KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #402 AUGUSTA PUBLIC SCHOOLS
ON JULY 15, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: AUGUST 6, 2025

This report is in response to a systemic complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #402 Augusta Public Schools on behalf of Augusta Middle School students with IEPs by a parent in the district, -------. In the remainder of this report, the Augusta Middle School students will be referred to as "the students." ------- will be referred to as "the Complainant."

The complaint is against USD #402 Augusta Public Schools. It is noted that Butler County Special Education Interlocal #638 provides special education services for USD #402 Augusta Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, USD #402 will be referred to as "the District", "the local education agency (LEA)", or "the school". The USD #638 will be referred to as "the Interlocal." While the District contracts with the Interlocal for some of their special education services it is recognized that USD #402 is ultimately the responsible party for this complaint.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date in which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on July 15, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ends on August 14, 2025.

Evidence Reviewed

During the investigation, the Complaint Investigator, Gwen Beegle, reviewed all evidence and documentation, which was provided by both the district and the complainant. To clarify the complaint, the Investigator contacted the Complainant on July 21, 2025 and the District on July 18, 2025. The District made the following persons available for interviews, on the dates noted: April Hilyard (Director, Butler County Special Education Interlocal) on July 29, 2025, Jessica Carey (Principal, Augusta Middle School) on July 29, 2025, and Matt Ward (Superintendent, Augusta Public Schools) on July 18, 2025. In addition to the interviews, the following documentation and information were used in consideration of the issues:

1. Memo from Matt Ward (Superintendent) to the Augusta Board of Education dated July 14, 2025, including scheduling table and attachment "What is AVID Schoolwide"
2. Video of the July 14, 2025 Board of Education Meeting
3. Butler County Special Education Interlocal #638 Special Education Process Handbook
4. Butler County Special Education Interlocal #638 website

5. The District's response, dated July 23, 2025, including sections (a) explanatory information on AVID, (b) demographic information, (c) administrative information on academic teams and curriculum, (d) table of educator team assignment with licensures, and (e) availability of continuum of services.

Background Information

The Complainant became aware of the District Middle School's scheduling of students with IEPs into one of two general education core instruction teams when the Complainant's child was found eligible for special education services at mid-year of the 2023-24 school year. Because it would require the Complainant's child to change academic teams and teachers, the Complainant declined the District's offer of special education services for the child. At that time, according to the Complainant, the (previous) Middle School Principal stated that scheduling was done for administrative convenience. Upon listening to and reviewing the materials at the July 14, 2025 District Board meeting, the Complainant reported that the District made public statements providing evidence for the allegations in this complaint regarding placements of students with IEPs at the District Middle School.

Two issues were investigated, as follows:

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: Did the District fail to follow IDEA procedures according to 34 C.F.R. 300.116 and K.S.A. 72-3420 when assigning students with IEPs to an academic core instruction team at the middle school? (page 3-9)
2. ISSUE TWO: Did the District offer a continuum of services for middle school students according to 34 C.F.R.300.115? (page 9-11)

Issue One

Did the District fail to follow IDEA procedures according to 34 C.F.R. 300.116 and K.S.A. 72-3420 when assigning students with IEPs to an academic core instruction team at the middle school?

Applicable Law

Special education services may be provided in a variety of placements, as defined in statute and regulation. Clearly stated in K.A.R. 91-40-21(b)(1)(2) these placements must include instruction in regular classes, special classes, and special schools; instruction in a child's home; and instruction in hospitals and other institutions, and LEAs must also make provision for supplementary services, including resource room and itinerant services, to be provided in conjunction with regular class placement. Therefore, the definition of educational placement as the instructional environment in which special education services are provided (K.A.R.91-40-1) is understood in the context of special education placement thus described.

According to K.S.A. 72-3420, "Each school district shall be required, to the maximum extent appropriate, to educate children with disabilities with children who are not disabled, and to provide special classes, separate schooling, or for the removal of children with disabilities from the regular environment only when the nature or severity of the disability is such that education regular classes with supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily," and the removal of children from general education is governed by statutes and regulations stating that the placement decision for each child is made by a group of persons, including the parents and others knowledgeable about the child, along with other provisions (34 C.F.R.300.116(a)(1)).

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Complainant's position, as stated in the written complaint is that "the district is engaging in systemic violations of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and Kansas special education regulations. . . [by] Predetermining placement for students with IEPs based on administrative convenience rather than individual needs." The Complainant summarized three concerns upon review of materials considered at the July 14, 2025 Board of Education meeting: (a) the students with IEPs are being grouped into one academic team based on [every other year] scheduling cycles not individual needs, (b) placement is driven by convenience and staffing considerations such as logistical challenges not student-centered planning, and (c) placement of the students with IEPs into one team provides consistent pacing, which is important but IDEA requires placement to be made based on individual needs. According to an interview with the Complainant, the context for the concerns was the statement by a prior principal at the time of the Complainant's own child's evaluation and qualification for special education services, that is, that the general education class placements were scheduled for administrative convenience rather than by the IEP team.

The District responded to the allegations: "It is the district's position that there is no violation of IDEA and no failure either individually or systematically to provide appropriate special education services for students with disabilities. The district has the right of assignment for general education classes. There is no obligation on the part of the district to guarantee a specific general education teacher of assignment. The district and building administration have the right of assignment for both general education and special education staff." The District further asserted that both academic teams provide the same general education environment through general instruction by appropriately certified educators and grade level curriculum as determined by the administration. One team also includes "special education staff who provide specialized instruction to students in both the general education classroom setting as well as the special education classroom settings."

The District responded: "In order to implement a proposed IEP, a student would be assigned to a specific team in order to have access to the special education support required by the proposed IEP. Since the general education instruction would still be provided in a general education environment, albeit with a specific group of general education teachers, the student's placement would be determined based on the amount of special education support services determined by the IEP team."

Finding of Facts

According to the District, "[The District] provides general education services and placement for all students through both a White Team and Blue Team at Augusta Middle School. Thus, both the White Team and the Blue Team provide the same general education instructional environment. The district's practice is to provide any required special education support services to students by assigning the identified student to Blue Team, which is comprised of an existing team of general education teachers and special education staff who were trained and experienced in providing a variety of appropriate strategies for providing special education instructional support in the general education setting."

According to the District, students with IEPs who also need core academic support (special education services or minutes) in general education, as determined by their IEP teams, are scheduled into the Blue Team (one of the two available academic teams) that also includes special education teachers and paraprofessionals who will provide in classroom support and collaborative planning with general education core instructional staff on that team. According to the Interlocal Special Education Director, the Middle School projected about 16% incidence of students with disabilities based on current numbers, which may change with final enrollments, or about 73 of 449 students, all of whom will participate in general education classrooms based on their IEPs. According to a general estimate by the Principal, about 20 of 80 students per grade level in the Blue Team have IEPs, and these students do not all have the same core instructional needs so support in general education courses varies. According to the District, not all students with disabilities are in the same courses at the same time, but they are distributed across 4-5 possible classes (core classes of ELA, Math, Science, Social Studies plus elective) within the Blue Team.

For students without IEPs, academic team assignments are made by the Middle School counseling staff upon entry. Students who have academic needs, have behavior problems, or have 504 plans can be placed on either academic team by the counselor, the District reported. The Principal and the Assistant Principal meet with the School Psychologist in the Middle Schools General Education Intervention (GEI) process and the administrators attend the IEP meetings of students who are identified as students with exceptionalities.

According to the District (interviews and document sources), the special education staff is assigned to the Blue Team or the White Team on alternate years. The rationale for this practice is to maintain the capacities of all staff to provide best instructional practices, effectively collaborate with special education, improve communication and attention to each student's needs and progress, and to balance work load including IEP meeting attendance across a two year cycle. All teachers attend yearly training provided by the Interlocal regardless of team assignments.

The District provided a chart listing the teachers assigned to each core team and their licensures, which showed that the Middle School teams are comprised of appropriately and similarly certified educators. According to the Principal, the Middle School teachers meet weekly with their grade-level content partners to ensure similar pacing across classrooms and to discuss effective teaching methods; this ensures a similar pace (within a day or a few days) in the same curriculum across both teams. According to the District, teachers are expected to provide the District curriculum that is aligned with the Kansas State Standards, along with the District approved resources and curriculum guides to ensure consistency across classrooms.

Documents provided by the parent from the July 14, 2025 Board of Education meeting concerned the academic team assignment of students with IEPs and students who are involved in Advancement Via Individual Determination (AVID), which is a course elective designed for students in the "academic middle" who may attend college but face obstacles. In addition to offering the AVID course as an elective, the District encouraged all teachers to use the academic, organizational, and critical thinking teaching strategies associated with AVID. Any student who wants to take AVID can apply to take the course as an elective and the course information is disseminated to all parents and students.

With regard to scheduling, the District reported that the AVID educator is assigned to only one core academic team at each grade level. According to the Superintendent, students with disabilities may sign up for AVID as a course elective and go through the interview process in the same way that other students do. The interviews serve to inform the student of the work involved in the AVID course. According to the Principal, two students with disabilities were in the AVID course last year. These students were on the team which included special educators rather than the team with the AVID educator due to the alternate year rotation. The AVID teacher adjusted as needed if pacing variations occurred across class sections, due to their academic team assignment. These students were on the team which included special educators rather than the team with the AVID educator due to the alternate year rotation.

The Interlocal's Special Education Process Handbook provides guidance for special education placement decisions, stating: "Least Restrictive Environment: It is the belief and policy of the [Interlocal], pursuant to state and federal rules and regulations, as well as the Kansas State Board of Education's policy on least restrictive environment, that students with disabilities are to receive their education in a chronologically age appropriate, general education environment to the maximum extent appropriate unless a placement of this type is determined to be inappropriate even with the provision of supplemental aids and services. The determination of appropriate special education programs and services and the extent to which the student will participate in the general education programs shall be determined by the participants of the individualized educational planning meeting and be based on the student's individual needs"

(page 56, Interlocal Special Education Process Handbook, emphasis added). A decision tree (found on p. 57, Interlocal Special Education Process Handbook), provides guidance through questions to be answered by the IEP team before removing a child from the general education environment.

Conclusion

In this case, the Complainant raised concerns over the District's annual practice of assigning students with disabilities to a specific general education team where special education staff were also assigned. Information on AVID as discussed at the District Board Meeting was included in the complaint evidence because it referenced the academic team assignment of students with IEPs rather than because AVID affects placements. The AVID course elective does not affect special education placement, nor does special education placement affect the AVID course elective.

The Complainant raised logical concerns, if, according to IDEA, "placement" were a specific general education class assignment. However, the IEP team determines special education placement based on K.A.R. 91-40-21(b)(1)(2): placements as instruction in regular classes, special classes, and special schools; instruction in a child's home; and instruction in hospitals and other institutions, as well as make provision for supplementary services, including resource room and itinerant services, to be provided in conjunction with regular class placement.

As explained in the Letter to Trigg (2007), OSEP stated: "Historically, we have referred to "placement" as points along the continuum of placement options available for a child with a disability and "location" as the physical surrounding, such as the classroom, in which a child with a disability receives special education and related services. Public agencies are strongly encouraged to place a child with a disability in the school and classroom the child would attend if the child did not have a disability. However, a public agency may have two or more equally appropriate locations that meet the child's special education and related services needs and school administrators should have the flexibility to assign the child to a particular school or classroom, provided that determination is consistent with the decision of the group determining placement." In other words, OSEP determined that a district can place a child in a particular classroom, but it cannot allow the availability of special education services to dictate the child's placement on the LRE continuum as this would violate 34 C.F.R.300.116.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.116(a)(b) require that placement decisions are made by a group including the parents and others knowledgeable about the child, made in conformity with LRE provisions, and determined at least annually based on the child's IEP. The District's policy document on placements by IEP teams, called the Interlocal Special Education Process Handbook, correctly instructs IEP teams to determine special education placements. The District demonstrated that IEP teams are directed to make placement decisions at the time of the IEP meetings, and therefore there is no violation of IDEA's placement provisions.

There is no violation of IDEA by the District's practice of scheduling students with IEPs which require special education services into the academic team and core classrooms where special education staff are also assigned, nor is there a violation in the District's practice of rotating special education staff (and therefore services and students) on a biannual basis between the two available core academic teams.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that the District failed to follow IDEA procedures according to 34 C.F.R. 300.116 and K.S.A. 72-3420 when assigning students with IEPs to an academic core instruction team at the middle school.

Issue Two

Did the District offer a continuum of services for middle school students according to 34 C.F.R.300.115?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R.300.115 state that each public agency must ensure that a continuum of alternative placements is available to meet the needs of children with disabilities for special education and related services, to include those listed in 34 C.F.R. 300.39: instruction in regular classes, special classes, special schools, home instruction, and hospital/institution instruction, and make provision for supplementary aids and services such as resource room or itinerant instruction in conjunction with regular class placement.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Complainant alleged that the District failed to publicly clarify and implement a full continuum of placement options as required under IDEA.

The District responded: "It is the district's position that there is no violation of IDEA and no failure either individually or systematically to provide appropriate special education services for students with disabilities." The District further responded that a continuum of services is offered.

Findings of Fact

The District reported in interviews that the majority of students receive the majority of their programs in general education environments in order to make the best progress possible. The District reported that a continuum of services is available for the District's Middle School students from least to most restrictive in the following locations: (a) general education classrooms, (b) special education services in the general education classes, including inclusion, co teaching, and class within a class, (c) special education services in a special education classroom (resource) for partial days, (d) combinations of a, b, and c, (e) special education services in a special education classroom for most or all of the day (self contained, structured learning, categorical programs), (f) combinations of a, b, c, and e, (g) special day school partial day combined with a, b, c, or e, (g) special day school all day, (h) homebound, incarcerated students, hospitals, and other off campus locations.

The Special Education Interlocal's website provides resources for parents, including websites for Families Together and two other parent or disability resource organizations. The Interlocal's website also provides a copy of the Parent's Rights in Special Education (Procedural Safeguards) published by KSDE and revised in 2020, links to the US Department of Education's IDEA website and to the KSDE resources for families website. The Special Education Interlocal's website includes descriptions of the Interlocal's Vocational, Transition, Coachability, and Learning Center Special Day School programs. This website also provides access to the special education newsletter, which provides information on programs, services, compliance, and other information pertaining to special education in the District and Interlocal.

The District reported in interviews that parents are informed in IEP meetings of the specific elements of the continuum of services that apply to that student's needs, as identified by the IEP team after consideration of the student's present levels of performance, needs for accommodations, modifications and services, considerations of more restrictive environments including limitation of interactions with students without disabilities and descriptions of more restrictive possibilities.

Conclusion

Requirements in IDEA state that each District must make available a continuum of services and that associated placements must be instruction in regular classes, special classes, special schools, home instruction, and hospital/institution instruction, and make provision for supplementary aids and services such as resource room or itinerant instruction in conjunction with regular class placement (34 CFR 300.116 and 34 CFR 300.39).

It is found that the District maintains a continuum of services available to meet the needs of students and that there is no violation in the District's practice to inform parents of students with disabilities of these options through an individualized IEP process, based on the student's potential needs and placement considerations by the team. Information on IDEA, including the required information on parent's rights is publicly available on the website, along with many other national, state, and local resources. Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that the District failed to offer a continuum of services for middle school students according to 34 C.F.R.300.115.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.116, K.S.A. 72-3420, and K.A.R. 91-40-21(b)(1)(2) was not found, based on the facts listed above. Corrective action is not required.
2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R.300.115 and 34 C.F.R. 300.39 was not found, based on facts listed above. Corrective action is not required.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 402
Augusta Public Schools: 26FC402-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on July 15, 2025, by ------ on behalf of middle-school students with IEPs in the district. In the remainder of this decision, ------ will be referred to as "the complainant." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegation, was issued on August 6, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was no violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the complainant filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the complainant, the Complaint Report, and the complainant's notice of appeal. The district did not submit a response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report identified two issues:

Issue 1 is that the district failed to follow IDEA procedures when assigning students with IEPs to an academic core instruction team at the middle school.

Issue 2 is that the district did not offer a continuum of services for middle school students.

Although unstated in the appeal, the complainant's appeal appears to challenge the conclusion of the investigator that there is no violation of law related to both Issue 1 and Issue 2. Accordingly, the Appeal Committee accepts this appeal as an appeal of the conclusion in both Issue 1 and Issue 2.

Issue One

Did the District fail to follow IDEA procedures according to 34 C.F.R. 300.116 and K.S.A. 72-3420 when assigning students with IEPs to an academic core instruction team at the middle school?

The state statute and federal regulation cited in this issue are identical and so do not need separate analysis. The Appeal Committee will refer to the requirements in the federal regulation, only because there is more guidance from the United States Department of Education and courts on the federal requirement

In her appeal, the complainant cites the following:

1. A public statement by the district superintendent that middle school children with disabilities are assigned to the same instructional team to enhance continuity of instruction between their core teachers and special education staff;
2. A district memo confirming that special education students are consistently assigned to alternating teams of instructional staff members based on predetermined administrative and logistical factors and not on student needs;
3. An admission by the district that the assignment of special education students to an instructional team is made by the district and not made by an IEP Team; and
4. The statement in the report that "The district demonstrated that IEP teams are directed to make placement decisions…" is contradicted by the above evidence.

The facts of this complaint are undisputed. As pointed out in the appeal filed by the complainant, neither party appears to disagree with the finding of facts of the investigator. Rather, the complainant argues that the uncontested facts stated in the report support a different conclusion. The conclusion supported by the complainant on these facts is that that the district is making predetermined placement decisions administratively instead of going through the IEP team, and those decisions are based on administrative and logistical factors instead of the individual needs of the special education students.

The process used by the district includes a number of variables which were described in detail in the report over four complete pages. The parties are aware of the process and there is no disagreement regarding the processes so the Appeal Committee will not repeat them here. In short, special education students at the middle school are assigned in alternative years to either a White Team or a Blue Team. Both the White Team and the Blue Team provide the same general education instructional environment. The district's practice is to provide any required special education support services to students by assigning the identified students to the Team that is currently comprised of both general education teachers and special education staff who were trained and experienced in providing appropriate strategies for providing special education support in the general education setting (Report, p. 5).

According to a general estimate by the Principal, about 20 of 80 students per grade level on the selected team (White Team currently) have IEPs, and these students do not all have the same core instructional needs so support in general education courses varies. According to the District, not all students with disabilities are in the same courses at the same time, but they are distributed across 4-5 possible classes (core classes of ELA, Math, Science, Social Studies plus elective) within the assigned team. Current numbers show that 73 of 449 students (16%) are in special education and participate in general education classrooms to the extent specified by their IEPs. (Report, p. 5).

On page 8 of the report, the investigator cited Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.116(a)(b), which requires that placement decisions are to be made by a group, including the parents and others knowledgeable about the child, made in conformity with LRE provisions, and determined at least annually based on the child's IEP (emphasis added). The decision to assign special education students to either a White Team or a Blue Team is clearly made by administration and not by "the parents and others knowledgeable about the child." Whether making that kind of assignment is a violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.116 depends on whether that decision to assign special education students to the White team or Blue team is a "placement" decision.

The word "placement" is used in both the federal and state regulations, but is defined in neither. Accordingly, we must seek authoritative guidance on what is meant by the term "placement" in these regulations. The investigator did this on page 8 of the report, citing guidance from the Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP). OSEP is the office in the United States Department of Education that both writes and enforces the federal special education regulations. Accordingly, it's guidance, regarding how its own regulations apply is considered highly reliable and courts have given it substantial deference to its interpretation of federal requirements. That includes the regulation at issue here: 34 C.F.R. 300.116, which requires that placement decisions be made by a group of people including the parent. On page 8 of the report, the investigator said:

> As explained in the Letter to Trigg (2007), OSEP stated: "Historically, we have referred to "placement" as points along the continuum of placement options available for a child with a disability and "location" as the physical surrounding, such as the classroom, in which a child with a disability receives special education and related services…However, a public agency may have two or more equally appropriate locations that meet the child's special education and related services needs and school administrators should have the flexibility to assign the child to a particular school or > classroom, provided that determination is consistent with the decision of the group determining placement." In other words, OSEP determined that a district can place a child in a particular classroom, but it cannot allow the availability of special education services to dictate the child's placement on the LRE continuum as this would violate 34 C.F.R.300.116.

When OSEP said in this guidance letter: "Historically, we have referred to "placement" as points along the continuum of placement options available for a child with a disability…" it was referring to the Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) requirement in 34 C.F.R. 115, which states:

Sec. 300.115 Continuum of alternative placements.

(a) Each public agency must ensure that a continuum of alternative placements is available to meet the needs of children with disabilities for special education and related services.

(b) The continuum required in paragraph (a) of this section must--

(1) Include the alternative placements listed in the definition of special education under Sec. 300.38 (instruction in regular classes, special classes, special schools, home instruction, and instruction in hospitals and institutions);

In Wilson v. Fairfax County Sch. Bd., 104 LRP 30556 (4th Cir. 2004), the United States Circuit Court of Appeals explained the term "educational placement" as:

> "'Educational placement' is not the physical location to which the student is assigned but rather the environment in which educational services are provided." Placement options*, such as regular classes, special classes, special schools and home instruction* differ from each other by the extent to which they depart from a "mainstream" assignment (emphasis added)."

Accordingly, the term "placement" refers to the educational environment in which a child is educated, and the extent to which that environment is with non-disabled students. Therefore, a school changes a child's placement when it moves a child from a regular education classroom environment to a special education classroom environment or to any other educational environment that is along the continuum of alternative placements listed in the regulations. Moving a child to other educational environments, that are not along the continuum of alternative placements listed in the regulations, such as assigning a student to a particular classroom or to specific staff members is not a change in placement, and does not require action by an IEP team..

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee agrees with the investigator's conclusion that assigning special education students to a Blue Team or a White Team in alternative school years for general education instruction in a general education environment does not change the educational environment of such student's. All of these students remain in regular education classrooms to the extent specified in their IEPs. and so the assignment to a White Team or a Blue Team, both of which operate as regular education settings, is not a change in placement that requires IEP team approval.

The Appeal Committee finds that the conclusion of the investigator on this issue should be sustained.

Issue Two

The district failed to offer a continuum of service environments for middle school students.

The investigator found no evidence to support this allegation, and the complainant provided no information in her appeal that supports this allegation. On page 10 of her report, under the title "Findings of Fact" the investigator says:

> The District reported that a continuum of services is available for the District's Middle School students from least to most restrictive in the following locations: (a) general education classrooms, (b) special education services in the general education classes, including inclusion, co teaching, and class within a class, (c) special education services in a special education classroom (resource) for partial days, (d) combinations of a, b, and c, (e) special education services in a special education classroom for most or all of the day (self-contained, structured learning, categorical programs), (f) combinations of a, b, c, and e, (g) special day school partial day combined with a, b, c, or e, (g) special day school all day, (h) homebound, incarcerated students, hospitals, and other off campus locations.

Without any evidence or even argument in this appeal indicating any error in the investigator's analysis, the Appeal Committee finds that sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report on this issue.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 14th day of August, 2025.

Background Information

This investigation involves an 8-year-old boy who has completed the second grade. He has received special education services since the preschool level and has been determined eligible to receive these services under the categorical designation of Other Health Impaired.

The parent reports that the student has multiple diagnoses including Autism, ADHD, PTSD, and anxiety.

According to the district and the parent, the student first received services from the district in 2018 through 2022 under an IFSP (Individual Family Service Plan) developed by the local "TARC" program. During that time period, the student participated in a community preschool/day care program where he was supported by a child development specialist.

A military transfer moved the family to California. The student was enrolled in a general education Kindergarten for the 2023-24 school year. He was determined to be eligible for and in need of special education services, and an IEP was developed for the student on October 25, 2023. Under that IEP, the student received speech and occupational therapy (OT) services. The IEP also included a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP). The out-of-state IEP was amended in March 2024.

According to the parent, a situation arose while the student was attending school in California. The parent reports that, following a behavioral incident, the student was told that he had missed the bus to go home and wouldn't be able to come back to school. The parent states that the management of the student's behavior during this incident was abusive and traumatizing for the student.

The family subsequently returned to the district for the 2024-25 school year. The student was initially enrolled in his neighborhood school on August 12, 2024. Following his enrollment, an IEP team for the student reviewed records provided by the previous district and adopted the IEP developed by that district.

According to the district, the parent had reported that she did not agree with elements of the previous district's IEP, but it was not until several weeks after the start of the school year (October 21, 2024) that a new IEP was written. Goals were developed to address needs in the area of writing, math computation, articulation, and social/emotional development – specifically anger management. Social work services were included in the student's IEP to assist the student in the development of anger management strategies.

The student had struggled to succeed in the general education classroom environment, and, in November 2024, the district proposed a change of educational placement. The IEP team, which included the parent, proposed that the student be moved to a more restrictive placement – the Jaguar Academy (or JAG) program at a different elementary school. JAG is an alternative program run by the district available to students in Kindergarten through fifth grade.

The JAG program is designed to provide the district's most intensive special education services to address student behaviors. By report of the district, the program was established as an alternative setting for students who have emotional and behavioral challenges in relating to peers and authority figures which significantly interfere with success in a general education setting to a degree that the most restrictive environment in the neighborhood school cannot accommodate the student's needs. With the written consent of the parent, the move to the new school was initiated on November 5, 2024. In the new placement, the student was in a classroom with one other student, a classroom teacher, and a paraeducator.

The student's October 2024 IEP was amended on January 27, 2025. A triennial re-evaluation was completed on April 10, 2025. The IEP team – including the parent – met throughout April and May to review and revise the student's IEP and BIP. The district proposed a new IEP on May 16, 2025. That new IEP included a revised BIP which was to be implemented beginning on May 19, 2025, but the parent opted to remove the student from school as of May 15, 2025 and has not agreed to the district's proposed May 2025 IEP.

The district has offered to participate in mediation regarding the parent's concerns, but the parent declined.

On July 31, 2025, the parent toured a district program which the district felt could meet the needs of the student. The IEP team for the student conducted a meeting on August 8, 2025, amended the student's IEP, and recommended a change in educational placement and services. The parent provided her written consent for those changes on August 12, 2025. The student started school in the new program (Project Plus) on August 13, 2025.

Issues

At K.A.R. 91-40-51, Kansas regulations state that, when filing a formal complaint, the complainant must allege that a violation of federal or state special education laws or regulations has occurred during the 12-month period preceding the date the complaint is received and filed with the commissioner of education.

In her complaint, the parent asserts a number of issues related to the implementation of ESIs (Emergency Safety Interventions). An ESI involves the use of a physical restraint or seclusion when a student presents an immediate danger to themselves or others. ESIs should be considered as a "last resort" after less restrictive interventions have been attempted and deemed ineffective. ESIs are not to be used for punishment or convenience.

The authority to investigate issues related to the implementation of ESIs fall outside the purview of a special education complaint investigator. Beginning at 91-42-1, Kansas Administrative Regulations address ESIs. At 91-42-3, regulations require districts to develop and implement written policies to govern the use of ESIs including the development of written policies to govern procedures for a parent to file a complaint with the local school board if a parent believes an ESI has been used in violation of state regulations. Regulations require districts to develop policies regarding a parent's right to request an administrative review by the state board as specified in K.A.R. 91-42-5.

If a parent believes that an emergency safety intervention has been used with the parent's child in violation of the State Board's emergency safety intervention regulations or the district's emergency safety intervention policy, the parent may file a complaint with the local board. The complaint must be filed within 30 days of the date on which the parent was informed of the use of that emergency safety intervention. The local board's final decision must be in writing and include findings of fact and any corrective action required by the district if the local board deems these actions necessary. The local board's final decision must be mailed to the parent and KSDE within 30 days of the local board's receipt of the complaint.

Any parent who filed a written complaint with their local board of education regarding the use of emergency safety intervention and is either not satisfied with the local board's final decision, or did not receive a final decision within 30 days, may request an administrative review by the Kansas State Board of Education.

While the investigation of the specific circumstances regarding the implementation of an ESI is the responsibility of a district's school board, investigation of allegations regarding the provision of a free and appropriate public education (FAPE) falls under the purview of a special education complaint investigator. FAPE ensures that children with disabilities receive specially designed instruction and related services that enable the student to make appropriate progress in light of the student's circumstances.

In this complaint, the parent has raised a number of issues related to the impact that the implementation of ESIs has had on the provision of a FAPE to her son. The parent asserts that the district failed to implement the student's IEP and his BIP, failed to provide appropriate behavioral supports, and did not provide a safe and supportive educational environment "free from unlawful, traumatic, and harmful interventions."

Specifically, the parent's concerns include the following:

Issue One

The district failed to provide the student with a FAPE through inappropriate behavior management and systematic misuse of ESI (Emergency Safety Interventions).

Position of the Parent

The parent asserts that the district repeatedly and excessively used seclusion and physical restraint, often as a first response for minor, non-dangerous behaviors or as a punitive measure. It is the position of the parent that the overuse of ESIs rather than positive behavioral interventions has created a hostile learning environment and resulted in missed speech services, a loss of educational time, emotional regression and speech regression, and has hindered the student's progress.

When asked by the investigator during their July 28, 2025 telephone call to describe the speech regression she had observed in the student, the parent stated that her son's speech had become less intelligible, that he was speaking too quickly and running his sentences/words together. When asked to describe his emotional regression, the parent stated that the student – who had always spent weekends with his grandparents – was unwilling to do so. Further, the parent described the student as "not trusting" his parents as much as he had in the past.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.101, require states to ensure that a free appropriate public education (FAPE) is made available to all children with disabilities residing within the state. Accordingly, Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-2(b)(1) require that each school district makes FAPE available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction. Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.17, define FAPE, in part, as special education and related services provided in conformity with an Individualized Education Program (IEP).

If a school consistently relies on the use of ESIs without adequately exploring or implementing less restrictive alternatives, it could be argued that the school is failing to provide an appropriate education as outlined in a student's IEP. If the implementation of ESIs significantly impacts a student's ability to participate in their educational program and make progress toward their IEP goals, it could indicate that the IEP is not effectively meeting their needs and thereby constitutes a denial of FAPE. Similarly, if special education and related services are not being provided because of the implementation of ESIs, this too could be considered a denial of FAPE.

Investigative Finding Regarding Loss of Educational Time

Regarding the student's aggressive behaviors, records provided by the district state that > "Even when topic is in the interest areas, but not to his specific regulations he will escalate to aggression. Aggression will be an escalation of avoiding work and due to his aggression including hitting, spitting, kicking, scratching, biting, throwing objects towards people, students/staff can be given space and he will still go to them and be physically aggressive. This can be property damage (purposeful and towards high dollar items such as computers, smart board, and anything within reach), knock over desks, throw computers, self-harm."

According to the IEP proposed by the district on May 16, 2025, the student has, since November 2024 when he entered the JAG program, demonstrated at least 1,296 incidents of physically aggressive behavior toward adults and 46 incidents of physical aggression towards peers. In response to these incidents, the district documented the implementation of 66 ESIs between November 14, 2024 and May 14, 2025. (The BIP states that these numbers could underestimate the actual total because "data collection of incidents within a 30-minute time period 'max out' at 10 incidents."). Using 1,296 as the number of aggressive acts, the district implemented an ESI in response to approximately 5% of the student's aggressive acts.

There were 119 school days between the time the student entered the JAG program on November 5, 2024 and the end of the 2024-25 school year. School was cancelled on 5 days during this period because of snow. Over the 119 school days, the student was absent for 13 full days; he was absent for a quarter of the school day on 5 days, and was absent 2 additional half days. Because she did not feel the student was safe in the JAG program, the parent opted not to send him to school for the last days of the school year.

According to ESI letters sent to the parent by the district and submitted by the parent in her complaint, the student spent 418 minutes (approximately seven hours) in ESI – equivalent to approximately one 420-minute school day. ESIs ranged in length from 1 minute to 24 minutes.

Forty-seven of the ESIs were 5 minutes or less in length. Sixteen incidents lasted between 6 and 10 minutes. Six incidents were 11 to 15 minutes in length. Four incidents lasted longer than 15 minutes (16, 20, 22, and 24 minutes). The student spent a total of 7 minutes in an ESI in November, 35 minutes in December, 53 minutes in January, 66 minutes in February, 62 minutes in March, 146 minutes in April, and 51 minutes in May.

While additional time following some of these ESIs was needed to allow the student to regulate his behavior to baseline levels, the 1-to-1 ratio of staff to student in this program facilitated opportunities for instruction/reinstruction of curricular content being covered at the time the ESI was implemented.

Summary and Conclusions Regarding Loss of Instructional Time

The student lost slightly more than 400 minutes of educational time between November 14, 2024 and the end of the 2024-25 school year as the result of an emergency safety intervention – roughly the equivalent of one school day. During that same period, the parent opted not to send the student to school for 9 days because she did not feel the student was safe in the JAG program. The student was absent for all or part of 11 other days during the November through May time period. In the opinion of the investigator, having missed all or part of 20 days of school due to absences between November 14, 2024 and the end of the 2024-25 school year would have a far greater impact on student progress than having missed 400 minutes of educational time during that same period. It is also important to note that because the student's instruction was delivered one-on-one, ample opportunities were available for the student to reengage with any curricular content he might have missed as a result of ESIs. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Investigative Findings Regarding Speech Regression

According to the "Communication" portion of the "Summary of Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance" section of the student's October 21, 2024 IEP,

> "[The student] has been working on producing /s/, /l/ and /r/ in sound isolation, words and sentences. [He] is able to independently produce /l/ and /s/ accurately in sentences without any cues. Although [the student] can accurately produce /s/ in sentences, he does intermittently use an interdental /s/ in conversation. Although a specific goal for /s/ won't be written, it will be indirectly monitored through therapy to ensure accurate carryover skills.
> Currently, [the student] produces /r/ in words with an average of 45% accuracy. Additionally, [the student] demonstrates sound errors with /sh/, /r-blends/ and /th/ in words. A new IEP goal will be written to reflect the progress [the student] has made, but also shed light on other sounds that need remediation in order to improve [his] overall level of intelligibility."

The IEP team – which included the parent – developed the following annual goal to address the student's communication needs

> "By October 20th, 2025, during speech and language activities, [the student] will be able to produce /r, r-blends, sh/ and /th/ in words and phrases when provided with verbal cues and models and visual cues with at least 70% accuracy as measured by the SLP quarterly.

The district's proposed May 16, 2025 IEP contained the following statements regarding the student's communication skills:

> "[The student] demonstrates age-appropriate vocal quality, fluency of speech, expressive-receptive language skills, and social/pragmatic language skills. He actively participates in speech-language therapy sessions, and is willing to communicate with peers and adults.
> [The student] needs direct speech therapy to assist with improving his articulation skills. When compared to his peers, [his] articulation skills are below average. Over the course of the last IEP year, he has been working on a variety of sounds in words, including /r/, r-blends, "th" and "sh". He has made the most progress with "th"; other target sounds have also improved but require more effort to sound accurate. [The student's] "ch" sound is also still developing. [He] is frequently reluctant to participate in speech therapy, but once he engages he usually does nice work. He frequently loses focus after 5-15 minutes of speech therapy, and would likely benefit from shorter sessions that are more productive. [The student] would continue to benefit from speech-language services at this time.

The IEP Progress Report regarding the student's October 2024 speech goal shows that the student made progress toward attainment of the goal at monitoring points in January, March and May 2025. His May 23, 2025 report states:

> "[The student] usually tries his best in speech, and his efforts are paying off. He can achieve very high levels of accuracy when he is focused, and his /r/ sound is becoming less effortful…"

Production of the /th/ sound in spontaneous sentences was at the 100% level (up from a baseline level of 20%). He had improved in the production of /r/ at a baseline level of 40% to 64% in modeled words (up from 64% in March). He was producing /sh/ in words at the 77% level, up from a baseline level of 25%, with a March level of 77% in modeled words.

The student's October 2024 IEP states that he was to receive direct speech/language services twice a week for 20 minutes. According to service records provided by the Speech/Language Pathologist, the student did not receive services on two days when ESIs were implemented –

December 5, 2024 and March 26, 2025. Speech services were not missed on December 5, 2024 because of an ESI. Rather, service notes for December 5, 2024 show that the "student [was] sleeping after emotional episode." The ESI was implemented around 12:30 PM on December 5, 2024, well after the student's scheduled speech time.

Service notes for March 26, 2025 show that the "student refused" to come to speech on that date. The student was scheduled to be seen for speech during the morning; the ESIs that were implemented on March 26, 2025 occurred in the afternoon and would not have led to the student missing his speech service.

During a video conference call with the investigator on August 18, 2025, the speech/language pathologist who served the student during the 2024-25 school year stated that she did not believe the student regressed during that period as evidenced by progress on his speech goal. She also reported that she did not observe any loss of speech intelligibility during that period.

Investigative Findings Regarding Emotional Regression

The "Social/Emotional" portion of the "Summary of Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance" section of the student's October 21, 2024 IEP states, > "At the beginning of the year, [the student] was not able to tolerate the social emotional lessons during his time with the social worker. Currently he can participate in planned lessons while building with legos. He will communicate with his words when he no longer wants to participate. Current performance in the classroom and special education setting are more accurately described in the FBA/BIP.

> Student Social-Emotional Skills Assessment: (Special Education Classroom)
> Behavior with Adults: 30%
> Behavior with Peers: 55%
> Emotion Regulation: 37%
> Engagement: 44%
> Social Skills: 73%"

The IEP team – including the parent – developed the following annual goal to address the student's Social/Emotional needs:

> "By October 2025, [the student] will express his anger without resorting to inappropriate verbal or physical means 45% of the time as measured by teacher observation.

At the time this goal was developed, the student was able to express his feeling appropriately 37% of the time. Progress toward attainment of this goal was monitored three times during the remainder of the 2024-25 school year. At the time of the first monitoring period In January 2025, the student was working toward a target of appropriate expression of anger of 39%. By January 6, 2025 when progress was monitored, the student earned a score of "2 – Progress has been made towards the goal, but the goal may not be met by the annual IEP. Goal, instructional strategies and student supports may need to be reviewed." According to the progress report,

> "[The student] is currently meeting his social emotional goal approximately 23% of the time. He just came to us in November and has been adjusting much better, overall, as of late. Staff have implemented several strategies, some of which are newer, and may see benefits over time."

By the time the student's progress was again monitored on March 31, 2025, the student's progress had declined, and he was meeting his target (set at 41% for this period) only 20% of the time. According to the progress report

> "…20% of the time…is a slight decrease since the last reporting period. Factors that may have influenced this include having several snow days, days off from school, new interventions in place and getting used to them, etc. His current goal is likely too high and will likely need adjustments at his IEP [in April]."

At the time of the second monitoring period, the student earned a "1 – Progress is not sufficient to meet this goal by the annual IEP. Goal, instructional strategies and/or student supports need to be reviewed."

In April 2025, the district proposed a new IEP goal to address the student's social/emotional needs. However, because the parent did not consent to changes proposed by the district, the student's October 2024 social/emotional goal remained unchanged.

By the third monitoring period on May 23, 2025, the student's performance level was showing some growth and he again earned a 2 for progress. While his overall performance level for the period was at 32% (below the target level of 43%), the report states

> "[The student] was showing progress in the last few weeks of attending school. (achieving 45%-75% averages for the weeks). Prior to these weeks, he was averaging about 25% or below on progress toward social emotional goal.

Summary and Conclusions Regarding Emotional and Speech Regression

While the parent reported regressive changes in the student's behavior in the home setting, regression was not observed in the educational setting. Further, evidence shows that the student made consistent progress in the development of his targeted articulation skills. His speech remained intelligible throughout the time he participated in the JAG program.

While the student did not achieve his social/emotional goal during the 2024-25 school year and while he did display a spike in aggressive behaviors which resulted in ESIs during April 2025, the occurrence of these behaviors diminished during May 2025, and the student was showing progress by the May monitoring of his social/emotional goal. Because evidence does not support the parent's contention that the student suffered regression of social/emotional or speech skills because of the use of ESIs, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Issue Two

The district failed to implement the student's IEP/BIP and failed to provide required services.

Position of the Parent

It is the position of the parent that the district failed to utilize trauma-informed practices and positive behavioral interventions essential for FAPE. The parent contends that by escalating situations through physical interventions and unnecessary ESIs, the student lost instructional time and further traumatized the student despite having knowledge of the "abuse" the student experienced in his previous school district.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

If a student's IEP outlines specific interventions, and other behavioral supports to address challenging behaviors and ESIs are being implemented in place of the IEP interventions or supports, this could be considered a denial of FAPE.

Investigative Findings

In her formal complaint, the parent included copies of letters sent to her by the district which described each of the ESIs that were implemented with the student between November 14, 2025 and the end of the 2024-25 school year. The parent also attached to her complaint a table showing the majority of the documented ESIs. In total, the parent provided letters from the district documenting 71 ESIs (although the parent asserts that not all ESIs were reported). While the majority of these ESIs involved seclusion, 4 involved restraint.

The investigator reviewed each of the ESI letters when considering this issue – including the ESI of November 6, 2024. The first four ESIs are described below. The investigator reviewed the letters for each of the remaining 67 ESIs looking for evidence as to whether or not the BIP was followed. A summative table of that review is included in this report below the descriptors of the first four incidents.

The November 6, 2024 ESI involved a 2-minute restraint of the student who was outside of the school building on the football field with peers and staff. The student became frustrated with peers who did not want to play soccer and then wanted a ball being used by another student.

A properly constituted IEP team for the student – which included the parent – initially met on October 21, 2024 to develop a new IEP for the student. That IEP was finalized on November 6, 2024. This IEP – which included a BIP – was in place at the time of this ESI. "Escalations" of target behaviors listed in the plan included "throwing things at people" and "kicking." The BIP included a number of "responses" to be utilized when the student demonstrated these target behaviors. Among those responses was the following:

> "Meaningful distraction is also an effective strategy to engage [the student] in during these periods of dysregulation…If [the student] is being unsafe towards self and/or others, ensure that everyone including [the student] are safe…Staff can work together to have [the student] go to a safer space if necessary."

According to the November 6, 2024 ESI letter,

> "Staff attempted to distract [the student] and refocus his attention to other activities, as well as provide proximity but was unsuccessful…staff were able to step in between them and the other student went to a different area. [The student] walked with [the consulting teacher] to another area as well and talked with her for awhile about other things."

When the student walked back toward the peer, "adults were able to stand in between them." After the student threw another ball at that peer and kicked the other student,

> "…[the consulting teacher] escorted [the student] away from the other students and told everyone to head inside to maintain space before transitioning [the student] inside. [The consulting teacher and the school social worker] used body positioning and verbal de-escalation techniques in order to create time for the other students to leave the area, but [the student]…kicked [the social worker…so [the consulting teacher] used a 1 arm hold in order to allow time for the others to get off the field. …Once the other students were a safe space away and off the field, [the student] was released and walked inside of the school."

The second ESI was a 1-minute restraint implemented on November 14, 2024.

> "[The student] became agitated when asked to clean up the mess he made in the classroom. However, he was willing to do so at first, with staff help, but quickly re-escalated when expected to pick up tickets that belonged to peer in the classroom. This turned into throwing things in the classroom, hitting/kicking items. This continued to escalate into hitting/kicking/scratching and attempting to bite staff repeatedly. A restraint was initiated when [the student] was repeatedly hitting [a staff member], even as [that staff member] was trying to step back from him.
> Worked on de-escalating in a separate room, where he was able to lie down and rested his body…

The third ESI also occurred on November 14, 2024 and began with the student demonstrating another behavior targeted in the student's November 5, 2024 BIP: elopement.

According to the BIP, if the student demonstrated elopement behavior, staff was to > "Offer replacement behavior. Restate and provide him the appropriate language to use when he is dysregulated or escalated. Calmly guide him back to a safe space for a brief period, if necessary. Once regulated, engage the student in a brief reflection about what triggered the behavior and what strategies could help in the future."

As stated in the ESI letter regarding this incident provided by the parent in her complaint, the student had asked to use the restroom. Staff had "talked through a safety plan to transition there and back, do a check in with mom, and return to class for the afternoon." However, upon leaving the restroom, the student attempted to elope the area. In response,

> "[The classroom teacher] and [two other staff members] used body positioning to prevent elopement and return to the hallway. Once in the hallway, [the student] became physically aggressive towards [the teacher and another staff member] (hitting, pinching, scratching, kicking.). [The teacher] called [the parent] as we were to do a check in anyways, and she was able to help with de-escalating. During the phone call, [the student] was able to walk back into the empty classroom we had been working in and continue to de-escalate with [the teacher and parent] with grounding and distraction techniques. A plan was made with mom, [the student, the teacher, and the other staff member] to start over for the afternoon and he was looking forward to going to Papa's after school. As soon as the call was disconnected, [the student] re-escalated and began throwing objects at [staff] (cups, large blocks, and other items from the room) and hitting and pinching. [The teacher] asked [the other staff member] to step into the hallway and [the teacher] stayed in the room and reminded [the student] that his afternoon was starting over and that he was looking forward to a visit to Papa's. This was not successful, and [the student] continued to kick, hit, pinch, and throw objects at [the teacher who] said [to the student] I need you to [be] safe and I need to be safe and this is hurting me. [Another staff member] had arrived in the hallway…[The teacher] told [the student] that she needed to step into the hall because she was being hurt. [The teacher] stepped into the hallway, and closed the door just enough to be a barrier so she could not be hit or kicked, but [all three staff members] continued to talk to [the student] and say, 'we love you, we aren't leaving you but we all need to be safe. [The student] walked away from the door so [the teacher] re-entered the room after less than 1 minute."

The fourth ESI also occurred on November 14, 2024. According to the ESI letter,

> "[The consulting teacher] stepped out of the hallway again due to physical aggression. Again, the door to the classroom was not fully closed and [the special education teacher, the social worker, and the consulting teacher] continued to say, we're in the hallway because we need to be safe and you need to be safe but we are not leaving you. [The consulting teacher] attempted to re-enter the classroom multiple times, but that was not successful due to chairs getting shoved at her, objects continued to be thrown, etc. [The student] was also crying. Staff continued to be supportive as much as possible reminding [the student] they were not leaving that he was loved, and that the team would get whatever he needed (offered ice, etc.). After several attempts to go back into the room by [the consulting teacher] being unsuccessful, [the student] then came to the door and was able to verbalize that he didn't feel safe, so the door was opened fully. [The student] came into the hallway and was no longer aggressive, and staff was able to work with [the student] to make a plan about where/what he needed to feel safe and follow through…

[The student] was able to verbalize that he wanted to go to the Jungle area, so everyone agreed to let [the special education teacher and the social worker] go out first to stand by the doors because of the attempted elopement, and that [the consulting teacher and the student would go out next then he would have the whole area to walk around and have quiet time. [The student] sat down (which usually indicates he is ready and safe) and everyone followed through on the plan. [The student] was able to take some time in the Jungle to walk around, [the consulting teacher] sat at a table nearby and started doing some origami an then eventually talked about animals which developed into a distraction/de-escalation conversation. We then got the building therapy dog to come for a visit and he and [the social worker] were able to debrief during that visit, and then [the student] was able to return to class and finish his day…"

As a part of this investigation, the investigator asked the district to provide information regarding positive interventions that had been implemented with the student. In an email to the building principal dated July 24, 2025, the consulting teacher for the JAG program responded to that request and outlined a number of positive interventions that have been used with the student in an effort to create a supportive educational environment. Included in that email were the following:

- Increasing instructional choices: offering multiple options of activities from which the student could choose;
- first/then: complete academic task (of choice) followed by preferred activity/task;
- reduction of academic rigor to promote self-confidence whereby the student could expect success when presented with the task/activity;
- modification of instruction to allow for more hands-on or game-based instruction;
- using timers;
- scheduling non-contingent breaks with or without peers around anticipated periods of stress;
- choice of working locations for 1-to-1 instruction;
- precorrection (reminders of what was next, expectations, etc.) ahead of transitions;
- frequent review of visual schedule with the teacher; and
- tickets/tokens for positive behavior, engagement, etc.

Emphasized elements in the above list are directly correlated with elements of the student's BIP or with accommodations/modifications listed in the student's October 2024 IEP or its January 2025 amendment.

The school social worker for the JAG program provided another list of interventions that were used with the student. That list included the following:

- School-wide tickets (earned and used to exchange for items in the school store)
- Going to the school store
- Participating in game time
- "WHOAH" Board Submissions (earning awards for going above and beyond expectations)
- "Puzzle Piece Egg Hunting" (helping staff develop and implement a school-wide game)
- Classroom Sticker chart
- Earning time to be a staff member's lunch buddy helper
- Holiday & Monthly Celebrations
- Additional preferred peer time added toward the end of the year
- Classroom reward menu (with input from the student as to what was on the menu)
- Non-contingent time with a preferred staff member daily

- Non-contingent breaks (two at 10 to 15 minutes each) throughout each day (According to the social worker, the student took many more than 2 breaks each day.)
- Use of a designated "safe spot" to go to in the classroom (peace corner)
- Use of a designated "safe room"
- Use of a "safe house" inside a constructed cardboard box (designed to resemble a house)
- Teaching and practicing various coping skills: deep breathing, yoga/meditation, fidgets, asking for help/break/walk, utilizing the punching bag, music, etc.
- Choice in academics
- Work-Break structure of school day (Breaks were related to the student's choices - i.e. Osmos, games, etc.)
- Choice offered in numerous contexts
- Earning Prodigy time toward the end of the school day
- Music (he would bring his own music player and headphones to school)
- Sensory fidgets and activities
- Noise-canceling headphones
- Modified work/curriculum
- Timer/verbal cues when/before transitioning to a new task
- Visual schedule/Checklist of the Day

Again, highlighted items in this list are directly correlated with elements of the student's BIP or with accommodations/modifications listed in the student's October 2024 IEP and/or its January 2025 amendment.

Summary and Conclusions Regarding the District's Alleged Failure to Follow the BIP

Multiple examples have been provided by the district to demonstrate compliance with the student's October 2024 IEP and the BIP and the accommodations/modifications included therein. The majority of ESI reports which were included in the parent's formal complaint show that staff utilized strategies and accommodations prior to and/or during ESI incidents. Evidence does not support the parent's contention that the district has failed to follow the student's IEP. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Issue Three

The district failed to proactively provide appropriate behavioral supports and services.

Position of the Parent

The parent asserts that the district failed to proactively update the student's BIP or to complete a new Functional Behavioral Assessment (FBA) without prompting from the parent. It is the position of the parent that this omission directly impeded the student's ability to benefit from his education.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

A child's IEP (including a BIP if included in the IEP) is to be reviewed at least once every 12 months, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved and to revise the IEP as appropriate. The review and revision of the IEP is to address: (a) any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum, where appropriate; (b) the results of any reevaluation conducted; (c) information about the child provided by the parents; (d) the child's anticipated needs; or (e) other matters. The IEP team is to consider any of the special factors related to the child's IEP (see Section D.1. of this Chapter; K.S.A. 72-3429(f)).

Although the school is responsible for determining when it is necessary to conduct an IEP meeting, the parents of a child with an exceptionality have the right to request an IEP meeting at any time. The child's teacher or other school staff may also propose an IEP meeting at any time they feel the IEP has become inappropriate for the child and revision should be considered (K.S.A. 72-3429(f)).

An evaluation that is conducted for a child currently identified with an exceptionality is considered a reevaluation. Schools must ensure that a reevaluation of each child with an exceptionality is conducted if conditions warrant a reevaluation, or if the child's parents or teacher requests a reevaluation, but at least once every three years. Reevaluations may not occur more than once a year, unless the parent and the school agree otherwise. New requirements also allow the parent and the school to agree that a three year reevaluation is not necessary (K.S.A. 72-3428(h)(2)(B); 34 C.F.R. 300.303(b)(2)).

Investigative Findings

In October 2024, the student's IEP team – which included the parent – determined that a more restrictive placement was needed in order to best address the student's needs. A Functional Behavioral Assessment (FBA) was completed on October 30, 2024 and a new IEP was developed which included a BIP.

The student's October 2024 IEP was amended on January 29, 2025. Meeting Notes from that date show that there was extensive discussion with the parent about the BIP which was revised through the amendment process.

After seeing the academic progress that the student had been making, the special education teacher felt that it would be appropriate to reevaluate the student and develop a new IEP even though the student was not due for reevaluation until October 2025. The parent believed that a new FBA should be conducted, and on April 11, 2025, the district requested and obtained the parent's written consent to complete a new FBA. Over the months of April and May 2025, the IEP team – which included the parent – met to discuss and develop a new IEP which included an updated BIP based upon an FBA completed on May 9, 2025. An additional IEP meeting was conducted in August 2025. The parent gave her written consent for the changes to the IEP proposed by the district on August 12, 2025

Summary and Conclusions

The district developed an IEP for the student on October 21, 2024 with the participation and consent of the parent. Special education statutes and regulations allow a parent to ask for a review of their child's IEP (including a BIP) in less than 12 months which this parent did. The district complied with that request, but the fact that the review was not initiated by the district does not constitute a violation of special education statutes and regulations.

The special education teacher initiated a reevaluation of the student well ahead of the October 2025 triennial review date. As a part of that process, the parent requested a new FBA – though one had just been completed in October 2024. The district complied with the parent's request, and obtained the written consent of the parent for the new FBA. Again, the fact that the parent initiated the development of a new FBA does not place the district in violation of special education statutes and regulations.

Under the circumstances described above, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Issue Four

The student has suffered a significant loss of instructional time and academic regression due to the district's actions.

Position of the Parent

The parent contends that the lack of instructional time during 400 + minutes (approximately six- and one-half hours) of ESIs and subsequent losses of instructional time during periods required for the student to de-escalate following those ESIs has resulted in the student being half a grade level or more behind in reading and writing thereby limiting his ability to make meaningful educational progress. According to the parent, the progress that the student has made in math and reading has been the result of the parent's work with the student at home and the outside tutoring he has received at parent expense.

Position of the District

It is the position of the district that the student has been provided a FAPE. The district contends that when ESIs have been implemented, teachers have retaught and/or reviewed any missed lessons. The district asserts that academic evaluation results from April 2025 show that the student has made progress in his academic skills.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

Endrew F. v. Douglas County School District is a landmark Supreme Court case concerning the educational rights of students with disabilities under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). The case clarified the standard for what constitutes a FAPE for students with disabilities, requiring that Individualized Education Programs (IEPs) be "reasonably calculated to enable a child to make progress appropriate in light of the child's circumstances".

Investigative Findings Regarding Loss of Instructional Time

There were 119 school days between the time the student entered the JAG program on November 5, 2024 and the end of the 2024-25 school year. School was cancelled on 7 days during this period because of snow. Over the 119 school days, the student was absent for 13 full days; he was absent for a quarter of the school day on 5 days, and was absent 2 additional half days.

Based upon ESI-related letters sent by the district to the parent, the student spent 418 minutes (approximately 7 hours) in ESI – about one school day. ESIs ranged in length from 1 minute to 24 minutes. Forty-seven of the ESIs were 5 minutes or less in length. Sixteen incidents lasted between 6 and 10 minutes. Six incidents were 11 to 15 minutes in length. Four incidents lasted longer than 15 minutes (16, 20, 22, and 24). The student spent a total of 7 minutes in an ESI in November, 35 minutes in December, 53 minutes in January, 66 minutes in February, 62 minutes in March, 146 minutes in April, and 51 minutes in May.

During the month of November 2024, the student spent 7 minutes in ESI (representing 0.1% of the minutes the student was in attendance). There were ESIs during 0.6% of the minutes the student attended school during the month of December 2024. In January 2025, the student was in an ESI 1.2% of the minutes he was in attendance. ESIs were implemented for 1% of the student's minutes of attendance during February 2025. In March 2025, he was in an ESI for 1.3% of the minutes the student was in attendance. ESIs reached a peak of 2% of the student's minutes of attendance during April 2025. Nearly one third (30%) of the total number of ESIs for the school year were implemented during April, but the student attended school for significantly more days/minutes in April than any other month. (The student spent 30% more time at school in April 2025 than the next highest month.) The percentage of ESI minutes dropped back to 1.3% during May 2025. In May, an ESI resulted in bruising of the student, and the parent opted to keep the student home for the remainder of the school year.

Investigative Findings Regarding Academic Regression

Reading:

The "Summary of Present Levels of Academic Achievement and Functional Performance" section of the student's October 2024 IEP included the following statements regarding the student's reading skills:

> "[The student] struggles to engage with grade-level material due to behaviors during dysregulation preventing him from participating in academics...
> ...[The student] recognizes CVC words (87%)..
>
> ...[The student] needs staff to read aloud passages in order to access grade-level comprehension of questions...
> ...[The student] needs to see words in isolation; color coding consonants and vowels helps...

Meeting notes for the October 21, 2024 IEP meeting reflect that the parent understood that emphasis would be placed on "behavior before academics...If he could just read anything at the end of the year, that would be amazing."

The district's proposed IEP dated May 16, 2025 provided the following information regarding the student's reading skills:

> "[The student] is currently reading sight words regularly in class...is reading short stories with 10-17 short vowel words and with 8-14 sight words each. [He] can spell simple cvc words and some blends when given the words verbally and enjoys doing this on the interactive whiteboard. [The student] can segment syllables in given words as well.

[He] gets overwhelmed when presented with grade level reading materials. [His] behaviors (inability to regulate emotions, maintain appropriate behaviors, avoidance of academic work) significantly impede his ability to make progress in the area of reading without special education supports and specially designed instruction."

The student's October 21, 2024 IEP contained the following annual goal to address the student's reading needs:

"By October 20, 2025, when given a single syllable word orally, [the student] will isolate and produce the initial, medial vowel, and final sounds CVC words and words containing digraphs with 95% accuracy, as measured by teacher made probes and/or assessments."

At the time this goal was developed, the student was demonstrating a baseline level of performance as follows:

"[The student] can isolate and produce the initial, medial vowel, and final sounds of single-syllable CVC words with 75% accuracy."

The student's progress toward attainment of this goal was monitored three times during the remainder of the 2024-25 school year. When progress was monitored on January 6, 2025, the student earned a score of "3 – Progress has been made towards reaching the goal by the annual IEP." According to the progress report, the target accuracy level for this period was to be 80% accuracy. The report stated

"[The student] has made progress towards his reading goal but behaviors have impacted this academic area. He is able to correctly sound each letter sound in the alphabet and we have turned it into a challenge to see how fast he can complete all the sounds. The current record time is 35 seconds. In the most recent collection of data he was able to spell cvc words correctly isolating each of the initial, medial, and final sounds. He was able to spell 10 words correctly and 2 with an incorrect vowel. He has also been able to read several of the sight words that are presented in our morning meeting. We have worked on this goal in a variety of ways including on the smart board, pinch fingers, and pop it fidget. Behaviors have interfered including refusal when presented with materials and triggering more escalated behaviors. He has still made tremendous progress and we will continue in the next quarter…Correctly isolate and produce the initial, medial vowel, and final sound with 83% accuracy."

By the time the student's progress toward attainment of his reading goal was monitored on March 31, 2025, the student was able to earn a score of "4 - . According to the progress report,

"[The student had] prided himself on being able to read through short stories that include sight words and short vowel words. He has been able to read through a variety of these short stories a minimum of 14 times. When he approaches a word that he does not know he will appropriately sound it out or ask a staff member what the word is. There is an IEP scheduled in April 2025 where future goals will be addressed due to the current reading goal being met…[The student] has exceeded his [short term objective of 85% accuracy] being able to isolate and produce sounds of single syllable words with 90% accuracy."

When the student's reading goal progress was monitored again on May 23, 2025, he again earned a score of 4 and demonstrated the goal-target accuracy level of 90%.

The student's grade card for the fourth quarter of the 2024-25 school year shows that he was performing at an advanced ("consistently exceeds the academic standard") or proficient ("regularly meets the academic standard") level for reading standards on 3 of the 4 areas assessed.

Math:

With regard to math skills, the student's October 21, 2024 IEP reflects the following:

…[The student] can do single digit addition and subtraction.

The student's October 2024 IEP contained the following goal to address student needs in the area of math:

"By October 20, 2025, when presented with five addition and five subtraction problems within 100, [the student] will be able to solve the equations using manipulatives and a hundreds chart with 90% accuracy 4 out of 5 trials as measured by assignments and assessments."

The baseline level of performance for this skill at the time the IEP was developed was as follows:

> "[The student] adds 3 equations within 25 with 80% accuracy and subtracts 3 equations within 20 with 60% accuracy. He adds by 10s with 90% accuracy."

According to the IEP Progress Report for this goal, the student's progress toward attainment of this goal was monitored three times during the remaining portion of the 2024-25 school year. When progress toward attainment of the goal was monitored on January 6, 2025, he earned a ranking of "4 - Performance is at or above what is required. The goal has been met." At that time, the student had exceeded the benchmark target of 65%. The report noted that

> "He achieved an average of 75% accuracy when presented with addition and subtraction problems within 100...[The student] has worked hard in math. He continues to favor this subject area over other academics. For his winter math goal he exceeded the first benchmark. He achieved an average of 75% accuracy when presented with addition and subtraction problems within 100. He is always offered the opportunity to use manipulatives and hundreds chart but he prefers to count on his fingers and complete math problems using mental math. Verbalizing answers or being able to type answers in a quiz format is also a preferred method of conveying his knowledge over writing with a pencil and paper..."

