings. (P6, 17:11, 18:46) They reported, "Through that April 23rd meeting, we talked about the [BIP] and there was not [sic] discussion about the further need for additional information to do a formal FBA at that time." (P6-7, 19:43) The Director of Special Education clarified the purpose for the multiple IEP meetings was to respond to and discuss the Parent's requests. (P7, 20:42)
56. The Director of Special Education stated at the February [2026] [IEP] meeting, the team discussed the IEP process with the Parent. They explained, "There were conversations with [the Parent] … helping [them] to just understand the need to meet … so that the team could have a discussion and could make recommendations and consider … requests." The Director of Special Education shared, "It's my opinion that there was frustration on [the Parent's] part for the team to have to meet, that [the Parent] was wanting IEP decisions to be made because [they] [were] requesting them." (P6, 17:11)
57. The Director of Special Education explained the gap between the March 12 and April 23, 2026 meeting was due to the Parent's availability. (P7, 21:03, 22:13)
58. The Director of Special Education shared, "It did come to my attention that [the Parent] was interested in … supervision of … IEP services … and even provid[ing] those services to [the Student]. … the team was going to be looking at that request to come in specific to the IEP services." (P2, 02:20) They explained, during the April meeting, "[The Parent] was, at the time, requesting to be [at the School] from three to five days a week … for the entire length of the school day" for three to six months, and the IEP team was "trying to get at the purpose and the [sic] why [the Parent] wanted to do that." (P2, 03:48) The Director of Special Education stated the Parent was able to share their concerns with the team, and the team agreed to create a [BIP] and modify the Student's specially designed instruction. They said, "This is our role and it's the team's role, the school's role to provide that. And we absolutely can provide [behavior support] through the IEP." (P2, 04:51)
59. The Director of Special Education stated no PWN was sent after the February and March [2026] IEP meetings because "at that point in time the team had not gotten through the IEP process. There were no formal decisions that had been made … . So the team did not have anything to formally respond to … ." (P2-3, 06:10) They could not recall if the PWN included a denial of the FBA. (P7, 20:05)
60. The Director of Special Education shared, "There were opportunities for [the Parent] to be in the school and to participate as all parents do within the school, thinking about lunch bunches, Friday morning meetings, things like that." (P2, 02:20) They indicated the Parent was allowed to volunteer in the Student's classroom, and other participation opportunities "continued to be available to [the Parent] throughout the entire year." (P9, 26:15, 27:29)

61. The Director of Special Education verified the LEA visitor policy was on the LEA website, and indicated additional internal documents were used for guidance as well. (P4, 08:39, 09:46; P5, 14:45)
62. The Director of Special Education did not recall the Parent sending a records request. They confirmed the LEA used a form linked on their website for records requests. (P8, 23:00, 23:10)
63. The Director of Special Education reported, "[The Other Parent] had shared with the team on a couple of different occasions that [they] thought things were going well and [they] [were] not unhappy with the meeting or with the services through the IEP." The Director of Special Education perceived the Other Parent "was not comfortable meeting without [the Parent] because [the Other Parent] didn't feel comfortable making decisions because that would upset [the Parent] and then make things hard for [the Other Parent]." The Director of Special Education said, "The team was really trying to … get services implemented for [the Student] because the team was … proposing to reduce some of [the Student's] services because [they] [were] making good progress." (P8, 23:41)

General Education Teacher Written Response

64. On May 19, 2026, the General Education Teacher provided a written response regarding the Student which stated:
    a. The Student did not "struggle" academically, but had an issue with "successful learner behaviors" in the classroom, including staying quiet and calm at the carpet during lessons; interrupting and rolling around; anger responses to being told to follow rules; and work refusals.
    b. The General Education Teacher was made aware of the Student's accommodations and BIP through their IEP meetings. (General Education Teacher Written Response)

Science Teacher Survey Response

65. According to a survey response, the Science Teacher indicated the following:
    a. They were made aware of the Student's accommodations, modifications, and supports by viewing them on a paraeducator's clipboard. They noted, "Nothing formal was ever presented to me."
    b. The Student's accommodations, modifications, and supports were implemented by the paraeducators, "if needed."
    c. They were "not formally" made aware of the Student's BIP, and never received formal training regarding its implementation. (Science Teacher Survey)

Art Teacher Survey Response

66. According to a survey response, the Art Teacher indicated the following:
    a. They were made aware of the Student's accommodation, modifications, BIP, and support via their online access to the student information system and were also "provided with a binder."
    b. They were made aware of the Student's BIP at the start of the school year.
    c. The Student's accommodations, modifications, and supports were implemented by "a special education teacher and/or para educator in art classes." They described the accommodations provided to the Student which included:
        i. Repeated directions and "chunking" of information.
        ii. Offer breaks in and out of the classroom.
        iii. Offer choice during projects.
        iv. Proximity by a paraeducator or Teacher.
        v. Additional and/or modified "working space and materials to facilitate positive social interactions and focus."
        vi. Positive reinforcement for participating and meeting class expectations.
    d. The Art teacher could not recall receiving specific training regarding the implementation of the Student's BIP. (Art Teacher Survey)

Music Teacher Survey Response

67. According to a survey response, the Music Teacher indicated the following:
    a. They were made aware of the Student's accommodation, modifications, BIP, and support via the IEP at a Glance at the beginning of the year.
    b. The Student's accommodations, modifications, and supports were implemented in their classroom by their paraeducator. They added breaks were provided as needed.
    c. The Music Teacher referred to the Student's special education teacher and paraeducator regarding behavior. They did not indicate how they were made aware of the Student's BIP.
    d. The Music Teacher stated their "teacher certification" was the training they received regarding the Student's BIP. (Music Teacher Survey)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Parent had an opportunity to participate in an IEP meeting after the Parent requested one. Further, the Parent alleges the LEA's denial of the Parent's observation of the Student in their classroom was a denial of their parent participation rights under the IDEA. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(e); 34 CFR § 300.322(a)(c).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(e) and 34 CFR § 300.322(a)(c), each agency shall take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each IEP team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate. These steps shall include the following: scheduling each meeting at a mutually agreed-upon time and place and informing the parents of the information specified in subsection (b) of this regulation; and, except as otherwise provided in the law, providing written notice, in conformance with subsection (b) of this regulation, to the parents of any IEP team meeting at least 10 days in advance of the meeting.

Additionally, an agency may conduct an IEP team meeting without parental participation if the agency, despite repeated attempts, has been unable to contact the parent or parents or to convince them that they should participate. However, if an agency conducts an IEP team meeting without parental participation, the agency shall have a record of the attempts that the agency made to contact the parents to provide them notice of the meeting and to secure their participation. The record shall include at least two of the following: detailed records of telephone calls made or attempted, including the date, time, and person making the calls and the results of the calls; detailed records of visits made to the parent's home, including the date, time, and person making the visit and the results of the visit; copies of correspondence sent to each parent and any responses received; and detailed records of any other method attempted to contact the parents and the results of that attempt.

The Parent alleged the LEA refused to allow them to observe their child's classroom, which impacted the Parent's ability to participate. The Parent alleged they requested an IEP meeting and the LEA refused.

The LEA maintained there were no instances of either of the Student's Parents requesting an IEP in which the team did "not attempt" to schedule with the Parent's. Additionally, the LEA maintained they considered the Parent's request to observe, and the team determined the observations and parental support in the classroom were not necessary for meaningful parent participation or to provide a FAPE.

The LEA took steps to ensure the Parent was afforded the opportunity to participate in the IEP process. The LEA held three meetings, offered ten alternative dates when conflicts arose, and provided virtual access to accommodate the Parent. Regarding classroom observation, while 34 CFR § 300.322 requires participation in meetings, it does not mandate unrestricted classroom access. The LEA allowed meaningful participation by considering parent input on the BIP and IEP goals during the scheduled meetings, and by offering alternative parent involvement activities, fulfilling the requirement to "afford the opportunity to participate."

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to ensure the Parent had an opportunity to participate in an IEP meeting after the Parent requested one. Additionally, based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA denied the Parent their participation rights under the IDEA.

Issue Two

Whether USD #497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Parent with PWN when refusing services or the requests of the Parent. K.A.R. 91-40-26(a), K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2); 34 CFR § 300.503(a).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-26(a), in providing any notice to the parent or parents of an exceptional child in accordance with the law and amendments thereto regarding any action proposed or refused by an agency, each agency shall ensure that the notice includes the following information: a description of other options that the agency considered and the reasons why those options were rejected, and a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal.

According to K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2) and 34 CFR § 300.503(a), the parents of exceptional children have a right to written prior notice in accordance with the law, and amendments thereto, whenever an agency proposes to initiate or change or refuses to initiate or change, the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of a FAPE to the child.

The Parent alleged the LEA failed to provide PWN for each refusal.

The LEA maintained it complied with the IDEA regulations by providing two PWNs on May 6, 2026, following the conclusion of the IEP review process on April 23, 2026. These notices formally documented the LEA's refusal of the Parent's request for classroom observation and support.

On February 24, 2026, the Parent formally requested that the LEA conduct an FBA to address the Student's behavioral incidents; however, the LEA did not complete the assessment, opting instead to draft a BIP based on existing observation and progress data. Despite the Parent's explicit request for PWN regarding any refusal to provide evaluations, the Special Education Provider deferred the email to the LEA without a direct response, and no formal PWN addressing the FBA was issued following the February or March meetings. The Director of Special Education stated that no formal decisions had been finalized at that time, and the subsequent PWN dated May 6, 2026, focused on the proposed BIP and changes to service minutes without providing a formal refusal or rationale concerning the requested FBA.

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to provide the Parent with PWN to address the Parent's request for an FBA and behavior support.

Issue Three

Whether USD #497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Student was served in the LRE and gave consideration to any potential harmful effects on the Student or on the quality of services the Student needed. K.A.R. 91-40-21(a)(g)(h)(i); 34 CFR § 300.114(a).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-21(a)(g)(h)(i) and 34 CFR § 300.114(a), each agency shall ensure that the children with disabilities served by the agency are educated in the LRE. In selecting the LRE for a child with a disability, the persons making the educational placement decision shall give consideration to any potential harmful effect on the child or on the quality of services that the child needs. Additionally, an agency shall not remove a child with a disability from education in age-appropriate regular classrooms solely because of needed modifications in the general curriculum. In providing, or arranging for the provision of, nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities, including meals, recess periods, and other nonacademic services and activities, each agency shall ensure that each child with a disability participates with nondisabled children in those services and activities to the maximum extent appropriate to the needs of that child.

Furthermore, each agency shall ensure that each child with a disability receives the supplementary aids and services specified in the child's IEP as being appropriate and necessary for the child to participate in nonacademic settings.

The Parent alleged that the LEA denied the Student access to peer interaction, social-emotional learning, and a supportive educational environment by instructing other students to "move away" or not speak to the Student when the Student was frustrated, thereby isolating the Student.

The LEA maintained it ensured the Student was served in the LRE and the IEP team appropriately analyzed potential harmful effects during both the initial and current IEP development, which were noted in the PWN. The District concluded that the Parent's request for 1-5 days of direct support and observation was "unnecessarily restrictive" and would have interfered with the Student's "autonomous participation" and IEP implementation.

In the April 23, 2026 IEP draft, the team proposed reducing the Student's pull-out service from 210 minutes to 90 minutes, specifically to increase time in the general education setting. The May 6, 2026 PWN explicitly documented that the team "gave consideration to any potential harmful effect," noting the social stigma of segregation. The refusal to allow the Parent to provide the services personally was justified by the LEA's responsibility to implement the IEP in the school setting, ensuring the Student was not "removed … from regular classrooms solely because of needed modifications."

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to ensure the Student was served in the LRE or to consider any potential harmful effects on the Student or on the quality of services the Student needed.

Issue Four

Whether USD #497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, allowed the Parent to examine data, logs, staff notes, and incident reports related to the use of noise-canceling headphones. K.A.R. 91-40-50(a)(2); K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1), 34 CFR § 300.613(a)(b).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-50(a)(2), the following term shall have the meanings specified in this subsection: "Education records" means any document or medium on which information directly related to one or more students is maintained by a participating agency in accordance with the law and amendments thereto. According to K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1), the parents of exceptional children shall have the right to examine all records relating to such child and to participate in meetings with respect to the identification, evaluation, and educational placement of the child, and the provision of a FAPE to such child.

According to 34 CFR § 300.613(a)(b), each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part. In doing so, the agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing or resolution session pursuant to the law; and, in no case, more than 45 days after the request has been made. The right to inspect and review education records under this section includes the following: the right to a response from the participating agency to reasonable requests for explanations and interpretations of the records; the right to request that the agency provide copies of the records containing the information if failure to provide those copies would effectively prevent the parent from exercising the right to inspect and review the records; and the right to have a representative of the parent inspect and review the records.

The Parent alleged the LEA denied them access to the Student's educational records, including data, logs, staff notes, and incident reports related to the use of noise-canceling headphones.

The LEA maintained that no documentation existed regarding the use of noise-canceling headphones because they were never implemented as a formal strategy. The LEA noted that while headphones were included as an example in a draft BIP, they were removed immediately upon the Parent's request.

The LEA provided the Parent a formal avenue to inspect and review the Student's education records. Following the Parent's February 24, 2026, request for data, logs, and internal communications, the Director of Special Education responded on March 11, 2026, by providing a direct link to the LEA's records request portal. However, the Director confirmed in subsequent interviews that the Parent never submitted a formal request through this system. The Special Education Provider clarified that although headphones were listed as a sensory option in the draft IEP, they were not actually being utilized by the Student. Therefore, the specific data, logs, or records regarding the use of headphones requested by the Parent did not exist.

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to allow the Parent to examine data, logs, staff notes, and incident reports related to the use of noise-canceling headphones.

Issue Five

Whether USD #497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Student's teachers were informed of the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided to the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b); 34 CFR § 300.323(a)(d).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16 (b) and 34 CFR § 300.323(a)(d), each agency shall ensure that the following conditions are met: an IEP is in effect before special education and related services are provided to an exceptional child, those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted, unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown, and, an IEP is in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year, and the child's IEP is accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service provider who is responsible for its implementation. Each teacher and provider described in paragraph (4) of this subsection is informed of the following: that individual's specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP, and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

The Parent alleged the LEA did not follow the Student's IEP when they used noise cancelling headphones which were not an IEP accommodation, and which the Parent had explicitly refused as a behavior support and safety protection that was not authorized in the IEP.

The LEA asserted that it followed standard LEA procedures by ensuring the Student's teachers and paraprofessionals were informed of all required accommodations at the start of the school year. The LEA verified that a case manager printed the "IEP at a glance" in August 2025, and the Classroom Teacher confirmed they had full access to the IEP from the beginning of the term.

Documentation shows the Special Education Provider accessed and printed the "IEP at a Glance" on August 22, 2025. The provider verified that general education teachers were informed of their "specific responsibilities" and "specific accommodations" within the first week of school. Furthermore, the 2025-26 checklist ensured that other responsible staff had "the information they need to provide a FAPE" via PowerTeacher, satisfying the requirement that the IEP be "accessible to each regular education teacher." While all teachers surveyed noted they received no training on the Student's BIP, records indicate the BIP was first proposed and documented in draft form as part of a draft IEP on February 11, 2026, and that IEP was not finalized until April 23, 2026. Because the Parent had not signed the Request for Consent for Special Education Services prior to the complaint, the BIP had not been implemented.

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to ensure the Student's teachers were informed of the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided to the Student.

Issue Six

Whether USD #497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Student with a FAPE. K.A.R. 91-40-1(z); K.A.R. 91-40-2; 34 CFR §§ 300.17, 300.101.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(z), and 34 CFR § 300.17, a FAPE means special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge; meet the standards of the state board; include an appropriate preschool, elementary school, or secondary school education; and are provided in conformity with an IEP. According to K.A.R. 91-40-2 and 34 CFR § 300.101, each agency shall make a FAPE available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction beginning not later than the child's third birthday. Additionally, each agency shall provide special education and related services based upon the child's unique needs and not upon the child's area of exceptionality.

The LEA asserted it provided the Student with a FAPE, as the Student demonstrated consistent progress on IEP goals through the services and supports implemented by the LEA. The LEA asserted its sole responsibility and capability to implement the IEP.

While the Student made progress early in the year, the 2025-26 report card and behavior logs showed a significant decline in "successful learner behaviors" and 13 behavior incidents, including physical aggression. Although the LEA eventually proposed a BIP and modified services in April 2026 to meet the Student's "unique needs," these interventions were not in place during the period of decline. Because the Student's behavior was "impacting their learning or the learning of others" as early as the February 2025 IEP, the delay in formalizing an effective BIP until April 2026 resulted in a failure to provide services "appropriate to the needs of that child" during the 2025-26 school year.

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to provide the Student with a FAPE.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-26(a) specify that written prior notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency proposes or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #497 did not provide timely PWN when refusing the Parent's February 24, 2026, request for an FBA and specific behavioral supports.

B. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.17 and K.A.R. 91-40-1(z) specify that a FAPE means special education and related services that are provided in conformity with an IEP and are designed to meet the child's unique needs.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #497 did not provide the Student with a FAPE during the 2025-26 school year.

Based on the foregoing, USD #497 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #497 shall hold an IEP meeting to develop a plan to provide compensatory education services, in addition to the services listed in the Student's IEP and BIP, as follows:
    a. Direct BIP instruction for 50 hours.
    b. Social Skills training for 20 hours.
    c. Behavioral consultation to LEA staff on the Student's BIP for 5 hours.
2. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #497 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.17 and K.A.R. 91-40-2 by ensuring that a FAPE is made available to the Student and that the Student's IEP and behavior supports are reviewed and revised in response to data showing a lack of progress or behavioral regression.
3. By August 1, 2026, USD #497 will complete the following: (1) submit a written statement of assurance to SETS that the LEA's practices and procedures for providing PWN have been reviewed and revised to ensure they are responsive to parental requests for evaluations, including FBAs, independent of annual review timelines; (2) provide a written description of the District's tracking system used to ensure that parental requests for evaluations or services are addressed with a PWN or consent form within the required legal timelines.

4. By August 1, 2026, USD #497 will complete the following: (1) submit a written statement of assurance to SETS that the LEA's procedures for monitoring behavioral progress have been reviewed and revised to include specific "data triggers" that require an IEP team to convene when a student shows a significant decline in behavioral or learner standards; (2) provide documentation of staff training for special education personnel regarding the timely development of FBAs and BIPs when a student's behavior impacts their learning or the learning of others.

The LEA shall schedule the required compensatory services and provide that schedule to the parent/decision maker and to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) in writing. The parent or education decision maker may choose to accept all, some, or none of the offered compensatory services. The parent or the education decision maker must respond to the school district and Special Education and Title Services (SETS), in writing, to identify which services (if any) are accepted. The written schedule of services may be sent to SETS at brian.dempsey@ksde.gov.

Once the LEA receives the written response, it will schedule any accepted compensatory services. If a student is absent or a parent is unable to make the student available at the scheduled time, the services scheduled for that day will not be made up. If LEA staff are unavailable, the services will be rescheduled. Any compensatory service that is declined or not used as scheduled will be considered waived, as long as the district has made a good-faith effort to begin and to provide the services in a timely manner."

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 497
Lawrence Public Schools: 26FC497-004

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on April 27, 2026, by ------- on behalf of his child, -------. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the parent," and ------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on May 27, 2026. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, and the district's notice of appeal. The parent did not file a response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

Two issues are under Appeal, Issue two and Issue six. The committee will first address Issue 6 and then Issue 2:

Issue Six

ISSUE SIX: Whether USD #497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Student with a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE).

The investigator concluded that the district failed to provide the student with a FAPE for the following reasons:

> While the Student made progress early in the year, the 2025-26 report card and behavior logs showed a significant decline in "successful learner behaviors" and 13 behavior incidents, including physical aggression. Although the LEA eventually proposed a BIP and modified services in April 2026 to meet the Student's "unique needs," these interventions were not in place during the period of decline. Because the Student's behavior was "impacting their learning or the learning of others" as early as the February 2025 IEP, the delay in formalizing an effective BIP until April 2026 resulted in a failure to provide services "appropriate to the needs of that child" during the 2025-26 school year. (Report, p 44)

The Appeal Committee finds this conclusion rather harsh, given the following circumstances, all of which were cited in the report:

- The Student's IEP Progress Report dated December 19, 2025, noted the following progress toward the Student's goal: May 20, 2025, October 14, 2025, and December 19, 2025: Progress adequate to meet annual goal. (Finding 1(i)), Page 5)
- The February 11, 2026 IEP Meeting Notes included:
    - "IEP meeting was scheduled, parents attended, but [the] meeting did not take place as parents did not want to talk about [the] draft IEP."
    - "[The Parent] stated [they] wanted to be written into the IEP and made a part of the team. It was explained … that parents are a part of the team and we weigh their input when writing the IEP."
    - The team tried to discuss the IEP draft, educate the Parent about the IEP process, and reschedule the meeting without success. It was explained the Student's previous IEP would be implemented.
    - "IEP meeting on hold until we hear back from parents." (Finding 6, p. 9-10)
- Regarding the February 11, 2026, meeting with the Parent, the Special Education Provider reported the IEP team combined the Student's parent-teacher conference with an IEP meeting. The Special Education Provider indicated the Parent interrupted the conference portion of the meeting to give input on the IEP. They shared, "But we never truly got through the IEP during that first meeting. It was just [the Parent] talking a lot about a lot of different things." (Finding 43, p. 30).
- On February 24, 2026, the Parent sent the following emails to the LEA:

  - 1:38 a.m.: The Parent requested a virtual meeting link for a March 2, 2026 meeting. (Finding 11, p. 13)

- On March 4, 2026, the Special Education Provider emailed the Parent the link for the virtual IEP meeting for March 12, 2026, at 1:00 p.m. (Finding 14, p. 16)
- March 12, 2026 IEP Meeting Notes included:
  1. "We were not able to get past the first goal of the IEP. [The Parent] said [they] saw earphones in the draft and doesn't want earphones used. [The] [t]eam said they would take that out as earphones were not used. They were listed as an option for sensory."
  2. "The team reached a time boundary and attempted to reschedule."
  3. "[The Parent] said [the Parent] has items [they] would like to request in writing and we will need to schedule another date/time to finish the meeting. [The [t]eam will email with new dates." (Finding 16, p. 17)
  4. On April 10, 2026, the Special Education Provider emailed the Parents to propose an IEP meeting on April 23, 2026, from 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and added they could provide a virtual link if necessary. The Special Education Provider informed the Parents that a meeting notice would be sent to their email and noted they could sign online. (P16-P17) An April 10, 2026 Notice of Meeting proposed a meeting on April 23, 2026, to develop and discuss the IEP and conduct an annual review. (Finding 18, p. 17)
- April 23, 2026 IEP Meeting Notes included:
  1. "The meeting started w[h]ere the previous meeting had left off, after the goals. (Finding 20, p. 18)
  2. The Parent] stated [they] did not trust us anymore and we wasted [the Parent's] time. [The Parent] said [the Parent] was blocking emails and would not respond. Meeting ended." (Finding 20(k), p. 19)
  3. The Principal reported multiple IEP meetings were held before a decision about the Parent's request to observe the Student in their classroom was made. The Principal indicated meetings were held in February, March, and April 2026. They stated three meetings were necessary because "We weren't able to move through initial steps in those first IEP [meetings]." (P4, 05:38) The Principal reported the IEP team "… waited until we had an IEP meeting … to review all of the components of the IEP and to better understand what the function and purpose of the observations were … and if clarity in the IEP meeting would provide … answers [for the Parent], and … were observations going to be necessary to support the student's individual goals and specially design instruction." (P3, 04:56) The Principal stated at the end of the April [2026] meeting "It was decided[,] … that understanding the functionality of [the] observations['] that … as a team that would not be supportive of the student's goals and functions through the accommodations and modifications we had discussed." (P4, 06:22) Therefore, at the end of the April 2026 IEP meeting, the request for full day classroom observations was denied. (Finding 50, p. 32)

- The Director of Special Education verified the IEP was not completed at either the February or March meetings. (P6, 17:11, 18:46) They reported, "Through that April 23rd meeting, we talked about the [BIP] and there was not [sic] discussion about the further need for additional information to do a formal FBA at that time." (P6-7, 19:43) The Director of Special Education clarified the purpose for the multiple IEP meetings was to respond to and discuss the Parent's requests. (Finding 55, p. 33)
- The Director of Special Education stated no PWN was sent after the February and March [2026] IEP meetings because "at that point in time the team had not gotten through the IEP process. There were no formal decisions that had been made … . So the team did not have anything to formally respond to … ." (P2-3, 06:10) They could not recall if the PWN included a denial of the FBA. (Finding 59, p. 34).

In addition, the parent did not believe the student needed many of the behavioral supports proposed by the IEP team, such as headphones and fidgets, saying at the April 23, 2026 IEP meeting that "he just needs [to] be told to stop and sit down." (Finding 20d. on p. 18).

Another consideration is that unlike much of academic progress, behavioral improvements are frequently not achieved in a straight line. Rather, students often go through periods of progression and regression while learning new behavior skills. Those periods of regression do not mean progress is not meaningful.

Finally, the Appeal Committee notes that courts have cautioned school districts against attempting to meet timelines by limiting a parent's right to participate in the decision making process. Those courts have emphasized that the right of a parent to participate in the decision making process is typically stronger than a school district's obligation to meet required timelines. For example, in Doug C. v. State of Hawaii Dept. of Ed., 61 IDELR 91 (9th Cir. 2013), the school district decided to conduct an IEP meeting without the parent because the parent was not available on suggested dates for the meeting and so the legally required annual IEP meeting date would not otherwise be met. Even though the law required the IEP meeting to be held within one-year of the previous meeting, the court held that the school district's decision to proceed with the meeting was "clearly unreasonable."

In that case, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in the 9th Circuit recognized that how a school district chooses to proceed in such circumstances involves judgement, and said:

When confronted with the situation of complying with one procedural requirement of the IDEA or another, we hold that the agency must make a reasonable determination of which course of action promotes the purposes of the IDEA and is least likely to result in the denial of a FAPE. In reviewing an agency's action in such a scenario, we will allow the agency reasonable latitude in making that determination.

The situation in this case is not identical to the situation in Doug C. v. State of Hawaii Dept. of Ed., but it is similar in that it presents the question of whether a school district should press ahead with an IEP meeting to make educational decisions or allow time to go by in order to enable parents to exercise their right to participate in the decision making process. In this case, the district chose the latter option.

Given the above findings in the complaint report and using the court's guidance to "allow the agency reasonable latitude in making that determination," the Appeal Committee finds that the delay in formulating a behavior intervention plan was not so much due to a lack of diligence on the part of the district as much as it was that the parent wanted to discuss other issues first and used entire meetings in doing so. The parents desire to talk about other issues first was the primary reason for the delay, and the district acted reasonably by patiently allowing the parents to do so.

For the reasons stated herein, the conclusion in this issue is reversed. There is no violation of the obligation to make a free appropriate public education available to this student.

Issue Two

Whether USD #497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Parent with prior written notice (PWN) when refusing services or the requests of the Parent.

In the conclusion portion of the complaint report, the investigator provided the following summary:

The LEA maintained it complied with the IDEA regulations by providing two PWNs on May 6, 2026, following the conclusion of the IEP review process on April 23, 2026. These notices formally documented the LEA's refusal of the Parent's request for classroom observation and support.

On February 24, 2026, the Parent formally requested that the LEA conduct an FBA to address the Student's behavioral incidents; however, the LEA did not complete the assessment, opting instead to draft a BIP based on existing observation and progress data. Despite the Parent's explicit request for PWN regarding any refusal to provide evaluations, the Special Education Provider deferred the email to the LEA without a direct response, and no formal PWN addressing the FBA was issued following the February or March meetings. The Director of Special Education stated that no formal decisions had been finalized at that time, and the subsequent PWN dated May 6, 2026, focused on the proposed BIP and changes to service minutes without providing a formal refusal or rationale concerning the requested FBA.

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to provide the Parent with PWN to address the Parent's request for an FBA and behavior support. (Report, p. 39)

This description is correct. The district eventually issued a well-written PWN refusing to conduct a FBA on May 21, 2026.

This PWN, however, is not sufficient because it is not timely. The relevant law does not prescribe a specific timeline, but Kansas has adopted a policy that requires a district to respond to a parent's request with a PWN within a reasonable time (usually within 15 school days, unless there are unusual circumstances) either agreeing with the request or refusing the request. The district's PWN indicates that the decision to refuse the request was made at the April 23 IEP meeting but the PWN is dated May 21, 2026, almost a full month after the IEP team decision was made and 24 calendar days after this complaint was filed. The Appeal Committee also notes that because this complaint was filed on April 27, 2026 the district still had ample time to provide a timely PWN and it failed to do so.

The conclusion of the investigator is sustained on this issue.

Conclusion

The decision of the complaint investigator is reversed with respect to Issue 6 and sustained with respect to Issue 2. Accordingly, corrective actions 1, 2, and 4 are rescinded. Corrective Action 3 remains a required action.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 18th day of June, 2026.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #233
ON APRIL 28, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: MAY 27, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -------, by their parent, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD # 233, Olathe Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #233.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on April 28, 2026, and the 30-day timeline ended on May 28, 2026.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #233, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), obtained informed, written parental consent prior to initiating, planning, or conducting a speech and language evaluation of the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-27 (a)(1)(b)(c), K.S.A. 72-3430 (b)(6); 34 CFR § 300.300 (a)(1)(3).

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #233, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided prior written notice (PWN) to the Parent before initiating or conducting an evaluation of the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-26 (a), K.S.A. 72-3430 (b)(2-3); 34 CFR § 300.503.

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD #233, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, obtained informed, written parental consent prior to disclosing the Student's personally identifiable education records to the Guardian Ad Litem (GAL) or any other third party. K.A.R. 91-40-50 (b); 34 CFR § 300.622.

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parent and the Other Parent on May 18, 2026. The following LEA staff were interviewed on May 19, 2026: Teacher 1, Teacher 2, the Special Services Coordinator, the Speech Language Pathologist, and the Secretary.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Emails between all parties, 03/04/26-05/13/26
2. Notice of Meeting, 04/17/26
3. Prior Written Notice for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, 04/17/26
4. Prior Written Notice for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, 04/29/26
5. Letter, re: [the Student] – Response to April 30, 2026 Email; Second Corrected PWN Received; Outstanding Items, 04/30/26
6. Letter, re: [the Student] – Response to April 24, 2026 Email; Outstanding Requests; Records Access; Consent, 04/24/26
7. Ages and Stages Questionnaire (ASQ) Scoring Chart, 03/04/26
8. Family Court Orders, 08/29/25
9. Order Appointing Guardian Ad Litem, 09/25/25
10. Letter, re: Joint Legal Custodian Notice, 05/07/26
11. HIPAA Compliant Authorization for Exchange of Health and Education Information, 04/20/26
12. Screening/Eval Checklist, no date
13. Screening Observation Sheet, 04/03/26
14. Vision Screening, no date
15. Screenshot of Student Information, no date

Background Information

This Investigation involved a three-year-old student seeking services through USD #233, Olathe Public Schools. The Student is not currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). For purposes of the Investigation, the Parent serves as the only complainant, whereas the Other Parent is involved as a witness.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. In an August 29, 2025 Civil Department Family Court document, the court:
   a. Granted the Other Parent's motion for a Guardian Ad Litem (GAL).
   b. Ordered "joint legal custody" of the Student for both parents, with "equal rights to involvement in[,] and responsibility for[,] decisions affecting their children's health, education and welfare."
2. In a September 25, 2025 County District Court Order to appoint a GAL, the GAL was "authorized to meet with, interview and obtain information from school officials, teachers, staff and other educational personnel."
3. An undated screenshot of the Student's profile in the LEA's Student Information System (SIS) listed both Parents with "Contact Allowed," "Ed[ucational] Rights," "Has Custody," and "Mailings Allowed." The record indicated the Student "Lives With" the Other Parent, and not with the Parent.
4. A March 4, 2026 form submission to the LEA documented the Other Parent referring the Student for "Speech and/or language concerns." The document also indicated the Student had been screened or evaluated by an outside agency or school district.
5. Forms titled Ages and Stages Questionnaire Social Emotional Edition Two (ASQ: SE2) and ASQ 36 Month Edition 3 indicated they were both completed by the Other Parent on March 4, 2026. In a May 7, 2026 response to the Complaint, the Parent noted the March 4, 2026 screening forms included an error in the Student's gender because "the forms were completed by [the Other Parent] alone, without my participation or knowledge."
6. A calendar appointment sent on March 13, 2026, from the Secretary to the Other Parent, indicated the Student had a "developmental screening appointment" on April 3, 2026, and explained general information and instructions regarding the screening.
7. An undated Screening Evaluation Checklist indicated the Student was recommended for further evaluation on April 7, 2026. An April 3, 2026 Screening Observation Sheet for the Student indicated the "Screener" was Teacher 2 and the Other Parent was an "Observer." The form documented in-person observations of the Student, a vision screening, a hearing screening, and tympanometry.
8. On April 8, 2026, Teacher 1 sent an "Early Childhood Developmental Screening Summary" to the Other Parent, which outlined the April 3, 2026 screening and indicated the LEA would contact the Other Parent to schedule an evaluation.
9. In an April 10, 2026 email to the Other Parent, the Speech Language Pathologist (SLP) indicated they received a referral for the Student, and they would be "conducting the speech evaluation to determine eligibility, and if eligible, develop an IEP." The SLP requested a convenient time for the Other Parent to bring the Student "for the evaluation."

10. April 17, 2026 Prior Written Notice (PWN) for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent included:
    a. The Parent's name and emergency phone number.
    b. the Other Parent's name, address, home phone, work phone, and emergency phone numbers.
    c. The notice was "hand delivered" to the Parent/Legal Education Decision Maker (LEDM) on April 17, 2026.
    d. The action proposed was to "conduct an initial evaluation" with "Parental Consent Required."
    e. "Communication Status" was selected as the type of evaluation, and boxes were checked indicating "new data" and "existing data" would be used.
    f. The explanation of why the action was proposed, the options considered, and other factors considered were documented.
    g. The data used as a basis for the proposed action were listed as "formal and informal assessments," "early childhood screening," and "parent input."
    h. Under the "acknowledgement" and the "consent" sections, the Other Parent signed and dated the document on April 17, 2026. Under the "do not give consent" section, there were no signatures or dates included.
11. An April 17, 2026 Notice of Meeting (NOM) indicated a proposed meeting date of April 27, 2026 to review the evaluation and determine eligibility. Both Parents were listed on the Notice, and the notice specified the NOM was "emailed to the Parent/Legal Education Decision Maker(s) listed" on April 17, 2026. The document explained "the results of the evaluation or reevaluation of your child are now available," and the LEA "must" meet with the Parent to "review the evaluation results for your child." The "Acknowledgement" section indicated a parent received a copy of their rights and planned to attend the meeting as scheduled, though the section was unsigned and undated.
12. In an April 17, 2026, 11:04 a.m. email to the Parent, the SLP stated, "I evaluated [the Student] today and wanted to let you know about [their] initial evaluation meeting date/time. I have also attached your parental rights." Documents titled "NOM" and "Parental Rights" were attached to the email.
13. In an April 17, 2026, 3:19 p.m. email to the Parent, the SLP replied to the Parent's request for a different meeting date, evaluation records, and assessment results from earlier in the day. The SLP indicated they would look for another day and time for the evaluation meeting to ensure "all members [were] able to participate." The SLP also explained there were no current evaluation records or assessment results. "When we meet, we will discuss [the] results of [the Student's] speech evaluation[,] and if the team decides together to move forward, you will be given all related documents."

14. In an April 20, 2026, 9:03 a.m. email to the GAL, the SLP, the Parent, and the Principal, the Other Parent attached the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA) Authorization for Exchange of Health and Education Information "for all parties." The Other Parent stated, "It is my understanding the meeting for next Monday [April 27, 2026] was cancelled[,] and I would like to get this scheduled ASAP to determine [the Student's] eligibility and need for Speech/Language services."
15. A HIPAA Authorization for Exchange of Health and Education Information included a release of information (ROI) for the Student, to exchange information between the SLP, the LEA, and the GAL. The form was signed by the Other Parent on April 20, 2026, and authorized the exchange for the 2025-26 school year.
16. In an April 20, 2026, 10:19 a.m. email to the SLP and the Principal, the Parent indicated they received the Other Parent's email regarding the Student's speech-language evaluation and scheduling an eligibility determination meeting. The Parent noted they did not receive PWN of "the speech/language evaluation that has already been conducted," and they "did not provide written consent to that evaluation." The Parent expressed their belief the HIPAA/Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) ROI "authorizes [the GAL] as the sole recipient of [the Student's] health and education information," and they did "not consent" to their "exclusion from [the Student's] educational and health records." The Parent clarified, "No eligibility determination meeting regarding [the Student] should be scheduled or conducted without my written notice and participation."
17. In an April 22, 2026, 1:28 p.m. email to the Parent with the SLP copied, the Principal shared the LEA "received written consent from [the Other Parent] on Friday, April 17, 2026," and "once consent is signed, the evaluation process can take up to 60 school days." They explained the team would meet to discuss the report once the evaluation process was complete, but they did not have data to share at that time. They indicated the Parent would receive a NOM when it was time to set that meeting, and would also receive PWN and Parent rights from the SLP "via email today."
18. In an April 22, 2026, 1:50 p.m. email to the Parent, with the Principal copied, the SLP attached documents titled "PWN" and "Parental Rights," and indicated the Parent should let the SLP know if they had questions.
19. In an April 22, 2026, 5:20 p.m. email to the SLP and the Principal, the Parent indicated they received an April 17, 2026 PWN for Evaluation and Request for Consent on April 22, 2026. The Parent outlined their belief that "the evaluation was conducted on April 17, 2026" by the SLP; the NOM "stating results are available" was issued on the same date; the Other Parent signed a consent form on the same date; and PWN "was transmitted to me on April 22, 2026 – five days after the evaluation." The Parent asserted that when the SLP "conducted an assessment on April 17, 2026," it was "new data collection, not a review of existing data," and the April 17, 2026 NOM, "stating that evaluation results are now available," meant this was confirmation that the evaluation "was completed" that day. The Parent reiterated, "Written permission was not received from me at any point before the evaluation was conducted." The Parent also revisited their claim that the ROI signed by the Other Parent on April 20, 2026, made the GAL "the sole recipient" of the Student's health and education records, and they "did not authorize this release."

a. On April 23, 2026, at 4:36 p.m., the Principal replied, copied the Special Services Coordinator, and stated, "The evaluation has not been completed at this time. With consent from one parent, the [LEA] is obligated to conduct an evaluation."

b. On April 23, 2026, at 5:56 p.m., the Parent replied to all recipients and reiterated multiple items from previous emails. The Parent asserted their right as a parent and LEDM, and stated the LEA "cannot simultaneously take the position that one parent's consent was sufficient to proceed. The [LEA's] own document created the obligation to obtain [the Parent's] consent" because the Parent was listed as one of the parents/LEDMs on the April 17, 2026 PWN.

20. On April 24, 2026, at 4:27 p.m., the Special Services Coordinator replied to the Parent, apologizing for the PWN not being dated correctly, and for the manner in which it was delivered also being incorrect. They assured the Parent they would send a corrected PWN. They inquired if the Parent had any "areas of concern" they would like the team to address for the Student and stated, "After I hear back from you, I will send a Prior Written Notice." They substantiated the Parent's right to consent or to decline consent on the PWN document. The Special Services Coordinator also clarified, "Since we have consent from one educational decision-maker, we are required to move forward with the evaluation. As [the Principal] stated, the evaluation has not been completed[,] so there is no evaluation report at this time. The Notice of Meeting was intended to reserve a time for a meeting. The meeting has been cancelled[,] and a new meeting will be scheduled at a mutually agreeable time for all parties once the evaluation is complete."

21. On April 27, 2026, the Parent replied to the email chain, indicating they attached a letter with their complete response to the Special Services Coordinator's April 24, 2026 email. In a letter, dated April 24, 2026, and addressed to the Special Services Coordinator with the Principal and the SLP copied, the Parent responded to the Special Services Coordinator's April 24, 2026 email with:

a. Acknowledgement regarding the LEA's clerical errors on the PWN.

b. Confirmation they did not have additional areas of concern regarding the Student.

c. A second inquiry regarding who referred the Student for speech and language services and when the referral happened.

d. A reiterated objection to "any interpretation or application of the April 20[,] [2026] release that would treat me as excluded from receiving [the Student's] educational and health records independently."

e. A reiteration of multiple requests and objections previously noted.

22. In an April 29, 2026, 4:17 p.m. email to the Parent, the Special Services Coordinator stated they attached a PWN, Medicaid consent, and parent rights, along with the "document sent to me with responses in blue." In response to the Parent's April 24, 2026 letter, the LEA wrote:
    a. They acknowledged the Parent had not consented to evaluation and noted: "consent is voluntary. … Because one educational decision-maker has consented to the evaluation, the [LEA] has permission to move forward with an evaluation."
    b. "Since you have no additional concerns, the PWN enclosed has not been amended from what was originally sent to you (except for the date and method of delivery)."
    c. The LEA indicated the Early Childhood Screener referral was received by the LEA on March 4, 2026, and it was "a parent request."
    d. "A HIPPA [sic] release does not limit an educational decision-maker's individual rights." The LEA would continue to provide each parent with their individual rights as an LEDM.
23. April 29, 2026 PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent included:
    a. The Parent's name and emergency phone number.
    b. The Other Parent's name, address, home phone, work phone, and emergency phone numbers.
    c. The notice was "emailed" to the Parent/LEDM on April 29, 2026.
    d. The action proposed was to "conduct an initial evaluation" with "Parental Consent Required."
    e. "Communication Status" was selected as the type of evaluation, and both "new data" and "existing data" boxes were checked.
    f. The explanation of why the action was proposed, the options considered, and other factors considered were documented.
    g. The data used as a basis for the proposed action were listed as "formal and informal assessments," "early childhood screening," and "parent input."
    h. Under the "acknowledgement," "consent," and "do not give consent" sections, there were no signatures or dates included.
24. In an April 29, 2026, 8:26 p.m. email to the Special Services Coordinator, with the Principal, the SLP, and an LEA employee copied, the Parent attached a letter dated April 30, 2026. In the April 30, 2026 letter addressed to the Special Services Coordinator, with the Principal, the SLP, an LEA employee, and the Complaint Investigator copied, the Parent reiterated multiple items from previous emails. The Parent documented that the LEA's April 24, 2026 email acknowledged mistakes with the PWN, and that the Parent received the corrected April 29, 2026 PWN. They indicated this version was emailed on April 29, 2026, which was "12 days" after "the evaluation was conducted [on] April 17, 2026."

25. In an April 30, 2026, 2:19 p.m. email to the Parent, the Special Services Coordinator "reattached the Prior Written Notice for evaluation[,] as I realized I had not included all pertinent information on the one sent below." A document titled "[The Student] PWN for Eval" was attached to the email.

26. In an April 30, 2026, 3:30 p.m. email to the Special Services Coordinator, with the Principal, the SLP, an LEA employee, the Assistant Director, and the Complaint Investigator copied, the Parent apologized for their letter not being attached on April 29, 2026, and noted it was attached to this email and requested confirmation of receipt.

    a. In an April 30, 2026 letter addressed to the Special Services Coordinator, with the Principal, the SLP, an LEA employee, the Assistant Director, and the Complaint Investigator copied, the Parent reiterated multiple items from previous emails and letters. The Parent clarified they had not provided input "at any stage of this evaluation," despite the April 30, 2026 PWN indicating "parent input" as a form of data. Additionally, the Parent stated they would not sign "either corrected PWN" until they "have received the complete evaluation report."

    b. The LEA responded to multiple items in this letter on May 1, 2026. Notably, the LEA responded to the Parent's position regarding the HIPAA ROI, "As stated previously, each parent holds an individual right to authorize the release of their child's records to a third party."

27. In the May 1, 2026 LEA Response to the Complaint, the LEA expressed "to date, the [LEA] has provided no information to the GAL, nor communicated with the GAL."

28. In a May 7, 2026 email response to the Parent, the Special Services Coordinator reiterated that there were no "evaluation instruments, speech-language protocols, or assessments" administered to the Student on April 17, 2026. The Special Services Coordinator clarified that on April 17, 2026, the SLP "met [the Student] and listened to [their] speech that day." Further, the Special Services Coordinator indicated the April 17, 2026 NOM was for staff to "reserve dates and schedule meetings on their school calendars to ensure they have a time and day secured."

29. In a May 13, 2026 email to the Parent, the Assistant Director clarified, "Parent input is based on parent-provided input, regardless of format, or which parent provides it." The Assistant Director recounted the Special Services Coordinator requesting the Parent's input on April 24, 2026, and the Parent declining to provide additional input on April 27, 2026. The Assistant Director indicated the team would consider any input the Parent "would like to share regarding [the Student] at the eligibility determination meeting."

Parent Interview

30. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent shared that their previous daycare provider noticed the Student was having "some issues" with "hearing and communicating," which was brought to their attention, and the Other Parent took the Student for a hearing screening. That screening revealed the need for the Student to have tubes in their ears, but the Parent stated, "I didn't notice anything (then), and I don't notice anything now either, that's different" with the Student's hearing.
31. The Parent pointed out clerical discrepancies in the PWN sent to them on April 22, 2026, namely, it stated PWN was hand-delivered, "and that didn't happen," and "my phone number's blank." The Parent correlated this experience with their divorce case and "a pattern of how things are happening without me, and I don't know until after the fact. … I'm not against the evaluation, but it's the wrong way of doing it."
32. When asked about the Parent's concerns with the ROI that the other Parent signed for the GAL to access educational information, the Parent stated, "[The GAL] already has the ability to do things, but to add [the ROI], it didn't make sense." They explained the GAL's role as "making sure that both parents are seeing the kids, and seeing [to] their best interests. I just look at the court order, where it shows that [the GAL] can get access to documents. … No written document needs to be made, just [the court] order would have to be shown."

Other Parent Interview

33. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Other Parent described the Student's infant-toddler services for speech. "Being a school psychologist, I understand that early intervention is crucial. So at around the two-year mark, Infant-Toddler Services and I discussed having [the Student] tested audiologically because [they] had had quite a few ear infections, and we just weren't sure why [the Student] wasn't picking up on language." They explained the Student had tubes put in May of 2024, and "the language boom was incredible." They decided to exit the Student from services "because [their] language was great," but noticed the Student having "slushy speech" or "lateralization." This is what spurred the Other Parent to request a screening through the LEA, bring the Student in, and then sign the consent for evaluation. The Other Parent indicated the Parent "was a participant" in the process of the Student having the tubes placed, along with infant-toddler services, and "knew all about it" because the Parent was "still in the home and we were still married" at that time.
34. The Other Parent noted they notified the LEA "to make sure that [the LEA] invite[s] both parties to the evaluation meeting." Additionally, the Other Parent indicated there was a restraining order, which prohibited them from contacting the Parent to make them aware of the screening and evaluation. "The only way I could contact [the Parent] is through [the GAL] or through my attorney. This is what [the Student] needs. It's a continuation of care from the infant-toddler services."

35. The Other Parent clarified that when they requested the screening and evaluation, they shared all the requested information, but did not go into detail with the LEA that there was "a messy divorce." The Other Parent did share the Parent's email address with the LEA.

Special Services Coordinator Interview

36. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Services Coordinator clarified the Student was not enrolled as part of the LEA prior to the screening. They explained that the screening process was first, parents/guardians visiting the website, then they would request a developmental screening, and then, based on the information provided, the LEA reaches out to the person who submitted the request to complete more information and a paper screening. With that information, the LEA decides whether or not to move forward with an evaluation.
37. The Special Services Coordinator indicated there was a clerical error on the April 17, 2026 PWN, noting the PWN listed it was "hand-delivered," when it was not. The Special Services Coordinator sent the Parent corrected PWN after asking if they had "any other concerns [they] would like the team to consider." The Parent responded they did not have concerns to add, and the Special Services Coordinator sent the updated April 29, 2026 PWN. The Special Services Coordinator clarified April 17, 2026 PWN sent to the Other Parent had the exact same content (other than the aforementioned clerical error) as the one sent to the Parent on April 22, 2026. They added that it is typical with two parents/guardians that one would sign the PWN and have it hand delivered, and the other parent/guardian would get it emailed as an attachment or through DocuSign. They confirmed they followed the typical procedure in this case.
38. The Special Services Coordinator explained in regard to the ROI, "typically, it's one parent [that] may make that request because they each have the right to do that." They added, "The guardian ad litem paperwork could be enough to indicate whether or not we can communicate with that person. At that point in time, we did not have that paperwork from the guardian ad litem. So we went ahead and asked [the Other Parent] to sign a release." They indicated they had not communicated with or shared information with the GAL due to the Complaint being filed.
39. The Special Services Coordinator explained informal and formal evaluation/observation for early childhood. "There are times that informally you may do observations, meet and greet, get to know a kiddo before you do any type of evaluation, so you can develop that rapport. … Then when they come in again, you can do more formalized standardized assessments where you get a standard score and a percentile ranking and that type of thing." They indicated there was an early childhood screening that took place at the early childhood center, and because there were "areas of concern," they spoke with the Other Parent about doing an evaluation.

Speech Language Pathologist Interview

40. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the SLP explained the Student's screening got "flagged" because of speech, and the concerns the Other Parent described were legitimate concerns the SLP found throughout the evaluation process. When they receive a screening file, they have 10 days to contact the person who requested the screening, and since the Other Parent completed the request, the SLP reached out to them.
41. The SLP clarified that an informal evaluation is "ongoing" and "is not standardized," but can be used to qualify a child for services. They explained in the Student's case, they did not necessarily need a formal standardized speech language assessment because "a lateralization disorder is atypical."
42. The SLP explained they did not initially send information to the Parent because the primary parent/guardian listed in their file was the Other Parent. The SLP clarified the NOM was "something that we send out to hold a spot" because meeting availability for the LEA is difficult toward the end of the school year. They added the NOM was a standard form, and they did not choose the verbiage regarding a student's evaluation results being ready. "There's just some semantics. Evaluated doesn't … It can mean past tense, but it also can mean ongoing."

Teacher 1 Interview

43. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, Teacher 1 recounted that the document they sent to the Other Parent on April 8, 2026 was "what we use to communicate screening results to families. And so once the screening results have been compiled and reviewed and decisions about the next steps for children that might need to be moved on for evaluation, I send that document, and I send it usually, three or four days after screening." They indicated they did not send it to the Parent because at that point, they only had the Other Parent's email address. Teacher 1 clarified that the Student was not in the LEA's SIS at the time of the screening or when the results were emailed.

Teacher 2 Interview

44. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, Teacher 2 indicated they completed the screener with the Student and the Other Parent on April 3, 2026. They explained that a parent will oftentimes stay with a child during a screening "so they're comfortable," and it is typically only one parent.

Secretary Interview

45. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Secretary indicated they have had minimal contact with the Parent and the Other Parent, and their primary role was to email appointment reminders and set appointments, along with greeting them when they come in. They clarified they would not have known there was another parent who wanted to be involved because the Other Parent is the one who put in the request for a screening.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #233, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, obtained informed, written parental consent prior to initiating, planning, or conducting a speech and language evaluation of the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-27 (a)(1)(b)(c), K.S.A. 72-3430 (b)(6); 34 CFR § 300.300 (a)(1)(3).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-27 (a)(1)(b)(c) and 34 CFR § 300.300 (a)(1)(3), each agency shall obtain parental consent before conducting an initial evaluation or any reevaluation of an exceptional child. When screening or other methods used by an agency indicate that a child may have a disability and need special education services, the agency shall make reasonable and prompt efforts to obtain informed consent from the child's parent to conduct an initial evaluation of the child and, if appropriate, to make the initial provision of services to the child. Unless a judicial order specifies to the contrary, each agency shall recognize the biological or adoptive parent of an exceptional child who is a minor as the educational decision maker for the child if the parent exerts the parent's rights on behalf of the child, even if one or more other persons meet the definition of parent for the particular child.

According to K.S.A. 72-3430 (b)(6) the parents of exceptional children shall have the right to consent, or refuse to consent, to the evaluation, reevaluation or the initial placement of their child and to any substantial change in placement of, or a material change in services for, their child, unless the agency can demonstrate that it has taken reasonable measures to obtain parental consent to a change in placement or services, and the child's parent has failed to respond. If the parent fails to respond to the request for parental consent to a substantial change in placement or a material change in services, the agency must maintain detailed records of written and verbal contacts with the parent and the response, if any, received from the parent.

The Parent alleged they did not receive notice from the LEA that a speech/language evaluation of the Student was being initiated, planned, or conducted. The Parent alleged they were not asked for consent and did not provide written consent to the evaluation.

The LEA received written parental consent from the Other Parent for the initial evaluation, the SLP met with the Student for an introduction, and “no standardized evaluation assessments have been completed at this time [May 1, 2026], and the initial evaluation is not yet complete.”

The August 29, 2025 Civil Department Family Court document granted both parents “joint legal custody” with equal rights and responsibilities for educational decisions. The LEA's SIS appropriately documented both parents with educational rights. Special education regulations typically require the consent of at least one educational decision-maker to proceed with an evaluation, a standard the LEA relied upon when the Other Parent signed and dated the PWN for Evaluation and Request for Consent on April 17, 2026. Although the Parent objected to the evaluation proceeding without their own written consent, and argued that the LEA's documentation obligated them to secure signatures from both listed LEDMs, the LEA maintained consent from one parent satisfies their regulatory obligation to initiate the evaluation process.

The Parent contended the evaluation had already been improperly conducted on April 17, 2026, pointing to a NOM issued that day stating results were available and an email from the SLP stating they "evaluated" the Student. However, the Special Services Coordinator and the SLP clarified that no standardized evaluation instruments or speech-language protocols had actually been administered at that time. Instead, the SLP had met with the Student and informally listened to their speech to build rapport, which is part of an ongoing, informal process. The NOM language that indicated results were ready, was an uneditable, standard form template used solely to reserve a future meeting date on busy school calendars. The LEA explicitly stated that once consent is signed, the evaluation process can take up to 60 school days, and both the Principal and the Special Services Coordinator confirmed that the evaluation report had not been completed, and no data yet existed to share.

While the LEA demonstrated compliance regarding the legal authority to evaluate based on the Other Parent's consent, the administration of the process involved several clerical errors and communication gaps. The initial PWN given to the Parent contained inaccuracies. The Special Services Coordinator acknowledged these mistakes, apologized, and issued a corrected PWN on April 29, 2026. Additionally, school personnel initially failed to contact the Parent regarding the screening referral and the subsequent developmental screening. The SLP, Teacher 1, and the Secretary explained that they initially communicated exclusively with the Other Parent because they were the primary contact who submitted the online screening request, and the Student was not yet enrolled in the LEA's SIS. Although these notification delays and clerical errors caused understandable frustration for the Parent, they do not negate the fact that the LEA secured the requisite informed, written parental consent from the Other Parent on April 17, 2026, before embarking on the actual evaluation timeline.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to obtain informed, written parental consent prior to initiating, planning, or conducting a speech and language evaluation of the Student.

Issue Two

Whether USD #233, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided PWN to the Parent before initiating or conducting an evaluation of the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-26 (a), K.S.A. 72-3430 (b)(2-3); 34 CFR § 300.503.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-26 (a) and 34 CFR § 300.503, in providing any notice to the parent or parents of an exceptional child regarding any action proposed or refused by an agency, each agency shall ensure that the notice includes a description of other options that the agency considered and the reasons why those options were rejected and a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal. According to K.S.A. 72-3430 (b)(2-3), the parents of exceptional children shall have the right to written prior notice whenever an agency proposes to initiate or change, or refuses to initiate or change, the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of a free appropriate public education to the child.

The Parent alleged they did not receive PWN from the LEA at any time before the evaluation of the Student was initiated or conducted.

The LEA responded that, based on the Early Childhood Screener, a PWN Consent to Evaluation was provided to the Other Parent, who made the request and whose information was provided to the LEA at the time. PWN was provided to the Other Parent following signed consent by the Other Parent on April 17, 2026. The Parent was provided PWN on April 22, 2026, and then again on April 30, 2026 with corrected clerical errors.

The LEA received consent to evaluate from the Other Parent, who maintains equal educational decision-making rights, on April 17, 2026. The consent of one educational decision-maker is legally sufficient to obligate the LEA to move forward with an evaluation. Furthermore, the LEA clarified that no actual formal evaluation instruments, standardized speech-language protocols, or assessments were administered on April 17, 2026; rather, the SLP conducted an ongoing, informal meet-and-greet to observe speech and establish rapport, which does not constitute the formal initiation of a standardized evaluation. Although the LEA acted within its authority to initiate the process based on the Other Parent's consent, procedural errors occurred in how the PWN was subsequently delivered to the Parent. The Parent did not receive the initial April 17, 2026 PWN until it was transmitted via email on April 22, 2026, which was five days after the Other Parent had already signed it. Additionally, this initial notice contained clerical errors. The LEA proactively acknowledged these mistakes, with the Special Services Coordinator apologizing for the incorrect date and delivery method. The LEA then sought to remedy the oversight by asking the Parent for additional areas of concern and issuing a corrected, re-dated PWN via email on April 29, 2026, followed by an updated version on April 30, 2026, to include all pertinent information. Because the formal evaluation timeline spans up to 60 school days from the date of signed consent and remained ongoing and uncompleted throughout this period, the LEA's corrections ensured the Parent was ultimately provided with accurate PWN while the evaluation was still active and incomplete. Consequently, while the initial delivery to the Parent was marked by clerical and timing discrepancies, the LEA fulfilled its regulatory obligation to provide PWN under the IDEA by issuing corrected notices to the Parent during the active evaluation process initiated by a legally authorized co-parent.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to provide PWN to the Parent before initiating or conducting an evaluation of the Student.

Issue Three

Whether USD #233, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, obtained informed, written parental consent prior to disclosing the Student's personally identifiable education records to the GAL or any other third party. K.A.R. 91-40-50 (b); 34 CFR § 300.622.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-50 (b) and 34 CFR § 300.622, parental consent must be obtained before personally identifiable information is disclosed to parties, other than officials of participating agencies in accordance with information below, unless the information is contained in education records, and the disclosure is authorized without parental consent. Parental consent is not required before personally identifiable information is released to officials of participating agencies for purposes of meeting a requirement of this part.

The Parent alleged they did not consent to disclosure of the Student's education records to the GAL or any other third party. Further, the Parent's position is that one joint legal custodian may not unilaterally authorize disclosure of a child's education records to a non-parent third party where the other joint legal custodian retains equal educational decision-making authority and has not consented.

The LEA responded that on April 20, 2026, they received a HIPAA ROI signed by the Other Parent authorizing the release of information to the GAL.

The Other Parent signed an ROI on April 20, 2026, to authorize the exchange of health and education information between the SLP, the LEA, and the GAL for the 2025-26 school year. The Parent subsequently objected to this release, asserting that they did not authorize the disclosure and believing it improperly positioned the GAL as the sole recipient of records. However, the LEA correctly noted that under joint legal custody arrangements, each parent holds an individual right as an LEDM to authorize the release of their child's records to a third party, and such an ROI does not limit or diminish the other educational decision-maker's individual rights.

Furthermore, the involvement of the GAL is governed by an independent judicial authority that intersects with educational privacy laws. A September 25, 2025 County District Court Order explicitly appointed the GAL and authorized them to meet with, interview, and obtain information from school officials, teachers, staff, and other educational personnel. Under 34 CFR § 99.31(a)(9), an educational agency or institution may disclose personally identifiable information (PII) without consent if the disclosure is to comply with a judicial order or a lawfully issued subpoena. Because the IDEA's confidentiality provisions, including 34 CFR § 300.622, are designed to be consistent with the FERPA, the LEA can honor a valid court order without violating the IDEA. The Parent acknowledged the GAL already possessed the legal authority to access documents directly through the existing court order without requiring an additional written release from either of the Parents. Ultimately, the evidence indicates that no unauthorized disclosure of the Student's PII actually occurred. Both the Special Services Coordinator and the LEA's formal response to the complaint confirmed that, as of May 1, 2026, the LEA had not provided any information to the GAL, nor communicated with the GAL due to the filing of the Complaint.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to obtain informed, written parental consent prior to disclosing the Student's personally identifiable education records to the GAL or any other third party.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #229
ON MAY 1, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: MAY 27, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -------, by their parent, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #229 Blue Valley Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #229.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 1, 2026 and the 30-day timeline ended on May 31, 2026.

Allegation

The following issue will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #229, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), implemented the due process hearing decision of conducting the Behavior Assessment for Children (BASC) assessment, provided these documents to the Parent, and convened a meeting to review the results. K.A.R. 91-40-51(a); 34 CFR §§ 300.152(c)(2)(3), 300.514(a).

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parent on May 18, 2026, and the Principal on May 20, 2026. In completing this Investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Parenting Plan, 07/22/25
2. Evaluation Report, 09/25/25
3. Psychoeducational Assessment for Reevaluation, 09/25/25
4. Journal Entry and Decree of Divorce, 06/12/25
5. Report of Complaint, 04/19/24
6. Screenshots of ParentVue Login, 05/20/26
7. Individualized Education Program (IEP) Progress Report - Annual Goal, 12/19/25
8. Emails between parties, 06/17/25-05/20/26

Background Information

This Investigation involved a fifth-grade student enrolled at an elementary school in USD #229. The Student was receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and the Principal.

1. A Journal Entry and Decree of Divorce, dated June 12, 2025, indicated the court found it was in the best interest of the Student for the Other Parent to have sole custody for major medical and educational decisions for the Student. It stated the Parent would have access to any portal or records for the Student.
2. On June 17, 2025, the Special Education Director emailed an unidentified recipient. Relevant information included:
    a. The Special Education Director stated that on May 19, 2025, the LEA sent the Parent and the Other Parent the following information in prior written notice (PWN):
        i. In a phone call with the Special Education Director on May 15, 2025, the Parent requested an IEP meeting to review the results of the BASC-3. The LEA declined to have an IEP meeting to review the results because the evaluation was not yet complete. The Other Parent signed consent for the evaluation on April 16, 2025. The LEA would schedule and hold an IEP meeting with the Parents within 60 days of April 16, 2025 to share results of the evaluation.
3. A June 18, 2025 Due Process Hearing Final Order indicated a dismissal of the Parent's complaint against the LEA, ruling the request was "without merit." The hearing officer found no issues were in dispute because the LEA had already obtained consent from the Other Parent on April 16, 2025 to conduct the requested assessment evaluation and the assessment was in progress at the time of the filing. Additionally, the LEA had established a timeline to share the evaluation results during an IEP meeting to be held within 60 school days of the consent date, specifically by October 1, 2025.

4. A Parenting Plan, dated July 22, 2025, indicated:
    a. The court awarded sole custody of the Student to the Other Parent.
    b. This designation granted the Other Parent the primary right to make all decisions regarding the Student's education in their best interests.
    c. The Other Parent also maintained specific decision-making authority over the Student's extracurricular, social, and educational programs.
    d. Both the Parent and the Other Parent were granted "complete and free access" to all school records and digital portals.
    e. The Parent and the Other Parent were "obligated" to first obtain all of the Student's educational information directly from the Student's school before relying on the other parent to provide the same.
5. An Evaluation Report, dated September 25, 2025, indicated the LEA completed the requested evaluation as part of a psychoeducational report dated September 25, 2025. The assessment included rating scales from the Student's teachers, the Parent, and the Other Parent, though the Parent's responses were noted for "extreme caution" which affected the validity of their rating. The Other Parent's electronic signature was indicated on the report.
6. A September 25, 2025 Psychoeducational Assessment for Reevaluation completed for the Student indicated the assessment utilized the BASC-3, which gathered information from the Student, teachers, and both the Parent and Other Parent. In the LEA response, they indicated PWN was not needed at the time of the September 2025 IEP due to no changes being made to the IEP at the time.
7. An Evaluation Report, dated February 4, 2026, included:
    a. A summary of previous assessments which detailed that at the Student's April 10, 2025 IEP meeting, the Parent addressed concerns about the Student's behavior and the LEA consented to conducting an evaluation by gathering information using the BASC scales. The notes indicated a meeting was held on September 25, 2025 to review the results of the evaluation and no changes were made to the IEP.
    b. The Other Parent signed the document on February 12, 2026.
8. The Principal emailed the Parent on February 10, 2026 and referenced a prior email regarding the findings of the due process complaint. The previous email stated, "The IEP meeting was held on September 25, 2025 … with the parent who has educational rights. If you would like documents from this meeting, we would be happy to email those to you. You continue to have access to [the online portal] where you can also access these documents. … If there have been any changes to your educational rights, please send us the executed court orders."

9. The Special Education Director emailed the Principal on March 9, 2026 and asked them to send the Parent copies of the last IEP and accompanying PWN. They indicated the Principal had previously offered to send the Parent those documents, but the Special Education Director believed the Parent had rejected the offer. Later that day, the Principal emailed the Parent the Student's evaluation report, IEP, and directions for accessing the School's online portal.
10. The Special Education Director emailed the Parent on April 30, 2026 and provided instructions on how to reset their password to the School's online portal.
11. The Special Education Director emailed the Parent on May 1, 2026 and stated they had verified the Parent had access to educational records, including the School's online portal. They provided a summary of the number of times the Parent had successfully accessed the online portal.
    a. The Parent received an email from a general helpdesk email address on May 19, 2026 regarding a ticket that was opened to help the Parent reset their password to the online portal. It provided the Parent's username, a temporary password, and instructions on next steps.
    b. The Special Education Director emailed the Parent the same day and explained they reviewed all settings to see if there was an issue preventing the Parent from accessing the online portal and found none. They indicated it was likely the Parent had forgotten their password and discussed the email the Parent had received from the helpdesk to reset their password.
    c. The Special Education Director emailed the Complaint Investigator on May 20, 2026 with screenshots of what the Parent could see in the School's online portal for the Student. The screenshots showed the Parent had access to buttons which included: mail, calendar, attendance and absence reporting, class schedule, report cards and grades, course history, course request, conference, fees, student information, student special education, test history, online registration, school information, and documents. They indicated that by clicking on the special education link, the Parent could view additional details which included the Student's next annual review and re-evaluation dates, the May 13, 2026 IEP and PWN, progress reports from February 4, 2026 and March 13, 2026, and Extended School Year (ESY) progress reports from prior years.
12. In an email dated May 7, 2026 to the Principal, the Parent inquired regarding the whereabouts of the "document" about the Student. The Principal responded and attached a copy of the evaluation report from the September 2025 meeting.
13. In an email exchange on May 12, 2026, the Special Education Director informed the Parent that the Student's Quarter 3 progress report was available through the LEA's online portal and confirmed they were given access. Additionally, they confirmed the Parent was provided login credentials and instructions for technical assistance. The Special Education Director stated that, consistent with the parenting plan and applicable law, the LEA was obligated to provide access to records but not to provide them in a specific format or individual preferred method. Furthermore, the Special Education Director declined the Parent's request for a BASC-3 reevaluation, asserting the Parent did not currently possess the "educational decision-making authority" required to initiate such a request. In response, the Parent alleged the LEA had not complied with previous orders, had failed to send a meeting invitation for a prior evaluation, and indicated an intent to file for due process.

14. On May 20, 2026, the Special Education Director emailed the Complaint Investigator a screenshot of the Parent's successful and failed attempts to access the School's online portal containing information about the Student. The access history ranged from October 6, 2017 through May 19, 2026.

Parent Interview

15. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent explained the parenting plan indicated each parent would have access to the Student's educational records.

16. The Parent stated they did not have access to the Student's educational records. They indicated they "always request" access to the online portal since they did not have a username or password. They stated they requested access from the Special Education Director. The Parent shared they did not know when the School submitted documents, whether a meeting was held, and did not receive PWNs.

17. The Parent indicated they asked for access to the School's online portal, and stated they did not have the password and did not know who was using the username. The Parent stated the LEA emailed them the evaluation report when they requested it, but perceived it was "not fair" because they had not been invited to the meeting. The Parent stated they did not receive PWN regarding the September 25, 2025 evaluation meeting. The Parent also stated the School did not proactively send them the evaluation report.

18. The Parent shared they only saw the documents from the September 25, 2025 meeting "a few days" prior to the date of this interview. They indicated the documents contained the assessment the School conducted, which included clinical skills, adapted skills, content skills, and index scores. The Parent stated the assessment conducted by the School was the BASC-3.

19. The Parent stated multiple times the hearing officer instructed the School to hold a meeting after conducting the assessment and to share the documents, and the Parent perceived the School did not follow these instructions. The Parent stated, "They didn't have the meeting. They didn't invite me to the meeting."

Principal Interview

20. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal stated the Parent had lost their educational rights and had not been a part of meetings or conferences during the 2025-26 school year. They stated the parenting plan currently indicated the Other Parent had sole custody of the Student and the Parent had access to educational records.

21. The Principal explained that during the spring of the 2024-25 school year, the Parent asked for an evaluation to be conducted because they were concerned the Student was showing behavioral and social-emotional issues. They indicated the School conducted the BASC assessment in April and May of 2025, and met in September 2025 to review the results. The Principal stated that at that time, the Parent had lost their educational rights, so the School reviewed the results with the Other Parent. The Principal believed the Parent asked for the results of the assessment in March 2026, and the School sent them to the Parent.
22. The Principal explained the Parent had an account with the School's online portal, to which all parents had access. They indicated the portal contained general education records, report cards, assessments the students took, and special education records. They stated the Parent had logged into the portal for many years, and when the Parent had requested copies of documents, they were emailed to the Parent. The Principal stated the Parents each had their own account to the online portal. They indicated the Parent had had access to the online portal since the Student was in kindergarten.
23. The Principal explained when a user clicked the "special education" tab in the online portal, they would see the dates for an annual review, the re-evaluation date, the IEP and accompanying PWN, progress reports, and summer school progress reports.
24. The Principal did not recall the Parent requesting a copy of the evaluation after the September 25, 2025 meeting. They were unsure if the Parent was provided a copy of the evaluation. They said, "… we don't typically send out copies of those things to parents unless asked for it [sic] because they have access to [the online portal]." They clarified the parenting plan did not state the School was required to provide copies of documents, but that "… both parents have access … and it lists a portal being appropriate access for them … ."

Issue One

Whether USD #229, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, implemented the due process hearing decision of conducting the BASC assessment, provided these documents to the Parent, and convened a meeting to review the results. K.A.R. 91-40-51(a); 34 CFR §§ 300.152(c)(2)(3), 300.514(a).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-51(a), any person or organization may file a written, signed complaint alleging that an agency has violated a state or federal special education law or regulation. Also, a prevailing party in a due process hearing may file a complaint alleging that the other party has failed to implement the hearing decision. The complaint shall include the following information: a statement that the agency has violated a requirement of state or federal special education laws or regulations; the facts on which the statement is based; the signature of and contact information for the complainant; and, if the complaint involves a specific child, the following information: the child's name and address of residence (or other contact information if the child is a homeless child or youth); the name of the school the child is attending; a description of the problem involving the child; and a proposed resolution to the problem, if a possible resolution is known and available to the complainant.

According to 34 CFR § 300.152(c)(2)(3), if an issue raised in a complaint filed under this section has previously been decided in a due process hearing involving the same parties, the due process hearing decision is binding on that issue. The SEA must inform the complainant to that effect. A complaint alleging a public agency's failure to implement a due process hearing decision must be resolved by the SEA.

According to 34 CFR § 300.514(a), a decision made in a hearing conducted pursuant to §§ 300.507 through 300.513 or §§ 300.530 through 300.534 is final, except that any party involved in the hearing may appeal the decision under the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section and § 300.516.

The Parent alleged a BASC assessment was not conducted, documents were not shared, and a meeting was not held.

The LEA stated that since the hearing officer dismissed the Due Process Complaint as “without merit” on June 18, 2025, the LEA could not be in violation of implementing a dismissed complaint. Additionally, the LEA asserted they completed the evaluation and held an IEP meeting with the Other Parent, who had sole educational decision-making rights. The LEA did not issue PWN at that time as no changes were made to the IEP as a result of the meeting.

A June 18, 2025 Due Process Hearing Final Order indicated a dismissal of the Parent’s complaint against the LEA. Therefore, the LEA could not be in violation of a dismissed complaint. Even though the complaint was dismissed, the evidence showed the School conducted the BASC and held a meeting to review the results. The Parent expressed concern they were not at the September 2025 meeting regarding the assessment results; however, the evidence showed that by the time the meeting was held, the Parent had lost their educational rights. The School met with the Other Parent, who had sole custody of the Student regarding their educational decisions.

The evidence also indicated the Parent had access to the School’s online portal where they could obtain the Student’s educational records, and had accessed it multiple times since 2017. Additionally, the School contacted the Parent on several occasions to help them access the portal. While the Parent stated the School did not proactively send them the September 2025 evaluation report, the evidence showed the Principal sent the report to the Parent in March 2026. In their interview, the Principal believed the Parent had access to the report through the online portal. This could not be conclusively determined through the evidence, but there was insufficient information to support that the Parent did not have any access to the evaluation documents or that their access was hindered by the School.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations*, it is not substantiated* that the LEA failed to implement the due process hearing decision of conducting the BASC assessment, providing the documents to the Parent, and convening a meeting to review the results.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #259
ON MAY 1, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 3, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -------, by their parent, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #259 Wichita Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #259.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 1, 2026 and the 30-day timeline ended on May 31, 2026.

Allegations

The following issue will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #259, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the Parent access to education records without unnecessary delay and in response to a formal written records request submitted by the Parent on March 2, 2026. K.A.R. 91-40-25(a), K.A.R. 91-40-50(2); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.501(a), 300.613(a)(b), 99.3.

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the following LEA staff on May 20, 2026: The Special Education Director, the Assistant Principal, the School Psychologist, and the Social Worker. The Parent submitted written responses on May 22, 2026.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. LEA Calendar, 2025-26 School Year
2. General Education Contact Log, 10/03/19-05/11/26
3. Special Education Contact Log, 01/28/26-04/27/26
4. Meeting Notes, 04/24/26
5. Emails between parties, 01/07/26-04/13/26

Background Information

This Investigation involved an eighth-grade student enrolled at a middle school in USD #259. The Student is not currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

1. An LEA Calendar for the 2025-26 school year included a document titled Student Records and Your Rights, dated February 2025, which stated: "Parents or eligible students should submit to the school principal a written request that identifies the record(s) they wish to inspect. The principal will make arrangements for access and notify the parent or eligible student of the time and place where the records may be inspected; Education records are defined as those records that are (1) directly related to a student; and (2) maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution. These records would include such things as (1) evaluation and placement forms for special programs or special training; (2) personal and health information (name, address, birth date, school clubs and activities, special health conditions, etc.); (3) your child's grades and attendance records; (4) information about the family (such as the parents' names and occupations); and (5) a list of those who see the child's records; Directory information, which is information that is generally not considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if released, can also be disclosed to outside organizations without a parent's prior written consent. Outside organizations include, but are not limited to, companies that manufacture class rings or publish yearbooks."
2. In an email on January 7, 2026, the Parent emailed the Social Worker to request a special education evaluation for the Student.
3. An Initial Evaluation Request Response Letter dated February 3, 2026 acknowledged the Parent's January 7, 2026 request for a special education evaluation of the Student. The document stated, "You have expressed concerns regarding your child's performance at school and we want to address those concerns through General Education Interventions (GEI). The GEI process allows us to target academic and/or behavioral needs by implementing a variety of instructional and/or behavior strategies while documenting your child's progress." The Parent checked a box indicating, "I withdraw my request for a special education evaluation. I understand the team will utilize General Education Interventions to address the concerns. School Staff will keep parents informed throughout the GEI Process and update parents regarding proposed next steps given the child's GEI data by 04/17/2026. I understand that I may request a Special Education evaluation at any time throughout their process or in the future." The Parent signed the document on February 3, 2026.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation, written responses from the Parent, and interviews with staff in the LEA.

1. According to a General Education Contact Log, on February 26, 2026, the Assistant Principal spoke to the Parent via phone and explained to the Parent that teachers were expected to complete a GEI tracker, implement the interventions, and contact the Parent "at least on Fridays." According to the LEA's response, the Assistant Principal emailed a copy of the GEI tracker for the Parent's reference on February 27, 2026. This was confirmed in the General Education Contact Log.
2. In an email on February 27, 2026, the School Psychologist sent their initial GEI observations of the Student to the Parent.
3. On March 2, 2026, the Parent emailed the Assistant Superintendent, the Special Education Director, and the Mixed Abilities Director "to formally request that [the LEA] immediately initiate a special education evaluation for [the Student] without further delay."
4. Also on March 2, 2026, the Parent emailed the Assistant Superintendent, the Special Education Director, and the Mixed Abilities Director to submit a formal records request and "notice of documentation failure" related to the Student. They explained the letter had two purposes.
    a. The first was to place "on record" the absence of documents legally required to be provided to them. The Parent listed the following documents:
        i. Prior written notice (PWN) for the evaluation request made on January 7, 2026.
        ii. Section 504 written documentation from the LEA regarding a "written offer, denial, eligibility determination, or explanation of the [LEA's] Section 504 position."
        iii. A concussion management plan after the LEA was notified of the Student's concussion in October 2025.
    b. The second was to formally request production of documents "that should exist as a matter of law, regulation, and [LEA] policy," and included:
        i. All written documentation by the School Psychologist including, "[a]ll contemporaneous" observation notes from any and all classroom observations conducted in connection with the Student's GEI; all consultation records, clinical recommendations, and written summaries; all internal communications between the School Psychologist and any [LEA] or building-level staff regarding the Student's evaluation request, GEI, or intervention plan; and any documentation of "supervisory oversight of the School Psychologist's" clinical role.

ii. All GEI documentation, including all GEI trackers in any form; documentation showing when each tracker was created, by whom, and when it was first shared with the GEI team and with the Parent; all intervention logs maintained by any staff member in connection with the Student's GEI; and any binder or compiled record of GEI implementation referenced in staff communications.

iii. Meeting records, including notes or minutes from any CST [Child Study Team] meeting at which the Student was discussed; notes or minutes from the February 23, 2026, team meeting; any written agenda, summary, or follow-up communication from any meeting at which the Student's evaluation request, GEI, or intervention plan was discussed.

iv. All staff communications, including internal emails, notes, or communications between any LEA staff members regarding the Student's evaluation request; any communications regarding the decision to propose GEI in response to the evaluation request; and any communications regarding the 17-day "implementation gap" between February 3, 2026 and February 20, 2026.

v. School nurse records that contain all nurse visit logs for the Student from October 2025 through March 2, 2026, and any medical documentation "received by the school and relied upon in educational decision-making."

c. The Parent requested, for all items in "Section I" of the email, the LEA to "confirm in writing whether the document exists" or not, and for all items in "Section II," the LEA to produce all responsive documents within five school days.

5. The Section 504 Coordinator replied to the Parent's records request email, dated March 2, 2026, related to Section 504, and noted they required the Parent's written consent to begin the 504 evaluation and the data collection process.

6. On March 2, 2026, the Special Education Director replied to the Parent's record request email, stating they would review the Student's file in the student information system and the information the Parent provided, to "determine the appropriate next steps."

a. The Parent responded to the Special Education Director, "For clarity of the record, your review should be understood as responsive to the following three written communications sent earlier today, which are tethered and must be addressed together":

i. "Request for Expedited Special Education Evaluation."

ii. "Written Inquiry — Observation Documentation Request."

iii. "Educational Records Request and Notice of Documentation Failure."

b. The Special Education Director replied to the Parent on March 4, 2026, stating::

i. "Regarding your request for an expedited special education evaluation, … I understand the urgency of your request. A representative of the [School] Child Study Team will be reaching out to you to address this request and to obtain your consent to initiate a special education evaluation without delay."

ii. "Regarding your request for Observation Documentation [sic] … Educational Records [sic], … it is important to clarify that not every document created or possessed by [the LEA] or its staff constitutes an 'education record.' Education records are defined as documents containing information directly related to your student and that are systematically maintained by [the LEA], typically in a central repository such as a registrar. This includes items such as grade cards and other key documents, but generally does not include emails, personal notes, or general correspondence. … [The LEA] will provide all requested education records that fall within the FERPA definition on or before April 16, 2026."

iii. "Regarding your request for a Notice of Documentation Failure, we received your communication on Monday afternoon indicating that this issue has been included in the Formal Complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education. Because this matter is now part of a formal complaint investigation, [the LEA's] response will be provided through that process. [The LEA] is willing to work collaboratively with you to resolve your filed concerns if you are willing to have discussions. In the meantime, [the LEA] would like to obtain your consent to initiate a special education evaluation."

7. On March 4, 2026, the Parent emailed to confirm receipt of the Special Education Director's response, which addressed the following:

a. The Parent verified the LEA would produce all education records under the FERPA definition on or before April 16, 2026 and reiterated their March 2, 2026 records request. The Parent requested the records be "produced on a rolling basis" prior to April 16, 2026, when possible, "particularly items readily available in [the LEA] systems such as student information system records, health or nurse documentation, evaluation-related documentation, observation summaries, meeting notes, and eligibility documentation."

8. On March 6, 2026, the Parent consented to a special education evaluation.

9. A General Education Contact Log contained entries between March 5, and May 1, 2026 indicated teachers sent the Parent GEI trackers through the parent communication portal.

10. On April 1, 2026, the Parent emailed the Social Worker to state their agreement to a proposed April 15, 2026 eligibility meeting was "conditioned on receiving the evaluation records and documentation" they had previously requested. The Parent wrote, "As of today I have not received any of the [requested records], despite formal written requests and the passage of significant time."

a. The Parent noted they did not feel that receiving documents "two days before a meeting" satisfied the standard of "without unnecessary delay." The Parent requested that all listed documents be provided in writing "no later than five school days before any agreed eligibility meeting date." The Parent stated they would confirm a meeting date once they received the documents and had time to review them.

b. The Parent indicated their email referenced record requests submitted on March 2, 2026, which had not been received.

11. On April 2, 2026, the Special Education Director emailed the Parent to state the LEA "makes educational records available for inspection by parents … as required by federal law," and their email would address the Parent's request, and would explain "some of the guidelines" the LEA staff applied when responding.

a. The definition of an education record was shared, noting it included items like "grade cards and other key documents, but doesn't typically include emails, notes, or general correspondence."

b. The Special Education Director clarified, in order for the LEA to fully comply with a FERPA request, it requires parents to provide "enough detail" for staff to identify what records should be copied or made available. They noted that fulfilling a "blanket" request for all educational records related to a particular subject, "may be impossible until further clarification can be provided."

c. Administrative documentation was not considered an educational record because the information did not directly relate to the Student. "Creation timestamps, authorship information, and internal sharing logs are process-tracking details about staff workflow, not records used to make decisions about the student's education." The Special Education Director noted those materials fell outside the definition of an educational record.

d. The Special Education Director described the documents provided in the email related to the Parent's request, which were also considered education records. They included:

i. GEI trackers.

ii. School Nurse records.

iii. Speech evaluation from an outside provider.

12. On April 2, 2026, the Parent emailed the School Nurse stating they were told on March 6, 2026 the School Nurse would contact them regarding the health history form. The Parent indicated they "mentioned this again" to the Social Worker on March 30, 2026, and asked the Social Worker to remind the School Nurse to contact them. They noted the date of this email exchange and added, "This is the first direct contact I have received from your office."

a. The Parent noted they would complete the form and that it was eight days before the proposed eligibility meeting on April 15, 2026.

b. In an April 13, 2026 follow up email to the Special Education Director, the Parent documented they had not received the records they "formally requested" on March 2, 2026.

Parent Written Response

13. In a May 22, 2026 email response to written questions from the Complaint Investigator, the Parent stated "All [LEA] responses were by email only. … [LEA-initiated] contact was primarily to scheduling [sic] meetings. No [LEA] staff contacted me to arrange records access, clarify outstanding requests, or make any effort to resolve any issues outside of my own written emails and follow-up. Following my March 2, 2026 records request, I attended three in-person meetings at [the LEA] offices — March 6, March 30, and April 24, 2026 — and participated in a formal eligibility determination that resulted in an ineligibility finding on April 24, 2026. … None of these meetings … was preceded by complete production of the records I had formally requested. The ineligibility determination was made without production of the records [the LEA] was legally required to provide before that meeting." Regarding the meetings at the LEA offices, the Parent said, "At no point during or following any of these in-person meetings was I offered the opportunity to inspect records, notified of a time and place for inspection, or told that any records were available for review."

14. Following an April 2, 2026 email from the Special Education Director, the Parent received "a tracker covering January through March 2026 only" from the Math Teacher, and CST notes from the Social Worker. They reported a visit log from the School Nurse was attached to the April 2, 2026 email from the Special Education Director. The Parent asserted the lack of produced records prevented them from determining if GEI was being implemented or not. They also stated the lack of communication and production of records was a violation of the "GEI agreement"* they signed on February 3, 2026. [*Complaint Investigator's Note: the document referenced here is the February 3, 2026 Initial Evaluation Request Response Letter]

15. The following are documents from the March 2, 2026 records request the Parent stated they had yet to receive:

    a. "[D]ated observation notes with times, durations, classroom locations, or student-specific behavioral data" from the School Psychologist.

    b. "[I]nternal communications regarding the January 7, 2026 evaluation request."

    c. Copies of any and all Prior Written Notices, Section 504 determinations, or Concussion Management Plans. The Parent reported, "Existence of each was never confirmed or denied in writing across four separate written requests."

    d. A "complete nurse visit log" including an incident report for the Student's "health event" in September 2025.

e. The Parent maintained the LEA was required to provide them with and notify them of a time and place to inspect these records.

16. The Parent stated the LEA was "legally required to create," and had not produced in response to the March 2, 2026 request, the following records:

    a. "A written GEI implementation plan identifying which interventions would be provided, by whom, in which classes, at what frequency, and how effectiveness would be assessed."

    b. "Any directive issued to teachers between February 3[,] [2026] and February 17 [,] [2026] instructing them on what to implement and when."

    c. "Any documentation explaining why the February 17[,] [2026] directed start did not occur."

    d. "Any CST meeting record between February 10[,] [2026] and February 24[,] [2026]."

i. The Parent also noted "The notes skip directly from February 10 [2026] to February 24 [2026] — a 14-calendar-day, 10-school-day gap with no documentation and no communication to me."

    a. "Parent notification of GEI start, implementation plan, and progress — required by the written GEI agreement signed February 3, 2026."

    b. "Communication to staff directing GEI implementation."

17. The Parent stated they were never asked by any member of LEA staff to submit their requests directly to the Principal. However, they reported they included the Principal on all their communications involving records requests, and the Principal was present at the March 6, March 30, and April 24, 2026 team meetings.

Special Education Director Interview

18. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Director defined official educational records as "[d]ocuments containing information directly related to the student that are maintained by [the LEA] in a central repository." They explained emails were not entered into a student's educational records because emails may contain information about more than one student and were not "kept in a repository."

19. The Special Education Director stated they did not provide any emails regarding the evaluation process to the Parent. They reported the Social Worker sent evaluation documents to the Parent on April 10, 2026.

20. The Special Education Director was unaware if "metadata or workflow logs that were used to track the GEI implementation" were housed in the student information system. They were generally unaware of how metadata and workflow logs were stored.

21. Regarding the Parent's records request on March 2, 2026 and the follow-up email on April 2, 2026, the Special Education Director stated, "[The Parent] requests all GEI documentation, including all teacher intervention logs … as well as all of [the School Psychologist's] documentation related to the student, all internal communications regarding the student between January 7th [2026] and when [the Parent] requested it on March 2nd [2026]." The Special Education Director considered the request a "blanket statement" and wanted the Parent to "clarify further which documents more specifically that [the Parent] was requesting."

Assistant Principal Interview

22. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Assistant Principal stated the Parent "wanted a lot of extra paperwork." They explained that some pieces of the records request were not documents the LEA was required to keep, or teachers were obligated to provide. The Assistant Principal defined those items as "Anything that isn't in a central location for student records" and gave the examples of daily classroom notes and GEI trackers. They stated they followed the teacher's contract and LEA policy as to which records were required to be provided in a records request.
23. The Assistant Principal stated a concussion plan would come from an outside medical professional and would be housed in the nurse's office with the school nurse. The Assistant Principal reported a doctor's note was provided confirming the Student had been seen for a concussion, but no formal recovery support plan was provided to the LEA by the Student's doctor.
24. The Assistant Principal explained that they were the note-taker for CST meetings, and the School Psychologist facilitated the meetings. The Assistant Principal stated, "I then type the notes up in an email and I distribute the notes to our team leads and our special education campus support as well as the other two administrators. And I email those out after the meeting." They confirmed the notes are stored electronically.

School Psychologist Interview

25. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the School Psychologist believed "contemporaneous notes" as requested by the Parent meant "my classroom observation and communication with teachers." They reported those notes were emailed to the Parent on February 27, 2026.
26. Regarding how their notes were used in the evaluation process, the School Psychologist said, "The observations were done at the beginning [of the evaluation process] … to see how interventions were being utilized in the classroom and look at the [S]tudent response to those and just to ensure that things were in place. I saw that everything was in place after talking with teachers and watching for a bit in the classroom." The School Psychologist clarified, "The first set of observation notes are different from what's in the MTR just because more observations were completed and then summarized in the MTR." They stated the evaluation report contained information from "[t]eacher reports, observations, parent concerns, health history, social history, psychological testing, speech testing, information from [SLP 2] … ." The School Psychologist asserted "information from all sources was considered when writing that document."

27. The School Psychologist confirmed the MTR draft was sent via email to the Parent on April 10, 2026.

Social Worker Interview

28. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Social Worker confirmed they emailed the MTR and SLP reports to the Parent on April 10, 2026.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #259, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to provide the Parent access to education records without unnecessary delay and in response to a formal written records request submitted by the Parent on March 2, 2026. K.A.R. 91-40-25(a), K.A.R. 91-40-50(2); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.501(a), 300.613(a)(b), 99.3.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-25(a) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.501(a), each agency shall allow the parents of an exceptional child an opportunity to inspect and review all education records and participate in any meeting concerning their child with respect to the following: the identification, evaluation, or education placement of the child; and the provision of FAPE to the child.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-50(2), "education records" means any document or medium on which information directly related to one or more students is maintained by a participating agency in accordance with K.S.A. 72-6214 and amendments thereto.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.613(a)(b), each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part. The agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing or resolution session pursuant to the law, and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made. The right to inspect and review education records under this section includes the right to a response from the participating agency to reasonable requests for explanations and interpretations of the records; the right to request that the agency provide copies of the records containing the information if failure to provide those copies would effectively prevent the parent from exercising the right to inspect and review the records; and the right to have a representative of the parent inspect and review the records.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 99.3, education records means those records that are directly related to a student and maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution. The term does not include records that are kept in the sole possession of the maker, are used only as a personal memory aid, and are not accessible or revealed to any other person except a temporary substitute for the maker of the record.

The Parent alleged the LEA failed to produce education records as required in response to a formal written request submitted on March 2, 2026.

The LEA responded, stating they did not fail to provide the Parent access to education records without unnecessary delay in response to the Parent's March 2, 2026, written request. The LEA responded to the request on April 2, 2026, 31 days after the request was submitted, and within the 45-day limit set by the FERPA and the IDEA. The LEA also provided records to the Parent by hand delivery, email, U.S. Mail, or access through ParentVue/Synergy. To the extent the Parent requested documents that did not exist, documents that had already been provided or made available, or internal working materials not maintained as education records, the IDEA and the FERPA did not require the LEA to create, reproduce, or produce those materials as education records.

On February 3, 2026, the Parent withdrew their request for a special education evaluation, stopping the IDEA timeline. Later, on March 2, 2026, they reinstated their request for an evaluation and requested specific records. The LEA reengaged the referral process on March 4, 2026. Therefore, the March 2, 2026 records request falls under the FERPA, and not the IDEA.

The LEA responded to the March 2, 2026 records request on April 2, 2026, within the 45 calendar-day timeline mandated under the FERPA. The following outline represents the Parent's March 2, 2026 records request and the action and response by the LEA:

1. PWN for the evaluation request made on January 7, 2026.
    a. LEA Action: Not provided; did not exist.
        i. The LEA phoned the Parent to discuss GEI on January 28, 2026. The Parent agreed to withdraw the evaluation request and pursue GEI by signing the Initial Evaluation Request Response Letter on February 3, 2026.
2. Section 504 documents.
    a. LEA Action: Not provided; did not exist.
        i. At the time of the records request, the Parent had not consented to the 504 process.
3. Concussion management plan.
    a. LEA Action: Not provided; did not exist.
        i. The LEA maintained a concussion management plan is a medical document to be generated by a medical provider. The LEA's response and the evidence reports no document was provided to the LEA.
4. School Psychologist observation notes, consultation and clinical records, internal communications, and documentation of clinical oversight.
    a. LEA Action: Provided, in part.
        i. The School Psychologist emailed the Parent their initial observation notes and findings on February 27, 2026. Documentation of consultation and clinical records, internal communications, and clinical oversight were not considered educational records.

5. All GEI documentation, including GEI trackers filled out by teachers, metadata for the trackers, intervention logs, staff communication regarding implementation.
    a. LEA Action: Provided, in part.
        i. GEI tracker documents were continually provided to the Parent, as evidenced in the General Education Contact Log. Aggregated GEI tracker documents were provided by the Special Education Director on April 2, 2026. In their complaint response, the Parent acknowledged they had previously received all trackers aggregated on April 2, 2026.
        ii. Metadata and intervention logs were not considered educational records. No comprehensive GEI binders existed.
6. Meeting notes from CST in which the Student was discussed, and any internal follow up communications.
    a. LEA Action: Provided, in part.
        i. The LEA explained the CST meets regularly to discuss any and all students under GEI observation. The FERPA states only information relevant to an individual student may be shared with that individual student or their legal educational decision maker.
        ii. The LEA maintained notes from CST meetings were internal staff communications, therefore not educational records under FERPA.
        iii. The Social Worker emailed the notes specific to the Student for the CST meetings between January 13, and March 3, 2026 to the Parent on April 8, 2026. The email was recorded in the Special Education Contact Log.
7. All staff communications regarding the special education evaluation request and GEI implementation.
    a. LEA Action: Not provided; did not exist.
        i. The LEA maintained internal communications between staff were not educational records.
8. School nurse records.
    a. LEA Action: Provided.
        i. A nurse visit log was provided to the Parent on April 2, 2026.

The LEA had no obligation under FERPA to confirm whether or not a document existed, or to follow the timeline chosen by the Parent. The LEA provided all obligatory information within the 45-day timeframe as required by the FERPA.

Based on the foregoing, according to FERPA, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to provide the Parent access to education records without unnecessary delay and in response to a formal written records request submitted by the Parent on March 2, 2026.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #352
ON MAY 4, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 4, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -------, by their parent, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #352, Goodland Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #352.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 4, 2026, and the 30-day timeline ended on June 3, 2026.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #352, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to initiate a timely initial special education evaluation following a parent request, and instead used the Student Improvement Team (SIT) process as a substitute for or a delay to said evaluation. K.A.R. 91-40-7(a)(b)(2-3)(c); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.111(a)(c)(1), 300.301(b).

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #352, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to conduct a comprehensive initial evaluation of the Student by failing to use a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant functional, developmental, and academic information and failing to assess the child in all areas of suspected disability. K.A.R. 91-40-8; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.304(b)(c)(4)(6-7), 300.305(a).

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD #352, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, followed proper procedures when determining the Student was not eligible for special education and related services, and specifically whether the LEA improperly relied on the Student's academic advancement (passing grades) as the basis to deny eligibility. K.A.R. 91-40-10(a)(1)(A-E)(d)(f); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.306(a)(c), 300.101(c).

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parent on May 27, 2026 The following LEA staff were interviewed on May 26, 2026: The Director of Special Education, the Teacher, the School Counselor, and the Interrelated Special Education Teacher. The Assistant Special Education Director provided a written response.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

Background Information

This Investigation involved a fourth-grade student enrolled at an elementary school in USD #352. The Student is not currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). The Student is receiving accommodations through a SIT plan.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. In an October 29, 2025 message to the School Counselor, the Parent indicated they had a conversation with the Teacher regarding the IEP evaluation process and the Teacher recommended speaking with the School Counselor. The Parent expressed concern about suspected autism and inquired about the steps to get an IEP evaluation completed. The School Counselor replied to the Parent and stated, "Also, we can look at putting [the Student] on a SIT plan to begin collecting data! I can talk to you about the process tomorrow as well!"
2. A school counselor application, dated October 31, 2025, noted the School Counselor spoke with the Parent regarding behavioral concerns, a private autism evaluation, and the initial October 29, 2025 evaluation request. Notes indicated they discussed the SIT process and "[the Parent] reported [they] would think about it and get back to [the School Counselor]."
3. In notes from a phone conversation, dated February 2, 2026, the Interrelated Special Education Teacher indicated they called the Parent regarding the Parent's concerns and the request for an IEP. They stated they would continue to "gather some information," call the Parent back, and schedule a meeting. They stated the Parent was "ok" with it.
4. In a February 3, 2026 letter to the Parent, the Principal informed the Parent the Student was not attending school in compliance with Kansas State Statute (K.S.A.) 72-1113. The correspondence asserted, "[The Student's] poor attendance has negatively impacted [their] academic success at [the School]." The letter advised the LEA had reported the Student's truant status to the County Attorney per the K.S.A.
5. Meeting notes, dated February 9, 2026, and taken by the Assistant Director of Special Education, indicated:

a. The Parent indicated they had reached out to a local hospital for an autism diagnosis and were on the waiting list. They also expressed concern regarding the Student's social-emotional skills.
b. The Teacher reported the Student had shown improvement since winter but had gone back to "old behaviors" in recent weeks.
c. The Interrelated Special Education Teacher stated the SIT process "was probably the best place to start so a schedule of breaks, and other interventions can be put in place and documentation can be taken to see what strategies are working and which ones don't work for [the Student] at this time. [The Parent] agreed."
d. Notes indicated, "[The Parent] is happy to start with the SIT Plan. [The Parent] likes the idea of getting some interventions started for [the Student]." The team checked in with the Parent and stated, "[The Parent] said this is what [they] [are] really wanting and if [they] can get it without an IEP, [the Parent] is happy."
e. A SIT Contact Log submitted by the Parent noted, "IEP Eval. Request. Team decision to move forward with SIT request. Parent agreed. [School Counselor] to reach out to schedule meeting."

6. A February 18 through April 24, 2026 Teacher Behavior Observation Log of the Student indicated the following behaviors were observed, as indicated with a "Yes" or "No" for the following behaviors:
   a. Awake/Alertness: 15 yes and six no.
   b. On Task/Followed Directions: 14 yes and seven no.
   c. Participated/Engaged in class: 13 yes and eight no.
   d. Completed Work/Tasks: 15 yes, five no, and one blank answer.
   e. Used positive self-talk: 12 yes, seven no, and two blank answers.
   f. Flexible Thinking/Handled viewpoints calmly: 13 yes, six no, and two blank answers.
7. SIT documentation, dated February 17, 2026, detailed the following:
   a. Student absences at the time of the meeting stated, "26AM/30PM absences" and "27 tardies" for the current School semester/year.
   b. The Student's strengths were described as being eager, creative, and proud of their artwork. The Student understood grade-level content and could independently complete assignments.
   c. Concerns noted the Student had a dislike for school, challenges with peer interaction, a tendency to think in "black-and-white" and stated, " … [The Student] does not see the purpose of attending school."
   d. Student data indicated the use and scores of an LEA assessment.
   e. Content and skills to learn to progress in general education included motivation and engagement strategies, alertness supports throughout the day, skills in flexible thinking, and support in communicating respectfully when frustrated or when expressing a different opinion.

f. Additional comments stated the Assistant Director of Special Education, the Parent, the Interrelated Special Education Teacher, the School Counselor, and the Teacher met on February 9, 2026, and "It was determined that at this time concerns would be best addressed through general education interventions, documented on a SIT plan."

g. A goal for classroom engagement was identified, along with interventions such as daily check-in/check-out, structured breaks, and tier three counseling.

8. In a March 23, 2026 email to the Parent, the School Counselor reported that although the first week under the plan was challenging due to the Student's painful earache, the week leading up to spring break demonstrated significant improvements in classroom alertness, task completion, and positive peer interactions. Due to the limited data obtained, the School Counselor stated, " … I would recommend continuing with the current plan that we have in place for now." The Parent acknowledged receiving the detailed update.

9. In an email, dated April 7, 2026, to the Director of Special Education, the Assistant Special Education Director noted the Parent had requested an IEP, without an evaluation, but staff had shared the Parent had previously agreed to a general education SIT plan instead of a special education referral. They emphasized the Student's LEA assessment scores in reading and math were age-appropriate or better and their inner-ear condition had not caused hearing loss at that time.

10. In an email dated April 7, 2026 from an unknown staff member to the Teacher, the staff member confirmed the Student's September 17, 2025 screening results were a fail for hearing and a pass for vision.

11. A SIT Follow-Up Meeting Form, dated April 7, 2026, indicated:

a. The Parent shared concerns regarding the Student's medical diagnosis and asked about expediting the evaluation process.

b. The team reviewed the IDEA requirements for eligibility.

c. The Teacher provided input on the Student making improvements in "behavior, including increased alertness, participation, reduced negative thinking, and fewer instances of task refusal."

d. Data provided indicated the Student had "consistent positive days."

e. The School Counselor shared the Student "often declines" breaks.

f. The SIT team "recommended continued accommodations to allow for further data collection."

g. "[The Parent] agreed to continued SIT plan and current accommodations."

h. The Parent submitted a copy of the form with handwritten notes indicating:

i. The Parent did not receive a copy of the data referenced.

ii. They did not receive a copy of prior written notice (PWN) referenced.

iii. An autism evaluation was not addressed.

iv. "I denied signing due to false statement stating I was agreeing to their consideration of medical issues."

i. An SIT Contact Log submitted by the Parent noted the Parent "inquired medical [sic] accommodations."

12. Meeting notes from the SIT review on April 7, 2026 indicated the following:

a. The Parent shared their concerns regarding the Student's fatigue and the accommodations in place. The Parent inquired about using existing medical diagnoses to bypass the evaluation process to put in place an IEP or 504 plan, explicitly inquiring how the special education process applies when a child's conditions do not negatively impact their academic performance.

b. The Special Education Director clarified the IDEA guidelines, shared that a medical diagnosis does not dictate an IEP, and stated "there needs to be an exceptionality and show a need for individualized supports."

c. It was written that the LEA elected to continue the general education SIT rather than transition to a special education evaluation, citing recent data indicating academic stability, decreased task refusal, and 15 consecutive days of back-to-back school attendance.

d. The School Counselor and the Teacher acknowledged a deficit in progress-monitoring data, and noted that because the Student routinely refused to participate in the daily check-in/check-out system, little-to-no documentation had been collected to evaluate the plan's overall efficacy. The team agreed consistency was needed and recommended keeping the plan in place.

e. The Parent agreed to continue the general education SIT plan and its current accommodations.

13. PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, dated April 7, 2026, indicated:

a. The LEA refused to conduct an initial evaluation at the time, and Parental consent was not required.

b. An explanation of why the action was refused stated the request was discussed, and that current supports, LEA testing, daily performance, attendance, and documentation were reviewed. The team decided not to perform a special education evaluation. The team would continue to track the Student's progress through the SIT plan and indicated, "The school is not initiating a special education evaluation at this time based on [the Parent's] decision to wait and monitor progress in the current SIT Plan."

c. Other options considered stated the consideration of pursuing a special education evaluation or 504 plan. Due to the review and conversation regarding the current SIT plan, "… the team and [the Parent] chose not to move forward with the evaluation at this time. … the school is respecting [the Parent's] decision and not initiating the evaluation process."

d. Data used as a basis for the decision included parental input, record review, teacher input and observations, current SIT documentation, LEA evaluations and data, and writing a 504 plan.

e. Other factors considered detailed the Student had a SIT Plan in place and was making progress with accommodations that supported their educational access. Medical information provided by the Parent was "considered in the decision not to pursue an evaluation … ." Additionally, the Parent was notified they could request an evaluation at any time.

f. The Parent submitted a copy of PWN with handwritten notes indicating:

   i. An IEP was requested in an email to the School Counselor on October 29, 2025.

   ii. An initial SIT meeting was held on February 17, 2026.

   iii. The Parent had not received data supporting the evaluation refusal.

   iv. The Parent did not agree to the evaluation refusal and did not sign the refusal form. They stated they wanted to review the form before signing.

   v. The Parent agreed to the SIT plan with the understanding that a 504 plan would be written.

   vi. The Parent wanted medical and mental health supports implemented.

14. In an April 27, 2026 email to the School team, the Parent formally requested a "comprehensive educational evaluation" for the Student for suspected autism disorder. They indicated a 504 plan had been discussed due to a medical diagnosis. They then described law around child find, and insisted schools "must evaluate a student in all areas of suspected disability." The Parent requested consent forms be sent "immediately so we can begin this process." They raised concerns about "equal access to … education" and medical accommodations for the Student.

15. Meeting notes from the SIT review, dated April 28, 2026, detailed the following relevant information:

a. The Parent provided medical documentation to the administration and formally reiterated written requests for an IEP evaluation, a comprehensive autism evaluation, and a 504 plan.

b. The School Counselor validated the Parent's concerns, acknowledging the Student information and activity logs had been shared with the Parent all at once at the end of a 30-day block rather than incrementally.

c. The team formally concluded the SIT plan could not be determined effective because the current general education implementation, progress monitoring, and document collection methods were insufficient.

d. To resolve these progress-monitoring issues, the team restructured the SIT plan to incorporate a collaborative five-point emotional regulation scale with another staff member, staff logging of break frequencies and specific Student behavioral responses, and an individualized tally framework to quantify independent Student requests for counseling.

16. In an email exchange on April 27 and 28, 2026 between the Parent and the Director of Special Education, the following was discussed:
    a. The Parent stated a general education intervention framework, such as a SIT plan, could not legally be used to delay or deny an evaluation when a disability was suspected.
    b. The Parent noted that although the Student's SIT plan was established in February 2026, no consistent data tracking or documented progress updates had been provided to them.
    c. The Special Education Director responded that during a prior review on April 7, 2026, the team, including the Parent, had mutually agreed the active SIT plan was effectively supporting the Student. They maintained the data reviewed at that time demonstrated the Student was making adequate educational progress within the general education curriculum. Furthermore, the Special Education Director stated the LEA previously lacked both formal documentation from a medical provider and objective evidence of a significant disability-related impact on classroom performance, which were mandatory considerations when determining special education eligibility. Additionally, they confirmed the LEA would adhere to required regulatory timelines and provide a formal response to the initial evaluation request within 15 school days.
17. In an email, dated April 28, 2026, to the School Counselor and the Principal, the Outside Speech Pathologist outlined the following:
    a. They stated the Student's current SIT plan was “definitely not effective and is lacking data collection.”
    b. They noted the plan had been running for approximately 30 days with two check-ins, asserting that it was working. They questioned what metrics were previously used to determine the success of the plan, “considering that today there was NO data to be shared.”
    c. They observed most of the Student's supports were occurring outside of the general education environment and were being managed by personnel with special education backgrounds, noting, “feels like a red flag to maybe support needing IEP supports. [sic]”
    d. They suggested School staff to remain “mindful” moving forward, as the current general education intervention framework appeared to be “flirting with specialized instructions and supports” rather than remaining within general education parameters.
18. In an email, dated May 3, 2026, to the County Attorney, the Parent requested a full review of the February 2026 truancy referral, stating the Student's documented medical conditions, anxiety, and autism-related needs impacted School attendance and should have been considered prior to the escalation. They highlighted a direct contradiction in LEA records, pointing out that while one file alleged attendance issues harmed the Student's grades, a SIT document stated the Student was academically excelling with an A/B average. The Parent stated, "These inconsistencies are relevant to whether attendance concerns reflected academic impairment or disability-related barriers that were not fully addressed." The Parent asserted their request for the truancy referral be reviewed with consideration of the Student's medical condition, the LEA's evaluation and accommodation process, documented academic performance and SIT findings, and formal complaints with the Office of Civil Rights and the State, in addition to the timeline of events.

19. A Check-in Data Collection document, dated April 30 through May 1, 2026, detailed the following:
    a. The number rating system:
        i. 1 - "Calm and Ready to Learn."
        ii. 2 - "A Little Off."
        iii. 3 - "Struggling Some."
        iv. 4 - "Overwhelmed."
        v. 5 - "Not in Control."
    b. April 30, 2026: a pre-check-in with the Student with a rating of three. It stated the Student said, "Struggling [s]ome, I feel tired, distracted, and something has made me feel annoyed. It's hard to focus in the classroom. I may also feel a little pain or discomfort."
    c. April 30, 2026: a post check-in with the Student with rating of a four. It stated, "I feel very tired and frustrated. I cannot focus and most things are bothering me or irritating me. Pain level is moderate and cannot be ignored."
    d. May 1, 2026: no rating was indicated.
    e. May 1, 2026: post-check-in with the Student indicated a rating of four. Notes stated, "[The Student] reported that [they] chose not to check-in with [unknown person] this morning."
20. A Structured Break Data Collection document, dated April 30 through May 1, 2026, indicated four Student-initiated breaks.
21. A Counseling Data log, dated April 30, 2026, indicated the Student "initiated counseling request" one time during the week of April 30 through May 1, 2026.
22. A Structured Break Data Collection document, dated May 4 through May 7, 2026, indicated three Student-initiated breaks and one teacher-prompted break.
23. A Check-in Data Collection sheet, dated May 4 through May 7, 2026, detailed the following:
    a. A May 4, 2026 pre-check-in indicated the Student had a rating of four. Notes stated, "[The Student] chose to go back to the classroom to get started with class … ."
    b. A May 4, 2026 post-check indicated a Student rating of four.

c. May 5, 2026 indicated no Student pre-check-in.

d. A May 5, 2026 post-check indicated the Student rating of five and stated, "Not In Control - I feel very angry, very upset, or very anxious. I can't focus, and may argue or fall asleep easily. My pain level is very fairly high and does not allow me to participate in class effectively."

e. On May 6, 2026, no pre-check-in was recorded.

f. A May 6, 2025 post-check-in noted the Student had requested to take a break in the front office, took a break, and was walked back to the classroom shortly after 8:22 a.m.

g. On May 7, 2026, it was indicated there was no Student check-in due to an assembly.

h. A May 7, 2026 post-check-in indicated the Student had a rating of three and noted "[The Student] wanted to take [their] sleep break."

24. The Student's 2024-25 Report Card detailed the following Quarter Four grades. A "+" indicated "above expectation" and a "-" indicated below expectation.

a. Reading, D+.

b. Math, A-.

c. Social Studies, A+.

d. Science, A.

e. Writing 3, A-.

f. Music, Satisfactory +.

g. PE, +.

h. Technology, +.

25. The Student's attendance record for the 2024-25 school year from May 5, 2025 through May 23, 2025 indicated one absence.

26. The Student's 2025-26 Report Card indicated the following:

a. Language Arts: Quarter One, B-; Quarter Two, B+; Quarter Three, B; Quarter Four, F.

b. Math: Quarter One, C+; Quarter Two, C+; Quarter Three, A-; Quarter Four, B-.

c. Social Studies: Quarter One, A-; Quarter Two, A-; Quarter Three, A; Quarter Four, B+.

d. Science: Quarter One, A+; Quarter Two, A-; Quarter Three, A; Quarter Four, A+.

e. Music: Quarter One, +; Quarter Two, S+; Quarter Three, S+; Quarter Four, -.

f. Physical Education: Quarter One, +; Quarter Two, +; Quarter Three, +; Quarter Four, +.

g. Technology: Quarter One, +; Quarter Two, S+; Quarter Three, +; Quarter Four, -.

27. The Student's attendance record for the 2025-26 school year indicated:

a. 35 full-day absences.

28. A Discipline Log Entry for the 2025-26 school year indicated one entry for the Student, dated April 2, 2026, entered by the Teacher and stated:
    a. "Refused to do work - In the morning [the Student] fell asleep in [unknown person's] Win group doing [reading]. This was the third time it happened. After [the Student] got in from recess [they] refused to do the math scoot that [they] needed to do. [The Student] also got really combative with all the students and was keeping the math problems to [themself]. [The Student] then made the comment, "I don't have to listen to [the Teacher], [the Principal], or anyone else in this school." I took [them] down to [the Special Education Teacher] as [the Principal] was not here. [The Student] is doing [reading] for this afternoon and may do some more Math work." 29. The Student's LEA benchmark assessment percentile scores for the 2025-26 school year were listed as:
    a. Reading: Fall 67th percentile, Winter 90th percentile, Spring 66th percentile.
    b. Math: Fall 53rd percentile, Winter 44th percentile, Spring 46th percentile.
    c. Math Fluency: Fall 48th percentile, Winter 15th percentile, Spring 36th percentile.
    d. English: Fall 68th percentile, Winter 83rd percentile, Spring 90th percentile.
30. On May 3, 2026 the Parent filed this complaint.
31. In meeting notes to address the Parent's concerns, dated May 6, 2026, the following was detailed:
    a. The Parent questioned the validity of the general education framework, expressing concern the LEA's previous refusal to evaluate was based on the SIT plan, which lacked sufficient data to track or show actual student progress.
    b. The Teacher detailed the Student frequently declined or refused to participate in classroom interventions, such as structured breaks, walking laps, or using a fidget corner, making it difficult for staff to collect consistent data or evaluate the intervention's effectiveness.
    c. The Special Education Director clarified the SIT and 504 processes were general education processes, and an IEP was a special education process. The Parent confirmed understanding this.
    d. The Special Education Director noted the LEA's initial April 2026 decision to deny a special education evaluation was due to a lack of medical documentation at that time showing how the Student's conditions significantly impacted their general education setting.
    e. The Parent disputed the basis of the LEA's truancy referral, pointing out an inconsistency where the School alleged that attendance issues were negatively impacting the Student's education, while the School's own SIT documentation simultaneously stated the Student's academic performance was acceptable.

f. The team acknowledged that while the Student's academic grades were passing, they continued to struggle with non-academic indicators, including chronic pain from an inner ear condition, extreme daytime fatigue, severe anxiety, and social-emotional regulation.

g. Based on the newly provided medical documentation regarding the Student's medical condition and upcoming inner-ear surgeries, the LEA and multidisciplinary team determined an initial special education evaluation was officially warranted.

32. PWN issued on May 8, 2026 indicated:

a. The LEA formally proposed to conduct an initial special education evaluation.

b. The proposed evaluation was structured to collect new and existing data across multiple areas including general intelligence, academic performance, communicative status, health/motor ability, and social-emotional functioning.

c. While general education records and classroom performance did not initially lead the LEA to suspect a disability, updated medical documentation regarding the Student's chronic ear disease, impending inner ear surgeries, and severe anxiety provided a sufficient basis to suspect a need for specialized instruction.

d. The team considered and rejected the options of continuing the SIT process alone or implementing a standalone 504 plan, concluding that formal evaluation data were required to appropriately define the Student's educational needs.

e. The Parent signed the notice granting the LEA formal consent to initiate the evaluation.

Parent Interview

33. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent indicated they made their initial request for an IEP to the Teacher on October 29, 2025. They received a response the next day from the School Counselor, who set up a meeting. At the meeting, the Parent shared their concerns regarding the Student's social and emotional needs, that they suspected the Student experienced autism, issues with school engagement and participation, and fatigue, and stated, "I communicated the need that [the Student] needed this IEP evaluation … ." The Parent recalled being told that, because the Student's academics were "advanced," the Student would not meet the criteria for an IEP. "So I was redirected to a SIT plan … ."

34. When asked about the data used in the IEP decision-making process, the Parent shared they had only recently received behavior observation logs in April 2026 and could not recall specifically the LEA assessment data being discussed and stated, "I'm sure that it was mentioned because there's been constant mention of how intelligent [the Student] is." The Parent explained at the April 28, 2026 meeting, due to "lack of documentation and/or supportive measurements and tools," there were changes to the SIT plan. Additionally, they shared during the May 8, 2026 meeting, further changes were made … because I raised all the concerns … . I was asking for the documentation that they didn't have." The Parent shared, "They knew what was going on with [the Student] anxiety medically IEP-wise."

Special Education Director Interview

35. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Director explained they were not part of the IEP discussion in February 2026, and stated, "[The Parent] did not make any requests for an IEP. [The Assistant Special Education Director] even asked [the Parent] during that meeting if [the Parent] was wanting an evaluation for an IEP. And at that time, [the Parent] told [the Assistant Special Education Director] no."
36. The Special Education Director shared that on April 7, 2026, the Student was still experiencing truancy issues, and the Parent requested a formal evaluation for an IEP. The Special Education Director was part of the conversation with the Parent and stated the Parent continued to ask for medical accommodations, but could not provide an example of what they were requesting. The Special Education Director clarified the administrative processes separating a 504 plan from an IEP to the Parent, and the Parent confirmed their understanding. At the end of the April 7, 2026 meeting, the Special Education Director explained due to the "attendance and other things" the team agreed to not move forward with an evaluation and the Parent agreed. They shared they issued PWN of the refusal, which did not require parental consent.
37. The Special Education Director explained the LEA reversed its prior refusal and initiated an initial evaluation because the Parent submitted new medical documentation alongside behavioral and social-emotional concerns. They noted the combination of the Student's upcoming surgery, anxiety, and social-emotional concerns provided a sufficient baseline to suspect a disability. They shared the team determined that a comprehensive special education evaluation was necessary to determine educational impact.

School Counselor Interview

38. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the School Counselor detailed their involvement in the SIT process with the Parent and the Student. Following a Parent email regarding an IEP assessment in October 2025, the School Counselor consulted with the Teacher and replied to explain the general education SIT process and offered to connect the Parent with the special education staff. They shared the Parent agreed to explore a SIT plan and declined the special education referral at that time.
39. The School Counselor explained they and the School team collaborated with the Parent on a support plan addressing their concerns. As part of this plan, the School monitored the Student's behavior in 30-minute increments, documenting positive academic and social progress over the following weeks. When the Parent raised questions regarding 504 plans and IEPs, the School Counselor arranged for special education staff to attend the rescheduled meeting. During the April 7, 2026 meeting, the School Counselor reviewed the tracked data with the Parent, who expressed appreciation for the Student's growth and agreed to continue with the SIT process without requesting an IEP evaluation.

40. The School Counselor indicated they received no communication from the Parent between October 2025 and February 2026, but they continued to check in with the Student when the Student was in attendance and reported the Student "appeared to be doing really well."

Interrelated Special Education Teacher Interview

41. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Interrelated Special Education Teacher recalled the decision to implement an SIT plan in lieu of an IEP. They were contacted by the School Counselor on February 2, 2026 after they had spoken to the Parent regarding getting the Student accommodations. They explained they contacted the Parent and scheduled the meeting via phone for February 9, 2026. They stated the Parent shared their concerns about the Student falling asleep and not wanting to come to school. The team discussed all options, including the IEP evaluation process and SIT accommodations in the general education setting. They shared the Parent agreed to a SIT plan, and the School Counselor started the process of putting general education accommodations into place.

42. The Interrelated Special Education Teacher described the April 7, 2026 meeting as a "SIT follow-up meeting" in which the Parent requested the special education department have a staff member in attendance. They explained LEA assessment data, progress monitoring data, and attendance were all discussed. They stated, "So as a team, we decided that we'd be better off continuing the SIT until we get more data to look [sic] because up until that point, I believe [the Student] was only in school for 15 to 17 days … . … Made sure and double checked with [the Parent] multiple times that [the Parent] was okay continuing that SIT so we could gather more data … . " The Interrelated Special Education Teacher shared that they, the Assistant Special Education Director, and School Counselor all confirmed the continuance of the SIT with the Parent and stated, "So [the Parent] did say that [they] [were] totally fine continuing that SIT multiple times."

Teacher Interview

43. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Teacher explained at the start of the 2025-26 school year, there were concerns about the Student falling asleep and this was discussed during School conferences. They stated, "I said that I have no concerns with [the Student's] ability to do things. [They] just needed to be at school more. … at parent-teacher conferences, [the Student] was scoring where [they] needed to be, so I did not suggest SIT. I did not think [the Student] needed an IEP or any of those things."

44. The Teacher described their SIT data collection of the Student as observing them for 15 to 30 minutes daily at varying intervals to monitor behavioral changes at different times of the day. They compiled these daily observations within a folder to fulfill a standard six-to-eight-week protocol. However, the data collection process had inconsistencies and gaps because the Student frequently missed class or had to be sent home early due to earaches. The Teacher maintained the records and the School Counselor assisted by logging the data into the School's computer system.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #352, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to initiate a timely initial special education evaluation following a parent request, and instead used the SIT process as a substitute for or a delay to said evaluation. K.A.R. 91-40-7(a)(b)(2-3)(c); 34 CFR §§ 300.111(a)(c)(1), 300.301(b).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-7(a)(b)(2-3)(c) and 34 CFR §§ 300.111(a)(c)(1), each board shall adopt and implement policies and procedures to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in its jurisdiction. Including children with exceptionalities who meet the following criteria: attend private schools; are highly mobile, including migrant and homeless children; and are suspected of being children with disabilities even though they are advancing from grade to grade. Each board's policies and procedures under this regulation shall include age-appropriate screening procedures that meet the following requirements: for children ages 5 through 21, observations, instruments, measures, and techniques that disclose any potential exceptionality and indicate a need for evaluation, including hearing and vision screening as required by state law, and the implementation of procedures to ensure the early identification and assessment of disabilities in children.

Any board may refer a child who is enrolled in a public school for an evaluation if one of the following conditions is met: school personnel have data-based documentation indicating that general education interventions and strategies would be inadequate to address the areas of concern for the child. If school personnel have data-based documentation indicating that, before the referral or as part of the referral, all of the following conditions were met: the child was provided with appropriate instruction in regular education settings by qualified personnel; the child's academic achievement was repeatedly assessed at reasonable intervals that reflected formal assessment of the student's progress during instruction; the assessment results were provided to the child's parent or parents; and the assessment results indicate that an evaluation is appropriate.

According to 34 CFR § 300.301(b), consistent with the consent requirements in § 300.300, either a parent of a child or a public agency may initiate a request for an initial evaluation to determine if the child is a child with a disability.

The Parent alleged that at the beginning of the school [year], they formally raised concerns and requested an evaluation for autism as well as consideration for an IEP. Despite these concerns, the LEA did not initiate a timely evaluation. Additionally, the LEA used the SIT process in place of initiating an evaluation.

The LEA stated they complied with the IDEA requirements by appropriately responding to Parent concerns, engaging in collaborative problem solving through the SIT process, and not delaying or denying an evaluation request.

The Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) mandates school districts must allow parents to request an initial evaluation to determine eligibility for special education services whenever they choose. Furthermore, implementing Response to Intervention (RTI) strategies must never serve as a barrier or a delay to a full individual evaluation if a child is suspected of having a disability.

In this case, the record indicated on October 29, 2025, the Parent contacted the School Counselor to request an initial special education evaluation for suspected autism, and the School Counselor responded by proposing a SIT plan to collect data. The LEA did not issue a PWN proposing or declining an evaluation in response to this parent request. The initial SIT meeting was held on February 17, 2026. On April 7, 2026, the LEA issued PWN, refusing to conduct the evaluation, stating the team and the Parent had chosen to wait and monitor progress under the SIT plan, which the Parent disputed via handwritten notes on the form. Following a renewed evaluation request by the Parent on April 27, 2026, the SIT team convened for a review on April 28, 2026 and documented that insufficient progress-monitoring data had been collected regarding the plan's implementation. While the Student's standardized benchmark scores remained stable, a discipline log from April 2, 2026 detailed instances of work refusal and combativeness, the Student's fourth-quarter Language Arts grade dropped to an “F,” and daily monitoring sheets from May 2026 recorded self-reported ratings of high distress and physical pain. The evidence showed the LEA was aware of inconsistencies in the data and a suspected disability, and did not conduct an initial evaluation. Additionally, over six months passed between the Parent's initial evaluation request and when the LEA later agreed to conduct it on May 8, 2026. These actions contradict what is stated in federal and state regulations.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated the LEA failed to initiate a timely initial special education evaluation following the Parent request, and utilized the SIT process as a substitute for and a delay to said evaluation.

Issue Two

Whether USD #352, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to conduct a comprehensive initial evaluation of the Student by failing to use a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant functional, developmental, and academic information and failing to assess the child in all areas of suspected disability. K.A.R. 91-40-8; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.304(b)(c)(4)(6-7), 300.305(a).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-8, and C.F.R. §§ 300.305(a), each agency shall ensure that a full and individual evaluation is conducted for each child being considered for special education and related services. Each evaluation shall include procedures to determine whether the child is exceptional and what the child's educational needs are. In implementing the requirements, the agency shall ensure that the following conditions are met: the evaluation is conducted in accordance with the procedures described in K.A.R. 91-40-9 and, if applicable, K.A.R. 91-40-11; the results of the evaluation are used by the child's IEP team to develop the child's IEP; and the evaluation is conducted before the initial provision of special education and related services to the child.