When progress toward attainment of his math goal was monitored on March 31, 2025, the student demonstrated an accuracy level of 90% (with a target accuracy level of 75%) and again earned a score of 4. According to the report

> "[The student] has exceeded his math goal this quarter. He continues to prefer using mental math but has welcomed additional math strategies during lessons. He continues to refuse completing the classwork when it is presented but recent strategies have increased his completion of classwork. The classwork he does complete demonstrates his knowledge. There is an IEP scheduled in April 2025 where future goals will be addressed due to the current math goal being met...[The student] has met his math goal with 10/10 trials having 90% accuracy of addition and subtraction problems with 100 or above."

When progress was monitored again on May 23, 2025, the report notes that the student had earned a score of 4 and demonstrated 90% accuracy.

The district's proposed IEP dated May 16, 2025 contained the following information regarding the student's math skills:

> "[The student] is currently keeping pace with 2nd grade math skills.
> [He] is quick to complete math facts using mental math. He can do up to three-digit addition and subtraction with ease and is good as math problem solving. [The student] benefits from using manipulatives, tangible objects, and hundreds charts to support his math leaning. He needs accommodations in order to be successful in math class to support engagement.

The student's grade card for the fourth quarter of the 2024-25 school year shows that he was performing at the advanced or proficient level in 6 of the 8 areas that were assessed regarding math standards.

Summary and Conclusions

It is important to remember that the student was – between November 5, 2024 and the end of the 2024-25 school year – enrolled in a day school program in the district designed specifically to address the needs of students whose behavior significantly interferes with their learning and the learning of others. This student's behavioral needs were so significant as to warrant placement in a setting that afforded him one-on-one instruction in a highly structured environment.

The student missed some 400+ minutes of instruction because of ESIs, and no doubt missed additional instructional time while dysregulated and demonstrating behaviors that were not addressed through an ESI. However, perhaps because of the 1-to-1 nature of his instruction, evidence shows that the student nonetheless made academic progress. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Issue Five

The district has failed to provide the student with a safe and appropriate educational environment conducive to the provision of a FAPE.

Position of the Parent

The parent states that the actions of the district have rendered the student's educational environment unsafe, thereby preventing him from accessing and benefiting from his education.

Investigative Findings and Conclusions

Investigation of ESIs – including those specified by the parent in her complaint – falls outside of the authority of this investigator. The parent has filed two complaints regarding ESIs with the district's Board of Education, and the investigations of those complaints have proceeded through appropriate channels.

As noted above under Issue One and Issue Four, evidence shows that the student was accessing and benefitting from the educational opportunities provided by the district until May 15, 2025 when the parent decided to pull the student from school. The student attended school for 8 more days after the May 5, 2025 ESI that resulted in a physical injury to the student. Between May 5 and 15, 2025, the student had only two more ESIs – one 8 minutes in length and one lasting 24 minutes – a significant reduction in ESIs from the month of April when 11 ESIs had been implemented during the first 15 days of the month.

It is important to note that prior to and following an incident on May 5, 2025, there is no evidence to show that any of the ESIs resulted in any physical injury to the student, and the parent continued to allow the student to participate in the district's JAG program until May 15, 2025.

There is no objective evidence available to the investigator that either confirms or rejects the parent's contention that the student has been harmed by the district's implementation of ESIs in response to the student's behavior. There is, as noted above, evidence to show that the student accessed and benefitted from the educational opportunities provided by the district. The parent's contention that the student has been denied a FAPE because of the learning environment afforded by the district has not been demonstrated. Under these circumstances, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Issue Six

The district has failed to respond to parental concerns and complaints.

Position of the Parent

It is the position of the parent that the district's internal investigations and responses to her complaints have been inadequate, mischaracterized events, omitted critical facts, and failed to offer sufficient corrective actions or compensatory services. The parent asserts that had the district acted in an appropriately proactive manner, the student would have been afforded a FAPE sooner.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

To address the requirement to strengthen the role of parents in the special education process, Congress mandated that schools afford parents the opportunity to be members of any decision-making team for their child, including eligibility, initial evaluation and reevaluation, and development of an IEP for the provision of a FAPE. Schools are to ensure that parents have the opportunity to be members of the IEP team that makes decisions on the educational placement of their child. (See K.A.R. 91-40-17.)

Investigative Findings

The district received information from the student's previous district on July 26, 2024. A case review meeting with the parent was conducted at the student's neighborhood school on August 8, 2024. At that meeting, the parent shared information about the student's previous school and told the team that she did not agree with the previous school IEP or FBA/BIP. According to the district, the team stressed that the student would have a fresh start at his new school. The team determined that the district would need to rewrite the IEP but wanted to first get to know the student in order to better address his individual needs and supports. The student and the parent toured the building on August 12, 2024 and met staff.

The district states that beginning on the first day of school on August 13, 2024, there were daily texts and emails between the parent and school staff about how the student's days had gone, including when he was struggling and when he had successes.

The district behavior specialist was contacted on August 14, 2024 with a request that she observe the student and provide strategies/ideas to help the school team best support the student. The specialist conducted that observation on August 16, 2024, and a meeting was held with the parent that same date to discuss the student's first few days of school and to share information about what the behavior specialist had seen in her observation. During the meeting there was preliminary discussion of the JAG program.

The behavior specialist conducted a second observation of the student on August 19, 2024. At that time, according to the district, the student appeared to be making some progress in settling into his new school. By September 5, 2024, staff was seeing a lessened need for "crisis calls." The student was in a general education classroom with resource support, but the student began wanting to spend more time in the resource setting.

The district reports that by September 26, 2024, the student began to demonstrate a need for more structure in the resource room. Staff from the neighborhood elementary reached out to the JAG team and the then director of special education and by October 10, 2024 arrangements had been made to have observations conducted by the JAG team. Because the parent had previously expressed to the team that she did not agree with a diagnosis of Autism that the student had been given, the district did not consider involving staff from a district program serving students with Autism. JAG team members conducted their observation of the student on October 11, 2024.

On October 16, 2024, the parent was given notice of an IEP team meeting, and a draft IEP was sent home for the parent to review. JAG team members conducted two more observations of the student on October 17 and 18, 2024.

A three-hour IEP team meeting was held on October 21, 2024. On October 22, 2024, the student was suspended for physically harming staff and another student. Meeting Notes from the October 21, 2024 IEP meeting for the student show that the parent was actively involved in the team discussion, asking for and sharing information. For example, the team made a change in the OT schedule for the student based on input from the parent and adjusted the amount and type of OT services to be provided. Additionally, the parent actively provided input regarding the development of the BIP.

On October 23, 2024, when the parent came to the school to pick up paperwork related to the suspension, she told staff that she would like to schedule a meeting with JAG staff in attendance. The principal told the parent that it had been the desire of her team to give the student a "fresh start," but that based on data collected and behaviors observed since the start of the school year, it appeared that JAG should be discussed.

A meeting with the parent was held on October 30, 2024. While the team was prepared to discuss the results of the recently completed FBA and related behavioral data, the primary focus of the meeting became the transition to the JAG program. A formal referral for JAG was made that day.

The student and parent toured JAG on November 1, 2024, and the student entered the program on November 5, 2024. The FBA had not yet been shared with the parent at that time. Staff from the neighborhood school went to JAG to support the transition of the student. By report of staff, check-ins with the parent occurred daily via calls, texts, and emails for the purpose of sharing successes and struggles and to "problem-solve" with the parent.

The school social worker and the consulting teacher for the JAG program met with the parent on November 7, 2024 to review the FBA that had been completed by staff at the neighborhood school, to brainstorm strategies to address behaviors seen during the transition period. Both parents came to JAG on November 15, 2024 to discuss the student's behavior with staff.

Winter break began on December 23, 2024. School was scheduled to resume on January 6, 2025 but 5 snow days were called that week. The district scheduled a meeting with the parent on Jan 27, 2025 for the purpose of amending the student's IEP. Changes were made to the student's October 21, 2024 BIP. Additional changes were made to address service minutes, social/emotional strengths, present level of performance statements, and the LRE section of the student's IEP. Meeting notes from that date reflect the active participation of the parent in the discussion.

According to the student's special education teacher, she had seen significant gains in the student's skills that prompted her to recommend a reevaluation of the student. During parent/teacher conferences on February 13, 2025, she discussed the issue with the parent and obtained written consent for the district to conduct a reevaluation – even though a triennial reevaluation was not due until October 2025.

The number of incidents of aggressive behavior in the student began to escalate. Toward the end of March 2025, the JAG team adjusted the student's schedule to decrease transitions and hopefully reduce stressors for the student.

On April 1, 2025, the consulting teacher for the JAG program reached out to the parent to request a meeting to work on new BIP together for upcoming IEP. The consulting teacher offered to do a Zoom instead of in person meeting but the parent declined.

The first of a series of reevaluation/IEP meetings was held on April 10, 2025. At that meeting, the parent requested that the team conduct a new FBA. Written consent for that FBA was given by the parent on April 11, 2025.

On April 17, 2025, the parent sent an email to the then director of special education expressing her concerns about the use of ESIs with the student and asserting that interventions were not being appropriately implemented when the student's behavior escalated. In that email, the parent requested "an immediate meeting to discuss proactive, trauma-informed changes to [the student's] BIP" and training for staff.

The director responded via email on April 21, 2025 asking the parent to provide possible meeting times. On April 22, 2025, a meeting was confirmed for April 25, 2025.

On April 25, 2025, the then director of special education met with the parent to discuss the parent's ESI concerns. A second scheduled reevaluation/IEP meeting had also been scheduled for that day but was cancelled. The parent requested a meeting with staff to go over the FBA prior to the next IEP meeting. That meeting was held on May 1, 2025. A planning meeting was conducted on May 7, 2025 prior to another meeting with the parent on May 9, 2025 to discuss the FBA. That meeting was attended by the school psychologist, building principal and the school social worker. A draft revision of the student's BIP was sent to the parent on May 13, 2025, and another IEP team meeting was held on May 16, 2025.

The parent filed a complaint with the district's Board of Education regarding ESIs on May 21, 2025. A second ESI complaint was filed on June 19, 2025. The district completed an investigation of the May complaint and provided the parent with a report of the findings of that investigation. The parent then requested an administrative review of findings of that report through the Kansas State Department of Education. The district has also completed its investigation of the June ESI complaint and has sent a report to the parent.

Summary and Conclusions

Evidence reviewed during the course of this investigation shows that the district has actively engaged the parent in discussions and decision-making related to the student.

It is not unreasonable for the district to have considered an FBA conducted in the Fall of the 2024-25 school year to be current since the function of behaviors generally could remain constant over time even if the student's placement has changed. When, in April 2025, the parent requested that a new FBA be completed, the district promptly obtained the parent's consent for that update and began the process of completing a new assessment.

Similarly, it is not unreasonable for the district to consider that a BIP developed in October 2024 would still be current in January 2025, particularly in view of the many calendar (and school) days during that period that the student was not in school. The team met with the parent in November 2024 to discuss the student's behavioral needs and revised the student's BIP in January 2025.

At the suggestion of the special education teacher, the district proposed a reevaluation of the student even though the triennial review of the student was not required until October 2025.

The district has worked with the parent to finalize a new IEP for the student, meeting several times during the period of April and May 2025 and again in August 2025. A new placement has been offered by the district and accepted by the parent.

The district has also responded to the parent's complaints regarding ESIs, conducting investigations of those complaints as required.

For the above reasons, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this issue.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has not substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations on issues presented in this complaint. Therefore, no corrective actions are ordered.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date in which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on July 28, 2025. While the report was due on August 27, 2025 the investigator requested and was granted a week extension to complete the report for the investigation.

Evidence Reviewed

The investigator interviewed the assistant director of special services for USD #233 on August 14 , 2025 as part of this investigation. Additional evidence was requested and provided following the interview.

Nancy Thomas was originally assigned to investigate this case, but due to a personal obligation at the last minute she was not able to conduct the originally scheduled interview, and it was terminated. As a result, the complainant requested a different investigator on August 12, 2025. It is noted that the complainant made additional allegations while providing evidence to the previous investigator on August 3 and 5, 2025 following the August 1, 2025 letter of allegations being provided to the parent and district. These allegations are related to the IEP team developing an appropriate service for the child in the IEP and the assistant director of special services not disclosing being an attorney and attending IEP meetings without being an IEP team member. These issues are not addressed in this report, and the complainant may file a complaint with these allegations if desired.

During the investigation, the reassigned Complaint Investigator, Donna Wickham, reviewed all evidence and documentation provided by the district and the parent. Additionally, the complaint investigator contacted the parent on August 12, 13, 14, 15, 18, 19, 20, 21, 25 and 27, 2025 by email to arrange an interview to clarify evidence and documentation. During the time Donna Wickham was the investigator the parent did not have a working phone, and a phone interview could not be arranged.

In completing this investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed documentation provided by the complainant and district. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

Background Information

The subject of this complaint was an 6th-grade student during the 2024-2025 school year who lives at home with their mother. As noted in the May 16, 2024, evaluation report the student was found eligible for special education services with the exceptionalities of autism and hearing impairment. The student additionally has medical diagnoses of KBG Syndrome, autism, ADHD, and anxiety. Between October 29, 2024 and December 2, 2024, the student was medically placed in a residential program and consequently the student's education was provided by a school associated with the residential facility. When the student returned to the district middle school the student began using special education transportation through a contracted transportation company beginning February 26, 2025. When the 2025-2026 school year commenced the student's transportation was provided by the contracted bus service.

For the duration of the 2024-2025 school year three IEPs were in effect, dated May 16, 2024 and amended on September 27, 2024 and December 12, 2024. As a part of the three IEPs the student received nursing, audiologist, direct and indirect special education services through deaf and hard of hearing, speech, language pathology, social work, and transportation services. The student additionally had learning and hearing accommodations for testing and academics.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

USD #233, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parent with access to educational records, specifically the IEP goal progress data, during the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.613(a)(b)(1) state, "Each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part. The agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing pursuant to §300.507 or §§300.530 through 300.532, or resolution session pursuant to §300.510, and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made. (b) The right to inspect and review education records under this section includes— (1) The right to a response from the participating agency to reasonable requests for explanations and interpretations of the records.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that on April 14, 2025 the mother emailed her child's reading teacher, deaf and hard of hearing teacher, special education teacher, and principal that in

Parent Vue her child's reading score was and "F". As a result, she wanted to review the data collected for the most recent IEP goals reported on March 14, 2025. She reiterated this request on May 9, 2025.

District Position

The district response dated August 11, 2025 reported that they provided quarterly progress monitoring data during the 2024-2025 school year as specified in the student's IEP on October 10, 2024, December 20, 2024, March 14, 2025 , May 15, 2025, and June 24, 2025. The district responded that they provided the raw data requested by the parent with the May 15, 2025 progress report. They reported that the raw data was provided to the parent 31 days after the request was made on April 14, 2025, within the 45 day period in which to provide educational records.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The student's IEPs in effect during the 2024-2025 school year (May 16, 2024, September 27, 2024, and December 12, 2024) state that the student's progress will be reported quarterly for each of the goals and a report of progress for each goal was dated October 10, 2024, December 20, 2024, March 14, 2025 , May 15, 2025 and June 24, 2025.
2. An April 14, 2025 email at 7:47 p.m. showed that the parent contacted the reading teacher stating, "I see [student] has a F in reading. As [student] is not making progress in reading and continues declining I want to review the data collected for the most recent IEP goal, 3/14/2025."
3. The email from the reading teacher to the mother dated April 15, 2025 at 5:30 p.m. described that the student has only three assignments during the quarter and does not hold him accountable for any work outside of reading. The reading teacher went on to explain that the score of "F" was primarily due to not turning in school work (earning 0/30 points) from March 31, 2025 through April 4. The teacher explained that if the work were turned in the score would be 38/50 points which would change the score to a mid C.
4. The email from the reading teacher to the mother at 2:24 p.m. on May 8, 2025, in response to the mother's request again for data collection at 9:48 a.m. clarified, "I update the gradebook at the end of each week, and I believe the assignments that were skewing [student's] grade from your last request were both updated in ParentVue by April 21. It has been a few weeks and more assignments, so I'll share that as of today, [Student's] 4th quarter grade is a solid C at 76%."
5. The mother replied to the reading teacher on May 8, 2025 at 5:40 p.m. inquiring specifically about the raw data, "..but I am still inquiring on viewing the raw data used for the last IEP goal. Should I request this thru another entity, if so please advise. The Special Education Dept can only provide me IEP progress reports, not the data collected & used to measure the goals the IEP updates throughout the school year."

6. On May 9, 2025 at 9:07 a.m. in response to the mother's request for raw data she received this email from the middle school principal, "Once providers record data it is destroyed, as data has been recorded and documentation is complete. [IEP team members] have comprehensive performance data to share with the team and will share the draft IEP with you by Tuesday of next week. We can certainly talk through data collection in person with you in our IEP meeting. Currently, [student] is reading at the 4th grade level and has reached 5th grade level math standards."
7. The assistant director of special services emailed the investigator on August 25, 205 at 10:29 a.m. stating, "At the time of the records request, the raw data had already been summarized in the progress report and was no longer available. However, the team was also preparing for an upcoming IEP team meeting and {middle school principal] explained that [student's] IEP team members would be able to further discuss general progress and data collection with [parent] at that time."

Conclusion

IDEA required that the district must comply with the parent's request for the student data no more than 45 days after the request was made. The initial request for raw data for quarter 3 IEP goals was made on April 14, 2025. That request was made to the reading teacher instead of the special education staff resulting in confusion on behalf of the reading teacher who clarified how reading progress was reported. After additional requests in May the district responded by email on May 9, 2025, saying that the data had been destroyed and was not available to provide to the parent.

This May 9 response was well within the 45 day timeline. It was the only response the district could possibly make because the request data no longer existed in the "raw" form requested by the parent. The district is not required to maintain raw data for any length of time, unless there is an existing parent request for such data. The evidence presented shows that when the parent requested the raw data on April 14, the raw data had already been recorded and then destroyed, pursuant to the district's ordinary procedures

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the district did respond to the parent's request for the raw data by informing the parent that it no longer existed. Therefore, the district is IN of compliance, and no corrective action is required.

Issue Two

USD #233, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate procedures when the student failed to make progress towards meeting IEP goals during the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(b)(ii)(A) and Kansas state statutes at K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2)(A) states that the IEP should be reviewed and revision considered for any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals.

Parent Position

The complaint alleged that the student's reading progress, per the IEP is based on being read to, not an ability to read. The ability to read has not improved and the student lacks the basic skills to read street signs, restaurant menus and it is causing safety and life skill issues. Listening to passages is impacting the student's ability to spell and write, furthering dysgraphia which is continually ignored by the district and per the reading instruction learning and grades. Meaningful progress is not being made. The parent further stated that the occupational therapist has repeatedly refused occupational therapy and medical necessity for dysgraphia.

District Position

During the 2024-2025 school year the IEP team met numerous times to discuss parent concerns and review and revise the student's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. On Sunday, September 8, 2024, at 9:00 PM, the parent sent an email about the upcoming September 9, 2024 planned IEP meeting, expressing several concerns and requested service logs and minutes from related service providers.
2. Meeting Notes dated September 9, 2024, summarize the IEP team's discussion regarding reading (Power Up) and changes to the speech/language goal..
3. To ensure the IEP team addressed all parent concerns, the IEP team also met on September 17, 2025. Meeting notes dated September 17, 2024, summarize staff involved in modifying the student's curriculum, adding consultative resource minutes, and cognitive abilities. The mother's email did not expressly request the team review the student's progress toward goals. Regardless, the IEP team did review progress as documented in the IEP team meeting notes dated September 9, 2024, and September 17, 2024. Meeting notes detail the Student's progress in reading from the 1st to the 10th percentile, how the student had tested into level one for grammar and word study and that the student tested out for comprehension, starting at level seven. At the time, the student was at a 3rd grade instructional level. The progress monitoring method for the student's speech/language goal was adjusted from a rubric to a percentage to allow for a simpler and clearer method of measuring growth.
4. On December 12, 2024, the IEP team met again and discussed the student's progress toward goals. At that meeting the IEP team proposed to update the student's math goal based on the student's improved math skills. The IEP team determined the student's goal should be advanced, introducing new and more challenging skills. The team also updated the reading comprehension goal and continued the social goal.

5. Progress Monitoring reports for the 2024-2025 regular school year show the student made progress on the language goal for Quarters 1, 2, 3, and 4 going from a 2nd-4th grade reading level to a 4th grade reading level. The student also made overall gains on the social skills goal and math goal. Following the adjustment made in December 2024, the student progressed in the reading goal, moving from the 3rd to the 4th grade reading level. Listening comprehension continued to be monitored though the student's language goal.

Conclusion

IDEA requires that the student's IEP should be reviewed and revised for any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals. In this case gains in reading grade levels were reported. As well, the progress reports showed gains for IEP goals. It is further found that the IEP team met several times during the school year to review progress, and some changes were made based on student changes in learning.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the district met with the mother several times during the school year to review student progress and discuss changes. It was further found that the student was making progress on the IEP goals as written and had no obligation to meet the IEP due to lack of progress. Therefore, the district is IN compliance, and no corrective action is required.

Issue Three

USD #233, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parent with appropriate prior written notice, specifically when making changes to the student's transportation as a related service for the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§300.503(a)(1)(2) and Kansas statutes at K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2)(A)(B) states that written notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the district proposes or refused to initiate or change the educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child.

Parent Position

The parent complaint stated that the district changed the student's transportation from a contracted company with a 1:1 aide, door to door pick up and drop up to a school bus between the 2024-2025 and 2025-2026 school year without addressing it in the March 14, 2025 IEP draft or providing a prior written notice describing and justifying the change. When the parent contacted the contracted transportation service to arrange transportation for the 2025-2026 school year the parent learned that this contracted transportation company would not be providing the service, and the student would not be receiving a 1:1 aid or door to door transportation this year.

District Position

The District did not provide the student's mother with a PWN discussing transportation because transportation was already listed on the student's IEP. When the parent reached out to the district in July to arrange transportation for the 2025-2026 school year the mother did not request the IEP team meet to discuss a specific mode of transportation only the transportation service. Both the contracted company and the district transportation meet the IEP transportation service specified in the IEP. Even if the parent had requested a meeting, the mode of transportation or company providing the IEP transportation service is at the discretion of the district.

The findings of previous issues are incorporated herein by reference.

1. An April 19, 2024, 8:55 p.m. email to the district outlining IEP concerns for the upcoming IEP meeting in May 2024 indicated that the student needs bus transportation for middle school.
2. The three IEPs in effect during the 2024-2025 school year dated May 16, 2024 and amended on September 27, 2024 and December 12, 2024 state that the student is eligible to receive transportation each day that school is in session (including ESY), on a special education vehicle, from the time the student boards the vehicle from the departure point until arrival at the destination and from the time the student boards the vehicle until arrival at the returning destination. Further, the student has significant needs in the area of deaf/hard of hearing and needs a bus monitor.
3. On February 21, 2026, a transportation request was made for the student to receive special education transportation to and from school in response to the mother's request. It started on February 26, 2025 and continued for the duration of the 2024-2025 school year. It was provided by a contracted transportation company.
4. On July 17, 2025 in an email from the special services coordinator to the mother at 9:24 p.m. following a parent request to meet about the change in mode of transportation the district explained, "I reached out to our Transportation Department to determine why the contracted transportation company was used last year rather than a bus as I know [student] is eligible for transportation to and from school. Transportation let me know that we did not have a SPED bus route at [middle school] due to lack of need at the beginning of the school year. Two SPED students began utilizing in late October/early November and we established a route with [contracted transportation company] at that time. When [student] began the transition from [outside school] to [middle school], we utilized [contracted transportation company] due to resource availability. As of now, we have four students requesting SPED transportation to [middle school] not including [student], and anticipate a yellow SPED bus to be utilized. The bus will provide curb to curb service just like [contracted transportation company] did last year. The bus is not a general education bus that all students can ride to school. It is a bus specifically for students that require transportation as indicated on their IEP. The bus will have a driver and a monitor."

5. In an email from the special services coordinator to the mother on July 23, 2025 at 2:33 p.m. it was stated that "there is no communication in [student's] paperwork to indicate a change to transportation was made. [Student's] IEP states [student] is eligible for transportation due to being deaf/hard of hearing and a bus monitor should be on the bus. I have read through [student's] IEPs from August 2015 forward to the current draft and see no documentation stating [student] needs individual transportation with a 1:1 aide." This email was in response to the parent requesting a signed PWN for the change of mode of transportation.
6. The assistant director of special services stated during the August 14, 2025 interview that assignment to the student's mode of transportation, as long as it meets the IEP requirements is at the discretion of the district. She stated that the student accessed IEP transportation services specified in the IEP through a contracted transportation company last school year due to the student transferring from the outside school to the district school mid-year. As the student was enrolled at the beginning of the 2025-2026 school year the bus schedule could be arranged with the student's transportation needs.

Conclusion

Prior Written Notice is provided to the parent when the school initiates or changes the educational placement of the child, or to make a change to the provision of special education and related services (FAPE) to the child (K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2); 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a)(2)). According to IDEA, transportation is a nonacademic service (34 C.F.R. 300.117) and any change to the transportation service from a less to more restrictive setting would require a PWN. If the change is a material change in services the district would need to obtain consent from the parent.

In this case each of the student's IEPs included the nonacademic service of transportation. The transportation service was listed in each IEP as a special education vehicle with a bus monitor, from the time the student boards the vehicle from the departure point until arrival at the destination and from the time the student boards the vehicle until arrival at the returning destination. During the 2024-2025 school year that nonacademic service of transportation was met with a contracted transportation company and during the 2025-2026 school year the district will provide that nonacademic service with a district bus service. The district has discretion of how transportation is provided as long as the IEP transportation related service is implemented.

It is found that the district implemented the transportation related service of the IEP and is IN compliance. As such a prior written notice was not required since a change in transportation service was not made by the district between the 2024-2025 school year to the 2025-2026 school year.

Issue Four

USD #233, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) for the student, specifically by not providing access to hearing aids and glasses at the Claire Learning Center during the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.17 states that all children with disabilities have available to them a free appropriate public education that emphasizes special education and related services designed to meet their unique needs and prepare them for further education, employment, and independent living. Further, 34 C.F.R. § 300.17 defines FAPE as special education and related services that: 1) Are provided at public expense, under public supervision, and without charge; 2) Meet the standards of the state education agency (SEA), including IDEA requirements; 3) Include appropriate preschool, elementary, or secondary education; and 4) Are provided in conformity with an Individualized Education Program (IEP).

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.325 and K.A.R. 91-40-22 describe that in the case when a public school places a child with a disability in, or refers a child to, a private school or facility as a means of providing FAPE to the child, the agency even if a private school or facility implements a child's IEP, responsibility for compliance with this part remains with the public agency and the SEA.

Parent Position

The parent stated that the student was denied hearing aids and eyeglasses for the duration of time at the residential facility and school the student attended while at the residential facility. The mother stated that the denial of the hearing aids and glasses absolutely impacted learning and progress.

District Position

The District stated they did not deny the student access to the required hearing aids or glasses while attending the middle school within the district and that during the time the student was at the residential facility and school associated with the residential facility they were not charged with implementing the IEP. They stated that the student was unilaterally placed there between October 29, 2024 through December 2, 2024. They state that while at this school the district attempted to meet with the staff at the residential facility to share their strategies, however the mother withdrew the student from the residential facility and reenrolled the student at the middles school before the meeting could occur.

The findings of previous issues are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The meeting notes from September 9, 2025 state that the student leaves hearing aids at home and that an incentive system was created to help the student remember to bring them to school.
2. The special considerations section of the September 26, 2024 IEP amendment (in effect at the time the student attended the residential school) states, the student wears glasses full-time and has a history of multiple eye surgeries related to amblyopia, astigmatism, anisometropia, and nasolacrimal duct obstruction. Further the mother reports that without glasses the student is legally blind in the right eye. In regard to hearing, the student has a mild conductive hearing loss in both ears, with hearing thresholds stable. The student wears bilateral hearing aids and has an FM system for the classroom. The student has a history of frequent ear infections and tympanostomy tubes. The student has IHP related to the hearing loss. The Assistive Technology section indicates "hearing assistance technology (HAT/FM System) and Closed Captioning."
3. The September 27, 2024 IEP amendment includes the following accommodations related to hearing and vision stating, 1) An incentive system will be utilized to encourage consistent hearing aid usage." The rationale states that the student struggles to consistently wear hearing aids to school and an incentive will be provided daily until the student consistently wears his hearing aids daily; 2) device(s) must remain at school, and in a set location for student to pick up hearing device and iPad or student computer; 3) Monitoring of hearing aid and HAT using Ling 6 sounds2022 in the nurse's office to verify functionality of hearing aid/HAT for appropriate auditory input.
4. The September 26, 2024 Prior Written Notice documented the addition of the incentive program for hearing aid use to the IEP. It was later signed by the mother on September 27, 2024.
5. The October 3, 2024 Functional Listening Evaluation outlined the student's necessity for hearing aids. The report also recommended the following accommodations/ modifications within classroom and other instructional contexts to include: 1) continued and consistent use of personal amplification; 2) continued and consistent use of remote microphone technology; 3) proximal seating with line of sight to speaker; 4) verbal prompting to remind the student to listen and watch the speaker; 5) front loading of information, including vocabulary, to increase familiarity of material prior to instruction; and frequent checks of understanding using open-ended questions.
6. Emails exchanged between the parent and principal at the middle school document excused absences due to addressing the issues that led to the medical placement of the student at the residential school.
7. On October 29, 2024, the advocate for the family emailed the parent stating, "…[Student's] IEP will be served by residential facility's school, once [student] settled in at residential facility. [Student] admission is scheduled on October 31st." The parent then emailed the middle school principal stating, "Attached is the letter for medical necessity absences as we transition to [residential facility] admission tomorrow morning. [Residential facility] has been provided all school information and will be reaching out. I will be by Monday to pick up all work samples, art projects etc.....for [student]. Please be advised I will have limited email access this week as we are focusing on our transition and appointments prior to admission."

8. The parent and district agree the student attended the school affiliated with the residential school between October 29, 2025 through December 2, 2025.
9. On November 20, 2024, the school psychologist with the residential facility's school emailed the parent about an amendment for the student's move to the residential facility's school.
10. On November 21, 2024, the mother requested an IEP meeting with the residential facility's school expressing concern about the student not wearing hearing aids or glasses, stating, "I have been continually requesting nursing & unit staff to provide [student] with access to [student's] glasses & hearing aids. Per the unit staff and therapist [residential facility] does not want the liability for [student's] glasses or hearing aids, both of which are medically necessary. There are provisions in [student's] IEP for the necessity of both medical devices, documentation without them [student's] intellectual disability significantly increases, along with [student's] social maturity level deceasing, all impacting [student's] ability to receive appropriate education & [student's] safety."
11. On November 22, 2024, the parent rights and the notice of meeting form confirming Friday, December 6th at 2:30pm for the IEP amendment meeting was sent by the school psychologist from the school associated with the residential facility.
12. On December 5, 2024 at 8:52 a.m. the mother contacted the district to request an IEP meeting to discuss and determine appropriate placement for the student.
13. The website for the residential facility links to the school associated with the residential facility and states, "[school associated with residential facility] is the educational day school provided by [district] for children receiving treatment through [residential facility]."
14. The email address for the school psychologist coordinating the IEP in November 2025 identifies with the district email.
15. Interview with the assistant director of special services clarified the relationship among the district, residential facility and school associated with the residential facility. They are all located in the same city. The residential facility is a medical decision and the assistant director of special services said that placement in a residential facility is not an IEP team decision. The practice with the residential facility is that when a school aged student is in the residential facility the educational and special educational services are provided by the school associated with the residential facility. In the situation in which a child is placed at the residential facility the student is considered unilaterally placed at the school associated with the residential facility and is responsible for implementing the IEP.

Conclusion

Kansas defines elementary schools as follows: (1) "elementary school" means any nonprofit institutional day or residential school that offers instruction in any or all of the grades kindergarten through nine. In this case the student was medically placed in a residential facility located in the county and city the student attended public school. Following the residential placement, the student's education was provided by the school associated with the residential school, but operated by the district through a contractual arrangement. The website for the residential facility links to the school associated with the residential facility and states, it is the educational day school provided by district for children receiving treatment through the residential facility. Therefore, although the student was medically placed in the residential facility and the student's educational placement was changed as a result of the medical placement, the relationship between the district and the school associated with the district obligate the district to continue to assume the education of the student and ensure the special education services are provided to the student. It is established that the student's services addressed the medical necessity for hearing aids and glasses and therefore the district did fail to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) for the student, specifically by not providing access to hearing aids and glasses for the 18 days the student was attending the school associated with the residential facility during the 2024-25 school year.

There appears to be some argument about who is responsible for providing the hearing aids and glasses this student needs in order to be successful in school. The Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) offered guidance in its comments to the 2006 federal regulations, saying:

As a general matter, public agencies are not responsible for providing personal devices, such as eyeglasses or hearing aids that a child with a disability requires, regardless of whether the child is attending school. However, it is not a surgically implanted device and a child's IEP Team determines that the child requires a personal device (e.g., eyeglasses) in order to receive FAPE, the public agency must ensure that the device is provided at no cost to the child's parents. Federal Register: August 14, 2006, p. 46581

When a public school agrees to, and is, providing education for a child with a disability under contract, or otherwise, it assumes the FAPE responsibility owed to the children it is serving. Allowing this student to attend school for an extended time without the assistive devices the student clearly needs in order to be successful, for whatever reason, is a failure to meet the FAPE responsibility the district assumed when it agreed to provide the educational services to the children at the school associated with the residential facility.

Therefore, the district is OUT of compliance, and corrective action is required.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 233
Olathe Public Schools: 26FC233-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on July 28, 2025, by -------, on behalf of her son, ------- (student). An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE). Following the investigation, a Complaint Report addressing the allegations was issued on September 2, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a substantiated violation of special education statutes and regulations.

Thereafter, the school district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed, and it reviewed the parent's original complaint, the Complaint Report, the notice of appeal, and the response to the district's notice of appeal submitted by the parent. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

The Appeal Committee limits its inquiry to the issues presented in the appeal. No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report issued on September 2, 2025. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function is to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The Complaint Report dated September 2, 2025 addressed four issues, and the investigator found no violations of special education laws for issues one through three. For issue four, the investigator found a violation of special education laws and stated appropriate corrective action. On appeal, the district disputes the findings and conclusion in the Complaint Report (Notice of Appeal, p.1) for issue four. The Appeal Committee will address only those findings and conclusion the district disputes, the findings not in dispute are sustained.

Issue Four

Did USD #233, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education ACT (IDEA), fail to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) for the student, specifically by not providing access to hearing aids and glasses as the Claire Learning Center during the 2024-25 school year?

All children with disabilities have available a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE) that emphasizes special education and related services designed to meet their unique needs. 34 C.F.R. 300.1(a). FAPE means special education services and related services that: (a) are provided at public expense; (b) meet the standards of the state education agency (SEA); (c) include an appropriate preschool, elementary school, or secondary school education; and (d) are provided in conformity with an individualized education program (IEP). 34 C.F.R. 300.17; K.A.R. 91-40-1(z).

Each public agency must ensure that assistive technology devices or assistive technology services, or both, are made available to a child with a disability if required as part of the child's special education, related services, or supplementary aids and services. 34 C.F.R. 300.105. An assistive technology device means any item, piece of equipment, or product system that is used to increase, maintain, or improve the functional capabilities of a child with a disability. 34 C.F.R. 300.5. The decision of whether a hearing aid or eyeglasses is an assistive technology device is a determination that is made by the child's IEP Team. The IEP team is required to consider whether the child needs assistive technology devices and services. 34 C.F.R. 300.324. A public agency is responsible for the provision of the assistive technology device as part of FAPE only if the IEP Team determines that a hearing device is an assistive technology device and the device is required as part of the child's special education, related services, or supplementary aids and services. Assistive Technology, 71 Fed. Reg. 46581 (Aug. 14, 2006).

Generally, public agencies are not responsible for providing personal devices, such as eyeglasses or hearing aids that a child with a disability requires, regardless of whether the child is attending school. Id. However, if the device is not a surgically implanted device, such as a hearing aid or eyeglasses, and a child's IEP Team determines that the child requires a personal device (e.g., hearing aid, eyeglasses) to receive FAPE, the public agency must ensure that the device is provided at no cost to the child's parents. Id.

This case is unique. Here, the complainant voluntarily placed the student in a residential facility. Further, the student's IEP did not include a hearing aid or eyeglasses as assistive technology. On October 3, 2024, a Functional Learning Evaluation was performed. The evaluation report stated the student's necessity for hearing aids. Further, the report recommended the following accommodations and modifications to classroom instruction: (1) continued and consistent use of personal amplification; (2) continued and consistent use of remote microphone technology; (3) proximal seating with line of sight to the speaker; (4) verbal prompting to remind student to listen and watch the speaker; and (5) front loading of information Report, p. 17). Following the report, the student's IEP was not amended to reflect the student's need for hearing aids and eyeglasses, nor was an IEP Team meeting held even though one was scheduled for December 6, 2024 to discuss amending the student's IEP to allow for assistive technology, such as a hearing aid and eyeglasses.

The Appeal Committee agrees with the investigator's analysis that, "although the student was medically placed in the residential facility and the student's educational placement was changed as a result of the medical placement, the relationship between the district and the school associated with the district obligate the district to continue to assume the education of the student and ensure the special education services are provided to the student (Report, p. 19)." The Appeal Committee disagrees with the investigator's conclusion that "Allowing this student to attend school for an extended time without the assistive devices the student clearly needs in order to be successful, for whatever reason, is a failure to meet the FAPE responsibility the district assumed when it agreed to provide the educational services to the children at the school associated with the residential facility (Report, p. 19)."

As stated previously, this case is unique. The complainant/parent made the unilateral decision to place the student in a residential facility. The student resided at the facility from October 29, 2024 to December 2, 2024 (Report, p. 17). That residence consisted of 18 school days. The residential facility refused to allow the student to take his eye glasses and hearing aids to school (Report, p. 18). On November 22, 2024, the district delivered a Notice of Meeting to the parent proposing an IEP meeting for December 6, 2024 to address the student's need for eye glasses and hearing aids (Report, p. 18).

In short, this was not an "extended" delay. The parents initiated this process when they made the difficult decision to place their child in a residential facility. That decision resulted in removing the student's access to personal devices that the student had previously possessed. Because the student had, at all previous times, possessed these devices at school, there was no previous need for the IEP team to add them to the IEP or even consider whether they should be added to the IEP. Adding provisions to an IEP has its own set of processes. An IEP meeting is scheduled and advance notice of the meeting is provided to parents. The school district is permitted a reasonable time to comply with these procedural requirements anytime there is a proposed change to an IEP. Considering the unique facts of this situation, the Appeal Committee finds that there was no undue delay in the district's procedures to plan and hold an IEP team meeting to consider the changing needs of this student. The meeting did not occur only because the student exited the residential facility.

Since the student's IEP did not include a hearing aid or eyeglasses as assistive technology, and the student returned to school with his hearing aids and eyeglasses before a planned IEP Team meeting occurred, the public agency was not responsible for the provision of the assistive technology as part of FAPE.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee overturns the investigator's conclusion in issue four, specifically that the district violated the IDEA by failing to provide access to hearing aids and glasses at the Claire Learning Center during the 2024-25 school year.

Since there were no other corrective actions ordered by the Complaint Report, the school district is no longer required to take any corrective action.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 17th day of September, 2025.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint was an 8th-grade student during the 2024-2025 school year who lives at home with their parent and siblings. According to an email exchange with the parent on September 4, 2025, the student is not yet enrolled in 9th grade for the 2025-2026 school year. The parent is currently in mediation with the district to determine where the student will attend school this fall in addition to other issues raised in an Office of Civil Rights complaint.

The student is eligible for special education services with the exceptionality of Specific Learning Disability. Prior to qualifying for special education services, the student was determined to be eligible for accommodations under Section 504 in December 2022.

The student's initial/most current evaluation dated May 16, 2023 includes the following summary statement:

[The student] is eligible for special education services with the exceptionality of Specific Learning Disability. For [the student, their] cognitive deficits include the ability to reason with language and recall meaning; use information to quickly complete thoughts, words, and tasks; and reason non-verbally with shapes and patterns. Academic skills that are impacted by these deficits include reading comprehension, math facts fluency, and applied math requiring adequate processing speed to complete multistep problems. All core academic areas are affected by these ability and skill deficits including math, science, English language arts, and social studies. [The student] will benefit from instructional supports and accommodations to progress in the grade level curriculum and function in the general education setting. Frustration in the general education setting as a result of cognitive and academic skills deficits can result in verbal and physical aggression, conduct problems, emotional dysregulation, and loss of focus in the classroom setting for [the student]. Absences resulting in a loss of socialization has resulted in relational difficulties with both peers and staff in the classroom and in informal areas of playground, hallways, and lunch. [The student] exhibits some adaptive skills weaknesses in transitions, social skills, functional communication, leadership, and study skills. Diagnoses of Adjustment Disorder, anxiety, PTSD, and depression contribute to emotional and behavioral difficulties for [the student].

The student had two IEPs during the 2024-2025 school year and both were reviewed and included as evidence for this investigation.

1. The May 7 2024 IEP included a study skills and a reading (comprehension) goal, as well as two social goals (self-regulation and self-advocacy). The IEP also included 23 accommodations, a state assessment accommodation and transportation.
2. The April 16, 2025 IEP includes a study skills and reading (fluency) goal, two social goals (self-regulation and impulse control). The IEP also includes 23 accommodations, a state assessment accommodation and transportation. The IEP team added counseling services 2 times per week, 30 minutes per session in order to address needs related to the student's social goals. Also included in the April 16, 2025 IEP are transition assessment results as required by K.S.A 75-53,101.

Accommodations and Modifications in both the May 7, 2024 and April 16, 2025 IEPs include:

1. Read aloud.
2. School Staff refraining from using negative words when addressing [the student] nor reference to previous events, as well as 3 positive interactions to 1 negative interaction.
3. Visuals to support instruction (math facts, formula sheets, word banks, charts/graphs, graphic organizers).
4. Daily check-in and check-out system to process assignments, missing assignments, and upcoming due dates.
5. Noise cancelling headphones or ear plugs during known loud experiences: assemblies, passing periods, music concerts, known fire drill, (not to be used during teacher instruction).
6. Teacher notes/study guides/ PowerPoints, etc.
7. Color-coded dots - yellow for restroom, so [they do] not have to ask to go to the restroom in front of peers. If [the student] asks verbally, [the student] will still be allowed to go.
8. A red dot to see the support staff member, when [the student] needs to leave the classroom for regulation. [The student] will have a blue dot to see the nurse. If [they] ask verbally, [they] will still be allowed to go. Added to this accommodation in the April 16, 2025 IEP, "To reduce unexcused absences, the adult will communicate with the classroom teacher to inform them that [the student] is using [their] accommodation".
9. Student will not be called on unless a hand is raised (no cold calling).
10. Use of agenda and/or checklist to track assignments due.
11. Frequent check-ins for understanding in each class (at least twice).
12. Use of fidget or calming tools when needing self-regulation.
13. Assignments to be given in manageable chunks.

14. Lights will be dimmed or filtered.
15. Allowing [the student] to stand up or walk in back of the classroom when [they] feel the need to move.
16. The option to sit out of performance-based activities that cause high anxiety. In such activities, [they] will be provided an alternative assignment for this anxiety-provoking activity.
17. Longer processing time with oral responses (up to one minute).
18. In order to lessen [the student]'s anxiety, if other students are involved, other students will be corrected first when appropriate.
19. Use of calculator and other math manipulatives (number line, multiplication charts, etc.)
20. When [the student] is absent, teachers will email the assignments one at a time. Upon returning to school, [they] will have 4 days to turn in the assignments once an assigned person has assisted with processing the assignments. These assignments will be reduced to focus on important content. Added to this accommodation in the April 16, 2025 IEP, "[the student] will have assignments reduced when [they are] absent from class".
21. [The student] will communicate with a trusted teacher/staff member if there is an issue with another student where a change of seating will help lessen anxiety.
22. [The student] will be given a choice of two or more appropriate activities when [they] feel uncomfortable or agitated.
23. School Staff will talk to [the student] calmly and discretely (1:1), without threats, when being individually redirected.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, five concerns which fall under IDEA regulations were identified and investigated.

Issue One

Did USD #259 develop an appropriate IEP based on the student's social/emotional needs as required by 34 CFR §300.320(a)?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.320(a)(1-7) state an IEP must include: (1) A statement of the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance; (2) Measurable annual goals to meet the student's needs, including academic and functional goals related to the student's exceptionality; (3) A description of how progress will be measured and schedule of reports shared; (4) Special education and related services to support the student to make progress in the general education curriculum; (5) Explanation if the student will not participate with nondisabled children in the regular class; (6) Accommodations for state and district assessments if needed; (7) Date for beginning of services.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that the IEP content and services were not adequate to meet the student's needs, "the IEP fails to comprehensively address [the student's] needs in the areas of academics, social-emotional development, communication, behavior, and executive functioning". The complaint also asserted that the, "Present levels do not reflect actual functioning, attendance, or accommodation usage" and that the IEP contains inaccurate information in the PLAAFPs, particularly regarding social-emotional functioning, absences, tardies, and accommodation usage."

District Position

The district response states, "It is the position of USD #259 that the district developed an appropriate IEP based on the student's social/emotional needs as required by 34 CFR §300.320(a)".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties. The student's evaluation results summary, IEP goals and accommodations are noted in the Background Information section of this report beginning on page 5 for reference.

"The IEP fails to comprehensively address [the student's] needs in the areas of academics, social-emotional development, communication, behavior, and executive functioning."

1. In an interview with the advocate and grandparent on August 14, 2025 the advocated stressed that the family is concerned that the current IEP does not include sufficient information to convey the impact of the student's difficulties with executive functioning including, "lack of ability to plan, coping strategies, social, conversation skills, and understanding of social norms, leading to what they [teachers] observe as behavior".
2. For the May 7, 2024 IEP, the district response noted, "The student's IEP Team, including the parent and the student, developed the 5/1/24 IEP (in effect one year prior to the date of the formal complaint), based on the most recent information regarding the student's unique needs in light of [their] circumstances to confer educational benefit and afford [them] Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE). The student is receiving special education for a specific learning disability (SLD)…".
3. For the April 16, 2025 IEP, the district response noted, "A new, annual IEP was developed by the IEP Team, including the parent, on 4/16/25, identifying the student's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance, identified [the student's] needs, and included goals (including two social goals, one for breaks and another to improve impulse control), special education and related services, including counseling services, and accommodations (including one about positive reinforcement, which the parent had even indicated worked for her at home during the 5/16/23 Evaluation), to meet the student's identified needs in light of [the student's] circumstances".

4. The district response also addresses the PLAAFPs in both IEPs, "The PLAAFPs contain information – strengths and needs as they affect [the student's] learning – from the parent, teacher/provider reports, health and medical information, behavioral needs, and the team also considered the results of the initial or most recent evaluation of the student".
5. A review of both the 2024 and 2025 IEPs include all required content as required by 34 CFR §300.320(a)(1-7).
    a. A statement of the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance- The PLAAFP sections include how the student's exceptionality affects progress in the general education curriculum including; strengths and needs of the student based on evaluation data including teacher input on current classroom performance and grades as well as the student's organizational skills, processing time and impulse control, all of which are related to executive functioning. Behavioral concerns are noted as impeding the student's learning and are addressed through the use of accommodations and are also mentioned in teacher comments. The PLAAFP sections also include results of the initial/most recent evaluation which are taken verbatim from the summary statement in the May 16, 2023 evaluation report.
    b. Measurable annual goals to meet the student's needs, including academic and functional goals related to the student's exceptionality- IEP goals include baseline, are measurable and appropriate based on the most recent evaluation as well as parent and teacher input.
    c. A description of how progress will be measured and reports shared- Progress is measured and when reports will be shared is noted.
    d. Special education and related services to support the student to make progress in the general education curriculum- Included are in-class support, transportation and 23 classroom accommodations. The 2025 IEP also includes weekly counseling as a related service.
    e. Explanation if the student will not participate with nondisabled children in the regular class- The student receives instruction in the general education setting.
    f. Accommodations for state and district assessments if needed- The student has access to "read aloud" for state and district assessments.
    g. Date for beginning of services- Start dates are included.
6. The May 7, 2024 IEP included a study skills and a reading goal (comprehension). The student also had two social goals including a self-regulation and self-advocacy goal.
7. The April 16, 2025 IEP includes a study skills and reading goal (fluency). The student also has two social goals including self-regulation and impulse control as well as counseling services 2 times per week, 30 minutes per session in order to address the needs related to social goals.

8. Both IEPs include accommodations to support behaviors and multiple accommodations to support executive functioning, (visuals to support instruction, longer processing time, use of agenda, daily check-in/check-out system to process assignments, missing assignments, and upcoming due dates, copies of teacher notes/study guides or PowerPoints, and, only calling on the student when their hand is raised), are some examples.
9. During the January 16, 2025 IEP amendment meeting the team considered a behavioral goal which was ultimately not agreed to by the parent as the parent wanted to reconsider during the April 16, 2025 IEP meeting.
10. At the April 16, 2025 IEP meeting the team discussed and agreed on the addition of counseling support for the student twice a week for 30 minutes a session.
11. The April 16, 2025 IEP also addressed organizational skills as reflected in the PWN, "[The student] struggles to keep up with assignments and complete them in a timely manner when [they are] absent from class. The team tried out reducing assignments for [the student] when [they are] absent, and we found that this is helpful for getting [the student] caught up".

Incorrect information related to the student's absences and tardies in the IEP.

1. The parent complaint asserted, "Although [the student] has fewer than eight actual unexcused absences, the district has recorded approximately 320 absences and 116 tardies, many of which are the result of using accommodations outlined in the IEP (e.g., taking short breaks or utilizing safe spaces)".
2. The IEP draft dated April 15, 2025 includes the following information under the heading "Other", on page 8, "[The student] has a total of 320 individual classroom absences in all classes combined, and 116 tardies. This data does not include the times [the student] decided to go to [their] alternative setting room after letting the teacher know. [Science teacher]"
3. A review of emails and the Special Education Student Contact log confirm the district's following response:
    a. "The district's student information system reflects that the student was absent from 253 class periods – Parent has access to and has the ability to view these in Parent Vue.
    b. A 4/20/25 [Special Education] Student Contact Log entry and 4/25/25 follow-up email show that the [case manager] emailed the parent that [they] removed specific numbers of absences out of the PLAAFPs in the IEP per [the parent's] request.
    c. A 4/30/25 email shows that the teacher sent the parent a new copy of the IEP after the specific class period absences had been removed per parent request.

The Teacher Report Pages (TRPs) remain in the student's file, however, and do reflect the numbers they reported (see TRPs)".

4. A review of the April 16, 2025 IEP shared with the investigator by the parent confirms that the specific tardy and absence numbers were removed from the April 16, 2025 IEP by the district.

Conclusion

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.320(a)(1-7) state an IEP must include: (1) A statement of the child's present levels of academic achievement and functional performance; (2) Measurable annual goals to meet the student's needs, including academic and functional goals related to the student's exceptionality; (3) A description of how progress will be measured and schedule of reports shared; (4) Special education and related services to support the student to make progress in the general education curriculum; (5) Explanation if the student will not participate with nondisabled children in the regular class; (6) Accommodations for state and district assessments if needed; (7) Date for beginning of services.

In this case, the IEP teams for both of the 2024 and 2025 IEPs addressed all of the content required by IDEA including the PLAAFP sections which were noted as a concern of the parent. Additionally, the IEP goals, accommodations and services appear to be appropriate based on the evaluation, teacher input, student's current academic/behavior functioning, and the parent's input. If the parent feels the IEP is not meeting the student's needs it is within their right to raise these issues, including a reevaluation with the IEP team.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the IEP did include the required information and did not include incorrect information. The district is IN compliance and no corrective actions are required.

Issue Two

Did USD #259 implement the student's IEP specifically related to accommodations and social/emotional goals as required by 34 CFR §300.323(c)(2)?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Parent Position

The complaint listed, "Failure to implement the IEP as written- Supports, services, and accommodations are not being consistently or appropriately provided."

District Position

The district response states, "It is the position of USD #259 that the district implemented the student's IEP specifically related to accommodations and social/emotional goals as required by 34 CFR §300.323(c)(2)".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

IEP goal implementation

1. The parent shared 15 emails sent to the school or district between October 26, 2024, and June 16, 2025. In these messages, they raised concerns about how the IEP was being carried out, specifically the consistent and appropriate use of accommodations, supports, and disciplinary actions.
2. As noted in the IEP Progress Report for the last quarter of the 2023-2024 school year and the first three quarters of the 2024-2025 school year, the student made progress on study skills and reading comprehension, slight progress for self-regulation (use of the dot system) and no progress in self-advocacy.
3. As noted in the IEP Progress Report for the last quarter of 2025, the student made progress on study skills, slight progress on reading fluency, slight progress for self-regulation (use of the dot system) and no progress on the new goal of impulse control which had only been implemented for a month.
4. A Student Support Services Liaison met with the student 16 times between August 27, 2024 and April 17, 2025 to support the student with IEP goals including self-regulation and study skills as evidenced by emails from the provider to the principal.
5. The district response states, "The counselor met with the student two times per week to work on her social/emotional goals and recorded notes in [the counselor's] agenda during their sessions before transferring the information in aggregate form to the IEP progress reports for the corresponding social/emotional goals each quarter".
6. In an interview on August 21, 2025 the counselor confirmed the district's statement and additionally shared that there were many weeks when the student and counselor met more frequently.
7. Teacher input in the student's IEPs specifically in the PLAAFP sections reflected that the teachers felt the student generally did well in class and could be more successful if the student was in class more often.

Accommodations

8. In the parent interview on August 11, 2025 and the grandparent interview on August 12, both stated they felt the student was not making progress on IEP goals due to the lack of accommodations offered by the teachers.
9. In the August 12, 2025 interview with the grandparent, they stated that the student's IEPs PLAAFP sections reflect examples of when accommodations were not followed by teachers noting that one of the teachers asked the student to try to complete an assignment prior to shortening it. The grandparent added, "we have a whole bunch of assignments that don't look like they are chunked".
10. The grandparent shared in the August 12, 2025 interview that the January 16, 2025 IEP amendment meeting was called because the student was failing, accommodations were not followed, the student had been suspended and removed from class excessively primarily for talking out and associating with peers.
11. In the grandparent interview on August 12, 2025 they stated that the parent asked for the student to be removed from music due to an issue with para who didn't follow the accommodations.
12. The district report shares, "Teacher Report Pages (see TRPs) include data each teacher collected throughout the year and used for IEP updates. The science teacher included in his report accommodations provided and available to the student in his classroom, including but not limited to: Visual Aids; extra time to respond out loud; headphones available for [the student] to use on request (and they often do); a 3 to 1 ratio (of positive to negative interactions) is used as often as possible when addressing negative interactions; color coded dots to take breaks; speaking with trusted adults; a designated space to move around in the classroom when [the student] feels the need to; notes are printed out for [the student]; large assignments are broken down into manageable chunks; teacher always speaks calmly when redirecting, as well as others from [the] IEP. The Math teacher's TRP states that the student regularly used the accommodations of check-ins, passes as needed, breaks as needed, shortened assignments, folder for math located in the classroom, and took [their] classwork with [them] to work on in the Zen Zone when [the student] accessed that alternative setting". A review of the IEP PLAAFP sections confirms this information.
13. The district response states that the Accommodations Documentation record tracks accommodations offered to the student and include "restroom breaks, noise cancelling ear buds and headphones, and many remarks noted about not counting the student absent or tardy when accessing her accommodations". A review of this record confirms the district's assertion.
14. The district response shared, "there are many records of when the student sought out one of her trusted adults in Teacher Notes, emails, and records of her going to the Zen Zone included in the supporting documentation folders". A review of this folder confirms the district's assertion.

15. According to district records, the student used the Zen Zone for the IEP accommodation of self-regulation for 49 full or partial class periods over 44 days in the 2024-2025 school year.
16. The hall pass record reflects 50 instances of the student asking to use the restroom which is an IEP accommodation.
17. The district response also states, "The school has identified that, with the number of accommodations in this student's IEP, this 24-25 8th Grade Accommodations Documentation system used to track them being offered and utilized seemed cumbersome and was not used consistently, so there are data, but not for 100% of the opportunities needed or afforded, and the school is working on a new system to keep such records".

Discipline

18. The parent complaint stated, "Disciplinary actions taken against [the student] have not been consistently documented, tracked, or addressed in accordance with the IEP and applicable procedural safeguards".
19. The district response states, "The student's Discipline Profile shows instances of different disruptive behaviors that were addressed through conferences and/or the use of restorative practices".
20. The student's IEPs do not include a goal focused on reducing office referrals, but do include several accommodations to support the student's self-regulation behaviors.
21. There were discussions about the student's behaviors and a potential goal at the January 16, 2025 IEP amendment meeting but ultimately was not agreed to by the parent who wanted to wait for the April IEP meeting to discuss further.
22. The April 16, 2025 IEP team added a goal to address impulse control.
23. In an email from the principal to the investigator, the principal shared that during the 2024-2025 school year there were only 7 Tier 2/Tier 3 referrals contrasted by 13 during the 2024-2023 school year which reflects progress.

Conclusion

IDEA 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

In this case, it is clear that there were many instances of concern related to the implementation of the IEP, accommodations and discipline raised by the parent.

IEP goal implementation: The student has made progress on all of their IEP goals as reflected in the progress reports with the expectation of the self-regulation goal. This lack of progress is concerning due to the student's accommodations for self-regulation resulting in the student being absent from the general education classroom.

Accommodations: The parent offered convincing evidence of missed opportunities for accommodation. The district also shared evidence that demonstrated the school's appropriate response to the parent's concerns and documentation that accommodations, services and appropriate disciplinary interventions were understood and followed by the staff. It is noted that with the number of accommodations required by the IEP, it is unlikely that a school would be able to document that accommodations were offered at every opportunity throughout the school year. Additionally, the district noted in their response that the tracking system used by the teachers to document accommodations was cumbersome and so they can not be confident that, "100% for the opportunities needed or afforded and the school is working on a new system to keep such records". The investigator strongly urges the student's IEP team to grapple with how to support the student in a more coherent manner which meets the student's need and also makes it possible for staff to follow and document implementation of the IEP accommodations.

Discipline: The student received six days of ISS in the 2024-2025 school year, but the principal reports this is progress from the 2023-2024 school year. Due to the lack of a behavior intervention plan it is appropriate for the school to deal with the student's social/emotional behaviors through the use of IEP accommodations as well as the responses the school would use for any student, as long as these responses do not trigger IDEA 34. §300.530(e), a manifestation determination must occur within 10 days of any decision to change the child's placement because of a violation of a code of student conduct.

Although there is some evidence of IEP implementation and appropriate disciplinary practices, the district's admission of the school's inability to confidently track use of accommodations does not meet the requirements of IDEA for IEP implementation.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the district failed to implement the IEP. The district is OUT of compliance and corrective actions are required.

Issue Three

Did USD #259 ensure the student received instruction while in alternative school settings as required by 34 CFR §300.114(a) during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.114(a)(2)(i)(ii) states, "(i) To the maximum extent appropriate, children with disabilities, including children in public or private institutions or other care facilities, are educated with children who are nondisabled; and (ii) Special classes, separate schooling, or other removal of children with disabilities from the regular educational environment occurs only if the nature or severity of the disability is such that education in regular classes with the use of supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily".

Parent Position

The parent complaint noted, "Failure to provide access to the Least Restrictive Environment (LRE)- [The student] is being placed in alternative settings without justification, and without documentation of staff or instructional services provided".

District Position

The district response states, "It is the position of USD #259 that the district ensured the student received instruction while in alternative school settings as required by 34 CFR §300.114(a) during the 2024-2025 school year".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The district provided documentation that reflected the dates and amount of time the student was sent to the Zen Zone for ISS as well as the amount of time the student chose to go to the Zen Zone for self-regulation.
2. The district shared evidence and included in their response, "The student was assigned six In-School Suspensions, for which the ISS Supervisor kept a log and the student was able to continue to participate in the general education curriculum (although in another setting) as well as progress toward meeting the goals in [the] IEP; the ISS form shows the curriculum [the student] worked on and access to [their] accommodations, and 11/1/24, 1/22 -1/23/25, 5/5/25 emails show communication between staff and also from the principal regarding homework being provided for the student's time in ISS and Zen Zone".
3. A review of the ISS sign-in sheet reflects that IEP accommodations were offered and the student reportedly worked on academics for each of the ISS sessions other than one session where the student slept.
4. According to district records, the student used the Zen Zone for the IEP accommodation of self-regulation for 49 full or partial class periods over 44 days in the 2024-2025 school year. It is noted that there is no time limit on how long the student may elect to be out of the classroom and the duration varied from several minutes up to two class periods.
5. The student also elected to leave the classroom to meet with the counselor (an IEP goal and accommodation), visit the nurse and the restroom, both of which are IEP medical accommodations.
6. IDEA 34 C.F.R.300.530(d)(3) states, "A public agency is only required to provide services during periods of removal to a child with a disability who has been removed from his or her current placement for 10 school days or less in that school year, if it provides services to a child without disabilities who is similarly removed".