As a part of an initial evaluation, if appropriate, and as part of any reevaluation, each agency shall ensure that members of an appropriate IEP team for the child and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, comply with the following requirements: the evaluation team shall review existing evaluation data on the child, including evaluations and information provided by the parent or parents of the child; current classroom-based, local, and state assessments; and classroom based observations. The team will review observations by teachers and related service providers. Based on that review and input from the child's parent or parents, the evaluation team shall identify what additional data, if any, is needed to determine whether the child has a particular category of exceptionality, what the present levels of academic achievement and educational and related developmental needs of the child are; and whether the child needs special education and related services.

The team may conduct its review without a meeting if it determines that additional data is required to make any of the determinations, or the agency, after giving proper written notice to the parent and obtaining parental consent, shall administer the tests and evaluations appropriate to produce the needed data. If the team determines that no additional data is needed to make any of the determinations, the agency shall give written notice to the child's parent of the determination that no additional data is needed, the reasons for this determination, and the parent's right to request an assessment. The agency shall not be required to conduct any additional assessments unless requested to do so by a parent.

Unless an agency has obtained written parental consent to an extension of time, the agency shall complete the following activities within 60 school days of the date the agency receives written parental consent for an evaluation of a child: conduct the evaluation of the child; and conduct a meeting to determine whether the child is an exceptional child and, if so, to develop an IEP for the child. The agency shall give notice of this meeting to the child's parent or parents and implement the child's IEP. An agency shall not be subject to the time frame if either of the following conditions is met: the parent or parents of the child who is to be evaluated repeatedly fail or refuse to produce the child for the evaluation, or if the child enrolls in a different school before the evaluation is completed, and the parent and the new school agree on a specific date by which the evaluation will be completed.

Each agency shall ensure that an IEP is developed for each exceptional child within 30 days from the date on which the child is determined to need special education and related services.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.304(b)(c)(4)(6-7), in conducting the evaluation, the public agency must use a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant functional, developmental, and academic information about the child. Including information provided by the parent that may assist in determining whether the child is a child with a disability, and the content of the child's IEP, including information related to enabling the child to be involved in and to progress in the general education curriculum. The agency will not use a single measure of assessment as the sole criterion for determining whether a child is a child with a disability and for determining an appropriate education program for the child. Each agency will use technically sound instruments to assess the relative contributions of cognitive and behavioral factors, as well as physical or developmental factors.

Each public agency must ensure that assessments and other evaluation materials used to evaluate a child are selected and administered so as not to be discriminatory on a racial or cultural basis. Each agency will provide and administer assessments in the child's native language or other mode of communication and in the form most likely to yield accurate information on what the child knows and can do academically, developmentally, and functionally, unless it is clearly not feasible to provide or administer. Assessments are used for the purposes for which the assessments or measures are valid and reliable, and are administered by trained and knowledgeable personnel. Additionally, they are administered in accordance with any instructions provided by the producer of the assessments.

Each public agency must ensure the child is assessed in all areas related to the suspected disability, including, if appropriate, health, vision, hearing, social and emotional status, general intelligence, academic performance, communicative status, and motor abilities. In evaluating each child with a disability, the evaluation is sufficiently comprehensive to identify all of the child's special education and related services needs, whether or not commonly linked to the disability category in which the child has been classified. The assessment tools and strategies that provide relevant information and directly assist persons in determining the child's educational needs are provided.

The Parent alleged the LEA failed to conduct a comprehensive initial evaluation using multiple data sources and formal data collection. Specifically, the Parent claimed that decisions were made without sufficient documented evidence or consistent progress monitoring regarding the Student's suspected disabilities.

The LEA stated they complied with IDEA requirements regarding evaluation procedures. At the time the complaint was filed, no comprehensive evaluation had yet been completed because the LEA had previously issued a refusal to evaluate through the initial PWN-E process. Following the Parent's subsequent request on April 27, 2026, the LEA agreed to initiate a formal evaluation on May 8, 2026. Accordingly, there had been no completed evaluation for the LEA to review or rely upon at the time the complaint was submitted.

Following the Parent's October 29, 2025 request for an initial special education evaluation for suspected autism, the School Counselor, the Interrelated Special Education Teacher, and the Assistant Director of Special Education suggested a general education SIT plan. Despite documented evidence of the Student's functional struggles, the LEA issued PWN on April 7, 2026 formally refusing to conduct an evaluation based on academic stability. This refusal was finalized despite concurrent acknowledgments from the Classroom Teacher and the School Counselor that insufficient progress-monitoring or tracking data had actually been collected under the general education plan due to the Student's refusal of the accommodations and attendance issues. On April 28, 2026 and May 6, 2026, the school team and an Outside Speech Pathologist formally concluded the SIT plan's effectiveness could not be determined due to this absence of data.

Following the subsequent submission of updated medical records, in addition to the documented Parental concerns, the Special Education Director and the multidisciplinary team determined an initial assessment was warranted, culminating in a May 8, 2026 PWN proposing an evaluation. The evidence showed an initial evaluation was not conducted within the designated investigative window; therefore, there was no violation.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to conduct a comprehensive initial special education evaluation during the investigative window.

Issue Three

> Whether USD #352, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, followed proper procedures when determining the Student was not eligible for special education and related services, and specifically whether the LEA improperly relied on the Student's academic advancement (passing grades) as the basis to deny eligibility. K.A.R. 91-40-10(a)(1)(A-E)(d)(f); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.306(a)(c), 300.101(c).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-10(a)(1)(A-E)(d)(f) and 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.306(a)(c), after completion of appropriate evaluation procedures, a team of qualified professionals and the parent of the child who has been evaluated shall prepare a written evaluation report, and provide a copy to the parent at no cost. The report will include statements regarding the determination of whether the child has an exceptionality, the basis for making the determination, the relevant behavior noted during the observation of the child, the relationship of that behavior to the child's academic functioning, educationally relevant medical findings, if any, and, if the child was evaluated for a specific learning disability. Each evaluation team, in determining whether a child is an exceptional child and what the educational needs of the child are, shall meet the following requirements: the evaluation team shall draw upon information from a variety of sources, including aptitude and achievement tests; parent input; teacher recommendations; physical condition; social or cultural background; and adaptive behavior.

If the child has participated in a process that assessed the child's response to scientific, research-based intervention, the evaluation report shall also address instructional strategies used and the student-centered data collected, and the documentation indicating that the child's parent or parents were notified. Parent or parents will be notified regarding the state's policies regarding the amount and nature of student performance data that would be collected and the general education services that would be provided; strategies for increasing the child's rate of learning and the rights of a parent to request an evaluation. When interpreting the evaluation data, each agency must ensure that information from all sources is documented and carefully considered.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.101(c), each State must ensure that a FAPE is available to any individual child with a disability who needs special education and related services, even though the child has not failed or been retained in a course or grade and is advancing from grade to grade. The determination that a child is eligible must be made on an individual basis by the group responsible within the child's LEA for making eligibility determinations.

The Parent alleged the LEA improperly denied the Student's eligibility for an IEP without providing clear or measurable data to support the determination. Furthermore, the Parent alleged the LEA relied primarily on the Student's academic "passing grades" to deny services.

The LEA stated they complied with the IDEA requirements and their determination not to initiate an evaluation at the earlier meeting was based upon multiple sources of educational data. The Student was demonstrating educational progress and access to the general education curriculum with existing interventions and supports. The team appropriately considered the Student's overall functioning and response to interventions rather than relying solely on grades when determining an evaluation was not warranted at that time.

On April 7, 2026, the Special Education Director, the Assistant Special Education Director, and the Interrelated Special Education Teacher issued PWN refusing an initial special education evaluation. The LEA based this refusal on perceived progress under a general education SIT plan, despite concurrent admissions by the Classroom Teacher and the School Counselor that insufficient progress-monitoring data had been collected due to the Student's non-participation. The record indicated the LEA relied on age-appropriate test scores and the Student accessing their education through the SIT plan to deny the evaluation, even though the Student's 2025–26 records documented academic and functional deterioration. The evidence showed the LEA was aware of inconsistencies in the data and a suspected disability, yet did not conduct an initial evaluation in a timely manner.

The LEA later determined an evaluation was warranted and obtained Parent consent to conduct a special education evaluation. The LEA is still in the process of conducting the evaluation, and Student's eligibility for special education has not yet been determined. Therefore, a finding on this issue can not be determined.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to follow proper procedures and improperly relied on the Student's academic advancement as a barrier to a special education evaluation.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 CFR §§ 300.111(a)(c)(1), 300.301(b) and OSEP mandates specifically that a parent of a child may initiate a request for an initial evaluation at any time to determine if the child has a disability. Furthermore, state and federal guidelines specify the implementation of RTI or SIT strategies cannot be used to delay or deny a full and individual evaluation when a child is suspected of having a disability.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #352 did not fulfill its obligations under Child Find.

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #352 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) at 34 CFR §§ 300.111(a)(c)(1) and 300.301(b).
2. USD #352 shall develop and execute a mandatory professional development plan for all relevant staff regarding Child Find mandates. This training must explicitly clarify that a parental request for an initial evaluation initiates strict statutory timelines that cannot be delayed, paused, or bypassed by general education interventions, including SIT or RTI processes. Furthermore, the training must instruct staff that passing grades or stable standardized test scores cannot be utilized to deny or block an evaluation. Staff must be trained to recognize that high absenteeism, failing grades, and emotional distress constitute valid indicators of a suspected disability under the IDEA, independent of a student's standardized academic performance. USD #352 shall submit no later than 30 days after the start of the 2026-27 school year an agenda, and staff sign in sheet of the completed professional development.
3. Further, upon five days of the completion of the Student's comprehensive evaluation, USD #352 will provide a copy to the department.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #436
ON MAY 4, 2026

DATE OF REPORT:MAY 28, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office by ------- on behalf of her son, ------. For the remainder of this report, ------- will be referred to as "the parent" or "the student's mother." ------- will be referred to as "the student."

Investigation of Complaint

The investigator spoke by telephone with the Director of Special Education for the Cooperative on May 12, 2026. The investigator spoke by telephone with the parent on May 18, 2026.

In completing this investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed the following materials:

- Documents (72 pages) provided by the parent when submitting this formal complaint including the following:
  - Email dated February 18, 2026 from the parent to the student's case manager;
  - Email dated February 19, 2026 from the director of the interlocal to the parent;
  - Email dated February 19, 2026 from the parent to the director of the interlocal;
  - Email dated February 26, 2026 from the parent to the director of the interlocal;
  - Email dated February 27, 2026 from the director of the interlocal to the parent;
  - Email dated February 27, 2026 from the parent to the director of the interlocal;
  - Email dated February 27, 2026 from the parent to the building principal;
  - Email dated February 27, 2026 from the building principal to the parent;

Background Information

This complaint involves a 14 year-old boy who is enrolled in the 9th grade in his local high school. The student returned to the district on March 24, 2025 after attending a virtual school through an out-of-state program. The student did not have an IEP at the time of enrollment, but the parent requested a special education evaluation at that time. The student was determined eligible for special education on May 12, 2025.

The student has a diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder (Level 2). In August 2025 he was also diagnosed with Anxiety Disorder and Tic Disorder. He receives daily special education services in both the general education setting and the special education setting to address social skills. He is supported by a paraeducator in the classroom setting, during lunch, and when leaving the school for the day.

As of November 5, 2025, the student began attending school on a shortened day (5 class periods) with a dismissal time of 1:40 PM. Since May of 2025 the student had been afforded alternative passing periods allowing him to transition from one classroom to the next 5 minutes before the end of each class period, and to leave the last class of the school day 5 minutes early. According to a March 12, 2026 amendment to his IEP, he is now allowed to leave the last class of the day 2 minutes early in order to be picked up from school.

Issues

In her written complaint, the parent identified three issues:

Issue One

The LEA restricted access to communication (the student's cell phone) after dismissal in a manner that was inconsistent with school policy.

Position of the Parent

It is the position of the parent that by restricting the student's use of his cell phone, the LEA failed to follow the student's IEP, denied him a free appropriate public education (FAPE), and violated the student's right to equal access to effective communication.

The parent alleges that the administrative decision to remove the student's access to his primary method of communication (his cell phone) during his end-of-day transition without IEP team involvement and without providing an equivalent alternative method of communication was:

- a violation of 34 C.F.R. 300 323 because the LEA failed to implement and follow the student's IEP as written;
- a denial of FAPE under 34 C.F.R. 300.101; and
- a violation of equal access.

Position of the LEA

It is the position of the LEA that the district policy regarding the use of cell phones by all students has been followed and this student has consistently had access to his cell phone at the end of his school day. The LEA contends that while the student does have communication needs that are addressed through his IEP, both the student's May 2025 IEP (including subsequent amendments) and his May 2026 IEP are silent on the use of his cell phone.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

At 34 C.F.R. 300.323, federal regulations require LEAs to have an IEP in effect at the beginning of each school year for each child with a disability within its jurisdiction, address the management of IEPs or IFSPs for children aged three through five, provide direction regarding the initial provision of IEP services, require accessibility of a child's IEP to teachers and others responsible for implementing that IEP, and provide directives as to how IEPs will be managed for children who transfer into the LEA from another district or state. The regulations also emphasize the need for prompt transmittal of records when a student transfers into the LEA.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.101 require states to ensure that a free appropriate public education (FAPE) is made available to all children with disabilities residing within the state. Accordingly, Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-2(b)(1) require that each school district makes FAPE available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.17 define FAPE, in part, as special education and related services provided in conformity with an Individualized Education Program (IEP).

District school board policies apply to all students including those with IEPs. However, because students with disabilities are protected by state and federal special education statutes and regulations, an IEP supersedes local board policy if the two conflict. Disputes regarding the application of school board policy are generally resolved informally by discussing the issue with relevant staff at the building level, but if the issue remains unresolved, the complainant must file a written complaint with the district Board of Education.

Responsibility for investigation of allegations regarding violations of equal access laws in education are the responsibility of the Office of Civil Rights (OCR). Claims regarding such violations fall outside the purview of a special education complaint investigator and cannot be investigated through the formal complaint process.

Investigative Findings

The initial IEP for the student was developed for the student on May 12, 2025 following an initial eligibility evaluation conducted at the request of the parent after the student returned to the district in March 2025. That IEP was in effect on the first day of the 2025-26 school year.

According to Section J of the district's Board of Education Policy Manual,

> "Each principal shall develop rules and regulations to govern student conduct consistent with board policies. The rules shall be reviewed by the board and adopted as policy by reference. The rules of conduct shall be published in student handbooks."

On page 41, the handbook for the student's high school includes a section entitled "Cell Phones, Digital Cameras, and Electronic/Smart Devices." That section contains the following statement:

> "Student cell phones, digital cameras, and electronic/smart devices at CVHS are discouraged, but if brought to school, must remain "unused," switched to "off," and put in a locker. The school is not responsible for lost, stolen, or misplaced cell phones, digital cameras, and electronic/smart devices. Lunch will be the exception; all others are to be specifically approved by the principal. Phones are available in the office.
> Consequences for Cell Phones, Digital Cameras, and Electronic/Smart Devices: At least 5 points will be assigned for each offense. May include but are not limited to any of the following allowing for administrator discretion:
> 1st Offense: detention, confiscation of device, and returned at the end of the day. (5)
> 2nd Offense: two 1-hour detentions, confiscation of device, and returned at the end of the day. (15)
> 3rd Offense: three 1-hour detentions or 1-day ISS and returned at the end of the day. (25)
> 4th Offense: 2 Days of ISS and returned at the end of the day. (30) (student reaches the 75 point total for a discipline hearing that could result in longtime suspension or expulsion)
> 5th Offense: OSS for 1 Day and returned at the end of the day.
> *6th Offense and above will result in consequences to be determined appropriate by administration.
>  Students are allowed to use them before and after school and at lunch*
> Failure to allow confiscation of a phone or electronic device will result in "out of school suspension".*
> Exemptions may be reviewed at the discretion of the administration."

While the student's May 12, 2025 IEP and subsequent amendments identify needs in the area of communication for the student, these documents do not contain any requirement for a modification of the established policy on cell phone use by the student.

According to the student's case manager, the student had a locker during the first semester of the 2025-2026 school year and sometimes used it. Because he had difficulty opening his locker, he stopped using it and carried his cell phone with him during the school day. According to the LEA, it is common for students who do not use lockers to leave their cell phones in the main office.

As of November 5, 2025 the student attended school on a shortened day and, as required by his May 2025 IEP, had an early passing period of 5 minutes to exit his last class and be picked up from school by 1:40 PM. A paraeducator walked the student from his last class to meet his ride home. The student was to sign himself out from school. The paraeducator would confirm the checkout time entered by the student before exiting the building.

After it had was determined that the student was - in violation of building policy - using his cell phone during the day to contact his grandmother or the parent, the student was as of February 19, 2026, required to turn his cell phone in to the office upon arrival at school. As the student signed out of school at the end of his shortened school day, the cell phone was sometimes given directly to the student or the cell phone was handed to the paraeducator who would then hand the phone to the student.

As the director of the interlocal explained to the parent in an email dated February 26, 2026, decisions regarding the implementation of the building's cell phone policy relate > "...to school procedures and board policy—and not to [the student's] IEP services or goals—[and so] was handled as an administrative decision rather than an IEP team decision."

The parent wrote an email to the building principal on February 27, 2026 asking for clarification regarding the student's cell phone access at dismissal. She wrote that she had been informed "that this was not an IEP team decision, but rather an administrative decision" and asked to see "specific board policy or school policy governing student phone access at dismissal." The parent asked for other information related to the policy and stated that the student "had not engaged in misconduct." The building principal wrote back saying he "would be glad to visit with [the parent] over the phone about this..." and subsequently sent the parent the building's cell phone policy. The parent sent another email to the principal writing

> "Additionally, if his phone is being withheld beyond dismissal time, please clarify the justification for that."

The principal responded that he would be "glad to answer all of your questions over the phone at your convenience."

On April 30, 2026, the parent sent an email to the building principal stating that on April 27, 2026 the student had been denied access to his cell phone after dismissal. The principal responded writing

> "I watched on the camera from Monday and he was given his phone at 1:37 and then he and the para exited the building he was not denied his phone [sic]. Per his IEP his dismissal time is 3 minutes before the end of class period which is 1:40. [the student] was picked up right at 1:40 by your mother. Feel free to call me if you have any questions regarding this issue."

In an email to the investigator on May 12, 2026, the parent wrote

> "My original concern involved confusion surrounding [the student's] dismissal timing and how his alternate passing period was being used at the end of the school day. The district acknowledged that his alternate passing period was part of his IEP and related to dysregulation support. I then specifically requested that the dismissal timing simply be clarified or adjusted through the IEP process so [the student] could transition appropriately at the end of the day without confusion or loss of instructional time.
> From my perspective, this situation could have been resolved through a simple IEP adjustment or clarification regarding [the student's] dismissal timing and transition supports. Instead, the response shifted to a policy-based restriction on communication during dismissal.
>
> [The building principal], who participated in this decision, is also a member of [the student's] IEP team and aware of [the student's] documented communication and transition needs. It was also concerning to me that the special education director overseeing [the student's] IEP services supported this approach rather than addressing the concern through the IEP process.
> The district suggested [the student] could use the office phone if needed, but this was not a functionally equivalent replacement for [his] personal phone access. [The student's] IEP identifies communication and self-advocacy difficulties, including difficulty independently initiating communication when dysregulated or stressed. Requiring [the student] to independently seek out staff and initiate communication through an unfamiliar process during dismissal relied on skills directly impacted by his disability and related IEP needs."

The district conducted an IEP Team meeting with the parent in attendance on March 12, 2026. Among the topics discussed by the team was a change to the end-of-day early release from class. The team determined that rather than allowing the student to leave class 5 minutes early, that time would be reduced to 2 minutes. No modifications related to the student's use of his cell phone were included in the student's amended May 12, 2026 IEP nor was any reference to the student's cell phone usage included in the student's IEP when the annual IEP review was conducted on May 8, 2026.

Summary and Conclusions

The student's May 12, 2025 IEP was in place at the start of the 2025-26 school year. For this reason, a violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.323 is not substantiated.

It is the job of the IEP Team to determine how to best address the needs of a student with a disability. Neither the student's May 2025 IEP (including subsequent amendments) nor his May 2026 IEP contain any reference to cell phone use by the student. While these IEPs do establish that the student has needs regarding communication and self-advocacy, those needs do not automatically convey any special rights to the student that would allow him to violate established district/building policies in place for all students in the same district/building. Therefore, when the LEA acted to enforce with this student the same cell phone policy which all students in the high school are required to follow, this action did not constitute a denial of FAPE. When the parent raised concerns regarding the application of that district policy, the director of the interlocal appropriately informed the parent that it would be up to the administrator (in this case the building principal) to respond to the parent's concerns.

If the parent wants to pursue her complaint regarding the application of the district's cell phone policy, those issues would properly be directed to the district's Board of Education through district-established procedures.

The IEP Team did address the parent's related concern - the student's early dismissal from his last class of the day - during an IEP amendment meeting on March 12, 2026 - 9 school days after the parent's February 27, 2026 email raising questions about restrictions to the student's use of his cell phone. Early dismissal from that last class was reduced by two minutes.

The LEA has implemented the student's IEP as written and has provided the student with the FAPE specified in his IEPs. A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.101 is not substantiated.

Issue Two

Citing 34 C.F.R. 300.324, the parent contends that the LEA unilaterally made changes to special education services for the student without the involvement of the student's IEP team. The parent asserts that by asking the paraeducator to deny the student access to his cell phone, the LEA failed to implement and follow the student's IEP and improperly utilized the special education paraeducator support the student's IEP required him to receive.

Position of the LEA

It is the position of the LEA that paraeducator support has not been misused. The paraeducator has been expected to ensure that school policies are followed and has met those expectations.

Federal regulation 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(6) states

> "...changes to the IEP may be made either by the entire IEP Team at an IEP Team meeting, or...by amending the IEP rather than by redrafting the entire IEP..."

Investigative Findings

All of the IEPs developed for the student since May 12, 2025 require that the student receive paraeducator support or direct support from a special education teacher throughout his school day to help monitor his needs regarding social interaction and anxiety. Since September 11, 2025 when the student eloped from the school grounds, it was determined that in order to ensure his safety a paraeducator would wait with him until he is picked up at the end of his shortened school day.

As explained above under Issue One, the high school has an established policy regarding student use of their personal cell phones. Neither the student's May 12, 2025 IEP (including all subsequent amendments to that document) nor his May 8, 2026 IEP reference any modification to district policy regarding the student's use of his cell phone.

The interlocal has developed a "Paraeducator Manual" to help those employed as paraprofessionals better understand LEA policies and procedures. The "Code of Ethics" portion of that manual instructs paraeducators to > "practice the standards of professional and ethical conduct approved by the school district...follow guidelines established by the district to protect health, safety, and well-being of all learners and staff...[and] know school policies and procedures."

The "Code of Conduct" section of the manual warns paraeducators against violations that could result in the loss of their job including > " Willful violation of any [interlocal], or school district rule; any deliberate action that is extreme in nature and is obviously detrimental to this agency's efforts to operate efficiently and effectively."

The student's cell phone was kept in the office during the school day after it was established that he had used his phone during the school day in violation of district/building policy to contact his grandmother and the parent. The cell phone is returned to the student at the end of his school day at 1:40 PM or slightly earlier when he and the paraeducator go to the office to retrieve it. The parent specifically asserts that the paraeducator restricted the student's use of his cell phone after the end of the school day on April 27, 2026, but, as noted under Issue One, the review of the videotape of the end of the school day for the student showed that the phone was returned to the student.

Summary and Conclusions

Neither the student's May 2025 IEP (including all subsequent amendments) nor his May 8, 2026 IEP require any modification of the district/building cell phone policy. The application of that district/building policy and the resultant restriction of the student's use of his personal cell phone did not result in any change to or conflict with the student's IEP that would have required the involvement of the student's IEP team. The enforcement of the cell phone policy did not in any way reduce the level of support from a special education teacher or paraeducator that the student received throughout his school day including the time spent waiting for someone to pick the student up from school. Additionally, the actions of the paraeducator in ensuring that the policies of the district/building were followed did not constitute a change to the student's IEP. A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(6) is not substantiated on this issue.

Issue Three

The LEA has improperly acted to limit parental communication and participation.

Position of the Parent

Citing 34 C.F.R. 300.322, the parent asserts that by directing communication through the director of the interlocal who is not a member of the student's IEP Team, the LEA has denied the parent meaningful participation. The parent contends that direct communication with staff working with the student has been limited. She further states that staff have insisted on using phone calls to respond to her requests for written clarification rather than providing the written responses she has asked for. It is the position of the parent that the LEA's approach has resulted in a delayed response to her questions and has resulted in her being unable to participate meaningfully in decision-making.

Position of the LEA

It is the position of the LEA that the parent has been an active participant in the development of all of the IEPs that have been developed for the student.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.322 require public agencies to take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of a child with a disability are present at each IEP Team meeting or are afforded an opportunity to participate. Parents must be given notice of the meeting early enough to ensure they will have the opportunity to attend, and IEP meetings should be scheduled at a mutually agreed upon time and place.

In L.F. v. Lake Washington School District (9th Cir. 2020) the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that schools can restrict a parent's communications by implementing a formal "communication plan" so long as that plan does not block the parent completely from participating in vital educational decisions such as the development of their child's IEP.

Investigative Findings

The parent participated in the development of the student's initial IEP in May 2025 and consented to the development of subsequent amendments to that IEP in September (3 amendments), November, and December 2025. In addition, the LEA provided prior written notice of refusal of a parental request for another change to the student's IEP in September 2025. On September 30, 2025, the parent formally requested another IEP Team meeting. That meeting was scheduled for October 9, 2025. On October 8, 2025, that meeting was cancelled with the consent of the parent after the student had experienced what the parent described as several "okay" days at school.

Throughout the first semester of the 2025-26 school year, the LEA communicated frequently with the parent who communicated via email with the student's case manager and other service providers in addition to the director of the interlocal, the building principal, and the superintendent.

During the third quarter of the 2025-26 school year, the director of the interlocal, the superintendent, and/or the building principal continued to receive and timely respond to various topics raised by the parent including

- requests for amendment of student records;
- the removal of the building principal as the LEA designee;
- clarification of district cell phone use policy;
- questions about classroom activities; and
- questions about student interactions.

On January 15, 2026, the parent filed a formal complaint against the LEA. The LEA made the decision to establish the director of the interlocal as the point of contact for the parent in order to ensure that the parent was being provided with clear, consistent information.

In an email to the student's IEP Team dated February 4, 2026, the parent requested that an IEP Team meeting be conducted before spring break.

On February 5, 2026 the director of the interlocal sent an email to the student's IEP team stating

> "...I am now stepping in on [the student's] case...It was clear...that mom emails different people...I want to make sure that we stay on the same page. Therefore, if any of you are tagged in an email around this student, especially from mom or aunt, please forward to me. I will call mom back tomorrow. I also anticipate that she will send you another email today or tomorrow. Continue to pause because she is not being ignored; I am attempting to make contact."

The director wrote that she had called the parent to let her know that she had seen the parent's February 4, 2026 email and would call the parent back on February 6, 2026. The parent sent an email to the director on February 5, 2026 stating that she had received the director's voicemail and

> "...[preferred] to continue this discussion in writing or during a scheduled IEP meeting with the full team present. Please respond in writing regarding next steps related to my request, including scheduling [the student's] IEP meeting and implementation of the completed assessments."

The director responded to the parent via email on February 6, 2026 writing

"I wanted to follow up on my phone call yesterday since you indicated you only want to communicate via email. My intent was to begin direct communication with you, as I have not previously been part of [the student's] team. I have informed the IEP team ...that I will now serve as your primary point of contact for all special education communication moving forward. I understand and value the importance of clear written communication so that all parties remain aligned. Below are the main purposes of my outreach:

1. To confirm that I will be your main contact for matters related to special education.
2. To ensure I fully understand your requests.
3. To schedule the IEP meeting you requested.
4. To inquire about your interest to go through Mediation.

I also received your email sent today at 2:25 p.m. In an effort to consolidate communication into one response, I will address questions #1 and #3 below. [The building principal] will respond separately regarding question#2."

The director then responded to the parent's questions and added

"It appears you have additional questions regarding the IEP to which you previously provided consent. Rather than addressing these details through extended written exchanges, we will review all concerns comprehensively at the IEP meeting you requested. This will allow the entire team to discuss the information collaboratively and ensure clarity moving forward. We will have a meeting date to you by Monday, but with the number of staff, it is taking time to get a date that aligns with all calendars."

The parent continued to email various staff members, and in an email to the parent dated February 19, 2026, the director of the interlocal reminded the parent that the director was to be the contact person for any special education related matters writing

"Please send your questions to me and I will respond after investigating."

On March 9, 2026, the director of the interlocal sent an email to the parent writing

"I want to clarify that I am not a member of [the student's] IEP team. My role in this situation is twofold:

1. To serve as the primary point of contact for special education–related questions, ensuring clear and consistent communication between you and the school team.
2. To ensure that special education processes are followed in accordance with legal requirements.

In this capacity, it is appropriate that I remain separate from the case at an emotional level. This allows me to review questions objectively, using [the student's] IEP, evaluation data, and applicable legal requirements as the basis for my guidance. If the school or any IEP team member is not following the IEP, I will address that directly."

An IEP Team meeting for the student was held on March 12, 2026 - before Spring Break. In preparation for that meeting, the director of the interlocal sent to the members of the IEP team a summative statement regarding requests made by the parent to be addressed at the meeting, noting that the team "by law, must consider each request by a parent." The statement noted that the parent had, in a February 15, 2026 email, requested that proposed IEP revisions be sent to her prior to the meeting, but stated

> "Since the parent is the one making the requests, and not the school team, it is difficult to have a collaborative process without first having the meeting."

The director's statement outlined a total of 9 requests which had been made by the parent, noting the date each request was made between February 5 and March 3, 2026. These requests included

1. holding the annual review of the student's IEP before Spring Break instead of waiting until the due date of May 12, 2026;
2. having specific individuals attend the meeting;
3. adding "specific safeguards...to [the student's] IEP to protect his voice, prevent biased or unsupported investigations, and ensure disability-informed practices are followed;
4. "prioritizing 1) protection of [the student's] nervous system and emotional regulation; 2) protection of his communication and ability to be heard accurately; 3) development of self-advocacy skills in a supported, disability informed manner, [and] 4) an IEP at a glance that teachers use to help [the student]...;'
5. instead of getting outside before 1:40 (leaving class 5 min earlier than passing period), 1-2 minutes should be sufficient...[as the parent requested, "Let's change that in the IEP;"
6. IEP to be updated to reflect the diagnosis of Anxiety Disorder and Tic Disorder;
7. review and incorporate Neuromuscular Efficiency (NME) results from a recent Functional Behavior Assessment (FBA) into the student's IEP;
8. review and incorporate Dynamic Assessment of Social Emotional Learning (DASEL) results from that FBA into the student's IEP; and
9. develop additional measurable goals that support growth and gradual expansion into additional general education time.

Under each request, the director provided additional relevant information for the team to consider.

A 10th request was added to the list on March 9, 2026 following another request from the parent on March 7, 2026. That request was for consideration of the development of a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) based on the findings of the FBA.

An IEP Team meeting was conducted as scheduled on March 12, 2026. An agenda from that meeting shows that both of the student's parents were present as was his aunt. Representatives from the district included a school psychologist, a speech/language pathologist, an autism specialist, the student's case manager, the building principal, a general education teacher, a coordinator, and the director of the interlocal as well as a translator who participated by telephone. The agenda shows that the team planned to discuss each of the 10 parental requests.

Meeting notes were taken by two of the meeting participants - the school psychologist and the coordinator. Both sets of notes reflect the active participation of both of the student's parents and his aunt.

Meeting Notes taken by the coordinator show that the team decided to take the following actions:

- amending the student's IEP to add general education for 50 minutes, 5 days a week for Drivers' Ed with para educator support starting March 23, 2026 for the fourth quarter;
- adding 50 minutes, 5 days a week of paraeducator support in Driver's Ed;
- adding support to personnel for staff training prior to working with [the student] (4th quarter);
- allowing the student to leave class 2 minutes before the end of the class period to go to his dismissal point;
- Adding Anxiety and Tic Disorders to the health section of the student's IEP;
- amending the accommodation for the student to answer only half the questions to exclude Driver's Ed;
- amending the accommodation of extended time Drivers Ed will have allow an extension until the end of quarter;
- allowing the student to take a general education science class beginning in August of 2026 with further discussion of this during the May annual review meeting; and
- scheduling the Annual IEP meeting for Friday, May 8th 1:00-3:30.

The director followed up with the parent via email on March 13, 2026 providing the parent with an amendment summary page, an amended IEP, a "Considerations Letter," prior written notice of proposed changes to the IEP, and a packet of paperwork for the student's father in Spanish.

In the Considerations Letter, the director documented how each of the parent's 10 requests had been addressed at the March 12, 2026 IEP meeting and/or outside that meeting.

On April 23, 2026, the parent was given prior notice of the student's annual IEP meeting on May 8, 2026. Multiple draft versions of the IEP were presented to the parent. The parent was present at the annual review meeting, and two sets of meeting notes taken by participants show that the parent and the student's aunt actively participated. Prior written notice of proposed changes to the student's IEP has been provided to the parent.

Summary and Conclusions

Ample evidence has been provided to show that since the student was first identified as a child with a disability in May 2025 the parent has actively participated in all decision-making meetings regarding his special education services. While, beginning February 2026, the LEA did establish restrictions on parent communication with staff, the LEA has the authority to do so. There is no evidence to show that the assignment of the director of the interlocal as the point person for all the parent's special education related communication has in any way inhibited the parent's meaningful participation in decision-making regarding the provision of special education services to the student during the two IEP Team meetings that have been held since the communication plan was initiated. The director of the interlocal has consistently acted in a timely manner to respond to the parent's expressed concerns regarding special education issues. While the director has suggested that a telephone call might provide an opportunity to clarify the parent's issues and answer her questions, the director has provided written responses as requested by the parent. A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.322 is not substantiated on this issue.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has not substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations on issues presented in this complaint. Therefore, no corrective actions are required.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 436,
Caney Valley Public Schools: 26FC436-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on May 4,, 2026, by ------- on behalf of her son, -------. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the parent," and ------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on May 28, 2026. That Complaint Report concluded that there were no violations of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the parent filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the parent's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The parent appeals the conclusions in issues one and two. The Appeal Committee will address each of these issues.

Issue One

The LEA restricted access to communication (the student's cell phone) after dismissal in a manner that was inconsistent with school policy.

The report describes Issue One as follows:

This issue relates to a district policy in the district's "Policy Manual" that says, in part, "S*tudent cell phones, digital cameras, and electronic/smart devices at CVHS are discouraged, but if brought to school, must remain "unused," switched to "off," and put in a locker."* (Report, p. 9). After it had was determined that the student was in violation of building policy - using his cell phone during the day to contact his grandmother or the parent, the student was as of February 19, 2026, required to turn his cell phone in to the office upon arrival at school. As the student signed out of school at the end of his shortened school day, the cell phone was sometimes given directly to the student or the cell phone was handed to the paraeducator who would then hand the phone to the student. (Report, p. 10).

The district conducted an IEP Team meeting with the parent in attendance on March 12, 2026. Among the topics discussed by the team was a change to the end-of-day early release from class. The team determined that rather than allowing the student to leave class 5 minutes early, that time would be reduced to 2 minutes. No modifications related to the student's use of his cell phone were included in the student's amended May 12, 2026 IEP nor was any reference to the student's cell phone usage included in the student's IEP when the annual IEP review was conducted on May 8, 2026. (Report, p. 12).

Finding no violation, the investigator concluded as follows:

> It is the job of the IEP Team to determine how to best address the needs of a student with a disability. Neither the student's May 2025 IEP (including subsequent amendments) nor his May 2026 IEP contain any reference to cell phone use by the student. While these IEPs do establish that the student has needs regarding communication and self-advocacy, those needs do not automatically convey any special rights to the student that would allow him to violate established district/building policies in place for all students in the same district/building. Therefore, when the LEA acted to enforce with this student the same cell phone policy which all students in the high school are required to follow, this action did not constitute a denial of FAPE. When the parent raised concerns regarding the application of that district policy, the director of the interlocal appropriately informed the parent that it would be up to the administrator (in this case the building principal) to respond to the parent's concerns. If the parent wants to pursue her complaint regarding the application of the district's cell phone policy, those issues would properly be directed to the district's Board of Education through district-established procedures.

> The IEP Team did address the parent's related concern - the student's early dismissal from his last class of the day - during an IEP amendment meeting on March 12, 2026 - 9 school days after the parent's February 27, 2026 email raising questions about restrictions to the student's use of his cell phone. Early dismissal from that last class was reduced by two minutes.

In her appeal the parent says: "My concern was not whether the IEP contained the word "cell phone." My concern was whether disability-related communication and self-advocacy needs were appropriately considered through the IEP process before a restriction affecting communication during dismissal was implemented."

The parent's original complaint says otherwise. The original complaint, in Issue One, in pertinent part says:

> Violation:
> Failure to implement and follow the IEP as written (34 CFR 300.323)
> Denial of FAPE (34 CFR 300.101)
> Disability based unequal access because the students disability directly impacts his ability to initiate communication, access to an effective communication method is required for implementation of his IEP.

The Appeal Committee agrees with the investigator's analysis. There could not have been a failure to implement the IEP in this instance because the IEP contained no reference to a cell phone. The Appeal Committee also agrees with the investigator that, "While these IEPs do establish that the student has needs regarding communication and self-advocacy, those needs do not automatically convey any special rights to the student that would allow him to violate established district/building policies in place for all students in the same district/building." If the parent believes there should be an exception to district or building policies due to her child's disability, she could ask her child's IEP team to place that exception in her child's IEP. As for the allegation that this policy resulted in "disability-based unequal access" the Appeal Committee is unpersuaded, as the policy applies equally to all students.

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report on this issue.

Issue

> The paraeducator acted to enforce an administrative restriction rather than supporting the student's communication needs as required by his IEP.

In her appeal, the parent says:

> The students para professional enforced the restriction on phone access and told him he could not use his phone after school when his ride was late. From February until now, she > continues to monitor and deny access to make calls after dismissal. The paraprofessional acted to enforce an administrative restriction rather than support the students communication needs as required by his IEP.

The parent's appeal also states:

> My complaint did not allege that the student lost paraprofessional service minutes or ceased receiving paraprofessional support. Rather, my concern was that the paraprofessional was being utilized to enforce an administrative communication restriction rather than support the student's documented communication and self-advocacy needs.

Yet, the parents original complaint described this issue as follows:

> "Violation
> Failure to implement and follow the IEP appropriately
> Improper use of paraprofessional services > Unilateral change to services without IEP involvement"

The investigator's conclusion that there was no violation related to this issue was succinct and as follows:

> The student's cell phone was kept in the office during the school day after it was established that he had used his phone during the school day in violation of district/building policy to contact his grandmother and the parent. The cell phone is returned to the student at the end of his school day at 1:40 PM or slightly earlier when he and the paraeducator go to the office to retrieve it. The parent specifically asserts that the paraeducator restricted the student's use of his cell phone after the end of the school day on April 27, 2026, but, as noted under Issue One, the review of the videotape of the end of the school day for the student showed that the phone was returned to the student.
> Neither the student's May 2025 IEP (including all subsequent amendments) nor his May 8, 2026 IEP require any modification of the district/building cell phone policy. The application of that district/building policy and the resultant restriction of the student's use of his personal cell phone did not result in any change to or conflict with the student's IEP that would have required the involvement of the student's IEP team. The enforcement of the cell phone policy did not in any way reduce the level of support from a special education teacher or paraeducator that the student received throughout his school day including the time spent waiting for someone to pick the student up from school. Additionally, the actions of the paraeducator in ensuring that the policies of the district/building were followed did not constitute a change to the student's IEP. (Report, p 15).

The Appeal Committee agrees with the investigator's conclusion. There was no failure to implement and follow the IEP, nor Improper use of paraprofessional services, nor any unilateral change to services without IEP team involvement. The fact that the paraprofessional enforced district policy with regard to cell phone usage does not demonstrate deficiency in performing educational duties any more than any teacher or other faculty member who enforces district policy in the work place means they have neglected their individual duties. Enforcing district policy is a part of the job for individuals working for the district, unless an IEP expressly says otherwise. This student's IEP was silent on phone usage.

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions on this issue.

Conclusion

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report on both issues.

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 17th day of June, 2026.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #458 BASEHOR-LINWOOD PUBLIC SCHOOLS
ON MAY 5, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 5, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #458 (Basehor-Linwood Public Schools) on behalf of ------- by his mother, -------. In the remainder of the report, ------- will be referred to as " the student" and ------- as "the mother" or "the complainant."

The complaint is against USD #458 (Basehor-Linwood Public Schools). In the remainder of the report, USD #458 will be referred to as "the Local Education Agency" or "LEA". When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student." In this case the Tonganoxie/Basehor-Linwood Special Education Cooperative serves the Basehor-Linwood Public School District.

Local Education Agency staff will be referred to In the remainder of this report as follows:

- Chris Cullinan, Director of Special Education
- Rebecca Romaine, Elementary School Principal
- Melanie French, Assistant Director of Special Education
- Jill Koertner, Board Certified Behavior Analyst
- Caitlan Johnston, Third Grade Teacher
- Damris Ford, Structured Learning/Special Education Teacher
- Rachel Cole, Occupational Therapist
- Bailey Edgar, School Psychologist
- Darcie Osgood, Speech and Language Pathologist

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date in which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on May 5, 2026.

Evidence Reviewed

During the investigation, the Complaint Investigator, Donna Wickham, reviewed all evidence and documentation provided by the Local Education Agency and the Parent. The investigator interviewed the mother by phone on May 7, 2026 and May 25, 2026. Emails were exchanged between the mother and investigator on May 19, 20, 25, 26, and 27, 2026. An interview was conducted with the Director of Special Education, Assistant Director of Special Education, and Elementary School Principal on May 20, 2026. Emails were exchanged between the investigator and Director of Special Education throughout the investigation to clarify evidence and ask follow-up questions.

Additional documentation was provided in consideration of this investigation and reviewed for context and relevancy to the issues under investigation. The following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

Documents:

1. Individualized Education Program (IEP) dated April 4, 2025
2. Prior Written Notice for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent (PWN) dated February 27, 2026, Parent consent signed March 6, 2026
3. IEP amendment without a meeting, Parent consent signed March 9, 2026
4. PWN dated February 27, 2026 for March 6, 2026 meeting, Parent signed consent March 9, 2026
5. IEP and meeting notes dated March 25, 2026
6. PWN dated March 25, 2026, Parent signed consent on April 6, 2026

Emails:

Email exchange between Parent and Board Certified Behavior Analyst dated between May 5, 2026 at 2:12 p.m. and May 6, 2026 at 1:59 p.m.

Email exchange among Parent, Superintendent, Director of Special Education, School Nurse, Occupational Therapist, Speech and Language Pathologist, School Psychologist, Third Grade Teacher, and Structured Learning/Special Education Teacher dated May 5, 2026 at 1:51p.m. and May 8, 2026 at 12:52 p.m.

Background Information

The student is a nine-year-old, third grader who is qualified for special education and related services under the primary eligibility category of autism and speech and language impairment as a secondary eligibility category. Additionally, the student has an estimated profound, sensorineural hearing loss the right ear.

The student's most current IEP dated March 25, 2026 includes eight IEP goals related to reading, general knowledge, mathematics, language, and conversations and twenty accommodations. The student receives Special Education, Adaptive PE, Occupational Therapy, Speech and Language Therapy, Transportation, and Attendant Care. The student is eligible for extended school year. The student has previously had a behavior intervention plan but due to improvements the plan was discontinued and replaced with communication goals and accommodations.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

Did USD #458 implement the IDEA-required, health-related services, including medication administration in accordance with physician orders for the student during the 2025-2026 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Parent Position

The Parent stated in the child complaint that the student requires medication administration during the school day pursuant to physician orders and the district is responsible for ensuring that this medication is administered safely, consistently, and in accordance with the orders. The Parent alleged that in spite of repeated requests the District has not provided documentation sufficient to demonstrate that medication administration occurred consistently and in accordance with physician orders.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency acknowledged that the student does have physician orders for medication administration during the school day, but the student does not have a health care plan or nursing services as part of the student's IEP. Medication is not mentioned in the IEP or IEP meeting notes. The student took medication at school, but this was separate and independent of special education services and the IEP process.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The IEP dated April 4, 2025 does not discuss medication in the section, Explain how the student's exceptionality affects his/her classroom and functional performance. The IEP does not mention medication administration nor health concerns in the Parent Concerns section. The IEP indicates that the student does not require an Individual Nursing Care Plan. Seven goals are included related to language, academics, general knowledge and gross motor skills. No services or accommodations are written to address medication administration. The IEP does not indicate any Support for School Personnel in the Supplementary Aids and Supports section.
2. The IEP Amendment without a meeting proposed a change in special education service minutes and the Parent signed consent on March 9, 2026. The PWN dated February 27, 2026 documents those changes in special education minutes and location changes to those minutes and Parent consent was obtained on March 6, 2026. No changes were documented for medication administration or health services.
3. The IEP and Meeting Notes dated March 25, 2026 indicates that the student does not require an Individual Nursing Care Plan. Medication administration is not included in the section, Explain how the student's exceptionality affects his/her classroom and functional performance. The IEP does not mention medication administration nor health concerns in the Parent Concerns section. Eight goals are included related to reading, general knowledge, mathematics, language, conversations. No nursing or health services are provided and none of the accommodations are directed to medication administration. The IEP does not indicate any Support for School Personnel in the Supplementary Aids and Supports section. The PWN dated March 25, 2026 documented IEP decisions and did not document any medication or health discussions or decisions. Consent was signed by the Parent on April 6, 2026.
4. The Parent stated during the interview with the Investigator that there was not a need for a nursing plan but during the IEP team meetings there were discussions related to the medication's impact on improving attention, regulation, behavioral stability and resulted in increased participation in classroom activities.

Conclusion

Schools may provide medication administration as an IDEA related service when documented on the student's IEP. The decision is often predicated on whether the service is necessary for the child to benefit from special education and make progress in the educational setting. The purpose of this investigation is not to determine if the student's needs medication administration as a special education related service; the role of the investigator does not supersede the role of the IEP team members. Instead, the investigator's role is to determine if the IEP team had documented medication administration as a related service included in the student's 2025-2026 IEPs.

In this case, there was evidence provided by both the Complainant and LEA that the student took medications while at school and that the student had an IEP for the duration of the 2025-26 school year. There is no evidence found through document review, nor interview with the LEA staff or Complainant that medication administration was a related service contained in either of the 2025-26 IEPs for the student. It is found that the medication administration for this student was not an IDEA issue and any concerns related to administration or documentation should be made to the LEA. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance.

The Complainant provided information suggesting that the medication was necessary for the student's educational progress. The Investigator did not consider this question as it would be premature since no documentation was found that the IEP team had considered this during the 2025-26 school year. Instead the Parent's belief that medication is necessary for the student's ongoing participation and educational progress should be referred to the student's IEP team as an IEP team decision prior to being investigated through the child complaint process.

Issue Two

Did USD #458 maintain and provide documentation to the parent sufficient to demonstrate that the student's health-related services, including medication administration occurred during the 2025-2026 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Parent Position

The Parent alleged that the LEA did not maintain and provide documentation sufficient to demonstrate that the student's health-related services, including medication administration occurred during the 2025-2026 school year.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency acknowledged that the student does have physician orders for medication administration during the school day, but the student does not have a health care plan or nursing services. Medication is not mentioned in the IEP or IEP meeting notes so therefore it is separate and independent of special education services and the IEP process.

1. The findings of Issue One is incorporated herein by reference.

2. The April 4, 2025 IEP, Amendment signed with Parent consent on March 9, 2026, March 25, 2026 IEP, meeting notes or PWN document that the student did not have a health care plan or nursing plan. Also there was no documentation showing medication administration was discussed as a special education related health service during the 2025-26 school year.

Conclusion

Health-related services nor medication administration were included in the student's 2025-26 IEPs and therefore not under the authority of IDEA or Kansas special education regulation for investigation. As a result, the LEA is found IN compliance.

Issue Three

Did USD #458 provide training of school personnel to implement the student's health related services including medication administration as written into the student's IEP during the 2025-2026 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Parent Position

The Parent alleged a Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) was not delegated to administer medication until February 9, 2026, raising concerns regarding who administered medication prior to that date and whether appropriate delegation, training, and supervision were in place. The Parent additionally, noticed behavioral changes with the student that are consistent with the student not receiving medication. Additionally, a record request caused the Parent to be more concerned when unable to secure complete documentation of mediation administration.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency responded that the student's IEPs did not specify any training in the supplementary aids and supports section.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The findings of Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.
2. The IEP dated April 4, 2025, PWN dated February 27, 2026 with consent signed March 6, 2026, or amendment with consent signed March 9, 2026 do not indicate any Support for School Personnel in the Supplementary Aids and Supports section.

3. The IEP, Meeting Notes, or PWN dated March 25, 2026 does not indicate any Support for School Personnel in the Supplementary Aids and Supports section.
4. The Parent clarified in the interview with the Investigator that the training of concern is whether appropriately certificated, licensed or supervised staff were administering medication, documenting medication administration, and appropriately communicating with parents about medication changes and storage.

Conclusion

Neither of the 2025-26 IEPs contained a health related services nor specialized training regarding health related services in the Support for School Personnel section in the Supplementary Aids and Supports section. As such, the Parent's concerns are not under the authority of IDEA or Kansas special education regulations and should be addressed with the LEA. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) was not found. Corrective action is not required.
2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) was not found. Corrective action is not required.
3. ISSUE THREE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) was not found. Corrective action is not required.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 458,
Basehor-Linwood Public Schools: 26FC458-003

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on May 5, 2026, by ------- on behalf of her son, -------. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the parent," and ------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on June 5, 2026. That Complaint Report concluded that there was no violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the parent filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the parent's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report identified three issues, all of which are being appealed. We address each issue separately.

Issue One

Did USD #458 implement the IDEA-required, health-related services, including medication administration in accordance with physician orders for the student during the 2025-2026 school year.

In concluding that there was no violation regarding this issue, the investigator noted that the student's IEP did not include any provision for administering medication. The investigator explained that "The purpose of this investigation is not to determine if the student needs medication administration as a special education related service; the role of the investigator does not supersede the role of the IEP team members. Instead, the investigator's role is to determine if the IEP team had documented medication administration as a related service included in the student's 2025-2026 IEPs," and that "the Parent's belief that medication is necessary for the student's ongoing participation and educational progress should be referred to the student's IEP team." (Complaint Report, p. 5).

In her appeal, the parent asserts that the student's medication "was prescribed to support symptoms associated with ADHD and to enable him to access and benefit from his education." Even if that assertion is correct, however, the Appeal Committee agrees with the investigator that (except in very unusual circumstances that are not evident in this case) the complaint process is not a proper method for amending an IEP, and that the Parent's (and doctor's) belief that medication is necessary for the student's ongoing educational progress should be referred to the student's IEP team. While a doctor may prescribe medication for a student, a doctor has no authority to prescribe special education or related services in an IEP. That is the province of an IEP team. For the same reasons expressed by the investigator in her report, the Appeal Committee: (a) declines the request in this appeal to conclude that this student's IEP should have included administration of medication, and (b) suggests that the parent present her request to her child's IEP team.

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions on this issue in the Complaint Report.

Issue Two

Did USD #458 maintain and provide documentation to the parent sufficient to demonstrate that the student's health-related services, including medication administration occurred during the 2025-2026 school year.

In a very brief analysis, the investigator concluded that: "Health-related services nor medication administration were included in the student's 2025-26 IEPs and therefore not under the authority of IDEA or Kansas special education regulation for investigation. As a result, the LEA is found IN compliance. (Report, p. 6)"

In her appeal, the parent asserts that the district had sufficient information and was aware that the student's medication "significantly affected his educational functioning, behavioral regulation, participation in instruction, and access to educational benefit." Yet, the district "declined to issue Prior Written Notice and stated that it was not proposing or refusing any changes to services, supports, or placement."

While the Appeal Committee agrees that the district had a significant amount of information, it does not accept the parent's invitation to interpret the information that was available to the district. As the investigator emphasized in her report, the interpretation of this kind of information and its application to an individual student and to that student's individual circumstances belongs to the student's IEP team. In considering whether an IEP is appropriate for an individual child, no less authority than the United State Supreme Court has said that the IEP must be reasonably calculated to enable a child to make progress appropriate in light of the child's unique and individual circumstances. Endrew F. v. Douglas County School District, 137 S.Ct. 988, 117 LRP 9767 (S.C. 2017). The Supreme Court went on to say that when determining whether an IEP is appropriate courts should give deference to the judgement of school officials.

In addition, United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the 10th Circuit (and Kansas is in the 10th Circuit) has said that when considering whether a school has properly implemented a student's IEP, the court should consider only the written IEP developed by the student's IEP team (Sytsema v. Academy Sch. Dist. No. 20, 538 F.3d 1306, 50 IDELR 213 (10th Cir. 2008)). Here the parent acknowledges that a related service was not part of the student's IEP but asserts that it should have been added to the IEP. While accepting that such a situation can emerge, the complaint process is ill equipped to be used to make such judgements except in the most extreme situations. That is especially the case where, as in this instance, the IEP team has not yet considered a proposal to add such a related service to the IEP. The most direct, most effective and legally compliant method for first determining whether a related service should be added to an IEP is to convene an IEP team meeting and let the IEP team do its work.

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report on this issue.

Issue Three

Did USD #458 provide training of school personnel to implement the student's health related services including medication administration as written into the student's IEP during the 2025-2026 school year.

In another very brief analysis, the investigator concluded that "Neither of the 2025-26 IEPs contained a health related service nor specialized training regarding health related services in the Support for School Personnel section in the Supplementary Aids and Supports section. As such, the Parent's concerns are not under the authority of IDEA or Kansas special education regulations and should be addressed with the LEA. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance."

For the same reasons cited in the previous issues in this appeal, the Appeal Committee agrees with the investigator that the district was not required by the IDEA or by Kansas special education laws or regulations to train school personnel to implement health related services including medication administration to the student when there was no such requirement in the student's IEP.

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report on this issue.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 16th day of June, 2026.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #383
ON MAY 7, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 18, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, ------, by their parent, ------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #383 Manhattan-Ogden Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #383.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 7, 2026 and the 30-day timeline ended on June 6, 2026.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), amended the Student's Individualized Education Program (IEP) prior to changing the time the check-out accommodation was to be provided. K.A.R. 91-40-16(a); 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(4)(6).

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Parent with Prior Written Notice (PWN) before changing the Student's check-out accommodation. K.A.R. 91-40-26, K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2); 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a).

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the accommodations in the Student's IEP, specifically the teacher-provided notes for coursework and assignments, during their interim alternative educational setting (IAES) placement. K.A.R. 91-40-35(b)(c); 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(b)(2).

ISSUE FOUR: Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Parent was afforded the opportunity to participate in the manifestation determination meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-38; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.322, 300.501(b)(c).

ISSUE FIVE: Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, reviewed the medical information provided by the Parent to determine if the conduct in question was caused by or had a direct substantial relationship to the child's disability when conducting the manifestation determination meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-38; 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(e)(f).

ISSUE SIX: Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, obtained parental consent prior to discussing confidential information regarding the Student in front of the Student's peers, other parents, and school staff members. K.A.R. 91-40-50; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.622, 99.3.

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parent on May 28, 2026. The following LEA staff were interviewed on May 26, 2026: The Principal, the Assistant Director of Special Education, and the Special Education Coordinator.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Video footage, Front Office Interaction, 04/24/26
2. Accommodations Tracker, 08/12/[25]-11/18/[25]
3. Screenshot of Online Course Documents, 05/11/26
4. Manifestation Determination Review, 04/27/26
5. Prior Written Notice for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent, 03/03/25, 08/18/25,11/13/25, 03/02/26, 03/10/26, 03/30/26, 01/07/26, 04/27/26
6. Individual Education Program Meeting Participants, 04/28/26
7. Notice of Meeting, 04/27/26
8. Incident Statements, 04/24/[26]-05/13/26
9. Behavior Detail Report, 10/09/25-04/24/26
10. Individual Education Program Amendment Between Annual Individual Education Program Meetings, 08/18/25, 11/17/25, 01/08/26, 04/28/26
11. Service Assignment, 08/18/25-03/02/26
12. Service Log, 08/18/25-03/02/26
13. Individualized Educational Program, 03/03/25, 03/02/26

14. Notice of Meeting, 03/11/26
15. Individual Student Safety Plan, 03/11/26
16. Notice of Meeting, 03/27/26
17. ParentSquare Message exchange, 01/16/25-05/11/26
18. Staffing Summary, 02/09/26, 03/02/26, 03/11/26, 03/30/26, 04/28/26
19. [The Student] Passport, undated
20. Emails between parties, 04/27/26-05/21/26

Background Information

This Investigation involved a 12-year-old, 6th-grade student enrolled at a middle school in USD #383. The Student's primary area of exceptionality is OHI as a student who experiences Attention-deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and seizures. The Student is receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA. The Student has shown strong progress in reading and enjoys earning incentives.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. Relevant information from the Student's IEP, dated March 3, 2025, included:
    a. The Parent signed the Meeting Participants page, indicating they attended the meeting.
    b. The IEP contained information on the Student's Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance (PLAAFP) and goals.
    c. Related and Special Education Services were noted.
    d. Relevant information from Program Modifications, Accommodations, and Supplementary Aids and Services included:
        i. "Check out during the day or at the end of the day," from March 3, 2025 through March 2, 2026. The location was noted as "Other" and the frequency was daily. The duration stated, "Other: Must be specific. Outside of the classroom." This accommodation information was stated similarly in the Student's undated School Passport and PWN dated March 3, 2025. For the latter, the Parent signed, dated, and checked the box giving their consent.
2. An Accommodations Log, from August 12, 2025 through November 18, 2025, documented "Frequent Check-ins" and "Check[-]Ins/Check[-]Outs" for the Student:
    a. Frequent check-ins were documented 55 times between August 12, 2025 and November 18, 2025. On November 6, 2025, the Student was "not in class."

b. Check-ins/check-outs were documented 52 times between August 12, 2025 and November 16, 2025. On November 6 and November 17, 2025, the Student was "not in class," and on November 18, 2025 it was noted the Student had "Switched advisories."

3. An IEP Amendment, dated August 18, 2025, documented the Student's new special education service "for executive functioning and social skills goal work," in the 'G' setting from August 18, 2025 to March 2, 2026, for 22 minutes daily, as long as school was in session, provided by the Case Manager. The Parent agreed to amend the Student's IEP without conducting a meeting and signed and dated it accordingly.
    a. PWN, dated August 18, 2025, described a material change in services and a substantial change in placement for the Student.
        i. Proposal: Add the Student to Learning Strategies "during an advisory period for 22 minutes, daily, for support with executive functioning and social skills goal work."
        ii. Explanation: The IEP team believed this would meet the Student's needs and keep them in the Least Restrictive Environment (LRE). Not adding the Student to Learning Strategies was considered, but the IEP team rejected this idea due to the Student's need for support.
        iii. Data: Observations, parent input, and teacher input.
        iv. Other factors: Harmful effects were described.
    b. The Parent acknowledged consent with an "X" in the "I give consent" box, a signature, and the August 18, 2025 date.
4. The Student's Behavior Detail Reports documented the following from October 9, 2025 through April 24, 2026:
    a. 22 referrals for one or more of the following topics: disrespect, defiance, elopement, verbal aggression, physical aggression, threat, lying in the street, and vandalism.
        i. Consequences:
            1. One conference with the Student.
            2. Five days of lunch detention.
            3. 14 days (and a "for the rest of the day") of Alternative Educational Setting (AES).
            4. Nine days (and a "for the rest of the day") out-of-school suspension (OSS).
    b. One of the April 24, 2026 referrals documented the following resolution: "For their actions, [the Student] received 1 day of OSS. [The Parent] was contacted through ParentSquare by [the Principal] concerning this suspension, and a manifestation meeting scheduled for Tuesday morning [sic]."
5. An IEP Amendment, dated November 15, 2025, indicated the IEP team proposed to move the Student to a general education advisory and documented the end date of the "Learning Strategies (advisory)" as November 17, 2025. The Parent agreed to amend the Student's IEP without conducting a meeting and signed and dated it accordingly.

a. PWN, dated November 13, 2025, indicated that on November 17, 2025, the IEP team documented the change in services and a change in placement, neither material nor substantial, detailing the proposal to move the Student to a general education advisory. An explanation, options considered, data used, and other factors were noted.
b. The Parent acknowledged consent with an "X" in the "I give consent" box, a signature, and a November 15, 2025 date.

6. PWN, dated January 7, 2026, with a listed meeting date of March 3, 2025, indicated a change in services and a change in placement for the Student which did not require parental consent. The Parent marked the "I give consent" box and signed the form on January 7, 2026. An accompanying IEP amendment, dated January 8, 2026, noted the proposed change was "… [the Student] will be moved out of Learning Strategies." "Current Services to be Changed" listed "Learning Strategies," with a setting of "G," with a frequency of 50 minutes daily. The Case Manager was listed as the provider. The Parent waived their right to an IEP meeting and signed the amendment on January 7, 2026.
7. A Staffing Summary, dated February 9, 2026, documented the Parent stated they "wanted to discuss services that … are not being followed," including "social work services were not being followed until after fall conferences." The document recorded new medications for the Student, a discussion about increased behavior incidents, and the Parent inquiring about accommodations.
8. An annual IEP, dated March 2, 2026, included:
    a. Most recent evaluation: March 3, 2025.
    b. Educational changes: Escalated behaviors.
    c. Special considerations: The Student's behaviors impeded learning, and positive behavior interventions and supports were included in the IEP. The Student required a nursing care plan, but did not require a BIP.
    d. Goals: Writing, self-management, de-escalation, and coping strategies.
    e. Related services, special education services, and support for school personnel from March 2, 2026 to March 1, 2027.
    f. Placement: "Special Education Direct Services in a General Education Classroom in a[n] Elementary or Secondary building; Outside regular class less than 21% of time; Special Education Classroom in General Education Elementary or Secondary Building."
    g. Relevant accommodations: Teacher provides a hard copy (paper or electronic) of the outline of the notes for the class period from March 2, 2026 to March 1, 2027, in all core subjects, daily, for all core subjects.
9. A Staffing Summary, dated March 2, 2026, summarized the relevant information in the IEP and noted the Parent's concerns. Additionally, it was noted the Nurse requested, and the Parents provided, updated medications for the Student.

a. PWN, dated March 2, 2026, described a material change in services, a substantial change in placement, and other changes not involving services or placement.
    i. Proposal: The IEP team proposed increased supports, escort services between classes, the addition of a "social [-] emotional" based Learning Strategies class, social work check-ins, and social worker visits.
    ii. Explanation: The proposed actions were a result of an increase in behaviors requiring an increase in services.
    iii. Options: A variety of models were considered.
    iv. Data: Parent and teacher input, observations, "behavior specialist," and student work samples.
    v. Other factors: The harmful effects of removal from general education peers were noted.
    vi. The Parent acknowledged consent with an "X" in the "I give consent" box and a signature. It was not dated.

10. The following documentation was related to a March 11, 2026 IEP meeting:
    a. A Notice of Meeting, dated March 11, 2026, indicated an IEP team meeting scheduled for the same day to discuss possible changes to the IEP. The Parent acknowledged via signature they consented to waive their right to a 10-day notification for the meeting with a signature and the March 11, 2026 date.
    b. PWN, dated March 10, 2026, indicated that on March 9, 2026, the LEA refused to initiate or change the identification, placement, or provision of services.
        i. Proposal: "The District is refusing the parent request that staff use physical restraint when the student attempts to run or elope."
        ii. An explanation, options considered, data, and other factors were noted.
    c. An Individual Student Safety Plan, dated March 11, 2026, listed the Student's medical diagnoses, including epilepsy, ADHD, depression, and anxiety. Unsafe behaviors were described, and a Crisis Response Plan was documented. Warning signs/triggers, strategies that worked and did not work, and behavior supports were documented.
    d. A Staffing Summary, dated March 11, 2026, indicated the purpose of the staffing was to discuss safety plan implementation. It was noted the "Parent will provide documentation regarding the Student's appointments and [emergency room] ER visits, and that the Student is also on a safety plan at home."

11. The following documentation was related to a March 30, 2026 IEP meeting:
    a. A Notice of Meeting, dated March 27, 2026, proposed a meeting on March 30, 2026 to discuss possible changes to the Student's IEP. The Parent signed and dated the acknowledgment on March 30, 2026, and waived their right to a 10-day meeting notice.

b. PWN, dated March 30, 2026, indicated the IEP team met to determine the Student's services, educational placement, and any additions or changes to the IEP.
    i. Proposal: The IEP team proposed to move the Student to a more restrictive Level 3 program.
    ii. Explanation: The Student required increased "adult support, redirection, and intervention."
    iii. Options: The IEP team considered continuing the Student's services in the current placement, but determined the Student had not made "sufficient progress despite these supports" and the Student's "level of need" exceeded "what can be effectively provided in the current setting."
    iv. Data: Performance data, observations, progress monitoring results, teacher reports, teacher and social worker input.
    v. The Parent acknowledged consent with an "X" in the "I give consent" box, a signature, and a March 30, 2026 date.
c. A Staffing Summary, dated March 30, 2026, indicated the purpose of the staffing was a "Change of placement to district level program." It was noted the Parent requested the meeting to discuss moving the Student to a Level 3 program. The Level 3 Teacher described their program, "how things wouldn't change on [the Student's] schedule," and how support would be added.

12. The following ParentSquare interactions occurred on April 24, 2026:
    a. Level 3 Teacher, 8:58 a.m.: "[The Student] is wondering [sic], mad [the Student] spilled water on [them]self."
    b. Assistant Principal, 11:14 a.m.: "Hi [the Parent], I just wanted to let you know that [the Student] is escalated again. [The Student] is starting to become physical with staff in the room."
    c. The Parent, 11:17 a.m.: "Please have someone call me."
    d. The Other Parent, 3:08 p.m.: "Is [the Student] able to come to school Monday if not what's the plan [sic]."
13. The following emails were sent to the Director of Special Education on May 20, 2026 describing their communication with the Parents on April 24, 2026:
    a. The Assistant Principal called the Parent after sending an earlier ParentSquare message. According to the Assistant Principal, "I filled [the Parent] in on the little that I knew and that we needed someone to come to the school to pick [the Student] up." The Assistant Principal confirmed with the Athletic Director and then the Parent that the Student pulled the fire alarm and the police department was en route. The Assistant Principal indicated the Parent was "very mad and yelled on the phone" and the Assistant Principal attempted to contact both the Director and Assistant Directors of Special Education.

b. The Athletic Director indicated, "I never called or messaged [the Parent] or [the Other Parent]. The only conversations I had with them were in person and in the building."
    i. 9:30 a.m.: The Athletic Director indicated the Parent was disappointed the Juvenile Supervision Officer was called to assist with the Student and the safety precaution "hold."
    ii. 11:30 a.m.: The Athletic Director recalled walking the Parent to the courtyard to meet with the Student and the police officers, at which time the Parent indicated the Athletic Director was one of the Student's triggers, asked if the Student caused the classroom damage, and "yelled" at the School personnel "to all leave [the Parent] with [the Student] and the police officers."
    iii. The Athletic Director recalled talking to the Other Parent in the front office and answering several questions about the Parent's trespass order. According to the Athletic Director, "After we answered [the Other Parent's] questions, I never had another conversation with either of them."

14. The following statements were provided by the LEA regarding a front office conversation witnessed by the Parent on April 24, 2026:
    a. Athletic Director (undated): "On April 24th, I joined a conversation that was taking place in our front office as to whether a student, [the Student] would be attending [their] classes for the rest of the day or if [the Student] was going to be kept in [the Level 3 Teacher's] classroom. The conversation was short, where it was determined that the plan was for [the Student] to attend [their] classes throughout the day. During the conversation [the Student's] name was never mentioned by anyone."
    b. Assistant Principal (May 13, 2026): "On April 24, [the Level 3 Teacher] approached me in the office, and we had a short conversation of what the remainder of [the Student's] day was going to look like. [The Athletic Director] and the [Special Education Coordinator] joined us where [the Student's] schedule was confirmed. The conversation then turned to if [the Juvenile Supervision Officer] was still in the building. This was all a brief conversation, and no student names were mentioned during this time."
    c. Level 3 Teacher (May 12, 2026): "On April 24, 2026, following a behavioral incident involving [the Student], a behavior assistant asked for clarification regarding the student's schedule for the remainder of the day. Because I had only been working with this student for a few weeks, I wanted to ensure my decision was approved by administration before finalizing it, so I went to the main office. Upon my arrival, [the Assistant Principal] approached the counter directly across from me and inquired about the plan. I explained that I believed it was best to maintain consistency by having the student follow their usual schedule and check into their classes. [The Assistant Principal] stated that [they] trusted my judgment, but I noted that I also wanted to consult [the Special Education Coordinator] as [they] had been present for all meetings regarding this student. … The [Special Education Coordinator] expressed [their] agreement. At this time, [the Athletic Director] joined us … inquiring if [the Juvenile Supervision Officer] was still in the building. I informed [them] that [the Juvenile Supervision Officer] had left. During this exchange, [the Parent] entered the office and immediately expressed frustration regarding a perceived lack of privacy, stating that the student 'deserves dignity.' [The Special Education Coordinator] apologized to [the Parent], who then asked who had contacted [the Juvenile Supervision Officer]. … I also apologized to [the Parent] for the setting of the conversation, explaining that what was intended to be a quick schedule update had inadvertently turned into a discussion involving three people. After I explained the plan for the remainder of the student's day, [the Parent] agreed it was the best option. To ensure further privacy, I transitioned the topic to the student's Orchestra class and asked [the Parent] if [they] would like to move to an office for that discussion. When [the Parent] agreed, I borrowed [the Athletic Director's] badge to access [their] office for a private conversation. At no point during the discussion did anyone mention the student by name."

d. Special Education Coordinator (May 13, 2026): On April 24, 2026, the Special Education Coordinator participated in a conversation with the Level 3 Teacher, the Athletic Director, and the Assistant Principal in the office regarding the Student's plans for the remainder of the day. According to the Special Education Coordinator, "Throughout the conversation, the student's name was not used, and no personally identifying or confidential information was disclosed. The discussion was limited to logistical planning related to the implementation of the student's intervention plan, including whether the student would require escort support to class. When the parent entered the office area, [the Parent] requested additional privacy for the conversation. [The Level 3 Teacher] escorted the parent to a private room within the office to continue the discussion. At no point was there a breach of student confidentiality."

15. On Sunday, April 26, 2026, the Principal messaged the Parents via ParentSquare to respond to their question regarding the Student's return to school on Monday, "I was out of the building Friday when [the Student's] incident occurred. I needed some time to talk to several staff members to get the details of the incident and what all transpired. Due to [the Student's] behaviors, [the Student] will be suspended tomorrow, Monday, and we will need to meet for a Manifestation Meeting upon [the Student's] return. This meeting is currently scheduled for Tuesday morning at 7:40 a.m." The Parent responded, "Who will be present at [the Student's] meeting?" The Principal responded they would know more "tomorrow" when they were back in the building.
16. The following documentation was related to an April 28, 2026 Manifestation Determination Review (MDR) meeting:
    a. A Notice of Meeting, dated April 27, 2026, included:

i. April 24, 2026: "[The] Parent was informed of meeting time and date by phone call."

ii. April 27, 2026: "[The] Parent was sent meeting link for meeting [sic]."

iii. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss possible changes to the Student's IEP and conduct an MDR.

iv. The Notice of Meeting was emailed to the Parent on April 27, 2026. The Parent signed it on May 6, 2026 and acknowledged they planned to attend. During their interview, the Assistant Director of Special Education explained a check box on the Notice of Meeting indicated the Parent planned to attend. They indicated the Parent provided confirmation of their attendance verbally and via email. They stated the Parent had to attend virtually because there was a no trespass order against the Parent from the School. They indicated all documents were provided to the Parent in a timely manner, but they had to prompt the Parent to sign the document on two occasions, even though they had verbal and email correspondence showing the Parent would attend the MDR.

b. The MDR document, dated April 27, 2026, included the following:

i. Student's Behavior: On April 24, 2026, the Student's behaviors included dysregulation, elopement, defiance, and verbal and physical aggression. The School enacted the Student's safety plan.

ii. Student's IEP: The document indicated the Student's primary exceptionality was OHI. The Student experienced ADHD and seizures. Academics, functional performance, social-emotional needs, behaviors, and triggers were noted.

iii. Teacher Observation: The Student required intensive academic and behavior supports.

iv. Relevant Information Provided by the Parent: "[The] Parent shared details about multiple med[ication] changes that have occurred throughout the course of the school year as well as in recent months (March-April). [The] Parent shared that [the Student's] recent changes to [their] medication (on/off different [medications]) within the last couple of months can be a factor in [the Student's] moods and behaviors. [The] Parent isn't sure how much communication has been shared between therapists/doctors. [The] Parent is concerned of the social[-]emotional phase that [the Student] is currently in with frequent suicidal thoughts. [The] Parent shared that [the Student] has experienced numerous seizures throughout the course of the school year with three happening while at school. [The] Parent shared major behaviors happened within the window of the seven days of med[ication]s changing."

v. Other Relevant Information: On March 30, 2026, the IEP team proposed to move the Student to a more restrictive setting in a Level 3 program to provide greater structure and support to meet the Student's needs.

vi. "No" was checked as a response to the question, "Was the conduct in question caused by or have [sic] a direct and substantial relationship to the child's disability?"

vii. "No" was checked as a response to the question, "Was the conduct in question a direct result of the school's failure to implement the IEP?"

viii. Determination: The IEP team determined the Student's behaviors were not a manifestation of their disability and two boxes were checked, indicating "disciplinary removal may occur, but the school district must continue to make a free appropriate public education (FAPE) available to the student in a manner which enables the student to continue to participate in the general education curriculum, although in another setting, and to progress toward meeting the goals set out in the student's IEP" and, "if appropriate, the school will conduct a functional behavioral assessment and develop a behavior intervention plan designed to address the behavior violation so that it does not recur."

ix. Team Members Present: The Parent, the Principal, the General Education Teacher, the School Social Worker, the Assistant Director of Special Education, and the Level 3 Teacher. The Parent was also listed under "Dissenting Opinion Team Members."

17. The following documentation was related to the April 28, 2026 IEP meeting:

a. An IEP Amendment, dated April 28, 2026, included:

i. Proposed changes: "Special Education social work services in the X setting for 15 minutes weekly for the duration of the 45[-]day period" and "Special Education services in the X setting for 15 minutes bi-weekly for the duration of the 45[-] day period." The X setting is noted as indirect services.

ii. The document was not signed or dated by any party.

b. A Staffing Summary, dated April 28, 2026, indicated the purpose of the staffing was for an MDR. Notes indicated "Parent was given the opportunity to share anything [they] would like to add to the documentation." The IEP team "voted", 5-1, that the Student's behaviors were not a manifestation of the Student's disability. The Parent was the lone dissenting "vote" and indicated medication changes "can be a factor in [the Student's] moods and behaviors." The IEP team voted 6-0 that the Student's behaviors did not result from the LEA not implementing the Student's current IEP. PWN was reviewed regarding the Student's placement and mimicked the aforementioned amendment. The notes included the Parent's concern "with how conversations regarding [the Student] [were] happening in the open where others not involved with [the Student] could possibly hear the conversation. [The Principal] apologized and mentioned this has been addressed with those staff members and to review our expectations moving forward [sic]. [The] Parent also shared concerns regarding [the Juvenile Supervision Officer] [a]s a part of this situation/conversation [sic]. [The Level 3 Teacher] apologized and clarified the conversation [about] how [the Juvenile Supervision Officer's] name was brought up and [their] participation in working with [the Student]."

c. Relevant sections of the PWN, dated April 27, 2026, indicated the IEP team met on April 28, 2026 to determine "Other" changes to the Student's IEP that did not involve services or placement.
    i. Proposal: A 45-day IAES due to the Student's behaviors and safety concerns. According to the proposal, "The IAES will allow the student to continue receiving special education services, supports, and instruction while providing a structured environment focused on safety, behavioral regulation, and skill development through an online platform." The aforementioned social work services proposal was noted.
    ii. Explanation: "The student's actions created a significant risk of harm to staff and others in the classroom." According to the document, "The IAES placement will be a virtual platform that the student can access at home. During this time, the student will continue to receive a free appropriate education (FAPE), including services and supports necessary to participate in the general education curriculum, progress toward IEP goals, and receive behavioral interventions designed to address the conduct that resulted in the disciplinary action. This setting provides a structured and supervised environment focused on safety, behavioral regulation and skill development."
    iii. Options: "The team considered continuing the student's placement in the current program with additional supports. However, due to the severity of the behaviors and the immediate safety concerns presented … ," this option was determined to be "insufficient."
    iv. Data: The data the IEP team used to make the decision was listed.
    v. Other factors: The IEP team "will review behavioral data and may revise the Student's Behavior Intervention Plan … or conduct additional assessment as needed to address the behaviors that led to disciplinary action. The goal of this placement is to maintain safety while providing the student with continued access to instruction and behavioral support … ." PWN was not signed by the Parent.
    vi. The participant page indicated the Parent, the Principal, the Assistant Director of Special Education, the General Education Teacher, the Social Worker, and the Level 3 Teacher were present for the IEP meeting.

18. Between April 27, 2026 and May 4, 2026, an email exchange occurred between the LEA and the Parent:

a. April 27, 2026:
    i. The Principal attached the documentation the Parents requested.
    ii. The Parent wrote, "I would like to clarify what the plan will be for [the Student] tomorrow. I do not feel it is in [their] best interest to attend the meeting, and I am requesting that [the Student] not be present. Additionally, will [the Student] be allowed to return to [their classes]?"
    iii. The Assistant Director of Special Education indicated the "team will discuss the plan moving forward in great detail with you tomorrow during the meeting," and indicated the Student should not attend.
b. April 28, 2026:
    i. The Parent wrote, "After further review of [the Student's] plans and IEP, I would like to change my answer to no for the school following [the Student's] plan. It was not implemented with fidelity, and I would like that changed."
c. April 30, 2026:
    i. The Assistant Director of Special Education indicated the Parent's dissent "is noted on the manifestation document" and indicated the Parent could send a letter detailing their dissent.
    ii. The Parent wrote, "I am writing to formally document my disagreement with the implementation of my child's …" IEP. The Parent described the lack of social work services at the beginning of the school year and "access to a designated check-out person … outside of the classroom setting."
    iii. The Assistant Director of Special Education replied, "Please know that concerns related to the implementation of [the Student's] IEP are taken seriously. The [LEA] is committed to ensuring that services and supports outlined in a student's IEP are provided appropriately, and we recognize the importance of carefully reviewing any concerns regarding implementation."
d. May 4, 2026:
    i. The Parent wrote, "The end-of-day check-out is a specific, bargained-for support designed to meet [the Student's] needs, and this accommodation was legally required to be provided through March 2, 2026. I was previously informed that this service would not be provided and that [the Student's] Advisory [sic] period would be used instead. Replacing a dedicated check-out with Advisory based on a lower student-to-teacher ratio constitutes a unilateral change to the IEP. A lower student count in a different setting does not fulfill the specific functional goals of a structured, end-of day [sic] check-out as mandated."

19. On May 4, 2026, the Assistant Director of Special Education emailed the Online Learning Coordinator regarding the Student's accommodation, "Teacher provides hard copy (paper or electronic) of the outline of the notes for the class period," and inquired about the options "for notes to be provided to [the Student] for [their] core subjects." The Online Coordinator indicated "the guided notes tab" was selected for the Student's four courses. The Online Coordinator provided screenshots of the four courses showing where the guided notes were available in each course.

20. In an email to the Special Education Director, dated May 12, 2026, the Level 3 Teacher shared the following relevant notes from a May 8, 2026 meeting with the Student and the Other Parent:
    a. Accommodations: "[Level 3 Teacher] asked [the Student] if [the Student] has used the eNotes on Edgenuity. After [the Student] said [they] hadn't found the eNotes, [the Level 3 Teacher] shared [their] screen to show [the Student] the guided notes. When given options, [the Student] said [the Student] prefers to complete the notes on [their] tablet (electronic access). [The Level 3 Teacher] told [the Student] that if [the Student] changes [their] mind and wants paper copies, let [the Level 3 Teacher] know. [The Level 3 Teacher] will also follow up with [the Student's] parents via email with instructions for accessing the eNotes."
    b. The Level 3 Teacher emailed the Parents and provided the link to a video on how to find the guided notes.
21. In an email to the Special Education Director, dated May 14, 2026, the Advisory Teacher explained, "[The Student] was in my advisory from 11/18/2025 to present. When [the Student] was present in my advisory [they] sat within 5 feet of my desk. … I walked the track with [them] for 20 minutes during a Friday 'fun day.' Every day [the Student] was in school [the Student] would drop [their] instrument off in my classroom after band and we would have a quick conversation."
22. An undated document supplied by the Parent listed medication and medical protocol changes in response to the Student's behavior and medication side effects.
23. On May 26, 2026, the Complaint Investigator reviewed LEA provided video-only footage of the front office interaction with the Parent on April 24, 2026, and the following relevant details were noted:
    a. A large column partially obstructed the camera's view. An individual behind the counter was observed interacting with two individuals standing in front of it. Two additional individuals, presumably staff members, were present in the main office: one positioned near the camera (distant from the counter interaction) and another seated at a computer adjacent to the primary staff member. At this point, the Parent entered the office.
    b. The Parent joined the two individuals at the front counter and actively participated in the ongoing discussion. During the 4-6 minute interaction, four additional individuals (several appeared to be students) entered the front office area. The individual situated near the camera moved toward the discussion but behind the counter, retrieved paper from the printer and upon returning to their desk, appeared to engage in conversation with an individual off-camera.

c. The front-desk discussion continued for approximately 4.5 minutes, with the Parent remaining an active participant (as indicated by their gestures) for the duration of the interaction. The Parent and one of the individuals walked together through the front office and off camera.

24. The Parent filed the Complaint on May 7, 2026.

Parent Interview

25. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, when asked about the Student's check-out accommodation, the Parent said it was "… written in such a way that it's at the end of every day [the Student] meets with someone outside of the classroom and just has that decompressed transition time." When asked what their understanding of "outside the classroom" was, the Parent described that when the Student was in grade school, the Student and a staff member would walk around together. They indicated the accommodation was to have someone help the Student with processing everything that had happened during the day. The Parent did not recall the IEP stating a specific person was assigned to provide the accommodation. The Parent stated the March 3, 2025 IEP indicated the Student's check-out was to be provided daily, during the day or at the end of the day, and with a location of "outside of the classroom."
26. According to the Parent, when the Student started at the School, the Parent was told check-outs were not done in middle school, and the accommodation would be provided during advisory because it had a smaller teacher-to-student ratio. They indicated the Student was with their case manager for two hours in the afternoon and did not get "any break from it … ."
27. The Parent stated they never signed a written agreement allowing the School to change the Student's accommodation, never received PWN, and there was never an amendment regarding the accommodation.
28. The Parent stated they were first notified of the MDR scheduled for April 28, 2026 by the Principal on the evening of April 26, 2026 through ParentSquare. They stated there was no additional communication regarding the MDR. The Parent stated they did not request a different date or time for the meeting because they were "… told that's when we would be having it."
29. During the interview, the Parent viewed the Notice of Meeting for the MDR and indicated the checkmark was in the box for "I plan to attend the meeting." The Parent stated the School did not give them their "10 days," and the Parent initially refused to sign the document, but the Assistant Director of Special Education encouraged them to sign it. The Parent said, "… I can assure you I did not put the checkmark there." The Parent explained they did not sign the Notice of Meeting until May 6, 2025 because they were not given the time they needed and did not want to sign. The Parent stated they told the Principal on April 26, 2026 that they wanted more time, but could not recall how they communicated this to the Principal.
30. The Parent stated they shared the Student's diagnoses of epilepsy and ADHD with the School prior to the MDR, and that the School had communicated with the Student's therapist and neurologist. They stated this information was not discussed at the MDR. The Parent explained they were unable to obtain a response from the Student's neurologist, therapist, or psychiatrist about the Student's medication changes prior to the MDR on April 28, 2026. The Parent believed when they shared their concerns about the Student's medication, it did not "hold as much weight" as if it would have if it came from a doctor. The Parent recalled that during the MDR, they shared information about the Student's medication changes for their epilepsy and how it could cause behavioral side effects.

31. The Parent stated "nobody seemed to know" how to provide the Student's accommodation to receive notes while they were in the IAES. They believed the Student did their first week of schoolwork without notes and then the Parent received a link to a video on how to find the notes, which they printed off for the Student. The Parent explained the notes from the online platform were different from the notes they were normally provided. They stated the different format of the notes caused the Student frustration and they struggled to do their work. The Parent stated the School did not send home any physical packets or outlines.
32. The Parent explained as they were walking up to the office on April 24, 2026, they observed five staff members talking about the Student and "… very personal information that did not need to be shared." The Parent stated there were two students, three office professionals, and another parent in the office. They indicated the case manager asked the Parent if they wanted to speak in private, which they did. The Parent stated they heard people saying the Student's name. The Parent indicated they participated in the conversation for 3-4 minutes before talking with the case manager in another room. They explained during their conversation that they stated this was an inappropriate place to have a conversation about the Student. The Parent stated they told the Special Education Coordinator they were disappointed in how the conversation was being held, and stated the Special Education Coordinator said, "Yes, you're completely right."

Special Education Coordinator Interview

33. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Coordinator described a log case managers used for students to show the provision of accommodations. The Special Education Coordinator indicated the Case Manager completed the log until the Student switched to the Advisory Teacher for advisory. They stated the change from a resource advisory to a general education advisory was a change in services which was documented in PWN with parental consent.
34. The Special Education Coordinator explained Learning Strategies was a pullout hour and considered direct special education support. They indicated the Student was moved from special education advisory to general education advisory in fall 2025.
35. The Special Education Coordinator recalled the Student's check-out accommodation was started in the fifth grade, and when the Student started at the School, the check-outs were conducted during advisory. They explained "advisory" was when every teacher in the building had students in their class. They stated the Student was placed with the Case Manager and their advisory class by the previous IEP team. They indicated until the Student was moved from the Case Manager's advisory, the accommodation was completed by either the Case Manager or their paraprofessional each day.

36. The Special Education Coordinator stated the Student's check-out accommodation did not change "in its entirety" until the annual IEP meeting. They were unsure if this was in March or May of 2026. The Special Education Coordinator did not believe the Student switching advisories impacted the check-out accommodation. They perceived the same process was in place, other than the teacher conducting the check-out with the Student next to their desk rather than in the hallway. They indicated the check-out was still happening each day, and the Student "refused it quite often." They also shared they had seen "a PWN version" of the accommodation and the IEP document, "and those things did not match." The Special Education Coordinator indicated they only had one conversation with the Parent about the check-out accommodation. They stated at one point, the Behavior Consultant was conducting check-outs hourly, and the Student was receiving multiple check-outs throughout the day.
37. The Special Education Coordinator believed a building administrator and the Assistant Director of Special Education communicated with the Parents about the need for an MDR. They explained the MDR was scheduled for April 28, 2026 to ensure services started at the right time. They indicated "day 10" was April 27, 2026, and believed the MDR was held on April 28, 2026 to ensure the School could start providing services and placement to the Student. The Special Education Coordinator stated an IEP amendment went into effect when the Student was placed in a 45-day alternative placement, and did not require a parent signature.
38. The Special Education Coordinator explained that during the Student's interim placement, the Student received their education through an online platform. They stated packets were not sent home because everything was accessible through the platform, including teacher-made notes. They explained no teacher was assigned to provide hard copies or electronic copies of the outline of the daily notes because it was done via the online platform. They indicated the Student was shown how to access the notes from the platform.

Assistant Director of Special Education Interview

39. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Assistant Director of Special Education explained that during the 2025-26 school year, the case manager for the Student changed from the Case Manager to the Special Education Teacher, and then the Level 3 Teacher.
40. The Assistant Director of Special Education explained that, whether the Student was in advisory class or not, the check-out accommodation was implemented. They indicated the Case Manager provided the accommodation initially. They believed that, eventually, an every-hour check-in situation occurred. When asked about their understanding of PWN when the check-out shifted, they said, "... it's not a material change to change the person responsible for the checkout procedure or the checkout process as long as a member of the team was providing that. ... PWN would not have been provided in that instance simply because the team as a whole is responsible for implementing. So as long as one person is implementing that and it's happening every day ... [the Parent] wouldn't necessarily have been informed of that change as long as there was a person responsible. ... to my knowledge, there was a person each day that was checking in, but I'm not entirely certain that [the Parent] was informed every time because it was not a change that constituted a signature or permission."

41. The Assistant Director of Special Education explained they had recently learned the Parent was not called on April 24, 2026 regarding the MDR. They had previously believed the Assistant Principal was going to call the Parent and inform them the meeting was scheduled for April 28, 2026, but did not believe that occurred. They stated the Principal messaged the Parent the evening of April 26, 2026 through ParentSquare.
42. The Assistant Director of Special Education stated the MDR was scheduled for April 28, 2026 because they had "hit our [sic] 11th day" and the meeting was held quickly to ensure services were in place for the Student. They stated the School communicated with the Parent and ensured one of the Parents could attend. They indicated the Parent could attend, so the meeting proceeded as scheduled. They were not aware of the Parent requesting a different date or time for the MDR. They stated the Parent did not share any concerns about how the MDR was scheduled with them or anyone else on their team. They stated the Parent had only mentioned the Other Parent could potentially not attend due to a work conflict.
43. The Assistant Director of Special Education stated they attended the MDR meeting. They indicated the only medical information the Parent mentioned was their concern the Student's behavior was due to their medication changes and did not share any medical documents. They indicated medical documentation was reviewed during the MDR, including a document regarding the Student's seizure activity. They stated the Level 3 Teacher had called the children's hospital prior to the MDR, and that information was presented to the Parent during the meeting.
44. When asked how the Student received their accommodation of receiving notes while in the 45-day IAES, they said, "... we have the ability when students are enrolled in [virtual] classes to make those notes available. So I confirmed with the teacher ... to ensure that [the Student] had notes provided for all of [their] core subjects ... . And so those notes were available from day one and [the Student] had access to notes that outlined the lessons ... ." They said, "... throughout ... meetings with [the Level 3 Teacher], [they] [have] been checking with [the Student] on that particular accommodation to ensure accessibility and make sure [the Student] doesn't have any questions about accessing those notes. [The Level 3 Teacher] even offered to print them all if they didn't have access to printer [sic] ... ."

Principal Interview

45. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal explained after they learned of the April 24, 2026 incident, they contacted the Parents via ParentSquare regarding the MDR. They stated the Parents asked if the Student could return to school on Monday, and the Principal replied the MDR had to be held first. They indicated the Student was suspended on April 27, 2026. The Principal stated they told the Parents they had to hold an MDR based on the number of days the Student had been suspended.
46. The Principal believed they were the first person to communicate with the Parents about the MDR, but were unsure if any other staff members contacted them first. The Principal confirmed the MDR was held on April 28, 2026.
47. The Principal explained students could only be suspended a maximum of 10 days without services. They indicated for the 2025-26 school year, the Student had been suspended for nine days and April 27, 2026 was the tenth day. They stated the MDR was held "so fast" to meet legal standards regarding suspensions. The Principal did not recall the Parents sharing concerns about the date and time of the MDR.
48. The Principal stated the Student "struggled" to complete the check-ins with the Case Manager during advisory. The Principal recalled the Student was taken out of the Case Manager's advisory and placed in a general education advisory with the Advisory Teacher in November 2025.
49. The Principal recalled an incident where the Parent was upset about a conversation regarding the Student happening in the main office area. The Principal stated they spoke with School staff and learned the conversation was about the Student's intervention schedule. They indicated the conversation was then moved to another office after the Parent expressed their concern. The Principal stated they instructed School staff to have any future conversations of that nature in a private area. They indicated the only other people who could have heard the conversation would have been some of the office staff. The Principal stated the staff did not recall saying the Student's name during the conversation and only discussing the Student's intervention schedule.

Issue One

Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing IDEA, amended the Student's IEP prior to changing the time the check-out accommodation was to be provided. K.A.R. 91-40-16(a); 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(4)(6).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(a), each agency shall be responsible for initiating and conducting meetings to develop, review, and revise the IEP of each exceptional child served by the agency. According to 34 C.F.R § 300.324(a)(4)(6), in making changes to a child's IEP after the annual IEP team meeting for a school year, the parent of a child with a disability and the public agency may agree not to convene an IEP team meeting for the purposes of making those changes, and instead may develop a written document to amend or modify the child's current IEP. If changes are made to the child's IEP in accordance with the law, the public agency must ensure that the child's IEP team is informed of those changes. Changes to the IEP may be made either by the entire IEP team at an IEP team meeting or as provided in this section, by amending the IEP rather than by redrafting the entire IEP. Upon request, a parent must be provided with a revised copy of the IEP with the amendments incorporated.

The Parent alleged the LEA changed how the Student's check-out accommodation was provided without an amendment or an IEP meeting.

The LEA denied it improperly changed the Student's IEP accommodation without complying with applicable IDEA procedures.

The Student's March 3, 2025 IEP described the check-out accommodation as being "during the day or at the end of the day," with the duration as, "Other: Must be specific. Outside of the classroom." The IEP did not state it was to be provided by a specific person, which the Parent acknowledged. The evidence and interviews indicated the Student was provided check-ins and check-outs between August 12, 2025 and November 16, 2025, and then the Student switched advisories. In their interviews, the Special Education Coordinator and the Assistant Director of Special Education believed the check-out accommodation was properly implemented. The Special Education Coordinator perceived the same process was in place, other than the teacher conducting the check-out with the Student next to their desk rather than in the hallway. This was corroborated in a May 14, 2026 email from the Advisory Teacher, where they stated the Student was in their advisory from November 18, 2025 to the present time (of the email), and described how the check-out accommodation was provided. They described walking the track with the Student for 20 minutes during a Friday "fun" day, and every day after the Student dropped their instrument off in the Advisory Teacher's classroom, they had a conversation together.

The evidence did not show the LEA amended the Student's IEP; however, there was not a material change in how the accommodation was implemented which would have required an amendment. While there might have been some minor deviations in implementation, such as the Student being at the teacher's desk, these variations did not indicate the check-out accommodation was substantially changed. Because these deviations did not represent a material shift in the Student's IEP, an amendment was not necessary.

Issue Two

Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Parent with PWN before changing the Student's check-out accommodation. K.A.R. 91-40-26, K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2); 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-26, in providing any notice to the parent or parents of an exceptional child in accordance with the law and amendments thereto regarding any action proposed or refused by an agency, each agency shall ensure the notice includes the following information: a description of other options the agency considered and the reasons why those options were rejected, and a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal. The notice shall be written in language understandable to the general public and provided in the native language of the parent or other mode of communication used by the parent, unless it is clearly not feasible to do so.

According to K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a), the parents of exceptional children shall have the right to written prior notice in accordance with the law, and amendments thereto, whenever an agency proposes to initiate or change, or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of a FAPE to the child.

The Parent alleged the LEA did not provide PWN before changing services to the Student's IEP when it unilaterally determined the Student would receive an accommodation at a different time than it was listed in the IEP.

The LEA denied PWN was required under the circumstances alleged.

As stated in allegation one, the evidence showed the check-out accommodation was implemented. According to state and federal regulations, parents have the right to PWN under specific circumstances. Minor variances in where the check-out happened did not constitute a formal change in educational placement or a structural modification to the provision of a FAPE, therefore, PWN was not required.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA was required to provide the Parent with PWN before adjusting the Student's check-out accommodation.

Issue Three

Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the accommodations in the Student's IEP, specifically the teacher-provided notes for coursework and assignments, during their IAES placement. K.A.R. 91-40-35(b)(c); 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(b)(2).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-35(b)(c) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(b)(2), a child with a disability shall be entitled to continue to receive special education and related services if the child is suspended from school under either of the following circumstances: for more than 10 cumulative school days in any school year, but with these suspensions not resulting in a change of placement for disciplinary reasons, or for more than 10 consecutive school days in any school year for behavior that has been determined not to be a manifestation of the child's disability. If a child with a disability is suspended from school under either of these circumstances, the agency that suspended the child shall provide, commencing on the 11th day of suspension and during any subsequent day or days of suspension, special education and related services that are needed to enable the child to continue to participate in the general education curriculum and to progress toward meeting the goals set out in the child's IEP.

If a child with a disability is placed in an IAES in accordance with K.S.A. 72-991(a) and amendments thereto, the agency shall provide special education and related services to the child that enable the child to continue both of the following: to progress in the general curriculum, although in another setting, and to receive those services and modifications, including those described in the child's IEP, that will enable the child to meet the goals set out in the IEP. The services shall include services and modifications that address the child's misbehavior and that are designed to prevent the misbehavior from recurring.

The Parent alleged the LEA did not consistently provide the accommodation of teacher-provided notes for coursework and assignments during the Student's IAES placement.

The LEA denied it failed to implement the Student's accommodations in their IAES.

The Student's March 3, 2026 IEP contained an accommodation for the Student to receive teacher-provided hard copies (paper or electronic) for coursework and assignments. It was documented the Student would receive their special education services, support, and instruction through an online platform while in the IAES, which was corroborated in interviews. The evidence showed the Assistant Director of Special Education worked with the Online Learning Coordinator to ensure the Student would have access to their notes. Additional email communications showed there was a way for the Student to access the notes via the online platform, that the Level 3 Teacher showed the Student how to access them, and communicated how-to instructions to the Parent. This contrasted with the Parent's statements that "nobody seemed to know" how to provide the Student's accommodation while they were in the IAES. The Parent also stated the Student struggled to do their work and the School did not send home any physical packets or outlines. Overall, the evidence demonstrated the Student had appropriate access to teacher-provided notes during their IAES placement.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to provide the accommodations in the Student's IEP, specifically the teacher-provided notes for coursework and assignments, during their IAES placement.

Issue Four

Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Parent was afforded the opportunity to participate in the manifestation determination meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-38; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.322, 300.501(b)(c).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-38, if an agency proposes to make a change in educational placement for disciplinary reasons, the agency shall implement the provisions of the law and amendments thereto. An agency may conduct the manifestation determination at the same IEP team meeting that is held in regard to developing or reviewing a behavioral intervention plan under the law and amendments. If, in making a manifestation determination, deficiencies are identified in the child's IEP or placement or in the provision of services to the child, the IEP team shall make any changes it deems appropriate, and the agency shall implement those changes. An agency shall convene meetings under this regulation as expeditiously as possible and shall be required to give only 24 hours' prior notice of a meeting to the child's parent or parents.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.322, each public agency must take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of a child with a disability are present at each IEP team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate, including notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure that they will have an opportunity to attend; and scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed on time and place. The notice required related to this section must indicate the purpose, time, and location of the meeting and who will be in attendance, inform the parents of the provisions in § 300.321(a)(6) and (c).

If neither parent can attend an IEP team meeting, the public agency must use other methods to ensure parent participation, including individual or conference telephone calls, consistent with the law related to alternative means of meeting participation. A meeting may be conducted without a parent in attendance if the public agency is unable to convince the parents that they should attend. In this case, the public agency must keep a record of its attempts to arrange a mutually agreed-on time and place, such as detailed records of telephone calls made or attempted and the results of those calls, copies of correspondence sent to the parents, and any responses received, and detailed records of visits made to the parent's home or place of employment and the results of those visits.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.501(b)(c), the parents of a child with a disability must be afforded an opportunity to participate in meetings with respect to the identification, evaluation, and educational placement of the child and the provision of a FAPE to the child. Each public agency must provide notice consistent with § 300.322(a)(1) and (b)(1) to ensure that parents of children with disabilities have the opportunity to participate in meetings described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section. Each public agency must ensure that a parent of each child with a disability is a member of any group that makes decisions on the educational placement of the parent's child. In implementing the requirements of paragraph (c)(1) of this section, the public agency must use procedures consistent with the procedures described in § 300.322(a) through (b)(1). If neither parent can participate in a meeting in which a decision is to be made relating to the educational placement of their child, the public agency must use other methods to ensure their participation, including individual or conference telephone calls or video conferencing. A placement decision may be made by a group without the involvement of a parent if the public agency is unable to obtain the parent's participation in the decision. In this case, the public agency must have a record of its attempt to ensure its involvement.

The Parent alleged the LEA impeded their ability to meaningfully participate in the manifestation meeting by providing only 24 hours' notice.

The LEA denied it prevented or impeded Parent participation in the MDR meeting.

ParentSquare messages and interview statements showed the Principal was more than likely the first School staff person to contact the Parent the evening of April 26, 2026 specifically regarding the MDR scheduled for the morning of April 28, 2026. The evidence showed the Parent received approximately 36 hours' notice of the MDR meeting. State regulations indicate an agency shall convene meetings as expeditiously as possible and shall be required to give only 24 hours' prior notice of a meeting. While the School may have faltered in not confirming the Parent was called the day of the incident, they did not violate state regulations regarding the timing of the MDR meeting.

In their interview, the Parent stated they were not given enough time before the meeting and told this to the Principal. The Parent could not recall how they relayed this information to the Principal and there was no evidence to corroborate it. The Parent also indicated they did not check the box in the Notice of Meeting that they would attend the MDR, even though it was checked. There was no evidence to show another person fraudulently marked the Parent would be attending. Additionally, neither the Principal nor the Assistant Director of Special Education recalled the Parent expressing concern or displeasure about the date and time of the MDR. Overall, there was no evidence to demonstrate the Parent's ability to participate in the MDR was impeded.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to ensure the Parent was afforded the opportunity to participate in the manifestation determination meeting.

Issue Five

Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, reviewed the medical information provided by the Parent to determine if the conduct in question was caused by or had a direct substantial relationship to the child's disability when conducting the manifestation determination meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-38; 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(e)(f).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-38, if an agency proposes to make a change in educational placement for disciplinary reasons, the agency shall implement the provisions of K.S.A. 72-991a and amendments thereto. An agency may conduct the manifestation determination at the same IEP team meeting that is held in regard to developing or reviewing a behavioral intervention plan under K.S.A. 72-991a and amendments thereto. If, in making a manifestation determination, deficiencies are identified in the child's IEP or placement or in the provision of services to the child, the IEP team shall make any changes it deems appropriate, and the agency shall implement those changes. An agency shall convene meetings under this regulation as expeditiously as possible and shall be required to give only 24 hours' prior notice of a meeting to the child's parent or parents.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(e)(f), within 10 school days of any decision to change the placement of a child with a disability because of a violation of a code of student conduct, the LEA, the parent, and relevant members of the child's IEP team (as determined by the parent and the LEA) must review all relevant information in the student's file, including the child's IEP, any teacher observations, and any relevant information provided by the parents to determine if the conduct in question was caused by, or had a direct and substantial relationship to, the child's disability, or if the conduct in question was the direct result of the LEA's failure to implement the IEP. The conduct must be determined to be a manifestation of the child's disability if the LEA, the parent, and relevant members of the child's IEP team determine that a condition in either paragraph (e)(1)(i) or (1)(ii) of this section was met.

If the LEA, the parent, and relevant members of the child's IEP team determine the condition described in paragraph (e)(1)(ii) of this section was met, the LEA must take immediate steps to remedy those deficiencies. If the LEA, the parent, and relevant members of the IEP team make the determination that the conduct was a manifestation of the child's disability, the IEP team must either conduct a functional behavioral assessment, unless the LEA had conducted a functional behavioral assessment before the behavior that resulted in the change of placement occurred, and implement a behavioral intervention plan for the child, or if a behavioral intervention plan already has been developed, review the behavioral intervention plan, and modify it, as necessary, to address the behavior; and except as provided in paragraph (g) of this section, return the child to the placement from which the child was removed, unless the parent and the LEA agree to a change of placement as part of the modification of the behavioral intervention plan.

The Parent alleged the LEA failed to consider relevant medical information and medication side effects when conducting the manifestation meeting and disciplinary proceedings.

The LEA denied it failed to consider medical information provided by the Parent during the MDR.

According to the evidence, the School was aware of the Student's new medications as early as February 2026, approximately two months prior to the MDR. The MDR document noted the Student's exceptionality under OHI, and that they experienced ADHD and seizures. The document also showed that during the meeting, the Parent shared information about the Student's medication changes and how they believed it impacted the Student's behavior. This was corroborated by the Parent and the Assistant Director of Special Education. The Parent explained they were unable to obtain a response from the Student's neurologist, therapist, or psychiatrist about the Student's medication changes prior to the MDR on April 28, 2026. However, the evidence showed there was a discussion regarding the Student's diagnoses and medications during the MDR meeting. Overall, the evidence demonstrated the School team followed federal mandates and reviewed relevant medical information during the MDR.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations*, it is not substantiated* the LEA failed to review the medical information provided by the Parent to determine if the conduct in question was caused by or had a direct substantial relationship to the child's disability when conducting the manifestation determination meeting.

Issue Six

Whether USD #383, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, obtained parental consent prior to discussing confidential information regarding the Student in front of the Student's peers, other parents, and school staff members. K.A.R. 91-40-50; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.622; 99.3.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-50, as used in this regulation, the following terms shall have the meanings specified in this subsection: "education records" means any document or medium on which information directly related to one or more students is maintained by a participating agency in accordance with the law and amendments thereto, and "participating agency" means any educational agency or institution that collects, maintains, or uses personally identifiable student information to provide special education and related services to children with disabilities.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.622, parental consent must be obtained before personally identifiable information is disclosed to parties other than officials of participating agencies in accordance with paragraph (b)(1) of this section, unless the information is contained in education records, and the disclosure is authorized without parental consent under 34 C.F.R. part 99. Except as provided in paragraphs in this section, parental consent is not required before personally identifiable information is released to officials of participating agencies for purposes of meeting a requirement of this part.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 99.3, directory information means information contained in an education record of a student that would not generally be considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if disclosed. Directory information includes, but is not limited to: the student's name, address, telephone listing, electronic mail address, photograph, date and place of birth, major field of study, grade level, enrollment status, dates of attendance, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, degrees, honors, and awards received, and the most recent educational agency or institution attended.

Disclosure means to permit access to or the release, transfer, or other communication of personally identifiable information contained in education records by any means, including oral, written, or electronic means, to any party except the party identified as the party that provided or created the record.

Education records are records that are directly related to a student and maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution. The term does not include records that are kept in the sole possession of the maker, are used only as a personal memory aid, and are not accessible or revealed to any other person except a temporary substitute for the maker of the record, records of the law enforcement unit of an educational agency or institution, subject to the provisions of § 99.8.

Personally identifiable information includes, but is not limited to, the student's name, the name of the student's parent or other family members, the address of the student or student's family, a personal identifier, such as the student's social security number, student number, or biometric record. Other indirect identifiers, such as the student's date of birth, place of birth, and mother's maiden name, other information that, alone or in combination, is linked or linkable to a specific student that would allow a reasonable person in the school community, who does not have personal knowledge of the relevant circumstances, to identify the student with reasonable certainty, or information requested by a person who the educational agency or institution reasonably believes knows the identity of the student to whom the education record relates.

"Record" means any information recorded in any way, including, but not limited to, handwriting, print, computer media, video or audio tape, film, microfilm, and microfiche. "Student" means any individual who is or has been in attendance at an educational agency or institution and regarding whom the agency or institution maintains education records.

The Parent alleged the LEA discussed confidential information regarding the student in front of peers, parents, and staff members who did not have a legitimate educational interest or need to know.

The LEA denied confidential personally identifiable student information was improperly disclosed in violation of IDEA or FERPA protections.

The parties involved shared a similar narrative of what happened in the front office on April 24, 2026, other than the Parent asserting the Student's name was used, and four School staff members stating it was not. Among the staff members, there was a consensus that the conversation was focused on the Student's schedule and the Student's name was not mentioned. There was video evidence, but it did not have audio to prove or disprove what was said. While there were differences in the accounts between the Parent and the School staff, the evidence could not conclusively determine whether confidential information about the Student was shared publicly.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to obtain parental consent prior to discussing confidential information regarding the Student in front of the Student's peers, other parents, and school staff members.

Tania Tong, Licensed Complaint Investigator

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #102
ON MAY 11, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 11, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education on behalf of ------- by his mother, -------. In the remainder of the report ------- will be referred to as "the student", ------- will be referred to as the "complainant", "the parent", or "the mother", ------- will be referred to as "the father", and together, the mother and father will be referred to as "the parents".

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

In this case, the complaint is against USD #102 (Cimarron-Ensign Public Schools) which contracts with the Southeast Kansas Area Cooperative District (SKACD) to meet the requirements of the IDEA. In the remainder of the report, both of these responsible public agencies will be referred to as "the local education agency (LEA)".

In the remainder of the report, the LEA staff will be referred to as follows:

- Erica Edmondson, Principal
- Jennifer Cunningham, Counsel for USD #102
- Summer Kite, Speech Pathologist for SKACD
- Vickie Ridenour, School Counselor
- Whitney Axman, Third Grade Teacher, Classroom Teacher 1
- Trish Burns, Physical Education, Classroom Teacher 2
- Dr. Mike Water, Superintendent
- Jason Wright, Executive Director for SKACD

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 60-day timeline to investigate a complaint and allow for an appeal process from the date on which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE and the LEA. In this case, May 11, 2026 is considered as the date the complaint was filed.

Evidence Reviewed

The father was interviewed by telephone on May 19, 2026 and the mother was interviewed by telephone on May 28, 2026.

The following LEA staff from the LEA were interviewed via GoogleMeet on May 29, 2026:

- Building Principal
- Counsel for USD #102
- Speech Pathologist for SKACD
- School Counselor
- Classroom Teacher 1
- Executive Director for SKACD

In completing this investigation, the Investigator reviewed written documentation provided by both the complainant and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Speech-Language attendance record dated between September 3, 2025 and May 13, 2026
2. Notice of Meeting dated September 18, 2025 with parent acknowledgement

Background Information

The student is a third grader at the elementary school, receiving special education and related services under the primary eligibility category of hearing impairment and secondary eligibility category of speech or language impairment. The student wears bilateral hearing aids. The student was reevaluated October 3, 2025 and it was reported that the student's hearing loss impacts access to vocabulary and incidental learning which may limit access to the general education curriculum.

The student began attending USD #102 in February of 2025 when he transferred with an IEP from the previous school district. The child has moved four times in four years, but the IEP has stayed consistent through each of those transitions. The IEP team convened on October 3, 2025 and again on May 6, 2026 during the 2025-26 school year.

Two IEPs were in effect during the investigation. The October 3, 2025 IEP shows that the student receives 20 minutes of speech services two times every week and 10 minutes of indirect deaf education consultation service every nine weeks in the school setting. An IEP meeting was held May 6, 2026 amending the location of the student's speech services to virtual delivery. This change accommodated student's move to homebound instruction through the end of the 2025-26 school year. The amended IEP further shows that special education services will revert back to 20 minutes of speech services two times per week and 10 minutes of indirect deaf education consultation service every nine weeks in the school setting at the start of the 2026-27 school year. Both IEPs include four accommodations addressing the student's hearing impairment related to academic instruction.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint, three issues related to the Individuals with Disabilities Act (IDEA) were identified and investigated.

Issue One

USD #102, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate disciplinary procedures during the 2025-26 school year, specifically by not conducting a manifestation determination meeting.

Applicable Law

Regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.530– 300.536 describe the procedural framework for disciplinary removal of students with disabilities. A local educational agency is required to conduct an MDR when a disciplinary removal constitutes a "change of placement." A change of placement occurs when a student is removed for more than ten (10) consecutive school days, or when a series of removals constitutes a pattern amounting to more than ten (10) school days in a given school year (34 C.F.R. § 300.536(a)).

Regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.536(a) document that a disciplinary removal is based on a school day.

Parent Position

In the letter of complaint the mother alleged that the LEA applied "inconsistent" disciplining practices with the student resulting in the student being suspended for over ten days without holding a manifestation determination meeting.

LEA Position

The LEA responded in their Response to the Complaint dated May 26, 2026 that they only suspended the student nine days and therefore a Manifestation Determination was not required under IDEA. They responded that the parents incorrectly believe disciplinary removals included a parent-elected absence, weekend days and non-school days occurring during the out-of-school suspension count toward the ten day threshold.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews and a review of documentation.

1. The parent and LEA agree that the student was an IDEA eligible student during the 2026 -26 school year.
2. The suspension letter dated April 16, 2026 documented that the student was suspended for 1 day, on April 16, 2026. The parent and LEA agree the student was suspended for April 16, 2026 with the attendance overview documenting the out-of-school suspension (OSS) on that date.
3. The parents and LEA agree that the student was not suspended on April 17, 2026. The parent's letter of complaint recorded that "The district permitted [student] returning 4/17 with a scheduled meeting with [student], my husband, and myself before going to [student's] classroom. Due to the concerns regarding tension surrounding the incident, we voluntarily kept [student] home in hopes that returning the following week would allow for a calmer transition." The attendance overview shows that the student was marked as absent on April 17.
4. The schools office Sign-in and Sign-out sheet documented that on April 20, 2026 at 2:38 p.m. the student's mother signed out the student for personal reasons. The attendance overview shows the student was in attendance for the day. The LEA noted the student and siblings all left with the mother on that afternoon.
5. The suspension letter dated April 21, 2026 documented that the student was suspended for eight days starting April 21 through May 1, 2026. The letter indicated that April 23, 2026 was not a school day due to staff inservice. The parent and LEA agree that the student was suspended for April 21, 22, 24, 27, 28, 29, 30 and May 1. The 2025-2026 school calendar showed that April 23, 2026 was an inservice day and school was not in session for students. The attendance overview is marked as OSS April 21, 22, 24, 27, 28, 29, 30 and May 1, 2026. The attendance records for speech and language services show that the student was absent due to behavior on April 22, 27 and 29, and May 1, 2026.
6. Attendance records, parents and LEA agree the student was not suspended any additional days during the 2025-26 school year.

Conclusion

The attendance records and letters sent to the parent notifying of disciplinary removals show that the student was suspended nine (9) school days during the 2025-26 school year.

Regulations at C.F.R. § 300.536(a) refers to school days so weekends, days that school is not in session, and days that a family does not send a student to school are not considered in contributing to a "change of placement" for an IDEA eligible student. The regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.530– 300.536 which describe the disciplinary removal procedures including when a manifestation determination meeting need to occur are established as when a student is removed for more than ten (10) consecutive school days, or when a series of removals constitutes a pattern amounting to more than ten (10) school days in a given school year. In this case, there was no requirement to conduct a Manifestation Determination as no disciplinary change of placement occurred.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is IN compliance with following 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.530– 300.536 on behalf of this student during the 2025-26 school year.

Issue Two

USD #102, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to ensure that the elementary school principal had access to the student's IEP during the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.321(a) describes the membership of the IEP team to include the parents of the child; not less than one regular education teacher of the child; not less than one special education teacher of the child; a representative of the public agency who is qualified to provide, or supervise the provision of, specially designed instruction to meet the unique needs of children with disabilities, is knowledgeable about the general education curriculum, and is knowledgeable about the availability of resources of the public agency; an individual who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results; any other individuals who have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child, including related services personnel as appropriate; and whenever appropriate, the child with a disability.

Under 34 C.F.R. § 300.323(d)(1) the child's IEP must be accessible to the teachers, related service providers and any other service provider responsible for implementation.

Parent Position

The parents alleged that the principal may not have initially realized [student] had an IEP raising concerns regarding whether [student's] disability protections were fully considered during disciplinary decision-making.

LEA Position

The LEA's response to the allegations noted that the building Principal attended and signed as a team member at both IEP team meetings held during the 2025-26 school year so was aware the student received special education and related services. Through this attendance and participation, the principal was directly and contemporaneously informed of the student's services, accommodations, modifications, and the LEA's corresponding responsibilities.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews and a review of documentation. Additionally, the findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The Reevaluation report shows that the building principal hand-signed agreement with the findings of the October 3, 2025 Reevaluation Report as "Administrator". The building principal hand-signed attendance as the "Administrator/Designee" on the October 3, 2025 Draft IEP. The draft IEP with an initiation date of services beginning May 5, 2026 shows the building principal hand-signed attendance as "Principal".
2. The Principal reported to the Investigator that concerns of being unaware of the student's IEP likely stem from the Principal's phone call notifying the parents that the student was being suspended on April 16, 2026. The Principal noted that there was a glitch between the student information systems (SIS) of USD #102 and the SKACD which resulted in USD #102's SIS not displaying that the student had an IEP. The Principal initially did not recognize the error while communicating with the parent, but remembered having attended the student's fall IEP and corrected the statement to the parent. The Principal alerted the LEA and the SKACD of the display error and it was fixed so that USD #102's SIS now displays IEP information for all students correctly.
3. The Building Principal stated that this error likely led the mother to believe that the Building Principal's disciplinary decision-making may not have been fully informed with the information that the student was IDEA eligible. However, as this was the first day of suspension, the Building Principal stated that IDEA protections related to discipline were not yet necessary for consideration.

Conclusion

The IDEA nor Kansas regulations specifically state that the building principal must receive an IEP or be briefed on its contents. However, the IDEA does require that those responsible for implementing the student's IEP have access (34 C.F.R. § 300.323(d)(1)). Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.321(a) lists the membership of the IEP team and while the building principal is not mentioned specifically, the representative who is qualified to provide, or supervise the provision of, specially designed instruction to meet the unique needs of children with disabilities, is knowledgeable about the general education curriculum, and is knowledgeable about the availability of resources of the public agency is often the building principal. In many cases the building principal is this person. The IEP signature pages and reevaluation meeting signature page showed that the building principal signed in that capacity.

In this case, while the building principal was initially making a call to inform the parent of a disciplinary suspension, the glitch between USD #102 and the SKACD's student information systems resulted in the student not being flagged as having an IEP. When the Principal realized the system error, the parent was contacted again and the student's suspension was discussed in light of the student's IDEA protections. While this event led to a miscommunication with the parent which caused concerns about the student's IDEA protections, there is evidence to support a finding that the Principal was knowledgeable about the student's IEP. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is IN compliance with following Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.321(a) and 300.323(d)(1).

Issue Three

USD #102, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to address concerns with bullying at the IEP Team meeting held on May 6, 2026 when changing the student's placement to homebound as a result of a disciplinary incident on April 16, 2026.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.324(a)(1)(ii) addresses that when developing each child's IEP, the IEP Team must consider the concerns of the parents for enhancing the education of their child.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.324(b)(1)(ii)(C) further addresses that review and revision of the child's IEP must occur when information about the child is provided to, or by the parents.

Parent Position

The parent alleges that the student's behavior leading to two suspensions and the decision to change placement to homebound beginning May 1, 2026 was due to the student being bullied by classmates about the student wearing hearing-aids. The parent alleges that the school staff observed the bullying, but did nothing to stop it. As a result, the mother and father agreed to a change of placement to homebound with virtual special education services to protect the student through the end of the school year. The mother and the father reported meeting with LEA staff to develop a safety plan for the student to ensure bullying does not occur during the 2026-27 school year.

LEA Position

The LEA responded that during the April 17, 2026 post-suspension meeting attended by the parent, the student, and the Principal, no mention of bullying or teasing about the student's hearing-aids was shared. The first time bullying was brought up was on May 1, 2026, following the second disciplinary suspension for threatening behavior towards peers. In spite of finding no documentation confirming the bullying claims, the school staff and the parents met and created a safety plan for the student on May 19, 2026 which will be in place when the student returns to school in August 2026.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews and a review of documentation. Additionally, the findings of Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The parents and LEA staff agree that a safety plan was developed during a meeting held on May 19, 2026 following reports from the parents of bullying taking place at school on May 1, 2026. The LEA staff reported this was a general education intervention to provide additional support for the student. The IEP amendment and PWN dated May 6, 2026 do not address a safety plan.
2. Classroom teachers 1 and 2 provided written statements detailing threatening behavior throughout the 2025-26 school year, but do not detail any reported incidents of bullying or bullying being the cause of the threatening behavior.
3. No mention of bullying nor reports of bullying were documented prior to the parents' mention of bullying on May 1, 2026 while arranging the May 6, 2026 IEP meeting. The Principal documented in a May 1, 2026 written note, "When [student's] mom came to office she mentioned [student] and [mother] had conversations that this particular student was making fun of [student's] hearing aids."
4. The student reported to the mother that the student's hearing aids were taken by a bully on the playground and thrown in a trashcan while a teacher watched without intervening. The LEA staff reported to the Investigator that they investigated the incident, but were unable to determine the date of the incident or the name or description of the teacher from information provided by the student and the mother. The student's teacher reported the student got along well with classmates and had never witnessed any bullying.
5. The parent and LEA agree that following the second disciplinary suspension the student completed the academic school year through homebound education with virtual special education services. This move was made as a result of the parent's ongoing concerns about disciplinary removals and the student's request to not return to school for the remainder of the school year.
6. The Notice of Meeting dated May 4, 2026 proposed the May 6, 2026 IEP meeting to discuss an IEP amendment to change speech services from in person to virtual as a result of the student completing the remainder of the school year in the homebound setting.
7. The PWN dated May 6, 2026 recorded that the change of placement was for the remainder of the 2025-26 school year due to a disciplinary action resulting in a nine day suspension for threatening behavior towards peers and the mutual decision between the parent and the LEA for the student to access general education and special education services through a virtual/home bound model. The IEP dated May 6, 2026 documented the change of placement for delivery of the special education services to virtual beginning May 1, 2026 through the end of the school year. The parent signed consent for the change of placement on May 6, 2026.

8. The Speech Pathologist and the mother both reported the student was offered the 40 minutes per week of speech therapy services for the two weeks the student was in the homebound setting and he participated in a total of 60 minutes of speech therapy during that timeframe.

Conclusion

The IDEA requires that the IEP team must consider concerns brought to the IEP team by the parents and revise the IEP as needed (34 C.F.R. §§ 300.324(a)(1)(ii) and 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.324(b)(1)(ii)(C)). In this case the parents expressed concerns about bullying following nine days of out-of-school suspension.

It is found that the LEA was not aware of bullying allegations until May 1 and the Principal responded to these reports by investigating the incident shared by the parents as well as previous incidents of the student's threatening behavior towards peers reported by classroom teachers in light of the April 16 incident. The parents and the LEA mutually agreed for the student to complete third grade in the homebound setting but this was not a special education action. In response to this change, the IEP Team met on May 6 and the LEA proposed to change the location of the speech services from in-school to virtual as a result of the mutual decision to allow the student to complete the 2025-26 school year in the homebound setting.

Although the LEA was unable to verify the reported incidents of bullying from the parents during the 2025-26 school year, the parents and LEA staff met to consider the potential role bullying may have had in the student's threatening behavior and developed a general education safety plan to provide additional support to the student.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is IN compliance with implementing the IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.324(a)(1)(ii) and 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.324(b)(1)(ii)(C).

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

Issue One: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA or Kansas regulations was found.

Issue Two: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA regulations was found.

Issue Three: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA regulations was found.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

With this issuance of the complaint report, my role as the complaint investigator has concluded. Any comments or questions you have must be directed to Brian Dempsey, Assistant Director for Special Education and Title Services at the KSDE, at brian.dempsey@ksde.gov

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #261
ON MAY 13, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 12, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, ------- by their parent, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #261 Haysville Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #261.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 13, 2026 and the 30-day timeline ended on June 12, 2026.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #261, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), changed the Student's placement when the special education program changed locations. K.A.R. 91-40-21(c)(d); 34 CFR §§ 300.501(c), 300.116.

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #261, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, allowed the Student to participate in extracurricular activities, specifically cheerleading, to the same extent as their general education peers. K.A.R. 91-40-1(ttt); 34 CFR § 300.42.

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parent on June 4, 2026. The following LEA staff were interviewed on June 3, 2026: the Special Education Director, the Previous School Principal, the Athletic Director, the Cheer Coach, and the Assistant Cheer Coach.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Prior Written Notice (PWN) for Identification, Special Education and Related Services, Educational Placement, Change in Services, Change in Placement, and/or Consent, 09/27/23
2. Individualized Education Plan, 09/10/25
3. Request for Transportation - Special Needs Students, 09/10/25
4. Behavior Intervention Plan, no date
5. Individualized Education Plan Amendment, 01/05/26
6. [The Previous School] Student Handbook, 2025-26 School Year
7. [The School] Student Handbook, 2025-26 School Year
8. Board of Education Policy Manual, 08/18/25
9. Enrollment History, 08/16/23-03/30/26
10. Emails between parties, 07/31/25-06/08/25
11. Statement from Cheer Coach, no date
12. Staffing Summary, 09/10/25

Background Information

This Investigation involved a 13-year-old student previously enrolled at two of the middle schools in USD #261. The Student was receiving special education services as a child with a disability per the IDEA and was part of a program which focused on behavior management. The current IEP did not include an eligibility category. The most recent documentation of eligibility category included in the materials was a September 27, 2023 PWN for Identification, Special Education and Related Services, Educational Placement, Change in Services, Change in Placement, and/or Request for Consent, which listed the eligibility as Other Health Impairment (OHI).

1. In a March 24, 2025 email to the Parent, the Cheer Coach stated, "Here are the documents I sent out for cheer. Ignore the dates. We will work with you." Four documents were attached, titled "Cheer Contract 2025-26," "Parent_Cheer Tryout Letter," "2025-26 Cheer Gear Order Form," and "Tryouts." The email chain also contained instructions for accessing practice routine videos and a directive for the Student to learn the routines prior to trying out.

2. Cheerleading tryouts for the School were held March 4-7, 2025. Cheerleading tryouts for the Previous School concluded on March 12, 2025. In a written statement, the Cheer Coach reported, "[The Student] did not attend any pre-tryout meetings or participate in tryouts at [the Previous School], [which] [the Student] was attending at the time. The meetings and their tryout was [sic] held before [the Parent] contacted our athletic director about trying out at [the School]." In a follow-up email to the Complaint Investigator on June 8, 2026, the Assistant Cheer Coach stated if the Student had tried out for cheerleading at the Previous School and made the team, the Student would have been accepted on the School team when the Student transferred.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. The Student is described as "social, outgoing, willing to try and learn, [and] determined."
2. In a July 31, 2025 email to the Superintendent, the Parent expressed their "dissatisfaction with the district's performance over the past couple years. My child is being moved from [the Previous School] to [the School] without my knowledge. This decision negatively impacted their cheer tryouts last year, but I chose to let it go and arranged for them to have lessons."
3. 2025-26 Student Handbooks for the School and the Previous School both indicated that to participate in athletics, a student must, "Demonstrate satisfactory work in all subject matters and be in good standing, "Demonstrate proper conduct in and out of school," and have appropriately completed physical forms.
4. The Student's enrollment history report for the Previous School indicated an entry date of August 14, 2024 and exit date of May 21, 2025, and an entry date of August 13, 2025 and exit date of March 30, 2026 for the School. A comment noting the Student "transferred to [the Current School]".
5. The August 18, 2025 Board of Education Policy Manual for the LEA included the following relevant policies:
    a. Policy JBC-3, which indicated, "Unless otherwise provided herein, the superintendent shall assign students to the appropriate building. … Assignment to a particular grade level or particular classes shall be determined by the building principal based on the educational abilities of the student. If the parents disagree, the principal's decision may be appealed to the superintendent. If the parents are still dissatisfied with the assignment, they may appeal in writing to the board."
    b. Policy JH, which indicated students who participate in any school activity "shall meet" requirements including "academic eligibility requirements noted in handbooks," and "other requirements requested by the administration and approved by the board."

c. Policy JQ, which indicated, "All programs for exceptional students shall be managed in accordance with the local plans for exceptional students, the policy and rules of the local board, and the rules and regulations of the state board of education."

6. The Student's September 10, 2025 IEP included relevant information as follows:

a. The impact of the Student's exceptionality was that they struggled with impulse control and social skills, along with time management and organizational skills.

b. The Student's behavior impeded their learning, or that of others, and the IEP included a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP), accommodations/modifications, goals, and positive behavioral supports to address that need.

c. There were two goals for social-emotional, one goal for math, and one goal for reading.

d. Special education and related services included weekly social work services, daily special education services for English Language Arts (ELA), math, science, and social studies in the special education setting, and daily special education services for reading and elective courses in the general education setting.

e. Accommodations/Modifications included frequent breaks, extended time on assignments, a separate setting for tests, reading aloud on tests/assignments, written directions for multi-step instructions, fidgets, and preferential seating.

f. Participation with non-identified students in the general education environment indicated:

i. The Student would not have the opportunity to participate with non-identified peers in all general education classes and extracurricular activities. The explanation was, "[The Student] will have social work services[,] as well as classes in the special education classroom (in the PBS classroom). This is to help with [their] social[-]emotional needs and self[-]regulation."

ii. It was noted there would be potential harmful effects of the placement, but the positive effects of the placement outweighed the potential harmful effects. "[The Student] needs the smaller setting and services to help with [their] social[-]emotional needs and self[-]regulation."

iii. The Student would "have the opportunity to participate in all non-academic and extracurricular activities such as clubs, sports, etc., to the same extent as non-identified peers."

g. Transportation was required for the distance of the route to and from school because, "Transportation is needed for [the Student] to attend the [P]rogram that is not offered at [their] neighborhood school."

h. In the documentation of "Need for Special Transportation," it was noted the Student "needs transportation to attend the [P]rogram at [the School]. This program is only offered at [the School] and is not offered at [the Student's] neighborhood school."

i. An included BIP listed strengths/interests, target behaviors, function of target behaviors, goals/expected outcomes, and interventions with replacement behaviors and reactions.

j. A staffing summary from the September 10, 2025 IEP meeting reported, "[The Parent] is pleased with how [the Student] has been doing [at the School] and … is content with all services and accommodations."

7. A January 5, 2026 IEP amendment to the September 10, 2025 IEP included relevant new information as follows:

   a. "[The Student] will have ELA, science, and social studies in the general education setting with special education support. All other services will remain the same."

8. In a March 17, 2026 email to the Case Manager, the Parent stated the Student could not stay in the School and the family was planning on moving to a different city. The Parent indicated they did not "want to fight the district anymore. [The Student] needs consistency. … We just can't stay where we are anymore. Also, how will [the Student's] IEP work without [the Program]?"

9. On May 13, 2026, the Parent filed this Complaint.

10. In a May 18, 2026 email to the Special Education Director, the Former Special Education Director stated they spoke with the Parent about the changes in the Program and the Former Special Education Director's "email on March 12[,] [2025] indicated it was a long conversation because [the Parent] wanted to discuss ABA concerns during the phone call." The Former Special Education Director recalled the phone call being on or around March 12, 2025.

11. In a May 19, 2026 email to the Superintendent, the Previous School Principal indicated they spoke with the cheerleading coach at the Previous School, who had not had correspondence with the Student or the Parent during the spring of 2025, which was when cheer tryouts would have been for the 2025-26 school year. The Previous School Principal also clarified, "Being enrolled in [the Program] would NOT have impacted [the Student's] ability to try out and participate."

Parent Interview

12. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent confirmed the Student transferred from the Previous School to the School due to the LEA moving their special education program. The Parent recalled emailing the Former Special Education Director in March 2025 about the Program, and in their reply, the Former Special Education Director informed the Parent about the change of location. The Parent stated they never received a formal letter from the LEA regarding the move. They said, "I had no correspondence at all. … There was no email. There wasn't a call. I found out … because I reached out." The Parent shared, after they were informed of the move, they contacted the Former Program Teacher. The Former Program Teacher confirmed the relocation and stated the Case Manager would be the new teacher.

13. The Parent stated the lack of notification about the move affected the Student's ability to participate in cheerleading because the School had their tryouts before the Parent learned the Program was moving. Therefore, the Student did not get the same tryout experience as their peers. The Parent described not being able to participate in the official cheerleading tryouts as "a big thing" for the Student. The Parent acknowledged the School accommodated the Student by letting them try out after the official tryouts had passed. However, the Parent described the Student as "singled out. It was just [the Student] in [their] tryout as opposed to everybody in the group." They stated this negatively affected the Student because they "didn't have a room full of [other students] to sit there and watch various people to be able to do the tryout properly."
14. The Parent reported supplementary aids or services for the Student for extracurricular activities were never discussed by the IEP team. The Parent did not request accommodations for cheerleading for the Student because "I did not want [the Student] to be treated differently by the other children." The Parent stated the Student participated in wrestling at the School for three practices during the 2025-26 school year. The Parent explained a transportation issue occurred, and the Student decided they did not want to continue with the wrestling program.
15. The Parent stated the Student did not participate in cheerleading during sixth grade at the Previous School or during seventh grade at the School. They indicated the Student took a total of four private lessons.

Cheer Coach Interview

16. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Cheer Coach confirmed they accommodated the Student trying out after the official cheerleading tryouts due to the relocation of the Program. They explained cheerleading tryouts for the next school year took place in spring of the previous school year.
17. Regarding requirements for joining the cheer squad, the Cheer Coach explained each student who tried out received a score. Half the score was the tryout routine, the other half was based on "grades, attendance, behavior and teacher evaluations." The Cheer Coach indicated the Student's evaluation score was "significantly lower" than the students who passed tryouts that year.
18. The Cheer Coach stated the Parent and the Student arrived on the agreed upon date and time for a tryout practice. The Cheer Coach said the Parent did not have any questions about the cheerleading program at the time. They reported the Parent sat with them and watched the Student work with another cheerleader on learning the try-out routines.

19. Regarding accommodations, the Cheer Coach reported they "have several girls on our cheer team that had IEPs. However, those didn't really apply to the process of trying out for cheer. You would still have to learn the same cheers, chants, jumps, motions, all of those kind[s] of things."

20. In an additional statement, the Cheer Coach explained the Student was given more time with practice routine videos than was typical, and received one-on-one instruction from an experienced cheerleader. On the day of their tryout practice, the Student "did not want to put in any effort" and "did not show much interest in even trying." The Cheer Coach indicated the Student admitted to not watching the routine videos prior to the practice. They suggested to the Parent "it might be best if [the Student] worked on [their] confidence by participating in other sports or activities [their] 7th grade year and then trying out to cheer [their] 8th grade year." The Cheer Coach reported the Parent did not raise any concerns at the time, and the Student did not return the next day for their official tryout. They stated they would have given the Student more time if asked.

Assistant Cheer Coach Interview

21. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Assistant Cheer Coach stated they did not have direct contact with the Parent or the Student. They explained that because they worked at the Previous School, the Cheer Coach asked them to get evaluations from the Student's teachers, and they reported those evaluations back to the Cheer Coach. The Assistant Cheer Coach described the evaluations as ten questions with a scoring rubric of a possible total score of 50. They stated the Student scored an average of 21.

Athletic Director Interview

22. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Athletic Director stated they did not have direct contact with the Parent or the Student regarding cheerleading tryouts. They reported, as far as they were aware, the Student received the same opportunity to try out for cheerleading as other students, other than the timing of their tryout. The Athletic Director indicated they had the same forms on file regarding cheerleading for the Student as other students who tried out. They confirmed tryouts typically happened in the spring prior to the start of the next school year. The Athletic Director was not aware of any requests for accommodation for cheerleading from the Parent or the Student.

Previous School Principal Interview

23. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Previous School Principal explained why the Program changed locations. They shared, "we had conversations at the district level in regards to some equity [between schools] ... so that [the Previous School] would have three special programs and [the School] would have two special programs." The Principal indicated the LEA administration agreed to contact parents regarding the move. They stated, "We had no conversation with the parents. That was taken on by the district administrator."

24. The Previous School Principal stated the Parent did not contact them about the relocation.
25. The Previous School Principal reported they asked the cheer coach at the Previous School if the Parent or Student had contacted them about cheerleading. According to the Previous School Principal, the cheer coach at the Previous School said the names of both the Parent and the Student were unfamiliar.

Special Education Director Interview

26. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Director explained the Program was for "students who need extra support and instruction around social skills, behavior management." They stated it was considered a more restrictive placement.
27. The Special Education Director confirmed the Former Special Education Director spoke with the Parent in March 2025 about the Program relocating. The Special Education Director indicated the Parent did not express any concerns at the time. They stated the Parent had not relayed any concerns to them in the 2025-26 school year.
28. The Special Education Director reported the change in location from the Previous School to the School did not change the Student's special education placement. They stated the Student's services and time with non-disabled peers remained the same.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #261, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, changed the Student's placement when the special education program changed locations. K.A.R. 91-40-21(c)(d); 34 CFR §§ 300.501(c), 300.116.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-21(c)(d) and 34 CFR § 300.501(c), in determining the educational placement of a child with a disability each agency shall ensure the placement decision meets the following requirements: the decision shall be made by a group of persons, including the child's parent or parents and other persons who are knowledgeable about the child, the meaning of the evaluation data, and the placement options, and in conformity with the requirement of providing services in the LRE.

Each agency shall give notice to the parents of any meeting to discuss the educational placement of their child. The notice shall meet the requirements of K.A.R. 91-40-17. If a parent cannot participate in person at a meeting relating to the educational placement of the child, the agency shall offer to use other methods to allow the parent to participate, including conference calls and video conferencing. An agency may conduct a meeting to determine the appropriate educational placement of a child with a disability without participation of a parent if the agency, despite repeated attempts, has been unable to contact the parent or to convince the parent to participate. If an agency conducts a meeting to determine the appropriate educational placement of a child without the participation of a parent, the agency shall have a record, as prescribed in K.A.R. 91-40-17(e)(2), of the attempts that the agency made to contact the parent. An agency shall take action to ensure that parents understand, and are able to participate in, any discussions concerning the educational placement of their children, including arranging for an interpreter for parents who are deaf or whose native language is other than English.

According to 34 CFR § 300.116, the child's placement is determined at least annually, is based on the child's IEP, and is as close as possible to the child's home. Unless the IEP of a child with a disability requires some other arrangement, the child is educated in the school that he or she would attend if nondisabled. In selecting the LRE, consideration is given to any potential harmful effect on the child or on the quality of services that he or she needs, and a child with a disability is not removed from education in age-appropriate regular classrooms solely because of needed modifications in the general education curriculum.

The Parent alleged they were not told the Student needed to move schools until after it happened.

The LEA noted that while the location of the Student's program changed, the educational placement (restrictiveness, structure and supports available in the classroom) did not change.

In this case, the LEA informed the Parent of the change of location through a phone call with the Former Special Education Director in March 2025, and the Parent did not voice concerns to the LEA until July 2025. The Parent did not reach out to building or special education staff and no IEP meetings were held in that four month time frame. The evidence contained no response from the LEA addressing the Parent's disagreement with the relocation. The 2025-26 school year began in August 2025, so the Parent had ample time to request further accommodations or review placement.

Additionally, a change in location is not automatically considered a change in placement. According to Murray v. Montrose County School Dist., 51 F. 3d 921 - Court of Appeals, 10th Circuit 1995, the IDEA states that a disabled child should be educated in the school he or she would attend if not disabled, unless the child's IEP requires placement elsewhere. It does not further specify where, within an LEA, that inclusion shall take place. In Erickson v. Albuquerque Public Schools, 199 F. 3d 1116 - Court of Appeals, 10th Circuit 1999, the Court held, "An educational placement is changed when a fundamental change in, or elimination of, a basic element of the educational program has occurred." The Special Education Director confirmed the Student's special education placement within the Program remained the same when the physical location of the Program changed.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA changed the Student's placement when the special education program changed locations.

Issue Two

Whether USD #261, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, allowed the Student to participate in extracurricular activities, specifically cheerleading, to the same extent as their general education peers. K.A.R. 91-40-1(ttt); 34 CFR § 300.42.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(ttt) and 34 CFR § 300.42, "supplementary aids and services" means aids, services, and other supports that are provided in regular education classes, other education-related settings, and extracurricular and nonacademic settings to enable children with disabilities to be educated with nondisabled children to the maximum extent appropriate.

The Parent alleged the Student was told to "wait until next year" for cheer tryouts, after issues arose from missing the initial tryout and scheduling a secondary tryout.

The LEA indicated having an IEP, including being in the PBS classroom, did not prevent the Student from trying out nor did it prevent them from participating in cheer.

According to the evidence, the activities surrounding cheerleading tryouts took place outside of the one-year look back period for special education complaints. However, evidence indicated the Student participated in after-school sports during the 2025-26 school year. No accommodations or services related to extracurricular activities were written into the IEP, and the evidence showed no accommodations or services for extracurricular activities were requested.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to allow the Student to participate in extracurricular activities, specifically cheerleading, to the same extent as their general education peers.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation did not substantiate noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. Therefore, no corrective action is ordered.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 261
Haysville Public Schools: 26FC261-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on May 13, 2026, by ------- on behalf of her child, -------. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the parent," and ------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on June 12, 2026. That Complaint Report did not substantiate noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations.

Thereafter, the parent filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the parent's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report identified two issues. This appeal involves only Issue Two:

Issue Two

Whether USD #261, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, allowed the Student to participate in extracurricular activities, specifically cheerleading, to the same extent as their general education peers.

This complaint involves a student who was transferred by the school district from one middle school in the district to another middle school in the same district (Report, p. 3). The cheerleading tryouts for the new school were held on March 4 through March 7, 2025 at the new school but were extended to March 12, 2025 at the previous school (Report, p.3). For some reason not fully explained in the report, the parent believed this transfer negatively impacted the student's opportunity to try out for cheerleading at the new location, in violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.107, which requires that children with disabilities have an equal opportunity to participate in extracurricular activities. However, the evidence shows that the new school permitted the student to try out for cheerleading after the tryout timeline had passed, as the parent acknowledged to the investigator (Report, Finding 13, p. 8).

> the Student was given more time with practice routine videos than was typical, and received one-on-one instruction from an experienced cheerleader. On the day of their tryout practice, the Student "did not want to put in any effort" and "did not show much interest in even trying." The Cheer Coach indicated the Student admitted to not watching the routine videos prior to the practice. They suggested to the Parent "it might be best if [the Student] worked on [their] confidence by participating in other sports or activities [their] 7th grade year and then trying out to cheer [their] 8th grade year." The Cheer Coach reported the Parent did not raise any concerns at the time, and the Student did not return the next day for their official tryout. They stated they would have given the Student more time if asked. (See report, Finding 20, p. 9-10).

On that same page, the investigator noted that, "the Student participated in after-school sports during the 2025-26 school year. No accommodations or services related to extracurricular activities were written into the IEP, and the evidence showed no accommodations or services for extracurricular activities were requested."

The Appeal Committee makes no judgement as to the actions of school personnel, the parent or the student because such judgement is not necessary to resolve this appeal. This allegation is based on events that took place in March of 2025. This complaint was filed on May 13, 2026, well beyond the one-year filing requirement, as noted in the report on page 14 and as required by federal and state law. Both 34 C.F.R. 300.153 and K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) require that a complaint allege a violation of law that occurred not more than one year before the date the complaint is received.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 9th day of July, 2025.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #415
ON MAY 13, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 11, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -------, by a complainant, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the complainant as "the Complainant."

The Complaint is against USD #415 Hiawatha Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #415.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 13, 2026 and the 30-day timeline ended on June 12, 2026.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), followed child find protocols prior to creating the Student's October 2025 Individual Education program (IEP). K.A.R. 91-40-7(a)(b)(2-3)(c); 34 C.F.R. § 300.111(a)(c).

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, developed an IEP that addressed the Student's behavior issues and diagnoses of Intermittent Explosive Disorder (IED), Attention-deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), and Oppositional Defiant Disorder (ODD). K.A.R. 91-40-1(gg), K.A.R. 91-40-18(a)(b)(c); K.S.A. 72-3429(c)(4)(d)(1-4)(e)(1); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.320(a)(4)(b)(d), 300.324(a)(1)(2)(i).

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Student's teachers had access to the IEP. Further, whether the IEP accommodation of allowing the Student time to process was followed. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b); 34 C.F.R. § 300.323(a)(c)(2)(d).

ISSUE FOUR: Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, conducted a comprehensive evaluation of the Student. K.S.A. 72-3428(a)(1-3)(b)(c); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.301(a)(c)(2), 300.304(b)(c)(1-4)(6-7).

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Complainant on June 1, 2026. The Principal, accompanied by the Special Education Director, was interviewed on June 2, 2026. The Special Education Director submitted written responses to additional questions on June 3, 2026.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the LEA. The Complainant did not provide any materials to be reviewed. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Individualized Education Program (adopted), 10/07/24, and 10/06/25
2. Prior Written Notice for Identification, Special Education and Related Services, Educational Placement, Change in Services, Change in Placement, and/or Request for Consent, 09/23/25
3. Teacher Information Page, 10/06/25
4. IEP Amendment Form for Changes not Requiring a Full IEP Team Meeting, 04/14/26
5. Prior Written Notice for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, 04/14/26
6. Progress Report, 2025-26 School Year
7. Team Meeting Record, 04/13/26
8. Student Transcript, no date
9. Manifestation Determination Review, 01/29/26
10. Attendance Overview, 2025-26 School Year
11. Discipline Log Entries, 04/26/24-01/28/26
12. Email, re: Additional Questions: KSDE 26FC415-001, 06/03/26

Background Information

This Investigation involved a rising 11th-grade student enrolled at a high school in USD #415. The Student's primary exceptionality was Other Health Impairment (OHI), and they are currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Complainant and staff in the LEA.

1. An IEP, dated October 7, 2024, with the handwritten word "adopted," included:
   a. Relevant transition services:
      i. Present levels: "[The Student] has a goal for behavior in the Social-emotional area. [The Student] is capable of doing Grade-level work but is hindered by motivation to complete [their] assignments."
      ii. Activities and strategies: "[The Student] needs to use the plan for self-regulation in [their] general education classes to limit [their] disruptions and lessen the times [the Student] is off[-]task while meeting [the Student's] Social-emotional goal," from the present to graduation, provided by the Student, Parent, special and regular education staff, and the counselor.
   b. Relevant Present Levels of Academic and Functional Performance (PLAFP):
      i. The Student experienced needs in the social-emotional area that required special education and related services, but did not have behaviors that impeded the learning of others or themself.
      ii. Strengths: The Student was pleasant, had a few good friendships, and communicated appropriately with peers and adults.
      iii. Needs: The Student was diagnosed with Attention-deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Post-traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD), and Intermittent Explosive Disorder (IED). The Complainant reported the Student needed structure in their day and time to respond with communication or action following a direction or request. The Complainant indicated the Student shut down the longer someone attempted to explain the reasoning behind a request.
      iv. Current Performance: The Student struggled with focusing during school due to classroom distractions and was "currently experiencing a few moments of shutdown." The Student's needs would be met by general education supports, accommodations, modifications, and supplementary aids and supports, supports for school personnel, assistive technology, and a behavior plan.
   c. Goal: "By the end of the IEP year, [the Student] will use self[-]regulating/anxiety reducing strategies without prompting in 5 out of 5 corrective behavior events as recorded by observation."
      i. Baseline: "The Student has had a few instances of shutting down in classes this year. [The Student] is approximately working around 80%. Evaluation procedures included classroom observations, and the responsible provider listed both general and special education.
   d. Complainant input: The Complainant indicated the Student would shut down if they were pushed too much, and the Student "does better with direct conversation and expectations."
   e. Special Education and Related Services:
      i. Pull out services in the [instructional resource center] IRC for three days a week every week; one day, for 46 minutes, and for two days, 80 minutes, from October 7, 2024 through May 21, 2025.

ii. Pull out services in the IRC for three days a week every week; one day, for 46 minutes, and for two days, 80 minutes, from August 14, 2025 through October 6, 2025.

iii. Inclusion, in the regular education classroom, five days a week, for 60 minutes per day, from October 7, 2024 through May 21, 2025.

iv. Inclusion in the regular education classroom, five days a week, for 60 minutes per day, from August 14, 2025 through October 6, 2025.

v. Accommodations/Modifications/Supplementary Aids and Support included:

1) Breaks for self-regulation as needed when dysregulated, inside or directly outside the classroom, not to exceed five minutes per class period, from October 7, 2024 through October 6, 2025.

2) Quiet and separate space for regulation as needed for a safe space to de-escalate, in the general and special education classrooms, until the behavior is regulated from October 7, 2024 through October 6, 2025.

3) Allow a response time for communication or action after making a corrective behavior request, as needed per the corrective behavior, without giving a lengthy explanation. State the request and allow time for the response either by communication or action in all school settings for the length of the corrective behavior or communication from October 7, 2024 through October 6, 2025.

vi. A Team Meeting Record from the IEP meeting on October 7, 2024 indicated the Complainant shared, they do not "see many behaviors at home. [The Complainant] also said if [the Student] gets pushed too much that [the Student will shut down."

vii. A Progress Report for the 2024-25 school year included progress from May 9, 2025:

1) Comments: "[The Student] has had a rough last quarter in school, specifically ELA. [The Student] has caused many disruptions in that class and has been asked to leave on several occasions. We had met to restructure [the Student's] behavior plan, but [the Student] has still had issues and is not always taking advantage of [their] break and recovery time for self-regulation."

(a) Score of "4" (slight regression) based on referrals.

2. An IEP, dated October 6, 2025, with the handwritten word "adopted" included:

a. The PLAFP indicated the Student experienced needs in the social-emotional area that required special education and related services, but did not have behaviors that impeded the learning of others or themself.

b. Goal: "Given the appropriate situation … [the Student] will use self[-]regulating/anxiety reducing strategies without prompting in 5 out of 5 corrective behavior events as recorded by observation over 36 weeks."

i. Baseline: The Student experienced a few instances of shutting down and was "approximately working around 70%. The Student has been removed from [their] Accounting class to do it online and will have the opportunity to use more self-regulation in this setting."

ii. Evaluation procedures: Observations; provider responsible: special education.

c. Special Education and Related Services:

i. Pull out services in the IRC, with a frequency of five days over a two week period, for 82 minutes three days a week and 82 minutes times two days the alternating weeks, from October 6, 2025 through May 21, 2026.

ii. Inclusion services in general education classrooms, five days per week, 60 minutes per day (two class periods one day and two class periods on alternating days), from October 6, 2025 through May 21, 2026.

iii. Pullout services in the IRC, with a frequency of five days over a two week period, for 82 minutes one week and 82 minutes times two days the following week, from August 13, 2026 through October 5, 2026.

iv. Inclusion services in general education classrooms, five days per week, 60 minutes per day (two class periods one day and two class periods on alternating days), from August 13, 2026 through October 5, 2026.

d. Accommodations/Modifications/Supplementary Aids and Support:

i. Breaks for self-regulation as needed when dysregulated, inside or outside the classroom, not to exceed five minutes during a class period, from October 6, 2025 through October 5, 2026.

ii. A quiet and separate setting for regulation, as needed for a safe space to de-escalate, in the general and special education classrooms, until behavior is regulated, from October 6, 2025 through October 5, 2026.

iii. Allow a response time for communication or action after making a corrective behavior request, as needed per the corrective behavior. Do not give a lengthy reason, state the request and allow time for the response either by communication or action, in the general and special education classrooms, for the length of the corrective behavior or communication from October 6, 2025 through October 5, 2026.

e. A Team Meeting Record from the IEP meeting on October 6, 2025 indicated the Student "tends to shut down when frustrated, it is suggested [the Student] is given space during this time to calm down."

3. PWN for an eligibility, services, and placement meeting dated October 6, 2025 included:

a. The Student was eligible for special education under OHI.

b. Proposal: "Beginning 10/6/25, and continuing throughout the duration of the IEP, [the Student] will be in [the] IRC for 1 of [their] 8 block classes for study skills[.] This class will last 82 minutes and meet every other day due to block scheduling (82 minutes X 3 days one week and 82 minutes X 2 days on alternating weeks. In addition, [the Student] will have inclusion services in 4 of [their] 8 block classes. These classes will last 82 minutes and meet every other day due to block scheduling. However[,] [the Student] will only receive 30 minutes per class of inclusion services. Since 2 classes are on each day for the block schedule, [the Student] will receive 60 minutes of service each day of the week. (60 minutes X 5 days every week)."

c. An explanation, options, and a description of data was used as the basis for the proposal.

d. The Teacher Information Page described the anticipated services to be provided and indicated an "N" (no) for "Has Behavior Intervention Plan."

4. A Progress Report for the 2025-26 school year included:

a. October 24, 2025: "[The Student] has had a few moments in classes where [the Student] has had to self-regulate and [is] not always successful at [it]. [The Student] has been sent to the office on at least 1 occasion. [The Student] has done very well overall, but has the times where [the Student] falls back into the trap of poor behavior." The Student received a score of "5" (maintained performance).

b. December 17, 2025: "[The Student] has made strides to be a better behaved student. [The Student] has not been sent to the office as much this semester as in the past. [The Student] has met the teacher[']s requests with minimal resistance." The Student received a score of "6" (slight improvement).

c. April 2, 2026: "[The Student] is in long[-]term suspension and completing [their] work online." The Student received a score of "4" (slight regression). "Behaviors" were listed as data points.

d. May 8, 2026: "[The Student] is in long-term suspension and is completing [their] work online. [The Student] is keeping up with [their] work except for Civics. Hopefully, [the Student] will complete [their] classes before the 21st." The Student received a score of "5" maintained performance. "Grades" were listed as data points.

5. A Manifestation Determination Review (MDR) dated January 29, 2026 indicated:

a. During Advisory, the Substitute directed the Student to monitor their language because the "F-Word" was being used repeatedly. The Student responded with "Fuck you!" and "I'll beat your ass. Your [sic] dumbass retarded!" The Substitute described their own tone as "relaxed" and suggested the Student pack their things and head to the office. They described the Student as packing "slowly" and the Substitute suggested they "pick up the pace." In response, the Student responded, "You better hope I don't catch you in the hallway bruh" and pointed a finger at the Substitute to make a gun gesture, to which the Substitute responded with another directive.

b. The Complainant stated, "[The Student] will shut down the longer a person continues to try to explain the reasoning behind the direction or request when [sic] regards to corrective behavior."

c. A handwritten note indicated the general education teachers reported, "when confronted, [the Student] will fire back."

d. The Complainant listed the Student's diagnoses.

e. Whether the conduct in question was caused by, or had a direct and substantial relationship to the Student's disability indicated a marked box of "No."

f. Whether the conduct was a result of the School's failure to implement the IEP indicated a marked box of "No."

   g. The determination indicated a marked box of "IS NOT a manifestation of the disability" with two marked boxes below:
      i. "Disciplinary removal may occur … ."
      ii. "… the school will conduct a functional behavioral assessment and develop a behavior intervention plan to address the behavior violation so that it does not recur.

6. An April 14, 2026 IEP Amendment Form included:
   a. Changes: "[The Student] is serving a long[-]term suspension. [They] will continue their education at a different location. Beginning 04/14/2026, [the Student] will receive Special Ed[ucation] services for 40 minutes per day, 1 day per week, every week while school is in session off campus."
   b. A statement saying, "We agree to amend this student's IEP as described above, and we do not wish to convene an IEP meeting" was signed by the Complainant on April 14, 2026.
7. An April 13, 2026 Team Meeting Record indicated the team met to analyze educational options for the Student:
   a. "[The Student] will be signed out of special education. Then, an education plan will be discussed with [the School] administration."
   b. "[The Student] will complete [their] sophomore year online. [The Student] will continue as a virtual student for [their] junior year. At the end of each semester, progress will be evaluated to determine if [the Student] continues virtually or not."
   c. "[The Student] will complete [their] sophomore year online. [The Student] will return to in[-]person classes for [their] junior year."
   d. Notes indicated, "[The Complainant] would like a behavior plan with no backdating." Additionally, the Complainant requested "full testing." Notes indicated the Special Education Teacher would contact the School Psychologist and testing would be completed at the public library.
   e. In a June 3, 2026 written response, the Special Education Director clarified the team discussed three options for the Student's return for the 2026–27 school year. One option, to be "signed out," meant "[the Complainant] would revoke special education services." They further clarified no one had revoked special education services for the Student.
8. Prior Written Notice, dated April 14, 2026, included:
   a. The LEA proposed a reevaluation to include assessment of social/emotional behavioral development, and may include a functional behavioral assessment (FBA) or evaluation to determine appropriate positive behavioral supports. Academic skills may also be assessed. The Complainant acknowledged consent by signing the notice on April 14, 2026.
9. PWN, incorrectly dated September 23, 2025 (should have been dated April 14, 2026), included:

a. According to the PWN, the IEP team met on October 6, 2025 to discuss any additions or changes to the Student's special education or related services and proposed a material change in services and a substantial change in placement.
b. The explanation indicated "due to long[-]term suspension, the team considered different options to provide services for [the Student]. The decision was to provide services for 40 minutes per day, 1 day per week, every week while school was in session at [their] home."
c. The Complainant signed the form giving consent on April 14, 2026.
d. In a June 3, 2026 written response, the Special Education Director confirmed a clerical mistake and stated the date on the PWN should be dated April 14, 2026.

10. Transcripts for the 2025-26 school year for the Student indicated redacted comments and the following relevant information:
    a. First Semester:
        i. Advisory: No grade.
        ii. American Sign Language: A, competency-based.
        iii. Art History: No grade, competency-based.
        iv. Biology B: No grade, competency-based.
        v. English II: A.
        vi. Geometry: A.
        vii. Physical Conditioning: No grade.
        viii. World Cultural History: A.
    b. Second Semester:
        i. Advisory: No grade.
        ii. Art I: No grade.
        iii. Civics and Government: No grade, competency-based.
        iv. Biology I: A.
        v. English II B: No grade, competency-based.
        vi. Geometry B: No grade, competency-based.
        vii. Study Skills: A.
        viii. World History B: No grade, competency-based.
    c. Total units earned: 17; GPA: 2.4615.
11. Attendance records for the 2025-26 school year indicated the Student was absent for the following reasons:
    a. One out-of-school suspension, August 21, 2025.
    b. Seven illness-related absences.
    c. Ten unexcused tardies.
    d. Three unexcused absences.
    e. The attendance record did not include the long-term out-of-school suspension (OSS).

12. Discipline logs for the Student during the Complaint period indicated:
    a. March 11, 2025: "Disrespect" when the Student did not comply with a directive.
    b. March 13, 2025: The Student was "Disrespectful/Disruptive" to a class.
    c. April 16, 2025: The Student was "Disrespectful/Not following rules" during a hockey activity.
    d. August 21, 2025: The Student was marked as "Disrespect/language" when they used a derogatory term towards another student.
    e. October 21, 2025: The Student stole a breakfast bag and did not pay or stay in line.
    f. January 28, 2026: A "Threat to staff" stated the Student used "inappropriate language."
13. On May 13, 2026, the Complainant filed this complaint.
14. In an email, dated June 1, 2026, the Special Education Director clarified the Substitute was a "regular teacher who was asked to cover one fifty-minute advisory period." Additionally, they explained that to not violate the Family Education Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), "… temporary substitutes are not given access to IEPs. Teachers and other personnel who regularly work with a student and who would need to know about accommodations and modifications are provided a sheet of these and the teacher who monitors the IEP talks through those … ."

Complainant Interview

15. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Complainant explained the Substitute did not have access to or knowledge of the Student's IEP. The Complainant reported that during an incident in January [2026], the Substitute directed the Student to stop talking loudly but failed to implement the accommodation of providing processing time, and instead continued to press the Student. According to the Complainant, this lack of processing time escalated the situation, resulting in the Student "supposedly" making a gun gesture which resulted in law enforcement involvement. The Complainant maintained the classroom confrontation and subsequent legal charges could have been prevented had the Substitute been informed of and followed the IEP. Note: For the purpose of this report, the title "Substitute" is attributed to the teacher who "covered" a class period in January 2026 in which the Student had a behavior incident.
16. The Complainant shared they had ongoing concerns regarding the Student's behaviors rather than academic difficulties, which aligned with the Student's diagnoses. They explained they became aware a behavior plan was not in place mid-school year, "when [the Student] got in all this trouble." Furthermore, they shared staff at the School had suggested a behavior plan along with the accommodations in place for when the Student "shuts down" or has an "outburst."
17. The Complainant clarified they initially requested an IEP during the Student's eighth-grade year, and stated, "[The Student] already supposedly had it for this year." Additionally, they added they felt that a behavior plan or the implementation of the IEP would have prevented the trouble the Student was in.

18. When asked about a comprehensive behavior evaluation, the Complainant confirmed one was completed after the incident and stated the results focused on "big ideas" to support the Student's success for the next school year.

Principal Interview

19. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal confirmed the Substitute was a teacher within the School and served as a short-term substitute, covering the Student's class for the day. They explained that a short-term substitute was only notified of a student's IEP via roster markings or verbal communication to maintain student confidentiality. Furthermore, they shared specific accommodations and modifications were not automatically distributed to short-term substitutes unless they proactively reached out to the case manager with questions.
20. The Principal explained general education teachers were made aware of students with IEPs at the start of the year with a snapshot summary. The Special Education Director added that special education teachers review the summary with teachers to ensure understanding. Teachers were able to view an icon in the student information system (SIS) to identify if a student had an IEP. Additionally, they were able to ask case managers directly about students with IEPs.
21. When asked about the Substitute being informed of the Student's accommodations and modifications, the Principal stated, "[The Substitute] wouldn't have been unless [they] had questions about [the Student]."
22. The Principal explained the Student did not have a behavior intervention plan (BIP) and the Student's accommodations through the IEP had addressed their behavior. They described the Student's behavior over the course of the school year as "very good" and noted the Student had one other recorded disciplinary action, with a total of two for the year. The Principal shared no FBA was completed and there was no BIP within the Student's IEP.
23. When asked about the Student's behavior during the 2024-25 school year, the Principal recalled the Student had experienced increased behavioral challenges during the final quarter, specifically within their ELA class. The Principal described the Student's difficulties as disrespect, failure to complete schoolwork, and issues with inappropriate language. The Special Education Director shared the team met to remind the Student to take advantage of their accommodation of a break and recovery time.
24. The Principal described the response time accommodation as being, "I need you to get to work. Then you just walk away and let [the Student] have that time to process and do what was requested of [them]."
25. When asked about the Student's IEP being implemented during the long-term suspension, the Principal stated, "There is [sic] no academic goals or academic concerns or modifications for [the Student]." The Special Education Director added, "There's no specially designed instruction and really the goal is, is [the Student] following it or not on making [themself] leave the room? So there's no really specially designed instruction. There is [sic] no true goals, annual goals."
26. The Principal shared the Student was on track to graduate.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, followed child find protocols prior to creating the Student's October 2025 IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-7(a)(b)(2-3)(c); 34 C.F.R. § 300.111(a)(c).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-7(a)(b)(2-3)(c) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.111(a)(c), each board shall adopt and implement policies and procedures to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in its jurisdiction, including children with exceptionalities who attend private schools, are highly mobile, including migrant and homeless children, or are suspected of being children with disabilities even though they are advancing from grade to grade.

Each board's policies and procedures under this regulation shall include age-appropriate screening procedures that meet the following requirements:

for children from ages five through 21, observations, instruments, measures, and techniques that disclose any potential exceptionality and indicate a need for evaluation, including hearing and vision screening as required by state law, and implementation of procedures ensuring the early identification and assessment of disabilities in children.

Any board may refer a child who is enrolled in public school for an evaluation if one of the following conditions is met: School personnel have data-based documentation indicating that general education interventions and strategies would be inadequate to address the areas of concern for the child. Furthermore, School personnel have data-based documentation indicating that before the referral or as a part of the referral, all of the following conditions were met: the child was provided with appropriate instruction in regular education settings that was delivered by qualified personnel; the child's academic achievement was repeatedly assessed at reasonable intervals that reflected formal assessment of the student's progress during instruction; the assessment results were provided to the child's parent or parents; and the assessment results indicate that an evaluation is appropriate. Finally, the parent of the child requests and gives written consent for an evaluation of the child, and the board agrees that an evaluation of the child is appropriate.

The Parent alleged that, despite the Student having a history of behavior problems, an IEP was not created until October 2025.

The LEA noted the Student had been on an IEP for several years, making the Complainant's allegation regarding Child Find unclear. The LEA utilized a Student Intervention Team (SIT) process to identify and monitor students who may require additional support.

The record indicated a finalized IEP for the Student in October 2024, establishing special education eligibility under OHI. At the annual IEP in October 2025, the LEA adjusted service delivery times while maintaining the same accommodations.

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations*, it is not substantiated* the LEA failed to complete its Child Find obligations.

Issue Two

Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, developed an IEP that addressed the Student's behavior issues and diagnoses of IED, ADHD and ODD. K.A.R. 91-40-1(gg), K.AR 91-40-18(a)(b)(c); K.S.A. 72-3429(c)(4)(d)(1-4)(e)(1); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.320(a)(4)(b)(d), 300.324(a)(1)(2)(i).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(gg), "Individualized education program" and "IEP" mean a written statement for each exceptional child that meets the requirements of the law and amendments and describes the unique educational needs of the child and the manner in which those needs are to be met, and is developed, reviewed, and revised in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. According to K.A.R. 91-40-18(a)(b)(c), in developing or reviewing the IEP of any exceptional child, each agency shall comply with the requirements of the law and, as appropriate, consider the results of the child's performance on any general state or districtwide assessment programs. If, as a result of its consideration of the special factors described in the law, an IEP team determines that a child needs behavioral interventions and strategies, accommodations, assistive technology devices or services, or other program modifications for the child to receive a FAPE, the IEP team shall include those items in the child's IEP. Each agency shall ensure that the IEP of each exceptional child includes the information required by law.

According to K.S.A. 72-3429(c)(4)(d)(1-4)(e)(1) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.320(a)(4)(b)(d), and 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(1)(2)(i) the IEP for each exceptional child shall include a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, and services to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided for the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum in accordance with provision, to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and to be educated and participate with other exceptional and nonexceptional children in the activities described in the law. In developing each child's IEP, the IEP team shall consider the strengths of the child and the concerns of the parents for enhancing the education of their child, the results of the initial evaluation or most recent evaluation of the child, and the academic, developmental, and functional needs of the child. In the case of a child whose behavior impedes the child's learning or that of others, the use of positive behavioral interventions, supports, and other strategies to address that behavior.

The regular education teacher of the child, as a member of the IEP team, to the extent appropriate, shall participate in the development of the IEP of the child, including the determination of appropriate positive behavioral interventions supports and other strategies, and the determination of supplementary aids and services, program modifications, and support for school personnel consistent with this section. Additionally, 34 C.F.R. § 300.320(b) indicates that beginning not later than the first IEP to be in effect when the child turns 16, or younger if determined appropriate by the IEP team, and updated annually, thereafter, the IEP must include appropriate measurable postsecondary goals based upon age-appropriate transition assessments related to training, education, employment, and, where appropriate, independent living skills. The transition services (including courses of study) that are needed to assist the child in reaching the goals.

The Parent alleged the Student's IEP did not contain a behavior plan, despite the Student's behavioral issues and diagnoses of IED, ADHD, and ODD.

The LEA stated because formal diagnoses from qualified professionals were incorporated directly into the IEP, the LEA determined that additional behavioral assessments were unnecessary. The IEP accommodations and modifications served as the Student's behavior plan.

Under the standard established in Endrew F. ex rel. Endrew F. v. Douglas County School District RE–1, 580 U.S. 386 (2017), a school must offer an IEP reasonably calculated to enable a child to make progress appropriate in light of the child's circumstances. Furthermore, according to Kansas law, an IEP must accurately reflect the child's unique needs and explicitly address whether the student's behavior impedes learning. Finally, according to 34 C.F.R. 300.320(d), nothing in this section shall be constructed to require additional information be included in a child's IEP beyond what is explicitly required in section 614 of the act or the IEP team to include information under one component of the child's IEP that is already contained under another component of the child's IEP.

The October 6, 2025 IEP addressed the Student's behaviors related to their diagnoses of IED, ADHD, and ODD using accommodations instead of a BIP, with self-regulation breaks and processing time. Under this plan, the Student was expected to meet their sole behavior goal, "Given the appropriate situation … [the Student] will use self[-]regulating/anxiety[-]-reducing strategies without prompting in 5 out of 5 corrective behavior events as recorded by observation over 36 weeks." To implement this IEP, the LEA designated inclusion services in the general education classroom for 60 minutes per day, alongside pull-out services in the IRC for 82 minutes per session on an alternating block schedule (three days one week, two days the next). While behavior improved until the January 26, 2026 incident, the MDR ruled it was not a manifestation of the Student's disability; furthermore, existing IEP goals and accommodations sufficed, making a BIP unnecessary.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to develop an IEP that addressed the Student's behavior issues and diagnoses.

Issue Three

Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Student's teachers had access to the IEP. Further, whether the IEP accommodation of allowing the Student time to process was followed. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b); 34 C.F.R. § 300.323(a)(c)(2)(d).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b) and 34 CFR § 300.323(a)(c)(2)(d), except as otherwise provided in subsection (c), each agency shall ensure that an IEP is in effect before special education and related services are provided to an exceptional child. Those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown. An IEP is in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year. The child's IEP is accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service provider who is responsible for its implementation. Each teacher and provider is informed of their specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

The Parent alleged that at least one of the Student's teachers did not have access to the Student's IEP. Further, the IEP was not implemented when teachers did not follow the accommodation of allowing the Student time to process.

The LEA confirmed teachers received a Teacher Information Page (TIP) form. The LEA stated the incident that resulted in the Student's suspension happened in a class with a teacher who was substituting.

Under the standard established in Van Duyn v. Baker School District 5J, 502 F.3d 811 (9th Cir. 2007), a failure to implement an IEP is only a violation if the deviation from the IEP is "material," meaning there is more than a minor discrepancy between the services provided and those required. This materiality threshold is widely supported across jurisdictions, as articulated in Beer ex rel. A.B. v. USD 512 Shawnee Mission (2023), which noted that school districts incur liability when a material failure to implement an IEP violates the IDEA. Furthermore, E.C. by W.C. and K.C. v.

U.S.D. 385 Andover (2020) emphasizes that to prevail on a claim under the IDEA, a party challenging the implementation of an IEP must show more than a de minimis failure to implement all elements of that IEP, and, instead, must demonstrate that the school board or other authorities failed to implement substantial or significant provisions of the IEP. In the absence of further guidance from the Tenth Circuit on this standard, courts proceed under this prevailing materiality standard from its sister circuits, including the Fifth Circuit's holding in Houston Independent School District v. Bobby R. (2000).

The record indicated the October 6, 2025 IEP mandated School personnel allow the Student response and processing time following any corrective behavior requests. This accommodation was not implemented during a January 2026 advisory period when the Substitute directed the Student to monitor repeated profanity. When the Student responded with “Fuck you!” and “I’ll beat your ass,” the Substitute did not provide the required processing time to allow the Student time to process the instruction. Instead, the Substitute immediately suggested that the Student pack their things and head to the office, and as the Student packed slowly, the Substitute followed up by suggesting they “pick up the pace.” These immediate, consecutive demands directly denied the Student the necessary time to process and execute the behavioral requests.

Both the Principal and the Special Education Director confirmed the Substitute covering the Student's January 2026 advisory period was a regular building teacher; however, they argued, to maintain compliance with FERPA regulations during short-term coverage, the Substitute was not granted access to the Student's IEP or snapshot summary. Because the Substitute was uninformed of the Student's IEP requirements, they did not implement the processing-time accommodation and instead issued successive directives, telling the Student to pack their things, head to the office, and “pick up the pace,” thereby escalating the confrontation which resulted in the Student's long-term suspension. Following this removal, an April 2026 amendment indicated the Student transitioned to virtual instruction. Services were reduced to forty minutes per week, a period during which the Principal and the Special Education Director acknowledged the LEA provided no academic modifications, goal support, or SDI. Throughout this virtual placement, as corroborated by a May progress report documenting the Student’s performance, the Student was evaluated entirely through academic grades rather than the required “corrective behavior event” observation data. By failing to provide behavioral accommodations, specialized instruction, or goal tracking during the subsequent long-term suspension, the LEA committed a material failure to implement the Student's IEP that resulted in a denial of a FAPE.

Based on the foregoing, in accordance with the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated the LEA failed to ensure the Student’s teachers had access to or were informed of the Student’s IEP, and the required IEP behavior supports were not provided when the Student was long-term suspended, which resulted in a material implementation failure and a denial of a FAPE.

Issue Four

Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, conducted a comprehensive evaluation of the Student. K.S.A. 72-3428(a)(1-3)(b)(c); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.301(a)(c)(2), 300.304(b)(c)(1-4)(6-7).

According to K.S.A. 72-3428(a)(1-3)(b)(c) and 300.304(b)(c)(2)(4)(6-7), an agency shall conduct a full and individual initial evaluation before the initial provision of special education and related services to an exceptional child. An initial evaluation may be initiated either by the parent of a child or by an agency. An initial evaluation shall consist of procedures to determine whether a child is an exceptional child and the educational needs of such child.

An agency shall provide notice to the parents of a child that describes any evaluation procedures the agency proposes to conduct. In conducting the evaluation, the agency shall use a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant functional, developmental and academic information, including information provided by the parent, that may assist in determining whether the child is an exceptional child and the content of the child's individualized education program, including information related to enabling the child to be involved, and progress, in the general education curriculum. Additionally, the agency shall: not use any single measure or assessment as the sole criterion for determining whether a child is an exceptional child or determining an appropriate educational program for the child. The agency shall use technically sound instruments that may assess the relative contribution of cognitive and behavioral factors, in addition to physical or developmental factors. In determining whether a child has a specific learning disability, the agency is required to take into consideration whether the child has a severe discrepancy between achievement and intellectual ability, and may use a process that determines if the child responds to scientific, research-based intervention as part of the child's evaluation.

An agency shall ensure that assessments and other evaluation materials used to assess a child under this section are selected and administered so as not to be discriminatory on a racial or cultural basis; are provided and administered in the language and form most likely to yield accurate information on what the child knows and is able to do academically, developmentally, and functionally, unless it is not feasible to so provide or administer; are valid and reliable for the specific purpose for which they are used; are administered by trained and knowledgeable personnel; are administered in accordance with instructions provided by the producer of such tests; and the child is assessed in all areas of suspected exceptionality. The agency shall ensure that assessment tools and strategies that provide relevant information that directly assists persons in determining the educational needs of the child are provided.

According to 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.301(a)(c)(2), each public agency must conduct a full and individual initial evaluation, in accordance with the law, before the initial provision of special education and related services to a child with a disability. The evaluation must consist of procedures to determine if the child is a child with a disability under the law and to determine the educational needs of the child.

The Parent alleged the LEA did not conduct a complete evaluation of the Student because a Behavior Assessment System for Children (BASC) was not completed.

The LEA asserts the Student was comprehensively evaluated and all relevant data was considered.

The record indicated on April 14, 2026, following the Student's disciplinary removal, the LEA issued PWN proposing a comprehensive reevaluation to assess academic, social, emotional, and behavioral development, and possible FBA, for which the Complainant provided immediate consent. Academic records and administrative testimony indicated that despite the Student's behavioral history, they maintained a 2.4615 grade point average, earned seventeen units, and remained on track to graduate. Furthermore, the Complainant confirmed the comprehensive evaluation was successfully completed after the incident, yielding strategies to support the Student's success for the upcoming school year.

Based on the foregoing, in accordance with the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to conduct a comprehensive evaluation of the Student.

Additional Findings

The record indicated on January 29, 2026, the MDR team concluded the Student's conduct on January 21, 2026 was not a result of a failure to implement the IEP. However, as in the analysis of Issue Three, the Substitute covering the class lacked access to the Student's IEP and failed to implement the mandatory processing-time accommodation during the directive exchange. As a result, the Student's required IEP accommodations were not implemented during the incident. Consequently, because the School failed to implement a behavioral accommodation designed to prevent escalation during corrective requests, the MDR team's determination that the behavior was not a result of a failure to implement the IEP is flawed and resulted in a denial of a FAPE.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A.Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.323(c-d) and 300.530(d)(1)(e)(1)(ii) specify that a public agency must ensure a student's IEP is fully accessible to implementing teachers, its documented accommodations are executed, and appropriate services continue during disciplinary removals.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #415 violated these requirements by failing to provide Student's IEP to a substitute teacher who was providing classroom coverage for one period in January 2026. The failure to provide the IEP impacted the Substitute's ability to implement the Student's processing-time accommodation. Additionally, because this behavioral support was omitted during the incident, the LEA's MDR team further violated regulatory standards by incorrectly finding the behavior did not result from a failure to implement the IEP. Furthermore, the LEA failed to provide the required SDI, academic modifications, or goal support during the virtual instruction period of the Student's long-term suspension.

Based on the foregoing, USD #415 is directed to take the following actions:

1 Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #415 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) at 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.323(c-d) and 300.530(d)(1)(e)(1)(ii).

2 Prior to the start of the 2026-27 school year, USD #415 shall convene an IEP team meeting to discuss the hours of compensatory education owed to the Student. The calculation must account for all instructional weeks from January 28 to April 13, 2026, at a rate of 505 minutes per week, and from April 14 to May 21, 2026, at a rate of 465 minutes per week. The LEA must generate a written compensatory services schedule detailing the method of delivery, which must be distinct from the Student's current IEP service minutes. Additionally, the LEA shall maintain documentation confirming the Complainant's receipt of the offer and their written response regarding the acceptance or declination of these services. Within two weeks of the convened meeting, the LEA will submit the compensatory time plan and a receipt of the Complainant's decision to the department.

3 Within 30 days of receiving this report, USD #415 must update its internal operational procedures regarding short-term and temporary classroom coverage. The revised policy must ensure that any regular building teacher or substitute assigned to instruct a student with disabilities has immediate access to a summary of that student's mandatory accommodations and modifications.

4 Prior to the start of the 2026-27 school year, the LEA must provide mandatory, documented training for all building administrators, special education staff, and general education teachers at the Student's School. This training must focus on: the legal requirement to provide explicit SDI rather than relying solely on accommodations for behavioral needs; the obligation to implement documented accommodations and modifications; and the proper criteria for determining implementation compliance during MDR. The LEA will submit the professional development agenda and staff sign-in sheet to the department five days after completion.

The LEA shall schedule the required compensatory services and provide that schedule to the parent/decision maker and to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) in writing. The parent or education decision maker may choose to accept all, some, or none of the offered compensatory services. The parent or the education decision maker must respond to the school district and Special Education and Title Services (SETS), in writing, to identify which services (if any) are accepted. The written schedule of services may be sent to SETS at brian.dempsey@ksde.gov.

Once the district receives the written response, it will schedule any accepted compensatory services. If a student is absent or a parent is unable to make the student available at the scheduled time, the services scheduled for that day will not be made up. If district staff are unavailable, the services will be rescheduled. Any compensatory service that is declined or not used as scheduled will be considered waived, as long as the district has made a good-faith effort to begin and to provide the services in a timely manner."

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 415,
Hiawatha Public Schools: 26FC415-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on May 13, 2026, by _____ on behalf of her child, _____. In the remainder of this decision, Ms. _____ will be referred to as "the parent," and _____ will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on May 13, 2026. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, both the parent and the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the district's notice of appeal, and the parent's notice of appeal as well as both of the parties responses to the appeals. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

School Districts' Appeal

ISSUE THREE

Issue Three

Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Student's teachers had access to the student's IEP. Further, whether the IEP accommodation of allowing the Student time to process was followed.

At some time during January, 2026, the student was suspended for behavior that escalated when a substitute teacher allegedly did not provide the processing time required by the student's IEP to allow the Student time to process the instruction. The investigator described the incident as follows: "

> Both the Principal and the Special Education Director confirmed the Substitute covering the Student's January 2026 advisory period was a regular building teacher; however, they argued, to maintain compliance with FERPA regulations during short-term coverage, the Substitute was not granted access to the Student's IEP or snapshot summary. Because the Substitute was uninformed of the Student's IEP requirements, they did not implement the processing-time accommodation and instead issued successive directives, telling the Student to pack their things, head to the office, and "pick up the pace," thereby escalating the confrontation which resulted in the Student's long-term suspension.
> Following this removal, an April 2026 IEP amendment indicated the Student transitioned to virtual instruction. Services were reduced to forty minutes per week, a period during which the Principal and the Special Education Director acknowledged the LEA provided no academic modifications, goal support, or SDI. Throughout this virtual placement, as corroborated by a May progress report documenting the Student's performance, the Student was evaluated entirely through academic grades rather than the required "corrective behavior event" observation data. By failing to provide behavioral accommodations, specialized instruction, or goal tracking during the subsequent long-term suspension, the LEA committed a material failure to implement the Student's IEP that resulted in a denial of a FAPE. (Report, p. 21)

The investigator concluded as follows:

> Based on the foregoing, in accordance with the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated the LEA failed to ensure the Student's teachers had access to or were informed of the Student's IEP, and the required IEP behavior supports were not provided when the Student was long-term suspended, which resulted in a material implementation failure and a denial of a FAPE. (Report, p. 22)

In its appeal, the district states that it contests the claim that the substitute teacher caused a quick escalation of the situation. In support, the district says: "Testimony from those in the room indicate that this episode took a number of minutes during which the student continually used objectional language, not just within one or two minutes, which seems to be the complaint."

This may be one of those incidents that participants reasonably view differently depending on their point of view. The Appeal Committee will defer to the investigator's conclusions on this issue as the investigator looked at the documentation, interviewed those who were directly involved in the incident, and used independent judgement in her analysis. An additional factor favoring the investigator's conclusion is the uncontested fact that the substitute was not granted access to the Student's IEP or snapshot summary and was not even aware of the IEP requirement to provide the student with time to process changes.

The district also appeals on the basis that, "The student's sole IEP goal is behavioral. Because the student was working at home, there were no behavioral accommodations required." That position would have been supported if the IEP team had met and determined that the student did not need a behavioral goal or behavioral supports while being educated at home. However, that did not happen. The student's IEP remained in force, including the behavioral goal portion. The district was not free to ignore the existing IEP while the student was being educated from home.

In the conclusion portion in the report on this issue, the investigator concludes that the district failed to follow legal requirements in two ways: (1) a material failure to implement the student's IEP by not providing the required IEP behavior supports in the IEP and (2) a failure to ensure that the student's teachers had access to or were informed of the Student's IEP, and were aware of the required IEP behavior supports. The Appeal Committee agrees with both conclusions. There is nothing in FERPA that would restrict a school district from disclosing information in an IEP to a temporary substitute who is assigned to assist a child with a disability. The special education regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(d) states:

> (d) Accessibility of child's IEP to teachers and others. Each public agency must ensure that-
> (1) The child's IEP is accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related services provider, and any other service provider who is responsible for its implementation; and
> (2) Each teacher and provider described in paragraph (d)(1) of this section is informed of--
> (i) His or her specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP; and > (ii) The specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report on this issue.

Parents' Appeal

The parent appeals the conclusion in Issue One.

Issue One

Whether USD #415, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), followed child find protocols prior to creating the Student's October 2025 Individual Education program (IEP).

The parent's appeal asserts that the school district had sufficient information to conduct a special education evaluation for the student as early as age 5. The Appeal Committee will not comment on the merits of the parent's appeal because the timeline for addressing this issue through the complaint process has expired.

The student has had an IEP since at least October 7, 2024. (Report, Finding 1, p. 3). Both Federal and state regulations permit the filing of a formal complaint to allege only violations that occurred not more than one year prior to the date the complaint is received. See: 34 C.F.R. 300.153(c) and K.A.R. 91-40-51(b)(1)

This complaint was received on May 13, 2026, well beyond one year from any date this student was without an IEP. Accordingly, the Appeal Committee is without authority to reverse the investigator's conclusion, and will not do so.

The parent also states that: "I am also appealing the decision that a behavior plan was not needed (while the student was working from home). If that is correct why do I have e-mails from the principal stating his IEP needed to be updated and corrected and a behavior plan needs to be put in place." The Appeal Committee notes that the investigator made no such conclusion. This was an argument the district made in its appeal. The Appeal Committee addressed this issue above in its discussion of the district's appeal, where it sustained the conclusion of the investigator.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 21st day of July, 2026.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #497
ON MAY 14, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 11, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -------, by their parent, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #497 Lawrence Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #497.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 14, 2026 and the 30-day timeline ended on June 13, 2026.

Allegations

The following issue will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #___, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), obtained the Parent's consent prior to disclosing personally identifiable information in board meeting documents. K.A.R. 91-40-50; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.622, 99.3.

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parent on June 3, 2026. The following LEA staff were interviewed on June 3, 2026: the Executive Director of Special Education, the Executive Director of Finance, and the Board Clerk.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the Investigation:

1. Board Business Meeting Agenda, 04/13/26, 04/27/26, 05/11/26
2. Superintendent Report, 04/13/26, 05/11/26
3. Emails between parties, 03/27/26-05/19/26
4. Fund ID Summary and Check Register, 04/18/26-05/15/26
5. Accounts Payable - Vendor Invoice Status, 03/20/26-04/17/26
6. Due Process Conclusion, 01/26/26

The LEA also provided documentation of the following board policies:

a. Student Records, JR, reviewed on March 26, 2008;
b. Types of Records, JRA, reviewed on May 7, 2008;
c. Release of Student Records, JRB, revised on May 26, 2015;
d. Disposition of Records, JRC, reviewed on May 7, 2008; and
e. Hearing Request, JRD, reviewed on April 23, 2008. (D573-D582)

Background Information

The Student was previously enrolled in USD #___ but has not been enrolled since the 2023-24 school year. According to an interview with the Parent, the Student was enrolled in a different LEA during the Complaint period, and the Complaint is based on a due process complaint involving USD #___ filed in October 2024 and resolved in January 2026. According to the Parent, the Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), however, the LEA could only confirm the Student's status for the 2023-24 school year.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent explained that, as a result of their October 2024 due process complaint against the LEA, the hearing officer awarded the family a year of private school tuition and ongoing reimbursement for private tutoring or speech therapy services for 18 months. The Parent also shared that the hearing officer took "deliberate" steps to protect the Student's identity by using only their initials in the final decision, and the Parent chose to keep the due process hearing closed to the public to protect the Student's privacy regarding sensitive matters included in the documentation.

2. The conclusion of the January 26, 2026 State Department of Education Due Process Report remained silent on specific confidentiality measures.

3. On March 27, 2026, the Parent emailed the Executive Director of Finance regarding reimbursement for the Student's speech therapy services and wrote, "We request that payments made to us be done in a way to shield our public identity preventing [the Student] from being identified as the student in this due process case. We are aware that generally all district payments are made public as part of the standard Board process and would like to continue to protect [the Student's] confidentiality."

4. On March 30, 2026, the Executive Director of Finance emailed the Executive Director of Special Education indicating they were unfamiliar with the situation and wrote, "We'll need to discuss the confidentiality issue." On the same day the Executive Director of Special Education emailed the Attorney for the LEA, "reaching [out] for guidance on next steps with this payment and confidential request."

5. The April 13, 2026 Board Business Meeting Agenda documented the following relevant items and documents accessed by a public link:

    a. 2.6 Financial Reports: A link to "Cash Summary February 28, 2026," several budget documents, and "Petty Cash Activity February 2026" were listed.

        i. A "Petty Cash" spreadsheet for one of the high schools in the district included the date, a description, the check number and amount, the vendor name, the amount deposited, and the balance. Of the seven entries from February 1, 2026 to February 27, 2026, one entry appeared to be a refund to a named individual.

    b. 2.7 Monthly Vouchers: A link to "Monthly Vouchers 031426 to 040326 for 041326 Board Meeting" was listed.

        i. Recommended Action: For the Board to approve the disbursements as presented.

        ii. Records of "Donations Received" spanning March 1 to March 31, 2026, detailed the receipt dates, amounts, and donors, noting a single instance of an in-kind contribution.

            (1) Of the 16 donors listed, five were organizations, and the rest were listed as "Individual" or "Individuals," along with donor names.

        iii. A District "Fund ID Summary and Check Register" spreadsheet included the check and vendor numbers, the vendor name, the check date, and the amount.

            (1) Of the more than 300 entries, more than 40 appeared to be attributed to named individuals.

6. On April 20, 2026, the Parent emailed the LEA regarding additional receipts for reimbursement and reiterated the aforementioned statement about protecting the Student from being identified and acknowledging their request was not "standard Board process."

7. On April 20, 2026, the Executive Director of Finance emailed the Executive Director of Special Education, "On the confidentiality concern, the payee field will determine how this shows on reports. Are we paying [the Parent] [sic]? If we're paying a parent and not supposed to refer to the student's name, that's not a problem[.] If they're asking that we not show the payee name[,] that would be a manual adjustment for the initial board report but it would not hold up over time. We have companies that are constantly doing [Kansas Open Records Act] KORA requests on all of our payments."
8. The April 27, 2026 Board Business Meeting Agenda documented the following relevant items and documents accessed by a public link:
    a. 2.4 Monthly Vouchers: No link was provided in the agenda.
        i. Recommendation: For the Board to approve the disbursements as presented (April 4 to April 17, 2026).
9. A May 9, 2026 screenshot of the "Fund ID Summary and Check Register" listed check number 00101194, with the Parent's name, dated April 22, 2026 for the amount of $240.
10. On May 11, 2026, the following email exchanges occurred:
    a. 10:40 a.m.: The Parent emailed the LEA alleging they disclosed "information that identifies our [child] whose privacy the District is obligated to protect under state and federal law. Despite my having notified you twice in writing that [the Student's] identity must be protected and that my own name, as personally identifiable information, should be redacted from the public check register, that information appears in the public board materials for today's meeting. This disclosure is unacceptable. The District is well aware that the Hearing Officer took deliberate steps to protect [the Student's] identity, and it was plainly not the intent of the decision that any reimbursement process would publicly reveal [the Student] or our family. Publishing my name in board documents directly undermines those protections. … Because this matter relates to disability-based services, accommodations, or proceedings, the District also has confidentiality obligations under IDEA and Section 504[.] … I am demanding that the District immediately remove or redact the identifying information from the public board materials and any related public records by the end of business today. I also expect written confirmation, by that same deadline, that the District will take immediate steps to ensure that neither [the Student's] identity nor our family's personally identifiable information is disclosed in any future public records, board documents, or related publications."
    b. 11:33 a.m.: The Executive Director of Special Education emailed the Attorney for the LEA asking for guidance on a response, "[The Parent] is referring to the payment register in the [Board of Education] BOE doc[ument]s, which includes [the Parent's] name as the payee. I don't believe there is any information about the reason for the payment, but [the Parent's] name is listed as a payee. This is for the reimbursement of tutoring as laid out in the hearing findings. [The Executive Director of Finance] is checking with [the Kansas Association of School Boards] KASB about whether it can be redacted, and about how these payments should be made moving forward."

c. 1:10 p.m.: The Board Clerk emailed the Parent indicating the "item has been pulled from our agenda."

11. The May 11, 2026 Board Business Meeting Agenda documented the following relevant items and documents accessed by a public link:

    a. 2.6 Monthly Vouchers: A link to "Monthly vouchers 041826 to 050126 for 051126 Board Meeting" was listed.

        i. Recommendation: For the Board to approve the disbursements as presented.

        ii. A District "Fund ID Summary and Check Register" spreadsheet for the dates of April 18 to May 2, 2026 included the check and vendor numbers, the vendor name, the check date, and the amount.

            (1) Of the more than 240 entries, more than 30 appeared to be attributed to named individuals.

            (2) The aforementioned check number, 00101094, was not listed between 00101093 and 00101095.

        iii. A "Donations Received" by the LEA document for April 1, 2026 through April 30, 2026 listed the date received, the amount, and the benefactor.

            (1) Of the six donors listed, four were organizations (one was listed twice), and one donor name was listed as "Individual."

12. On May 14, 2026, the Executive Director of Finance emailed the Executive Director of Special Education to describe a payee manual override. They wrote, "We recently learned that the [special education] parent that we are reimbursing for services not only has requested the student name not be reported but also that the parent's name not be reported. So even though our records will show the parent name as the payee, we need to manually override the payee name on the check listing for board enclosures. … Please replace the parents [sic] name with "Parent" on the check listing so they are not identified. We have informed [special education] and [the Superintendent] that this will not remove the parents [sic] name from our system so their name would be revealed in future reports such as KORA requests. … These reimbursements may continue for over a year so please be diligent and watch for these. With this being a completely manual adjustment that we will need to catch every time, lets [sic] keep in communication so this one doesn't slip through."

13. On May 15, 2026, the Executive Director of Finance and the Certified Public Accountant (CPA) exchanged emails regarding the removal of the payee name:

    a. The Executive Director of Finance wrote, "We have a legal situation with a [special education] student where we are required to reimburse the parent for services that are being provided to their student. The parent asked us to not reveal the students [sic] name so the student's name is not in our accounts payable records. When the parents [sic] name, as the payee, came out on the board enclosure to approve checks, the parent complained that we were in fact, revealing the students [sic] identity by revealing [the Parent's] name. Our superintendent supports not showing the parents [sic] name. KASB said, even though it's not required, we could probably remove the parents [sic] name from the check listing but check with your auditors. The Specific Attorney involved in this case from [a city] responded that [the attorney] doesn't think it's allowable to remove [the Parent's] name from the check listing. So I'm seeking your input. What I have said so far is if we remove the payee name from the board Enclosure that approves checks, it would be a manual adjustment, and the parents [sic] names would not actually be removed from our accounting records so they would be made public during [a] KORA request, which we get all the time. The district says that's good enough." The Executive Director of Finance closed by asking the CPA to confirm that it was permissible to remove the Parent's actual name from the board enclosure and replace it with "parent."

    b. The CPA replied on the same day and indicated it would be "allowable to just list 'Parent' on the board check listing for confidentiality purposes."

14. On May 19, 2026, the Executive Director of Finance emailed the Executive Director of Special Education and the Director of Special Education to describe a conversation they had with the KASB Attorney. According to the email, "The conversation with [the KASB Attorney] was - Can we pull the parents [sic] name? [The KASB Attorney] said - I don't know the context of the case and what was agreed upon but I don't think it's a FERPA [Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act] violation. We discussed pulling the board item for now. We pulled the check off of that board meeting and have included it on the May 26[,] [2026] board meeting listed as 'Parent.'"

    a. A District "Fund ID Summary and Check Register" spreadsheet for the dates of May 2, 2026 to May 15, 2026 included the check and vendor numbers, the vendor name, the check date, and the amount.

        i. Of the more than 290 entries, more than 75 appeared to be attributed to named individuals.

        ii. Check number 00101094, dated April 22, 2026 for $240, was listed with the vendor number and "Parent" as the payee.

15. An Accounts Payable Vendor Invoice Status document listed the following:

a. The Parent's name and their vendor number, V0022071.

b. March 20, 2026, April 2, 2026, and April 17, 2026 as three separate dates for "Reimbursement for Services" for $80 each, for a total of $240. The account number 0521000000-53230, the check date April 22, 2026, and the check number 00101194 were documented.

16. On May 14, 2026, the Parent filed this complaint.

17. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent stated that on a Friday evening prior to a Monday board meeting, they reviewed the public check register in the School Board minutes and discovered their name listed alongside a $240 payment. On the Monday following the disclosure, after consulting with an attorney, the Parent emailed the LEA requesting the removal of their name from the Board documents and confirmation of future preventative procedures. The Parent stated that the LEA removed their name from the registry within two hours, but did not provide confirmation that it would protect the Parent's identity for future reimbursements over the remaining 18-month period. The Parent confirmed they had no other examples of potential disclosure of personally identifiable information (PII).

18. When asked how outside entities could connect the Parent's name in the LEA check register with the due process case, the Parent said, "There would be no other reason for the district to write me a check." They explained that because the family's due process complaint was publicly accessible on the KSDE website and contained the Student's initials alongside specific references to the LEA, an outside individual could easily identify the family by matching the specific $80 payment increments on the check register with the details of the public complaint. Ultimately, the Parent concluded that the LEA's removal of their name from the register within two hours demonstrated their awareness that the publication violated privacy protections.

19. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Executive Director of Special Education reported their understanding of the due process case was that the Student's name and identity would be protected to prevent the Student from being publicly identified as the subject of the filing. They noted they were unaware of any other specific confidentiality mandates within the hearing officer's findings. The Executive Director of Special Education clarified the formal due process findings did not stipulate explicit requirements regarding the Parent's name, board documents, or parental confidentiality as a payee, but rather outlined that the Parent could submit for reimbursement or that the providing agency could bill the LEA directly. They added that typical public check registers include numerous individual names without providing reasons or details that connect the lines to confidential information or student identities.

20. The Executive Director of Special Education confirmed the LEA received emails from the Parent on March 27 and April 20, 2026. Near the time of the Parent's follow-up communication, the Executive Director of Special Education consulted with the Executive Director of Finance to ensure the Student's identity was protected within the Board enclosure documents. The Executive Director of Special Education stated the LEA believed it was sufficiently protecting confidential information by publishing only the Parent's name and the payment amount without including the Student's name or any explicit text explaining the purpose of the transaction.

21. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Executive Director of Finance explained the LEA processes financial reimbursements through an internal accounting system, and a cumulative listing of all checks issued since the prior Board meeting is regularly included as a Board enclosure within the consent agenda for public Board meetings twice a month. The Executive Director of Finance confirmed that a check register shared during the Investigation initially included a line item specifying a check number and vendor number attributed directly to the Parent. The Executive Director of Finance stated that public Board enclosures display the check number, vendor number, payee name, and payment amount, but they do not contain explicit details regarding the specific purpose of the reimbursement.

22. The Executive Director of Finance also stated the special education and finance departments held internal discussions regarding the Parent's reimbursement request and focused entirely on ensuring the Student's name was excluded from all entry points in the accounting system. They stated the LEA believed it was fulfilling the necessary confidentiality requirements by omitting the Student's name and utilizing a vague description such as "reimbursement for services." The Executive Director of Finance indicated the finance department did not know the Parent desired their own name to be withheld from the public Board documents, as personnel operated under the assumption that the privacy protections applied strictly to the Student's identity. While the Executive Director of Finance recalled noting in an early email that an alternative process would be required if the Parent's name needed to be withheld, they stated, "Nobody ever took us up on that," leading the LEA to publish the Parent's name in the initial Board documents without a modified manual override.

23. The Executive Director of Finance and the Executive Director of Special Education explained that on the morning of the May 11, 2026 Board meeting, the LEA received an inquiry from the Parent objecting to the public inclusion of their name. Because representatives from the finance department had not previously understood the request to extend to the Parent's name, they immediately removed the entire line item from the final May 11, 2026 Board checklisting to allow time to consult with legal counsel. After obtaining guidance from legal counsel, the LEA applied a manual override to the check listing for the subsequent Board meeting, replacing the Parent's actual name with the term "parent" on the public document while maintaining the Parent's name within the internal accounting system. The Executive Director of Finance noted that manually replacing a parent's name with "parent" on a special education Board enclosure was an unprecedented, unique action for the LEA. The Executive Director of Special Education added that the district employs personnel to review and redact confidential information prior to fulfilling public Kansas Open Records Act (KORA) requests.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD # 497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, obtained the Parent's consent prior to disclosing personally identifiable information in board meeting documents. K.A.R. 91-40-50; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.622, 99.3.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-50, "Education records" means any document or medium on which information directly related to one or more students is maintained by a participating agency in accordance with the law and amendments thereto. "Participating agency" means any educational agency or institution that collects, maintains, or uses personally identifiable student information to provide special education and related services to children with disabilities.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.622, parental consent must be obtained before personally identifiable information is disclosed to parties other than officials of participating agencies in accordance with the law, unless the information is contained in education records, and the disclosure is authorized without parental consent under 34 C.F.R. part 99. Except as provided in the law, parental consent is not required before personally identifiable information is released to officials of participating agencies for purposes of meeting a requirement of this part.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 99.3, directory information means information contained in an education record of a student that would not generally be considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if disclosed. Directory information includes, but is not limited to, the student's name; address; telephone listing; electronic mail address; photograph; date and place of birth; major field of study; grade level; enrollment status; dates of attendance; participation in officially recognized activities and sports; weight and height of members of athletic teams; degrees, honors, and awards received; and the most recent educational agency or institution attended.

Directory information does not include a student's Social Security number or student identification (ID) number, except as provided in this definition. In accordance with this definition, directory information includes a student ID number, user ID, or other unique personal identifier used by a student for purposes of accessing or communicating in electronic systems, but only if the identifier cannot be used to gain access to education records except when used in conjunction with one or more factors that authenticate the user's identity, such as a personal identification number (PIN), password, or other factor known or possessed only by the authorized user; and a student ID number or other unique personal identifier that is displayed on a student ID badge, but only if the identifier cannot be used to gain access to education records except when used in conjunction with one or more factors that authenticate the user's identity, such as a PIN, password, or other factor known or possessed only by the authorized user.

Personally identifiable information includes, but is not limited to, the student's name, the name of the student's parent or other family members, the address of the student or student's family, a personal identifier, such as the student's social security number, student number, or biometric record. Other indirect identifiers, such as the student's date of birth, place of birth, and mother's maiden name, other information that, alone or in combination, is linked or linkable to a specific student that would allow a reasonable person in the school community, who does not have personal knowledge of the relevant circumstances, to identify the student with reasonable certainty, or information requested by a person who the educational agency or institution reasonably believes knows the identity of the student to whom the education record relates.

Disclosure means to permit access to or the release, transfer, or other communication of personally identifiable information contained in education records by any means, including oral, written, or electronic means, to any party except the party identified as the party that provided or created the record.

Education records are records that are directly related to a student and maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution. The term does not include records that are kept in the sole possession of the maker, are used only as a personal memory aid, and are not accessible or revealed to any other person except a temporary substitute for the maker of the record, records of the law enforcement unit of an educational agency or institution, subject to the provisions of the law.

Record means any information recorded in any way, including, but not limited to, handwriting, print, computer media, video or audio tape, film, microfilm, and microfiche. Student means any individual who is or has been in attendance at an educational agency or institution and regarding whom the agency or institution maintains education records.

The Parent alleged the LEA used their personally identifiable information in public board agenda documents.

The LEA contends that no confidential student information was disclosed, as the documents only included the Parent's name and a payment amount, not the Student's name or reason for payment.

Under K.A.R. 91-40-50, "education records" are defined as documents or media directly related to one or more students maintained by an agency to provide special education and related services. In this case, the document in question was a standard district Fund ID Summary and Check Register used for accounts payable. This ledger is an administrative financial record required for public accountability, board approval, and municipal transparency. The entry disclosed only the Parent's name, a vendor number, a check number, and a dollar amount ($240). It contained no reference to the Student's name, disability, special education services, tutoring, or the due process case. Therefore, the ledger itself does not inherently constitute an "education record" under the IDEA or the FERPA.

To establish a violation of confidentiality under 34 C.F.R. § 99.3, the disclosed information must be linkable to a specific student in a way that:

> "... would allow a reasonable person in the school community, who does not have personal knowledge of the relevant circumstances, to identify the student with reasonable certainty."

The Parent contended that an outside entity could connect their name to the confidential due process case by cross-referencing the $240 payment (broken down into $80 increments) with the anonymized public due process text on the KSDE website. This claim, however, does not meet the regulatory criteria. The LEA's public check registers regularly included numerous individual names as part of normal operations – more than 40 named individuals were listed on the April 13, 2026 register, and more than 30 on May 11, 2026. Furthermore, a member of the public looking at a generic payee line item would have no reason to suspect the payment was related to special education. For an outside observer to make the connection, they would need specific, personal knowledge of the family's private circumstances, the tutor's hourly rate ($80), and the family's legal history. Because a reasonable person lacking personal knowledge could not identify the Student with reasonable certainty from the face of the check register, the publication does not meet the legal threshold for linkable PII.

Finally, while the Parent proactively requested that payments be shielded to prevent the Student from being identified, the LEA's finance and special education departments actively collaborated to ensure the Student's identity was completely suppressed across all accounting data entry points. Additionally, the January 26, 2026, due process report was silent regarding modifications to standard parental payee reporting. Therefore, LEA personnel operated under the reasonable assumption that standard privacy protections applied to the Student's identity, not to the standard administrative logging of adult vendors receiving public funds. However, once the LEA realized on May 11, 2026, that the Parent desired their own name to be withheld, the LEA pulled the item from the public agenda within two hours of the official Board meeting, thereby preventing any formal public Board action on an unredacted document.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA disclosed PII without the Parent's consent.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has not substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations.

Tania Tong, Licensed Complaint Investigator

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 497
Lawrence Public Schools: 26FC497-005

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on May, 14, 2026, by a parent on behalf of her child. In the remainder of this decision, the complainant will be referred to as "the parent," and the child will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on June 11, 2026. That Complaint Report concluded that there was not a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the parent filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the parent's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report identified one issue:

Issue One

> Whether USD #497, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), obtained the Parent's consent prior to disclosing personally identifiable information in board meeting documents.

The Complaint is based on a due process hearing decision requiring reimbursement of speech services by the school district. (Report, p. 3).

The Appeal Committee reviewed the decision in the due process hearing and noted that the conclusion required reimbursement of the costs for compensatory services.

The issue in this complaint is whether the method used to reimburse the parent constituted a violation of the consent requirement in 34 C.F.R. 300.622. That regulation is a bit complicated. It says:

> (a) Parental consent must be obtained before personally identifiable information is disclosed to parties, other than officials of participating agencies in accordance with paragraph (b)(1) of this section, unless the information is contained in education records, and the disclosure is authorized without parental consent under 34 CFR part 99. (Emphasis added).

This is a unique provision. What it means is that consent must be obtained before disclosing any personally identifiable information of any kind that is collected, maintained or used for special education purposes unless that information is in education records. Then, in that situation, consent is required but FERPA exceptions will apply.

These same special education regulations define the term "personally identifiable information," in pertinent part, in 34 C.F.R. 300.32 as follows:

Personally identifiable information means information that contains--(a) The name of the child, the child's parent, or other family member; (Emphasis added)

Accordingly, unless the information is in an education record, consent must be obtained before disclosing the name of the child or the name of the parent in any information that has been collected, maintained or used for special education purposes. Thus, if the information related to this complaint is not in an education record, and was used for any special education purpose (and it clearly was) the analysis would be over. The public disclosure of the parent's name as a payee to reimburse the cost of related services would require consent.

However, we believe this information was in an education record. The term "education records" is defined in the special education regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.611(b), as follows:

> Education records means the type of records covered under the definition of "education records" in 34 CFR part 99 (the regulations implementing the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act of 1974, 20 U.S.C. 1232g (FERPA)).

So, we look at the FERPA definition of the term "education record," which appears in the FERPA regulations at 34 C.F.R. 99.3, as follows:

> Education records. (a) The term means those records that are:
> (1) Directly related to a student; and
> (2) Maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution.

Directly related means the record includes personally identifiable information, including the name of the student or the name of the student's parent or other family members (34 C.F.R. 99.3). Emphasis added.

Putting all this together, the disclosure of a parent's name in any record of any kind that is collected, maintained or used for special education purposes requires parent consent, unless the information is contained in education records and the disclosure is authorized without parent consent under FERPA. The Appeal Committee could find no FERPA exception that applies to the facts in this complaint.

A brief summary of the facts in this complaint are as follows:

On March 27, 2026, the Parent emailed the district's Executive Director of Finance regarding reimbursement for the Student's speech therapy services and wrote, "We request that payments made to us be done in a way to shield our public identity preventing [the Student] from being identified as the student in this due process case. We are aware that generally all district payments are made public as part of the standard Board process and would like to continue to protect [the Student's] confidentiality." Report, Finding 3, p 3-4.

On April 20, 2026, the Parent emailed the LEA regarding additional receipts for reimbursement and again reminded them to protect the Student from being identified. (Finding 6, p. 5).

At some point prior to the May 11, 2026 Board meeting, the board publicly posted its agenda for that May 11, 2026 Board Meeting. That agenda included information under the title: "Fund ID Summary and Check Register." That information listed check number 00101194, with the Parent's name, dated April 22, 2026 for the amount of $240. (Finding 9, p. 5). On May 9 the parent took a screen shot of that information and submitted it with this complaint. (Report, Finding 9, p. 5).

This public posting, referred to above, contained personally identifiable information (the parent's name) in a record that was maintained by the district (and so in an education record) without parent consent and without a FERPA exception.

The district acted quickly to the parent's subsequent request to remove the information from public view. Even so, for a brief time the information was available to the public. An aggravating factor in this scenario is that the parent had alerted district officials that her name was not to appear in any information accessible to the public but the information was made public anyway. It was only due to the diligence of the parent that the information was discovered on the publicly available board agenda and eventually removed.

For the reasons provided herein, the Appeal Committee reverses the decision in the complaint report and concludes that a violation of special education regulations has occurred. Specifically, by publicly disclosing confidential information (name of the student's parent) that is contained in education records without the requisite parent consent, the district has failed to comply with the confidentiality requirements of 34 C.F.R. 300.622.

Because the Appeal Committee finds a violation of the IDEA consent requirements occurred, it finds no need to consider the additional consent requirement regarding personally identifiable information that is "linked or linkable" to a specific student under FERPA regulations at 34 C.F.R. 99.3(f).

Corrective Action

In her appeal, the parent requested that corrective action include thirteen separate actions. The Appeal Committee does not believe all thirteen are necessary to resolve this complaint, but does require the school district to take the following actions requested by the parent:

1. Public-record cleanup. USD #497 shall remove or redact the Parent's name, vendor number, check number, and any other identifying or stable linkable identifier from all previous public Board materials, BoardDocs postings, check registers, voucher lists, downloadable files, archives, and related postings connected to the Student's due-process reimbursement or compensatory education services (confirm with KSDE by September 18, 2026).
2. Future public listings. USD #497 shall use a non-identifying label such as "Parent," "Confidential Parent Reimbursement," or a confidential vendor code or other appropriate label in any public Board materials connected to the Student's due-process remedy (confirm with KSDE by August 14, 2026).
3. Vendor number protection. USD #497 shall not publicly display the same vendor number that was previously tied to the Parent's name, or any replacement identifier that can be linked back to the Parent (confirm with KSDE by August 14, 2026).
4. Invoice confidentiality. Any provider invoices containing the Student's name, client name, family name, service type, service dates, disability-related services, or other identifying information shall be treated as confidential student-related records and shall not be publicly posted or produced in response to KORA without a FERPA/IDEA and KORA exception review and appropriate redaction (confirm with KSDE by August 7, 2026).

5. Written assurance. USD #497 shall provide written assurance to KSDE that future payments connected to the due-process order will not publicly identify the Parent, family, or Student. (Confirm by August 7, 2026)
6. Pre-publication notice. Before publicly posting any Board payment material connected to the Student's due-process reimbursement or compensatory education services, USD #497 shall provide advance written notice to the Parent and identify the exact public payee label, vendor identifier, check number, and amount that will appear. If any proposed public entry could identify the Parent, family, or Student, USD #497 shall offer a lawful non-identifying alternative, including direct provider billing, a non-identifying public payee label, a confidential vendor code, or another confidential payment method (confirm with KSDE by September 18, 2026).
7. KORA review. USD #497 shall review any KORA request involving these reimbursement records, provider invoices, payment records, or related documents for FERPA/IDEA confidentiality and KORA exceptions before release and redact all parent/family/student identifiers and stable linkable identifiers unless a lawful exception applies (confirm with KSDE by August 14, 2026).
8. Procedure. USD #497 shall adopt a written procedure for payments related to due-process orders consistent with this appeal decision (confirm with KSDE by September 18, 2026, along with a copy of the written procedure).
9. Training. USD #497 shall provide training for the board finance office and special education administrative staff on FERPA and IDEA confidentiality requirements related to duties, and handling of special-education reimbursement and provider-billing records (by November 30, 2026).

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is reversed and corrective action is required.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 9th day of July, 2026.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #454
ON MAY 14, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 17, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, ------- by their parent, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #454 Burlingame Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #454.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 14, 2026, and the 30-day timeline ended on June 13, 2026.

Allegations

The following issue will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #454, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), obtained parental consent prior to instructing the Student to disclose their disabilities to their classmates. K.A.R. 91-40-50(a); 34 CFR §§ 300.622(a)(b)(1); 99.3.

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Student on May 20, 2026 and the Parent on June 4, 2026. The following LEA staff were also interviewed on June 4, 2026: the Principal, the Superintendent, and the Counselor.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the Investigation:

1. District Response to this Complaint, 05/20/26

Background Information

This Investigation involved a middle school student in USD #454. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. In the Student's March 3, 2026 Individualized Education Plan (IEP), the exceptionality was listed as "Autism (Primary)" and "Other Health Impairment" (OHI). The IEP indicated the Student had an Individualized Health Care Plan and a diagnosis of Type 1 Diabetes (T1D) Mellitus in January of 2016. The IEP included related services in social work and with a school nurse, along with goals in the areas of math and "social/emotional/adaptive skills."
2. In an undated written statement from the Student, they wrote, "[The Principal] showed up in Advisory and asked me what I had and I said that I had [Attention-Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder] ADHD and Autism, but then [the Principal] asked me about what I had medically[,] which was Type 1 Diabetes and [the Principal] used me and my insident [sic] with the kids as a way to make my class be nice to each other. After that[,] as I was packing up [the Principal] caught me and said that he was thankful that I stood up for myself when I didn't[,] and [the Principal] dilibaretly

[sic] put me in the spotlight, and so I didn't say anything I was going to regret[.] I agreed while swallowing my anger and frustration I had towards [the Principal]."

3. In an additional undated written statement from the Student, the Student wrote that the Principal "asked about my medical equipment" and turned the situation into "a big deal that in my [eyes] didn't need to be [made] such a bigger deal." The Student expressed how "LIVID" they were and explained the follow-up conversation with the Principal was when they "went back to my stuff from my locker since we were heading to the caftirea [sic]." The Student added their desire to "hit" the Principal with their backpack, "punch" the Principal in the face, "slap" the Principal "across the face," and "kick" the Principal "in the balls." They noted they were "extremely angry." The Student indicated the Principal was using them "as a way to make my classmates be nice to each other."
4. In a March 5, 2026 email to the Principal, the Parent was "reaching out" for "blanks that need to be filled in" regarding the Student reporting they had staples thrown at them in Science class, along with comments about the Student's T1D, and that the Principal "came in at advisory and 'made a spectacle' of [the Student]."
    a. The Principal replied the same day and stated, "I did go into advisory and talked to them about how they treat each other, and that this behavior was unacceptable and would stop moving forward. While [the Student] was definitely mentioned, a spectacle it was not. The majority of the conversation was about [the whole class], and the things they say and do to each other. [The Student] was given the opportunity to talk about [them]self, to defend [them]self, and to state that [they do] not like the negative attention. At the end of the day[,] I found [the Student] and thanked [them] for standing up for [them]self, and that I appreciated [them] being strong when students have used the fact that [they have] T1D as joke material."
5. In a written statement from the Educational Cooperative Assistant Director, they described a conversation with the Parent on March 27, 2026 in which the Parent recounted the March 5, 2026 event. They wrote "[The Student] was asked by [the Principal] to share information with the class about [their] disability. [The Parent] said that [the Student] thought [the Principal] was referring to [their] ADHD and Autism so [the Student] shared this information with the class. [The Parent] stated that [the Principal] prompted [the Student] to talk about [their] Type 1 Diabetes, not these other disabilities."
6. In a timeline created by the Parent, the March 27, 2026 entry indicated the Superintendent would look into the allegations made about March 5, 2026 and would contact both Advisory Teachers. The Parent noted the Superintendent asked to speak with the Student about the March 5, 2026 advisory class and the Parent told them they were "fine with it." The Parent spoke with the Educational Cooperative Assistant Director on the same day, who was "unaware of any instances [of bullying] this year." The Parent wrote that the Student asked an employee of the Educational Cooperative "to not say anything about what had happened to the administration as [the Student] knew I was quite livid about what had transpired."

7. In a timeline created by the Parent, the March 30, 2026 entry was a recollection of the Parent's conversation with the Principal on that day. "[The Principal] said that [they] had heard about the students harassing [the Student] in Science class and that [the Principal] headed down to advisory to 'speak with them.' [The Principal] said that [they] 'assumed' everyone in the class was aware of [the Student's] T1D and that it was okay for [the Principal] to speak freely about it. I told [the Principal] that it was obviously uninformed consent as [the Student] didn't even know which 'thing' [the Principal] was talking about when [they] told [the Student] to tell the [class] about [the Student's] disability; that [the Principal] had to prompt [the Student] to say [their] T1D after [the Student] disclosed [their] ADHD and Autism, both of which [the Student's] classmates were not aware of. … [The Principal] repeatedly told me that [they] had given [the Student] the choice to 'stand up for [them]self' and that it was [the Student's] choice to tell them about [their] disabilities." The Parent pointed out the Student did not know they had the option to tell the Principal no and the Student "takes things very literally" due to their autism.

8. In a timeline created by the Parent, the April 1, 2026 entry explained the meeting that day with the Superintendent, the Parent, and the Student. The Parent noted they "had to help rephrase questions so that [the Student] could better understand what the Superintendent was asking." The Parent additionally noted the Superintendent reporting to them that Advisory Teacher 2 noticed the Student's "discomfort about the [March 5, 2026] situation." The Parent wrote, "I did discern from [the Student] that while [they were] not made to stand in front of the class, that [the Principal] did have [the Student] talk about [their] disabilities, while seated, to the class." The Parent reiterated the Student did not see it as an opportunity to defend themself, rather, the Student "felt that [they were] being told to by the adult."

9. In an April 23, 2026 email to the Parent, the Superintendent offered a check-in regarding their meeting and informed the Parent that the Counselor was willing to meet with the Student, as was offered in an April 10, 2026 email to the Parent.
    a. In a May 18, 2026 reply, the Parent indicated the Student would "prefer to stay in Advisory and not be further singled out" by going to their art class during that time, which was suggested by the Superintendent. The Parent also inquired as to whether or not the Principal had "apologized for what [they] had done."
    b. The Superintendent replied May 19, 2026 and indicated the Principal had not spoken with the Student because "I thought you had said that [the Student] was not comfortable talking to [the Principal] as of yet. I would be happy to schedule something- just let me know."

10. In May 19, 2026 documentation by the Principal, they explained the reason they visited the Advisory class that day was because earlier during Science class, students were "throwing paperclips" at the Student and "casually using the phrase 'type 1' when [the Student] was present." They indicated this was "important" because the Student was diabetic "and this is known by all of [their] classmates." They stated that when they went into the Advisory class, their "intention was to bring awareness to their behavior and discuss respect and appropriate behavior at school towards their peers." The Principal wrote, "The class … openly stated that they had been throwing them at [the Student]. I cannot recall how I phrased it, whether I asked the class as a whole, or if I asked [the Student] directly, but I wanted to know who had been throwing them. [The Student] pointed at one or two specific students who had thrown paperclips at [them]. I mentioned to the group that it was reported that they were also casually using the phrase "type 1" in [the Student's] presence. At this point, I asked [the Student] if [they] would mind telling [their] peers why that was uncomfortable for [them]. [The Student] did not hesitate to respond and further discussed that [they are] a diabetic. I do not recall, and did not even in the days following, if [the Student] discussed anything else. [The Student] did this at [their] desk, and was not asked to go to the front of the room. … My intention was to solely address the paperclips and use of the phrase 'type 1.' However, when [the Student] responded to the discussion, I allowed [them] to speak voluntarily without interruption, but did not force [them] to, or require [them] to divulge any other information[,] as we were only discussing paperclips and use of the phrase 'type 1.'"

a. The Principal indicated they did not get parental consent prior to their action because they did not go into the classroom "to disclose any new information. My understanding was that [the Student's] diabetes management needs were already commonly observable within the school setting," "the students received previous training and information on [the Student's] condition," and the School Nurse and the Student routinely check in on the Student's health and blood sugar "in the presence of other students."

b. The Principal reiterated their intention and stated, "I believed an immediate conversation with the group was the most effective way to address the behavior at that time. In retrospect, I understand there may be concerns regarding discussing the matter in a group setting, and I recognize the importance of balancing timely intervention with student privacy considerations."

11. In May 19, 2026 documentation by the Superintendent, they explained the Student's classmates were taught about T1D in the fourth grade, "so that [the Student's] classmates would have a better understanding of the disease and the need for [the Student] to have interventions during the school day. … The parents approve of treatment in front of [the Student's] peers and continue to approve of it even after this situation." The Superintendent noted they would not ask for permission from the Parent to "treat" the Student in front of their peers, as the Parent has "been very supportive of allowing [the Student] to be treated publicly."

The Superintendent claimed "none of the three adults in the room can confirm that [the Student] spoke of [their] diagnoses: ADHD and Autism."

a. The Superintendent noted they met with the Student, with the Parent present, and the Parent "continuously interrupted my questioning as well as [the Student's] responses in an effort to redirect or have [the Student] rephrase [their] responses to me." The Superintendent also noted they had created a plan of support for the Student moving forward.

12. In May 21, 2026 documentation by Advisory Teacher 1, they explained their perspective of what happened in class on March 5, 2026. "[The Principal] started to talk to them about their behavior as a class and how they had been treating each other. [The Principal] mentioned that they had been throwing staples at each other and that that needed to stop. [They] also talked to the class about working on their building respect for each other in the way that they talk to each other and treat each other. [The Principal] asked [the Student] if [they] would add something to the conversation about what [they were] dealing with. … [The Student] stood up and was on the east side of the classroom near where [they were] sitting at a counter chair. [The Student] then explained the various conditions that [the Student] experiences including type 1 diabetes. [The Principal] mentioned that students have been walking by [the Student] saying "type 1" as they passed [them], and how this was totally unacceptable and not something that we would allow in our school. [The Principal] challenged them to do better as a class and to treat each other with more respect, kindness, and understanding."

13. In May 26, 2026 documentation by Advisory Teacher 2, they explained their perspective of what happened in class on March 5, 2026. "[The Principal] was wanting to talk to the [students] about their behaviors and how it can create a positive environment or a negative one. … As [the Principal] was talking, [they] asked [the Student] if [they] wanted to share part of [their] story. [The Student] did not and was not really interested in talking. At the time I suspected that [the Principal] was hinting at [the Student] being a diabetic. I did not know for sure that [the Student] was diabetic[,] but I suspected it in seeing the special ed[ucation] teacher come in and check [the Student's] phone with [the Student] and sometimes take [them] to get a snack. [The Student] is not on my roster so [their] medical information was not shared with me. … [The Principal] did not seem to push the issue and wanted the entire group to think about the type of climate they were choosing to create and to redirect them to a different place. I remember being impressed with how [the Principal] handled and managed the group."

14. On May 13, 2026, the Parent filed this Complaint.

Student Interview

15. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator and the Parent present, the Student described the exchange on March 5, 2026. They recalled "[The Principal] asked me, '[W]hat do you have?' … I thought about the most recent ones[,] Autism and ADHD.

But then [the Principal] didn't want any of that. And then I told [the Principal] that I had type 1 diabetes. And then [the Principal] told the class because they were bullying because they were making fun of type one because they were repeating it in class." The Student stated, "[The Principal] wanted me to talk about what I had, about my disabilities." They shared, "[The Principal] just came in and told me to talk about [the disabilities]. [They] didn't even come up to talk to me about them." The Student said, "I felt angry, more like beyond frustrated, livid." Throughout the interview, both the Student and the Parent characterized the Principal as "making" the Student discuss their disabilities during the exchange.

16. The Student confirmed the exchange happened during their advisory period. They could not recall an exact date. The Student stated no part of the exchange was private. The Student acknowledged their class had been aware of their diabetes the entire time they were enrolled at the School.
17. Regarding whether they disclosed their ADHD and autism during the exchange, the Student reported they stated they had ADHD and autism, but did not discuss those diagnoses. They only discussed their diabetes.
18. The Student stated they usually ignored their peers saying "type one" because their classmates were "morons" who "say it randomly."
19. During the interview, the Parent stated the Principal admitted to the exchange, explaining, "[The Principal] thought that it was okay because everybody should know that [the Student] has type one. I told [the Principal] ... just because that's an outward disability doesn't mean that's something that you single someone out for, especially if they're being bullied about it. ... [The Principal] didn't ask [the Student] ahead of time. [The Principal] didn't ask me if [they] could." The Parent reported, "at one point the [P]rincipal called me. [They] never apologized for what [they] had done. [The Principal] told me that our perspective was skewed."
20. The Parent shared the Student had been continually bullied by a particular student, and that was the reason the Student disliked attention. The Parent stated the exchange on March 5, 2026, "put a spotlight on [the Student]." They expressed, "why would you tell someone that is being bullied and has been bullied to talk about what they're bullying you about when they already know what they're bullying?" The Parent stated, "I don't think that [the Student] having ADHD, autism, or type one should have been brought up at all. None of those should have been covered. It should have been the bullying [that] needs to stop." The Parent reported they discussed the ongoing bullying and the exchange on March 5, 2026 with the Superintendent, and the Superintendent indicated they would conduct an investigation.

Parent Interview

21. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent shared their understanding of the exchange on March 5, 2026. The Parent believed the Principal wanted the Student's peers to stop bullying them about their type one diabetes, and thought the solution was to have the Student explain how the bullying made them feel. According to the Parent, the Principal said, "I wanted [the Student] to be able to stand up for [themself]." They believed the Student disclosed their ADHD and autism during the exchange. The Parent stated the Student reported to them they were "sitting at the table and … didn't want to talk about it."

22. The Parent stated, "I've been told … the Principal's intentions were good. [The Principal] thought [they] [were] helping give [the Student] a platform to defend [themself] against these bullies. … Certainly you don't make a child that's bullied regularly disclose their disabilities. [The Principal] didn't ask [the Student]. [The Principal] didn't ask me. There was no preface on any of this."
23. The Parent acknowledged the Student's class had been aware of the Student's diabetes for several years. They asserted, "just because everybody knows [the Student] has it doesn't mean that that should have been aired."
24. The Parent reported one specific student had a history of bullying the Student, and continued bullying them after the March 5, 2026 exchange. The Parent shared they discussed this with the Superintendent.
25. Regarding impact, the Parent shared, "I see the negativity, I see the hurt and I see [the Student] … pulling away … from wanting to deal with the School. … [The Student] enjoys being social. So for [them] to have pulled away socially from those classmates tells me the extent of the bullying." They expressed, "I feel very let down."

Principal Interview

26. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal stated they were "a highly visible principal." They saw the Student every day, and prior to the exchange in question, had a normal principal/student relationship with them. They reported "nothing significant" happened between themself and the Student prior to March 5, 2026.
27. Regarding the exchange on March 5, 2026, the Principal reported another student had alerted them classmates were throwing staples at the Student. They explained they waited until the advisory period at the end of the day because they knew the entire class would be together. The Principal stated they asked the teachers for permission to address the class, saying, "my intention was just to bring awareness to their behavior and discuss respect and appropriate behavior." The Principal reported the Student pointed out specific classmates and the classmates admitted throwing staples at the Student.
28. Regarding discussing the Student's disabilities, the Principal recalled being informed classmates were saying "type one" around the Student. They shared, "I asked [the Student] if [they] [were] comfortable telling [their] peers why this was uncomfortable for [the Student] and that's when [the Student] responded and talked about the fact that [they] had type one diabetes and why it was hurting [their] feelings." The Principal reported the Student stayed at their seat and described how the classmates' behavior hurt their feelings. The Principal said the exchange lasted less than five minutes and they stayed at the front of the room for the entire exchange. The Principal explained, "It's confidential, yes, but it is known by [the Student's] group. … I knew that [the] entire class knew that [the Student] was diabetic and that was the reason they were picking on [the Student]. … I wouldn't have gone in there … if I knew that the class did not know that." The Principal did not mention the Student disclosing their ADHD or autism.

29. After March 5, 2026, the Principal shared, "I felt like there was some tension" regarding their relationship with the Student. They described the Student as "hesitant to provide greetings if I were to say hello." The Principal reported, "I knew just from the comments made by [the Parent] that [the Student] was told to basically not have contact with me or [the Superintendent] unless [the Parent] was present." They shared they respected the request and continued to generally support the Student at a distance.

30. The Principal reported, "It was pretty rare for [the Student] to come to me, or a school counselor, or [their] IEP case manager to state [bullying] [was] happening. [The Student] usually kept [the bullying] to [themself] and they would go home and tell [the Parent] and then [the Parent] would reach out to us."

31. The Principal acknowledged the Student's peers had known for quite awhile about the Student's diabetes. They confirmed an educational presentation about diabetes for the class happened in the past.

32. The Principal described the relationship between the peers in the Student's class as "sibling-like." They reported the bullying is "not as pervasive as [the Parent] is insinuating." The Principal believed since March 5, 2026, "things got better." They stated there had been no new reports from the Student or their peers about classmates bullying the Student.

Superintendent Interview

33. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Superintendent shared their understanding of the incident. They knew classmates were throwing staples at the Student and "using the phrase 'type one' … as often as they could. They would infuse it into any kind of conversation that they could." The Superintendent was aware the Principal had received reports about the students' behavior. Since the entire class was together for the advisory period, the Superintendent believed the Principal "wanted to address the concern." They reported they were not present for the exchange. From their subsequent internal investigation, the Superintendent did not believe the Student disclosed their ADHD and autism.

34. The Superintendent stated since the LEA was small, the Student had been with the same peers for several years, and their whole class knew about their diabetes. The Superintendent recalled the School Nurse developing an educational presentation for the Student's class explaining diabetes, in or around fourth grade. They reported the School Nurse checked the Student's sugar level everyday at lunch, and staff would often give the Student snacks throughout the day in front of peers. The Superintendent said, "I feel like for years we've addressed it."

35. The Superintendent indicated they asked the Parent if the Parent wanted the School to stop publicly giving the Student snacks or checking their sugar levels, and reported the Parent was "fine with all of that."
36. Regarding resolving the concerns about the Principal asking the Student to share private medical information, the Superintendent indicated they attempted to have multiple meetings about the incident with the Parent and stated, "I had trouble getting [the Parent] to respond to me."
37. The Superintendent shared, "I know that this parent is concerned about bullying and I don't think there was mal intent, or I don't believe that [the Principal] went in there to disclose anything that the students didn't already know." They further stated, "I think that [the Principal] was doing [their] very best to try to resolve the situation and I think it just took a turn that [they] didn't intend for it to take. I don't think [the Principal] ever intended for [the Student] to disclose anything."
38. Regarding the Student, the Superintendent shared, "I do worry about the authenticity of the report. [The Parent] had [the Student] draw about it. [The Parent] had [the Student] write it one time. [The Parent] had [the Student] rewrite it."

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #454, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, obtained parental consent prior to instructing the Student to disclose their disabilities to their classmates. K.A.R. 91-40-50(a); 34 C.F.R. §§300.622(a)(b)(1); 99.3.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-50(a), as used in this regulation, the following terms shall have the meanings specified in this subsection: "Education records" means any document or medium on which information directly related to one or more students is maintained by a participating agency in accordance with K.S.A. 72-6214 and amendments thereto. "Participating agency" means any educational agency or institution that collects, maintains, or uses personally identifiable student information to provide special education and related services to children with disabilities.

According to 34 C.F.R. §300.622(a)(b)(1), parental consent must be obtained before personally identifiable information is disclosed to parties, unless the information is contained in education records, and the disclosure is authorized without parental consent under 34 CFR part 99. Parental consent is not required before personally identifiable information is released to officials of participating agencies for purposes of meeting a requirement of this part.

According to 34 C.F.R. §99.3, directory information means information contained in an education record of a student that would not generally be considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if disclosed. Directory information includes, but is not limited to: the student's name; address; telephone listing; electronic mail address; photograph; date and place of birth; major field of study; grade level; enrollment status; dates of attendance; participation in officially recognized activities and sports; weight and height of members of athletic teams; degrees, honors, and awards received; and the most recent educational agency or institution attended. Directory information does not include a student's social security number or student identification number. Directory information includes a student ID number, user ID, or other unique personal identifier used by a student for purposes of accessing or communicating in electronic systems, but only if the identifier cannot be used to gain access to education records except when used in conjunction with one or more factors that authenticate the user's identity, such as a personal identification number (PIN), password or other factor known or possessed only by the authorized user; and a student ID number or other unique personal identifier that is displayed on a student ID badge, but only if the identifier cannot be used to gain access to education records except when used in conjunction with one or more factors that authenticate the user's identity, such as a PIN, password, or other factor known or possessed only by the authorized user.

Disclosure means to permit access to or the release, transfer, or other communication of personally identifiable information contained in education records by any means, including oral, written, or electronic means, to any party except the party identified as the party that provided or created the record.

Education records are records that are directly related to a student and maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution. The term does not include records that are kept in the sole possession of the maker, are used only as a personal memory aid, and are not accessible or revealed to any other person except a temporary substitute for the maker of the record, records of the law enforcement unit of an educational agency or institution, subject to the provisions of §99.8.

Personally identifiable information includes, but is not limited to, the student's name, the name of the student's parent or other family members, the address of the student or student's family, a personal identifier, such as the student's social security number, student number, or biometric record. It also includes other indirect identifiers, such as the student's date of birth, place of birth, and mother's maiden name, other information that, alone or in combination, is linked or linkable to a specific student that would allow a reasonable person in the school community, who does not have personal knowledge of the relevant circumstances, to identify the student with reasonable certainty, or information requested by a person who the educational agency or institution reasonably believes knows the identity of the student to whom the education record relates.

Record means any information recorded in any way, including, but not limited to, handwriting, print, computer media, video or audio tape, film, microfilm, and microfiche. Student means any individual who is or has been in attendance at an educational agency or institution and regarding whom the agency or institution maintains education records.

The Parent alleged the Principal made the Student disclose their disabilities to their peers, in class, as a way to "educate [the Student's] peers as well as stand up for [themself]."

The LEA maintains the Principal's actions on March 5, 2026, did not constitute an unauthorized disclosure of protected information nor a mandate for the Student to reveal their disability. The interaction in the advisory class was a targeted disciplinary response to reports of peer-to-peer harassment, specifically, the physical act of throwing staples and the verbal use of the phrase "type 1" as a derogatory label.

On March 5, 2026, the Principal entered the advisory classroom to address an active, spontaneous disciplinary issue where classmates were using the phrase "type 1" in a way that targeted the Student. The Principal's subsequent intervention was an immediate, practical response to witnessed peer conflict, rather than a premeditated action based on a review or extraction of data from the Student's confidential IEP or Individualized Health Care Plan. Because the source of the Principal's knowledge was the ongoing classroom behavioral disruption itself, the conversation falls outside the scope of protected education records.

The statutory definition of a "disclosure" under 34 C.F.R. § 99.3 requires the educational agency or school official to release, transfer, or otherwise communicate the PII. The facts demonstrate the Principal did not announce, publish, or reveal the Student's diagnoses to the class. Instead, the Principal provided a platform for the Student to express their feelings, asking them to explain why the classmates' behavior was hurtful. The ultimate verbal execution and choice of what information to share, including the unsolicited mention of ADHD and autism, was carried out by the Student.

The specific medical condition targeted by the Principal, T1D, fails to meet the regulatory definition of PII within this specific environment. Information is only considered personally identifiable under 34 C.F.R. § 99.3 if it would allow a reasonable person in the school community, who lacks personal knowledge, to identify the student with reasonable certainty. Here, the Student's T1D was already a matter of absolute certainty and public daily observation within this specific peer group due to a previous class presentation, visible blood sugar checks, and public snack administrations. Because the classmates were already actively targeting this specific condition, the Principal's reference to it did not newly identify the Student or expose unrevealed data.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to obtain parental consent prior to instructing the Student to disclose their disabilities to their classmates. However, LEA officials are hereby cautioned that mandating or pressuring students to disclose confidential information—the direct disclosure of which would otherwise necessitate parental consent—may constitute non-compliance with the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

Corrective Action

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA violated regulations regarding confidentiality or PII.

Tania Tong, Licensed Complaint Investigator

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #408
ON MAY 26, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 23, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, ---------- by their parents, ----------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parents as "the Parents."

The Complaint is against USD #408, Marion Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #408.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 26, 2026 and the 30-day timeline ended on June 25, 2026.

Allegations

The following issue will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #408, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to ensure the IEP was in effect and implemented as written, specifically when the English Teacher refused to provide a mandated accommodation reducing independent assignment questions by up to 25% and denied an accommodation for additional time on an assignment during the 2025-26 school year. K.A.R. 91-40-16 (a)(b); 34 CFR § 300.323(a)(c)(d).

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parents on June 11, 2026. The following LEA staff were interviewed on June 11 and June 15, 2026: the Special Education Teacher, the Superintendent, the Principal, the Special Education Director, the Paraeducator, and the English Teacher.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parents and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. State Assessment Report, 2025-26 School Year
2. IEP Snapshot, 04/02/26
3. Accommodated Student Assignment, no date
4. Complaint form, no date
5. Complaint Investigation, 05/07/26
6. Complaint Response, 05/14/26
7. Individualized Education Plan Final, 03/12/26
8. Prior Written Notice, 03/12/26
9. Progress Report, 03/04/26, 05/29/26
10. Individualized Education Plan, 04/16/25
11. Learning Center Assessment, 11/18/25
12. Emails between parties, 11/18/25-05/07/26

Background Information

This Investigation involved a sixth-grade student enrolled at a middle school in USD #408. The Student received special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA. The Student qualifies for special education under the exceptionality of Specific Learning Disability (LD). The Student was diagnosed with dyslexia and dysgraphia, which hinder their ability to independently read and comprehend grade-level text and produce written work. The Student had multiple accommodations listed in their IEP. The School staff noted that the Student enjoys spending time with their friends and prefers group work in an academic setting. The Student followed classroom rules and listened to directions well. When the Student was engaged or questioned, the Student expressed their honest opinions about their special education services and supports.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parents and staff in the LEA.

1. An IEP dated April 16, 2025, with a handwritten note of "Final accepted" with initials of "CM" and "OG" indicated the following relevant portions:

    a. The Student's IEP team noted concerns that the English language arts (ELA) classroom pace was too fast for the Student and emphasized the need to build self-advocacy skills.

b. Parent concerns focused on the Student being quiet and potentially "falling through the cracks" by failing to speak up when help was needed.

c. The Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance section stated:

   i. Social-Emotional - The Student struggled to express emotions, often leaving feelings bottled up inside, separating from friends, and waiting for peers to engage first. Test anxiety was noted, creating a baseline need for fidgets, breaks, and alternative non-verbal communication methods (such as polling or thumbs up/down symbols) in large groups.

   ii. Reading - The Student utilized specialized instruction during multi-tiered system of supports (MTSS) to develop foundational phonics and fluency skills. Needs included pacing, directions repeated/clarified, extra time to complete assignments, scaffolding, sentence stems, and verbal prompts.

   iii. Written language - A writing baseline sample showed that when writing a paragraph about fashion, the Student generated five complete sentences with 71% accuracy in spelling, making errors primarily with vowel digraphs and letter omissions. Needs included extra time, additional adult support, graphic organizers, and chunking of assignments.

d. Annual goals were indicated as:

   i. Written Language – "By the end of the IEP, [the Student] will write a 5[-]sentence paragraph, over a topic of [their] choice, with 95% accuracy in capitalization, punctuation, and spelling, and including at least one noun, verb, and adjective in each sentence."

   ii. Reading – "By the next annual IEP, when given a grade-level reading passage fluency probe, [the Student] will be able to read 145 words per minute with 90% accuracy over three given trials."

e. Services for the fifth-grade term, April 16, 2025 through May 16, 2025:

   i. Pull-out services for 55 minutes per day, 5 days a week, for resource room mathematics.

   ii. Inclusion services for 110 minutes of daily paraeducator support, divided evenly between science/social studies (55 minutes) and reading/writing blocks (55 minutes).

f. Services for the sixth-grade term, August 13, 2025 through April 16, 2026:

   i. Pull-out services for 86 minutes per day, 5 days a week, split into 50 minutes for math and 36 minutes for a support class.

ii. Inclusion services for 250 minutes of special education staff support per week, distributed as 50 minutes each for reading, social sciences, science, 6th-grade skills/writing, and literature.

g. Effective for the full IEP term (April 16, 2025 to April 15, 2026), the following accommodations applied to all assignments and assessments across both general and special education settings:

i. Extended time of 1.5 times for all reading and writing assignments and assessments.

ii. Workload reduction allowed up to a 50% reduction in assignment length for all writing tasks and text-based questions.

iii. Dictation (speech-to-text) software for use on "all writing assignments that are more than 5 sentences in length."

h. Modifications for the full IEP term in the special education classroom indicated:

i. A shortened spelling list (no less than 25% and no more than 50%) for spelling assessments across all settings.

i. No assistive technology indicated.

j. Participation with non-disabled peers detailed a placement history that during 5th grade, the Student completed multiple "trials" and final reintegration into the general education room for reading and writing with accommodation support while remaining separated only for core math blocks.

k. The Student participated in District assessments with 1.5 extended time, in a separate/quiet location, and the use of math manipulatives

2. A Learning Center Assessment dated November 18, 2025 indicated the Student exhibited patterns of dyslexia and dysgraphia and was not performing at grade level. The report recommended systematic Academic Language Therapy using an approach for 60 minutes a day, three to five days per week. Additionally, the Assessor noted classroom accommodations would be necessary to help the Student overcome learning barriers and access grade-level curriculum. Consideration included the use of audiobooks, speech-to-text software, a scribe, and extended time for both tests and assignments.

3. In an email dated November 18, 2025 to Parent 1, the Agency Assessor provided a list of accommodations "that would best support [the Student] in reaching [their] academic potential."

4. In an email dated November 19, 2025 to Parent 1, the Special Education Teacher offered a meeting to "rework accommodations" and shared, "we have several in place."

5. In an email dated February 22, 2026 to the Principal, Parent 1 expressed concern regarding the Student being provided one-on-one "emotional support." They formally requested documentation and data demonstrating whether the Student's active IEP accommodations were ineffective. Additionally, they stated no modifications or adjustments were to be made to the Student's accommodations without clear data proving a need for change.

6. In an email dated February 23, 2026 to Parent 1, the Counselor clarified they had not been included in recent meetings or communications regarding the concerns raised by Parent 1. The Counselor explained one-to-one emotional support had not been provided to the Student because they were unaware that additional intervention had been requested. To address the Student's emotional needs moving forward, the Counselor proposed regular school check-ins, consulting the Special Education Teacher about a social work referral, and initiating a referral for outside counseling services.

7. An email exchange on February 23, 2026 indicated:

    a. The Principal requested documentation from the Student's teachers after Parent 1 requested proof the current accommodations were ineffective.

    b. The Special Education Teacher responded that they had no data indicating the accommodations were ineffective, adding the Student's classroom grades showed their IEP supports were helping them succeed. Additionally, they recommended continuing several supports, including a reduction of no less than 25% and no more than 50% for assignment lengths and extended time up to time and a half.

    c. The Social Studies Teacher noted the Student was graded based on their individual IEP accommodations rather than standard peer requirements and still required significant paraeducator support in all of their classes.

    d. The Principal responded, stating they would ask Parent 1 for clarification regarding the specific documentation requested.

8. In an email exchange on February 24, 2026 between Parent 1 and the Principal, the following was discussed:

    a. The Principal informed the Parent that a review of grades and teacher feedback indicated the Student's accommodations were "successfully supporting" the Student's academics. The Principal noted classroom teachers were grading the Student's assignments based on the Student's IEP rather than standard peer metrics. Additionally, they clarified that the District was actively processing paperwork to secure additional paraeducator support to assist the Student in the classroom.

b. Parent 1 responded and questioned an "F" grade entered by the English Teacher for a book report assignment. Parent 1 noted the Student had completed the report over the weekend, which was the Student's understanding of the timeline, and submitted it before school started. Parent 1 noted the entered grade caused the Student distress and anxiety regarding School attendance.

9. In an email exchange on February 27, 2026, the English Teacher informed the Principal the Student had requested a shortened test before an assessment, which the English Teacher reported felt like being put "on the spot." They expressed frustration, referring to the requirements stating the "50% of an assignment has to go" and argued that the Special Education Teacher should handle the accommodations. The Principal reviewed the IEP and confirmed the Student's accommodations were legally mandated up to a 50% reduction on both assignments and assessments in general education settings and provided a copy of the accommodation.

10. In an email exchange on March 2 and 3, 2026, the English Teacher emailed the Student's teachers, expressing frustration that the Student's testing accommodations were securing a higher grade rather than helping them learn the curriculum. The English Teacher reported they had reduced a recent science assessment from 50 to 30 questions after the Student directly asked if they were supposed to receive a shortened test. The Special Education Teacher responded by explaining an assessment reduction of up to 50% was necessary to increase equity and remove the learning barriers created by the Student's dyslexia and dysgraphia.

11. An IEP dated March 12, 2026, with a handwritten note of "Final OG," indicated:

a. The Student's primary exceptionality was listed as LD.

b. Staff concerns noted, "There has also been an expressed concern about the conditions of some of [the Student's] accommodations, particularly the 50% reduction of assignments and assessments."

c. Parent concerns included work avoidance, anxiety, motivation, effort, and accountability. The section indicated, "These concerns will be addressed through the services, accommodations, para[professional] support, and modifications outlined in the IEP, as well as through the general education services available to [the Student] through the [S]chool."

d. Present levels of academic and functional performance indicated:

i. Areas of need in social-emotional, reading, math, and written language. These areas were to be met through accommodations, modifications, assistive technology, supplementary aids and supports, and positive behavioral supports.

ii. The Student required scaffolding, specific IEP accommodations, and paraeducator support within core general education classes to complete reading and writing assignments. To address literacy and written language needs, the Student utilized accommodations such as audiobooks, speech-to-text software, graphic organizers, and sentence starters to comprehend texts and formulate structured responses. Finally, due to observed academic anxiety and a tendency toward a learned dependency on educators, the Student required targeted support to improve independent engagement, motivation, and self-advocacy.

e. Goals were indicated as:

i. Social Emotional -- "By the next annual IEP, given a daily planner and a scheduled teacher check-in time with an adult, [the Student] will write in [their] planner assignments, due dates, and progress for each core class 5 days a week."

ii. Reading -- "By the next annual IEP, when given a grade-level informational or literary text and access to audio-support or text-to-speech software, [the Student] will independently answer 4 out of 5 comprehension questions correctly or earn an 80% in accuracy (including identifying the main idea and supporting details) across 4 trials.

iii. Written language -- "By the next annual IEP, when given a grade-level prompt, graphic organizer, sentence starters, and a writing support checklist, [the Student] will independently produce a structured paragraph that includes a clear topic sentence, at least three supporting details, and a concluding sentence in 3 out of 4 trials."

f. Services with a start date of March 12, 2026 through March 11, 2027, provided 5 days a week, indicated:

i. General Education/Inclusion for 250 minutes: "[The Student] will receive 250 minutes of special education staff support in a general education setting, 5 days per week (50 min[utes] for English, 50 min[utes] for social sciences, 50 min[utes] for science, 50 min[utes] for health, and 50 min for grade-level electives) to help support with writing, organization, comprehension, and information processing."

g. Effective for the full IEP term, the following accommodations applied to all assignments and assessments across both general and special education settings:

   i. "Use of visuals & manipulatives including number lines, graphic organizers, graph paper, etc. For all district and state assessments. For math and ELA assignments and assessments[.]"

   ii. "[E]tended time 1.5x[.] For all assessments[.]"

   iii. "Text read aloud via screen reader, electronic reader, or audiobook[.] For all assessments. When the material is above [the Student's] independent reading level. The purpose is for [the Student] to access grade-level content. Until reading assigned text or questions are completed."

   iv. "Dictation (Speech-to-Text)[.] For all writing assignments, and when answering questions on worksheets or other assignments that require writing (excluding daily grammar practice and intentional handwriting practice)[.]"

   v. "[S]eperate/quiet [sic] location[,] for all assignments and assessments in the general education classroom, and to utilize [their] text-to-speech accommodation[.]"

   vi. "[G]raphic organizers, writing checklists, and chunking of larger task[s][.] [The Student] will have all multipart assignments and assessments in the general education classroom broken down and chunked into small parts, using graphic organizers or checklists to help guide the work and manage the workload[.]"

   vii. "Not grading for spelling or grammar errors[.] [The Student] will not be penalized for spelling or grammar errors if spelling and grammar are not the goal of the assignments or assessment, including when [the Student] is demonstrating comprehension of the material[.]

   viii. "Reduced [i]tem [l]oad for independent assignments and assessments, no more than 25% reduction. Decreasing the total number of questions in independent assignments and assessments while maintaining the focus on key concepts. The reduction shall be no more than 25%."

   ix. "[C]opy of notes/notes scribing[.] [The Student] will take notes along with the class, but will also be provided a copy of the notes by the teacher or [their] para-professional[.]"

h. Assistive technology for the term of the IEP and length of assignments and/or assessments stated the "use of a scribe pen" and "use of talk-to-text (dictation)" for multi-part writing assignments/assessments in the resource classroom, hallways, or other locations that were not near the Student's peers.

i. Participation with non-disabled peers stated the Student was educated in the general education classroom alongside non-disabled peers for the majority of the School day, utilizing special education services for a fifty-minute math period in a resource room setting. Despite ongoing concerns regarding anxiety and dependent behaviors, the Student successfully maintained adequate grades within the general education curriculum since transitioning to middle school. The team determined that these social-emotional challenges could be effectively supported through school counseling and outside therapy, ensuring the Student retained full access to all non-academic and extracurricular activities to the same extent as their peers.

j. The Student participated in district-wide assessments with extended time, a separate, quiet location, and math manipulatives.