Conclusion

After review of the evidence for this case it was determined that the issues were not directly tied to Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.114(a)(2)(i)(ii), but rather, IDEA 34 C.F.R.300.530(d)(3), "A public agency is only required to provide services during periods of removal to a child with a disability who has been removed from his or her current placement for 10 school days or less in that school year, if it provides services to a child without disabilities who is similarly removed".

The Kansas Special Education Handbook offers additional clarity, "The IDEA allows traditional disciplinary methods such as restriction of privileges. School officials may also use in-school or out-of-school suspension so long as it does not constitute a change of placement. The law does not set an absolute limit on the number of cumulative school days needed to constitute a change of placement, but requires a case-by-case examination of specific factors and requires that services be provided after the 10th school day of suspension in a school year" (pg. 192). The Kansas Special Education Handbook defines change of placement as: "Change in Placement for Disciplinary Reasons (long-term removal) means that school officials or a special education due process hearing officer has ordered any of the following changes in placement of a child with a disability: 1. The child is suspended or expelled from school for more than 10 consecutive school days. 2. The child is subjected to a series of short-term suspensions that constitute a pattern because all of the following have occurred: a. they cumulate to more than 10 school days in a school year; b. each incident of misconduct involves substantially the same behavior; and c. because of other factors such as the length of each suspension, the total amount of time the child is suspended, and the proximity of the suspensions. 3. The child is placed in an interim alternative educational setting. (K.A.R. 91-40-33(a)(1))", (pg. 194).

In this case, the student removed themselves from the general education classroom for 49 full or partial class periods over 44 days in the 2024-2025 school year. The school removed from the general education setting in ISS for six school days during the 2024-2025 school year, short of the 10 days noted in IDEA. Because the student had less than 10 days of ISS in the school year, the school was not required to ensure delivery of IEP services although the district did share evidence that there was instruction and the offer of IEP accommodation occurred during ISS.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the district, although not required by IDEA to provide instruction and IEP services while the student was in ISS, did provide documentation to demonstrate delivery. The district is IN compliance and no corrective actions are required.

Issue Four

Did USD #259 issue timely and complete Prior Written Notices as required by 34 CFR §300.503(a)(2) during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a)(2) states that prior written notice needs to be provided to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency proposes or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child.

Parent Position

The complaint included, "Failure to issue Prior Written Notice (PWN) – The district has not provided timely, written notification of refusals or decisions regarding services, accommodations, or placement."

District Position

The district response states, "It is the position of USD #259 that the district issued timely and complete Prior Written Notices as required by 34 CFR §300.503(a)(2) during the 2024-2025 school year".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. In an email from the parent to the case manager, principal and assistant superintendent on June 16, 2025, the parent stated, "I previously requested a revision to [the student's] IEP due to inaccurate statements made by the teacher regarding absences. While I did receive a Prior Written Notice (PWN) in response, it did not include a specific reason for refusing my request, as required."
2. An investigator review of the May 23, 2025 PWN referenced above by the parent included the required information including a specific reason for the refusal, "The district considered removing the content regarding the information shared from the science teacher, but rejected this action as it would not allow for the strengths and weaknesses of [the student] to be examined by the IEP team to determine [if the student] received [their] Free Appropriate Public Education".
3. The district response states that even though they noticed the parent properly for a January 16, 2025 IEP amendment they are not able to locate the signed [paper copy of the] PWN where it is believed the parent signed "Do Not Give Consent."
4. On the January 16, 2025 amendment PWN, the parent checked both the consent and no-consent boxes, and included an electronic signature for consent on March 11, 2025.

5. In an email on March 12, 2025 the data analyst noted the discrepancy in the signed PWN for the January 16, 2025 IEP amendment meeting and notified the case manager.
6. In an email reply on March 12, 2025 from the case manager to the data analyst, the case manager wrote, "Good news! I had sent home a paper copy last week and it turns out [the parent] did sign that one correctly. I have it now".
7. The district reports that the case manager is no longer at the school and was not available to be interviewed.
8. The district response states that, "The school plans to review its practices regarding Noticing parents and ensuring that all records are filed properly."
9. In a September 3, 2025 email exchange, the investigator notified the mediation/due process supervisor that the investigation of 34 CFR §300.613(a) was being added to Issue Four and that the district had an opportunity to respond.
10. The mediation/due process supervisor replied with an offer to provide any needed additional information.
11. The investigator noted that the April 16, 2025 PWN shared by the parent stated that changes in the IEP were considered material and thus parent consent was required. The district also shared an April 16, 2025 PWN however it noted that the changes in service did not require parental consent for changes.
12. When asked in an email to clarify this discrepancy on September 5, 2025, the mediation/due process supervisor also noted the differences in the two PWNs and could not account for these differences.

Conclusion

IDEA 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a)(2) requires that PWN "needs to be provided to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency proposes or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child."

In this case, a review of the May 23, 2025 PWN showed that required information was included in this PWN. However, as noted in the district response the school is not able to locate a signed PWN from the January 16, 2025 IEP amendment meeting and there are two conflicting versions of the April 16, 2025 PWNs. This inability to maintain records of the signed PWN as well as two different versions of the same PWN calls into question 34 CFR §300.613(a) "Each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part". The parent's right to review records clearly implies the district's responsibility to keep accurate records.

Please note, IDEA places a clear responsibility on state departments of education to make sure schools are following the law. Specifically, 34 C.F.R. § 300.600(d) assigns states a "general supervision" duty to monitor compliance. A state department of education can't overlook evidence of a district's failure to comply with law. If, during the course of an investigation, an investigator uncovers a violation, even if it wasn't originally raised in the complaint the state can't ignore it. The investigator must either address that violation directly in the report or notify the state department of education so it can be addressed another way.

When an investigator finds an apparent violation that was not included in the original complaint that will be addressed in the investigation, the investigator should notify the school district of the additional issue. That provides the district with the opportunity to respond to the new allegation, as required by 34 C.F.R. 300.152(a)(3)."

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the district provided timely, written notification of refusals or decisions regarding services, accommodations, or placement and is IN compliance for 34 CFR §300.503(a)(2). However, the district failed to maintain accurate educational records and OUT of compliance for 34 CFR §300.613(a) and corrective actions are required.

Issue Five

Did USD #259 provide requested educational records as required under 34 CFR §300.613 during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.613(a)(b)(1) state, "Each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part. The agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing pursuant to §300.507 or §§300.530 through 300.532, or resolution session pursuant to §300.510, and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made. (b) The right to inspect and review education records under this section includes— (1) The right to a response from the participating agency to reasonable requests for explanations and interpretations of the records;

Parent Position

The parent complaint included, "Failure to Provide Access to Educational Records as required under 34 CFR §300.613 (IDEA) and 34 CFR Part 99 (FERPA), including records related to IEP implementation, disciplinary data, accommodation logs, staff supervision during alternate settings, and service delivery during periods marked as absences or tardies".

District Position

The district response states, "It is the position of USD #259 that the district provided requested educational records as required under 34 CFR §300.613 during the 2024-2025 school year."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties. The findings of previous issues are incorporated herein by reference.

1. In an email from the parent to the case manager, principal and copied to the assistant superintendent dated June 16, 2025, the parent requested the following records:
    a. "All data referenced in the IEP used to support the claim of 320 class absences and 116 tardies.
    b. Documentation of [the student's] location for each instance [they were] marked absent while present in the building.
    c. Details on how [the student's] time in alternative settings such as the Zen Zone or Student Center is tracked and documented.
    d. Identification of the staff responsible for supervision in these alternative settings.
    e. All documentation or communication logs regarding alleged dress code violations, as well as records of any instances where [the student] was reportedly in the hallways or walking during class."
2. The principal replied in an email dated June 19, 2025 stating that a district administrator or the principal will respond to the parent's request on or before July 31st.
3. A July 29, 2025 email from the principal to the parent, in response to the parent's request for records, shared the following clarification of what the district is compelled to share and what they are not, "First, while FERPA does allow parents to inspect education records, I think it is important for me to inform you that not every document that the school district or one of its staff members creates or possesses is an 'education record'. 'Education record' is a defined term that refers to documents containing information directly related to your student and which are systematically maintained by the school district, usually in some central repository, such as a registrar. This includes items like grade cards and other key documents, but doesn't typically include emails, notes, or general correspondence. I want you to be aware of this in case you are expecting to see those sorts of documents".
4. The principal also addressed each of the parent's requests and included educational records as noted below:
    a. Parent request. "All data referenced in the IEP used to support the claim of 320 class absences and 116 tardies."
    b. Principal response. The IEP does not currently reflect that [the student] was absent from class 320 courses and tardy for class 116 courses. [The science teacher's] IEP Teacher Report Page does reflect this statement, which is [their] record from [their] notes. We are producing documents showing [the student's] attendance by hour for the 2024-25 school year, which reflects [the student] being absent from class for a total of 253 classes. I also believe that you had a conversation with [the case manager] on April 25, 2025 regarding this discrepancy in numbers that were included in the IEP; at that time it was removed, and an updated copy of the IEP was provided to you with the numerical values removed. We are producing documents denominated '[Student] TRP Science [grade] and '[Student] Attendance By Course 24-25'".

c. Parent request. "Documentation of [the student's] location for each instance [they were] marked absent while present in the building."

d. Principal response. "We believe that this information may be recorded in staff notes or documents in staff's possession. Those are not education records under FERPA, but we will inquire about the existence of those records when our staff return from the summer break. We will furnish an update on this subject as soon as we are able; however, because the beginning of the school year is a busy time, that may not occur until sometime in the middle of August."

e. Parent request. "Details on how [the student's] time in alternative settings such as the Zone or Student Center is tracked and documented."

f. Principal response. "We are producing documents denominated '[Student] Zen Zone sign in_Redacted' and 'CMA ISS Form 2024-2025 - [Student] Redacted'. These documents have been redacted to exclude information not relevant to [the student]."

g. Parent request. "Identification of the staff responsible for supervision in these alternative settings."

h. Principal response. "During the 24-25 school year, the Zen Zone was staffed by the Zen Zone Supervisor who is typically a building substitute. During the 24-25 school year, the Student Center was staffed by a school counselor and an administrative assistant. Other staff may also supervise these settings due to unforeseen circumstances such as staff absences."

i. Parent request. "All documentation or communication logs regarding alleged dress code violations, as well as records of any instances where [the student] was reportedly in the hallways or walking during class."

j. Principal response. "Office staff maintain a 'dress code log' to record dress code violations that require clothing to be brought to school or clothing to be changed in order to achieve conformity with school policy. For the 2024-25 school year, [the student] did not have dress code violations that warranted being recorded in the log; rather, [the student's] dress code violations in 2024-25 involved conditions, such as an open zipper or a shirt tied up to reveal [their] midriff, that could be remedied without a change of clothes. [The science teacher's] IEP Teacher Report Page indicated [the student] 'often has to speak with administrators and/or office staff about dress code violations, and is often in the hallway or walking into other classrooms during class.' In these instances, these conversations were regarding minor dress code violations that were corrected immediately. Because of this, there was no need for documentation. Per [the student's] IEP, there are appropriate times [the student] is to be out of the classroom to be provided services (such as the Zen Zone, restroom, preferred adult, etc.). The Synergy Contact Log provided has several relevant entries regarding communication between the school and you regarding times [the student] was in the halls or walking during class (see attached). We are producing documents denominated '[Student] General_Ed_Student_Contact 24-25' and '[Student] Special_Ed_Student_Contact 24-25'. (school/parent communication).

5. In an email exchange between the principal, mediation/due process supervisor and investigator on September 11, 2025 the principal clarified that the appropriate records were shared with the parent in the July 29, 2025 email and included documents indicating where the student was in the building when marked absent.
6. The principal further stated in the September 11, 2025 email, "I did tell the parent that education records do not include 'staff notes or other documents in staff's possession'. I intended this as a reference to 'personal notes' and 'sole possession records' which I understand are generally not considered education records under FERPA. However, as I also said at that time, we didn't know whether any such records existed".

Conclusion

34 CFR §300.613(a)(b)(1) "Each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part. The agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing pursuant to § 300.507 or §§ 300.530 through 300.532, or resolution session pursuant to § 300.510, and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made."

It is noted that the parent's complaint included a FERPA citation as well as an IDEA citation. Although FERPA is not a special education law, IDEA adopts the definition of educational records from FERPA which states, 20 USC § 1232g(a)(4)(A)(i-ii), "For the purposes of this section, the term 'education records' means, except as may be provided otherwise in subparagraph (B), those records, files, documents, and other materials which— (i) contain information directly related to a student; and (ii) are maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a person acting for such agency or institution. Please note that some documents are not considered educational records and thereby not required to be shared with parents upon request as defined by FERPA 20 USC § 1232g(a)(4)(B)(i), "The term 'education records' does not include—(i) records of instructional, supervisory, and administrative personnel and educational personnel ancillary thereto which are in the sole possession of the maker thereof and which are not accessible or revealed to any other person except a substitute;"

In this case, the parent requested documents by email on June 16, 2025 and the district responded with educational records on July 29, 2025, which was 43 calendar days after the request, within the timeline required by IDEA. The information not yet shared by the district consists of individual teacher notes designed for personal use; these documents do not meet the definition of "educational records" in IDEA and thus sharing is not required.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the district did provide all of the educational records requested by the parent. The district is IN compliance and corrective actions are not required.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a complaint from the date in which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date in which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on August 13, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ends on September 12, 2025.

Evidence Reviewed

During the investigation, the Complaint Investigator, Gwen Beegle, reviewed all evidence and documentation that was provided by both the LEA and the Complainant. The Parent was contacted on August 16, 2025, to clarify the concerns and the issues of the complaint, and re-interviewed on September 12, 2025 upon the submission of a second complaint to KSDE. KSDE granted a 7-day extension to complete the investigative report with one additional issue (Issue Six).

Three persons were interviewed at the Parent's request: Kris Lyons (Friend, Kansas Child Care Training Opportunities) on August 22, 2025, Cristine Weixelman (the Student's Aunt) on August

19, 2024, and Shandi Schropp (the Student's IDD Waiver Case Manager) on August 20, 2025. Emails were exchanged between the Parent and the Complaint Investigator from August 15, 2025, to September 10, 2025. Follow up questions were sent via email to these persons, and replies were received on September 3, 2025, and September 8, 2025. Finally, when the additional complaint was included into this investigative report, the LEA was invited to respond, which it did on September 16, 2025. Background Information

The Student is described as a happy, social and interactive child, with a history of heart surgery as an infant and smaller than average size for his age, who uses assistive technology and some sign language to communicate. The IEP stated that the Student has Down Syndrome with global delays limiting the ability to fully participate in classroom activities. In the IEP dated May 7, 2024, the Student's needs included assistance to engage in play, pureed foods, and support for toileting. The Student has a history of significant health problems, including hyperthyroidism, a heart attack and pneumonia. Developmental delays established the Student's need for special education, including occupational, physical, and speech therapies.

At the time pertaining to this complaint, the Student was transitioning to Kindergarten at a Private School where the other children in the family attend. The Parent reported that at the time of the IEP meeting on May 7, 2024, no discussion of public-school attendance occurred. The Parent reported that the Student's IEP was written for full time support and therapies to occur at the Private school, and the Parent received a notice from the LEA on Friday afternoon, August 9, 2024, that the occupational and physical therapies would be provided at a nearby elementary school rather than the Private school. In response, the Parent contacted the LEA that day and the following Monday, August 12, 2024 to question and clarify the meaning of the LEA's email as it pertained to the Student's IEP services and to request an IEP Meeting. The 12-month period for investigation began August 13, 2024, and the Parent's complaint concerns the events that occurred at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year.

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: Did the LEA provide an opportunity for the parent to provide informed consent on the notice of meeting waiver dated August 14, 2024 for an IEP meeting on August 15, 2024? (p 6)
2. ISSUE TWO: Did the LEA provide appropriate notices of meetings? (p 9)
3. ISSUE THREE: Did the LEA afford parental participation by providing appropriate prior written notice? (p 12)
4. ISSUE FOUR: Did the LEA implement the student's IEP during the 2024-25 school year? (p 19)
5. ISSUE FIVE: Did the LEA respond to the parent's request for an IEP meeting after the meeting dated August 15, 2024 through September 30, 2024? (p.22)
6. ISSUE SIX (Additional Issue): Did the LEA consider the information brought forward by the parents during the IEP meetings on August 15, 2024 and September 3, 2024? (p. 26)

Issue One

Did the LEA provide an opportunity for the Parent to provide informed consent on the notice of meeting waiver dated August 14, 2024 for an IEP meeting on August 15, 2024?

Applicable Law

Federal/State statutes and regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.9 state "Consent means that (a) the parent has been fully informed of all information relevant to the activity for which consent is sought in his or her native language or through another mode of communication; (b) the parent understands and agrees in writing to the carrying out of the activity for which his or her consent is sought, and the consent describes the activity and lists the records (if any) that will be released." Further, while granting consent is voluntary and can be revoked, revocation is not retroactive in that it does not negate an action that has occurred after the consent was given and before the consent was revoked

The Parent alleged that while in the school drop off line on August 15, 2024, the Special Education Teacher asked her to sign the notice of meeting , stating that it was required in order to meet with the Special Education Teacher on August 15, 2025. The Parent stated that she did not know what she was signing and so she was unaware that the subsequent meeting on August 15, 2024 would be the entire team for an IEP meeting rather than what she expected, a meeting with the Special Education Teacher to share information about the Student for the upcoming school year. The Parent alleged that she understood that she had to sign the paper in order to meet with the Special Education Teacher.

The LEA responded: "USD 383 complied with all requirements under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act ("IDEA") and the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook. Pursuant to the Handbook, Chapter 4 (Parent and Student Participation), parents must receive written notice of an IEP team meeting early enough to ensure the opportunity to attend, but the law expressly permits the parent to waive the ten (10) calendar day notice requirement if the parent so chooses. On August 13, 2024, [the Special Education Teacher] met with [the Parents] in person and explicitly explained that if the IEP meeting was to occur the following day, they would need to waive the ten-day notice requirement. Both parents verbally agreed, affirming their desire to convene the IEP team without delay. This conversation was documented by [the Special Education Teacher] in an email to [the Special Education Director] on August 19, 2024. On August 14, 2024, at 12:55 p.m., USD 383 provided [the Parent] an email with the formal Notice of Meeting along with the Procedural Safeguards. On August 15, 2024, prior to the IEP meeting, [the Parent] signed the Notice of Meeting, affirmatively waiving the ten-day notice requirement, and [the Special Education Teacher] again explained the purpose of the signature. This procedure satisfied all IDEA and Kansas Process Handbook requirements by providing the parents with informed consent."

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the individuals listed in Evidence.

In an email dated August 13, 2024 at 4:59 p.m., the Parent explained to the IDD Waiver Case Manager that she had contacted the LEA, stating, "[The Assistant Special Education Director] did call me this morning, to say they received my email and voice message. She told me that someone would contact me today about his para and no one has. School starts tomorrow [August 14, 2024]"

The LEA and the Parent agreed that the Father met briefly with the Special Education Teacher to organize a meeting. In a record of the timeline of events, the Parent reported that the Father met the Special Education Teacher at 8 a.m. on August 14, 2024, asked if the Special Education Teacher wanted to meet to review the Student's schedule and share things about the Student's needs, and confirmed to meet at 2:00 pm that afternoon. The Parent reported that the Special Education Teacher later asked to move the meeting to Thursday, because she was with the Student on August 14, 2024.

In an email to the Parent on August 14, 2024 at 9:19 a.m., the Special Education Teacher stated, "It was nice meeting you both this morning. I am still waiting on my supervisor to give me a time [when] available to meet for [the Student]'s IEP meeting. I will let you know when she gives me a day and time. Meanwhile, will [the Student] be at MCS all day, what will his daily schedule look like?" The Parent replied to this email on the same day, giving the Special Education Teacher the times when the Student would be attending an outside agency for therapy.

In an email dated August 14, 2024 at 12:55 p.m., the Special Education Teacher sent an email which stated that the Notice of Meeting for the (NOM) meeting was attached and later sent a second email asking if it had been received at 2:39 p.m. on the same day. There is no record of the Parent replying to this email.

The LEA and the Parent agreed that the Parents attended the meeting scheduled for 2:00 on August 15, 2024.

In an email dated August 16, 2024, the Parent requested a copy of the paperwork she signed the previous day. On August 19, 2024, the Parent wrote in an email to the Special Education Director, "The morning of the scheduled meeting with [the Special Education Teacher], I was given a legal document to sign [that] I did not understand what was presented or signed, nor did I receive a copy."

In an email to the Parent dated August 20, 2024 at 3:38 p.m., the Special Education attached a copy of the Notice of Meeting dated August 14, 2024 for a meeting on August 15, 2024, with the parent's signature, consenting to waive 10 day notice

Conclusion

In this case, the Parent anticipated that the Parents would meet with the Special Education Teacher to discuss the Student's services and schedule, and signed the Notice of Meeting with that understanding. It is understandable that the Parent felt rushed when signing the Notice of Meeting dated August 14, 2024. However, the LEA demonstrated that it had provided written and verbal explanation prior to asking for the signature to consent to waive of the 10 day notice for an IEP meeting, in modes typically used by the Parent to communicate with the School.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to provide the opportunity for the parent to provide informed consent on the Notice of Meeting dated August 14, 2024.

Issue Two

Did the LEA provide appropriate notices of meetings?

Applicable Law

Federal and state statutes and regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.322(a) and (b) and K.A.R. 91-49-25(b) require that that each public agency must take steps to ensure parental participation at each IEP meeting or afforded the opportunity to participate by notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure they have the opportunity to attend and scheduling the meeting at a mutually convenient time. Information provided to the parent on the notice of meeting indicates the purpose, time, and location of the meeting and who will be in attendance; and inform the parents of the provisions in § 300.321(a)(6) and (c) (relating to the participation of other individuals on the IEP Team who have knowledge or special expertise about the child), if relevant.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleges that the Notice of Meeting dated August 14, 2024 for the August 15, 2024 meeting did not have an accurate statement regarding the purpose of the meeting, and that the Parents were blindsided by the LEA's action at the meeting, which was to remove all services from the Private School immediately. The Parent stressed that the Parents believed that the meeting was to share information with the Special Education Teacher about the child and to discuss transportation to and from related services at another location.

The LEA responded, "USD 383 provided all required notices consistent with the Kansas Process Handbook. For the August 15, 2024 IEP meeting, parents signed the Notice of Meeting and explicitly waived the ten-day notice requirement. For the September 3, 2024, IEP meeting, USD 383 issued and the parents signed a Notice of Meeting more than ten days prior to the meeting date. Thus, the LEA complied with its obligation to provide appropriate and timely notice."

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the individuals listed in Evidence.

The Notice of Meeting dated August 14, 2024 for an IEP meeting on August 15, 2024 at 2:00 at the Private School, under the heading "Meeting to Develop the IEP" stated: "As the parent of an exceptional child, you are entitled to a 10-day prior written notice of any meeting to discuss the needs of your child and develop an Individualized education program (IEP). You may consent to hold the meeting with less than 10-days written notice." Below this statement, "Other" was checked, and "Related Services" was written beside "Other."

Invited participants were listed by role: a general education teacher, a special education teacher or special education provider, a school representative, a person who can interpret instructional implications of evaluation results, along with the Special Education Director, and the Assistant Special Education Director.

According to the LEA's report, participants at the meeting included the Parents, the Special Education Director (LEA), the Private School Principal (General Education Teacher), the Special Education Teacher, the Physical Therapist, the Speech Language Pathologist, the Occupational Therapist, the Special Education Coordinator and the Assistant Director of Special Education.

The LEA and the Parent agree that the Parent signed the Notice of Meeting and checked the box by the waiver of the 10-day notice, dated August 15, 2024. The LEA and the Parent agree that the Parent attended the IEP meeting on August 15, 2024.

The LEA provided a Notice of Meeting August 23, 2024 for an IEP meeting dated September 3, 2024, at 2:00 at the Private School with acknowledging signature by the Parent. Under the heading "Meeting to Develop the IEP" the item "Discuss possible changes to your child's IEP" was checked.

Participants were listed by role: a general education teacher of your child, a special education teacher of your child or special education provider of your child, a school representative, a person who can interpret instructional implications of evaluation results, the Special Education Director, the Special Education Coordinator, and the Assistant Special Education Director.

According to staffing notes, the participants at the September 3, 2024 meeting were: the Parents, the Special Education Director, the Special Education Coordinator, and the Assistant Special Education Director, the Special Education Teacher, Occupational Therapist, Physical Therapist, Speech Language Pathologist, the Student's Aunt, General Education Teacher, Families Together Representative, Case Manager, and School Social Worker. Personal handwritten notes taken by the Student's Aunt showed an additional individual attended as a friend of the family.

Conclusion

In this case, the parent alleged that the LEA knew, or should have known, that the purpose of the August 15, 2024, meeting changed to remove all services from the Private School and that the LEA did not accurately inform the Parent of the meeting's purpose. The parent attended the meeting, waiving the 10-day notice in good faith, anticipating that the meeting would pertain to the transportation needs of the child given the August 9, 2024, email and the purpose statement included in the Notice of Meeting ("Related Services"). The meeting had substantial and immediate implications for the child and family when the LEA presented the August 15, 2024 "ready willing and able" statement to remove all the Student's services from the Private School and the Parents were required to decide immediately to accept or refuse services at the Public School.

The Notice of Meeting requirement in 34 C.F.R.300.322 requires the LEA to provide notice of the "purpose" of the meeting and does not specify any other criteria as to what the purpose must include. This requires districts to provide a general statement of the purposes of the meeting, not a detailed statement, and the LEA's notice sufficiently indicates a general purpose of the meeting.

It is noted and regrettable that the LEA did not provide more information to the Parents prior to an important IEP meeting. However, there is no violation. Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD 383 failed to give appropriate notice of meeting in this instance.

Issue Three

Did the LEA afford parental participation by providing appropriate prior written notice?

Applicable Law

Federal statute and regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) and (b) requires that written notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency proposes or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE; the content of the notice must include a description of the action proposed or refused, an explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action, a description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action, a statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under procedural safeguards and the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained, sources for the parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding, a description of other options that the IEP team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected, and a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the LEA did not provide prior written notice of its actions when the LEA changed the Student's services from the Private School to the Public School immediately on the second day of school. The Parent alleged that the LEA's communication regarding its actions prevented effective parental participation in the IEP process at two meetings occurring at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year.

The LEA responded: "USD 383 provided Prior Written Notice ("PWN") as required by 34 C.F.R. § 300.503 and the Kansas Process Handbook. For the August 15, 2024, IEP meeting, the parents checked the box acknowledging their waiver of the ten-day notice, and email documentation further confirms their agreement. For the September 3, 2024 meeting, the Notice of Meeting was issued with more than ten days' notice. The LEA also continued to maintain communication with the family beyond these meetings. Documentation includes: The August 15, 2024, signed notice of meeting with the 10-day notice waived. The September 3, 2024, Notice of Meeting, signed and confirmed by email. . . . Additionally, the LEA provided a PWN and amendment approving transportation services so the student could be transported to a public school site, and sent the required "Ready, Willing, and Able" letter to the parents . . . These actions reflect the LEA's consistent commitment to ensuring meaningful parental participation."

The findings of Issue One and Issue Two are incorporated herein by reference.

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the individuals listed in Evidence.

The Student's IEP being discussed in this complaint was created by the IEP team that met on May 7, 2024 to plan for the Student's transition to kindergarten during the 2024-25 school year. According to that IEP, the services to be in place, beginning August 14, 2024 through May 6, 2025 were:

1) Attendant care - special education direct service in a general education setting (daily, 40 minutes)
2) Nursing services - indirect (10 minutes, weekly)
3) Special education services - special education direct services in general education classroom (305 minutes, two days a week)
4) Special education services - special education direct services in general education classroom (310 minutes, three days a week)
5) Special education services - special education direct services outside general education settings (60 minutes, daily)
6) Occupational therapy - special education direct service outside general education setting (25 minutes, one day per week)
7) Physical therapy - special education direct service outside general education setting (25 minutes, one day per week)
8) Physical therapy - indirect (15 minutes, monthly)
9) Speech language therapy - special education direct service outside general education setting (20 minutes, two times a week).
10) Speech language therapy - special education direct service in general education setting (20 minutes, one time a week).
11) Teacher consultation (10 minutes, one day per week)

In addition, the IEP dated May 7, 2024 included accommodations and supplementary aids and services to be provided: adequate response time, preferential seating, repeated review and drill, positive / concrete reinforcers, and visual supports.

The LEA and the Parent agree that two IEP meetings were held on August 15, 2024 and on September 3, 2024 and that the location of services was a topic at each meeting.

When asked to provide notes of the August 15, 2024 IEP meeting to the Invesigator, the LEA provided an email to the Parents dated August 20, 2024 at 3:09 p.m., which the LEA stated served as staffing notes. The LEA's notes include four points regarding the IEP meeting on August 15, 2024: (a) the attendees at the meeting, (b) the Student's services would be provided at the Public School, (c) the Student's services as listed in the IEP dated May 7, 2024 would not be changed by the LEA but transportation to the Public School would be added, and (d) the LEA was ready willing and able to implement the IEP at the Public School.

In an email dated August 20, 2024, asking for assistance, the Parent forwarded these notes to Families Together and added that the details were incorrect because the discussion stated that the Student would be in the Life Skills Program at the Public School.

In an excerpt from an email to the Special Education Director on August 19, 2024 at 7:47 a.m., the Parent requested an IEP meeting and requested alternative OT and PT services to be delivered to the Private School, specifically

". . . we make the following requests: 1) OT – Peer classroom modeling in the classroom, least restrictive environment to assist [the Student] most appropriate during daily activities, 2) PT – Direct during PE/Recess with the PE teacher and recess supervisor in the least Restrictive Environment during the most active part of the day with his peers. Alternatively, instead of losing valuable instruction time while being transported to & from on the bus, we'd prefer: 3) OT - we would like to have a consult with the classroom teacher to communicate the most appropriate ways to assist [the Student] within the classroom daily during learning activities alongside his peers, 4) PT- For an Indirect Service consultation to the PE/Recess with the PE teacher and Recess supervisor providing alternative equipment or modifications to accommodate [the Student]'s needs. Either way, we believe these changes would require IEP amendments prior to agreeing to or signing any such amendments we are requesting"

On August 20, 2024 at 3:09 p.m., the Special Education Director sent an email to the Parents acknowledging the request for a meeting, recounting a timeline of events relating to scheduling the August 15, 2024 meeting, and stating,

"We are not proposing to change current services on [the Student]'s current IEP. Based on the need outlined in his IEP (305 minutes two days per week, 310 minutes three days per week for daily living and social skills, recess, and academic support from a paraeducator, occupational therapy, physical therapy, speech language therapy, attendant care, and school nursing services). USD 383 will provide transportation to [the Public School] where all of these services can be accessed. We have received your request for an IEP team meeting. . . . Until we can schedule an IEP team meeting, USD 383 is ready, willing, and able to serve [the Student"s IEP as written at [the Public School]."

The LEA provided a PWN dated August 23, 2024 along with a proposed IEP amendment to add transportation services to the Public School to the Student's IEP.

The Investigator interviewed and surveyed four District employees, interviewed three persons suggested by the Parent, reviewed two sets of meeting notes, and read subsequent emailed conversations to ascertain the content of the IEP meeting on September 3, 2024.

- The Parent and the LEA agree that information about the proposed Public School program and transportation was requested and the LEA subsequently emailed information in response to the Parent's questions.
- The LEA supplied staffing notes and summarized the meeting topics: "the discussion focused exclusively on logistical matters related to potential placement at [Public] School. Topics included the structure of the classroom, bus transportation times, kindergarten information, and the amount of resource time available. No changes to the IEP itself or requests for different services were raised."
- Interviewees and the Parent added that the following topics were discussed at the September 3, 2024 meeting: para support, least restrictive environment concerns, the Student's safety, the Student's home school, and the LEA's declination to allow the Parents to personally view the proposed Public School classrooms or to identify the proposed teacher. Personal handwritten notes taken by the Student's Aunt at the September 3, 2024 meeting also included the following topics: student safety, transportation, the nature of the proposed Public School program including class sizes, age limit of students in Life Skills, questions regarding service provision options, concern about negative effect on the Student and the Student's progress due to the move, and speech language therapy offered at the Private School.
- Personal handwritten notes taken by the Student's Aunt at the September 3, 2024 meeting show that the Parent asked if it was possible to amend the IEP for speech language and para services to be maintained at the Private School and move only the OT and PT services, and the LEA refused without a new evaluation. A participant invited by the parent asked if the Student's services could be provided at the Student's home school, and the LEA stated that the decision had to be an IEP team decision based on data and that the present IEP team had no authority to make that decision. The Parent asked if it had been a unilateral decision to move the Student's services by the LEA without consultation of Parents or Private School. The Parent asked how the decision to move the Student's services was made.
- The personal handwritten notes taken by the Student's Aunt at the IEP meeting dated September 3, 2024 state: "Does the IEP need to be re-written to include SLP at [the Private School? Is it possible to edit the IEP to do SPL and para and do at [the Private School] [without] OT/PT if para was hired/paid by [the Private School?] [Special Education Director's initials] Would need evaluation." In an interview, the Assistant Special Education Director stated that to change the IEP to such a degree would require more information such as an evaluation and an additional team meeting after collecting data.

- The LEA's staffing notes for the September 3, 2024, meeting stated that the Student's home school "case loads are full" and the student would be bussed to the Public School; later, the same notes stated that the home school "could be taken into consideration." According to the personal handwritten notes taken by the Student's Aunt, the LEA stated that the student's home school may be considered and that Speech Language Therapy may be provided at the Private School.
- The LEA's staffing notes for the September 3, 2024 meeting stated: "Mom: how do we accommodate for [the Student] to attend [the Private School]? How can we have a true conversation for what is best for [the Student]? The IEP that was written last school year is for what services [the Student] needs."

The Parent and the LEA agree that Speech Language Therapy was provided at the Private school during the 2024-25 school year.

In an interview, the LEA reported that it provided PWN to add transportation only, stating that there was no change in the LEA's offer of FAPE and therefore no PWN was required for specific requests. Documentation supported that PWN was provided to add transportation to the Student's IEP dated May 7, 2024 through a proposed IEP amendment.

Conclusion

In this case, whether the LEA had the authority to offer the Student's IEP at the Public School is not questioned or investigated. Rather, this issue concerns whether the LEA was obliged to provide PWN based on the evidence available regarding the events of August and September, 2024.

Communication at the IEP meetings, as investigated now, was not clear among the parties. Prior written notice can be clarifying to the parties, and it is required when the LEA either proposes or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE. In this case, the LEA communicated its decision to provide the Student's IEP services at the Public School rather than the Private School through its "ready willing and able" letter dated August 15, 2024.

However, the Parent requested that the LEA's offer of FAPE be altered, documented in the investigation in at least three instances. First, in an email on August 19, 2024, after receiving the LEA's letter, the Parent specifically requested OT and PT services be changed and that these changes be discussed at the upcoming meeting. The LEA received the email and responded to other elements of this email by scheduling a meeting on September 3, 2024. Second, at that meeting, the Parent asked that some or all the Student's services be continued at the Private School. Third, the LEA agreed to provide the Student's speech language therapy at the Private School rather than at the Public school.

When the Parents attended the September 3, 2024 IEP meeting and requested changes to the IEP, the LEA IEP team denied this request, thereby maintaining their previous offer of FAPE through the "ready willing and able" letter dated August 15, 2024. Although the LEA maintained its offer of FAPE, it did so by refusing to make the changes being requested by the Parents. At that point, the LEA was required to give the Parents written notice of that refusal and an explanation of why it was refusing the parents requests, with a PWN. Further, the LEA altered its own offer of FAPE at the Public School by providing the Speech Language services at the Private School during the 2024-25 school year and failed to provide PWN to allow the parent to accept this service while refusing the other services, in this case due to the location determined by the LEA.

Therefore, it is found that the LEA was required by 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) and (b) to provide a PWN to refuse the change proposed by the Parent. The LEA's "ready willing and able letter" does not relieve the LEA of the requirement to provide PWN when the parent asks for a change to the IEP or there is an alteration of the IEP services offered by the LEA.

Based on the foregoing, it is substantiated that USD 383 failed to provide proper prior written notice.

Issue Four

Did the LEA implement the student's IEP during the 2024-25 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. Each special education service on the IEP is required to be accompanied by the projected date for the beginning of the service and the anticipated frequency, location, and duration of the service (34 C.F.R. § 300.320(a)(7)).

According to K.S.A. 72-3462: "Every school district shall provide special education services for exceptional children who reside in the school district and attend a private, nonprofit elementary or secondary school, whether such school is located within or outside the school district upon request of a parent or guardian of any such child for the provision of such services. . . . Special education services, which are provided under this section for exceptional children who attend a private, nonprofit elementary or secondary school which is located in the school district may be provided in the private, nonprofit elementary or secondary school or in the public schools of the school district. The site for the provision of special education services under this section for an exceptional child shall be determined by the school district in consultation with the parent or guardian of the child and with officials of the private, nonprofit elementary or secondary school," subject to requirements specified in the statute.

The (Kansas Special Education Process Handbook (p. 217) explains: "The state law relating to children voluntarily enrolled in private schools by their parents significantly adds to federal requirements. State law requires that when a parent requests services, the school district of residence will make available all services and will provide any or all of the special education and related services that are identified by an IEP team for any child with an exceptionality, to which the parent provides consent. . . Parents may refuse to accept some or all of the offered services. In this case, the public school should have documentation that the parents refused to accept some or all of the services recommended by the IEP team. One way this could be documented is by providing Prior Written Notice for all of the services identified on the IEP and the parent would consent to only the services they are accepting"

According to KAR 91-40-27 (h), "An agency shall not use a parent's refusal to consent to an activity or service to deny the parent or child other activities or services offered by the agency."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleges that the LEA did not implement the Student's IEP services, specifically the Student's Speech Services, until the Parent notified them after the IEP meeting on September 3, 2024.

The LEA responded: "At the August 15, 2024, IEP meeting, the IEP team confirmed that all services would be provided at the public-school site, with transportation furnished by the LEA. A PWN and IEP amendment documenting this addition were provided to the parents."

Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One, Issue Two and Issue Three are incorporated herein by reference.

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the individuals listed in Evidence.

In a response dated September 3, 2025 to the Investigator's follow up questions, the LEA replied: "Under IDEA and the Kansas Process Handbook, districts must provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to students in public schools, but for parentally-placed private school students, the LEA is not required to replicate the full IEP in the private setting. Instead, services are made available in accordance with equitable services provisions (34 C.F.R. §§ 300.137- 300.138). In this case, the May 7, 2024, signed Prior Written Notice (PWN) and IEP authorized speech language services. Because the LEA had a speech-language pathologist on site at [the Private School] during the 2024-25 school year, the LEA lawfully continued providing that service at [the Private School]".

The Student's IEP dated May 7, 2024 included the following speech language services: "speech language therapy - special education direct service outside general education setting (20 minutes, two times a week) and speech language therapy - special education direct service in general education setting (20 minutes, one time a week)."

According to the personal handwritten notes of the IEP meeting dated September 3, 2024, the LEA stated that speech language services would be provided at the Private School. In an interview follow-up email, the LEA reported that it received an email notifying them that the Student was not receiving the speech language service at the Private School.

The LEA provided a log that showed that direct speech language services in a special education setting were provided to the Student beginning September 19, 2024, two times a week, through the 2024-25 school year.

No PWN was offered by the LEA regarding speech language services offered at the Private School, as found in Issue Three.

Conclusion

In this case, the LEA agreed to provide the student's speech language service at the Private School as of September 3, 2024, and those services began on September 19, 2024. While no PWN exists to clearly delineate the specific services and the beginning and ending date of those services, from the evidence provided, four, twenty-minute sessions were missed. Based on the foregoing, *it is substantiated t*hat USD383 failed to provide the Student's speech language services as required by the Student's IEP dated May 7, 2024 during the 2024-25 school year.

Issue Five

Did the LEA respond to the parent's request for an IEP meeting after the meeting dated August 15, 2024 through September 30, 2024?

Applicable Law

Federal and state statutes and regulations at CFR 300.324(b)(1)(ii)(C) and KSA 72-3429(f) require that the IEP team meets at least annually and that it revises the IEP as appropriate to respond to a parent's request for an IEP meeting to address a lack of progress, evaluation, the child's anticipated needs, information provided to or by the parents, or other matters. In Kansas, a reasonable time to respond to parental requests such as the request for an evaluation or for an IEP meeting is three weeks, or 15 school days.

The Kansas Special Education Process Handbook (p. 88) states: "Although the school is responsible for determining when it is necessary to conduct an IEP meeting, the parents of a child with an exceptionality have the right to request an IEP meeting at any time. The child's teacher or other school staff may also propose an IEP meeting at any time they feel the IEP has become inappropriate for the child and revision should be considered (K.S.A. 72-3429(f))."

The Parent alleges that the Parent requested an IEP meeting to discuss the change to the location of the child's services, which the LEA responded to by scheduling a meeting on September 3, 2024. However at that meeting, the Parent alleges that the District repeatedly said that the meeting was not an IEP meeting but only a team meeting which was informational about the change of location. This obstructed the Parents' participation and advocacy for changes in the Student's IEP at the September 3, 2024 IEP meeting.

The LEA responded: "On August 23, 2024, the LEA confirmed via email a Notice of Meeting scheduling the requested IEP meeting. This meeting was held on September 3, 2024, with the parents and the full IEP team in attendance. The LEA therefore responded promptly and appropriately to the parental request within the relevant timeframe."

Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One, Issue Two, Issue Three and Issue Four are incorporated herein by reference.

The following findings are based upon a review of documentation and interviews with the individuals listed in Evidence.

In an excerpt from an email to the Special Education Director on August 19, 2024 at 7:47 a.m., the Parent stated,

"At the meeting as referenced on 8/15/2024 the entire team was not present. I understood this to be a meeting, by which I requested, with the Special Education teacher [Name omitted] to prepare for this academic semester. . . If [the Student's] IEP is not going to be followed as written, we need a new IEP prefaced with a full team meeting and the required notice."

In an email dated August 23, 2024 to the Parents, the Special Education Director stated,

"Attached to this email you will find an amendment to add transportation services to [the Student's] IEP as well as a prior written notice (PWN) for the addition of transportation services. We, of course, would be happy to sign these or discuss this addition in person at an IEP meeting as well. We received your request for an IEP team meeting. Without parents waiving the 10-day notice, we would be looking at September 3, 2024. Does this date work for you, [Parents names omitted], with the time being sometime in the afternoon? If not, we can look at the afternoon of September 5, 2024, as well. Until we can schedule an IEP team meeting, USD 383 is ready, willing, and able to serve [the Student's] IEP as written at [the Public School]."

The NOM dated August 23, 2024 for a meeting on September 3, 2024 was attached to an email from the Special Education Director to the Parents dated August 23, 2024 at 4:11 p.m. and the Parent replied affirming the time and date of the meeting.

Personal handwritten notes taken by the Student's Aunt at the September 3, 2024 IEP meeting showed that the Assistant Director stated that the participants were here to discuss the IEP but not make changes to the IEP, that the Director stated that they could discuss the addition of transportation only, and that the Director stated that "this isn't an IEP meeting, no decisions are being made." Interviewees stated that the LEA administrators attending the September 3, 2024 meeting stated that the meeting was not an IEP meeting. In an interview with the LEA administrators, the administrators stated that they conveyed that no changes to the IEP were being offered by the LEA at the September 3, 2024 meeting and that the meeting was intended by them to be informational about the LEA's offer to provide the Student's IEP services at the Public School.

Conclusion

In this issue, the LEA's communication with the Parent and others invited by the Parent to the IEP meeting conveyed a message that the meeting on September 3, 2024 was not an IEP meeting, although the written Notice of Meeting dated August 23, 2024 was for an IEP meeting on September 3, 2024. This confused the Parents and the parentally invited IEP participants, who were veteran IEP attendees. It is noted that the LEA administrators attempted to semantically differentiate the meaning of an IEP team meeting to clarify that the LEA's offer of FAPE was not being changed. However, the LEA assembled an IEP team, offered a notice of meeting for an IEP meeting and held a meeting at the predetermined time and place. Therefore, regardless of whether the offer of FAPE was changed by the LEA, based on the evidence in the written communication through emails and the NOM provided, the LEA received and responded to the Parent's request for an IEP meeting, and no violation occurred.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD 383 failed to respond to the Parent's request to schedule an IEP meeting.

Issue Six (Additional Issue)

Did the LEA consider the information brought forward by the parents during the IEP meetings on August 15, 2024 and September 3, 2024?

Applicable Law

Federal statute and regulation at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(1)(ii) require that in developing each child's IEP, the IEP Team must consider—The strengths of the child; the concerns of the parents for enhancing the education of their child; the results of the initial or most recent evaluation of the child; and the academic, developmental, and functional needs of the child.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The parent alleged that the LEA "did not meaningfully consider or document our parental concerns, which limited our participation in the IEP process and did not meet requirements under Kansas special education regulations and IDEA. Concern #1 - Consideration of Parent Concerns At the September 3, 2024 IEP meeting, we raised specific concerns regarding our child's educational placement, loss of instructional time due to transportation, and the need for paraeducator support. These concerns were not reflected in meeting notes or prior written notices, and no documentation was provided showing how they were considered by the IEP team. The process did not demonstrate a focus on what was most appropriate for our child. Violations: Kansas Special Education Handbook, Section 9.2 (parent participation); IDEA 34 CFR 300.322 (parent involvement in IEP meetings); IDEA 34 CFR 300.324(a)(1)(ii) (IEP team must consider the concerns of the parents)."

The LEA responded by reiterating its authority to offer the Student's IEP at the Public School, noting that it had provided it's "ready willing and able" letter to the parents, who declined to take up its offer and voluntarily placed the Student at the Private School. The LEA stated that due to the voluntary placement at the Private School, the LEA is not required to offer all the services on the IEP to the Student. The LEA responded that staffing notes are not legally required, and the notes taken at the meeting by the Student's Aunt had previously been provided for the complaint investigation. The District asserted that no parental requests were made at the meeting that required PWN, that the content of the meeting was fact finding.

The LEA opined that repeated complaints "does not impose upon the district an obligation to alter its legally compliant practices or to extend services beyond what the law requires. The district has already offered FAPE in the least restrictive environment (LRE) as evidenced by: -The Prior Written Notice (Kansas Process Handbook, Ch. 3, § C), which proposed an additional service, transportation, the parents refused to sign. -The Ready, Willing, and Able letter provided on August 15, 2024 (Kansas Process Handbook, Ch. 14, § A), documenting the district's ongoing readiness to implement the IEP in the public setting; and -The district's consistent efforts to provide services in good faith within the limits permitted by IDEA and Kansas law, despite the parents' refusal to consent to or accept those services. The parents' decision to reject those lawful offers does not create additional obligations on the district (34 C.F.R. §§ 300.137–300.138)."

The findings of Issue One, Issue Two, Issue Three, Issue Four and Issue Five are incorporated herein by reference.

In an email to the investigator, the parent reported that the following concerns had been raised at the August 15, 2024 and September 3, 2024 meetings: class size and attention to the Student's needs, the building size and transitions, the school schedule, siblings and peers in the same school, playground accessibility needed for the Student's health and size, and predictable routines, reduced transitions, and accessibility as offered by the Private School. The Parent reported that the LEA did not display an "openness to have a conversation" and the outcome of the meetings appeared to be predetermined "without regard for our concerns."

In an email to the parents dated September 6, 2024, the LEA provided the following information on the Public School program, describing this as information requested at the IEP meeting: class sizes and number of classes at the Public School, details on the offered transportation by bus for the Student, and the Public School class schedule.

In an interview, the Assistant Special Education Director stated that the communication with the Parents in the September 3, 2024 IEP meeting was like a "broken record" technique, to deliver the ready willing and able message repeatedly to the Parents who wanted services to continue at the Private School.

Conclusion

This issue, like the previous issues investigated, does not take up the question of the proper placement of the Student nor the authority of the LEA to offer the Student's IEP services at a Public School rather than the Private School. Instead, the question is whether, in providing its offer of FAPE at the Public School at two IEP meetings, the LEA considered the parental concerns in those discussions.

As the LEA responded, "fact finding" regarding the proposed Public School location occurred at the IEP meetings, according to the evidence. In this instance, the Parent believes that the concerns raised regarding the nature of the location and its suitability for the Student were not considered seriously by the LEA, when the LEA was delivering the conclusive message conveyed by its "ready willing and able" letter and statements at the IEP meetings.

In this case, the Parent was afforded the opportunity to attend and participate in the IEP meetings. Findings in Issue Four show that parental concerns were raised at the September 3, 2024 IEP meeting. The LEA's response shows that its communication focused on providing information about the Public School program and not on making any changes to the IEP or location of services. While this may have been perceived as failing to consider the Parents concern for the Student's health in the new location, this investigation cannot authoritatively state that the LEA was not in compliance when considering the parental concerns raised during the period of the investigation.

Therefore, it is found that the LEA is in compliance and no violation can be substantiated.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 383,
Manhattan Ogden Public Schools: 26FC383-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on August 15, 2025, by ------ on behalf of her child------. In the remainder of this decision, ------ will be referred to as "the parent," and ------ will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on September 19, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations with regard to Issue Three and Issue Four.

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the district's notice of appeal. The parent did not send a response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report concluded that a violation occurred with regard to two issues.

1. ISSUE THREE: Did the LEA afford parental participation by providing appropriate prior written notice? (p 12)

2. ISSUE FOUR: Did the LEA implement the student's IEP during the 2024-25 school year? (p 19)

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report for both issues.

1. ISSUE THREE: Did the LEA afford parental participation by providing appropriate prior written notice? (p 12)

In its appeal, the district asserts that a "Parents' refusal to sign the transportation amendment and to accept public-site services cannot convert the district's lawful offer into a violation" and "Any additional PWN obligation attached to parents' counter-requests (e.g., selective delivery at the private site) is, at most, a procedural question, not causally connected to a denial of FAPE where FAPE was available and declined."

The prior written notice "PWN" requirement is both procedural and substantive. The purpose of the PWN is to inform parents not only of decisions made by an IEP team or school administration but also to provide an explanation of why the decision was made and what data was used as a basis for the decision. That information is important in order to inform parents of information necessary to make informed decisions about how to proceed.

On the transportation issue, the investigator said there was no question that the district had the authority to offer services at the public school rather than the private school and so did not investigate that issue (Report, p. 19). The Appeal Committee agrees the district has the authority to offer services at the public school but disagrees that the district has no obligation to respond to a parent's request for reconsideration of the decision to provide services at the public school with a PWN. The Appeal Committee will not address this part of the investigator's decision only because it is not addressed in the complaint report and so may not be addressed on appeal.

The report correctly states that a PWN must be provided to parents before a public agency "proposes or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE (Report, p. 13)." FAPE is defined, in part, as the special education and related services in an IEP (see 34 C.F.R. 300.17). Importantly, this PWN requirement also arises whenever a district "refuses" a request involving the provision of FAPE (special education and related services in an IEP). The Appeal Committee finds nothing in chapter 14 of the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook indicating that this PWN requirement does not apply to how districts must respond to parent requests involving students attending a private school.

In her conclusion, on page 19 of the report, the investigator cites three examples where the district was required to provide a PWN and did not do so, as follows:

receiving the LEA's letter, the Parent specifically requested OT and PT services be changed and that these changes be discussed at the upcoming meeting. The LEA received the email and responded to other elements of this email by scheduling a meeting on September 3, 2024. Second, at that meeting, the Parent asked that some or all the Student's services be continued at the Private School. Third, the LEA agreed to provide the Student's speech language therapy at the Private School rather than at the Public school.

When the Parents attended the September 3, 2024 IEP meeting and requested changes to the IEP, the IEP team denied these requests, thereby maintaining their previous offer of FAPE through the "ready willing and able" letter dated August 15, 2024. Although the LEA maintained its offer of FAPE, it did so by refusing to make the changes being requested by the Parents. At that point, the LEA was required to give the Parents written notice of that refusal and an explanation of why it was refusing the parents requests and a description of the data that supported the refusal, with a PWN. Further, the LEA altered its own offer of FAPE at the Public School by providing the Speech Language services at the Private School during the 2024-25 school year and failed to provide PWN to allow the parent to accept this service while refusing the other services, in this case due to the location determined by the LEA.

The Appeal Committee agrees with these conclusions. A "ready, willing and able" letter has merit and can be an effective method to inform a parent who has rejected services in an IEP when those services remain available. A "ready, willing and able letter is not sufficient when it is the opposite situation, where it is the district that is rejecting services or other proposals that are being requested by a parent.

As for the district's argument on appeal that the failure to provide a PWN was "at most technical and harmless," the Appeal Committee recognizes that courts have held that a failure to provide a PWN can be harmless if it does not "result in a loss of educational opportunity or significantly restrict parental participation (See, K.D. v. Dept. of Education Hawaii, 665 F.3d 1110 (9th Cir. 2011). This is a narrow exception to an important right of parents of a child with a disability. The Appeal Committee finds that the exception does not apply to the facts of this case. In this case, the parents requested that OT and PT services be changed and that services be continued at the private school. The district held an IEP meeting on September 3, 2024 and denied these requests without providing written notice explaining why the requests were denied, what information provided the basis for the denial, what other options were considered, or what procedural safeguards were available. This is not a situation where a district delivered a defective PWN. Rather, the district delivered no written notice or explanation for its decision to deny the parent's requests.

Instead, the district relied on a "ready, willing and able letter" that also failed to provide this required information. Even after receiving the complaint investigator's cogent analysis the district continues to argue on appeal that the Kansas Special Education Handbook "explicitly directs districts to inform families that the district stands ready, willing and able to provide FAPE." As stated earlier in this decision, a Ready, Willing and Able letter can be an effective method to inform a parent who has rejected services in an IEP that those services remain available, but a Ready, Willing and Able letter is not sufficient when it is the opposite situation, where it is the district that is rejecting additional services that are being requested by a parent. Nothing in the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook can reasonably be interpreted otherwise. This basic misunderstanding of the PWN requirement, along with the failure to provide a PWN when required, constitutes a significant restriction of the parent's right to participate in the IEP process and requires corrective action.

The decision of the investigator on this issue is affirmed.

2. ISSUE FOUR: Did the LEA implement the student's IEP during the 2024-25 school year? (p 19)

The investigator found that the evidence substantiated that the student missed four twenty-minute sessions of speech-language services. The investigator found:

> According to the personal handwritten notes of the IEP meeting dated September 3, 2024, the LEA stated that speech language services would be provided at the Private School. In an interview follow-up email, the LEA reported that it received an email notifying them that the Student was not receiving the speech language service at the Private School.
> The LEA provided a log that showed that direct speech language services in a special education setting were provided to the Student beginning September 19, 2024, two times a week, through the 2024-25 school year.

The district argues on appeal that; "the brief gap identified in the report (four sessions between 8/14 and 9/19) did not impede progress." The Appeal Committee agrees that this gap in services was brief, especially considering that this complaint was filed on August 13, 2025, almost a year after the gap in services occurred. Over the span of one school year, these four 20-minute sessions totaled one hour and twenty minutes of missed speech services.

The Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP), is the office in the United States Department of Education that writes the federal special education regulations. For that reason, its guidance on federal special education law is highly persuasive. In Letter to Clarke, 48 IDELR 77 (OSEP 2007), OSEP said the law does not directly address the issue of missed services. Nevertheless, OSEP provided guidance specific to missed services, as follows:

Whether a missed service needs to be made up is a matter of FAPE and must be addressed on a case by case basis with emphasis on the impact of the missed service on the child's ability to continue to progress and meet the annual goals in the IEP.

Accordingly, to find a violation of law for missed services, there must be some analysis of the impact of the missed services on a child's progress in the general curriculum and progress toward meeting annual IEP goals. That analysis is missing in this report. Without that analysis, and taking into account the small amount of services missed over the past year, the Appeal Committee finds that the investigator's conclusion on this issue should be and is, reversed.

The three corrective actions on pages 29 and 30 of the report, including a written statement of assurance, compensatory speech services and review of district policies on implementing services to exceptional children attending a private school are removed. The corrective actions required for issue 3 remain in force.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained with regard to Issue 3 and reversed with regard to Issue 4.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 9th day of October, 2025.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #512
ON SEPTEMBER 2, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: SEPTEMBER 30, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education on behalf of four students with disabilities enrolled at Mill Creek Elementary School in USD #512 during the 2025-26 school year. The complaint was made by ----- who was the special education teacher of the four students. In the remainder of the report ----- will be referred to as the "complainant".

This is a systemic complaint since it involves multiple students. It is noted that the complainant is not the parent or legal guardian of any of these students and is no longer employed as the special education teacher for any of these students. For these reasons, the complainant will be informed when this investigation is completed but will not be provided a copy of the report.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student."

In this case, the complaint is against USD #512 (Shawnee Mission Public Schools) which employs its own staff to meet the requirements of the IDEA. In the remainder of the report, this responsible public agency will be referred to as "the local education agency (LEA)".

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 60-day timeline to investigate a complaint and allow for an appeal process from the date on which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on September 2, 2025 and assigned the case for investigation on September 3, 2025.

Evidence Reviewed

Both parties were contacted via telephone during the investigation to gather and clarify information. The complainant was interviewed by telephone on September 22, 2025. The Associate Superintendent of Special Education for USD #512, Sherry Dumolein, was also interviewed by telephone on September 22, 2025.

The LEA and the complainant provided the following written documentation which was used in consideration of the issue:

1. Formal Complaint Request Form dated September 2, 2025 written by the complainant
2. LEA Response to the Allegation dated September 10, 2025 written by the Associate Superintendent of Special Education for USD #512
3. The Kansas Department of Education 2025-26 Licensed Personnel Guide
4. Copy of the Kansas Board of Education Teaching License for the complainant
5. The Kansas Special Education Reimbursement Guide for State Categorical Aid (revised 6/2/25)
6. Personnel Categorical Aid (PCA) Current Payment Report for the complainant dated September 5, 2025
7. Student 1 IEP dated March 28, 2025
8. Student 2 IEP dated October 10, 2024 and amended on May 19, 2025
9. Student 3 IEP dated September 27, 2024 and amended on March 7, 2025
10. Student 4 IEP dated October 1, 2024 and amended on April 18, 2025
11. Copy of the complainant's daily teacher schedule for the 2025-26 school year
12. Email dated September 22, 2025 written by Bert Moore, Director of Special Education and Title Services (SETS) for the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) to the Investigator
13. LEA response to clarification questions dated September 25, 2025written by the Associate Superintendent of Special Education for USD #512

Background Information

The complainant was employed by USD #512 to provide special education services for students with IEPs enrolled at Mill Creek Elementary School during the 2025-26 school year. The complainant provided direct specialized instruction to a total of 12 students who had IEPs in kindergarten through sixth grade between August 11 and August 15, 2025. The complainant and LEA both acknowledge that the complainant is no longer an employee of the district.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint, one issue was identified and investigated.

Issue One

USD 512, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to employ a qualified special education teacher to provide special education instruction to four students with significant disabilities taught by the complainant at Mill Creek Elementary School during the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.156(a) require that each state education authority (SEA) must establish and maintain qualifications to ensure that personnel necessary to provide special education services are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained, including that those personnel have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with disabilities.

State regulations at K.A.R. 91-31-34 describe the requirements for LEAs to follow in order to provide appropriately qualified staff for teaching assignments in Kansas school districts as follows:

1. Each education system shall employ persons who hold licenses or certificates with specific endorsements for the positions held
2. If a teacher holding an appropriate license or certificate is not available, the education system shall use a teacher holding a valid Kansas teacher license or certificate at any level or in any field or subject for not more than 140 days in the same assignment.
3. If a teacher holding a valid Kansas teacher license or certificate is not available, the education system will use a substitute teacher holding a valid Kansas substitute teacher license or certificate for no more than 90 days in the same assignment.
4. If a substitute teacher holding a valid Kansas substitute teacher license is not available, the education system will use a person who holds a baccalaureate degree and an emergency substitute teaching license or certificate for no more than 45 days in the same assignment.
5. If a person holding a baccalaureate degree and an emergency substitute teaching license is not available, the education system shall use a person who has been licensed or certified by the state board as an emergency substitute teacher for no more than 25 days in the same assignment or more than 75 days in semester.
6. If an education system documents that there is an insufficient supply of substitute teachers, the education system may appeal to the commissioner of education for authority to allow individuals holding an emergency substitute teaching license or certificate to continue to teach for an additional length of time. (Please refer to K.A.R. 91-31-34(b)(5)(B) and the explanation below in the Special Education Reimbursement Guide).