12. March 12, 2026 PWN indicated:

a. The Student met the criteria for special education eligibility under the primary exceptionality of LD.

b. A material change in services was proposed, indicating an increase or decrease of 25% or more in the duration or frequency of a special education service, related service, or supplementary aid.

c. The team proposed other changes to the Student's IEP that did not directly involve modifications to services or placement.

d. The team proposed special education services to support the Student's academic deficits associated with medical diagnoses of dyslexia and dysgraphia. Approved services 250 minutes of staff support in the general education setting for English, Science, Social Studies, Health, and electives. Accommodations were authorized, including the use of visuals and manipulatives, extended time (1.5x), audio read-aloud tools, speech-to-text dictation, separate testing locations, chunked tasks, reduced assignment loads, and note-scribing assistance. General grading policies adjusted to ignore spelling or grammar errors when they were not the direct objective of the assignment.

e. The services and supports were proposed because the Student's reading and writing challenges, coupled with academic anxiety, required specialized intervention to achieve academic success.

f. The team rejected the option of withholding special education services entirely. The team also rejected an alternative option to increase resource room pull-out time for reading and writing, concluding that the selected general education placement with specialized supports was more appropriate.

g. The proposed adjustments were based on a review of parent, teacher, and staff input alongside historical general and special education records.

13. In an email thread dated April 20, 2026, to the Principal, the English Teacher shared the Paraeducator had taken the Student one-on-one for a science test and requested a shortened assessment, which the English Teacher confirmed they provided. The Teacher noted the Student's IEP specified the utilization of electronic text-to-speech assistive technology rather than a human reader. In response, the Principal thanked the English Teacher for maintaining alignment with the written IEP guidelines and stated they planned to meet with the Special Education Teacher to address how accommodations were being administered to ensure overall accountability.

14. In an email, dated April 23, 2026, to the Student and the Student's teachers, the Special Education Teacher provided an updated summary of active IEP accommodations to clarify implementation for the Student, the Student's teachers, and paraeducators. They specified the Student was entitled to 1.5 times extended time on all assignments and assessments that required reading and writing. Additionally, they noted the Student was permitted a reduced item load of up to 25% fewer questions on independent tests and assignments, emphasizing this reduction did not apply to non-independent tasks. Regarding literacy supports, the Special Education Teacher clarified that text-to-speech, screen readers, or audiobook accommodations were to be utilized for assessments and grade-level assignments when the material was above the Student's independent reading level.

15. In an email exchange on April 30, 2026 between the English Teacher and Parent 1, the following was discussed:

a. The English Teacher inquired about one of the Parent's opinion on the Student's ability to complete an assignment. They stated, "I'm struggling because others believe that I should reduce it for [the Student] by 25% and I just feel like this is something [the Student] can do." The email indicated an attachment of the assignment, and the English Teacher added they had sentence starters.

b. Parent 1 replied they thought the Student could complete the assignment.

c. The English Teacher responded and stated, "I'm fighting a battle here. … [The Student's] para[educator] keeps trying to get me to reduce it. … I feel like I'm fighting the para[educator] on this. … I feel [the Student] can handle this. [The Paraeducator] wants me to reduce the assignment. [The Student's] IEP isn't for a one[-]on[-]one para and I don't feel we are helping [the Student] by doing that." They added the Student could work on the assignment at home and provide four sentences per paragraph.

d. Later that day, Parent 1 replied and added, " … for now let's follow the 25% reduction in the IEP and encourage [the Student] to write more but not count it against [them]."

e. On the same day, the English Teacher forwarded the communication to the Principal and indicated they were going to call Parent 1 and express their "frustrations" regarding the one-on-one help from the Paraeducator.

f. In a separate email to Parent 1, the Special Education Teacher identified the writing assignment as an opportunity for the Student to practice writing skills and use accommodations. They noted that although the English Teacher provided classroom scaffolding, the Student was struggling to complete the task due to heightened academic anxiety. While they maintained the Student was capable of completing the full workload, the Special Education Teacher explained this heightened anxiety was blocking the Student's processing abilities. Furthermore, the Special Education Teacher recommended utilizing the Student's IEP accommodation for a workload reduction of up to 25%, modifying the requirement to three or four sentences per paragraph with the additional use of sentence starters.

g. Parent 1 replied they thought the Student could complete the assignment.

16. In a May 7, 2026 email to the Special Education Teacher, the English Teacher shared the Student struggled to understand grade-level text independently, even when read aloud. Additionally, the Student could not answer four out of five questions correctly with the accommodations in place. They highlighted the Student was unable to complete a recent writing task on their own, failing to work independently even when supplied with prompts, targeted questions, and sentence starters.

17. An undated Complaint Form indicated the Parents filed an LEA complaint alleging that, on April 30, 2026, the English Teacher failed to implement the IEP-mandated 25% assignment reduction. However, a May 7, 2026, Complaint report detailed the English Teacher's experience on April 30, 2026. The English Teacher shared they distributed the assignment, along with sentence starters, and the Paraeducator took the Student into the hallway and then asked for the 25% reduction of the assignment. They explained they informed the Paraeducator due to the assignment being personal, "[the Student] could do this," and they provided questions "to help [the Student] out." The English Teacher stated the Paraeducator continued to argue about the reduction, so they headed to the Special Education Teacher to discuss the assignment. [The Special Education Teacher] said it needs to be reduced but I felt like [the Student] could do the work." The outcome was a decision to reduce the number of sentences per paragraph from five to four. They shared the following day the assignment was completed.

18. In an Investigation Outcome Letter dated May 14, 2026, the Superintendent determined the English Teacher was required to strictly follow the Student's IEP as written whenever modifications or accommodations were requested. The Superintendent concluded that although assignment modifications were implemented following discussions and emails with Parent 1, the written IEP still had to be honored precisely when asked. Furthermore, the investigation findings clarified that the Student did not possess one-on-one Paraeducator support within their IEP, which meant the Student either had to stay in the general classroom with other supported peers or the classroom's services needed to be combined.

19. A May 29, 2026 Progress Report outlined the Student's relevant progress on IEP goals:

    a. Written Language: The Student initially demonstrated moderate improvement in October 2025, then maintained performance in December 2025, and achieved slight improvement by February 2026.

    b. Reading: The Student recorded a slight improvement during the fall of 2025, which then shifted to a consistent status of maintained performance in February and May 2026

    c. Social-Emotional: The Student achieved a moderate level of improvement in their social-emotional goal in May 2026.

20. A Narrative Writing-End of Year 6th Grade assignment, no date, indicated the following:

    a. Four to five sentences per paragraph.

    b. Prompts for three paragraphs.

    c. Sentence starter examples.

21. On May 26 2026, Parent 1 filed the Complaint.

Parent Interview

22. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, Parent 1 clarified that they were unaware of other instances where accommodations were not implemented, noting they “don’t know of any specific times during any of that. All I know for sure was the [reading assessment] and then the situation that took place on [April] 30th, [2026].” They described the reading assessment incident in February 2026. Their main concern regarding the Student’s IEP arose after the Student failed a retake of a grade-level reading assessment. The English Teacher allowed them to complete a book report over the weekend for submission on Tuesday morning. On Tuesday, the English Teacher entered an "F" grade for the assessment, which automatically placed the Student on the Extended Daily Learning (EDL) list. Parent 1 shared they contested the grade with the Principal, arguing it violated the Student's IEP accommodation of extended time, but the Principal maintained EDL because the English Teacher reported the work was turned in late. Parent 1 then escalated the issue to the Superintendent, who reviewed the records, ensured the grade was updated, and successfully removed the Student from the EDL list.

23. When asked about the April 30, 2026 incident, Parent 1 explained the English Teacher reportedly "yelled at [the Student] in front of everybody in the classroom," then stated, "Not every single assignment's going to be shortened for you," after the Student requested an accommodation.

24. Parent 1 stated the Student's accommodations were only an issue in English class and the English Teacher had expressed frustration regarding the accommodation of a 25% reduction on assignments.

Special Education Teacher Interview

25. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Teacher explained the regular education teaching staff participated in the development of the Student's IEP accommodations, all of which were mutually agreed upon and accessible via a shared digital folder. They added the Student had their own list of the accommodations and could "advocate and ask for a certain accommodation if [the Student] wants to use them." Additionally, they noted "friction" around the implementation of the Student's accommodations and shared "either a lack of understanding in some staff about accommodations … or … they knew it and were like, 'I'm not going to do this. This is my classroom." The Special Education Teacher explained this culminated in the April 30, 2026 incident when the English Teacher interrupted their teaching to discuss the Student's request for a 25% workload reduction on an assignment. They described the English Teacher as refusing to implement the accommodation in front of the Student, arguing the Student was capable of completing the entire assignment. When the Special Education Teacher reiterated the accommodation was a legal mandate within the active IEP, the English Teacher became visibly upset, warned that the two would have a private conversation later, and left. The Special Education Teacher recalled the Student completed the assignment later that night with assistance from Parent 2 and turned it in the following day but could not recall if the accommodation was utilized.

26. Within the resource room setting, the Special Education Teacher implemented math accommodations for the Student by utilizing visuals, number lines, extra time, and concrete manipulatives. For written tasks, they provided structural scaffolding through the use of graphic organizers, guiding questions, and specific sentence stems. Finally, to accommodate the Student's self-consciousness, the Special Education Teacher routinely conducted service check-ins privately and provided a student-friendly checklist to help them manage their accommodations discreetly.

Superintendent Interview

27. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Superintendent recalled around January or February 2026, Parent 1 met with them regarding a zero grade that had been entered for the Student's assignment, a situation that was corrected and resolved after an administrative check-in.

28. The Superintendent noted they met with the English Teacher during the District investigation and informed them, "It's very important that we follow those accommodations if it is available. If someone's asking for it, we just do it." They noted the English Teacher "understood it," and they informed them "it shouldn't have gotten to the point where it did."

29. The Superintendent asserted that prior to the April 30, 2026, incident, no compliance issues or concerns regarding the non-implementation of the Student's active IEP had ever been reported or brought to their attention.

Principal Interview

30. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal acknowledged the English Teacher experienced frustration after the recent IEP team meeting, when there was an increase in the volume of the Student's accommodations. They stated they directly told the English Teacher, " … we've got to follow the IEP even if it's frustrating and that it's [sic] what is in the document that we need to be following."

Special Education Director Interview

31. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Director confirmed the English Teacher was an active participant in the Student's IEP meeting, but had openly commented the Student was assigned too many accommodations and questioned how they would ever catch up with the rest of the class.

32. When asked about tracking the implementation of IEP mandates, the Special Education Director stated that classroom teachers did not typically document or track accommodation usage on their own, meaning implementation was frequently left to a teacher's perception of whether a student required the support rather than collected data.

33. The Special Education Director explained that while accommodations like extended time and a 25% workload reduction were mandated to support the Student's academic struggles, the April 30, 2026 incident escalated because the English Teacher chose to treat an IEP accommodation as an ongoing daily negotiation. They stated, "This was the assignment that had the 25% reduction, and maybe if another student had … a different accommodation of … marking out a distractor on multiple choice, that it was just done and given. It was not a negotiation. So I was hearing this about that [the Student] had to ask for it and … that it was like this negotiation every day. I did not realize it was happening and how frequently it seems like it's happening and that's wrong."

34. The Special Education Director shared it was their understanding the Student was granted the reduction in assignment size for the April 30, 2026 assignment.

35. When asked about the impact of the confrontation, the Special Education Director explained the Student became "upset," "emotional," and required weekly therapy sessions to cope with an increased level of academic anxiety that made returning to school a daily "battle."

Paraeducator Interview

36. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Paraeducator stated that they provided daily support to the Student following spring break, assisting them with completing assignments and advocating with accommodation requests.

37. When asked about teachers implementing the Student's accommodations, the Paraeducator stated, "I would say some teachers are better at it than others. There has [sic] been a lot of problems with some teachers not wanting to honor [the Student's] accommodations." They shared that at several moments when the Student had requested an accommodation, the English Teacher replied with, "I'm not going to do that," or "Oh, I'm so tired of this."

38. Regarding the April 30, 2026 incident, the Paraeducator stated when the Student experienced difficulty with a writing assignment, they requested a reduction, and the English Teacher declined the accommodation. The Paraeducator noted that following a conversation outside of the Special Education Teacher's room and an email exchange between the English Teacher and the Parents, the Student was permitted to submit a reduced assignment consisting of three to four sentences per paragraph, completed at home.

39. When asked about IEP implementation, the Paraeducator shared when they first started working with the Student, the Student advocated for their accommodations. They stated after the April 30, 2026, incident, the Student stopped attempting to self-advocate directly to the English Teacher because the English Teacher routinely rejected their requests in a loud, indiscreet manner in front of the classroom, ordering the Student to return to their seat.

English Teacher Interview

40. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the English Teacher stated they had known the Student since infancy due to a long-standing personal relationship with Parent 1. They described the Student as quiet, shy, and hardworking, noting the Student achieved a full year's worth of reading growth between August 2025 and

January 2026 after entering the regular education classroom. The English Teacher noted they had the IEP provided from 5th grade and "followed everything that I needed to do for it."

41. The English Teacher explained they implemented the Student's IEP by providing unrestricted extended time on assessments, utilizing separate hallway locations for assignments, and exempting the Student from spelling and grammar when mechanics were not the primary grading criteria. For writing and language tasks, the English Teacher provided structural scaffolding, text read aloud via a screen reader, visual modeling, graphic organizers, sentence starters, speech-to-text, and structured problem check-ins to build the Student's independent capacity. They noted the Student "could just ask for it" regarding accommodations. Additionally, the Teacher noted the workload reduction accommodation had been decreased from 50% to 25% under the updated IEP, an accommodation they were much more willing to implement.

42. The English Teacher stated that due to digital platform constraints, they did not apply the 25% reduction to the 100-point reading assessments administered every three weeks. When the Student failed one test, the English Teacher provided an alternative "one-pager" assignment that the Student completed at home with parental assistance.

43. When asked about the April 30, 2026 incident, the English Teacher stated the Paraeducator initiated an accommodation request in front of the Student by asking for an immediate 25% workload reduction on an end-of-year personal writing assignment. They initially resisted the reduction, stating that because the essay was a personal reflection, the Student was an expert on the topic and could complete the task using the provided prompts and sentence starters. The English Teacher explained they sat with the Student in the hallway to verbally provide prompts and generate ideas, then escalated the request to the Special Education Teacher and contacted Parent 1 via email to explain the assignment parameters. Upon receiving confirmation from the Parent requesting the accommodation, they applied the IEP accommodation by reducing the length requirement from five sentences per paragraph to four, and the Student completed the assignment successfully.

44. The English Teacher explained that on May 11, 2026, they received a letter from LEA leadership regarding IEP compliance. The correspondence stated, "Compliance with an IEP is both a legal obligation and [an] essential part of supporting student success. Moving forward, you are expected to ensure all accommodations are implemented consistently."

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #408, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to ensure the IEP was in effect and implemented as written, specifically when the English Teacher refused to provide a mandated accommodation reducing independent assignment questions by up to 25% and denied an accommodation for additional time on an assignment during the 2025-26 school year. K.A.R. 91-40-16 (a)(b); 34 CFR § 300.323(a)(c)(d).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16 (a)(b); 34 CFR § 300.323(a)(c)(d), each agency shall be responsible for initiating and conducting meetings to develop, review, and revise the IEP of each exceptional child served by the agency. The agency shall ensure that an IEP is in effect before special education and related services are provided to an exceptional child. Those services to which the parent has granted written consent as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown. An IEP is in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

In addition, an IEP should be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year, and accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service providers who are responsible for its implementation. Each teacher and provider should be informed of their specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP, and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

The Parents alleged on April 30, 2026, Parent 1 received an email requesting input regarding an English assignment. According to Parent 1, the Student's IEP specifically stated under accommodations that the number of questions for independent assignments and assessments will be decreased by no more than 25%. According to Parent 1, the English Teacher expressed that they did not believe the Student should receive the accommodation on the assignment because the English Teacher felt the Student was capable of doing the work. The Parents feel that the IEP was not implemented as written and accommodations were not being followed. The Student had been struggling with the work for multiple days. In addition, Parent 1 stated they had to advocate for the Student's accommodations to be followed consistently throughout the 2025-26 school year.

The LEA indicated in regard to the incident in question, the English Teacher reached out to Parent 1 to see if they felt the Student was capable of doing the entire self-reflection assignment with para support and sentence starters. The LEA indicated that initially, Parent 1 felt the Student would be able to do the assignment. Later, Parent 1 came back and said they weren't sure the Student would be able to complete the assignment without the 25% reduction accommodation. The English Teacher agreed to shorten the assignment.

The Student's IEP legally mandated specific accommodations, including 1.5 extended time on reading and writing tasks and an independent assignment workload reduction of up to 25%. Under the standard established in Van Duyn v. Baker School District 5J, 502 F.3d 811 (9th Cir. 2007), a failure to implement an IEP is only a violation if the deviation from the IEP is "material," meaning there is more than a minor discrepancy between the services provided and those required. This materiality threshold is widely supported across jurisdictions, as articulated in Beer ex rel. A.B. v. USD 512 Shawnee Mission (2023), which noted that school districts incur liability when a material failure to implement an IEP violates the IDEA. Furthermore, E.C. by W.C. and K.C. v. U.S.D. 385 Andover (2020) emphasizes that to prevail on a claim under the IDEA, a party challenging the implementation of an IEP must show more than a de minimis failure to implement all elements of that IEP, and, instead, must demonstrate that the school board or other authorities failed to implement substantial or significant provisions of the IEP. In the absence of further guidance from the Tenth Circuit on this standard, courts proceed under this prevailing materiality standard from its sister circuits, including the Fifth Circuit's holding in Houston Independent School District v. Bobby R. (2000).

While administrative and special education staff treated these provisions as non-negotiable mandates, the English Teacher routinely substituted their subjective assessment for these requirements. The English Teacher stated that due to digital platform constraints, they did not apply the 25% reduction to the 100-point reading assessments administered every three weeks. When the Student failed one test, the English Teacher provided an alternative "one-pager" assignment that resulted in an "F" grade, causing the Student academic anxiety. Furthermore, the English Teacher maintained that the Student "could just ask for it" to access accommodations, yet routinely rejected accommodation requests in a non-discreet manner in front of peers. Testimony from the Paraeducator revealed the Student ceased attempting to self-advocate after accommodation requests were routinely rejected. The Special Education Director reported, the Student became "upset," "emotional," and required weekly therapy sessions to cope with an increased level of academic anxiety that made returning to school a daily "battle."

This pattern culminated on April 30, 2026, when the English Teacher refused a requested 25% reduction in workload on an independent writing project. This confrontation caused the Student distress, and the accommodation was implemented only after Parent 1 confirmed its use via email. Furthermore, following an internal review of the incident, leadership issued a formal directive to the English Teacher on May 11, 2026, ordering them to implement all IEP accommodations consistently. Mandated IEP accommodations cannot depend on an educator's subjective approval or a student's public negotiation. By the English Teacher repeatedly questioning, delaying, or omitting the 25% workload reduction on assessments and assignments, the LEA committed a material deviation from required services.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is substantiated that the LEA materially failed to implement the mandated classroom accommodations in the Student's IEP.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-16 (a)(b); 34 CFR § 300.323(a)(c)(d) specify that public agencies must ensure special education and related services are made available to a child with a disability in accordance with their IEP, and that each teacher is fully informed of their specific implementation responsibilities.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #408 did not ensure the consistent provision of these required services when a classroom teacher omitted, delayed, or negotiated the Student's mandated 25% workload reduction.

Based on the foregoing, USD #408 is directed to take the following actions:

1. USD #408 must design and deliver a comprehensive professional development training session for all School general education and special education instructional staff, building administrators, and paraeducators regarding the non-negotiable status of legally binding IEP accommodations. This training must clarify that individual educators cannot alter, delay, or condition accommodations and modifications based on subjective assessment of student capability or a student's failure to self-advocate. This training must take place prior to the start of the 2026-27 school year, and USD #408 must provide the Department with the training curriculum, presentation materials, agenda, and signed attendance logs verifying 100% staff participation.
2. USD #408 must establish and implement a mandatory, structured collaboration protocol between special education staff and general education teachers to ensure the consistent and compliant delivery of IEP accommodations within the general education environment. This framework must require regular, documented consultation meetings between special education case managers and general education instructors to co-plan modifications, review the ongoing efficacy of classroom accommodations, and collaboratively resolve implementation barriers. This collaboration protocol must be finalized and integrated into School procedures within 60 calendar days of this report and operationalized ahead of the 2026–27 school year, and the LEA must provide the Department with the formalized written policy, a schedule of recurring consultation meetings, and a copy of the standardized collaboration logs or meeting templates as evidence of compliance.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #437
ON MAY 4, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 8, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education on behalf of ------- and ------- by their parents, -------. In the remainder of the report ------- will be referred to as "student A", ------- will be referred to as "student B" and both will be referred to as "the students". ------- will be referred to as the "complainants" or "the parents" or individually as "the father" and "the mother" respectively.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student."

In this case, the complaint is against USD #437 (Auburn/Washburn Public Schools) which employs its own staff to meet the requirements of the IDEA. In the remainder of the report, this responsible public agency will be referred to as "the local education agency (LEA)".

In the remainder of the report, the LEA staff will be referred to as follows:

- Heidi Carlson, Director of Secondary Special Services
- Charlie Stoltenberg, Washburn Rural North Middle School (WRNMS) Principal
- Tina Schindler, Special Education Teacher / Case Manager
- Ed Raines, Washburn Rural High School (WRHS) Principal
- Jamie Callaghan, WRHS Assistant Principal
- Hillary Osborn, Special Education Department Chair
- Sandi Roe, WRHS Lead Nurse
- Katy Dulaney, WRHS Nurse
- Portia Jurado, Special Education Teacher / Case Manager
- Rachael Loyd, Physical Therapist
- Anthony Wunder, Adaptive PE Teacher
- Alex Hutchins, General Education PE Teacher for Individual/Team Sports
- Danyelle Sostre, Special Education Teacher 1

- Ruth May, Special Education Teacher 2
- Amy Kester, Special Education Teacher 3
- Lexi Ellis, Speech/Language Pathologist (SLP)
- Jennifer Tiller, General Education Advisory Teacher
- Dr. Scott McWilliams, Superintendent
- Chelsea Clark, ADA/504 Coordinator and Executive Director of Human Resources (HR)

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 60-day timeline to investigate a complaint and allow for an appeal process from the date on which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE and the LEA. In this case, May 4, 2026 is considered as the date the complaint was filed.

Evidence Reviewed

The father was interviewed by telephone on May 19, 2026 and the mother was interviewed on May 22, 2026 and also responded to written interview questions on May 25, 2026.

The following LEA staff from the WRNMS were interviewed by telephone on May 19, 2026:

- WRNMS Principal
- Special Education Teacher / Case Manager
- Director of Secondary Special Services

The following LEA staff from the WRHS were interviewed by telephone on May 19, 2026:

- WRHS Assistant Principal
- Special Education Teacher / Case Manager
- Director of Secondary Special Services
- Special Education Department Chair
- WRHS Lead Nurse
- WRHS Nurse
- Special Education Teacher / Case Manager
- Physical Therapist

In completing this investigation, the Investigator reviewed written documentation provided by both the complainant and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Evaluation Team Report dated October 26, 2023 for student A
2. Individual Education Program (IEP) for student A dated October 8, 2024 from USD #437
3. IEP Amendment for student A dated August 12, 2025
4. Prior Written Notice (PWN) for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent dated August 12, 2025 proposing to add transportation as a related service and attendant care to student A's IEP which was signed by both parents on September 8, 2025

5. IEP for student A dated September 25, 2025
6. Email dated September 28, 2025 at 9:20 PM written by the father to Special Education Teacher 3
7. Email dated October 2, 2025 at 10:58 AM written by the WRHS Assistant Principal to the parents
8. PWN for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent proposing to update IEP goals and increase special education services which was signed by the mother on October 6, 2025
9. Email chain dated November 17, 2025 at 7:55 and 10:02 AM between Special Education Teacher 3 and the mother regarding a pinching incident
10. Email chain dated April 24, 2026 between the mother and the WRHS Assistant Principal, WRHS Principal, Director of Secondary Special Education, and Special Education Teacher / Case Manager at 8:43, 9:33, 9:44, 10:00, 10:21, 10:24, 10:42, and 10:58 AM
11. Email chain dated April 24, 2026 written by the mother to the WRHS Assistant Principal, WRHS Principal, Director of Secondary Special Education, and the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager with responses not copied to the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager at 11:46 AM, 12 noon, 12:05, 12:39, 12:43, 1:04, 2:18, 2:24, 2:32, and 2:54 PM

38. USD #437 School District Calendar the 2025-26 school year

Background Information

The students previously attended school in another LEA in Kansas and both students received special education and related services through IEPs. The students transferred to the current LEA at the conclusion of the 2024-25 school year and received extended school year services in the current LEA during the summer of 2025.

Student A was enrolled in the 10th grade at WRHS during the 2025-26 school year. Her most recent reevaluation was completed on October 28, 2024 and it was determined that she continued to meet the eligibility criteria for the exceptionality of Intellectual Disability and Autism. There were two IEPs in effect during the 2025-26 school year with the first being an August 12, 2025 IEP amendment to the transfer IEP from USD #345 and the second being the annual IEP developed on September 25, 2025. Both IEPs include special education support in general education classes and special education and related services provided in the low incidence programs in the district.

Student B was enrolled in the 8th grade at WRNMS for the 2025-26 school year. Her most recent triennial reevaluation was completed on October 18, 2023. At that time, it was determined that she continued to meet the eligibility criteria for the exceptionality of Multiple Disabilities based on medical diagnoses of Down's Syndrome, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), and Reactive Attachment Disorder (RAD). There were two IEPs in effect during the 2025-26 school year with the first being an August 6, 2025 IEP amendment to the transfer IEP from USD #345 and the second being the annual IEP developed on October 13, 2025. Both IEPs include special education support in general education classes as well as specialized instruction and related services provided in the low incidence program in the district.

Issues Investigated

Student A

The parent made 14 allegations of violations of the IDEA for student A. These 14 allegations were all related to three IDEA issues which were investigated.

Issue One

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate procedures to develop an IEP that provides FAPE to the student during the 2025-26 school year through May 4, 2026.

[This issue addresses Allegations 1, 2, 10, and 14]

Applicable Law

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.17(a) and (d) state that a "free appropriate public education" means special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision and without charge and are provided in conformity with an individualized education program.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(e) states that when a child with a disability who had an IEP that was in effect in a previous public agency in the same State transfers to a new public agency in the same State, the new public agency in consultation with the parents must provide FAPE to the child including services comparable to those described in the child's IEP from the previous public agency), until the new public agency either 1) adopts the child's IEP from the previous public agency; or 2) develops, adopts, and implements a new IEP.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4), require school districts to develop an IEP describing the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to 1) advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; 2) be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum; 3) participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and, 4) be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a), require school districts to ensure that each IEP Team considers the strengths of the student, the concerns of the parents for enhancing the education of their student, the results of the most recent evaluation of the student, and the academic, developmental, and functional needs of the student when developing the IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1) require each public agency to review each student's IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved; and to revise the student's IEP, as appropriate, to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum; the results of any reevaluation; information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a) requires school districts to ensure that the IEP Team for each child with a disability include the parents of the child, not less than one regular education teacher of the child, not less than one special education teacher of the child, a representative of the school district, an individual who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results, other individuals who have knowledge of special expertise regarding the child at the discretion of the parent or the school district, and the child with a disability whenever appropriate.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(e)(1) allow for a required member of the IEP Team to be excused and not required to attend an IEP Team meeting, in whole or part, if the parent of a child with a disability and the school district agree, in writing, that the attendance of that member is not necessary because the member's area of the curriculum or related services is not being modified or discussed at the meeting.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(e)(2) allow for a required member of the IEP Team to be excused from attending an IEP Team meeting, in whole or in part, when the meeting involves a modification to or discussion of the member's area of the curriculum or related services, if 1) the parent, in writing, and the public agency consent to the excusal; and 2) the member submits, in writing to the parent and the IEP Team, input into the development of the IEP prior to the meeting.

Parent Position

The parents made the following four allegations against USD #437:

> Allegation 1: USD #437 failed to include medical and personal care information from prior IEPs in student A's current IEP developed during the 2025-26 school year.
>
> Allegation 2: USD #437 failed to incorporate parent-provided medical information shared at the IEP Meeting into student A's IEP during the 2025-26 school year.
>
> Allegation 10: The USD #437 Building Principal systematically removed the IEP case manager from parent email communications regarding placement and IEP implementation concerns thereby impeding the case manager from her IEP team member responsibilities.
>
> Allegation 14: USD #437 scheduled an IEP Team meeting at a time when IEP Team members will need to leave early without first obtaining parent consent for the excusal of the affected IEP Team members.

LEA Position

In regards to Allegations 1 and 2, the WRHS Assistant Principal reported WRHS staff met with the parents in August prior to the beginning of the 2025-26 school year and reviewed the most recent reevaluation of the student on October 26, 2023 and the transfer IEP from USD #437 dated October 8, 2024. The parents and the LEA agreed to amend the October 8, 2024 IEP to add transportation as a related service on August 12, 2025. The LEA provided the parents with prior written notice proposing these changes and obtained written parent consent on September 8, 2025. The IEP Team met on September 25, 2025 to conduct the annual review and to revise the IEP based on IEP goal progress and parent input. The LEA indicated the revisions included expanded health information, updated goals, a change in services, and change in placement and reported that the mother provided written consent on October 6, 2025. The LEA noted that the parents never shared any concerns regarding the health information included in the IEP until the student was sent home a second day on April 24, 2025 for diarrhea.

In regards to Allegation 10, the WRHS Principal reported he intentionally responded to the parents' emails which contained accusations of alleged noncompliance and violations of federal law by copying only administrative staff. He indicated that the adjustment to the email distribution list was based on the nature and escalation of the parent communication, not on the role of any individual staff member. The LEA further noted the Case Manager / Special Education Teacher was never removed from any email communications that addressed IEP responsibilities during the 2025-26 school year.

In regards to Allegation 14, the WRHS Assistant Principal reported the parents provided two medical notes from student A's medical providers on April 29, 2026. When trying to find a mutually agreeable date/time for the IEP Team meeting to review this information, the parent requested a total of 14 staff members attend the meeting. The WRHS Assistant Principal stated, "During that process, the district informed the parents through email communication that three of the additional requested participants (total of 14) had scheduling limitations and would need to leave prior to the anticipated conclusion of the meeting. The district communicated this information openly in an effort to coordinate scheduling and participation transparently". The parent was not in agreement to excuse these IEP Team members and no IEP Team meeting was held where IEP Team members would need to be excused.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews and a review of documentation.

1. The October 8, 2024 IEP developed by USD #345 included the following medical information for student A: Down Syndrome, Scoliosis, Heart surgery in infancy, hearing loss and use of a hearing aid, history of ear infections, and astigmatism. This IEP included the following functional needs for student A: personal care and hygiene, prompting for routines, and functional independence.
2. The parents stated they did not believe the IEP from USD #345 adequately addressed the student's medical needs and the resulting functional needs. The parents reported that they verbally shared extensive and specific information gained over 16 years about student A's medical needs and their practical implications for the school environment with LEA staff at the August 12 and September 25, 2025 IEP meetings.
3. The parents met with WRHS staff on August 12, 2025 to review the transfer/current IEP from USD #345 and to develop a schedule for student A. The resulting class schedule for the 2025-26 school year included two PE classes as electives at the parents' request in order to address student A's back and core issues related to a back surgery and her hypotonia.

4. Also as a result of the August 12, 2025 transfer IEP meeting, the parents and the LEA agreed to amend student A's IEP without conducting a meeting and the LEA issued a PWN proposing to add transportation as a related service and additional attendant care to student A's IEP. The parents provided signatures affirming they were in agreement with the IEP amendment as well as provided written consent for the PWN on September 8, 2025.
5. The IEP Team for student A met on September 25, 2025 to conduct the annual IEP review and to revise the IEP as needed. As a result of this meeting, the LEA issued a PWN proposing to update IEP goals and increase special education services. The mother provided written consent on October 6, 2025
6. An email dated September 28, 2025 at 9:20 PM written by the father to Special Education Teacher 3 stated, "[The mother] and I had some time over the weekend to review the two samples that [Special Education Teacher 3] sent home. I think we are going to go with 3rd grade reading comprehension for the goal. Obviously, we want her to be pushed as far as she can but we also want her to feel success. Also, can we make sure there is language in the IEP acknowledging that because of [student A's] autism diagnosis, she can struggle with inconsistent sleeping patterns?".
7. The WRHS Assistant Principal sent an email to the parents on October 2, 2025 stating, "I have attached an updated draft IEP that reflects the changes in the reading goal in addition to adding language about her inconsistent sleeping patterns and hearing loss. The information about inconsistent sleep patterns and hearing loss were added to the impact of Exceptionality section connected to each goal".
8. The mother reported that the May 6, 2026 Complaint, Section III.A, and May 12 Complaint, Sections A and B included the omitted medical information that should have been included in the September 25, 2025 IEP. That document included the following list: "Back and spinal conditions requiring surgical intervention (present in every prior IEP); Pain management needs and protocols during the school day; Toileting support needs; Ambulation and endurance limitations; Use of sensory stemming necklace; [student A's] nonverbal communication system — how she communicates through her beads and stimming behaviors".
9. The September 25, 2026 IEP included the following information regarding the alleged omitted medication information about student A's:
    a. Back and spinal conditions requiring surgical intervention (present in every prior IEP);
        i. Scoliosis is listed under Student A's health history In the Present Levels of each of the seven goals
        ii. Corrective surgery for scoliosis is listed under Current Functional Performance for Goals six and seven
        iii. Uses supramalleolar foot orthoses (SMO) bilaterally is listed listed the Present Levels for Goals six and seven

b. Pain management needs and protocols during the school day and Toileting support needs;
    i. "Due to her hx [history] of spinal surgery core strengthening and stabilization are necessary in order to minimize pain and facilitate proper upright postural support during daily tasks." is written under the Present Levels, Current Functional Performance for Goal six.
    ii. Under Goal four, Present Levels, Current Functional Performance, it states that the student continues to require adult support and assistance navigating the school setting and independently caring for her personal needs and she has scheduled bathroom breaks throughout the school day and staff prompts the student to use the bathroom when it's her scheduled time.
c. Ambulation and endurance limitations; Use of sensory stemming necklace; [student A's] nonverbal communication system — how she communicates through her beads and stimming behaviors.
    i. Under Goal six, Present Levels, Impact of Exceptionality, it states: "[Student A's] diagnosis impacts her gross motor abilities due to increased joint mobility and ligamentous laxity (hyperflexibility). She demonstrates decreased balance, strength, and endurance with motor activities."
    ii. Under Goal five, Present Levels, Current Functional Performance, it states that Student A utilizes a speech generating device (SGD) which is a family-owned portable ViaPro device which has LAMP Words for Life installed.
    iii. No mention is made of a sensory stemming necklace.

10. The October 8, 2024 IEP and the September 25, 2025 IEP included all of the medical conditions with the following additions describing student A's functional needs:
    a. The student requires prompting to initiate tasks and navigate the school environment
    b. The use of a visual schedule to support independence
    c. Scheduled bathroom breaks with staff prompting
    d. Ongoing support for personal care and daily routines by:
        i. Providing greater specificity regarding prompting and support levels
        ii. Embedding these needs within functional performance and daily school routines
        iii. Addressing personal care within goals, transition planning, and independence skill development
        iv. Including parent input regarding hygiene, independence, and long-term care concerns in transition planning 11. The mother reported the parents first became aware that the September 25, 2025 did not include the medical information the parents had shared when the student reportedly pinched a peer on November 17, 2025 and the WRHS Assistant Principal indicated student A appeared to be anxious based on the use of her stimming necklace. The mother indicated that written questions asking how and why this information was left out of student A's IEP were sent to the WRHS Assistant Principal, the Case Manager and other members of the IEP Team; however, no one responded. Subsequently, the parents sent additional emails about this issue as well as other concerns but did not request to reconvene the IEP Team until April 27, 2026 following a situation on April 24, 2026 when the student was sent home a second day for diarrhea.

12. The mother and WRHS staff emailed back and forth a total of 18 times between 8:43 AM and 2:54 PM regarding the decision for the student to be sent home a second day for diarrhea. Every email sent by the mother was copied to the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager; however, all email responses were written by the WRHS Principal beginning at 11:46 AM and did not copy the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager.

13. It is noted that the LEA did not propose to reconvene student A's IEP Team until receiving medical notes from two of student A's medical providers on April 29, 2026.

14. In the mother's response to written interview questions, she stated, [The WRHS Principal] actively removed [student A's] case manager from email communications — a direct violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a), 300.322, and 300.500 et seq." The mother reported that "By removing [the Case Manager] from reply chains, [the WRHS Principal] prevented her from:

- Knowing what medical information we had shared with administration
- Responding to or correcting the district's positions on our IEP meeting requests
- Fulfilling her obligations as case manager to coordinate IEP implementation
- Being aware of decisions being made about her student's educational program".

15. In the response to Allegation 10, the WRHS Principal stated, "As reflected in the email record, the communication shifted from routine questions regarding implementation to formal allegations of legal violations, assertions of IDEA and ADA noncompliance, and notification of a complaint being filed with KSDE. In response to this escalation, I handled the matter at the administrative level and limited reply communications to administrative personnel responsible for oversight and coordination (Principal and Assistant Principal), while also including the Superintendent and Director of Special Education due to the likelihood of further escalation. This approach ensured that responses were:

- Coordinated and consistent,
- Aligned with appropriate administrative authority, and
- Focused on directing concerns into the formal processes required under IDEA, such as IEP team meetings and Prior Written Notice, rather than informal email exchanges.

The case manager was not excluded from any educational decision-making process. Rather, she was not included in a specific email thread that had become adversarial and complaint-driven in nature, and which required an administrative-level response".

16. The mother shared the medical note from Children's Mercy Hospital with multiple LEA staff in an email dated April 29, 2026 at 7:55 AM stating, "Please find attached a medical letter from children's mercy [sic] regarding [the student's] physical needs, since the district has chosen to discriminate against her physical disability, by actively ignoring her medical history, having no plan for students with disabilities in an entry change, and [the WRHS Assistant Principal's]retaliatory change of school entrance. We went ahead and again got it clearly from them . . ."

17. The WRHS Assistant Principal emailed the mother on April 29, 2026 at 9:36 AM stating, "Thank you for providing the recent medical documentation from Children's Mercy. We have reviewed the information carefully and want to ensure we are responding in a way that prioritizes [the student's] safety and well-being. Based on the medical guidance provided, which indicates limitations with prolonged standing, walking long distances, and restrictions related to lifting and certain movements, we are making the following immediate adjustments effective today:

- Pausing activities that require extended walking, endurance-based exertion, or increased physical strain
- Allowing access to seating, rest breaks, and reduced physical demands throughout the school day as needed
- Adjusting transitions to minimize distance and physical demand, including use of the closest available entrance and exit
- Ensuring staff support for carrying materials as needed

We recognize that these changes differ from the current focus of her IEP goals and services. As a result, we will be initiating an IEP team meeting to review this new medical information, consider any necessary revisions to her goals and services, and ensure her plan appropriately reflects her current needs. In the meantime, our physical therapist will be reaching out to you directly to gather additional details and clarify any specific recommendations that will help guide safe implementation at school. We are also working to develop a safe and supportive plan for arrival and dismissal and will follow up with you shortly to ensure this aligns with your input and [student A's] needs. We appreciate your partnership and your prompt sharing of this information".

18. An email dated April 29, 2026 at 9:51 AM written by the mother to the WRHS Assistant Principal stated, ". . . It has always been an expectation that someone would help [student A] carry her backpack. It has always been an expectation that [student A] would be allowed to take breaks when she needed to. This was all discussed in the IEP meeting that you were the LEA for, [the WRHS Assistant Principal] . . . Again, all of these things were discussed with you at [the student's] IEP meeting In [sic] the fall. What were you doing during that meeting as the LEA that you heard and did not ensure any of this was documented in the IEP? I HAVE NOW REPEATEDLY ASKED YOU WHY YOU AS THE LEA DID NOT ENSURE THAT THIS MEDICAL INFORMATION WAS INCLUDED IN [student A's] IEP. All of those on copy know that I have now repeatedly asked you this question, what were you doing during [student A's] IEP meeting as the LEA if you did not hear any of this information and did not ensure it was captured in her IEP? I already spoke to the physical therapist, she has common sense. We are all set".

19. The LEA provided the parents with a PWN for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent dated April 29, 2026 proposing an IEP Team meeting "to review the newly received medical information, consider revisions to [student A's] goal, services, accommodations, considerations and ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned and can be implemented safely".
20. The WRHS Assistant Principal sent an email to the parents on April 29, 2026 at 4:56 PM stating, "As outlined in the Prior Written Notice, the district has reviewed the medical guidance alongside [the student's] current IEP, including her goals, participation in physical education, and access to the school environment. Based on this review, we believe it is important for the IEP team to meet to ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned with her current needs and can be implemented safely. In addition, the district will collaborate with the school nurse to address the recently provided medical information related to health needs during the school day and determine appropriate supports". The email noted the IEP Team for the meeting would include the parents, the Physical Therapist, the Adaptive PE Teacher, the General Education Teacher for Individual/Team Sports (PE elective), Special Education Teacher / Case Manager, WRHS Lead Nurse, WRHS Special Education Department Chair, Director of Secondary Special Services, and the WRHS Assistant Principal.
21. Attached to this email was a Notice of Meeting dated April 29, 2026 scheduling an IEP Team meeting for May 12, 2026 at 3:30 PM. The Notice of Meeting stated the purpose of the IEP Team meeting was to "discuss possible changes to your child's Individualized Education Program (IEP)" and that all of the IDEA required IEP Team members including the LEA representative, the special education teacher, a staff member who can interpret evaluation results and at least one general education teacher of the student , will be present for the meeting.
22. The mother responded via email to the WRHS Assistant Principal on dated April 29, 2026 at 8:08 PM stating "Since [student A's] normal IEP date is September 25, 2026, we would want to convene the full team and complete a full IEP, not just an update, and we want her full team, this would include those listed with the addition of: Special Education Teacher 1, Special Education 2, Special Education Teacher 3, SLP, General Education Advisory Teacher".
23. During the mother's interview, she stated that a "full IEP" meant the annual IEP review. This question was asked to discern which IEP Team members were requested for the meeting since the IDEA does not include the term "full IEP".
24. The WRHS Assistant Principal responded to the mother via email on April 30, 2026 at 8:37 AM indicating she would check to see if a full IEP could be arranged for the May 12 date.

25. On May 1, 2026, the WRHS Assistant Principal sent an email to the parents at 4:59 PM stating that, in order to hold a meeting to review and revise the full IEP, the time of the IEP Team meeting would need to be adjusted from 3:30 to 3:00 PM and shared that "a few staff members noted prior commitments at 3:45 and 4:00 p.m". During the interview, the Director of Secondary Special Education noted that the SLP and the General Education Advisory Teacher needed to leave approximately 3:45 PM in order to attend to other professional commitments.
26. The mother responded in an email dated May 1, 2026 at 5:25 and 5:26 PM indicating the IEP Team meeting would not be able to be completed within the 45 - 60 minutes being allotted for the IEP Team meeting. She stated, "This one is going to be a long one, so I think you need to inform the whole team to buckle up. If they need to leave by 3:45 or four, we are not going to be done, even if we start at 3".
27. On May 1, 2026 at 6:19 PM, the WRHS Assistant Principal emailed the parents and stated, "We have scheduled this time to get started in a focused and organized way and will review key components of the IEP together. Given the complexity of the IEP and the importance of ensuring all areas are thoughtfully addressed, additional time may be needed to complete the process. Several team members have prior professional commitments later in the afternoon, and we will structure the meeting to ensure each member is able to provide input related to their role. If additional time is needed, we will reconvene to continue the discussion and ensure all components are fully addressed. Our goal is to maintain a collaborative and organized process focused on developing an IEP that is appropriate and aligned with [student A's] current needs, including the recent medical information".
28. In the written interview questions, the mother summarized the district's response to their repeated requests for an IEP Team meeting to address student A's full IEP. She stated, "M*ay 1, 2026: [The WRHS Assistant Principal] commits by email to a full IEP meeting by May 12, then states team members will be allowed to leave early. Parents object in writing. [The WRHS Assistant Principal] then narrows the scope of the proposed meeting to medical information only. Parents object to this as well. We have never requested a medical-only IEP meeting. We have requested a full IEP meeting — every time, without exception*".
29. The WRHS Assistant Principal provided the parents with a Prior Written Notice dated May 6, 2026 which stated, "The district proposes to convene the IEP team to review the medical documentation and educational concerns identified by the parents and determine whether amendments such as accommodations, supports, services, health-related planning, participation considerations, mobility considerations, physical access supports, or implementation adjustments to the student's current IEP are appropriate at this time. The district further proposes that participation in the meeting include parent(s), general education representation, special education representation, related service providers relevant to the concerns being reviewed, administrative representation, and personnel knowledgeable regarding the student's current programming, accommodations, implementation, and medical-related educational needs".

30. The May 6, 2026 prior written notice also stated, "The district declines at this time to immediately conduct a complete redevelopment or replacement of the student's current annual IEP prior to the upcoming annual review cycle".

Conclusion

All four of the parent's allegations impact the provision of a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to student A. Allegations 1, 2, and 10 are related to the information considered during the development of the IEP for the goals, the special education services, and the accommodations / modifications as well as what is included in the IEP which the IEP Team has determined to offer FAPE to a student with a disability. Allegation 14 is related to IEP Team membership as to who and how those IEP Team members participate in the IEP development process which determines the offer of FAPE to the student.

In regards to Allegations 1 and 2, interviews and documentation support a finding that the LEA considered information from the previous IEP dated October 8, 2024 as well as parent input when student A's IEP was amended on August 12, 2025. This amendment added more attendant care at the end of each school day to assist the student to navigate the school building and access transportation as a related service as well as developed a class schedule for the 2025-26 school year for student A that included two PE classes as electives at the parents' request in order to address student A's back and core issues related to a back surgery and her hypotonia.

Interviews and documentation also support a finding that the LEA included information from the previous IEP dated October 8, 2024 as well as parent input when student A's IEP was reviewed and revised at the September 25, 2025 IEP Team meeting. While the parents indicated they were unaware that medical information was omitted until a pinching incident, there is documentation showing that the LEA provided the parents with drafts of the IEP for their review immediately following the September 25, 2025 IEP Team meeting and emails documenting that the parents requested additional information be included in the IEP and the final version of the September 25, 2025 IEP includes these requested updates.

The parents' believe that all previous IEPs should have been reviewed by the LEA and that historical information included in the development of subsequent IEPs. The parents also believe that all of the medical information and knowledge shared by the parents during the August 12 and September 25, 2025 IEP should have been included in student A's IEP. However this is not required by the IDEA.

Instead, when a student with a disability transfers into another public agency within the same state, the transfer process requires the new public agency to review the most recent evaluation report and IEP from the previous public agency to determine the special education and related services required to provide FAPE to the student. In this situation, the student transferred into the LEA in August 2025 and the parents and the LEA agreed to amend the student's October 8, 2024 IEP to add additional special educational services in order to provide FAPE to the student and provided the parents with appropriate PWN and obtained written consent.

The September 25, 2025 IEP includes historical medical information from the previous IEP dated October 8, 2024 as well as expands on the functional implications of these diagnoses based on information shared by the parents as evidenced by the inclusion of more specific information.

As a result of the September 25, 2025 IEP Team meeting considering the transfer IEP, the LEA issued a PWN proposing to update IEP goals and increase special education services which was signed by the mother on October 6, 2025.

In regards to Allegations 1 and 2, based on the foregoing, there is evidence to support a finding that the LEA did consider the concerns of the parents for enhancing the education of student A as well as the academic, developmental, and functional needs of the student based on current and historical data when developing the IEP. As such the LEA is found IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a).

In Allegation 10, the parents believe that the WRHS Principal failing to copy the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager in his replies in an email chain regarding placement and IEP implementation concerns impeded the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager's ability to fulfill her IEP team member responsibilities. The documentation shows the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager was copied on each of the emails sent by the parents and, thus, was aware and had access to the information being shared by the parents. The WRHS Principal chose to exclude the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager from his email responses which required administrative awareness and actions. It is noted that the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager served in the role through the last day of the 2025-26 school year and was invited to all proposed IEP team meetings scheduled in April and May 2026. As such, there is no evidence to support a finding that there was any negative impact to the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager's ability to fulfill her IEP Team member responsibilities as alleged by the parents. As such The LEA is found IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a).

In Allegation 14, the parents believe that USD #437 scheduled an IEP Team meeting at a time when IEP Team members needed to leave early without first obtaining parent consent for the excusal of the affected IEP Team members. Note that the parents have made subsequent allegations of noncompliance in regard to the proposed IEP Team meetings in April and May 2026 and those allegations are being investigated in 26FC437-015.

Based on interviews and documentation, evidence shows that the April 29, 2026 Meeting Notification stated the purpose of the IEP Team meeting was to "discuss possible changes to your child's Individualized Education Program (IEP)" and that the IDEA required IEP Team members including the LEA representative, the special education teacher, a staff member who can interpret evaluation results and at least one general education teacher of the student, will be present for the meeting scheduled for May 12, 2026 at 3:30 PM.

The accompanying email written by the WRHS Assistant Principal on that same date clarified that the IEP meeting would be to consider the medical documentation provided by the parent on April 29, 2026 and indicated the IEP Team for the meeting would include the parents, the Physical Therapist, the Adaptive PE Teacher, the General Education Teacher for Individual/Team Sports (PE elective), Special Education Teacher / Case Manager, WRHS Lead Nurse, WRHS Special Education Department Chair, Director of Secondary Special Services, and the WRHS Assistant Principal.

After receiving the Notice of Meeting on April 29, 2026, the mother emailed the WRHS Assistant Principal and requested that the IEP meeting serve as the annual review and requested that additional IEP Team members be present. Interviews and documentation show the WRHS Assistant Principal made efforts to accommodate the mother's request and, on May 1, 2026, informed the parents that in order to conduct the annual review, the meeting time would be extended and several of the additional IEP Team members requested by the parents would need to be excused.

The parents were not in agreement to excuse these IEP Team members for part of the May 12, 2026 IEP Team meeting and the LEA did not proceed to change the original Notice of Meeting dated April 29, 2026. The parents continued to request a full IEP Team meeting with the full IEP team requested and USD #437 responded on May 6, 2026 by providing the parents with a PWN, which refused the request for a full IEP Team meeting and proposed an IEP Team meeting to review the medical documentation provided by the parents on April 29, 2026. In addition, the LEA provided the parents with two additional IEP Team meeting notifications which met the required 10-day notice requirement in Kansas. It is important to note that IDEA does not use the language of "full IEP" team meeting and through interview with the Investigator, it was determined that the parents were referring to an annual IEP meeting, which is required to occur at least one time in a twelve month period, rather than the IEP meeting to conduct a periodic review which the LEA was requesting with their Notice of Meeting as described in federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1).

In regards to Allegations 14, based on the foregoing, there is evidence to support a finding that the LEA proposed an IEP Team meeting for May 12, May 15, and May 18, 2026 where the required IEP Team members including the LEA representative, the special education teacher, a staff member who can interpret evaluation results and at least one general education teacher of the student would be present as well as other IEP Team members relevant to discuss the medical information provided by the parents including the Physical Therapist, the Adaptive PE Teacher, the General Education Teacher for Individual/Team Sports (PE elective), and the WRHS Lead Nurse. As such the LEA is found IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a).

The parents' allegation that the LEA scheduled an IEP Team meeting and unilaterally excused IEP Team members was a misunderstanding of the LEA's efforts to accommodate the parents' requests to expand the purpose of the original IEP Team meeting and include the parent requested additional IEP Team members. Such a change would mean extending the time of the meeting and excusing several EP Team members for part of the meeting. The WRHS Assistant Principal shared these implications with the parents and the parents assumed this IEP Team meeting had already been scheduled by USD #437; however, this was not the case as documented in PWN, emails from the WRHS Assistant Principal and the three Notice of Meetings dated April 29 and May 6, 2026. As such, there is sufficient evidence to support a finding the LEA did not schedule an IEP Team meeting unilaterally excusing required IEP Team members in whole or part and the LEA is IN compliance with the requirements of the IDEA.

Issue Two

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate disciplinary procedures when excluding student A for seven days during the 2025-26 school year through May 4, 2026, specifically conducting a manifestation determination and providing the parent with appropriate prior written notice (PWN).

[This issue addresses Allegation 7 and 8]

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.530(e) require that, within 10 school days of any decision to change the placement of a child with a disability because of a violation of a code of student conduct, the LEA, the parent, and relevant members of the child's IEP Team (as determined by the parent and the LEA) must review all relevant information in the student's file, including the child's IEP, any teacher observations, and any relevant information provided by the parents to determine 1) if the conduct in question was caused by, or had a direct and substantial relationship to, the child's disability; or 2) If the conduct in question was the direct result of the LEA's failure to implement the IEP.

Under federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.536(a), a change of placement because of disciplinary removals occurs when a child with a disability has been removed from that child's current educational placement if the removal is for more than 10 consecutive school days or the child has been subjected to a series of removals that constitute a pattern 1) because the series of removals total more than 10 school days in a school year; 2) because the child's behavior is substantially similar to the child's behavior in previous incidents that resulted in the series of removals; and 3) Because of such additional factors as the length of each removal, the total amount of time the child has been removed, and the proximity of the removals to one another.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

Parent Position

The parents made the following allegations against USD #437:

> Allegation 7: USD #437 removed student A from the required educational placement without providing the parents with prior written notice on April 23 and 24, 2026.
> Allegation 8: USD #437 failed to conduct a manifestation review when imposing a pattern of unlawful exclusion for disability - related toileting incidents during the 2025-26 school year.

LEA Position

The LEA indicated that student A was not subjected to disciplinary removals, suspensions, or exclusionary disciplinary actions constituting a change in placement that would trigger manifestation determination procedures under IDEA. District behavior records reflect that the student had zero disciplinary referrals during the 2025-26 school year.

Attendance documentation further reflects that absences or early pickups referenced by the parent were coded as illness-related, medical, nurse's office, or school activity related rather than disciplinary removals or suspensions. The district notes that the illness ("IL") entries reflected on the attendance record were not school-imposed disciplinary exclusions. Rather, the attendance report reflects that only those illness entries immediately following nurse's office ("NO") entries were associated with nurse-initiated parent contact regarding illness-related concerns during the school day. The remaining illness-related absences reflected on the attendance report were parent-initiated illness absences.

The LEA reported that no proposal was made to change student A's services or placement as a result of her episodes of diarrhea which occurred monthly during the 2025-26 school year. The LEA acknowledged receiving a medical note from Heartland Community Health Center on April 29, 2026 from the parents with additional information about the situation.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews and documentation review.

1. Student A's Discipline Log shows no entries were made during the 2025-26 school year.
2. Student A's Attendance Record for the 2025-26 school year shows that no absence was coded as a disciplinary action.

3. The parents reported the student was sent home for seven days during the 2025-26 school year because of disability-related toileting incidents.
4. The parents indicated that Student A had not been sent home for disciplinary reasons during the 2025-26 school year.
5. The parents provided a note from Heartland Community Health Center dated April 29, 2026 to the LEA which stated that student A may have intermittent diarrhea for three to five days each month associated with the monthly period and she should not be excluded from school unless there are other signs of illness such as vomiting, fever, lethargy.

Conclusion

In this case, student A was never sent home from WRHS due to a violation of the student code of conduct which resulted in a disciplinary action during the 2025-26 school year. As such, there was no requirement that the LEA conduct a manifestation determination meeting as no change of placement occurred as described in federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.536(a). In addition, there was no requirement that the LEA provide the parent with Prior Written Notice as the LEA did not propose any change in the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.530(e), 34 C.F.R. §300.536(a), and 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a).

Issue Three

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parents with opportunities for meaningful participation in education decisions for student A during the 2025 - 26 school year.

[This Issue addresses Allegations 3, 4, 5, 6, 9, 11, 12, and 13]

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.501(b)(1) require that the parents of a child with a disability must be afforded an opportunity to participate in meetings with respect to the identification, evaluation, and educational placement of the child; and the provision of FAPE to the child.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.501(b)(3) states that a meeting does not include informal or unscheduled conversations involving public agency personnel and conversations on issues such as teaching methodology, lesson plans, or coordination of service provision. A meeting also does not include preparatory activities that public agency personnel engage in to develop a proposal or response to a parent proposal that will be discussed at a later meeting.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.322(a) requires that each public agency must take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of a child with a disability are present at each IEP Team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate, including notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure that they will have an opportunity to attend; and scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed on time and place.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a)(1) specifies that parents are mandatory members of the IEP Team.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a)(1) require the IEP Team, including the parents, to consider the strengths of the student, the parents' concerns for enhancing the education of their child, the initial or most recent evaluation results, and the academic, developmental, and functional needs of the child when developing the IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.610 requires public agencies to ensure the protection of the confidentiality of any personally identifiable data, information, and records collected or maintained by the public agency.

Parent Position

The parents made the following allegations against USD #437:

Allegation 3: USD #437 repeatedly refused to respond to written parent inquiries regarding student A's communication, stimming, and bead use during the 2025-26 school year thereby impeding parent participation in educational decisions for student A.

Allegation 4: USD #437 repeatedly refused to answer written questions regarding the exclusion of student A's medical information thereby impeding parent participation in educational decisions for student A.

Allegation 5: Student A's IEP Team members in USD #437 failed to respond to direct written questions during the 2025-26 school year thereby impeding parent participation in educational decisions for student A.

Allegation 6: The USD #437 assistant building administrator for student A provided written misrepresentation regarding the reason the student was excluded from school on April 24, 2026 thereby impeding parent participation in educational decisions for student A.

Allegation 9: USD #437 refused to disclose whether other students were exhibiting viral symptoms and were excluded from school thereby impeding parent participation in educational decisions for student A.

Allegation 11: USD #437 scheduled and held an IEP Team meeting deliberately excluding the parents from attending or participating as described in the Building Principal's email dated April 24, 2026 and thereby impeding parent participation in educational decisions for student A.

Allegation 12: USD #437 set a deadline for the parents to provide information by May 6, 2026 so it could be considered and incorporated in the draft IEP thereby impeding parent participation in education decisions for student A.

Allegation 13: USD #437 pre-drafted an IEP thereby pre-determining the IEP for student A and impeding parent participation in educational decisions for student A.

LEA Position

The LEA noted that courts interpreting IDEA have consistently recognized that meaningful parent participation does not require districts to adopt every parental request or preferred educational approach, but rather requires districts to provide opportunities for participation, communication, and collaborative discussion. See Board of Education v. Rowley, 458 U.S. 176 (1982); Endrew F. v. Douglas County School District, 580 U.S. 386 (2017). Courts have additionally recognized that predetermination occurs only where districts refuse to consider parent input or make decisions without meaningful participation opportunities. See Deal v. Hamilton County Board of Education, 392 F.3d 840 (6th Cir. 2004). The actions of the LEA demonstrates ongoing communication, procedural safeguards, repeated invitations for participation, and continued district willingness to review concerns and consider revisions through the IEP process. Accordingly, the LEA has provided the parents with meaningful opportunities to participate in educational decision-making regarding Student A during the 2025-26 school year.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews and a review of documentation. Note that the findings of Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.

1) The parents reported they emailed two of the IEP Team members at the September 25, 2025 IEP Team meeting, specifically the Special Education Department Chair and the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager, to ask "whether they recalled the medical, personal care, and communication information shared by the parents at that meeting". However, neither WRHS staff person responded to these questions.
2) The parents stated, "Over the course of several months, [the parents] submitted multiple written requests asking why information shared at [student A's] IEP meeting regarding her use of her beads and her stimming had not been incorporated into her IEP . . . These written requests received no response from any district personnel".

3) The parents indicated that they "submitted written questions asking why [student A's] medical information — including her spinal tumor's impact on toileting sensation, her hypotonia-related GI challenges, and her medication side effects — was not included in her IEP and was not utilized in the decisions made on April 23 and 24, 2026 that resulted in her removal from school. Neither WRHS Principal, WRHS Assistant Principal, Director of Secondary Special Education, Special Education Department Chair, nor Special Education Teacher / Case Manager provided any written response to these inquiries. This non- response denied parents their federally guaranteed right to meaningful participation and triggered an unanswered Prior Written Notice obligation".
4) An email chain between the WRHS Assistant Principal and the mother on April 24, 2026 between 9:44 and 10:48 AM discussed the reasons student A was being sent home a second day due to diarrhea with the LEA referencing the Shawnee County School Communicable Disease Exclusion Guidelines and the mother's reporting such a document does not exist per the Shawnee County Health Department. The mother believes the WRHS Assistant Principal purposely lied in order to justify sending student A home that day.
5) An email dated April 24, 2026 at 11:46 AM written by the WRHS Principal to the mother stating, "I want to clarify the basis for the health office decision today. The WRHS Student Handbook states: "Please do not send your child to school if he/she has been ill (vomiting, diarrhea, etc.) or has had a fever of over 100.4 degrees within the last 24 hours." This is the standard our health office follows when students are experiencing symptoms such as diarrhea. The communicable disease document used by school districts in coordination with the Shawnee County Health Agency identifies diarrhea as "2 or more loose or watery stools in 24 hours" and states the return standard as "No diarrhea for 24 hours or per disease protocols or note from healthcare provider." Our health office practices are also aligned with guidance from the Kansas Department of Health and Environment for managing communicable diseases in school settings. That guidance supports symptom-based decision making by school nurses and coordination with public health resources when needed. Based on [student A's] current symptoms, the determination remains that she needs to be picked up today. She will continue to be supervised and supported while awaiting your arrival".
6) The mother was contacted and asked to pick up the student on the morning of April 24, 2026; however, she disagreed with the decision to send the student home a second day and she and WRHS Assistant Principal and the WRHS Principal emailed back and forth between 9:44 AM and 2:56 PM that day regarding the decision and rationale. Student A remained isolated in the school nurse's office until the father left work early and picked the student up from school in the afternoon of April 24, 2026.
7) In an email dated April 24, 2026 at 2:32 PM the mother requested a copy of student A's nurse's office visit log for that date as well as "documentation of a student who has had to be kept in the nurses office all day long and what symptoms they might have exhibited that would justify them not being in their class".

8) The Director of Secondary Special Education acknowledged there was an informal meeting held on May 6, 2026 involving LEA staff to review the medical notes provided by the parents and to draft proposed changes for amending student A's September 25, 2025 IEP.
9) Two Notifications of Meeting forms were sent to the parent for possible IEP Team meeting dates and times of May 15 or May 19, 2026 following the informal meeting.
10) The LEA also sent the parents a PWN proposing to conduct an IEP meeting in order to consider amending student A's based on the medical information in the notes.
11) The PWN dated May 6, 2026 states, "On 05/06/2026, we met to review the evaluation/assessment data on your child, including any evaluations or information you provided, current classroom-based assessments and observations, and teacher or other staff observations to determine, with your input: to enable your child to meet the measurable annual goals set in the IEP and to participate, as appropriate, in the general curriculum".
12) The Director of Secondary Special Education indicated the LEA used the KSDE model PWN form which automatically includes a statement indicating the IEP Team met on the date listed on the PWN. The Director of Secondary Special Education acknowledged that this form can be very confusing in situations like this when the PWN is used to propose an IEP Team meeting.

Conclusion

In this case, Allegations 3, 4, and 5 all involve various WRHS staff not responding to questions emailed by the parents. These questions were focused on why certain health, personal care, and communication information had not been included in the September 25, 2025 IEP. As noted in Issue One, the parents were provided with drafts of the IEP for student A, reviewed those drafts, and provided feedback for additional information that should be included in the IEP, and the LEA incorporated that feedback into the final copy of the September 25, 2025 IEP. If this information needed to be included in the IEP, the parents were provided with the opportunity to add such information and thus certainly had the opportunity to participate in the development of the September 25, 2025 IEP. The fact that various WRHS staff failed to respond to emailed questions is a personnel matter and the IDEA does not address personnel issues.

Allegation 6 involves an incident on April 24, 2026 when the student was sent home a second day for diarrhea and the WRHS Assistant Principal referenced a specific guidance document in an email as the rationale for the student being sent home.. The parent disagreed with this decision and contacted the health department and found that the specific guidance document did not exist. At that point, the WRHS Principal email the parent explaining the decision to send student A home that day referencing the WRHS Student handbook, the communicable disease document used by school districts in coordination with the Shawnee County Health Agency and noting that WRHS health office practices are also aligned with guidance from the Kansas Department of Health and Environment for managing communicable diseases in school settings. The WRHS Principal noted that this guidance supports symptom-based decision making by school nurses and coordination with public health resources when needed and again asked the mother to come pick up student A.

Allegation 9 is also based on the situation which occurred on April 24, 2026. The mother requested personal health information about students at WRHS related to being excluded from school for medical reasons and the LEA rightly refused to provide such information in order to protect student's confidential health information.

In this case the LEA acknowledged that while the WRHS Assistant Principal initially referred to the wrong documents in explaining the decision to send the student home, the mother was subsequently provided the correct references by the WRHS Principal the same morning of the misstatements from the WRHS Assistant Principal. Based on the foregoing, the parents were provided with the requested information in a timely manner in spite of the original error.

Allegations 11, 12, and 13 all involve an alleged IEP Team meeting that was held without the parents being invited. Based on documentation and interviews, the LEA did conduct a meeting on May 6, 2026 with only LEA staff to understand the information in the two medical notes recently provided by the parents and to draft possible changes to discuss at an IEP meeting to consider amending the September 25, 2025 IEP. This type of informal meeting is allowed as described in federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.501(b)(3). Following that meeting, the LEA sent the parents two meeting notifications on May 8, 2026 scheduling an IEP Team meeting for two possible dates and times.

In addition, the LEA also sent that parents a PWN proposing to conduct an IEP meeting to review the updated medical information and to consider amending or revising the September 25, 2026 IEP. The May 8, 2026 PWN included the following statement - "On 05/06/2026, we met to review the evaluation/assessment data on your child, including any evaluations or information you provided, current classroom-based assessments and observations, and teacher or other staff observations to determine, with your input: to enable your child to meet the measurable annual goals set in the IEP and to participate, as appropriate, in the general curriculum". This statement suggests that the parents were in attendance at a meeting held on May 8, 2026; however, that is not the case. It is understandable why the parents were confused and alarmed to be informed in the PWN that the IEP Team had apparently met without them. This is why the PWN notice form should not have been used to propose an IEP Team meeting as already described in the two Notification of Meeting forms dated May 6, 2026 which were also sent to the parents.

It is found that the LEA did comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.501(b)(3) because the LEA did not actually conduct an IEP Team meeting without inviting the parents as suggested by the PWN dated May 6, 2026; however, it is recommended that the IEP update their practices for when to use the Notification of Meeting form and the PWN form so as not to confuse and alarm any additional parents.

It is acknowledged that some communications between the IEP team members and parents were not always clearly understood but ultimately none of these miscommunications were in violation of IDEA regulations. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance for providing the parents with opportunities for meaningful participation in education decisions for student A during the 2025 - 26 school year.

Student B

The parents made three allegations of systemic violations of the IDEA for student A and 11 peers at WRNMS. These three allegations were all related to one IDEA issue which was investigated.

Issue One

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to protect the confidentiality of personally identifiable information for 12 students on April 28, 2026, specifically by emailing the parents of the 12 students and identifying each student as a student with a disability.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.610 requires public agencies to ensure the protection of the confidentiality of any personally identifiable data, information, and records collected or maintained by the public agency.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §99.3 defines personally identifiable information as any information that can be used to identify a student and it protects personally identifiable information from being disclosed without consent from the student or their guardians. Disability status is considered to be personally identifiable information.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §99.3 defines directory information as information contained in an education record of a student that would not generally be considered harmful or an invasion of privacy if disclosed. Directory information includes, but is not limited to, the student's name; address; telephone listing; electronic mail address; photograph; date and place of birth; major field of study; grade level; enrollment status (e.g., undergraduate or graduate, full-time or part-time); dates of attendance; participation in officially recognized activities and sports; weight and height of members of athletic teams; degrees, honors, and awards received; and the most recent educational agency or institution attended.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §99.7 require public agencies to annually notify parents and eligible students of their rights under the Family Education Right to Privacy Act (FERPA), including: 1) the types of information designated as directory information, 2) the right to refuse disclosure of directory information, 3) the period of time to opt out, and 4) the method for opting out.

Parent Position

The parents made the following three allegations against USD #437:

Allegation 1: USD #437 disclosed personally identifiable information about 12 students without obtaining prior written consent of their parents on April 28, 2026.

Allegation 2: USD #437 failed to ensure the confidentiality of student B and 11 peers on April 28, 2026.

Allegation 3: USD #437 failed to inform the twelve parents that the email on April 28, 2026 was a group email which resulted in three parents replying and exposing personally identifiable information about their child.

LEA Position

The LEA acknowledged that a clerical error occurred in the delivery of a group email on April 28, 2026 which involved student B and 11 peers at WRNMS. While the LEA maintains rigorous standards for student privacy, in this specific instance, the protocol regarding blind carbon copy (bcc) usage was not followed. The LEA has taken immediate and documented corrective action to remediate the breach and prevent recurrence.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews and a review of documentation.

1. The WRNMS Student Handbook for the 2025-26 School Year includes a list of the information that USD #437 has designated the following as directory information: a) Student's name, address, telephone number, date of birth, and parent's name; b) Student's participation in officially recognized school activities and sports; c) The weight, height and grade of members of athletic teams; d) The dates of attendance; e) Scholarships and awards received; f) The most recent previous school district attended by the student; g) Photograph, audio recording, or video recording of student at school or school-sponsored activity; and h) Student's school email address as provided by USD 437.
2. The Director of Secondary Special Education reported the parents of student B had not opted out from the release of personally identifiable information for the 2025-26 school year.
3. The Special Education Teacher / Case Manager sent a group email on April 28, 2026 at 11:53 AM to the parents of 12 students, including the parents of student B, with the subject line "Your student is eligible for ESY" and requesting a response from each parent regarding attendance so that transportation could be arranged.
4. The mother sent an email at 12:25 PM on April 28, 2026 to the WRNMS Principal, the Secondary Special Education Director, the Superintendent, and the ADA/504 Coordinator and Executive Director of HR which stated, "While you are at it, you might want to do a little training on FERPA, and how publicly including the email addresses of parents on a list that is titled "Your student Is eligible for ESY" is a violation of said federal law".

5. An email dated April 29, 2026 at 1:42 PM written by the WRNMS Principal to the Director of Secondary Special Education confirmed that a formal corrective action meeting to address the breach and adjust communication practices had been held with the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager.
6. The Director of Secondary Special Education sent an email dated May 19, 2026 at 9:49 AM describing planned actions to address the breach in confidentiality by conducting training with all special education staff during the August Inservices prior to the start of the 2026-27 school year about the requirement to use blind carbon copy when sending a group email to ensure confidentiality as well as updating the districtwide Special Education Handbook with this guidance.

Conclusion

In this case, the LEA did not designate the email addresses of student's parents as directory information for the 2025-26 school year. On April 28, 2026 at 11:53 AM, the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager sent a group email to the parents of 12 students which disclosed the disability status of those students. As a result of this email, two pieces of personally identifiable information were shared.

The LEA administrators first learned of this breach of confidentiality on April 28, 2026 at 12:25 PM through an email sent by the mother. In response, the WRNMS Principal met with the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager on April 29, 2026 to address the breach of confidentiality and adjust communication practices during a formal corrective action meeting. In addition, the Director of Secondary Special Education plans to update the districtwide Special Education Handbook to include guidance for sending group emails as well as provide training for all special education staff regarding this guidance prior to the start of the 2026-27 school year. However, the parents of the 12 students were not informed of the breach in confidentiality and the plan for correction.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT of compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.610 for failing to ensure the protection of the confidentiality of any personally identifiable data, information, and records collected or maintained by the public agency. As such, corrective action is required.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

Student A

Issue One: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA or Kansas regulations was found.

Issue Two: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA regulations was found.

Issue Three: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA or Kansas regulations was found.

Student B

Issue One: Violations of federal regulations were found at 34 C.F.R. §300.610 and corrective action is required as described below:

1. Within 20 days of the date of this report, the LEA will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.610 which require public agencies to ensure the protection of the confidentiality of any personally identifiable data, information, and records collected or maintained by the public agency.
2. Within 30 days of the date of this report, the LEA will send a letter to the parents of the 12 affected students acknowledging the breach of confidentiality and describing the corrective actions taken as a result of the incident. The LEA will provide SETS with a copy of the letter and documentation the letters were mailed to the parents.
3. Prior to the first day of the 2026-27 school year, the LEA will update the districtwide Special Education Handbook to include a procedure for using blind carbon copy when sending a group email to ensure confidentiality of personally identifiable information and notify all special education staff in the district of this update. The LEA will provide SETS with a copy of the updated procedure and documentation of staff notification no later than August 31, 2026.
4. Prior to the first day of the 2026-27 school year, the LEA will provide training for all special education staff regarding the requirements of the Family Education Rights to Privacy Act specifically addressing personally identifiable information and the LEA's procedures for sending group emails to parents. In addition, the training will include notifying staff of what the LEA has designated as directory information for the 2026-27 school year. No later than August 31, 2026, the LEA will provide SETS with documentation that the training was provided including who provided the training, when the training was provided, and copies of the training agenda and the presentation slides and/or handouts.

Nancy Thomas, M.Ed., Complaint Investigator

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 437
Auburn - Washburn Public Schools: 26FC437-014

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on May 4, 2026, by ------- on behalf of their children ------- and -------. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the parents." ------- will be referred to as “student A” and ------- will be referred to as “student B.” An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on June 8, 2026. That Complaint Report concluded that there was no violation of special education statutes and regulations with regard to student A and one violation with regards to student B.

Thereafter, the parents filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the parent’s notice of appeal, the parents email, dated June 9, 2026, and the district’s response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The parents made 14 allegations of violations of the IDEA for student A. None of these allegations were substantiated by the investigator. For student B, the parent made 3 allegations of a systemic violation, all related to a single incident, in which confidential student information involving student B and 11 other students was released without parent consent. These allegations were substantiated.

The parents' appeal came in an email dated June 8, 2026. The email consisted of two pages which did not identify which findings, conclusions or even which issues were being appealed. The closest statement regarding which issues were being appealed appeared near the end of the email in which the parents stated "To be clear, we appeal the entire findings regarding (student A)…"

In a separate email sent to the appeal committee by the parents on June 9, 2026, the parents' stated in whole, "Please find the "misrepresentations," LIES, of [school administrator] in just ONE email from May 14th. This one email from [the director] violates IDEA 7 times!!! In writing! Please explain how you can justify finding this LEA as compliant with IDEA??? It is absurd!"

This email did not appear to be relevant to the complaint report as it referred to a Prior Written Notice (PWN) dated May 14, 2026. This complaint was filed on May 4, 2026. A member of the Special Education and Title Services (SETS) team contacted the parents in a reply email on June 11, 2026 noting that it was unclear what relevance the parents' June 9, 2026 email had with this appeal, and asking, whether the parent sent this email as part of her appeal, and if so, to "please clarify which issue or issues to which it applies."

The parents' responded by email on June 11, 2026, stating their June 9, 2026 email applied to both this appeal and to another complaint currently being investigated. In this response, the parents stated:

> If you read the email, you will see that it applies to both cases, as it clearly outlines the full history of our request for a full IEP meeting, and the number of places in which Jamie Callahan lied and said she issued a PWN and did not, or stated that she proposed a full IEP meeting, but actually only proposed a medical information only meeting, etc, etc. I have literally laid every single piece and violation out for you. But, you do have to read. So you really will have to go allegation by allegation and tie it back to all of these issues, as it is highly complicated and has lots of moving parts. The fact that you can't tie together, which part of this email applies to our appeal is highly concerning. Your investigator just found that the school district was completely IN Compliance With ignoring Our request, and this goes back to my request to the appeal committee to go through our original complaint allegation by allegation and tie it back to the fact that Nancy did not investigate all of the violations of the district and that these emails and information clearly outline all the ways that they have violated IDA over and over and over and over and over. So, if you want me to point out which > pieces of this email point to what allegations then you need to go to my original complaints and tie this email back to each individual complaint because it lays it all out for you. But, you will have to read and you will have to go through all of the stuff that I submitted to the investigator. I submitted all of this to the investigator. I submitted everything the school district sent to us to the investigator. By negating, the fact that this LEA outright lied about everything from the beginning of our IEP request and ignoring this email because it was after my complaint, but is in regard to things that were a part of my complaint, is exceedingly frustrating. This demonstrates right here that this LEA Has fully violated our child's rights, and our parental rights, over and over and over. If the appeals committee has decided to actively ignore evidence in front of them, And refuses to go back and look at my original complaints and tie them back to all the evidence that I have provided, and that the investigator chose not to include in her , then that just continues to support my complaint to OSEP. How are you at KSDE organizing and accessing all of the evidence that I have provided to the investigator in regard to these multiple complaints that are part of these decisions and my appeal?? If you can't see how this email below from Jamie Callaghan and my outlining of all the ways she violates IDA with her lies, applies to the multiple complaints that were a part of the current investigation and the investigation that we had a decision from Nancy on this week, then I am really confused about what it is you do at KSTE and how you are organizing your own evidence and your own documentation.

While the Appeal Committee sympathizes with the parents' frustrations it finds nothing in the appeal materials presented to the committee that convinces it that any of the facts or conclusions in the report are incorrect.

Each complaint report that is issued by this agency, including the report issued in this complaint, includes a full copy of the Kansas regulation governing the appeal of a complaint report. That regulation, K.A.R. 91-40-5(f)(1), states, in relevant part, that:

This appeal did not provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect on any of the issues under appeal. The parents' request that the Committee go thorough the parents' original complaint allegation by allegation. The Committee declines this request because it does not have authority under this state regulation to conduct a separate investigation. The authority of the Appeal Committee is restricted to an analysis of whether the findings or conclusions in the report are correct based on the "detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." The burden of providing this detailed statement is assigned by state regulation to the appealing party. The parents have not met this burden.

The Committee closely examined the complaint report's findings and analysis, and believes the conclusions to be legally sound. Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 30th day of June, 2026.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #500, KANSAS CITY KANSAS PUBLIC SCHOOLS
ON JUNE 12, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JULY 13, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #500 (Kansas City Kansas Public Schools) on behalf of _____ by her mother, _____. In the remainder of the report, _____ will be referred to as "the student" and _____ as "the mother" or "the complainant."

The complaint is against USD #500 (Kansas City Kansas Public Schools). In the remainder of the report, USD #500 will be referred to as "the Local Education Agency" or "LEA". When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student." In this case USD #500 provides their own special education services. Local Education Agency staff will be referred to In the remainder of this report as follows:

- Andrea Richardson, Director Special Education PreK-5
- Ann Kelly, Special Education Coordinator
- Katina Brenn, Director of Special Education

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date in which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on June 12, 2026.

Evidence Reviewed

During the investigation, the Complaint Investigator, Donna Wickham, reviewed all evidence and documentation provided by the Local Education Agency, the parent and PACES Service Coordinator. The investigator initially interviewed the mother and Nolan Moore, PACES Service Coordinator from Wyandot Behavioral Health Network by phone on June 17. Andrea Williams, the student's targeted case manager for the IDD waiver and the PACES Service Coordinator were individually interviewed on June 29, 2026. Emails were exchanged between the mother and investigator on June 18, 19, 20, and 22, 2026. An interview was conducted with the Early Childhood Special Education Coordinator, Special Education Coordinator, and Special Education Director representing the LEA on July 7, 2026. Members of the IEP team were not available for interview during the summer while not on teaching contracts.

While all evidence was reviewed, ultimately, some of the evidence was older than twelve months and summarized in the Background information section or not related to the issues investigated. The following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Letter from Director Special Education PreK-5 to parent dated June 30, 2026
2. Prior Written Notice for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent (PWN) dated May 14, 2026, parent consent signed May 14, 2026.
3. IEP amendment without a meeting dated May 14, 2026 signed by parent May 14, 2026.
4. Heartland ABA Initial Assessment Report dated May 2026.
5. Individualized Education Program dated April 7, 2026
6. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act Accommodation Plan Reviewed September 29, 2025.
7. Special Education Cooperative Evaluation/Initial Eligibility Report dated April 15, 2025

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a nine-year-old who completed third grade at a local elementary school during the 2025-2026 school year and is eligible for special education and related services with the exceptionality category of giftedness since April 2025.

The student was first evaluated at an outpatient Occupational Therapist appointment on February 4, 2022 with parent concerns for Autism. The student was later evaluated for Autism and the findings presented in a June 22, 2022 Final Psychological Report from the Children's Mercy Division of Developmental and Behavioral Sciences. The evaluation found that the student met the diagnostic criteria for Autism Spectrum Disorder, social communication Severity Level 1, restricted/repetitive behaviors and interests, Severity Level 1, without accompanying intellectual disability and language impairment and Unspecified Anxiety Disorder, R/O Generalized Anxiety Disorder.

A Section 504 plan was developed at the student's home school on February 28, 2023 using academic records, discipline (sic) reports, classroom observations, medical records and parent input. The release of information to obtain the Children's Mercy medical records was signed by the parent on March 2, 2023. Accommodations were provided related to anxiety, medical and sensory issues. The mother reported as part of this initial 504 evaluation that the student is struggling socially with peers since July 2022 and needs to learn to self-advocate. It further is written that lack of supports or prompts at school gives the student anxiety, creating behaviors at home that are "masked" for behaviors at school. The health history also indicated Autism Spectrum Disorder.

The student was initially evaluated for giftedness during an evaluation dated April 15, 2025. The student receives the 210 minutes of direct gifted services at a neighboring elementary school one day every week. The April 7, 2026 IEP reports that the student excels in classwork, using critical thinking and problem solving and it is important to continue to challenge the student in the general education and special education settings. It further indicates that accommodations will be in place to address the student's anxieties.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

Did the District develop an IEP for the student during the 2025-26 school year that addressed the student's needs for gifted and talented services in addition to social emotional, language, listening comprehension, behavior, nursing (access to asthma inhaler), transportation associated with a 2022 outside medical diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder?

Applicable Law

K.S.A. at 72-3429(c)(1)(A) states that the IEP for each exceptional child shall include a statement of the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance, including how the child's disability or giftedness affects the child's involvement and progress in the general education curriculum. Further, a statement of measurable annual goals, including academic and functional goals designed to meet the child's needs that result from the child's disability or giftedness, to enable the child to be involved in and make progress in the general education or advanced curriculum; and (B) meet each of the child's other educational needs that result from the child's disability or giftedness must be included (K.S.A.72-3420(c)(2)(A) and (B)).

Parent Position

The parent wrote in her child complaint that the student's IEP only identifies giftedness as the student's exceptionality, but in fact the student has a medical diagnosis of autism spectrum disorder impacting the student social/emotional, language and listening comprehension that the LEA has known about since the 504 evaluation. The LEA has refused to identify these needs despite being provided with the evaluations and recommendations from the student's physicians, parents and daily evidence of impairment. Due to this the student is not receiving the support and accommodation necessary for the student to meeting the student's needs.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA responded to the parent on June 30, 2026 as follows: "We are writing in response to your letter dated June 12, 2026 in which you expressed concerns regarding the addition of Autism as an exceptionality and including supports and accommodations for social/emotional and related needs, including transportation and nursing plan. First, we want to acknowledge your dedication to [student's] education and well-being. We understand the importance of ensuring that all services and supports are delivered in accordance with the Individualized Education Program (IEP) and applicable laws." Further, "We found that medical documentation had been provided to the educational team, behaviors and other characteristics potentially related to the diagnosis were identified in the school setting as well as potential impact. We found that the team had discussed and took measures to add accommodations and modifications to the IEP as well as the decision to not add special transportation." As the next steps the LEA proposed, 1) "We will schedule an IEP team meeting on an agreed upon date to review and revise the IEP to ensure accommodations and modifications address identified areas of concern impacting access, progress and participation in the general education and special education curriculum". 2) "Review documentation to determine if a re-evaluation is necessary to determine eligibility under the category of Autism as a primary or secondary exceptionality or whether to note in within the IEP and present level to help guide services." 3) "Review documentation to determine if a formal nursing plan is needed as part of the IEP to address diagnoses." and 4) Review documentation to define and assess the educational impacts related to transportation and determine need for specialized transportation as part of the IEP."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The student was medically diagnosed with Autism Spectrum Disorder and Unspecified Anxiety Disorder on June 15, 2022 by Children's Mercy Hospital.
2. The February 28, 2023 Section 504 initial evaluation referral documents that the parent wrote an Autism diagnosis as a basis of the referral to the LEA and signed a release of information for the LEA to obtain medical information from Children's Mercy Hospital. The student was provided a Section 504 plan subsequent to the 504 evaluation for access to an inhaler for asthma, social skills and sensory issues that has been continuously in place since February 2023. The 504 plan reviewed on September 19, 2025 documents the student experiences physical or mental impairment which substantially limits one or more of his/her major life activities to include: 1) limitations in activities of daily living in breathing with an accommodation for the student to have permission to go to nurse when needed for asthma symptoms or caring for self; 2) use of a break card to request a break, participation in social skills group at school and a Classroom Teacher check-in with the student to check level of understanding and emotion regulation due to anxiety around communicating with peers and adults; 3) access to flexible seating options (wobble chair and seat cushions in the classroom due to sensory input needs; and 4) access to district transportation (bus to and from school) to assist with anxiety in coming to school and learning life skills.

3. The initial evaluation for gifted education occurring during April 2025 did not refer to the June 15, 2022 Children's Mercy report medically diagnosing Autism Spectrum Disorder. The parent, targeted case manager and educational advocate stated to the investigator that the Children's Mercy evaluation was provided to the student's home school following the evaluation but was not used during the gifted evaluation.
4. The Special Education Coordinator stated to the investigator that during the May 14, 2026 meeting with the parent it was determined that the LEA staff attending the meeting did not have the Children's Mercy report and the targeted case manager emailed it to the Special Education Coordinator during the meeting.
5. The Special Education Coordinator stated that the parent did not request a special education evaluation for autism during the May 14, 2026 meeting after explaining that there is a distinction between a medical and educational autism diagnosis. The letter dated June 30, 2026 indicates that the LEA review documentation to "determine if a re-evaluation is necessary to determine eligibility under the category of Autism as a primary or secondary exceptionality or whether to note in within the IEP and present level to help guide services."
6. The parent, targeted case manager and service coordinator stated that a special education evaluation to consider Autism as an eligibility category was being planned at the beginning of the 2026-27 school year.
7. The April 7, 2026 annual IEP, amended on May 14, 2026 documents that the student receives gifted services and does not have behavior or communication needs nor have an individualized nursing care plan in the Special Considerations section. The IEP only lists transportation between the student's school of attendance and the school where gifted services are provided. The IEP documents that specialized transportation is not necessary for the student. The parental concern section indicates that the mother would like the student to self-advocate for some of the student's school anxieties such as school work and other tasks.

   It is check marked that the team considered the functional performance of the student and determined that there were no needs. The LEA did not have any staff attending the annual IEP available to the investigator to verify or describe this discussion. The parent, targeted case manager and services coordinator stated that the parent's concern was related to the student becoming anxious when not understanding expectations or changes at school. The parent stated the student managed the anxiety at school, but at home the student's anxiety was expressed through behaviors and not wanting to go to school the next day. The parent stated that she wanted the IEP team to teach the student to learn to "self-advocate" rather than masking it inside at school and letting it out as behavior at home. The parent reported that the staff stated that because this behavior occurred outside of school it was not an educational concern to be addressed by the IEP. It is noted that this concern was a re-statement of the concern identified in the initial referral for the Section 504 evaluation in February 2023. The IEP included one goal, " given a problem/project based learning opportunity, the student will apply critical thinking and problem solving skills, using provided materials, achieving a score of 10 out of 12 on a teacher created rubric, with these higher order thinking components: curious and questioning; productive thinking; risk-taking; applying concepts and formulas; evaluative thinking, as measured by teacher created rubric." This goal is met by 210 direct gifted service minutes one day every week outside the general education classroom at a different elementary school that provided Quest, the LEA's gifted services. Thirty minutes of transportation services are provided one day every week to bus the student to the different elementary school. Five accommodations were written into the student's IEP including 1) access to enrichment materials on a daily basis in the general education setting, 2) access to an inhaler for Asthma; 3) use of fidgets in the general and special education setting during seated tasks; 4) use of flexible seating in the general and special education settings during seated tasks; and 5) access to a sensory break when requested. These accommodations were simultaneously listed in the student's Section 504 plan. Both parties agree that the 504 accommodations were added to the IEP to ensure that staff at both schools had all of the student's needs consolidated in one document.

8. The PWN dated May 14, 2026 is signed by the parent and added the "sensory accommodations" (written in the Section 504 plan) to the student's IEP. The handwritten notes taken during this meeting state, "student will have access to accommodations however student will need to request on own."
9. The parent and service coordinator stated to the investigator that there is a critical need for the student to learn to self-advocate for use of the inhaler. They recounted an incident that the student asked to use the inhaler during class and the teacher asked the student to wait until after class to get it from the nurse. The service coordinator stated this is an incident of the student's Autism Spectrum Disorder characteristics impacting the student as the student accepted the teacher's direction rather than self-advocate and state it was needed immediately. The LEA staff agreed this was unacceptable but were unaware of the incident. Staff that work directly with the student were not available for interview by the investigator to clarify the incident.
10. The Heartland ABA Initial Assessment Report May 2026 indicated that based on the assessment the student would benefit from receiving ten hours of direct ABA services to address communication, social skills, maladaptive behaviors, requests, labeling, intraverbals, social interactions, play and leisure. In addition, the ABA services would address in appropriate vocalizations and property destruction, overly needy or dependent, anxious or nervous behavior, temper tantrums and avoidance in interacting with others. The parent and targeted case manager stated that this report has been provided to the student's IEP team.
11. The LEA stated that the parent's request for transportation between home and school was discussed during the April and May 2026 meetings and the need is not related to a special education issue, but a parent request for transportation between home and school. According to LEA policy because the student is not attending the home elementary school bus transportation is not guaranteed. Alternately transportation is provided for the student to received gifted services.

Conclusion

The parent's complaint was related to whether the IEP team had addressed the student's anxiety, behaviors associated with a medical diagnosis of autism, and access to a medically-needed inhaler. The evidence provided by the parent and LEA show that these concerns had been consistently identified by the parent as far back as 2023 when the parent first indicated that the student had an Autism diagnosis in the 504 evaluation referral request. Although, the current IEP indicated that the parent's concern was discussed and the IEP team determined it did not need to be addressed through goals or services there was no documentation to show how the need was discussed, beyond the parent stating to the investigator that because the behaviors were not observed to occur at school it was not considered to be educationally relevant. The investigation was hindered as the student's direct teaching staff were not available during the summer to interview with the investigator but given that the concern was consistently identified and the parent, targeted case manager and service coordinator described that the behavior was tied to the student masking anxiety and skill deficits at school it is determined that the IEP team did not adequately address this need during the annual IEP meeting or May 14, 2026 meeting where these concerns were again brought to the team. Additionally, the IEP indicated there were no concerns with behavior or communication when accommodations written into the IEP specifically address behavioral concerns associated with anxiety. It is noted that in the June 30, 2026 letter to the parent a meeting at the beginning of the 2026-2027 school year is proposed to address many of these issues.

Although the parent alleged that transportation between home and school was not considered as a special education need, it is found that the IEP team discussed and determined that specialized transportation was not needed. Therefore, the LEA relied on district policy in denying district transportation between home and school as it was not a special education issue.

Finally, it is found that the parent made a request (or the equivalent) for a special education evaluation for her student related to behavior associated with ASD, anxiety, etc. and the LEA has an obligation to provide a PWN following consideration of that request at the meeting in which the June 2022 medical evaluation was provided to the LEA.

In sum, it is found that although the student's IEP is written for giftedness, the parent consistently identified concerns related to anxiety, behavior, and medical access to a prescribed inhaler which were not discussed in terms of services or goals at either the annual IEP or during the IEP amendment. Instead they were listed as accommodations first as part of a Section 504 plan and later added to the student's IEP at the request of the parent. Further, the handwritten note from the May 14, 2026 meeting indicated that the student would need to ask for the accommodation, something that the parent had continually stated the student could not do and needed to learn to do. It is acknowledged that the June 30, 2026 letter to the parent offers a meeting with the parent to address the parent's concerns regarding anxiety, behavior and unfettered access to the prescribed inhaler. Therefore the LEA is out of compliance with implementing K.S.A.72-3420(c)(2)(A) and (B).

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: A violation of K.S.A.72-3420(c)(2)(A) and (B) was found. Corrective action is required as follows.

1. Provide assurances to SETS that it will follow K.S.A.72-3420(c)(2)(A) and (B) within two weeks following the sixty (60) days at the conclusion of the investigation.
2. Provide the parent with a prior written notice either agreeing to conduct a special education evaluation to consider the parent concerns about eligibility for Autism, behavioral concerns, anxiety or declining to evaluate within one week of the student returning to school. A copy of the PWN shall be provided to SETS within one week of providing the PWN to the parent.
3. Reconvene the IEP team within two weeks of the student returning to school to discuss the parent's identified concerns: 1) how the student will access the inhaler across to two school settings to determine if two inhalers will be kept for the student or transported and how the student will request the inhaler and be granted its access; 2) teaching self-advocacy skills when requesting the inhaler, when unsure of expectations, experiencing anxiety at school, 3) connecting the student to the social work/counselor resources for anxiety at school and teaching the student how to self-advocate to use these resources. A copy of the IEP meeting minutes, amended IEP, and/or PWN will be provided to SETS within one week of the meeting documenting the discussion and decisions. Additionally, the procedures for the inhaler storage, access will be documented as a set of procedures. A copy of the procedures and evidence that the procedures have been provided to the school staff at both school and parent shall be provided to SETS as well.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #521
ON FEBRUARY 19, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: APRIL 24, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of students attending Lawrence Gardner High School by an employee of the LEA, -------. For the remainder of the report, the students will be referred to as "the Students" and the employee as "the Complainant."

The Complaint is against USD #521. In the remainder of the report, "the High School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #521.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the systemic complaint on February 19, 2026 and the timeline was extended to April 15, 2026.

Allegations

The following issue will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #521, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), ensured an Individualized Education Program/Plan (IEP) was in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of the school year to the filing of the Complaint. K.A.R. 91-40-16 (b)(3); 34 CFR § 300.323.

The High School, served by USD #521, is an accredited school located on the main campus of the Kansas Juvenile Correctional Complex. Due to the nature of the facility and the movement of students in and out of the complex and the High School, the following additional statutes are relevant:

1. K.A.R. 91-40-5, A FAPE for Detained or Incarcerated Children with Disabilities.
2. K.A.R. 91-40-1(lll), Definitions

3. K.S.A. 72-3429(g)(1), Transfer of Child During School Year

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Complainant on April 1, 2026. The Director of Special Education and the Principal were interviewed on March 30, 2026. The School Psychologist and the Special Education Teacher submitted responses to written questions on April 7, 2026. Additional written responses were submitted by the Principal on April 7, 2026 and Teacher 7 on April 10, 2026.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Complainant and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the materials used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation are identified in Appendix A.

Background Information

This investigation involved high school students enrolled at the High School in USD #521. The Students are currently receiving special education or related services as children with disabilities per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA).

The LEA response described the High School as a "state institutional program" providing "educational services under Kansas special education regulations applicable to state institutions and correctional settings." Additionally, in an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Director of Special Education described the High School as a correctional facility for incarcerated youth, and described that educational services were provided in small classroom "pods," typically consisting of two adults and one to seven students, with teacher assignments based on behavioral management abilities, rather than specific subject licensure, and the curriculum was primarily online and accommodated for all students. The programming at the High School must function with the correctional facility's "… safety procedures, student movement restrictions, and security protocols while ensuring students maintain access to educational services consistent with their Individualized Education Programs (IEPs)."

In a written response, the Special Education Teacher described the intake and placement processes in effect when students enter the facility:

a. Intake: During their first 21 days at the facility, students transition from the "Reception and Diagnostic Unit" to quarantine units that constitute a "highly restrictive educational setting." According to the Special Education Teacher, this placement significantly limits traditional school participation in implementing state-mandated programming, including health and substance abuse assessments. According to the Special Education Teacher, while in this intake phase, the High School is required to conduct diagnostic and transition testing for up to one hour per day, a requirement mandated by the State.

i. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal described the Lion/Pride unit as a segregated intake/mental health unit for students who cannot "function … in the general population."

b. Placement: According to the Special Education Teacher, student access to education at the High School is dictated by their housing assignment, which determines the level of restrictiveness and the method of instructional delivery. The Special Education Teacher described that the "General Population" is the least restrictive environment with the most consistent access to teachers. For students assigned to Restrictive Housing (RH), students typically receive packets in isolation rather than attending physical classrooms. Those under "Special Security Orders" face the most extreme limitations, as safety concerns prevent direct contact with staff and require students to work independently in their rooms. Specialized units support behavioral and mental health needs, but student participation remains governed by a color-coded status system. "Red Status" students in these units are prohibited from attending school entirely, while those on "Yellow" or "Green" status may attend with security-related modifications. According to the Special Education Teacher, these placement decisions and the resulting educational restrictions are mandated by the State Department of Corrections, rather than by the School's staff or a student's IEP team.

Relevant information from the High School's Instructional and Service Delivery Model indicated that it was designed to meet the needs of high-mobility learners, students with significant opportunity gaps, and students with diverse learning needs. According to the document, a high percentage of the High School's population experienced disabilities, and the High School "… meets students where they are by modifying work to their testing levels." The High School used a "high-tech, high-touch" approach, and every classroom was anchored by individualized digital pathways using a specific online platform, which allowed for immediate credit recovery, honors-level acceleration, and a curriculum that moved with each student, regardless of their entry/exit date. Certified educators provided daily direct instruction, small-group "pull aside" sessions, and one-on-one coaching to ensure mastery of the state College and Career-Ready Standards. Students could earn a diploma from the High School, reflecting their skill acquisition.

According to the Instructional Service and Delivery Model, the High School used a Multi-Tiered System of Supports (MTSS) to ensure the academic and behavioral needs of all students were met, with specific legal protections for students with disabilities. The Modifications and IEP Integration for the tiers included:

a. Tier I (universal): Accommodations (text-to-speech, extended time) were available to all as a Universal Design for Learning (UDL).
b. Tier II (targeted): Specially Designed Instruction (SDI) modification was delivered in these groups to address specific IEP goals.
c. Tier III (intensive): Intensive modifications and related services (speech and language, occupational therapy, and social work) were delivered with maximum fidelity.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation, interviews, and responses to written questions from the Complainant and LEA staff. The following relevant information was included for Students A-O.

Student A

1. Student A is a 17-year-old student eligible for special education services as a student who experiences a Specific Learning Disability (SLD).
   a. High School Entry Date: November 6, 2025.
2. According to the Student's schedule, Student A was scheduled in the following courses at the High School for the 2025-26 school year:
   a. Pre-Algebra B with the Math Teacher, English Language Arts (ELA) IB with the ELA Teacher, Physical Science A with the Science Teacher, Physical Education (PE) with the PE Teacher, Seminar with the Seminar Teacher, and College and Career Preparation II with the Math Teacher.
3. Student A's unofficial transcript, titled "Student Progress," reflects the following academic history for the 2025-26 school year:
   a. Semester 1: Completed at a previous school, earning five "C" grades for a total of 2.5 credits.
   b. Semester 2: Completed at the High School, earning one "D" grade, for 0.5 credits.
4. An IEP dated October 2, 2025, included:
   a. Attending school: A previous school.
   b. Transition Services were noted. Additionally, Student A "… completes the general education curriculum using an online platform."
   c. Annual goals were documented in writing, reading, and transition provided by a special education teacher and assisted by a general education teacher.
   d. Special Education and Related Services: "[Student A] will receive special education services 120 min[ute]s X 5 days per week, in the general education classroom, participating with [their] general education peers for ELA, Math, [Social Studies] SS, and Science."
   e. Accommodations and modifications were listed.
5. An undated Teacher Information Page listed Student A's services in the "Y [juvenile correction facility]" setting from November 6, 2025 to June 24, 2026:
   a. Special education services, primary provider: the Complainant (120 minutes/day, 5 days/week).
6. Between January 19, 2026 and February 16, 2026, Student A's time on task, self-control, and social skills behaviors were documented on five dates.

7. The Complainant explained even though Student A was listed on their caseload, "… I was never allowed to actually be with [Student A]." They added "no one" provided special education services to Student A.
8. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student A:
   a. The Special Education Teacher was responsible for implementing the services on Student A's October 2, 2025 IEP from the date of Student A's arrival on November 7, 2025 to December 1, 2025.
   b. From September 2, 2025 to December 1, 2025, the Complainant served as "supervised support staff" and completed "delegated administrative tasks" under the Special Education Teacher's direction to comply with the IDEA and State juvenile correctional facility mandates.
   c. Student A received instruction in reading and writing in an "integrated classroom setting" from a general or special educator and a paraprofessional. The Special Education Teacher collaborated regularly with general education staff on accommodations, behavior strategies, and instruction to meet Student A's needs.
   d. Student A's progress was monitored weekly via i-Ready, classroom performance, and modified curriculum and assessments based on Student A's needs.
   e. Documentation used to verify the implementation of special education services included i-Ready data, behavior records, progress reports, and teacher observations.
   f. On December 1, 2025, case management and IEP implementation duties transferred to the Complainant.

Student B

9. Student B is an 18-year-old student eligible for special education services as a student who experiences an Other Health Impairment (OHI).
   a. High School Entry Date: July 1, 2025.
10. According to the Quick Lookup, Student B was scheduled in the following courses at the High School for the 2025-26 school year:
   a. Algebra IB with the Math Teacher, College and Career Preparation II with the College and Career Teacher, ELA IIIA with the ELA Teacher, World History A/Geography A with Teacher 7, Advocacy with the Advocacy Teacher, and Physical Science B with the Science Teacher.
11. Student B's unofficial transcript, titled "Student Progress," reflected the following academic history for the 2025-26 school year:
   a. Semester 1: Completed at the High School, passing 8 of 9 classes with a "D-" or higher, earning 4.0 credits.
   b. Semester 2: Completed at the High School, earning one "D-" for 0.5 credits.
12. An IEP dated October 23, 2024, included:
   a. Attending school: the High School.

b. Transition Services were noted.

c. Annual goals:

   i. Person responsible: "Special Edu[cation] Teacher/General Ed[ucation]" for transition, reading, math, and writing goals.

d. Accommodations, modifications, and supportive aids were listed.

e. Special Education and Related Services from October 23, 2024 to October 22, 2025:

   i. Special Education in the Special Education Resources/ Pull- Out/Push-In "as per block scheduling [Student B] will receive 108 minutes of special education services 2 times a week every other week and 108 minutes of special education services 3 times a week every other week for 2 core classes. This averages out to 108 minutes of services per day, 5 days per week," for the duration of the IEP.

   ii. Case management as indirect services for five minutes every week for the duration of the IEP.

f. Alternative Services Plans #1 and #2 for remote learning were noted.

13. An undated Teacher Information Page listed Student B's services from October 23, 2024 to June 25, 2025:

    a. Case management, primary provider: Teacher 3 (5 minutes/week).

    b. Special education services, primary provider: Teacher 3 (108 minutes/5 days weekly).

14. Student B's behaviors, including time on task, self-control, and social skills, were documented across four separate log periods:

    a. May 5, 2025 – August 11, 2025: Documented on nine dates.

    b. August 18, 2025 – October 13, 2025: Documented on nine dates.

    c. October 20, 2025 – January 12, 2026: Documented on seven dates.

    d. January 19, 2026 – February 16, 2026: Documented on five dates.

15. An IEP dated October 16, 2025, indicated:

    a. Attending school: the High School.

    b. Transition services were noted.

    c. Annual goals:

    d. Persons responsible: A math teacher for the math goal, an English teacher for the writing goal, and "Teacher input and observation" for the health goal.

    e. Accommodations, modifications, and supportive aids were listed.

    f. Special Education and Related Services from October 16, 2025 to October 15, 2026:

       i. Special Education in the Special Education Resources/ Pull- Out/Push-In "as per block scheduling [Student B] will receive 108 minutes of special education services 2 times a week every other week and 108 minutes of special education services 3 times a week every other week for 2 core classes. This averages out to 108 minutes of services per day, 5 days per week" for the duration of the IEP.

ii. Case management, as indirect services, for five minutes every week for the duration of the IEP.

16. An undated Teacher Information Page listed Student B's services in the "Y" setting from October 16, 2025 to June 24, 2026:
    a. Case management, primary provider: the Special Education Teacher (5 minutes/week).
    b. Special education services, provider: the Complainant (108 minutes/5 days per week).
17. Student B's Progress Report comments from April 7, 2025 to April 23, 2025 included:
    a. Area of Mastery (Score of 8): Math.
    b. Area of Maintenance (Score of 5): Social-emotional.
    c. Areas of Regression (Scores of 2 - 4): Social-emotional, health, reading, and writing.
18. Student B's October 30, 2025 Progress Report comments included:
    a. Areas of Mastery (Score of 8): Social-emotional, reading.
    b. Areas of Regression (Score of 4): Health, math, and writing.
    c. Missing Documentation: One social-emotional entry lacked progress notes.
19. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Complainant explained they served as the case manager for Student B and partially authored their IEP. The Complainant indicated SDI was not effectively provided to Student B while the Complainant was assigned as a science teacher. Although the Complainant attempted to support Student B and check in during that time, they maintained that they could not fulfill their role while simultaneously managing the science classroom. Additionally, the Complainant shared that services from July 1 through October 16, 2025 were not implemented, "Unless you count me being in science class with [Student B], none of that was done." They added, " … I believe that the school psychologist met with [them] weekly for behavioral stuff, so that would count for a couple of minutes a week."
20. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student B:
    a. From July 2025 to December 1, 2025, the Special Education Teacher was Student B's case manager and was responsible for the implementation of Student B's IEP.
    b. From September 2, 2025 to December 1, 2025, the Complainant served as "supervised support staff" and completed "delegated administrative tasks" under the Special Education Teacher's direction to comply with the IDEA and State juvenile correctional facility mandates.
    c. Student B received "specialized instruction in reading, writing, and math in an integrated classroom setting" with services delivered by a general education teacher, a special education teacher, and a paraprofessional, according to the IEP.
    d. The Special Education Teacher "… provided ongoing consultation and support to general education teachers regarding the implementation of IEP requirements within their classrooms. This included guidance on accommodations, behavior supports, and instructional strategies to ensure consistency across all settings."

e. Progress toward IEP goals was monitored using i-Ready data, classroom performance, and modified curriculum and assessments based on Student B's needs.

f. Documentation supporting the implementation of the IEP included diagnostics, behavior records, progress reports, and observations.

g. On December 1, 2025, case management and IEP implementation responsibilities were transferred to the Complainant.

Student C

21. Student C is a 16-year-old student eligible for special education services as a student who experiences an SLD.
    a. High School Entry Date: July 29, 2025.
22. According to the Quick Lookup and the Bell Schedule, Student C was scheduled in the following courses at the High School for semester 1 of the 2025-26 school year:
    a. PE with the PE Teacher, Seminar with the Special Education Teacher, Algebra IA, Physical Science B, World History B, and College and Career Preparation II, ELA IIA with Teacher 4, and Seminar with Teacher 4.
23. Student C's unofficial transcript, titled "Student Progress," reflected the following academic history for the 2025-26 school year:
    a. Semester 1: Completed at the High School, earning three passing grades (including a P) of a "B" or higher for 1.5 credits.
    b. Semester 2: Completed at the High School, earning two passing grades of "C-" or higher for 1.0 credits.
24. An IEP dated January 30, 2025, included:
    a. Attending school: a previous school.
    b. An annual goal in math was noted.
    c. Supplementary aids and services, accommodations, and supports for school personnel were noted.
    d. Special Education, Related Services and Educational Placement:
        i. Special education services for 20 minutes, one day per week, weekly, in the incarceration setting in the subject of special education, beginning on January 30, 2025 and ending on May 23, 2025, and from August 11, 2025 to January 29, 2026.
25. An IEP Summary Page dated January 30, 2025, included:
    a. Attending school: a previous school.
    b. Anticipated services:

i. Special education services outside of the general education educational classroom, every week, for 170 minutes two times a week, and 170 minutes three times a week, from August 13, 2025 through January 29, 2026.

ii. Special education services within the general education setting, every week, for 240 minutes twice a week, from August 13, 2025 through January 29, 2026.

iii. Special education services outside of the general education educational classroom, every week, for 170 minutes two times a week and 170 minutes three times a week, from May 2, 2025 through May 22, 2025.

iv. Special education services within the general education setting, every week, for 240 minutes twice a week, from May 2, 2025 through May 22, 2025.

v. An IEP Goal and Objectives document listed a math goal and short-term objectives.

26. Student C's Progress Report from their previous school, dated July 25, 2025, included comments from May 22, 2025:
    a. Area of Regression (Score of 2): Math.
27. An IEP dated December 11, 2025, included:
    a. Attending school: the High School.
    b. Transition services were noted.
    c. Annual goals:
        i. Persons responsible: A math teacher for the math goal and an English teacher for the reading goal.
    d. Accommodations, modifications, and supportive aids were noted.
    e. Special Education and Related Services from December 11, 2025 to December 10, 2026:
        i. Special education in the Special Education/Resources/Pull-out setting, "[Student C] will receive 108 minutes of special education services 2 times a week every other week and 108 minutes of special education services 3 times a week every other week in 2 core classes. This averages out to 108 minutes of services per day, 5 days per week," for the duration of the IEP.
        ii. Case management as "meeting with advisor" for five minutes daily for the duration of the IEP.
    f. Alternative Services Plans #1 and #2 for participation in a hybrid learning model were noted.
28. An undated Teacher Information Page listed Student C's services in the "Y" setting from December 11, 2025 to June 24, 2026:
    a. Case management, primary provider: the Special Education Teacher (5 minutes/week).
    b. Special education services, provider: the Special Education Teacher (108 minutes/5 days weekly).

29. Prior Written Notice (PWN) dated December 11, 2025, confirmed the information and services stated in the aforementioned IEP and noted, "The team determined that [Student C] needs direct special education services in math and reading."
30. Student C's January 16, 2026, Progress Report, with comments from December 11, 2025, included:
    a. Area of Regression (Score of 2): Math.
31. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Complainant stated special education services for Student C were not implemented between July 29 and December 11, 2025, because they were unaware of the existence of Student C and lacked access to their records until November 2025. Even after discovering Student C was on their caseload, the Complainant was barred from entering that section of the building where Student C was located. Following the development of the December 11, 2025 IEP, the Complainant reported that services remained unfulfilled through February 19, 2026, as access restrictions persisted. During this time, the Complainant attempted to provide resources to the classroom teacher and occasionally entered the area to check in and offer support.
32. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student C:
    a. Upon entry to the High School in July 2025, the Special Education Teacher implemented the requirements outlined in Student C's January 30, 2025 IEP until a new IEP was developed in December 2025.
    b. From September 2, 2025 to December 1, 2025, the Complainant served as "supervised support staff" and completed "delegated administrative tasks" under the Special Education Teacher's direction to comply with the IDEA and State juvenile correctional facility mandates.
    c. Student C received instruction in reading and math in an "integrated classroom environment" by general education staff. The Special Education Teacher collaborated with general education staff regularly regarding the provision of accommodations, behavior strategies, and instruction designed to meet Student C's needs.
    d. Student C's progress was monitored weekly via i-Ready, classroom performance, and modified curriculum and assessments "tailored to [Student C's] instructional level as determined through diagnostic testing."
    e. According to the Special Education Teacher, documentation used to verify the implementation of special education services included i-Ready data, behavior records, progress reports, and teacher observations.
    f. On December 1, 2025, case management and IEP implementation duties transferred to the Complainant.

Student D

33. Student D is a 15-year-old student eligible for special education services as a student who experiences an Emotional Disturbance (ED).

a. High School Entry Date: November 13, 2025.

34. According to the Quick Lookup, Student D was scheduled in the following courses at the High School for the 2025-26 school year:
    a. PE with the PE Teacher, and Pre-Algebra B, Earth & Space Science A, World History B, College and Career Preparation I, and ELA IA with Teacher 4.
35. Student D's unofficial transcript, titled "Student Progress," reflected the following academic history for the 2025-26 school year:
    a. Semester 1: Completed at a previous school, earning one passing grade of a "C" for .5 credits.
36. An IEP dated September 16, 2025, with an initiation date of October 6, 2025, indicated:
    a. Attending school: a previous school.
    b. Transition services were noted.
    c. Special Education and Related Services:
        i. "[Student D] will receive special education services for all core subjects (ELA, Math, Social Studies and Science) in a general education building, participating with non-exceptional peers for the same frequency and duration as [their] non-exceptional peers [are in general education]."
        ii. "Counseling services for 20 minutes once weekly."
        iii. "Student [D] is currently residing at … [a county juvenile detention facility]. This placement was not an IEP team/educational decision. Student [D] will participate in online learning while at [the Juvenile Detention Facility] JDF and services will resume as listed in the IEP upon return to a comprehensive school setting."
    d. Supplementary aids and services were noted.
    e. A behavior intervention plan was documented.
37. According to a letter from the School Psychologist to Student D's Educational Advocate, "[Student D] entered [the High School] … on November 13, 2025 with an IEP dated September 16, 2025 from … [a previous district]. … [The High School] has adopted [Student D's] incoming IEP and will provide services comparable to those described in the original plan with the exception of changing counseling services to psychological services. This change in service is proposed because … this service is going to be provided by the school psychologist instead of a school counselor." PWN dated November 14, 2025, confirmed the information and services stated in the aforementioned letter.
38. An undated Teacher Information Page listed Student D's services in the "Y" setting from November 13, 2025 to June 24, 2026:
    a. Special education services, primary provider: the Complainant (80 minutes/5 days weekly).
    b. Psychological services, provider: the School Psychologist (20 minutes/week).
39. Regarding Student D, the Complainant shared they were only able to see Student D a few times due to Student D being in RH, a secure location where educational materials were reportedly prohibited. According to the Complainant, students in RH were denied access to paper, pencils, and any form of special education services. The Complainant stated the special education services Student D received from November 13, 2025 through February 19, 2026 as, "Other than me going and talking to [them] once in RH and me talking to [Student D's] teacher when I could and bringing resources when I could sneak in, I don't know how else to put it."

40. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student D:
    a. Upon entry to the High School on November 13, 2025, Student D was placed on "intake." The Student was determined to be a security risk and was placed in a restrictive area. Educational access was "adjusted to meet the custodial restrictions of that unit." Student D remained in an RH unit until January 6, 2026 at which time Student D was "… permitted to begin attending school with other students."
        i. According to the Special Education Teacher, the School Psychologist provided psychological services.
    b. From September 2, 2025 to December 1, 2025, the Complainant served as "supervised support staff" and completed "delegated administrative tasks" under the Special Education Teacher's direction to comply with the IDEA and State juvenile correctional facility mandates.
    c. On December 1, 2025, case management and IEP implementation duties transferred to the Complainant.
41. Regarding Student D, the School Psychologist described the following in their written response:
    a. For safety reasons, Student D was not allowed to attend school until the beginning of the second semester on January 6, 2026.
    b. Services were provided by the Special Education Teacher via the classroom teacher, and the School Psychologist provided weekly psychological services to Student D once they started school.
    c. On December 1, 2025, case management responsibilities and the provision of services listed on the IEP were assigned to the Complainant.

Student E

42. Student E is a 16-year-old student eligible for special education services as a student who experiences an Intellectual Disability (ID).
    a. High School Entry Date: July 29, 2025.
43. According to the Quick Lookup, Student E was scheduled in the following courses at the High School for the 2025-26 school year:
    a. ELA IA, Pre-Algebra B, Earth & Space Science A, American History A, and College and Career Preparation I with the Special Education Teacher, and PE with the PE Teacher.

44. Student E's unofficial transcript, titled "Student Progress," did not list any academic history for the 2025-26 school year.
45. An IEP dated April 22, 2025, included:
    a. Attending school: a previous school.
    b. Transition services were noted.
    c. Annual goals:
        i. Reading, writing, math, behavior, and transition provided by a special education teacher.
    d. Special Education and Related Services:
        i. "[Student E] will attend night school in an alternative school setting for 2 hours, 4 days per week. [Student E] will receive 10 minutes of indirect counseling services bi[-]weekly while [Student E] is in the night school setting."
    e. Accommodations and modifications were listed.
    f. A Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) was noted.
46. Student E's behaviors, including time on task, self-control, and social skills, were documented across two log periods:
    a. October 20, 2025 – January 12, 2026: Documented on three dates.
    b. January 19, 2026 – February 16, 2026: Documented on five dates.
47. Relevant information from weekly student progress reports between January 5-9, 12-16, and 19-23, 2026, included:
    a. For Student E, it was noted they worked on transitional surveys for the IEP. Student E worked on reading a low-level book and read "The Black Cat," which was lowered to a fourth-grade level, and answered questions. The "Focus" section stated, "… journal writing 2 sentences with beginning capitalization and ending punctuation 50% of the time, multi-digit addition and subtraction with regrouping with 80% accuracy, work independently for 15 minutes after being given direct instruction, work on being physically safe and being in [their] assigned area." The "Expectations" section indicated Student E had met and exceeded expectations.
    b. For January 12-16, 2026, Student E's Progress Report described their reading, writing, and math work. The "Focus" section remained the same as above. The "Expectations" section stated Student E exceeded expectations. Additional notes indicated Student E was making "significant advancements" in their learning and making "huge strides academically … ."
    c. For January 19-23, 2026, Student E's work on their reading was described. The "Expectations" section stated, "Working on adding and subtracting within 10. Writing letters. Reading [consonant-vowel-consonant] CVC and [consonant-vowel-consonant-silent e] CVCE words. Read at 75% for Why I can't Fly assessment."
48. An IEP dated February 17, 2026, included:
    a. Attending school: the High School.

b. Transition services were noted.

c. "[Student E] spent a total of 15 days In Restrictive Housing (RH) between 8/18/25 and 2/17/26 based on disruptive behaviors on either [their] living unit or at school [sic]."

d. Annual goals:

   i. Persons responsible: A math teacher for the math goal, an English teacher for the reading and writing goals, and the teaching staff for the social-emotional goals.

e. Accommodations, modifications, and supportive aids were listed.

f. Special Education and Related Services:

   i. Special education in the following setting: Special Education/Resources/Pull-out for "… 108 minutes of special education services 2 times a week every other week and 108 minutes of special education services 3 times a week every other week in 4 core classes. This averages out to 216 minutes of services per day, 5 days per week," for the duration of the IEP from February 17, 2026 to February 16, 2027.

   ii. Case management, "meeting with advisor," for five minutes every week for the duration of the IEP from February 17, 2026 to February 16, 2027.

52. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Complainant shared that when they worked with Student E in Lion/Pride, they started to teach them to read, as Student E was at a kindergarten level at the age of 16. They added, "[Student E's] one of the only that received services, but [Student E's] been in RH a lot and every time [they are] in RH, [Student E] does not get anything, period. They will not allow us."
53. When asked about Student E's April 22, 2025 IEP, the Complainant explained the special education services outlined in the April 22, 2025, IEP were not implemented between July 29, 2025 and February 17, 2026 because the document's requirements did not align with the facility's operations. Specifically, the Complainant noted that the mandate for night school was not fulfilled, stating, "That was not because it doesn't even match what we do at all. We don't have night school." The Complainant stated Student E's February 17, 2026 IEP with 108 minutes was serviced in Lion/Pride, where a paraeducator worked with Student E on math.
54. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student E:
    a. Upon entry to the High School on July 29, 2025, the Special Education Teacher implemented the requirements outlined in Student E's April 22, 2025 IEP until a new IEP was developed on February 17, 2026.
    b. From September 2, 2025 to December 1, 2025, the Complainant served as "supervised support staff" and completed "delegated administrative tasks" under the Special Education Teacher's direction to comply with the IDEA and State juvenile correctional facility mandates.
    c. The Special Education Teacher did not provide direct instruction to Student E, "... but maintained responsibility for ensuring that services were implemented as written." Student E received specialized instruction in reading, writing, and math in an "integrated classroom" provided by general and special educators and paraprofessionals.
    d. The Special Education Teacher consulted with general education teachers regarding the implementation requirements of Student E's IEP.
    e. Student E's progress was monitored weekly via i-Ready, classroom performance, and modified curriculum and assessments "based on the student's individual needs and grade levels, as identified through diagnostic testing."
    f. Documentation used to verify the implementation of special education services included i-Ready data, behavior records, progress reports, and teacher observations.

113. Student K's Progress Report comments from March 6, 2025 to March 27, 2025 included:

a. Area of Regression (Scores of 2): Writing and math.

b. Area of Mastery (Score of 8): Health.

114. An undated Teacher Information Page outlined the following services for Student K in the "Y" setting from July 1, 2025 to September 25, 2025:

a. Special education services, primary provider: the Special Education Teacher (108 minutes/5 days weekly).

b. Case management, provider: the Special Education Teacher (5 minutes/1 day weekly).

115. Student K's Progress Report comments from July 30, 2025 to August 21, 2025 included:

a. Area of Regression (Score of 3): Writing.

b. Area of Maintenance (Score of 5): Math.

c. Area of Improvement (Score of 6): Health.

116. An IEP dated August 21, 2025, included:

a. Attending school: the High School.

b. Transition services were noted.

c. Annual goals:

i. Persons responsible: A math teacher for the math goal, an English teacher for the reading and writing goals, and the teaching staff for the health goal.

d. Accommodations, modifications, and supportive aids were listed.

e. Special Education and Related Services from August 21, 2025 to August 20, 2026:

i. Special Education in the Special Education/Resources/Pull-out setting for 108 minutes, twice per week, every other week; and 108 minutes three times per week every other week in two core classes, averaging to 108 minutes per day for five days per week for the duration of the IEP.

f. Alternative Services Plans #1 and #2 for participating in a hybrid learning model were noted.

117. PWN dated August 21, 2025, confirmed the information and services stated in the aforementioned IEP and noted, "The team determined that [Student K] needs direct special education services in reading, math, and writing."

118. An undated Teacher Information Page outlined the following services for Student K in the "Y" setting from August 21, 2025, to June 24, 2026:

a. Case management, primary provider: the Special Education Teacher (5 minutes/1 day weekly).

b. Special education services, provider: the Special Education Teacher (108 minutes/5 days weekly).

119. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student K:

a. The Special Education Teacher was responsible for implementing the services on Student K's September 2024 IEP from July 2025 until a new one was developed on August 21, 2025, for which the Special Education Teacher was also responsible until Student K transitioned out of the facility on September 9, 2025.

b. Student K received instruction in reading, writing, and math in an "integrated classroom environment" by general education staff and a paraprofessional. The Special Education Teacher collaborated with general education staff regularly regarding the provision of accommodations, behavior strategies, and instruction designed to meet Student K's needs.

c. Student K's progress was monitored weekly via i-Ready, classroom performance, and modified curriculum and assessments "tailored" to meet Student K's needs.

d. Documentation used to verify the implementation of special education services included i-Ready data, behavior records, and teacher observations.

120. Student L is a 19-year-old student eligible for special education services as a student who experiences an OHI.

a. High School Entry Date: July 1, 2025.

b. High School Exit Date: October 2, 2025.

121. According to the Attendance Overview, Student L was scheduled withdrawn from the following courses at the High School during the 2025-26 school year:

a. GED Math on September 12, 2025, and Pre-Algebra B, ELA IA, U.S. Government & Politics, and Earth Science A on October 1, 2025.

122. Student L's unofficial transcript, titled "Student Progress," reflected the following academic history for the 2025-26 school year:

a. Semester 2: Completed at the High School, earning five passing grades of "C+" or higher for 2.5 credits.

123. An IEP dated October 24, 2024, included:

a. Attending school: the High School.

b. Transition Services were noted.

c. Annual goals:

i. Persons responsible: Teaching staff for the health and social-emotional goals, a math teacher for the math goal, and an English teacher for the writing goal.

d. Special Education and Related Services from October 24, 2024 to October 23, 2025:

i. Special education services in the Special Education/Resources/Pull-out setting for 108 minutes twice weekly, every other week; and three times weekly, every other week in four core classes for an average of 216 service minutes per day, five days a week.

ii. Case management as indirect services for 15 minutes every day for the duration of the IEP.

e. Alternative Services Plans #1 and #2 for remote learning were noted.