The 2025-26 Special Education Reimbursement Guide for State Categorical Aid describes the requirements for school districts to receive reimbursement for providing special education services to students with disabilities. This documents uses the following definitions for “qualified personnel”, “special education teacher”, “High Incidence”, and “Low Incidence”:

- Personnel: "personnel who have met SEA-approved or SEA-recognized certification, licensing, registration, or other comparable requirements that apply to the area in which the individuals are providing special education or related services" (based on C.F.R. 34 CFR 300.23).

- Qualified: "qualified means being certified, licensed, registered or otherwise authorized by the state to render services in a particular profession or occupation" (based on KAR 91-40-1(zz))
- Special teacher: "a person, employed by or under contract with a school district or a state institution to provide special education or related services, who is: (1) Qualified to provide special education or related services to exceptional children as determined pursuant to standards established by the state board (based on K.S.A. 72-3404(j))
- High Incidence (BD/IR/LD): Teachers of students with a range of mild-moderate disabilities that impact learning who are able to participate in general education curriculum with additional support.
- Low Incidence (ID/SM): Teachers of students with significant intellectual disability and students with multiple disabilities who are less able to participate in general education curriculum.

Appendix B: KSDE Special Education Teacher Endorsements for Reimbursement includes a chart showing that teachers holding a Kansas Teaching License with a High incidence Endorsement are appropriately certificated to teach students with high incidence disabilities in the following areas: Integration Specialist (IS), Personnel Development (PD), Interrelated (IR), Learning Disability (LD), and Early Childhood Special Education (EC).

An email dated September 22, 2025 written by Bert Moore, Director of Special Education and Title Services (SETS) for the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) provided guidance to differentiate the teacher licensure requirements to teach and appropriately meet the unique needs of students with high and low incidence disabilities by stating:

> It is the teacher's license that is in question regardless of how the district lists the classroom. Some Interrelated Resource Rooms have a teacher licensed as high incidence and holds a low incidence license too. Most Interrelated Resource Rooms are composed of "high incidence" students such as learning disabled, emotionally disabled, other health impaired and indicates that the teacher is primarily working on grade level content with students that are expected to have access to the general education curriculum for the majority of the school day, whether in a resource room and/or general education environments / classrooms.
> Low incidence disabilities require more functional support for daily living skills, social and communication interaction, access to a curriculum that is grade level but often adapted or modified based on the level of the child's disability such as Intellectual Disability, Multiple Disabilities, or severe Autism. By the way, not all low incidence students are selected to take the Dynamic Learning Maps (DLM) which is a modified grade level assessment using the Essential Elements curriculum, and it is reserved for the "most significantly cognitive disabled students." The federal government requires that statewide, no more than 1% of students with the most significant cognitive disabilities take the DLM for ELA, Math, and/or Science.

KSDE licensure requires any student with significant low incidence disabilities to be taught by a teacher holding a "low incidence" license. Students that participate in the general education grade level curriculum appropriate for the child's age are taught by high incidence licensed teachers.

Someone with a low incidence license needs to be a member of the IEP team if a district is not using a low incidence licensed teacher to lead a child's IEP if the student is identified with a low incidence disabling condition. The bottom line is that the student's special education supports and services need to be designed by a teacher holding a low incidence license. Due to teacher shortages, some agencies assign an appropriately licensed itinerant teacher to be a team member for any student needing low incidence supports and services. A high incidence teacher could be implementing that IEP if mentored by the low incidence licensed teacher.

It is complicated, pure and simple but we want to ensure that students with disabilities are receiving appropriate services designed by a properly licensed teacher who regularly monitors the student's IEP from initial evaluation, to developing an IEP, implementation of the IEP, and progress monitoring of goals/objectives.

There are currently NO low incidence programs being offered in Kansas; however, Fort Hays State plans to implement a program soon . . .

I would ask the agency these questions:

- How do you ensure that a low incidence licensed teacher is a member of the IEP team or staffing team?
- If yes, how does this individual assist in the development of the low incidence child's IEP?
- Does this individual assist in ensuring that progress monitoring is taking place at required intervals, including recommending any changes to a child's IEP based on changes in the student's present level of performance?
- If a low incidence teacher is not employed by your agency, where can you locate a properly licensed low incidence teacher, licensed with a "Low Incidence" teaching license at this student's grade level, to assist in the development of special education supports and services for this low incidence student? [Footnote: The agency could find someone by contacting the regional Service Center, or Special Education program at a local or regional College/University? Also, could work with the Kansas Association of Special Education Administrators (KASEA) to solicit a properly licensed consultant.]

With the number of teacher vacancies in Kansas for appropriately licensed special education teachers, the agency needs to show evidence that they are trying to find a properly low incidence licensed teacher to support this child's low incidence needs. ALL students with disabilities should be "included" in grade level activities. Inclusion alone does not circumvent appropriate licensure.

The complainant reported that she holds a Master's degree in Special Education and was issued a Kansas teaching license with a high incidence endorsement. The complainant indicated that she has taught special education for five years through a program for paraeducators to become licensed special education teachers and was hired as a special education teacher by USD #512 to teach a resource classroom of students with high incidence disabilities. However, USD #512 assigned and expected her to work with students with low incidence disabilities even though she was not qualified to teach this type of student. The complainant stated,

> The students on my caseload and others that I would work with had significant intellectual disabilities, severe autism, and adaptive needs. For example – 2 students were non-verbal, 1 student had toileting needs (4th grade). I am not trained or licensed to work with low-incidence students.

The complainant believes this situation is unfair to all the students she is expected to teach because the time needed to meet the needs of students with low incidence disabilities significantly impacts the time she is able to devote to providing the direct instruction that the students with high incidence disabilities need and deserve.

Documentation provided by both the LEA and the complainant show the complainant was issued a Kansas Teaching License with a High-Incidence Special Education Endorsement for students in grades kindergarten – 6th grade on May 16, 2023 with an expiration date of October 31, 2028.

The LEA indicated that the complainant was assigned to Mill Creek Elementary School as a special education teacher with a caseload that included students with a range of exceptionalities whose IEP teams had determined would receive special education in both the general education and special education settings.

The LEA reported and the complainant confirmed she participated in training provided by USD #512 prior to the beginning of the 2025-26 school year. This training included the special education boot camp, a two-day professional development series offered to all new certified special education staff within USD #512, in July 2025. The complainant reported this training focused on the IEP process and IEP system used by the LEA.

The complainant also attended New Team Member Academy, the required training for all new certified employees in USD #512, on July 31, August 1, and August 4, 2025.

Between August 5th and 8th, the complainant, as well as all USD #512 staff, were provided with a combination of professional development opportunities and staff worktime. The complainant reported this training mostly focused on the district's new math curriculum.

The LEA reported that the complainant started working with students on August 11, 2025 and stopped reporting to work reporting to work on August 15, 2025, indicating that she did not believe her job duties would involve working with any students with low incidence disabilities. The Associate Superintendent of Special Education stated,

> Because [the complainant] breached her teaching contract, the SMSD [USD #512] Board of Education adopted a resolution of intent to terminate her contract due to job abandonment at its August 25th meeting . . .The Board voted on a final resolution to terminate [the complainant's] contract at its September 8th meeting.

The complainant reported there were four students on her caseload that she was inappropriately licensed to teach. However, the LEA reported that all four of the students assigned to the complainant were accessing grade-level standards within the general education setting with the use of modifications and accommodations. The LEA stated:

> The teacher was appropriately licensed and qualified to teach each of the students assigned to her and to implement the IEP for each of the students assigned to her. It is appropriate and in accordance with KSDE licensure requirements for a student requiring modified or alternative standards—but who continues to participate in grade-level curriculum—to receive instruction from a high-incidence certified special education teacher. High-incidence teachers are trained and licensed to support students with disabilities who access the general education curriculum, even when instruction must be adapted or modified. Their expertise lies in adjusting grade-level content, providing scaffolds, and ensuring students remain engaged with learning expectations, while collaborating with IEP teams to address additional individual needs.

Student 1- [xxxxxxx]: This student is enrolled in kindergarten and receives special education and related services under the exceptionality category of Developmental Delay. The March 28, 2025 IEP includes pre-academic goals related to letters, numbers, writing, and group participation and the student spends the majority of the school day in the general education classroom with same-grade peers receiving special education and related services support. This IEP describes the regular education participation and education placement as follows:

> As [Student 1] transitions to kindergarten for the 2025-26 school year, [Student 1] will receive 15 mins 2/wk [two times per week] speech language therapy in the general education classroom, and 15 mins 1/wk speech language therapy in a special education setting. The student will receive occupational therapy 15 min 1/wk in the general education classroom and 15 mins 1/wk in the special education setting. [Student 1] will receive physical therapy 15 mins 2/month in the special education setting. There will be physical therapy consultation once a month for 15 minutes. [Student 1] will receive specially designed instruction daily (5x/wk) for 250 minutes in the general education classroom and [Student 1] will be receiving 60 minutes of specially designed instruction in the special education setting to help with social emotional development and academic skills. [Student 1] will also receive 80 minutes 5/week of attendant care to help with lunch, bathroom, and recess.

Student 2 – [xxxxxxxx]: This student is enrolled in fourth grade and receives special education and related services under the exceptionality category of Intellectual Disability. The May 19, 2025 amendment to the October 10, 2024 IEP describes the student as exhibiting emerging skills in most academic areas. The Present Level of the IEP indicates the student confuses letter names and letter sounds, is able to write his name, recognizes numbers to 20, and uses a number line to do addition / subtraction problems. The classroom teacher reported the student learns best with one-to-one instruction with immediate feedback and redirection. The IEP calls for the student to participate in the state-wide alternate assessment designed for approximately 1% of Kansas students working to meet the essential elements of grade-level standards. The IEP reflects that the student spends more than three hours per day (1025 minutes per week) in the special education setting away from peers. This IEP describes the regular education participation and education placement as follows:

[Student 2] will receive the following services throughout the duration of the IEP: Occupational Therapy for 20 minutes 2 days per week in the resource room; Speech and Language Therapy 20 minutes 3 days per week in the resource room; Attendant care for 110 minutes 5 days per week in the general education setting for support in recess, lunch, and specials; Special Education services for 110 minutes 5 days per week in the general education setting to attend morning meeting and other academic areas with peers; Special Education services 185 minutes 5 days per week in the resource room to work on reading, writing, math, behavior, and pre-academic goals.

The team has considered [Student 2's] least restrictive environment throughout the school day. We considered providing all services in the general education classroom with supplementary aids and services but we rejected that due to data supported [Student 2] needs intensive instruction in the special education classroom. [Student 2's] curriculum is modified from the general education curriculum to better suit Student 2's educational and behavioral needs.

Student 3 – [xxxxxxx]: This student is enrolled in first grade and receives special education and related services under the exceptionality category of Developmental Delay. The March 7, 2025 amendment to the September 27, 2024 IEP notes the student has a medical diagnosis of Autism – level 3. The IEP indicates the student is working on emerging academic skills, communication, and participating appropriately in small and large group activities. She spends about two hours and twenty minutes per day in the special education setting away from her same-grade peers and about two hours and thirty minutes per day with special education instruction / support in the general education classroom. The Present Level of the IEP notes the student is working on recognizing or matching letters and numbers and can trace upper case letters. This IEP describes the regular education participation and education placement as follows:

[Student 3] will receive 125 minutes daily of attendant care during general education activities (Recess, Lunch, Specials). [Student 3] will receive 150 minutes 1x per week, 120 minutes 1x per week, and 130 minutes 3x per week, of direct special education services in the resource room to support [the] in progress towards IEP goals. [Student 3] will receive 145 minutes daily of special education collaboration support in the general education classroom. [Student 3] will receive two 20-minute speech sessions and one 30-minute occupational therapy session per week during time [Student 3] is in the special education resource room.

[Student 3] is away from the general education peers when receiving instruction within the special education setting as defined in [the] IEP. The IEP team prioritizes [Student 3] to be with [the] peers in general education, however, [Student 3] is requiring additional support beyond those available though general education in social/emotional communication, academics and occupational therapy at this time. Reteaching previous skills in these areas is required in smaller group setting, beyond the general classroom in order to progress in the general education curriculum.

Student 4 – [xxxxxxxx]: This student is enrolled in second grade and receives special education and related services under the exceptionality category of Autism. The April 18, 2025 amendment to the October 1, 2024 IEP notes the student's district-wide assessment score for English/Language Arts (ELA) falls at the 27th percentile and falls at the 34th percentile for Math with typical scores falling between the 25th and 74th percentiles. This IEP describes the regular education participation and education placement as follows:

[Student 4] will receive special education services in the resource room for 120 minutes three times per week and 100 minutes two times per week. [The student] will receive Attendant Care services 30 minutes daily during recess. In the general education setting, [the student] will receive 255 minutes of special education collab support daily. [Student 4] will receive direct speech language services in the special education setting for one 20-minute session weekly and in the general education setting for one 20-minute session weekly . . .

The Personnel Categorical Aid Current Payment Report for the complainant dated September 5, 2025 shows the complainant was listed as teaching an Interrelated (IR) resource special education classroom designed for students with High Incidence disabilities and matches the complainant's teaching licensure.

Conclusion

In this case, the complainant was hired as a special education teacher at Mill Creek Elementary School to teach students with a range of exceptionalities in both the special education and general education settings. The LEA considered and reported to KSDE that the complainant was teaching an interrelated (IR) resource special education classroom. The complainant holds a current Kansas Teaching License with an endorsement for High Incidence Special Education and, according to the 2025-26 Special Education Reimbursement Guide for State Categorical Aid and Appendix B: KSDE Special Education Teacher Endorsements for Reimbursement, the complainant is appropriately licensed to teach students with a range of mild-moderate disabilities that impact learning and who are able to participate in general education curriculum with additional support through the IR resource classroom setting.

The complainant alleges there were four students on her caseload that should have been considered as students with low incidence disabilities because their curriculums were significantly modified from what was being taught to their same-grade peers and, as such, the complainant was not appropriately licensed to teach these four students through her IR resource classroom.

According to guidance provided by the Director of Special Education and Title Services (SETS) for the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) dated September 22, 2025:

> Most Interrelated Resource Rooms are composed of "high incidence" students such as learning disabled, emotionally disabled, other health impaired and indicates that the teacher is primarily working on grade level content with students that are expected to have access to the general education curriculum for the majority of the school day, whether in a resource room and/or general education environments / classrooms.
> Low incidence disabilities require more functional support for daily living skills, social and communication interaction, access to a curriculum that is grade level but often adapted or modified based on the level of the child's disability such as Intellectual Disability, Multiple Disabilities, or severe Autism.

Based on interviews and documentation, it appears that Student 1, who is in kindergarten, and Student 3, who is in first grade, are working on skills in both the general and special education settings that at least some of their same-grade peers are also learning. The same is true for Student 4 whose district-wide assessments show that the student is demonstrating ELA and Math skills that fall within the average range as compared to same-grade peers. The IEPs for these three students indicate they spend most of their school day with same-grade peers.

These three students appear to meet the definition of "High Incidence" because these students display a range of mild-to-moderate disabilities which impacts learning but these students are still able to participate in the general education curriculum with additional special education support.

However, Student 2's IEP states, "[Student 2] needs intensive instruction in the special education classroom. [Student 2's] curriculum is modified from the general education curriculum to better suit Student 2's educational and behavioral needs". The IEP calls for the student to participate in the state-wide alternate assessment designed for the 1% of students working to meet the essential elements of the grade-level standards. The IEP describes the student's academic skills as emerging and significantly below those of same-grade peers who are now reading to learn new material, writing multiple paragraph responses, and learning multiplication / division. The student's IEP indicates more than three hours per day of special education instruction is provided in the special education setting away from same-grade peers focusing on core academics as well as over three hours per day of special education instruction and attendant care is provided in the general education classroom with the classroom teacher noting the student needing one-to-one instruction with immediate feedback and redirection.

This student appears to meet the definition of "Low Incidence" because the student displays an intellectual disability that has more significantly impacted the student's rate of learning as compared to peers and is less able to participate in the same-grade general education curriculum. According to Appendix B: KSDE Special Education Teacher Endorsements for Reimbursement, the special education teacher working with Student 2 should hold a Kansas Teaching License with an endorsement to teach students with Low Incidence disabilities.

It is noted that the LEA believes that, because the Student 2's IEP includes goals that are addressed in both the general and special education settings, the student should be considered as "High Incidence" and thus the complainant is appropriately licensed to teach this Student 2. However, the guidance provided by the Director of Special Education and Title Services (SETS) for the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) dated September 22, 2025 provides this clarification, "ALL students with disabilities should be "included" in grade level activities. Inclusion alone does not circumvent appropriate licensure."

There is evidence to support a finding that the LEA failed to provide Student 2 with a special education teacher licensed to teach students with Low Incidence disabilities at Mill Creek Elementary School during the 2025-26 school year. Based on the foregoing, the district is determined to be OUT of compliance with state regulations at K.A.R. 91-31-34 which describe the requirements for LEAs to follow in order to provide appropriately qualified staff for teaching assignments in Kansas school districts.

Corrective Action

1. No later than 15 days from the date of this report, USD #512 will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with state regulations at K.A.R. 91-31-34 and will ensure appropriately licensed special education teachers are employed to teach and support students with Low Incidence disabilities.

2. USD #512 will review the guidance provided by the Director of Special Education and Title Services (SETS) for the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) dated September 22, 2025 and develop a plan for providing Student 2 with access to a special education teacher who holds licensure for Low Incidence Disabilities within 15 school days from the date of this report and implement this plan no later than first day of the second quarter. The LEA will provide SETS with a written copy of the plan no later than October 30, 2025.
3. USD #512 will notify the parents of Student 2 in writing of the noncompliance and of the plan to provide the student with access to an appropriately licensed special education teacher beginning no later than the beginning of the second quarter of the 2025-26 school year.
4. USD #512 will review Student 2's IEP Goal Progress Report for the first quarter of the 2025-26 school year to determine if the student is making adequate progress towards achieving the IEP goals. If yes, the LEA will provide SETS with a copy of these IEP Goal Progress Reports. If no, the LEA will reconvene the student's IEP Team with the Low Incidence licensed special education teacher as a team member no later than 20 days from the date of the start of the second quarter to review and revise the IEP to address the lack of progress. At the end of the meeting, the LEA will provide the parents with appropriate PWN no later than two days following the date of the IEP Team Meeting. The LEA will provide KSDE with copies of the IEP Team Meeting notes and a copy of the PWN as documentation for correction of the individual noncompliance.
5. Using the guidance provided by the Director of Special Education and Title Services (SETS) for the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) dated September 22, 2025, USD #512 will develop a plan to identify any other students with Low Incidence disabilities who do not have access to an appropriately licensed teacher. This plan must include parent notification and a review of IEP Goal Progress Reports to determine if the noncompliance negatively impacted progress towards achieving IEP goals for these students. If lack of progress is identified, the plan must include a requirement to reconvene the identified student's IEP team to review and revise the IEP with a special education teacher licensed to teach students with Low Incidence as an IEP team member. The LEA will provide SETS with a list of identified students and the outcome of of the review for each student by the first day of the second semester of the 2025-26 school year.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 512,
Shawnee Mission Public Schools: 26FC512-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on 9/2/2025 by ---- on behalf of four students. In the remainder of this decision, ----, who is not a parent of any of the students in this complaint, will be referred to as "the complainant." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on September 30 , 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the district's notice of appeal, and the complainant's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

In complaint 26FC512-002, the investigator found no violation with regard to students #1, #3 and #4. The investigator did find a violation of law with regard to student #2 because the district used a special education teacher with an endorsement for High Incidence Special Education to educate student #2 instead of a teacher with a Low Incidence endorsement.. The district has appealed. We have never addressed this issue in a complaint previously, and so is a matter of first impression.

1. First, we start with the law:

   Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.156(a) state that:

   > The SEA must establish and maintain qualifications to ensure that personnel necessary to carry out the purposes of this part are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained, including that those personnel have the content knowledge and skills to serve children with disabilities.

   The Kansas State Department of education establishes and maintains personnel qualifications through its Teacher Licensure process and it provides official guidance regarding special education teachers and providers through its Reimbursement Guide.

   The term "High Incidence" is defined in the Reimbursement Guide on page 22 to mean:

> High Incidence (was Adaptive) (BD/IR/LD) Teachers of students with a range of mild-moderate disabilities that impact learning who are able to participate in general education curriculum with additional support. See Appendix A for endorsements

The term "Low Incidence" is defined on page 22 of the Reimbursement Guide to mean:

> Low Incidence (was Functional) (ID/SM) Teachers of students with significant intellectual disability and students with multiple disabilities who are less able to participate in general education curriculum. See Appendix A for endorsements

The chart in Appendix B of the Reimbursement Guide indicates that:

The Licensed Personnel Report area of High Incidence allows multiple endorsements and correlates to the reimbursement categories of Behavior Disorder, Interrelated, and Learning Disability.

The Licensed Personnel Report area of Low Incidence allows multiple endorsements and correlates to the reimbursement categories of SM (severe multiply disabled), and ID (Intellectual Disability).

These are areas of service and appropriate endorsements according to the Teacher Licensure team at the Kansas State Department of Education.

2. Next, we interpret the law.

The teacher qualification portion of the Reimbursement Guide was built to be a "guide" for establishing teacher qualifications for both high and low incidence. It is just that and does not dictate determining how IEP teams determine what services are required. There are no specific cutoffs in the Reimbursement Guide which a child must meet to be considered "high" or "low" incidence", the descriptions are a guide for clerks reporting the data for reimbursement.

For example, the definition of the term "low incident" includes "students with significant intellectual disability and students with multiple disabilities who are less able to participate in general education curriculum" (Emphasis added). By definition then, students with a, "significant intellectual disability and students with multiple disabilities" are only to be considered "low incidence" when they are "less able to participate in general education curriculum."

This lack of specificity is necessary because children with disabilities cannot be lumped into educational environments based solely on their category of disability or their degree of disability. The educational program for these children is called an IEP, or Individualized Education Program. The IEP, then, is built to serve children, based on their unique and individual needs.

In Endrew F. v. Douglas County School District, 117 LRP 9767, 137 S.Ct. 988 (2017), the United States Supreme Court defined the term "free appropriate public education" (FAPE) to mean that "a school must offer an IEP reasonably calculated to enable a child to make progress appropriate in light of the child's circumstances." Thus, FAPE is not conditioned on category of disability, but is judged by the extent to which a student makes progress that is appropriate in light of the child's circumstances.

An additional consideration in this analysis is that children with disabilities must be educated in the least restrictive environment (LRE), in accordance with 34 C.F.R. 300.114. Courts have said that educational environments "differ from each other by the extent to which they depart from a "mainstream" assignment." Wilson v. Fairfax County Sch. Bd., 104 LRP 30556 (4th Cir. 2004). That means that each movement of a child that is farther away from a regular education classroom is a change of placement. The Appeal Committee makes no finding with regard to whether a child who is taught by a low incidence teacher rather than a high incidence teacher is necessarily in a more restrictive environment than if taught by a high incidence teacher, in a high incidence environment. The Appeal Committee only notes that a low incident environment could be considered a more restrictive environment. See, for example A.A. v. Northside Independent School District, 951 F.3d 678, 76 IDELR 61 (5th Cir. 2020) where a child was transferred from a behavior management classroom to an applied learning environment classroom. The court said it must look at the functions of the two classrooms to see if those functions were "substantially dissimilar."

In short, whether a child is appropriately served by a low incidence licensed teacher or a high incidence licensed teacher cannot be determined by using a specified formula. That decision involves judgements based on the unique needs of each individual child, the extent to which a child is educated in the least restrictive environment, and the extent to which an individual child is able to achieve IEP goals in a particular environment. That is the kind of decision that is better left to educators, or better yet, to IEP teams, unless the decision is clearly unreasonable.

3. Next we consider the individual child.

   In the report student 2 was described as follows:

   > "[Student 2] needs intensive instruction in the special education classroom. [Student 2's] curriculum is modified from the general education curriculum to better suit Student 2's educational and behavioral needs". The IEP calls for the student to participate in the state-wide alternate assessment designed for the 1% of students working to meet the essential elements of the grade-level standards. The IEP describes the student's academic skills as emerging and significantly below those of same-grade peers who are now reading to learn new material, writing multiple paragraph responses, and learning multiplication / division. The student's IEP indicates more than three hours per day of special education instruction is provided in the special education setting away from same-grade peers focusing on core academics as well as over three hours per day of special education instruction and > attendant care is provided in the general education classroom with the classroom teacher noting the student needing one-to-one instruction with immediate feedback and redirection. Report, p. 14.

4. Next we examine the complaint investigator's report.

   The investigator found a violation saying:

   > This student appears to meet the definition of "Low Incidence" because the student displays an intellectual disability that has more significantly impacted the student's rate of learning as compared to peers and is less able to participate in the same-grade general education curriculum. According to Appendix B: KSDE Special Education Teacher Endorsements for Reimbursement, the special education teacher working with Student 2 should hold a Kansas Teaching License with an endorsement to teach students with Low Incidence disabilities. Report, p. 14.

   The investigator concluded:

   > There is evidence to support a finding that the LEA failed to provide Student 2 with a special education teacher licensed to teach students with Low Incidence disabilities at Mill Creek Elementary School during the 2025-26 school year. Based on the foregoing, the district is determined to be OUT of compliance with state regulations at K.A.R. 91-31-34 which describe the requirements for LEAs to follow in order to provide appropriately qualified staff for teaching assignments in Kansas school districts. Report, p. 14-15.

5. Finally, we review the district's appeal.

   The district's appeal makes the following points:

   - KSDE recognizes high incidence as appropriate for an Interrelated Resource Room (IRR) assignment.
   - The district employed a properly licensed and qualified special education teacher consistent with the KSDE standards
   - The placement decision for this student was made by the student's IEP team.

Conclusion

This student is entitled to a free appropriate public education (FAPE) in the least restrictive environment (LRE) by way of an IEP. A student's IEP team serves the vital role as decision maker in the development of an IEP that offers a FAPE in the LRE. While a state education agency has a legal obligation to establish and maintain qualifications to ensure that special education personnel are appropriately and adequately prepared and trained, that obligation does not diminish an IEP team's authority, and duty, to make "individualized" determinations about how and where a child with a disability will be educated.

This individual student has significant needs and could be served by a teacher licensed as "low incidence." That, however, is not the issue here. The issue in this complaint appeal is whether this student could also be served by a teacher holding a "high incidence" license. The fact that the original decision on that issue, to place this student with a high incidence teacher: (a) was made by the student's IEP team, (b) likely resulted in a less restrictive environment for the student, and (3) was reasonable because there was no substantial evidence in this complaint indicating that this student was not making appropriate progress on his IEP goals in the high incidence environment, all support the district's appeal.

The Appeal Committee agrees with the district's analysis of this novel issue, and finds that whether a student should be assigned to a high or low incidence teacher is not solely determined by a category of disability or the severity of a disability, but should be determined by an IEP team, based on the unique circumstances of each individual student's ability to make appropriate progress on IEP goals and to make appropriate progress in the general curriculum.

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee reverses the conclusion in the complaint report and withdraws all corrective actions.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 15th day of October, 2025.

SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #375
ON SEPTEMBER 3, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: OCTOBER 3, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -------, by the complainant, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the complainant as "the Complainant."

The Complaint is against USD # 375, Circle Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, the "School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #375.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on September 3, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ended on October 3, 2025.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #375, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), unilaterally placed the Student in a solo classroom without ensuring the placement determination was made by a group of persons, including the Parent and other persons knowledgeable about the Student. K.S.A. 72-3420(a), K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.S.A. 72-3433, K.S.A. 72-3429 (4)(A)(B); 34 §§ C.F.R. 300.116, 300.530, 300.531

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #375, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, reviewed and revised the Student's IEP prior to using alternative strategies that were not part of the behavior plan. K.A.R. 91-40-16(a); 34 § C.F.R. 300.323(a)(c)(d).

Background Information

This investigation involved an eighth-grade student enrolled at the Day School in USD #375 who qualifies for special education services under the disability category of autism. The Student is kind, loving, and has a great sense of humor.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Complainant and staff in the LEA.

1. On October 3, 2024, the Principal attached an Emergency Safety Intervention (ESI) document to an email to the Complainant and shared, "We did not have to restrain [the Student] when [the Student] ran as [the Student] willingly returned to the school when law enforcement and school personnel arrived at [After School Care]."
2. On October 3, 2024, an ESI document described the Student's behaviors that led to one restraint and three seclusions.
    a. The Student became verbally aggressive when they were told they missed snack time.
    b. The room was cleared when the Student targeted smaller students.
    c. Staff blocked and redirected the Student until the room was cleared.

d. The [School Resource Officer] SRO entered the classroom, and the Student became combative and was escorted to the seclusion room by the SRO and the Principal. The restraint lasted 1 minute.

e. The Student willingly agreed to enter the seclusion room after the SRO and the principal spoke with them.

f. Once in the seclusion room, the Student began yelling and came towards the staff with the threat of harming them. The seclusion room door was shut for the safety of the staff. The seclusion lasted six minutes.

g. The Student was directed to go to the wall with a calm body. The Student complied, and the staff opened the door.

h. The Student asked to use the bathroom and was accompanied there by staff.

i. While in the calm room discussing the rest of their day, the Student yelled and charged at the staff. The door was closed for safety. The seclusion lasted six minutes.

j. Once the Student showed a calm body, the door was opened.

k. The Student was agitated about their report home, and while the staff member tried to de-escalate the Student, they threatened to punch the staff member.

l. The Student pushed past the staff member and hit them with the door. The staff blocked the Student's exit and shut the door. The seclusion lasted four minutes.

m. The Student was told to show a calm body to have the door opened, which they did. The Student's transportation was there, and the Student walked calmly to the van.

n. The Student took off running, and staff, Sheriff's officers, and the transportation department looked for them. The Student was located at a convenience store about a half mile away.

3. On November 14, 2024, the Legal Decision Maker "agreed" to an IEP amendment between annual meetings that listed an amendment date of August 20, 2024. The amendment indicated "[The Student] is attending [the Day School] … for 100% of [the Student's] school day and will receive 100% of [their] special education services there. [The Student] will receive services at [the Day School] for 465 minutes, 4 days a week since [the Day School] is a 4[-]day[-]a[-]week school. This is a change from receiving services 5 days a week at [the Student's] last school." The undated PWN that accompanied this amendment described a "material change in services" and indicated the Student was placed at the Day School due to behaviors at their previous school. Data was reviewed, and the option of not placing the Student at the Day School was rejected. "Consent" was provided via checkmark and signature by one of the Legal Education Decision Makers (LEDMs).

4. On December 13, 2024, a Notice of Special Education Meeting was created for an IEP meeting on January 30, 2025, to discuss the Student's eligibility for special education, changes to the IEP, to conduct an annual review, and discuss post-secondary goals. The Parent was listed as the LEDM.
5. On December 17, 2024, a Functional Behavior Assessment (FBA) was conducted and indicated the following:
    a. The Student was "disruptive in the class around 40% of the time."
    b. The Student's instructional, environmental, and learner-specific antecedents to challenging behaviors were noted. The consequences and functions of the behaviors were described.
    c. Hypotheses were described, and it was noted the IEP team determined a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) was a required part of the Student's IEP.
6. On December 18, 2024, the Principal emailed the Complainant regarding the Student's behavior. According to the Principal, "[The Student] got very aggressive this afternoon and punched a para[professional] pretty hard. After that escalation, [the Student] was hard to calm and continued to threaten and aggress towards staff. [Foster Parent 2] talked to [the Student] at one point, but [the Student] escalated again after. [The SRO] was very close to arresting [the Student] due to the severity of [the Student's] aggression. Due to this level of aggression, [the Student] will be suspended tomorrow. … I worry because [the physical aggression] is increasing in frequency and severity."
7. On December 18, 2024, a notice of suspension was created, which stated the Student had been suspended for December 19, 2024, due to "significant aggression towards staff and verbal threats to staff."
8. On December 20, 2024, the Parent "agreed" to an IEP amendment between annual meetings that listed an amendment date of December 17, 2024. The amendment described, "The team is going to amend the IEP to add a BIP." The Parent agreed via checkmark and signature to amend the Student's IEP without convening a meeting. The accompanying PWN dated December 17, 2024, indicated the team met to review the evaluation data and discuss changes to the IEP, which included adding a BIP. An explanation, options, relevant factors, and a description of the data used to propose the BIP were noted. "Consent" was provided via checkmark and electronic signature by the Parent.
9. The January 30, 2025, IEP indicated the following:
    a. The Student's reevaluation was completed on December 17, 2024.
    b. Participants included the Parent, the Special Education Teacher, the Principal in the role of LEA Representative, and the School Counselor.
    c. The Student's "Impact of Exceptionality" described, "[The Student] will need structure and consistent behavioral interventions (as outlined in [the Student's] behavior intervention plan) in all environments throughout the school … in order to gain educational benefit."

d. The Student's present levels of academic and functional performance were described. It was noted the Student's behavior impeded their learning and that of others, and the Student required special education and related services.

e. The IEP included goals for coping strategies, elopement, math, reading, and writing.

f. The following special education and related services were described for the dates of January 30, 2025 through January 29, 2026:

   i. Special education service at the Special Day School for 465 minutes, three days per week.

   ii. Special education service at the Special Day School for 435 minutes one day per week.

   iii. Counseling at the Special Day School for 30 minutes weekly.

   iv. Accommodations/Modifications/Supplementary Support were listed and scheduled to begin on January 30, 2025, and end on January 29, 2026.

   v. The Student "… will not be with any non-identified peers at the Dayschool setting [sic]" and will "… utilize a curriculum that is modified to fit [the Student's] instructional needs."

   vi. vi. The following BIP was described:

      1. Elopement, aggression, and property destruction in all settings, multiple times per day, caused the Student to miss instruction.

         a. Functions included escape/avoidance, gaining access to a reinforcer, inability to regulate emotion, and power/control.

         b. The replacement behavior indicated when the Student was "becoming frustrated or upset [the Student] will be ask[ed] to go talk with the SRO or the counselor … or talk to staff calmly in the safe space in the hallway."

         c. Positive behavior supports included:

            i. "Catch [the Student] being good. Ignore what can be ignored. Multiple positives noted through out [sic]."

            ii. "If a visual frustration or upset is started it must be noted and ahead of that give [the Student] an out to help [them] move on with not outburst [sic]."

            iii. "Do remind [the Student] to follow [their] plan, before [the Student] explodes. Then reward when [the Student] does. Remind [them] [the Student] needs a 'reset'."

iv. "[The Student] will have a token system to earn breaks and music listening time. 2 activities to a song, or [a] 5[-]minute break."

d. Staff responses were listed:

i. "Staff will not engage with [the Student] when escalated. They will give any expectation in a calm tone and regulated slower speed."

ii. "There will not be multiple people covering or hovering around [the Student] when [the Student] is elevated. 1-2 if possible, 3 if needed for escort."

iii. "Staff will not keep talking to/at [the Student] when [the Student] is elevated. If there is a request a soft, gentle reminder such as walk threw [sic] the door or let's share with SRO first. This will get [the Student] where it is safest for [the Student] and others."

iv. "Do not press hard on moving onto work again, missed work does not add up. There is no make[-]up work."

v. "Staff will not bribe with preferred activities to move on or give in to demands which will both reward, and intensify demands in the long run."

vi. "Staff will allow [the Student] to settle and calm before moving on. [The Student] will be allowed to lay [sic] down after an incident as it overwhelms and wipes out [the Student's] energy and thoughts."

vii. "Staff will always meet the students [sic] need where they are, emotional regulation before academics."

e. Special Considerations indicated "[The Student's] staff will be [Crisis Prevention Institute] CPI certified in case of outburst and danger is presented. The team considered the harmful effects of continuing placement at the day school. The team determined that the benefits continue to outweigh the harmful effects."

f. Meeting notes indicated the Parent was present and had the opportunity to provide input, and the harmful effects of the placement were discussed.

10. On March 13, 2025, the Principal emailed documentation to the Complainant regarding an incident that occurred. The Principal shared that the Student struggled at times during the day. The Principal wrote, "I was SOOO proud of [the Student] for eventually walking with us and having an incredible conversation with us afterwards where [the Student] took accountability and ownership over [their] response. [The Student] was not the aggressor in this situation. [The Student] just reacted."

11. On March 13, 2025, an ESI Documentation Form described the Student's behaviors that led to one restraint:
    a. A peer flipped off and kicked the Student.
    b. The Student tried to fight the peer, but staff intervened and transported the Student to the calming room. The restraint lasted one minute.
    c. The Student dropped to the floor, and after they were de-escalated, the Student walked unassisted to the SRO's office.
12. On April 24, 2025, a Manifestation Determination Review (MDR) was conducted. According to the MDR, "The Student has engaged in multiple incidents of physical aggression, property destruction, and elopement from school property. [The Student] has broken three windows within our building, destroyed a gate on a doorway and has hurt 4 staff with [the Student's] physically aggressive behavior." The IEP was reviewed, and interventions were listed. It was noted the Student's conduct was caused by or had a direct and substantial relationship to their disability and was not a result of the Day School's failure to implement the IEP. The team, including the Parent, determined the Student's conduct was a manifestation of their disability and it was noted, in the form of a checkmark, that the Student "… will be returned to the placement specified in [their] IEP, unless … the school and the parent(s)/LEDM(s) agree to a change of placement through the IEP process, or … the student is assigned to an alternative educational setting for possession of a weapon or illegal drugs or for infliction of serious bodily injury on another person." The remaining language regarding conducting an FBA (unless one has already been conducted), implementing the BIP, or reviewing and modifying the BIP remained unchecked on the MDR document. The Parent and the Parents were listed as participants in the meeting.
13. On September 3, 2025, the Principal emailed the Liaison and wrote, "I have reported to [a parent] that we are running out of intervention ideas as [the Student] has not responded to many interventions that have been tried." Additionally, the Principal wrote, "[The Student] is currently in a separate classroom without access to peers as they frequently trigger [the Student] and it is in [the Student's] best interest not to have access to all peers throughout the day. [The Student] does have time embedded into [their] day for peer interaction that is guided and supported by staff." The Principal indicated that outside agencies provided consultation and training regarding the Student's behaviors.

Principal Interview

14. In an interview with the Investigator, the Principal stated they were the Principal at the Special Day School in the District. They described knowing the Student since August 2024 because the Student attended the day school program.

15. The Principal stated the Complainant was a caseworker at the foster care organization that the Student was in custody through.
16. The Principal was able to describe the staff responses to the Students' behavior at different levels of escalation.
    a. The least intensive behaviors looked like refusal to comply and verbal aggression.
        i. Staff responses were redirection and stating the positive and negative consequences.
    b. More intensive behaviors looked like property destruction, the Student hitting things, and breaking things.
        i. Staff responses were to disengage with the Student, and/or block the Student from access to staff or peers.
    c. Most intensive behaviors looked like hitting, kicking, biting, throwing, and using things as weapons.
        i. Staff responses included backing away, "running with dignity," and the use of non-violent crisis intervention, if necessary.
        ii. The Principal described the term "run with dignity" as a method for disengaging with a student by backing up both physically and verbally to avoid a power struggle and to position themselves in a place of safety from the escalated student.
17. The Principal stated there is no reason a staff member would not use one of the strategies listed on the Student's Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP).
18. The Principal stated they think the Complainant was concerned because the LEA "didn't put in the [BIP] that [the Student is] receiving one-on-one support and that [the Student] doesn't have access to all of [their] peers throughout the day." The Principal stated they are unsure if the one-on-one support is listed in the Student's IEP because when the IEP was written, "it wasn't something that was always available to [the Student]." They stated the one-on-one adult assistance was discussed in April 2025 after the Student's MDR meeting. The Principal confirmed the Student has always required one-on-one adult support for some part of their day, especially during academic instruction.
19. The Principal stated the Student did have access to one-on-one adult support, and added they had support to two-on-one, depending on the Student's request. The Principal stated the adult support was documented through a schedule that was also shared with the [Parent].
20. The Principal confirmed all students in the day school have supervision for the entirety of their school day and added, "none of them walk unaccompanied anywhere in the building."
21. The Principal explained the MDR meeting that took place in April 2025. The team consisted of District staff, including the Principal, the Parents and Guardians, and workers from community support programs associated with the Student. They stated it occurred following a suspension on April 23, 2025. The Student had broken a window for the second time. The Principal stated they worked with the Parents during this meeting to develop a plan for the Student, which consisted of placing the Student in a separate environment "where [they are] not surrounded by kids that are cussing and flipping [the Student] off and just trying to antagonize [them] all day." The plan included only allowing the Student to engage with regulated peers who were "being positive influences."

22. The Principal stated recent data shows "we've had an extreme decrease in that maladaptive behavior, especially the physical aggression."

Complainant Interview

23. On September 30, 2025, in an interview with the Investigator, the Complainant stated they were the Student's foster care case manager. They affirmed they are the legal guardian of the Student and are required to see the student once a month and help coordinate services for the home. The Complainant disclosed they don't have educational rights and therefore work with the Parent to ensure the Student was "getting [their] rightful education that the school can provide to [them]."
24. The Complainant stated that after the MDR meeting on April 24, 2025, they were having a check-in meeting via Zoom when the Principal notified the Complainant they felt the Student would be better served in a solo classroom. The Complainant added they agreed to the change if a written agreement was completed and the Parent was notified. The Complainant stated, "one was not made for it." The Complainant noted at this meeting, the team had mentioned they had tried having the Student in a modified classroom with success. The Complainant stated the attendees of the meeting included themselves, the Principal, and Foster Parent 1.
25. The Complainant stated they had not directly seen anything happen regarding the LEA not using strategies from the behavior plan before the team changed the IEP, but had been told the team told the Student they loved [them] and called them "pet names" which caused the Student to go into "defense mode" due to past abuse. The Complainant stated the team used food as an incentive. They added the Student needed to feel "like everything is equal to [them], and got upset if they felt "like [they are] not being treated fairly." The Complainant added they were not sure if specific strategies were listed in the behavior plan, stating they were not allowed to view it, but stated Foster Parent 1 provided strategies to the LEA to try. The Complainant stated the LEA tried the strategies for less than a month and then stated they weren't working. The Complainant noted the team was striving for consistency but added, "we have to go through that rough patch to get that consistency."
26. The Complainant stated, "when [the Student] gets dysregulated, [they] will fight and destroy property." This led to the Student getting involved with the legal system because people pressed charges. The Complainant stated that when the team isolated the Student in a classroom, the Student destroyed property. The Complainant added the courts are asking to have additional services placed in the home, even though the Student was not having issues at home. They stated they were "getting this roundabout way that's not actually helping us get services into the school. It's all being placed on placement."

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #375, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), unilaterally placed the Student in a solo classroom without ensuring the placement determination was made by a group of persons, including the Parent and other persons knowledgeable about the Student. K.S.A. 72-3420(a), K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.S.A. 72-3433, K.S.A. 72-3429 (4)(A)(B); 34 §§ C.F.R. 300.116, 300.530, 300.531

According to K.S.A. 72-3420(a), each school district shall be required, to the extent appropriate, to educate children with disabilities with children who are not disabled, and to provide special classes, separate schooling or for the removal of children with disabilities from the regular education environment only when the nature or severity of the disability of the child is such that education in regular classes with supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-21, each agency shall ensure that the children with disabilities served by the agency are educated in the Least Restrictive Environment (LRE). Each agency shall ensure that a continuum of alternative educational placements is available to meet the needs of children with disabilities. These alternative educational placements shall meet the following criteria: include instruction in regular classes, special classes, and special schools; instruction in a child's home; and instruction in hospitals and other institutions; and make provision for supplementary services, including resource room and itinerant services, to be provided in conjunction with regular class placement.

In determining the educational placement of a child with a disability, including a preschool child with a disability, each agency shall ensure that the placement decision meets the following requirements. The decision shall be made by a group of persons, including the child's parent or parents and other persons who are knowledgeable about the child, the meaning of the evaluation data, and the placement options. The decision shall be made in conformity with the requirement of providing services in the LRE.

Each agency shall give notice to the parents of any meeting to discuss the educational placement of their child. The notice shall meet the requirements of K.A.R. 91-40-17. If a parent cannot participate in person at a meeting relating to the educational placement of the child, the agency shall offer to use other methods to allow the parent to participate, including conference calls and video conferencing. An agency may conduct a meeting to determine the appropriate educational placement of a child with a disability without the participation of a parent if the agency, despite repeated attempts, has been unable to contact the parent or to convince the parent to participate. If an agency conducts a meeting to determine the appropriate educational placement of a child without the participation of a parent, the agency shall have a record of the attempts that the agency made to contact the parent. An agency shall take action to ensure that parents understand, and are able to participate in, any discussions concerning the educational placement of their children, including arranging for an interpreter for parents who are deaf or whose native language is other than English.

Each agency shall ensure that each exceptional child's placement meets the following criteria, which are determined at least annually, are based on the child's IEP, and, for a child with a disability, are as close as possible to the child's home. Unless the IEP of a child with a disability requires some other arrangement, the agency shall ensure that the child is educated in the school that the child would attend if nondisabled. In selecting the LRE for a child with a disability, the persons making the educational placement decision shall give consideration to any potential harmful effect on the child or on the quality of services that the child needs.

An agency shall not remove a child with a disability from education in age-appropriate regular classrooms solely because of needed modifications in the general curriculum. In providing, or arranging for the provision of, nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities, including meals, recess periods, and other nonacademic services and activities, each agency shall ensure that each child with a disability participates with nondisabled children in those services and activities to the maximum extent appropriate to the needs of that child. Each agency shall ensure that each child with a disability receives the supplementary aids and services specified in the child's IEP as being appropriate and necessary for the child to participate in nonacademic settings. If it is determined that the placement in a specialized public or private school or facility is necessary to provide FAPE to a child with a disability in accordance with the child's IEP, the agency shall provide for the placement, including nonmedical care and room and board, at no cost to the parent or parents of the child.

Each agency that operates any separate facility for the education of children with disabilities shall ensure that the facility meets the following requirements: each facility shall be comparable to those operated for nonexceptional children, and each facility shall be appropriate to the chronological ages of the students and the instructional program being provided.

According to K.S.A. 72-3429 (4)(A)(B), after the annual IEP meeting for a school year, the parent of an exceptional child and an appropriate representative of the agency providing services to the child may agree to develop a written document amending or modifying the child's current IEP, without convening an IEP meeting. If the parent and agency representative develop a written document amending or modifying a child's current IEP, the document shall be dated and signed by the parent and the agency representative. The parent and the agency shall be provided a copy of the document.

According to K.S.A. 72-3433, school personnel may order a change in placement of a child with disability to an alternative setting as disciplinary action for certain behavior. The duties of the IEP team and hearing officer, behavioral assessment and intervention plan, and the determination and review procedure must be taken into consideration. School personnel may order a change in the placement of a child with a disability to an appropriate interim alternative educational setting or other setting, or the short-term suspension of the child. School personnel may order a change to an appropriate interim alternative educational placement for not more than 186 school days if it is determined that the conduct of the child violated the code of student conduct and was not a manifestation of the child's disability. If the relevant disciplinary procedures applicable to children without disabilities are applied in the same manner and the discipline is for the same duration as would be applied to a child without disabilities, except that services must continue to be provided to the child during the period of disciplinary action.

Any child with a disability whose placement is changed shall continue to receive educational services to enable the child to continue to participate in the general education curriculum, although in another setting, and to progress toward meeting the goals set out in the child's IEP and receive, as appropriate, a functional behavioral assessment, behavioral intervention services, and modifications that are designed to address the inappropriate behavior so that it does not recur. The alternative educational setting shall be determined by the IEP team. If a disciplinary action is contemplated not later than the date on which the decision to take that action is made, the agency shall notify the parents of that decision and of all procedural safeguards and amendments thereto, and within 10 school days of the date on which the decision to take disciplinary action is made. A review shall be conducted to determine the relationship between the child's disability and the conduct that is subject to disciplinary action.

The review shall be conducted by the agency, the parent, and relevant members of the child's IEP team as determined by the parent and the agency. In carrying out the review, that group shall review all relevant information in the student's file, including the child's IEP, any teacher observations, and any relevant information provided by the parent. Based upon its review of all the relevant information, the group shall determine if the conduct in question was caused by, or had a direct and substantial relationship to, the child's disability or was the direct result of the agency's failure to implement the child's IEP. If it is determined that the conduct of the student was caused by or had a direct and substantial relationship to the child’s disability or was the direct result of the LEA failing to implement the child’s IEP, then the conduct shall be determined to be a manifestation of the child's disability. If it is determined that the conduct of a child was a manifestation of the child's disability, the IEP team shall conduct an FBA and implement a BIP for such child. Provided that the agency has not conducted such an assessment prior to the behavior that resulted in a change in placement.

If the child already had a BIP, review and modify it, as necessary, to address the behavior and return the child to the placement from which the child was removed, unless the parent and the agency agree to a change of placement as part of the modification of the behavioral intervention plan.

The Complainant alleged the Student was placed in a solo classroom setting with no IEP amendment to support the change of placement.

In their response, the LEA shared that "moving a student from one classroom to another within the same program does not constitute a change of placement under the IDEA." The LEA indicated a classroom move did not alter the Student's access to non-disabled peers or the LRE. Additionally, the LEA indicated the Parents consented to the classroom adjustment.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is unsubstantiated that the LEA did not ensure the placement determination for the initial material change on November 14, 2024, was made by a group of persons, including the Parent and other knowledgeable persons, as required by K.A.R. 91-40-21 and K.R.S. 72-3429 (4)(A)(B), as the change was agreed to through a signed IEP amendment by the Parents.

Issue Two

Whether USD #375, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, reviewed and revised the Student's IEP prior to using alternative strategies that were not part of the behavior plan. K.A.R. 91-40-16(a)(b)(3)

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(a), each agency shall be responsible for initiating and conducting meetings to develop, review, and revise the IEP of each exceptional child served by the agency. According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), at the beginning of each school year, each agency must have in effect an IEP for each child with a disability within its jurisdiction. Each agency must ensure that the child's IEP is accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related services provider, and any other service provider who is responsible for its implementation. Each teacher and provider must be informed of their specific responsibility related to implementing the child's IEP and specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

The Complainant alleged that although a behavior plan was in place, staff stated the plan was not effective and the staff had begun implementing alternative strategies without documentation or revision of the behavior plan.

The LEA indicated in their Response that the IEP team "… did not implement interventions or strategies that were not identified in the student's BIP. All interventions implemented were consistent with the Student's IEP/BIP or were discussed and documented with IEP team members who hold decision-making authority." Additionally, the LEA indicated they had the authority to implement appropriate general classroom management and safety strategies, even if they were not included in the Student's IEP or BIP, as long as the strategies did not contradict the Student's plans. This included using CPI-approved emergency safety interventions when the Student was at imminent risk of harm to self or others.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is unsubstantiated that the LEA significantly changed the Student's placement and least restrictive environment when they used a "separate classroom without access to peers." The LEA maintained the authority to implement appropriate general classroom management and safety strategies, even if not explicitly in the IEP, so long as the strategies did not contradict the Student's plans. The change in the Student's services did not impact their access to the least restrictive environment because the Student already lacked access to general education peers in their placement. This means there was no change to their placement and least restrictive environment as defined by K.A.R. 91-40-16(a) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.323..

Background Information

The subject of this complaint was a sixth-grade student during the 2024-2025 school year who lives at home with their mother. As noted in the May 16, 2024, evaluation report the student was found eligible for special education services with the exceptionalities of autism and hearing impairment. The student additionally has medical diagnoses of KBG Syndrome, autism, ADHD, and anxiety. This complaint follows up 26FC233-001 regarding procedural issues and LEA procedures and practices.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

Did USD #233, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), fail to disclose that the assistant director of special services is a currently licensed attorney in the state of Kansas at the September 27, 2024 or December 12, 2024 IEP meeting?

It is noted that the date of September 27, 2024 represents the date the parent signed the Prior Written Notice for the IEP amendment. Two meetings, held on September 9, 2024 and September 17, 2024 IEP occurred to discuss and come to agreement for the September 27, 2024 IEP amendment.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.321(a)(6) allows for parents or the agency to invite other individuals who have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that the Assistant Director of Special Services was a participant at the September and the December 2024 IEP meetings for her child. At none of the meetings did this staff person disclose being an active attorney licensed in Kansas. The Complainant had questioned the Investigator at the conclusion of 26FC233-001 whether the Assistant Director of Special Services for the LEA, who is a licensed attorney, had to disclose this professional training. The Investigator replied that it was not required. The Complainant disagreed with the Investigator's statement and requested an investigation.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency responded that the Assistant Director of Special Services is not representing the LEA as an attorney. This staff person was hired in the position of Assistant Director of Special Services and in that role will occasionally attend IEP team meetings when possessing special knowledge or expertise about the student or services on behalf of a student. This is well within the scope and expectation of the Assistant Director of Special Services job duties and as a discretionary member of a students' IEP team the Assistant Director of Special Services executes duties in the same manner and capacity as other District Directors of Special Services.

The LEA staff is listed on IEP paperwork as the Assistant Director of Special Services and has introduced self as the Assistant Director of Special Services at all IEP team meetings for the student's IEP meetings and other IEPs attended. Attending as the Assistant Director of Special Services this LEA staff contributes a general understanding of District Policies, a general understanding of the IEP process, and participates in discussions related specifically to a student's needs based on specialized knowledge.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The Parent and LEA agree that the Assistant Director of Special Services attended the September 9, 2024 and December 12, 2024 IEP meetings for the student.
2. The parent and advocate reported that the Assistant Director of Special Services attended the September 17, 2024 IEP meeting but arrived late. The Assistant Director of Special Services reported that according to their calendar they were conducting a presentation with Assistant Principal during that time.
3. The Assistant Director of Special Services and parent agree that the Assistant Director of Special Services did not disclose being an active attorney in Kansas at any of the student's IEP meetings. The staff member introduced as Assistant Director of Special Services.
4. The Assistant Director of Special Services stated that attendance at the September 9, 2024 IEP meetings was in response to an email from the Complainant with a list of questions and concerns about district services the day before the meeting. The LEA determined that the Assistant Director of Special Services was most knowledgeable to respond to these questions. Attendance at the December 12, 2024 meeting was based on the student's return to district services following a medically based placement.
5. The Complainant provided a job description that lists a position titled, "Assistant Director of Special Education Legal Services." The Complainant stated during interview that this position was closed about the time the Assistant Director of Special Services was hired and concluded that the Assistant Director of Special Services was hired in as an attorney. The LEA stated that this is the position that resulted in the hiring of the current Assistant Director of Special Services. The Executive Director of Special Services for the LEA stated that the position lists a preference for a juris doctor (JD) degree, but it is not required and the person who was previously in the current Executive Director of Special Services position held a JD as well. Finally, the Executive Director of Special Services for the LEA stated that the position of Assistant Director of Special Services is in the Special Education Department in Academics of the LEA organizational chart, not in the Staff Counsel department.
6. The LEA webpage lists the staff person as Assistant Director of Special Services on the Special Education webpage under, "Contact Special Education"

Conclusion

The LEA response dated September 22, 2025 articulated the explanation for the investigator's conclusion.

The [LEA] asserts that this staff person is the Assistant Director of Special Services, not an attorney representing the [LEA]. According to the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, pg. 64, the district may include "others as appropriate", at a student's IEP meeting. Additionally,

"The determination of who has knowledge or special expertise regarding the child is made by the party (parents or school) who invited the individual to be a member of the IEP team. Therefore, the other party may not bring into question the expertise of an individual invited to be a member of the IEP team and may not exclude another team member's expertise based on the amount or quality of their expertise." (K.A.R. 91-40-17(j); 34 C.F.R. 300.321(c))

OSEP guidance has clearly stated that the disclosure of an invited IEP team member's specific knowledge is not required, stating:

Section 614(d)(1)(B)(vi) of the Act allows other individuals who have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child to be included on the child's IEP team. Section 300.321(c) provides that the determination of the knowledge or special expertise of those individuals must be made by the party (parent of public agency) who invited the individual to be a member of the IEP team. We continue to believe that this determination is best left to parents and the public agency. We also believe that it would be inappropriate to regulate on the specific knowledge and expertise that an individuals must have to be included on an IEP Team because it would be burdensome for both parents and public agencies." (Fed. Register, Vol. 71, No. 156, pg. 46670 (August 14, 2006)) Here, the District had determined this staff member has special expertise, as an Assistant Director, and invited this staff member to join the IEP team as a discretionary member.

Finally, the federal regulation requiring a public agency to notify parents of upcoming IEP meetings is 34 C.F.R. 300.322(b). That regulation requires the public agency to provide notice of "the purpose, time and location of the meeting and who will be in attendance." It does not require the public agency to provide more. Specifically, there is nothing in the law that requires notifying a parent that a person invited to attend the meeting is an attorney.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the Local Education Agency did not have an obligation to disclose that the Assistant Director of Special Services is a currently licensed attorney in the state of Kansas at the September 9, 2024, September 17, 2024 or December 12, 2024 IEP meetings and is IN compliance, and no corrective action is required.

Issue Two

Did USD #233, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), fail to include the assistant special education director as an IEP team member on the Notices of Meeting for the September 27, 2024 and December 12, 2024 IEP meetings?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.322(b)(1)(i) require that the notice of meeting list "who will be in attendance" . 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a)(1-6) states the public agency must ensure that the IEP Team for each child with a disability include the parents of the child; at least one regular education teacher of the child (if applicable); at least one special education teacher/provider of the child; a representative of the public agency; an individual who can interpret evaluation results; others with knowledge/special expertise at the discretion of the parent or agency; and the child, when appropriate.

Parent Position

The complaint alleged that the assistant special education director was an active participant at the September meetings and December 2024 IEPs meetings for her student and was not listed on the Notices of Meeting for either IEP.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA responded in the September 22, 2025 response that the Assistant Director of Special Services was not listed on the Notice of Meeting for the September 17, 2024 meeting but was not in attendance at that meeting. The LEA responded that the Assistant Director of Special Services was listed on December 12, 2024 Notice of Meeting.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. It is noted that the Notice of Meeting for the September 9, 2024 meeting was sent on August 29, 2024 which exceeds the 12 month period of investigation and therefore not included in consideration of the finding.
2. The September 17, 2024 Notice of Meeting listed the following LEA staff as "Other(s) who can help explain the evaluation results or who have knowledge or special expertise regarding your child or services that may be needed." Autism Specialist, School Social Worker, Autism Specialist, Speech Language Pathologist, DHH Consultant, SPED Coordinator, Audiologist, Nurse School, and Psychologist. Based on documentation and interview with the complainant, advocate, and LEA it was not determined if the Assistant Director of Special Services attended this meeting in part or at all.
3. The December 12, 2024 Notice of Meeting listed the following LEA staff as "Other(s) who can help explain the evaluation results or who have knowledge or special expertise regarding your child or services that may be needed." Special Services Coordinator, Assistant Director of Special Services, School Nurse, Behavior Coach, School Social Worker, Speech Language Pathologist, and Autism Specialist.
4. The IEPs dated September 27, 2024 and December 12, 2024 does not show the Assistant Director of Special Services listed as an IEP team meeting attendee.

Conclusion

The IDEA specifies who must attend an IEP meeting and the Notice of Meeting further specifies that the parent receive notice of the potential attendees prior to the meeting. It is found that the Notice of meeting for the September 9, 2025 meeting, September 17, 2025 IEP meeting do not include the Assistant Director of Special Services, but the Assistant Director of Special Services is listed on the December 12, IEP meeting.

Although not listed specifically in the issue, the Investigator reviewed the IEP participant list for the September 27, 2024 and December 12, 2024 IEP amendments to gain clarity on whether the Assistant Director of Special Services had attended the September 17, 2024 IEP meeting in part or whole to compare how it was documented for December 12, 2024. It was known that the Assistant Director of Special Services was listed on the Notice of Meeting for the December 12, 2024 IEP meeting and attended this IEP meeting. It was discovered that the Assistant Director of Special Services was not listed as in attendance at the IEP meeting. Therefore, the Local Education Agency is OUT of compliance, and corrective action is required.

Issue Three

Did USD #233, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), fail to name the district staff on the Notice of Meetings for the September 27, 2024 and December 12, 2024 IEPs with job titles from the district website or with enough detail/accuracy so as to meet regulation for providing the complainant with proper notice of who was attending the student's IEP?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.322(b)(1)(i) require that the notice of meeting list "who will be in attendance" . 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a)(1-6) states that the public agency must ensure that the IEP Team for each child with a disability include the parents of the child; at least one regular education teacher of the child (if applicable); at least one special education teacher/provider of the child; a representative of the public agency; an individual who can interpret evaluation results; others with knowledge/special expertise at the discretion of the parent or agency; and the child, when appropriate.

Parent Position

The parent complaint stated that the roles of the meeting attendees on the September and December 2024 Notice of Meetings do not match the job titles from the district website or provide enough detail or accuracy that the parent can determine who is attending the student's IEP. This lack of specificity and/accuracy does not meet the regulation for providing the complainant with proper notice of who will be attending the student's IEP.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency states that neither federal nor state regulations require the Notice of Meeting to identify the district's meeting attendees by name, so long as the notice identifies those individuals by position.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issues 1 and 2 are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The LEA Notice of Meeting form includes the following statement, "As required by federal and state law, in addition to you, we will have the following people at our IEP meeting: 1) A general education teacher of your child 2) A special education teacher of your child 3) A school representative 4) If this is an initial IEP, a representative, if you request, of the Part C (Early Intervention Program for Infants/Toddlers with Disabilities) if your child is transitioning from Part C to Part B 5) Student (when checked)" Further, "Other(s) who can help explain the evaluation results or who have knowledge or special expertise regarding your child or services that may be needed." Finally, "If necessary, and with your consent, staff from other agencies that may be able to provide appropriate transition services/linkages will be invited to our meeting. The agencies they represent are shown below:"
2. The Notice of Meeting for the September 17, 2024 IEP meeting lists the role of LEA attendees that match job titles on the LEA website.
3. The Notice of Meeting for the December 12, 2024 IEP meeting lists the role of LEA attendees that match job titles on the LEA website.

Conclusion

It is found that the Local Education Agency named the LEA staff on the Notice of Meetings for the September 27, 2024 and December 12, 2024 IEPs with job titles from the LEA website and therefore met regulations for providing the complainant with proper notice of who was attending the student's IEP and is IN compliance.

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 CFR §300.321(a)(6) and was not found. Corrective action is not required.

    a. A procedural violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.322(b)(1)(i) and 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a)(1-6) was found based on the student's December 12, 2024 IEP not listing the Assistant Director of Special Services in attendance. The LEA shall immediately, within 21 school days, submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state statutes and regulations 34 C.F.R. §300.322(b)(1)(i) and 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a)(1-6).

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 233,
Olathe Public Schools: 26FC233-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on September 8, 2025, by -------on behalf of her child, -------. In the remainder of this decision, ------- will be referred to as "the parent," and ------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on October 8, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations with regard to Issue 2.

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the districts notice of appeal, and the parent's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Discussion of Issue on Appeal

The single issue on appeal is Issue 2:

> Did USD #233, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), fail to include the assistant special education director as an IEP team member on the Notices of Meeting for the September 27, 2024 and December 12, 2024 IEP meetings?

On page 8 of the report, in finding 1, the investigator says: "It is noted that the Notice of Meeting for the September 9, 2024 meeting was sent on August 29, 2024 which exceeds the 12 month period of investigation and therefore not included in consideration of the finding." That finding left only the December 12, 2024 meeting to be considered by the investigator and this Appeal Committee. Accordingly, this Committee will not consider, on appeal, any matter connected with the September 27, 2024 IEP meeting.

With regard to the December 12, 2024 IEP meeting, in her conclusion, on page 8 and 9 in the report, the investigator said:

"It was known that the Assistant Director of Special Services was listed on the Notice of Meeting for the December 12, 2024 IEP meeting and attended this IEP meeting."

That finding, alone, is sufficient to conclude that the alleged violation was not substantiated. However, the investigator went on to say, "It was discovered that the Assistant Director of Special Services was not listed as in attendance at the IEP meeting." To clarify, the Assistant Director of Special Services was listed on the Notice of Meeting for the December 12, 2024 IEP meeting and attended this IEP meeting, but the IEP did not contain verification of the Assistant Director's presence. Based on that finding, the investigator found that there was a violation of law, without citing what law had been violated.

Apparently, in her conclusion, the investigator was referring to finding 4, on page 8 of the report, where the investigator said the student's IEP does not "show the Assistant Director of Special Services listed as an IEP team meeting attendee." Even if correct, that finding is not a violation of law. As the district correctly asserts in its appeal, there is nothing in law that requires an IEP to include the names of those who attended an IEP meeting. While it may be common practice to include the names of those who attended an IEP meeting in an IEP in order to verify that required members were in attendance, no law or statute requires that an IEP contain that information.

For additional clarification, a Notice of Meeting must include "who will be in attendance (See 34 C.F.R. 300.322(b)(1)(i)." This regulation does not require this notice to include the names of those who will attend the meeting. it is sufficient that this notice include a general description of those who will attend by their relationship to the student. For example, the Notice of Meeting may state that attendees at the meeting will include a general education teacher and special education teacher of the child, without also providing the name of such attendees.

Additionally, in her appeal, the parent alleges that the Assistant Director of Special Services is an attorney and should have disclosed that information in the Notice of Meeting (NOM). While such disclosure may have been prudent, it is not required by any special education law or regulation.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the conclusion on Issue 2 in the Complaint Report is reversed. No corrective action is required.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 28th day of October, 2025.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST STATE ORGANIZATION 610 (SO610)
ON SEPTEMBER 4, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: OCTOBER 8, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education on behalf of -------- by her mother, --------. In the remainder of the report -------- will be referred to as "the student" and -------- will be referred to as the "complainant" or "the parent".

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student."

In this case, the student is a resident of the Blue Valley School District (USD #229) but receives a free appropriate public education (FAPE) at the Kansas School for the Deaf (SO610), which employs its own staff to meet the requirements of the IDEA. It is noted that the allegation investigated was made solely against SO610 and, while both USD #229 and SO610 are considered the responsible local education agency (LEA), any findings resulting in corrective action will be the responsibility of SO610..

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 60-day timeline to investigate a complaint and allow for an appeal process from the date on which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on September 4, 2025 and assigned the case for investigation on that same date.

Evidence Reviewed

Both parties were contacted via telephone during the investigation to gather and clarify information. The complainant was interviewed by telephone on September 23, 2025. SO610 made the following school personnel available for a Zoom interview on September 25, 2025:

Background Information

The student is 16 years old and currently enrolled in the tenth grade at SO610 for the 2025-26 school year. The student received early intervention services and began receiving special education and related services at the Kansas School for the Deaf at the age of three. The most recent reevaluation was completed on February 26, 2024 and the IEP team determined that the student continued to be eligible for special education and related services under the primary exceptionality category of Deaf / Blind due to medical diagnoses of bilateral sensorineural hearing loss and strabismus as well as the secondary exceptionality category of Other Health Impaired due to medical diagnoses which result in extreme fatigue and being tube fed.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint, one issue was identified and investigated.

Issue One

SO610, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the student with a free appropriate public education (FAPE), specifically by not providing the supplementary aids and services necessary to allow the student to participate in nonacademic and extracurricular activities during the past 12 months .

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(4)(ii) require that each public agency include a statement in each student's IEP describing the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

There were two IEPs in place for the student during the past 12 months. The first IEP was developed on February 26, 2024 and amended on September 23, 2024. The second IEP was developed on March 5, 2025. Both IEPs include the following statement:

The student has the opportunity to participate in all non-academic and extracurricular activities such as clubs, sports, to the same extent as non-identified peers".

The parent reported the student was a member of the cheerleading team but was excluded from participating in extracurricular activities during the 2024-25 school year when she was not allowed to cheer during the last home basketball game on January 28, 2025 due to the Cheerleading Coach not providing the agreed upon accommodations for the student's disability.

The parent reported the student had participated in sports as the manager for the basketball team during the 2023-24 school year while in eighth grade. At the beginning of the 2024-25 school year, the student had expressed interest in being the manager for the volleyball team at home games but, after discussing this with the Secondary Principal and the Activities Coordinator, it was decided this would not be appropriate in light of the responsibilities for this position at the high school level.

The parent reported and documentation shows the student was diagnosed with chronic fatigue and was being treated at both the hematology and pulmonology clinics at Children's Mercy Hospital to "improve her endurance and find a medical solution for her fatigue". This information was shared with SO610 and the student's IEP was amended on September 23, 2024 to allow the student to be dismissed at 1:30 pm on Wednesdays in order to rest.

The parent contacted the Secondary Principal on December 2, 2024 regarding the possibility of the student becoming involved in extracurricular activities as a cheerleader during the basketball season with an adapted schedule due to her health issues.

On December 4, 2024, the Secondary Principal contacted the Activities Coordinator about the possibility of the student participating in cheerleading with a flexible cheer schedule. The following questions were posed:

- What does the current cheer schedule look like?
- Would it be okay for her to attend practice once or maybe twice a week?
- Would it be okay for her to attend shorter practices if needed?
- Would it be okay for her to cheer at select games and miss others?

SO610 reported that a meeting was held on December 10, 2024 to discuss this request. The Activities Coordinator provided a written summary of that meeting as follows:

> The complainant, the student, and I met in my office to discuss how the student could participate in cheerleading given her medical conditions which prevent her from attending every practice. We agreed on the following:
>
> - The student may be included in the team picture wearing a cheerleader uniform
> - She may sit with the team on the bleachers in uniform
> - She may wave the Jackrabbits flag
> It was also agreed that the student will not participate in cheer competitions due to not being able to show up to all scheduled practices. However, if she is able to attend some practices, she may cheer with the team on the sidelines.

The December 10, 2025 written meeting summary was apparently not shared with either the complainant or the Cheerleading Coach. The complainant was surprised that waving the Jackrabbit flag was listed as one of the activities the student could participate in as a cheerleader at the home games because the Activities Coordinator had been told during that meeting that the student didn't have the strength to wave the large flags and this was not an activitiy she could do during the home games. In addition, the Cheerleading Coach stated, "I was never aware of any agreement for this student to wave a flag as I didn't know we had one".

SO610 reported there were a total of five home games scheduled following the meeting on December 10, 2024. The Cheerleading Coach confirmed that there were five home games after the student joined the team and that cheerleading practice was held "every Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday if there was not a basketball game".

The Cheerleading Coach noted that the student joined the team late and was behind the other students for learning the cheers and the steps because of the late start. The Cheerleading Coach believed the student was supposed to attend at least one practice per week but reported she was not sure how many practices the student actually attended because she did not have access to last year's records. However, based on her recollections, she indicated that the student "attended one or two practices for the entirety of her time on the team". The Cheerleading Coach also noted that the student missed the required practice where uniform fitting took place and the student's uniform did not fit her correctly.

The complainant reported the cheerleading practices were held after 6 pm and it was difficult for the student to attend due to her fatigue but that she was supposed to participate once per week to learn the routine and chants; however, the student did not need to attend cheer practices which solely focused on the competition team cheers. The complainant indicated that some of the other cheerleaders taped the cheer routines on their phones and sent them to the student so she could practice at home. In addition to practicing on her own at home, the complainant reported the student attended two of the six practices held in January 2025.

The complainant provided the Cheerleading Calendar for January 2025 which showed a total of seven cheer practices: two practices scheduled for the school weeks of January 6-10, 13-17, and 27-31; and one practice scheduled for the school week of January 20-24, 2025. The calendar showed two home games scheduled for January 21 and 28, 2025.

On January 20, 2025, the complainant sent an email to the Cheerleading Coach regarding the student missing practices due to being sick and the student's participation in the home game scheduled for January 21, 2025. The Cheerleading Coach responded that same day stating, "It is okay she hasn't been there, we have honestly just been working on the competition".

The complainant and the Cheerleading Coach both reported the student attended the game but did not cheer on the sidelines during the game; instead the student chose to sit with the cheerleading team during the game and observe.

On January 28, 2025 at 12:32 pm, the complainant sent an email to the Cheerleading Coach stating:

> I'm sorry the student didn't make if to practice last night. She was so tired she went to bed at 7. She has lots of health issues that make it pretty challenging to have any energy in the evening. She really wants to come support the team tonight. She's been practicing the cheers on her own. I hope it's okay if she comes. Hopefully next fall she will be in better health and can start cheer season at the beginning of the year. I really appreciate your understanding this season!

The Cheerleading Coach responded to the complainant on that same date at 2:14 pm in an email which stated:

> Since the student has not been at practice, I don't feel confident letting her cheer and I do not know what she has learned. I will unfortunately not have time to walk her through the cheers or dances before the games today. She may come and sit if that is what she wants. For next year, it is important she comes to practice if she wants to cheer.

The complainant responded that same date at 3:27 pm in an email sent to both the Cheerleading Coach and the Activities Coordinator stating:

> . . . I get the need to know what she has learned. She just really wants to find a place she can belong and participate and it's hard with her health issues because they do limit her so much to participate that late in the evening for practice. I thought in our conversation with Dean [Activities Coordinator] that there was flexibility for the student to participate. This is really going to break her heart.

The Activities Coordinator responded to the complainant and the Cheerleading Coach on that same date at 3:47 pm in an email and stated:

> Yes, we discussed flexibility, but to cheer with the team on the sideline, the student will need to attend practice. We expect all players to show up to practice if they want to cheer in the game. I understand that the student's health situation, and we agreed to allow her to participate in other ways if she was not able to show up to all practices, such as sitting with the team, being in the team picture, and waving the Jackrabbit flag. The student is welcome to sit with the team on the bleachers in her cheer uniform.

The complainant made a final response at 4:00 pm via email to the Activities Coordinator and the Cheerleading Coach stating:

> I just really misunderstood that she would need to attend practice as much as she needed to. Her health makes those late practices almost impossible. She is still on a modified school schedule for fatigue ordered by her physician. She thought they were practicing for the competition, and she knew that she couldn't participate in that so I think that's where she misunderstood that she didn't need to go . . . We will seek out other opportunities for her to feel like part of the KSD [Kansas School for the Deaf] community.

The complainant reported that the student chose not to attend the final home game.

After the filing of this complaint, the Superintendent, Activities Coordinator, the Secondary Principal, and the parents met on September 15, 2025 to review the situation and develop a plan for the student to participate in extracurricular activities during the 2025-26 school year. Meeting notes kept by the Superintendent state:

> Dean [Activities Coordinator] reviewed the incident, explaining that the student had missed all of the cheerleading practices. To ensure that she could still be included as part of the team, modifications were made for her participation in the last home game. These modifications included carrying the mascot flag and wearing the cheerleading uniform. Dean further clarified that , because the student had missed too many practices to participate fully in the cheers, these adjustments were intended to help her feel included and maintain her connection to the team.

These notes as well as interviews with the SO610 staff and the complainant indicate that discussions are taking place to identify modification to enable the student to act as the manager for the junior varsity volleyball team during home games this season.

Conclusion

In this case, the complainant alleges the student was excluded from participating with the cheerleading team during the final home game on January 28, 2025 because the Cheerleading Coach and the Activities Director failed to provide the agreed upon program modifications developed at the December 10, 2024 meeting.

Interviews and documentation found the Activities Coordinator, the complainant, and the student met on December 10, 2024 and agreed to the following program modifications e designed to allow the student the opportunity to participate in extracurricular activities at the Kansas School for the Deaf given her medical conditions which prevent her from attending every cheerleading practice:

- The student may be included in the team picture wearing a cheerleader uniform
- She may sit with the team on the bleachers in uniform
- She may wave the Jackrabbits flag
- The student will not participate in cheer competitions due to not being able to show up to all scheduled practices.
- However, if she is able to attend some practices, she may cheer with the team on the sidelines.

It is noted that the term “some” was not specific or defined in the meeting notes and is, therefore, open to interpretation. The Google definition will be used for the purposes of this investigation and, as such, the term “some” is defined as an unspecified number or a small amount.

Interviews and documentation found conflicting information about the number of cheerleading practices which were held as well as the number of these practices the student actually participated in during December 2024 and January 2025. The Activities Coordinator indicated the student did not attend any of the cheerleading practices; however, both the Cheerleading Coach and the complainant reported the student attended at least some of the practices.

SO610 contends that the student failed to participate in enough cheerleading practices between December 10, 2024 and January 28, 2025 to be allowed to cheer on the sidelines during the final home game of the basketball season. However, interviews with the complainant and the Cheerleading Coach both support a finding that the student attended "some" practices as was described in the program modifications determined at the December 10, 2024 meeting. For this reason, the student did meet the requirement to cheer on the sidelines during the final home game on January 28, 2025.

However, based on this incorrect interpretation of the term "some", SO610 unilaterally determined to only provide the student the opportunity to "to sit with the team on the bleachers in her cheer uniform" and thus denied the student the opportunity to cheer with her teammates during the final home game.

It should be noted the student did not cheer on the sidelines during the home game held on January 21, 2025 but instead chose to sit and observe her cheerleader peers. While this is essentially the same outcome that was offered to the student by SO610 for the January 28, 2025 home game, the glaring difference is that the student made the choice of how she would participate in the cheerleading activity on January 21st while SO610 made the decision and took away the student's opportunity to make a choice for how to participate in the game on January 28th.

Based on the foregoing, SO610 is determined to be OUT of compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(4)(ii) which require that each public agency provide program modification or supports to enable the student with a disability to be involved in in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities. As such, the following corrective actions are ordered to be completed by SO610:

Corrective Action

1. No later than 15 days from the date of this report, SO610 will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(4)(ii) which require that each public agency provide program modification or supports to enable the student with a disability to be involved in in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities.
2. SO610 will develop written procedures for developing, documenting, and sharing any program modifications that are determined necessary to be provided to a student with a disability in order to enable that student to be involved in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities. SO610 will provide SETS with a written copy of the plan and documentation that these procedures were shared with all SO610 staff responsible for extracurricular and nonacademic activities no later than October 30, 2025 .

3. SO610 will provide the Activities Coordinator with training on how to develop and document program modifications that are specific so as to avoid any miscommunication between parents and school staff in the future. SO610 will provide SETS with documentation showing the date of the training, the name of the trainer, and a summary of the training provided no late than October 30, 2025.

Background Information

This investigation involved a high school-aged student enrolled at Independence High School in USD #446. The Student is not currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). The Parent requested an evaluation for their child on August 26, 2025. On September 4, 2025, the LEA responded to the Parent that an initial evaluation was not required and rejected conducting the parent-requested evaluation.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with staff in the LEA.

1. The LEA Policy for Academic Interventions/Tiered Support indicated the following:
    a. Students in grades 9-12 who were identified as needing additional support participated in a dedicated advisory class for 60 minutes per week, which focused on individualized academic instruction in reading.
    b. Students identified as needing reading support participated in English Essentials as a required elective.
    c. "Math: At the secondary level, many data sources are used to determine if a student needs to be on an adjusted track with additional support."
    d. "Reading: All students are screened … . At the secondary level, students scoring below the 40th percentile on STAR Renaissance [formerly Standardized Test for the Assessment of Reading] are administered the Dynamic Indicators of Basic Early Literacy Skills (DIBELS) … . Those scoring in the Strategic or Intensive Intervention range are provided with Reading Interventions through push-in and pull-out services."
    e. LEA policy indicated "Students can be moved out [of] or into all supports based on data from each screening window."
2. A Behavior Detail Report for the 2024-25 school year for the Student indicated three behavior incidents (October 29, 2024, November 25 and 26, 2024) for "excessive tardiness," with a resolution of detention for 25 minutes.
3. A Student Period Attendance Detail indicated the following for the 2024-25 school year:
    a. Period 1: 21 total absences, four tardies;
    b. Period 2: 21 total absences, zero tardies;
    c. Period 3: 21 total absences, zero tardies;
    d. Advisory: 22 total absences, one tardy;
    e. Period 4: 23 total absences, zero tardies;

10. An undated STAR assessment listed the following scores for the Student:
    a. Reading Enterprise:
       i. Grade 9- August 16, 2024: "13th percentile, Intervention."
       ii. Grade 9-December 11, 2024: "15th percentile, Intervention."
       iii. Grade 9- April 16, 2025: "28th percentile, On watch."

iii. Grade 9- April 14, 2025: "26th percentile, On watch."

iv. Grade 10- August 14, 2025: "57th percentile, At/Above Norm Reference Benchmark."

11. In reference to the Student getting out of the Reading Essentials class, the Assistant Principal stated, "[The Student] tested into [the class]" based on the DIBELS' screening and STAR score for the 2024-25 school year. "This year, [the Student's] STAR score grew significantly. In [20]25 [they] qualified for a DIBELS screener, [and they] did pass benchmark there, and [then] was tested out of Reading Essentials." They added, the Student's grades now are mostly "B's."

12. The Assistant Principal indicated the Student's "[Graduation Related Analytic Data] GRAD score showed [they were] on track to graduate." This score was a tool used to show potential through attendance, behavior, and grade data.

13. When asked about communication with the Parents last year, the Assistant Principal indicated, "I tried to contact them and was unsuccessful. I recall that personally. … [through] phone calls."

14. An August 26, 2025 letter from the Parent to the Records Clerk served as a formal, written request for a "comprehensive special education evaluation" and was signed by the Parent. The Parent expressed concern about the Student's inability to sustain attention, focus, and follow through on academic tasks.

15. On August 26, 2025, the School Counselor emailed the Parent acknowledging their formal request for a special education evaluation. They informed the Parent they planned on gathering teacher input and "as much information as possible in order to make the most informed decision for your student." They also requested to schedule a team meeting to discuss and offered a time to meet.

16. On August 29, 2025, the School Counselor emailed the Choir Teacher informing them the Student had been referred to the SIT. They inquired about concerns regarding "[the Student's] ability to learn, stay focused, etc." As well as any accommodations or modifications that have been successful with the Student.

17. The School Psychologist indicated the Student was referred to SIT on August 28, 2025, which was "a few days after we had gotten the Parent request." When asked how this was communicated to the Parent, they stated, "I think [the Assistant Principal] wanted to get the [SIT] to discuss, to see if there were any concerns from teachers about [the Student], because we had already had information from the Parent and we were getting ready to meet with the Parent. So [the Assistant Principal] wanted to meet with the teachers to see what concerns we had so that we could bring them to the meeting the following day to talk with the Parent."

18. An Intervention Meeting document dated [September 3, 2025] indicated teacher feedback regarding the Student. It described the current concern for the Student as "attentiveness and motivation." Data shared with the team indicated the following:

    a. Reading:

        i. "August [20]24 - 13th percentile";

ii. "December [20]24 - 15th percentile";

iii. "April [20]25 - 28th percentile"; and

iv. "August [20]25 - 29th percentile."

b. Math:

i. "August [20]24 - 25th percentile";

ii. "December [20]24 - 31st percentile";

iii. "April [20]25 - 26th percentile"; and

iv. "August [20]25 - 57th percentile."

c. The Preliminary version of the college entrance exam (PreACT)

i. "Composite Score 13: Math, 12; English 11; Reading 13."

d. GRAD Score

i. "122 - everything looks good[,] but attendance 87% last year."

e. Meeting notes indicated:

1. The Student was "motivated" to "test out" of an Essentials Class, which the Student was able to do.

2. Attendance was discussed, and it was noted the Student's frequent absences last school year may have contributed to their missing assignments.

3. The Student had missing assignments for the majority of the 2024-25 school year and spent time during Advisory period in the guidance office getting "caught up."

19. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Assistant Principal described the [September 3, 2025] SIT meeting.

a. Prior to the meeting, the Parent "filled out a request, sent an email to [the LEA], and said they would like to have [the Student] tested for special education."

b. "We set up a meeting with [the] Parent, myself, and the School Psychologist.

c. The protocol is to take information about a student to SIT. "So, we put [the Student] on our SIT agenda." The SIT members then reached out to "every teacher [the Student] has to get feedback" regarding performance in each class. A reading specialist pulled the Student's testing data. All of this information was presented at the meeting and the team "discussed that data. … [We were] looking at the interventions that we were already doing with [the Student] through our reading program and an adjustment that we made with our math class. Those interventions worked."

d. The team knew these interventions worked due to:

ii. "Feedback from teachers;"

iii. The Student also showed significant growth in reading. The reading specialist in the SIT meeting was the Student's reading program teacher and mentioned the Student "was very motivated to not be in that program. … [the Student] testing out of our reading intervention showed one piece of growth."

iv. Math "was a concern at [the] semester, but I remember a conversation with myself and our counselor, who was doing a grade check, and then checked in with [the Student's] math teacher last year … [the Student] wasn't progressing well in Math One. … We moved [the Student] to Pre-Math second semester [2024-25 school year] and [they] passed. And then this year in math, [the Student's] done well … [Their] math teacher spoke [in SIT] that [the Student] was doing really well and [was] very surprised that there was even a concern."

v. For classes the Student was not passing, "there was a significant amount of missing assignments" and "there was quite a bit of absences."

vi. They noted that this is the only meeting they have had about the Student. "I tried to get in touch with [one of the Parents] because after the math move, we were trying to get in contact with them, and it has always been a struggle. So, when we got contact from [the] Parents, they actually contacted our special ed[ucation department]. So no one's ever asked for anything for us or even requested any information from us."

20. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the School Psychologist described the SIT meeting and referral process:

a. "When any parent has concerns about their student, we refer them to the [SIT] to help figure out some [GEI]. … Teachers can refer, anybody can refer a student if they find that they're having struggles in any academic, any social, maybe it's attendance, maybe it's their buy-in to school in general, but anybody can refer their student to the SIT."

b. There is a document that teachers fill out when they have concerns and are "wanting to send a student to the SIT." When asked how parents refer their student to SIT, "I think it's more of a communication, like a verbal communication. I don't know if we have a form for parents to fill out."

c. "When the SIT team meets, they get feedback from all of the students' teachers, gather up as much information that we can about a student, and then we discuss problem areas that we see in the student, things that we can improve on, [and] the student's strengths. We openly discuss how we might be able to help the child."

d. "If a student isn't responding well to [GEI], we would refer them to the special education team to start the evaluation process if we deem it necessary."

e. The SIT is comprised of general education teachers, one special education teacher, the School Psychologist, an administrator, a reading interventionist, and "a couple of different teachers from each department, like math, reading, history."

21. The School Psychologist described interventions specific to the Student, "At this point [September 3, 2025 SIT Meeting], we hadn't had any concerns for [the Student] that couldn't be addressed through GEI. [They were] put in a reading essentials class, which is the general education reading intervention class … [as] an intervention."
22. A Notice of Meeting dated September 4, 2025 specified a meeting date of September 4, 2025, at 2:30 at the High School. Delivery to the Parents was marked mailed and emailed by the School Psychologist. The purpose of the meeting indicated by an "X" stated, "If your child will be at least 14 years old during the anticipated duration of this IEP… . …Your child is invited by the school to attend the meeting," and "X", "Other: Parent request for initial evaluation, team discussion."
23. The School Psychologist noted, "We don't always meet when getting consent for an evaluation, but I think it's really important to talk with the parents, especially when there's a request, to hear what their specific concerns are and if we have any more questions. … You get so much more information than talking to them on the phone or … through email. So I really like to have a face-to-face conversation with parents, especially when they [a]re wanting to voice concerns. … It can be really intimidating to sit at a table with education professionals, … but for communication['s] sake, … we can have that back and forth. … I just think it's best practice to meet with a parent."
24. In an Interview with the Complaint Investigator, the School Psychologist indicated they met with the Parent, the Assistant Principal, the School Counselor, and the Family Educational Advisor the day after the SIT meeting. The following is relevant information from the School Psychologist's account of the meeting:
    a. "I was just very confused where this all came from, because it was just all of a sudden [the Student] needs an IEP. … We hadn't had any specific concerns before and [the Student] had made progress, [they were] actively making progress."
    b. "The atmosphere of that meeting was very hostile." "[The Parent] immediately started the meeting off with, 'I'm not going to take no for an answer and I'll take you to court.' … We were hearing things that [the Parent] was doing to help [the Student]; all about the truancy that [the Student] had last year and how [the Parent was] just making [the Student] go [to school] regardless if [they are] sick. And if [the Student was] sick, [the Parent's idea was] the school [would then] send [the Student] home. … Truancy was a really big issue [for the Student] last school year. [The Parent] also expressed to us … [the Student's] previous school … coddled [the Student] and they wouldn't listen to [the Parent's] concerns and they wouldn't do anything about [their] concerns either." "It's hard when a student misses 20% of their school year."
    c. "Anytime I said something, it was very uncomfortable. … [The Family Educational Advisor] kept asking for us to diagnose [the Student] with [Attention-Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder] ADHD. … I thought it was really strange if [they were] an educational advisor, why [were they] advising these things that schools don't do." "I asked, has [the Student] ever been diagnosed with ADHD or [do they] take any medication for attention, and [the Parent] said 'no, a doctor won't diagnose [them] with ADHD.' … I said I do see that [the Student] does take some medication, can you explain to me what that medication is for? and [the Parent] said '[they] take it for [their] attention and depression and anxiety.' … I think [the Parent] was saying that the depression medication does help [the Student] with [their] anxiety and attention. … And then the [Family Education Advisor] asked if I could diagnose [the Student] with ADHD. And I said, No, schools do not diagnose. We are not medical professionals. And ADHD is a medical diagnosis."

d. The Family Education Advisor continued asking about Other Health Impairment (OHI) and ADHD. The School Psychologist responded to them, "I am an educational professional. I am not a medical professional. I cannot diagnose your child with ADHD. … And we talked about how, during an evaluation, we find characteristics of ADHD or characteristics of a student that might be linked to an ADHD child, similarities. And that was explained, but I never said that I diagnose ADHD. I try to make that very clear."

e. "Towards the end [of the meeting], we were talking about all the positive things that [the Student] has done in response to [GEI]. [The Parent] almost got even more and more defensive, which is weird because those are positive things, but yet, [they were] a little bit more negative about it. … I also understand that [the Parent] really wants [the Student] on an IEP for OHI."

f. The end of the meeting was described as "very hostile." The School Psychologist recalled, "When it was told that we were not going forward with a special education evaluation, they said that they would be filing for due process and they would be taking us to court. And they were demanding the [PWN]. They wanted to sign the [PWN], but I told them that there wasn't any need to sign the [PWN] because we weren't moving forward with any special education action. I asked [the Parent] to stay so that I can write everything and make sure that I documented everything. And [they] said, 'no, I don't have time for that. I have to get back to work.' I [asked if they] would like me to email it to [them], or I can print it up so that it's easier to read instead of trying to read my chicken scratch. [The Parent responded] 'yes, that's fine. Just make sure you email me the [PWN] and … the next steps to take, or whatever, to take you to court.' [I responded] 'no, I can't advise you what to do.'"

g. At the end of the meeting, "I felt like the Parent was mad that we weren't going through with an evaluation and [they thought] that we were just dismissing their child. And I really don't think that [they] listened to any of the positive things that we said. … But I think that the Parent left that meeting ready to fight for [the] Student, not physically fight, but [they] wanted this to happen and [they were] really upset that it didn't happen."

25. A Prior Written Notice (PWN) dated September 4, 2025 indicated the following:
    a. The proposed action: "The LEA refuses to conduct an initial evaluation. (Parental Consent Not Required)."
    b. The explanation of why the action was refused indicated, "LEA [rejected] the option to conduct an initial evaluation at this time. The team does not suspect the Student has a disability that significantly impedes [their] ability to access appropriate education. [The Student] has been referred for the [SIT] to address and monitor [their] missing assignments. In advisory class, [their] teacher will be monitoring missing assignments weekly. To address attendance, [the Parent] said that [they] plan to send [the Student] to school even when [they] may be sick. The team also discussed the option for [the Student] staying after school for tutoring in order to work on any missing assignments. After school tutoring has not previously been utilized by [the Student], and the team would like to see [them] [utilize] this when [they] [get] behind on assignments. [The Student] has tested out of the [GEI] in English and [has] made great gains in the area of math, displayed through [their] district assessments. [The Student] is responding well to [GEI], and the school team believes [they] will continue to make gains with assistance monitoring missing assignments, and attending school regularly."
        i. Additionally, the action was refused, indicating the "School team shared data that [the Student] is not displaying significant deficits in these areas. Last school year, [the Student] was placed in the English Essentials class, a Tier 2 [GEI]. The English Essentials teacher expressed that [the Student] was highly motivated and a hard worker in that class. This year, [the Student] has tested out of the intervention and no longer required this intervention. After failing [their] first semester of Math 1, [the Student] was placed in a general education math intervention class to help [them] build necessary skills. This school year [the Student] has made excellent gains in the area of math and is successful in Math 1, reported by [the Student's] current math teacher. Overall, the team is seeing positive gains in response to [GEI]. … [The Parent] shared that [the Student] does not have an ADHD diagnosis but does take some medication to address mental health (depression/anxiety). … [The] School Psychologist expressed that schools do not have the ability to diagnose students at all, only help identify different characteristics that may [be] attribute[d] to academic deficits."
        ii. It was noted the Student was considered "chronically truant," and the absences may have "attributed" to the Student's missing assignments and failing/low grades.

iii. The Parent and the Family Education Advisor requested the Student be evaluated for OHI and conveyed the Student may not qualify, but "would like an evaluation to get the information."

c. Options considered and the reasons the options were rejected indicated, "… an initial evaluation was rejected on the basis that [the Student] has made academic progress through [GEI] and the team does not suspect that [the Student] required specifically designed instruction in order to have education[al] success."

d. Data used as a basis for the refused action indicated:

i. Input from three general education teachers was taken into consideration. The Choir Teacher noted the Student struggled with "retention" and "self-awareness". The Math Teacher indicated the Student answered questions correctly when asked, and "does not suspect need for special education."
The Advisory Teacher noted the Student had multiple missing assignments last year, and the Student "does not take direction well, but not in a defiant way." They noted the Student was only missing one assignment thus far in the school year, which was an improvement.

ii. Additional data used: The Student's grades were taken into consideration; The Student's attendance information from the 2024-25 school year was noted; District assessment information for reading and math was taken into consideration; and the Parent input and team discussion were taken into consideration.

e. Other factors considered relevant to refusal of action indicated, "The team is not initiating an evaluation for special education at this time. The school team has outlined [the Student] attending school regularly, turning assignments in on time, and utilizing school-provided after-school tutoring as ways to address [P]arent's concerns."

f. Team members indicated on the form included: the Parent, the Family Education Advisor, the School Psychologist, the Assistant Principal, and the School Counselor.

g. Noted on the PWN was that the PWN was not immediately given to the Parent, as the Parent was unable to wait for the information to be documented.

h. The document listed the school contact person as the School Psychologist and indicated delivery was to the Parent with an "X" for other with no specificity, and dated September 5, 2025.

26. A Request for Consent for Special Education dated September 4, 2025, completed by the School Psychologist indicated "No signature is required. No special education action is being taken."

27. On September 4, 2025, the Assistant Principal emailed the Advisory Teacher and explained the Student had been referred to SIT, and the main concern was regarding missing assignments. They inquired about the regularity of turned-in student work.
28. On September 5, 2025, the School Psychologist emailed the Parent, per the Parent's request, the PWN, which outlined " … the conversation we had yesterday and the school's decision to not initiate a special education evaluation." They also attached a copy of the Parent Rights in Special Education.
29. An undated document titled "Information on Communication, Meetings, and Concerns" described the following items:
    a. "Per interview on September 18, 2025 with [the School Counselor] and [the Assistant Principal], there was no communication to the school from [the P]arents, or from the school, regarding concerns for [the Student] prior to the request for special education evaluation by [Parents]."
    b. "The school was following their process for students that were showing a need, and the interventions worked, therefore there was not a need to reach out with concerns."
    c. The September 4, 2025 meeting's purpose was to address the Parent's concerns and their request for evaluation. They also reviewed the supports provided over the past year to the Student, along with "the data that supports the determination that a disability is not suspected and that specially designed instruction [SDI] is not warranted at this time."
    d. The School Psychologist asked the Parent during the meeting if the Student had an official diagnosis of ADHD, as the Parent continued to mention it. The Parent replied, "No, the doctor won't diagnose [the Student] with ADHD." The Family Education Advisor specifically asked the School to diagnose the Student with ADHD. The School Psychologist clarified that schools cannot diagnose ADHD. The Family Education Advisor then modified the request, asking if the School could at least diagnose "characteristics of ADHD," to which the School Psychologist again clarified, while a school can identify characteristics, they cannot diagnose them.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #446, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, implemented child find requirements. K.A.R. 91-40-7 (a)(b)(2)(c)(1)(2)(A)(C)(D)(3); 34 § C.F.R. 300.111(a)(c).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-7 (a)(b)(2)(c)(1)(2)(A)(C)(D)(3) Each board shall adopt and implement policies and procedures to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in its jurisdiction, including children with exceptionalities who meet any of the following criteria: attend private schools; are highly mobile, including migrant and homeless children; or are suspected of being children with disabilities even though they are advancing from grade to grade. In addition, each board's policies and procedures under this regulation shall include age-appropriate screening procedures that meet the following requirements: for children from ages five through 21, observations, instruments, measures, and techniques that disclose any potential exceptionality and indicate a need for evaluation, including hearing and vision screening as required by state law. School personnel have data-based documentation indicating that before the referral or as a part of the referral, all of the following conditions were met: the child was provided with appropriate instruction in regular education settings that was delivered by qualified personnel; the child's academic achievement was repeatedly assessed at reasonable intervals that reflected formal assessment of the student's progress during instruction; the assessment results were provided to the child's parent or parents; the assessment results indicate that an evaluation is appropriate; and the parent of a child request an evaluation of the child and the board agrees that an evaluation of the child is appropriate.

The Parent alleged the LEA failed to fulfill its Child Find requirements on September 4, 2025, when it refused to initiate an evaluation of the Student per the Parent's written request, which was submitted on August 26, 2025.

The LEA clarified they have policies and procedures for Child Find and based on those procedures, the Student was placed in a reading intervention class (and later "tested out"), the Student was moved to a general education math intervention class to increase math skills (and has since shown "high growth"), and the Student has shown growth with "significantly less" missing assignments.

The LEA's tiered support system included reading and math screenings. In ninth grade, the Student's STAR Reading scores were in the "Intervention" range, leading to placement in English Essentials and a dedicated advisory class. By April 2025, their score improved to the 28th percentile, and they exited English Essentials for the 2025-26 school year based on STAR growth and DIBELS. For math, the Student failed Math I Term 1, was moved to Pre-Math I for Term 2 (which they passed), and showed improved STAR Math scores. The LEA concluded the Student was making progress and responding well to the GEI.

The Parent formally requested a special education evaluation on August 26, 2025, due to concerns about the Student's attention and follow-through. The Student was referred to the SIT on August 28, 2025. The SIT met on September 3, 2025, reviewing teacher input, low PreACT scores, attendance issues, and missing assignments; the concern was documented as "attentiveness and motivation." The LEA met with the Parent on September 4, 2025. The Parent and the Family Education Advisor requested an evaluation for OHI and ADHD. However, the Parent noted a doctor would not diagnose ADHD and the School Psychologist clarified that the School cannot diagnose it.

Based on evidence of the Student's growth and positive response to GEIs (e.g., testing out of English Essentials and math gains), the LEA refused to conduct an initial evaluation. The September 4, 2025 PWN stated the team did not suspect the Student had a disability requiring SDI, believing the Student would continue to make gains with assistance for regular attendance and monitoring missing assignments. The LEA demonstrated a system of GEI and academic screenings that identified the Student as needing support in reading and math, in accordance with the requirement to have a system to identify, locate, and evaluate all children residing in the State who are suspected of being a child with a disability. The LEA then provided GEIs that the team concluded were successful, based on assessment data (STAR scores) and teacher feedback.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations K.A.R. 91-40-7 (a)(b)(2)(c)(1)(2)(A)(C)(D)(3), it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to implement child find.

Issue Two

Whether USD #446, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, declined a parent request for an initial special education evaluation and used RTI and GEI data as the basis to decline the initial evaluation. K.A.R. 91-040-8, K.S.A. 72-3428, K.A.R. 91-40-7 (c), K.A.R. 91-40-11 (b)(1)(A)(B)(c)(2)(A), 34 §§ C.F.R. 300.301 (a)(b)(c), 300.305 (a)(1)(2)(d).

According to K.A.R. 91-040-8, each agency shall ensure that a full and individual evaluation is conducted for each child being considered for special education and related services. Each evaluation shall include procedures to determine the following: whether the child is an exceptional child, and what the educational needs of the child are. The evaluation team shall review existing evaluation data on the child, including the following information: evaluations and information provided by the parent or parents of the child; current classroom-based, local, and state assessments and classroom-based observations; and observations by teachers and related services providers. On the basis of that review and input from the child's parent or parents, the evaluation team shall identify what additional data, if any, is needed to determine the following matters: whether the child has a particular category of exceptionality or, in the case of a reevaluation of a child, whether the child continues to have such an exceptionality; what the present levels of academic achievement and educational and related developmental needs of the child are; and whether the child needs special education and related services, or in the case of a reevaluation of a child, whether the child continues to need special education and related services.

According to K.S.A. 72-3428, an agency shall conduct a full and individual initial evaluation in accordance with this section before the initial provision of special education and related services to an exceptional child. An initial evaluation may be initiated either by the parent of a child or by an agency. An initial evaluation shall consist of procedures to determine whether a child is an exceptional child and the educational needs of such child. The screening of a student by a teacher or specialist to determine appropriate instructional strategies for curriculum implementation shall not be considered to be an evaluation under this act. An agency proposing to conduct an initial evaluation of a child shall obtain informed consent from the parent of such child before the evaluation is conducted. Parental consent for evaluation shall not be construed as consent for placement for receipt of special education and related services. If the parent of a child refuses consent for an initial evaluation of the child, or fails to respond to a written request to provide consent, the agency may, but shall not be required to, continue to pursue an initial evaluation by utilizing the mediation or due process procedures prescribed in this act. An agency shall provide notice to the parents of a child that describes any evaluation procedures the agency proposes to conduct.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-7 (c), any board may refer a child who is enrolled in public school for an evaluation if one of the following conditions is met: school personnel have data-based documentation indicating that general education interventions and strategies would be inadequate to address the areas of concern for the child. School personnel have data-based documentation indicating that before the referral or as a part of the referral, all of the following conditions were met: the child was provided with appropriate instruction in regular education settings that was delivered by qualified personnel; the child's academic achievement was repeatedly assessed at reasonable intervals that reflected formal assessment of the student's progress during instruction. School personnel must ensure the assessment results are provided to the child's parent or parents, and the assessment results indicate that an evaluation is appropriate. The parent of the child requests and gives written consent for an evaluation of the child, and the board agrees that an evaluation of the child is appropriate.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-11, a group evaluating a child for a specific learning disability may determine that the child has that disability only if the following conditions are met: the child does not achieve adequately for the child's age or meet state-approved grade-level standards, if any, in one or more of the following areas—Oral expression, listening comprehension, written expression, basic reading skill, reading fluency skills, reading comprehension, mathematics calculation, and mathematics problem solving—when the child is provided with learning experiences and instruction appropriate for the child’s age and grade level; and the child does not make sufficient progress to meet age or state-approved grade-level standards in one or more of the areas identified above when using a process based on the child’s response to scientific, research-based intervention, or the child exhibits a pattern of strengths and weaknesses in performance, achievement, or both, relative to age, grade-level standards, or intellectual development that is determined by the group conducting the evaluation to be relevant to the identification of a specific learning disability, using appropriate assessments. Furthermore, the group evaluating the child shall ensure that the child is observed in the child’s learning environment, including the regular classroom setting, to document the child’s academic performance and behavior in the areas of difficulty, and in conducting the observation, the group may employ either of the following procedures: Use information from an observation in routine classroom instruction and monitoring of the child's performance that was done before the child was referred for an evaluation, or have at least one member of the group conduct an observation of the child's academic performance in the regular classroom after the child has been referred for an evaluation and parental consent is obtained.

The Parent alleged the LEA refused to complete an evaluation for special education services due to a lack of a medical statement. The Parent alleged the LEA violated policy by using RTI and GEI data to deny an initial evaluation request.

The LEA clarified they identified areas of need for the Student, and they were placed in a reading intervention class (and later "tested out"), and were moved to a general education math intervention class to increase math skills (and have since shown "high growth"). Data showed these interventions by the LEA were adequate, which meant they had no reason to initiate special education evaluation.

The evidence confirms the LEA declined the Parent's request for an initial special education evaluation on September 4, 2025, formally documented in a PWN. The LEA used the Student's positive response to and success with GEI as the basis to decline the initial evaluation. Specifically, the PWN cited the Student "testing out of the [GEI] in English" and making "great gains in the area of math." The LEA concluded the Student was responding well to GEIs, and therefore, the team did not suspect a disability that would require SDI.

This action by the LEA, utilizing GEI/RTI data to inform the decision not to evaluate, aligns with the principles codified in K.A.R. 91-40-11 (b)(1)(A), which requires the use of a variety of assessment tools and strategies, including "existing data" and information provided by the parent. It also relates to K.A.R. 91-40-7 (c) and K.S.A. 72-3428, which recognize that a tiered system of support (like RTI/GEI) is a part of general education.

Based on the evidence, the LEA followed its process, implemented documented GEI, and used data showing the Student was making sufficient progress and was responsive to those GEIs. The LEA then documented this existing data in the PWN to support its conclusion that a disability was not suspected and SDI was not warranted at that time, which is consistent with the framework supported by state regulations.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations K.A.R. 91-040-8, K.S.A. 72-3428, K.A.R. 91-40-7 (c), and K.A.R. 91-40-11 (b)(1)(A)(B)(c)(2)(A), it is not substantiated that the LEA's use of RTI and GEI data as the basis to decline the initial evaluation was a violation of regulations.

Background Information

This investigation involved a fifth-grade student enrolled at a middle school in USD #231. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA under the eligibility category of Autism. The Student is described as "sweet, energetic, and self-determined." (D1)

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the staff in the LEA.

1. The Student's attendance during the 2024-25 school year was marked as out-of-school suspended (OSS) for the following dates and frequencies:
    a. January 17, 2025 (1 day),
    b. January 21, 2025 (1 day),
    c. January 24-28, 2025 (3 days),
    d. January 30-February 4, 2025 (3.5 days),

e. February 27-March 5, 2025 (4.5 days), for

f. A total of 13 days. (D49-D51)

2. An August 14, 2024 through February 27, 2025 Incident Profile Report for the Student cited 35 incidents. Of those incidents, 27 resulted in "conference with student and parent," 4 resulted in "out of school suspension," for a total of thirteen days, and five incidents did not list an "attribute." (D56-D62; D382-D383)
3. From September 9, 2024 through January 29, 2025, Emergency Safety Intervention Documentation Forms indicated there were 20 instances of restraint and one instance of seclusion for the Student, ranging from one minute to 10 minutes. Harm to others was cited as the reason for 12 of the incidents and self-injurious behavior was cited as the reason for nine of the incidents. Minimally, the Parent or Parent 2 was contacted on the same day for each incident. (D73-D152)
4. A data chart for behavior with a date range of October 7, 2024 through January 30, 2025 included the following incident counts (total incident count for all dates listed, with some dates having multiple incidents within and among the four categories):
   a. Aggression- 81
   b. Property destruction- 101
   c. Elopement- 7
   d. Self-injurious behaviors- 57 (D350)
5. The Student's October 9, 2024 IEP listed an "exceptionality" of "Autism (Primary)" (D1) and included the following relevant items:
   a. Present Levels
      i. The Student is diagnosed with "Autism, ADD/ADHD, Anxiety, and Unspecified, Disruptive, Impulse-Control and Conduct Disorder."
      ii. The Student is "sweet, energetic, and self-determined" and "enjoys listening to music, dancing, swinging, and food."
      iii. "Daily behaviors have been a barrier to participation in activities and lessons in the general education homeroom classroom, special education classroom, and elective classes."
      iv. Primary behavior concerns are "physical violence" and "emotional outbursts," and include hitting, kicking, and punching people and furniture, reciting inappropriate profanities, and self-harming behaviors. (D3-D4)
   b. Measurable Annual Finals
      i. Five goals were listed and the following three relevant goals include specific benchmarks:
         1. Appropriately greeting adults and engaging in a "small talk conversation while utilizing manners."

2. "When emotions are elevated within a special education setting, [the Student] will be able to expressively state how [they are] feeling and why."
3. When participating in structured tasks, the Student will be able to express personal information ([their] name, [their] parents' names, [their] age, birthday, [their] address, and [their] parents' phone number)." (D5-D6)

c. Services Summary indicated the following:

i. The following services were in the "Special Ed[ucation] Direct Services outside Regular Ed[ucation] Classroom" setting and were to occur weekly from October 9, 2024 through May 25, 2025 and August 13, 2025 through October 8, 2025:

1. Speech and Language as a Related Service for 2 days, 20 minutes per day.
2. Special Education Services (Pre-Academics) for 2 days, 395 minutes per day.
3. Special Education Services (Pre-Academics) for 3 days, 375 minutes per day.
4. Attendant Care for 5 days, 30 minutes per day.
5. Music Therapy (Communication) for 1 day, 20 minutes.

ii. The following Accommodations/Modification/Supplementary Aids and Services with start and end dates of October 9, 2024- October 8, 2025:

1. Two adults/supporting staff members present, daily, throughout the school day, in general and special education classrooms.
2. Visuals to "support structure for communication, routines, and academic activities," daily, throughout the duration of the school day, in the special education classroom.
3. Allow dication/scribe, anytime a writing assignment is given that involves more than one sentence, for the length of the assignment, in general and special education classrooms.
4. Positive Behavior Supports System, throughout the school day, for the duration of the IEP, in general and special education classrooms.
5. Alert the Student to transitions, anytime a transition occurs, for the duration of the IEP, in general and special education classrooms.
6. Access to fidget toys, anytime the Student is in a general education classroom, library/computer class, or assemblies, for the duration of the IEP, in general education classrooms.

7. "Other front row seating, closest to the door," throughout the Student's day, for the duration of the IEP, in general and special education classrooms.
8. Access to a padded helmet, throughout the school day, for the duration of the IEP, in general and special education classrooms.
9. Use a harness on the bus, when on the bus, for the duration of the bus ride to and from home/school, during special education transportation.

iii. Relevant supports for School Personnel were "Classroom support staff who work with [the Student] on a daily basis will be trained on Crisis Prevention Institute (CPI) Nonviolent Crisis Intervention Training" once per year for the duration of the IEP year. The rationale listed was "[The Student's] behavior requires supporting staff to be familiar with CPI in case of emergency." (D7-D9)

6. The Student's Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) was included in the October 9, 2024 IEP and listed the following relevant items:

      iii. "Description of where the behavior is likely or least likely to occur" did not include information.
      iv. "Description of other relevant factors such as setting events that increase or decrease the likelihood of the behavior occurring (Identify Circumstances that appear to come before the behavior or make the problem behavior more likely)":
         1. "The problem behavior is more likely to occur if the Student is not given access to [their] preferred adult/someone new is asked to work with [them]."
         2. "Schedule and routine being different."
         3. "Overworking without being given frequent breaks."

4. "Getting too long of a break (allowing [the Student] the chance to become 'bored')."

d. "Hypothesized Behavioral Function(s) as Identified by the Functional Behavior Assessment (FBA)" had Escape marked with "2" and Sensory marked with "Q."

e. "Summary Statement of Function" was listed as "to avoid working" and "wanting something but not being able to communicate effectively."

f. "Behavior goals and teaching steps" did not include any information.

g. "Antecedent Strategies" did not include any information.

h. "Reinforcement" listed the following:

i. What should staff do to prevent the problem behavior?

1. "Provide a timer for transitions."
2. "Provide multiple opportunities for positive praise and breaks throughout the day."
3. "Utilize a first, then board."
4. "Allow [the Student] the opportunity to request more time before a transition (verbally or with the use of visuals)."
5. "Honor appropriate requests."
6. "Prompt functional communication if [the Student's] motivation is clear."
7. "Adult should position their body between [the Student] and whatever it is [they are] trying to obtain while prompting [them] through appropriately making the request."

i. "Reactive Plan" included the following steps:

i. "Redirect behavior/Prompting [the Student] to appropriately make [their] request."

ii. "When [the Student] makes [their] request, repeat the initial direction (utilizing [their] first, then board)."

iii. "If [the Student] successfully elopes from [their] designated area, the adult working with [them] will yell 'BLOCK.' Any available adult within the room will step in front of [them] to block [their] access."

iv. "If [the Student] is successfully blocked, the adult working with [them] will redirect [the Student] by giving [them] the option of returning to [their] work station or taking a break on the crash pad. A 1-minute timer will be used to allow [the Student] wait time to make [their] choice. If the timer goes off and [they have] not made a choice, the teacher will direct [the Student] to [their] crash pad. Directions will be repeated using first, then statements and visuals until [the Student] is able to independently to walk to the crash pad."

v. "If [the Student] willingly walks to [their] crashpad, de-escalation strategies may begin; however, if [the Student] refuses to comply and begins to demonstrate Self-injurious Behavior or aggression towards adults, peers, or [themself], an assistance call will be made."

vi. "Once assistance arrives, [the Student] will be escorted to the chill room/safe room area."

vii. "When in the chill room, [the Student] must sit in a designated safe spot, displaying a calm body for 2 minutes (a timer must be used). If [the Student] is unable to sit calmly for the 2-minute timer, provide [them] with space, limit your communication with [them] and utilize behavior expectation visuals to reinforce expectations. Directions may be verbally repeated to [the Student] every 2 minutes. Positive praise and reinforcement will not be given until [the Student] is able to display a safe body and remain in the designated area assigned by the adult. Requests for food/sensory room will not be immediately honored."

viii. "If [the Student] is able to display a calm body throughout the 2-minute timer, the adult supervising must praise [them] for demonstrating a safe and calm body and offer [them] a blanket and additional time for space. An additional 2 minutes may be given during this time."

ix. "Once [the Student's] 2nd timer goes off and [they are] displaying the ability to remain regulated, [they] will be required to complete a minimum of 3 work tasks for tokens. Teacher will state, 'It's time to do some work.' Or if the motivation is clear, the teacher will state, 'We are going to work for three tokens so we can get [blank].' Teacher can give [the Student] the choice between working on the floor or at a table."

x. "If [the Student] begins to show precursor behaviors during [their] compliance work, the adult working with [them] should provide [the Student] with functional communication to escape the demand (ex: "break", "I'm not ready," etc.). If [the Student] imitates the request, it should always be honored. The adult should only prompt the functional communication for escape twice. If [the Student] does not respond to the phrase provided, the adult will model the language and provide space and a 2-minute timer for [the Student] to sit on [their] crash pad."

xi. "If [the Student] becomes dysregulated further, repeat steps 7-9."

xii. "If [the Student] is able to complete [their] 3 work tasks (earning a token with each task completion), [they] will be given access to a break of [their] choice (sensory room, take a walk, snack, etc.)."

xiii. "Once [the Student] has [their] break, [they] may return to the classroom." (D10-D11)

7. In an undated FBA, four target behaviors were listed: physical aggression, self-injurious behavior, property destruction, and elopement. All target behaviors noted

"attention" as a hypothesized function of behavior and "sensory" as a secondary hypothesized function, except for elopement, which did not have a noted secondary function. (D70-D72)

8. In an October 30, 2024 email to Coordinator 1, the Case Manager, the School Psychologist, and the Assistant Principal, the Principal stated, "We did choose [out of school suspension] OSS for the remainder of the day after additional conflict at 12:03 [p.m.]." (D197) The Principal emailed the same group later in the day and stated, "Just a heads up. I am meeting [Parent 2] at 3 [p.m.] today. [They] brought up out-of-district placement. Obviously, this is not my decision[,] but [I] wanted to keep you in the loop." (D198) The Principal sent a third email to this group a few minutes later and stated, "I did remove OSS as it is an early release day and [the] Parents were unable to pick [the Student] up. [The Student] will be back at [the School] tomorrow." (D200)
9. The last bus incident that I read indicates [the Student] is also engaging in these new self-injurious behaviors on the bus." (D276)
The Principal replied with a time they could meet and added, "I do have insight from [Parent 2] that I can share. It is basically that we cannot keep [the Student] safe and [they] need a different facility. [The Student] returns on Wednesday [January 29, 2025]." (D278)

    d. The Family Resource Specialist noted that IEP goals were important, but "following directions and staying safe are of the greatest importance right now."

    e. The Parent noted the Student has to be restrained at home as well, but is likely calmer at home due to getting 1:1 attention and not having the same "stressors and expectations as [they] would in the school setting."

    f. The Director of Special Education asked the Parent about a reduced day schedule and it was noted the Parent did not have the ability to watch the Student during the school day.

    g. The Family Resource Specialist suggested keeping the Student at school, rather than doing administrative homebound.

    h. The School Psychologist asked "What the family wants [the Student's] day to look like in the interim."

    i. The Family Resource Specialist noted during the last suspension, the Parent had to bring family in from out of town to assist with care for the Student and this was no longer an option.

    j. The Director of Special Education indicated they were doing what they could to facilitate an out-of-district placement, but the timeline for this could be extended and is unknown.

Coordinator 2 indicated they would look into it and get back to the team.

l. The Parent inquired when they would know about the placement and Coordinator 2 explained they had to wait for an opening and then an offer of a spot. The Director of Special Education explained that it could be one week or six months and Coordinator 2 reiterated they would contact Alternative Placement 3 that day.

b. They indicated at "Tuesday's outside wrap-around meeting," it was mentioned the Student was on an "IDD waiver, which means [they] have a medical diagnosis of intellectual disabilities."

c. They requested the Parent provide the IDD waiver documentation in order to submit it to Alternative Placement 3 so the Student could meet the "consideration requirements."

d. "We have no new updates regarding the acceptance status for special day school from [Alternative Placement 2] and [Alternative Placement 4]. We will contact you to determine the next steps once we hear back from either of these schools. Once [the Student] is accepted, there could be a period till that spot opens up for [the Student] to attend." (D312)

31. In a February 10, 2025 email to the Parents, the School Nurse indicated they were asked to "see" the Student and they had "10-15 linear welts across [their] right shoulder blade." 32. In a February 10, 2025 email to the LEA, the Parents indicated the Student was "let off the bus without supervision on Thursday." They reported this was a safety issue because the Student should be "supervised at all times." The Parents also questioned the status of the "outside placement referrals" and whether "any of them responded indicating [the Student] is eligible for their services."
The Director of Special Education replied on the same day, including the Principal, the Case Manager, Coordinator 1, and the Family Resource Specialist, and stated, "I have asked the bus company to pull the video on Thursday's dismissal. I will view and get back to you. On Friday, we followed up with Alternative Placement 1. They had requested additional behavior data and that was submitted Friday. Alternative Placement 2 responded that they were consulting with their [Board Certified Behavior Analyst] BCBA and would get back to us. They have a waiting list of six, so if accepted [the Student] would be number nine." They added that a test with the Student would be completed the next day and that "may provide the additional data we need to send Alternative Placement 3 a request." (D16)

In a February 21, 2021 email to the Parent, with the Family Resource Specialist, the Principal, the Director of Special Education, Coordinator 2, the School Psychologist, the Case Manager, and the Behavior Specialist included, Coordinator 1 provided an outside placement update. (D314) Coordinator 1 replied to this email the same day including everyone except the Parent and the Family Resource Specialist and stated they spoke with the Parent and were "going to draw up a new [pfrior written notice] PWN for Reevaluation on existing data and get that to parents for signatures.         ii. The Parents asked if there was a new BIP in place at the time of the incident and were told there was, and "the new intervention strategies were being followed." The Parents also inquired about the status of the sensory evaluation and Coordinator 1 explained the evaluation has not been completed due to the Student's behaviors "impeding completion," along with snow days and suspensions causing a "substantial disruption." It was noted the Parents were frustrated with the lack of progress on "assisting [the Student] with [their] self-injurious behavior," and Coordinator 1 responded with accommodations to assist in protecting the Student.
        iii. An FBA was completed on February 26, 2025 and the "corresponding BIP has been implemented."
    b. "The IEP team has explored alternative educational settings as a potential intervention. The district is currently evaluating outside placement options to determine if such a setting represents the LRE for [the Student]."
    c. The question "Was the conduct in question caused by or have a direct and substantial relationship to the child's disability?" was answered "Yes."
    d. The question "Was the conduct in question a direct result of the school's failure to implement the IEP?" was answered "No."
    e.     b. Explanation of the reason the action was proposed or refused stated the proposal was "due to [the Student's] manifestation determination" and noted "Services will be provided in person after school at [the School]." An explanation was provided for the additional 15 minutes per day for the first 3 days of service as

"compensatory services" due to the Student not receiving services beyond "10 days" where the Student was not in school. It was also indicated the team met in December to begin seeking an outside placement, "pending data from the open FBA/BIP." Also noted, "With updated behavior data, the team determined a special day school is the Student's Least Restrictive Environment [LRE]."

c. Options considered and the reasons the options were rejected included: included: the team considered virtual services and determined these services were not in the best interest for the Student. (D156)

42. In an April 17, 2025 email to Coordinator 1 and 3, a representative from Alternative Placement 3 stated, "It was determined that we cannot accept [the Student] due to the teeth pulling and lack of medication management.     c. Options considered and the reasons the options were rejected stated, "For [the Student] to return full day to [their] center based program in the district [was] rejected as both the district and parent agreed it is in the best interest of [the Student] to continue

e. Other relevant factors considered included: the Student missing time with peers and "may not make the same rate of progress as being in school full time from 5/16/2025-5/23/2025. The district and [the Parents] have determined the benefits outweigh the potentially harmful effects."

f. The "Delivery" section listed the Director as emailing the PWN to the Parents on May 1, 2025 and the document was signed illegibly on the "Parent/Legal Education Decision Maker" line, with no boxes for consent checked, on May 4, 2025. (D36-D38)

b. The explanation of the reasons the action was proposed or refused indicated the Student was on a waitlist for a special day school and a seat had not become available and the services proposed were to allow the Student access to special education services until a seat became available. It was also noted this process started in December 2024 2024.

c. Options considered and the reasons the options were rejected stated, "For [the Student] to return to [their] center-based program in the district was rejected due to the safety concerns of both [the Student] and special education staff;" and "Maintain [the Student] in the special education setting and not an outside placement [was] rejected as an outside placement at a Special Day School will meet [the Student's] behavioral and [sic] academic needs."