124. Student L's Progress Report dated May 9, 2025 with comments from March 31, 2025 to April 28, 2025 included:

a. Areas of Mastery (Score of 8): Social-emotional, health, and writing.

b. Area of Improvement (Score of 7): Math.

125. An IEP Amendment Form, signed on June 19, 2025, indicated Student L served as their own educational decision-maker and agreed to amend the October 4, 2024 IEP without a meeting to document their intention to pursue their GED. PWN dated June 19, 2025, reflected the decisions made and documented in the aforementioned IEP Amendment Form.

126. PWN dated October 1, 2025, indicated Student L passed the GED, did not intend to earn their high school diploma, and was "… exiting school and special education services … ."

127. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student L:

a. The Special Education Teacher was responsible for implementing the services on Student L's October 2024 IEP from July 2025 until Student L completed their GED on October 1, 2025.

b. From October 2024 to October 2025, Student L "… demonstrated behavioral challenges that resulted in placement within both the Restrictive Housing Unit (RHU) and the behavioral unit. These settings are among the most restrictive living environments in the facility and substantially limit a student's access to educational services." Additionally, "Students assigned to RHU or the behavioral unit frequently experience decreased instructional time, limited or no access to traditional classroom instruction, and may instead be provided with educational materials in an isolated setting."

c. The Special Education Teacher wrote, "… all educational services are subject to the overriding safety and security mandates" of the security complex.

d. When Student L was not in RH, they received specialized instruction in writing and math provided by a general or special educator with the support of a paraprofessional. The Special Education Teacher collaborated with general education staff regularly regarding the provision of accommodations, behavior strategies, and instruction designed to meet Student L's needs.

e. Documentation used to verify the implementation of special education services included i-Ready data, behavior records, progress monitoring data, and teacher observations.

Student M

128. Student M is a 15-year-old student eligible for special education services as a student who experiences an OHI.
    a. High School Entry Date: December 23, 2025.
129. According to the Bell Schedule, Student M was scheduled in the following courses at the High School for the 2025-26 school year:
    a. Pre-Algebra B with the Math Teacher, ELA IA with the ELA Teacher, World History A with Teacher 7, Earth & Space Science A with the Science Teacher, PE with the PE Teacher, and Seminar with College and Career Teacher.
130. Student M's unofficial transcript, titled "Student Progress," reflected the following academic history for the 2025-26 school year:
    a. Semester 1: Completed at a previous school, earning four "C" grades or higher (including a P) for a total of 1.75 credits. An "F" was listed for five classes with no credit awarded.
131. An IEP dated November 20, 2025, included:
    a. Attending school: a previous school.
    b. Transition services were noted.
    c. Annual goals:
        i. Person responsible: A special education teacher for the reading and behavior goals.
    d. Special Education and Related Services:
        i. "[Student M] will receive special education services in a general education building participating with [their] general education peers when enrolled in English [L]anguage [A]rts, math, science, and social studies classes or when enrolled in an independent study hall course." Additionally, Student M required transportation services with behavior accommodations in the form of preferential seating every school day in a school-provided vehicle, for the length of the ride between home and school.
        ii. Supplementary aids, services, accommodations, and modifications were noted.
        iii. A BIP was documented.
132. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student M:
    a. Student M entered the facility on December 23, 2025 and began receiving educational services when classes commenced after the winter break on January 6, 2026.

b. Student M received instruction in reading in an "integrated classroom setting" from a general or special educator and a paraprofessional. The Special Education Teacher collaborated with general education staff regularly regarding the provision of accommodations, behavior strategies, and instruction designed to meet Student M's needs.

c. Student M's progress was monitored weekly via i-Ready, classroom performance, and modified curriculum and assessments based on Student M's needs.

d. Documentation used to verify the implementation of special education services included i-Ready data, behavior records, progress reports, and teacher observations.

Student N

133. Student N is a 17-year-old student eligible for special education services as a student who experiences an SLD.

a. High School Entry Date: February 5, 2026.

134. According to the Bell Schedule, Student N was scheduled in the following courses at the High School for the 2025-26 school year:

a. Pre-Algebra B with the Math Teacher, ELA IB with the ELA Teacher, World History A with the History Teacher, Physical Science A with the Science Teacher, College and Career Preparation I with Teacher 7, and Seminar with the ELA Teacher.

135. Student N's unofficial transcript, titled "Student Progress," reflected the following academic history for the 2025-26 school year:

a. Semester 1: Completed at a previous school, earning one "C" grade and 0.5 credits.

b. Semester 2: Completed at a previous school, earning one "C" grade and 0.5 credits.

136. An IEP dated January 24, 2025, was amended and initiated on October 1, 2025 and included:

a. Attending school: A USD - Home.

b. Two social-emotional goals were noted, with one to be implemented by the education staff and the other by a teacher.

c. Special Education and Related Services from January 24, 2025 to January 23, 2026:

i. Special education in the home setting as "support online curriculum" for 15 minutes, 5 days a week.

ii. Special education in the alternative setting as "support online curriculum tests" for 30 minutes twice a week.

iii. Special education in the alternative setting as counseling services for 20 minutes once a week.

137. An IEP dated January 22, 2026, included:

a. Attending school: A USD - Incarceration.

b. A social-emotional goal was noted with education staff listed as the provider.

c. Special Education and Related Services from January 22, 2026 to January 21, 2027:

i. Special education service in an unidentified setting, for online curriculum for 15 minutes, five days a week.

ii. Social work service in an unidentified setting for counseling, 20 minutes once a week.

d. Accommodations and modifications were listed.

138. PWN from a previous school dated January 22, 2026, described the following action, "Beginning on 1/22/26 and continuing until the end of the IEP year, or until the IEP team decides to make a change, [Student N] will receive the following special education services":

a. "Via email/[Z]oom - (I) - On-line curriculum support - 15 minutes, 5 days a week, every week."

b. "[County Jail] - (SW) - Counseling - 20 minutes, 1 day a week, every week."

According to the PWN, "Due to [Student N's] incarceration, the best way to support [their] academic progress is to communicate daily through email and or Zoom. [Student N] will continue to meet with the counselor once a week to receive the social/emotional support [Student N] needs." Options considered included not offering "… specially designed instruction to [Student N] [which] would be a violation of [their] unique educational needs and would hinder [Student N's] acquisition of these necessary academic skills."

139. A Progress Report dated February 2, 2026, from a previous school included the following comments:

a. Social Emotional:

i. May 2025: Area of Regression (Score of 3)

ii. October 2025 and December 2025: Area of Maintenance (Score of 5): "[Student N] is no longer attending [Previous High School] in the school setting and is meeting regularly with [a Social-Emotional Learning] SEL counselor and teacher at RAC [sic]."

b. Reading:

i. May 2025 and December 2025: Not measured (Score of 1).

c. Social-emotional (additional goal):

i. May 2025: Not measured (Score of 1).

ii. October 2025 and December 2025: Area of Maintenance (Score of 5): "[Student N] is no longer attending [a previous school] in the school setting and is meeting regularly with SEL counselor and teacher at RAC [sic]."

140. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student N:

a. Upon entry to the High School on February 5, 2026, Student N was housed in the "intake" unit that included a restrictive educational setting. They entered with an active IEP dated January 22, 2026 with "draft" in the title that was accepted as a "final" IEP.

141. Regarding Student N, the School Psychologist described the following in their written response:
    a. Student N entered the facility on February 5, 2026 and was placed in the "intake" unit until February 25, 2026. High School programming "… is restricted to less than an hour per day which is used to evaluate the student's academic skills … ."

Student O

142. Student O is a 16-year-old student eligible for special education services as a student who experiences an SLD.
    a. High School Entry Date: July 1, 2025.
    b. High School Exit Date: October 16, 2025.
143. Student O's unofficial transcript, titled "Student Progress," reflected the following academic history for the 2025-26 school year:
    a. Semester 1: Completed at the High School, earning seven "D-" grades in Algebra IB, Art Appreciation, Earth & Space Science A, ELA IIB, PE, Psychology, and World History A (no teachers listed), for a total of 3.5 credits.
144. An IEP dated April 1, 2025, included:
    a. Attending school: the High School.
    b. Transition services were noted.
    c. Persons responsible: A special education advisor for the health, social-emotional, and social skills goals, a testing coordinator for the reading and math goals, and an English teacher for the writing goal.
    d. Accommodations, modifications, and supportive aids were noted.
    e. Special Education and Related Services from April 1, 2025 to March 31, 2026:
        i. Special Education in the Special Education/Resources/Pull-out setting for 108 minutes twice a week, every other week, and 108 minutes three times a week, every other week in two core classes, averaging 108 for five days a week.
        ii. Case management as indirect services for five minutes every week for the duration of the IEP.
    f. Alternative Services Plans #1 and #2 for remote learning were noted.
145. PWN dated April 1, 2025, described a material change in services described in the IEP, "These changes in services represent a material change in placement. The recommendation is to reduce services from 216 minutes per day to a total of 108 minutes per day, covering two core classes. The adjustment reflects the current needs and ensures that the level of support provided remains appropriate for [Student O's] educational progress. [Student O] had social work listed as a service on [their] previous IEP. This is provided to [Student O] by the facility through [their] corrections counselor and is not provided by the school." Additionally, the "Behavior Improvement Plan" was determined to be unnecessary as Student O's behaviors would be "addressed through goals and accommodations in [their] IEP." The team determined Student O "… needs direct special education services in reading and math."

146. A Progress Report dated June 13, 2025, included comments from March 13, 2025:
    a. Area of Improvement (Score of 6): Reading.
147. An undated Teacher Information Page listed Student O's services in the "Y" setting:
    a. Special education services, primary provider: Teacher 2 (108 minutes/day, 5 days/week) from April 1, 2025 to June 25, 2025.
    b. Case management, provider: Teacher 2 (5 minutes/day, 1 day/week) from July 16, 2025 to September 22, 2025.
    c. Special education services: No name listed, (108 minutes/day, 5 days/week) from July 1, 2025 to March 31, 2026.
    d. Case management: No name listed (5 minutes/day, 1 day/week) from July 1, 2025 to March 31, 2026.
148. In a written response, the Special Education Teacher wrote the following regarding Student O:
    a. The Special Education Teacher was responsible for implementing the services on Student O's IEP from July 16, 2025 to Student O's release from the facility on October 15, 2025.
    b. Student O received instruction in reading, writing, and math in an "integrated classroom setting" from a general or special educator and a paraprofessional. The Special Education Teacher collaborated regularly with general education staff on accommodations, behavior strategies, and instruction to meet Student O's needs.
    c. Student O's progress was monitored weekly via i-Ready, classroom performance, and modified curriculum and assessments based on Student O's needs.
    d. Documentation used to verify the implementation of special education services included i-Ready data, behavior records, and teacher observations.

LEA Materials

149. An Employee Contract dated July 9, 2025 indicated the Complainant was employed as a teacher at the High School. The Complainant was licensed in the State on November 3, 2025 with the following endorsements of which the administration was notified on November 17, 2026:
    a. Early Childhood Unified, Birth to Grade 3;
    b. Elementary Education, Pre-Kindergarten to 6th grade;
    c. High-Incidence Special Education, Kindergarten to 6th grade and 6th to 12th grade; and
    d. Middle Level Generalist, 5th to 8th grade.
150. According to the Principal, from August to November 2025, instruction at the High School was delivered with the following:
    a. "Modified coursework aligned to student needs";

b. "Individualized support within classroom settings"; and

c. "[Program]-based differentiation aligned to student ability levels."

151. On November 17, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Principal and the Special Education Teacher inquiring, "… can we please meet to discuss my new schedule and how I will pull students out of class for their interventions?"

152. The Complainant emailed the Director of Special Education on November 24, 2025 and explained they had multiple students who read at or below fifth and third-grade levels. They indicated it was difficult to find science work for the students who were working at a second-grade level and below. The Complainant stated they were doing their best to "adapt things," but it took time and resources they did not always have.

153. The Complainant emailed the Special Education Teacher on November 24, 2025 and quoted State law, which, according to the Complainant, explained special education teachers could not be used to cover general education classes without the written consent of the parents. The Complainant wrote they were not happy being used to "cover science" when they were hired as a special education teacher. They said, "I know you are going to say that I am doing special education in the classroom, but both of us know that is not the case. I have to help with the class and managing it[,] [sic] and when I get a chance I do a little [s]pecial [e]ducation. … students … are not getting services because I am being used as a sub[stitute]."

154. The Principal emailed the High School staff on November 30, 2025 and explained that due to staffing changes, the College and Career Teacher would assume the responsibilities of the staff person who resigned, and the Complainant would move to the Lion and Pride area to support those classrooms. The Principal indicated, "Students continued to receive individualized instruction aligned to IEP needs through established service delivery practices, including modified coursework and scaffolded instruction."

155. According to the Principal, from December 2025 to February 2026, "Students continued to receive individualized instruction" and cited the following evidence:

a. "Modified coursework aligned to student reading levels";

b. "Student work samples demonstrating access to grade-level content";

c. "Differentiated instructional materials across content areas"; and

d. "Diagnostic data supporting the need for intensive intervention."

156. The Principal listed the following aspects of the School's service delivery model, which included push-in instructional support, individualized instruction in the general education settings, and differentiated digital instruction.

157. On December 1, 2025, the Special Education Teacher emailed the Complainant regarding an update to their duties. They indicated the Complainant's caseload would include students housed in the Kilo, Lima, Echo, and Alpha units, and in this new role, the Complainant would provide direct and indirect special education services to the students assigned to them. This would include reviewing curriculum, providing individualized modifications, and ensuring all required accommodations were implemented. The Special Education Teacher stated the Lion and Pride classes were small, which would allow the Complainant to develop individualized plans, modify curriculum, and meet with students outside of the Complainant's assigned classroom.

a. The Complainant replied and asked if they were required to provide SDI for students in Echo and Alpha, and how they could do that if they had to be in the Lion classroom. The Complainant expressed confusion about being unable to see students if they were in a different area of the building providing SDI. The Special Education Teacher replied and explained the Complainant would work with another staff member to schedule times outside of their assigned classroom. The Special Education Teacher indicated they would complete IEPs to allow the Complainant to become familiar with their new schedule.

b. The Principal emailed the Complainant and indicated case management could take place at 9:30 a.m., and the Complainant would be responsible for teaching and supporting all students in their assigned classroom. They stated the Complainant would "case-manage" the students with IEPs. The Principal added that from 9:30 a.m. to 10:00 a.m., SDI for students should focus on case management tasks for students with IEPs. They described that for students with IEPs in Kilo, Alpha, Echo, and Lima, the Complainant could use that time to review goals, prepare accommodations, and plan targeted instruction. They stated SDI for other students should be provided during the Complainant's regular teaching periods as appropriate.

158. The Principal emailed the School Psychologist, the Special Education Teacher, the Complainant, the Superintendent, and the Assistant Principal on December 3, 2025 regarding updates about special education services in a correctional facility setting. Relevant information included:

a. They stated special education law was different in correctional facilities, which had unique allowances and structures that differed from those in traditional public school environments.

b. They wrote that special education teachers might have non-special education students in their classrooms, which was permissible in the correctional facility setting and did not violate any regulations.

c. They stated co-teaching was allowed and met special education service requirements within the High School. They stated this model was considered compliant and supported effective service delivery.

d. They stated SDI should continue to be implemented, but it must be delivered through the approved curriculum and research-based tools. They stated the Director of Special Education provided a set of approved instructional tools that aligned with these requirements, and the materials would be kept in a classroom for staff use.

159. The Principal emailed the Special Education Teacher, the School Psychologist, and the Complainant on December 3, 2025, and stated that effective immediately, all special education teachers and service providers would maintain a daily service log documenting students served, service duration, type of service delivered, notes on progress, and any missed minutes with an explanation. They indicated this standard aligned with state and federal expectations, and logs should be updated daily and submitted to the administration weekly.

160. The Complainant emailed the Director of Special Education on December 8, 2025 and asked to discuss being moved again without prior notification. They said, "… I just want to do my job and teach." About 30 minutes later, the Complainant emailed the Director of Special Education again and said, "… I am going to go get the one kid I am being allowed to see. … [The Principal] is only allowing me to see one kid now … and just told me [the Principal] doesn't want me in the school. … How are kids going to get SDI [be]cause I will tell you teachers are not doing it. In some classes kids aren't even getting their accommodations let alone SDI."

161. The Principal emailed the Special Education Teacher, the Director of Special Education, the Human Resources (HR) Director, and the Superintendent on December 8, 2025 and indicated that State special education regulations provided flexibility in the placement and assignment of staff in the correctional setting to meet security and educational needs. They wrote that consistent staffing in a single, secure classroom ensured students received appropriate support while also maintaining a safe environment.

162. The Superintendent emailed the Principal and the HR Director on December 8, 2025 and stated the Director of Special Education did not have any concerns about the students' special education needs not being met.

163. On January 26, 2026, the School Psychologist emailed the Complainant a list of eight students and stated the Special Education Teacher was "still writing the IEPs … ." The list included Students A, B, C, D, E, F, G, and H. This was in response to the Complainant emailing and asking for an updated caseload list.

164. The Complainant emailed the Director of Special Education on February 2, 2026 and stated they needed materials "below the levels you gave me" because of certain students' levels. The Complainant also asked if "modifications" were a form of SDI. They explained that multiple students had graduated from the High School who did not receive direct reading interventions and left with second-grade level reading and math skills.

    a. The Director of Special Education replied on February 6, 2026 and stated instruction at the High School looked different from that in a traditional school environment. They explained instruction must be grounded in a research-based curriculum, "… even when assignments or materials are modified to meet student needs." The Director of Special Education stated supplemental materials could be used to support instruction, but not serve as the primary foundation for instruction. They advised one acceptable option was to start with the existing research-based curriculum and use artificial intelligence (AI) to "modify the content down to the appropriate instructional level." They acknowledged many students might graduate with lower reading levels, and the High School's primary focus was to support students in earning credits to graduate, and any gains in reading levels were a "valuable bonus" within that context. They stated they would be willing to locate additional curriculum options for the Complainant to support instruction.

b. The Principal replied to the Special Education Director and the Complainant the same day. They reiterated the High School had a different setting, and the model was to meet students where they were and keep them engaged. They acknowledged that while the model might not align with "everyone's personal preferences or past experiences," it allowed students to remain engaged, earn credits, and graduate.

c. The Complainant responded and stated they were reprimanded when they modified a research-based curriculum to meet students' needs. They also wrote that if the students had goals and SDI on their IEPs, the High School should be obligated to provide the students with interventions and show effort to increase their skills.

165. The Complainant emailed the Principal and the Superintendent on February 2, 2026 and explained that modifying could be a step in SDI, but it was not the entirety of it because students had to receive interventions in the areas addressed on their IEPs. They stated that without addressing students' missing skillsets and providing direct instruction in those areas, the students would not make progress and SDI would not have been provided. The Complainant proposed the general education teachers modify students' work, and then the Complainant would provide help as needed, including providing SDI in the areas where the students were weak. They stated this would allow a student's teacher of record to modify the content, and then the Complainant would provide the interventions deemed necessary by the IEPs.

166. The Principal emailed the Superintendent, the HR Director, and the Complainant on February 3, 2026 and provided a written outline of the Complainant's job and expectations, and stated they were effective immediately. The email stated the contract the Complainant signed was for a teacher and not a special education teacher. They wrote the Complainant would continue to manage their current caseload for the time being and then would honor the specific terms of the Complainant's signed contract as a teacher regarding their primary duties and instructional expectations. The Principal wrote that for approved materials, the High School was moving forward exclusively with a specific curriculum platform and the materials provided by the Director of Special Education. Any modifications to the curriculum had to be submitted to and approved by the administration and the Education Center prior to implementation. The Principal indicated a specific program would remain a building-wide expectation for daily intervention.

a. The Complainant replied that day and stated they had been previously told to modify students' work to meet their needs, but that was contradicted in the aforementioned email. The Complainant reiterated they were certified as a special education teacher and said, "… if students are not getting SDI from me[,] who is giving it to them[?]"

b. In their response from the same day, the Principal outlined directives about the Complainant's role:

   i. For periods one and two, the Complainant was required to be in the Lion and Pride classrooms providing direct instructional oversight, and as the certified teacher, they were responsible for monitoring student engagement and progress. Block three was designated for daily intake testing. A specific program remained a mandatory build-wide requirement.

   ii. For reading access, the High School provided an automated system that read text to students, and the Complainant's role was to ensure students used it effectively. For SDI and IEP compliance, it was written that none of the IEPs on the Complainant's current caseload required SDI, so instructional delivery remained standardized within the High School's curriculum framework.

   iii. Regarding modifications, the Complainant was not authorized to independently alter the content or standards of ELA, social studies, math, physical science, or earth science.

   iv. Any proposed modification to the "what" of the curriculum had to be submitted to and approved by the administration. For general instructional guidance, the Complainant should consult with the Special Education Teacher.

   v. The Special Education Teacher had the authority level for "Instructional Delivery (SDI)."

c. The Complainant emailed the Principal, the Superintendent, the HR Director, the Special Education Teacher, and the Assistant Principal on February 4, 2026 and asked if they were allowed to come to the High School and meet with the students they "case manage." The Principal replied and stated the Complainant's primary focus for periods one and two should be on the residents in the Lion and Pride classroom. They indicated a 9:30 [a.m.] plan time was built into the schedule specifically for case management work, and it should be utilized for those meetings.

167. The Principal emailed the High School staff on February 12, 2026 about special education curriculum modifications. They stated if staff needed assistance modifying curriculum, adjusting assignments, or determining appropriate special education accommodations or modifications for students, they should direct those questions to the Special Education Teacher because they were the designated staff member for overseeing special education-related curriculum adjustments and ensuring they aligned with student plans and LEA expectations.

   a. The Principal sent a follow-up email stating every staff position had defined expectations and each person should stay within those responsibilities and focus on their assigned duties. They stated the High School had two special education professionals. They indicated the Complainant remained on staff and "… roles remain as established."

168. On February 19, 2026, the Complainant emailed several people, including the Special Education Teacher and the Principal, and stated they were "the only special education teacher" and two students, Student E and an unknown student, with intensive needs had to see the Complainant for SDI. The Complainant asked when these students would be available. The Principal replied, "Stop with the SDI talk (neither IEP calls for SDI). You should just modify the curriculum already in use. If you need assistance doing that … please reach out to [the Special Education Teacher] or myself."

169. The LEA provided iReady "Personal Instruction Summaries" for each student, A-O, that included learning domain, level, and lesson. i-Ready diagnostic information was also provided for math and reading for Students A-O.

Complainant Interview

170. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Complainant shared they applied, interviewed for, and were informed they would serve as a special education teacher, but the contract stated "teacher." They indicated they were hired in July and started the position in August 2025.

171. The Complainant detailed their typical day and responsibilities and shared they were hired as a special education teacher with the understanding that they would transition to their specific caseload after a short orientation. However, according to the Complainant, the administration deviated from this plan due to staffing shortages. The Complainant described, "That did not happen. They kept me there because they couldn't find a … a science teacher. So they used me as a sub[stitute] and forced me to be the science teacher from August through November." According to the Complainant, after a permanent science teacher was hired in November 2025, the Complainant was initially required to serve as a paraprofessional during that teacher's training period.

    During the months spent in the science classroom, the Complainant contested the administration's suggestion to provide special education services while simultaneously teaching science. The Complainant argued that the high needs of the students, who required foundational instruction in reading and math, could not be met while also maintaining the safety of a volatile classroom environment. The Complainant stated they remained in this temporary assignment until November 19, 2025, when they were moved into a program with students who "may or may not have IEPs" after they filed a formal complaint.

172. According to the Complainant, while they were assigned a caseload of seven to 10 students prior to November 19, 2025, they stated they were assigned as a substitute from the day they started at the High School until that date.

173. When asked about how students on their caseload received special education services, the Complainant stated, "They weren't." The Complainant explained they had attempted to serve students if they were in their classroom and created opportunities with their paraeducator to work with students who were not in special education. They shared they were expected to teach science, "I couldn't teach them how to read or how to do math or anything like that. So they weren't getting special ed[ucation], and

a. Additionally, the Complainant stated, " … no kids received any special ed[ucation] services unless they were in the Lion and Pride classroom, except for if you want to call it me helping them as services, then maybe you could call it that. But I was acting as the science teacher. … that is not SDI. [The Special Education Teacher], other than pulling kids out to go over behavior stuff, did not provide any services. … They never got any math, writing, or reading SDI." The Complainant stated that the 120 minutes, five days a week, on students' IEPs were not provided.

174. Upon review of the "LION/PRIDE/ECHO/ALPHA CLASSROOMS Schedule," the Complainant described they were considered a Lion and the paraeducators were considered the Pride. The Complainant shared that in the Lion/Pride classroom, they worked with students during three sessions per day, which could be shortened for security reasons.

175. The Complainant stated that service minute documentation was not recorded prior to their move to the Lion/Pride because the mandated services were not being provided. Upon transitioning into Lion/Pride, the Complainant implemented a detailed tracking system for each student that logged specific academic tasks, such as phonics or math lessons, alongside reasons for any missed sessions. The Complainant maintained that documentation for previous periods did not exist because the instruction itself never occurred.

176. The Complainant explained that the High School often accepted incoming IEPs from other jurisdictions and will "only amend the IEP on a very, very limited basis."

177. When asked about consult services as a case manager, the Complainant stated they emailed and spoke with teachers and added, " … I'm telling you, I was ostracized and put out into Lion and Pride." They added that the Special Education Teacher was unable to serve students because " … all [the Special Education Teacher] does is write stuff."

Director of Special Education Interview

178. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Director explained how students' existing IEPs from their previous school districts were implemented immediately, with services and minutes provided as soon as they arrived. These incoming IEPs were then transferred into the facility's tracking system. If the High School determined they could implement the services as written in the existing document, they were not required to draft a new IEP until the annual review date. Generally, after a student has been at the facility for approximately two weeks, allowing staff time to learn the student's specific needs and behaviors, the High School holds an IEP meeting. Because of the correctional setting, parents attend these meetings remotely. During this meeting, the IEP is updated to reflect the goals, behavioral needs, and specific educational environment of the correctional facility.

179. The Director of Special Education stated students generally did not have missed minutes because educational services are provided at all times in all settings by various staff members, including special education teachers and paraprofessionals. In this correctional setting, services do not have to come directly from a special education teacher, as paraprofessionals are present in the rooms to provide support. They shared the only instance in which a student might not receive services is if their behavior prevents them from leaving their living unit to attend the classroom. In such cases, alternative plans are implemented to deliver work and services to the student's cell, provided the student's behavior does not pose a safety risk that would prevent them from receiving materials.

Principal Interview

180. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal detailed the School's substitute policy, which was that they do not assign special education teachers to substitute for other teachers. The High School utilizes two primary positions for special educators, one located in the regular classroom area and another in the "Lion/Pride" classroom area.

181. The Principal stated the Complainant was never pulled from their class to serve as a substitute teacher. The Principal clarified that while the Complainant had questioned their presence in a science classroom, they were there to provide services to the special education students within that setting. They further explained that before the Complainant received their full Kansas teaching license in November 2025, they were officially serving in the role of a teacher's assistant.

182. The Principal noted the High School was in the process of transitioning tracking platforms to track the implementation of instruction. Teachers and teacher assistants in the Lion/Pride classroom maintained documentation that records student minutes, current assignments, and any necessary interventions. Additionally, they shared the High School modified State-approved curriculum, which qualified as SDI.

Principal Written Response

183. The Principal shared the following information in their written response:

a. The 2025-26 High School start date was July 16, 2025.

b. The Complainant began working with students after Labor Day in September 2025.

c. In September 2025 through mid-November 2025, "[The Complainant] served in a substitute/support role and was not assigned to a special education teaching position, consistent with [the Complainant's] contract as a teacher because we did not know if [the Complainant] would get certified as a [Special Education] SPED teacher and [the Complainant] had not yet provided documentation of a valid special education license." Upon notification the Complainant's license had been issued, in mid-November, "… the Complainant was assigned to the Lion/Pride classroom, which had a special education vacancy." The Complainant served in that role through February 19, 2026.

d. The Principal indicated, "Once we got [the Complainant's] certification the initial plan was for [the Complainant] to push into classrooms to provide support services, but [the Complainant] communicated that [they] did not want to follow that model and expressed concerns about not having [their] own classroom on multiple occasions."

School Psychologist Written Response

184. The School Psychologist explained in their written response that "all students enrolled in our program transfer from other districts. Only incoming IEP's created with the same IEP system (WebKIDS) we use can be directly uploaded into our database. If an incoming IEP is not from WebKIDS, I manually enter the relevant demographic information, dates, services, parent information, and goals into our system. In these cases - which applies to most incoming IEPs - we continue to reference the original IEP saved in the student's records file until a new IEP is developed. Even when we do upload an incoming WebKIDS IEP, not all the data loads into the system; therefore, we still refer back to the incoming IEP that I have saved in student records."

Special Education Teacher Written Response

185. The Special Education Teacher noted in their written response that operating the High School within a maximum-security juvenile correction facility creates "unique and significant challenges" that impact the delivery of educational and IEP services. Security protocols and movement restrictions often result in reduced or interrupted instructional time due to lockdowns, counts, staffing constraints, and additional safety requirements that take priority over classroom instruction.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #521, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured an IEP was in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of the school year to the filing of the Complaint. K.A.R. 91-40-16 (b)(3); 34 CFR § 300.323.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to provide reading, writing, and math SDI to students with IEPs at the High School.

The LEA described in their response they have implemented procedures to ensure eligible students have an IEP in effect at the beginning of the school year.

The primary issue centers around the Complainant and the LEA holding different interpretations of the provision of SDI in a juvenile correctional facility. According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(lll), SDI means adapting, as appropriate, to the needs of each exceptional child, by adapting the content, methodology, or delivery of instruction for the purpose of addressing the unique needs of the child that result from the child's exceptionality. Additionally, SDI means adapting in one or more of the aforementioned ways to ensure access of any child with a disability to the general education curriculum so that the child can meet the educational standards within the jurisdiction of the agency that applies to all children. In order to provide SDI to students at the High School, and with the understanding that most of the students come from other districts in the State, the High School has two options provided in K.S.A. 72-3429(g)(1): they can adopt and implement the student's transferred IEP from the previous school or create a new one. Either way, an IEP must be in effect at the beginning of each school year for each of those students.

Student A: A transfer IEP was in effect. While the Complainant claimed no one provided special education services to Student A, the preponderance of evidence indicated an IEP was in place and was implemented.

Student B: An IEP from the High School was in effect. While the Complainant claimed the IEP was not implemented because they were serving as a science teacher, the preponderance of evidence indicated an IEP was in place and implemented.

Student C: A transfer IEP was in effect, and a new IEP was created. While the Complainant indicated their access to Student C was restricted, the preponderance of evidence suggests an IEP was in place and was implemented.

Student D: A transfer IEP was in effect and was implemented once Student D was released from RH.

Student E: Student E's April 22, 2025 IEP indicated the special education services and counseling would be provided in the "night school" setting. While this should have been changed to reflect Student E's services in the High School setting, it was eventually rectified in the February 22, 2026 IEP. In Beer v. USD 512 Shawnee Mission, 82 IDELR 223 (D. Kan. 2023), a District court judge cited both the 10th circuit's Andover case and the 9th Circuit's Van Duyn case when discussing a "material failure" of the implementation of an IEP. According to Van Duyn v. Baker School District 5J, 2007, the court defined "material failure" as occurring when the services provided to a child with a disability fall significantly short of those required by the IEP. It stated that there must be "more than a minor discrepancy between the services provided to a child with a disability and those required by the IEP." In this instance, the failure to amend the IEP to remove the "night school" language was a procedural error that did not result in a material failure to implement the IEP.

Student F: An IEP from the High School was in effect.

Student G: A new IEP was created after the winter break and was implemented. While the Complainant indicated Student G's IEP was not implemented, the preponderance of evidence indicated otherwise.

Student H: A transfer IEP was in effect. The Complainant indicated no one provided special education services to Student H, however; there is minimal evidence to support that statement.

Student I: A transfer IEP was in effect.

Student J: An IEP from the High School was in effect.

Student K: An IEP from the High School was in effect.

Student L: An IEP from the High School was in effect.

Student M: A transfer IEP was in effect.

Student N: A transfer IEP was received. Student N entered the High School on February 5, 2026 and was placed in the "intake" unit during the remainder of the complaint period.

Student O: An IEP from the High School was in effect.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to ensure an IEP was in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of the school year to the filing of this Complaint.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation does not substantiate noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. Therefore, no corrective action is ordered.

Tania Tong, Licensed Complaint Investigator

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #500
ON APRIL 15, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JULY 1, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, _____, by their parent, _____. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #500, Kansas City Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #500.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on April 15, 2026, and the 30-day timeline ended on May 15, 2026.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to fulfill its child find obligations to evaluate the Student for suspected disabilities, including Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). K.A.R. 91-40-7; 34 CFR § 300.111.

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, implemented an IEP that allowed the Student to make appropriate academic progress, particularly in the areas of reading and spelling, and appropriately manage and address the Student's behavioral needs within the school environment. K.A.R. 91-40-16, K.A.R. 91-40-18 (b); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.320, 300.324(a)(2)(i).

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, denied the Parent an opportunity to meaningfully participate in the IEP process by failing to provide information regarding the Student's IEP and withholding education records upon the Parent's request. K.A.R. 91-40-50, K.A.R. 91-40-17; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.501 (a), 300.613.

ISSUE FOUR: Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to provide the Student with a free appropriate public education (FAPE) by failing to implement necessary educational services and supports, including a period during which the Student did not have an IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-2, K.A.R. 91-40-1(z); 34 CFR §§ 300.17, 300.101.

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parent on June 25, 2026. The Special Education Coordinator for the LEA was interviewed on June 22, 2026.

In completing this Investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Class Schedule and Grade Report, 06/09/26
2. Guardianship Documents, 05/05/10
3. Individualized Education Program (IEP), 02/04/25, 01/22/26
4. IEP Meeting Notes and Summary, 01/08/26, 01/22/26
5. Flyer, no date
6. Prior Written Notice for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent, 01/08/26, 01/22/26
7. Notice of Meeting, 10/10/25, 01/08/26
8. Attendance Report, 2025-26 School Year
9. Student Progress Report, 01/22/26-01/21/27
10. Student Progress Report, 02/04/25-02/03/26
11. Eligibility Meeting Participants, 01/08/26
12. Prior Written Notice for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, 10/03/25
13. Occupational Therapy (OT) Service Logs, 04/03/25-05/14/26
14. Speech-Language Pathologist (SLP) Service Logs, 04/15/25-04/16/26
15. Special Education Teacher's Written Responses, 06/24/26
16. Emails between parties, 11/20/25-06/23/26

Background Information

This Investigation involved an eleventh-grade student enrolled at a high school in USD #500. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA as a student who experiences an intellectual disability (ID) and a speech/language (SL) impairment. The Student was described as playful towards peers and adults and liked to participate in physical activities. A court order, dated May 5, 2010, indicated the Student was "Placed in the joint legal custody and physical custody of the parents, [the Parent] and [Parent 2]." At the time of the Complaint, the LEA's record listed Parent 2 as the Educational Decision-Maker. (D17-D18, D21)

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. An IEP, dated February 4, 2025, included:
    a. Educational decision-makers: Parent 2 and the Relative. (D307)
    b. The impact of the Student's exceptionality on their academic and functional performance.
    c. Required areas addressed in the IEP: Fine motor, language, reading, math, written expression, and sensory needs.
    d. Parent concerns: "[Parent 2] would like to see [the Student] continue to improve [their] communication and … reading." (D310)
    e. Special considerations: Communication, extended school year (ESY), and transition services.
    f. Goals:
        i. Reading, baseline: "When given a set of sight words and pictures to match, [the Student] is able to score 78% accuracy when matching word to picture and 100% accuracy when matching word to word. Previously, when given 100 1st Grade Fry Sight words, [the Student] is able to score 18% accuracy. When given the first 25 Fry Words, [the Student] is able to score 36% accuracy."
        ii. Reading goal, evaluated by data collection and observation; provided by a special education teacher: "By February 2026, when provided a set of words and their corresponding picture, [the Student] will be able to match (4) sets of pictures (36 pictures) and words (36 words) with 100% accuracy, in 3 out of 4 attempts."
            1. Benchmark 1.1.1: "By [the] fourth quarter of the 2024-2025 school year, [the Student] will be able to match 1 set of (9) words with the corresponding pictures at 70% accuracy, in 2 out of 4 attempts."

a. Quarter 4: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D334)

2. Benchmark 1.1.2: "By [the] first quarter of the 2025-2026 school year, [the Student] will be able to match (2) sets of (18) words with the corresponding pictures at 70% accuracy, in 2 out of 4 attempts."
    a. Quarter 1: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D334)
3. Benchmark 1.1.3: "By [the] second quarter of the 2025-2026 school year, [the Student] will be able to match (3) sets of (27) words with the corresponding pictures with 70% accuracy, in 2 out of 4 attempts."
    a. Quarter 2: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D334)
4. Benchmark 1.1.4: "By February 2026, [the Student] will be able to match (4) sets of (36) words with the corresponding pictures with 70% accuracy, in 2 out of 4 attempts." (D313)
    a. No progress noted. (D334)

iii. Math, baseline: "When provided with a 100-Chart and asked to locate a specific number, [the Student] was able to accurately say and point to 15 out of 28 (54% accuracy) randomly selected numbers. [The Student] was able to say the numbers 1-10 with 100% accuracy on 2 separate attempts. For the numbers 11-20 [the Student] was able to identify and say the numbers 14 and 19 independently. [The Student] was able to rote count numbers from 1-100 with only 6 misreads, but struggled to find higher double-digit numbers when asked to select them at random."

iv. Math goal, evaluated by data collection and observation, provided by a special education teacher: "By February 2026, when provided with a 100-Chart, [the Student] will be able to say and point to the numbers 11-50, when asked to identify them at random, with 80% accuracy in 2 out of 4 attempts."

1. Benchmark 2.2.1: "By the fourth quarter of the 2024-2025 school year, when provided with a 100-Chart, [the Student] will be able to say and point to the numbers 11-20, at random, with 80% accuracy, in 2 out of 4 attempts."
    a. Quarter 4: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D334)
2. Benchmark 2.2.2: "By the end of [the] first quart[er] of the 2025-2026 school year, when provided with a 100-Chart, [the Student] will be able to say and point to the numbers 21-30, at random, with 80% accuracy, at random, in 2 out of 4 attempts."

a. Quarter 1: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D335)

3. Benchmark 2.2.3: "By the end of the second quarter of the 2025-2026 school year, when provided with a 100-Chart, [the Student] will be able to say and point to the numbers 31-40, at random, with 80% accuracy, in 2 out of 4 attempts."
    a. Quarter 2: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D335)
4. Benchmark 2.2.4: "By February 2026, when provided with a 100-Chart, [the Student] will be able to say and point to the numbers 41-50, at random, with 80% accuracy, in 2 out of 4 attempts."
    a. No progress noted. (D335)

v. Speech/Language baseline: "[The Student] uses verbal prompts, visuals and examples to participate in a variety of language and vocational skills and demonstrate comprehension of multi-step directions on 5 of 10 trials."

vi. Speech/Language goal, evaluated by data; provided by a speech-language pathologist (SLP)/special education staff: "By February of 2026, [the Student] will use visual, verbal, and example cues to participate in language and vocational tasks on 9 of 10 trials."

1. Benchmark 3.1.1: "By March of 2025, [the Student] will use visual, verbal and example cues to participate in language and vocational tasks on 6 of 10 trials."
    a. Quarter 3: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D335)
2. Benchmark 3.1.2: "By May of 2025, [the Student] will use visual, verbal and example cues to participate in language and vocational tasks on 7 of 10 trials."
    a. Quarter 4: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D335)
3. Benchmark 3.1.3: "By October of 2025, [the Student] will use visual, verbal and example cues to participate in language and vocational tasks on 8 of 10 trials."
    a. Quarter 1: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D336)
4. Benchmark 3.1.4: "By February of 2026, [the Student] will use visual, verbal and example cues to participate in language and vocational tasks on 9 of 10 trials."
    a. Quarter 2: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D336)

vii. Occupational therapy (OT) baseline: "[The Student] is able to match measurement tools (cups, [tablespoon] tbs, [teaspoon] tsp) with 100% accuracy. [The Student] can identify measurement tools following a visual recipe with 33% accuracy. [The Student] struggles with accurately finding the measurement tool from a disorganized pile and if the tool indicates more than 1 scoop (ex: 2 cups, 3 TBS)."

viii. OT goal, evaluated by observation of performance and the frequency counting of tools correctly retrieved for all possible recipe measurements; provided by an OT: "By the next IEP in February 2026, following instructions from a recipe, [the Student] will be able to locate and use the measurement tool with 80% accuracy for 75% of opportunities." (D315)

1. Benchmark 4.1.1: "By the end of the 3rd quarter in March 2025, following instructions from a recipe, [the Student] will be able to locate and use the measurement tool with 50% accuracy for 75% of opportunities."
    a. Quarter 3: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D336)
2. Benchmark 4.1.2: "By the end of the 4th quarter in May 2025, following instructions from a recipe, [the Student] will be able to locate and use the measurement tool with 60% accuracy for 75% of opportunities."
    a. Quarter 4: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D336)
3. Benchmark 4.1.3: "By the end of the 1st quarter in October 2025, following instructions from a recipe, [the Student] will be able to locate and use the measurement tool with 70% accuracy for 75% of opportunities."
    a. Quarter 1: Not making progress toward annual goal (NMP). (D337)
4. Benchmark 4.1.4: "By the end of the 2nd quarter in December 2025, following instructions from a recipe, [the Student] will be able to locate and use the measurement tool with 75% accuracy for 75% of opportunities."
    a. Quarter 2: Not making progress toward goal (NMP). (D337)

g. Related services from February 4, 2025 to February 3, 2026:

i. OT (fine and visual motor) for independent living and vocational skills for 20 minutes, one day per week, as special education direct services outside of the regular education classroom/other location.

ii. Special education transportation on the special education bus for the time required to travel from home to school and from school to home, for 20 minutes, five days per week, as indirect services.

h. Special education services from February 4, 2025 to February 3, 2026, outside the regular education classroom/other location:

i. Reading and writing comprehension skills:

1. General, 45 minutes every other week and 90 minutes twice per week;
2. Science, 45 minutes every other week and 90 minutes twice per week; and
3. Social studies, 45 minutes every other week and 90 minutes twice per week.

ii. Math calculation and comprehension skills, 45 minutes every other week and 90 minutes twice per week.

iii. Speech/Language, 20 minutes, one day every three out of four weeks.

i. Supports for school personnel and transportation services.

j. Placement decision and ESY.

k. Post-secondary goals and transition services.

l. Modifications, accommodations, and supplementary aids and services. (D307-D327)

2. Prior Written Notice (PWN), dated October 3, 2025, indicated the LEA proposed to conduct a re-evaluation, parental consent was required, and the proposed areas of evaluation included: Health/motor, vision, hearing, social-emotional/behavioral, general intelligence, academic performance, communicative status, transition skills, and adaptive behavior/sensory processing. Existing data would be reviewed for all areas, and new data would be collected for the following: health/motor, general intelligence, academic performance, and adaptive behavior/sensory processing. Explanations, options, data descriptions, and other factors were noted. (D374-D375) Parent 2 signed consent for the re-evaluation on October 18, 2025. (D376)

3. A Notice of Meeting, dated October 10, 2025, and addressed to Parent 2 and the Relative , proposed an annual IEP meeting and re-evaluation meeting for December 10, 2025. The notice was emailed to Parent 2 and the Relative on the same date. (D305-D306)

4. On November 20, 2025, the Special Education Coordinator emailed the Principal and the Assistant Principal to request background information on the Student. The Parent called the superintendent's office regarding access to the Student, and the Special Education Coordinator indicated the Parent was not on the contact list. (D7) On the same day, the Special Education Teacher emailed the Special Education Coordinator to share, "[The Student's] parents are in a custody battle. [Parent 2] has asked us not to release [the Student] to [the Parent] while [the Student] is in [Parent 2's] custody. I spoke with [Parent 2] today about clarifying the legal boundaries that are in place so that we (the district and the school) know how to appropriately handle [the Parent's] requests." (D15)

5. A Notice of Meeting to develop the Student's IEP, dated January 8, 2026, was mailed to Parent 2 on the same date. (D68-D69)
6. A re-evaluation report, dated January 8, 2026, included:
    a. Review of existing data, October 3, 2025.
    b. OT evaluation and recommendation, dated November 25, 2025.
    c. Social-emotional, record review.
    d. Adaptive behavior, tests and results.
    e. Cognitive processing, tests and results.
    f. Academic performance, record review, observation, tests and results.
    g. Special education classroom observations.
    h. Eligibility determination indicating criteria were met for ID and SL. (D338-D349)
    i. Meeting notes indicated the Student's evaluation results were reviewed by the Student's team. (D358-D359)
    j. A document titled "Eligibility Meeting Participants" included names, signatures, and roles indicating all LEA parties agreed with the findings. An accompanying paragraph indicated signatures and agreement meant, "It is the judgment of the undersigned members of the evaluation team, including parents, that an evaluation addressing all areas of concern has been completed." The document did not indicate a parent signature. (D359)
    k. PWN summarized the findings reflected in the re-evaluation report and meeting notes, and indicated, for eligibility purposes, parental consent was not required. (D352-D353)
7. Relevant information from an IEP, dated January 22, 2026, included:
    a. Evaluation date: January 8, 2026.
    b. Educational decision-makers: Parent 2 and the Relative.
    c. Goals:
        i. Math, baseline: "[The Student] currently struggles to identify coins and their value. [The Student] is currently able to identify some coins by name, but is not yet able to identify their value."
        ii. Math goal, evaluated by data collection; provided by a special education teacher: "By 01-21-2027, given a random set of 5 real coins, a visual chart of coin names and values, and a verbal prompt to identify each coin by name, [the Student] will verbally state … the name of each coin and its value, for 4 out of 5 coins, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."

1. Benchmark 1.1.1: "By the end of the third academic quarter (March 2026), given a set of 6 random coins (e.g., pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters), a visual chart of coin names and values, and a verbal prompt to sort the coins by color (e.g., silver, copper), [the Student] will sort the coins, for 4 out of 5 opportunities, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."
    a. Quarter 3: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D329)
2. Benchmark 1.1.2: "By the end of the fourth academic quarter (May 2026), given a set of 4 numbers related to coins (e.g., 1, 5, 10, 25), a visual chart of coin names and values, and a verbal prompt to identify all of the numbers, [the Student] will say each number, for 4 out of 5 opportunities, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."
    a. Quarter 4: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D329)
3. Benchmark 1.1.3: "By the end of the first academic quarter (October 2026), given a set of 4 real coins (e.g., penny, nickel, dime, quarter), a visual chart of the same 4 coins, and a verbal prompt to match the real coin to the coin on the chart (e.g., 'Pick up the coin that matches this penny.')[.] [The Student] will pick up the coin matching the chart, for 4 out of 5 opportunities, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."
4. Benchmark 1.1.4: "By 01-21-2027, given a random set of 5 real coins, a visual chart of coin names and values, and a verbal prompt to identify each coin by name, [the Student] will verbally state … the name of each coin and its value, for 4 out of 5 coins, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments." (D32-D33)

iii. Reading, baseline: "When presented social, environmental or academic high[-]frequency sight words without corresponding photographs or icons, [the Student] was able to independently read 26 out of 60 words. When presented [with] social, environmental or academic high[-]frequency sight words with corresponding photographs or icons, [the Student] was able to independently read 42 out of 60 words."

iv. Reading goal, evaluated by data collection; provided by a special education teacher: "By 01-21-2027, after an illustrated instructional-level functional high-frequency word or phrase is read aloud (Community safety signs, vocational words, etc.), given 3 written word choices and a verbal prompt to match the illustrated word to the corresponding written word, [the Student] will point to the corresponding written word, for 4 out of 5 illustrated words, on 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."

1. Benchmark 2.1.1: "By the end of the third academic quarter (March 2026), after an illustrated instructional-level functional high-frequency word is read aloud, given 3 illustrations and a verbal prompt to match the illustration to the given illustrated high-frequency word, [the Student] will point to the matching illustration, for 4 out of 5 illustrated words, on 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."
    a. Quarter 3: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D330)
2. Benchmark 2.1.2: "By the end of the fourth academic quarter (May 2026), given an illustrated instructional-level functional high-frequency word with the first letter read aloud and verbally asked which of 3 written letter choices match the first letter of the illustrated high-frequency word, [the Student] will point to the matching letter, for 4 out of 5 illustrated words, on 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."
    a. Quarter 4: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D330)
3. Benchmark 2.1.3: "By the end of the first academic quarter (October 2026), given an illustrated instructional-level functional high-frequency word with the word and the first letter read aloud and verbally asked which of 3 written word choices begin with the same letter as the illustrated high-frequency word, [the Student] will point to the word that starts with the same letter, for 4 out of 5 illustrated words, on 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."
4. Benchmark 2.1.4: "By 01-21-2027, after an illustrated instructional-level functional high-frequency word or phrase is read aloud (Community safety signs, vocational words, etc.), given 3 written word choices and a verbal prompt to match the illustrated word to the corresponding written word, [the Student] will point to the corresponding written word, for 4 out of 5 illustrated words, on 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."

v. Speech/Language, baseline: "[The Student] comments on familiar and unfamiliar tasks with a 2-3 word response on 5 of 10 trials."

vi. Speech/Language goal, evaluated by data provided by an SLP or a special education teacher: "By the end of the 2025-2026 IEP school year, [the Student] will use verbal, visual and hands[-]on cues to complete familiar and unfamiliar tasks and respond to questions about the task with a 2-3 word comment on 9 of 10 trials."

1. Benchmark 3.1.1: "By March of 2026, [the Student] will use visual, verbal and hands[-]on cues to complete a task and use 2-3 word comments … during tasks (familiar and unfamiliar) on 6 of 10 trials."
    a. Quarter 3: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D331)
2. Benchmark 3.1.2: "By May of 2026, [the Student] will use verbal, visual and hands[-]on cues to complete familiar and unfamiliar tasks and respond to questions about the task with a 2-3 word phrase on 7 of 10 trials."
    a. Quarter 4: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D331)
3. Benchmark 3.1.3: "By October of 2026, [the Student] will use verbal, visual and hands[-]on cues to complete familiar and unfamiliar tasks and respond to questions about the task with a 2-3 word phrase on 8 of 10 trials."
4. Benchmark 3.1.4: "By the end of the 2025-2026 IEP school year, [the Student] will use verbal, visual and hands[-]on cues to complete familiar and unfamiliar tasks and respond to questions about the task with a 2-3 word phrase on 9 of 10 trials."

vii. OT baseline: "[The Student] is able to independently complete between 20%-50% of the steps for routine vocational and independent living tasks (ex: folding/hanging laundry, cleaning tables, washing dishes, sorting/storing material)."

viii. OT goal, evaluated by observation of performance and task checklists provided by an OT: "By the next IEP in January 2027, following visual instructions and initial training of the steps in the task, [the Student] will be able to independently complete at least 80% of the steps for a vocational or independent living task aligned to [their] skills for 75% of task opportunities."

1. Benchmark 4.1.1: "By the end of the 3rd quarter in March 2026, following visual instructions and initial training of the steps in the task, [the Student] will be able to independently complete at least 60% of the steps for a vocational or independent living task aligned to [their] skills for 75% of task opportunities."
    a. Quarter 3: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D331)
2. Benchmark 4.1.2: "By the end of the 4th quarter in May 2026, following visual instructions and initial training of the steps in the task, [the Student] will be able to independently complete at least 70% of the steps for a vocational or independent living task aligned to [their] skills for 75% of task opportunities."

   a. Quarter 4: Not making progress toward annual goal (NMP). (D331)

3. Benchmark 4.1.3: "By the end of the 1st quarter in October 2026, following visual instructions and initial training of the steps in the task, [the Student] will be able to independently complete at least 75% of the steps for a vocational or independent living task aligned to [their] skills for 75% of task opportunities."
4. Benchmark 4.1.4: "By the end of the 2nd quarter in December 2026, following visual instructions and initial training of the steps in the task, [the Student] will be able to independently complete at least 80% of the steps for a vocational or independent living task aligned to [their] skills for 75% of task opportunities."
   a. Writing baseline: "When asked to write [their] last name, [the Student] was unable to spell [their last name] without help or a model to copy from. When given a model to copy [their] last name from, [the Student] will copy each letter, but [the Student] does not consistently write within the space [the Student] is provided and becomes obsessive about the way certain letters look."
   b. Writing goal, evaluated by data collection provided by special education staff: "By 01-21-2027, given a visual of a personal information card, a paper job application and a verbal prompt to fill out the application, [the Student] will utilize the personal information card to produce [their] name, address, and phone number in writing, for 4 out of 5 practice opportunities, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."
5. Benchmark 5.1.1: "By the end of the third academic quarter (March 2026), given a visual of a personal information card, a paper job application, and a verbal prompt to recall [their] name, [the Student] will utilize the personal information card to produce [their] name in writing for 4 out of 5 practice opportunities, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."
   a. Quarter 3: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D332)
6. Benchmark 5.1.2: "By the end of the fourth academic quarter (May 2026), given a visual of a personal information card, a paper job application, and a verbal prompt to recall [their] personal address, [the Student] will utilize the personal information card to produce [their] name and home address in writing, for 4 out of 5 opportunities, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."

a. Quarter 4: Making progress toward annual goal (MPG). (D332)

7. Benchmark 5.1.3: "By the end of the first academic quarter (October 2026), given a visual of a personal information card, a paper job application, and a verbal prompt to recall [their] personal phone number, [the Student] will utilize the personal information card to produce [their] name, home address, and phone number in writing, for 3 out of 5 opportunities, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."
8. Benchmark 5.1.4: "By 01-21-2027, given a visual of a personal information card, a paper job application and a verbal prompt to fill out the application, [the Student] will utilize the personal information card to produce [their] name, address, and phone number in writing, for 4 out of 5 practice opportunities, as measured by 3 out of 4 progress monitoring assessments."

d. Related services from January 22, 2026 to January 21, 2027:
   i. OT (fine motor) for 20 minutes, one day per week, as special education direct services outside of the regular education classroom/other location.
   ii. Speech/Language for 20 minutes one day every three out of four weeks, as special education direct services outside of the regular education classroom/other location.
   iii. Special education transportation on the special education bus for the time required to travel from home to school and from school to home, for 20 minutes, five days per week.

e. Special education services from January 22, 2026 to January 21, 2027 as special education direct services outside the regular education classroom/other location:
   i. Reading, writing, math, IEP goals: 270 minutes, once per week; 345 minutes one day every three out of four weeks; 385 minutes, three days per week; and 365 minutes, one day over one out of four weeks.

f. Supports for school personnel and transportation services.

l. PWN, dated January 22, 2026, documenting the Student's eligibility for special education, mirroring the IEP. (D58-D61)

m. Signed consent for the Student's placement and provision of services by Parent 2. (D63)

8. On March 6, 2026, the Administrative Assistant emailed the Special Education Coordinator to share the Parent had called to express they had "concerns with [the Student's] education and does not know anything about what is going on with [the Student's] education. [The Parent] shared that [the Parent] has joint custody of [the Student] however I don't see [the Parent] listed …" in the student information system (SIS). (D9)

9. On March 24, 2026, the Assistant Principal alerted the Special Education Coordinator via email that the Parent contacted a case manager not affiliated with the Student and attached a custody agreement. (D10) On the same day, the Special Education Coordinator responded, indicating the Parent had parental rights, and wrote, "When we discussed this previously, I believe [the Parent] was not listed in [the SIS], which raised some concerns. I do think we should move forward with adding [the Parent] to [the SIS] so [the Parent] has appropriate access to [the Student's] records." (D11) The Assistant Principal asked if guardianship or custody documents were provided to the special education team and the Special Education Coordinator replied, "No, I don't believe so. [Parent 2] stated that [the Parent] still has parental rights … ." (D12)

10. A 2025-26 grade report indicated that the Student earned 94% or 100% in all courses for the school year. (D1-D6)

11. A 2025-26 attendance document indicated the Student attended an average of 89% of the school days. (D328)

12. SLP Service Logs dated April 15, 2025 through April 16 2026, indicated 27 entries of service, for 20-minute durations, and noted "Moderate Improvement" of progress for the Student. (D450-D454)

13. OT Service Logs dated April 3, 2025 through April 16, 2026 indicated 24 entries of service during the complaint period. Noted were 20-minute durations of individual or group services, and the Student participated in the classroom or outside of the classroom setting in services in independent or group activities. (D380-D439)

14. An undated SIS record indicated the Student was enrolled in December 2017 by Parent 2. Parent 2 was marked as "Guardian," "Emergency Priority #1," and "Mailing" with a start date of August 18, 2023. The Parent was marked as "Guardian" with an indicated start date of June 8, 2026. "Legal Designee" boxes were not checked for either parent. (D457)

15. On April 15, 2026, the Parent filed the Complaint. (Complaint, April 10, 2026)

16. In an email dated June 23, 2026, the Special Education Coordinator confirmed the Parent's information was added into the SIS on June 8, 2026. They stated the delay was due to unsuccessful attempts to contact the Parent to confirm a residential address. The Parent provided the LEA with an email address and phone number and has been "unresponsive" to attempts to communicate. (D455)
17. In a written response, dated June 24, 2026, the Special Education Teacher described the implementation of the Student's IEP. They shared they have served the Student for "approximately" two years. Their instruction included delivering "one-on-one instruction in reading, spelling, phonics, and functional academics." The Special Education Teacher shared that because the Student experienced difficulties maintaining focus for extended periods, lessons were structured in "short segments" that integrated visual daily schedules, color-coding, and music to reinforce concepts. Daily routines included a morning social-emotional check-in to guide instruction, alongside collaborative efforts with related service providers to implement "consistent wait time and prompting strategies." They shared the Student received continuous staff support across educational settings and was encouraged to communicate using complete sentences. The Special Education Teacher stated the Student's IEP has "remained in effect throughout the time I have worked with [them] and was never revoked." (D458-D459)
18. The Special Education Teacher explained they "primarily" communicated with Parent 2, as they were "the parent identified in the [SIS] and the individual with whom school staff routinely communicated." The Special Education Teacher stated, "Prior to spring 2026, I was not provided with contact information for [the Parent] and did not have any indication that [they] should be included in routine school communications. We did not have information regarding who [the Parent] was until documentation was provided in spring 2026." They shared the Parent provided documentation in the spring of 2026 "establishing joint parental rights" with an indicated phone number and email address. (D458-D459)
19. The Special Education Teacher was "not made aware" of concerns that the Student should be evaluated for ADHD or ASD. They "did not receive information, documentation, or requests" regarding these concerns, noting the concerns were never raised during IEP meetings. The Special Education Teacher stated they were not made aware of these evaluation concerns by either the Parent or Parent 2. (D458-D459)
20. The Special Education Teacher described the Student's progress in reading and spelling. They shared the Student was able to read consonant-vowel-consonant (CVC) words with visual supports and self-correct consonant sounds, though they experienced "difficulty independently spelling words upon request" due to memory and recall challenges. They shared behaviorally, the Student was respectful and had "not exhibited significant behavioral concerns in the school setting" over the past two years. While staff were aware of past incidents involving physical aggression during the Student's freshman year, such behaviors were not observed during the past two years because consistent communication strategies were implemented to "reduce frustration and support successful interactions." (D459)

Parent Interview

21. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent explained the School would not share information with them in regard to the Student due to them not being "on the contact list." (P3, 07:57)
22. The Parent shared they have "always been" one of the Student's educational decision makers. (P4, 12:03)

Special Education Coordinator Interview

23. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Coordinator explained after the superintendent's office received the November 20, 2025 phone call from the Parent, the LEA sought to verify whether they held educational rights. The Special Education Coordinator shared they spoke with the Parent and outlined the LEA procedures and steps required to establish their parental rights within the LEA's SIS. They explained to establish such, a parent must provide an address and "documentation that they're the parents." The Special Education Coordinator shared Parent 2 had enrolled the Student in School and the LEA was unaware the Parent was "involved," and Parent 2 was the Student's "primary guardian." (P2, 02:48, 03:39)
24. The Special Education Coordinator explained that according to LEA policy, parents must be registered within the SIS by providing verified address documentation and proof of parental rights to access a student's educational records. School personnel are prohibited from sharing any student details with anyone who is not listed in this database. To gain access, a parent can visit the school building at any time to provide their information and ensure they are properly entered into the system as a guardian. (P2, 03:39; P4, 09:54)
25. The Special Education Coordinator stated they received custodial parental documentation from the Parent on March 24, 2026. (P2, 05:05)
26. When asked about the notice of meeting on January 8, 2026, the Special Education Coordinator explained the case manager completed the task, and said notice was sent to Parent 2 because the Parent was not in the SIS, adding there was "no communication with [the Parent] at this time period." They stated, "At the time we weren't aware that [the Parent] was a parent that had rights. … there wasn't another guardian that was put in the system at that time. So as far as we were concerned, there was only one primary guardian that we were dealing with because we didn't have that information." (P4, 09:00, 09:32, 09:54)
27. The Special Education Coordinator shared after receiving this Complaint, they had attempted to reach the Parent multiple times via phone and email with no success. (P5, 12:06)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to fulfill its childfind obligations to evaluate the Student for suspected disabilities, including Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) and Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD). K.A.R. 91-40-7; 34 CFR § 300.111.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-7; 34 CFR § 300.111, each board shall adopt and implement policies and procedures to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in its jurisdiction, or are suspected of being a child with disabilities even though they are advancing from grade to grade.

Each board's policies and procedures under this regulation shall include age-appropriate screening procedures that meet the requirements for children from ages five through 21, observations, instruments, measures, and techniques that disclose any potential exceptionality and indicate a need for evaluation, including hearing and vision screening as required by state law. In addition, the implementation of procedures ensuring the early identification and assessment of disabilities in children is required. Any board may refer a child who is enrolled in public school for an evaluation if school personnel have data-based documentation indicating general education intervention and strategies would be inadequate to address the areas of concern for the child.

In addition, an agency may refer a child when school personnel have data-based documentation indicating that before the referral or as part of the referral, the child was provided with appropriate instruction in regular education settings that was delivered by qualified personnel, and the child's academic achievement was repeatedly assessed at reasonable intervals that reflected formal assessment of the student's progress during instruction. In addition, assessment results were provided to the child's parent. Any board may refer a child when the parent of the child requests, and gives written consent for an evaluation of the child, and the agency agrees that an evaluation of the child is appropriate. The agency needs a practical method developed and implemented to determine which children are currently receiving needed special education and related services.

The Parent alleged the LEA neglected the Student's education because the Student had no IEP and was not in a special needs class. The Parent indicated the LEA "doesn't want to know my [Student's] diagnosis so they can properly educate [the Student].

The LEA indicated that, based upon the re-evaluation process completed on January 8, 2026, the multidisciplinary team reviewed existing data, conducted assessments, and considered information from educational staff, related service providers, and Parent 2, who participated in the evaluation process. The evaluation team determined the Student continued to qualify for special education services under the eligibility category of Intellectual Disability, with Speech-

Language Impairment identified as a secondary exceptionality. During the review of evaluation data, the team did not identify characteristics, behaviors, or other evidence indicating a need to evaluate for ADHD or ASD. Additionally, the LEA did not receive independent evaluations, medical documentation, parent requests, or other information suggesting the Student should be evaluated for ADHD or ASD. Parent 2 participated in the January 8, 2026 re-evaluation meeting. No concerns regarding ADHD or ASD were raised by participating team members or by Parent 2. The LEA was not aware, and had no documentation indicating that the Parent possessed educational decision-making rights until they provided court documentation establishing joint parental rights on March 24, 2026. Prior to that date, the LEA had not received documentation identifying the Parent as a person entitled to educational records or participation in special education decision-making.

According to the evidence provided, the Student is currently eligible for special education under the categories of ID and SL impairment. While the Student was already receiving extensive special education and related services under a February 4, 2025 IEP, the LEA proactively addressed mixed performance data and benchmark progress in reading, math, and OT during the 2025–2026 school year. Furthermore, the Special Education Teacher was not made aware of any concerns, documentation, or requests by either Parent or Parent 2 to evaluate the Student for ADHD or ASD, noting these issues were never raised during IEP meetings. Despite the absence of a formal parental request, the LEA issued PWN on October 3, 2025, to conduct a comprehensive re-evaluation, securing parental consent from Parent 2. The resulting January 8, 2026 re-evaluation report utilized classroom observations, record reviews, and standardized testing to determine that the Student met eligibility criteria for ID and SL impairment. The evaluation team noted that all areas of concern had been completed, and Parent 2 consented to the placement and services outlined in the updated January 22, 2026 IEP, the evidence demonstrates the LEA successfully recognized, investigated, and evaluated all suspected areas of disability.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that USD #500 failed to fulfill its childfind obligations to evaluate the Student for suspected disabilities, including ADHD and ASD.

Issue Two

Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, implemented an IEP that supported the Student to make appropriate academic progress, particularly in the areas of reading and spelling, and appropriately manage and address the Student's behavioral needs within the school environment. K.A.R. 91-40-16, K.A.R. 91-40-18 (b); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.320, 300.324(a)(2)(i).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16 and 34 C.F.R. § 300.320, each agency shall be responsible for initiating and conducting meetings to develop, review, and revise the IEP of each exceptional child served by the agency. Each agency shall ensure an IEP is in effect before special education and related services are provided to an exceptional child, and those services to which the parent has granted written consent as specified by law are implemented not later than ten school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown. In addition, each agency shall ensure an IEP is in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year. The child's IEP must be accessible to each regular education teacher, related service provider, and other service providers who are responsible for its implementation. Furthermore, each teacher and provider needs to be informed of that individual's specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP, and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.320 the IEP is a written statement for each child with a disability that is developed, reviewed, and revised in a meeting. It includes a statement of the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance including how the child's disability affects the child's involvement and progress in the general education curriculum. It includes a statement of measurable annual goals, including academic and functional goals designed to meet the child's needs that result from the child's disability to enable the child to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum, meet each child's other educational needs that result from the child's disability, and for children with disabilities who take alternate assessments aligned to alternate academic achievement standards, a description of benchmarks or short-term objectives.

In addition, an IEP includes a description of how the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals is measured, as well as periodic reports on the child's progress. An IEP includes a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child. In addition, a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals, to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum, in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities, and to be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Furthermore, an IEP includes an explanation of the extent, if any, to which the child will not participate with nondisabled children in the regular class and in activities. Furthermore, a statement of any individual appropriate accommodations that are necessary to measure the academic achievement and functional performance of the child on state and district assessments. The IEP includes the projected date for the beginning of the services and modifications, the anticipated frequency, location, and duration of those services and modifications, and transition services.

In the development, review, and revision of the IEP in consideration of special factors in the case of a child whose behavior impedes the child's learning or that of others, the IEP team will consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies to address that behavior,

According to K.A.R. 91-40-18 (b).; 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(2)(i), if as a result of its consideration of special factors and amendments, an IEP team determines that a child needs behavioral interventions and strategies, accommodations, assistive technology devices or services, or other program modifications for the child to receive a FAPE, the IEP team shall include those items in the child's IEP.

The Parent alleged the LEA steadily advanced the Student from grade to grade when the Student was not learning anything. The Parent indicated the Student cannot spell or read. The Parent explained the Student sits folded up in school, and continually bangs their head.

The LEA responded that progress monitoring data and progress reports for the Student demonstrated the Student made educational progress in reading, spelling, and other areas consistent with the Student's individual abilities. The LEA expressed they appropriately addressed the Student's behavioral needs.

The record indicated that the Special Education Teacher delivered one-on-one instruction in reading, spelling, phonics, and functional academics, structuring lessons in short segments that integrated visual daily schedules, color-coding, and music to accommodate the Student's difficulties maintaining focus for extended periods. Additionally noted by the Special Education Teacher, the Student was behaviorally respectful and did not exhibit significant behavioral concerns in the School setting over the past two years. Although staff were aware of incidents involving physical aggression during the Student's freshman year, no such behaviors were observed during the past two years due to the implementation of consistent communication strategies designed to reduce frustration and support successful interactions. Daily routines included a morning social-emotional check-in to guide instruction, alongside collaborative provider strategies such as consistent wait times, prompting strategies, and continuous staff support across educational settings. The record indicated when performance data from the February 4, 2025 IEP showed a lack of progress in reading and OT benchmarks, the LEA conducted a re-evaluation. The subsequent January 22, 2026 IEP updated the Student's objectives to focus on functional high-frequency words, written application skills, and coin identification based on newly established baselines. Related service logs confirm the implementation of these supports during the Complaint period, tracking 24 occupational therapy sessions and 27 speech-language pathology sessions that noted "Moderate Improvement" in the Student's communication progress. During the 2025–26 school year, while receiving these individualized academic and behavioral interventions, the Student maintained an 89% average attendance rate and earned final marks ranging from 94% to 100% in all courses.

Based on the foregoing, according to the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that USD #500 failed to implement an IEP that enabled the Student to make appropriate academic progress, particularly in the areas of reading and spelling, and to appropriately manage and address the Student's behavioral needs within the school environment.

Issue Three

Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, denied the Parent an opportunity to meaningfully participate in the IEP process by failing to provide information regarding the Student's IEP and withholding education records upon the Parent's request. K.A.R. 91-40-50, K.A.R. 91-40-17; 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.501 (a), 300.613.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-50 and 34 C.F.R. § 300.613, regarding parental access to student records and confidentiality, “Education records” means any document or medium on which information directly related to one or more students is maintained by a participating agency. A “participating agency” means any educational agency or institution that collects, maintains, or uses personally identifiable student information to provide special education and related services to children with disabilities.

The parents of a child with a disability will be given the opportunity to examine records and participate in meetings. Parents will be given the opportunity to examine records. The parent will be given the opportunity to inspect and review all educational records with respect to the identification, evaluation, and educational placement of the child, and the provision of a FAPE to the child. Regarding access rights, each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency. The agency must reply with the request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or a resolution session, and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made. The parent will be given the right to a response from the participating agency to reasonable requests for explanations and interpretations of the records, and the right to request the agency provide copies of the records containing the information if failure to provide those copies would effectively prevent the parent from exercising the right to inspect and review the records. Also, the parent will have the right to have a representative of the parent inspect and review the records.

An agency may presume the parent has authority to inspect and review records relating to his or her child unless the agency has been advised that the parent does not have the authority under applicable state law governing such matters as guardianship, separation, and divorce.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-17; 34 C.F.R. § 300.501 (a), each agency shall take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each IEP meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate. These steps include scheduling each meeting at a mutually agreed upon time and place and informing the parents of the information, and providing a written notice to the parents of any IEP team meeting at least ten days in advance of the meeting. The notice shall indicate the purpose, time, and location of the IEP team meeting and the titles or positions of the persons who will attend on behalf of the agency, including, if appropriate, any other agency invited to send a representative to discuss needed transition services. The notice shall indicate the following information: If the purpose is to consider postsecondary goals and needed transition services for the child, the agency will invite the parents' child to attend. One of the purposes of the meeting will be to consider the postsecondary goals and needed transition services for the student.

The Parent alleged the LEA hangs up on the Parent when they call, even though they are the biological parent. The Parent indicated that they have legal proof of custody and the Student's education is being neglected.

The LEA responded the Parent did not provide documentation establishing their status as a parent with educational decision-making rights to the LEA until March, 2026. When the Parent presented themself as being an "interested party and educational-decision maker," the LEA took the required steps to confirm their status as an educational-decision maker.

The record indicated IEP meeting notices, prior written notices, and educational updates were directed to Parent 2 and the Relative because the Parent was not registered in the LEA's SIS prior to spring 2026. The Student was originally enrolled in 2017 by Parent 2, who was listed as the primary guardian, and School personnel lacked prior documentation or contact information regarding the Parent's involvement. When the Parent contacted the LEA in November 2025, the Special Education Coordinator outlined the LEA's standard safety and privacy policy, which required an individual to provide proof of parental rights and a verified residential address before being entered into the database and granted access to educational records. The Parent subsequently submitted the custody agreement establishing joint parental rights on March 24, 2026, at which point the LEA initiated the process to add the Parent to the SIS. Although the Parent's status was finalized as a guardian in the system on June 8, 2026, as indicated by the Special Education Coordinator the delay resulted from the Parent being unresponsive to multiple phone and email attempts by LEA personnel to obtain the mandatory residential address. Consequently, School staff adhered to confidentiality protocols by restricting information sharing until the Parent's registration criteria were completed in accordance with established LEA procedures.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that USD #500 denied the Parent an opportunity to meaningfully participate in the IEP process by failing to provide information regarding the Student's IEP and withholding education records upon the Parent's request.

Issue Four

Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to provide the Student with a FAPE by failing to implement necessary educational services and supports, including a period during which the Student did not have an IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-2, K.A.R. 91-40-1(z); 34 CFR §§ 300.17, 300.101.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-2; 34 CFR § 300.101, each agency shall make a FAPE available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction beginning not later than the child's third birthday. An IEP or IFSP shall be in effect by the child's third birthday, but if that birthday occurs during the summer when school is not in session, the child's IEP team shall determine the date when services will begin. Each agency shall provide a FAPE to exceptional children. Each agency shall make a FAPE available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction. A FAPE means special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision, and without charge, meeting state board standards, including appropriate education from preschool through secondary school and provided in conformity with an IEP.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(z); 34 CFR §§ 300.17, a FAPE means special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge, meet the standards of the SEA, including the requirements of an appropriate preschool, elementary school or secondary school education in the state involved. In addition, services are provided in conformity with an IEP that meets all legal requirements. A FAPE must be available to all children residing in the state between the ages of 3 through 21, inclusive, including children with disabilities who have been suspended or expelled from school. Beginning at age three, each state must ensure that the obligation to make a FAPE available to each eligible child residing in the state begins no later than the child's third birthday. Each state must ensure that a FAPE is available to any individual child with a disability who needs special education and related services, even though the child has not failed or been retained in a course or a grade, and is advancing from grade to grade. The determination that a child has a disability must be made on an individual basis by the group responsible within the child's LEA for making eligibility determinations.

The Parent alleged the LEA did not address behavioral issues as well as cognitive and motor issues. The Parent indicated the Student does not know how to communicate well even though they are in the eleventh grade.

The LEA responded that the Student had IEPs dated February 4, 2025 and January 22, 2026, in effect during the Complaint period. The LEA explained they implemented the Student's special education services and supports as verified by service logs, IEP records, progress reports, attendance records, and class schedules. The Student also participated in a re-evaluation process completed on January 8, 2026, and a subsequent IEP was developed on January 22, 2026.

The record indicated the Student's IEP remained continuously in effect and was never revoked, providing uninterrupted access to special education and related services. The District delivered intensive, one-on-one instruction in reading, spelling, phonics, and functional academics, enabling the Student to read CVC words with visual supports and self-correct consonant sounds despite memory challenges.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that USD #500 failed to provide the Student with a FAPE.

For a further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f), which is included at the end of this report.

Tania Tong, Licensed Complaint Investigator

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #437
ON MAY 18, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 30, 2026

This report is in response to two child complaints filed with the Kansas State Department of Education on behalf of _____ and _____ by their parents, _____. In the remainder of the report _____ will be referred to as "student A", _____ will be referred to as "student B" and both will be referred to as "the students". _____ will be referred to as the "complainants" or "the parents" or individually as "the father" and "the mother" respectively.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student."

In this case, the complaint is against USD #437 (Auburn/Washburn Public Schools) which employs its own staff to meet the requirements of the IDEA. In the remainder of the report, this responsible public agency will be referred to as "the local education agency (LEA)".

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 60-day timeline to investigate a complaint and allow for an appeal process from the date on which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE and the LEA and KSDE. If emailed after business hours, the complaint is considered filed on the next business day. In this case, May 18, 2026 is considered as the date the complaint was filed as KSDE combined two separate complaints into one investigation as 26FC437-015.

In the remainder of the report, the LEA staff will be referred to as follows:

- Heidi Carlson, Director of Secondary Special Services
- Charlie Stoltenberg, Washburn Rural North Middle School (WRNMS) Principal
- Tina Schindler, Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B
- Ed Raines, Washburn Rural High School (WRHS) Principal
- Jamie Callaghan, WRHS Assistant Principal
- Hillary Osborn, Special Education Department Chair
- Sandi Roe, WRHS Lead Nurse
- Portia Jurado, Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student A
- Rachael Loyd, Physical Therapist

- Anthony Wunder, Adaptive PE Teacher
- Alex Hutchins, General Education Teacher for Individual/Team Sports
- Danyelle Sostre, Special Education Teacher 1
- Ruth May, Special Education Teacher 2
- Amy Kester, Special Education Teacher 3
- Lexi Ellis, Speech/Language Pathologist (SLP)
- Jennifer Tiller, General Education Advisory Teacher

Evidence Reviewed

The mother responded to written interview questions as part of this investigation. In addition, the Director of Secondary Special Services also responded to written interview and clarification questions during the investigation.

In completing this investigation, the Investigator reviewed written documentation provided by both the complainant and the LEA following the KSDE assignment of the first child complaint on May 14 and the assignment of the second child complaint on May 21, 2026. Note that a significant amount of additional documentation had been provided by both the parents and the LEA as part of three previous investigations regarding these two students and this documentation was also considered during this fourth investigation. The following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions in the investigation of 26FC437-015:

1. Individual Education Program (IEP) developed on October 24, 2024 in USD #345 for student B
2. IEP Amendment dated August 6, 2025 for student B
3. Prior Written Notice (PWN) for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent dated August 6, 2025 proposing to add transportation as a related service and update special education service minutes and accommodations to student B's IEP with written parent consent provided on August 6, 2025
4. IEP for student A developed on September 25, 2025
5. Email dated September 28, 2025 at 9:20 PM written by the father to Special Education Teacher 3
6. Email dated October 2, 2025 at 10:58 AM written by the WRHS Assistant Principal to the parents
7. PWN for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent proposing to update student A's IEP goals and increase special education services which was signed by the mother on October 6, 2025
8. IEP dated October 13, 2025 for student B
9. PWN for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent dated October 13, 2025 proposing to update student B's IEP goals and increase special education services with written parent consent provided on October 16, 2025

10. IEP Goal Data Sheets for the six goals in student B's IEP dated between the weeks of April 1 through May 18, 2026.
11. Children's Mercy Hospital note dated April 28, 2026 written by Katherine Carpenter, APRN regarding physical restrictions
12. Heartland Community Health Center note dated April 29, 2026 written by Marshall Kelley, M.D. regarding recommended accommodations related to toileting
13. PWNfor Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent dated April 29, 2026 proposing an IEP Team meeting "to review the newly received medical information, consider revisions to [student A's] goal, services, accommodations, considerations and ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned and can be implemented safely".
14. Notice of Meeting dated April 29, 2026 scheduling an IEP Team meeting for May 12, 2026 at 3:30 PM
15. Email dated April 29, 2026 at 7:55 AM written by the mother to the WRHS Principal, WRHS Assistant Principal, Special Education Department Chair, and the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student A sharing the Children's Mercy medical note
16. Email dated April 29, 2026 at 9:10 AM written by the WRHS Assistant Principal
17. Email dated April 29, 2026 at 9:35 AM written by the WRHS Assistant Principal
18. Email dated April 29, 2026 at 9:36 AM written by the WRHS Assistant Principal to the mother regarding scheduling an IEP meeting in response to the Children's Mercy medical note
19. Email dated April 29, 2026 at 9:51 AM written by the mother
20. Email dated April 29, 2026 at 10:18 AM written by the mother

Background Information

The students previously attended school in another Kansas public school district and both students received special education and related services through IEPs. The students transferred to USD #437 at the conclusion of the 2024-25 school year and received extended school year services in USD #437 during the summer of 2025.

Student A was enrolled in the 10th grade at WRHS during the 2025-26 school year. Her most recent reevaluation was completed on October 28, 2024 and it was determined that she continued to meet the eligibility criteria for the exceptionality of Intellectual Disability and Autism. There were two IEPs in effect during the 2025-26 school year with the first being an August 12, 2025 IEP amendment to the transfer IEP from USD #345 and the second being the annual IEP developed on September 25, 2025. Both IEPs include special education support in general education classes and special education and related services provided in the low incidence programs in the district.

Student B was enrolled in the 8th grade at WRNMS for the 2025-26 school year. Her most recent triennial reevaluation was completed on October 18, 2023. At that time, it was determined that she continued to meet the eligibility criteria for the exceptionality of Multiple Disabilities based on medical diagnoses of Down's Syndrome, Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), and Reactive Attachment Disorder (RAD). There were two IEPs in effect during the 2025-26 school year with the first being an August 6, 2025 IEP amendment to the transfer IEP from USD #345 and the second being the annual IEP developed on October 13, 2025. Both IEPs include special education support in general education classes as well as specialized instruction and related services provided in the low incidence program in the district.

Issues Investigated

Student A

The parent made eight allegations of violations of the IDEA for student A. These eight allegations were all related to five IDEA issues which were investigated. Note that the Parents' first two allegations, which related to information the parents believed should have been included in the IEP, were not investigated as they were investigated previously as part of 26FC437-014 and will not be addressed in this Complaint Report.

[This issue addresses Violation 3]

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(b) require the prior written notice to include:

(1) A description of the action proposed or refused by the agency;
(2) An explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action;
(3) A description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action;
(4) A statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under the procedural safeguards of this part and, if this notice is not an initial referral for evaluation, the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained;
(5) Sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions of this part;
(6) A description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected; and

(7) A description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal."

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1) require each public agency to review each student's IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved; and to revise the student's IEP, as appropriate, to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum; the results of any reevaluation; information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a) requires school districts to ensure that the IEP Team for each child with a disability include the parents of the child, not less than one regular education teacher of the child, not less than one special education teacher of the child, a representative of the school district, an individual who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results, other individuals who have knowledge of special expertise regarding the child at the discretion of the parent or the school district, and the child with a disability whenever appropriate.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(e)(1) allow for a required member of the IEP Team to be excused and not required to attend an IEP Team meeting, in whole or part, if the parent of a child with a disability and the school district agree, in writing, that the attendance of that member is not necessary because the member's area of the curriculum or related services is not being modified or discussed at the meeting.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(e)(2) allow for a required member of the IEP Team to be excused from attending an IEP Team meeting, in whole or in part, when the meeting involves a modification to or discussion of the member's area of the curriculum or related services, if 1) the parent, in writing, and the public agency consent to the excusal; and 2) the member submits, in writing to the parent and the IEP Team, input into the development of the IEP prior to the meeting.

The Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, Chapter 4(A)(2), pg 83 states;

"Excusals through written agreement or consent apply only to the required IEP team members. Other members of the team, who have been invited by the school district or the parent, may be excused from attending the meeting without agreement or consent. If an individual that is not a required IEP team member, as described above, but is invited to attend a meeting, and is included on the notice of meeting, it is not required for the parent and school to consent and/or provide written agreement to excuse those individuals because they are not required members of an IEP team (Federal Register, August 14, 2006, p. 46675)."

Parent Position

The parents made the following allegation of a violation of the IDEA against USD #437:

Violation 3: Failure to Convene Full IEP Meeting Upon Parent Request

— 34 C.F.R. § 300.321

The parent stated, "Six formal requests for a full IEP meeting have been made since April 29, 2026 — a period of 13 days. None has resulted in a full IEP team meeting. While 30 days has not yet elapsed, the consistent and deliberate nature of the refusals — including the district's written commitment on May 1 followed by immediate reversal, its misuse of the amendment provision, its substitution of a Notice of Meeting for a required PWN, and its explicit deferral to next school year — establish that this is not a matter of scheduling delay but of deliberate, sustained noncompliance."

LEA Position

The LEA denied that it failed to convene an IEP Team meeting upon parent request and indicated that, upon receipt of the updated medical information provided by the parent, LEA staff reviewed the information and determined the need to conduct an IEP Team meeting to discuss this new information provided by the parents. An IEP was originally scheduled to review student A's IEP in light of the updated information on May 12, 2026 but the parents requested this IEP Team meeting be a comprehensive annual review with additional IEP Team members present.

The LEA made efforts to accommodate this request and proposed additional time and partial attendance of the additional parent request IEP Team members; however, the parents refused to meet unless all the IEP Team members stayed for the entire IEP Team meeting. The LEA was unable to meet this request and provided the parent with PWN of the refusal to hold a "full" IEP Team meeting with the "full" IEP Team in attendance for the entire meeting and provided the parents with two additional opportunities to reconvene the IEP Team to review student A's IEP in light of the updated medical information provided by the parents.

However, the parents continued to request a "full" IEP Team meeting with the "full" IEP Team in attendance for the entire meeting and refused to meet unless the LEA complied with this request. The LEA noted it continued to make efforts to offer IEP Team meetings to the parents but to no avail. Ultimately, no IEP Team meeting was held prior to the end of the 2025-26 school year.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on a review of written interview questions and documentation.

1. The mother shared the medical note from Children's Mercy Hospital with multiple LEA staff in an email dated April 29, 2026 at 7:55 AM stating, "Please find attached a medical letter from children's mercy regarding [the student's] physical needs, since the district has chosen to discriminate against her physical disability, by actively ignoring her medical history, having no plan for students with disabilities in an entry change, and

[the WRHS Assistant Principal's]retaliatory change of school entrance. We went ahead and again got it clearly from them . . ."

2. In response to updated medical information from Children's Mercy Hospital and Heartland Community Health Center received on April 29, 2026, the LEA provided the parents with a PWN for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent dated April 29, 2026 proposing an IEP Team meeting "to review the newly received medical information, consider revisions to [student A's] goal, services, accommodations, considerations and ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned and can be implemented safely".
3. The WRHS Assistant Principal sent an email to the parents on April 29, 2026 at 4:56 PM stating, "As outlined in the Prior Written Notice, the district has reviewed the medical guidance alongside [student A's] current IEP, including her goals, participation in physical education, and access to the school environment. Based on this review, we believe it is important for the IEP team to meet to ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned with her current needs and can be implemented safely. In addition, the district will collaborate with the school nurse to address the recently provided medical information related to health needs during the school day and determine appropriate supports". The email noted the IEP Team for the meeting would include the parents, the Physical Therapist, the Adaptive PE Teacher, the General Education Teacher for Individual/Team Sports (PE elective), Special Education Teacher / Case Manager, WRHS Lead Nurse, WRHS Special Education Department Chair, Director of Secondary Special Services, and the WRHS Assistant Principal.
4. Attached to this email was a Notice of Meeting dated April 29, 2026 scheduling an IEP Team meeting for May 12, 2026 at 3:30 PM. The Notice of Meeting stated the purpose of the IEP Team meeting was to "discuss possible changes to your child's Individualized Education Program (IEP)" and that all of the IDEA required IEP Team members including the LEA representative, the special education teacher, a staff member who can interpret evaluation results and at least one general education teacher of the student , will be present for the meeting.
5. The mother responded via email to the WRHS Assistant Principal on dated April 29, 2026 at 8:08 PM stating "Since [student A's] normal IEP date is September 25, 2026, we would want to convene the full team and complete a full IEP, not just an update, and we want her full team, this would include those listed with the addition of: Special Education Teacher 1, Special Education 2, Special Education Teacher 3, SLP, General Education Advisory Teacher".
6. The IDEA does not include the term "full IEP". During the mother's interview as part of the investigation of 26FC437-014, she stated that a "full IEP" meant the annual IEP review.
7. The WRHS Assistant Principal responded to the mother via email on April 30, 2026 at 8:37 AM indicating she would check to see if a "full" IEP could be arranged for the May 12 date and stated, ". . . let me talk with [student A's] case manager and team members to ensure that we would be able to develop an annual IEP within the timeframe that I initially proposed. I will also reach out to the additional special education teachers and the additional general education teacher to inquire about their availability".

8. The WRHS Assistant Principal reached out to all of the parent requested IEP Team members via email on April 30, 2026 at 10:18 AM to determine if they believed a comprehensive IEP review could be completed at the already scheduled IEP Team meeting on May 12, 2026 and to determine each member's availability to attend the scheduled IEP Team meeting. The IEP Team members responded at various points throughout the school day.
9. On May 1, 2026, the WRHS Assistant Principal sent an email to the parents at 4:59 PM stating that, in order to hold a meeting to review and revise the full IEP, the time of the IEP Team meeting would need to be adjusted from 3:30 to 3:00 PM and shared that "a few staff members noted prior commitments at 3:45 and 4:00 p.m". During the interview as part of the investigation of 26FC437-014, the Director of Secondary Special Education clarified that Special Education Teacher 3, the SLP, and the General Education Advisory Teacher needed to leave approximately 15 minutes early from the scheduled meeting time in order to attend to other personal and professional commitments.
10. The mother responded in an email dated May 1, 2026 at 5:25 and 5:26 PM indicating the IEP Team meeting would not be able to be completed within the 45 - 60 minutes being allotted for the IEP Team meeting. She stated, "This one is going to be a long one, so I think you need to inform the whole team to buckle up. If they need to leave by 3:45 or four, we are not going to be done, even if we start at 3". We have lots and lots and lots of input and things that will be added to the IEP going forward. We may get you a draft of those ahead of time, but otherwise we will get them to you at the meeting. So, I wouldn't spend a whole lot of time creating a draft from your perspective, as we have lots of things that the KSDE has given us feedback on how to more appropriately write it into the IEP after what has occurred at your school this year, that we will be including in the IEP to make sure going forward, you will be held accountable".
11. On May 1, 2026 at 6:19 PM, the WRHS Assistant Principal emailed the parents and stated, "We have scheduled this time to get started in a focused and organized way and will review key components of the IEP together. Given the complexity of the IEP and the importance of ensuring all areas are thoughtfully addressed, additional time may be needed to complete the process. Several team members have prior professional commitments later in the afternoon, and we will structure the meeting to ensure each member is able to provide input related to their role. If additional time is needed, we will reconvene to continue the discussion and ensure all components are fully addressed. Our goal is to maintain a collaborative and organized process focused on developing an IEP that is appropriate and aligned with [student A's] current needs, including the recent medical information".
12. The mother emailed the WRHS Assistant Principal on May 1, 2026 at 7:09 PM stating, "If you know in advance that the team is not going to be able to stay long enough for a full meeting of the entire IEP team, then we need to change the date. IDEA is very clear on this, if team members are leaving early, that undermines the integrity of the process. Please consider this our notice that we want a different date when the entire team can be available for a full meeting. This note is to formally notify you that I do not consent to the excusal of any required IEP team member, in whole or in part, for the meeting. Under 34 CFR §300.321(e) and 20 U.S.C. §1414(d)(1)(C), excusal requires written consent from both the LEA and the parent. I am withholding that consent. Please reschedule the meeting for a date when all required team members can attend in full. Insinuating that you as the LEA can override our permission for participants to be at the meeting or leave the meeting is another clear violation of our parental rights".

13. The WRHS Assistant Principal provided the parents with a prior written notice dated May 6, 2026 which stated, "The district proposes to convene the IEP team to review the medical documentation and educational concerns identified by the parents and determine whether amendments such as accommodations, supports, services, health-related planning, participation considerations, mobility considerations, physical access supports, or implementation adjustments to the student's current IEP are appropriate at this time. The district further proposes that participation in the meeting include parent(s), general education representation, special education representation, related service providers relevant to the concerns being reviewed, administrative representation, and personnel knowledgeable regarding the student's current programming, accommodations, implementation, and medical-related educational needs".
14. The May 6, 2026 prior written notice also stated, "The district declines at this time to immediately conduct a complete redevelopment or replacement of the student's current annual IEP prior to the upcoming annual review cycle".
15. The Explanation for the Action Proposed or Refused in the May 6, 2026 PWN stated, "The district acknowledges its obligation under IDEA to review parent-provided information and revise the student's IEP as appropriate. Consistent with 34 CFR § 300.324, the district proposes convening the IEP team to review the information provided and determine whether amendments such as accommodations, supports, services, health-related planning, participation considerations, or implementation adjustments to the current IEP are appropriate at this time. IDEA further provides that changes to an IEP may be made through amendment rather than redrafting the entire IEP. See 34 CFR § 300.324(a)(6).

    The district believes the proposed review and amendment process is appropriate under the circumstances presented, including the limited remaining instructional time in the current school year, the student's anticipated summer surgery and recovery, non-participation in ESY services, and the need for additional educational and recovery data to support comprehensive annual IEP development. The district acknowledges the parent concerns regarding the student's physical disability-related needs, including mobility, access, participation, accommodations, and implementation supports.

    The district believes these concerns may appropriately be reviewed and addressed through targeted review and amendment of the student's current IEP. Consistent with 34 CFR § 300.321, the district also believes participation by staff members whose areas of responsibility are directly relevant to the educational and medical concerns being reviewed is appropriate to the purpose of the proposed meeting. The district believes the proposed meeting composition satisfies IDEA requirements for IEP team participation and allows for meaningful discussion regarding the concerns identified by the parents.

The district does not believe that immediate comprehensive redevelopment of the student's annual IEP at this point in the school year would allow for a sufficiently thoughtful, data-driven, and collaborative annual planning process. The student's current annual IEP remains in effect through September 2026. Additionally, the current school year concludes on May 21, 2026, leaving limited remaining instructional time for meaningful implementation, monitoring, and evaluation of a newly developed annual IEP prior to the conclusion of the school year.

The district also considered information indicating the student is expected to undergo surgery during the summer and will not participate in Extended School Year (ESY) services. As a result, the district will have limited opportunity to implement, monitor, and evaluate the effectiveness of newly developed annual programming prior to the beginning of the 2026–2027 school year.

The district believes additional progress monitoring, implementation data, educational input, recovery information, and team review during the upcoming school year are necessary to support comprehensive annual IEP development and long-term programming decisions".

16. The May 6, 2026 PWN included the following description of options available if the parents disagreed with the action described in the PWN: " Any disagreement we have regarding any of the above matters may be resolved by our mutual agreement, through mediation or through due process proceedings".
17. An email dated May 6, 2026 at 2:58 PM written by the mother to the WRHS Assistant Principal stated, "Thank you for the meeting proposal. However, we are requesting a full IEP meeting rather than a medical update meeting only. With only 3-5 days remaining in the school year from your proposed dates, a medical update meeting at this time serves little practical purpose. Our preference is to hold a full IEP meeting that can be completed and implemented prior to the start of school in August, ensuring that any necessary changes to [student A's] IEP are in place from day one of the new school year rather than waiting until the September 25 renewal date. Please let us know your availability to schedule a full IEP meeting".
18. An email dated May 6, 2026 at 3:13 PM written by the parent to the WRHS Assistant Principal stated, "We are formally noting that refusing a parent's request for a full IEP meeting is a procedural violation under 34 CFR §300.322 and 34 CFR § 300.324(b)(1), which grant parents the right to request an IEP review at any time and require the district to ensure meaningful parental participation. Proposing a limited medical update meeting in place of a full IEP meeting without parental agreement does not satisfy this obligation and constitutes a denial of FAPE for [studentA]. We expect the district to honor our request for a full IEP meeting".

19. An email dated May 6, 2026 at 3:16 PM written by the mother to the WRHS Assistant Principal, the LEA Administration, School Board Members, KSDE and OCR stated, "On April 29, 2026, we submitted a written request for a full IEP meeting. Under 34 CFR § 300.324(b)(1), the district is obligated to honor that request. Substituting a limited medical update meeting does not satisfy this obligation, and the district does not have the authority to unilaterally deny or redefine the scope of a parent-requested IEP meeting".
20. An email dated May 6, 2026 at 4:50 PM written by the WRHS Assistant Principal to the parents stated, "IDEA further provides that changes to an IEP may be made through amendment rather than redrafting the entire IEP. See 34 CFR § 300.324(a)(6). The district believes the proposed review and amendment process is appropriate under the circumstances presented, including the limited remaining instructional time in the current school year, the student's anticipated summer surgery and recovery, non-participation in ESY services, and the need for additional educational and recovery data to support comprehensive annual IEP development.

    Consistent with 34 CFR § 300.321, the district also believes participation by staff members whose areas of responsibility are directly relevant to the educational and medical concerns being reviewed is appropriate to the purpose of the proposed meeting. The district's proposed participants include parent(s), general education representation, special education representation, related service providers relevant to the concerns being reviewed, administrative representation, and personnel knowledgeable regarding the student's current programming, accommodations, implementation, and medical-related educational needs The district's communications regarding scheduling and coordination were intended to facilitate organization of the proposed IEP meeting and identify staff members whose areas of responsibility are directly relevant to the concerns being reviewed. The district remains committed to convening the IEP team, reviewing the information provided by the parents, considering parent concerns, and determining whether revisions or amendments to the current IEP are appropriate based upon team discussion and available educational information.

    Because the district has considered the parent request for immediate comprehensive redevelopment of the student's annual IEP and has determined that targeted review and amendment of the current IEP is the appropriate course of action at this time, the district is providing the attached Prior Written Notice (PWN) documenting the district's proposal and refusal consistent with IDEA procedural requirements, The district remains willing to convene the IEP team to review the information provided, discuss parent concerns, and consider whether revisions or amendments to the current IEP are appropriate at this time. As previously proposed, the district remains available to meet on May 15, 2026 at 8:30 a.m. or May 18, 2026 at 1:00 p.m. If neither proposed date is workable, please provide additional availability and the district will continue working collaboratively to identify a mutually agreeable meeting time".

21. An email dated May 6, 2026 at 6:57 PM written by the mother the WRHS Assistant Principal, LEA Administration, School Board Members, KSDE, and OCR stated, "The district is citing 34 CFR § 300.324(a)(6) — the amendment provision — as justification for limiting this meeting to a targeted review. However, that provision only permits amendment without a full IEP meeting when BOTH parties agree in writing to that process. We have not agreed. We have twice requested a full IEP meeting in writing. The district cannot unilaterally impose the amendment process over our explicit objection. That is not a gray area under IDEA".

    Additionally, the district's justification that limited instructional time, upcoming surgery, and ESY non-participation support a reduced process has no basis in IDEA. None of those circumstances constitute a legal exception to a parent-requested IEP meeting under federal law. We also wish to be clear: the IEP is developed by the team — which includes us. The district does not have the unilateral authority to determine that a "targeted review" is appropriate in place of the full meeting we have requested. That decision belongs to the team, not the district alone".

22. An email dated May 8, 2026 at 5:26 PM written by the mother to the WRHS Assistant Principal, LEA Administration, School Board Members, KSDE, and OCR stated, "We are in receipt of the Notice of Meeting dated May 8, 2026, and we must formally object to its contents. This is our fourth written request for a full IEP meeting, with our first request in writing on April 29, 2026. The district has repeatedly and deliberately denied this request, and we are making it unequivocally clear that the district does not have the legal authority to deny parents a full IEP meeting. This decision is not the district's to make. This pattern of denial is a serious and ongoing violation of IDEA and will not be tolerated.

    Violations the District Continues to Commit:

    1. Denial of a Full IEP Meeting — 34 CFR § 300.324

    The district does not have the unilateral authority to limit the scope of an IEP meeting. An IEP meeting must address all areas of a student's present levels of performance, goals, services, accommodations, and placement. Restricting the meeting to medical information only denies our daughter a comprehensive review of her IEP to which she is entitled under IDEA. The district cannot predetermine the outcome or scope of an IEP meeting. Doing so is a textbook procedural violation of IDEA . . .

    3. Failure to Convene a Full IEP Team — 34 CFR § 300.321

    The Notice of Meeting does not reflect the full IEP team we have formally requested be present for the entirety of this meeting. We are formally requiring the following individuals be present for the full duration of the meeting, without exception:

    1. Special Education Teacher, Math
    2. Special Education Teacher, History
    3. Special Education Teacher, Reading
    4. Speech Therapist
    5. Advisory Teacher
    6. Physical Therapist
    7. Adaptive PE Teacher

8. General Education Teacher, Individual/Team Sports (PE Elective)
9. Special Education Teacher and Case Manager
10. WRHS Lead Nurse
11. WRHS Special Education Department Head
12. Director of Secondary Special Services, USD 437

The attendance of each of these individuals for the full duration of the meeting is non-negotiable. No absences will be accepted. If any of these individuals are not present at the start of the meeting and for its entirety, we will not proceed, the meeting will be rescheduled, and the district's failure to produce the required team members will be immediately documented and submitted as additional evidence in our active KSDE and OCR complaints.

Our Formal Demands:

1. The district must issue a corrected Notice of Meeting that reflects a full IEP meeting — not a limited or partial meeting restricted to medical information
2. The corrected notice must include all twelve individuals listed above as required attendees for the full duration of the meeting
3. If the district refuses to issue a corrected notice, we will interpret that refusal as a continued denial of a full IEP meeting and it will be documented and submitted as additional evidence in our active KSDE and OCR complaints

We remain willing to attend this meeting on either May 15, 2026 or May 18, 2026, provided the above conditions are met. However, we will not attend a meeting that has been predetermined and limited in scope in direct violation of our daughter's rights under IDEA. The district does not have the authority to make this decision for us. We are her parents and we are exercising our rights under federal law".

23. An email dated May 10, 2026 at 11:59 AM written by the mother to the Director of Secondary Special Education Services and School Board Members stated, "Do you also refuse our Federally protected right to request a full IEP meeting for [student A]? This is now our fifth request. [The WRHS Assistant Principal] has positioned that she represents the district and has refused us on four previous occasions. She has refused to share who from the school district was in those meetings and a part of that decision, which is a continued violation of federal law. As documented, you have been copied on all of the previous requests and refusals. Again, as a public school administrator and individual board members, do all of you on copy of this email approve of [the WRHS Assistant Principal] refusing to hold a full IEP meeting for [student A] as requested by us her parents on four previous occasions?

    Just making sure I get it clearly documented, as I have clearly documented previously, and attempted to educate all of you on the federal laws you are violating, that you are personally culpable if you continue to willfully, violate the federally protected rights of a child with multiple disabilities. There is no denying that you didn't understand the law. It is very very clear. You are personally responsible for understanding the law, and IEP and IDA and FAPE laws are very, very clear. If any of you disagree with [the WRHS Assistant Principal's] continued violation of [student A's] rights, it is time for you to get it on record, because you at this point have passed over from being protected by the school district to being personally and willfully culpable".

24. An email dated May 12, 2026 at 5:23 PM written by the WRHS Assistant Principal to the parents stated, "The district remains committed to convening the IEP team to review the updated medical information, consider parent concerns, and discuss whether revisions or additional supports within [student A's] current educational programming are appropriate at this time. The district intends to include required IEP team members, along with personnel knowledgeable regarding [student A's] educational programming, related services, health-related needs, and the areas anticipated for discussion.

    The district remains available to meet on Friday, May 15, 2026 at 8:30 a.m. or Monday, May 18, 2026 at 1:30 p.m. If neither proposed date works for the parents' schedules, please provide alternative dates and times for the district's Consideration. . . . Given the limited remaining instructional time in the current school year, along with [student A's] anticipated summer surgery and recovery period in early June, the district anticipates additional IEP team discussion at the beginning of the upcoming school year to review updated educational and medical information following [student A's] return to school.

    The district also anticipates convening the annual IEP team prior to the September 2026 annual review date to review [student A's] present levels, programming needs, related services, supports, and educational access considerations. The district is also willing to begin coordinating with the parents regarding scheduling of the annual IEP meeting prior to the September 2026 review date.

    The district remains committed to meaningful parent participation and collaborative discussion regarding [student A's] educational needs, health considerations, safety, and continued access to her educational program".

25. An email dated May 13, 2026 at 8:43 PM written by the mother to the WRHS Assistant Principal, LEA Administration, School Board Members, KSDE, OCR, OSEP, and the Kansas Attorney General stated, "This is our seventh formal written request for a full IEP team meeting for [student A]. Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, 20 U.S.C. § 1414(d)(1)(B) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.321, we have the right to request and participate in a full IEP team meeting. Under 34 C.F.R. § 300.322, the district is required to ensure meaningful parent participation. A district may not refuse a parent's request for a full IEP meeting without issuing Prior Written Notice citing a specific legal basis, as required by 34 C.F.R. § 300.503. We will not agree to a partial meeting, a limited-scope meeting, or a meeting with less than the full required IEP team. We have not agreed to any amendment process in lieu of a meeting. Our position has not changed. [Student A's] surgery is scheduled for June 2, 2026. We are requesting this meeting occur before that date.

    We are writing to ensure all parties are aware that the following formal complaints and proceedings are currently active:

- A formal complaint has been filed with the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) documenting six prior refusals to convene a full IEP meeting, among other IDEA violations.
- A formal complaint has been filed with the U.S. Department of Education Office for Civil Rights (OCR) documenting disability discrimination and retaliation against [student A].
- We have contacted the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) regarding the district's continued noncompliance following a prior KSDE finding, and we have a scheduled meeting with OSEP on May 14, 2026.
- We have provided formal written notice to the Kansas Attorney General's Office of multiple Kansas Open Meetings Act violations in connection with the Board's May 4, 2026 executive session and have initiated the complaint filing process with that office.

Every response — or non-response — from this point forward is being documented and will be provided to each of these agencies".

Conclusion

In this case, the evidence demonstrates that the district, not the parents, initiated the proposal to convene an IEP Team meeting. Upon receipt of updated medical information from Children's Mercy Hospital on April 29, 2026, the LEA immediately reviewed the information, consulted with relevant staff, and determined that an IEP Team meeting was necessary to review the medical information and determine whether revisions to accommodations, supports, services, health-related planning, mobility supports, physical access supports, or other implementation adjustments were warranted.

The LEA then provided the parents with a PWN dated April 29, 2026 proposing to convene an IEP Team meeting on May 12, 2026 to consider the updated medical information, to review student A's September 25, 2025 IEP in light of the updated medical information, and to revise the IEP as deemed appropriate by the IEP Team although the LEA was not proposing or refusing any action related to the identification, evaluation, placement, or the provision of FAPE to student A at that time.

On that same date, the LEA also provided the parents with a Notice of Meeting for May 12, 2026 which invited both the required IEP Team members as defined in federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a) and other LEA staff who the LEA believed had special expertise directly related to the medical and educational concerns identified in the Children's Mercy documentation.

Upon receiving this Notice of Meeting, the parents requested a "full" IEP Team meeting with a "full" IEP Team. The parents believed a "full" IEP Team meeting meant what IDEA describes as the annual IEP review as described in federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1). The parents also believed the term "full" IEP Team included IEP Team members who were not considered as "required" as defined by federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a). These requests were made despite the fact that when the Physical Therapist contacted the mother on April 29, 2026 at 9:35 AM to clarify the educational implications of the medical restrictions, the mother indicated that the concerns were primarily related to arrival and dismissal procedures and stated that the student's IEP should not change.

Based on the parents' request, the LEA attempted to convene an IEP Team meeting which would include the LEA staff requested by the parents as well as allow for a more comprehensive IEP review. The LEA proposed adding more time to the scheduled meeting and arranged for the additional requested LEA staff to attend the IEP Team meeting. However, three of those additional LEA staff would need to leave the meeting approximately 15 minutes early without parent consent as allowed by KSDE guidance based on the August 2006 Federal Register.

Even though the LEA had appropriately responded to the parents' request for a "full" IEP Team meeting, the parents refused to attend the scheduled IEP Team meeting. The parents indicated that they refused to meet for an IEP Team meeting unless the "full" IEP Team working with student A were able to attend for the entire IEP Team meeting.

The LEA subsequently provided the parents with a PWN dated May 6, 2026 refusing to conduct an annual IEP Team review under the circumstances demanded by the parents and explaining the rationale for the refusal and the parents' options if they disagreed with the action, which included mediation or due process. Unlike the previous PWN provided to the parents which simply proposed an IEP Team meeting , the LEA's refusal to conduct a comprehensive IEP review under the conditions the parents demanded triggered the requirement to provide the parents with a PWN because this refusal was linked to a parent requested action which could impact the provision of FAPE to the student.

The May 6, 2026 PWN also proposed to keep the purpose of the IEP Team meeting for considering the updated medical information provided by the parents, reviewing student A's IEP in light of the updated medical information, and revising the IEP as determined appropriate by the IEP Team as required by federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1). The LEA also provided the parents with Notices of Meeting for two additional opportunities to reconvene the IEP Team prior to the end of the 2025-26 school year but the parents continued to refuse to meet because the IEP Team meeting was not a "full" IEP Team meeting with a "full" IEP Team. Ultimately, the student's IEP was never reviewed and revised, as appropriate, based on the new information provided by the parents on April 29, 2026 because the parents were unwilling to participate in the IEP Team process.

When reviewing the documentation, it appears the disagreement between the parents and the LEA was not whether an IEP Team meeting would occur, but rather the scope, purpose, duration, and participant composition of the meeting. Documentation supports a finding that the LEA did respond appropriately to the provision of updated medical information provided by the parent by scheduling an IEP Team meeting with the appropriate IEP Team membership to consider the updated medical guidance, review student A's IEP, and to revise the IEP as determined appropriate by the IEP Team.

The documentation also supports a finding that the LEA also responded appropriately to the parents' request on April 29, 2026 by attempting to expand the purpose of the IEP Team meeting, extend the time of the IEP Team meeting, and invite additional IEP Team members to the already scheduled May 12, 2026 IEP Team meeting in order to facilitate parent participation. However, the parents refused to meet unless a "full" IEP Team meeting occurred with the "full" IEP Team in attendance for the entire meeting.

On May 1, 2026, the parents again requested a "full" IEP Team meeting with a "full IEP Team in attendance for the entire meeting. Based on the parents' second request, the LEA responded appropriately by providing the parents a PWN refusing to conduct a comprehensive IEP Team meeting under the circumstances demanded by the parents. In addition, the LEA provided the parents with two additional opportunities to reconvene the IEP Team to review student A's IEP in light of the updated medical information provided by the parents as required by the IDEA as the annual or "full" IEP meeting was not due until September 24, 2026 and multiple factors including the complex nature of the student's needs, the impending end of the school year and the student's upcoming summer surgery would directly impact the ability of the IEP Team to be able to thoughtfully consider a complete comprehensive IEP review at this time.

It is important to note that it was not unreasonable for the parents to request to begin the process of reviewing student A's IEP because of her complex needs and because it was the end of the school year and the annual IEP is due shortly after the beginning of the next school year. It is also important to note that it was not unreasonable for the LEA to begin the IEP review process by focusing on the current updated information from Children's Mercy Hospital and then continue the IEP development process when new information was available post-surgery in August 2026, prior to the start of the 2026-27 school year as the LEA proposed to do. In addition, it is also not unreasonable for the LEA to set time limits for an IEP Team meeting and to have a focused agenda to guide the IEP team discussions so long as the LEA is also willing to reconvene the IEP Team to continue to discuss relevant issues with the IEP Team membership to include those staff with special expertise related to those relevant issues as the LEA proposed to do.

However, it is unreasonable for the parents to refuse to meet with the IEP Team unless their demand for a "full" IEP Team meeting be held for an unlimited amount of time is arranged. It is also unreasonable for the parents to threaten to end the IEP Team meeting if the "full" IEP Team was not in attendance for the entire IEP Team meeting regardless of their special expertise related to the issues being discussed as the KSDE guidance based on the Federal Register specifically allows those IEP Team members who do not fulfill a required role at the IEP Team meeting to be excused without parent consent. Ultimately, the parents' refusal to meet with the IEP Team on any of the three dates proposed by the LEA resulted in the entire IEP process to be delayed until the beginning of the next school year.

It is important to remember that the IDEA requires the LEA to provide parents with the opportunity to participate in the IEP Team meeting for their child but, ultimately, it is the LEA's responsibility to develop and offer an IEP that is designed to provide FAPE to each student with a disability, even if the parents refuse to participate in the IEP Team process.

The IDEA anticipated situations where parents were given the opportunity to participate in the IEP Team meetings regarding their student but refused to participate. If the LEA has been unable to persuade the parents to participate in their student's IEP Team meeting, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300-322(d) allow LEAs to proceed to conduct an IEP Team meeting without parent participation so long as the LEA can demonstrate efforts to try and persuade the parents to participate in the IEP Team meeting. These federal regulations ensure the parents cannot indefinitely delay or impede the IEP Team process.

As noted previously, the parents providing updated medical information on April 29, 2026 initially triggered the need to reconvene student A's IEP Team and required the LEA to send the parents notice of the proposed meeting to reconvene students A's IEP Team. The parents' subsequent request for a "full" IEP Team meeting with a "full" IEP Team on April 29, 2026 was considered and scheduled by the LEA; however, the parents refused to meet unless the LEA scheduled an IEP Team meeting per the parents' demands for the "full" IEP Team to attend the entire meeting. The LEA provided the parents with a PWN on May 6, 2026 refusing to conduct a "full" IEP Team meeting as demanded by the parents and provided an explanation of why the parents' request was being refused.

The parents responded by continuing to request the same "full" IEP Team meeting with a "full" IEP Team present for the entire IEP Team meeting on multiple dates between May 6, 2026 and the end of the school year. The parents believe the LEA was required to issue a PWN refusing to conduct the parents' demanded IEP Team meeting after each of the parents' subsequent requests for the same IEP Team meeting under the same circumstances even though the LEA had refused the exact same request on May 6, 2026.

The IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a) and (b) do require LEAs to provide parents with PWN describing the requested action refused and explaining the rationale for that action, which in this case was to conduct a "full" IEP Team meeting with a "full" IEP Team present for the entire meeting. The IDEA regulations do not require LEAs to continue to respond to subsequent parent requests for the exact same action since the rationale for the parent has already been explained and the PWN includes a description of what parents can do if they disagree with the action proposed or refused through mediation or due process.

It is noted that scheduling an IEP Team meeting is not an action that is being proposed by the LEA which would impact the identification, evaluation, placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student at that point in time. As such, a Notice of Meeting is the appropriate document to be provided to the parents when responding to new information provided by parents.

But, because the LEA unnecessarily provided the parents with PWN on April 29 and May 6, 2026 proposing IEP Team meetings at the same time as providing them with Notices of Meeting for the May 12, May 15, and May 18, 2026 proposed IEP Team meeting dates/times, it bolstered the parents' assumption that a PWN was required every time an IEP Team meeting is scheduled or requested. When parents are issued PWN at incorrect points in the IEP process, it causes confusion and implies procedural safeguard protections that do not exist. The LEA is strongly encouraged to review its procedures and practices in regards to the use of a PWN in conjunction with a notice of an IEP Team meeting to avoid any future misunderstandings.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance for following IDEA regulations regarding proposing to reconvene student A's IEP Team based on their multiple requests for an annual IEP team meeting and the updated medical information provided by the parents and which began on April 29, 2026.

Issue Two

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate procedures to amend student A's September 25, 2025 IEP, specifically by unilaterally making changes without mutual agreement with the parents during the 2025-26 school year.

[This issue addresses Violation 4]

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1) require each public agency to review each student's IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved; and to revise the student's IEP, as appropriate, to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum; the results of any reevaluation; information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters.

In making changes to a student's IEP after the annual IEP Team meeting in a school year, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(4)(i) state that the parent of a child with a disability and the public agency may agree not to convene an IEP Team meeting for the purposes of making those changes, and instead may develop a written document to amend or modify the child's current IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(6) that changes can be made to the IEP by amending the IEP rather than by redrafting the entire IEP. An amendment to the IEP can be made by either the entire IEP Team at an IEP Team meeting, or without a meeting so long as both the parent of a child with a disability and the public agency agree to make changes to the IEP without holding an IEP Team meeting. Upon request, a parent must be provided with a revised copy of the IEP with the amendments incorporated.

If either party does not agree to amend the child's IEP without a meeting, an IEP Team meeting must be held to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum; the results of any reevaluation; information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters as required by federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1)(ii).

Parent Position

The parents made the following allegation of a violation of the IDEA against the LEA:

Violation 4: Unlawful Use of Amendment Provision Over Parental Objection — 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(6)

The parents stated, "The district invoked the amendment-without-meeting provision unilaterally and without parental agreement. This provision requires mutual consent. Five requests for a full meeting had been made and refused. The district's use of this provision as a unilateral tool to circumvent parent rights is a deliberate misapplication of federal law".

LEA Position

The LEA stated, "At no time during the period relevant to this complaint did USD 437 amend Student A's September 25, 2025 IEP. No amendment document was developed, no amendment agreement was presented to the parents for signature, and no amendment was implemented". The LEA reported that after the receipt of the updated medical documentation on April 29, 2026, the district determined that the information warranted review by the IEP Team and initiated the process of convening a meeting. Although the district discussed the possibility that revisions or amendments could be considered at the IEP Team meeting after the review of the medical documentation, the parents were opposed to making any changes to student A's IEP without a "full" IEP Team meeting. Despite offering three different dates and times to conduct an IEP Team meeting, no IEP Team meeting occurred because the parents did not attend any of the meeting dates proposed by the district, and no IEP revisions to the September 25, 2025 IEP through the amendment process were initiated or completed.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on a review of written interview questions and documentation. Note the findings and conclusion in Issue One are incorporated herein by reference regarding the repeated requests for a "full" IEP meeting with "full" IEP Team membership in attendance.

1. The WRHS Assistant Principal provided the parents with a PWN dated April 29, 2026 proposing to conduct an IEP Team meeting to review the updated medical information and revise the IEP, as appropriate. The Other Options Considered and Why Rejected statement in the PWN stated, "The district considered continuing the current IEP programming without proposing an amendment, rejected due to conflict with updated medical restrictions and potential risk to student safety".

2. The parents responded as noted in the findings in Issue One by requesting a "full" IEP Team meeting and refused to meet unless all of the parent requested IEP Team members could attend, ensuring that each could not arrive late or leave early from the meeting. These emails between LEA staff and the parents were exchanged between April 29 through May 6, 2026.
3. The WRHS Assistant Principal provided the parents with a prior written notice dated May 6, 2026 which stated, "The district proposes to convene the IEP team to review the medical documentation and educational concerns identified by the parents and determine whether amendments such as accommodations, supports, services, health-related planning, participation considerations, mobility considerations, physical access supports, or implementation adjustments to the student's current IEP are appropriate at this time.
4. An email dated May 6, 2026 at 4:50 PM written by the WRHS Assistant Principal to the parents stated, "IDEA further provides that changes to an IEP may be made through amendment rather than redrafting the entire IEP. See 34 CFR § 300.324(a)(6). The district believes the proposed review and amendment process is appropriate under the circumstances presented, including the limited remaining instructional time in the current school year, the student's anticipated summer surgery and recovery, non-participation in ESY services, and the need for additional educational and recovery data to support comprehensive annual IEP development . . . Because the district has considered the parent request for immediate comprehensive redevelopment of the student's annual IEP and has determined that targeted review and amendment of the current IEP is the appropriate course of action at this time, the district is providing the attached Prior Written Notice (PWN) documenting the district's proposal and refusal consistent with IDEA procedural requirements.
5. The district remains willing to convene the IEP team to review the information provided, discuss parent concerns, and consider whether revisions or amendments to the current IEP are appropriate at this time. As previously proposed, the district remains available to meet on May 15, 2026 at 8:30 a.m. or May 18, 2026 at 1:00 p.m. If neither proposed date is workable, please provide additional availability and the district will continue working collaboratively to identify a mutually agreeable meeting time".
6. An email dated May 6, 2026 at 6:57 PM written by the mother the WRHS Assistant Principal, LEA Administration, School Board Members, KSDE, and OCR stated, "The district is citing 34 CFR § 300.324(a)(6) — the amendment provision — as justification for limiting this meeting to a targeted review. However, that provision only permits amendment without a full IEP meeting when BOTH parties agree in writing to that process. We have not agreed. We have twice requested a full IEP meeting in writing. The district cannot unilaterally impose the amendment process over our explicit objection. That is not a gray area under IDEA".

7. Documentation shows that no amendment was made to student A's IEP because no IEP Team meeting was held prior to the end of the 25-26 school year and the September 25, 2025 IEP was never reviewed and revised, as appropriate, by student A's IEP Team.

Conclusion

The IDEA requires the IEP Team to reconvene in certain circumstances, one of which is to consider new information provided by parents. Based on that review, the IDEA allows revisions to an IEP following the annual review in two ways - either with a meeting or without a meeting. The IDEA allows these revision(s) to be documented in two ways - either through an amendment to the current IEP or by redrafting the entire IEP document. However, it is important to note that the only way to revise an IEP without a meeting is when both the LEA and parents are in agreement with the revision and agree that an IEP Team meeting is not necessary. Otherwise, the IEP Team is required to meet to review the new information and determine if revisions are appropriate. And if revisions are appropriate, the IEP can either be amended or redrafted to include the revisions.

In this case, the parents provided the LEA with updated medical information on April 29, 2026 which included documented medical restrictions for student A based on significant spinal conditions, including spinal implants with mechanical failure. Evidence shows the LEA responded appropriately by proposing to reconvene the IEP Team to review and consider this new medical information provided by the parents and to revise student A's IEP as appropriate.

The parent's allegation in this issue focuses on how they understood the LEA would accomplish the review and revision, as appropriate, of student A's IEP. Based on the documentation, the parents believed the LEA was proposing to amend the IEP without a meeting over the parents' objections. The mother is correct that the IDEA only allows such an amendment process so long as both the LEA and parent agree with the proposed revision and agree not to conduct an IEP Team meeting. However, the emails also show that what the LEA was actually proposing was not what the parents believed was going to happen.

The parents misinterpreted the process allowed under the IDEA to revise an IEP through an amendment as described in federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(6). The documentation shows the LEA's intention was always to conduct an IEP Team meeting to consider the updated medical information, review student A's IEP in light of the updated medical information, and then revise the IEP, as appropriate, as allowed under 34 C.F.R. § 300.324(a)(6). Student A's IEP was never reviewed at an IEP Team meeting nor revised, as determined appropriate by the IEP Team, through either an amendment or a redrafting of the September 25, 2025 IEP during the 2025-26 school year because the parents refused to meet with the LEA for an IEP Team meeting.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance with federal regulations related to the IEP amendment process.

Issue Three

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parents with appropriate prior written notice for the program changes described in the May 12, 2026 letter.

[This issue addresses Violation 5]

Note that only the restrictions included in the Children's Mercy letter dated April 29, 2026 will be included in this investigation as the medical information provided in the Heartland Community Health Center letter dated April 29, 2026 solely related to toileting recommendations and this issue was previously investigated in 26FC437-014. In addition, note that the allegation related to information the parents believed should have been included in student A's IEP dated September 25, 2025 was previously investigated in 26FC437-014 and will not be addressed in this investigation.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.101 require a free appropriate public education (FAPE) be made available to all eligible children with disabilities. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.17 define FAPE as meaning special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge; and are provided in conformity with an individualized education program (IEP).

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4), require school districts to develop an IEP describing the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to 1) advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; 2) be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum; 3) participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and, 4) be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Parent Position

The parents made the following allegation of a violation of the IDEA against USD #437:

Violation 5: Failure to Provide Prior Written Notice — 34 C.F.R. §300.503

The parents stated, "Multiple changes were made to [student A's] educational program without Prior Written Notice. The PWN the district issued on May 6 documents only its refusal to hold a comprehensive IEP review — it does not satisfy PWN requirements for the unilateral program changes acknowledged in the May 12 letter."

LEA Position

The LEA stated, "The allegation appears to arise from the district's May 12, 2026 correspondence. However, the May 12 communication did not implement a change to [student A's] IEP, educational placement, special education services, related services, goals, accommodations, transportation, or other components of her educational program. Rather, the correspondence reiterated the district's willingness to convene the IEP Team, reviewed the status of temporary operational supports being utilized in response to recently submitted medical documentation, and invited further discussion through the IEP process . . .The temporary operational supports referenced in the May 12 correspondence were implemented in response to newly submitted physician restrictions and were intended to facilitate safe access to the student's existing educational program while the district sought to convene the IEP Team. These measures did not modify the student's placement, reduce or increase special education services, alter annual goals, change related services, or otherwise amend the student's IEP. Rather, they represented short-term implementation supports designed to address newly received medical information pending formal IEP Team review and discussion. During this period:

- Student A remained in her existing educational placement;
- Student A continued receiving all special education and related services identified within her September 25, 2025 IEP;
- Student A continued participating in both of her physical education elective courses, consistent with parent preference and existing programming;
- Student A continued receiving Adaptive Physical Education services as identified within her IEP;
- Student A continued attending school and accessing her educational program;
- No annual goals were revised;
- No accommodations were added to or removed from the IEP;
- No special education services were increased, reduced, or discontinued;
- No related services were increased, reduced, or discontinued;
- No transportation changes were implemented through the IEP process;
- No amendment document was developed;
- No amendment agreement was executed; and
- No IEP revision was implemented without IEP Team consideration.