The Director of Special Education then outlined the out-of-district placement options for the Student and noted, "We are continuing to explore all viable options."

a. "Alternative Placement 3, which requires a student to have the eligibility classification of Intellectual Disability (ID) in order to be considered for admission. b. "[The Student] remains on Alternative Placement 2's waiting list; however, they have been unable to provide us with a start date."

c. "[The Student] is also currently on the waitlist for [Alternative Placement 1]."

> The Director of Special Education recalled an August 11th conversation where they spoke with Parent 2 and it was shared the Student "has begun a new medication and is showing improvement. I reviewed our proposed services with [Parent 2] while we await an out-of-district placement." Parent 2 indicated the offer was "unacceptable" and said they would follow up with the Director of Special Education, who noted "I have not received any further communication." This email included an attachment of the August 19, 2025 PWN. The Director of Special Education assured the Parent and Parent 2 that "our goal remains to support [the Student] in [their] LRE. The IEP team has determined that an out-of-district placement is currently the most appropriate setting for [the Student]. While we continue to work diligently to secure that placement, we are offering interim services to ensure [the Student] continues to receive support." (D47)

47. In the August 24, 2025 complaint letter, the Parent wrote, "[The LEA] cited a statute that expels student[s] after causing severe bodily harm or using drugs or alcohol on school property. [The Student] did not cause severe bodily harm, use drugs or alcohol on school property, and there was never evidence proposed to support any of those allegations." They indicated removing the Student from the School was to "evade [the Student's] behaviors." (D65)
48. In the August 24, 2025 complaint letter, the Parent indicated staff from the School "filed baseless reports" to the Department of Children and Families (DCF) "against [the Parent] in an effort to harass and deter parents from sending [the Student] back to school." The Parents also stated the School "told [them] they are sending referrals, but the alternative schools are telling the Parents the referrals are being denied because of [the] behaviors [the School] is describing to them … which are false." (D65)
49. The September 16, 2025 LEA response stated, "On February 25, 2025, [the Student] had 11 behavioral incidents, three (3) of which were aggressive behaviors. As of the morning of February 26, 2025, [they] had been involved in 16 incidents in which district employees were injured. Four of these incidents required staff to seek medical attention. [The Student] had been suspended for a total of eight (8) days during the 2024-2025 school year. They noted that the February 27, 2025 incident put the Student suspended out of school for five days, which "caused [the Student] to exceed 10 cumulative days for the school year." (D67)
50. In an interview with the Investigator, the Case Manager noted the FBA "took a very long time for us to complete" because of the quantity of ABC data and the "medication changes that took place while we were collecting data." They noted the FBA took "the full 60 days" to complete and the "BIP was finalized in February [2025]." (P2-P3, 04:31)
51. When asked if they were implementing the prior BIP while awaiting for the new FBA, the Case Manager stated they were "implementing the FBA" and "learning and working towards new strategies to find what would best support [the Student] because the behaviors that were listed on [their] previous FBA were not consistent with what we were seeing." (P3, 06:36)

52. The Case Manager stated, "At the manifestation determination meeting, we discussed and determined that [the Student's] behaviors are a manifestation of [their] disability and that [the Student] would be placed on IAES and we offered services and there was no response. The family did sign the paperwork, but there was no verbal discussion." (P7, 19:00)

53. When asked about injuries sustained from the Student, the Case Manager stated, "I have been to the dentist because my tooth was knocked loose. I have been bitten multiple times. I do have a little lump of tissue on my leg because I was bit, it's still there from last year. I've been bit multiple times, but I just still have some permanent damage there from it-o-one of my bites. . I've had two concussions. Another staff member received a concussion." (P8, 20:56)

54. During the Case Manager's interview, the Director of Special Education clarified February 28, 2025 was the 11th day of OSS for the Student. When asked about services for days prior to the 11th, they stated, "We had not reached our 10th [sic], our 11th day, so we do not, we're not required to provide any services until we hit the 11th day of suspension." (P5, 16:27) They added that after the MDR, the LEA offered services "knowing that we had [sic][gone] over. ... The 11th day did not occur until [March 10, 2025] because we offer[ed] an increase in services at that time, compared to what we start[ed] on [March 17, 2025], because we knew we owed some services for compensatory reasons. [We owed services] because we went over our 10 days. So instead of 45 minutes, [the Student] received 60 minutes for that period of time, to make up the services that we needed to provide. That is why you see the difference on the PWN from [March 10, 2025] to [March 14, 2025], [and] [March 17, 2025] to [May 15, 2025]." The Director of Special Education added the Student never received any of these services "because the Parents did not make [the] child available." (P6, 17:33)

55. During the Case Manager's interview, the Director of Special Education stated, "The Parent won't communicate with us, but we assume that [the Student] has a placement starting October 2nd, [2025]. All the enrollment paperwork was submitted and [they are] ready to go." (P8, 22:03)

56. In an interview with the Investigator, the Principal clarified that February 28, 2025 was the 10th cumulative day of suspension for the school year, "then [day] 11 would've been on March 4th [2025] and [the] 12th [day] would've been on March 5th [2025]." (P3, 06:12)

57. When asked why the MDR was not held on February 28, 2025 or earlier, the Principal stated, "We generally start planning those once we get into [the] eight and nine [day] range. You can't predict that there's going to be another out-of-school suspension, but I can't tell you that it automatically occurs the day of. But I know the planning starts with the IEP team that, hey, we're approaching that line and we're going to get close to 10. We need to get a meeting scheduled. (P4, 07:26) The Principal confirmed the suspension on February 27, 2025 was a five day suspension. (P4, 09:26)

58. The Principal noted communication challenges with the Parent and stated, "I wish we had a more cooperative spirit with [both Parents]." (P5, 11:34)

59. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Director of Special Education explained the 45 day IAES, "We held the manifestation. It was found to be a manifestation of [the Student's] disability. However, serious bodily injury was taken into consideration. I had staff members with concussions, a tooth knocked loose, scratches, cuts, everything; and taking into consideration the self-harm that the Student was [doing]. We were trying to balance being able to provide for the Student [their] least restrictive environment, as well as protect our staff. So due to the level of [the Student's] behaviors, we determined that [they were] going to be given a 45-day IAES." (P7, 13:38)

60. The Director of Special Education indicated, "The Parents were given prior written notice on May 5th, [2025], [and the] Parents did not sign [it]." They noted the Parent did sign "the agreement" on May 1, 2025, where they offered "20 minutes two days a week of speech and language and one day a week of music therapy." This agreement was from March 2025 [2025]. (P7, 15:31)

61. The Director of Special Education stated the reason for the Parent not signing the PWN was, "[The] Parents did not see that [the Student] was as dangerous as what we were seeing [them] being. Even though [the Parent] has expressed to us that [they are] scared of [the Student], they wanted [them] at school and it was not the appropriate placement at the time." (P8, 16:37)

62. When asked what happened for services between March and May, 2025, the Director of Special Education stated, "Our obligation is to offer services, and we made an offer. [The] Parents did not agree or disagree. … We continued to offer services. They did not accept services. We tried to get the family to visit [Alternative Placement 4] … to do a visit, because it was time for [the Student] to return. I had called [Parent 2] prior … it was in [the Student's] best interest to return … to school, and [Parent 2] said no. So I once again sent the document, and [the] Parents at that time did sign for the services. … There was no disagreement to any of the services offered, but they did not access the services at all." (P8, 17:10)

63. The Director of Special Education clarified they continued pursuing an out-of-district placement while the Student was on the 45 day IAES. (P8, 18:48) They also clarified that they have offered the same services offered during the 45-day placement from May 1, 2025 through the end of the school year and from the beginning of the 2025-26 school year through now. Those services are located at the School and the Parents "have not accepted any of our services throughout the process." (P9, 23:15; P10, 23:48)

64. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, Coordinator 1 attempted to account for the incidents noted in the LEA Response, "There is data documentation throughout the classroom that is conducted every day. And so those 11 incidents, I would assume would be documented within those behavior logs." (P2, 02:47)

65. Coordinator 1 clarified, "I can say that we offered services based on a conversation that we were going to pursue an IAES and we outlined a PWN that would provide services during that time and that was provided to the family electronically through email, as well as DocuSign. And they gave information, I think through lawyers, that they would not be signing the document and then they did not sign that document until May of 2025. And at that point they did give consent for services." (P3, 06:15) In relation to the August PWN, "As of right now, there is no signatures whether denying that PWN or consenting to those services. They were a continuation of the same services that were being offered during the 45-day IAES, two sessions a week, I believe, with music therapy and SLP therapy as well as special education services." (P3, 07:34)

66. Coordinator 1 explained the barriers to getting an out-of-district placement for the Student, "Many of our out-of-districts have anywhere from a three to a 12-month wait list. And so [the Student] has been on a wait list for two out-of-district placements since December of 2024. We have continuously attempted to work on getting a dual eligibility for [the Student] to add a third outside placement to be able to refer [them] to see if [they] could start there. We still do not have consent to [add] a dual diagnosis of autism and intellectual disability, so we could send that information out for a third outside placement, but right now we are just waiting on those placements to have a spot available. Currently, [the Student] does have a spot open at one of our outside placements and will begin there October 2nd, 2025." (P4, 08:13)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, "wrongfully expelled" the Student for behaviors that were directly and substantially related to their disability. K.S.A. 72-3433, K.A.R. 91-40-33(a)(b), K.A.R. 91-40-35, K.A.R. 91-40-36(a); 34 CFR §300.530.

The law regarding the suspension of children with a disability is complicated because of the varieties of behaviors subject to discipline, the varying length of suspensions, and whether behavior is a manifestation of the student's disability. For that reason, the conclusion on this issue in this report focuses only on the specific facts and law that apply to this case.

A student with a disability may be suspended for a violation of a school code of conduct for up to 10 school days in a school year without any educational services. Beginning on the 11 th day of suspension in a school year, the school district must provide the services the student needs in order to: (1) continue to participate in the general curriculum and (2) continue to make appropriate progress toward IEP goals. 34 C.F.R.300.530(b)(2). At some point (as described in 34 C.F.R. 300.530(e)) when there are a series of additional suspensions beyond the 10 th school day in a school year, a manifestation determination review (MDR) may be required to determine whether the behavior subject to suspension is a manifestation of the student's disability. When the behavior subject to suspension is a manifestation of the student's disability the district must return the student to the placement (educational setting) described in the student's IEP, unless there is an exception to this requirement in the law.

When the behavior subject to suspension is a manifestation of the student's disability the district must return the student to the placement (educational setting) described in the student's IEP, unless there is an exception to this requirement in the law.

In short, the LEA did not expel the Student. Instead, the LEA placed the Student in an IAES for 45 days due to serious bodily injury. The LEA's action was a legally permissible change of placement under the IDEA, not a wrongful expulsion. Based on the aforementioned, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is unsubstantiated that the LEA "wrongfully expelled" the Student. The LEA followed the procedural requirements and used a permissible disciplinary removal based on serious bodily injury, as permitted by K.S.A. 72-3433, K.A.R. 91-40-33(a)(b), K.A.R. 91-40-35; 34 CFR §300.530.

Issue Two

Whether USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Student with a free and appropriate public education (FAPE), after the Student was expelled due to behaviors related to their disability. K.A.R. 91-40-1(z); K.A.R. 91-40-36(a); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.101; 300.17.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(z), a FAPE means special education and related services that meet the following criteria: are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, without charge, meet the standards of the state board, include an appropriate preschool, elementary, or secondary school education, and are provided in conformity with an individualized education program.

According to K.A.R. 91-40 -36(a), the determination of services for children with disabilities suspended from school or placed in interim alternative educational settings if a child with a disability is properly suspended from school for more than 10 cumulative school days in any school year, the special education and related services to be provided to the child during any period of suspension shall be determined by school officials of the agency responsible for the education of the child.

The Parent alleged the Student was provided "no alternative to a free appropriate public education " after their expulsion from the Middle School.

The LEA claims the Student was not accessing their FAPE due to the Parents unilaterally withholding the Student from accessing services during the IAES.

The Student accumulated over 10 cumulative days of OSS by March 3, 2025, which triggered the requirement for the LEA to begin providing FAPE services immediately on the 11th day of removal. The evidence shows the LEA failed to provide these mandated services from March 3, 2025, until the start of the IAES services on March 6, 2025, for a total of three instructional days. The March 5, 2025 PWN offered compensatory services, which was intended to mitigate the LEA lapse in service.

The LEA's subsequent actions following the March 5, 2025, MDR complied with the IDEA. The MDR determined the behavior (which resulted in serious bodily injury to staff) was a manifestation of the disability, but due to the severity, the team appropriately placed the Student in a 45-day IAES. Services, including compensatory hours, were proposed to begin on March 6, 2025, and were continually offered via subsequent PWNs through May and August 2025, proposing modified part-time services while pursuing an out-of-district placement.

However, according to the Director of Special Education and Coordinator 1, the Student never received any of the offered services during the IAES or subsequent periods because the Parents either declined the services via email or made the Student unavailable. Since an LEA's obligation is to make a FAPE available, and the LEA documented multiple offers of service through PWNs, which were either unsigned or refused, the LEA met its requirement to offer a FAPE for the extended period. Furthermore, the LEA demonstrated good faith in pursuing the IEP team's agreed-upon LRE placement, an outside special day school, by placing the Student on multiple waitlists starting in December 2024, ultimately securing a spot for the Student to begin on October 2, 2025.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the LEA denied the Student a FAPE.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint was a 5th-grade student during the 2024-2025 school year who lives at home with their mother. As noted in the March 11, 2025, evaluation report the student was found eligible for special education services with the exceptionalities of Specific Learning Disability and Other Health Impairment. On October 3, 2024, the student began homeschooling but continued to receive reading and math individualized instruction at the student's middle school.

For the duration of the 2024-2025 school year two IEPs were in effect, dated March 20, 2024 and March 11, 2025. As a part of the IEPs the student received special education, speech, language pathology, and social work services. The student additionally had learning and behavioral accommodations for testing and academics.

It is noted that the parent filed a child complaint assigned as 25FC437-001 on April 9, 2025 and the LEA offered a resolution that was accepted on May 5, 2025. This resolution addressed three issues. Each of these issues and resolutions are either directly or indirectly addressed in this current complaint.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

Did USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), provide the parent a Notice of meeting for a March 2025 IEP meeting?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §§300.322(a)(c) state, Notice of Meeting Notice must be given early enough to ensure that parents will have an opportunity to attend. Further, K.A.R. 91-40-17(a) states that the LEA must provide written notice to parents at least 10 calendar days in advance of any IEP team meeting.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that the LEA scheduled an IEP meeting on March 11, 2025 and did not provide the parent written notice of the meeting ten days ahead.

Local Education Agency Position

In the Local Education Agency response, the LEA acknowledges that the parent was not given written notice of at least ten days prior to the March 11, 2025 meetings, which is a violation of procedural requirements under the IDEA.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The district acknowledged they did not provide written notice to the parent at least ten days prior to the March 11, 2025 meeting.

Conclusion

The Local Education Agency acknowledged they are out of compliance with providing the parent notice of the March 11, 2025 meeting and corrective action is required.

Issue Two

Did USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), allow the parent participation in a March 2025 IEP meeting?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.501(b)(1) states that parents must be given an opportunity to participate in meetings with respect to the identification, evaluation, educational placement, and provision of FAPE. Parent participation is defined in three ways:

1. Timely notice and information which means that parents receive written notice with enough time to prepare including the purpose, time location and who will be attending the meeting ahead of time (in Kansas 10 days)(§300.322(b)(1).
2. Ability to attend in person or through alternative means which means that schools must schedule meetings at a mutually agreed upon time/place or if the parent cannot attend in person the school must use other methods such as phone calls or video conferences (§§300.322(a)(2)(c)).
3. Right to bring others with knowledge or special expertise including advocates or attorney (§300.321(a)(6)) as well as full participation in discussion, access to documents and data and consideration of concerns.

Parent Position

The complaint alleged that she was not given ten days of written notice for the March 11, 2025 IEP meeting and therefore her ability to participate in the IEP was impacted.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA responded that the parent confirmed the scheduled meeting date and time of March 11, 2025 at 8:00 via email on March 7, 2025. A notice of meeting was electronically provided to the parent on March 10, 2025. As acknowledged in Issue One by the LEA, the parent was not given adequate for the March 11, 2025 meeting which is a violation of procedural requirements un IDEA. The re-evaluation and subsequent IEP meeting were conducted on March 11, 2025, with the parent in attendance. The parent's concerns were documented within the IEP, confirming the parent participation was supported and occurred as required under IDEA.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The parent stated during her interview with the investigator that she had not planned to invite any outside persons to the IEP meeting and had provided items she wished to discuss at the IEP meeting with the team. She stated emphatically that she really didn't agree with the findings of the evaluation and was prepared for the IEP meeting but wasn't able to have her opinion "heard" by the team.
2. The LEA staff stated during their interview with the investigator that the parent did not state before or during the meeting that she was unable to invite outside persons due to the short notice of the meeting. Further, they stated that she has not invited outside persons to IEP meetings in the past. They additionally stated that the parent did not mention that she was unable to prepare and in fact, had provided the IEP team with agenda items that were discussed at the meeting.

Conclusion

Although the LEA was found out of compliance in Issue One with providing adequate notice, the interviews with the LEA and parent show that through the parent's diligence was able to fully participate in the IEP meeting. Therefore, the Local Education Agency is IN compliance, and no corrective action is required.

Issue Three

Did USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), fail to call an IEP meeting during the 2024-2025 school year when the student failed to make adequate progress on his IEP goals?

Applicable Law

The federal regulation at 34 C.F.R. §34 C.F.R. § 300.324(b)(1)(ii)(A) and Kansas statute at K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2)(A) states the IEP must be reviewed annually to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved and revised, as appropriate, to address a lack of expected progress toward goals.

Parent Position

The parent complaint stated that she emailed the LEA at the beginning of the 2024-2025 school year about the student's needs not being met at school and the student's social emotional health suffered and as a result withdrew the student on October 3, 2024 opting for homeschooling for the short term until the student's behavior stabilized. The parent stated that she continued the student's special education reading and mathematics services but asked that the speech and social work service be paused but were never reinstated during the 2024-2025 school year. The parent stated that the student was not making progress on any of their goals.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency states that on September 10, 2024 the parent emailed the special education teacher and building principal regarding concerns and the LEA met with the parent to discuss concerns. On October 28, 2024, the student's placement was changed to homeschooling and the LEA continued to provide special education academic services during the school year. The parent filed a child complaint with the KSDE April 9, 2025 regarding the student's lack of progress and the LEA offered a resolution to KSDE, offering compensatory services and more frequent progress updates which was subsequently accepted and implemented during the 2025-2026 school year. Student data is being collected but the first quarter of the school year is not until October 9, 2025.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of the previous issues are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The Child Complaint 25FC437-001 shows that an allegation was made on April 9, 2025 during the 2024-2025 school year regarding lack of student progress and a resolution was made and accepted by the KSDE.
2. The KSDE letter dated May 5, 2025 from Assistant Director of Special Education and Title Services to the Complainant and Assistant Special Education Director of the LEA provided the KSDE accepted resolution to Child Complaint 25FC437-001 in recognition of the LEA self-assessment that, "In reviewing this complaint, the district acknowledges that the student did not make adequate progress toward identified IEP goals, specifically around reading, as reflected in documented progress reports." and proposed the following resolution, "25FC437-001 will provide compensatory reading services for 30 minutes daily through the remainder of the IEP. A timeline for these services will be developed and included in the revised IEP by the IEP team. The district will continue to have progress monitoring data shared with the parents at least every two weeks. This will help ensure that the student's progress is tracked and that necessary adjustments can be made in a timely manner." This letter states, "After reviewing the district's proposal and the complaint file, it has been determined that the district's proposed resolution should be, and is, accepted. The district is directed to notify Special Education Services when the specified resolutions have been completed."

3. Documentation received by the investigator from the LEA and Complainant show that progress monitoring data are shared by the IEP team at least every two weeks.
4. The Prior Written Notice for Identification, Initial Services, Placement, Change in Services, Change of Placement and Request for Consent dated May 8, 2025 documents that the student will begin to receive an additional 30 minutes, 5 days a week of direct, specially designed instruction in the special education classroom. Additionally, the Assistant Director of Special Education reported during the September 25, 2025 interview with the investigator that while reviewing and responding to Child Complaint 25FC467-001 it was discovered that the student's related services were not provided and added these services as part of the PWN as follows:

   [Student] missed 460 minutes of social work services between the dates of October 28, 2024 through May 8, 2025. Therefore, [student] will benefit from 460 minutes of compensatory services. Beginning May 12, 2025 and ending September 12, 2025; an additional 48 minutes of social work services will be added to [student's] regular 20 minutes weekly. The sessions will focus on [student's] social-emotional goal as written in the current IEP. The schedule of these sessions, as agreed upon with the family are as follows: Services will begin May 12, 2025. They will be offered as 23 minutes, 3 days a week through September 12, 2025. In the event enough sessions are missed, sessions will be offered beyond the September 12, 2025 date until the total number of offered compensatory services are met. [Student] missed 200 minutes of speech-language services between the dates of March 28, 2025 through May 8, 2025. Therefore, [student] will benefit from 200 minutes of compensatory services. Beginning May 12, 2025 and ending August 22, 2025; an additional 10 minutes of speech-language services will be added to [student's] regular 20 minutes, 2 days a week. In the event enough sessions are missed, sessions will be offered beyond August 22, 2025.
5. The IEP amendments dated May 8, 2025 and May 23, 2025 documents the service minutes recorded in the May 8, 2025 PWN. The May 8, 2025 IEP amendment was signed on May 8, 2025 and the May 23, 2025 IEP amendment was signed by the parent on June 3, 2025.
6. The March 11, 2025 IEP documents that, "Parents will receive written reports of the student progress toward meeting annual IEP goals in accordance with the district's established grade reporting schedule."
7. The 2025-2026 LEA calendar shows October 9, 2025 as the end of the first grading period.

Conclusion

Based on the previous child complaint and resolution accepted from the KSDE on May 5, 2025 the investigation of this was limited to progress made since May 5, 2025. Since the student's IEP specifies that progress will be reported in accord with the district's "established grade reporting schedule" and that period is not scheduled until October 9, 2025 the Investigator found that the complaint has been filed prematurely since the Local Education Agency has not adequate time to report progress since the resolution. As a result, the Local Education Agency is found IN compliance, and no corrective action is required.

Issue Four

Did USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop an IEP during the 2024-2025 school year that met the student's behavior and emotional needs resulting in the student being bullied and not meeting his emotional needs?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§300.324(a)(1); (2)(i) and Kansas statutes at K.S.A. 72-3429(d) states requires that an IEP be developed, but that it be developed by the IEP team comprised of the parents, teachers and individuals knowledgeable about the child and the curriculum to meet the unique needs of the child. When developing the IEP, the IEP team must consider the strengths of the child, parent concerns, results of evaluations, academic, developmental, and functional needs of the child as well as any special factors such as behavior that impedes learning, limited English proficiency, communication needs, and any need for assistive technology.

Parent Position

The parent complaint stated that the district did not develop an IEP during the 2024-2025 school year to amend social services, teach emotional expressing skills, address internalization behaviors, address ASD, and implement a Behavioral Intervention Plan (BIP) incorporating a reward system (e.g., office helper breaks).

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency states that the IEP developed on March 20, 2024 included considerations for the student's behavior and emotional needs. Within the IEP, the team responded "yes" to the question regarding whether the student's behavior impedes their own learning or that of others. To address these needs, the IEP included: alternate settings for self-regulation breaks, and allowance of frequent breaks until the student felt self-regulated and weekly 20 minute pullout social work services to support the goal of demonstrating pro-social interaction skills with peers in social settings at 95% accuracy by the end of the IEP, as measured by observations. At the March 11, 2025 IEP meeting, the team determined that the student's behavior was no longer impeding the student's learning of self or others. The IEP continued weekly 20-minute pullout social work services to address the goal of demonstrating pro-social interaction skills with peers, specifically making, and maintaining friendships in a positive and safe manner, at 95% accuracy by the end of the IEP as measured by observation.

The IEP team also continued the previously established accommodations, including alternate settings for the use of frequent self-regulation breaks.

Additionally, based on the previous child complaint regarding IEP development, the LEA acknowledged that it did not develop an IEP fully responsive to the unique needs of the student, particularly regarding the related services of social work and provided compensatory social work services for the remainder of the 2024-2025 school year and the first 10 weeks of the 2025-2026 school year.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of the previous issues are incorporated herein by reference.

1. Issue One from the previous child complaint investigated whether the LEA, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), developed an IEP that was appropriate for the unique needs of the student. The LEA acknowledged that it did not develop an IEP that was fully responsive to the unique needs of the student, particularly regarding related services. The resolution involved staff training to address the district not providing social work services who primarily implemented the social skill goal of the student while in a homeschool The resolution focused on staff training and compensatory services.
2. The March 11, 2025 reevaluation report only relied on parent report for behavioral needs as the student was homeschooled with the exception of special education reading and math services. Behaviors were rated as average or at-risk.
3. An email on April 11, 2025 at 4:25 p.m. from principal to mother stated, "If it is your desire to have [them] return to [school] as a full time student for the rest of the school year then [they] would just need to be enrolled as such. The plan in place would be to have [them] rejoin [their] classroom and then continue to receive the services that [they] [have] been getting.
4. The March 11, 2025 IEP includes a goal, When in social settings, [student] will be able to regularly demonstrate pro-social interaction skills with making and maintaining friendships (interacting in a positive, safe manner in both conversation and actions) at 95% by end of the IEP as measured by Observation. The IEP includes the following accommodations: Allow frequent breaks and alternate setting. The IEP team determined that the student's behavior does not impact the student's own learning or the learning of others.
5. The parent stated in the interview with the investigator that she disagreed with the reevaluation findings and requested an IEE.
6. The PWN dated September 18, 2025 agreed to pay for an IEE for the student.

Conclusion

It is found that the LEA acknowledged that the IEP was not developed appropriately to the unique needs of the student. A re-evaluation was conducted, and a new IEP was developed, however, the parent disagreed and requested an IEE. As addressed in Issue 7 this IEE is not completed. As such it is found that it is premature to make a finding since the resolution dated May 5, 2025 acknowledged the IEP was not appropriate and the parent disagreed with the reevaluation and an IEE is pending.

Issue Five

Did USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), develop an IEP during the 2024-2025 school year that met the student's needs specific to reading?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §§300.324(a)(1); (2)(i) and Kansas statutes at K.S.A. 72-3429(d) states requires that an IEP be developed, but that it be developed by the IEP team comprised of the parents, teachers and individuals knowledgeable about the child and the curriculum to meet the unique needs of the child. When developing the IEP, the IEP team must consider the strengths of the child, parent concerns, results of evaluations, academic, developmental, and functional needs of the child as well as any special factors such as behavior that impedes learning, limited English proficiency, communication needs, and any need for assistive technology.

Parent Position

The parent complaint stated that her child was identified dyslexia in 3rd grade and has continually requested the IEP to incorporate dyslexia specialized reading instruction such as Orton-Gillingham or multisensory methods and assistive technology such as text to speech software and audiobooks.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency states that the IEP developed on March 20, 2024 identified the student's needs in reading and included two reading goals. To support the student the IEP team provided extensive accommodations across all subjects including shortened assignments, read-aloud, access to text-to-speech software, use of word banks, limited multiple-choice, written models limited to three sentences, extended time (not to exceed two days), oral testing, alternate setting, written models limited to three sentences, chunking of assignments, use of a scribe, lined paper, and handwriting checklists. The student was also provided with resource services for 40 minutes, 5 days every week of specially designed instruction for reading.

At the annual IEP review held on March 11, 2025, the IEP team revised the students reading goals based on review of progress data and the reevaluation. The IEP team recommended that the student participate in Extended School Year due to regression to target academic goals following the 2023-2024 and 2024-2025 school years, however the student did not participate during either summer.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of previous issues are incorporated herein by reference.

1. Issue One from the previous child complaint investigated whether the LEA, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), developed an IEP that was appropriate for the unique needs of the student. The LEA acknowledged that it did not develop an IEP that was fully responsive to the unique needs of the student, particularly regarding related services. The resolution involved staff training to address the district not providing social work services who primarily implemented the social skill goal of the student while in a homeschool The resolution focused on staff training and compensatory services.
2. An email from the special education teacher to mother dated October 28, 2024 at 8:14 p.m. stated, "The reading that I sent home today was meant as a resource for you if you choose to use it. It is not for [student] to read completely on [their] own but for [them] to follow along while an adult reads it with/to [them]. [They] can also use the passage to find and read the sight words that are familiar to [them]. I understand that [student] is an emerging reader and I am meeting [student] where [they] are at with [their] reading skills. We will continue to work on [their] skills at [their] level, along with [their] sight words, and vocabulary. These are all things that we address during reading intervention to help [student] make as much progress as possible in the time given. [Student] is a very hard worker and [they] learn the new skills with repetition. We just need to keep working and progressing at [their] level at a rate that is manageable"
3. The March 11, 2025 reevaluation report found academic weaknesses in basic reading skills and reading fluency. Evaluation results suggest that the student struggles with phonological awareness, specifically when blending, deleting, and isolating sounds in words and suggest that the student continues to meet the criteria to receive special education services under the exceptionality of Specific Learning Disability, specifically in the areas of word recognition/decoding (dyslexia).
4. The March 11, 2025 IEP includes two goal,1) When given 10 one syllable VC and CVC words, Common Beginning- and -Ending Consonant Digraphs words and 10 one syllable CVCC and CCVC words, the student will be able to read each list of words at with 90% accuracy by end of the IEP as measured by Running Records; and 2) When given a read passage at grade level 1, the student will be able to read the passage at 60 words per minute with 90% accuracy by end of the IEP as measured by Running Records. The following reading accommodations include: arrange for oral testing, shorten assignments, read aloud, access to Text to Speech software, Use of word banks, limited multiple choice, extended time, chunking of assignments and allow other Verbal responses, answers dictated to scribe on classroom assignments or assessments.

5. The parent stated in the interview with the investigator that she disagreed with the reevaluation findings and requested an IEE.
6. The PWN dated September 18, 2025 agreed to pay for an IEE for the student.

Conclusion

As in the case with Issue five, it is found that the LEA acknowledged that the IEP was not developed appropriately to the unique needs of the student. A re-evaluation was conducted, and a new IEP was developed, however, the parent disagreed and requested an IEE. As addressed in Issue 7 this IEE is not completed. As such, it is found that it is premature to make a finding since the resolution dated May 5, 2025 acknowledged the IEP was not appropriate and the parent disagreed with the reevaluation and an IEE is pending.

Issue Six

Did USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), provide the student access to a screen reader for instruction and testing during the 2024-2025 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Parent Position

The parent complaint stated that the student told their mother that while at school the teachers put him on the computer and the student reported that they would just click through the pages, not using the screen reader. The complainant stated that they should have prevented the student from just clicking through and when she notified the school about this, she was ignored.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency states that the student was provided with access to Text-to-Speech (TTS) software as specified in the IEP for all subjects, applicable to assignments and assessments of any length. Beginning at the end of October 2024 the student began homeschooling and only attended the school for special education services and the student did not participate in state testing per parent request.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of the previous issues are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The IEPs dated March 20, 2024 and March 11, 2025 include Access to Text to Speech Software as an accommodation when given an assignment or assessment.
2. During the LEA interview on September 25, 2025 the LEA staff stated that the majority of the 2024-2025 school year the student was in a small group working on IEP goals in the special education room and the majority of the work did not require the use of a computer. They stated that if the student had been in the general education setting this accommodation would have been used more extensively. The staff stated that the student's Chromebook has the screen reader, Read & Write installed and the student knows how to use it. They reported that in their experience the student requires some reminders that the screen reader is available and to use it. When reminded the student will readily use it. The case manager also noted that the student has not created the habit of using the program due to the fact that they do a lot of human reading to the student.

Conclusion

It is found that the nature of the special education instruction during the 2024-2025 school year did not readily lend itself to use of the text reader. It is anticipated that now that the student is attending the school full-time this accommodation will be used more extensively. Based on the foregoing, It is found that the Local Education Agency implemented the screen reader accommodation during the special education service minutes during the 2024-2025 school year and is IN compliance and no corrective action is ordered.

Issue Seven

Did USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), provide a prior written notice to the parent to obtain an independent education evaluation (IEE) pursuant to child complaint 25FC437-001 in a timely manner?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.502(b)(5)and Kansas statutes at K.A.R. 91-40-12 the parent of an exceptional child shall have the right to request an independent educational evaluation at public expense if the parent disagrees with the evaluation obtained by the agency.

K.A.R. 91-40-12(b)(1)(2) states that if a parent requests an independent educational evaluation of the child, the agency, without unnecessary delay, take one of the following actions: (1) Initiate a due process hearing to show that its evaluation is appropriate; or (2) (A) Provide information to the parent about where an independent educational evaluation may be obtained and the agency criteria prescribed under subsection (g)that apply to independent educational evaluations.

34 C.F.R. § 300.503(a)(1)(2) and K.S.A. 72-3432 regarding Prior Written Notice states, "Written notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency either proposes to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child; or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child.

Parent Position

The parent complaint stated that she made a request for an Independent Educational Evaluation on April 1, 2025 and the LEA did not respond in a timely manner.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency states that the Prior Written Notice (PWN) related to the parent's request for an Independent Educational Evaluation (IEE) pursuant to a formal complaint (25FC[LEA#] was provided in a timely manner. The formal complaint resolution was finalized on May 5, 2025 and the PWN was subsequently emailed to the Complainant on May 8, 2025. To support the Complainant's ability to make an informed choice, the LEA contacted potential IEE evaluators to confirm their availability as options for the family.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of the previous issues are incorporated herein by reference.

1. An email from the Complainant to the LEA shows the parent first requested an IEE on March 31,2025 and the LEA acknowledged the request on April 1, 2025.
2. The KSDE resolution dated May 5, 2025 documented that the LEA did not fulfil its obligation to meet the "procedural requirements under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and Kansas special education regulations regarding a parent's request for an Independent Educational Evaluation (IEE)." As a result, the following resolution was accepted by KSDE, the LEA will immediately issue a Prior Written Notice (PWN) formally responding to the parent's IEE request.
3. The PWN dated May 8, 2025 shows that the LEA agreed to paying for an IEE, "Following [student's] evaluation, the parent disagreed with the evaluation results and requested an independent educational evaluation (IEE). Per the KSDE Process Handbook, [LEA] is required to provide the parent with several options of where an IEE could be conducted." Two options were listed in the PWN.

Conclusion

It is found that the Local Education Agency addressed this issue in the resolution documented in the KSDE letter dated May 5, 2025. A PWN dated May 8, 2025 is written. Based on the foregoing, at this point in time the LEA is IN compliance with providing a PWN to the parent responding to a request for an IEE and no corrective action is ordered.

Issue Eight

Did USD #437, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), facilitate the parent obtaining the IEE as part of a resolution agreement pursuant to child complaint 25FC437-001?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §34 C.F.R. §§300.502(a)(b) and Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-12(b)(2)(A)(B) states that if a parent requests an independent educational evaluation of the child and the agency agrees, then the agency, without unnecessary delay, shall provide information to the parent about where an independent educational evaluation may be obtained and the agency criteria prescribed under subsection (g)that apply to independent educational evaluations, and either pay the full cost of the independent educational evaluation or otherwise ensure that the evaluation is provided at no cost to the parent.

Parent Position

The parent complaint stated that the LEA failed to comply with the KSDE's resolution and obstructed the completion of an independent educational evaluation by mishandling the student's appointment. The agency imposed an unreasonable request of information duration requirement not mandated by IDEA, delaying and essentially denying the IEE. Further, the agency mishandled the student's appointment by failing to know that the student could not independently complete the reading portions of the evaluation.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency states that in the PWN dated May 8, 2025 two IEE providers were listed, and the LEA had reached out to each to ensure their availability during the summer. The LEA stated that the parent ultimately selected a different IEE provider which the LEA agreed to work with once they learned that this provider had been selected by the parent. Unfortunately, the IEE provider selected by the parent was located within a different department within the same agency as one of the IEE providers listed on the PWN. This led to confusion and resulted in a delay in making payment and the IEE appointment. Once the IEE appointment started, the parent-selected provider was not prepared to evaluate the student based on the student's reading ability. This led to another delay and resulted in the parent filing this child complaint. The district issued a new PWN dated September 18, 2025 listing additional IEE providers.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of the previous issues are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The PWN dated May 8, 2025 listed two providers. "The following are provided as options for the parent to consider: 1. School psychologist employed by a different USD LEA - 2. Outcomes, Assessment Services, & Intervention Supports (OASIS) at University of Kansas Department of Educational Psychology

2. The LEA response stated that the parent did not indicate to the LEA the name of the provider they planned to proceed with for the IEE.
3. On July 15, 2025, the parent emailed the LEA, "I was writing to follow up on the evaluation for [student]. [Student's] been on the waiting list and finally has an appointment coming up for Intake. My question is, the eval needs to be paid for up front. I know we agreed to the district paying for that. What is my role in this process?" The LEA responded later that day that the University of Kansas provider does not require payment up front, not realizing the parent had scheduled the IEE appointment with a different University of Kansas provider. The LEA also confirmed with the University of Kansas provider listed on the PWN that it did not require up-front payment and did not have an IEE scheduled with the student.
4. Emails exchanged between July 16 and 17, 2025 between the IEE provider and the LEA show their attempts to verify the legitimacy of the request for prepayment of the IEE services. Additionally, emails between July 15 and 17, 2025 show that the LEA tried to confirm an unknown email requesting the LEA pay for an IEE. Emails between these dates show that without any verification of the email, scheduled appointment and requirement for prepayment the LEA confirmed with the IEE provider listed on the PWN that the request for prepayment was likely a phishing email.
5. The parent and LEA confirmed during interviews with the investigator that the parent used a different email address that was on file with the LEA, which did not allow the LEA to associate the parent-selected IEE provider to be associated with the student. The LEA further clarified in the interview that the Release of Information only allowed the IEE provider to speak to one staff member who was not on staff that summer so phone calls to clarify the email requests for prepayment could not be resolved.
6. An email from the parent to the LEA on August 6, 2025 stated that payment for the IEE for the 10:30 appointment on August 7, 2025 had not been made.
7. Between August 13 and 14, 2025 the LEA and parent-selected IEE provider attempted to clarify scheduling and payment, but there was still not a signed release of information by the parent to talk.
8. On August 20, 2025, the parent email the LEA and Dr. Crista Grimwood at KSDE, writing, "Dr. Grimwood, [student's] appointment for testing has been cancelled the (sic) before [their] testing and no further appointments are going to be made until the fee is paid as discussed in many written requests. There is an ROI on file with KU that I have already signed for KU to speak to [Assistant Director of Special Education]. [Assistant Director of Special Education] has been the director involved in this situation and readily has access to the acquired data that KU may need to gather data from [their] school. This has gone on too long and needs to stop. We have a legal right to this evaluation and I have signed the release for the district to pay. An academic evaluation is defined by the State. If anyone has questions what is being done, it is already predefined by the State and questions should be directed as such."
9. An email from the parent later on August 20, 2025 clarified, "I don't see that [student] is attending an "OASIS" program. Nor, has an appointment for anything related to behavioral therapy. This is an academic evaluation from KU. I realize OASIS is a program within KU but not the program [student] is participating in. Here is a web link to the services tab on the KU clinic site. The staff you may be referring to is located at the OASIS web address at -- https://oasis.ku.edu/ . As I mentioned, prepayment is required. The following link does not go to OASIS and goes to the evaluation services offered from KU. https://kuclinic.ku.edu/services - you should have the number I sent earlier if you need it."

10. On August 20, 2025 Dr. Crista Grimwood emailed the parent, "Thank you for your email. I have spoken with [Assistant Director of Special Education] regarding this matter and [they] are in contact with KU to rectify the billing situation. I kindly ask that this matter be resolved within one week (August 27, 2025) and updates be sent to KSDE when they are made available . I have no doubt that this matter will be resolved in a timely manner."
11. Between August 21 – 22, 2025 the director of the parent selected IEE provider and LEA exchanged phone and emails to arrange the payment and coordinate release of information to discuss the IEE.
12. The parent took the student to the parent-selected provider however, the clinician "handed [student] an iPad and asked [student] to fill out a questionnaire, unaware that [student] cannot read – despite an extensive case history, previous diagnosis, and evaluation conducted by this provider. This led to the cancellation of subsequent appointments.
13. On September 2, 2025, the parent wrote in the complaint that during a phone call with the parent-selected provider the parent was informed that the 30-day ROI was unacceptable, requirement a longer duration and stated that the IEE would not be conducted until the ROI date was extended.

Conclusion

If a parent requests an independent educational evaluation and the LEA agrees, they are to provide information to the parent about where an independent educational evaluation can be obtained, any qualifications of examiners and location to obtain the evaluation If an independent educational evaluation is provided at public expense. In this case the LEA listed two IEE providers, and the parent selected a different provider. Because the LEA did not realize the parent was working with a different provider and the parent was using an unfamiliar email the LEA was unable to verify the legitimacy of the provider's request for prepayment. Additionally, once the appointment was finally made with the IEE provider selected by the parent the clinician did not adequately prepare for the student's reading needs causing the parent to not complete the IEE during the scheduled time and discontinuing the IEE with this provider.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA did not impede the scheduling, payment nor completion of the IEE. Therefore, the LEA is IN compliance with facilitating the parent obtaining the IEE as part of a resolution agreement pursuant to the child complaint 25FC437-001.

Final Report Communication From Investigator

Good morning, --------. I am the complaint investigator assigned to the formal complaint you have filed on behalf of your child, --------.

With my first reading of your written complaint, I see that your concerns with the Cooperative began in 2023, with a delay in completing an evaluation and then denial of services after receiving a district and subsequent independent educational evaluation in 2023. You have subsequently (2025) learned of an autism diagnosis that you believed could have been found by SKACD or your child accommodated using the diagnosis of auditory processing disorder that he received by the Independent Educational Evaluator.

Because of the one year limitation for formal complaints, the allegations on behalf of your son as they are written here cannot be investigated.

Only if you have allegations that occurred during the past year (September 25, 2024-September 25, 2025) can they be investigated using this formal complaint process with KSDE. There may be other dispute resolution processes available to you, and if you wish to find additional information on those options, I can recommend resources for your use.

In summary, if you have allegations occurring in the past year, please forward them to Dr. Grimwood and me as soon as possible. If the allegations do not occur in the past year, you can contact Families Together (https://familiestogetherinc.org/) or use the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook linked here for more information.

I will also contact Dr. Grimwood based on the broader systemic allegations of your complaint, but at this point, I believe this complaint cannot be investigated under this authority. If I am in error after consulting with KSDE, I will notify you, likely late next week.

Sincerely yours,

Gwen Beegle

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 477
Ingalls Public Schools: 26FC477-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on 9/25/2025, by -------- on behalf of her child --------. In the remainder of this decision, -------- will be referred to as "the parent," and -------- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. During the opening stage of the investigation, the investigator determined that the alleged violation occurred more than one year prior to the filing of this complaint. With that finding, in a September 27, 2025 e-mail, the investigator dismissed the complaint.

Thereafter, the parent filed an appeal of the dismissal. On September 30, 2025, Special Education and Title Services notified the parties that an appeal had been filed. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Investigator's Dismissal, and the parent's notice of appeal. The district did not send a response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The complaint was filed on September 25, 2025. The complaint listed three concerns:

1. The student was evaluated and found not eligible for special education on 2/17/23 and again on 12/13/2023, despite independent evaluation results to the contrary;
2. The parent submitted a written request for an evaluation on 8/26/2022 and did not receive a consent to evaluate form until 10/26/2022 and in-class observations did not begin until 2/1/2023, exceeding the legal timelines for completing an evaluation; and
3. The KSDE Special Education Services Formal Complaint Request Form deters parents from submitting special education complaints by inserting into the form this statement: "The complaint must allege a violation of special education laws and regulations that occurred not more than one year before the date the complaint is filed."

The statement referred to above (in appeal issue 3) on the state's model form for filing a special education complaint has no function other than to inform the public of the legal limitation for filing special education complaints. This one-year timeline for filing special education complaints is a requirement of law and allows no discretion for a state agency to extend it.

Kansas Administrative Regulation 91-40-51(b)(1), states:

> "The complaint shall allege a violation that occurred not more than one year before the date the complaint is received and shall be filed with the commissioner of education." (emphasis added)

The Appeal Committee, having no discretion to extend this timeline for any reason, finds that the investigator's conclusion is correct. The issues presented in this complaint are not subject to investigation because the alleged violations occurred more than one year prior to the filing of the complaint.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the investigator's conclusions and dismissal of the complaint are sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 14th day of October, 2025.

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #437
ON SEPTEMBER 11, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: OCTOBER 14, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -------, by their guardian, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the guardian as "the Complainant."

The Complaint is against USD # 437 Auburn/Washburn Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, the "School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD # 437.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on September 11, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ended on October 11, 2025.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD # 437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), implemented the Individualized Education Program (IEP) and the behavior intervention plan (BIP) as written, specifically following the amendments made at the August 11, 2025, IEP meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-16(a)(b)(3-5), K.A.R. 91-40-19; 34 CFR § 300.323. NOTE: The Complainant verified that the allegations also pertained to the time prior to August 11, 2025.

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD # 437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided instruction and services to the Student according to the least restrictive environment (LRE) requirements when the Student was dismissed early for bus transport and was excluded from class due to the lack of paper-pencil coursework. K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.A.R. 91-40-1(II), K.S.A. 72-3420; 34 CFR § 300.114.

Background Information

This investigation involved a ninth-grade student enrolled at a High School in USD # 437 who is creative and artistic. The Student's primary exceptionality is autism, and their secondary exceptionality is Other Health Impairment (OHI). The Student is currently receiving special education and/or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Complainant and staff in the LEA.

1. The Student's Middle School schedule for the 2024-25 school year described the following:
    a. 00: Caseload; 01: Art.
    b. 02: General Science 8; 03: Positive Behavior Support (PBS).
    c. 04: Math 8; 05: SFA 8.
    d. 06: American History 8; 07: English Language Arts 8.
    e. Advisory. Noted, "Advisory period is used for independent reading, test make up, student assistance, planner checks and assemblies."
2. An IEP dated October 24, 2024, included an amendment dated April 24, 2025, and described the following:
    a. Transition assessments were identified, and service descriptions were listed for August 11, 2025 through May 23, 2029.
    b. The following goals were listed:
        i. "When [the Student] is given a directive to follow by an adult or peer, [the Student] will be able to follow directions on the first request by not arguing, negotiating, or seeking an alternative response with adults or peers at 95% by the end of the IEP as measured by Anecdotal Records." [The Student] will be able to follow directions on the first request by not arguing, negotiating or seeking an alternative response with adults or peers 95% of the time."
        ii. "When given a modified assignment or assessment, [the Student] will be able to complete the assignment or assessment on time with at least

iii. "When feeling dysregulated, [the Student] will be able to verbalize [their] feelings and ask for a break at 50% of the time by [the] end of the IEP as measured by Anecdotal Records."

iv. "When eating breakfast or lunch, practicing self-care of hygiene, [the Student] will be able to demonstrate socially appropriate eating behaviors by practicing table manners, pacing [themself] during meals (eating slowly and steadily), using polite behaviors (e.g., saying 'please' and 'thank you,' chewing with [their] mouth closed, not talking with food in [their] mouth, wiping [their] face with a napkin), engaging in appropriate mealtime conversations, reducing the amount of food on [their] clothing and proper nose blowing at 4 out of 5 observed opportunities by the end of the IEP as measured by Anecdotal Records."

c. The "Parent Input" section included concerns regarding the Student's lunch location and training for bus personnel regarding the Student's BIP.

d. Considerations indicated:

i. The IEP team considered the Student's strengths, the concerns of the Complainant, the results of the most recent evaluation, and the academic, developmental, and functional needs of the Student.

1. The Student's behavior hindered the learning of others and was addressed through a BIP, goals, and accommodations.
2. The Student needed assistive technology and services and had a documented health condition that impacted their participation and progress in the general education curriculum and classroom setting.

e. A BIP and PBS document dated October 30, 2023, was included in the IEP:

i. The Student's problem behaviors were described as defiance (refusing directives, arguing, and attempting to manipulate situations) and being off-task (inappropriate peer talk, working on unrelated assignments, and misusing technology during instruction).

ii. Behaviors occurred when given a "non-preferred" activity, which led to avoidance of the task.

iii. The settings and antecedents were described as the Student's behaviors were most frequent during ELA, where their compliance with directives was lowest at 70%. They also showed slightly lower compliance in social studies and PBS (92.5% and 90%, respectively). Conversely, they exhibited high compliance (97.5%–100%) in art, science, math, an unknown course, and advisory.

iv. The function of the Student's behavior was "to gain access to preferred activities and to avoid the task that is being asked of them."

v. The Student required instruction in replacement behaviors that addressed several lagging skills across three main categories: Attention and Working Memory, Emotion and Self-Regulation, and Cognitive and Flexibility Skills. Specifically, the Student struggled with tasks such as persisting with difficult activities, managing feelings of annoyance or disappointment, and coping with changes to routines or rules.

vi. Proactive Strategies stated the staff should prevent the problem behavior and listed the following strategies:

1. "Give [the Student] praise when [the Student] is on task and completes tasks/directives."
2. "When [the Student] is beginning to demonstrate behaviors that include non-compliance with adult tasks/directives, [they] will be given up to three prompts to get back on task."
3. "When [the Student] is not responding to the directives given by the adult, staff will respond by telling [the Student], 'This is a non-negotiable.'"
4. "[The Student] will use self-regulation strategies to resist peer pressure / self-directed inappropriate activities, such as continuing to argue."
5. "[The Student] will leave [their] classroom materials in each classroom needed for the subject and [they] will not bring any other supplies with [them]."
6. "Teachers will refrain from giving [the Student] school supplies, food (unless a class party), or any other items."
7. "When [the Student] needs access to technology, [they] will be monitored and [their] [one] on [one] para[professional] will keep & carry the computer until [they] need it. [They] [are] not to use technology unless it pertains directly to the classroom assigned."
8. "Once [the Student] [is] on the bus [they] are not allowed to exit the bus until [they] have gotten to school or home."
9. "[The Student's] behavior will be documented on a behavior tracking sheet provided by the school."
10. "During the unstructured times and passing periods, teachers will be monitoring the environment and will wait until the teacher enters the room before [the Student] enters the room [sic]."
11. "[The Student] will be escorted to the bus at the end of the day for [them] to get there on time."
12. "When [the Student] is found stealing from the cafeteria, [the Student] will make restitution to the school for the item/s."

13. "[The Student] will check out with an adult at the end of the day to review [their] day."
14. "[The Student] will have direct social skills instruction."
15. "Staff will refrain from having any personal conversations or educationally relevant information with or around [the Student]."

vii. Reactive Strategies for staff for when the Student demonstrated "resistance" to working in class included:

1. "Working or completing a task/following a directive for the first time given."
2. "Taking a 5-minute break with a preferred list of activities, such as drawing, writing, or reading (this needs to be monitored to ensure it is school-appropriate after completion of the designated task required by the adult[])."
3. "When refusing to work, arguing, or defying adult requests to comply with simple requests, [the Student] will be given up to three redirections."
4. "If still exhibiting the above-mentioned behaviors, [the Student] will be sent to a 'buddy room' or 'office.'"
5. "If [the Student] refuses to leave and/or argues with the adult a member of the mental health team or support staff will be notified to come and walk [the Student] to an alternate location."
6. "If the behavior is considered to be a major behavior and/or a chronic behavior, [the Student] will have an Office Discipline Referral written and have a phone call home."
7. "[The Student] will then spend time in an alternate setting for a designated time according to the behaviors exhibited."
8. "All of this will be documented on [the Student's] tracking sheet."

viii. Progress monitoring methods included "Daily data collection."

ix. Staff training procedures indicated, "Include necessary staff training in the IEP. Staff should be trained with positive behavior supports and other reinforcement systems in order to implement the BIP with fidelity. [The Student's] bus staff needs to be trained in [the Student's] morning routine and when to be released from the bus. Bus staff and [one] on [one] para[professional] need to be trained on [the Student's] expectations, accommodations for [the Student][,] and provided with a copy of the BIP. [The Student's] para[professional] will help facilitate when there is a sub[stitute] in the class. Adults will be trained in trauma[-]informed responses along with [their] specific diagnosis (Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), Reactive Attachment Disorder (RAD), Oppositional Defiant Disorder (ODD), Other Specified Disruptive Impulse Control and Conduct Disorder associated with developmental disability, Generalized Anxiety Disorder (GAD)[)]. [The Complainant] needs some formal documentation that training has been completed in the event of a substitute para[professional] or teacher or any other staff who works with [the Student]."

f. Program Modifications and Supports with a start date of October 24, 2024 (no end date noted) indicated the following:

   i. An alternative setting for all subjects when provided an assessment until the assessment was completed.

   ii. Preferential seating for all subjects when provided a seating assignment for the length of the class.

   iii. Allow frequent breaks for all subjects when feeling dysregulated for no more than 10 minutes.

   iv. Frequent reminders of rules for all subjects when the Student was unable to regulate their behavior, no more than 2 times.

   v. Allow time for the organization of materials for "Other end of the day" once or twice a week for no more than 5 minutes.

   vi. Alert the Student to transitions for all subjects at the end of each class period for 1-2 minutes prior to transition."

   vii. PBS system for all subjects at the end of each class period, all day.

Consequently, the Complainant requested the Paraprofessional be removed from the Student's case and a new special education instructor be assigned to oversee the Student's plan due to the Student receiving "inaccurate" accommodations, like being taken to an alternative classroom for a regular quiz because it was deemed "too loud," an accommodation only permitted for state assessments.
29. On August 25, 2025, the Assistant Principal emailed the Complainant and explained they reached out to a classroom teacher and worked on a "paper and pencil solution," and they "… have the teacher not to have [the Student] leave the classroom due to this issue [sic] … [the Student] should stay in the classroom" when other students are using computer based tests or curriculum.

The Complainant stressed that a change decided at the August 11, 2025 meeting was the complete removal of Chromebook access for classwork, mandating instead that all assignments be provided in paper-and-pencil format due to the historical failure of the one-on-one supervision requirement. The Complainant asserted that despite this agreement, both the "no Chromebook use" and the paper-and-pencil requirements were not being consistently followed from the start of the school year. Furthermore, the Complainant sought clarification on whether the Paraprofessional was completing work for the Student. The Art Teacher countered by stating the Paraprofessional did not complete projects or classwork for the Student and confirmed the Student was engaged in class.

formal IEP meeting. The Complainant indicated the meeting was virtual and requested all staff who worked with the Student be present. The Complainant recalled both the Paraprofessional and Witness 1 were in attendance, as well as the PBS Teacher, the Art Teacher, the ROTC Teacher, and the Special Education Provider. After the meeting, the Complainant "… felt like everybody was on the same page … ." They believed IEP amendments were made during the meeting and would be effective the next school day.

c. They had not received copies of the IEP documents from the August 11, 2025, meeting.

d. According to the Complainant, on August 12, 2025, the day after the meeting, "… the Student's charging food to my account with … [the Paraprofessional] with [them]." Additionally, the same day, "… the Student came home from school and [the Student] had all of [their] school supplies with [them] where [the Student's] IEP says [the Student's] school supplies are supposed to stay in the classroom and [the Student's] not supposed to bring them home."

43. The Complainant stated, according to the Student's IEP:

a. The Student was not allowed access to a Chromebook because the Student "becomes unsafe and distracted … on the computer."

b. The Complainant recalled, "… And then they agreed that they would do everything paper and pencil, and they didn't have any of that in place for [the Student] either, which was shocking as well because we had agreed upon that." The Complainant stated the School was not following this accommodation for any classes. The Complainant shared the Assistant Principal told them the Student was removed from a class because the accommodation could not be met.

c. The Student's IEP prohibited staff from giving the Student any non-educational items due to a history of stealing and hyper-focusing on gifted items.

d. The BIP stated the Student would be given "three choices or three times to comply. And then you are … just supposed to say 'non-negotiable, move on' …."

i. The Complainant believed this was not being followed because the PBS Teacher shared with the Complainant a "conversation" the PBS Teacher had with the Student during an escalation.

e. "And then as far as the bus staff, it also says on the IEP that staff are to refrain from having private, educational, or any type of information in front of the Student."

f. Staff training was listed in the Student's IEP. They believed this training was important for the staff to understand the accommodations in the IEP and, according to the Complainant, "… they're supposed to provide me copies of training that it's happened … ." The Complainant indicated they requested, but had not received any training logs.

44. The Complainant stated the Paraprofessional took the Student to a separate room for a test, which was not an accommodation in the IEP. They also shared the Paraprofessional provided the Student with answers to a safety test for the art class. Additionally, the Complainant stated the Student was being released early from class in both the 2024-25 and 2025-26 school year so the Student could board their bus.

45. The Complainant shared the following regarding the 2024-25 school year:

    a. A paraprofessional assigned to the Student at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year "was taking [the Student] into the [janitorial] closet, getting [the Student] ice. [The paraprofessional] was letting [the Student] get on [the Student's] laptop. … was letting [the Student] listen to inappropriate music. … go to websites and do gaming and just stuff that was non-educational."

    b. The Complainant requested a new paraprofessional, and the Middle School Principal assigned two new paraprofessionals, including Witness 1, who was also the Student's respite provider.

    c. The Complainant reported the new paraprofessional team followed the IEP for the rest of the 2024-25 school year.

        i. The Complainant stated there were additional problems following the IEP in the second semester of the 2024-25 school year when a long-term substitute teacher was assigned to the Middle School PBS classroom. According to the Complainant, no grades were reported for the end of the semester, and the Student told the Complainant they were "not learning anything in class."

46. Additionally, the Complainant stated:

    a. Daily data tracking sheets were supposed to be kept for the Student according to their IEP. They requested copies in the 2025-26 school year and believed the copies emailed to them were doctored.

    b. The Complainant shared that data was not tracked at all at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year.

    c. The Complainant wanted to be able to cross-reference reported behavior incidents with daily tracking data.

47. After the start of the 2025-26 school year, the Complainant requested a new special education case manager and paraprofessional. The Assistant Principal "immediately" changed the case manager. At the time of the interview, the paraprofessional had not been reassigned.

48. The Complainant expressed doubt over the efficacy of the LEA digital pass system. The Complainant was able to view data reported in the Parent Portal. They were concerned with the amount of time the Student was reported out of class, as well as the system not documenting regularly scheduled nurse visits for medication.

Witness 1 Interview

49. In an interview with the Investigator and the Director of Secondary Special Education, Witness 1 shared the following:
    a. They were a paraprofessional with the LEA who was assigned to work with the Student at the Middle School in November 2024 and also provided respite care in a private setting every other weekend for the Student. Witness 1 shared they received training regarding the Student from the Middle School Special Education Provider during the 2024-25 school year.
    b. They were told the August 11, 2025 meeting was an IEP by the Principal. They had been asked to attend by the Complainant. Witness 1 stated they had trouble logging in to the virtual meeting and ended up calling in on speaker phone.
    c. The special education buses frequently left the Middle School at the same time the dismissal bell rang. This made it difficult to ensure students received both instructional minutes and transportation.

Special Education Provider Interview

50. In an interview with the Investigator, the Special Education Provider recalled an August 11, 2025 meeting between the Student's high school team and the Complainant. The Special Education Provider described it as a virtual meeting, which allowed the Complainant to share information about the Student with their new team. The Special Education Provider recalled the Complainant wanted the team to be "prepped" for the Student's behaviors and needs. The Special Education Provider shared the Complainant was upset during the meeting that the Special Education Provider had not sent out the IEP to the team. They sent the IEP out to the team by email during the meeting at the Complainant's request. According to the Special Education Provider, the August 11, 2025 meeting was not an IEP meeting, and the Complainant never formally requested to review the Student's documents.