Accordingly, the district's temporary implementation supports were operational responses to newly received medical restrictions intended to maintain student safety and educational access pending IEP Team review, rather than changes to the student's special education program requiring amendment of the IEP. The district had previously provided Prior Written Notices documenting its proposals and refusals related to the newly submitted medical information and the parents' requests. Following additional parent concerns regarding implementation of temporary operational supports, the district issued a further Prior Written Notice on May 14, 2026.

The May 14 Prior Written Notice also documented the district's continued willingness to convene the IEP Team to review updated medical information, consider parent concerns and recommendations, review implementation of accommodations and related services, and collaboratively determine whether revisions or amendments to the current IEP were appropriate.

To the extent the parents sought formal documentation regarding the temporary operational supports referenced in the May 12 correspondence, the district provided that documentation through the Prior Written Notice issued on May 14, 2026 . . . The May 12 correspondence did not constitute a new proposal or refusal requiring a separate Prior Written Notice. Rather, it reflected the district's ongoing efforts to review newly submitted medical information, maintain student safety, and convene the IEP Team for collaborative discussion regarding any potential future revisions.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on a review of written interview questions and documentation.

1. The mother shared the medical note from Children's Mercy Hospital with multiple LEA staff in an email dated April 29, 2026 at 7:55 AM stating, "Please find attached a medical letter from children's mercy regarding [the student's] physical needs, since the district has chosen to discriminate against her physical disability, by actively ignoring her medical history, having no plan for students with disabilities in an entry change, and [the WRHS Assistant Principal's]retaliatory change of school entrance. We went ahead and again got it clearly from them . . ."
2. The Children's Mercy Hospital letter written by the Advanced Practice Registered Nurse dated April 29, 2026 referred to an appointment on April 28, 2026 and documented medical restrictions for student A based on significant spinal conditions, including spinal implants with mechanical failure. The letter stated, "She is unable to stand for prolonged periods of time and has difficulty walking long distances. For this reason, she should be permitted to enter the school through the closest available entrance to her classrooms or primary destinations within the building. She should also be allowed to rest or sit as needed throughout the school day to prevent worsening symptoms. Additionally, she must avoid extreme bending or twisting movements of the back, and her lifting should be limited to no more than 5-10 pounds. To support these restrictions, she will require a backpack buddy to assist with carrying heavier items. If the school has an elevator available, she should be granted an elevator pass to reduce strain and ensure safe mobility between floors if this applies to her school location. These accommodations are medically necessary to support her health, safety, and ability to participate in school activities".

3. The WRHS Assistant Principal sent the Physical Therapist, Special Education Teacher and Case Manager for student A, and the APE Teacher an email on April 29, 2026 at 9:10 AM alerting them of the updated medical guidance. The email stated, "I recently received this medical guidance for [student A]. This will require an amendment to her IEP, specifically her PT goal, special transportation question about mobility, and we will need to consider additional accommodations. Please review this information. Rachael, we will need your support and guidance given this new information. If you all recall, currently her IEP has a Physical Therapy and Adaptive PE Goal that has quite the opposite intention. I have attached it as a reminder. Therefore, we need to make immediate changes to her programming for her two PE electives and any guidance and training for her paraeducators, etc."
4. In response to receiving the updated medical information, the WRHS Assistant Principal emailed the parents on April 29, 2026 at 9:35 AM stating, "Thank you for for providing the recent medical documentation from Children's Mercy. We have reviewed the information carefully and want to ensure we are responding in a way that prioritizes [student A's] safety and well-being. Based on the medical guidance provided, which indicates limitations with prolonged standing, walking long distances, and restrictions related to lifting and certain movements, we are making the following immediate adjustments effective today:
    - Pausing activities that require extended walking, endurance-based exertion, or increased physical strain
    - Allowing access to seating, rest breaks, and reduced physical demands throughout the school day as needed
    - Adjusting transitions to minimize distance and physical demand, including use of the closest available entrance and exit
    - Ensuring staff support for carrying materials as needed

    We recognize that these changes differ from the current focus of her IEP goals and services. As a result, we will be initiating an IEP team meeting to review this new medical information, consider any necessary revisions to her goals and services, and ensure her plan appropriately reflects her current needs. In the meantime, our physical therapist will be reaching out to you directly to gather additional details and clarify any specific recommendations that will help guide safe implementation at school".
5. The Physical Therapist called and spoke with the mother on April 29, 2026 at 9:35 AM after reviewing the updated medical information. The conversation was shared with the WRHS Assistant Principal in an email on that same date at 1:52 PM stating, " PT asked to clarify orders that include [verbatim list from letter]. PT discussed above restrictions for clarification due to current PT IEP goal including long distance ambulation and endurance as well as participation in sports during two PE classes. [The mother] stated that "use common sense and that we will keep PT and APE goal the same. Continue with sport involvement and stair use and continue to encourage participation in PE classes." She did not want restrictions for PE involvement as PT educated that sports including racquet activities may involve twisting and bending. [The mother] states to continue with involvement and restrictions were provided to document need for entering and exiting the building only. PT explains and educates that student has been completing bleacher stairs and standing/walking for 30 minutes during each PE class and sport participation without c/o [complaints of] pain and has taken rest periods as needed to sit. Student typically states "I need a break" and will sit for 1-2 minutes. Mom, [the mother], reports no issue with those activities. PT also explains that we need to follow medical restrictions and mom states that she did not want any changes to PT, APE or PE at this time. PT does state that this conflicts with what medical note states, however, it may be beneficial for more specific quantification of restriction variables to carryout restrictions. (e.g. what specifically is considered prolonged standing time in minutes and maximum distance in feet allowed to walk) in order to maintain consistency with staff to follow medical restrictions. PT to follow up with team to discuss amending IEP in order to implement specific medical restrictions related to activity per recent medical documentation received 4/29/26".

6. An email dated April 29, 2026 at 9:51 AM written by the mother to the WRHS Assistant Principal stated, ". . . It has always been an expectation that someone would help [student A] carry her backpack. It has always been an expectation that [student A] would be allowed to take breaks when she needed to. This was all discussed in the IEP meeting that you were the LEA for, [the WRHS Assistant Principal] . . . Again, all of these things were discussed with you at [the student's] IEP meeting In the fall. What were you doing during that meeting as the LEA that you heard and did not ensure any of this was documented in the IEP? I HAVE NOW REPEATEDLY ASKED YOU WHY YOU AS THE LEA DID NOT ENSURE THAT THIS MEDICAL INFORMATION WAS INCLUDED IN [student A's] IEP. All of those on copy know that I have now repeatedly asked you this question, what were you doing during [student A's] IEP meeting as the LEA if you did not hear any of this information and did not ensure it was captured in her IEP? I already spoke to the physical therapist, she has common sense. We are all set".
7. The mother replied via an email dated April 29, 2026 at 10:18 AM stating, "Halt! There will be no changes made without us being consulted on every single change. I have already talked to[student A's] physical therapist. [The father] and I are a part of [student A's] IEP team, you will make no changes without us being consulted. None".
8. The WRHS Assistant Principal sent an email on April 29, 2026 at 4:55 PM to the parents stating, "I am writing to follow up on the recent medical documentation provided and our ongoing communication regarding [the student's] needs at school. Attached to this email, you will find:

- A Prior Written Notice outlining the district's proposed actions and rationale based on the newly received medical information
- A Notice of Meeting to convene the IEP team to review this information and discuss proposed revisions to [student A's] IEP

As outlined in the Prior Written Notice, the district has reviewed the medical guidance alongside [student A's] current IEP, including her goals, participation in physical education, and access to the school environment. Based on this review, we believe it is important for the IEP team to meet to ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned with her current needs and can be implemented safely".

9. The Description of the Action Proposed in PWN dated April 29, 2026 stated, "At this time, the district is not proposing a change to [student A's] placement or the amount of services provided. However, the medical guidance received on April 29, 2026 from Children's Mercy outlines physical restrictions that directly conflict with the current IEP goal and associated instructional activities. As a result, the district is proposing to convene the IEP team to review this information and determine whether revisions to the goal, services, and accommodations are necessary to ensure safe and appropriate implementation".
10. The Explanation of Why the Action is Proposed in the PWN dated April 29, 2026 stated, "The district received new medical documentation from Children's Mercy (dated April 29, 2026) indicating that [student A] has functional limitations that affect her mobility and endurance, including:
    - Inability to tolerate prolonged standing or long-distance walking
    - Need to enter the school through the closest available entrance
    - Restrictions on lifting, bending, and twisting movements of the back
    - Requirement of a backpack buddy and access to an elevator, when available

    These medically necessary restrictions are not consistent with the current IEP, which includes a gross motor goal and instructional programming designed to increase endurance, distance, and physical exertion. The district has also considered the requested arrival and drop-off location in relation to [student A's] participation in physical education and her current IEP goal. The requested access point reflects a need to minimize walking distance and physical demand. However, [student A's] current programming requires her to walk from the building to the football field, tennis courts and track area for physical education and participate in activities involving endurance and sustained physical effort. These combined expectations are not consistent with the medical guidance. As a result, the district must consider arrival, transitions, participation in physical education, and IEP goal expectations collectively to ensure consistency and safe implementation across the school day. District staff, including the physical therapist and adapted physical education teacher, have reviewed the medical documentation and determined that continuing activities requiring prolonged walking, endurance, speed, bending, twisting, or lifting beyond medical restrictions presents a risk of increased pain, fatigue, or injury and therefore requires immediate safety-based adjustments. [Student A's] current gross motor goal includes expectations such as walking on a variety of surfaces for greater than 15 minutes without rest, transitioning 500 feet within a set time, negotiating stairs, and performing core stability tasks requiring sustained positioning. These expectations were developed to improve endurance, balance, and strength within the school environment. However, the Children's Mercy documentation indicates that [student A] is currently experiencing significant spinal conditions resulting in pain and functional limitations, including difficulty walking long distances, inability to tolerate prolonged standing, and restrictions on bending, twisting, and lifting. The documentation further indicates the need for reduced physical demand throughout the school day, including use of the closest entrance, rest as needed, and support for carrying materials . In addition, [student A's] current IEP does not include specific accommodations to address mobility or access needs within the school environment. For example, the IEP indicates that [student A] is physically able to independently access the school environment without limitation. This determination must be reconsidered in light of the updated medical information . . . Based on the above, the district is proposing to convene the IEP team to review the newly received medical information, consider revisions to [student A's] goal, services, accommodations, considerations and ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned and can be implemented safely".

11. The April 29, 2026 PWN also stated, "The district considered continuing the current IEP programming without proposing an amendment, rejected due to conflict with updated medical restrictions and potential risk to student safety".
12. The April 29, 2026 PWN also noted, "The district acknowledges parent input and the importance of supporting the student's physical development. However, the district must ensure that all programming is aligned with current medical guidance and can be implemented safely. The district also notes that while the parent indicated that the physical therapist is comfortable with the current programming, district staff, including the physical therapist, have indicated the need to follow the medical recommendations and have expressed concern regarding continuing current activities without modification".
13. The Physical Therapist sent an email on April 29, 2026 at 7:18 PM to the WRHS Assistant Principal guidance for changes needed as a result of the Children's Mercy letter stating, "I would recommend we follow spinal precautions - no bending (at the waist past 90 degrees), no twisting (this would be monitoring or adapting PE so [student A] wouldn't be twisting (as in swinging a bat), Lifting no more than 5-10lbs (for now I would stick to the 5lbs until we meet just to be safe). For the no prolonged standing I would recommend after 15- 20 minutes offer a seated break and ensure we have places (benches, chairs to sit). With walking I think making sure that we take a path that has chairs/benches available. Offering use of the adapted trike as an option during PE would be acceptable if needed and would be available for long distances such as the track/football field Allowing rest breaks when [student A] asks and encourage sitting in a chair vs. on the floor to avoid bending and deep hip flexion. Have a wheelchair available for use as needed (We have this in the Sped suite storage that could be accessed). I'm not sure about the elevator vs. use of the stairs and will think on this".

14. An email dated May 12, 2026 at 5:23 PM written by the WRHS Assistant Principal to the parents stated, "In consideration of the medical documentation provided, the district has begun utilizing and reviewing operational supports intended to assist with [student A's] continued educational access and physical needs during the school day without changing her overall educational placement or current IEP services. These efforts have included providing a cart with wheels for her bookbag, prompting more frequent breaks, planning routes with more frequent placement of benches, and adapting physical education participation through her existing APE supports to align with the medical guidance regarding bending, twisting, lifting, and endurance-based activities".
15. The parents sent an email on May 14, 2026 at 11:45 AM to the WRHS Assistant Principal, LEA Administration, School Board Members, KSDE, OCR, and OSEP stating, "The district's communication references the use of a wheeled cart for [student A's] bookbag, increased break frequency, modified route planning, and adapted physical education participation. We were not informed of when any of these changes were initiated, who directed them, or what documentation exists authorizing them. We are formally requesting the exact dates of implementation and the name(s) of the staff or administrators who authorized each modification".
16. The parents then note in the May 14, 2026 email that these changes were made without an IEP Team meeting, without parent participation, and without appropriate prior written notice of the changes. The parents state, "The district has indicated that providing a wheeled cart for [student A's] bookbag constitutes a support for her physical needs. We must be direct: pulling a wheeled cart is not a medically appropriate accommodation for a child with [student A's] documented condition. Given [student A's] gait and the nature of her back condition — which specifically restricts bending, twisting, and physical strain — pulling or maneuvering a cart requires precisely the movements and physical exertion she has been medically directed to avoid. This proposed solution does not eliminate the physical burden; it redistributes it in a way that remains contraindicated by her treating physician's guidance".
17. The May 14, 2026 email ends with the parents stating, "We are formally notifying the district that:
    - We do not consent to the use of a wheeled cart as an accommodation for [student A] under any circumstances until her treating physician has reviewed and explicitly approved it in writing
    - Any continued use of the wheeled cart following receipt of this letter will be considered willful disregard of a parent's clearly stated objection and will be included in any complaints filed with KSDE and the Office for Civil Rights

- We are requesting written confirmation by the end of the school day today, May 14, 2026,the end of the school day today, May 14, 2026, that the wheeled cart has been discontinued and that all staff have been notified accordingly".

18. The LEA provided the parents with a PWN dated May 14, 2026. The Description of the Action Proposed states, "This Prior Written Notice is being provided in response to parent email communication received on May 14, 2026 regarding concerns and objections related to implementation of medically necessary assistance for educational materials, specifically the wheeled backpack trolley/cart, and the parents' request for a formal written district response regarding implementation of medical recommendations, educational access supports, and proposed IEP team review.

    Following receipt of updated Children's Mercy medical documentation on April 29, 2026 from parents, the district reviewed the medical restrictions and recommendations provided and implemented temporary operational supports that aligned with the Children's Mercy medical documentation intended to maintain [student A's] safe educational access during the school day pending additional IEP team review and discussion. These temporary supports included:

    - implementation of a wheeled backpack trolley/cart intended to assist with transportation of educational materials;
    - opportunities for breaks during longer walking distances;
    - access to seating/rest opportunities during transitions as needed;
    - continued monitoring of physical education participation and physical tolerance;
    - and staff review of implementation considerations related to the updated medical restrictions.

    The district additionally proposed full IEP team meetings on May 12, 2026, May 15, 2026 and May 18, 2026 to review updated medical documentation, discuss parent concerns, review current accommodations and implementation needs, and consider whether revisions, accommodations, supports, services, or implementation adjustments were necessary to support [student A's] educational access and physical needs within the educational environment. The district acknowledges the parents' objection communicated on May 14, 2026 regarding continued use of the wheeled backpack trolley/cart and is willing to discontinue its use and request that support staff carry her backpack or any other educational items".

19. The Explanation of Why the Action is Proposed in the May 14, 2026 PWN states, "The district received updated Children's Mercy medical documentation identifying restrictions related to lifting, carrying, prolonged standing/walking, bending, twisting, endurance-based activities, and transportation of heavier educational materials provided by the parents. The medical documentation specifically identified the need for assistance with carrying [student A's] backpack and heavier items due to the identified physical restrictions. Based upon the medical information provided and staff review of [student A's] school-day mobility and transportation of materials needs, the district determined that transportation assistance for educational materials was necessary in order to support safe educational access during the school day pending additional IEP team review and discussion. The district selected implementation of a wheeled backpack trolley/cart as a temporary implementation support intended to reduce lifting and carrying strain associated with transportation of educational materials throughout the school day while maintaining access to needed educational items, in compliance with the specificity of the Children's Mercy documentation provided by parents which stated, "Additionally, she must avoid extreme bending or twisting movements of the back, and her lifting should be limited to no more than 5-10 pounds. To support these restrictions, she will require a backpack buddy to assist with carrying heavier items…These accommodations are medically necessary to support her health, safety, and ability to participate in school activities."

The district additionally notes that [student A] routinely arrived at school with her backpack on during parent drop-off, and staff continued attempting to identify and implement supports intended to reduce lifting/carrying strain during the instructional day continued attempting to identify and implement supports intended to reduce lifting/carrying strain during the instructional day consistent with the medical guidance provided. The district further notes that the requisition for the wheeled backpack trolley/cart was approved through the district purchasing process by [the father] in his administrative role as the assistant principal overseeing the special education department at Washburn Rural High School and as the student's parent. While the district would have preferred that the requisition be reviewed and approved by [student A's] assigned supervising assistant principal in order to avoid any potential conflict concerns, the district understood the approval provided by [the father] in his administrative capacity to reflect authorization for the purchase and implementation of the backpack assistance support at the time it was obtained. The district considered the parents' concerns communicated on May 14, 2026 regarding the possibility that pulling or maneuvering the trolley could involve twisting motions or otherwise create additional physical strain. The district acknowledges the parents' objection to continued use of the trolley support while also recognizing that the Children's Mercy medical guidance and related staff review supported the need for transportation assistance for educational materials due to the identified physical restrictions and limitations".

20. The Options Considered and Why Rejected section of the May 14, 2026 PWN stated, "The district considered multiple methods for implementation of the Children's Mercy medical restrictions and assistance recommendations, including:
    - implementation of a wheeled backpack buddy/trolley based upon the district's understanding that pulling the trolley did not constitute extreme bending and would reduce lifting/carrying strain associated with transportation of educational materials;

- continuation of student transportation of her backpack, as staff observations indicated the backpack itself appeared to remain below the identified 5–10 pound lifting restriction; and
- staff assistance with transportation of educational materials throughout the school day, as [student A] has support personnel available during the instructional day.

The district also considered the parents' concerns communicated on May 14, 2026 regarding whether pulling or maneuvering the wheeled trolley could involve twisting movements inconsistent with the medical guidance provided. Following parent objection to continued use of the wheeled backpack trolley/cart, the district will discontinue its use and rely on support personnel to carry the student's items".

21. The Other Factors Relevant to the Proposed Action section of the May 14, 2026 PWN noted that "The district remains willing to convene the IEP team to:
    - review updated medical documentation and any additional clarification provided by the treating physician;
    - consider parent concerns and recommendations;
    - discuss transportation of educational materials during the school day;
    - review implementation of accommodations and related services;
    - discuss physical education participation and related supports; and
    - collaboratively determine whether revisions or amendments to the current IEP are appropriate.

    The district has provided Prior Written Notices throughout this process and proposed full IEP team meetings previously on May 12, 2026 and upcoming for May 15, 2026 and May 18, 2026 in order to review updated medical documentation, discuss parent concerns, review implementation considerations, and collaboratively determine whether any additional accommodations, supports, services, or revisions to the current IEP may be appropriate. The district remains committed to meaningful parent participation and collaborative discussion regarding [student A's] educational access, safety, physical needs, accommodations, and continued provision of services within the educational environment".

Conclusion

In this case, changes described in the May 12, 2026 email did not relate to the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of student A. The parents believe the changes instituted by the LEA were a change in the provision of FAPE to student A and, as such, required prior written notice being provided to the parents before any implementation of the proposed changes.

IDEA defines FAPE as the IEP being implemented as written. In this case, the Physical Therapist reviewed the updated medical information dated April 29, 2026 from Children's Mercy Hospital and found that a current goal in the September 25, 2026 IEP was contraindicated as well as several other school activities that would need to be adjusted in order to follow the new restrictions. The Physical Therapist discussed these contraindications with the mother on April 29, 2026; however, the mother did not want any changes made to student A's current IEP except for school drop-off to be at the closest door to the student's classroom. However, documentation shows the LEA staff believed the updated medical information needed to be reviewed and considered by the IEP Team in case revisions to the student's IEP were necessary prior to the end of the 2025-26.

The WRHS Assistant Principal sent an email to the parent on April 29, 2026 at 9:35 AM stating that "Based on the medical guidance provided, which indicates limitations with prolonged standing, walking long distances, and restrictions related to lifting and certain movements, we are making the following immediate adjustments effective today" and described these adjustments in daily school activities / interim safety measures and indicated the LEA planned to convene the IEP Team to further review student A's IEP in light of the updated medical information and propose revisions, as appropriate.

While not required, the LEA provided the parents with a PWN dated April 29, 2026 that specifically stated no changes were being made to the students special education services or the educational placement of the student. In addition, the PWN documented the physical restrictions, described how these do not align with student A's IEP and daily school activities and indicated that the LEA was bound by the medical restrictions in the letter which were deemed be "medically necessary to support her health, safety, and ability to participate in school activities" even though the mother did not want any changes made to the student's IEP and indicated LEA staff needed to "use common sense" and continue the IEP goals and services as currently written. Finally, the PWN proposed an IEP Team meeting to review the current IEP, consider the updated medical information, and revise the IEP, as appropriate.

Issue One for student A describes the multiple attempts between April 29 and May 6, 2026 that the LEA made to schedule an IEP Team meeting prior to the end of the school year. In an email on May 12, 2026, the WRHS Assistant Principal sent the parents an email which reiterated the need to reconvene the IEP Team to review the updated medical information and revise student A's IEP, as appropriate. The email noted that two possible IEP Team meeting dates were already scheduled for May 15 and May 18, 2026. That email included more specific descriptions and details of the adjustments in daily school activities / interim safety measures first described in the April 29, 2026 email from the WRHS Assistant Principal which were put into place in order to implement the restrictions which were medically necessary for the student to be healthy, safe, and able to participate in school activities.

The parents were not in agreement with the adjustments in daily school activities / interim safety measures described and being implemented by the school and specifically wanted the use of a cart/trolley stopped immediately. The parent sent an email on May 14, 2026 demanding that the LEA stop the use of the cart/trolley, provide additional information about the changes and adjustments, and again requested to convene all IEP Team members for a "full" IEP Team meeting.

The LEA responded on May 14, 2026 with a PWN describing the adjustments in daily school activities / interim safety measures in greater detail, agreeing to stop the use of the cart/trolley, and again inviting the parents to the proposed IEP Team meetings on May 15 and May 18, 2026 to discuss the safety measures.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance for providing the parents with appropriate PWN regarding the interim safety measures and actions taken as a result of the updated medical information provided by the parents because the April 29, 2026 PWN clearly indicated that the updated medical information included restrictions that were medically necessary but not consistent with the current IEP even though the mother had indicated no IEP changes were needed so long as LEA staff used "common sense".

The PWN also stated that an IEP Team meeting was necessary to review the updated medical information and made it clear that student A's special education services and placement would not change but that the LEA was bound to follow the medically necessary restrictions described in the Children's Mercy Hospital letter to keep the student safe during her daily school activities. The LEA subsequently kept the parents informed via email regarding the adjustments to student A's daily school activities based on the restrictions while negotiating with the parent to arrange an IEP Team meeting to review the updated medical information and responded immediately when the parents shared disagreement with one of the adjustments.

Issue Four

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to invite the necessary IEP Team members to develop an IEP to provide FAPE to student A following the parents' provision of written medical information regarding student A on April 29, 2026.

[This issue addresses Violation 6]

Note that the parents' allegations related to their request to include all LEA staff persons working with the student in a "full" or annual IEP Team meeting was investigated in 26FC437-014. As such, this investigation will focus solely on the question of who were the required IEP Team members who needed to be invited to the three proposed IEP Team meetings on May 12, May 15, and May 18, 2026 in order to review student A's IEP in light of the updated medical information provided by the parents on April 29, 2026.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.101 require a free appropriate public education (FAPE) be made available to all eligible children with disabilities. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.17 define FAPE as meaning special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge; and are provided in conformity with an individualized education program (IEP).

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4), require school districts to develop an IEP describing the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to 1) advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; 2) be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum; 3) participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and, 4) be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a) require school districts to ensure that the IEP Team for each child with a disability includes the parents of the child, not less than one regular education teacher of the child, not less than one special education teacher of the child, a representative of the school district, an individual who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results, other individuals who have knowledge of special expertise regarding the child at the discretion of the parent or the school district, and the child with a disability whenever appropriate.

Parent Position

The parents made the following allegation of violations of the IDEA against USD #437:

Violation 6: Failure to Include Required IEP Team Members — 34 C.F.R. § 300.321

The parents stated, “The district's proposed meeting structures have not confirmed all required team members. A meeting missing required members is not a lawful IEP team meeting regardless of what it is called.

The parents believe that the LEA should be required to invite all of the LEA staff working with student A including the SLP, the Physical Therapist, the School Nurse, all three special education teachers of the student, the administrative team, as well as all of the general education teachers of the student to all of the scheduled IEP Team meetings.

LEA Position

The LEA stated, “Upon receipt of updated Children's Mercy medical documentation on April 29, 2026, the district determined that an IEP Team meeting should be convened to review the newly submitted medical information and determine whether revisions, accommodations, supports, services, health-related planning, participation considerations, mobility supports, physical access supports, or implementation adjustments were warranted. Consistent with the purpose of the proposed meeting, the district invited individuals whose responsibilities were directly related to the concerns raised in the medical documentation, including administration, special education personnel, general education representation, physical therapy, and staff responsible for implementation of the student's educational program.

The district's proposed team included all members required under IDEA and Kansas regulations. In addition, because the concerns raised by the parents related primarily to mobility, physical access, physical education participation, adaptive physical education services, transportation of educational materials, and implementation of physician restrictions, the district included staff members directly responsible for those areas. After the district proposed the meeting, the parents requested participation by additional individuals, including multiple special education teachers, a speech-language pathologist, and additional general education personnel who were not required IEP Team members under IDEA or Kansas regulations.

Although the district was not legally required to include all requested individuals, it nevertheless explored the request, contacted the requested staff members, and adjusted scheduling in an effort to facilitate broader participation . . . the parties' disagreement concerned the scope of participation and the parents' preference for additional attendees rather than any failure by the district to invite required IEP Team members. At no point did the district refuse to invite a required IEP Team member, nor have the parents identified any IDEA-required participant who was omitted from the proposed meetings. Ultimately, no IEP Team meeting occurred because the parents did not attend the meeting dates proposed by the district".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on a review of written interview questions and documentation.

1. The parents provided the LEA with updated medical information from Children's Mercy Hospital and Heartland Community Health Center on April 29, 2026.
2. The LEA provided the parents with a PWN for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent dated April 29, 2026 proposing an IEP Team meeting "to review the newly received medical information, consider revisions to [student A's] goal, services, accommodations, considerations and ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned and can be implemented safely".
3. Documentation shows the LEA provided the parents with a Notice of Meeting proposing an IEP Team meeting on May 12, 2026 via email on April 29, 2026 at 4:56 PM and indicated the positions of the persons who were also invited to attend the IEP Team meeting. The accompanying email written by the WRHS Assistant Principal noted the names of the LEA staff who were invited to the meeting: 1) the WRHS Assistant Principal [for the LEA Representative role]; 2) the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student A [for the Special Education Teacher role]; 3) the General Education PE Teacher for Individual/Team Sports [for the General Education Teacher of the Student role]; 5) the Special Education Department Chair, and the Director of Secondary Special Education [for the individuals who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results], and 6) the Physical Therapist, the Lead WRHS Nurse, and the Adaptive PE Teacher [as Other Persons with Special Expertise role as determined by the LEA].

4. The mother responded via email to the WRHS Assistant Principal on dated April 29, 2026 at 8:08 PM stating "Since [student A's] normal IEP date is September 25, 2026, we would want to convene the full team and complete a full IEP, not just an update, and we want her full team, this would include those listed with the addition of: Special Education Teacher 1, Special Education 2, Special Education Teacher 3, SLP, General Education Advisory Teacher".
5. An email dated May 1, 2026 written by the WRHS Assistant Principal stated, "I have reached out to the team members, and they believe it will be possible to draft an annual IEP in time for the May 12 meeting. During that communication, a few staff members noted prior commitments at 3:45 and 4:00 p.m. To maximize their participation, would it be possible to adjust the meeting time to 3:00 p.m.?"
6. An email dated May 1, 2026 written by the mother stated, "This one is going to be a long one, so I think you need to inform the whole team to buckle up. If they need to leave by 3:45 or four, we are not going to be done, even if we start at 3. We have lots and lots and lots of input and things that will be added to the IEP going forward. We may get you a draft of those ahead of time, but otherwise we will get them to you at the meeting. So, I wouldn't spend a whole lot of time creating a draft from your perspective, as we have lots of things that the KSDE has given us feedback on how to more appropriately write it into the IEP after what has occurred at your school this year, that we will be including in the IEP to make sure going forward, you will be held accountable".
7. The findings of 26FC437-014 showed the LEA attempted to modify the scheduled May 12, 2026 IEP Team meeting by adding an additional 30 minutes to the meeting and noting that three of the parent requested IEP Team members including the General Education Advisory Teacher, Special Education Teacher 3, and the SLP would need to leave the IEP Team meeting approximately 15 minutes prior to the scheduled end of the IEP . However, the parents refused to meet unless all of the IEP Team members were able to attend for the entire IEP Team meeting.
8. On May 6, 2026, the LEA subsequently provided the parents with two additional Notice of Meetings for May 15 and May 18, 2026 with the same list of LEA staff who were invited to the originally scheduled May 12, 2026 IEP Team meeting.

Conclusion

The IDEA defines the required members of the IEP as the parents of the child, not less than one regular education teacher of the child, not less than one special education teacher of the child, a representative of the school district, an individual who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results, other individuals who have knowledge of special expertise regarding the child at the discretion of the parent or the school district, and the child with a disability whenever appropriate.

It is important to note the IDEA also requires the IEP Team to be able to develop an IEP that meets each individual student's needs and provides FAPE to the student. As such, additional IEP Team members with special expertise or knowledge of the student may be required to attend the IEP Team meeting. It is equally important to remember that KSDE guidance based on comments in the Federal Register do not require persons attending the IEP Team meeting in the role of staff with special expertise to be excused from the meeting in whole or part with parent consent.

In this case, the LEA received updated medical information provided by the parents and provided the parents with a Notice of Meeting to review the September 25, 2025 IEP to determine if any revisions were necessary in light of this updated medical information. The LEA invited all of the required IEP Team members including the parents of the child, at least one regular education teacher of the child, at least one special education teacher of the child, a representative of the school district, individuals who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results, and other individuals the LEA determined had special expertise in regards to interpreting the updated medical information and the impact on the IEP goals, services, and accommodations/modifications in the September 25, 2025 IEP.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a) for inviting all required IEP Team members including those with special expertise to the May 12, May 15 and May 18, 2026 IEP Team meetings to appropriately consider the updated medical information provided by the parents in order to review and revise, as necessary, the goals, services, and accommodations/modification in student A's September 25, 2025 IEP.

Issue Five

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop an IEP that provides FAPE for student A, specifically by deferring the IEP team meeting to the beginning of the 2026-27 school year.

[This issue addresses Violation 7 and 8]

Note that the parents' allegation related to the LEA responding to IEP Team meeting requests was addressed in Issue One of this investigation. The parents' allegations related to unilateral program changes was addressed in Issue Two of this investigation. The parents' allegations related to IEP Team meeting participants is addressed in Issue Four of this investigation. The parents' allegations related to the IEP not including current / historical disability related needs and unanswered written questions were addressed in 26FC437-014. As such, this issue will solely focus on the parent's allegation related to whether the LEA deferring the annual IEP review until the 2026-27 school year denied FAPE to student A.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.101 require a free appropriate public education (FAPE) be made available to all eligible children with disabilities. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.17 define FAPE as meaning special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge; and are provided in conformity with an individualized education program (IEP).

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4), require school districts to develop an IEP describing the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to 1) advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; 2) be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum; 3) participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and, 4) be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1) require each public agency to review each student's IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved; and to revise the student's IEP, as appropriate, to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum; the results of any reevaluation; information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

Parent Position

The parents made the following two allegations of violations of the IDEA against the LEA:

Violation 7: Denial of Meaningful Parent Participation — 34 C.F.R. § 300.322

Five refused meeting requests, unanswered written questions, unilateral program changes without consent, concealment of meeting participants, and explicit deferral to next school year collectively constitute a systematic denial of meaningful parent participation.

Violation 8: Denial of Free Appropriate Public Education — 34 C.F.R. § 300.101

The parent stated, "Student A's IEP does not reflect her current or historical disability-related needs. The district's explicit intention to defer substantive IEP action to next school year compounds this denial. FAPE obligations are not suspended by the school calendar or a student's scheduled surgery."

LEA Position

The LEA stated, ". . .throughout the period from April 29, 2026 through the conclusion of the school year, the district actively sought parent participation regarding the newly submitted medical information and its potential educational implications. The district reviewed parent-provided medical documentation, consulted with relevant staff, communicated directly with the parents regarding implementation concerns, issued Prior Written Notices, issued Notices of Meeting, proposed multiple IEP Team meetings, offered mediation through a neutral third party, accepted additional parent documentation, and repeatedly invited parent concerns, recommendations, proposed accommodations, and proposed revisions for consideration through the IEP process.

The district worked collaboratively with the parents regarding the scope, structure, duration, and purpose of the proposed meeting and made ongoing efforts to accommodate parent requests and concerns. Although the parties disagreed regarding the timing of comprehensive annual IEP redevelopment, the district continued to seek an IEP Team meeting to review the medical information provided by the parents and consider whether revisions to the current IEP were warranted based on that information. The district proposed conducting the annual review prior to the start of the 2026–2027 school year after additional medical information related to the student's anticipated surgery became available, while still remaining willing to meet and discuss potential revisions to the existing IEP during the spring of 2026. This disagreement regarding the timing of the annual review does not constitute a denial of parent participation".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on a review of written interview questions and documentation.

1. Student A's most recent IEP was developed on September 25, 2025 with the parents in attendance. This IEP states the annual IEP review must occur no later than September 24, 2026.

2. An email dated September 28, 2025 at 9:20 PM written by the father to Special Education Teacher 3 stated, "[The mother and I had some time over the weekend to review the two samples that [Special Education Teacher 3] sent home. I think we are going to go with 3rd grade reading comprehension for the goal. Obviously, we want her to be pushed as far as she can but we also want her to feel success. Also, can we make sure there is language in the IEP acknowledging that because of [student A's] autism diagnosis, she can struggle with inconsistent sleeping patterns?".
3. The WRHS Assistant Principal sent an email to the parents on October 2, 2025 stating, "I have attached an updated draft IEP that reflects the changes in the reading goal in addition to adding language about her inconsistent sleeping patterns and hearing loss. The information about inconsistent sleep patterns and hearing loss were added to the impact of Exceptionality section connected to each goal".
4. The LEA issued a PWN proposing to update IEP goals and increase special education services in order to provide FAPE to student A based on the IEP Team meeting held on September 25, 2025 and subsequent parent input and clarifications on September 28, 2025. The mother provided written consent on October 6, 2025.
5. The parents provided the LEA with updated medical information from Children's Mercy Hospital and Heartland Community Health Center on April 29, 2026. The parents also informed the LEA that student A was scheduled for back surgery in June 2026.
6. The LEA provided the parents with a PWN for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement, and Request for Consent dated April 29, 2026 proposing an IEP Team meeting "to review the newly received medical information, consider revisions to [student A's] goal, services, accommodations, considerations and ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned and can be implemented safely".
7. Documentation shows the LEA provided the parents with a Notice of Meeting proposing an IEP Team meeting on May 12, 2026 via email on April 29, 2026.
8. The mother responded via email to the WRHS Assistant Principal on dated April 29, 2026 at 8:08 PM stating "Since [student A's] normal IEP date is September 25, 2026, we would want to convene the full team and complete a full IEP, not just an update, and we want her full team, this would include those listed with the addition of: Special Education Teacher 1, Special Education 2, Special Education Teacher 3, SLP, General Education Advisory Teacher".
9. Documentation shows the LEA provided the parents with two additional Notice of Meetings proposing IEP Team meeting dates on May 15 and May 18, 2026 via email on May 6, 2026.
10. The WRHS Assistant Principal provided the parents with a prior written notice dated May 6, 2026 which stated, "The district proposes to convene the IEP team to review the medical documentation and educational concerns identified by the parents and determine whether amendments such as accommodations, supports, services, health-related planning, participation considerations, mobility considerations, physical access supports, or implementation adjustments to the student's current IEP are appropriate at this time. The district further proposes that participation in the meeting include parent(s), general education representation, special education representation, related service providers relevant to the concerns being reviewed, administrative representation, and personnel knowledgeable regarding the student's current programming, accommodations, implementation, and medical-related educational needs". The May 6, 2026 prior written notice also stated, "The district declines at this time to immediately conduct a complete redevelopment or replacement of the student's current annual IEP prior to the upcoming annual review cycle".

11. The parent sent an email on May 6, 2026 at 6:57 PM stating, "We remain willing to meet, but it must be a full IEP meeting consistent with our rights under federal law".
12. An email dated May 12, 2026 at 5:23 PM by the WRHS Assistant Principal to the parents stated, "The district remains committed to convening the IEP team to review the updated medical information, consider paren concerns, and discuss whether revisions or additional supports within [student A's] current educational programming are appropriate at this time. The district intends to include required IEP team members, along with personnel knowledgeable regarding [student A's] educational programming, related services, health-related needs, and the areas anticipated for discussion. The district remains available to meet on Friday, May 15, 2026 at 8:30 a.m. or Monday, May 18, 2026 at 1:30 p.m. If neither proposed date works for the parents' schedules, please provide alternative dates and times for the district's consideration.

    Given the limited remaining instructional time in the current school year, along with [student A's] anticipated summer surgery and recovery period in early June, the district anticipates additional IEP team discussion at the beginning of the upcoming school year to review updated educational and medical information following [student A's] return to school. The district also anticipates convening the annual IEP team prior to the September 2026 annual review date to review [student A's] present levels, programming needs, related services, supports, and educational access considerations. The district is also willing to begin coordinating with the parents regarding scheduling of the annual IEP meeting prior to the September 2026 review date".
13. The parents sent an email to the WRHS Assistant Principal ET AL on May 14, 2026 at 11:45 AM stating, "During the September 2025 IEP meeting, the following supports were specifically identified and agreed upon as part of [student A's]'s educational program: • She was not to carry her backpack. The agreement was simply that [student A] would not be responsible for carrying her backpack during the school day. No cart was ever discussed. • Adaptive Physical Education (APE) was to be integrated into her school day and present during her PE classes from that point forward. • Physical Therapy was identified as a related service to be provided as part of her ongoing program. • Frequent breaks while walking were identified as a necessary physical accommodation specifically because of [student A's]'s back condition. The agreement was that [student A] would be permitted to stop and rest during transitions between classes and while moving through the building — because sustained movement without rest periods directly aggravates her condition. This was not a general behavioral or academic accommodation. It was a medically necessary physical support tied directly to her documented back issues.

We left the September 2025 IEP meeting believing these supports were in place or would be immediately implemented. We had no reason to believe otherwise. We were not contacted at any point to indicate that any of these services had been delayed, modified, or withheld".

14. In the mother's response to interview questions on May 25, 2026, she indicated that unless the LEA was willing to meet for a "full" IEP Team meeting and not just a "medical only" IEP Team meeting, the parents were unwilling to meet.
15. The LEA stated, "The district determined that review of the newly submitted medical information was the most pressing educational issue because [student A's] annual IEP was not due until September 2026, the school year was ending, and spinal surgery was scheduled for June 2026. The district anticipated that surgery and recovery would provide additional information relevant to future educational planning and communicated this rationale to the parents. The district also expressed its willingness to schedule the annual IEP meeting in early August 2026 so the team could consider updated post-surgical information before the start of the new school year".

Conclusion

The parents argue that the IDEA required the LEA to conduct a "full" or annual IEP as requested by the parents on multiple occasions instead of an IEP Team meeting to review the updated medical information from Children's Mercy Hospital and Heartland Community Health Center. However, the IDEA requires an IEP be reviewed at least annually but also whenever certain situations occur that may impact the provision of FAPE as described in the IEP.

Documentation shows the annual review date for the September 25, 2026 IEP is September 24, 2026. This date falls at the beginning of the 2026-27 school year and therefore, at a minimum, student A's IEP was required to be reviewed and revised, as appropriate, no later than that date.

However, the parents providing updated medical information triggered the IDEA requirements for the IEP to be reviewed and revised, as appropriate, because of situations that may impact the provision of FAPE as described in each individual student's IEP. Because the updated medical information provided by the parents on April 29, 2026 could impact the IEP goals, services, and accommodations/modifications, the LEA is required to reconvene the IEP Team to review this updated information and revise the IEP, as appropriate. That is exactly what the LEA attempted to do when scheduling three IEP Team meetings on May 12, May 15, and May 18, 2026, all within 13 school days of receiving the updated medical information.

Another situation triggering the IDEA requirement for the IEP to be reviewed and revised, as appropriate, is to address the anticipated needs of a student, such as the anticipated needs of student A resulting from her back surgery in June, 2026. In this situation, the LEA is again required to reconvene the IEP Team to consider those anticipated medical needs post-surgery.

And again, that is what the LEA is proposing to do by planning to reconvene the IEP Team in August prior to the start of the 2026-27 school year when updated medical information and recommendations will be available after student A's surgery and recovery during the summer of 2026.

The parents also argue that student A's September 25, 2025 IEP should have already included the accommodations and modifications described in the medical information provided to the LEA on April 29, 2025. The parents reported all of the medical information included in the letters from Children's Mercy Hospital and Heartland Community Health Center had been shared at the September 25, 2025 IEP Team meeting and was purposely not included in the student A's IEP. The parents indicated in the May 14, 2026 email that they had no idea that the September 25, 2025 IEP did not include the medical recommendations and, because of these deliberate omissions, student A's IEP did not provide her with FAPE which required a "full" IEP Team meeting prior to the start of the 2026-27 school year.

However, documentation shows that student A's IEP Team, including the parents, met on September 25, 2025 and developed an IEP designed to provide FAPE to the student. The parents were provided opportunities to participate in the development of the IEP both during the IEP Team meeting as well as through a review of the draft version of the IEP developed at that IEP Team meeting. There is documentation to show that the parents provided written feedback based on the IEP draft and that the feedback was subsequently included in the final version of the September 25, 2025 IEP. Further, the LEA obtained written parent consent for the proposed IEP on October 6, 2025 after the parents' feedback had been incorporated into student A's IEP.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance with federal regulations at with 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1) which requires the IEP Team to reconvene to consider information about the student provided by the parents because the LEA offered three different IEP Team meeting dates within 13 school days of receiving the updated medical information, all of which the parents chose not to attend.

In addition, the LEA is in compliance with the requirement to reconvene the IEP Team based on the anticipated needs of the student because the LEA is planning to reconvene student A's IEP Team prior to the beginning of the 2026-27 school year to consider the student's anticipated needs when updated medical information will be available following her surgery on June 3, 2026 as well as IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.301 and 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4) for developing an IEP reasonably calculated to provide FAPE to the student at the September 25, 2025 IEP Team meeting.

It is noted that, should the parents continue to refuse to meet with the IEP Team when school resumes in August 2026, the LEA may have to proceed to conduct an IEP Team meeting without parent participation so long as the LEA can demonstrate efforts to try and persuade the parents to participate in the IEP Team meeting as required by federal regulations at 34

C.F.R. §300-322(d). As noted in Issue One for student A, these particular federal regulations ensure the parents cannot indefinitely delay or impede the IEP Team process for the LEA to develop and offer an IEP reasonably calculated to offer FAPE to student A.

Student B

Issue One

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to maintain documentation to support IEP goal progress reporting and student B's grades during the 2025-26 school year.

[This Issue addresses Violations 1, 2, and 4]

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(3) require the LEA to include a description of how the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals will be measured and when periodic reports on the progress the child is making toward meeting the annual goals (such as through the use of quarterly or other periodic reports, concurrent with the issuance of report cards) will be provided in each student's IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4) require the LEA to include a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to 1) advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; 2) be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and 3) be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require each public agency to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Parent Position

The parents made the following three allegations of violations of the IDEA against USD #437:

Violation 1: Failure to maintain grade documentation to support student B's grades. (34 C.F.R. § 300.320(a)(3)

The parents stated, "Failure to maintain grade documentation to sufficient to demonstrate how an 80% grade was determined for student B's Social Skills Trek courses, inconsistent with IDEA's requirement that progress measurement be documented".

Violation 2: Assertion of a legally unsupported pass/fail exemption from grade documentation requirements.

The parents stated, "Neither IDEA nor FERPA contains any provision excusing a district from documenting the basis for a student's grade on the grounds that the grading structure is pass/fail. The district's own principal's acknowledgment that a goal book with grade percentiles exists directly contradicts this position".

Violation 4: Failure to maintain grade documentation to support student B's grades.

The parents stated, "Assignment of a uniform 80% final grade using a systemwide proxy entry with no individualized student performance documentation, in violation of IDEA's requirement that grading be tied to the individual student's IEP.

In addition, the parents allege that the LEA failed to provide them with an IEP Goal Progress Report for the first quarter of the 2025-26 school year. The parents indicated student B's IEP goal progress was shared and used during the October 13, 2025 IEP team meeting as the basis for updating and developing goals; however, they never received a written copy of this data.

LEA Position

The LEA reported that the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B collected raw data percentages in the goal book based on student participation to determine the quarterly class grades and collected raw data on goal data sheets used for reporting on the quarterly IEP Goal Progress Reports.

The LEA noted that raw goal data sheets and the goal book data compiled during the fourth quarter of the 25–26 school year were provided as documentation because these were maintained due to the pending child complaint investigation. However, raw data collection artifacts for the first, second, and third quarters are not available for production because the LEA's practice is to routinely purge this data after their contents are formalized and reported in the quarterly IEP Goal Progress Report and on the quarterly grade card. The LEA also indicated a practice that classroom teachers do not maintain copies of individual student work once it has been graded and entered into the goal book and used to determine the quarterly grade. In addition, grade records are also purged after the classroom teachers enter quarterly grades in the Infinite Campus system.

The LEA reported the parents were provided with paper copies of student B's IEP Goal Progress Reports for the second, third and fourth quarters of the 2025-26 school year based on the October 13, 2025 IEP. The first quarter IEP Goal Progress Report was based on the transfer IEP and was verbally reviewed with the IEP Team, including the parents at the October 13, 2025 IEP Team meeting. This data was used in the development of the goals and objectives included in the October 13, 2025 IEP.

The LEA reported that all parents within the district have access to real-time student grades through the student portal in the Infinite Campus system during each quarter. However, once these grades are recorded and reported on the quarter grade card, this data is no longer required to be maintained. Student grade cards can also be accessed through the student portal.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on a review of written interview questions and documentation.

1. Student B's IEP in effect during the first quarter of the 2025-26 school year was the transfer IEP from USD #345, which was accepted by the LEA on August 6, 2025. That IEP required parents to "receive written reports of the student progress toward meeting annual IEP goals in accordance with the district's established grade reporting schedule".
2. The IEP Team for student B met on October 13, 2025 to review and revise the student's IEP as appropriate. A prior written notice was provided to the parents proposing to update IEP goals and increase special education services and written parent consent was provided on October 16, 2025.
3. Student B's IEP dated October 13, 2025 required observation charts to be used to measure progress for goals one, five, and six; curriculum based assessments to be used to measure progress for goals two and three; and work samples to be used to measure progress for goal four.
4. The LEA document titled "Notice Regarding Q1 Progress Documentation", which was provided to the Investigator on June 5, 2025, acknowledged that the IEP goal progress for Quarter One was verbally shared with parents during the IEP Team meeting held on October 13, 2025, which happened to be the first day of the second quarter but no written IEP Goal Progress Report was provided to the parents. The LEA reported that each goal from the transfer IEP was reviewed and the data was used to develop new goals in the IEP developed on October 13, 2025.
5. The October 24, 2024 IEP did not include a modification for pass/fail grading; however, the October 13, 2025 IEP included a grading modification for student B which required "effort based grading pass/fail" for assignments and activities for all subjects for the duration of the IEP.
6. USD #437 School Board Policy IHA: Grades and Grading System which allows the Board of Education to set the grades system and includes a requirement that this grading system must be included in all building handbooks.
7. The WRNMS Student Handbook for the 2025-26 school year includes a section titled "Grades and Grading System" which states "Courses that are designated as pass/fail will follow a 70% or above as pass and 69% or lower as fail".
8. An email dated May 1, 2026 at 2:51 PM written by the mother questions why three of student B's classes did not include any logged grades for the quarter in the Infinite Campus system but showed the student's grade was an 80% and why the PE, Science, and Social Studies classes were reporting letter grades instead of pass/fail as required by the IEP.

9. During the email exchange on May 4, 2026 at 1:09, 1:20, 1:39, 1:48, and 1:50 PM with the mother, the WRNMS Principal reported that "[The Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B] keeps the grade percentiles in her goal book that tracks [student B's] progress toward her IEP goals. We will get those records for you asap" and the mother responded by requesting copies of the gradebook and IEP Goal Progress Reports. In the email written at 1:50 PM, the mother indicated no IEP Goal Progress Reports had been provided during the entire 2025-26 school year.
10. On May 5, 2026, the WRNMS Principal responded in an email at 1:26 PM that the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B had sent home the IEP Goal Progress Reports in student B's backpack.
11. An email dated May 5, 2026 at 1:36 PM written by the mother stated, "Ah yes, we are very familiar with your school's "it was in the bag" response. No Q1 progress report??? Also, as a reminder, we are still awaiting a copy of those grade book entries that you say [the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B] keeps for the classes that she does not log into the district-wide student information system for [student B's] grades".
12. An email dated 5/6/26 at 12:37 PM written by the Director of Secondary Special Education stated, "First quarter progress reporting occurred through [student B's] annual IEP review process. The IEP team met on October 13, 2025 to conduct the annual IEP meeting and update her goals consistent with IDEA's annual review requirements. Because the annual IEP meeting occurred around the same time first quarter grades and progress reports were issued, [student B's] progress was addressed through the development and revision of updated annual goals".
13. An email dated 5/6/26 at 12:44 PM written by the mother stated, "Thank you for your response. However, we respectfully disagree that the discussion at our IEP meeting satisfies the district's obligation to provide a written progress report. Under 34 CFR §300.320(a)(3), the IEP must include a description of when periodic progress reports will be provided to parents, specifically "at least as often as parents are informed of their nondisabled peers' progress." This means that when the district issues Q1 report cards to general education families, a corresponding written progress report on IEP annual goals is legally required for our child. An IEP meeting discussion does not constitute a written progress report. These are two separate and distinct obligations under IDEA. One does not satisfy the other. So to be clear, you are saying that you did not do a Q1 progress report for [student B] as is required under IDEA, correct? If you had provided us with a progress report at the IEP meeting, you would have met that obligation, but you did not".
14. The Director of Secondary Special Education emailed the parents on May 14, 2026 at 4:23 PM and stated, " . . . [student B's] IEP provides for effort-based pass/fail grading on assignments and activities. Because the district's student information system does not permit a simple "P/F" entry, a score of 80% is utilized to reflect passing performance consistent with implementation of the student's IEP accommodations".

15. An email dated 5/22/26 at 8:19 AM by the mother stated, " . . . I received a notification that [student B's] Social Skills Trek grade had been changed from 80% to 70%. This grade change occurred the day after KSDE accepted our complaint regarding this exact issue and assigned an investigator. As of this writing, no graded assignments, no graded materials, and no grading track record have been entered into the system to support either the previous grade or this revised grade. The following comment was added alongside the grade change: "[Student B's] binder work and her daily sheets show her struggles to comply to staff requests for work completion."

    We must note that this represents yet another change in the district's account of how [student B's] grades are determined. [The WRNMS Principal] previously told us that [the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B] maintained a specific gradebook with specific grades that justified the grades entered into the system — and that this gradebook existed and could be produced. That gradebook has never been produced despite our repeated requests, and it remains the subject of our pending KSDE complaint. Now, with no gradebook produced and a KSDE investigator assigned, the justification has shifted entirely — to behavioral compliance logs and binder work that have never previously been cited as grading documentation. This is not a clarification. It is a contradiction of what [the WRNMS Principal] himself told us, and it raises serious questions about the accuracy and integrity of the grades entered into student B's] academic record".
16. Raw Data Collection Sheets for student B dated between the weeks of April 4 and May 18, 2026 for 2nd period Math and 5th period Reading show
17. Raw Goal Data Collection Sheets for the six goals on student B's IEP dated between April 1 and May 13, 2026
18. The IEP Goal Progress Report shows this documentation was provided to the parents on December 29, 2025 (second quarter); March 11, 2026 (third quarter); and May 14, 2026 (fourth quarter) for the goals and objectives included in student B's October 13, 2025 IEP.
19. The 2025-26 Grade Card shows student B earned a grade of "P" for passing in the six year-long classes including special education reading and special education math, supported science and supported social studies, and two PE classes. In addition, student B earned a grade of "P" in a first semester Design class. Student B also earned grades of "A" for two semester-long classes including Intro into Computers and Family and Consumer Science (FACS) classes while earning a grade of "B" in the semester-long Intro to Photography class.
20. Sample of copies of Goal Data Collection Sheets, communication logs, and toileting logs for student A dated during the first through fourth quarters of the 2025-26 school year.

Conclusion

The first part of this issue pertains to implementation of the IEP, specifically how and when IEP Goal Progress Reports are provided to the parents during the 2025-26 school year, as well as grading student B according to the IEP modifications for grading required by both the October 24, 2024 IEP and the October 13, 2025 IEP.

In regards to IEP Goal Progress Reports provided to parents during the 2025-26 school year, the October 24, 2024 IEP for student B was in effect during the first quarter of the 2025-26 school year and required the parents to "receive written reports of the student progress toward meeting annual IEP goals in accordance with the district's established grade reporting schedule". The October 13, 2025 IEP was in effect during the second, third, and fourth quarters of the 2025-26 school year and included this same requirement for IEP goal progress reporting. As such, there is evidence to support a finding that the LEA met the requirements of 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(3) by describing when and how IEP goal progress will be provided to the parents.

There is also evidence to support a finding that progress on IEP goals from student B's October 24, 2024 IEP was shared verbally with the IEP Team, including the parents, on October 13, 2025; however, the LEA did not provide the parents with a written IEP Goal Progress Report for Quarter One as required by the IEP in effect during that time period. Documentation shows that written IEP Goal Progress Reports were provided to the parents during the second, third and fourth quarters of the 2025-26 school year.

In regards to grades, student B's IEP requires the modification of pass/fail grading in all classes during the second, third, and fourth quarters of the 2025-26 school year based upon the October 13, 2026 IEP. However, the October 24, 2024 IEP in effect during the first quarter did not include a modification for pass/fail grading.

Student B's grade card for all four quarters includes both pass/fail grades as well as letter grades even though letter grading was required by the IEP in effect during the first quarter and pass/fail grading was required by the IEP in effect during the second, third, and fourth quarters.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT of compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) for failing to implement student B's IEPs as written during the 2025-26 school year, specifically by failing to provide a written copy of the first quarter IEP Goal Progress Report for student B as required by the student's IEP as well as for not following the requirement in both IEPs in effect during the 2025-26 school year in regards to grading. As such, corrective action is required.

The second part of this issue relates to the allegation of the LEA failing to maintain documentation to support grades and IEP Goal Progress for student B. The IDEA requires that IEPs include how progress towards achieving IEP goals will be collected and measured as described in 34 CFR §300.320(a)(3). However, the IDEA regulations do not obligate school districts to maintain or provide parents with the daily instructional tally sheets, scrap papers, or raw data-collection tools used by staff to compute those summaries.

Documentation shows the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B was only able to provide copies of raw IEP Goal Data Collection Sheets for the fourth quarter which were used for reporting grades and IEP goal progress. The LEA reported a practice where data is purged and destroyed after grades and IEP Goal progress reports are recorded. However, the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student A was able to provide samples of data collection sheets from, toileting reports, and daily communication sheets from across all four quarters during the 2025-26 school year, which suggests different buildings have different procedures and practices.

In this case, the documentation shows WRNMS has a practice that does not maintain sufficient supporting data to document that progress was monitored as described and that the IEP goal progress reported was based on actual data. Based on the foregoing, the L*EA is found OUT of compliance* with 34 C.F.R. 76-731 and corrective action is required.

Issue Two

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to respond appropriately to the parents' request for educational records on May 4, 2026.

[This Issue addresses Violation 3]

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.613(a) require that each public agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part. The agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing pursuant to §300.507 [filing a due process complaint] or §300.530 through §300.532 [disciplinary change of placement], or resolution session pursuant to §300.510 [due process resolution process], and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made.

Parent Position

The parents made the following allegation of violation of the IDEA against USD #437:

Violation 3: Failed to respond to parents' request for education records

The parents stated, "Failure to produce education records — specifically the teacher's gradebook and goal book entries — in response to a formal written FERPA request submitted May 4, 2026 (34 C.F.R. § 99.10; 34 C.F.R. § 300.613)".

LEA Position

The LEA stated, "The parent initially emailed the district on May 1, 2026 requesting information regarding the grading procedures used in classes taught by [the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B]. [The WRNMS Principal] and [the Director of Secondary Special Education] corresponded with the parent between May 1 and May 4 in an effort to understand and respond to the request. During this correspondence, additional questions and references were introduced that expanded beyond the original inquiry, resulting in uncertainty regarding the specific records being requested.

In an effort to obtain clarity and facilitate productive communication, the district offered mediation on May 5, 2026. The parents declined this offer. Despite the lack of clarity regarding the precise records being sought, district staff continued to respond based on their understanding of the request.

On May 21, 2026, the parent provided clarification regarding the specific records being requested. Upon receipt of that clarification, the district was able to identify the requested records and begin the process of gathering them. The district considers May 21, 2026 to be the date on which the request was sufficiently clarified to allow fulfillment. Accordingly, the 45-day timeline would conclude on July 5, 2026. USD 437 is in the process of gathering the requested records and intends to provide them within that timeframe.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on a review of written interview questions and documentation.

1. An email dated May 1, 2026 at 2:51 PM written by the mother questions why three of student B's classes did not include any logged grades for the quarter but showed the student's grade was an 80% and why the PE, Science, and Social Studies classes were reporting letter grades instead of pass/fail as required by the IEP.
2. An email dated May 4, 2026 at 1:39 PM written by the mother stated, "Please consider this is our official request for the teacher's gradebook records in writing, citing 20 U.S.C. § 1232g and 34 C.F.R. § 99.10. [Student B] currently shows multiple classes that [the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B] is the teacher of record for [those] [sic] that have no grades recorded but a percentage of 80%. How have you gotten to this percentage with no grades logged?? We need an officially written up progress report on each of these courses along with the grades for the classes".
3. On May 5, 2026 at 11:50 AM, the Director of Secondary Special Education sent an email to the parents stating, "We remain committed to working collaboratively with you and making progress; however, we are finding it challenging to move forward in a way that feels productive for all involved. In an effort to support more productive conversation and problem-solving, we would like to pursue mediation with a neutral third party.

Would you be willing to engage in mediation with us?". The parent responded on the same date at 1:00 PM declining to participate in mediation.

4. The parents sent a second email on May 21, 2026 at 7:05 AM stating, "This letter constitutes a formal records request under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), 20 U.S.C. § 1232g, and its implementing regulations at 34 C.F.R. Part 99, as well as the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), 20 U.S.C. § 1400 et seq., and 34 C.F.R. § 300.613 . . . We are requesting the following records in their complete, original form for [student B] for the 2025-2026 school year across all four classes taught by [the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B]:
    a. The complete grade book (electronic or paper) for each of the four classes, showing all individual assignment entries, dates, assignment titles, point values, and scores, not merely the percentage summaries posted in the student information system.
    b. All graded assignments, tests, quizzes, projects, and work samples that form the basis for any grade entered or reflected in the student information system, across all four classes.
    c. All rubrics, grading keys, scoring guides, or criteria used to evaluate [student B's] work and determine a pass or fail outcome in any of the four classes.
    d. Any teacher notes, progress monitoring data, or other documentation used to calculate or support the grades posted in any of the four classes."
5. The mother reported in the written interview questions received on June 15, 2026 that no records had been provided by the LEA as of that date.
6. The 45 day timeline for the request dated May 4, 2026 ended on June 18, 2026 and the 45-day timeline for the records request made on May 21, 2026 will end on July 5, 2026.
7. The LEA acknowledged that the education records requested on May 4, 2026 had not been provided to the parents within the 45-day window because of uncertainty of exactly what records were being requested.

Conclusion

In this case, the parents made two requests for student B's educational records during the fourth quarter of the 2025-26 school year.

The first record request made by the parents on May 4, 2026 in an email that clearly states the records being requested were the gradebook records from the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B. However, as noted in Issue One for student B, these records were only available for the fourth quarter as the LEA's practice is to purge the data after the quarter grades have been entered into the Infinite Campus system.

Therefore, the fourth quarter grade book records which were maintained by the LEA at the time of the request should have been provided to the parents as soon as possible but no later than 45 days of the May 4, 2026 request. The parents reported and the LEA acknowledged that these records were not provided to the parents within the 45-day window.

The second record request was made by the parents on May 21, 2026 in another email that clearly delineates the educational records being requested. The LEA has until July 5, 2026 to respond to this record request to be considered to be in compliance with federal regulations. As such, this issue cannot be investigated at this time.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT of compliance for failing to appropriately respond to the parents' record request on May 4, 2026 and corrective action is required.

Both Students A and B:

The parents made one allegation of a systemic violation of the IDEA regarding accommodations and modifications required by IEPs not being implemented as written. This allegation stems from a previous finding of noncompliance addressing the provision of accommodations related to multiple choice questions and visual cues included in student B's IEP investigated as part of 26FC437-014. On April 28, 2026, a finding of noncompliance was made against the LEA in regards to that issue for which corrective action was ordered and must be completed no later than August 31, 2026. The parents allege the LEA continues to fail to implement the student's IEP in regards to these accommodations; however, per KSDE guidance, the findings, conclusions and pending corrective actions in a previous complaint report are not subject to review through a subsequent complaint.

It is noted that the LEA was found out of compliance during this investigation for not implementing student B's IEP in regards to grading modifications when reporting class grades in the findings of Issue One for student B and corrective is action ordered.

The parents allege the LEA is now failing to provide the accommodations and modifications for student A and clarification was sought as no specifics were provided in the child complaint filed with KSDE. Based upon the written clarification from the mother on May 25, 2026, specific accommodations and modifications not being provided to student A were identified. However, no facts or documentation was provided to support the allegation of the LEA's failure to implement accommodations/modifications for any other students with IEPs at either the WRMS or WRHS.

Issue One

USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the IEP for student A, specifically by failing to provide the accommodations and modifications for toileting support, building access, backpack relief, frequent walking breaks, nonverbal communication system, and the communication notebook for student A after April 28, 2026.

[This Issue addresses Violation 1]

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4) require the LEA to include a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to 1) advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; 2) be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and 3) be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require each public agency to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Parent Position

The parents made the following allegation of violations of the IDEA against USD #437:

Violation 1: Failure to provide accommodations and modifications required by the IEPs of students with disabilities

The parents stated, "Systemic Noncompliance — Continued Violations After Prior KSDE Finding USD 437 continued to violate [student B's] IEP after a KSDE finding of violations under the same special education director. It is now engaged in the same category of violations regarding [student A]. A district that does not correct course after a KSDE finding is engaged in willful noncompliance. KSDE is respectfully requested to treat this as a systemic matter and to conduct a district-wide review of USD 437's special education compliance".

The mother reported the following specific instances of the LEA's failure to provide the accommodations and modifications required by student A's IEP on May 25, 2026. Note that this list includes references to previous allegations of violations,which were investigated in previous complaints filed by the parents. The mother stated:

1. Toileting Support — April 25 Complaint, Violations 1, 2, 7, 8
   Personal care for toileting is explicitly documented in [student A's] IEP. The district used disability-caused toileting incidents as grounds to exclude her seven times — without MDRs, without PWN, and without continuation of services. The accommodation was in the IEP. The district was excluding [student A] for the very incidents that the accommodation was designed to address.
2. Building Access — April 27 Complaints
   The south entrance by the auditorium was established as[student A's] drop-off point by her case manager and paraeducator. It was changed six times without PWN, IEP team involvement, or any disability accommodation plan. The district's own maintenance worker confirmed the entrance was open on April 27. The sixth change was pretextual and retaliatory. OCR has accepted the complaint.

3. Backpack Relief — September 25, 2025 IEP
   The team agreed [student A] would not carry her backpack. No cart was discussed. The district's May 12 email admits the cart was only recently introduced — meaning the original accommodation was not in place. We asked the district to confirm whether [student A] carried her backpack at any point since September. They did not answer.
4. Frequent Walking Breaks — September 25, 2025 IEP
   Break protocols during transitions were agreed upon in September. The district's May 12 email presents them as a new implementation — confirming they were not consistently provided as agreed.
5. Adaptive Physical Education — September 25, 2025 IEP
   APE was agreed upon in September. The district's May 12 email presents it as a recent implementation — again confirming it was not consistently in place.
6. [Student A's] Nonverbal Communication System
   Parents provided detailed guidance at the September 25 IEP meeting on how [student A] communicates through her beads and stimming. Her bead twirling is an expression of joy — not anxiety. This was not incorporated into her IEP. [The WRHS Assistant Principal] subsequently mischaracterized [student A's] bead use as anxiety. When asked in writing whether she had listened to anything shared about [student A's] communication, [the WRHS Assistant Principal] did not respond. For a nonverbal child, correctly reading her communication system is a safety issue.
7. Communication Notebook — Peer Interactions and Social Support
   We requested in [student A's] IEP that her communication notebook document the peers she interacted with and the conversations that took place — so that we could reference them at home and ask [student A] questions about her day, and so that we could confirm that social interactions were being intentionally supported by staff. [Student A] is nonverbal. This documentation was not a preference. It was the primary way we had any window into her social world at school and any ability to verify that meaningful peer interaction was being facilitated. This was never done. Not once during the entire school year. For a nonverbal child, the failure to maintain this record is not a clerical oversight. It is a denial of her right to have her communication needs actively supported and documented as agreed upon in her IEP".

LEA Position

The LEA stated, "Upon review of Student A's September 25, 2025 IEP, several items identified in the complaint, including backpack carrying restrictions, backpack assistance, elevator use, limitations on walking distances, and modified building access procedures, were not accommodations or modifications contained within the student's IEP. Rather, these recommendations first appeared in medical documentation provided by the parents on April 29, 2026".

The LEA noted that once the new medical information was provided by the parents, the LEA immediately began trying to reconvene the IEP Team to consider the recommendations in the report; however, no IEP Team meeting was able to be arranged prior to the end of the 2025-26 school year, so the accommodations and modifications required by the IEP have not been updated since September 25, 2025.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on a review of written interview questions and documentation.

1. The parents' allegations that the September 25, 2025 IEP did not include all of the information the parents shared at the IEP Team meeting held on that date was investigated in 26FC437-014. The finding of facts noted " . . .there is documentation showing that the LEA provided the parents with drafts of the IEP for their review immediately following the September 25, 2025 IEP Team meeting and emails documenting that the parents requested additional information be included in the IEP and the final version of the September 25, 2025 IEP includes these requested updates".
2. The September 25, 2025 IEP present level describes the functional concerns for Student A as follows: "[Student A's] learning rate is slower than typical peers and the complexity of learning is less developed than typical peers her age. She requires instruction to be tailored to match her level and rate of learning, including high frequencies of successful practice, repetition, and structured, sequential design to lessons and units of study. She demonstrates decreased balance, strength, and endurance with motor activities. Due to her health-related fitness levels, this keeps [student A] from being able to participate at the same level or length of time as her same age peers. This impacts her ability to independently and efficiently navigate throughout her school environment as well as participate and interact with peers during classroom/PE activities".
3. The September 25, 2025 IEP does not include any specific description of toileting support. The IEP does include a goal for following a visual schedule and the present level noted that student A "has scheduled bathroom breaks throughout the school day. Staff prompts her to use the bathroom when it's her scheduled time". The Parent Concerns section of the IEP notes the parents " . . . suggested including in the communication paper the reason and description of any clothing change when an accident happens".
4. The LEA provided a copy of student A's visual schedule which includes bathroom breaks throughout the school day as well as copies of a Bathroom Details form, a toileting report which was sent home on a daily basis.
5. Student A's IEP dated September 25, 2025 does not include any specific description for building access. However, this IEP does require transportation as a related service because of the student's cognitive ability rather than any physical restrictions that limit her ability to go to/from the bus stop as documented on the checklist for determining if transportation as a related service is a necessary related service for a particular student.

6. The September 25, 2025 IEP does not include backpack relief as an accommodation or modification. The IEP does note in the present level that "Due to her hx [history] of spinal surgery, core strengthening and stabilization are necessary in order to minimize pain and facilitate proper upright postural support during daily tasks". The IEP includes physical therapy as a related service and a goal to ". . . perform activities that require total body coordination, endurance and balance . . ." as measured by performing high plank on hands and modified bird dog exercises during physical therapy sessions.
7. The September 25, 2025 IEP does not include an accommodation or modification for walking breaks. However, it does include an accommodation to "Allow extra time for transitions for all subjects for passing periods, before lunch, and/or when changing activities within a class period up to 5 minutes". The IEP also includes physical therapy as a related service and a goal to "". . . perform activities that require total body coordination, endurance and balance . . ." as measured by performing the following tasks: 1) walking on variety of surfaces including; sidewalk, mulch, grass and curbs independently for >15 minutes without requiring a rest period and no loss of balance; 2) independently negotiating bleacher/full flight of stairs with the use of a single handrail alternating feet; and 3) transitioning in a crowded hallway a distance of 500 feet with no more than one verbal prompt in <30 seconds.
8. The September 25, 2025 IEP includes adaptive PE as a special education service and a goal for increasing communication skills with peers during physical education classes. Student A's abilities are described as follows: "[Student A] actively participates within her PE class (Lifetime Fitness). She demonstrates independence with ball skills including- kicking a ball, throwing a ball, hitting a ball with a racket and participates with peer mentor during PE class. When given choices on what game or activity to play, [student A] has gestured or communicated which one she would prefer".
9. The September 25, 2026 IEP does include accommodations and modifications related to the use of a nonverbal communication system and notes student A uses the ViaPro portable speech generating device with the Lamp Words for Life language program installed as her augmentative and alternate communication (AAC) device. The IEP also requires staff to model aided language input on her speech generating communication device.
10. The LEA provided documentation showing all special education staff working with student A have been trained to use the Lamp Words for Life language program.
11. The Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student A provided copies of IEP Goal Data Sheets for the two communication goals on the IEP documenting the student using the AAC device to communicate with peers and adults at school.
12. The September 25, 2025 IEP also includes speech/language therapy as a related service and a goal to increase the use of verbalizations, use of the student A's augmentative/alternate communication (AAC) device, gestures, etc. to initiate or maintain a three exchange conversation with an adult or peer.

13. The September 25, 2025 IEP does include an accommodation and modification related to a communication system between school and home which requires an organizational tool for classroom materials such as a home folder, daily planner / communication book, shared electronic documentations, etc. The Parent Input section of the IEP notes the parents " . . . requested that teachers and paras write in the parent communication paper any conversation [student A] has with a peer, noting only the peer's first name, so they can continue the interaction at home".
14. The LEA daily communication sheets showing student A's daily schedule and handwritten notes for each time period describing "What I Did Today". The handwritten notes documented interactions with peers as requested by the parents.

Conclusion

In this case, there is documentation to support a finding that the LEA implemented student A's IEP, specifically the accommodations and modifications required by the September 25, 2026 IEP during the 2025-26 school year. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4).

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

Student A

Issue One: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA regulations was found

Issue Two: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA regulations was found.

Issue Three: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA or Kansas regulations was found.

Issue Four: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA or Kansas regulations was found.

Issue Five: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA or Kansas regulations was found.

Student B

Issue One: Violations of federal regulations were found at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) for failing to provide a written copy of the first quarter IEP Goal Progress Report for student B as required by the student's IEP and corrective action is required as described below:

1. Within 20 days of the date of this report, the LEA will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) which require public agencies to ensure that IEPs are implemented as written.

2. Within 30 days of the date of this report, the LEA will provide the parents with an IEP Goal Progress Report for the first quarter of the 2025-26 school year. The LEA will provide SETS with a copy of the IEP Goal Progress Report and documentation this document was provided to the parents. The LEA will provide a copy of this corrected grade card to SETS within 14 days of the date it was provided to the parents.
3. Within 30 days of the date of this report, the LEA will correct student B's grades in the student information system (SIS) and provide the parents with a grade card for the 2025-26 school year that shows letter grading for all classes during the first quarter and pass/fail grading for all classes during the second, third, and fourth quarters as required by the two IEPs in effect during the school year. The LEA will provide a copy of this corrected grade card to SETS within 14 days of the date it was provided to the parents.
4. Prior to the first day of the 2026-27 school year, the LEA will provide inservice training to all special education teachers at WRNMS regarding the requirements of implementing the IEP as written. The LEA will provide SETS with a copy of the training agenda and any handouts / PowerPoint presentations as well as a sign-in sheet documenting who attended this inservice training within 14 days of the date of the inservice training.

Issue Two: Violations of federal regulations were found at 34 C.F.R. §300.613(a) for failing to appropriately respond to the parents' request for educational records on May 4, 2026 and corrective action is required as described below:

1. Within 20 days of the date of this report, the LEA will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.613(a) which require public agencies to respond to record requests as soon as possible but no later than 45 days from the date of the request.
2. No later than July 15, 2026, the LEA will provide the parents with the Special Education Teacher / Case Manager for student B's fourth quarter grade book records as part of the parents' May 21, 2026 record request. The LEA will provide SETS with documentation showing the records have been provided to the parents no later than July 30, 2026.

Both Students A and B:

Issue One: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA or Kansas regulations was found.

Nancy Thomas, M.Ed., IDEA Complaint Investigator

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 437
Auburn-Washburn Public Schools: 26FC437-015

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on May 18, 2026, by _____ on behalf of their children, ____ and _____ _____. In the remainder of this decision, _____ will be referred to as "the parents." _____ will be referred to as "student A" and _____ will be referred to as "student B." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on June 30, 2026. That Complaint Report concluded that there were no violations of special education statutes and regulations with regard to Student A and there were two violations regarding Student B. Corrective action was ordered as a result of those two violations.

Thereafter, the parents filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parents, the Complaint Report, the parents' notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report identified the following issues for student A:

ISSUE ONE: USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to appropriately respond to the parent's request for an annual IEP Team meeting between April 29 and May 21, 2026.

ISSUE TWO: USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate procedures to amend student A's September 25, 2025 IEP, specifically by unilaterally making changes without mutual agreement with the parents during the 2025-26 school year.

ISSUE THREE: USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parents with appropriate prior written notice for the program changes described in the May 12, 2026 letter.

ISSUE FOUR: USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to invite the necessary IEP Team members to develop an IEP to provide FAPE to student A following the parents' provision of written medical information regarding student A on April 29, 2026.

ISSUE FIVE: USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop an IEP that provides FAPE for student A, specifically by deferring the IEP team meeting to the beginning of the 2026-27 school year.

The report identified the following issues for student B:

The parents made four allegations of violations of the IDEA for student B. These four allegations were all related to two IDEA issues which were investigated.

ISSUE ONE: USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to maintain documentation to support IEP goal progress reporting and student B's grades during the 2025-26 school year.

ISSUE TWO: USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to respond appropriately to the parents' request for educational records on May 4, 2026.

Both Students A and B

The parents made one allegation of a systemic violation of the IDEA regarding accommodations and modifications required by IEPs not being implemented as written. This allegation stems from a previous finding of noncompliance addressing the provision of accommodations related to multiple choice questions and visual cues included in student B's IEP investigated as part of 26FC437-014.

The Appeal Committee Decision

Issue One – Student A

With regard to Issue One, Student A, the parents made the following allegation of a violation of the IDEA against USD #437:

Violation 3: Failure to Convene Full IEP Meeting Upon Parent Request — 34 C.F.R. § 300.321.

The parent stated, "Six formal requests for a full IEP meeting have been made since April 29, 2026 — a period of 13 days. None has resulted in a full IEP team meeting. While 30 days has not yet elapsed, the consistent and deliberate nature of the refusals — including the district's written commitment on May 1 followed by immediate reversal, its misuse of the amendment provision, its substitution of a Notice of Meeting for a required PWN, and its explicit deferral to next school year — establish that this is not a matter of scheduling delay but of deliberate, sustained noncompliance."

The parent requested an IEP meeting on April 29, 2026, "to review the newly received medical information, consider revisions to [student A's] goal, services, accommodations, considerations and ensure that all aspects of her program are aligned and can be implemented safely". (Report, Finding 1, p. 12).

That request triggered a number of email exchanges between the parties. We cite only those necessary to the resolution of this complaint, as follows:

An Assistant WRHS Principal responded that same day (April 29) in an email indicating that it would be important for the IEP team to meet to discuss the parent's proposal and "The email noted the IEP Team for the meeting would include the parents, the Physical Therapist, the Adaptive PE Teacher, the General Education Teacher for Individual/Team Sports (PE elective), Special Education Teacher / Case Manager, WRHS Lead Nurse, WRHS Special Education Department Chair, Director of Secondary Special Services, and the WRHS Assistant Principal." (Report, Finding 3, p. 12). Attached to this email was a Notice of Meeting dated April 29, 2026 scheduling an IEP Team meeting for May 12, 2026 at 3:30 PM. (Report, Finding 4, p. 12).

On that same date (April 29), the parent responded with an email, stating: ""Since [student A's] normal IEP date is September 25, 2026, we would want to convene the full team and complete a full IEP, not just an update, and we want her full team, this would include those listed with the addition of: Special Education Teacher 1, Special Education 2, Special Education Teacher 3, SLP, General Education Advisory Teacher". (Report, Finding 5, p 12-13).

On April 30, 2026, the Assistant principal sent an email response, saying: ". let me talk with [student A's] case manager and team members to ensure that we would be able to develop an annual IEP within the timeframe that I initially proposed. I will also reach out to the additional special education teachers and the additional general education teacher to inquire about their availability". (Report, Finding 7, p 13)

On May 1, 2026, the WRHS Assistant Principal sent an email to the parents at 4:59 PM stating that, in order to hold a meeting to review and revise the full IEP, the time of the IEP Team meeting would need to be adjusted from 3:30 to 3:00 PM and shared that "a few staff members noted prior commitments at 3:45 and 4:00 p.m". During the interview as part of the investigation of 26FC437-014, the Director of Secondary Special Education clarified that Special Education Teacher 3, the SLP, and the General Education Advisory Teacher needed to leave approximately 15 minutes early from the scheduled meeting time in order to attend to other personal and professional commitments. (Report, Finding 9, p 13)

The mother emailed the WRHS Assistant Principal on May 1, 2026 at 7:09 PM stating, "If you know in advance that the team is not going to be able to stay long enough for a full meeting of the entire IEP team, then we need to change the date. IDEA is very clear on this, if team members are leaving early, that undermines the integrity of the process. Please consider this our notice that we want a different date when the entire team can be available for a full meeting. This note is to formally notify you that I do not consent to the excusal of any required IEP team member, in whole or in part, for the meeting. Under 34 CFR §300.321(e) and 20 U.S.C. §1414(d)(1)(C), excusal requires written consent from both the LEA and the parent. I am withholding that consent. Please reschedule the meeting for a date when all required team members can attend in full. Insinuating that you as the LEA can override our permission for participants to be at the meeting or leave the meeting is another clear violation of our parental rights". (Report, Finding 12, p 14)

The district provided a prior written notice (PWN) dated May 6, 2026, which stated:
"The district proposes to convene the IEP team to review the medical documentation and educational concerns identified by the parents and determine whether amendments such as accommodations, supports, services, health-related planning, participation considerations, mobility considerations, physical access supports, or implementation adjustments to the student's current IEP are appropriate at this time. The district further proposes that participation in the meeting include parent(s), general education representation, special education representation, related service providers relevant to the concerns being reviewed, administrative representation, and personnel knowledgeable regarding the student's current programming, accommodations, implementation, and medical-related educational needs". (Report, Finding 13, p. 14-15)

The May 6, 2026 prior written notice also stated, "The district declines at this time to immediately conduct a complete redevelopment or replacement of the student's current annual IEP prior to the upcoming annual review cycle". (Report, Finding 14, p. 15). (Emphasis added with bold print).

The Explanation for the Action Proposed or Refused in the May 6, 2026 PWN stated:

"The district acknowledges its obligation under IDEA to review parent-provided information and revise the student's IEP as appropriate. Consistent with 34 CFR § 300.324, the district proposes convening the IEP team to review the information provided and determine whether amendments such as accommodations, supports, services, health-related planning, participation considerations, or implementation adjustments to the current IEP are appropriate at this time. IDEA further provides that changes to an IEP may be made through amendment rather than redrafting the entire IEP. See 34 CFR § 300.324(a)(6).

The district believes the proposed review and amendment process is appropriate under the circumstances presented, including the limited remaining instructional time in the current school year, the student's anticipated summer surgery and recovery, non-participation in ESY services, and the need for additional educational and recovery data to support comprehensive annual IEP development. The district acknowledges the parent concerns regarding the student's physical disability-related needs, including mobility, access, participation, accommodations, and implementation supports.

The district believes these concerns may appropriately be reviewed and addressed through targeted review and amendment of the student's current IEP. Consistent with 34 CFR § 300.321, the district also believes participation by staff members whose areas of responsibility are directly relevant to the educational and medical concerns being reviewed is appropriate to the purpose of the proposed meeting. The district believes the proposed meeting composition satisfies IDEA requirements for IEP team participation and allows for meaningful discussion regarding the concerns identified by the parents.

The district does not believe that immediate comprehensive redevelopment of the student's annual IEP at this point in the school year would allow for a sufficiently thoughtful, data-driven, and collaborative annual planning process. The student's current annual IEP remains in effect through September 2026. Additionally, the current school year concludes on May 21, 2026, leaving limited remaining instructional time for meaningful implementation, monitoring, and evaluation of a newly developed annual IEP prior to the conclusion of the school year.

The district also considered information indicating the student is expected to undergo surgery during the summer and will not participate in Extended School Year (ESY) services. As a result, the district will have limited opportunity to implement, monitor, and evaluate the effectiveness of newly developed annual programming prior to the beginning of the 2026–2027 school year.

The district believes additional progress monitoring, implementation data, educational input, recovery information, and team review during the upcoming school year are necessary to support comprehensive annual IEP development and long-term programming decisions". (Report, Finding 15, p. 15-16

The May 6, 2026 PWN included the following description of options available if the parents disagreed with the action described in the PWN: " Any disagreement we have regarding any of the above matters may be resolved by our mutual agreement, through mediation or through due process proceedings". (Report, Finding 16, p. 16)

An email dated May 8, 2026 at 5:26 PM written by the mother to the WRHS Assistant Principal, LEA Administration, School Board Members, KSDE, and OCR stated, "We are in receipt of the Notice of Meeting dated May 8, 2026, and we must formally object to its contents. This is our fourth written request for a full IEP meeting, with our first request in writing on April 29, 2026. The district has repeatedly and deliberately denied this request, and we are making it unequivocally clear that the district does not have the legal authority to deny parents a full IEP meeting. This decision is not the district's to make. This pattern of denial is a serious and ongoing violation of IDEA and will not be tolerated.

Violations the District Continues to Commit:

1. Denial of a Full IEP Meeting — 34 CFR § 300.324

The district does not have the unilateral authority to limit the scope of an IEP meeting. An IEP meeting must address all areas of a student's present levels of performance, goals, services, accommodations, and placement. Restricting the meeting to medical information only denies our daughter a comprehensive review of her IEP to which she is entitled under IDEA. The district cannot predetermine the outcome or scope of an IEP meeting. Doing so is a textbook procedural violation of IDEA . . .

3. Failure to Convene a Full IEP Team — 34 CFR § 300.321

The Notice of Meeting does not reflect the full IEP team we have formally requested be present for the entirety of this meeting. We are formally requiring the following individuals be present for the full duration of the meeting, without exception:

1. Special Education Teacher, Math
2. Special Education Teacher, History
3. Special Education Teacher, Reading
4. Speech Therapist
5. Advisory Teacher
6. Physical Therapist
7. Adaptive PE Teacher
8. General Education Teacher, Individual/Team Sports (PE Elective)
9. Special Education Teacher and Case Manager
10. WRHS Lead Nurse
11. WRHS Special Education Department Head
12. Director of Secondary Special Services, USD 437

The attendance of each of these individuals for the full duration of the meeting is non-negotiable. No absences will be accepted. If any of these individuals are not present at the start of the meeting and for its entirety, we will not proceed, the meeting will be rescheduled, and the district's failure to produce the required team members will be immediately documented and submitted as additional evidence in our active KSDE and OCR complaints.

Our Formal Demands:

1. The district must issue a corrected Notice of Meeting that reflects a full IEP meeting — not a limited or partial meeting restricted to medical information
2. The corrected notice must include all twelve individuals listed above as required attendees for the full duration of the meeting
3. If the district refuses to issue a corrected notice, we will interpret that refusal as a continued denial of a full IEP meeting and it will be documented and submitted as additional evidence in our active KSDE and OCR complaints

We remain willing to attend this meeting on either May 15, 2026 or May 18, 2026, provided the above conditions are met. However, we will not attend a meeting that has been predetermined and limited in scope in direct violation of our daughter's rights under IDEA. The district does not have the authority to make this decision for us. We are her parents and we are exercising our rights under federal law". (Report, Finding 22, p. 18-20)

Analysis regarding Issue One.

Issue one is that the district "failed to appropriately respond to the parents' request for an annual IEP Team meeting between April 29 and May 21, 2026."

The Appeal Committee first makes two clarifications in the legal analysis:

First Clarification:

Parents may request that particular school staff members attend a specific IEP meeting. However, the District is not required to comply with that request.

34 C.F.R. 300.321 describes the required members of an IEP team. That description includes (6) to be: "at the discretion of the parent or the agency, other individuals who have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child, including related services personnel as appropriate."

That creates two basic categories of IEP meeting participants: those individuals whose attendance is mandatory but under some circumstances can be excused, and those whose attendance is discretionary (permitted but not required). Thus, 34 C.F.R. 300.321(a)(6) creates an opportunity for each party to "invite" non-required members to an IEP meeting at their discretion. That is only a discretionary option, not a mandatory option. This is clear in OSEP's comments in the Federal special education regulations, where OSEP explains the intent of 34 C.F.R. 300.321(a)(6) to be as follows:

> With regard to the recommendation that the notice state that the parent has a legal right to require an IEP Team member to participate in an IEP Team meeting, it is important to emphasize that it is the public agency that determines the specific personnel to fill the roles for the public agency's required participants at the IEP Team meeting. A parent does not have a legal right to require other members of the IEP

> Team to attend an IEP Team meeting. Therefore, if a parent invites other public agency personnel who are not designated by the LEA to be on the IEP Team, they are not required to attend. (Federal Register, Aug 14, 2006, p. 46674), (Emphasis added).

And

> We do not believe it is necessary to require consent or a written agreement between the parent and the public agency to excuse individuals who are invited to attend IEP Team meetings at the discretion of the parent or the public agency because such individuals are not required members of an IEP Team. We will add new language to Sec. 300.321 to clarify the IEP Team members for whom the requirements regarding excusals apply. (Federal Register, Aug 14, 2006, p. 46675) (Emphasis added).

More recently, OSEP addressed the same question in Letter to Rangel-Diaz, 58 IDELR 78, (OSEP 2011), stating that "the Department has also stated that a parent does not have a legal right to require a public agency employee not invited by the public agency to attend his or her child's IEP Team meeting, even though the individual is considered a member of the child's IEP Team. (See, Analysis, 71 Fed. Reg. 46674 (Aug. 14, 2006)).

Second Clarification:

A school district is not required to hold an IEP meeting upon parent request.

The pertinent regulation is 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b). that regulation says:

(b) Review and revision of IEPs--(1) General. Each public agency must ensure that, subject to paragraphs (b)(2) and (b)(3) of this section, the IEP Team--

(i) Reviews the child's IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved; and

(ii) Revises the IEP, as appropriate, to address--

(A) Any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals described in Sec. 300.320(a)(2), and in the general education curriculum, if appropriate;

(B) The results of any reevaluation conducted under Sec. 300.303;

(C) Information about the child provided to, or by, the parents, as described under Sec. 300.305(a)(2);

(D) The child's anticipated needs; or

(E) Other matters. (Emphasis added with bold print).

To comply with this regulation, a school district must, at minimum, conduct an annual review of an IEP. That is a minimum requirement. School districts should keep in mind that they cannot ignore the fact that an IEP is clearly failing while waiting for an annual review date to come due. See, O'Toole v. Olathe USD 233, 144 F.3d 962, 28 IDELR 177 (10th Cir. 1998). When an IEP is clearly failing, the school district must proceed with a review of the IEP. Whether an IEP is clearly failing is often a matter of judgement where parents and school district personnel can disagree, sometimes resulting in dispute resolution processes such as this complaint. The Appeal Committee will not address this issue because the school district agreed to hold an IEP meeting prior to the annual review date.

With these two clarifications, the Appeal Committee moves to the more narrow issue of whether a district may agree to conduct an IEP meeting but not permit parents to discuss issues the parent wants to discuss at the scheduled meeting.

The above regulation, 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b), requires a school district to (1) conduct an IEP meeting to review an IEP periodically but not less than annually, and when doing so, to ensure that the team "revises the IEP, as appropriate, to address… information provided by the parent." That is a broad requirement that covers almost any parent concern. An IEP team cannot fulfill its obligation to "revise the IEP, as appropriate, to address information provided by the parent when it refuses to allow the parent to present the information the parent wants to address at the meeting. In addition, federal regulation 34 C.F.R.324(a)(1)(ii) states that In developing each child's IEP, the IEP Team must consider-- the concerns of the parents for enhancing the education of their child (emphasis added).

In this complaint, the district has not refused to conduct an IEP meeting. Rather, it made a proposal to conduct an IEP meeting. When a district makes a proposal to conduct an IEP meeting, that IEP meeting must comply with the requirements of both 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b) and 34 C.F.R.324(a)(1)(ii).

By adding language to the PWN limiting the agenda for the meeting to only the topics the district wanted to address, and eliminating topics the parents wanted to address, the district failed to comply with 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b) and 34 C.F.R.324(a)(1)(ii).

The Appeal Committee cautions that the requirements of 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b) and 34 C.F.R.324(a)(1)(ii) apply when a district agrees to conduct an IEP meeting. However, a school district has some discretion as to whether it will conduct an IEP meeting that is not an annual review when it deems the request unreasonable. In that situation, the district must provide a PWN explaining why it deems the request to be unreasonable. That action is subject to review in due process or by using the complaint process.

A district may also set time limits for meetings or schedule IEP meetings only during regular school hours or regular business hours. Although, when schools and parents cannot schedule meetings to accommodate their respective scheduling needs schools must take other steps to ensure parent participation, such as conference telephone calls or videoconferencing. See, Letter to Thomas, 108 LRP 65843, 51 IDELR 224 (OSEP 2008).

Schools also have the right to adjourn the meeting after a reasonable time, even if the parents object. See, e.g., Grapevine-Colleyville Indep. Dist., 21 IDELR 875 (SEA TX 1994).

A district may establish reasonable time limits for individual meeting sessions. See El Paso Indep. Sch. Dist., 34 IDELR 226 (SEA TX 2001) . In another case, an administrative law judge concluded that a California district did not violate the IDEA's parental participation requirements despite ending an IEP meeting early where the parent and advocate had refused to discuss any placement except the one they had requested. Compton Unified Sch. Dist., 115 LRP 15206 (SEA CA 03/27/15).

However, once an IEP meeting is scheduled, the team is required by 34 C.F.R. 300. 320(a)(2) and 34 C.F.R.324(a)(1)(ii) to address information provided by the parent, and the educational the concerns of the parents. In this instance, the district provided a PWN, dated May 6, 2026, proposing to conduct an IEP meeting, and stating that: "The district declines at this time to immediately conduct a complete redevelopment or replacement of the student's current annual IEP prior to the upcoming annual review cycle". (report, Finding 14, p. 15). This proposal to conduct an IEP meeting but, at the same time refusing to address information the parent wants to discuss at the meeting, is inconsistent with the requirements in 34 C.F.R. 300. 320(a)(2) and 34 C.F.R.324(a)(1)(ii). The parent's right to participate in IEP meetings necessarily requires that the parent be permitted to present information the parent wants to address at the meeting. Accordingly, the conclusion in the complaint report on Issue One is reversed.

Conclusion on Issue One – Student A

The school district is out of compliance with the requirement in 34 C.F.R. 300. 320(a)(2) by refusing to address "information provided by the parent" during an IEP meeting.

Remaining Issues

For the remaining issues, the parents' appeal says:

> Please consider this a formal appeal of each of the decisions in this response that do not hold the district accountable to IDEA. The investigator has made excuses for the district allowing them to bypass the requirements in IDEA, and this in itself is illegal. It is the job of the SEA to hold the district accountable to IDEA.

The parents added:

> We would also like it to be considered in the appeal that we documented where the investigator lied about the investigation of this case on Recording, and then she lied and writing to her superiors at KSDE about that lie. We complained to KSDE leadership and requested that the investigator be removed. WE FULLY UNDERSTAND THAT [the investigator] IS COMPASSIONATE TO THE SCHOOL DISTRICTS, LYING, AND HAS A BIAS FOR ALLOWING THEM TO DO IT, BECAUSE SHE HERSELF HAS DEMONSTRATED HER OWN WILLINGNESS TO LIE ON TAPE, AND THEN LIE TO HER LEADERSHIP, BECAUSE THEY KNOW THAT MUCH LIKE THE SCHOOL DISTRICTS, THEY

> WILL NOT HOLD HER ACCOUNTABLE. The appeal committee needs to consider the lying, the lack of organization, the lack of transparency, the lack of our ability to be a part of the evidence and investigation to ensure that our children's evidence was all considered by this investigator, and the refusal of leadership to enforce that issue.

As previously referenced, K.A.R, 91-40-51(f) is clear that "each" notice of appeal "shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." The Appeal Committee is not at liberty to grant an exception to that legal requirement. The appeal process was never contemplated to be a separate investigation. It is a process whereby either party can contest a finding or a conclusion in a complaint report by providing a "detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." The Appeal Committee then reviews the report to reconsider findings or conclusions that are alleged to be incorrect based on the detailed statements of an appellant.

In this report, the investigator addressed five issues regarding Student A, two issues regarding Student B and one issue involving both students. In doing so, the investigator cited 75 separate documents that were reviewed and determined relevant (Report, p. 3 through 7), and made 116 findings of fact over 82 pages of analysis. The parents' appeal makes no reference to any finding of fact in the report nor any reference to a specific conclusion. Under these circumstances, the Appeal Committee has determined that the appeal does not meet the minimum requirements of K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) requiring that each notice of appeal "shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect."

This requirement is a reasonable requirement. It was put into the Kansas regulations for two reasons: (1) to allow parties to appeal what they believe is an incorrect finding or conclusion while still meeting the time requirements of state and federal law for completing complaint investigations and (2) to allow the other party "the detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect," that they have a right to receive and that they will need to appropriately respond to the appeal.

Conclusion

Outside of Issue One for Student A, the parents' appeal does not meet the minimum requirement in K.A.R. 91-40-51(f), which requires that each notice of appeal "shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." For that reason, except for Issue One for Student A, the Appeal Committee sustains the remaining conclusions in the report. Corrective action is required for Issue One for student A.

Corrective Action for Issue One on Student A

The following corrective action is required:

1. No later than August 3, 2026, the LEA shall provide a written statement of assurance that it will comply with the requirement in 34 C.F.R.324(a)(1)(ii) and 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1)(ii)(C) to address information about the child provided to or from the parents at any IEP meeting.
2. No later than October 15, 2026, the LEA shall provide training to all special education administrative staff in USD 437 on the requirements of 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) and inform SETS in writing when that training was completed and the names of the administrative staff members who attended.
3. No later than August 3, 2026, the LEA shall make a written offer to the parents to hold an IEP meeting to discuss any of the concerns of the parents at a mutually agreed upon time, and provide Special Education and Title Services (SETS) with a copy of that written offer.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 21st day of July, 2026.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #231
ON MAY 22, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JULY 6, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, ------- by the complainant, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the complainant as "the Complainant."

The Complaint is against USD #231, Gardner Edgerton Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #231.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 22, 2026, and the 30-day timeline ended on June 21, 2026. The Complaint Investigator received the appointment letter on June 2, 2026.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to fulfill its Child Find obligations by delaying the initiation of an evaluation for special education services for the Student, who exhibited a suspected disability and a persistent need for intensive interventions. K.A.R. 91-40-7(a-c); 34 C.F.R. § 300.111 (a)(c).

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, improperly refused or delayed a parental request for evaluation on January 16, 2026. K.A.R. 91-40-8(a-c), K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2); 34 C.F.R. § 300.301(b).

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to ensure a properly constituted Individualized Education Plan (IEP) team during the April 21, 2026 and April 24, 2026 meetings, when the Special Services Coordinator replaced the campus Principal. K.A.R. 91-40- 1(hh); 34 C.F.R. § 300.321(a)(4).

ISSUE FOUR: Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, predetermined eligibility when Special Services Coordinator 1 repeatedly communicated that the Student did not qualify for special education services prior to the completion of the evaluation discussions and eligibility reviews during the April 21, 2026, and April 24, 2026 meetings. K.S.A. 72-3428(e), K.A.R 91-40-10; 34 C.F.R. § 300.306(a-c).

ISSUE FIVE: Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, denied the student a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE). K.A.R. 91-40-2(a)(d), K.A.R. 91-40-1(z); 34 § 300.101.

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Complainant and the Parents on June 23, 2026. The following LEA staff were interviewed on June 22, 2026: the Special Services Coordinator, School Psychologist 1, School Psychologist 2, the Assistant Principal, the Math Interventionist, the Classroom Teacher, the School Psychologist, and the Principal.

In completing this Investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Complainant and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Prior Written Notice for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, 08/15/25, 01/16/26, 02/05/26, 04/24/26
2. Evaluation Team Report - 3-Year Reevaluation, 09/05/25
3. Prior Written Notice for Identification, 09/05/25, 05/05/26, 05/13/26
4. Meeting Notes, 09/05/25, 05/04/26
5. Progress Monitoring Report, 09/05/25
6. Notice of Meeting, 04/24/26
7. Evaluation Team Report - Initial Evaluation, 05/04/26
8. Letter of Dissent Regarding [the Student], 05/08/26
9. Letter of Concern, 05/04/26
10. [The Student] Staff Meeting Transcript, 04/21/26
11. [The Student] Evaluation Meeting Transcript, 04/21/26

13. [the Student] IEP Meeting Part 2 Transcript, 05/04/26
14. Report Card, 2025-26 School Year
15. Individualized Education Plan, 09/06/24
16. Emails between parties, 12/16/25-05/13/26

Background Information

This Investigation involved a fifth grade student enrolled at a middle school in USD #231. The Student is not currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA. The Student was originally identified in second grade as a student with a health impairment and began services to address reading deficits. The Student was diagnosed with Attention-Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD) in August 2022. The Student currently manages their symptoms with environmental supports. The Student has made "great gains" in reading throughout elementary school and historically responds positively to intervention. The Student does well socially and is a very hard worker who is eager to learn. The Student is described as kind-hearted and has a passion for learning. The Student likes volleyball, cheer/tumbling, and science experiments.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Complainant, the Parents, and staff in the LEA.

1. The Student's September 6, 2024 Individualized Education Plan (IEP) listed an exceptionality of Other Health Impairment (OHI). Considerations included academic concerns, and Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance (PLAAFP) included a diagnosis of ADHD. Parent concerns included reported concerns regarding the Student's "reading comprehension and math." Under the academic need for math, it was reported "the team has determined that the Student has adequate functioning in this area at this time." One goal for reading was included and the accommodations were:
    a. Separate setting (special education classroom) for all in-class, district, and state assessments;
    b. Read aloud in the general education classroom for all testing described above;
    c. Preferential seating in the general education classroom during all core instruction; and
    d. Extended time to complete all tasks and assignments in the general education classroom when any task or assignment was given.
2. August 15, 2025 Prior Written Notice (PWN) for Evaluation or Reevaluation indicated the LEA "proposes to conduct a reevaluation" for the Student and included:
    a. Explanation of why the action was proposed indicated the lawful requirement a student be evaluated at least every three years.
    b. Options considered and rejected were to not evaluate.
    c. Data used included review of records, input from team members, observations, progress on current IEP goals, and assessment data.
    d. Other relevant factors considered were the Student missing class and their placement, schedule, or classes changing as a result of the evaluation.

e. PWN was signed electronically by Parent 2 on August 18, 2025.

3. A September 5, 2025 Evaluation Team Report for the Student's three-year reevaluation included:
    a. Background on the Student's eligibility for OHI, along with a diagnosis of ADHD.
    b. "In addition to [the Student's] special education services, [they] [have] worked with the math specialist throughout elementary school and into [their] fifth grade year. [The Student] utilizes a separate setting for testing and progress monitoring in math and has access to noise cancelling headphones when working independently."
    c. Cognitive assessments:
        i. Woodcock-Johnson of Cognitive Abilities, fourth edition, with scores listed below as "compared to peers [the Student's] age."
            A. General Intellectual Ability - "low average range."
            B. Comprehension Knowledge - "average range."
            C. Fluid Reasoning - "low average range."
            D. Short-term Working Memory - "average range."
            E. Auditory Processing - "average range."
            F. Perceptual Speed - "low range."
            G. Long-term Retrieval - "average range."
            H. Visual Processing - "average range."
        ii. Woodcock-Johnson Tests of Oral Language, fourth edition.
            A. Broad Oral Language- "low average range." and "similar to abilities of peers [the Student's] age."
            B. Oral Expression - "average range." and "similar to abilities of peers [the Student's] age."
            C. Listening Comprehension - "average range" and "similar to abilities of peers [the Student's] age."
    d. Social/Emotional Assessment was the Behavior Assessment System for Children, third edition (BASC-3). The Parent rated the Student's "overall concerning behaviors" and "internal distress" in the "Clinically Significant" range. Additionally, the Parent reported the Student's "Hyperactivity, Depression, Somatization, Attention Problems and Atypicality" in the "Clinically Significant" range.
    e. Behavior noted during observation included the Student being a "great reader," "able to keep up with the [fourth] grade expectations for writing," and no "behavior issues." It was noted the Student "struggles to recall math concepts and facts" and "needs redirection multiple times and reminders as to what process [the Student] is in." The Student was described as "verbal and will tell great stories," along with "gets distracted easily," and "struggle[s] to maintain attention during reading … Struggling to keep up with the class … Difficulty working independently, maintaining attention, following written or verbal instructions, and completing homework."

f. Academic Assessments
    i. FastBridge assessments, which compared the Student's performance to students in the national norm group at the same time during the school year. The Student's scores were:
        A. aReading (broad reading assessment) - "no risk" category.
        B. Curriculum-Based Measurement (CBM)reading (timed reading assessment) - "some risk" category.
        C. AUTOreading (accuracy and rate of reading areas) - "some risk" category.
        D. aMath (broad math assessment) - "some risk" category.
        E. CBMmath (basic math facts) - "some risk" category.
    ii. For Woodcock-Johnson Tests of Achievement, fourth edition, the Student's scores were:
        A. Broad Reading - "skills similar to the abilities of peers."
        B. Basic Reading - "skills similar to the abilities of peers."
        C. Reading Comprehension - "similar to the abilities of peers."
        D. Reading Fluency - "similar to the abilities of peers."
        E. Broad Mathematics - "low range."
        F. Math Calculation Skills - "low range."
        G. Math Problem Solving - "low range."
        H. Broad Written Language - "similar to the abilities of most peers."
        I. Written Expression - "similar to the abilities of most peers."
    iii. Acadiance timed assessments for basic math computation. The Student's scores were:
        A. Fifth Grade level math computation - "slightly below benchmark for fall of [fifth] grade."
        B. Applications, fifth grade - "slightly below benchmark for fall of [fifth] grade."
    iv. In the EasyCBM Fifth Grade Proficient Math Test, the Student solved problems with 57% accuracy, which placed them "within the low average range."

g. Summary and conclusions included the Student was receiving "30 minutes of in-class special education services in reading" and the Student "has worked with a math specialist throughout elementary school and into [their] fifth grade year." The Student's cognitive skills were in the "average to low average range." The Student "continues to make gains in reading and met [their] IEP goals for the fourth grade." The Student's elementary math specialist shared the Student had "difficulty reading math concepts and facts and often needs redirection and reminders of previous learning. [The Student] can have difficulties if the whole group instruction is too fast. [The Student's] current classroom teacher shares that [the Student] is able to understand readings in class and participates in reading discussions." The Student was observed "on-task" 90% of the time.

h. Exceptionalities considered were Specific Learning Disability (SLD) for "math problem solving" and OHI.

i. On September 5, 2025, the report was signed by both of the Parents, the Classroom Teacher, Special Education Teacher 1, the Assistant Principal, a school psychologist, and a counselor.

4. A September 5, 2025 Progress Monitoring Report completed by Special Education Teacher 1 indicated the Student was "able to read a 5th grade leveled text with 100 correct words a minute 2 out of 3 data collection days. The goal was met."

5. September 5, 2025 Meeting Notes indicated all parties who signed the three-year reevaluation report were present. The purpose of the meeting was to "review the reevaluation report for [the Student]." Relevant notes included:

   a. Parent 2 shared a "potential dyslexia diagnosis."

   b. Parent 2 shared the Student was having "lots of frustration" at home and "showing high anxiety" in math. The team discussed the potential of using paper and pencil for math homework.

   c. The Student's reading scores were reviewed and the trend was "upward with showing some risk."

   d. The Student's math scores were "trending upward making progress."

   e. Academic math probes were given to the Student because "one math data was not matching the historical math data" and the Student "was above the cut score for students typical in special education."

   f. The "tiered system where specialized instruction needs to [be] given" was explained to the team and it was noted a special education coordinator "would like for us to have six weeks of interventions before repeating an evaluation."

   g. There was a proposal to "dismiss the reading goal."

   h. There was a suggestion to "bring [the Student] through the [Student Intervention Team] SIT process with math to see if [the Student] is able to make progress. This would give the team six weeks to collect data on math."

   i. "The services that [the Student] is currently receiving would not change because [they] will still continue to receive general education interventions in reading and math. Separate setting accommodations are still available."

   j. Parent 2 shared their concern because the Student had responded to intervention.

   k. The "paperwork as [a] team decision was signed."

6. September 5, 2025 PWN for Identification indicated the LEA decided the Student was not eligible for special education services and proposed exiting the Student from services because their needs would "continue to be met in the general education setting through tier 2 supports. [The Student] will continue tiered reading and math support and receive additional math support through the math interventionist. Data will be gathered by the general education team and reviewed regularly by the [SIT] to monitor [the Student's] progress."
    a. Explanation of why the action was proposed was the Student made "great gains" in reading, special education services had been reduced, and "while [the Student's] math skills are in the low average to low range, data supports that [they] [are] making progress in [their] math skills with tier 2 supports."
    b. Options considered and rejected were special education services to address math, but "through historical data that [the Student] is making appropriate gains in [their] math skills through tier 2 interventions and the general education classroom is [the Student's] least restrictive environment."
    c. Data used included a review of existing records, parent and teacher interviews, classroom observations, and assessment results included on the three-year evaluation report.
    d. Other relevant factors considered were the Student "may stop making appropriate progress in the general education setting and may require more intensive supports later in [their] academic career."
    e. PWN was signed electronically by Parent 2 on September 19, 2025.
7. In a December 16, 2025 email to the Principal, Parent 2 stated, "I was essentially forced into having [the Student's] IEP removed." They explained the staff were aware the Student was struggling in math, but exited the Student without an offer to modify the IEP to include math. "I kept being told in previous years (and this year) that [the Student's] abysmal math scores still were not low enough to qualify [them] for an IEP in Math and that [they] would just continue to be in 'tier' and be 'monitored.'" Parent 2 indicated they expected the evaluation "used to remove [the Student] from [their] IEP, would be reassessed to have [the Student's] IEP reimplemented and modified with a math goal."
    a. The Principal replied the same day and indicated they would reach out to a school psychologist and special education coordinator to "review the information shared, including [the Student's] recent assessment results and prior evaluation data."
8. In a December 17, 2025 email to the Principal, the Assistant Principal, and School Psychologist 1 and 2, Special Services Coordinator 1 indicated they spoke with Parent 2 and reported, "after reviewing the data, we would either send consent for an initial evaluation or send a PWN stating that we would not be opening consent for evaluation based on the data." The Assistant Principal replied the same day clarifying that at the IEP meeting, they let Parent 2 know the Student would be in the SIT process. They confirmed the Student was discussed at SIT meetings on October 27 and November 18, 2025.

9. In a December 17, 2025 email exchange between the Principal, the Assistant Principal, School Psychologist 2, and Special Education Teacher 1, the Student's assessment scores and math grades were discussed. School Psychologist 2 stated, "[The Student] did okay in math calculation, but math problem solving (application) was more difficult for [them] ([the Student] scored a 79). [The Student] was also lower in the fluency portions (which is pretty typical of kiddos with ADHD, since their processing is slower). … The real question isn't on prong one (we know [the Student] has an exceptionality), it would be prong two (is there a need for specialized instruction to progress in the curriculum). We would look at all assessments/work in the classroom, not just [the Student's] FastBridge scores (which I know is what [Parent 2's] concern is at this point)." Special Education Teacher 1 noted the Student "improved scores on the screener that the [Math Interventionist] gave and was in the average group for growth on the forefront math screener."
10. In a January 14, 2026 email exchange with the Principal, Parent 1 indicated Special Services Coordinator 1 spoke with Parent 2 and clarified the Student was not receiving special education services any longer, "so we have to work with gen[eral] ed[ucation]. So essentially this is not [Special Services Coordinator 1's] problem, its [sic] now gen[eral] ed[ucation]'s problem."
11. January 16, 2026 PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation indicated the LEA "refuses to conduct an initial evaluation" and included:
    a. An explanation of why the action was refused was that the team would "implement general education interventions (GEI) to address concerns and collect data prior to moving forward with a special education evaluation. [The Student] has shown the ability to make progress with GEI and intervention."
    b. Options considered were a special education evaluation, which was rejected, and GEI would continue because the Student has "indicated growth."
    c. Data used included a parent request for evaluation, district-wide assessments, SIT input, progress monitoring on current interventions, observations, present levels, and a review of records.
    d. Other relevant factors considered were using GEI to keep the Student in the Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) and, "The team will reconvene following the next intervention cycle to discuss progress and review [the Student's] performance to determine if adequate progress has been made."
12. A transcript from a February 5, 2026 voice-recorded meeting regarding the Student included:
    a. Meeting attendees were the Principal, the Assistant Principal, the Math Interventionist, the Classroom Teacher, the Complainant, and Parent 2.

b. The Classroom Teacher indicated they had not been making the Student do the online math course the rest of the class had been doing "because it was frustrating [the Student] so much" due to how difficult it was.

c. The Math Interventionist described the tier three intervention the Student was receiving as "four days a week for 30 minutes" outside of the classroom. They indicated they were "very concerned" because the Student was not retaining information and stated the Student was "struggling more than anyone with [their] math facts."

d. The Classroom Teacher and the Math Interventionist explained the Student was missing math class to do the pull out intervention time, but was not responsible for work missing in the math class, so received a participation grade for that work.

e. The Classroom Teacher shared the Student "doesn't recall what was taught in previous lessons. I mean even a week from a week ago, [the Student] won't recall what was taught." The Classroom Teacher also noted the Student's challenges were not due to an engagement or participation issue.

f. The Math Interventionist stated, "I think that's why we started this second tier three group, so that [the Student] would kind of be getting double dipped when we're in Tier cycles. So [they] would be getting two math groups a day, except for one day a week. That was kind of our goal with this. I don't think we've been in it long enough to see if it's making a huge impact. I think we probably need eight weeks of this to see [whether] [the Student] [is] retaining and did it make a difference?" When the Complainant asked what was different now compared to the last semester, the Math Interventionist replied, "We've added on an additional 30 minutes that [the Student's] getting pull out." The Classroom Teacher added, "This one's a more intensive, smaller group, … the math strugglers" and the Principal clarified tier three intervention was the highest level of support and intervention for general education students.

g. The Math Interventionist clarified they believed the Student needed support in addition to what they were receiving. The Assistant Principal added the Student was continually discussed in SIT meetings, which has led to the "second tier three intervention."

13. In a February 5, 2026 email to the Special Education Director, with the Complainant, Parent 1, and the Principal copied, Parent 2 "formally request[ed] a review of existing data and, based on that review, the initiation of an initial evaluation to determine eligibility for special education and related services. … If the review of existing data indicates that additional evaluation is necessary, I am prepared to review and sign consent immediately so required evaluation timelines may begin without delay." They noted if the LEA were to decline the evaluation, they expected PWN.
14. February 5, 2026 PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation indicated the LEA "proposes to conduct an initial evaluation" for the Student and included:

a. Information to be collected with existing data in seven categories and new data in academic performance and parent input, teacher input, and classroom observations.
b. Explanation of why the action was proposed was an evaluation focused on math, "as requested by the parent."
c. Options considered and rejected were "Continuing with current [GEI] [Response To Intervention/Multi-tiered Systems of Support] (RTI/ MTSS) without a formal evaluation. While interventions have been provided and ongoing, additional information is needed to determine the area of potential disability."
d. Description of data indicated, "This action is being proposed in response to a formal request from the [P]arent[s] on [February 5, 2026]. The [P]arent[s] expressed concerns regarding the [S]tudent's difficulty with Math."
e. Other relevant factors considered were, "The team collaborated approximately four weeks ago to review [the Student's] existing data. This review included previous evaluation data, current grades, and recent district-wide assessments. Upon thorough review of this information, the team determined that while current data shows a struggle in math, it is not comprehensive enough to definitively determine a specific need for Specially Designed Instruction (SDI). To ensure a "full and individual" evaluation, the team determined that new, standardized data points are required. This proposal aligns with the [P]arents' request to investigate these gaps further to ensure the [S]tudent's educational needs are being met in the [LRE]."
f. PWN was signed electronically by Parent 2 on February 6, 2026.

15. In a February 11, 2026 email to Parent 2, the Special Education Director indicated the Parent's request for an evaluation was "honored with the [c]onsent being sent and signed" and the team would move forward with an evaluation of new and existing data. They cited a 60-day timeline and indicated the IEP team would meet to discuss results. Parent 2 replied the same day inquiring about the timeline and the Special Education Director replied the team would "ensure their evaluation is completed within the 60 school days" and to follow up with the building team for more information.
16. In an April 2, 2026 email to Parent 2, with Parent 1, the Complainant, Special Services Coordinator 1, the Special Education Director, the Classroom Teacher, the Principal, and School Psychologist 2 copied, School Psychologist 1 indicated they completed the standardized math assessments, were collecting more data, and wanted to wait for the tiered intervention cycle to be complete to "ensure we have a more comprehensive assessment of skills using data from multiple sources."
17. April 21, 2026 meeting notes indicated:
    a. Meeting participants were the Principal, Special Services Coordinator 1, the Classroom Teacher, the Math Interventionist, School Psychologists 1 and 2, Special Education Teacher 1, the Complainant, and both of the Parents.

b. A summary of assessments "spanning from 2022-2025" were discussed and "discrepancies were shared due to several factors."
c. The Student's diagnosis was documented as ADHD, combined presentation, and dyslexia.
d. Parent input included their goal for the Student to be on grade level in reading and math.
e. The Classroom Teacher and the Math Interventionist provided input and stated the Student needed "one on one attention" and "did make growth from the beginning of the tier cycle." The Math Interventionist added the Student "need[s] support in clearly articulating [their] thinking independently."
f. The meeting concluded and the team set a time to "reconvene" on April 24, 2026.

18. The April 21, 2026 meeting transcript included:
    a. School Psychologist 1 expressed there were a few tests the Student measured in the "low to low average range" for processing speed and the "low average range" for "long term retrieval." They also explained short term memory "varied a little bit," depending on the test, and cited the reasons for the discrepancies as "a variation that can occur around, like a true score, distraction, medication, fatigue, nerves, confusing questions. … Some different subtests measure different components of the process, so for the long-term retrieval, for example, the [Kaufman Assessment Battery for Children, Second Edition] KABC has the subtests that more involve associative learning, and then on the [Woodcock-Johnson], they administer the [Story Recall subtest], which is more meaningful memory, so that can kind of explain the discrepancy."
    b. The Math Interventionist indicated the Student would sit in math class "and be confused" because they won't ask questions during the whole group instruction, but the Student was "really good in a small group," which is what contributed to "a lot of growth on those three [math] standards that we noticed for last semester."
    c. Special Education Teacher 1 stated during a fifth grade proficient math assessment, where data showed the Student had "all the skills that [they] need by the end of the day, based on the standards," they prompted the Student 13 times and "read aloud 15 of 30 questions." When Parent 2 asked about the Student being "read half the questions" and prompted "13 times," Special Education Teacher 1 responded "that's an accommodation I would give to any kid."
19. April 24, 2026 meeting notes indicated:
    a. Meeting participants were the Principal, Special Services Coordinator 1, the Classroom Teacher, the Math Interventionist, School Psychologists 1 and 2, Special Education Teacher 1, the Complainant, and both of the Parents.
    b. Classroom observation notes were shared, along with on-task behavior data.

c. Questions and commentary were noted:
    i. Parent 2 mentioned the Student had not shown growth on Fastbridge scores and the Student's dyslexia "affects [their] brain."
    ii. The Complainant stated the Student needed a math goal and "brought up the history of intervention and lack of retention." They also indicated the Student needed "Extended time, wait time, [and] repetition."
    iii. The Math Interventionist explained the Student was "struggling in math" and was not understanding grade level material.
    iv. Special Services Coordinator 1 referenced the difference between SDI and the tiered supports the Student was receiving.
d. The meeting was "paused" to collect BASC scores and "do additional testing."

20. The April 24, 2026 meeting transcript included:
    a. When asked by the Complainant what the LEA was recommending, Special Services Coordinator 1 stated this was a "collaborative conversation when we're looking at eligibility indicators." They explained the data did not support eligibility under SLD, but "we potentially could look at an OHI qualification, but then that would be prong one. Prong two would be, what is the need for [SDI]? And I don't know that we have enough data to determine that [the Student] does need [SDI] in the area of math. So then that would mean that [the Student] may or may not qualify for the indicator of OHI. Those are initial thoughts based on the evaluation. This is where it comes up to the team to have a discussion about what the eval[uation] reports says, and what do we need to do to go from there. … I think when we're looking at OHI, we're looking at the impact of how [the Student's] ADHD impacts [their] ability to access [their] curriculum. And I think that's where we have to look at, is there potential for a need for [SDI] in that area?"
    b. Special Services Coordinator 1 indicated the Student's challenge was not "the math itself," but it was "the ability of the brain and how it's able to process that information because of the ADHD." They added, "We can make a case for OHI, dependent on what is the [SDI] needed."
    c. Parent 2 stated, "My goal for [the Student] is [for them] to be able to gain the skill set where [they] [do] not need … a teacher to read 15 out of 30 questions to [them] [in order] for [the Student] to be able to to score a 50% on it or be in the 52nd percentile." An unknown speaker indicated many of the items Parent 2 was requesting for this goal "could be accommodations in a general classroom."
    d. The Complainant clarified "the eligibility does not drive the services or supports" and the Student needed a math goal. Special Services Coordinator 1 countered there was "contradictory data that supports [the Student] [was] operating on a fifth grade [level]," and that was "not a math deficit. That's a deficit in the area of [the Student's] ability to process information, which is what the [SDI] would be around." The Math Interventionist declared their disagreement and shared the Student was missing second and third grade math standards and they observed the Student struggling with math on a regular basis.

e. The Complainant made the argument that the LEA's documentation describes intensive intervention and growth, yet the Student was continuing below mastery level. An unknown speaker countered, "Intervention does not equal [SDI], but it is something that we offer in the gen[eral] ed[ucation] space, because all kids have different levels of needs and different levels of accessibility." They added the intervention was available to "students that just need that extra level of tiered support throughout," and "that doesn't necessarily mean that they have a need for [SDI]."

f. The Complainant shared their belief the Student had been receiving SDI all year. "Call it what you want. But, whenever you're pulling a student 30 minutes out of [their] math class every day except Wednesday … . Every day, [the Student] is being pulled and getting Tiered support. On top of that, [the Student] is not being exposed to on grade-level [math] [and] [the Student] is getting a participation grade in math. You are using RTI as a gate, and that is very problematic."

g. Special Services Coordinator 1 stated, "I think we're to the point we can agree that we're going to staff-in under OHI in the area of executive functioning, we can agree with that. I think what we need to understand is [that] all of the standardized testing is in alignment [and] that [they] [do] not have an area of deficit in the area of math based on the data." They also stated, "So based on this conversation, we will send a[n] evaluation signature page to be signed. It sounds like we have determined that [the Student] meets prong one and two of OHI, and that we will need a schedule within the next 10 days, an IEP to be drafted in the area of concern."

21. April 24, 2026 PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation indicated the LEA "proposes to conduct an initial evaluation" for the Student and included:

    a. Information to be collected with existing data in seven categories and new data in "Social/Emotional Status/behavioral Status," academic performance and parent input, teacher input, and classroom observations.

    b. Explanation of why the action was proposed was an evaluation focused on math, "as requested by the parent." It was noted, "Following an eligibility meeting held on [April 24, 2026], the team will collect additional data in the area of social/emotional status before reconvening on [May 4, 2026]."

    c. Options considered and rejected were, "Continuing with current [GEI] (RTI/MTSS) without a formal evaluation. While interventions have been provided and ongoing, additional information is needed to determine the area of potential disability."

    d. Description of data indicated, "This action is being proposed in response to a formal request from the [P]arent[s] on [February 5, 2026]. The [P]arent[s] expressed concerns regarding the [S]tudent's difficulty with Math."

e. Other relevant factors considered were, "The team collaborated approximately four weeks ago to review [the Student's] existing data. This review included previous evaluation data, current grades, and recent district-wide assessments. Upon thorough review of this information, the team determined that while current data shows a struggle in math, it is not comprehensive enough to definitively determine a specific need for [SDI]. To ensure a 'full and individual' evaluation, the team determined that new, standardized data points are required. This proposal aligns with the [P]arents' request to investigate these gaps further to ensure the [S]tudent's educational needs are being met in the [LRE]."

f. PWN was signed electronically by Parent 2 on April 27, 2026.

22. In an April 29, 2026 email to Special Services Coordinator 1 and School Psychologists 1 and 2, Special Education Teacher 1 shared their observation results and stated, "I'm at a loss on proposed/draft goal and services. Given the info." School Psychologist 2 replied the same day stating, "Task initiation was the only thing I could think of. [The Student's] [Behavior Rating Inventory of Executive Function] BRIEF isn't even clinically elevated. .. mostly within normal with only a couple mildly. I have no idea what functional goal we could even propose." They provided an example of a goal possibility for working memory and added an idea generated by Artificial Intelligence (A.I.) and cited as such. Special Services Coordinator 1 was included in this reply and stated, "Please [h]old. I will be speaking with someone and getting back to you regarding next steps."

    a. On April 30, 2026, School Psychologist 2 replied to all, asked Special Services Coordinator 1 for their advice, and stated, "I do think that the suggested goal and objectives would require [the Student] to do more than typical peers and be potentially more confusing. But, I have no [i]dea what to suggest given [the Student's] observations and the feedback that we received."