Instructional Manager Interview

51. In an interview with the Investigator and the Director of Secondary Special Education, the Instructional Manager shared the following:
    a. They were assigned to the Student on August 28, 2025 and they were not present for the August 11, 2025 meeting. At the time of the August 11, 2025 meeting, the Special Education Provider was the case manager for the Student. The Instructional Manager stated they were unaware of any amendments or updates to the Student's IEP and did not recall the Complainant formally requesting a review of records.
    b. The PBS Teacher and the Special Education Provider had been in charge of the training for all special education staff, including bus staff. The Instructional Manager indicated they continuously checked in with the special education staff, including bus staff, to make sure training was being followed. The Director of Secondary Special Education verified training was held for all classified staff on August 5, 2025, prior to the start of the 2025-26 school year. They described the training as "individualized" for the staff.

c. The Instructional Manager stated they performed weekly check-ins with staff and the Complainant. Regarding daily tracking data, the Instructional Manager stated the Paraprofessional filled out a daily checklist after each class period. At the end of each school day, the Paraprofessional turned the completed checklist into the Instructional Manager. At the end of each week, the Instructional Manager faxed the sheets to the Complainant.

PBS Teacher Interview

52. In an interview with the Investigator and the Director of Secondary Special Education, the PBS Teacher shared the following:

a. The Student was in their "first hour PBS class" and ate breakfast and lunch in the PBS classroom. The PBS Teacher indicated they used the social emotional learning curriculum in the PBS classroom and that Students were allowed to use the PBS classroom as a space to calm down. According to the PBS Teacher, the Student required one-on-one support. They shared the Student struggled with transitions, large group settings, and respect for others' personal space, and confirmed the Student did not have a Chromebook.

b. The purpose of the August 11, 2025 meeting was to share information about the Student, and it was not an IEP meeting because the IEP was not reviewed.

c. Regarding training, the PBS Teacher stated they had previously worked as a behavior technician. They believed their training as a registered behavior technician was sufficient for their position as PBS Teacher because the training focused on positive behavior reinforcement. The PBS Teacher stated the Student's specific disabilities were covered in their behavior technician training.

Assistant Principal Interview

53. In an interview with the Investigator and the Director of Secondary Special Education, the Assistant Principal shared the following:

a. The Special Education Provider shared the "IEP at a glance" with staff before the school year began.

b. The Instructional Manager continuously checked in with teachers and classified staff about the Student's IEP.

c. The Director of Secondary Special Education added the High School had early release every Wednesday to allow staff to communicate about student needs.

d. The Assistant Principal was unable to recall specific training the staff received for the Student's IEP. The Director of Secondary Special Education clarified that the professional development day on August 5, 2025 was an opportunity for all staff to review each student's IEP. During that professional development day, the Special Education Provider worked with teachers and classified staff assigned to the Student. The staff reviewed the Student's IEP and BIP and received any necessary specialized training. The PBS Teacher trained the paraprofessional staff, and the Transportation Department trained the bus staff.

e. The Director of Secondary Special Education stated both the staff and the LEA tracked the training data for classified staff to ensure fidelity. They stated the required amount of training varied depending on position, and the data was audited on an annual basis. The Director of Secondary Special Education stated they communicated with the Complainant regarding staff training in an informal manner and could provide documentation upon request.

f. The Director of Secondary Special Education stated the bus staff had access to the Student's IEP and BIP, and the Assistant Principal stated that both a hard copy and a digital copy of the IEP and BIP were shared with staff.

g. When asked to describe the August 11, 2025 meeting, the Assistant Principal recalled it as a "parent meeting" to allow the Complainant to share information about the Student and indicated "suggestions" were provided on how to interact with the Student. They believed the Complainant understood it was an informal meeting. According to the Assistant Principal, no amendments were made to the Student's IEP. However, a conversation about amendments began on or around September 8, 2025.

h. The Assistant Principal did not recall the Complainant formally requesting a records review.

i. The Director of Secondary Special Education stated that a "student activity report" was data collected by the LEA's digital pass system. The Student scanned their ID card when they got on and off the bus to log their location. The bus drivers were also able to check the Student in without the ID card.

j. The Assistant Principal added "… it just may be a thing that the bus driver may go ahead and decide to scan … ."

k. The Student had been released early a total of 29 minutes during the 2024-25 school year at the Middle School, and had not been released early from the High School.

l. Witness 1 was permitted to pick up the Student from school. This was done on a regular schedule that was communicated to the PBS Teacher. The Director of Secondary Special Education stated Witness 1 did not pick up the Student early from school.

Principal Interview

54. In an interview with the Investigator and the Director of Secondary Special Education, the Principal stated they verbally reminded staff not to release students early twice a year, in a meeting at the beginning of each semester, and provided regular written reminders throughout the year in the weekly staff email. They were not aware of the Student being released early, and they had not received a formal records request from the Complainant.

Paraprofessional Interview

55. In an interview with the Investigator, the Paraprofessional stated they were the Student's one-on-one assistant and described the following:
    a. "I always carry a copy of [the Student's] IEP, so I have all the things that I'm supposed to implement … ."
    b. Regarding the Student's accommodations, "[The Student] … has me … ." Additionally, "There's a lot of accommodations. I am required to take [the Student] to the bathroom three times a day: third period, lunch, and the end of the day." "[The Student's] allowed breaks for no more than 10 minutes. Reminders of rules. [The Student] gets that from me."
    c. The PBS Room was a location for both a class the Student attends and a space for de-escalation.
    d. Regarding the BIP, the Paraprofessional described "keeping a vigilant eye on [the Student]."
    e. Regarding a September 5, 2025 email from the Complainant to the PBS Teacher in which the Paraprofessional was referenced, the Paraprofessional described, "… [The Student] wasn't using the computer, I was. [The Student] was telling me what to do, but on … behalf of the teacher, didn't have it set up yet for the paper copy [sic]. It was one of the first days of school. [The teacher] just didn't have it yet."
    f. Regarding removing materials from the classroom, "I never … let [the Student] take anything home. Oh, it was a piece of a necklace. … It was a project that [the Student] made that [the Student] was trying to take home, and I didn't tell [the Student] to take it home and work on it. It was something that was already finished. And at the time, nobody had told me about the whole envelope, like putting things in the sealed envelope. And I should have known that ahead of time. I'm sorry … . What is right here in [the Student's] IEP that says [the Student's] not really allowed to take anything home unless it's a document that needs to be signed by [the Complainant] and that if we needed to send something home, we have to put it in an envelope and it's got to be sealed with [the Complainant's] name on it and it's got to be given directly to the bus driver."

g. "The Student doesn't get released early from school. We leave … the classroom five minutes before the release time to get [the Student's] bathroom break in, and that's in [the Student's] IEP, and then we go from there to the release area."

h. Regarding training. "So, specifically with [the Student]. The day before, I came in and did a whole day of training on just [the Student]. There was a meeting with … [the Complainant], and I met with the principal … [the Assistant Principal] and [the PBS Teacher]. And they all sat down and gave me how to handle certain things and what to do, and they gave me [the Student's] IEP and taught me about how to use [the Student's] IEP … ."

56. In the Paraprofessional's interview, the Assistant Director shared that the High School implemented a new scanning system whereby Students scan their card when they arrive, leave for a break or other reason, and when they exit. The Paraprofessional indicated the Student scanned their card "except for the five-minute [period] when [the Student] leaves the five minutes early for classes. [The Student] doesn't have to scan out because [they] won't be scanning back in. So I've worked [it] out with all the teachers."

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD # 437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, implemented the IEP and the BIP as written, specifically following the amendments made at the August 11, 2025, IEP meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-16(a)(b)(3-5), K.A.R. 91-40-19; 34 CFR § 300.323.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(a)(b)(3-5), K.A.R. 91-40-19, and 34 CFR § 300.323, an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year. The IEP must be accessible to all staff responsible for implementation, and each staff member must be informed of their duties in relation to the IEP. Each agency, teacher, and related services provider shall provide special education and related services to an exceptional child in accordance with the child's IEP and shall make a good faith effort to assist the child to achieve the goals and objectives stated in the IEP. Any and all staff members making good-faith efforts toward their duties within the IEP shall not be held liable for lack of progress on the student's part.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to implement the IEP and BIP, especially following amendments made at an August 11, 2025 IEP meeting. The amendments pertained to a Chromebook ban, PBS meals delivered to the PBS room, paper-and-pencil coursework, the Student's blocked food/cafeteria account, testing accommodations, and the IEP bathroom schedule.

The LEA acknowledged that a meeting was held on August 11, 2025, at the Complainant's request to ensure everyone was "on the same page" regarding the Student, not to amend the Student's IEP. No amendment was created or documented at the August 11, 2025 meeting. However, staff understood the Complainant's strong preference for paper-pencil work and, in good faith, started that practice at the beginning of the school year. The LEA described the Student's IEP allowed for monitored computer use. On September 8, 2025, when the new High School Instructional Manager noted the difference between the paper-pencil practice and what was written in the IEP, the Assistant Principal agreed to work with the High School Instructional Manager to adjust the IEP language through an amendment.

A review of the documentation and interviews indicated the Complainant believed the LEA did not comply with the Student's IEP and BIP in the following areas:

1. Meal Provision/Food Charges: While the Complainant claimed the Student was repeatedly taken to the lunchroom instead of having meals delivered to the PBS room, the IEP described eating lunch in the PBS room, not the process by which the meals should be acquired or food charges. Not substantiated.
2. Prohibition of Unauthorized Items and Materials: On August 12, 2025, the Student took home a binder that should have remained in the classroom. On another occasion, the Student took home a project from art class. The IEP indicated that all school materials should remain in the classroom. Substantiated.
3. Staff Training and Documentation: The LEA provided dates, times, sign-in sheets, and slides to verify required training, and there was no indication in the evidence that the Complainant requested that documentation. Not substantiated.
4. Implementation of Behavioral Strategies/Protocols: The Complainant referenced conversations staff had with the Student that violated the IEP. No evidence of these conversations was found in the record. Not substantiated.
5. Progress Monitoring/Data Tracking: The Complainant indicated data was not tracked at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year and described that the data they received for the 2025-26 school year was "doctored." There was no evidence to suggest data was not provided or that any data was manipulated. There was evidence to indicate the Instructional Manager provided data to the Complainant. Not substantiated.
6. Improper Use of Accommodations: The Complainant indicated the Student was taken to a separate room for a quiz and the Paraprofessional provided answers to the Student on a safety test. The IEP described an "alternative setting for all subjects when provided an assessment" indicating the Student's removal was permissible. There was no evidence that the Paraprofessional provided answers to the Student. Not substantiated.

The central issue in this allegation hinged on whether the August 11, 2025 gathering qualified as a formal IEP meeting under the IDEA. For a meeting to meet this definition, it must adhere to IDEA's procedural safeguards, specifically requiring proper notice to the Complainant and the attendance of necessary staff. The record lacks evidence of proper notice, an amendment, or a PWN confirming its status as an IEP meeting.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is partially substantiated that the LEA failed to properly implement the IEP/BIP for the Student.

Additional Finding: The Complainant clearly requested an IEP meeting on both May 23, 2025, and August 1, 2025. Given that no IEP meeting was scheduled by the time the Complaint was filed on September 11, 2025, the substantial delay in convening the IEP team constituted a procedural violation under the IDEA.

Issue Two

Whether USD # 437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided instruction and services to the Student according to the LRE requirements when the Student was dismissed early for bus transport and was excluded from class due to the lack of paper-pencil coursework. K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.A.R. 91-40-1(II), K.S.A. 72-3420; 34 CFR § 300.114.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.A.R. 91-40-1(II), K.S.A. 72-3420, and 34 CFR § 300.114, the LEA must ensure children with disabilities are educated in the LRE to the maximum extent appropriate with children who are not disabled. A child should not be removed from education in age-appropriate, regular classrooms solely because of needed modifications in the general curriculum.

The Complainant alleged the Student was released early for bus transport while nondisabled peers remained in class. Additionally, the LEA excluded the Student from class due to the lack of paper-pencil coursework being provided per the IEP.

The LEA indicated they attempted to implement parent-requested practices, like limiting Chromebook use, even before formal IEP amendments were finalized. However, conflicting understandings between the Complainant's statements and the IEP complicated the implementation. Additionally, bus scan data showed the Student was dismissed early on several occasions, totaling 29 minutes during the 2024–25 school year, though this has occurred only once in the 2025–26 school year.

A review of the documentation and interviews indicated the Complainant asserted that at the August 11, 2025 meeting, the team agreed to remove Chromebook access and supply the Student with paper-pencil assignments. However, the August 11, 2025 meeting was not an IEP meeting, and that information was not documented in an IEP amendment. The current IEP from October 2024 (amended in April 2025) indicated the Student could use a computer with adult monitoring and was silent on the provision of paper-pencil assignments.

before going to the bus. This adherence to the IEP resulted in one early bus scan during the current 2025–26 school year complaint window. The eight occurrences during the 2024–25 school year involved early release from a non-instructional Advisory class. In all these instances, the early admittance to the bus did not constitute a material failure to implement the Student's IEP, as supported in E.C. v. U.S.D. 365 Andover (D. Kan. 2020), which found that temporary departures from a student's plan did not cause lasting harm or impede a student's progress.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that the LEA violated IDEA and Kansas special education regulations regarding the provision of paper-pencil assignments. It is not substantiated that the LEA failed to educate the Student in the LRE on specific dates when the Student was allowed to go to the bus before the official dismissal time.

Issue Three

Whether USD # 437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Complainant with a copy of the updated IEP from the August 11, 2025 meeting, and an opportunity to review the Student's educational records. K.A.R. 91-40-25(a), K.A.R. 91-40-18(d); 34 CFR § 300.501(a), 34 CFR § 300.322(f).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-25(a), K.A.R. 91-40-18(d), and 34 CFR § 300.501(a), 34 CFR § 300.322(f), the LEA must allow a parent or guardian to review any and all educational records for their student, and a copy of a child's IEP shall be given to the parent or guardian at no cost.

The Complainant alleged they requested, but did not receive, an updated copy of the IEP from the August 11, 2025 amendment meeting. Additionally, the Complainant requested, but did not receive, documentation of staff training on the Student's IEP and their mental health diagnoses.

The LEA asserted they consistently provided the Complainant with copies of the Student's IEP and amendments when they were created (October 2024, March–April 2025). The August 11, 2025 meeting did not generate an updated IEP, and the Complainant was later informed the IEP remained unchanged. According to the LEA, between September 12, 2024 and September 11, 2025, Complainant did not request educational records for the Student.

The August 11, 2025 meeting was not an IEP meeting and did not result in the creation of amendments. The LEA routinely provided records to the Complainant from October 2024 to May 2025, including IEP documents, amendments, progress reports, and a threat assessment. There was no evidence to indicate the Complainant made any formal request for a records review.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to provide an opportunity for the Complainant to review the Student's records.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 CFR § 300.323, and Kansas regulations K.A.R. 91-40-16(a)(b)(3-5) and K.A.R. 91-40-19 specify that an IEP must be in effect at the beginning of the school year and that staff must make an effort to assist the child in meeting their IEP goals.

   In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 437 did not adhere to the IEP/BIP regarding school materials. Documentation and interviews document this.

B. Federal regulations at 34 CFR §§ 300.321, 300.322, and Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-17 specify IEP meetings shall be properly noticed and attended by required participants.

   In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 437 did not schedule an IEP meeting in a timely fashion after the Complainant requested one on multiple occasions.

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD # 437 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 CFR § 300.323, and Kansas regulations K.A.R. 91-40-16(a)(b)(3-5) and K.A.R. 91-40-19) by reviewing the IEP and BIP with all relevant parties.
2. Within in 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD # 437 shall submit a written statement of assurance to SETS stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 CFR §§ 300.321 300.322, and Kansas regulations K.A.R. 91-40-17 that the LEA's practices and procedures for parent-requested IEP meetings have been reviewed and revised as appropriate to be responsive and compliant the IDEA and the Kansas Special Education for Exceptional Children Act.
    a. Additionally, if an IEP meeting was not scheduled after the filing of this Complaint on September 11, 2025, then one is scheduled within 15 calendar days of receiving this report, and notification of the completion of the IEP meeting is provided to SETS by November 15, 2025.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 437
Auburn/Washburn Public Schools: 26FC437-003

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on September 11, 2025, by ----- on behalf of -----. In the remainder of this decision, ----- will be referred to as "the complainant" and ----- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on October 14,, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations with regard to Issue one, but not to Issues two and three.

Thereafter, the complainant filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the complainant's notice of appeal, and the district's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Issues on Appeal

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD # 437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), implemented the Individualized Education Program (IEP) and the behavior intervention plan (BIP) as written, specifically following the amendments made at the August 11, 2025, IEP meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-16(a)(b)(3-5), K.A.R. 91-40-19; 34 CFR § 300.323. NOTE: The Complainant verified that the allegations also pertained to the time prior to August 11, 2025. This allegation was "partially substantiated."

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD # 437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided instruction and services to the Student according to the least restrictive environment (LRE) requirements when the Student was dismissed early for bus transport and was excluded from class due to the lack of paper-pencil coursework. K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.A.R. 91-40-1(ll), K.S.A. 72-3420; 34 CFR § 300.114. This allegation was not substantiated

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD # 437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Complainant with a copy of the updated IEP from the August 11, 2025 meeting, and an opportunity to review the Student's educational records. K.A.R. 91-40-25(a), K.A.R. 91-40-18(d); 34 CFR § 300.501(a), 34 CFR § 300.322(f). This allegation was not substantiated.

Discussion

As noted above, in the section titled "Preliminary Matters," a complainant may appeal "any of the findings or conclusions" of a complaint report. Kansas regulation 91-40-51(f)] limits appeals to the findings and conclusions in a complaint report. It does not allow an appeal based on newly raised issues or other considerations, such as the following allegations made in this appeal:

Retaliatory restrictions and adverse consequences imposed after I exercised my right to file state complaints; (Appeal, p. 1). This part of the appeal relates to the complainant's perception of conduct that may have occurred after the filing of this complaint and does not contest the findings or conclusions in the report and so is not subject to appeal.

Continued denial of my right to meaningful participation by restricting my direct communication with the IEP team for all three students in my home- (Appeal p. 1). This part of the appeal relates to the complainant's perception of conduct that occurred after the filing of this complaint and does not contest the findings or conclusions in the report and so is not subject to appeal.

The rest of the appeal is as follows:

1. Conflict of Interest and Lack of Impartiality – (Appeal, p. 1)

This part of the appeal contends that a school administrator attended interviews between the investigator and school staff members and a guest member of the student's IEP Team, and "constituted direct interference with a complainant witness, violating the procedural neutrality required under K.A.R. 91-40-51(a) and 34 C.F.R. § 300.509(a)(2). The Appeal Committee reviewed both of these regulations and found nothing in either that restricts the interview process in any way. The appeal also asserts that because the interviews were conducted on school premises, "This environment deprived both my witness and me of voluntary participation and impartial treatment, violating procedural-fairness standards and compromising the independence of the investigation." The complainant added, "All witnesses, including Witness 1, should be re-interviewed independently, outside district premises and without Ms. Carlson or any USD 437 representative present, to restore procedural fairness, neutrality, and compliance with IDEA and Kansas Administrative Regulation."

The Appeal Committee finds that there is nothing in the law that controls interview methods used by the investigator. Moreover, interviewing witnesses together is sometimes more, rather than less, likely to achieve fairness and neutrality in the interview process. The Appeal Committee concludes that the interview process used by the investigator did not violate any legal requirement, or interfere with, or otherwise adversely affect the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

2. Incomplete, Inconsistent and Unverified Staff-Training Documentation – (Appeal p. 3).

This part of the appeal relates to a conclusion of the investigator on page 32 of the report that staff training required by the student's IEP was completed. The investigator concluded that " The LEA provided dates, times, sign-in sheets, and slides to verify required training, and there was no indication in the evidence that the Complainant requested that documentation. Not substantiated."

In this appeal, the complainant asserts that "multiple staff statements regarding training were inconsistent and never reconciled." Among these inconsistent statements, the complainant asserts that different individuals cited different dates (August 5 and August 11) for when the training occurred. The complainant's appeal included this statement, "This omission violates 34 C.F.R. § 300.323(d) and K.A.R. 91-40-17(a), which require that each teacher and service provider responsible for implementing a student's IEP be informed of their specific responsibilities and receive the necessary training to implement the IEP with fidelity."

On page 32 of the report, the investigator found, "The LEA provided dates, times, sign-in sheets, and slides to verify required training, and there was no indication in the evidence that the Complainant requested that documentation." There may well have been some inconsistencies in what was reported to the investigator by various personnel, but the investigator did not rely on those reports for this conclusions. She relied on "dates, times, sign-in sheets, and slides to verify required training."

The Appeal Committee concludes that there was adequate documentation of the completion of the staff training required by the IEP.

3. Misclassification of August 11, 2025, IEP Meeting and Procedural Deficiencies

In her appeal, the complainant says "The report incorrectly concluded that the August 11, 2025, meeting was not an IEP meeting…" The report said, "

> The central issue in this allegation hinged on whether the August 11, 2025 gathering qualified as a formal IEP meeting under the IDEA. For a meeting to meet this definition, it must adhere to IDEA's procedural safeguards, specifically requiring proper notice to the Complainant and the attendance of necessary staff. The record lacks evidence of proper notice, an amendment, or a PWN confirming its status as an IEP meeting.

It appears to the Appeal Committee that the district did not intend the August 11, 2025 meeting to be an IEP meeting and so did not treat it as an IEP meeting with a PWN. As the meeting proceeded, it looked more like an IEP meeting.

Whether or not this meeting should be ruled an IEP meeting is largely irrelevant because the report cited this "Additional Finding":

> Additional Finding: The Complainant clearly requested an IEP meeting on both May 23, 2025, and August 1, 2025. Given that no IEP meeting was scheduled by the time the Complaint was filed on September 11, 2025, the substantial delay in convening the IEP team constituted a procedural violation under the IDEA.

Accordingly, there was a finding in the report that the district had not timely scheduled an IEP meeting. if the August 11, 2025 meeting was an IEP meeting, we would have to remove this "Additional Finding." The August 11, 2025 meeting cannot be both an IEP meeting and not an IEP meeting.

The Appeal Committee concludes that the district mishandled this matter by either not timely convening an IEP meeting (as the investigator determined) or by scheduling a meeting without proper notice (as the complainant asserts in this appeal). The difference between the two is minimal, but should be clarified. Therefore, the Appeal Committee changes the conclusion in this portion of the report to: The district failed to comply with procedural requirements of law by either failing to timely schedule an IEP meeting or scheduling an IEP meeting without proper notice. No change to the corrective action ordered in the report is necessary as a result of the revision of this conclusion because the existing corrective action is sufficient to also address this revision.

4. Witness 1 Misclassified and Interviewed Improperly

This portion of the appeal is the same as the issue in number 1 above, and is not subject to appeal.

5. Paraprofessional Interview Contradictions and Unreconciled Training Inconsistencies – (Appeal, p. 7)

The complainant's appeal states that: "The investigator failed to reconcile multiple contradictions within the paraprofessional's interview and to verify those statements against the student's IEP, related amendments, and regulatory requirements." While the Appeal Committee appreciates the complainants detailed analysis of what the complainant describes as "contradictions" in statements made by various school staff members, it does not reach the same conclusions. When multiple people are interviewed about a specific event, it is not unusual for there to be different interpretations of what occurred. Part of an investigator's task is to make judgements as to what testimony is most credible. That judgement may rely on the personal interaction between the investigator and the person being interviewed, much like a judge in a court when considering the testimony of witnesses. The Appeal Committee generally defers to the investigator's judgement of witness credibility, unless there appears to be a clear error of judgement, which there is not in this case. As previously noted, the investigator's conclusion on this "training" issue was based, not on witness credibility, but on solid evidence, explained in the report on page 32, as: "The LEA provided dates, times, sign-in sheets, and slides to verify required training."

6. Principal and PBS Teacher Interviews Not Fact-Checked

The complainant asserts that "The investigator failed to conduct adequate fact-checking or reconcile contradictions in the principal and PBS teacher interviews, resulting in unsupported findings and violations of IDEA procedural requirements for thorough, impartial investigation."

The Appeal Committee disagrees with this description of the investigator's work. The investigator conducted a comprehensive investigation, including the following:

- Review of 23 documents provided by the district and 4 documents provided by the district (Report, page 3 to page 31).
- Fifty Six separate findings of fact (from page 4 to page 31)
- Conclusions on the three issues presented (from page 31 to page 35)

The Appeal Committee concludes that the report reflects considerably more than "adequate fact checking." The report recorded the documents and the statements of both parties, gave weight to what the investigator concluded was most credible evidence, and reached reasonable conclusions based on the evidence presented.

7. Middle-School Violations Ignored

The complainant appeals the decision in Issue Two of the complaint, saying: "The investigator failed to address significant violations that occurred during the student's middle-school placement. Evidence and witness statements show that the student was regularly removed from instruction early to board the special-education bus, depriving him of instructional time in violation of Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) requirements under 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.114–300.116 and K.A.R. 91-40-21."

The investigator recognized that the student had been released from school early on occasion, but concluded that the early releases did not constitute a violation of law. The investigator explained her analysis as follows:

> During the interview, the Paraprofessional explained that they and the Student left the final class five minutes early to ensure the Student received an IEP-mandated bathroom break before going to the bus. This adherence to the IEP resulted in one early bus scan during the current 2025–26 school year complaint window. The eight occurrences during the 2024–25 school year involved early release from a non-instructional Advisory class. In all these instances, the early admittance to the bus did not constitute a material failure to implement the Student's IEP, as supported in E.C. v. U.S.D. 365 Andover (D. Kan. 2020), which found that temporary departures from a student's plan did not cause lasting harm or impede a student's progress. Report p. 34.

The investigator found no violation, citing a Kansas federal district court case saying that temporary departures from a student's IEP is not a violation of law unless it impedes a student's progress. While, a district court's rulings may have some persuasive value upon which an investigator may rely, higher courts that have ruled on this issue have unanimously agreed that perfect implementation of an IEP is not required.

In Abigail P. v. Old Forge School District, 124 LRP 21769 (3d. Cir. 2024), the third United States Circuit Court of Appeals joined the 4th, 5th, 8th, 9th, and 11th Circuits saying implementation failures must be material to be actionable and perfect adherence is not the standard. The court explained, "Indeed, a requirement of perfect adherence would ignore the realities and the challenges that the IDEA was built to accommodate… A materiality standard affords local agencies some flexibility while still holding those agencies accountable for material failures and for providing the disabled a meaningful education benefit."

The investigator reached her conclusion, not because the student did not leave school early, but because there was no evidence that the eight occurrences during the 2024–25 school year involving early release from a non-instructional Advisory class to board the bus constituted a material failure to implement the Student's IEP. The Appeal Committee agrees that without some showing of either a material failure to follow the IEP (whether a service or placement provision) or some material detriment to the student's progress, there is no basis to find a violation of law. The conclusion in the complaint report on this issue is affirmed.

8. Procedural Violations and Adverse Consequence p. 11

In this portion of her appeal, the complaint asserts:

> Following the issuance of the investigation results, I have been subjected to escalating procedural restrictions and communication barriers.

This alleged activity was not an issue either alleged or investigated in this complaint. As such, the Appeal Committee concludes that it cannot be addressed in this appeal.

9. FERPA Violation Demonstrating Pattern of Misrepresentation – (Appeal p. 12)

This alleged communication and alleged violation of FERPA (or the IDEA) was not an issue alleged in this complaint or investigated by the investigator. As such, it cannot be addressed in this appeal.

Sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 24th day of November, 2025.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a 9th-grade student during the 2024-2025 school year who lives at home with both parents as an only child. The student initially qualified for special education support for Speech/Language services in 2016 and later in 2020 was identified as having Autism. The parent reports that the student attended Head Start and was first evaluated in 3rd grade on the school's recommendation. The student has attended school in this LEA since kindergarten.

At the time of the complaint the student's current IEP is dated January 15, 2025 and includes the following goals and accommodations/modifications along with the anticipated frequency:

Goals -

1. Math goal to solve a one-step equation
2. Reading comprehension goal
3. Writing response goal
4. Executive functioning goal focused on reducing number of missing assignments

Accommodations/Modifications/Supplementary Aids and Services-

1. Preferential seating, near the source of instruction- daily
2. Frequent checks for understanding- daily
3. Modification of tasks to show mastery of priority standards- as determined by the task
4. Alternate setting and read-aloud accommodation for classroom LEA and state assessments- as determined by the assessment
5. Access to a scribe or speech to text for written assignments- as determined by writing task
6. Modification of length and format of classroom test and quizzes- as determined by assessment
7. Access to a copy of the teacher's notes- daily
8. Access to building-wide reinforcements for completing a required task or activity- daily
9. Verbal signal or warning to give the student notice that they may be called on to answer a question or share information- daily

The student has paraprofessional and/or certified special educator support available during all of the core classes which the student attends in the general education setting. The student receives 50 minutes 1x per week and 95 minutes 2x per week of instruction and support for executive functioning as well as 15 minutes of transition services, once a semester, in the special education setting.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, three concerns which fall under IDEA or Kansas regulations were identified and investigated.

Issue One

Did USD #512 fail to provide a complete Prior Written Notice as required by 34 CFR §300.503(b) during the 2025-2026 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.503(b) require that PWNs included the following: (1) A description of the action proposed or refused by the agency; (2) An explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action; (3) A description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action; (4) A statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under the procedural safeguards of this part and, if this notice is not an initial referral for evaluation, the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained; (5) Sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions of this part; (6) A description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected; and (7) A description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that, "The district continues to issue PWNs that lack the content required under 34 CFR 300.503, including data relied upon, options considered, and the reasons for rejecting alternatives".

LEA Position

The LEA response states, "The District maintains that it has complied fully with the requirements of IDEA and has not violated 34 C.F.R. § 300.503(b)". The LEA response also adds, "Both notices contained the elements required under federal law…".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties.

1. The LEA had issued two PWNs at the time the complaint for the 2025-2026 school year. The first was on August 15, 2025 which was a denial of the parent's request for a gifted evaluation and the second on August 29, 2025 which was an approval of parent request for an IEE.
2. The following is a comparison of what IDEA requires in a PWN and the content of the August 15, 2025 PWN.
    a. A description of the action proposed or refused by the agency.
        i. "[The LEA] refuses to conduct a evaluation."
    b. An explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action.
        i. "…there is not reason to suspect secondary exceptionality at this time."
        ii. "…data is suggesting that extension of academic materials and enrichment opportunities to adequately support [the student's] needs are within the scope of general education resources."
    c. A description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action.
        i. "Previous comprehensive educational evaluations completed by [the LEA] in January 2021 and January 2024; data reported in the 2021 re-evaluation included cognitive assessment scores that are not significantly above average."
        ii. "Academic history does not indicate enrollment in advanced level courses in middle school. Nationally-normed standardized assessment data in reading and math indicate skills are not significantly above average in either subject."

iii. "The most recent annual IEP, written January 15, 2025, states in its present levels of academic and functional performance that [the student's] abilities in math problem solving are significantly discrepant from peers, warranting placement in the special education setting to deliver direct, targeted instruction that would allow [the student] to access the general education curriculum in [their] on-level math course."

iv. "The current IEP includes accommodations that modify tasks to show mastery of priority standards and modified length and format of tests/quizzes."

v. "Eligibility Indicators for the state of Kansas define Giftedness as, 'performing or demonstrating the potential for performing at significantly higher levels of accomplishment in one or more academic fields due to intellectual ability, when compared to others of similar age, experience, and environment'. This includes, but is not limited to: progress monitoring that shows skills in one or more academic areas are much above that of peers, GPA, classroom assessments, etc., indicate significant excellence in academics, percentile rank not below the 95th percentile on nationally normed achievement tests, ease of task completion, rate of acquisition and retention indicate significantly high level of intellectual ability, and composite rank not below the 97th percentile rank on an individually administered, standardized, norm-referenced test of intellectual ability".

vi. "Parent input via email on 8/7/2025, and during a team meeting with [the school] staff on 8/15/2025. Staff input given during the meeting on 8/15/2025; meeting was attended by [the student's parents], special education case manager, school psychologist, academic counselor, biology teacher, social worker, and associate principal. Additional staff input was given to the school psychologist in a phone conversation with [the student's] 8th grade special education case manager on 8/7/25."

d. A statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under the procedural safeguards of this part and, if this notice is not an initial referral for evaluation, the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained.

i. A complete procedural safeguard statement is included in the PWN.

e. Sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions of this part.

i. These resources are listed under the Additional Information header.

f. A description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected.

i. "[The student] is a student accessing special education services due to exceptionality of Autism, which, Kansas eligibility indicators state is a 'developmental disability significantly affecting verbal and nonverbal communication and social interaction'. [The student] has an interest in computers and technology, parents reported [the student] exhibits signs of giftedness via tactile activities related to [the student's] interests. If enrichment required for [them] to access the curriculum is beyond those accessible through general education resources, the need for evaluation will be revisited. If it is suspected that [the student] possesses significantly higher skills and abilities upon transition to the high school, the team will reconvene to consider if there is reason to suspect potential for giftedness at that time."

3. The following is a comparison of what IDEA requires in a PWN and the content of the August 29, 2025 PWN.
    a. A description of the action proposed or refused by the agency.
        i. "[The LEA] proposes to conduct an initial evaluation."
    b. An explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action.
        i. "On August 15, 2025, [the student's] IEP team received an email from the student's parents requesting an Independent Educational Evaluation (IEE). The request followed the team's decision not to evaluate [the student] for eligibility as a twice-exceptional student due to giftedness. Based on the information provided, the district agrees to provide an IEE at public expense in the areas of academic performance and general intelligence. A list of approved IEE locations is included with this Notice for your consideration."
    c. A description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action.
        i. "The proposed IEE request is a unilateral request of the educational decision makers."
    d. A statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under the procedural safeguards of this part and, if this notice is not an initial referral for evaluation, the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained.
        i. A complete procedural safeguard statement is included in the PWN.
    e. Sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions of this part.
        i. These resources are listed under the Additional Information header.
    f. A description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected.
        i. "The team considered denying the request [and to] file for due process; however, in a good faith effort to resolve the matter, that option was rejected."

Conclusion

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.503(b) require that PWNs include specific information as noted above.

In this case, a review of both PWNs for the 2025-2025 school year at the time of the complaint found the LEA issued complete PWNs.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the PWNs did include the required information. The LEA is IN compliance and no corrective actions are required.

Issue Two

Did USD #512 fail to appropriately consider a parent reevaluation request for giftedness as required by K.S.A. 72-3428(i)(1) during the 2025-2026 school year?

Applicable Law

K.S.A. 72-3428(i)(1) "As part of an initial evaluation, if appropriate, and as part of any reevaluation under this section, the IEP team and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, shall: (1) Review existing evaluation data on the child, including evaluations and information provided by the parents of the child, current classroom-based assessments and observations, and teacher and related services providers' observations;"

Parent Position

The parent complaint stated that there was a "Failure to act on parental reevaluation request."

LEA Position

The LEA response states, "The District maintains that it appropriately considered and responded to the parent's request in compliance with IDEA and Kansas statute".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties. The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The parents sent an email to the school requesting a gifted evaluation on August 4, 2025.
2. The first day of school was August 12, 2025
3. The IEP team, including the parents, met to discuss the parent's request for a giftedness evaluation on August 15, 2025.
4. The LEA issued a PWN denying the request on that same day.
5. The refusal PWN dated August 15, 2025 included all of the required information of K.S.A. 72-3428(i)(1). Please see Issue One, ANALYSIS FINDING OF FACT, 2, c.
6. The PWN notes input from the parents, case manager, school psychologist, academic counselor, biology teacher, social worker and associate principal. Additional input from the previous school year's special education case manager was gathered prior to the meeting on August 15, 2025.

7. In response to the LEA's denial of the gifted evaluation, the parent sent an email request for an IEE to the LEA on August 15, 2025.
8. The LEA responded with a PWN approving the IEE for general intelligence and academic performance on August 29, 2025.
9. In an email from the parent to the investigator on September 22, 2025 the parent shared, "I want to add that the school physically didn't even spend much time with [the student] before they refused [the gifted evaluation]. [The student] was at the school - maybe a week - before the refusal [to test for giftedness]. When we attended the [IEP] meeting - the school refused our requests - immediately - even in the actual meeting - and sent the PWN literally the same day. No evidence, no nothing".
10. In the LEA interview on October 10, 2025 the associate superintendent confirmed that the IEE will evaluate for giftedness.
11. In the LEA interview on October 10, 2025 the case manager confirmed that special education staff had observed the student in their general education classes prior to the August 15, 2025 IEP meeting.
12. In an October 13, 2025 email, the LEA confirmed that the biology teacher, having had the student in class, was able to share observational information as required by K.S.A. 72-3428(i)(1), in the August 15, 2025 meeting.

Conclusion

K.S.A. 72-3428(i)(1) As part of an initial evaluation, if appropriate, and as part of any reevaluation under this section, the IEP team and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, shall: (1) Review existing evaluation data on the child, including evaluations and information provided by the parents of the child, current classroom-based assessments and observations, and teacher and related services providers' observations;"

A review of the information included in the refusal PWN dated August 15, 2025 for the gifted evaluation finds that the LEA appropriately considered existing evaluation data which included LEA assessments in January 2021 and January 2024, parental input, classroom performance, and observations by the biology teacher and special education staff. Input from the student's 8th grade special education case manager was also noted in the PWN.

The parent understandably expressed concern that the student had only been at the high school for a few days prior to the LEAs refusal of a gifted evaluation. The LEA addressed this short time period in the August 15, 2025 PWN, "If enrichment required for [the student] to access the curriculum is beyond those accessible through general education resources, the need for evaluation will be revisited. If it is suspected that [the student] possesses significantly higher skills and abilities upon transition to [the high school], the team will reconvene to consider if there is reason to suspect potential for giftedness at that time".

It is noted that although the LEA denied an evaluation for giftedness on August 15, 2025, later upon the parent's request approved an IEE on August 29, 2025 which includes giftedness.

The initial refusal of the gifted evaluation included all of the information required by K.S.A. 72-3428(i)(1) and was within a reasonable timeframe with the first request being made by the parents in an email August 4, 2025 and the refusal PWN issued after the IEP meeting on August 15, 2025.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA appropriately considered the parent's evaluation request for giftedness. The LEA is IN compliance and corrective actions are not required.

Issue Three

Did USD #512 implement the student's IEP specifically related to accommodations as required by 34 CFR §300.323(c)(2) during the 2025-2026 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at IDEA 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) requires LEAs to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Parent Position

The parent stated in the September 22, 2025 interview, "… [the student] is getting tardies counted, but it is in the IEP. They are not following accommodations in the IEP".

LEA Position

The LEA response states, "The District denies this allegation and affirms that it has fully complied with federal and state requirements regarding IEP implementation. Pursuant to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), school districts must ensure that an IEP is in effect for each eligible child at the start of each school year".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. In the September 22, 2025 interview, the parent cited evidence of what they felt demonstrated lack of accommodation use:
    a. The student was being counted as tardy even though the parent felt this was addressed in the IEP.
    b. An email from the algebra teacher on September 16, 2025 noted missing assignments due to missed classes along with an offer to help the student catch-up, but no mention of accommodation use.

   c. An email from the health teacher on September 23, 2025 due to missing assignments and offer to help, but no mention of accommodations.

2. The student's accommodations (listed on page 4 of this report) do not address tardies or offer staff guidance on how to support the student to get to class on time.
3. Missing assignments are not specifically addressed in the IEP's accommodations although there are several strategies noted that may help the student complete work such as seating near the source of instruction, modification of tasks, access to a scribe or speech to text, and a copy of the teacher's notes.
4. A review of training records confirmed that all of the student's teachers received training on the use of accommodations and received the student's IEP Snapshot, which includes the student's IEP goals and accommodations.
5. In the October 10, 2025, interview, the associate superintendent stated that the LEA has no formal record-keeping for teachers to track when accommodations were utilized, but staff are told that they may be asked to summarize a student's IEP, including accommodations, at any time and need to be ready to do so.
6. In that same interview the case manager shared that she had frequently checked in with the student's teachers in-person and via email to ensure they understood the student's IEP. Additionally the case manager shared that the special education staff had observed use of accommodations utilized in the general education classes.
7. Examples of accommodations being implemented shared by the LEA:
   a. Biology- Teacher's documented use of an alternative location and read aloud for quizzes and a test on August 28, September 16 and 29, 2025. Teacher's notes including checks for understanding, and a staff working with the student in an alternative setting. The teacher also shared examples of class assignments and corresponding modified assignments for the student.
   b. Algebra- An example of a class assignment along with a sheet specifying modified steps to solve the equations which were shared with the student.
   c. English Language Arts- "[The student] was provided a scribe and completed the task in a small group setting outside of the classroom. This assignment was shortened to a 3-5 sentence paragraph from the original assignment which was to write 3 paragraphs. This was reduced to the priority standard of identifying a theme from identifying the theme and citing evidence to support your claim." And also, "…when completing the AF vocab quiz, [the student] completed the task in a small group setting outside of the classroom; [they were] tasked with completing 2 of the 3 sections originally assigned. [The student] answered verbally and the special education teacher in the class scribed for the student]. The number of questions asked of [the student] in sections 1 and 2 that were completed were reduced by 20% from the original task".
8. In an email on October 14, 2025 from the parent they reported that the student shared several accommodations that were not being offered including:

a. Frequent Checks for Understanding- "[The student] reports that staff are not using the agreed-upon scripted language (e.g., "What are you stuck on?") or check in with [the student] when [they are] not making progress on a task".
b. Modified Tasks to Demonstrate Mastery of Priority Standards- "This accommodation has not been implemented in most of [the student's] classes".
c. Access to a Scribe or Speech-to-Text Tools for Written Assignments- "[The student has not been instructed in how to use these tools and has not had the opportunity to utilize this support".
d. Modified Tests and Quizzes (Length and Format)- "Again, most of [the student's] classes are not making these modifications".
e. Access to Building-Wide Reinforcements for Completing Tasks- "This accommodation has never been offered or utilized".
f. Verbal Signal or Advance Warning Before Being Asked to Share or Respond- "[The student] reports that this support is not being used at all".

9. The LEA previously shared evidence of the above accommodations:
    a. Frequent checks for understanding reported by the Biology teacher.
    b. Modified tasks reported by Biology, Algebra and English teachers.
    c. Access to a scribe for written assignments reported by the English Language Arts teacher.
    d. Modified tests and quizzes reported by the English Language Arts teacher.
10. Emails from the associate director on October 15 and 17, 2025 shared evidence of accommodations offered in response to the parent's October 14, 2025 email.
    a. Verbal signal or advance warning prior to being asked to share or called on has been addressed by the teachers in the following manner:
        i. Math and Social Studies teachers report that they have not called on [the student].
        ii. The Computer Programming teacher reported significant improvement in engagement and performance. He reported working 1:1 or 1:2 with [the student] during class and only asking [the student's] his opinion on something after having done that.
        iii. ELA has not called on [the student] but reported [that they have] participated more often when in small groups with the SPED teacher.
        iv. Health reported having called on [the student] once, but it was not a curricular question — he asked, "if you had $5 million what would you do with it?" And [the student] answered.
11. An email from the associate director on October 17, 2025 clarified that use of the building-wide motivation system is not tracked for each student, however it was removed from the student's IEPs list of accommodations at the October 10, 2025 IEP amendment meeting. The associate director wrote, "The team determined that [the motivation system] wasn't motivating for the student. As part of the FBA they were going to also include motivation inventories. The amendment I provided you previously (from the meeting on 10/3) has received consent and is implemented."

Conclusion

IDEA 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) requires LEAs to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

In this case, the LEA confirms that the student's IEP was implemented at the beginning of the 2025–2026 school year. The LEA shared documentation that all of the student's general education teachers received training on the importance and use of accommodations and received the student's IEP Snapshot, including accommodations.

In the September 22, 2025 parent interview they noted two accommodation concerns; the lack of specific mention in staff emails of the use of accommodations and the student's tardies. The lack of specific mention in staff emails of the use of accommodations to support the student to complete assignments may be troubling for the parents but is not compelling evidence that accommodations were not utilized. Additionally, the student's tardies are understandably concerning for the parents, however the IEP accommodations do not mention strategies to address the student's tardies.

In a follow-up email on October 14, 2025 the parent included several other examples of accommodations the student reported as not being offered. It is noted that this student's opinions on whether the accommodations were being offered are important. Particularly as a student transitions into high school it becomes more important that they understand their own accommodations and are able to self-advocate. It is also noted that some of the current accommodations may not be obvious to the student who may not realize that an assignment or test has been modified or that not being asked a question in class is a function of an accommodation being offered.

The LEA provided specific examples and evidence of accommodation being followed except the building-wide motivation system. The associate director shared that the implementation of that system is not tracked by the school and that it had been removed by the IEP from the student's listed accommodations at the October 10, 2025 IEP amendment meeting.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA was able to provide examples and evidence of accommodation use and is IN compliance. No corrective actions are required.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. Issue One: A violation of 34 CFR §300.503(b) was not found based on the complete and accurate information contained in the reviewed 2025-2026 PWNs. Corrective action is not required.
2. Issue Two: A violation of K.S.A. 72-3428(i)(1) was not found based on the LEAs appropriate response to the parent's request for a gifted evaluation. Corrective action is not required.
3. Issue Three: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) was not found based on the LEA's actions to promote implementation of the student's IEP accommodations and examples of accommodation use consistent with the IEP. Corrective action is not required.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is an eight-year-old boy currently enrolled in the third grade at Wheatland Elementary School in USD #385 during the 2025-2026 school year. The student began exhibiting behavioral concerns as a preschooler and was evaluated by the LEA during the first quarter of kindergarten and initially found eligible for special education services on October 25, 2022. The most recent special education reevaluation was completed on September 25, 2024 and, at that time, the IEP team determined the student continued to be eligible for special education services under the exceptionality category of Emotional Disturbance.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint, three issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

USD #385, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by not providing the required special education services in the general education classroom during the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

State regulations at K.A.R. §91-40-1(kkk)(2) defines "special education", among other things, as paraeducator [paraprofessional] services, speech-language pathology services and any other related service, if the service consists of specially designed instruction to meet the needs of a child with a disability.

Section A in Chapter 5 – Special Education and Related Services of The Kansas Special Education Process Manual states, "A Paraeducators (paras) cannot be given responsibility for designing or be the primary person in charge of delivering classroom content".

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based upon interviews and record review.

The parents reported that the student has not been in the general education classroom during the 2025-26 school year despite the IEP stating that he would receive instruction and be with his peers for part of the school day. Instead, the student has been in isolation with only a paraprofessional providing the third grade curriculum instruction and only allowed to be with his peers for recess, lunch, and Art, Music, or PE. The parents indicated that the student was sometimes not even allowed to participate with peers during those nonacademic times because of behavior that was exacerbated because of his isolation. The parents stated the student was frustrated and angry that he was being kept away from his peers and expressed that he was a "bad kid" and "hates himself".

The LEA reported the student was suspended for greater than 10 days during the 2024-25 school year and a manifestation determination meeting was conducted on May 5, 2025. At that time, the LEA and parent agreed to amend the September 25, 2024 IEP to increase the level of special education support due to the student's ongoing challenges with emotional regulation and the resulting behaviors. LEA staff reported and documentation show the parents were provided with prior written notice proposing a material change of services and a significant change of placement on May 5, 2025 and that the parents provided written consent for these changes on May 6, 2025.

The May 5, 2025 amendment of the September 25, 2024 IEP was the IEP in effect between August 13, 2025, the first day of the 2025-26 school year, until the IEP team met again on September 22, 2025. This IEP required direct special education services in a dedicated special education setting for 275 minutes per day, five days every week. The student would also receive 115 minutes per day, five days per week of direct special education support in the general education setting as well as 30 minutes per day, five days per week of attendant care. The student had special education support 100% of his school day both in the general education and special education settings.

A copy of the student's daily schedule shows the student was scheduled to receive 30 minutes of attendant care during mid-day transitions, recess, and lunch. The student was scheduled to be with his grade-level peers in the general education setting to receive special education support/instruction for 60 minutes each day for transitions, bathroom breaks, and two recesses as well as for 55 minutes each day for transitions and Art, Music, or PE class. The schedule also shows the student was scheduled to be in the special education setting for 120 minutes per day of English language arts; 60 minutes per day of Math; 20 minutes per day of Science or Social Studies; 30 minutes per day of independent Reading or homework; and 45 minutes per day of "Morning Routine" and "Warrior Workshop". This schedule provided special education support services for 100% of the school day in both general and special education settings.

The LEA reported and documentation showed the only school days the student missed receiving the 115 minutes per day in the general education setting with special education support were as follows:

- 8/19/25: Late 2 hours due to medical appointment
- 8/27/25: In-school suspension (a.m.) / Absent - medical appointment (p.m.)
- 9/2/25: OSS
- 9/3/25: OSS
- 9/4/25: OSS
- 9/5/25: ESI (a.m.) / ISS (p.m.)
- 9/8/25: ISS
- 9/9/25: Absent - medical (p.m.)
- 9/10/25: OSS
- 9/11/25: OSS
- 9/12/25: OSS
- 9/16/25: OSS
- 9/19/25: Absent – medical (a.m.)

The student's IEP included only one social/emotional goal and a behavior intervention plan (BIP) to address the behavioral concerns described in the present level of academic and functional performance. The IEP goal is for the student to control explosive outbursts when frustrated by using appropriate coping strategies.

LEA staff reported the student's Third Grade Teacher provided lesson plans and teaching materials for the student based on the general education curriculum provided to the student's peers each school day. The Morning Paraprofessional reported that she would pick up these materials each morning and check-in with the Third Grade Teacher and the Special Education Teacher for any special instructions or any review assignments for the student.

The Special Education Teacher noted that the student is working at grade-level on most academic skills. She and the Third Grade Teacher consult and monitor the student's progress through grading his completed work and checking his progress on the iReady Learning Path for any necessary re-teaching of concepts.

Both Paraprofessionals reported using these materials and information from the Special Education Teacher and the Third Grade Teacher to work with the student throughout the school day when he was in the special education setting. In addition, both Paraprofessionals stated they collected data on IEP goals and implemented the BIP when the student began to become dysregulated. The Special Education Teacher would check-in periodically throughout the school day to monitor student progress and would spend the last 30 minutes of each school day working 1-1 with the student. All the LEA staff interviewed indicated that, if there were behaviors that needed to be addressed, the Special Education Teacher would come to the classroom to support both the student and the Paraprofessionals.

Conclusion

In this case, interviews and documentation show the student's IEP required a total of 30 minutes per day of attendant care, 275 minutes per day of special education instruction in the special education setting, and 115 minutes per day of special education support in the general education setting. The student's schedule indicates the student is scheduled to receive 30 minutes per day of attendant care, 275 minutes per day of special education instruction in the special education setting, and 115 minutes per day of special education support in the general education setting. Based on this information, the LEA did provide the amount of special education support/instruction in the general education setting as required in the May 5, 2025 amendment to the September 25, 2024 IEP.

It is noted that the special education services provided by the Special Education Teacher and the Paraprofessionals were to enable the student to progress towards meeting the IEP goal related to his behavior and to implement the BIP. As such, the Paraprofessionals were not providing the initial instruction for the focus of the special education instruction and were not given the responsibility for designing or being primary person in charge of delivering classroom content.

Based on the foregoing, USD #385 is determined to be IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and state regulations at K.A.R. §91-40-1(kkk)(2) which require IEPs to be implemented as written and that paraprofessionals not be in charge of designing instructional lessons or providing initial instruction of concepts. However, the LEA is encouraged to examine their procedures for providing the grade-level general education instruction as it appears that the student had very little contact with his third grade teacher for direct instruction during the 2025-26 school year.

Issue Two

USD #385, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the behavior intervention plan (BIP) during the 2025-2026 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.300.324(a)(2)(i) require the IEP team to consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address any behavior that impedes the learning of the student or that of others.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based upon interviews and record review. Note that the findings from ISSUE ONE are incorporated herein by reference.

The complainants reported they received a video in an email from the Special Education Teacher on August 29, 2025 that documented a behavioral incident with the student which clearly showed the Special Education Teacher provoking the student while his behavior was escalated instead of implementing the student's behavior intervention plan by not conversing with him while he is an escalated state. The complainants stated that they questioned the special education teacher about engaging with the student when the IEP clearly states, "do not initiate conversation for at least 10 minutes" and the Special Education Teacher told them that, because it was past ten minutes, she could engage with the student again.

The May 5, 2025 amendment of the September 25, 2024 IEP indicates that the student's behavior impacts his learning and the learning of others. The IEP includes both an IEP goal and a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) to address behavioral concerns in the school setting.

The BIP in effect on August 29, 2025 describes the student's dysregulated behaviors as removing himself from the group; refusing to participate; yelling, primarily at adults; knocking chairs and desks over; pulling items off the wall; creating holes in sheetrock; destroying anything that is within reach, and kicking adults. When these behaviors occur the following steps should be taken:

1. Ignore and Allow Time to Calm Down:
   Give student space and time; he will typically calm down on his own. Avoid talking to him during this time to prevent further escalation.
2. Use Short, Directive Statements:
   When student is elevated, use clear and brief statements. Do not engage in discussions until he is fully calm.

3. Remove Student from the Classroom:
   Remove him from the classroom immediately if student displays destructive or aggressive behaviors. If he is too elevated to be safely removed, evacuate the rest of the class to a safe location.
4. Transition to a Quiet Room:
   Move student to a quiet room to allow him time to de-escalate.
5. Allow Time to Regulate:
   Do not initiate a conversation with student for at least 10 minutes to give him a chance to regulate. If he becomes physically aggressive, staff should leave the room and wait until he calms down before re-entering.
6. Debrief After Calming Down:
   Once student is calm, discuss the incident and remind him of appropriate replacement behaviors he could have used.
7. Complete Missing Work:
   Have student complete any work he missed during the behavioral incident.
8. Transition Back to the Classroom:
   After the debrief and completing missing work, guide student back to the classroom setting.
9. Address Consequences:
   Address the negative implications of his unsafe behavior by having student repair or clean up any damage he caused. Ensure Student apologizes to anyone affected by his actions. Inform his parents about the incident.

The LEA reported that the student had demonstrated 32 instances of dysregulated behavior that were successfully resolved by following the behavior plan since the beginning of the 2025-26 school year. The LEA indicated that the video was recorded and sent to the parents to show them that the student was being offered multiple choices because the student was telling the parents that school staff were only offering him one choice. The LEA further explained that the recording was taken in the midst of a behavioral incident when the BIP was being implemented and the teacher was engaging with the student after the ten-minute timeframe had passed.

An email dated September 2, 2025 at 7:00 p.m. written by the Special Education Teacher to the parents stated:

> The student's behavior plan allows for a ten-minute de-escalation period. At the time of the video, he had already been in an escalating cycle for 40 minutes. I explained to him that the video was intended to show that he had been offered multiple choices, as he had mentioned in a prior situation that he was only given one option. For the team to work together effectively, both staff documentation and witness reports must be considered alongside student's perspective.

The 47-second video shows the student sitting quietly on the carpeted floor with his back next to the wall. A large square beanbag cushion and two legless padded "gaming" chairs are against the walls near the student. After several seconds the Special Education Teacher speaks very quietly, slowly, and in a monotone to the student and says she is sending his work home. The student loudly tells her that she is not sending his homework home and he hits the beanbag cushion with his arm and hand. The Special Education Teacher then states, "I will send it through email because you will need to get it done". The student calmly responds, "At home?" and the Special Education Teacher replies, "Either here or at home". The student again loudly states that he is not doing homework at home and the Special Education Teacher asks him, "Why?". The student then loudly explains that he's not going to waste any more time doing homework and it's the weekend and he's not going to do any more homework. The Special Education Teacher indicates that other third grade students also have homework and the student loudly states, "They do not because there is no more homework today!" The Special Education Teacher indicates that some got it done today and the student then tells her to stop talking to him and shut up.

Conclusion

In this case, the issue of whether the LEA implemented the BIP as written surrounds a video of an interaction between the student and the Special Education Teacher that occurred on August 29, 2025. The Special Education Teacher reported that this video was taken after four instances of allowing the student a 10-minute regulation period for a total of 40 minutes and was recorded after the student had calmed down to demonstrate to the parents that the student is being given options. The Special Education Teacher indicated that she explained this to the student prior to her taking the video. The video shows Step 7 in the BIP where the Special Education Teacher is working with the student to have him complete any work he missed during the behavioral incident.

It is noted that the student was calm when the video started and was not physically aggressive towards the Special Education Teacher at any time during the video which would have triggered another 10-minute regulation period per Step 5 of the BIP.

Based on the foregoing, it appears that the LEA implemented the student's BIP as written on August 29, 2025. As such, the LEA is found to be IN compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.300.324(a)(2)(i) require the IEP team to consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address any behavior that impedes the learning of the student or that of others as well as federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) which require the LEA to implement the BIP as written.

Issue Three

USD #385, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate policies and procedures to protect personally identifiable information of the student during the 2025-26 school year, specifically by recording videos and taking pictures of the student on personal devices.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.123 which require public agencies in the State to protect the confidentiality of any personally identifiable information collected, used, or maintained under Part B of the IDEA.

Confidentiality of personally identifiable information is governed by 34 C.F.R. §99, the Family Educational Privacy Act (FERPA) which requires a parent's written consent to share educational records with others. As defined at 34 C.F.R. §99(3), an educational record can be a photo or video when the photo or video is: (1) directly related to a student; and (2) maintained by an educational agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §99.31(a)(3)(iv) allow for an exception to the requirement for parental written consent to release educational records when the record is being released to authorized representatives of state and local educational authorities.

The following findings of fact are based upon interviews and record review. Note that the findings from ISSUE TWO are incorporated herein by reference.

The complainants stated that the August 29, 2025 video sent by the Special Education Teacher was recorded on the Special Education Teacher's personal device without obtaining their consent. They are concerned that this video may have been shared with other teachers, friends, and/or family members to embarrass the student when he is dysregulated because of his disability. However, the parents acknowledged they have no direct knowledge of the video being shared inappropriately with anyone by the Special Education Teacher.

In addition, the parents are concerned about where the video is stored or if it has been deleted. They indicated the LEA has not responded to their concerns regarding the video.

The LEA responded that the video was taken at approximately 3:00 p.m. on August 29, 2025, which is the same day the video was shared via email at 8:20 p.m. with both parents by the Special Education Teacher. The email stated, "I've attached the homework, along with the link to the student's reaction to it. We had the book to read or the science writing response to finish today. He wasn't having either . . .".

The Local Education Agency indicated that there was no attempt to hide the video or to use it to share with others outside of the "need to know" team members. The Special Education Teacher indicated that she would never share a student's personally identifiable information with family members or friends and the only teachers who would be able to see the video were those on the student's IEP team.

The Special Education Teacher acknowledged that the video was initially recorded on her personal device; however, it was then transferred and "saved" on her District-assigned Google drive and immediately deleted from her phone. The Principal confirmed this information. The LEA reported the video was subsequently released to the investigator as part of this complaint investigation.

The LEA stated that parent 1 expressed concern about the student's feelings of isolation and feeling like "the bad kid" at school on August 30, 2025. At that time, parent 1 did not share any concerns in regard to the recording, intent, or storage of the video.

On September 1, 2025, parent 2 also expressed concerns about the social isolation, the student's mental health and the current IEP services and placement. Parent 2 stated, "He already struggles with mental health and this is flat out not supporting him in this area. And in return is actually making it worse when we have made alot of improvement in that area. We no longer as parents agree to this isolation in this extreme format for the student". Again, no concerns were raised in regard to the recording, intent, or storage of the video.

School Board Policy JGB – Release of Student Records require the LEA to follow appropriate policies and procedures to protect personally identifiable information of the student, specifically by requiring parental consent prior to releasing any educational record to a third party. There is no LEA school board policy which specifically addresses staff using their personal devices for taking photographs or recording videos of students and this is also not addressed in the IDEA.

Conclusion

In this case, the video recording of the student on August 29, 2025 did contain personally identifiable information (PII) of the student, specifically his likeness and his participation in the special education program due to a disability. The IDEA requires LEAs to follow appropriate policies and procedures to protect personally identifiable information of the student including obtaining written consent to release educational records, except in certain circumstances.

The Special Education Teacher recorded the August 29, 2025 video on her personal device and was then transferred to the District-assigned Google drive belonging to the Special Education Teacher. The video was then deleted from the personal device as reported by both the Specia Education Teacher and the Principal and was never shared with any other party from the personal device. The video was maintained by the LEA on the Google drive and subsequently shared with the investigator, who was acting as an authorized representative of the Kansas State Department of Education, during this investigation.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is determined to be IN of compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.123 which require public agencies in the State to protect the confidentiality of any personally identifiable information collected, used, or maintained under Part B of the IDEA.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #378
ON AUGUST 28, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: OCTOBER 7, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #378 (Riley County Public Schools) on behalf of ------- by his father, -------. When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student."

In this case, the complaint is against USD #378 (Riley County Public Schools) which contracts with the Twin Lakes Educational Cooperative (TLEC) to meet the requirements of the IDEA. In the remainder of the report, both of these responsible public agencies will be referred to as "the local education agency (LEA)".