23. A May 4, 2026 Evaluation Team Report for an initial evaluation of the Student included multiple duplicate items from the September 5, 2025 three-year reevaluation report. Additionally, the report included:

    a. The referral was made by the Parents on February 5, 2026 "due to concerns in the area of mathematics."

    b. A note the Student's previous IEP addressed SDI for reading, that the Student was exited from IEP services on September 5, 2025, and "the team determined that [the Student] was making progress in math with tier 2 support."

    c. A summary of GEI showed six cycles of work with the Math Interventionist, four times per week, from September 2, 2025 to April 7, 2026. It was noted there were 64 days of tier 2 intervention. Starting January 15, 2026, the Student was in a tier 3 math group that met for 25 minutes, four days per week.

    d. It was noted the Student received 30 minutes of special education support in the general education classroom, five days per week, as part of their September 4, 2024 to September 5, 2025 IEP. IEP accommodations included "separate setting for assessments, read aloud, preferential seating, and extended time to complete all tasks and assignments."

e. The Student had a diagnosis of "ADHD, Combined Presentation" from August 2022 and a diagnosis of dyslexia from February 2023.

f. The Student's BRIEF-2 had both the Classroom Teacher and the Math Interventionist rate the Student in 11 areas. All were rated by both staff as "within normal limits," "potentially elevated," or "mildly elevated," except the Math Interventionist rated the Student as "clinically elevated" for "working memory."

g. The Math Interventionist noted, "[The Student] is currently struggling in math, particularly with understanding place value, which is a critical foundation for more advanced concepts in middle school."

h. The Student's KeyMath-3 scores indicated "Basic Concepts," "Operations," and "Applications" were all in the "average range."

i. Easy CBM scores indicated on February 19, 2026 the Student was in the "some risk" category, and "spring" scores indicated the Student was in the "benchmark" category. 'This score places [the Student] in the 'Some Risk' category for Winter and Spring."

j. A Proficient Math assessment was given to the Student on April 6, 2026. The Student scored in the "benchmark" category. "To support access to the assessment, staff read aloud 15 of the 30 questions at the Student's request and/or when [the Student] appeared to have difficulty maintaining attention to the written task. … Reading the question aloud appeared to improve [the Student's] focus and ability to respond."

k. For Concepts and Applications, the Student's scores were "slightly below benchmark" in August 2025, they were "above benchmark" in February 2026, and then were "below benchmark" in April 2026.

l. On April 29, 2026 there were two "structured classroom observations" and the Student was observed to be "on-task" for 93.3% of the recorded intervals.

m. Summary and Conclusion indicated:

    i. "Helpful strategies may include extended time on tests and assignments, wait time for verbal responses, and emphasizing quality over speed/volume. … Reading scores are consistently falling in the average to low average range. Math scores vary, with scores on the Woodcock-Johnson Achievement falling in the low range, and scores on the KeyMath-3 falling in the average range." This was explained by "summer slide," test content, pace of test-taking, and the statement, "[The Student] has also been consistently receiving tier 2 and tier 3 math interventions throughout 5th grade."

    ii. "Based on the results of the evaluation, [the Student] does not demonstrate a need for [SDI]."

n. Under Eligibility, the Student's ADHD met the criteria for the OHI exceptionality, though it was documented the Student did not demonstrate the need for SDI.

o. Team Staffing Participants included signatures dated September 5, 2025 from both of the Parents, Special Education Teacher 1, the Principal, and the Math Interventionist. Signatures dated September 4, 2025 were included from the Classroom Teacher, Special Services Coordinator 1 and 2, School Psychologists 1 and 2, the Complainant, and Special Education Teacher 2.

24. May 4, 2026 meeting notes indicated:

a. Meeting participants were the Principal, Special Services Coordinator 1 and 2, the Classroom Teacher, the Math Interventionist, School Psychologists 1 and 2, Special Education Teacher 2, the Complainant, and both of the Parents.

b. The team reviewed the BASC scores.

c. The Complainant asked what "on-task behavior" looked like.

d. The Complainant stated, "we are not going to do this again" and noted the team had come to an agreement at the last meeting.

e. "The meeting concluded with the Student not qualifying for special education."

f. It was noted Special Services Coordinator 1 would present the option of an Independent Education Evaluation (IEE) to the Parents.

25. The May 4, 2026 meeting transcript included:

a. A review of the existing data and new data from the May 4, 2026 evaluation report.

b. Special Services Coordinator 1 stated the new data "brings to light less clinically significant scores than what we were maybe thinking might be there. We're really looking at clinically significant areas as being areas that need more intervention and [SDI]. … That [SDI] piece is the piece that is the current question when we were looking at this data and trying to come up with an appropriate, either executive functioning goal, or something along those lines, it was really feeling like a stretch because the new data really does not support that need. We know that prong one, that ADHD piece, is there, but that need for [SDI] regarding the new information is not really supported. And then the current observations in the classroom that we have that [the Student] is able to be on task 97% and 98% of the time relative to peers. Again, [this] isn't supporting that leaving the classroom would be a [LRE]."

c. The Complainant indicated the Student had been provided tiered interventions for "five years" and by pulling the Student from math class for "the majority" of the 2025-26 school year, that was "of itself SDI." They indicated the Student took a third grade exit exam and scored 60% and "that tells me [the Student] is two grade levels behind."

d. Parent 2, the Math Interventionist, and the Classroom Teacher both clearly indicated they were "not okay with" the Student testing low in third, fourth, and fifth grade levels and they were in support of the Student having an IEP.

e. Special Services Coordinator 1, serving as the role of "LEA" in this meeting, stated, "Based on the current data, [the Student] is a student that doesn't need [SDI] from special education. … [The Student] meets prong one, OHI, but [they] [do] not meet prong two."

f. Parent 2 polled some of the meeting attendees and Special Services Coordinator 2, Special Education Teacher 2, and School Psychologist 2 indicated they did not believe the Student met the criteria for special education.

26. In a May 4, 2026 letter, addressed "to whom it may concern," the Classroom Teacher shared their "thoughts and concerns regarding the decision" about the Student's "IEP placement." The Classroom Teacher expressed the Student "does not retain any of what has been taught over time. … [The Student] has been pulled since January [2026] for 30 minutes, 4 days a week, for Tier 3 math support[,] while only getting a participation grade for math." The Classroom Teacher noted "every math test" in the general education setting was taken using notes and the Student's scores were a "D or below," before making corrections with the Classroom Teacher's help. "I feel we are doing a huge disservice to this child by letting [them] slip through the cracks, by not giving [them] an IEP." They also noted this was their opinion throughout the entirety of the process.

27. May 5, 2026 PWN for Identification indicated the LEA decided the Student was not eligible for special education services because they did not meet the criteria as a child with an exceptionality and special education services were not necessary to enable the Student to receive educational benefits. "Based on the results of the evaluation, [the Student] does not have a need for special education service in order to adequately access and progress in the general education curriculum."

    a. Explanation of why the action was proposed was, "based on the results of the evaluation," the Student did not need SDI "at this time," and "general education accommodations" were recommended to "best meet" the Student's needs.

    b. Options considered and "refused" were initiation of special education, but the Student did "not meet the criteria for services under SLD and OHI," the Student's needs could be met through GEI, and the Student "should be served" in the LRE, which "results indicate" was general education.

    c. Data used included present levels, input from the SIT, observations, standardized cognitive and achievement testing, district testing, teacher input, parent input, and data collected by math intervention.

    d. Other relevant factors considered were the Student would be served in their LRE and the team would "continue to monitor [the Student's] progress to ensure growth and enrichment needs" would be addressed in general education.

28. In a May 5, 2026 email to Special Services Coordinator 1, the Complainant requested "clarification and correction" of PWN regarding:

    a. Specific data supporting the determination;

b. An explanation of educational need and adverse impact on the Student, which the Complainant claimed did not address the Student's suspected disability;
c. An analysis of rate of progress;
d. A clarification of the standard used to deny eligibility;
e. The intervention data and the Student's response;
f. Options considered and rejected;
g. The consideration of parent input; and
h. The harmful effects of the denial of services.
i. The Complainant followed up in a May 8, 2026 email claiming they had not received a response and requesting a response to their inquiry.

29. In a May 8, 2026 letter of dissent regarding the Student, the Math Interventionist documented their dissent regarding the May 4, 2026 decision regarding SDI for math. "I disagree with this decision based on my professional analysis of formative and summative assessments during [the Student's] time in my classroom. … I believe denying support at this stage will significantly hinder [the Student's] ability to access grade-level standards and may lead to further regression. … [The Student] has not shown significant progress, and frequently needs one-on-one support from myself or the classroom teacher. I believe [the Student] should have a math goal focusing on foundational skills [they are] missing from third and fourth grade."
30. In a May 5, 2026 email to School Psychologist 1, the Principal stated, "I respectfully dissent from the team's eligibility decision for [the Student]. Despite extensive Tier 2 and Tier 3 interventions, [the Student] continues to demonstrate difficulty in math, along with documented weaknesses in processing speed, working memory, and executive functioning that impact [their] ability to access grade-level content. Based on this data, I believe [the Student] requires [SDI]."
31. May 13, 2026 PWN for Identification indicated the LEA decided the Student was not eligible for special education services because they did not meet the criteria as a child with an exceptionality and special education services were not necessary to enable the Student to receive educational benefits. The action proposed was "initial eligibility for special education."
    a. Explanation of why the action was proposed indicated the Student was not eligible for SDI "at this time." The team considered SLD in the area of mathematics problem-solving and OHI. It was cited the KeyMath-3 "allows for more thorough assessment" and was "more representative of [the Student's] abilities," as compared to the Woodcock-Johnson tests. Acadiance and EasyCBM scores were also cited. "[The Student] has been consistently receiving tier 2 and tier 3 math interventions. [The Student's] math grades also reflect that [they are] making progress in the general education curriculum. [The Student's] math grades for the first three quarters were 89.5%, 86.35%, and 88.19% and [their] average unit test score is 81%." To account for the Student's OHI, it was explained the Student "may work at a slower pace compared to [their] nondisabled peers, but [the Student] does not require [SDI] to access the general education curriculum." The Student's on task behavior observations were also cited.

b. Options considered and "refused" were qualifying the Student in the area of SLD for mathematics problem-solving, "but it was ultimately determined" the Student did not qualify for SDI. Also considered and refused was qualifying the Student under OHI, but the Student "did not demonstrate the limited strength, vitality, and alertness required to qualify" because the Student was observed on task in the classroom.

c. Data used included all of the assessments listed in the evaluation report and parent input, SIT input, math interventionist data, classroom and interventionist observations, and grades.

d. Other relevant factors considered were the Student was receiving tiered interventions and the team would continue to monitor the Student's progress "to ensure growth in the general education curriculum."

32. The Student's math grades for the 2025-26 school year were an "A-" in quarter one, a "B" in quarter two, and a "B+" in quarters three and four.

33. On May 22, 2026 the Parent filed the Complaint.

Complainant Interview

34. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Complainant shared they served as the advocate for the Parents and entered the process during the final week of January 2026. The Complainant stated Parent 2 sought their guidance because "[Parent 2] told me [Parent 2] doesn't feel like [they're] being heard and that nobody is listening to [them]."

35. The Complainant explained the evaluation and eligibility meetings progressed across three dates in April and May of 2026. They shared after the discussion on April 21, 2026, the team reconvened on April 24, 2026, where the Complainant recalled an agreement that the Student "was eligible under OHI, ADHD" and to reconvene to plan and develop an IEP within ten days while the School collected additional data through observation and teacher surveys. However, at the May 4, 2026 meeting, the Complainant observed a shift in the LEA's roster, "we had people who hadn't been at the other meetings," and indicated a new coordinator, special education teacher, and another psychologist were in attendance. The Complainant stated the new data was instead "used to deny [the Student]" eligibility, reversing the prior consensus. After discussion around the Math Interventionist's scores, they noted Special Services Coordinator 1 stated, "Well, I don't think [the Student] needs especially [sic] design[ed] instruction." The Complainant added it was at this meeting they learned "[the Student] was being pulled out of math, [they] had an MTSS class, but [the Student] was also being pulled out of class 30 minutes of math to go over work on remedial work."

36. When asked about the April 24, 2026 meeting transcript regarding the discrepancy model, the Complainant explained their comments referred to the pre-2004 IDEA framework that required a student's scores to fall a specific number of standard deviations below the norm. The Complainant shared that LEA personnel had asserted the Student needed to score below an 8% average cutoff to qualify for services. The Complainant countered that strict numerical cutoffs were no longer utilized under current regulatory pathways, noting the LEA's stance left them with the impression that the staff felt the Student was "struggling, but [the Student's] not struggling enough."

Parent 1 and Parent 2 Interview

37. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, Parent 2 reported feeling misled during the September 2025 meeting when the LEA exited the Student from their IEP based on the completion of reading goals, adding, "That was their whole reason for dismissal." Parent 2 explained the LEA disregarded math deficits below the tenth percentile, instead promising to monitor the Student's math progress through general education channels until November 2025.
38. When asked about tier two supports, Parent 2 shared the Student had a history of receiving "intensive one-on-one work for math in elementary school" despite not having IEP support for math. Following the Student's special education dismissal, Parent 2 noted that School personnel did not clarify "what the actual supports were" and instead offered to "just keep an eye on" the Student through progress monitoring. Parent 2 added that the LEA provided no defined tracking goals, explaining that the tier two plan was described as "just making sure [the Student] wouldn't fall through the cracks essentially."
39. Parent 2 confirmed the Student received a formal dyslexia diagnosis in 2023 and immediately shared the physician's email and medical report with the LEA. When School Psychologist 1 later noted in January 2026 that the documentation was missing from the Student's official file, Parent 2 located and forwarded the email trail with the diagnosis to School Psychologist 1.
40. Parent 2 clarified that a bullet point in the September 5, 2025 meeting notes indicating they were concerned because the Student had "responded to intervention" was an administrative error. They explained their concern was the Student had not responded to the interventions, noting there would be no reason to express concern if the Student had successfully made progress and "just assumed that that was a typo."
41. Parent 2 recalled a January 2026 conversation with Special Services Coordinator 1. They perceived Special Services Coordinator 1 deflected the Student's math difficulties by asserting, "This sounds like a gen[eral] ed[ucation] problem." Parent 2 questioned this by pointing out the guidance received from the Classroom Teacher, and that the Math Interventionist had shared general education "resources are no longer helping [the Student]" and informing them "there are serious concerns."
42. When asked about the behavior rating scale discrepancy, Parent 2 explained the discrepancy occurred because the Student felt more comfortable expressing frustration at home when routines changed, whereas the School environment was highly regulated. Parent 2 shared they were not surprised by the variance and validated the classroom observations submitted by the Classroom Teacher, noting the Student was well-behaved at School.

43. Parent 2 shared at the conclusion of the May 4, 2026 IEP meeting, Special Services Coordinator 1 presented a "brief" option of an IEE after the agreement to "implement an IEP" at the April 24, 2026 meeting. They stated, "So quite blindsided on May 4th [2026] when they were like, 'Never mind, we're not going to implement an IEP based off this new data' … it was a brief at the end of the meeting, they were like, 'You guys can do an IEE.'" Parent 2 and the Complainant opted to evaluate next steps first, and expressed skepticism that an IEE would resolve the dispute since the LEA was legally required only to consider outside findings rather than implement them.
44. Parent 1 shared the LEA's evaluation process has "destroyed [the Student's] confidence," observing that the Student frequently experienced intense frustration with homework and stated, "I don't want to learn differently. I want to learn like everybody else." Parent 2 added the Student's "love for learning … is so quickly slipping away" as the Student had become more aware of the widening academic gap between them and their peers.
    a. According to the Parents, this lack of targeted support caused the Student to internalize their struggles, transitioning from a healthy understanding of their learning differences to repeatedly stating, "I'm dumb." Parent 2 stated the Student's short-term memory and executive functioning deficits created a "cognitive load of it all and it's overwhelming for [the Student]."
45. Parent 2 explained the LEA took the Student's math grades out of context by reporting an 80% proficiency level that was achieved only through one-on-one test corrections with a teacher and one-on-one support to complete. They explained the Student had actually failed every math assessment prior to receiving those individual accommodations and was frequently awarded participation grades rather than grades reflecting independent mastery. They added, "I feel like the [S]chool's just pushing [the Student] along because [they] are a good kid."

Special Services Coordinator 1 Interview

46. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, Special Services Coordinator 1 stated the Parent requested a math evaluation and sought to reactivate a previous IEP. Special Services Coordinator 1 explained that because the Student had already been dismissed from special education services, the team could not simply reinstate the program without undergoing a formal evaluation process to analyze current data. When questioned about a passage in the email dated January 20, 2026 stating a legal requirement to first document GEI through the SIT process, Special Services Coordinator 1 noted they were "giving" Parent 2 "PWN to refuse [the Student's] evaluation." They further clarified their mindset focused on requiring "data to show or suspected of a suspected disability," and asserted the documentation supplied by the general education staff at that time failed to show a disability. They added that the team required documentation through the SIT process or "other data" to show the Student had a disability.

47. In the periods leading up to and between the meetings on April 24, 2026 and early May 2026, Special Services Coordinator 1 explained they engaged in discussions with staff regarding the Student's eligibility and the potential implementation of SDI for math. Their conversations centered around reviewing general and special education data points and "outlier" data, as well as reviewing the criteria for SLD and OHI. They shared at the meeting on May 4, 2026, a shift in team members occurred because the original special education teacher was unavailable, requiring another special education teacher to attend in their place. Special Services Coordinator 1 stated that, despite this role substitution, the participants still met all legal requirements for an IEP team.
48. When asked about the discussion that led to deciding to gather more data rather than moving forward with an IEP goal, Special Services Coordinator 1 explained at the conclusion of the April 24, 2026 meeting, the team discussed drafting an IEP with an executive functioning goal. They noted that because the previous September evaluation lacked executive functioning metrics, the Complainant requested the application of a BRIEF and a BASC, which was interpreted during the third meeting in May 2026. They explained when the BASC and BRIEF assessments were reviewed, the data "didn't really show an elevated level to look at a disability" or demonstrate an impact that warranted SDI.
49. When asked about the input from the Classroom Teacher, the Math Interventionist, and the Principal, Special Services Coordinator 1 explained these team members all communicated opposing opinions and noted their dissent from the final determination of the IEP meeting. They acknowledged this was a "very passionate" team that wrestled with conflicting data points, noting that while the Student had deficits in working memory and a low processing speed, the data did not meet the criteria for special education eligibility. Special Services Coordinator 1 further noted that because the Parents disagreed with the finding of ineligibility, the LEA offered the Parents the option of an IEE, which the Parents had not yet responded to at the time of the interview.
50. When asked about the progression of the evaluation from the date consent was provided on February 6, 2026 to the final meeting on May 4, 2026, Special Services Coordinator 1 affirmed "there was not a delay on our part" regarding the timeline. They explained the team utilized the available time to secure accurate data because the KeyMath assessment was an untimed evaluation tool. Special Services Coordinator 1 noted that examiners took multiple blocks of time to complete the assessment alongside other evaluations administered by the special education teacher to ensure completion.

School Psychologist 1 and School Psychologist 2 Interview

51. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, School Psychologist 1 shared that prior to the April and May 2026 meetings, they distributed a draft of the evaluation report to the IEP team, including the Parent. School Psychologist 1 explained their conversations prior to the meetings focused on analyzing data patterns, examining RTI, and reviewing eligibility indicators for potential suspected disabilities. They further noted the team specifically discussed whether to consider an eligibility classification of SLD or OHI to ensure they were fully prepared with the data points heading into the meetings. They indicated between meetings, the team "brainstormed potential" IEP goals based on the data. They did not recall conversations around SDI regarding math. School Psychologist 2 added they discussed prior and current math data collected during evaluations, and they did not recall a discussion around SLD or eligibility.

52. When asked about the discussion around proposed goals, School Psychologist 1 shared that following a discussion, they received a phone call from Special Services Coordinator 1, who directed the team to review the newly acquired evaluation data to make a new eligibility determination at the upcoming third meeting. School Psychologist 1 noted they were instructed that the team would not enter the third eligibility meeting with a pre-written draft IEP. School Psychologist 1 stated they agreed with this decision. School Psychologist 2 shared their understanding of the evaluation process required the team to take into account all available data whenever an addition was made to an open evaluation. They noted that because the team had obtained additional observations and new rating scales for the Student, the objective was to review the entirety of the collected information together before finalizing an eligibility determination.

Assistant Principal Interview

53. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Assistant Principal explained exiting a student from an IEP was an uncommon practice that required reviewing psychologist data, teacher observations, and grades to "determine what are some of those accommodations that we can continue to implement in a general education classroom without the need for that [SDI]." Following a dismissal, they indicated they continuously tracked classroom and LEA assessments to ensure a student maintained academic progress and did not "fall between the cracks." During the interview, the Special Education Director added once a student was dismissed from an IEP, it was "not uncommon" if SDI was not needed, and that "a 504 would be appropriate." The Special Education Director further explained when a student was not making progress with interventions in the SIT process, a 504 plan or special education intervention was discussed. They added that if a student was demonstrating progress with SIT interventions, the student typically remained within the SIT process.
54. When asked about the Student moving through the intervention tiers, the Assistant Principal explained the team evaluated progress metrics across four cycles administered by the Math Interventionist to monitor the Student through the tier three process. They noted records indicated the Student increased their score from zero to four out of eight in multiplication fluency during the first cycle, and progressed from a 10 out of 10 pretest to a 21 out of 21 post-test in the second cycle while using multiplication breakdown strategies. For the third cycle, the Student achieved an 8 out of 10 on a decimal word-problem post-test despite noted difficulties with basic multiplication facts. They added the fourth cycle utilized a FastBridge benchmark score for student placement but lacked a concluding post-test metric to measure final outcomes.

Math Interventionist Interview

55. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Math Interventionist explained they began providing small-group tier interventions to the Student on September 2, 2025 and continued through the 2025-26 school year. They noted the parents shared during conferences that the Student "had been struggling in math throughout elementary school and [they] had been in different intervention groups." To address these ongoing difficulties, a tier three daily 30-minute pullout intervention was implemented from January 12, 2026 through April 6, 2026. The Math Interventionist explained after April 7, 2026, the format shifted to push-in classroom support due to scheduled state assessments and end-of-the-year testing.
56. When asked about the Student's math abilities, the Math Interventionist explained the Student "was a shining star" in the small groups and "made huge growth." They noted that although the Student made progress, they had significant difficulty with long-term retention of the concepts taught. They further noted the Student struggled with paper-and-pencil tasks, required the consistent use of manipulatives or place-value charts to complete problems, and struggled with remembering multi-step operations. They explained based on these classroom observations and assessments, the Student continued to struggle with number sense, retention, and word problem solving, which supported a need for SDI.

Classroom Teacher Interview

57. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Classroom Teacher shared the Student experienced difficulties retaining mathematical concepts from day to day, frequently becoming frustrated and struggling to complete sequential or multi-step operations independently. Following a team decision to transition the Student into a tier-three pullout intervention, they explained the math scores entered on the report card were derived from classroom participation and noted those grades were not reflective of the Student's math skills.
58. When asked about their letter of dissent, the Classroom Teacher stated, "I just didn't agree … ." They explained the Student had "been in SIT since kindergarten, since first grade, and that there's not much growth in all those years," even though "[the Student] works, but [the Student] still struggles." The Classroom Teacher shared that across their entire career, they had never observed a student remain in the SIT process for that span of time without qualifying for special education services, stating they "just don't want [the Student] to be left behind."

School Psychologist 1 Interview

59. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, School Psychologist 1 shared the IEP team decided to dismiss the Student from special education because the Student was successfully meeting their reading goals. While initial testing revealed variable performance in mathematics, they explained that "we had a little bit of concern in math, but we just needed that more [sic] data, more time" to monitor the Student's response to intervention. The team ultimately determined the Student's math difficulties did not warrant specialized instruction, though it remained an area the team wanted to "keep an eye on" through continued tier-two supports.

60. School Psychologist 1 described the primary change following the Student's IEP dismissal was the termination of 30-minute specialized instruction sessions with a special education teacher. They explained the tier two framework maintained the Student's ongoing support by maintaining scheduled sessions with a math interventionist and participation in structured general education math tier groups. They noted the Student's regular classroom accommodations remained unchanged because those specific provisions were accessible to all students in the general education setting.

Principal Interview

61. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal explained the February 5, 2026 meeting was requested by Parent 2 to obtain an update on the Student's growth, data, and performance within the general education classroom and SIT process. They noted during the February 5, 2026 meeting, the Classroom Teacher and Math Interventionist reviewed the data from their settings, though the discussion briefly drifted when Parent 2 began questioning the Assistant Principal's agreement with the Student's prior IEP dismissal. The Principal explained they interceded to keep the discussion on track, stating the team was there to "talk about [the Student's] current progress, what we're seeing." They shared the meeting concluded with the understanding the team was still in the evaluation phase and would meet at a later date to review the evaluation.
62. The Principal described the evaluation meeting as "a little bit contentious" because there was a staff divide where "not everybody was on the exact same page" and team members "weren't all interpreting the data the same way." The Principal explained the reasoning for their dissent was due to the team completely reversing its previous direction to qualify the Student under OHI, a shift that left the parents "blindsided" by the final ineligibility determination. The Principal noted they did not agree with the outcome, stating, "I think that there was an area of need and we decided that there was an area of need and I know that the data probably did not support that, but no, I don't think a questionnaire that was filled out … should have swayed that decision."

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to fulfill its Child Find obligations by delaying the initiation of an evaluation for special education services for the Student who exhibited a suspected disability and a persistent need for intensive interventions. K.A.R. 91-40-7(a-c); 34 C.F.R. § 300.111 (a)(c)(e).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-7(a-c) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.111(a)(c)(e), each agency shall adopt and implement policies and procedures to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in its jurisdiction, who are suspected of being children with disabilities even though they are advancing from grade to grade.

In addition, an agency shall adopt and implement policies for children from ages five through 21, including observations, instruments, measures, and techniques that disclose any potential exceptionality and indicate a need for evaluation, including hearing and vision screening as required by law. Furthermore, the implementation of procedures ensuring the early identification and assessment of disabilities in children is required. An agency may refer a child who is enrolled in public school for an evaluation if school personnel have data-based documentation which indicates that general education interventions and strategies would be inadequate to address the areas of concern for the child. Additionally, an agency may refer a child if school personnel have data-based documentation that indicates that prior to or as part of the referral, all of the following conditions were met: the child was provided appropriate instruction in regular education settings that was delivered by qualified personnel, the child's academic achievement was repeatedly assessed at reasonable intervals which reflected formal assessment of the child's progress during instruction, the assessment results were provided to the child's parents, and the assessment results indicate an evaluation is appropriate.

The Complainant alleged the Student has experienced Child Find failure by the LEA. The Complainant indicated the Student had been harmed, and continued to be harmed, by not finding the Student eligible to receive special education services.

The LEA indicated they did not delay the evaluation. After dismissing the Student from special education services in September 2025, there was no reason to suspect the Student was a child with an exceptionality. When the Parent requested an evaluation, the LEA team convened within 15 school days and determined that an educational disability was not suspected.

The Student was exited from special education on September 5, 2025, upon meeting reading goals. Despite reevaluation data indicating low-range math scores and ongoing parental concerns, the LEA determined the Student's math performance was adequate and transitioned the Student to Tier 2 GEIs. In December 2025, Parent 2 expressed the Student's IEP was removed prematurely and they had expected a modification to include math goals. LEA communications from that time acknowledged the Student's struggles with math problem-solving and fluency, recognizing these as ADHD-related processing deficits. Despite the available data, Special Services Coordinator 1 framed the Student's struggles as a general education issue. On January 16, 2026, the LEA issued PWN refusing an initial evaluation, opting instead for further GEIs. Subsequently, the Student was placed in intensive Tier 3 math intervention, requiring them to be pulled from core instruction for 25–30 minutes, four days a week.

In a February 5, 2026 meeting, both the Classroom Teacher and the Math Interventionist expressed significant professional concerns about the Student's math struggles. The Classroom Teacher also indicated they had stopped requiring the Student to complete the standard online math course because it caused them "immense frustration," and acknowledged the Student's passing report card grades were based entirely on classroom participation, rather than an independent mastery of grade-level skills. Following a February 5, 2026 written request by the Parents, the LEA reversed its stance and issued PWN proposing to conduct an initial special education evaluation focused on math, for which the Parents provided consent.

The evidence showed the LEA delayed the initiation of an initial special education evaluation. Under federal and state frameworks, a MTSS/RTI or GEI model cannot be utilized to delay or deny a timely evaluation when an LEA has reason to suspect a disability. Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services Memo 11-07 explicitly states, "States and LEAs have an obligation to ensure that evaluations of children suspected of having a disability are not delayed or denied because of implementation of an RTI strategy." The LEA possessed ample, standardized data showing a suspected disability in mathematics as early as September 2025. Rather than initiating an evaluation when those deficits persisted and parental concerns intensified throughout the fall of 2025, the LEA actively refused to evaluate the Student in January 2026, and left the Student in GEI tiers that required pull-out sessions, substantial teacher prompting, and heavily modified grading systems just to maintain a baseline presence in the curriculum. By ignoring clear indicators of a lack of mathematical concept retention, overriding explicit teacher alarms, and formally refusing a parental request in January 2026, the LEA improperly used GEIs as a barrier to special education, resulting in a delay of the evaluation until February 2026.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is substantiated that the LEA failed to fulfill its Child Find obligations by delaying the initiation of an evaluation for special education services for the Student, who exhibited a suspected disability and a persistent need for intensive interventions.

Issue Two

Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, improperly refused or delayed a parental request for evaluation on January 16, 2026. K.A.R. 91-40-8(a-c), K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2); 34 C.F.R. § 300.301(b).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-8 (a-c), each agency shall ensure that a full and individual evaluation is conducted for each child being considered for special education and related services. Each evaluation shall include procedures to determine whether the child is an exceptional child and what the educational needs of the child are. In implementing the rule requirements the agency shall ensure that the evaluation is conducted in accordance with procedural requirements, the results of the evaluation are used by the child's IEP team to develop the child's IEP, and the evaluation is conducted before the initial provision of special education and related services to the child.

As part of the initial evaluation, if appropriate, and as part of any reevaluation, each agency shall ensure that members of an appropriate IEP team and other qualified professionals comply with the following: the evaluation team shall review existing evaluation data on the child, including evaluations and information provided by the child's parent(s); current classroom-based, local, and state assessments and classroom-based observations; and observations by teachers and related services providers. Based on that review and parent input, the evaluation team shall identify what additional data, if any, are needed to determine whether the child has a particular category of exceptionality, or in reevaluation, whether the child continues to have an exceptionality.

The evaluation team shall identify the child's present levels of academic achievement and educational and related developmental needs, as well as whether the child continues to need them. Furthermore, the evaluation team shall identify whether, in reevaluation, any additions or modifications to the special education and related services are needed to enable the child to meet measurable annual IEP goals and participate, as appropriate, in the general education curriculum.

According to K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2), the parents of exceptional children shall have the right to written prior notice that proposes to initiate or change, or refuses to initiate or change, the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child, and the provision of FAPE to the child.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.301(b), either a parent of a child or a public agency may request an initial evaluation to determine if the child is a child with a disability, consistent with the consent requirements.

The Complainant stated on January 16, 2026, the LEA refused the Parent's request for an evaluation of the Student, the concern being the Student's performance in broad mathematics, math calculation skills, and math problem solving skills.

The LEA explained they responded to the December 16, 2025 initial evaluation request within the 15-school day timeframe. The LEA did not have a reason to suspect a disability on January 16, 2026.

The LEA formally refused the Parents' request for an initial special education evaluation by issuing PWN on January 16, 2026. In this notice, the LEA stated that it refused to conduct the evaluation because the team intended to implement GEI to address concerns and collect data prior to moving forward with a special education evaluation. The LEA justified this refusal by noting that options to evaluate were rejected because the Student had shown the ability to make progress and indicate growth within the general education framework. Special Services Coordinator 1 later clarified that their mindset at the time focused on the belief that they needed to first document GEI through the SIT process, and they asserted that the documentation supplied by general education staff at that point failed to demonstrate a suspected disability. This justification aligns with the team's earlier discussions in September 2025, where a special education coordinator expressed a desire to have six weeks of interventions before repeating an evaluation and suggested routing the Student through the SIT process.

This reliance on GEI as a prerequisite effectively delayed the evaluation process, drawing criticism from the Complainant, who later argued the LEA was improperly using the RTI framework to prevent an evaluation. The Parents submitted a formal written request for a review of existing data and the initiation of an initial evaluation on February 5, 2026. On that same day, the LEA reversed its previous refusal and issued PWN proposing to conduct the initial evaluation focused on math. While the LEA did initially refuse, and thereby delay, the evaluation on January 16, 2026 by insisting on the completion of an intervention cycle, it corrected this stance twenty days later by moving forward with the formal evaluation process upon receiving the Parents' renewed request and signing of consent.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA improperly refused or delayed a parental request for evaluation on January 16, 2026.

Issue Three

> Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, failed to ensure a properly constituted IEP team during the April 21, 2026 and April 24, 2026 meetings when the Special Services Coordinator replaced the campus Principal. K.A.R. 91-40- 1(hh); 34 C.F.R. § 300.321(a)(4).

According to K.A.R. 91-40- 1(hh) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.321(a)(4), "Individualized education program team" and "IEP team" means a group of individuals composed of the parent or parents of a child, at least one regular education teacher of the child, if the child is, or may be, participating in the regular education environment, and at least one special education teacher, or if appropriate, at least one special education provider of the child. In addition, IEP team members shall include a representative of the agency directly involved in providing educational services for the child who meets the following criteria: is qualified to provide, or supervise the provision of specially designed instruction to meet the unique needs of exceptional children; is knowledgeable about general curriculum; and is knowledgeable about the availability of resources of the agency.

Furthermore, IEP team members shall include: an individual who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results; at the discretion of the child's parent or the agency, other individuals who have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child, including related services personnel as appropriate; and whenever appropriate, the exceptional child.

The Complainant alleged in the April 21, 2026 and April 24, 2026 meetings, Special Services Coordinator 1 replaced the Principal, failing to constitute an appropriate IEP team. The Complainant indicated Special Services Coordinator 1 "does not work on the campus, has never taught the Student, has not progress monitored the Student, and has never evaluated the Student." The Complainant stated Special Services Coordinator 1 "inserted [themself] into the IEP [m]eetings as [the] LEA representative, replacing the campus [P]rincipal who attended all meetings." The Complainant stated Special Services Coordinator 1 "is not a consensus member of the IEP committee and is not a stakeholder in [the] [S]tudent's IEP."

The LEA explained the Principal and Special Services Coordinator 1 were present at both meetings. According to the LEA, it was a common practice to have a Special Services Coordinator serve in the LEA role. The LEA explained the regulations do not require that a specific person, such as a principal, fill that role. The LEA stated all of the required participants attended the meeting.

Meeting documentation shows the Principal was present as a participating team member during both the April 21 and April 24, 2026 meetings, alongside Special Services Coordinator 1, the Classroom Teacher, the Math Interventionist, Special Education Teacher 1, School Psychologists 1 and 2, the Complainant, and both of the Parents. Special Services Coordinator 1 served in the role of the LEA representative during these eligibility discussions. All required personnel were documented as present on both dates.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to ensure a properly constituted IEP team during the April 21, 2026 and April 24, 2026 meetings, when Special Services Coordinator 1 replaced the campus Principal.

Issue Four

Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, predetermined eligibility when Special Services Coordinator 1 repeatedly communicated the Student did not qualify for special education services prior to the completion of the evaluation discussions and eligibility reviews during the April 21, 2026 and April 24, 2026 meetings. K.S.A. 72-3428(e), K.A.R 91-40-10; 34 C.F.R. § 300.306(a-c).

According to K.S.A. 72-3428(e) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.306(a), upon completion of the administration of assessments and other evaluation materials, the determination of whether the child is an exceptional child shall be made by the team of qualified professionals and the parent of the child. In addition, a copy of the evaluation report and the documentation of determination of eligibility shall be given to the parent.

According to K.A.R 91-40-10 and 34 C.F.R. § 300.306 (b-c), after the completion of appropriate evaluation procedures, a team of qualified professionals and the parent of the child who has been evaluated shall prepare a written evaluation report that includes a statement regarding the determination of whether the child has an exceptionality, the basis for making a determination, includes the relevant behavior noted during the observation of the child, the relationship of that behavior to the child's academic functioning, and if the child was evaluated for a specific learning disability. Each team member shall certify in writing whether the report reflects the member's conclusion. If the report does not reflect that member's conclusion, the team member shall submit a separate statement presenting the member's conclusion.

Each agency shall provide, at no cost, a copy of the evaluation report to the child's parent. An evaluation team shall not determine a child to be an exceptional child if the determinant factor for that eligibility is the child's lack of appropriate instruction in reading or mathematics or limited English proficiency, and if a child does not otherwise qualify as a child with an exceptionality. Each evaluation team, in determining whether a child is an exceptional child and what the educational needs of the child are, shall meet the following requirements: drawing upon information from a variety of sources, including aptitude and achievement tests, parent input, teacher recommendations, physical conditions, social or cultural background, and adaptive behavior.

The evaluation team shall ensure that the information obtained from all of the sources specified is documented and considered. If the evaluation team and the parent determine the parent's child to be a child with a specific learning disability, the evaluation team and the parent shall prepare a written evaluation report that includes a statement regarding an indication of whether the child has a specific learning disability, and the basis for making the determination, including an assurance that the determination has been made in accordance with applicable laws and regulations. In addition, the evaluation team shall ensure the sources specified are documented and considered, including the relevant behavior, if any, noted during the observation of the child and the relationship of that behavior to the child's academic functioning.

Furthermore, the evaluation team shall document and consider educationally relevant medical findings, if any, an indication of whether the child does not achieve adequately for the child's age or meet state-approved grade-level standards, does not make sufficient progress to meet age standards or state-approved grade-level standards, or exhibits a pattern of strengths and weaknesses in performance, achievement, or both, relative to age, state-approved grade-level standards or intellectual development. In addition, the determination of the team concerning the effect of visual, hearing or motor skills disability, mental retardation, emotional disturbance, cultural factors, environmental or economic disadvantage, and limited English proficiency on the child's achievement level.

If the child has participated in a process that assessed the child's response to scientific, research-based interventions, the evaluation report shall also address the instructional strategies used and the student-centered data collected, and the documentation indicating that the child's parent was notified about the state's policies regarding the amount and nature of student performance data that would be collected and the general education services that would be provided strategies for increasing the child's rate of learning, and the parent's right to request an evaluation. After a child has been determined to be a child with an exceptionality and has been provided special education or related services, an agency shall conduct a reevaluation of the child before terminating special education or related services to the child.

The Complainant alleged Special Services Coordinator 1 repeatedly communicated the LEA position that the Student did not qualify prior to the completion of additional evaluation discussions and the eligibility review for the Student. The Complainant indicated on September 5, 2026, a reevaluation documented ADHD and deficits.

The LEA indicated the eligibility meeting took place across three days. During the second meeting the team recessed to gather additional data to consider OHI. According to the LEA, this showed the team did not predetermine eligibility, but collected and considered data for all areas of the suspected disability. While it would not be unusual for the team, in discussion of eligibility, to "discuss prongs a student did or did not meet, that is simply necessary discussion in eligibility determinations not predetermination."

At the April 21, 2026 meeting, the team reviewed historical assessments stretching from 2022 to 2025, and documented the Student's diagnoses of ADHD and dyslexia. When discussions resumed on April 24, 2026, Special Services Coordinator 1 initially questioned the Student's eligibility, stating the data did not support a SLD in mathematics and expressing uncertainty as to whether there was sufficient evidence to establish a need for SDI under the category of OHI. The transcript revealed Special Services Coordinator 1 explicitly presented these as "initial thoughts" meant to guide a "collaborative conversation," rather than a final mandate or decision. Special Services Coordinator 1 ultimately conceded to the team's consensus at the end of the April 24, 2026 meeting, stating the team could agree to "staff-in under OHI in the area of executive functioning" because the Student met both prongs of eligibility, and directed an IEP be drafted within the next ten days. Although the team subsequently paused the process to collect new behavior metrics, which ultimately led to a denial of eligibility at a later meeting on May 4, 2026, the evidence from the April 2026 meetings demonstrated Special Services Coordinator 1 remained open to team dialogue and consensus. Because Special Services Coordinator 1 participated in an active, fluid discussion that briefly resulted in an agreement to provide an IEP, the LEA did not predetermine the Student's ineligibility prior to the completion of the April 2026 evaluation discussions.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA predetermined eligibility when Special Services Coordinator 1 repeatedly communicated that the Student did not qualify for special education services prior to the completion of the evaluation discussions and eligibility reviews during the April 21, 2026, and April 24, 2026 meetings.

Issue Five

Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, denied the student a FAPE. K.A.R. 91-40-2(a)(d), K.A.R. 91-40-1(z); 34 C.F.R § 300.101.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-2 (a)(d) and 34 C.F.R. 34 § 300.101, each agency shall provide a FAPE to exceptional children. Each agency shall make a FAPE available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction. Each agency shall make a FAPE available to any child with a disability even though the child has not failed or been retained in a course or grade and is advancing from grade to grade. The determination of whether a child who is advancing from grade to grade is a child with a disability shall be made on an individual basis in accordance with Child Find activities and evaluation procedures.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(z), a FAPE means special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision, and without charge, meeting state board standards, including appropriate education from preschool through secondary school and provided in conformity with an IEP.

The Complainant alleged the Student was denied a FAPE.

The LEA responded the Student was not denied a FAPE, the Student continued to make progress in the general education environment.

The Student was exited from their IEP on September 5, 2025 because they successfully met their fourth-grade reading goals. However, the Parents and core educators repeatedly documented that the Student faced difficulties with math concepts, multi-step operations, and long-term retention due to their diagnosed ADHD, along with working memory weaknesses. Rather than modifying the existing IEP to pivot toward the Student's evident mathematical gaps, the LEA opted to route the Student into general education Tier 2 and Tier 3 supports under the premise that they were making appropriate gains.

The LEA cited report card marks of “A-” and “B” to partially justify the denial of specialized services. The Classroom Teacher and Parent 2 clarified these grades were derived from classroom participation and intensive, one-on-one test corrections. They also indicated the Student failed every math assessment in the general education environment before making corrections with a teacher's help, and could not recall material taught just one week prior. Furthermore, the Student had to be pulled out of regular math instruction for 30 minutes, four days a week, to receive Tier 3 remediation, causing them to miss core grade-level instruction in exchange for a participation grade. The Math Interventionist noted the Student struggled more than anyone else in the group with foundational skills, heavily relying on manipulatives and continuous prompts to complete basic tasks. By utilizing MTSS as a barrier to eligibility while the Student fell progressively behind their peers, the LEA failed to address how the Student's disabilities directly impeded their academic progression.

During the April 24, 2026 eligibility meeting, the team reached a consensus that the Student qualified for special education under the OHI criteria due to executive functioning deficits, and agreed to draft a new IEP within ten days. When the team reconvened on May 4, 2026, the LEA introduced a shifted roster of personnel who had not attended the previous sessions. Relying on newly acquired behavior rating scales that fell within normal-to-mild limits, the LEA reversed its previous determination and declared the Student ineligible. This reversal prompted formal letters of dissent from the Classroom Teacher, the Math Interventionist, and the Principal, all of whom asserted the Student required SDI. The LEA actively disregarded critical classroom data proving the Student could not independently access the fifth-grade curriculum without highly intensive, specialized intervention.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA denied the student a FAPE.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.111(a)(c) and K.A.R. 91-40-7(a-c) specify that each agency shall adopt and implement policies and procedures to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in its jurisdiction, who or are suspected of being children with disabilities even though they are advancing from grade to grade.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #231 delayed the initiation of special education evaluation by using GEI through MTSS/RTI.

B. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R § 300.101, K.A.R. 91-40-2(a)(d), and K.A.R. 91-40-1(z) specify that each agency shall provide a FAPE to exceptional children.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #231 denied the Student a FAPE.

Based on the foregoing, USD #231 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #231 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA by convening the eligibility team to prioritize the firsthand data and formal letters of dissent from the Classroom Teacher, the Math Interventionist, and the Principal.

2. By August 1, 2026, USD #231 will complete the following:
    a. Submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) that the LEA's practices and procedures have been reviewed and revised as appropriate to be responsive and compliant with child find procedures of the IDEA, specifically for:
        i. Child find;
        ii. The use of data, both quantitative and qualitative, to inform eligibility;
        iii. Assurance MTSS/RTI will not be used to delay or deny a timely evaluation when a disability is suspected; and
        iv. Clarification for staff that passing grades do not equate to a FAPE when grades are based on participation or modified expectations.
3. By August 15, 2026, USD #231 will hold an IEP meeting and find the Student eligible for special education services under OHI (or another appropriate category) reflecting their ADHD, working memory challenges, and mathematics deficits.
    a. Within the first 15 days of the 2026-27 school year, the LEA must draft and implement an IEP with specific and measurable goals for math, accommodations for executive functioning and working memory, and the required SDI.
4. By August 15, 2026, USD #231 shall:
    a. Provide the opportunity for compensatory services to the Student in the amount of 18 hours. February 6, 2026 (consent to evaluate) through April 21, 2026 (eligibility meeting series started) totals nine weeks, with minutes/hours calculated based on RTI math services being provided weekly to the Student (120 minutes per week).
    b. Schedule the required compensatory services and provide that schedule to the Parents and to SETS in writing. The Parents may choose to accept all, some, or none of the offered compensatory services. The Parents must respond to the school District and SETS, in writing, to identify which services (if any) are accepted. The written schedule of services may be sent to SETS at brian.dempsey@ksde.gov. Once the District receives the written response, it will schedule any accepted compensatory services. If a student is absent or a parent is unable to make the student available at the scheduled time, the services scheduled for that day will not be made up. If district staff are unavailable, the services will be rescheduled. Any compensatory service that is declined or not used as scheduled will be considered waived, as long as the District has made a good-faith effort to begin and to provide the services in a timely manner.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 231
Gardner-Edgerton Public Schools: 26FC231-007

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on May 22, 2026, by _____ on behalf of his child, _____. In the remainder of this decision, Mr. _____ will be referred to as "the parent," and _____ will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on July 6, 2026. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the district's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Although Issue One is not under appeal, the Appeal Committee believes it is important to respond to this comment made in the LEA's appeal:

> Without citing to an appropriate legal basis, the Investigator deemed the Student eligible, unilaterally overturning the conclusions of a multidisciplinary team of > educators and disregarding the data that supported the determination. Secondly, even if the ineligibility decision was non-compliant, which the District does not concede, it is the responsibility of the IEP team, not a third-party investigator, to make substantive decisions regarding Student's education.

When the current federal regulations were published in the Federal Register on August 14, 2006, the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) responded to similar comments, as follows:

> We believe placing limits on the scope of the State complaint system, as suggested by the commenters, would diminish the SEA's ability to ensure its LEAs are in compliance with Part B of the Act and its implementing regulations, and may result in an increase in the number of due process complaints filed and the number of due process hearings held.
>
> We do not believe it is necessary to clarify in the regulations that the State complaint procedures can be used to resolve a complaint regarding the denial of appropriate services or FAPE for a child, since Sec. 300.153 is sufficiently clear that an organization or individual may file a written complaint that a public agency has violated a requirement of Part B of the Act or part 300. The State complaint procedures can be used to resolve any complaint that meets the requirements of Sec. 300.153, including matters concerning the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child, or the provision of FAPE to the child. (Emphasis added).
> We believe that an SEA, in resolving a complaint challenging the appropriateness of a child's educational program or services or the provision of FAPE, should not only determine whether the public agency has followed the required procedures to reach that determination, but also whether the public agency has reached a decision that is consistent with the requirements in Part B of the Act in light of the individual child's abilities and needs. Thus, the SEA may need to review the evaluation data in the child's record, or any additional data provided by the parties to the complaint, and the explanation included in the public agency's notice to the parent as to why the agency made the determination regarding the child's educational program or services. If necessary, the SEA may need to interview appropriate individuals, to determine whether the agency followed procedures and applied standards that are consistent with State standards, including the requirements of Part B of the Act, and whether the determination made by the public agency is consistent with those standards and supported by the data. (Emphasis added).

Accordingly, a state complaint investigator has authority to resolve disputes concerning both procedural and substantive violations of the law of special education, including whether child find and FAPE obligations have been met.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report identified five issues. The Local Education Agency (LEA) appeals only the decision in Issue Five.

Issue Five

Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, denied the student a FAPE.

The conclusion in the report that the LEA "failed its child find obligation, not by unnecessarily delaying the evaluation, but by declining to find the student eligible for special education when there was more than sufficient information to support eligibility" does not necessarily mean that the district failed to provide the student with a FAPE.

On September 5, 2025, at a three-year reevaluation meeting, an evaluation report was issued. (Report, Findings 3 and 5, p 5 – 9). On the same date, a PWN was issued saying, "the Student was not eligible for special education services and proposed exiting the Student from services because their needs would "continue to be met in the general education setting through tier 2 supports (Report, Finding 6, p. 9). Although not specified in the report, apparently at least one parent provided consent for exiting the student from special education and the student was exited.

There was no evidence presented in this report or in this appeal to indicate there was any serious disagreement expressed regarding this September 5, 2025 exit from special education services at the time that decision to exit the student was made. On December 16, 2025, Parent 2 expressed concern about the student's difficulties in math. (Report, Finding 7, p. 9-10). On January 16, 2026, the LEA issued a PWN stating that the LEA was refusing to conduct an initial evaluation. That PWN included an explanation of why the action was refused, to "implement general education interventions (GEI) to address concerns and collect data prior to moving forward with a special education evaluation."

Shortly thereafter, on February 5, a 2026 PWN proposed to conduct an initial evaluation for the Student and parent 2 gave consent for the evaluation on February 6, 2026. (Report, Finding 14, p. 13). At the evaluation meeting, on April, 24, 2026, the LEA issued another PWN proposing to conduct additional evaluation procedures, and noting that "This action is being proposed in response to a formal request from the Parent's on [February 5, 2026]. The Parent expressed concerns regarding the student's difficulty with Math." Parent 2 provided consent on April 27, 2026 for the additional evaluation procedures. (Report, Finding 21, p. 18).

The resulting evaluation report was issued a week later on May 4, 2026. That report found that the student was not eligible because, although the student met the criteria for the OHI exceptionality, the Student did not demonstrate the need for specially designed instruction. Report, Finding 23, p. 19-21).

It was this evaluation report and the PWN issued at the April 24, 2026 meeting that prompted formal letters of dissent from the Classroom Teacher, the Math Interventionist, and the Principal, all of whom asserted the Student required specially designed instruction (special education). (Report, Findings 29, 30 and 31, p. 24 -25). The investigator cited these letters as important factors in concluding that the student was eligible. Even with these letters available to the evaluation team at the May 4, 2026 eligibility meeting, the evaluation team determined that the student was not eligible. That May 4, 2026 date is the date the LEA had sufficient information to conclude that the student was eligible, not February 6, 2026, as determined by the investigator. February 6, 2026 was the date that the LEA received parent consent to conduct the initial evaluation. An eligibility determination would have been premature on February 6, 2026, as that was only the date that consent to begin the evaluation was provided.

However, eligibility is just the first step for a student to receive special education services. Before a student can actually receive special education services, an IEP team must first meet to develop an IEP and then, after developing an IEP, the LEA must obtain the parent's written consent to provide the services in the proposed initial IEP. Kansas Administrative regulations, at K.A.R. 91-40-8(h) adds that, each agency shall ensure that an IEP is developed for each exceptional child within 30 days from the date on which the child is determined to need special education and related services.

Thus, even if the LEA had determined the student was eligible at the May 4 meeting, it had until June 3 to develop the IEP. This complaint was filed on May 22, twelve days before the IEP was required to be developed. Added to this calculation is that school is not currently in session and so the student, although eligible, has not been denied any service in an IEP. The present FAPE obligation of the LEA is to ensure that IEP is developed and services are available to this student on the first day of school during the 2026-2027 school year.

Conclusion

Accordingly, the Appeal Committee finds that the conclusion in the report in Issue Five that the district failed to provide this student with a Free Appropriate Public Education is premature and is reversed.

Corrective action 4 is rescinded.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 30th day of July, 2026.

SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #353
ON MAY 26, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JUNE 27, 2026

This report is in response to a Complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -------, by their parent, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #353, Wellington Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #353.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on May 26, 2026, and the 30-day timeline ended on June 25, 2026.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, completed the Student's gifted evaluation within 60 school days of the Parent providing consent. K.A.R. 91-40-8(f).

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, scheduled a special education meeting at a mutually agreeable meeting time. The Parent further alleged they did not waive the standard 10-day meeting notice period. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a).

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided timely prior written notice (PWN) for the March 2, 2026 gifted eligibility meeting and whether PWN was compliant as follows: whether the documentation of delivery was left blank; whether all assessment results, classroom observation data, and teacher input were recorded as a basis for eligibility, when they were referenced in the eligibility meeting; and whether it contained inaccurate information regarding the discussion at the gifted eligibility meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-26, K.S.A. 72-3432.

ISSUE FOUR: Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, evaluated the Student in all areas of suspected exceptionality. K.A.R. 91-40-9(a)(3)(9)(b)(1).

ISSUE FIVE: Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided an evaluation report that included and interpreted "statistically significant" math scores as academic strengths for the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-1(bb), K.A.R. 91-40-8 (c)(1), K.A.R. 91-40-9(a)(9).

ISSUE SIX: Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided the Parent with an inaccurate evaluation report, including incorrect attendance data, incorrect gender pronouns, conflicting testing dates, incomplete and inconsistent teacher input, unexplained assessment data, and post-meeting report revisions. K.A.R. 91-40-9(a)(3), K.A.R. 91-40-8(c).

ISSUE SEVEN: Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided the Parent an opportunity to inspect and review the Student's education records following the Parent's request on March 6, 2026. K.A.R. 91-40-25(a), K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1). 34 C.F.R. § 99.10(a)(b)(c)(d).

ISSUE EIGHT: Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided the Student with gifted services prior to conducting an evaluation and developing an IEP for the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(1).

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parent on June 15, 2026. The School Psychologist and the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director were interviewed on June 15, 2026.

In completing this Investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Notice of Special Education Meeting, 02/12/26, 02/13/26, 02/16/26, 02/24/26
2. Student Schedule, 2025-26 School Year
3. FAST Family Report, 2025-26 School Year
4. FERPA Request Emails, 02/11/26-03/03/26
5. Prior Written Notice of Identification, Special Education and Related Services, Educational Placement, Change in Services, Change in Placement, and/or Request for Consent, 03/02/26
6. Prior Written Notice for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, 10/28/25
7. Student Period Attendance Detail, 2025-26 School Year
8. Student Transcript, 06/01/26
9. State Assessment Student Report, 2025-26 School Year

10. Psychoeducational Evaluation Report, 02/11/26
11. Addendum, 02/11/26
12. Emails between parties, 10/20/25-05/21/26

Background Information

This Investigation involved an eighth-grade student enrolled at a middle school in USD #353. The Student is not currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). The Student receives enrichment services through an accelerated high school-level math course (Geometry). The Student has no behavior incidents or office referrals for the 2025-26 school year. The Student has several friend groups and often gets along better with older students and adults. The Parent reports the Student is mature for their age, which often leads to boredom in the Student's current classroom settings and curriculum.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. A Student Period Attendance Detail for the 2025-26 school year indicated the Student had the following total absences:
    a. Wellington High School: 12
    b. English 8: 18
    c. Science 8: 17
    d. Social Studies 8: 19
    e. Introduction to Agriscience: 17
    f. Aide - Counselor: 15
    g. Career & Life Planning: 5
    h. Family and Consumer Sciences 3: 18
    i. Technology Synergistic 3: 5
    j. The Student had a total 37 absences in Term 1, and a total 113 absences in Term 2.
2. Student Schedules for the 2025-26 school year reported the Student attended the High School for first through third periods, and attended the School for fourth through ninth periods, beginning August 18, 2025. A grade transcript indicated the Student took a geometry course at the High School.
3. On October 20, 2025, the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director emailed the Parent to reschedule a meeting "to discuss potential options for [the Student's] ELA" planned on October 22, 2025. The Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director explained, "I have not yet had an opportunity to meet with [the Principal] to discuss potential options for [the Student's] ELA." The Parent agreed to a new meeting date of October 24, 2025.

4. In an October 27, 2025 email to the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director, the Parent wrote, "We have decided to move forward with the virtual program, beginning at [the next] semester. … I am going to reach out … and discuss having [the Student] tested for the gifted program." The Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director replied on October 28, 2025, "I'll work with [the Principal] on next steps to get this going."
5. PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, dated October 28, 2025, was signed by the Parent on October 30, 2025. The document noted it was for an initial evaluation and the Student would be evaluated for "general cognitive abilities" and "academic or preacademic skills and achievement levels." The document indicated the evaluation was initiated at parent request.
6. District Assessment data for fall 2025-26 reported the following results for the Student:
    a. 94th percentile for knowledge of math facts.
    b. 83rd percentile for overall math skills.
    c. 91st percentile for knowledge of math standards.
    d. 74th percentile for overall reading.
    e. 87th percentile for phonemic awareness, phonics, and vocabulary skills.
7. On December 3, 2025, the Parent emailed the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director and wrote, "[The Student] would like to put the online class plan on hold for the time being." They stated, "I am still not entirely comfortable with [the Student] staying in the current English class. However … we are choosing to let [the Student] make this decision for [themself]." The Parent asked to meet with the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director and the Principal to "discuss the logistics" of having the online class as a backup plan. The Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director agreed and scheduled a meeting with the Parent and the Principal on December 8, 2025.
8. In an email dated December 9, 2025, the Principal informed the Parent the Student was "slated for testing in early January [2026]." The Principal stated the School Psychologist was "currently gathering information from [the Student's] teachers that will aid … the evaluation process." The Principal indicated they would let the Parent know the specific testing dates ahead of time.
9. On December 9, 2025, the School Psychologist emailed the ELA Teacher, the Social Studies Teacher, the Science Teacher, the Math Teacher, the Principal, and the Counselor, asking the staff members to fill out a "gifted screener" regarding the Student. The School Psychologist indicated they distributed the screener "a month or so ago." They requested the staff members fill out and return the screener as soon as possible, and offered new copies to anyone who needed one.

   a. The Counselor replied the same day and indicated they had not received an initial copy. They inquired if they needed to fill out the screener or if they were included in the email to help remind other staff.
   b. The School Psychologist replied the Counselor was included to help remind other staff.

10. On February 4, 2026, the School Psychologist emailed office staff to remind them, "When [the Student] gets here tomorrow morning after the high school, [they] [are] supposed to come to my room to do testing with me."
11. On February 5, 2026, the School Psychologist emailed the Student's teachers and wrote, "I am trying to finish up gifted testing today with [the Student], so if [they] [are] not in class, [they] should be with me!"
12. On February 6, 2026, the School Psychologist emailed the Gifted Facilitator. They reported, "I just finished testing and I need to write the report. However, I can be ready for a meeting at just about anytime! [The Student] is due Feb[ruary] 18th[,] [2026]."
13. On February 11, 2026, the School Psychologist emailed the Student's teachers, the Special Education Teacher, the Math Teacher, the Counselor, and the Principal, asking them to "return your GRS (Gifted Rating Scales) form for [the Student] … as soon as you can." The School Psychologist indicated the Student had not qualified for special education in the evaluation, and explained that for gifted qualification, "I rely heavily on your opinions in these cases."
   a. The Science Teacher reported they returned their form on February 11, 2026.
   b. On February 12, 2026, the Counselor replied in the email chain that the Student was an aide for them, which did not involve academics. They shared, "As [the Student's] counselor who has been involved in moving [them] up in math class I can attest to [their] drive to challenge [themself]. Due to [the Student's] work ethic and abilities [they] [are] able to work at a higher level than [their] peers successfully."
14. In an email exchange between the School Psychologist and the Parent, dated February 11, 2026 through February 25, 2026, the School Psychologist reported they had completed the Student's evaluation. They initially proposed an evaluation meeting on February 19 or 20, 2026.
   a. The Parent replied to the first email on February 11, 2026 they would check their schedule and asked, "can you please clarify if [the Student] is eligible for the program?"
   b. On February 12, 2026, the School Psychologist answered, "There are several aspects to eligibility for gifted services … the test scores are not showing that [the Student] is in the gifted range." They indicated they were "waiting on data from other staff members before we can make a team decision."
   c. The Parent agreed to a meeting on February 19, 2026, and the School Psychologist sent a Notice of Meeting (NOM).

d. After the Parent received the NOM on February 12, 2026, they followed up with two issues. They objected to the School Psychologist pre-checking the box for, "I consent to waive my right to a 10-day prior written notice of this meeting to develop, review, or revise the IEP for my child." The Parent stated, "I am not waiving any of my parental rights at this time." They also wanted confirmation that all data would be assembled before the eligibility meeting. The Parent requested a new meeting date, a revised NOM, and that the 10-day waiver checkbox not be checked.

e. The School Psychologist replied on February 13, 2026. They explained the purpose of the eligibility meeting, stated who would attend, and what information would be presented. The School Psychologist included an updated NOM with the previously agreed upon date of February 19, 2026.

f. The Parent replied, "Based off the amount of information needing to be discussed, the 19th is not an option for us. We are available the 23rd or 24th."

g. On February 16, 2026, the School Psychologist stated, "The team could do Tuesday, [February] 24th[,] [2026]." The Parent agreed and the School Psychologist sent a new NOM.

h. On February 18, 2026, the Parent emailed the School Psychologist and wrote, "After looking at the most recent meeting notice, I realized that the signature page did not include the updated meeting date. Please see attached for the updated version of the meeting notice."

i. The School Psychologist emailed on February 23, 2026 to inform the Parent that teachers would not be available for the meeting on February 24, 2026. They apologized for the last minute change, stating, "I didn't want you to show up and not have any teachers available to discuss [the Student]."

j. On February 24, 2026, the School Psychologist and the Parent agreed to a meeting on March 2, 2026. The School Psychologist thanked the Parent for "being flexible."

k. The School Psychologist sent a revised NOM and the Parent signed it on February 25, 2026.

15. A Psychoeducational Evaluation Report, dated February 11, 2026, included the following relevant information:

    a. The testing dates were listed as February 4, 2026 and February 5, 2026.

    b. The meeting date was listed as March 2, 2026.

    c. The reason for evaluation was listed as, "This was a parent's request for evaluation for gifted services due to excellent performance in the classroom."

    d. Assessments used were:

        i. Woodcock-Johnson VTests of Cognitive Abilities (WJ-VCog);

        ii. Woodcock-Johnson VTests of Achievement(WJ-Ach); and

        iii. Gifted Rating Scales-School Form (GRS-S).

e. Current performance:
    i. Geometry: 98%; English 8: 99%;
    ii. Intro to Agriscience: 96%; Science 8: 97%;
    iii. Social Studies: 99%; Aide- Counselor: No Score; and
    iv. FACS-3: 94%
f. The Student had no behavioral concerns.
g. Attendance data indicated the Student had been absent eight days between August 2025 and February 2026.
h. Educational concerns explained, "[The Parent] reports that [the Student] is mature for [their] age, which often leads to boredom in [their] current classroom settings/curriculum. [The Parent] states that [they] would like to provide [the Student] with hands-on, challenging learning opportunities that connect real-world concepts and allow [the Student] to explain the "how" and "why" things work. [The Parent] states that [they] [hope] to gain a better understanding of [the Student's] strengths and to be sure [the Student] is given opportunities to challenge [themself] at the level [they] [are] capable of."
i. Teacher input included the following highlights:
    i. FACS-3: "[The Student] performs very well in FACS. … [They] [go] beyond what is required, putting in strong effort and exceeding expectations."
    ii. Science: "I would not have ever guessed that [the Student] was gifted. [They] [seem] very average to slightly above. … When [the Student] is called on, [they] just [answer] the question without going into extra detail. [They] never [ask] questions, either."
    iii. Geometry: "[The Student] is doing well, overall; however, [they] [miss] some concepts at times. [The Student] is generally quiet and doesn't ask for help often. … [The Student] doesn't just effortlessly 'ace' everything in the class. … In general, [the Student] is bright and doing well. We'll just keep working on the learning part-which involves making mistakes."
    iv. English: "[The Student] maintains A grades in my class and completes [their] work consistently. [The Student] is responsible and performs well on assigned tasks. However, [the Student] rarely offers particularly insightful or advanced contributions during class discussions. … I would not consider [the Student] gifted at this time."
    v. Social Studies: No input.
    vi. Agriscience: "[The Student] works hard in my class. [Their] completed work meets and often exceeds my expectations and criteria."
j. A testing observation was completed on February 4, 2026. Notes stated the Student followed directions, did not ask questions, and "took the test seriously." The same notes indicated the Student "seemed to give up easily and did not go above and beyond in effort [sic] to complete more difficult items." The observation notes ended with, "The following evaluation can be deemed a valid representation of [the Student's] current abilities."

k. A classroom observation was conducted on February 23, 2026. The observation notes indicated the Student relied on table partners to stay on task and participate in the science assignment observed.

l. Curriculum Based Measurement indicated the following:
    i. Winter 2026 reading score: 40th percentile (some risk); and
    ii. Winter 2026 math score: 51st percentile (low risk).

m. Assessment results showed the following:
    i. Woodcock-Johnson Test of Cognitive Abilities, Fourth Edition (WJ-IV Cog)*:
        1. Average in the areas of General Intellectual Ability, Comprehension Knowledge, GF-GC Composite, and Cognitive Efficiency.
        2. A "cognitive summary" noted, "[The Student] did not demonstrate any personal strengths or weaknesses."
        3. *[Complaint Investigator's Note: The first page of the evaluation lists the fifth edition of the WJ Cog, not the fourth edition.]
    ii. Woodcock-Johnson Test of Achievement, Fourth Edition (WJ-IVAch)*:
        1. Average in the areas of Achievement and Brief Reading.
        2. High Average in the area of Brief Math.
        3. Superior in the area of Math Calculation Skills.
        4. An "academic summary" noted, "[The Student's] overall academic abilities are in the average range. … [The Student] did not demonstrate any personal strengths or weaknesses."
        5. *[Complaint Investigator's Note: The first page of the evaluation lists the fifth edition of the WJ Ach, not the fourth edition.]
    iii. Gifted Rating Scale (GRS):
        1. Moderate Intellectual and Academics.
        2. Low Creativity, Artistic, Leadership.
        3. High Motivation.
        4. An explanation of the results stated, "The GRS-S yields five scale scores indicating the likelihood that a student is gifted in one or more of these areas: Intellectual Ability, Academic Ability, Creativity, Artistic Talent, and Leadership Ability, as compared to other students of the same age. In addition, a Motivation scale is included not as an index of giftedness, but as a measure of the child's level of drive, persistence, and desire to succeed."

n. A summary of all data reported, "These scores indicate that [the Student] is a high-achieving student, but does not fall into the high, or 'gifted' range at this time."
    i. The Student was found not eligible for special education services.
o. Recommendations included:
    i. "Continue differentiated instruction and accelerated courses where applicable and necessary."
    ii. "Provide enrichment opportunities with open-ended problems, choice in project topics, and opportunities for depth of content rather than acceleration."
    iii. "Facilitate connections with like-ability peers through interest-based clubs, academic competition, or mentor relationships."
    iv. "Teach resiliency and accepting failure."
    v. "Teach explicit studying strategies, self-monitoring techniques, and how to set/monitor goals."
    vi. The report was signed by the School Psychologist.
    vii. An Eligibility Determination indicated the Student did not meet the State's two-prong test for eligibility. The box for "The child is NOT eligible for special education" was checked.
p. An undated Addendum to the report acknowledged and corrected the following errors:
    i. The Student's attendance was updated.
    ii. The Social Studies teacher's input was listed as "omitted."
    iii. Testing observation administration was updated to reflect two days of testing.
    iv. The School Psychologist's credentials were corrected.
    v. The assessment editions and descriptions were updated to reflect the editions stated at the beginning of the document.
    vi. An incorrect pronoun was corrected.

16. A NOM, dated February 12, 2026, listed a proposed meeting date of February 19, 2026. The following checkboxes were checked:
    a. "Meeting to review the evaluation and determine eligibility."
    b. On the acknowledgement page:
        i. "I plan to attend the meeting … on 02/19/2026 … ."
        ii. "I consent to waive my right to a 10-day prior written notice of this meeting to develop, review, or revise the IEP for my child."
    c. Documentation of delivery showed the School Psychologist emailed the NOM to the Parent on February 12, 2026.

17. A NOM, dated February 13, 2026, listed a proposed meeting date of February 19, 2026. The following checkboxes were checked:
    a. "Meeting to review the evaluation and determine eligibility."
    b. Under "Meeting to develop the Individualized Education Program (IEP)," "If it is determined that your child is eligible for special education and related services, the IEP team will develop an [IEP] for your child and determine the appropriate placement."
    c. On the acknowledgement page:
        i. "I plan to attend the meeting … on 02/19/2026 … ."
    d. Documentation of delivery showed the School Psychologist emailed the NOM to the Parent on February 12 and 13, 2026.
18. A NOM, dated February 16, 2026, listed a proposed meeting date of February 24, 2026. The following checkboxes were checked:
    a. "Meeting to review the evaluation and determine eligibility."
    b. Under "Meeting to develop the [IEP], "If it is determined that your child is eligible for special education and related services, the IEP team will develop an [IEP] for your child and determine the appropriate placement."
    c. An acknowledgement was signed by the Parent on February 16, 2026. The checkboxes indicated they would attend the meeting scheduled for February 24, 2026.
        i. The previous meeting date of February 19, 2026 was originally listed on the document. The Parent crossed out February 19, 2026 and wrote in February 24, 2026.
        ii. The Parent included a note, "If [the Student] is eligible, the IEP meeting will have to be scheduled for a later date."
    d. Documentation of delivery showed the School Psychologist emailed the NOM to the Parent on February 12, 13, and 16, 2026.
19. On February 19, 2026, the School Psychologist reached out to the teachers again, stating, "I've only received 3 gifted rating scales back." They shared, "I am needing as much evidence of [the Student's] classroom performance as possible … send me a little blurb about [their] performance in your class … I am going to try to observe [the Student] in class today or tomorrow, so if I come in, just ignore me!"
20. In a February 23, 2026 email to the Science Teacher, the School Psychologist stated, "[The Student] [is] performing so differently across classes. I've had electives teachers tell me [the Student] [is] going above and beyond, but core is a different story."
21. In an email on February 23, 2026, the Gifted Facilitator thanked the School Psychologist for "asking teachers for more evidence/data. Determining giftedness means we have to follow state guidelines (such as the testing you do) as well as other factors. In this situation, the more data the better."

22. On February 23, 2026, the School Psychologist emailed the Student's teachers, the Special Education Teacher, the Math Teacher, the Counselor, the Gifted Facilitator, and the Principal, requesting "I'd love for as many teachers to be [at the eligibility meeting] as possible, as [the Student] does not qualify (according to testing). If you could bring as much 'classroom performance' evidence as possible to the meeting, that would be helpful." The School Psychologist stated, "[The Parent] is still pushing for a gifted exceptionality even though the numbers are not there for me. … Giftedness is unique in that we don't have to rely ONLY on my test scores, so I need as much input as possible from you all."
    a. The FACS Teacher responded on February 23, 2026 with their observations of the Student.
23. A NOM, dated February 24, 2026, listed a proposed meeting date of March 2, 2026. The following checkboxes were checked:
    a. "Meeting to review the evaluation and determine eligibility."
    b. Under "Meeting to develop the [IEP], "If it is determined that your child is eligible for special education and related services, the IEP team will develop an [IEP] for your child and determine the appropriate placement."
    c. An acknowledgement was signed by the Parent on February 25, 2026. The checkboxes indicated they would attend the meeting scheduled for March 2, 2026.
        i. The Parent included a note, "If [the Student] is eligible, the IEP meeting will have to be scheduled for a later date."
    d. Documentation of delivery showed the School Psychologist emailed the NOM to the Parent on February 12, 13, 16 and 25, 2026.
24. The School Psychologist sent another message on February 25, 2026, again reminding staff to return the GRS forms.
    a. The Principal replied to the group, "If you haven't completed this form, please do so ASAP. … These were sent out quite a while ago, so they should be done by now."
    b. The School Psychologist forwarded the message to the Technology Teacher and the Careers Teacher with the following note on February 25, 2026:
        i. "I know you don't have [the Student] this semester, but if you have any memory of [their] performance in your class last semester, could you send me a couple of sentences about it? I am doing a gifted evaluation, and [the Student] does not qualify, but parents are still pushing for a gifted exceptionality. I just want as much data as possible."
        ii. The Careers Teacher replied on February 25, 2026, "[The Student] was a wonderful student to have in class. Most of the assignments for Career and Life Planning are very individualized. However, if a student was having trouble understanding a question or how to format an assignment, [the Student] would be one of the first to help."

25. PWN, dated March 2, 2026, stated the Student was not eligible for special education services. The eligibility section noted consent was not required.
    a. The description of the action refused reported the evaluation "took 99 days to complete" and the Student did not meet exceptionality criteria.
    b. The description of data used included "Formal cognitive and achievement assessment, parent input, teacher input." The assessments were "Woodcock-Johnson V Tests of Cognitive Abilities (WJ-V Cog); Woodcock-Johnson V Tests of Achievement (WJ-Ach); Gifted Rating Scales - School Form (GRS-S)."
    c. There was no documentation of delivery on the PWN.
26. A recording of the March 2, 2026 eligibility meeting provided by the Parent contained the following relevant information:
    a. The Social Studies Teacher provided their teacher input. They stated, "I think [the Student] feels comfortable with this class. … [The Student] does good [sic] sharing answers."
    b. The Science Teacher shared, "[The Student] has a lot of dependency on [their] friends in that class. If [the Student] doesn't understand something, [they] won't ask me for help. [They] will ask [their] neighbor for help. … I can't get a higher level thinking or a higher level answer out of [the Student]. It's very to the point."
    c. An unidentified teacher shared, "[The Student] performs well in my class. If it's discussions that require more of a critical thinking, [I] don't generally get any responses from [them], but if it's a review and it's a straightforward answer, then I get quite a few responses from [the Student]." The unidentified teacher further stated, "We don't know if [the Student] understands the material because the work [the Student] puts out … [is] great and then when [the Student] needs help, [they] [ask] [their] friends."
    d. The High School Geometry Teacher was not present.
    e. The School Psychologist reported, "In [High School] math, [the Student's] test scores were … really good, but they're not 100% all the time. Whereas [their] homework, [the Student] [is] getting extra credit on everything. [They] [are] getting 180% on assignments. So I'm wondering if [the Student] can go home and correct things." The Parent replied, "[The Student] can [bring work home and correct it], but [the Student] also does every single extra credit assignment … because [the Student] absolutely does not want to take the final in that class. So [they] [are] making sure [they] [get] [their] A."
    f. While the School Psychologist was describing their classroom observation of the Student during their Science class, the Parent asked, "Do you typically only observe them in one class?" The School Psychologist replied, "Yeah, usually."
    g. During the meeting, there was discussion about standardized testing dates. The Principal stated winter curriculum based measurements were taken between November and December breaks. The Counselor stated the tests were administered December 2, 2025. The Parent recalled the Student was sick that day, and had to make the tests up the following week.

h. The School Psychologist acknowledged the Student was "very, very, very fluent" in math.

i. The School Psychologist stated, "Going by my report and the evidence I have, [the Student] does not qualify for gifted services at this time. [The Student] does not demonstrate scores indicative of a gifted student right now, but that's one piece of the evidence. So I wanted to go around and discuss what everybody else sees and what they think because it is a team decision."

j. The Parent expressed that the Student was "bored." They noted that the Student had better evaluations from "hands-on" classes compared to "book" classes. The Parent observed the Student preferred the higher level math.

k. Regarding low curriculum based measurements for math within the evaluation report, the Parent asked if the Student had been tested at the eighth grade level or the high school level. They expressed they were "shocked" at the low score. The Principal and the Counselor stated they were unsure, but believed it was the eighth grade level. The Principal stated, "[It's] [b]een a while since [the Student] [has] actually done the skills that [they] [will] be tested on." The Counselor shared that many students who partake in enrichment classes, including the Student, need "a refresher to be successful" at grade level assessments. They suggested practicing in IXL before assessments. The Counselor reported state assessments are administered after spring break.

l. The Parent shared, "The reason I wanted to do this testing is because I've been told by three different district employees to have [the Student] tested over the years." They mentioned the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director encouraged them to move forward with the evaluation.

m. The Parent noticed a discrepancy in the report regarding the number of testing days and asked for clarification. The School Psychologist stated they tested the Student over two days, not one, as was listed in the report.

n. The School Psychologist told the Parent, "I do need you guys to sign this. It's the report and you can agree or disagree to it." The Parent replied, "I would like to look this over before I say I agree or disagree. Would that be okay? I will still sign it, but I would like to talk." The School Psychologist indicated that was acceptable. The Principal said, "You have plenty of time."

o. Regarding an additional document shared during the meeting, the School Psychologist said, "I'll just wait on this too, because this says whether [the Student] [is] eligible or not for special education and I haven't filled it out yet." The Parent stated, "I think all of you are in [sic] agreeance" the Student did not qualify for special education based on the evaluation.

27. On March 3, 2026, the Parent sent the Superintendent a [State] Open Records Act request for "any and all records created, sent, received, maintained, and/or stored between October 27, 2025 and March 3, 2026, that reference, mention, relate to, or concern [the Student] in any capacity."

a. They wrote, "This request specifically includes, but is not limited to: Emails … Text messages … Internal messaging platforms … Draft documents; Notes or memoranda; Calendar entries; Evaluation documents; Internal reports; Communications on personal devices if used for district business."

b. The Parent referenced several staff members and requested, "communications between these individuals as well as communications between these individuals and any other district employee, contractor, or third party, if such communication references or concerns [the Student]."

c. They requested the records be shared in electronic format and, "If any portion of this request is denied, please cite the specific statutory exemption relied upon." They asked for clarifications to be in writing.

d. The Superintendent responded on March 6, 2026 with a fee for staff time to gather the records. They offered, "Since that is a high price you are welcome to amend your language and resubmit your request if you would like to. If you choose to move forward … upon receipt of that amount we will assemble the documents responsive to your request. That process is likely to take at least 10 business days … ."

28. On March 6, 2026, the Parent emailed the LEA requesting to review the Student's records between October 30, 2025 and March 3, 2026 under FERPA. They referenced a previous KORA request, noting, "Due to the ridiculous estimated fee for a simple email search, I am now writing to clarify that many of the records requested are also education records … and are therefore subject to my parental right to inspect and review those records."

    a. District Counsel responded on March 11, 2026, "Is your request for records, whether under KORA or FERPA, limited to e-mail records?"

    b. The same day, the Parent reiterated their request for "any and all records created, sent, received, maintained, and/or stored between October 27, 2025 and March 3, 2026, that reference, mention, relate to, or concern [the Student]."

    c. District Counsel replied that evening, "That's what I thought. I'll ignore your assertion that your KORA request was 'for a simple email search.' We'll get back to you on your FERPA request."

29. On April 23, 2026, the School Psychologist emailed the Parent, inquiring, "I wanted to reach out and see what you had decided in terms of [the Student's] gifted evaluation. Either way, there is still some paperwork I need to close out before the end of the school year."

    a. The Parent replied, "Could you please provide me with the documents as well as the following information in writing: A description of each document that requires my attention or signature; The purpose of each document; Whether any document requires my signature, and if so, what I would be agreeing to by signing."

b. The School Psychologist responded that both the evaluation report and PWN needed parent signatures.

c. The Parent requested copies of PWN and the completed signature page from the evaluation report which included the signatures of the meeting participants.

d. The School Psychologist provided both requested documents.

30. On April 24, 2026, the Parent emailed several LEA staff, reporting they had filed "an official FERPA complaint with the Student Privacy Policy Office of the United States Department of Education. The complaint has been filed against USD 353, specifically [the Superintendent]."

    a. District Counsel responded, "Thanks for letting us know. I don't think the 60-day FERPA deadline has passed, but [the Superintendent] and I have discussed how to get you access to these records, and I'll get with you about that a little later this week."

31. The Parent sent an email to all members of the LEA School Board on May 11, 2026. The email stated, "I am requesting immediate attention to my FERPA request, originally sent to [the Superintendent] on March 6, 2026. Federal law states that I am to be provided access to the requested records within 45 days of the request being received. Today is day 67. I have not received the requested records or any communication providing a lawful basis for the district's continued noncompliance." They proceeded to detail their requests and correspondence with District Counsel.

    a. The School Board Vice President responded on May 11, 2026, "You should be hearing from [the Superintendent] and/or [District Counsel] tomorrow."

    b. The Parent emailed the School Board Vice President on May 14 and 21, 2026 to report they had not received any communications from the Superintendent or District Counsel.

32. District Assessment data for spring 2025-26 indicated the following results for the Student:

    a. 92nd percentile for knowledge of math facts.

    b. 84th percentile for overall math skills.

    c. 71st percentile for knowledge of math standards.

    d. 80th percentile for overall reading.

    e. 59th percentile for phonemic awareness, phonics, and vocabulary skills.

33. State Assessment data for the 2025-26 school year indicated the Student was "Level 2 … shows basic ability to demonstrate their knowledge and skills of grade-level Math standards" for eighth grade math. Their score was 510, below the School and District average score of 518, and State average score of 538. In specific areas, the Student scored the following:

    a. Proficient in geometry and in functions.

b. Below proficiency in expressions and equations and statistics and probability.

34. On May 26, 2026, the Parent filed the Complaint.

Parent Interview

35. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent indicated the Student's 6th Grade Math Teacher shared the Student completed their math work "way ahead of other students" and the Student had the majority of their class time free because they "did not have any extra work to work on." The 6th Grade Math Teacher suggested the Parent have the Student "test out of sixth grade math." The Parent complied and the Student was moved into a pre-algebra class at the High School, which was a class a typical seventh grade student would take. The Parent gave their permission for the Student to attend the pre-algebra class. The Parent indicated they thought the pre-algebra class was considered enrichment.
36. The Parent indicated the Evaluation Report dated February 11, 2026, had the following inaccuracies:
    a. The English Teacher, the Science Teacher, and the School Psychologist's input were "oddly, oddly [sic] similar to each other." The Parent indicated, "[M]y suspicion is that they worked together to make sure that this evaluation did not pass."
    b. The report stated the Student was tested on February 4, 2026, but the Parent knew the Student was tested over two days.
    c. There was observation data dated February 4, 2026, but there was no observation data for February 5, 2026. There was no documentation of the February 5, 2026 testing.
    d. After the February 11, 2026 Evaluation Report, the School Psychologist did not update the number of missing assignments. The Parent indicated all of the Student's missing assignments were completed from being sick as of February 20, 2026.
    e. The report indicated teacher input was vital for gifted evaluations, but at the eligibility meeting, the School Psychologist indicated teacher input was subjective. The Parent felt "you can't have it both ways."
    f. The Parent indicated the report did not include written teacher input from all of the Student's teachers and that the School Psychologist did not reach out to the classroom teachers "within an acceptable timeframe."
    g. The report did not explain if the math testing was over the eighth grade curriculum or the geometry curriculum.
    h. The School Psychologist observed the Student in science class, not math class.
    i. According to the Parent, the evaluation took 99 days to complete.
    j. The Parent indicated during the eligibility meeting, the School Psychologist kept stating, "[The Student] doesn't qualify, but … ." Because of this, the Parent felt like the team received a biased opinion from the School Psychologist.

k. The Parent claimed the School Psychologist "offered the teachers a chance to review the report and make any changes that they wanted to make that they were uncomfortable sharing with the Parents prior to us seeing it."

37. The Parent stated when the team was trying to schedule the eligibility meeting, the Parent requested documentation to review prior to the eligibility meeting. According to the Parent, the School Psychologist told the Parent that the eligibility decision "will not be made until we are at the meeting because [Parent 2] and I would be part of it." The Parent never saw the March 2, 2026 PWN until April 30, 2026, and stated it was the only PWN they were aware of. The Parent indicated the only reason they had seen the PWN was because the School Psychologist emailed the Parent telling the Parent they had to come into "the school to sign documents so [the School Psychologist] could send in all of this information to the [S]tate." The Parent indicated they did not get PWN for the February 2, 2026 eligibility meeting. The Parent stated they did not receive PWN at the eligibility meeting on March 2, 2026.
38. The Parent indicated the following:
    a. The Evaluation Report included the Student had an identified need in "resiliency and accepting failure." During the eligibility meeting, regarding the direct observation, the team kept saying how the Student "gave up easily and moved on rather than solving difficult questions," which according to the Parent, "was used as negative evidence against [the Student]." The Parent shared the team also talked about the Student's high motivation and "it's characterized as atypical for gifted students."
    b. According to the Parent, the GRS test given to the Student showed the Student's motivation was in the high range. The Parent shared, "So it doesn't make sense how you can have high motivation in the report, but then use it as disqualifying evidence. It is contradictory." The Parent indicated, "[W]hat the actual law says, … you either have to have potential or show potential in one subject. So that means, inconsistency in the report."
    c. The Parent indicated during the eligibility meeting the Gifted Facilitator stated the Student was getting everything available that the Middle School could provide for advanced math coursework.
    d. The Parent indicated the Counselor stated if the Student was put on an IEP for giftedness, "there was nothing that would change."

School Psychologist Interview

39. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the School Psychologist indicated there were errors in the Eligibility Report. Those errors were:
    a. An error in the testing dates.
    b. An error in the pronouns used.
    c. An error in the School Psychologist's credentials.

d. An error in the test description. It was not the WJ Cog 4 and WJ Ach 4, but it was the WJ Cog 5 and WJ Ach 5.

40. Regarding PWN about the discussion at the gifted eligibility meeting on March 2, 2026, the School Psychologist indicated the Parent perceived the entire evaluation took 90 days. The School Psychologist explained they had 60 school days to conduct an evaluation. "At that time, a PWN would have been given to the Parent. They would have stated that it was around 60 or 61 school days that the evaluation took. We don't have a copy of that one, but the next one that we have, it states that it's 90 days from the date of consent and that was when the Parent had finally gotten back to me about eligibility or about signing the eligibility stuff."
41. When asked if there were 30 days in between the first PWN and the second PWN, the School Psychologist indicated, "Something like that, somewhere around that. And I emailed [the Parent] and asked [them] if they wanted to sign the documents and I never got a response." The School Psychologist indicated there was one eligibility meeting but two PWNs. The School Psychologist explained the Parent did not sign the eligibility report and the PWN which the Parent was required to sign in order to finalize the eligibility determination, and that was the reason why there was a second PWN sent 30 days later because the School Psychologist had not heard back from the Parent. In this case, the School Psychologist sent a copy of the evaluation report to the Parent.
42. The School Psychologist indicated they did not know why the PWN dated March 2, 2026 had the documentation of delivery left blank. They indicated it might have been because they did not have names and the data in the system. They stated the forms are usually auto-populated. The School Psychologist indicated the use of state testing data was not useful and "… honestly. It just isn't something that I use for any kid typically."

Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director Interview

43. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director indicated the Student was taking a geometry course at the High School and indicated it was "a traditional high school geometry class." The Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director shared the Student started the class in the fall of 2025, and the Student was enrolled in the geometry class for the entire 2025-26 school year.
44. Regarding alternatives for the Student's English Language Arts class, the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director explained during the time when the Parent challenged the curriculum, the Student was offered an alternative placement. The Parent had asked if there was an opportunity for the Student to take a virtual course. The Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director indicated they worked through what that might look like together with the Parent.
45. When asked about what inaccuracies were present in PWN regarding the March 2, 2026 gifted eligibility meeting, the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director indicated the following:

a. The School Psychologist had left PWN blank because the team was going to talk about whether the Student was eligible at the meeting.
b. The School Psychologist indicated PWN was blank because they needed to fill it out based upon "what the team believed."

46. When asked about the discrepancies in the eligibility report, the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director indicated there were several, but stated, "I don't believe that they substantively changed the report." They stated the discrepancies included the following:
    a. The achievement testing the School Psychologist completed was "the fifth edition, not the fourth edition."
    b. There were grammatical errors.
    c. There was one incorrect usage of a pronoun.
    d. There was some confusion about attendance records when the report was initially made "versus when [the School Psychologist] added to it versus the last on the day of the meeting." The Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director had the School Psychologist put in the Student's whole attendance record in the amended report.
47. When asked about PWN and meeting notice documentation process, the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director explained, "The [N]otice of [M]eeting, that seemed a little bit of a wonky process in terms of just getting everybody together and scheduling. And so that went back and forth several times so that they could get the whole team together." When asked about the Parent's concerns regarding the NOM not being collaborative for scheduling a meeting, the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director stated, " … there's a string of emails that goes back and forth between [the Parent] and [the School Psychologist] in terms of scheduling."
48. When asked about the March 2, 2026 PWN documentation of delivery being left blank, the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director indicated the "whole [PWN] was left blank so that after the team decision, they could fill it out together." In addition, the Parent requested extra time to go back and review the audio recording. The Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director explained the audio recording indicated, "[The Parent] had no trouble with signing it." The Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director shared their understanding regarding the final PWN was the entire process had not been finished because the School Psychologist had not heard back from the Parent.
49. According to the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director, the Parent did not sign the evaluation report and PWN which indicated appropriate placement of the Student which were required to finalize the eligibility process.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, completed the Student's gifted evaluation within 60 school days of the Parent providing consent. K.A.R. 91-40-8(f).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-8(f), unless an agency has obtained written parental consent to an extension of time, the agency shall complete the following activities within 60 school days of the date the agency receives written parental consent for evaluation of a child: conduct the evaluation of the child; conduct a meeting to determine whether the child is an exceptional child and, if so, to develop an IEP for the child. The agency shall give notice of this meeting to the child's parent or parents. The agency shall also implement the child's IEP.

The Parent alleged the Student's gifted evaluation was not completed within 60 days of the Parent providing consent.

The LEA indicated given a snow day, the 60th day would have been February 19, 2026. According to an email chain between the Parent and the School Psychologist, the School team initially scheduled the meeting on February 19, 2026. The meeting occurred on March 2, 2026, which was 69 days after consent was signed.

PWN for evaluation consent, dated October 28, 2025, documented the LEA proposed an initial evaluation at the Parent's request to assess the Student's general cognitive abilities and academic skills and achievement levels. The Parent signed consent on October 30, 2025. On December 9, 2025, the Principal emailed the Parent stating the Student was "slated for testing in early January." That same day, the School Psychologist emailed several staff members—including the ELA, Social Studies, and Science teachers, the Math Teacher, the Principal, and the Counselor, requesting completion of a gifted screener that had been distributed about a month earlier.

The School Psychologist informed the Gifted Facilitator on February 6, 2026 that they had finished testing the Student, needed to write the report, and were available for a meeting, noting the Student's eligibility deadline of February 18, 2026. In an email exchange with the Parent between February 11 and February 25, 2026, the School Psychologist stated the evaluation had been completed and initially proposed meeting dates of February 19 or 20, 2026. The Parent agreed to meet on February 19, 2026, and the School Psychologist issued a NOM for that date. On February 19, 2026 the LEA had a snow day. Due to the Parent's request for alternate meeting dates, and the teachers not being available on one of the previously selected meeting dates, the evaluation meeting was held on March 2, 2026 which was 69 days after the consent was signed.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated the LEA failed to complete the Student's gifted evaluation within 60 days of the Parent providing consent.

Issue Two

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, scheduled a special education meeting at a mutually agreeable meeting time. The Parent further alleged they did not waive the standard ten day meeting notice period. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-17(a), each agency shall take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each IEP team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate. Each agency will schedule each meeting at a mutually agreed-upon time and place, informing the parent of the information specified in this regulation. Each agency shall provide written notice to the parent of any IEP team meeting at least ten days in advance of the meeting.

The Parent alleged the notice of meeting procedures were not followed because the LEA issued formal meeting notices with predetermined meeting dates that had not been mutually agreed upon by the Parent. In addition, the Notice of Meeting included a pre-determined checkbox which indicated agreement to waive a ten-day meeting notice period.

The LEA indicated the first attempt at setting up the evaluation meeting was via email on February 11, 2026. Initially, the Parent shared February 19, 2026 would work. The Parent then requested another time given the amount of information to be discussed. The Parent and the LEA agreed to meet on March 2, 2026.

After the Parent received the NOM on February 12, 2026, they followed up with two issues. They objected to the School Psychologist pre-checking the box for, "I consent to waive my right to a 10-day prior written notice of this meeting to develop, review, or revise the IEP for my child." The Parent requested a new meeting date, a revised NOM, and that the 10-day waiver checkbox not be checked. The School Psychologist replied on February 13, 2026. The School Psychologist included an updated NOM with the previously agreed upon date of February 19, 2026 and the checkbox to waive the 10-day prior written notice of the meeting was not prechecked, correcting the Parent's concern.

A NOM, dated February 24, 2026, documented a proposed meeting date of March 2, 2026. The Parent signed the acknowledgement on February 25, 2026, indicating they would attend the March 2 meeting. Documentation showed the School Psychologist emailed the NOM to the Parent on February 12, 13, 16, and 25, 2026, confirming delivery of the notice of meeting. When the Parent originally agreed to attend the February 19, 2026 IEP, they were waiving the 10-day notice requirement because they agreed to attend the meeting without receiving 10 days notice.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to schedule a special education meeting at a mutually agreeable meeting time. Further, the NOM was adjusted regarding the 10-day waiver box.

Issue Three

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided timely PWN for the March 2, 2026 gifted eligibility meeting and whether PWN was compliant as follows: whether the documentation of delivery was left blank; whether all assessment results, classroom observation data, and teacher input were recorded as a basis for eligibility, when they were referenced in the eligibility meeting; and whether it contained inaccurate information regarding the discussion at the gifted eligibility meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-26(a)(b), K.S.A. 72-3432(a-e).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-26(a)(b) and K.S.A. 72-3432(a-e), in providing any notice to the parents of an exceptional child regarding an action proposed or refused by an agency, the agency shall ensure that the notice includes a description of other options the agency considered and the reasons why those options were rejected. In addition, a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal will be provided. The notice shall be written in a language understandable to the general public.

The Parent alleged the LEA did not provide PWN for the March 2, 2026 gifted eligibility meeting until April 23, 2026, with the documentation of the delivery section blank. The Parent indicated the LEA did not include assessment results, classroom observation data, or teacher input basis for eligibility in the PWN. The Parent alleged the PWN issued by the LEA contained inaccurate information regarding the discussion at the LEA eligibility meeting.

The LEA stated that based on the audio recording provided by the Parent, the Parent declined to sign anything at the meeting and took the paperwork with them. The School Psychologist explained that they would also need their signatures on another form, which was the PWN. The PWN document was left open due to that, which was why when another PWN was requested. To date, neither PWN, nor the eligibility report, had been signed by the Parent.

The Parent stated they did not receive PWN for the March 2, 2026 meeting until April 23, 2026, asserting the documentation-of-delivery section on the March 2, 2026 PWN had been left blank. In discussing PWN related to the gifted eligibility meeting held on March 2, 2026, the School Psychologist explained the Parent believed the entire evaluation process had taken 90 days, while the LEA had 60 school days to complete an evaluation. The School Psychologist explained a PWN would have been provided to the Parent at the time the evaluation was completed and it would have reflected an evaluation timeline of approximately 60 or 61 school days. They noted the LEA did not have a copy of the earlier PWN, and the next available notice documented a 90-day period from the date of consent, which corresponded to when the Parent ultimately responded regarding eligibility and the required signatures. This explanation reflected the LEA's position on the differing timelines and the absence of the earlier PWN. The Parent received PWN at the March 2, 2026 meeting and took home this paperwork to consider the information. Another copy was provided on April 23, 2026, the timeframe was considered provided in a timely manner.

According to the LEA, the Parent declined to sign anything at the March 2, 2026 eligibility meeting and took the paperwork with them. The School Psychologist explained to the Parent they would need signatures "on another form, which was PWN." The LEA explained PWN was left open due to the Parent declining to sign PWN, which indicated the reason for the documentation-of-delivery section being left blank. Another PWN was requested because of this and that PWN stated that it took 99 days to complete the eligibility meeting.

PWN for the March 2, 2026 eligibility meeting provided a description of the data used as a basis for the proposed or refused action. The specific information included listing a formal cognitive and achievement assessment, parent input, teacher input, and the following administered tests:

1. Woodcock-Johnson V Tests of Cognitive Abilities (WJ-V Cog)

2. Woodcock-Johnson V Tests of Achievement (WJ-Ach)

3. Gifted Rating Scales - School Form (GRS-S).

The LEA included what assessments were used, the use of parent input, and teacher input, and actual assessment results were recorded in the Evaluation Report; however, the LEA did not state a direct classroom observation was conducted by the School Psychologist.

Based on the foreg*oing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated* the LEA failed to provide timely and compliant PWN for the March 2, 2026 gifted eligibility meeting.

Issue Four

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, evaluated the Student in all areas of suspected exceptionality. K.A.R. 91-40-9(a)(3)(9)(b)(1).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-9(a)(3)(9)(b)(1), if assessment instruments are used as a part of the evaluation or reevaluation of an exceptional child, the agency shall ensure a variety of assessment tools and strategies shall be used to gather relevant functional and developmental information about the child, including information provided by the parent, and information related to enabling the child to be involved and progress in the general curriculum to participate in appropriate activities that could assist in determining whether the child is an exceptional child and what the content of the child's IEP should be. Each agency shall use assessment tools and strategies that provide relevant information that directly assists persons in determining the educational needs of the child. Each child shall be assessed in all areas related to a suspected exceptionality, including, if appropriate, health, vision, hearing, social and emotional status, general intelligence, academic performance, communicative status, and motor abilities.

The Parent alleged the LEA did not evaluate the Student in the suspected areas of exceptionality.

The LEA responded that based on the consent form, the Student was to be evaluated in academic performance and general intelligence. Based on the evaluation report, the Student was evaluated using the Woodcock-Johnson Tests of Cognitive Abilities, Woodcock-Johnson Tests of Achievement Cognitive Profile, and Gifted Rating Scales. Also included in the evaluation report were the Student's FastBridge District assessment scores and current classroom performance.

PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, dated October 28, 2025, was signed by the Parent on October 30, 2025. The document noted it was for an initial evaluation, described what the Student would be evaluated for, and the types of assessments to be used. A testing observation was completed on February 4, 2026, with the evaluator concluding the results were a valid representation of the Student's current abilities. A subsequent classroom observation was conducted on February 23, 2026. The Student was observed in science class, not math class, but math evaluation test scores, and Fastbridge tests were given.

Assessment data indicated the LEA gave the Student a variety of assessment tools, and, as required by law, teacher input regarding current classroom performance and parent input were included. The information was relevant and the Student was assessed in all areas indicated in the October 28, 2025 PWN.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to evaluate the Student in all areas of suspected exceptionality.

Issue Five

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided an evaluation report that included and interpreted "statistically significant" math scores as academic strengths for the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-1(bb), K.A.R. 91-40-8(c)(1), K.A.R. 91-40-9(a)(9).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(bb), "gifted" means a student who when compared to peers of similar age, experience, and environment, performs or demonstrates the potential to perform at significantly higher levels of accomplishment in one or more academic fields due to intellectual ability.

According to K.A.R 91-40-8(c)(1), as a part of an initial evaluation, if appropriate, and as a part of any reevaluation, each agency shall ensure that members of an appropriate IEP team for the child and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, shall review existing evaluation data on the child. The evaluation data and information shall include evaluations and information provided by the parent of the child, current classroom-based, local, and state assessments. It shall also include classroom-based observations, as well as observations by teachers, and related service providers.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-9(a)(9), if assessment instruments are used as a part of the evaluation or reevaluation of an exceptional child, the agency shall use assessment tools and strategies that provide relevant information that directly assist persons in determining the educational needs of the child.

The Parent alleged the LEA evaluation report did not include or interpret statistically significant math scores as academic strengths. The Parent indicated that without clarification of the curriculum levels in which the Student was assessed, they were unsure whether the data could be considered reliable.

The LEA indicated math scores were included. During the evaluation meeting, according to the LEA, the scores were presented and discussed and documented in the recording the Parent submitted.

The Parent indicated the evaluation report did not acknowledge or interpret the statistically significant academic scores as a strength, although the score statistically showed exceptional performance. The Parent indicated the current Kansas State Assessment Scores placed the Student above school, district, and state medians in math, English, and science, which according to the Parent were directly relevant to a determination of academic giftedness. The evaluation report included the Student's math scores and referenced a FastBridge Report score of 229 on the evaluation report. The report did not explain if the math testing was over the eighth grade curriculum or the geometry curriculum.

According to the Woodcock-Johnson Test of Achievement, Fourth [Fifth] Edition(WJ-IVAch), the Student scored average in the areas of Achievement and Brief Reading, High Average in the area of Brief Math, and Superior in the area of Math Calculation Skills, which indicated math score differentiation was reported in each subtest area. An academic summary noted, "[The Student's] overall academic abilities are in the average range. … [The Student] did not demonstrate any personal strengths or weaknesses." Statewide test scores were not used by the School Psychologist in the report; they typically did not use the statewide test scores for identification.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to provide an evaluation report that included, and interpreted, "statistically significant" math scores as academic strengths for the Student.

Issue Six

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided the Parent with an inaccurate evaluation report, including incorrect attendance data, incorrect gender pronouns, conflicting testing dates, incomplete and inconsistent teacher input, unexplained assessment data, and post-meeting report revisions. K.A.R. 91-40-9(a)(3), K.A.R. 91-40-8(c).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-9(a)(3), if assessment instruments are used as a part of the evaluation or reevaluation of an exceptional child, the agency shall ensure that a variety of assessment tools and strategies shall be used to gather relevant functional and developmental information about the child, including information provided by the parent, and information related to enabling the child to be involved and progress in the general curriculum, to participate in appropriate activities that could assist in determining whether the child is an exceptional child and what the content of the child's IEP should be.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-8(c), as part of an initial evaluation, if appropriate, and as a part of any reevaluation, each agency shall ensure that members of an appropriate IEP team for the child and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, comply with certain requirements. The evaluation team shall review existing evaluation data on the child, including evaluations and information provided by the parent of the child, current classroom-based, local, and state assessments, and classroom-based observations. In addition, the evaluation team shall review observations by teachers and related service providers.

On the basis of that review and input from the child's parents, the evaluation team shall identify what additional data, if any, is needed to determine whether the child has a particular category of exceptionality, and what the present levels of academic, achievement and educational and related developmental needs of the child are. In addition, whether the child needs special education and related services.

The Parent alleged the team over-relied on subjective teacher observations and personality-based impressions rather than the "full body" of the evaluation data. The Parent alleged the team used single instrument results, selectively treating low scores as disqualifying while discounting high scores as "atypical or suspicious." The Parent claimed the team selectively applied unfavorable results from an instrument the LEA itself validated.

The LEA acknowledged errors within the context of the evaluation report, including testing dates, gender pronoun usage, and some confusion about attendance data. The LEA indicated they would like the opportunity to provide the Parent with a report that included those corrections. The Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director had the School Psychologist put in the Student's whole attendance record in the proposed amended report.

The teachers' input collectively described a pattern in which the Student participated comfortably with straightforward tasks but struggled to demonstrate higher-level thinking or independent problem-solving. The Geometry Teacher was not present but provided written input regarding the Student's performance.

The LEA indicated there were inaccuracies in the Evaluation Report and made post-meeting corrections to the inaccuracies when the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director had the School Psychologist change the attendance information to put in the whole attendance record of the Student. There is no evidence to suggest these errors hindered the evaluation or eligibility process, and the LEA made efforts to make corrections.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations*, it is not substantiated* that the LEA failed to provide the Parent with an accurate evaluation report including incorrect attendance data, incorrect gender pronouns, conflicting testing dates, incomplete and inconsistent teacher input, unexplained assessment data, and post meeting report revisions.

Issue Seven

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided the Parent an opportunity to inspect and review the Student's education records following the Parent's request on March 6, 2026. K.A.R. 91-40-25(a), K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1); 34 C.F.R. § 99.10(a)(b)(c)(d).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-25(a) and K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1), each agency shall allow the parents of an exceptional child an opportunity to inspect and review all educational records and participate in any meeting concerning their child regarding the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child, and the provision of a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE) to the child.

Except as limited under § 99.12, a parent or eligible student must be given the opportunity to inspect and review the student's education records. This provision applies to any educational agency or institution, and any State educational agency (SEA) and its components. For the purposes of subpart B of this part, an SEA and its components constitute an educational agency or institution. An SEA and its components are subject to subpart B of this part if the SEA maintains education records on students who are or have been in attendance at any school of an educational agency or institution subject to the Act and this part. The educational agency or institution, or SEA or its component, shall comply with a request for access to records within a reasonable period of time, but not more than 45 days after it has received the request. The educational agency or institution, or SEA or its component shall respond to reasonable requests for explanations and interpretations of the records. If circumstances effectively prevent the parent or eligible student from exercising the right to inspect and review the student's education records, the educational agency or institution, or SEA or its component, shall provide the parent or eligible student with a copy of the records requested; or make other arrangements for the parent or eligible student to inspect and review the requested records.

The LEA indicated the Parent sent a Kansas Open Records Act, (KORA) request to the LEA. The LEA responded to the KORA request as required by law. The Parent sent the LEA an email changing their KORA request to a Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) request after the LEA responded to their KORA request. The Parent then sent an email to the LEA which stated they filed a Complaint with the US Department of Education. The LEA's attorney and Superintendent have continued to work through the FERPA request that was made.

In a March 6, 2026 email, the Parent requested to inspect and review the Student's education records created between October 30, 2025 and March 3, 2026 under FERPA, noting that many of the same materials previously sought through a KORA request were also education records subject to parental access. On March 11, 2026, District Counsel asked whether the Parent's request, under either KORA or FERPA, was limited to email records. The Parent reiterated later that day that they were seeking "any and all records" created, sent, received, maintained, or stored during the specified timeframe that referenced or related to the Student.

On May 11, 2026, the Parent emailed all members of the LEA School Board, asserting their original March 6, 2026 FERPA request was now 67 days old, despite federal law requiring access within 45 days, and that they had received neither the records nor any lawful justification for the delay. The Parent emailed the Vice Principal again on May 14 and May 21, 2026, reporting that they still had not received any communication from either the Superintendent or the District's Counsel regarding their FERPA request. The evidence did not indicate whether the Parent received the records they requested during the investigation period.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to provide the Parent an opportunity to inspect and review the Student's education records following the Parent's request on March 6, 2026.

Issue Eight

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided the Student with gifted services prior to conducting an evaluation and developing an IEP for the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(1).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(1), except as otherwise provided, each agency shall ensure an IEP is in effect before special education and related services are provided to an exceptional child.

The Parent alleged that during the eligibility meeting, the Gifted Facilitator/Case Manager verbally stated the Student was already receiving enrichment equivalent to what a gifted IEP would provide. The Parent expressed that if the Student was receiving gifted-equivalent services informally and without a formal IEP, those services were undocumented, unenforceable, and subject to discontinuation without notice or parental consent, raising concern about whether the procedural protections required under IDEA were being provided.

The LEA indicated the Student was provided enrichment opportunities within the School setting during the 2025-26 school year. This included placement in a math course at the School.

Student Schedules for the 2025-26 school year reported the Student attended the High School for first through third periods, and attended the Middle School for fourth through ninth periods, beginning August 18, 2025. A transcript indicated the Student took a geometry course, not a pre-algebra course as the Parent stated in their interview, at the High School. This was corroborated by the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director during their interview, and they described it as, "a traditional high school geometry class." The Parent and the LEA indicated the geometry class was an enrichment class provided to the Student since the Student was in Middle School. It was not an enrichment or accelerated course at the high school level.

The geometry class was considered an enrichment course for the Student, according to the Parent. Since the Student was enrolled in the class for the entire 2025-26 school year, the Student was enrolled in the class prior to the gifted eligibility meeting on March 2, 2026. Being enrolled in an advanced course does not necessarily mean gifted services were provided to the Student prior to consideration of the Student's eligibility for special education services.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to provide the Student with gifted services prior to conducting an evaluation and developing an IEP for the Student.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-8(f) specify the gifted evaluation is to be completed within 60-school-days of the Parent providing consent.
    a. In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #353 did not complete the Student's gifted evaluation within 60 school days of the Parent providing consent. Documentation, interviews, and the LEA Response Letter, dated June 5, 2026, support these findings.

B. B. Federal regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-25(a), K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1), and 34 C.F.R. § 99.10(a)(b)(c)(d) specify that parents have the right to inspect and review the Student's educational records within 45 days of the initial request.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 353 did not provide the Parent an opportunity to inspect and review the Student's education records within the 45 day timeline. The Parents requested records on March 6, 2026. The Response Letter, dated June 5, 2026, documentation, and interviews support these findings.

Based on the foregoing, USD #353 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #353 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) at K.A.R. 91-40-8(f), K.A.R.91-40-26(a)(b), K.A.R. 91-40-25(a), K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1), K.S.A. 72-3432(a-e), and 34 C.F.R. § 99.10(a)(b)(c)(d).
2. Further, by August 25, 2026, USD #353 will submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) that:
    a. The LEA's practices and procedures for initial evaluations, PWN, and access to educational records have been reviewed and revised as appropriate to be responsive and compliant with evaluation procedures of the IDEA and the Kansas Special Education for Exceptional Children Act.
    b. Staff training on the identified deficiencies have been completed.
    c. If the LEA has a tracking system to comply with the timelines for the special education evaluation process, it will provide a written description of that system to SETS.
    d. If LEA does not currently have a tracking system to comply with the timelines for the special education evaluation process, then one will be created, and a written description of that system will be sent to SETS.
    e. The LEA will comply with the FERPA records request by providing access to or sending the educational records to the Parent.
3. The LEA shall provide to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) documentation that all corrective action items have been completed no later than August 25, 2026.

Tania Tong, Licensed Complaint Investigator

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 353,
Wellington Public Schools: 26FC353-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on May 26, 2026, by _____ on behalf of her son, _____. In the remainder of this decision, Ms. _____ will be referred to as "the parent," and _____ will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on June 27, 2026. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the parent filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the parent's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

In this complaint appeal, the parent asks the Appeal Committee to respond to a number of questions. The committee declines that invitation because that is not a function of an appeal committee under K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)(1). The Appeal Committee's sole function is to determine whether complaint report delivered a correct or incorrect analysis and conclusion.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report identified eight issues. The parent appeals the decisions in Issues Two, Three, Four, Five, Six and Eight.

Issue Two

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, scheduled a special education meeting at a mutually agreeable meeting time. The Parent further alleged they did not waive the standard 10-day meeting notice period.

The Parent received a notice of IEP Meeting (NOM) on February 12, 2026. The parent objected to the School Psychologist pre-checking the box for, "I consent to waive my right to a 10-day prior written notice of this meeting to develop, review, or revise the IEP for my child." The Parent had indicated that the February 19 date "would work." Later, the parent requested a new meeting date, with a revised NOM, and asked that the 10-day waiver checkbox not be checked. The School Psychologist replied on February 13, 2026 with an updated NOM with the previously agreed upon date of February 19, 2026. The checkbox to waive the 10-day prior written notice of the meeting was not prechecked on this notice.

The investigator concluded that "When the Parent originally agreed to attend the February 19, 2026 IEP, they were waiving the 10-day notice requirement because they agreed to attend the meeting without receiving 10 days' notice."

The parent is correct, in her appeal, that the waiver of a parental right to a ten-day notice of meeting should never be prechecked by school personnel without the assent of the parent. The Appeal Committee notes that no harm resulted from this error. The IEP team did not meet on February 19, 2026. Rather, another NOM, dated February 24, 2026, proposed meeting date of March 2, 2026 and the parent signed the acknowledgement on February 25, 2026, indicating that the parent would attend the March 2 meeting.

When looking at procedural requirements of special education law, the courts have said that a procedural violation is only a violation of law when it "results in the loss of educational opportunity or seriously infringes the parents' opportunity to participate in the IEP formation process." J.W. ex rel. J.E.W v. Fresno Unified Sch. Dist., 626 F.3d 431, 451 52 (9th Cir. 2010). Of course, this standard also applies to a parent's right to participate in the eligibility meeting process as well.

In this instance, it appears that there was a procedural violation but it did not "seriously infringe the parents' opportunity to participate" in the eligibility meeting for her child. The proposed meeting for February 19, 2026 did not occur. The March 2 eligibility meeting was held and the parent participated.

Issue Three

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided timely prior written notice (PWN) for the March 2, 2026 gifted eligibility meeting and whether PWN was compliant as follows:

whether the documentation of delivery was left blank; whether all assessment results, classroom observation data, and teacher input were recorded as a basis for eligibility, when they were referenced in the eligibility meeting; and whether it contained inaccurate information regarding the discussion at the gifted eligibility meeting.

The PWN dated March 2, 2026, stated that the Student was not eligible for special education services and the eligibility section noted that consent was not required. That PWN included the following:

a. The description of the action refused reported that the evaluation "took 99 days to complete" and the Student did not meet exceptionality criteria.
b. The description of data used included "Formal cognitive and achievement assessment, parent input, teacher input." The assessments were "Woodcock-Johnson V Tests of Cognitive Abilities (WJ-V Cog); Woodcock-Johnson V Tests of Achievement (WJ-Ach); Gifted Rating Scales - School Form (GRS-S)."
c. There was no documentation of delivery on the PWN. (Report, Finding 25, p. 16)

The School Psychologist indicated that there was one eligibility meeting but two PWNs. The School Psychologist explained that the Parent did not sign the eligibility report and the PWN which the Parent was required to sign in order to finalize the eligibility determination. Because the School Psychologist had not heard back from the parent there was a second PWN sent 30 days later. The School Psychologist sent a copy of the evaluation report to the Parent. (Report, Finding 41, p. 25).

The School Psychologist indicated that it was not known why the PWN dated March 2, 2026 had the documentation of delivery left blank (Report, Finding 42, p. 25). According to the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director, the Parent did not sign the evaluation report nor the PWN, which the Assistant Superintendent/Special Education Director believed were required to finalize the eligibility process." (Report, Finding 49).

On April 23, 2026, the parent requested a copy of that PWN and the evaluation report and both were provided (Report, Finding 29, p. 20).

The Appeal Committee notes that a PWN that was completed at the March 2, 2026 eligibility meeting. Whether the parent received a copy of that PWN at the March 2 meeting is unknown. The Appeal Committee finds that it is unnecessary to determine whether or not the parent left that eligibility meeting with a copy of the PWN because the parent participated at the eligibility meeting, was fully informed of the decision of the evaluation team, and took home a copy of the evaluation report. As indicated in Issue Two, when looking at procedural requirements of special education law, such as providing a PWN, the courts have said that a procedural violation is only a violation of law when it "results in the loss of educational opportunity or seriously infringes the parents' opportunity to participate in the IEP formation process." J.W. ex rel. J.E.W v. Fresno Unified Sch. Dist., 626 F.3d 431, 451 52 (9th Cir. 2010). Here, the failure to provide the parent with a PWN (if that occurred), did not result in a loss of educational opportunity because the student was determined to be ineligible. Nor did it seriously infringe on the parents' opportunity to participate in the decision making process as the parent attended the meeting, participated in the meeting and was provided with a copy of the evaluation report.

As a final comment on this issue, the Committee notes that when an evaluation team determines that a child is not eligible, that decision, and a PWN explaining that decision, does not require parent consent.

Issue Four

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, evaluated the Student in all areas of suspected exceptionality.

The student was evaluated for the exceptionality of gifted. In this appeal, the parent says that "accelerated math class is where his "suspected exceptionality" is, and that the student was not appropriately evaluated specifically for his math skills. The investigator found that the "PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent, dated October 28, 2025, was signed by the Parent on October 30, 2025. The document noted that the consent was for an initial evaluation and the Student would be evaluated for "general cognitive abilities" and "academic or preacademic skills and achievement levels." The document indicated the evaluation was initiated at parent request." (Report, Finding 5, p. 5).

The investigator found that District Assessment data for fall 2025-26 reported the following results for the Student:

a. 94th percentile for knowledge of math facts.
b. 83rd percentile for overall math skills.
c. 91st percentile for knowledge of math standards.
d. 74th percentile for overall reading.
e. 87th percentile for phonemic awareness, phonics, and vocabulary skills.

(Report, Finding 6, p.5).

The investigator concluded that: "Assessment data indicated the LEA gave the Student a variety of assessment tools, and, as required by law, teacher input regarding current classroom performance and parent input were included. The information was relevant and the Student was assessed in all areas indicated in the October 28, 2025 PWN" (Emphasis added). (Report, p. 33).

The parent requested this evaluation and approved the PWN describing the kinds of assessments to be performed. Assessments actually performed included assessments in knowledge of math standards, knowledge of math facts and overall math skills. The Appeal Committee finds that there is sufficient evidence to support the investigator's conclusion on this issue.

Issue Five

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided an evaluation report that included and interpreted "statistically significant" math scores as academic strengths for the Student.

In the conclusion of Issue five the investigator states: "According to the Woodcock-Johnson Test of Achievement, Fourth [Fifth] Edition(WJ-IVAch), the Student scored average in the areas of Achievement and Brief Reading, High Average in the area of Brief Math, and Superior in the area of Math Calculation Skills, which indicated math score differentiation was reported in each subtest area. An academic summary noted, "[The Student's] overall academic abilities are in the average range. … [The Student] did not demonstrate any personal strengths or weaknesses." Statewide test scores were not used by the School Psychologist in the report; they typically did not use the statewide test scores for identification (emphasis added with bold print).

In this appeal, the parent cites K.A.R. 91-40-8(c)(1) and asserts that "This law literally states that state assessments should be included in the evaluation (emphasis added).

It is a fine distinction, but this Kansas regulation does not require state assessments to be included in the materials used to conduct an initial special education evaluation. This provision applies only to the initial phase of an evaluation where the team is gathering information to determine what information will be necessary to conduct an evaluation regarding eligibility so that the team can provide a sufficient Prior Written Notice (PWN) to parents of the assessments it will use in the evaluation. At this phase of the evaluation process, an evaluation team may determine that state assessment results are not necessary to determine initial eligibility. That is what happened in the evaluation process for this student.

The cited regulation, K.A.R. 91-40-8(c)(1), is copied below, with emphasis added in bold print to illustrate the limited application of this regulation in the evaluation process:

(c) As a part of an initial evaluation, if appropriate, and as a part of any reevaluation, each agency shall ensure that members of an appropriate IEP team for the child and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, comply with the following requirements:

(1) The evaluation team shall review existing evaluation data on the child, including the following information:

(A) Evaluations and information provided by the parent or parents of the child;

(B) current classroom-based, local, and state assessments and classroom-based observations; and

(C) observations by teachers and related services providers.

(2) On the basis of that review and input from the child's parent or parents, the evaluation team shall identify what additional data, if any, is needed to determine the following matters:

(A) Whether the child has a particular category of exceptionality or, in the case of a reevaluation of a child, whether the child continues to have such an exceptionality;

(B) what the present levels of academic achievement and educational and related developmental needs of the child are;

(C) whether the child needs special education and related services, or in the case of a reevaluation of a child, whether the child continues to need special education and related services; and

(D) whether, in the case of a reevaluation of the child, any additions or modifications to the special education and related services currently being provided to the child are needed to enable the child to meet the measurable annual goals set out in the IEP of the child and to participate, as appropriate, in the general education curriculum.

Again, this part of Kansas regulations relates to the initial stage of the evaluation when a school district is in the process of developing a PWN for proposing to conduct an evaluation. That initial stage requires a review of already existing evaluation data, specifically including state assessments, to determine what other data might be needed for the PWN. This regulation does not require that state assessments be included in the data that an evaluation team reviews as a part of every special education evaluation, unless so specified in the PWN.

What a team determines to be necessary for a proper evaluation may have subjective elements, such as what particular assessments may be included. The PWN and consent provisions are designed to clarify these elements by specifying in writing what assessments are needed and will be conducted. The evidence supports the conclusion in the complaint report that this student's evaluation report did not lack required content and included, and interpreted, "statistically significant" math scores as academic strengths for the Student.

The complaint report is sustained on this issue.

Issue Six

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided the Parent with an inaccurate evaluation report, including incorrect attendance data, incorrect gender pronouns, conflicting testing dates, incomplete and inconsistent teacher input, unexplained assessment data, and post-meeting report revisions.

In this issue, the parent asserts that there were inaccuracies in the district's evaluation report. The complaint report recognized those shortcomings, stating that, "The LEA acknowledged errors within the context of the evaluation report, including testing dates, gender pronoun usage, and some confusion about attendance data." The report also stated that, "There is no evidence to suggest these errors hindered the evaluation or eligibility process, and the LEA made efforts to make corrections." (Report, p. 36).

Perfection in the content of an evaluation report is not a legal standard in either federal or state law. Neither the regulations cited by the parent, nor any other regulation or statute, requires that a special education evaluation report be free of errors. Such a requirement would likely be nearly impossible to attain on a consistent basis.

Instead, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.618 through 300.621 provides a procedure that parents may use when they believe that information in the education records collected, maintained, or used for special education purposes is inaccurate or misleading. That process includes a request from the parent that the district amend the information and the right to a hearing when the district refuses to amend the information (See, 34 C.F.R. 300.618 through 300.621. That is the process for challenging the accuracy of special education records. This complaint process is not a proper venue for such allegations.

The complaint report is sustained on this issue.

Issue Eight

Whether USD #353, in accordance with state regulations, provided the Student with gifted services prior to conducting an evaluation and developing an IEP for the Student.

In this issue, the parent alleged that during the eligibility meeting, the Gifted Facilitator/Case Manager verbally stated that the Student was already receiving enrichment equivalent to what a gifted IEP would provide and in doing so the school was providing special education gifted services without completing an evaluation and without adopting an IEP.

The investigator found that "Being enrolled in an advanced course does not necessarily mean gifted services were provided to the Student prior to consideration of the Student's eligibility for special education services." (Report, p. 39). The Appeal Committee agrees with this finding. Adding the Gifted category to the list of special education exceptionalities was never intended to replace the availability of advanced coursework for the general education population. A remark from school personnel that a particular advanced course is "equivalent to what a gifted IEP would provide," does not create the specially designed instruction that defines special education.

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report on this issue.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 22nd day of July, 2026.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #497, LAWRENCE PUBLIC SCHOOLS
ON JUNE 8, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JULY 10, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #497 Lawrence Public Schools on behalf of ------- by his father -------. In the remainder of the report, ------- will be referred to as "the student" and ------- as "the father" and ------ as "the mother'.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" will be used. In this case, the complaint is against USD #497 (Lawrence Public Schools) who provide their own special education services and will be referred to as "the LEA."

For the 2025-2026 school year the student attended kindergarten at Sunset Hills Elementary which will be referred to as "the school" in the remainder of the report. School and LEA staff will be referred to In the remainder of this report as follows:

- Lori, Stithem, Executive Director of Special Education
- Shelia Smith, Director of Special Education
- Anna Grace Davison, Special Education teacher
- Ali Guthmiller, ESY Coordinator
- Jayci Roberson, Director of Elementary Education
- Nikki Naumann, Executive Assistant to the Superintendent
- Howard Diacon, Principal
- Ron May, Director of Human Resources
- Brad Finkeldei, LEA's Attorney
- Ivonne Rivera, Special Education Coordinator

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE. The KSDE initially received the complaint on June 8, 2026. In this case an extension was requested and granted.

Evidence Reviewed

The LEA made the following staff available for a phone interview on June 11, in-person interview on June 15, July 1, and 6, 2026 as part of this investigation.

- Shelia Smith, Director of Special Education
- Anna Grace Davison, Special Education teacher
- Ali Guthmiller, ESY Coordinator/Special Education Facilitator
- Lori, Stithem, Executive Director of Special Education

During the investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed all evidence and documentation provided by the LEA and the parent. Additionally, the complaint investigator contacted the parent and/or LEA staff on June 10, 11, 15, 24, 29, 30, and July 1, 2 and 6, 2026 by email or phone to clarify evidence and documentation.

In completing this investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed documentation provided by the complainant and LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

Documents -

1. Email from the father including the District Court Journal Entry and Temporary Orders dated March 31, 2025, sent September 25, 2025 at 1:27 p.m.
2. Email reply from the director of elementary education to the father acknowledging receipt of the court orders, sent September 25, 2025 at 3:15 p.m.
3. Timeline document provided by the LEA which includes dates, issues and district response to communication with the father spanning from September 25, 2025 to June 16, 2026.
4. Subpoena for documentation presented by the father to the LEA on October 2, 2025.
5. Student's most current IEP dated November 4, 2025.
6. Email exchanges between the father and the director of elementary education related to father's document request on October 20, 2025.
7. Email exchange between the father and the director of elementary education related allegations of bullying on October 21, 2025.
8. Email from the father to the LEA's attorney requesting records on December 23, 2025.
9. Email exchange between the communications director and father related to documents provided by the LEA on January 20, 2026.
10. Email from the father to the director of special education requesting student records on January 29, 2026
11. Reply from director of special education with a link to request records on January 30, 2026.
12. Email exchange between the father and principal related to requested records on February 2, 2026.

13. Email from the director of communications to the director of special education confirming that the father filed a complaint with the LEA related to his child's truancy on April 6, 2026.
14. Email from the director of human resources director to the father providing a report related to the student's truancy on April 24, 2026.
15. Email from the special education coordinator to the father with ESY information sent June 1, 2026.
16. Email from the father to the attorney, requesting student documents on June 1, 2026.
17. Parent Square message sharing ESY information with the father on June 5th, 2026.
18. Email from the father to the attorney, requesting documents on June 8, 2026.
19. LEA response to allegations dated June 24, 2026.
20. Email from special education director that there was no evidence that the father received a copy of the IEP shortly after the IEP meeting, sent June 30, 2026.
21. Email from the director of elementary education clarifying the October 20, 2025 meeting with the father, sent July 1, 2026.
22. Email from the director of special education clarifying the LEAs process for including parents on IEP communications, sent July 2, 2026.
23. In an email the special education director confirmed that there was no evidence that the father received a copy of the IEP shortly after the IEP meeting, June 30, 2026.
24. A phone conversation with the executive director of special education related to the student's Extended School Year (ESY) attendance, July 6, 2026.

Background Information

The student named in this complaint attended kindergarten at a LEA elementary school during the 2025–2026 school year. The student is six years old and lives with the mother. The student's exceptionality that qualifies him for special education services is a developmental delay.

The student's most current IEP is dated November 4, 2025 with no academic needs but includes two social emotional goals focused on self regulation and keeping hands to self and a safe body. The student's Modifications/Accommodations consists of frequent breaks, use of adult proximity, visuals, reminders of rules, soft start at the beginning of the school day and separate setting for lunch.

The student receives:

- Direct special education services in the special education setting 200 minutes, 4x per week for behavior and social emotional learning (SEL) support.
- Special education support in the general education classroom for behavior support, transitions and redirection.

- Direct special education services in the general education setting 150 minutes, 4x per week for behavior and SEL support.
- Direct social work services in the special education setting for 20 minutes, 2x per week.
- Indirect social work services to support general education staff 15 minutes, 1x per week.
- Attendant care 45 minutes, 5 days per week to support lunch, recess and transition support.
- Special education transportation services to and from school 45 minutes, 5x per week.
- The IEP team determined that ESY was not necessary based on the student's current and available data.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaints and interview with the complainant, one concern that falls under IDEA and/or Kansas regulations was identified and investigated.

Issue One

Did USD #497 provide requested special educational records to the parent as required under 34 CFR §300.613 during the 2025-2026 school year?

Applicable Law

34 CFR §300.613(a) "Each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part. The agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing pursuant to §300.507 or § 300.530 through §300.532, or resolution session pursuant to §300.510, and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made."

In the course of the investigation the following IDEA citations were also identified and relevant to the father's complaint.

34 CFR §300.501(a)(1)(2) "The parents of a child with a disability must be afforded an opportunity to inspect and review all education records with respect to the identification, evaluation, and educational placement of the child; and the provision of FAPE to the child."

34 C.F.R. 300.322(f) "The public agency must give the parent a copy of the child's IEP at no cost to the parent."

34 C.F.R. § 300.106(a)(2) "Extended school year services must be provided only if a child's IEP Team determines, on an individual basis, in accordance with §§ 300.320 through 300.324, that the services are necessary for the provision of FAPE to the child."

Parent Position

The parent's complaint includes several concerns including the failure of the LEA to provide requested information related to the student's Extended School Year (ESY), to be transparent and to produce subpoenaed evidence (medical records and teacher names) in October 2025. It is noted that this investigation is limited to considering educational records protected by IDEA which include evaluation and assessment results, Individualized Education Programs (IEPs), progress reports and report cards, disciplinary records, attendance records, and special education service documentation.

LEA Position

The district response states, "The district maintains that requested educational records have been provided to the parent." Additionally, "The father began reaching out to various District and school staff in the fall for information about his student. The Director of Elementary Schools, who initially was the primary District contact for the father, reported that the father was provided every educational record he requested, with some records being provided more than once. Due to escalating and continual threats of legal action against the District and individual District staff, communication has primarily been between the District's counsel, and the father.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties.

1. The father's legal access to educational records, September 25, 2025:
    a. The Father emailed the District Court Journal Entry and Temporary Orders to the director of elementary education on September 25, 2025 at 1:27 p.m. These orders state, "The mother shall have temporary sole legal and residential custody of the child. Sole legal custody means that the mother has the primary right to decide matters of health and education in the child's best interests. However, the father shall still have access to information about the child, such as school and medical records." presented to the LEA by the father on September 25, 2025. Note, this document includes the father's mailing address.
    b. In an email reply from the director of elementary education to the father, "Thank you for providing the court documentation." September 25, 2025 at 3:15 p.m.
    c. The Timeline document provided by the LEA states that for September 29, 2025 the LEA discussed, "Initial communications regarding custody, educational records, and ESI (Emergency Safety Information)." Additionally, "District documented Safety Tip #54 and, following consultation with legal counsel, confirmed the father's right to receive school-identifying information under the custody order."
2. The father's subpoena requesting records, October 2, 2025:
    a. The father presented a subpoena requesting, "Any and all medical records held in your School District from the age 2 until now, names of child's current and previous teachers," dated and presented to the LEA on October 2, 2025. This subpoena included the fathers name, address and phone number.

b. According to email communication with the director of elementary education on July 1, 2026, the LEA and father met on October 20, 2025, "The meeting followed several weeks of communications involving custody, records requests, ESI, safety concerns, and requests for educational information. During that meeting, we reviewed his concerns and provided:
   i. Procedural Safeguards
   ii. Emergency Safety Intervention information
   iii. the current IEP
   iv. the most recent evaluation
   v. attendance records
   vi. grade card"

c. In an email from the father to the director of elementary education, "This situation needs to be resolved [sharing of student information] or tomorrow I'm filing with the feds." Sent October 20, 2025 at 3:24 p.m.

d. The director replied, "As I shared with you in our meeting today, I have attached the documents and also have the Executive Assistant printing them for you as we speak." dated October 20, 2025 at 3:36 p.m.

3. Bullying concerns raised by the father on October 21, 2026:
   a. In an email from the father to the director of elementary education, "I expect you to go to my child's school and figure out who is bullying my child before noon." dated October 21, 2025 at 7:28 a.m.
   b. The director replied, "Thank you for meeting with me yesterday to share your concerns regarding your child. I have contacted the principal] to ensure that the school counselor or another trusted adult checks in with the student today to provide support and gather any information they wish to share. At this time, the student may not know me well enough to feel comfortable discussing this directly with me, so I want to make sure they speak with someone they trust. Once I receive an update, I will let you know." dated October 21, 2025 at 9:53 a.m.
   c. The director of elementary education reported in the LEA's timeline of communication with the father that on October 21 and 22, 2025, "the LEA reviewed concerns related to bullying which were not substantiated and continued to provide the student with "proactive supports and identified trusted adults available to the student."
4. The student's annual IEP on November 4, 2025:
   a. In an email the special education director confirmed that there was no evidence that the father received a copy of the IEP shortly after the IEP meeting, June 30, 2026.
   b. When asked why the father did not receive a copy of the November 4, 2025 IEP the special education director clarified in an email, "In this case, the elementary director first added the father as a contact in PowerSchool in November (I believe the 17th-but I don't have the timeline I provided to you in front of me). So the father would not have been on the meeting notices as he was not listed in power school and special education staff were unaware that a second parent should be on the notice. Once the director added him as a contact, his information will now populate automatically on notices and the IEP."

c. The LEA's June 24, 2026 response states, "A historical audit log from PowerSchool, the District's Student Information System or SIS, shows that the father was first entered into the SIS on November 17th, 2025. Previously, there was no record of the father's contact information."

5. The father's request for communication between the mother and school as well as ESI records, December 23, 2025:
   a. An email from the father to the LEA's attorney the father stated, "All emails sent by his teacher to the student's mother for the past semester, I want to receive any an all communications with my child's school for the past semester, any and all [ESI] information data controlled or otherwise controlled by the LEA. You have until January 20 2026."
   b. In an email from the communications director to the father, "Please visit the Google shared folder below, containing all requested records of your student from the first semester of the 25-26 school year. In addition, a thumb drive containing all of these digital records is available for you to pick-up between normal business hours this week (8:00 a.m. - 4:00 p.m.)..." sent January 20, 2026 at 4:12 p.m.
   c. The father responded, "I will be there to pick up the thumb drive tomorrow, 1-21-2026." on January 20, 2026 at 4:52 p.m.
   d. The director of elementary education shared that the following documents were in the Google shared folder and the thumb drive on January 20, 2026:
      i. semester grade report
      ii. attendance/absence report
      iii. teacher emails
      iv. communications with the school
      v. ESI information controlled by USD 497
6. An additional records request by the father on January 29, 2026.
   a. The father sent an email to the director of special education requesting, "Any and all, including data controlled electronic stored information concerning the student." on January 29, 2026 at 11:50 a.m.
   b. The director of special education replied, "Thanks for your email. Please use the following link to request records." sent January 30, 2026 at 1:23 p.m.
   c. Email from the father to the principal, "If you do not immediately provide me with all the information concerning my child there will be [charges] against your license and criminally with local police." sent February 2, 2026 at 12:01 p.m.

   d. Email response from the principal, "...attached are the progress report and grade card for the student this school year along with their current IEP." on February 2, 2026 at 3:14 p.m.

7. Father's truancy complaint on April 6, 2026.
   a. The father submitted a complaint with the LEA on April 6, 2026 due to his child's attendance issues.
   b. Email from the director of human resources director to the father in response to the father's truancy complaint. "I am writing this email in response to the complaint you filed with the district. Through the complaint form and our conversation you communicated that you felt information regarding your child's education, specifically their attendance had been withheld from you. You also stated that you felt the school should have filed a DCF report for truancy per Kansas Statute 72-3121, due to your child's absences. Regarding the truancy report, please find attached the Report of Unexcused Absences that was filed with DCF. I have also attached the supporting document titled SupportEd Student Referral form that accompanied the report. I have also attached a copy of the Excessive Absences Letter that was sent to you; your student's mother also received a copy of this letter." Sent April 24, 2026.
8. Extended School Year (ESY) concerns raised by the father June 1, 2026.
   a. An email from the special education coordinator to the father with ESY information was sent June 1, 2026 at 3:44 p.m.
   b. Email from the father to the LEA's attorney, "You have til Thursday to give me the iep reports or I will show up at your office with the police. Contact from the school district today proves you're withholding information. I want those iep reports that led my student into summer school." Sent June 1, 2026 at 8:47 p.m.
   c. Parent Square message with ESY details from the LEA to the father was sent again to the father on June 5th, 2026.
   d. Email from the father to the attorney, "I want that IEP information, the student's Medicaid information and all the documents to go along with his ESY that special education teacher has in their control immediately..." Sent June 8, 2026 at 11:11 a.m.
9. It is noted that in the student's current IEP dated November 4, 2025 the team agreed that ESY was not appropriate for the student.
10. In a phone call with the Executive Director of Special Education, they shared that the team agreed that the student should attend ESY and were actively working to amend the student's IEP to reflect this, July 6, 2026.

Conclusion

In this case, the father established himself as a parent on September 25, 2025 by sharing the District Court Journal Entry and Temporary Orders with the LEA, and subsequently made a number of requests to review his child's educational documents or to raise issues of concern. IDEA 34 CFR 300.613(a) states, "Each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part. The agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing pursuant to 300.507 or 300.530 through 300.532, or resolution session pursuant to 300.510, and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made." Also, IDEA 34 CFR 300.501(a)(1)(2) states, "The parents of a child with a disability must be afforded an opportunity to inspect and review all education records with respect to the identification, evaluation, and educational placement of the child; and the provision of FAPE to the child." Both of these IDEA regulations establish the father's right to review his child's educational records.

The following is a summary of the father's requests and concerns along with the dates these requests were fulfilled by the LEA:

- The father's October 2, 2025 subpoena request for medical documents and teacher names was fulfilled on October 20, 2025.
- The father's concern regarding bullying on October 21, 2025 was addressed by the LEA on October 21 and 22, 2025.
- The father's December 23, 2025 request for communication between the mother and school as well as ESI records request was fulfilled on January 20, 2026.
- The father's January 29, 2026 request for "Any and all, including data controlled electronic stored information concerning the student." was fulfilled on February 2, 2026.
- The father's April 6, 2026 truancy concerns were addressed on April 24, 2026.
- The father's June 1, 2026 request for the IEP and ESY information was fulfilled on June 5, 2026. Note: the ESY information was provided again, but the IEP was not. The current IEP was sent to the father on February 2, 2026.
- The father's June 8, 2026 request for IEP and Medicaid information is still within the 45 day IDEA requirement and thus not appropriate to be investigated at this time.

The LEA provided the requested documents and responded to the father's concerns in a reasonable amount of time, well within the 45 days required by 34 CFR §300.613(a) for each of the father's requests. It is important to note that federal regulations state that an LEA has a responsibility to provide parent access to education records before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing pursuant to due process (300.507) or manifestation determination or change of placement (300.530 through 300.532), or resolution session pursuant to 300.510. However, it is found that the parent's request for records was not in preparation of any of these meeting purposes.

In the course of the investigation an additional relevant IDEA regulation was identified: 34 C.F.R. 300.322(f) "The public agency must give the parent a copy of the child's IEP at no cost to the parent." and 34 C.F.R. 300.106(a)(2) "Extended school year services must be provided only if a child's IEP Team determines, on an individual basis, in accordance with §§ 300.320 through 300.324, that the services are necessary for the provision of FAPE to the child."

34 C.F.R. 300.322(f) states, "The public agency must give the parent a copy of the child's IEP at no cost to the parent." Although the father established that he was a parent who must be given access to the student's records, via the District Court Journal Entry and Temporary Orders, which includes the father's mailing address, on September 25, 2025, the LEA did not share the student's November 4, 2025 IEP with the father until January 20, 2026. The director of special education stated that the father's contact information was not entered into the District's Student Information System until November 17th, 2025. The LEA had the father's contact information as of September 25, 2025 and had an obligation to share the annual IEP with the father well before January 20, 2026.

34 C.F.R. § 300.106(a)(2) states, "Extended school year services must be provided only if a child's IEP Team determines, on an individual basis, in accordance with §§ 300.320 through 300.324, that the services are necessary for the provision of FAPE to the child." The student's current IEP dated November 4, 2025 indicates that the IEP team did not believe ESY services were appropriate for the student, however the student is currently attending ESY. The executive director of special education clarified that the IEP team had since agreed that the student would benefit from ESY and were in the process of amending the current IEP.

Although the LEA demonstrated that the requested educational documents were provided to the parent within the 45 day timeframe after the request, they failed to provide the father a copy of the student's IEP within a reasonable amount of time after the November 4, 2025 IEP.

Therefore, it is found that the LEA is IN compliance for 34 CFR §300.613(a) and 34 CFR §300.501(a)(1)(2) but OUT of compliance for 34 C.F.R. 300.322(f).

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: Violations of 34 C.F.R. 300.613(a) and 34 C.F.R.300.501(a)(1)(2) were not found, however a violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.322(f) was found.
2. The LEA shall immediately, within 21 days, submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state statutes and regulations at Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.322(f).
3. Within 40 school days of the issuance of this report, the LEA shall review procedures related to ensuring parents who have a student receiving IDEA support and are not included on the initial student enrollment information are added to the Student Information System in a timely fashion.
4. Within 55 school days of the issuance of this report, the LEA shall submit documentation of procedural reviews 34 C.F.R. 300.322(f) to SETS.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #253
ON JUNE 16, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JULY 27, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education on behalf of ------- by his mother, -------. In the remainder of the report ------- will be referred to as "the student" and ------- will be referred to as the "complainant" or "the parent".

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

In this case, the complaint is against USD #253 (Emporia Public Schools) which contracts with the Flint Hills Special Education Cooperative (FHSEC) to meet the requirements of the IDEA. Both of these responsible public agencies will be referred to as "the local education agency (LEA)" In the remainder of the report.

In the remainder of the report, the LEA staff will be referred to as follows:

- Stephanie McNemar, Director of Student Services
- Dathan Fischer, Emporia High School (EHS) Principal
- Justin Sargeant, Flint Hills Learning Center (FHLC) Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator
- Ms. Rios, FHLC Paraprofessional 1
- Ms. Baza, FHLC Paraprofessional 2

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 60-day timeline to investigate a complaint and allow for an appeal process from the date on which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE and the LEA. In this case, June 16, 2026 is considered as the date the complaint was filed.

Evidence Reviewed

The complainant was interviewed by telephone on July 1, 2026 during the investigation process. The LEA provided responses to written clarification questions on July 17 and July 23, 2026.

In completing this investigation, the Investigator reviewed written documentation provided by both the complainant and the LEA. The following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Evaluation / Eligibility Report dated January 29, 2024
2. Individualized Education Program (IEP) dated October 8, 2025
3. Prior Written Notice for Identification, Special Education and Related Services, Educational Placement, Changes in Services, Change in Placement, and/or Request for Consent dated October 8, 2025, signed by the parent on October 8, 2025
4. The student's 2025-26 grade card
5. The student's 2025-26 Attendance Record
6. IEP Goal Progress for the 2025-26 school year
7. Freshman 2026 Summer Credit Recovery Information Sheet
8. List of Edgenuity Accommodations
9. Discipline Log dated between December 8, 2021 and April 17, 2025
10. ParentSquare Log dated between June 3 and June 12, 2026 between the parent and the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator
11. 2025-26 School Calendar for USD #253
12. Emporia High School Student Handbook for 2025-26
13. Checklist of Discipline Procedures for Special Education and Section 504
14. Cell Phone Rules for Credit Recovery
15. Description of FERPA Incident on June 12, 2026
16. Email exchange dated June 16, 2026 at 8:51 and 10:52 AM between the parent and the Director of Student Services
17. Email dated June 16, 2026 at 10:38 AM written by the EHS Principal to the parent
18. Email dated June 16, 2026 at 5:08 PM written by the parent to the USD #253 Board of Education members
19. Email dated June 18, 2026 at 8:51 AM written by the Director of Student Services to the parent
20. Incident Timeline and Complaint Narrative dated June 20, 2026 written by the parent
21. Proposed Resolution to the Complaint dated June 26, 2026 written by the Director of Student Services
22. District Acknowledgement dated July 9, 2026 written by the Director of Student Services
23. LEA response to clarification questions dated July 17, 2026 and July 23, 2026 written by the Director of Student Services

It is noted that the mother also made several additional allegations regarding the LEA's noncompliance with the IDEA regulations in the document titled "Incident Timeline and Complaint Narrative". As these new allegations were not related to those currently being investigated, the parent was advised to consider filing another complaint with the KSDE to address her concerns.

Background Information

The student is 15 years old and was enrolled in the ninth grade at Emporia High School during the 2025-26 school year receiving special education services and support under the primary exceptionality category of Learning Disabled with specific concerns noted in math and organizational skills. The most recent reevaluation was conducted on January 29, 2024 without additional assessment and the most recent IEP was developed on October 8, 2025 with the parent in attendance. The student's October 8, 2025 IEP requires the student to receive 60 minutes of adult support for math in the general education setting on two days per week and 30 minutes of adult support for math in the general education setting on one day per week to address one math goal for increasing algebraic problem-solving from 70% to 85% accuracy in solving one- and two-step equations (including those with fractions).

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint, four issues related to the Individuals with Disabilities Act (IDEA) were identified and investigated.

Issue One

USD #253, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed the student's IEP, specifically the accommodations/modifications, during the credit recovery session during the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4) require the LEA to include a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to 1) advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; 2) be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and 3) be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require each public agency to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1)(ii) require each public agency to review and revise a student's IEP, as appropriate, to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum; the results of any reevaluation; information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters.

Parent Position

In the letter of complaint, the parent alleged that the LEA provided conditional and incomplete IEP accommodations to the student during the summer credit recovery session. Specifically, the parent reported the staff working with the student unilaterally decided which accommodations should be provided to the student. The complainant noted that the student did not attend the first three days of the credit recovery session because she was unaware that the student was even enrolled as the LEA failed to follow its own enrollment procedures to obtain written parent consent for a student to participate in the credit recovery sessions. Once she became aware of the student's failing grade in the Pre-Algebra B class and the student's enrollment in the credit recovery session, the student attended all sessions in order to earn a passing grade in the course.

The parent believes that the IEP Team should have been reconvened when the student failed to make progress in the general education curriculum as shown by the failing grade in the Pre-Algebra B course. The IEP Team could then discuss whether ESY services were needed or whether reasonable accommodations were needed for the student to participate in the general education credit recovery session.

LEA Position

The LEA acknowledged the enrollment process was not followed when enrolling the student for the summer credit recovery session, specifically by not obtaining a parent signature authorizing the student's attendance and participation. This resulted in the student missing the first three days of the credit recovery session and confusion as to the expectations for student participation and behavior during the session. The LEA also acknowledged that the student's IEP team did not reconvene prior to the student's participation in the summer credit recovery session.

As a result of this situation, the LEA noted that a new one-page procedure document has been created to ensure a parent signature is obtained prior to a student being enrolled in the summer credit recovery session. In addition, the procedure will include communication with the special education department to ensure the necessary accommodations are determined prior to general education summer credit recovery session participation or if extended school year (ESY) services are required to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE).

The LEA stated that a special education teacher and two paraprofessionals were hired to work during the general education summer credit recovery session during June 2026 in order to support students. The LEA reported these staff worked together to implement the student's specific accommodations during the summer credit recovery session and noted the student successfully completed the Edgenuity Pre-Algebra B course and earned a passing grade in the class.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews, clarifications, and a review of documentation.

1. The student's most recent IEP was developed on October 8, 2025 and included the following five accommodations:

Accommodations/Mods/Supp Aids	Frequency	Location	Duration	Rationale
Guided notes	When taking notes in math class	All classes	Duration of the assignment or activity with multistep problems with or without fractions. in math class.	[The student] will be provided to fill in the blank guided notes with missing steps he can complete during instruction.
Multiplication chart and/ or calculator	When solving equations with multiple steps or fractions	Math classes	Duration of the assignment or activity with multistep problems with or without fractions.	The use of multiplication charts and/or a calculator will help [the student] complete his work more independently when solving equations with multiple steps or fractions.
Organizational reminders	Daily	All classroom settings	Last 3 minutes of class period	During the last few minutes of each class period, [the student] will need reminders to organize his materials before leaving class.
Alternative Settings for Tests, Quizzes, and Exams.	Daily	Math classes	Duration of the assignment or activity.	When taking tests, quizzes, and/or exams, [the student] can go to alternative settings (the library, study pod, another classroom, etc) to reduce distractions and not feel rushed.

Accommodations/Mods/Supp Aids	Frequency	Location	Duration	Rationale
Extended Time for all assignments	Daily	All classroom settings	Extended to 1 additional class period.	Due to [the student's] disability, it may take him longer to organize instruction and materials to complete longer assignments. Therefore, it would be beneficial for him to have extended time for lengthy assignments. It is only extended to one additional class period.

2. The student's grade card shows he earned a grade of "D" (66%) in Pre-Algebra A during the first semester and a grade of "F" (59%) in Pre-Algebra B during the second semester.
3. The summer credit recovery session ran between June 2 and June 26, 2026 on Mondays through Fridays. The LEA acknowledged that the student was enrolled in the session without obtaining a parent signature. The student attended a total of 11 days during the session and was absent the first three days of the session and also missed the entire last week of the session due to a theater trip to Indianapolis.
4. During the summer credit recovery session, the student used Edgenuity, a computer-based program, to earn credit for the Pre-Algebra B course. Each lesson in the course allowed a pre-test for mastery of the skill being taught. If passed, the next lesson in the course was presented; if failed, the current computer-based lesson was then completed by the student.
5. The LEA reported that the special education teacher hired for the summer credit recovery session was familiar with the student and his IEP during the regular 2025-26 school year.
6. However, the LEA acknowledged that the student's IEP Team did not meet to discuss the reasonable accommodations which were necessary for equal access to the general education curriculum during the voluntary general education summer credit recovery session nor was the IEP amended by mutual agreements between the parent and the LEA representative.
7. In an email written to the parent on June 16, 2026 at 10:38 AM, the EHS Principal stated, "Regarding your questions about accommodations during Summer Credit Recovery through Edgenuity, guided notes are an approved accommodation within the program. However, because he is participating in Credit Recovery and testing out of portions of the curriculum, guided notes would only be provided if they are needed for sections he is actively completing. He also has access to approved calculation supports, including a multiplication chart and/or calculator, depending upon the specific accommodation required or requested. Since this is a self-paced program, he is permitted as much time as needed on lessons and assessments. Some accommodations, such as organizational reminders during the last three minutes of class, are not applicable within this setting due to the structure of the program. However, an alternate setting at FHLC is available if needed, and a special education staff member is onsite throughout the program to facilitate IEP accommodations and modifications and provide support as necessary or as requested."

8. The LEA stated in response to clarification questions on July 17, 2026 that "A teacher sat with him each day from 8-2 working through all lessons when pre-tests were not passed and provided goals and instruction. Calculators were available as needed by students. Student was free to test wherever he wanted in order to feel comfortable. He chose to sit either with the teacher or with peers. Student was allowed as much time as he needed to finish his course. The student completed the class within the 11 days he attended which includes the day he was sent home for a cell phone violation". The LEA noted that FHLC Paraprofessional 1 kept a pencil/paper log in a notebook to document the provision of the accommodations according to the teacher; however this was unavailable to be provided as documentation due to the summer break.
9. The LEA developed a written procedure for an application process to be followed for enrollment and participation in future summer credit recovery sessions which requires that "Should a student receive special education services apply, the counseling office will contact the identified student's case manager. The case manager will contact the LEDMs [Legal Education Decision Makers] to schedule an IEP meeting to discuss ESY [Extended School Year]. The team will need to discuss ESY and/or accommodations necessary to participate in EHS Summer Credit Recovery".

Conclusion

The IDEA requires that a student's IEP, including the accommodations, be implemented as written. In this case, documentation shows that all of the accommodations in the student's October 8, 2025 IEP were not provided as required during the summer credit recovery session. The accommodations for extended time for assignments, tests given in alternate settings, use of multiplication charts/calculator, and guided notes for lessons taken in Edgenuity were available and appeared to be provided at student request during the summer credit recovery session. However, the accommodations for organizational reminders was unilaterally determined by the LEA to be "not applicable" as documented in the June 16, 2026 email written by the EHS Principal.

The IDEA also requires that the IEP Team reconvene when a student fails to make expected progress in the general education curriculum. However, a failing grade in a class, by itself, does not automatically require the IEP Team to reconvene. Instead, the IDEA requires that IEPs must be revised whenever available information demonstrates that the current program is not enabling the student to make expected progress in the general education curriculum.

"Expected progress" must be determined individually for each student based on the child's circumstances and through multiple data sources including IEP goal progress, whether the IEP was implemented as written, class grades, attendance, etc.

Chapter 5 - Section F in the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook describes the requirements for determining and providing ESY services and indicates that," if a child with a disability is attending a summer school program for general education purposes such as credit recovery, the school shall consider what reasonable accommodations may be necessary for the child to have an equal opportunity to participate in that general education environment and curriculum". These necessary supports may be provided through a 504 plan or the student's current IEP; however, regardless of the type of individualized plan used to document the accommodations, the parent of the student needs to have the opportunity to participate in the process to determine what appropriate accommodations are needed.

In this case, the student failed the Pre-Algebra B course which made it necessary for the student to recoup the lost credit towards graduation from high school. Because the student was enrolled in the general education summer credit recovery session, the student's IEP Team should have reviewed and revised the student's IEP, as necessary, to determine and document what reasonable accommodations were required for the student to participate in that summer general education classroom setting.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT compliance with following federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and §300.324(b)(1)(ii) during the credit recovery session during the 2025-26 school year and corrective action is required.

Issue Two

USD #253, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate disciplinary procedures when resetting the Edgenuity lessons as a disciplinary consequence during the credit recovery session during the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Under federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.536, a change of placement because of disciplinary removals occurs when a student is removed from the child's current educational placement for more than 10 consecutive school days during a school year or the child has been subjected to a series of removals that constitute a pattern because 1) the series of removals total more than 10 school days in a school year; 2) the child's behavior is substantially similar to the child's behavior in previous incidents that resulted in the series of removals; and 3) of such additional factors as the length of each removal, the total amount of time the child has been removed, and the proximity of the removals to one another.

Under 34 C.F.R. §300.530(e)(1), within 10 school days of any decision to change the placement of a child with a disability because of a violation of a code of student conduct, the LEA, the parent, and relevant members of the child's IEP Team (as determined by the parent and the LEA) must review all relevant information in the student's file, including the child's IEP, any teacher observations, and any relevant information provided by the parents to determine if the conduct in question was caused by, or had a direct and substantial relationship to, the child's disability; or if the conduct in question was the direct result of the LEA's failure to implement the IEP.

Parent Position

In the letter of complaint, the parent alleged that the district sent the student home from the summer credit recovery session on June 12, 2026 based on an unverified observation. The student's completed coursework for that day was erased and reset with no written policy authorizing that consequence, no documented evidence that academic dishonesty had occurred, and no individualized determination specific to the student. The disciplinary consequence was applied without a manifestation determination review to determine if the violation of the code of conduct was related to the student's disability.

LEA Position

The LEA's response to the allegations noted that the student was removed from the summer credit recovery session for one day and returned the next day. This was the only out-of-school suspension the student received during the 2025-26 school year. As such, none of the special procedures required by the IDEA were required when discipling the student on June 12, 2026. However, as a result of this situation, the LEA will review the practice of erasing and resetting lesson progress as a disciplinary consequence for violations of the code of student conduct during future summer credit recovery sessions.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews, clarifications, and a review of documentation. Additionally, the findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The use of cell phones during the summer credit recovery session is prohibited. A practice of having students keep cell phones stored in backpacks during all class periods or turned in to staff at the beginning of each day was established as an expectation and shared during orientation. The LEA reported the student attended the summer credit recovery orientation on May 28, 2026.
2. The student was sent home by the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator on June 12, 2026 for accessing his cell phone while completing a lesson in the Edgenuity program. The incident report stated, "Summer School Staff reported to the [FHLC Program Coordinator] saying they witnessed the student on their phone while they were doing their work. The [FHLC Program Coordinator] told the Summer School Staff that the student would need to go home, just as we had sent other students home for the same reason. Thus not complying to the Summer School Cell Phone expectations. The student complied and left for the day".

3. The LEA reported that the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator reviewed the questions on page 234 of the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook and the Director of Student Services reviewed the district Special Education / Section 504 Discipline Process form and determine that the student could be sent home for a violation of a code of student conduct on June 12, 2026.
4. The student's Discipline Log documents that student had no disciplinary referrals during the 2025-26 school year.
5. The parent stated, "[Paraprofessional 2] observes [the student] using his phone while working in Edgenuity. The district characterizes this as accessing unapproved assistance. No investigation is conducted. No documentation exists that the content on the phone was reviewed to confirm academic dishonesty occurred. [The FHLC Program Coordinator] removes [the student] from Credit Recovery for one day".
6. The parent then stated, On June 12, 2026, three activities of [the student's] Edgenuity progress were reset after a staff member observed him using his phone. The district's own written account does not establish that academic dishonesty occurred. Phone use is not evidence of accessing unapproved assistance. The district acknowledged in writing that no formal policy exists authorizing the resetting of student progress for academic dishonesty in Edgenuity. The consequence was applied through an unwritten, informal practice applied uniformly to all students. For a student with an IEP, IDEA requires that disciplinary decisions be individualized. The application of a blanket practice without individualized determination raises a substantive concern under IDEA's discipline framework".
7. In an email written to the parent on June 16, 2026 at 10:38 AM, the EHS Principal stated, " Last week, FHLC Paraprofessional 2 personally observed him using his phone to access unapproved assistance while working in the Edgenuity program. Additionally, page 15 of the EHS Student Handbook states that cellular phones may be used for educational purposes only with teacher or administrator approval. Based on the information provided to me, he did not have permission to access his phone while completing work in Edgenuity. In regards to a written policy that authorizes the deletion of student progress, there is not a separate written policy that specifically states student progress will be reset in cases of academic dishonesty within Edgenuity. Rather, resetting work or not giving credit for work completed through unauthorized means is the current practice applied consistently to all courses completed through Edgenuity, both during the regular school year and the Summer Credit Recovery. As a result of this incident, only the three activities completed that day were reset. His entire course progress was not deleted. Additionally, he was provided with the opportunity to redo those activities. This consequence is more lenient than the consequences typically applied during the regular school year for academic dishonesty cases".

8. The parent believes the 10-day calendar threshold should not apply in this particular situation in regards to following the IDEA's required disciplinary procedures. The parent stated, "The district's written response relies entirely on the technical 10-day calendar threshold, stating the one-day removal did not trigger an MDR. The program at issue is not a semester-long course. It is an expedited credit recovery program compressed into weeks. The loss of 7 to 10 percent of total program progress in this context is materially different from a one-day absence in a full semester. No individualized analysis of educational impact was documented. The spirit and purpose of IDEA's discipline provisions require that any consequential action affecting a student's educational program receive individualized review,

Conclusion

The IDEA requires special procedures when a student with a disability is removed from their educational placement in a school year for greater than 10 consecutive days or for greater than 10 cumulative days when a pattern exists. In this case, the student was out-of-school-suspended on June 12, 2026 during the summer credit recovery session and was never out-of-school-suspended during the regular 2025-26 school year. This one-day removal does not meet the IDEA threshold of greater than 10 consecutive days or the10 cumulative days with a pattern in the same school year.

The parent's assertion that a separate analysis for the impact of the disciplinary consequence between the regular school year and the summer / extended school year session was not contemplated by the IDEA. However, even accepting the parent's assertion, the student was suspended for one out of the 19 scheduled days of the summer credit recovery session which resulted in the student missing 5% of the days of instruction as compared to a student being suspended for 11 of the 165 days on the USD #253 2025-26 school calendar which would have result in a total of 6% of days of instruction.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is IN compliance with following federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. §300.536 and §300.530(e)(1).

Issue Three

USD #253, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to protect the student's personally identifiable information (PII) during the credit recovery session during the 2025-26 school year, specifically by staff sharing information in a manner that allowed the student's peers to overhear PII.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.123 require public agencies in the State to protect the confidentiality of any personally identifiable information collected, used, or maintained under Part B of the IDEA. In addition, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.611 require public agencies to ensure the confidentiality of any personally identifiable data, information, and records collected or maintained by the public agency is protected under 34 C.F.R. Part 99 which is known as the Family Education Right to Privacy Act (FERPA) .

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.32 define personally identifiable information by reference to federal regulation at 34 C.F.R. §99.3. Under these federal regulations, personally identifiable information (PII) includes the following:

1. the name of the child, the child's parent, or another family member;
2. the address of the child;
3. a personal identifier, such as the child's Social Security number, or the child's student number;
4. any other indirect identifier, such as the child's birthdate, place of birth; and
5. a list of personal characteristics or other information that would make it possible to identify the child with reasonable certainty, such as disability status, etc..

Parent Position

In the letter of complaint, the parent alleged that summer credit recovery staff members disclosed personally identifiable information about the student in a conversation that the student's peers could overhear on June 12, 2026. One of the student's peers informed the student about this conversation and the student then reported the incident to the parent who then contacted the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator to report the breach in confidentiality. The parent indicated the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator did not believe the parent's allegation because she incorrectly reported the name of the student who had shared the information. However, the parent later learned that the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator did verbally review FERPA requirements with the two summer credit recovery staff members involved. The parent does not believe this to be an adequate response to address the release of the student's PII which caused the student to experience unnecessary embarrassment with his peers. The parent also indicated that the LEA has never responded to her requests for a written account of the incident.

LEA Position

The LEA acknowledged that two summer credit recovery staff did inadvertently share information in the classroom about the student being sent home on June 12, 2026. The LEA reported that the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator, in consultation with the EHS Principal, met with the summer credit recovery staff involved to review the requirements for maintaining confidentiality of PII. As a result of this situation, the LEA indicated plans are to review FERPA requirements with all staff at the beginning of the 2026-27 school year as well as with all new hires during the onboarding process.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews, clarifications, and a review of documentation. Additionally, the findings of Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator acknowledged receiving a phone call on June 12, 2026 from the student's parent where she alleged that the student's PII in regard to a disciplinary action had been shared in front of the student's peers in the summer credit recovery session. The parent indicated the student had received a text from a peer about overhearing school staff discussing the disciplinary incident involving the cell phone and the student being sent home.
2. The FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator reported that he informed the parent during the phone call that he did not personally witness or hear the exchange between the summer credit recovery staff regarding the student being sent home because of the phone incident that day. He then assured the parent he would follow up and speak with summer credit recovery staff.
3. Both the parent and the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator agreed that the parent was upset and stated the situation constituted a FERPA violation during the phone call.
4. The FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator asked the parent for the name of the student who had allegedly overheard the conversation and the parent provided the name of a student who was not enrolled in the summer credit recovery session. The FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator reported the parent became even more upset when he questioned the parent's allegation based on this information.
5. The parent stated, "Following [the student's] removal, [FHLC Paraprofessional 1] and [Paraprofessional 2] discuss [the student's] disciplinary situation, including personally identifiable information related to his disability and disciplinary matter, in a location where [the student's] peers can hear. [The student's] peers then report this information back to [the student]. When [the parent] raises this concern with [the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator] by phone, he tells her she is lying, based solely on [the parent] having referenced the incorrect last name of the student who reported the incident to [the student]. The call ends without resolution".
6. The FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator reported investigating the parent's allegation and learning that the student's primary summer credit recovery teacher was out of the room when the cell phone incident occurred and the student was sent home. Upon returning to the classroom, the primary summer credit recovery teacher noticed the student was missing and asked one of the other summer credit recovery staff where the student went. The other summer credit recovery staff informed the primary summer credit recovery teacher that the student had been sent home for having his cell phone out. This exchange occurred in the classroom setting where other students were present and completing credit recovery activities.

7. The FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator reported that he consulted with the EHS Principal following his investigation and then met with the two involved summer credit recovery staff to review FERPA expectations and reinforce guidelines regarding private and confidential professional conversations.
8. An email dated June 16, 2026 at 10:38 AM written to the parent by the EHS Principal stated, "FERPA VIOLATION BY PARAPROFESSIONAL STAFF: FERPA expectations and further explanation about private/confidential conversations were reviewed with the two staff members by [the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator]".
9. An email dated June 18, 2026 written to the parent by the Director of Student Services stated, "[The EHS Principal] reviewed FERPA expectations and protocols regarding private, confidential conversations with [the FHLC Program Coordinator / Summer Credit Recovery Administrator] and the staff member. To prevent future communication gaps, USD 253 and FHSEC will review the mandatory confidentiality training for all existing staff at the beginning of the school year and continue to integrate this training into the onboarding process for new hires".

Conclusion

The IDEA requires that a student's personally identifiable information be protected and kept confidential by public agencies. In this case, there are different accounts of which summer credit recovery staff were involved in the breach of confidentiality that occurred when PII was verbally shared in a location where other students could overhear as well as who provided the review of FERPA expectation with these staff.

Regardless, the LEA acknowledged that the breach in confidentiality occurred on June 12, 2026 and is therefore found OUT of compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.123, §300.611, and §300.32. As such, corrective action is required.

It is noted that the parent's concerns related to staff interactions during this incident should be addressed to the local school board as personnel matters do not fall under the jurisdiction of the IDEA.

Issue Four

USD #253, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to determine the need for extended school year services for the student during the 2025-26 school year when the student was eligible to attend the credit recovery session.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.106(b) require that the IEP team must consider the need for extended school year services in order to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to each student with a disability.

Parent Position

In the letter of complaint, the parent reported that the student was not eligible for ESY services as documented in the October 8, 2025 IEP. However, the student's eligibility for ESY services was never re-visited when the student failed the Pre-Algebra B course at the end of the second semester. The parent believes the district, without an IEP Team meeting, unilaterally directed the student towards the general education summer credit recovery session as a substitute for any individualized ESY services which may have been required to address his lack of progress as evidenced by his math grade.

LEA Position

The LEA responded that ESY was deemed unnecessary during the October 8, 2025 annual IEP review, and the student made adequate IEP goal progress by May 2026. However, a 59% final grade in Pre-Algebra B required general education summer credit recovery enrollment. The student successfully passed the class and earned the credit on June 18, 2026. However, the LEA acknowledged that the student's IEP Team did not reconvene to determine what accommodations were necessary for the student to participate in the summer credit recovery session or to re-consider the need for ESY services instead of the summer credit recovery session.

As a result of this situation, the LEA has created a new one-page procedure document to ensure communication with the special education department to ensure that the IEP Team for any student who is eligible and enrolled in the summer credit recovery session meets to discuss the need for ESY services as well as whether any reasonable accommodations are required to access the general education summer credit recovery sessions.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based on interviews, clarifications, and a review of documentation. Additionally, the findings of Issues One, Two, and Three are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The October 8, 2025 IEP documents the IEP Team determination that ESY services were not required for the student.
2. The October 8, 2025 IEP includes the following math goal for the student: By the end of the IEP year (October 2026), when given direct instruction and practice in algebraic problem-solving, [the student] will improve from 70% to 85% accuracy in solving one-and two-step equations (including those with fractions) across three consecutive data collections, as measured by teacher-developed probes.

3. The IEP Goal Progress Report dated December 19, 2025 showed "slight improvement". There were three data probes that showed 48%, 100%, and 87% accuracy which showed a combined 78% accuracy for this goal.
4. IEP Goal Progress Report dated March 10, 2026 showed "slight improvement". There were five data probes that showed 87%, 50%, 100%, 100% and 100% accuracy which showed a combined 87% accuracy for this goal.
5. The IEP Goal Progress report dated May 15, 2026 stated, "Math teacher reported, [sic] No measurement to report on this goal, due [sic] math units covering slope, linear equations and graphing. Progress will be reported on the next grading period. [The student] is still developing integer skills in the unit".
6. The parent reported that, as a result of failing the Algebra B course, the student was eligible and enrolled in the summer credit recovery session. The parent believes that directing a student to a general education credit recovery program as the mechanism for summer academic support does not discharge the district's ESY obligation under the IDEA. The IEP team must confirm, in writing and with individualized analysis, that ESY is not required to provide FAPE to the student.
7. The LEA acknowledged that the student's IEP Team did not meet to consider if ESY services were required in order to provide the student with FAPE after the student failed the Pre-Algebra B course and was eligible and enrolled for the summer credit recovery session.
8. The student successfully completed the Edgenuity Pre-Algebra B course on June 18, 2026 and earned .50 credit towards the 24 credits required for graduation from high school.

Conclusion

The IDEA requires that a student's IEP team must consider the need for extended school year services in order to provide FAPE to the student. Chapter 5 - Section F in the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook states the need for ESY services must be determined on an individual basis. The reason for these services is to ensure the provision of FAPE so that the child can make progress toward the goals specified on the child's IEP and to prevent regression, which would impede such progress.

The factors that must be considered when determining eligibility for ESY services are based on the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals. Johnson v. Independent School District No. 4 of Bixby, 921 F.2d 1022 (10th Cir. 1990). These factors include regression/recoupment data as well as multiple other factors such as the degree of the impairment, the child's rate of progress, etc.

As noted in Issue One, a failing grade in a class does not automatically trigger the requirement for the IEP team to reconvene. However, if a child with a disability is attending a summer school program for general education purposes, such as credit recovery, the school shall consider what reasonable accommodations/modifications may be necessary for the child to have an equal opportunity to participate in the general education environment and curriculum. These necessary supports can be provided through a 504 plan or the student's IEP.

In this case, the IEP Goal Progress Reports document the student is making progress towards the IEP goals despite failing the Pre-Algebra B course during the second semester. No data was provided by either party suggesting the failing grade would cause the student to experience any significant regression that would impact the student's continued progress towards achieving his annual IEP math goal. Instead, documentation shows the student successfully completed the Edgenuity credit recovery Pre-Algebra B course and recouped the lost .50 credit required for graduation from high school through participation in only 11 of the 19 days of the summer credit recovery session.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is IN compliance with implementing the IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.106(b).

As noted in Issue One, the LEA developed a new written procedure for an application process to be followed for enrollment and participation in future summer credit recovery sessions which requires that "Should a student receive special education services apply, the counseling office will contact the identified student's case manager. The case manager will contact the LEDMs [Legal Education Decision Makers] to schedule an IEP meeting to discuss ESY [Extended School Year]. The team will need to discuss ESY and/or accommodations necessary to participate in EHS Summer Credit Recovery". This new procedure will ensure that any factors suggesting ESY services may be needed to prevent regression are considered for all future students with disabilities enrolling in the summer credit recovery sessions.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

Issue One: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, violations of IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and §300.324(b)(1)(ii) were found. As such, the following corrective action is ordered:

1. No later than 15 days from the date of this report, the LEA will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) for implementing each student's IEP as written and with IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1)(ii) which require each public agency to review and revise a student's IEP, as appropriate, to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum; the results of any reevaluation; information about the child provided to, or by, the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters.
2. It is noted that the LEA has proactively developed a new written procedure and application process for participation in future summer credit recovery sessions which includes a requirement to review and revise, as needed, the IEPs of all students with disabilities who apply for the program. The LEA will provide SETS with documentation that administrative staff involved with the 2026-27 summer credit recovery session have been made aware of the new written procedure no later than May 15, 2027.

3. In addition, the LEA will provide documentation that the IEPs from at least two students with disabilities who are eligible for the summer credit recovery session have been reviewed and revised, as necessary, prior to participation in the 2026-27 program. This documentation must be provided to SETS no later than May 31, 2027.

Issue Two: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA regulations was found.

Issue Three: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, violations of IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.123, §300.611, and §300.32 were found. As such, the following corrective action is ordered:

1. The LEA will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.123, §300.611, and §300.32 for protecting the confidentiality of any personally identifiable data, information, and records collected or maintained by the LEA no later than 15 days from the date of this report.
2. It is noted that the LEA has proactively plans to review the mandatory confidentiality training for all existing staff at the beginning of the school year and continue to integrate this training into the onboarding process for new hires. No later than August 31, 2026, the LEA will provide SETS with a copy of these training materials as well as a copy of the sign-in sheet documenting the names and positions of the staff who participated in the training at the beginning of the 2026-27 school year.
3. No later than August 31, 2026, the LEA will provide the parent and SETS with a written statement of the findings of the investigation of the confidentiality breach that occurred on June 12, 2026. At a minimum, the findings must include the name of the staff member who conducted the investigation; the positions of the staff who released the PII; a description of the PII that was released; the number of persons to whom the PII was shared; and a description of the LEA's actions to address the breach of confidentiality.

Issue Four: Based on interviews and a review of documentation, no violation of IDEA regulations was found.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #453, LEAVENWORTH PUBLIC SCHOOLS
ON JUNE 18, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: JULY 29, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #453 Leavenworth Public Schools on behalf of ------- and by -------, an educational liaison at Cornerstones of Care. In the remainder of the report, ------- will be referred to as "the Student" and ------- as "the Complaint." ------- mother and educational decision maker is -------. In the remainder of this report ------- will be referred to as "the Parent" or "the Mother."

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" will be used. In this case, the complaint is against USD #453(Leavenworth Public Schools) who provide their own special education services and will be referred to as "the LEA."

For the 2025-2026 school year the student attended the LEA's high school and later was assigned to the LEA's Support Services program (LSS) to receive special education services while serving a long-term suspension. School and LEA staff will be referred to In the remainder of this report as follows:

- Kathleen Edwards; special education teacher
- Gary Burdette; special education process coordinator
- Brenden Olesen, assistant principal
- Drew House, school psychologist
- Dr. Rebekah Varvel: Interim Superintendent of Learning Services & Director of Special Education
- Dr. Dustin Springer: Principal at LSS

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE. The KSDE initially received the complaint on June 18, 2026.

Evidence Reviewed

The student's mother was interviewed on July 21, 2026, verifying phone and email address and the complainant was interviewed July 24, 2026. The LEA made the following staff available for a phone interview on July 16, 2026 as part of this investigation.

- Dr. Rebekah Varvel: Interim Superintendent of Learning Services & Director of Special Education
- Liz Seager: Special Education Compliance Coordinator
- Dr. Dustin Springer: Principal at LSS
- Scott Kessler: Principal at Middle School
- James Vanek: Principal at High School

During the investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed all evidence and documentation provided by the LEA and the complainant. The following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

1. Evaluation Team Report 3-Year Reevaluation dated September 17, 2021.
2. Prior Written Notice for Initial Services, Change in Services/Placement and Request for Consent dated November 10, 2025.
3. Email exchange between special education teacher and special education process coordinator dated between Nov 17, 2025 at 11:35 a.m. and 12:16 p.m. regarding developing the move-in IEP.
4. Email exchange between special education teacher and special education process coordinator dated between December 9, 2025 at 12:54 p.m. and 3:18 p.m. regarding setting up the move-in IEP.
5. Letter to mother dated December 9, 2025 including PWN for substantial change of placement and material change of services and Request for Consent for Special Education Action.
6. IEP dated February 17, 2026
7. Email exchange between special education teacher and school psychologist dated between February 17, 2026 at 3:48 p.m. and February 18, 2026 at 12:25 p.m. regarding moving forward with evaluation/assessment when mother did not attend IEP meeting.
8. Email from special education process coordinator to mother dated March 25, 2026 at 4:49 p.m. regarding date of manifestation determination review.
9. Notice of Meetings dated March 26, 2026 and March 27, 2026 for Manifestation determination meeting.
10. Manifestation determination review packet dated March 27, 2026 and March 30, 2026.
11. Prior Written Notice for Placement and Request for Consent of Special Education Action dated March 30, 2026.
12. Screenshot of attempts in DocHub to obtain parent signature for Manifestation determination meeting and Prior Written Notice for Placement and Request for Consent of Special Education Action.
13. Letter from assistant principal to parent dated March 25, 2026 (corrected year)

Background Information

During 2025-26 the student was enrolled at the LEA's High School as a tenth-grader qualifying for special education services under the primary exceptionality of Learning Disability. The student began attending the high school on November 7, 2025. During the school year, the student received a series of suspensions, and on April 6, 2026 following a disciplinary hearing the student was placed on long-term suspension. A manifestation determination review found that the behavior was not related to the student's disability. The student was offered Special Education services (3 hours per day 5x/week) during the suspension and special education services were assigned to the LSS. On April 22, 2026, the student was placed at a County Juvenile Detention Center and on May 11, 2026 the student re-enrolled at the high school for the remainder of the school year.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and clarifications with the complainant, nine allegations of violations of the IDEA were made for the student. These nine allegations related to four IDEA issues which were investigated. The results of these investigations are found below.

Issue One

Did the LEA follow IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) when annually updating the Student's Individualized Education Program (IEP)? (Allegation 1)

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R.§300.324(b)(1)(i) and Kansas statues at K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(1) require an IEP team to develop, review, and revise the IEP at least once every 12 months meaning the district must hold an annual IEP meeting and adopt a new or revised IEP before the anniversary of the last annual meeting.

According to the Kansas Special Education Process Manual, "When a child with an exceptionality transfers to a new school district in Kansas, with a current IEP in a previous school district in Kansas, the new school district, in consultation with the parents, must provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to the child, including services comparable to those described in the child's IEP from the previous school district. Once the new district receives the current IEP the new school district may adopt the child's IEP from the previous school district or develop and implement a new IEP. If the new district develops a new IEP, parent consent is required for any substantial change in placement or any material change in services proposed in the new IEP K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(6)."

Complainant Position

The complainant alleged that the Student's IEP was not updated annually.

LEA Position

The LEA acknowledged in their July 13, 2026 response that the student enrolled in the LEA on November 6, 2025 without a current IEP. Documentation shows that the LEA obtained the most current IEP was from the student's last enrollment in the LEA while the student was an eighth grader. The LEA also requested records from the student's online school. Using this information the LEA developed a move-in IEP offering comparable services on November 7, 2025 based on information available from the student's prior IEP and enrollment in the district. A PWN was provided to the parent on November 10, 2025 noting those services. Shortly after enrollment (accounting for a holiday break and winter break), the district convened an IEP meeting on February 17, 2026.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties.

1. The SIS PowerSchool Enrollment history shows that the student enrolled in the LEA on November 7, 2025 as a tenth grader.

2. An email from the special education coordinator to the special education teacher documented, "Per [student's] last eval with [LEA] in 2021, [student] qualifies under SLD for reading comp and math problem-solving. [Student] had direct instruction and instructional support in ELA/Reading as well as instructional support in math and social studies. I know you're going to be gone for a while, so I can go ahead and put together a move-in record based on [student's] 8/15/23 move-in record and [student's] 9/6/22 annual IEP pending receipt of SpEd records."
3. The Prior Written Notice (PWN) dated November 10, 2025 proposed comparable services beginning on November 7, 2025 for the student to receive 47 minutes per day, 5 days per week of specialized instruction in Reading/ELA, 47 minutes per day, 5 days per week of specialized instruction in Math and 18 minutes per day, 5 days per week of specialized instruction in special studies resulting in a Material Change in Services (Parental Consent Required). The IEP goals were continued.
4. The PWN was sent to the parent using DocHub on November 10, 11, 14, 21, 30. The special education coordinator called the mother on November 17, 2025 to ask the mother if she wanted services for the student.
5. On December 9, 2025, a letter was sent to the parent stating that services were being initiated without parent consent due to lack of response. The special education coordinator indicated to the special education teacher in an email on December 9, 2025, "I reached out to [student's] parent via DocHub, phone, and email without success. I sent an Initiating Services w/o Consent Letter with the comparable services PWN earlier this morning. The letter, PWN, and DocHub audit trail are attached to [student's] ST profile."
6. A Notice of Meeting (NOM) dated February 5, 2026 documents that the parent was provided notice of the annual IEP team meeting on February 16, 2026. The PWN dated February 17, 2026 documented that the IEP team met to conduct an annual review and update the annual IEP and recorded the team decisions. The services and goals continued and changes to the IEP did not result in a material change in services or a substantial change in placement. The transition assessment section stated that "no information is available at this time." and the student's IEP goals were written in the transition plan. An explanation was written that, "[Student] has not been available for a transition assessment when the transition coordinator is available at the high school. When [student's] case manager is able to try to find [student] to do an informal assessment, [student] is either absent or suspended." The PWN documents that parental rights were emailed on February 6, 2026 and that the parent was not present at the meeting and the IEP team members were not able to get in touch with the mother during the meeting.
7. The LEA staff stated to the investigator in regard to collecting the transition assessment that, The team attempted to administer the AIR Self-Determination Scale, but the transition coordinator could not complete it despite daily attempts because of the student's absenteeism. As a result the LEA stated that the transition plan was "extremely generic. "Staff reported that when the student was in class, the student chose to participate in whole-group work. The LEA staff stated that although it was not included in the IEP transition plan it was learned that the student would work in an entry-level position and receive job training for an entry-level position because that was what the team could support with available information.

Conclusion

At the time the student enrolled within the LEA the IEP was out of date and the LEA followed appropriate procedures for a move-in IEP, accepting that the student qualified for special education services as a student with a specific learning disability, developing an IEP offering comparable services while agreeing to update the IEP with current performance and services as documented in the November 10, 2025 PWN. On February 16, 2026, the IEP team met to develop an annual IEP. The PWN dated February 17, 2026 showed that the IEP did not propose material or substantial changes the IEP was adopted as the IEP of record. The PWNs, emails, communication logs and IEP document that the Local Education Agency followed the federal regulation 34 C.F.R.§300.324(b)(1)(i) and Kansas statue K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(1) for the student by reviewing and developing an IEP annually based on a move-in IEP.

However, the current IEP did not include an individualized transition plan based on assessment and the LEA staff described it as "extremely generic." The student's age requires that the student have a transition plan (the IEP dated February 17, 2026 stated that a transition plan was not developed due to the student's absences and suspensions). While the reasons for not developing the transition plan are legitimate, a transition plan must be individualized enough to support measurable postsecondary goals and services. Therefore, , the LEA is out of compliance with federal regulation at 34 C.F.R.§300.324(b) and K.S.A. 72-3429 when transition assessment was not conducted to create a transition plan for a student who is 17 years old.

Therefore, the Local Education Agency is IN of compliance with following federal regulations at 34 C.F.R.§300.324(b)(1)(i) and Kansas statue K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(1) when conducting an annual review of the November 10, 2025 move-in IEP on February 17, 2026, thereby establishing the annual IEP date for the next IEP review date, but the Local Education Agency is OUT of compliance with following federal regulations at 34 C.F.R.§300.324(b) by not conducting a transition assessment and fully developing a transition plan for the student and thus, corrective action is required.

Issue Two

Did the LEA follow IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.303(b)(2) of behalf of the Student when conducting a reevaluation within timeline? (Allegation 2)

Applicable Law

Under 34 C.F.R. 300.303(b)(2) and K.S.A. 72-3428(h)(2) a must occur at least once every 3 years, unless the parent and the public agency agree that a reevaluation is unnecessary.

Complainant Position

The complainant alleged that the student's most recent reevaluation is dated from September 17, 2021 indicating the Student has not been reevaluated every three years as required by the IDEA

LEA Position

The LEA responded that while it recognizes that the student's reevaluation remains overdue; the LEA has not received signed parental consent to conduct the reevaluation despite multiple attempts. Although the law permits than an LEA may proceed with a reevaluation if it has made reasonable attempts without a response from the parent it does not compel the LEA to do so. The LEA's practice is to require informed parental consent whenever additional formal assessments are needed as part of a reevaluation, which was the case in this situation.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties. The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The LEA confirmed that the reevaluation dated September 17, 2021 was conducted while the student was a sixth grader at the LEA's middle school and is the most current evaluation for the student.
2. An email dated December 9, 2025 from the special education coordinator to the special education teacher stated, "[Student's] last re-eval we have a record of dates to 9/17/21, so [student] will need a re-eval as soon as possible. I'm not sure why [student] has a fluency goal when they only qualified [student] under reading comp and math calc. I've left it in [student's] move-in record for the time being."
3. An email from the special education teacher to the school psychologist on February 17, 2026 stated, "Can we please add SEL assessments back into [student's] eval? Based on what assistant principal is telling me [student] needs to be assessed for that and possibly take a social skills class. I will be sending the paperwork home on Wednesday via dochub, snail mail, and with [student] if [student] is here."
4. The IEP dated February 16, 2026 included the following statement, in the section, Summary of the Most Recent Evaluation/Reevaluation Results, There is not a current evaluation for [student]. [Student's] most recent evaluation was completed on 9/21/21.

An evaluation is being requested by the IEP to see where [student] is academically and for SEL concerns."

5. The Prior Written Notice for Evaluation or Reevaluation and Request for Consent dated February 17, 2026 stated in the Special Education Action Proposed section that the team is "proposing to conduct a reevaluation of your child. Information will be collected in the areas checked on the following page that provide relevant information that directly assists the team in determining:
   - Whether your child continues to be a child with an exceptionality and the educational needs of your child;
   - The present levels of academic achievement and related developmental needs of your child:
   - Whether your child continues to need special education and related services; and
   - Whether any additions or modifications to the special education and related services are needed to enable your child to meet the measurable annual goals set out in the IEP of your child and to participate as appropriate in the general education curriculum.
6. The evaluation plan attached to the February 16, 2026 PWN for evaluation consent indicates record review for Health and Motor, Vision, Hearing, Social/Emotional/Behavioral Status, General Intelligence, Academic Performance, Communicative Status, and Transition. New evaluation was requested for Social/ Emotional/Behavioral Status and Academic Performance. The Explanation of Why the Action is Proposed states, "The team is wanting to collect new evaluation for social/emotional as well as academics." They further write in the Options Considered and Why the Options were Rejected section as, "The options considered were not to evaluate. However, the team rejected the idea of not obtaining additional information because it would not be in the student's best educational interest."
7. The screenshot of DocHub shows that the evaluation plan was sent to the parent on March 2, 3, 6 and 13, 2025 with no response from the parent.
8. The LEA stated to the investigator that while they could have proceeded with the evaluation without the parent consent it is not the LEA's common practice and regardless, the review of records should have proceeded in absence of conducting the SEL and academic performance. They stated that between 2011 until 2023 the LEA would not have moved forward and since then there have been fewer than five occasions, not at the high school level.

Conclusion

In this case, email exchanges between the LEA staff and the February 17, 2026 PWN show agreement that the LEA staff asserted that the student needed updated evaluation, leading the investigator to contemplate if the LEA was stating that a FAPE could not be provided to the student without the requested evaluation. The LEA documented that in spite of multiple requests for parent consent by phone and email that request for consent was not received from the parent. Question D-3 in the Q&A from a 2011 OSEP guidance document addresses this issue stating that Under 34 CFR § 300.300(c)(2), the public agency need not obtain informed parental consent for the reevaluation if the public agency can demonstrate that it made reasonable efforts to obtain consent for the reevaluation, and the child's parent has failed to respond to the request for consent. This means that a public agency may conduct a reevaluation of a child with a disability without using the consent override procedures if the public agency can demonstrate that it made reasonable efforts to obtain parental consent for the reevaluation, and the child's parent has failed to respond to the request for consent. Section 300.300(d)(5) of the regulations provides that in order to meet the reasonable efforts requirement; the public agency must document its attempts to obtain parental consent using the procedures in 34 CFR § 300.322(d). These procedures include detailed records of telephone calls made or attempted and the results of those calls, copies of correspondence sent to the parents and any responses received, and detailed records of visits made to the parent's home or place of employment and the results of those visits.

In both the LEA's response and interview with the investigator the LEA stated that their practice guided their decision to not move forward with reevaluation without parent consent. Their position is supported by IDEA as they state, "Although the law permissibly indicates that an LEA may proceed with a reevaluation if it has made reasonable attempts without a response from the parent, it does not compel the LEA to do so" (34 C.F.R. § 300.300(c)(1)(iii) and K.A.R. 91-40-27(f)). Further, 34 C.F.R. § 300.300 (b)(3)(2) and K.A.R. 91-40-27(f)(3) states that the "agency shall not be in violation of its obligations for…reevaluations …if the agency declines to pursue an evaluation or reevaluation.

In this case the LEA followed IDEA and Kansas regulation as well as their stated practice in not moving forward with conducting the student's reevaluation which consent was not provided by the parent in spite of attempts.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is IN compliance for implementing federal regulation 34 C.F.R. 300.303(b)(2) and Kansas statute K.S.A. 72-3428(h)(2)3) at least once every 3 years.

Issue Three

Did the LEA follow IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.530(e)(1) and 34 C.F.R. §300.536 when conducting a manifestation determination review (MDR) meeting in regard to disciplinary suspensions during the 2025-26 school year? (Allegations 3, 4, 5)

Applicable Law

According to the Kansas Special Education Process Manual, page 193 "When a child with a disability violates a school's code of conduct, that behavior could result in suspension or expulsion. Such removals from school are subject to the disciplinary provisions of special education law." On page 196 the Manual states that "School officials may remove a child with a disability who violates a code of student conduct from his or her current placement to an appropriate interim alternative educational setting, another setting, or suspension, for not more than 10 consecutive school days (to the extent those alternatives are applied to children without disabilities), and for additional removals of not more than 10 consecutive school days in that same school year for separate incidents of misconduct, as long as those removals do not constitute a change of placement." (34 C.F.R. §300.536)

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.530(e)(1) and state statute at K.S.A. 72-3433(d)(2),(e)(1) describe in the instance of behavioral incident(s) as soon as practical, but not later than 10 school days after the date on which the decision is made to change the placement of a child with a disability because of a violation of a student code of conduct, the MDR team, consisting of the LEA, relevant IEP team members, and the parent must review all relevant information in the student's file and determine whether the student's conduct was caused by, or had a direct and substantial relationship to, the child's IDEA-qualifying disability; or the direct result of the LEA's failure to implement the IEP. If either condition is met, the conduct is deemed a manifestation of the disability. Federal courts have emphasized that the MDR inquiry is tied specifically to the student's IDEA-qualifying disability and may not be expanded to consider non-qualifying diagnoses or generalized assumptions about disability categories.

The Kansas Special Education Process Manual further explains on page 211 "A manifestation determination review is only required in two instances: (1) the suspension is for more than 10 consecutive school days (including placement in an interim alternative educational setting for possession of weapons or drugs or for infliction of serious bodily injury); or (2) the suspension is for less than 10 consecutive school days, but constitutes a pattern of removals that result in a change in placement. A pattern of removals that results in a change of placement occurs when all of the following are present: (1) the removals in a school year cumulate to more than 10 school days; (2) each incident of misconduct involves substantially the same behavior; and (3) there are other factors present that indicate a pattern of removals, such as the length of each suspension, the total amount of time the child is suspended and the proximity of the suspensions to one another. Accordingly, short-term suspensions beyond the 11th cumulative day of suspension may continue to be imposed without a manifestation determination as long as all of the components of a pattern of removals are not present. However, educational services, although in another setting, are required for all suspensions beyond the 11th cumulative day.

Complainant Position

The complainant alleged that a manifestation determination review (MDR) meeting was held during spring 2026 which changed the student's placement relying on an outdated IEP and special education evaluation. In addition, the student's parent was not involved in the MDR, and the student's placement was changed to Third Street Program without parental consent.

LEA Position

According to the LEA response dated July 13, 2026, the team conducted a Manifestation Determination Review (MDR) on March 30, 2026 following two attempts to gain parental participation at the meeting.

The LEA determined an MDR was warranted due to the student receiving a 10-day suspension and being referred for a long-term suspension. The MDR team reviewed the student's disciplinary history, available evaluation information, the student's current IEP, teacher observations, and relevant information provided by staff in determining whether the conduct in question was caused by, or had a direct and substantial relationship to, the student's disability, or whether the conduct resulted from a failure to implement the IEP.

Although the student's reevaluation was overdue at the time of the MDR, the district does not believe that an overdue reevaluation alone invalidated the MDR process. The MDR was conducted using a current IEP, current teacher observations, and the most current evaluation information available to the team.

In reviewing the behavior at issue along with the information described above, the team determined that the student's behavior was not a manifestation of the student's disability, meaning the student would be disciplined in the same manner as students without exceptionalities. Following an expulsion hearing the student was suspended for one calendar year, consistent with other students without exceptionalities committing this offense.

Although subject to discipline, the student was entitled to receive special education and related services during the suspension that were designed to enable the student to continue to participate in the general education curriculum (although in another setting) and to continue to progress on IEP goals (known as modified FAPE under the law). The determination of the student's services and placement during suspension was made through the IEP and disciplinary process in accordance with IDEA requirements and was not the result of a unilateral change in placement without procedural protections. Notably, parental consent for a disciplinary change of placement and determination of services is not required. The student was offered services beginning on the 11th day of suspension. The LEA reports that the student frequently did not attend services.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties. The findings of Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The PowerSchool SIS incident log listed four incidents occurring during the 2025-26 school year. December 10, 2025 a classroom rule violation was listed for use of profanity. On December 19, 2025, a classroom violation for physical aggressing toward another student was documented. This resulted in one day of Out of School Suspension (OSS). On January 7, an incident of inappropriate and vulgar language was recorded. This resulted in one day of OSS. On January 14, 2026, the student received two days of In-school Suspension (ISS). On January 29, 2026, an incident of verbal aggression toward staff was recorded and the student received two days of OSS. Log entries in the PowerSchool SIS recorded three additional behavioral incidents. On February 24, 2026, a classroom violation for inappropriate and vulgar language was recorded. No suspension was recorded. On March 11, 2026, the student received a behavior referral for general disruption and distraction. No suspension was recorded. Finally, on March 25, 2026 a behavioral incident was recorded for smoking/vaping that escalated into threatening staff and security was called. The March 25, 2026 incident led to the ten-day suspension and long-term suspension hearing.
2. The MDR dated March 30, 2026 describes the behavioral incident occurring on March 25, 2026 as a verbal threat to staff members. It states,

   Was caught vaping by a teacher. Teacher asked [student] to hand [staff] vape, and [student] began to comply initially. [Student] then tried to pull vape back. Other staff tried to help out, and [student] began to escalate and make threats to staff and scream profanities to other staff. Continued to escalate on way to office. Once assistant principal ended up with vape, [student] escalated further. [Student] made threats while in office to 'beat up' others and used other profanity. Called mom on cell phone, security explained situation over the phone to mom. Another administrator talked to mom and explained the situation and noted that [student] would be suspended for 10 days. [Student] demanded [student's] phone back, and administrator told parent [administrator] would call her back at a later date. Also talked to grandmother and aunt. [Student] demanded [student's] vape back, administrator informed [student] [administrator] could not legally do so since [student] is a minor. Refused to leave the building when asked. Police were contacted as [student] continued to escalate. When police arrived, [student] began to escalate, but they were able to escort [student] outside. [Student] was kicking window while waiting for pickup. Secretary had to relocate parent in office because disruption was too great to communicate with parent.

3. The March 25, 2026 letter from the assistant superintendent to the parent notifies the mother that the student was issued a ten-day suspension effective March 25, 26- April 8, 2026 for verbal threats to staff members and may return to school property on April 9, 2026 pending long term suspension.

4. The NOM dated March 26, 2026 requested a meeting for March 27, 2026. When the parent did not attend, a second NOM dated March 27, 2026 was send via DocHub for March 30, 2026.
5. The MDR dated March 30, 2026 documented that the parent rights were provided via DocHub. It is written that the following information was considered: 1) A summary of the behavioral incident. 2) IEP information including that the student is eligible for special education under the category of specific learning disability, the student has two reading and two math goals and one coping skills goal, services minutes for the reading and math goals and five academic/testing accommodations and one accommodation related to reward for appropriate social interactions. The IEP does not include an FBA or BIP/ 3) Teacher observations. 4) Documentation of attempted parent contacts in the section for Relevant Parent Information. 5) and additional documentation including that the LEA had attempted to obtain SEL evaluation, but the parent had not provided consent. It was checked that the behavior considered during the MDR was not caused by or have a direct and substantial relationship to the child's disability nor was it a direct result of the school's failure to implement the IEP. The conclusion reached by the MDR team was that the behavior was not a manifestation of the disability and a "disciplinary removal may occur, but the school district must continue to make a free appropriate public education (FAPE) available to the student in a manner when enables the student to continue to participate in the general education curriculum, although in another setting, and to progress toward meeting the goals set out in the student's IEP." Attachments to the MDR included the meeting signature pages, NOMs of the first and second attempts, PWN, IEP teacher packet, IEP, Evaluation, Evaluation content in DocHub audit, attendance report, grades report and suspension letter.
6. The PWN for Placement dated March 30, 2026 described that the "IEP team met on 3/30/26 (second attempt; first attempt on 3/27/26) in order to conduct a manifestation review. The IEP team determined that the behavior in question is not a manifestation of [student's] exceptionality. The student will attend a separate school facility on the 11th day of disciplinary removal and for any subsequent disciplinary removals. The student will receive 180 minutes per day of special education services while in attendance at the separate school facility. Transportation is not provided. In addition, 10 minutes of consultation services will be provided one time per week. At the end of the disciplinary removal, the student's placement will return to the original IEP placement. The DocHub audit shows that this PWN was emailed to the parent on March 30, 2026.
7. The 2026-27 Student Handbook states that long-term suspension can result from repeated offenses or serious offenses such as violence or harassment. It further indicates that long-term suspension may occur related to vaping incidents. Finally, the handbook states, students are not permitted to engage in verbally abusive behavior such as threats towards school staff or other students. Students will be subject to disciplinary action for verbal and/or physical assault. The staff stated to the investigator that the handbook does not use a "matrix" or provide the level of detail that would dictate a discipline matched to a specific behavior infraction.

8. The PWN dated May 28, 2026 explaining the student's ESY services outlines that the long-term suspension hearing occurred April 3, 2026 and that the student is expelled until April 3, 2026, but may return in January 2027 with restrictions.

Conclusion

In this case, the LEA conducted the appropriate steps in providing the parent notice for the MDR meeting and provide parent rights; however the parent did not attend the MDR or long-term suspension hearing . The MDR document shows that the IEP/MDR team considered the appropriate information outlined in IDEA regulations when reaching the conclusion that the student's behavior or LEA's lack of providing instruction were not the reason for the behavior incident. The LEA staff explained that the discipline for the behavior was consistent with the discipline provided to a student without an exceptionality. While the student handbook was not detailed enough to verify the discipline it was consistent with the reasoning of the discipline.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA followed IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.530(e)(1) and 34 C.F.R. §300.536 when conducting a manifestation determination review (MDR) meeting on March 27, 2026 in regard to disciplinary suspension and is IN compliance.

Issue Four

Did the LEA follow IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) when implementing the Student's IEP during the 2025-2026 school year? (Allegations 6, 7, 8, 9)

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Complainant Position

The complainant alleged that the student has missed educational services at the LSS program due to transportation arriving late at the student's home and/or departing early from the LSS Program and that the district is not implementing the Student's IEP. The complaint also alleged the district changed the student's transportation without consent from district transportation to using an Uber where the student is not supervised. In addition, the student's transportation times were changed without notifying the student's residence and foster care agency.

LEA Position

The LEA response dated July 13, 2026 responded that the student received access to the general education curriculum and educational programming while attending the placement following the MDR. However, the LEA determined that specialized reading instruction identified within the student's IEP was not provided during the period from May 11 through 18, 2026, the final day of the school year. The LEA acknowledges this lapse in implementation of the student's IEP and has offered to make up those services during the 2026-2027 school year.

Regarding transportation, the LEA investigated allegations that staff arranged transportation through Uber and that transportation schedules were modified without notification. The LEA determined that the student was not eligible for Extended School Year services and was not enrolled in general education summer programming on June 8, 2026. District attendance records indicate the student was not present on campus that day. The district found no evidence that district personnel arranged, authorized, or paid for Uber transportation on this date.

Concerns were also raised in the complaint about the student's transportation schedule toward the end of the school year. At one point, the student was placed in foster care in a location over thirty miles outside the district boundaries. Due to the distance, the district privately contract for transportation services. This arrangement resulted in a later arrival for the student, which necessitated a later departure to ensure she received full services.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties. The findings of Issues One through Three are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The complainant and LEA agree that this allegation is in regard to implementation of the student's IEP following the disciplinary change of placement to LSS described in the PWN dated March 30, 2026.
2. The student's special education services were amended March 30, 2026 to include 180 minutes per day of special education services while in attendance at the separate school facility (LSS). Transportation is not provided. In addition, 10 minutes of consultation services will be provided one time per week.
3. The LEA acknowledged in a PWN dated May 12, 2026 that it failed to provide the student specialized instruction in reading while attending LSS in May and would meet with the parent at the beginning of the 2026-27 school year to offer compensatory minutes. The attendance document indicates the student had unexcused absences from April 9 – 17, 2026 and attended the LSS on April 20 – 21, 2026. The student's attendance overview did not record attendance during the month of May.
4. The LEA and complainant agree that the student moved in with an aunt approximately 30 miles away from the LEA on April 2, 2026.

5. The student's placement was temporarily changed from the LEA and LSS for special education services when placed in a Juvenile Detention Center between April 22, 2026 and May 10, 2026. The student was reenrolled in the direct on long-term suspension with special education services at the LSS starting May 11, 2026 through the end of the school year on May 20, 2026.
6. Email exchanges among the Interim Superintendent of Learning Services & Director of Special Education, principal of the LSS, aunt and complainant document that the LEA had not arranged transportation between the LSS and aunt's residence.

Conclusion

In this case, the LEA acknowledged that they are out of compliance in providing reading services during the LSS placement, with no mention of math or indirect consultative service minutes. Attendance records were blank so it was not possible to verify when the student attended the LSS with the exception of April 20 and 21, 2025. Additionally, progress reports were not provided to show if the student was making progress on the goals. Therefore, in absence of supporting documentation it is concluded that the student did not receive the 180 minutes of special education service minutes daily while at LSS, with the exception of April 20 and 21, 2025 and is out of compliance for providing the IEP service minutes.

In regard to the allegations for missed transportation services during the LSS placement it is found that the March 30, 2026 PWN documented that the LEA did not provide transportation services between the home and LSS during that time and is not out of compliance.

Based on the foregoing, the Local Education Agency is out of compliance with following IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) when implementing the Student's IEP during the 2025-2026 school year, following the disciplinary change of placement and corrective action is ordered in regard to providing the IEP reading and math services, but not the transportation services.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R.§300.324(b) was found. Corrective action is required as follows.

1. Provide assurances to SETS that it will follow 34 C.F.R.§300.324(b) within two weeks following the sixty (60) days at the conclusion of the investigation.
2. Collect transition assessment for the student according to LEA practices for other transition aged students within 30 days of the students returning for the 2026-27 school year.
3. Reconvene the IEP team within two weeks of completing the transition assessment to develop an individualized transition plan for the student. A copy of the transition assessment data, amended IEP and PWN will be provided to SETS within one week of the meeting documenting the discussion and decisions.

ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.303(b)(2) and K.S.A. 72-3428(h)(2) was not found and therefore corrective action is not required.

ISSUE THREE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.530(e)(1) and 34 C.F.R. §300.536 was not found and therefore corrective action is not required.

ISSUE FOUR: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) was found. Corrective action is required as follows.

1. Provide assurances to SETS that it will follow 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) within two weeks following the sixty (60) days at the conclusion of the investigation.
    a. Reconvene the IEP team to develop an individualized transition plan for the student the IEP team shall offer a maximum of 1800 minutes of the direct special education services (10 days of 180 minutes of reading and math services) and 100 minutes of consultative services (10 days of 10 minutes) as outlined in the March 30, 2026 PWN as compensatory services for failing to implement the student's IEP on April 20 and 21, 2026 and May 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 18, 19, 20, 2026 while attending the LSS program during the 2025-26 school year. The LEA shall provide SETS with a copy of the written plan for providing the compensatory services offered and the parents' decision on whether to accept the offer, in whole or in part, no later than 10 days from the date of the IEP team meeting.
    b. It is permissible for the IEP team to accomplish the corrective action associated Issue One and Four at the same meeting.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #453, LEAVENWORTH PUBLIC SCHOOLS
ON JUNE 18, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: AUGUST 5, 2026

This report is in response to a systemic complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #453 Leavenworth Public Schools on behalf of seven students who receive services through Cornerstones of Care by Jenine Casson, an educational liaison with the agency. In the remainder of the report, the seven students will be referred to as follows:

_____ = Student A
_____ = Student B
_____ = Student C
_____ = Student D
_____ = Student E
_____ = Student F
_____ = Student G

For the 2025-2026 school year each qualifying student (Students A, B, and C) attended either the LEA's high school or middle school. In some cases the students were assigned to the LEA's Support Services program (LSS Program) to receive special education services while serving long-term suspensions. The school name and LEA staff will be referred to In the remainder of this report as follows:

- Dr. Rebekah Varvel: Director of Special Education
- Dr. Dustin Springer: Principal at LSS program
- Paige Miller: School Registrar
- Triston Richardson: School Counselor
- James Vanek: High School Principal
- Program that students attend for special education services while on long-term suspension: LSS program

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE. The KSDE initially received the complaint on June 18, 2026. The investigator subsequently requested and was granted an extension.

Evidence Reviewed

The complainant was interviewed July 24, 2026. The parent for Student A was interviewed on July 21, 2026. The investigator was unable to reach the parent/ educational decision maker for Students B and C. The investigator called the parent of Student B on July 21, 2026 using the contact number listed on the student's IEP but reached a voicemail that did not indicate the identity. A phone message was not left as the investigator could not confirm the parent's identity and did not want to leave any personally identifying information on the voicemail. The investigator sent a follow-up email to the email address listed on the student's IEP on July 21, 2026, but no response was received. A phone message was left and email sent to the educational decision maker for Student C after obtaining current information from the LEA on July 21, 2026. No response was received. The LEA made the following staff available for a phone interview on July 15, 2026 as part of this investigation.

- Dr. Rebekah Varvel: Interim Superintendent of Learning Services & Director of Special Education
- Liz Seager: Special Education Compliance Coordinator
- Dr. Dustin Springer: Principal at LSS
- Scott Kessler: Principal at Middle School
- James Vanek: Principal at High School

During the investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed all evidence and documentation provided by the LEA and the complainant. The following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

4. Email from complainant to special education director dated September 19, 2025 at 9:35 a.m. stating, "Placement has been voicing frustrations that [student] is currently going to the day school and is not receiving teaching services at all. [Student] is supposed to be receiving instruction from 9-12 but [student] is not even getting that. According to [student], [student] sits in a room working on [student's] computer for a couple hours with a monitor, not a teacher in there. [Student] is rarely ever there for the full three hours and is not getting any direct services. This has not changed at all as of this date. My biggest concern is that [student] is falling further behind as services go undelivered." The director of special education replied on September 21, 2025 at 10:37

a.m. that "I connected with [principal at LSS] last Friday and developed a plan to support [student]. Our instructional facilitator will collaborate with the [LEA high school staff" on appropriate special education interventions for [student]. Meanwhile, [principal at LSS] will work with student on [student's] Edgenuity (general education) courses."

5. Email from complainant to special education director dated September 22, 2025 at 9:59 a.m. stating, "We would like to see specific details of the plan and what resources and direct services will be made available to [student]. Is [principal at LSS] working directly with [student] for the three hours [student] is to be in the learning center? Are there any direct services from a resource teacher for [student's] lessons? If so, what teacher and are they delivering [student's] transition services at this time? While in our care, it is our responsibility to ensure [student] is on track to meet [student's] IEP goals and graduate with [student's] peers." The director of special education replied at 10:32 pm., "I will check with our instructional coach to get the names of specific interventions being delivered. Usually, reading is either Corrective Reading or Language! For math, we typically use Corrective Math or Essentials for Algebra. I believe [student] worked with our staff this morning. These services are provided by a teacher, substitute, or another trained staff member. [Student's] academic coursework would be available through Edgenuity, so 'student can access it at home or when not participating in the mentioned interventions. Regarding transition services [student] would use Xello to complete ongoing transition activities. The only transition service explicitly noted in the IEP is completing academic activities through [student's] classes"
6. Email from principal to special education director dated September 23, 2025 at 11:31 a.m. discussion the transition of the student from the LEA to another LEA at the conclusion of the long-term suspension, "I did not share this with [contact at transferring LEA]I did wonder if there is a way to reword the IEP if they are going to rewrite it for LSS, because the (sic) it reading to me is that we should be providing 3x the original service minutes)."
7. Email exchange among principal at LSS, school registrar and school counselor dated August 26, 2025 at 8:16 a.m. and September 2, 2025 at 10:03 a.m. stating the student is being marked as absent at the LEA high school and asking for attendance corrections with the school counselor offering solutions.

Background Information

This systemic complaint was filed by the educational liaison of an agency that provides services for children with behavioral and mental health needs who are involved in some capacity with the foster care system. The complaint also involved a child complaint that was investigated and reported in a separate complaint report. The complainant alleged that "[LSS program] has become an offload site for students with behavioral concerns. In the last year, our organization has had six students in our care sent over there for long term suspensions. The school is not addressing IEP goals nor is the education students are receiving there substantial enough for them to make progress. The students described below were determined to have been enrolled in the LEA at the LSS program during the 2025-26 school year.

Student A was an eleventh (11th) grader during the 2025-26 school year. The student is eligible as a student with a specific learning disability in reading fluency and math calculation. Initially the student attended the 2025-26 school year at the LEA high school receiving special education services in the general education and special education settings. Following a brief change of services to a juvenile detention center a long-term suspension hearing resulted in a disciplinary change of placement to the LSS program during November 2025. During the second semester of the 2025-26 school year the student moved from the mother's home to foster care located in another school district. The mother retained educational decision making responsibilities for the student.

Student B was an eleventh (11th) grader during the 2025-26 school year. The student was serving a long-term suspension initiated in February 2025 and started the 2025-26 school year on suspension receiving special education services as a student with intellectual disability at the LSS. During the long-term suspension, the student was placed with a foster family residing in another school district. Once the student completed the one-year long-term suspension at the end of February 2026 the student transferred to the other school district. The student's exit date for the LEA was March 2, 2026.

Student C was a seventh (7th) grader at the middle school during the 2025-26 school year. The student had not been identified with an exceptionality at the start of the school year, but the LEA suspected that the student may qualify for special education services and initiated request for a special education with the student's parent with consent provided to commence evaluation on October 28, 2025. Prior to and during the evaluation the student received a series of short-term suspensions that constituted a disciplinary change of placement and two Manifestation Determinations occurred in anticipation that the student may be found eligible for special education services. In November 2025 as a result of a long-term suspension hearing the student was suspended for the remainder of the school year. The student was subsequently determined to be eligible for special education as a student with a specific learning disability in the area of mathematics and the disciplinary placement was determined to be the LSS program. During the winter of the 2025-26 school year the student's grandparent because the educational decision maker for the student replacing the biological mother and the student moved to live with the grandmother.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and clarifications with the complainant, three systemic allegations of violations of the IDEA were made for the seven identified students and these were investigated. The results of these investigations are found below.

Issue One

Did the LEA follow IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a)(2) when changing the placement of Student A, Student B, Student C, Student D, Student E, Student F, and Student G associated with significant behavior and/or long-term suspensions during the 2025-26 school year?

Applicable Law

34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a)(1)(2) and K.S.A. 72-3432 states that written notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency either proposes to initiate or change the educational placement of the child.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.536 clarify disciplinary placement as referring situations where a student with a disability is removed from their current educational placement because of behavior that violates a code of student conduct. According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.536(a) a disciplinary removal is considered a change of placement if the student is removed for more than 10 consecutive school days or has a series of removals that total more than 10 school days in a school year and constitute a pattern. Once there is a change of placement, IDEA's additional protections apply.

In the case of a disciplinary change of placement federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.530(c) states that if the disciplinary change in placement would exceed 10 consecutive school days, and the behavior that was the violation of the school code is determined not to be a manifestation of the child's disability, school personnel may apply the relevant disciplinary procedures to children with disabilities in the same manner and for the same duration as the procedures would be applied to children without disabilities.

Complainant Position

The complainant alleged that the district has changed the placement of seven students with behavioral concerns to virtual or the [LSS program] without following IDEA procedures.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA responded in their July 13, 2026 response that four of the seven students (Students D, E, F, and G) were not enrolled in the LEA during the 2025-26 school year. Student B did not experience a change of placement during the 2025-26 school year as the student was on a long-term suspension that started in February 2025 and consistently provided special education services at the LSS program until transferring out of the district on March 2, 2026. Of the two remaining students, their placement changes were the result of long-term suspensions that were initiated after manifestation determinations that concluded that the student's behaviors were not manifestations of the student's identified disabilities. Specifically, Student A received multiple suspensions during the 2025-2026 school year. A manifestation determination review (MDR) was conducted for each one that constituted a disciplinary change of placement. Specifically, MDRs were conducted on September 3, 2025 for a Building Rule violation and again on October 28, 2025 for possession of THC vape. In both instances the MDR team determined that the behaviors were not a manifestation of disability. The parent/educational decision-maker participated in the October 28, 2025 meeting and decision. A Prior Written Notice dated October 28, 2025 was provided to the parent/educational decision-maker prior to the long-term suspension hearing and the subsequent change of placement for disciplinary removal. Although parental consent is not required for a disciplinary change of placement, the parent/educational decision-maker signed the PWN on October 28, 2025. Student C was not identified as a student with an exceptionality at the start of the 2025-2026 school year, however the district suspected the student may qualify for special education services and commenced an initial evaluation with the guardian signing consent for evaluation on October 28, 2025. During the evaluation, the student received a series of short-term suspensions that the district determined constituted a disciplinary change of placement. Because a pattern was determined to exist, an MDR was held on October 31, 2025. When the student was referred for a long-term suspension, a second MDR was held on November 6, 2025. The MDR team determined the student's behavior was not related to disability, Concurrently, the student was suspended for the rest of the year.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties.

1. The IEP dated February 27, 2025 documents that Student B's educational placement was the LSS program with IEP services due to a year-long suspension occurring prior to the 2025-26 school year. The annual IEP dated November 12, 2025 maintains the placement and services in the February 27, 2025 for the duration of the long-term suspension. The LEA's SIS enrollment history shows that Student B transferred out of the LEA on March 2, 2026, following completion of the long-term suspension.
2. The LEA response dated July 13, 2026 stated that Student D was not enrolled during the 2025-26 school year. The LEA's student information system (SIS) enrollment history shows that Student D was expelled following an expulsion hearing on November 12, 2024 for the remainder of the 2024-25 school year with a written note that the student was able to return for the 2025-26 school year. The SIS form and district response document that the student's last date of attendance was November 18, 2024.

3. The LEA response dated July 13, 2026 stated that Student E was not enrolled during the 2025-26 school year. The LEA's SIS enrollment history documents that Student E completed 11th grade in the LEA's high school and transferred to another district on August 11, 2025.
4. The LEA response dated July 13, 2026 stated that Student F was not enrolled during the 2025-26 school year. The LEA's SIS enrollment history shows that the parent completed pre-registration for the student to attend the middle school for the 2025-26 school year but then called and said that Student F would not be transferring to the LEA middle school. The record shows that the student was enrolled at another district's virtual school on August 11, 2025 and the student was exited from the LEA's student information system on January 6, 2026. The LEA response dated July 13, 2026 stated that the student's last date of attendance was May 23, 2025 and the transfer to the virtual school in another district was effective August 11, 2025.
5. The LEA response dated July 13, 2026 stated that Student G was not enrolled during the 2025-26 school year. The LEA's SIS enrollment history shows that Student G completed kindergarten in the LEA's elementary school and transferred to another district on August 24, 2020.

The following table presents the LEA's procedures followed associated with changing the placement for Students A and B following disciplinary long-term suspensions during the 2025-26 school year.

Conclusion

In this case, two students (Student A and Student C) had changes of placement during the 2025-26 school year. In both cases the students committed violations of school code as described in the LEA's student handbook. The LEA suspended the student for the behavioral violations according to their LEA procedures. At the time the students' days of suspension neared ten (10) the LEA followed IDEA procedures by conducting a manifestation determination to determine whether the behavior was caused by or had a direct and substantial relationship to the child's disability or direct result of the school's failure to implement the IEP. In both cases the Manifestation Determination Review Team determined that the student's behavior was not a manifestation and the LEA applied the same discipline as would be applied to a student without a disability. Following a longer-term suspension for each student the IEP team met to determine services and an educational placement at the LSS program to receive the special education services during the suspension and the student's IEPs were amended to reflect those services at the LSS program.

The LEA correctly asserted that the protections of 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a)(1)(2) and K.S.A. 72-3432 refer to an IEP team decision for a change of placement and are not applicable in the case of a disciplinary change of placement. Therefore, 34 C.F.R. §300.530(c) and 34 C.F.R. §300.536 more appropriately address this situation that two students (Student A and Student C) were suspended for school code violations and following a Manifestation Determination Review the students were suspended long-term and they were not allowed to received services at the high school (Student A) or middle school (Student C). The IEP team met to change the placement of each student as a result of the suspension to the LSS to receive special education services.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is IN compliance with implementing 34 C.F.R. §300.530(c) and 34 C.F.R. §300.536 when changing the placement of Student A and Student C associated with significant behavior and/or long-term suspensions during the 2025-26 school year. It is found that this investigation of changing placement did not apply to Students B, D, E, F, and G. It is further found that regulations 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a)(1)(2) and K.S.A. 72-3432 do that apply in the instance of disciplinary changes of placement in this case. No corrective action is associated with Issue One.

Issue Two

Did the LEA follow IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) when implementing the IEPs for Student A, Student B, Student C, Student D, Student E, Student F, and Student G during the 2025-2026 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Complainant Position

The complainant alleged that the LEA has not implemented the IEPs of the seven students who receive services through [Complainant's agency] during the 2025-2026 school year.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA responded that the IEP for Student A was implemented as written at the high school until the disciplinary change of placement and that the revised IEP offering modified FAPE at the LSS program was implemented for the duration of the school year. The LEA responded that that the IEP for Student B was implemented as written and the student was offered modified FAPE through the LSS program during the 2025-26 school year until transferring to another school district on March 2, 2206. The LEA responded that an IEP was first written for Student C on February 2, 2026 while the student was serving a long-term suspension and the IEP was written and implemented offering modified FAPE through the LSS program during the 2025-26 school year. The LEA responded that Students D, E, F, and G were not enrolled in the school district during the 2025-26 school year.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference and therefore the implementation of IEPs for Students D, E, F, and G are not investigated.

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties.

1. The LEA staff reported that the LSS program is "intended for students with an IEP who are on their eleventh day of suspension, are long-term suspended, or are expelled. It is a classroom staffed by a substitute when necessary, although our goal is to have a special education teacher. Last year we had a long-term substitute in that placement." "We run morning and afternoon sessions. Students attend based on their schedule and age. The purpose is to provide special education services first. Students also have access to general education coursework. After their special education services are completed, any remaining time is used for general education work, with the teacher supporting assignments, question and communication with the general education building." The staff clarified to the investigator that the instruction may be individual, computer assisted programs, small group, or class-based, depending on who is in the program at the time. The LEA staff reported to the investigator that there were no student schedules or staff assignment schedules as there was only one teacher so that staff assignment schedules were unnecessary.
2. An email from the Complainant to the Special Education Director on Friday, September 19, 2025 at 9:35 a.m. documented that the Complainant questioned whether Student B's IEP services were being implemented stating, "Placement [student's residence] has been voicing frustrations that [student] is currently going to the day school and is not receiving teaching services at all. [Student] is supposed to be receiving instruction from 9-12 but [student] is not even getting that. According to [student], [student] sits in a room working on [student's] computer for a couple hours with a monitor, not a teacher in there. [Student] is rarely ever there for the full three hours and is not getting any direct services. This has not changed at all as of this date." The director of special education replied on the following Monday that "I connected with [principal at LSS] last Friday and developed a plan to support [student]. Our instructional facilitator will collaborate with the [LEA high school staff" on appropriate special education interventions for [student]. Meanwhile, [principal at LSS] will work with student on [student's] Edgenuity (general education) courses."

3. An email from complainant to special education director dated September 22, 2025 at 9:59 a.m. again requested additional information about implementing Student B's IEP services stating, "We would like to see specific details of the plan and what resources and direct services will be made available to [student]. Is [principal at LSS] working directly with [student] for the three hours [student] is to be in the learning center? Are there any direct services from a resource teacher for [student's] lessons? If so, what teacher and are they delivering [student's] transition services at this time? While in our care, it is our responsibility to ensure [student] is on track to meet [student's] IEP goals and graduate with [student's] peers." The director of special education replied later that day, "I will check with our instructional coach to get the names of specific interventions being delivered. Usually, reading is either Corrective Reading or Language! For math, we typically use Corrective Math or Essentials for Algebra. [student] worked with our staff this morning. These services are provided by a teacher, substitute, or another trained staff member. [Student's] academic coursework would be available through Edgenuity, so 'student can access it at home or when not participating in the mentioned interventions. Regarding transition services [student] would use Xello to complete ongoing transition activities. The only transition service explicitly noted in the IEP is completing academic activities through [student's] classes"
4. Progress reports were provided for Students A, B, and C to document implementation during the 2025-26 school year. Data, records or logs, student assignments, computer-assisted log ins for Edgenuity, Corrective Reading, Language!, Corrective Math or Essentials for Algebra and/or accommodations use were not provided.
5. The investigator asked LEA staff to clarify the attendance records provided for Students A, B, and C. They indicated that the PowerSchool SIS attendance is being made to be more consistent with recording attendance for students at the LSS program. The attendance records in PowerSchool SIS show Student A alternately marked the student at OSS and LSS while the student was attending the LSS program. The attendance records for Student B and Student C marked the student as LSS when the student was attending the LSS program. It did not record any absences. An email exchange among principal at LSS, school registrar and school counselor dated August 26, 2025 at 8:16 a.m. and September 2, 2025 at 10:03 a.m. documented that there were inaccuracies with Student B's attendance while at the LSS program. As well, Student C was long-term suspended effective November 20, 2025. with special education services at the LLS program effective 2/2/2026. Emails between district staff indicated that the student was confusion about enrollment at the LSS program between December 1 and 3, 2025 and the student began services on December 8, 2025

Conclusion

In this case, the LEA did not provide sufficient evidence to verify that Students A and B received their special education services at the LLS program during the 2025-26 school year. In the case of Student C progress monitoring was available and the student was making progress to conclude that the student was receiving services to make progress. For Students A and B the LEA indicated that there was not enough data collected to determine progress or that the student(s) refused to participate in progress monitoring so the investigator could not reach a conclusion that the IEPs had been implemented using data collection.

The LEA staff reported to the investigator that the students arrived at the program and worked on their IEP goals and when they finished they could work on general education work which is consistent with IDEA. What the LEA was unable to document was if and how the student's specially designed instruction was delivered. There were no student or staff schedules showing when or how the student's services were being implemented during the three hour daily blocks or how the students were working on their IEP goals and when the LSS program staff were collecting progress data on the goals to measure progress and use the data collection to determine if changes to the specially designed instruction was needed. There were no documentation as to what the daily schedule looked like and how the specially designed instruction was created to ensure that the student's special education services were delivered as outlined in the student's IEPs. There were no logs or notes to record accommodation use. While the LEA reported that the LSS program regularly had meetings to discuss program improvements and included student's in problem-solving the services there were no notes to verify changes made.

The LEA staff reporting that the program was staffed by one teacher and occasionally a paraeducator. An email from the Complainant to the LEA questioning if and/or how the services were provided to Student B and the response indicating that the principal would ensure the services were provided thereafter seemingly indicate that the services were not verifiably implemented.

Finally, the PowerSchool SIS attendance records did not accurately reflect when students attended or were absent to help reach a conclusion that the students may have received their special education services. One email exchange showed staff asking for attendance corrections for a student (Student B). It is noted that in the case of Student C that although there were emails questioning when the student would start attending the LSS program, the student was not receiving special education services in November 2025 so this was not considered by the investigation in determining implementation. The LEA staff stated that the attendance records needed to be updated for students attending the LSS program when the investigator asked clarifying questions to verify the placement of the students using the PowerSchool SIS attendance records.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is OUT of compliance with IDEA regulation at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) when implementing the student's IEPs during the 2025-26 school year and correction action is required.

Issue Three

Did the LEA follow IDEA regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1)(i)–(ii) during the 2025-26 school year when they did not reconvene an IEP team meetings on behalf of Student A, Student B, Student C, Student D, Student E, Student F, and Student G in spite of them not making substantial educational progress?

Applicable Law

Kansas statute and federal regulation specifies several occasions for convening an IEP meeting. 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1)(i)–(ii) and K.S.A 72-3429 states that an IEP meeting should be convened whenever the child's needs change, progress is not as expected, or new information arises.

Complainant Position

The complainant alleged that the LEA has not reconvened the IEPs of the seven students who receive services through Cornerstones of Care of KCK during the 2025-2026 school year in spite of them not making substantial educational progress.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA responded that for Student A that the student met the math calculation and reading comprehension goal during the 2025-26 school year and later refused to complete the reading progress monitoring probes during suspension which rendered the LEA unable to collect, monitor, and graph data in that area while in the LSS program. The LEA responded that for Student B that while the student received special education services during the long-term suspension the student refused to complete assignments and assessments. Finally, the LEA responded that Student C made adequate progress on the two goals and while the data showed some inconsistent progress, there was progress

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference and as such the investigation of this issue does not include Students D, E, F and G.

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties.

No documentation was found where an IEP meetings was requested by a parent or educational decision maker for Students A, B, or C during the 2025-26 school year for any reason.

The LEA staff stated to the investigator that "staff are trained to enter data. When they see four to six weeks of a student not making progress, we expect an intervention change line or phase change line on progress monitoring to show that staff notice a problem and changed something. That does not always require an IEP meeting. If the number of minutes or services do not change, staff may change a strategy, intervention, or group size without changing the IEP. If the student is still not making progress, staff should communicate with the parent and reflect the issue in progress reports. We look at calling an IEP meeting when we need to change services or placement to address lack of progress or significant behaviors." (audio translation of interview).

The LEA staff stated to the investigator that they did not consider calling an IEP due to the students not participating in or refusing progress monitoring.

The table below examines whether the LEA met the guidelines laid out in the Kansas Process Manual when considering if an IEP team meeting may to be convened whenever the child's needs change, progress is not as expected.

	Student A	Student B	Student C
Was IEP reviewed at least once annually	Yes	Yes	Yes
Was there lack of expected progress toward any annual goal during the 2025-26 school year	Goal 1: Quarter 1 – Progress Quarters 2, 3, 4 - no Progress Monitoring Goal 2: Quarter 1 – Progress Quarters 2, 3, 4 - no Progress Monitoring	All Goals: Quarters 1, 2, 3 – student refused Quarter 4 transferred out of District	IEP implemented 2/2/26 Goal 1: Quarters 3 & 4- Progress Goal 2: Quarters 3 & 4- Progress
Was there lack of expected progress in general education curriculum, if appropriate	None reported	None reported	None reported
Did parent request or provide information to trigger an IEP review	No	No	No
In the case of a child whose behavior impedes the child's learning or that of others, consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address that behavior	IEP checked No to behavior impedes the child's learning or that of others	IEP checked No to behavior impedes the child's learning or that of others	IEP checked No to behavior impedes the child's learning or that of others

The Progress report for Students A and B shows that there were not enough data collected to make any meaningful decisions about the student's progress for any of the student's goals across quarters. The staff indicated to the investigator that the LSS team had met to discuss how to encourage the student to participate in the progress monitoring for Student B but did not explain what changes were made.

The Progress report for Student C shows that for each of the two goals an adequate number of data points were collected to report progress for each goal. Progress was shown.

Conclusion

If a district cannot show growth on a student's special education goals because the student is uncooperative or refuses to participate in data collection, the district is not excused from its legal obligations to monitor progress and provide a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE). When a student refuses to complete progress monitoring probes or assessments, rendering the district unable to collect and graph sufficient data, the district must treat this absence of data as a sign that the child's progress is not as expected. Under federal regulations (34 C.F.R. § 300.324(b)(1)(i)–(ii)) and Kansas law (K.S.A. 72-3429), an IEP meeting must be convened whenever a child's progress is not as expected or when their needs change. Therefore, instead of treating student non-compliance as a justification for missing data, the district has an obligation to call an IEP team meeting to determine new strategies and interventions to improve the student's compliance with progress monitoring. The IEP team must address the behavioral barriers preventing data collection so that the student's progress can be accurately tracked and their educational needs can be appropriately met.

In this case, Student C had progress as expected across two quarters once the IEP was implemented. For Student A progress was made for one quarter but for the other three quarters insufficient data were collected to determine progress. Student B refused to participate in progress monitoring so progress could not be determined during the 2025-26 school year. The LEA described procedures in place that indicate the IEP team call a meeting for lack of student progress when a change in services or placement are recommended. The procedures indicated that an IEP team meeting need not be called when the school staff need to change the specially designed instruction or pedagogy to address the student's lack of progress. It is noted that there was not enough data collected to determine if the staff the LEA's procedures were used.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is OUT of compliance with implementing 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1)(i)–(ii) and K.S.A 72-3429 by not convening the IEP team for Students A and B when progress was not as expected and corrective action is required for a systemic violation.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(b)(2) was not found and therefore corrective action is not required.

ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) was found and corrective action is required as follows:

1. The LEA shall provide to SETS assurances that it shall follow 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) within two weeks of the completion of this investigation.
2. The LEA shall conduct an internal audit of all students whose placement was the LSS program while serving a long-term suspension during the 2025-26 school year to determine if their IEP direct service minutes can be verified in the following ways 1) by a student schedule assigned to a school staff (small group or individual); 2) teacher schedule showing student is receiving services from the teacher; 3) data collection sheets of IEP goals or progress reporting with adequate data points; service logs supporting students in general education minutes; 4) log in reports on the computer programs (e.g., Corrective Reading, Language!, Corrective Math, Essentials for Algebra) that provide specially designed instruction; log in reports on Edgenuity with supporting reports showing general education; and/or 5) other staff notes from the school year. The LEA will provide the audit findings to SETS within two weeks of the conclusion of the investigation.

3. Following the audit, the LEA will submit a written plan to SETS for approval detailing how it would deliver compensatory services to every single identified student for the unverified minutes. Within one month after SETS approval the LEA will send contact the educational decision makers to schedule an IEP meeting to offer the compensatory services. For each meeting, the LEA will offer a maximum number of minutes with an action item that the educational decision maker will accept all, part or none of the offered services over a specified time period. Notices of Meetings, IEP amendments, meeting notes and PWNs will be provided to SETS to demonstrate the LEA's offer of compensatory services.

4. Review and revise written procedures for how to document implementation of IEP services (specially designed instruction) for student's assigned to the LSS program during the long-term suspensions. To adequately verify that services, accommodations, and behavior plans are being implemented, the LEA may consider the following types of documentation to guide the review and revision process. 1) Provider Service Logs to document the date, a brief description of the services offered, who provided the service, the duration (or start and end times), notes on progress, and an explanation for any missed minutes; 2) Accommodation and Modification Trackers: to verify which accommodations were provided, the dates and settings, the person responsible, and whether the accommodation was used, refused, or not needed during the program; 3) For students with a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) or behavioral goals reliance on daily behavior charts, behavior data sheets, and logs documenting target behaviors, compliant/non-compliant actions, or the structured practice of replacement behaviors; 4) Delivery of specially designed instruction is frequently verified through a combination of progress reports, diagnostic testing data (like i-Ready scores), classroom performance and work samples, and teacher observations; and 5) a combination of school schedules, staff assignments, student attendance records, planning matrices, and skill assessment rubrics to verify service delivery. A copy of the written plan for implementing student IEPs at the LSS program including documenting the implementation shall be provided to SETS within 6 weeks of the end of the investigation.

5. Arrange with non-LEA staff to provide onsite training of the LSS administrator to oversee, monitor, and train the certified staff implementing the IEPs. This training shall occur within one month of SETS reviewing the revisions of Item #4. A copy of the training shall be provided to SETS within one week of the training.

6. Train all certified staff working at the LSS program to implement the student's IEPs and document implementation according to the revised written procedures within one week of the training occurring in #5. A copy of the training materials and participant sign in sheet shall be provided to SETS within one week of the training.

7. Coordinate with SETS during the corrective action period to randomly select 3 students receiving special education services during a long-term suspension by their SSIDs monthly to verify that the LEA is implementing IEPs according to the approved procedures following the training. Additional training is ordered by non-LEA staff if non-implementation is discovered at any time during the period of corrective action.

ISSUE THREE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1)(i)–(ii) and K.S.A 72-3429 was found and corrective action is required as follows:

1. The LEA shall provide to SETS assurances that it shall follow 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(1)(i)–(ii) and K.S.A 72-342 within two weeks of the completion of this investigation.

2. Review and revise as needed the progress monitoring procedures to address adequate data to measure student progress and students who refuse to participate in progress monitoring. The review/revision of the written procedures should be provided to SETS within one month of the conclusion of the investigation.

3. The LEA shall arrange with non-LEA staff to provide mandatory training to all licensed and certified special education staff at the LSS program that emphasizes that student compliance issues that prevent data collection must trigger an IEP meeting to address the barrier, rather than excusing the district from monitoring progress at the LSS program within 1 month following the end of the investigation period. Copies of the training agenda and participant sign in sheet shall be provided to SETS within one week of the training.

4. Further the LEA is to arrange with non-LEA staff to provide onsite technical assistance of the progress monitoring procedures revised in #3 to ensure those procedures are implemented and trained onsite with the staff for the duration of the corrective action period.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #512, SHAWNEE MISSION PUBLIC SCHOOLS
ON APRIL 10, 2026

DATE OF REPORT: MAY 8, 2026

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #512 (Shawnee Mission Public Schools) on behalf of -------and -------by their mother,-------. In the remainder of the report, -------will be referred to as "student A," -------as "student B," and -------as "the mother" or "the complainant."

The complaint is against USD #512 (Shawnee Mission Public Schools). In the remainder of the report, USD #512 will be referred to as "the Local Education Agency" or "LEA". When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student." In this case USD #512 provides their own special education services. Local Education Agency staff will be referred to In the remainder of this report as follows:

- Sherry Dumolien, Associate Superintendent of Special Education
- Emily Demo, Special Education Coordinator for Gifted/Seek program
- Sarah Ingraham, Special Education Secretary

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date in which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on April 10, 2026.

Evidence Reviewed

During the investigation, the Complaint Investigator, Donna Wickham, reviewed all evidence and documentation provided by the Local Education Agency and the parent. The investigator interviewed the mother by phone on April 16, 2026 and April 20. Emails were exchanged between the mother and investigator on April 14, 16, 17, and 20. An individual interview was conducted with the Associate Superintendent of Special Education and Special Education Coordinator on April 16, 2026.

Additional documentation was provided in consideration of this investigation and reviewed. The following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

Documents:

1. Investigation Report for 26FC512-006 and appeal
2. Investigation Report for 26FC512-007
3. Child Complaint assigned as 26FC512-009
4. Investigation Report for 26FC512-014A
5. Investigation Report for 26FC512-014B
6. IEP for Student B dated February 17, 2026
7. Undated 3 page letter from parent to LEA staff

Emails:

1. Email exchange dated April 13, 2026 between parent and Associate Superintendent of Special Education discussing parent's requested accommodation to communicate via email and LEA's request to meet to come to agreement on educational concerns.
2. Email from the parent to investigator on April 23, 2026 at 3:31 p.m. describing why the WebEx and in-person meetings with security presence is not parent participation given her disability.
3. Undated email regarding student B input forms and meeting data between parent and LEA staff reiterating parent accommodations and desire to participate on behalf of her children.
4. Undated email regarding student A NOM between parent and school psychologist discussing need to meet rather than via email.
5. Undated email from Associate Superintendent of Special Education to parents requesting an IEP meeting for each student.
6. Undated email exchange between Special Education Coordinator and parent requesting a meeting to respond to parent questions and parent responding that a meeting is not required to answer questions.
7. Undated email exchange between parent and Associate Superintendent of Special Education discussing mediation.
8. Undated email exchange between LEA and parents requesting meeting to discuss student B's writing goal and progress report and parent reply that written communication as an accommodation is preferred parent participation.

Background Information

The subjects of this complaint are two siblings attending an elementary school in the LEA. During a November 12, 2025 IEP meeting for one of the children a "verbal escalation incident" occurred resulting in the IEP being discontinued and rescheduled through either virtual/WebEx conference or in-person with security presence. A child complaint was filed and investigated as 26FC512-006 regarding whether parent participation was denied. The investigator did not find that the LEA denied parent participation and was upheld on appeal. The IEP meeting was rescheduled and offered through WebEx for December 2, 2025 which the parent did not attend. The parent filed a child complaint and the report for 26FC512-007 found that the LEA did not deny parent participation for the child's IEP team meeting. Following the November 12, 2026 meeting the parent has not attended any IEP or evaluation meetings for her children. She has instead requested documents related to her children's education and emailed feedback and input related to her children's special education programs as an accommodation for a disability. Child Complaints 26FC512-014A and B were filed regarding, among other things that the LEA had not provided the parent with educational records to allow her to participate in her children's special education programs. The findings of these investigations were that the LEA had provided the records to the parent as required by IDEA via FERPA. The parent requested mediation for this complaint on April 20, 2026. Ultimately mediation was not agreed upon so the investigation continued.

Issues Investigated

Did the LEA follow IDEA and state regulations by offering parent participation in special education meetings via WebEx or in-person meetings with a security guard present?

Applicable Law

Under federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.322a each public agency must take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of a child with a disability are present at each IEP Team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate, including 1) notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure that they will have an opportunity to attend; and 2) scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed on time and place. 34 C.F.R. § 300.322c outlines other methods to ensure parent participation, stating that if neither parent can attend an IEP Team meeting, the public agency must use other methods to ensure parent participation, including alternatives such as video conferences and conference calls.

34 C.F.R. § 300.322d states that an IEP team meeting may be conducted without a parent in attendance if the public agency is unable to convince the parents that they should attend. In this case, the public agency must keep a record of its attempts to arrange a mutually agreed on time and place.

Parent Position

The parent wrote in her child complaint that she has a documented disability and has repeatedly informed the district that she is unable to participate in in-person with security present or WebEx meetings due to the impact of the disability. Despite that, the LEA has continued to require participation through in-person or virtual meetings and refused to provide the educational records and decision-making materials that would allow the parent to participate as her requested accommodation. As a result the parent alleged that she is "placed in a position to either attempt to participate in these two formats or forfeit meaningful participation altogether." Additionally, she stated that "when she has disclosed her disability and requested accommodations in real time, the LEA has not adjusted its response and instead continued with the same expectations, resulting in escalation and further barriers to participation. By conditioning access to information and participation in formats not accessible to the mother the LEA is effectively denying her meaningful participation in her child's education."

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency responded that the issue of parent participation has been the direct or indirect topic of five separate complaints filed by this parent during the 2025-2026 school year. Child complaint 26FC512-006 (in regard to the November 12, 2025 IEP meeting) and later 26FC512-007 (in regard to the December 2, 2025 meeting) concluded that the LEA had afforded the parent participation during IEP and evaluation meetings on behalf of her children. Child complaint 26FC512-009 was initially assigned for investigation until the KSDE declined to investigate when it determined that the parent participation allegation was for the same timeframe as 26FC512-007. Child complaints 26FC512-014 A and B investigated parent participation indirectly as it related to the parent's stated accommodation to receive educational records ahead of time to prepare and email input and questions to the student's team members. The parent's allegations in these two investigations focused on not receiving the educational documents in a timely manner to participate in the children's educational programs. In both cases the findings concluded that the educational records were provided within timeline to allow the parent to participate in educational decision making and the documents requested did not constitute an educational records and were working documents.

The LEA states that instead of attending IEP and evaluation meetings through virtual/WebEx or in-person with security presence (a result of an incident during the November 12, 2025 IEP meeting) the parent has moved to providing input and feedback about each child's special education program through email. The LEA stated they value the parent's participation and will continue to invite the parent to IEP and evaluation meetings on behalf of both children offering both of these two formats as previous investigations have confirmed they are providing the parent the means for participation.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The final report for complaint 26FC512-006 dated December 22, 2025 investigated whether the parent was afforded an opportunity to participate in a November 12, 2025 IEP meeting. The report described that this meeting "escalated rapidly into a verbal confrontation" and the meeting was ultimately ended. The investigator summarized the investigation as follows: "While the Parent alleged they were denied meaningful participation due to staff interruptions and the early termination of the meeting, the core mandate of K.A.R. 91-40-17 is to afford the opportunity to participate, not to dictate the quality or content of the interactions. The meeting was terminated as a result of the Parent's escalations, not due to the LEA's refusal to afford the Parent the opportunity to participate." The finding was upheld upon appeal.

2. The final report for complaint 26FC512-007 dated January 22, 2026 investigated whether the family were afforded the opportunity to participate, including scheduling each meeting at a mutually agreed-upon time and place specific to the IEP meeting on December 2, 2025. The investigator found that the LEA made attempts to reconvene the November 12, 2025 IEP and finally sent a Notice of Meeting for the December 2, 2025 IEP meeting, offering a neutral facilitator, virtual or central-office meeting options for the December 2, 2025, and inquired about necessary accommodations or alternative dates and times, but the Parent declined to participate virtually and did not attend the IEP. The finding of the investigation was, "The LEA exceeded the 10-day notice requirement for scheduling an IEP meeting and repeatedly solicited the Parent's availability for alternative IEP meeting dates, which the Parent declined to provide. Furthermore, the LEA's transition to a virtual format was a permissible measure to ensure a safe and productive meeting environment following documented safety concerns during the November IEP meeting. The LEA's detailed record of outreach to schedule the December 2, 2025 meeting, including emails, a phone call, and an electronic and printed Notice of Meeting, justified proceeding with the IEP meeting on December 2, 2025 to ensure the Student's educational needs were addressed." Thus the investigator found the LEA in compliance with providing parent participation.
3. The parent filed a complaint, 26FC512-009 on January 6, 2026 which was initially assigned to an investigator but later declined by the KSDE to be investigated as the issue was currently being investigated as part of 26FC512-007.
4. The parent filed a complaint, 26FC512-014 A on April 1, 2026 alleging the she requested copies of all educational records the district intends to review in determining whether to proceed with a gifted evaluation for the student A and that without access to these records in advance the parent cannot participate meaningfully in the evaluation decision process. The investigator found that the LEA did turn over educational records to the parent within timeline.
5. The parent filed complaint 26FC512-014B on April 6, 2026 for student B alleging that she requested educational records for the student on March 30, 2026 in response to questions arising from the progress report. When the student's case manager suggested a meeting to discuss the raised concerns the parent reiterated the request for documentation and emailed responses to the questions. The investigator found that the LEA turned over the documentation required by IDEA and that the additional documentation requested by the parent was not an educational record and that the requested documents are not routinely retained by an LEA.

6. In an undated email from the parent to the LEA the parent wrote,

   I am writing to clearly restate that I have requested, as an accommodation related to my disability, that communication and participation be provided in writing. This accommodation is necessary because the current meeting formats being proposed (in person and WebEx) do not provide a setting in which I can safely and effectively participate. When environments do not account for my disability, they create a barrier to meaningful participation. Despite this, I continue to receive repeated requests to participate in real-time meetings without acknowledgement of or adherence to this accommodation. At this point, this is not simply a miscommunication. Continuing to disregard a disability-related accommodation request raises concerns regarding compliance with Section 504 and ADA requirements for equal access and meaningful participation. To move forward, I am requesting confirmation that: ● Communication regarding [Student A and B's] evaluation and services will be provided in writing, and ● I will be able to participate through written input in place of real-time meetings, unless I indicate otherwise. Please also provide all forms, input requests, and documentation in a format that allows for written response. If the district is declining this accommodations, please provide Prior Written Notice (PWN) outlining the refusal, the reasons for the decision, and the data used to support it.

7. Undated emails and an email dated March 27, 2026 show the parent reiterating that the LEA honor her accommodation for parent participation as requests for records and emailed questions and feedback. The Associate Superintendent of Special Education replied that "based on the volume and repetitive nature of recent correspondence, email is not an effective method for resolving your remaining concerns." An in-person or virtual meeting was requested.
8. In an undated email from the LEA to the parents regarding Student B stated,

   We have received your recent emails, and while the team has been providing responses, we believe it is in the best interest of both students to move these discussions into a formal meeting settings. Under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) specifically 34 CFR § 300.322, one of our responsibilities is to ensure meaningful parental participation. We feel that the depth of the data and information requested is best shared in a collaborative, real-time environment to ensure you ae "fully informed" members of the IEP team. This allows for immediate clarification and a more comprehensive review of the student's programming than email allows. Accordingly, the school is requesting an IEP meeting for both students. A notice of meeting was sent for one of the students and the team will be sending a notice of meeting for the other student by the end of the day today. Please also indicate if you would prefer to meet virtually or in person at the [location].

9. The parent explained in an email to the investigator on April 23, 2026 why she believes she is not able to fully participate in her children's IEP and evaluation meetings.

   While the district has offered participation via WebEx or in-person meetings with a security presence, these options have not provided me with meaningful access to participate in my children's IEP process. These participation conditions were put in place following the November 12 meeting and appear to be based on how that incident was interpreted. However, the resulting restrictions continue to limit my ability to participate meaningfully in my children's educational planning. Regardless of how that meeting was characterized, the current conditions function as ongoing barriers to access and participation rather than supports. Participation through WebEx limits my ability to engage in real-time discussion, respond to statements as they occur, and effectively advocate for my children. Similarly, requiring a security presence for in-person meetings alters the environment in a way that impacts my ability to fully participate and communicate. In addition to the meeting format, access to educational records has been a significant barrier. I have repeatedly requested documents, data, and information in advance and in writing so that I can prepare for meetings and participate meaningfully. When these records are not provided prior to meetings, I am expected to respond to information I have not had the opportunity to review, which limits my ability to understand, question, and contribute to decision-making. Further, when I request specific records and am told that I have been provided "everything," without clarification as to whether certain records do not exist or are no longer retained, this creates confusion and prevents me from fully understanding the information being used to make decisions. I understand that certain types of educational records may be retained for limited periods of time, depending on the type of record and applicable retention practices. This makes clear communication about what records exist, what does not exist, and why especially important to ensuring transparency and meaningful parent participation. The combination of restricted participation formats and lack of timely access to records has made it difficult for me to engage in real-time discussion, provide informed input, and meaningfully participate in educational planning. Meaningful participation requires access to information and the ability to respond and contribute during the decision-making process. The conditions currently in place have limited that access.

10. The mother stated during interview with the investigator that attending a meeting on behalf of her child at the administration building with security presence activates her disability and reminds her that the LEA only provided consequences to her, not the teacher who was triggering her disability response. She further stated that she will not participate in WebEx meetings because it gives the LEA the "impression" that they did nothing wrong in this situation.
11. The LEA stated to the investigator that they will continue to invite the parent to meetings on behalf of her students. They will continue to provide educational records to the parent per IDEA requirements and provide the parent notice of meeting for required meetings and when the IEP team determines it is necessary to call an IEP team meeting.

Conclusion

It is important to remember that the primary focus of the IDEA is on ensuring a Free Appropriate Public Education for the child with a disability. It is also important to note that schools do bear an obligation to make the special education process accessible to parents, including those with disabilities through its procedural safeguards and participation requirements. As described in the regulations of 34 C.F.R. § 300.322(a) opportunity to participate, includes 1) notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure that they will have an opportunity to attend; and 2) scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed on time and place. In this case, the allegations were about the methods for participation, not the logistics of the meetings. 34 C.F.R. § 300.322c addresses methods to ensure parent participation, including alternatives such as video conferences and conference calls as viable. Child complaint 26FC512-007 found that virtual meetings and on-site with safeguards in place were viable alternatives to offer parent participation specific to the rescheduled November 12, 2025 IEP meeting.

34 C.F.R. § 300.322d states that an LEA may proceed to meet an IEP team without a parent in attendance if the LEA is unable to convince the parents that they should attend as long as they keep a record of its attempts to arrange a mutually agreed on time and place. In this case the LEA has documented Notice of Meetings and emails showing their requests for and reasons for requesting meetings.

While schools should provide reasonable accommodations to allow for participation by parents, there exists no legal authority that states that the LEA must agree to anything or everything requested as an accommodation. In this case the parent requested an accommodation for parent participation following the LEA's decision to restrict parent meetings to virtual (WebEx) or in person with security measures. It is further noted that the LEA has consistently offered two options to the parent following the incident on November 12, 2025 as a means for parent participation. That the parent rejects these two methods and prefers another does not result in the LEA denying parent participation but is a parent choice to not accept these options.

In the finding of facts section the parent requested that the LEA needed to provide a Prior Written Notice (PWN) to the parent if the LEA rejected the parent's requested accommodation for parent participation. Although not a formal part of the investigation it is important to note that according to 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a)(1) and (2) and K.S.A. 72-3430 written prior notice applies to parents of exceptional children being notified in writing when the LEA proposes to initiate or refuse to change the identification, evaluation, educational placement or provision of free appropriate public education to the child. There is no LEA obligation to provide PWN when refusing to provide a parent-requested accommodation to exercise participation on behalf of a student. Parent accommodations for participation are appropriately addressed by ADA and Section 504.

It is further noted that the purpose of this investigation was solely to examine if the LEA provided parent participation via these two methods to both children for all special education related meetings, not to reinvestigate decisions made earlier during the 2025-2026 school year. It is thus found that the LEA is meeting the IDEA and Kansas regulations for the parent to participate in her children's IEP and evaluation meetings. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. § 300.322 (c) and (d)was not found. Corrective action is not required.

Destruction of Records

In compliance with federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.624, I am providing notice to both parties that, within 60 days of the date of a final decision, any personally identifiable information of any student obtained by the investigator in this investigation will be considered no longer needed to provide educational services to any such student and may be destroyed by the investigator. Any personally identifiable information regarding this complaint held by the Kansas State Department of Education will be deemed no longer needed to provide educational services to the above-named student six years after the date of the final decision and may be destroyed by the department at that time. After expiration of these timelines, a parent may request destruction of the information obtained in this complaint. If such a request is made, the information will be destroyed.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

K.A.R. 91-40-51(f) Appeals.

(1) Any agency or complainant may appeal any of the findings or conclusions of a compliance report prepared by the special education section of the department by filing a written notice of appeal with the state commissioner of education. Each notice shall be filed within 10 days from the date of the report. Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect.

Upon receiving an appeal, an appeal committee of at least three department of education members shall be appointed by the commissioner to review the report and to consider the information provided by the local education agency, the complainant, or others. The appeal process, including any hearing conducted by the appeal committee, shall be completed within 15 days from the date of receipt of the notice of appeal, and a decision shall be rendered within five days after the appeal process is completed unless the appeal committee determines that exceptional circumstances exist with respect to the particular complaint. In this event, the decision shall be rendered as soon as possible by the appeal committee.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;
(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;
(C) the award of monetary reimbursement to the complainant; or
(D) any combination of the actions specified in paragraph (f)(2)