In the remainder of the report, the LEA staff will be referred to as follows:

Background Information

The student is a 15-year-old young man currently enrolled in the 10th grade at the Riley County High School in USD #378. The student lives at home with his stepmother and father, who obtained sole legal custody of the student in June 2025, which resulted in the father now being the sole educational decisionmaker for the student. Prior to that time, the father and mother shared custody and both were considered educational decisionmakers for the student. The father and LEA staff reported there was a history of parents not agreeing on what was in the best interest for the student .

The student received early intervention services and began receiving special education at the age of three through the LEA's early childhood special education program. Interviews noted the student has attended school in USD #378 since kindergarten and received special education and related services through an IEP at all time. The student's most recent triennial reevaluation was conducted on February 5, 2024 without additional assessment. At that time, the multidisciplinary team determined the student continued to be a child with a disability and in need of continued special education and related services under the IDEA category of Autism.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint and an interview with the complainant, nine concerns which fall under IDEA regulations were identified and investigated.

Issue One

USD 378, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by not providing the required amount of special education services during the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(4) require public agencies to include a statement in the IEP describing the special education and related services to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, that will enable the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum ; to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and to be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(d)(2) states that there is no requirement for the IEP team to include information under one component of a child's IEP that is already contained under another component of the child's IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Parent Position

The father is concerned that the student is not receiving the special education services as described in the student's IEP. The IEP team met on September 18, 2024 and the IEP amendments and PWN notices resulting from that meeting made it difficult to match the minutes on the IEP with the student's daily school schedule. Per an October 17, 2024 communication from parent, "According to [the student's] current IEP, approximately 32% of [the student's] services were to be provided in special education setting, approximately 58% of his services were to be provided in a general education setting, and approximately 11% of his time was attendant care. Upon analysis of [student's] initial schedule for the 2024-2025 school year and his revised schedule, he is spending approximately 73% of his time in the special education setting, 19% in a general education setting, and 8% in attendant care" Ultimately, the parent reported that he signed the a revised PWN dated November 1, 2024 which more clearly described the student's special education minutes and school schedule "under duress" on November 5, 2024 because "the process is taking far more time and resources than necessary".

LEA Position

The allegation in ISSUE ONE appears to stem from the father's misunderstanding of the need to adjust service minutes because of the student's transition to high school from the grade school building. The student's IEP developed on February 5, 2024 reflected the services received during 8th grade in the grade school building based on the same schedule for five days per week. The high school building follows a block schedule, which rotates every other week. The student's IEP was amended in spring 2024 to coincide with the schedule at the high school.

Regardless, the student receives full-time support throughout the school day, including lunch and breaks. The amendments changed the support times for general education classes and direct instruction times, but there was no gap in the provision of IEP services. The student always received full-time support from special education staff during the school day and the LEA denies any failure to implement the student's special education services.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The February 5, 2024 IEP lists the beginning and ending date for all special education and related services as February 5, 2024 through February 4, 2025. However, the Participation with Nondisabled Peers and the prior written notice dated February 5, 2024 includes a statement describing how the student's special education minutes will change beginning August 16, 2024 when the student transitions to the high school.
2. The February 5, 2024 IEP was amended on May 4, 2024 to add IEP goals to address behavior. No changes were made to the special education and related services minutes on the IEP and the PWN resulting from this meeting does not document any change in IEP team minutes.
3. An IEP team meeting was held on September 18, 2024 to amend the student's IEP by adding several goals and to specifically describe the classes where the special education services were being provided to match the student's 9th grade class schedule. The mother and father were provided with prior written notice of these proposed changes on September 27, 2024 and again on November 1, 2024. The father signed consent for these changes on November 5, 2024.
4. The student's 9th grade class schedule shows the student was enrolled in two general education classes with special education support each day and the remainder of his classes were in the special education setting. The student receives special education services and supports throughout the entire school day.
5. The January 22, 2025 IEP lists the special education services based on the class schedule for the student [e.g. PE in general ed setting with special education support for 85 minutes 2 days per week, every other week; PE in general ed setting with special education support for 85 minutes 3 days per week, every other week]. The services summary matches the student's 9th grade class schedule during the 2024-25 school year.

Conclusion

IDEA requires that public agencies to include a statement in the IEP describing the special education and related services to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, that will enable the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum ; to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and to be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children. The IDEA also requires the student's IEP to be implemented as written.

In this case, the student had two IEPs in place during the 2024-25 school year while in the 9th grade at the high school. The Participation with Nondisabled Peers section of the February 5, 2024 IEP and the PWN provided to the father following that IEP team meeting included a description of the special education services to be provided beginning on August 16, 2024 when the student transitioned to the high school building. These services matched the student's 9th grade schedule which included two "inclusion classes" where the student participated with typical peers in the general education setting with special education support. An IEP was held on September 18, 2024 to add several goals and to specifically describe the classes where the special education services were being provided to match the student's 9th grade class schedule.

The January 22, 2025 IEP describes the special education services to be provided to the student in the Services Summary section of the IEP and these services matched the student's 9th grade schedule which continued to include the Art and PE classes where the student participated with typical peers in the general education setting with special education support.

In this case the LEA does include a description of special education services to be provided to the student during the 2024-25 school year in the February 5, 2024 and January 22, 2025 IEPs. Although the descriptions were included in different sections of the IEP e.g the Participation with Nondisabled Peers section of the February 5, 2024 IEP and in the Services Summary of the January 22, 2025 IEP, the LEA did include the required information in the student's IEP. And, even though allowed by the IDEA, it is noted that this situation led to multiple misunderstandings between LEA staff and the student's father which could have been avoided if the information was uniformly reported in the same sections of both IEPs.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is IN of compliance and no corrective actions are required.

Issue Two

USD #378, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) by not providing the daily behavior reports to the parent during the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.300.324(a)(2)(i) require the IEP team to consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address any behavior that impedes the learning of the student or that of others.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that the behavior intervention plan (BIP) has not been updated and/or provided to the parents since grade school and an updated functional behavioral assessment (FBA) was requested by the father. The current BIP states that a daily tracker will be sent home. This did not happen during the 2024-2025 school year and only happened in the 2025-2026 school year when father has provided sheet for the teacher to fill out.

The father acknowledged that the BIP does not require daily progress reporting but contends that the LEA should be sending home reports of behavior when the student's behavior reaches any level on the ABC chart. The father is also concerned that no behavior data was provided on any progress monitoring reports about the student's BIP.

LEA Position

The student's IEP contains a BIP, which was reviewed and updated at IEP team meetings on 2/5/2024 and again on 1/22/2025. Both of the student's parents signed the BIP forms. There is nothing noted in the student's BIP about daily behavior reports being provided to parents. Both the February 2, 2024 BIP and the January 22, 2025 BIP state: "Progress will be reported at the same intervals as general education progress reports and/or report cards are issued unless otherwise indicated below. . . . When the student has a behavior that is on his level 1-4 ABC chart. ABC chart will be made by the special education with the support of the behavior teacher if needed." The current BIP further states, "Monthly data will be taken when the student is not complying with the directive and asking for additional minutes before transitioning."

For further context the LEA reported that the 9th grade Special Education Teacher initially sent daily emails to the mother at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year. However, the mother requested no emails and preferred a verbal report. The 9th grade Special Education Teacher then gave daily verbal reports when either of the student's parents dropped the student off or when the mother picked him up at school. The father expressed irritation at one point because when the mother had custody of the student, he was not getting a verbal report; but the father never obtained a commitment from the LEA for daily behavior reports. The LEA has always been responsive to the parents if they have questions or would like to know how the student is doing each day and the LEA believes both parents have always been well informed of the student's behavior. Regardless, the BIP did not require daily reports, so the lack of daily reports (written or verbal) is not a failure to implement the IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties.

1. Both the February 5, 2024 and January 22, 2025 IEPs indicate the student requires a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) to address social/emotional behaviors.
2. The student's BIP that was signed by both parents on February 5, 2024 and reviewed during the IEP team meetings held on September 18, 2024 and January 22, 2025. The BIP remained the same following both subsequent IEP team meetings in regard to not including a requirement for a note regarding the student's behavior to be provided to the parents of the student on a daily basis.
3. The BIP also remained the same in regard to Progress Monitoring which required that "The IEP should contain at least 1 goal to address and monitor student behavior and the effectiveness of this plan and should appear of the goals page of the IEP". The method for collecting data was through a "behavior tracking sheet/report". Frequency was described as "Other; see below". The box below this statement contained the following typed statement: "Progress will be reported at the same intervals as general education progress reports and/or report cards are issued unless noted below:". Below that statement was typed: "When the student has a behavior that is on his level 1-4 ABC chart. ABC chart will be made by the special education with the support of the behavior teacher if needed". At the January 22, 2025 IEP team meeting, the BIP was revised to add the following statement: "Monthly data will be taken when the student is not complying with the directive and asking for additional minutes before transitioning".
4. The student's ABC Chart lists the following levels and descriptions of behavior:
   Level 1: Saying "No", "Leave me alone", "Go Away" Level 2: Cursing, Personal Space, Not leaving recess Level 3: Throwing objects/items
   Level 4: Attacking/Assaulting, Hitting/Kicking, Biting/Spitting
5. The February 5, 2024 IEP did not include a goal related to the student's behavior even though the present level included a description of behavioral concerns which were addressed in the BIP. The IEP team added a behavior goal when amending the student's IEP on September 18, 2024. The IEP team reviewed and revised the student's behavior goal at the January 22, 2025 IEP team meeting.

6. A total of 11 ABC Charts for behaviors ranging between level 1 and 4 were completed for the student between August 15 and December 11, 2024. The father reported and the LEA acknowledged that these were not provided to the father; instead, the LEA reported this data was used to assess progress towards Goal 8 (the behavior goal) in the September 18, 2024 amendment to the February 5, 2024 IEP.
7. The IEP Goal Progress Report for the January 22, 2025 IEP reported "Slight Improvement" for Goal 6 (the behavior goal) on February 28, 2025; however, April 11, 2025 is shown as the date the report was hand-delivered to the parent. The data report stated, "The student's behavior continues to improve. We have not seen any major behaviors this month. The student is complying with directive within the 3 minutes of verbal reminders after the initial 5-minute timer with 82% accuracy".

Conclusion

IDEA requires that IEP teams consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address any behavior that impedes the learning of the student or that of others. The behaviors can be addressed through individualized behavior intervention plans and/or IEP goals as a part of the student's IEP and, as such, must be implemented as written.

In this case, the student's IEP team determined the student's behavior was to be addressed through a BIP and at least one IEP goal during the 2024-25 school year. While the original February 5, 2024 IEP did not include a behavior goal, this was corrected through an IEP amendment on September 18, 2024. When the IEP was reviewed and revised on January 22, 2025, the IEP team again included both the BIP and a behavior goal. While the BIP does not require any daily reporting to the parents regarding the student's behavior, it does list three specific times in the Progress Monitoring section of the BIP when the parent will be notified.

First, the BIP requires 'Progress will be reported at the same intervals as general education progress reports and/or report cards are issued". Note that concerns with the IEP goal progress reporting during the 2024-25 school year on the student's two behavior goals will be addressed in ISSUE FIVE.

Second, the BIP qualifies the statement "Progress will be reported at the same intervals as general education progress reports and/or report cards are issued" by adding the phrase "unless noted below:" and below that statement was typed: "When the student has a behavior that is on his level 1-4 ABC chart". This means that when the student exhibits a behavior described in any of the four levels of the ABC Chart, this behavior should have been reported to the parents. Eleven ABC Charts were completed between August 15 and December 11, 2024 documenting the student's behavior ranging between Level 1 and 4; however, none of these ABC charts were sent to the parents as required by the other circumstance described in the BIP.

Third, after January 22, 2025, the BIP required that "Monthly data will be taken when the student is not complying with the directive and asking for additional minutes before transitioning". The IEP Goal Progress Report indicated this was done at some time during the third quarter because data was reported showing the student was able to transition appropriately within 3 minutes beyond the initial 5-minute timeframe with 82% accuracy. However, it unclear if this was implemented during the fourth quarter as the IEP Goal Progress Report did not reflect anything reported at that time.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is OUT of compliance and corrective actions are required.

Issue Three

USD #378, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to develop and include a post-secondary transition plan in the student's IEP when he transitioned to high school at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(2) require that , beginning not later than the first IEP to be in effect when the student turns 16 and updated annually, school districts must develop IEPs that include 1) appropriate measurable post-secondary goals based on age appropriate transition assessments related to training, education, employment, and, where appropriate, independent living skills, and 2) transition services, including a course of study, needed to assist the student in reaching those goals.

However, Kansas statutes at K.S.A. 72-3429(c)(8) require this transition planning to begin at the age 14. In addition, at age 16, these Kansas statutes require a statement of needed transition services for the student, including, when appropriate, a statement of the interagency responsibilities or any needed linkages.

Chapter 4-The Individualized Education Program, Section E in The Kansas Special Education Process Handbook states:

Beginning at age 14, transition services must include a description of courses of study. Courses of study are defined as a multi-year description of coursework to achieve the student's desired post-school goals, from the student's current to anticipated exit year. The courses of study may be identified on the student's IEP either as a list of courses of study or as a statement of instructional program, as appropriate for the student. If the IEP team chooses to identify the courses of study on the student's IEP as a list of courses of study, be aware that the IEP must be amended, using the IEP amendment process or an IEP team meeting, to reflect any changes to a list of courses of study.

Parent Position

The father reported that a transition plan was not developed for the student when he transitioned from eighth to ninth grade at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year. The father is also concerned that the student's schedule of courses listed in the IEP was changed at the beginning of the student's 10th grade year. The father stated that the case manager emailed the father on August 21, 2025 notifying him of the change in schedule, removing Art and enrolling the student in Horticulture and Industrial Technology. No IEP amendment was made to change the student's course of study.

LEA Position

The LEA reported that per federal regulations and state law, transition plans are written for students during the IEP year they turn age 14 and this occurred for the student during 8th grade. The initial transition plan was written for the student at the February 8, 2023 IEP meeting, during 7th grade. Both parents were participants in the February 5, 2024 IEP team meeting when the transition plan was reviewed with only the mother completing the parent survey to provide written input. The IEP team revisited the student's post-secondary transition plan on January 22, 2025 with both mother and father completing parent surveys to provide written input.

In an email on August 16, 2024, the stepmother stated (among other things), "We'd like to get his transition meeting scheduled as soon as possible. We were of the understanding this was going to happen prior to the school year starting so the sooner we can meet, the better. What information do you need from us to get that scheduled?" The LEA reported that It appeared as if the stepmother and father didn't realize that the transition meetings had already been held during the spring of the student's 7th and 8th grade years. Regardless, the LEA has met its obligation to develop a transition plan for the student beginning at age 14.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties.

1. The student's birthday is on November 24, 2009. The student turned age 14 on November 24, 2023.
2. The IEP in effect when the student turned age 14 was developed on February 8, 2023 and included a transition plan for the student.
3. The February 5, 2024 IEP includes a transition plan based on the mother's transition survey and both parents' input during the IEP team meeting. There are statements regarding the student possibly attending community college for training/education and possible selling art at the mother's salon for employment as well as a reference to "see survey". Independent living skills just states "see survey". None of these are measurable post-secondary goals. The course of study notes the student does not receive grades based on his highly modified curriculum, but the student is anticipated to graduate in 2027-28 with a high school diploma. It is noted the student has earned 0 credits towards graduation and specific courses are not listed in the course of study.

4. The January 22, 2025 IEP includes a transition plan based on both the mother and the father's transition surveys and both parents' input during the IEP team meeting. This transition plan includes an education/training goal stating that the student will receive on-the-job-training in the field of art/drawing or animal care; an employment goal for working in the field of art/drawing, Artist, Videography, Animal Care; and an independent living goal to live in a group home or with family. The course of study notes the student does not receive grades based on his highly modified curriculum, and the student is anticipated to complete his education during the school year he turns age 21 or whenever he meets his alternative graduation requirements. It is noted the student has earned 0 credits towards graduation and specific courses are not listed in the course of study.

Conclusion

IDEA and Kansas law requires that, beginning not later than the first IEP to be in effect when the student turns 14 and updated annually, school districts must develop IEPs that include 1) appropriate measurable post-secondary goals based on age appropriate transition assessments related to training, education, employment, and, where appropriate, independent living skills, and 2) transition services, including a course of study, needed to assist the student in reaching those goals. If specific classes are listed in the course of study, prior written notice must be provided to the parents when any change in the student's class schedule is made.

In this case, a transition plan was developed and included in the February 8, 2023 IEP which was in effect when the student turned age 14 on November 24, 2023. While the transition plan included in the February 5, 2024 IEP did not include measurable post-secondary goals, this was corrected in the January 22, 2025 IEP which does include measurable post-secondary goals for education/training, employment, and independent living. The transition plan in effect at the beginning of the 2025-26 school year did not include a list of specific classes in the course of study and, as such, the LEA was not required to provide the parent with prior written notice of the change from the Art class to the Horticulture and Industrial Technology classes.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is IN compliance and no corrective actions are required.

Issue Four

USD #378, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by not providing transportation as a related service during the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(4) require public agencies to include a statement in the IEP describing the special education and related services to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, that will enable the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum ; to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and to be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.34(a) define "related services" as meaning transportation and such developmental, corrective, and other supportive services as are required to assist a child with a disability to benefit from special education. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.32(b)(16) define "transportation" as meaning travel to and from school and between schools; travel in and around school buildings; and specialized equipment (such as special or adapted buses, lifts, and ramps), if required to provide special transportation for a child with a disability.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that the team agreed special education transportation was necessary for the student when he transitioned to the high school building at the beginning of the 2024-2025 school year. Parents reported these services were not set up until just shortly before the school year began; the father acknowledged that transportation services were initiated on the first day of school.

On September 12, 2024, the parents were notified that the driver refused to transport the student and that alternative transportation was to be provided by the special education teacher. The father responded that this impacted service minutes due to a change in schedule and voiced concerns over discrimination. Inconsistent pick-up and drop-off times continued through the remainder of the 2024-25 school year, extended school year (ESY), and that this inconsistency as continued into the 2025-2026 school year started due to adult schedules. Even though there was inconsistent timing, the father acknowledged the LEA did provide transportation for the student to/from the high school building during the 2024-25 school year.

The father and stepmother also reported that transportation as a related service as well as the special education service minutes for transportation are not documented in the January 22, 2025 IEP despite continuing to receive transportation as a related service.

LEA Position

In July 2024, the father contacted the Principal of Riley County High School and asked for the LEA to provide transportation for the student both to and from the high school every other week when the student was living with and in the custody of the father. On August 12, 2024, the LEA and the father agreed to amend the February 5, 2024 IEP without an IEP team meeting to add transportation as a related service, per the father's request.

Notably, the father and stepmother sent demanding emails over the summer of 2024 regarding setting up the transportation. The LEA's responses were somewhat delayed during the summer because administration was working on purchasing a new van and figuring out the schedule for picking up the student, along with other students. However, transportation began as planned on the first day of school, August 14, 2024.

Per his IEP, the student had transportation services from August 14, 2024 through the end of the IEP year, February 4, 2025, and then again from February 5, 2025 through May 22, 2025. The student also received transportation for ESY services during the summer of 2025. Transportation was provided consistently and the LEA denies any failure to provide this related service.

The father has complained about inconsistent drop off and pick up times. The LEA indicated this is just the nature of bus service, which is impacted by traffic, weather, and other natural factors. Indeed, the father has acknowledged that the student is sometimes unwilling to go to school, which delays his departure from home (and that of other students).

The father has also alleged discrimination or a failure to implement because a bus driver requested not to transport the student after he became escalated toward her one day. This driver is a petite woman in her 60s who has personal health concerns, so the LEA honored her request to be removed from the route for her own sense of safety because the student is bigger than this driver. The change in driver did not disrupt the student's transportation, which was covered by other employees. The LEA has the right to make staffing decisions based on various factors, including employee needs, and did not violate the student's IEP or discriminate against him.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties.

1. The IEP developed on February 5, 2024 stated that the student did not require transportation as a related service.
2. On July 27, 2024, the father contacted the Principal of Riley County High School and requested transportation to/from the high school building on the weeks the student was living with the father and stepmother.
3. On August 12, 2024 at 4:24 p.m., the 9th grade Special Education Teacher responded to an email from the father indicating that an IEP amendment adding transportation as a related service would be scanned and sent home for signatures.
4. The IEP Amendment sent to the father described the change to the February 5, 2024 IEP as "Beginning 8/14/24, the student will receive student transportation minutes of 20 minutes per day, 5 days per week. This will be on the dad's week with the student. Due to adding student transportation minutes, this will affect the student's AC [Attendant Care] minutes. He will be receiving 30 minutes of AC 5X every other week and 50 minutes 5X every other week on mom's week."
5. No prior written notice corresponding to the changes proposed in the IEP amendment was provided by the LEA despite an initial request for copies of all prior written notices provided to the parent during the 2024-25 school as part of the documentation review in the investigation. This concern will be addressed in ISSUE NINE.
6. The August 14, 2024 amended version of the February 5, 2024 IEP reflected the student required transportation as a related services and listed the frequency as 20 minutes for five days per week when the student was living with his father; the location as "Dad's home"; and the duration as August 12, 2024 through February 4, 2025.
7. In addition, the Special Education and Related Services Summary Chart in that IEP reflects a related service of special education transportation with a location of "T-extracurricular"; an amount of time as 20 minutes; a frequency of five days per week every other week; and a duration of August 14, 2024 through February 4, 2025.
8. The student's IEP team met on January 22, 2025 the review and revise the IEP as appropriate. The IEP team determined the student did require transportation as a related service to continue as currently being provided until the next annual IEP review on January 21, 2026.
9. The LEA provided a copy of the January 22, 2025 IEP that included duplicate pages documenting the transportation as a related service. The first page included a handwritten note stating "See Webkidss" for the description of the service, frequency, location, and duration while the second page was blank in terms of the service, frequency, location, and duration.
10. The WebKIDSS anticipated services page shows special education transportation for 20 minutes, five days per week, every other week beginning on January 22, 2025 and ending on January 21, 2026.
11. Again, the Special Education and Related Services Summary Chart in that IEP reflects a related service of special education transportation with a location of "T-extracurricular"; an amount of time as 20 minutes; a frequency of five days per week every other week; and a duration of January 22, 2025 and ending on January 21, 2026.

12. The LEA provided Transportation Logs and Transportation Notes which documented the LEA either provided transportation or was willing to provide transportation between the first and last days of the 2024-25 school year as well as during the days the student was assigned to receive extended school year services in June and August 2025. The Transportation Logs document both date and mileage; however beginning and end times are not documented.

Conclusion

IDEA requires that each student's IEP team determines if transportation as a related services is required for the student to benefit from special education. If transportation as a related service is required, it must be provided as described in the IEP.

In this case, the father requested to amend the student's February 5, 2024 IEP to include transportation as a related service on July 27, 2024. The LEA responded by agreeing to amend the student's IEP for this requested change on August 12, 2024 without conducting an IEP team meeting. The student received transportation on a daily basis between August 14, 2024 and January 21, 2025. On January 22, 2025, the IEP again determined that transportation as a related services was required for the student to benefit from his special education. While this was not correctly documented in the IEP document developed on January 22, 2025, it is clear that the father and the LEA agreed that the student required the continued transportation to/from the father's home on the weeks when the student was living with the father and stepmother. Documentation and interviews confirm that the student did receive transportation as a related service.

The student's August 12, 2024 Amendment to the February 5, 2024 IEP and/or the January 22, 2025 IEP specifically indicated 20 minutes of transportation services, five days per week. However, this IEP provision does not require that transportation services will be provided for precisely 20 minutes for each trip. Federal regulation 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(7) requires that every IEP include the "anticipated" duration of services.

The "anticipated" duration requirement is particularly applicable for services such as transportation where factors outside of the district's control (traffic, stop lights, students late to bus stop, road work, etc.) where a strict time period (20 minutes, no more or less) is not practical or possible. It is sufficient implementation of the IEP when transportation services are provided for approximately the duration stated in the IEP, taking into account unexpected delays due to factors beyond the control of the district.

For this reason, the duration of transportation as a related services does not have to be stated in hours and minutes, as long as the description is sufficient to make clear what the obligation of the school is. For example, the frequency and duration of transportation could be described as: The student will receive transportation to school and back home every school day (frequency) and from the time the student boards the bus until the student arrives at school or arrives at home (duration).

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found that the LEA is IN compliance and no corrective actions are required.

Issue Five

USD #378, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to determine if the student was making adequate progress towards the IEP goals, specifically by relying on data collected on days the student was not in attendance during the 2024-25 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(3) require public agencies to include a statement in each IEP describing how the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals will be measured; and when periodic reports on the progress the child is making toward meeting the annual goals (such as through the use of quarterly or other periodic reports, concurrent with the issuance of report cards) will be provided.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated, that in preparation for the 2024-25 IEP meetings, the father requested raw progress monitoring sheets. The data sheets provided show that data was "collected" on dates that the student was not present in school, specifically, November 6, 7, 8, 2024 and January 8, 2025. The father now questions the accuracy of the student's IEP Goal Progress Reports because these summaries are based on inaccurate raw data.

LEA Position

The LEA reported data was collected as required by the IEP and IEP Goal Progress Reports have been provided to parents as required during the 2024-25 school year. With regard to the father's allegations relating to the wrong dates on data sheets, the LEA reports this was due to human error. Sometimes forms are pre-dated for convenience, which can mean data is added to the wrong dates. During an internal review of this allegation, the 9th grade Special Education Teacher reported his record-keeping practices are thorough, and data is collected accurately to reflect the student's performance even if the date is incorrect on the raw data sheet. The LEA believes that it is erroneous to suggest that a couple of incorrect dates discredit the overall progress that the student made, which was shown through months of data.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties.

1. The student's IEP goals require progress towards each goal to be measured through data collocation.
2. The LEA acknowledged that data was recorded on the raw data sheets on for the dates of November 6, 7, 8, 2024 and January 8, 2025 and that the student was not in attendance on those days.
3. During an interview with the 9th grade Special Education Teacher, he reported a practice of pre-dating data sheets for convenience. While he acknowledged that the data collected may have been entered on the wrong dates on the raw data sheets, he reported that the data that was taken and recorded was an accurate reflections of the student's performance at that time.
4. IEP Goal Progress Reporting for the period covered for the incorrect dates was completed on January 10, 2025 and provided to the mother and the father. The data collected on the raw data sheets between October 16, 2024 and January 10, 2025 support the conclusions reported on the IEP Goal Progress Reports dated January 10, 2025.

Conclusion

IDEA requires that public agencies must include a statement in each IEP describing how the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals will be measured; and when periodic reports on the progress the child is making toward meeting the annual goals will be provided.

In this case, the student's IEP indicated IEP goal progress would be measured through data collection. The LEA maintained the raw data sheets as educational records and provided these the father upon his request. It is noted that the dates when the raw data was entered on incorrect dates was used to complete the January 10, 2025 IEP Goal Progress Reports. Despite the four dates when data was erroneously recorded on the wrong date on the raw data sheet through human error, the overall raw data supported the conclusions reported on those IEP Goal Progress Reports dated January 10, 2025.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is IN compliance and no corrective actions are required.

Issue Six

USD #378, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to individually determine the need for extended school year (ESY) services, specifically by unilaterally limiting the duration of those services for the student during summer 2025.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.106(b) require that the IEP team must consider the need for extended school year services in order to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to each student with a disability.

Parent Position

The father reported that during the January 22, 2025 IEP team meeting, it was stated that extended school year (ESY) services are provided for two weeks for two hours a day during the summer break following the end of the school year and again just prior to the next school year. This is exactly what was recommended by the LEA for the student at the end of the 2024-25 school year during the IEP team meeting on May 8, 2025. There was no conversation expanding into what would be appropriate for the student based on his needs.

LEA Position

The LEA reported that the student received ESY services during the summer of 2025. While the father wanted longer services for a longer period of time over the summer of 2025, it is not accurate to say the IEP team unilaterally determined the duration of the student's ESY. "All available" members of IEP team met on May 8, 2025 to determine the need for ESY services. The team discussed and reviewed the student's progress toward goals, which goals needed to be worked on to prevent regression, and the amount of time needed to work on those goals.

Progress reports show data on the goals where the student either had slight improvement or a regression. The 9th grade Special Education Teacher stated in the prior written notice that "The student showed regression on his comprehension, time management, and his writing goals. These are areas that the team would like to focus on this summer with ESY." The LEA noted that the student only showed regression on one goal but two newer goals only showed slight improvement. The IEP team decided to work on two newer goals that they considered necessary for the student and it was best for the student to work on them to avoid regression. These were new goals that had been added during the IEP year per the father's request.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties.

1. The January 22, 2025 IEP shows that the IEP team determined ESY services are necessary for the student and that "Anticipated services will be determine prior to April 1, 2025, after more data is taken to determine which goals need to be maintained and worked on during ESY".
2. IEP Goal Progress Reports showed the student showed regression on the time management (behavior) goal and only slight improvement on reading and writing goals during the 2024-25 school year.
3. An IEP Amendment Form for Changes Not Requiring a Full IEP Team Meeting documents that a meeting was held on May 8, 2025 with "all available team". As a result of that meeting an IEP amendment was developed to provide ESY services to the student for four weeks during the summer of 2025. The IEP team proposed four days per week for the four weeks with the first two weeks being June 2-5 and June 9-12. The second two weeks would be July 21-24 and July 28-31. Transportation would be provided during the weeks the student is living with his father and stepmother.
4. On May 15, 2025, the 9th grade Special Education Teacher sent an email to the mother and the father with the dates and times of the ESY services and identifying the ESY Teacher. The 9th grade Special Education Teacher indicated that a copy of the IEP amendment adding the ESY services would be emailed home.
5. On May 20, 2025, the father was provided with prior written notice proposing these ESY services and noted the student showed regression on his comprehension, time management, and writing goals and those were the areas of focus during ESY. The father provided written consent on May 27, 2025.

Conclusion

IDEA requires that the IEP team must consider the need for extended school year services in order to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to each student with a disability.

In this case, the IEP team determined the student required ESY services during the January 22, 2025 IEP team meeting and additional data was needed in order to determine the goals to be addressed as well as the amount of ESY services required. On May 8, 2025, available members of the IEP team met and based on a review IEP goal progress, it was determined to focus on the comprehension, time management, and writing goals during ESY. The IEP team determined that the student required four days per week for four weeks with the first two weeks being June 2-5 and June 9-12. The second two weeks would be July 21-24 and July 28-31. The father was provided with prior written notice proposing the ESY services May 20, 2025 and written consent was provided on May 27, 2025.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is IN compliance and no corrective actions are required.

Issue Seven

USD #378, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to appropriately respond to the parent's request for an IEP team meeting made on June 18, 2025.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) require public agencies to ensure that each child's IEP is reviewed periodically, but not less than annually, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved; and revises the IEP, as appropriate, to address information about the child provided to, or by, the parents.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.322(a) require public agencies to take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of a child with a disability are present at each IEP Team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate, including notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure that they will have an opportunity to attend; and scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed on time and place.

Parent Position

The father reported that he requested an IEP team meeting on June 18, 2025 to be held prior to August 1, 2025 to address substantial changes and updates to the student's IEP based on a change in circumstance. The father indicated he made multiple attempts to try and get this meeting schedule over the course of the summer but was told a meeting could not be held until school staff returned to the LEA on August 7, 2025. The father reported that he was contacted on August 12, 2025 by the 10th grade Special Education Teacher and a meeting was scheduled for August 14, 2025, which was the day before the first day of the school year. However, when he arrived for this meeting, he learned the meeting was a parent/teacher meeting with the 10th grade Special Education Teacher instead of an IEP team meeting. As of August 28, 2025 when he filed the child complaint with KSDE, the LEA had not responded to his request for an IEP team meeting.

LEA Position

The LEA reported that the father did not request an IEP team meeting on June 18, 2025; instead, the parent requested to meet with the Riley County High School Principal, the TLEC Director of Special Education, and the 10th grade Special Education Teacher to discuss a "list of items". The TLEC Director of Special Education responded to the father that a meeting with the student's teacher(s) could not happen during the summer because staff were not under contract at that time but offered to schedule a meeting in August. The father indicated he would prefer to meet briefly with the Riley County High School Principal and the TLEC Special Education Director to "ensure everyone was on the same page with communication and the father's requests". The father and the Riley County High School Principal met on June 19, 2025. Once staff returned to work at the beginning of August, the 10th grade Special Education Teacher arranged to meet with the father and grandmother on August 14, 2025. Following that meeting, an IEP Meeting Notification was provided to the parent scheduling an IEP team meeting for September 3, 2025

The LEA noted that not every request for a meeting must be treated as an IEP team meeting, and the father never stated that he believed the full team needed to be assembled when he made his request to meet with only a selected few school staff in June 2025. Regardless, it was not possible to have a full IEP team meeting during the summer as staff are not under contract at that time. Once school started, the LEA was responsive to the father's request to meet reconvene the student's IEP team.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The email dated June 18, 2025 at 8:02 a.m. written by the father stated, "I am writing to request a meeting to review several important updates. These matters impact the student's current and upcoming IEP, classroom supports, and long-term transition planning." The email included a list of 12 topics/requests.
2. The father and the Riley County High School Principal met on June 19, 2025. The father and reported and the Riley County High School Principal acknowledged that this meeting was to discuss personnel matters regarding general education teachers working with the student.
3. On June 26, 2025, the 10th grade Special Education Teacher responded to the father via email for each of the 12 topics/requests in the June 18, 2025 email and indicated a meeting would be scheduled once school began again in August.
4. On July 7, 2025, the father responded to the 10th grade Special Education Teacher and the Riley County High School Principal stating, "As we approach the start of school, I would like to discuss a good meeting date. My goal would be to have this meeting prior to the first day of school. I understand you aren't on contract and/or on vacation, but I know how quickly the first few weeks fill up".
5. The USD #378 School Calendar for the 2024-25 school year shows school staff returning to the district on August 7, 2025 and High School Orientation scheduled for August 14, 2025. The first day of classes was scheduled for August 15, 2025.
6. The 10th grade Special Education Teacher emailed the father on August 8, 2025 indicating that he would get with the Riley County High School Principal to see if a meeting could be arranged for August 14, 2025.
7. On August 11, 2025, the 10th grade Special Education Teacher tentatively scheduled a meeting for 2:00 p.m. but the father sent an email at 7:54 p.m. to the mother, the TLEC Director of Special Education, the Riley County High School Principal, and the 10th grade Special Education Teacher that he would not be able to attend this meeting. He also stated in the email that the mother would need to submit a list of additional IEP participants to him no later than noon the day before any IEP meeting was held.

8. The father and the 10th grade Special Education Teacher were able to arrange a meeting at 1:30 p.m. on August 14, 2025. The father, the student's grandmother, and the 10th grade Special Education Teacher attended this meeting. The father believed this was supposed to be an IEP team meeting while the 10th grade Special Education Teacher believed this was a parent/teacher conference prior to the first day of the new school year as requested in the July 7, 2025 email.
9. A Notice of a Special Education Meeting scheduled for September 3, 2025 at 1:30 p.m. was provided to the father who indicated in writing that he planned to attend the IEP team meeting and waived his right to a 10-day prior written notice of the meeting on August 27, 2025.

Conclusion

IDEA requires that public agencies ensure that each child's IEP is reviewed periodically, but not less than annually, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved; and revises the IEP, as appropriate, to address information about the child provided to, or by, the parents.

In this case, the father sent an email to the Riley Count High School Principal, the TLEC Director of Special Education, and the student's 10th grade Special Education Teacher on June 18, 2025 and requested a meeting to "review important updates" and discuss 12 issues/requests which will "impact the student's current and upcoming IEP, classroom supports, and long-term transition planning."

It is noted that there was a misunderstanding regarding the purpose of the meeting held between the father and the 10th grade Special Education Teacher on August 14, 2025; however, the parent was not provided with written notice of an IEP team meeting on this date nor asked to waive the 10-day notification requirement and, therefore, this would not have been considered an IEP team meeting.

In contrast, the first day of the 2025-26 school year was August 15, 2025 and the LEA provided the father with a Notification of an IEP Team Meeting scheduled for September 3, 2025 at 1:30 p.m.. The father indicated in writing that he planned to attend this IEP team meeting and waived the 10-day prior written notice requirement on August 27, 2025.

It is important to note that the LEA is correct that not all parent requests for a meeting are a request for an IEP team meeting; however, there is also no requirement that the parent request for a meeting must include the term "IEP team meeting" for it to be considered a request for an IEP team meeting either. The context of the request and the reason the parent has requested the meeting must be considered. In this case, the parent specifically indicates the "important updates" will "impact the student's current and upcoming IEP, classroom supports, and long-term transition planning."

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the district is IN compliance and no corrective actions are required.

Issue Eight

USD #378, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to appropriately respond to the parent's request for a special education evaluation at the beginning of the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.303(a) require public agencies to ensure that a reevaluation of each child with a disability is conducted If the public agency determines that the educational or related service needs, including improved academic achievement and functional performance, of the child warrant a reevaluation; or if the child's parent or teacher requests a reevaluation.

Chapter 7-Reevaluation, Section B in The Kansas Special Education Process Handbook states:

If a parent requests a reevaluation, or more than one reevaluation per year, and the school disagrees that a reevaluation is needed, the school must provide Prior Written Notice to the parent that explains, among other things, why the school refuses to do the reevaluation and the parent's right to pursue the reevaluation through mediation or due process.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) require school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.15 define the term "Evaluation" as meaning procedures conducted in accordance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.304 through 300.11 [the IDEA Evaluation Procedures] to determine whether a child has a disability and the nature and extent of the special education and related services that the child needs.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.302 state that the screening of a student by a teacher or specialist to determine appropriate instructional strategies for curriculum implementation shall not be considered to be an evaluation for eligibility for special education and related services.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.300(d) states that parental consent is not required before reviewing existing data as part of an evaluation or a reevaluation; or administering a test or other evaluation that is administered to all children unless, before administration of that test or evaluation, consent is required of parents of all children.

Parent Position

The father reported he requested a reevaluation of the student, specifically for occupational therapy (OT) and speech/language therapy (SLT) on June 19, 2025. He stated that, on August 19, 2025, the TLEC School Psychologist indicated that the beginning of the year is a busy time so, at this time, the evaluation is denied. The TLEC School Psychologist stated they would have screeners done to determine if the student needed an evaluation for OT or SLT as related services.

LEA Position

The LEA reported the student's most recent reevaluation was conducted on February 5, 2024 without additional assessment. At that time, the multidisciplinary team determined the student continued to be a child with a disability and in need of continued special education and related services under the IDEA category of Autism. The LEA acknowledged that parent made a request for a reevaluation of the student on June 19, 2025 to determine the need for OT and SLT as related services. The TLEC School Psychologist followed district procedures and responded to this request when school started since the request was made while the LEA was not in session for the summer. The first day of school was August 15, 2025 and the prior written notice (PWN) was provided to the father on August 19, 2025 refusing to conduct a reevaluation of the student and explaining why an evaluation was not warranted at this time.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties.

1. On June 19, 2025, the father requested OT and SLT evaluations to determine if the student needs these related services.
2. On August 18, 2025, the TLEC School Psychologist responded to the father's request for a reevaluation of the student in an email stating, " . . . The beginning of the year is a busy time for our service providers, and I have a specific timeline in which I have to reply to your request for an evaluation, so at this time, I'm denying your request for an evaluation. However, I will be having our speech and occupational therapists screen the student to determine if there is a need for an evaluation . . . Once I hear from OT and speech about their screening data and whether or not they feel an evaluation is warranted, I'll let you know".
3. On August 18, 2025 the father was provided with a PWN refusing to conduct an evaluation of the student noting that parent consent was not required. The August 18, 2025 version of the PWN stated the reason the request for an evaluation of the student was refused was "The evaluation is being refused at this time, however, speech and OT will be screening to determine if there is a need for an initial evaluation in those areas. Based on available data, an evaluation is not warranted at this time". The PWN indicates conducting the evaluation as requested by the father was considered but rejected because "screening data is needed to determine the need for a comprehensive evaluation". Other Factors Considered Relevant to the Refused Actions state "Screening data will be gathered to determine the need for an evaluation".
4. The father sent an email that same day to the TLEC School Psychologist indicating that the PWN did not include a clear explanation of the refusal, the data used to make that determination, and the options considered and rejected. The father also stated that screenings cannot be used to delay or deny the evaluation process once a parent has requested an evaluation. He indicated that screening can be included as part of the evaluation process but they cannot replace it.

5. On August 19, 2025, the TLEC School Psychologist responded to the father by providing an updated version of the PWN. She also stated, "I understand that screening do not take the place of an evaluation, but it allows the providers to determine if an in-depth evaluation is necessary. At this time, a evaluation is not supported by the data we have based on why related services are provided. Related services are provided to ensure a student is benefitting from their special education services".
6. On August 19, 2025, the parent was provided with a second version of the PWN which was much more complete and descriptive. The Explanation of Why the Action was Refused stated "The evaluation is being refused at this time, however, speech and OT will be screening to determine if there is a need for an initial evaluation in those areas. Based on previous IEP goals and progress towards those goals with his current special education services without support of speech and OT services, an evaluation is not warranted at this time". The PWN indicates conducting the evaluation as requested by the father was considered but rejected because "screening data is needed to determine the need for a comprehensive evaluation". Other Factors Considered Relevant to the Refused Actions state "Screening data will be gathered to determine the need for an evaluation or if related services are necessary for the student to continue benefiting from his special education services and making progress toward his goals. The psychological evaluation was reviewed and considered in the making of this determination and completing screenings was found to be the best way to proceed at this time".

Conclusion

IDEA requires that public agencies respond to parent requests for a reevaluation by either providing the parents with PWN proposing or refusing to conduct the requested evaluation of the child.

In this case, the parent requested a reevaluation of the student on June 19, 2025 when school was not in session. The LEA responded to that request on August 19, 2025 by issuing a finalized version of a PWN refusing to conduct the reevaluation when school resumed. However, this PWN included a statement that "Screening data will be gathered to determine the need for an evaluation or if related services are necessary for the student to continue benefiting from his special education services and making progress toward his goals".

The IDEA defines an "evaluation" as any procedure procedures conducted in accordance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.304 through 300.11 [the IDEA Evaluation Procedures] to determine whether a child has a disability and the nature and extent of the special education and related services that the child needs. The IDEA requires public agencies to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

The IDEA describes three circumstances when public agencies are not required to provide PWN and obtain parent consent for an evauation. First, parental consent is not required before reviewing existing data as part of an evaluation or a reevaluation. Second, when administering a test or other evaluation that is administered to all children unless, before administration of that test or evaluation, consent is required of parents of all children. Third, when the screening of a student by a teacher or specialist is conducted to determine the appropriate instructional strategies for curriculum implementation.

In this case, the screening being proposed by the LEA in the August 19, 2025 PWN meets the IDEA's definition of an "evaluation" because the screening is being conducted to "determine if related services are necessary for the student to continue benefiting from his special education services and making progress towards his IEP goals". As such, the LEA is required to provide the father with a PWN proposing to conduct the screening and to obtain written consent prior to the screenings being conducted.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is OUT of compliance and corrective actions are required.

Issue Nine

USD #378, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parent with appropriate prior written notice (PWN) during the 2024-25 school year, specifically by not describing the options considered and why rejected.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(a) require public agencies to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE (free appropriate public education) to the student.

In addition, Kansas state regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3) require school districts to obtain parent consent before making a material change in services or a substantial change in placement. "Material change in services" is defined at K.A.R. 91-40-1(mm) as an increase or decrease of 25% or more of the frequency or duration of a special education service, related service, or supplementary aid or service specified in the child's IEP. "Substantial change in placement" is defined at K.A.R. 91-40-1(sss) as the movement of an exceptional child for more than 25% of the child's school day from a less restrictive environment to a more restrictive environment or from a more restrictive environment to a less restrictive environment.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.503(b) require the prior written notice to include 1) a description of the action proposed or refused by the agency; 2) an explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action; 3) a description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action; 4) a statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under the procedural safeguards of this part and, if this notice is not an initial referral for evaluation, the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained; 5) sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions regarding prior written notice and consent; 6) a description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected; and 7) a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal.

Parent Position

The father reports the LEA has repeatedly provided prior written notices which do not clearly explain the actions being proposed or refused by the public agency during the past 12 months. When this happens, he contacts the special education teacher and school administrators and requests for corrections to be made. He indicated the PWN dated September 27, 2024 did not fully describe all the ideas that were considered and rejected. After the father contacted the LEA, the PWN was updated to meet the requirements of the IDEA.

The father also reported that the PWN dated August 18, 2025 refusing to provide the requested evaluation was vague and did not fully explain why his request was being refused. This PWN lacked a description of the data that it referenced. The father emailed concerns about the PWN and refusal to evaluation. The psychologist provided the parent with an updated PWN along with copies of nine progress reports and a parent-supplied psychological evaluation and stated in her email that the student was making "great progress."

LEA Position

The IEP team met on September 18, 2024 to discuss proposed changes from the father and stepmother. At that meeting, the father shared a 36-page document including proposals for amendment of the student's IEP. The IEP team had a robust discussion, which resulted in several amendments being made to the IEP and a PWN was issued on September 18, 2024 which summarized the changes to the student's IEP at that time. The father pointed out what he viewed as inaccuracies in the PWN he received. Parents do not have a right to micro-manage PWNs issued by a school district. Nevertheless, the father's proposed "inaccuracies" were compared to the September 18, 2024 meeting notes and, while the LEA did not regard the father's proposed changes as necessary, the team made a few language changes to try to cooperate with the father and amended the September 18, 2024 PWN.

However, the LEA did not make all of the Father's requested changes. For instance, the PWN was not required to list all of the goals proposed by the father and stepmother because parents do not consent to specific goals; rather, they consent to services. Regardless, the father doesn't claim any confusion or harm to the student's education based on the alleged "inaccuracies" in the original or amended September 18, 2024 PWN. Therefore, there is no basis for any corrective action related to this PWN.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties.

1. The finding from ISSUE FOUR, Number 5 is incorporated herein as follows:
   The parents were not provided with prior written notice corresponding to the material change of services and the significant change of placement proposed in the IEP amendment resulting from the August 14, 2024 IEP team meeting, which proposed changes in special education services as well as a shortened school day every other week due to transportation as a related service.
2. The findings from ISSUE EIGHT, Numbers 3-8 are incorporated herein as follows:
   The father was provided with two versions of the PWN responding to the request for a reevaluation of the student on June 19, 2025. The second version included more specific explanations and description of the action refused, the options considered, the description of the data used as the basis for the decision, and other relevant factors.
3. The parent was provided with two versions of the PWN resulting from the September 18, 2024 IEP team meeting. The second version included more specific explanations and description of the action refused, the options considered, the description of the data used as the basis for the decision, and other relevant factors.

Conclusion

IDEA requires public agencies to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE (free appropriate public education) to the student. In addition, Kansas regulations require public agencies to obtain parent consent before making a material change in services or a substantial change in placement.

This prior written notice must include 1) a description of the action proposed or refused by the agency; 2) an explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action; 3) a description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action; 4) a statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under the procedural safeguards of this part and, if this notice is not an initial referral for evaluation, the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained; 5) sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions regarding prior written notice and consent; 6) a description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected; and 7) a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal.

In this case, the LEA initially failed to provide the father with appropriate PWN following the September 18, 2024 IEP team meeting and when responding to the father's request for a reevaluation of the student on June 19, 2025. Once the parent contacted the LEA regarding the vagueness of these two initial PWNs, the LEA updated and re-issued each of the PWN to include more specific information and clearer explanations of the actions proposed or refused. In addition, the LEA failed to provide the father with a PWN on August 14, 2024 for a change of services and placement resulting in a shortened school day due to adding transportation as a related service to the student's IEP.

Based on the foregoing, it is found the district is OUT of compliance and corrective actions are required.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: The LEA was found to be in compliance with the requirements at 34 C.F.R. 300. 320(a)(4) and 300.323(c)(2) which require that the IEP include a statement of special education services to be provided to the student and for those services to be provided as described in the student's IEP.
2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) which requires school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP was found. In this case, the IEPs in effect during the 2024-25 school year included behavior intervention plans (BIPs) that are required to be implemented as written. While documentation and interviews found the father's initial allegation regarding daily reporting was not included in the BIP, other reporting requirements to the parents were not consistently being provided as required.
    a. The LEA will contact TASN and arrange for training for special education teachers at Riley County High School to receive training on data collection methods and the requirement to implement IEPs, including BIPs, as written. The LEA will provide SETS with a sign-in sheet showing who was trained as well as a copy of the training documents no later than the end of the first semester of the 2025-26 school year.
    b. The Administration from TLEC will meet with the 10th grade High School Teacher at least monthly to ensure data is being collected as required by the student's BIP and that parents are being provided copies of any ABC charts as required by the BIP during the remainder of the 2025-26 school year. TLEC will provide SETS with documentation of these meetings, the outcomes, as well as re-training efforts, if appropriate, no later than June 30, 2026.
3. ISSUE THREE: The LEA was found to be in compliance with the requirements at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(2) which require that , beginning not later than the first IEP to be in effect when the student turns 16 and updated annually, school districts must develop IEPs that include 1) appropriate measurable post-secondary goals based on age appropriate transition assessments related to training, education, employment, and, where appropriate, independent living skills, and 2) transition services, including a course of study, needed to assist the student in reaching those goals.

4. ISSUE FOUR: The LEA was found to be in compliance with the requirements at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(4) and 300.34(a) which require public agencies to includes a statement of the special education and related services, including transportation as a related service, to be provided to the student or on behalf of the student in order for that student to benefit from their special edcation services.
5. ISSUE FIVE: The LEA was found to be in compliance with the requirements at 34 C.F.R. 300.320(a)(3) which require public agencies to include a statement in each IEP describing how the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals will be measured; and when periodic reports on the progress the child is making toward meeting the annual goals (such as through the use of quarterly or other periodic reports, concurrent with the issuance of report cards) will be provided.
6. ISSUE SIX: The LEA was found to be in compliance with the requirements at 34 C.F.R. 300.106(b) which require that the IEP team must consider the need for extended school year services in order to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to each student with a disability.
7. ISSUE SEVEN: The LEA was found to be in compliance with the requirements at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(1) which require public agencies to ensure that each child's IEP is reviewed and revised, as appropriate, to address information about the child provided to, or by, the parents as well as at 34 C.F.R. 300.322(a) which require public agencies to take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of a child with a disability are present at each IEP Team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate, including notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure that they will have an opportunity to attend; and scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed on time and place.
8. ISSUE EIGHT: A violation of 34 CFR 300.503(a) requiring school districts to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student was found. In this case, the LEA refused to conduct an evaluation of the student at the same time as proposing to conduct screenings for OT and SLT to determine the need for related services for the student. The screening being proposed by the LEA meets the definition of an "evaluation" under the IDEA and requires parent consent. However, the LEA did not obtain consent from the parent prior to conducting these screenings.
    a. The LEA will review and revise, as appropriate, their policies, procedures and practices regarding obtaining parent consent when conducting screenings. TLEC will provide in-service training regarding the policies and procedures to all school psychologists and related services providers employed at TLEC no later than the end of November 2025. TLEC will provide SETS with a sign-in sheet showing who attended the in-services as well as a copy of the training documents no later than the end of the first semester of the 2025-26 school year.
9. ISSUE NINE: A violation of 34 CFR 300.503 (a, b) was found. These regulations require public agencies to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE (free appropriate public education) to the student by including 1) a description of the action proposed or refused by the agency; 2) an explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action; 3) a description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action; 4) a statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under the procedural safeguards of this part and, if this notice is not an initial referral for evaluation, the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained; 5) sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions regarding prior written notice and consent; 6) a description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected; and 7) a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal. It is also noted that K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3) requires public agencies to obtain parent consent for any material change of services and/or a substantial change of placement.

a. The LEA will contact TASN and arrange for training for special education staff working at Riley County High School in the LEA to receive training on when and how to provide appropriate PWN to parents. The LEA will provide SETS with a sign-in sheet showing who was trained as well as a copy of the training documents no later than the end of the first semester of the 2025-26 school year.

b. The Administration from TLEC will conduct an internal review of at least two PWNs for each of the special education teachers at Riley County High School to monitor for compliance in regards initially providing parents with appropriate PWN which document and clearly explain the decisions made at made at IEP team meetings during the 2025-26 school year. TLEC will provide SETS with documentation of these reviews, the outcomes, as well as re-training efforts, if appropriate, no later than the end of the fourth quarter of the 2025-26 school year.

If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 378
Riley County Public Schoools: 26FC378-001

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on August 28, 2025, by --------- on behalf of his child, ---------. In the remainder of this decision, --------- will be referred to as "the parent," and ---------- will be referred to as "the student." it is also noted that the student's mothers name is ---------. An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on October 17, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, both the district and the parent filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeals, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the parties' notices of appeal, and the parties responses to the appeals. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report contained nine issues.

The district appeals the decision in Issues 2, 8 and 9.

The parent appeals the decision in Issues 1, 2 and 7, along with "Technical and Editorial Corrections" regarding Issues 4 and 8.

We start with the district's appeal.

Issue 2

Issue 2 of the complaint alleges that the district failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) by not providing daily behavior reports to the parent during the 2024-25 school year.

The investigator determined that the BIP did not require daily behavior reports (Report, p. 11). Hower, the investigator noted that:

> the BIP qualifies the statement "Progress will be reported at the same intervals as general education progress reports and/or report cards are issued" by adding the phrase "unless noted below:" and below that statement was typed: "When the student has a behavior that is on his level 1-4 ABC chart". This means that when the student exhibits a behavior described in any of the four levels of the ABC Chart, this behavior should have been reported to the parents. Eleven ABC Charts were completed between August 15 and December 11, 2024 documenting the student's behavior ranging between Level 1 and 4; however, none of these ABC charts were sent to the parents as required by the other circumstance described in the BIP. Report, p. 13.

In its appeal, the district asserts that the investigator reached the wrong conclusion because that "language in the BIP did not require reports to parents every time the student had a behavior on his level 1 – 4 ABC chart." In his response to the district's appeal on this issue, the parent disagrees and says the district's "claim that the requirement referred to "data collection" instead of "reporting" ignores the plain language of the plan and the intent behind it. The purpose of the BIP's reporting requirement is communication, not paperwork." The parent's response also says: "When the law (34 C.F.R. § 300.323(c)(2)) requires services, including behavioral interventions, to be implemented as written, that includes the communication procedures that make those interventions effective."

The Appeal Committee disagrees with the parent's assertion that "the district's claim that the requirement referred to "data collection" instead of "reporting" ignores the plain language of the plan and the intent behind it" but agrees with the parent's response that, "the law (34 C.F.R. § 300.323(c)(2)) requires services, including behavioral interventions, to be implemented as written.

When faced with an issue such as this one, where the dispute involves interpreting what is meant by language used in an IEP, we use the guidance provided from the highest courts that have considered this question.

In John M. v. Bd. Of Ed. of Evanston Township High Sch., 107 LRP 53843 (7th Cir. 2007), the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the 7th Circuit said that, in most cases, a court should find it unnecessary to go beyond the four corners of an IEP, unless the IEP is vague in which case the court may look at extrinsic evidence.

In our own 10th Circuit Court of Appeals (Kansas is in the 10th Circuit, so its rulings are law in Kansas) in Sytsema v. Academy Sch. Dist. No. 20, 538 F.3d 1306, 50 IDELR 213 (10th Cir. 2008) the Circuit Court held a similar (four corners) result saying that the IEP is the written offer and the court will only consider the written IEP (emphasis added).

Thus, we look at the actual language used in the IEP. In this instance, the IEP (BIP) is not vague.

It states: "Progress will be reported at the same intervals as general education progress reports and/or report cards are issued unless otherwise indicated below. . . . When the student has a behavior that is on his level 1-4 ABC chart. ABC chart will be made by the special education with the support of the behavior teacher if needed."

These are two independent statements. There is nothing in any of the language that follows the first statement that contradicts or modifies the first statement in any way. Certainly, nothing in the second statement indicates or even hints that a progress report of any kind will be made to the parent when the student has a behavior that is on his level 1-4 ABC chart.

For the reasons stated herein, the Appeal Committee finds that the conclusion in the report of a violation of law on issue 2 should be reversed and the corrective action rescinded.

The district failed to appropriately respond to the parent's request for a special education evaluation at the beginning of the 2025-26 school year.

On June 19, the parent requested OT and SLT evaluations to determine if the student needs these related services. On August 18, 2025 the father was provided with a PWN refusing to conduct an evaluation. When the parent indicated his view that the PWN was deficient the district promptly responded with an updated and more complete PWN on August 19, 2025. (Report, p. 33-34: Finding of Fact 1 – 5).

The second version of the PWN was described, in relevant part, in the report as follows:

> The Explanation of Why the Action was Refused stated "The evaluation is being refused at this time, however, speech and OT will be screening to determine if there is a need for an initial evaluation in those areas*. Based on previous IEP goals and progress towards those goals with his current special education services without support of speech and OT services, an evaluation is not warranted at this time*". The PWN indicates conducting the evaluation as requested by the father was > considered but rejected because "screening data is needed to determine the need for a comprehensive evaluation". Other Factors Considered Relevant to the Refused Actions state "Screening data will be gathered to determine the need for an evaluation or if related services are necessary for the student to continue benefiting from his special education services and making progress toward his goals. The psychological evaluation was reviewed and considered in the making of this determination and completing screenings was found to be the best way to proceed at this time". (Report p. 34; Finding of Fact 6 – emphasis added)

The district bases its appeal on the portion of the PWN saying that the proposed screening will be done to determine if there is a need for an initial evaluation. The investigator focused on additional language in the PWN, adding: "or if related services are necessary for the student to continue benefiting from his special education services and making progress toward his goals.

The investigator concluded that this additional, underlined, language in the PWN met the definition of the term "evaluation" and so was a proposal to conduct an evaluation. The investigator concluded that, "As such, the LEA is required to provide the father with a PWN proposing to conduct the screening and to obtain written consent prior to the screenings being conducted."

However, the Appeal Committee does not believe this PWN proposed an evaluation for the following reason: The PWN included this statement: "*The evaluation is being refused at this time, however, speech and OT will be screening to determine if there is a need for an initial evaluation in those areas. This explicit language in the PWN makes it clear that the purpose of the PWN is to (1) refuse the parent's request for an evaluation, and is not a district proposal to conduct an evaluation and (2) the purpose of the screening is to determine if there is a need for an initial evaluation in those areas (speech and OT), not whether there is a need for services. (Emphasis added).

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee reverses the conclusion of the complaint investigator on Issue 8 and rescinds the corrective action connected with Issue 8.

Issue 9

> The district failed to provide the parent with appropriate prior written notice (PWN) during the 2024-25 school year, specifically by not describing the options considered and why rejected.

The investigator found a violation in this issue, concluding:

> In this case, the LEA initially failed to provide the father with appropriate PWN following the September 18, 2024 IEP team meeting and when responding to the father's request for a reevaluation of the student on June 19, 2025. Once the parent contacted the LEA regarding the vagueness of these two initial PWNs, the > LEA updated and re-issued each of the PWNs to include more specific information and clearer explanations of the actions proposed or refused. In addition, the LEA failed to provide the father with a PWN on August 14, 2024 for a change of services and placement resulting in a shortened school day due to adding transportation as a related service to the student's IEP. (Report, p. 39-40).

In its appeal, the district asserts that the investigator found a violation even though the district responded to the parent's concerns about the adequacy of these two PWNs by issuing subsequent, more detailed PWNs, without an explanation in the report as to why the subsequent PWNs were inadequate. The Appeal Committee agrees that the report does not describe how these two subsequent PWNs were deficient.

In the conclusion of Issue 9, the investigator adds, "In addition, the LEA failed to provide the father with a PWN on August 14, 2024 for a change of services and placement resulting in a shortened school day due to adding transportation as a related service to the student's IEP. In its appeal, the district asserts that the added transportation occurred outside the school day (before and after each school day) and so did not shorten the student's school day.

Again, the Appeal Committee agrees with the district. The term "transportation" appears 52 times in the report, but there is no reference to providing this service during school hours that would result in shorting the school day of this student.

In Issue 4, finding 4, p. 20, the report states:

> 4. The IEP Amendment sent to the father described the change to the February 5, 2024 IEP as "Beginning 8/14/24, the student will receive student transportation minutes of 20 minutes per day, 5 days per week. This will be on the dad's week with the student. Due to adding student transportation minutes, this will affect the student's AC [Attendant Care] minutes. He will be receiving 30 minutes of AC 5X every other week and 50 minutes 5X every other week on mom's week."

In Issue 4, finding 12, p. 21, the report adds:

> The Transportation Logs document both date and mileage; however beginning and end times are not documented.

There is nothing in the report that substantiates, or even refers to, providing transportation during the school day or otherwise shortening this students school day to provide transportation.

Additionally, in its appeal, the district notes that even if there was some deficiency in these original and subsequent PWNs, it was at most a harmless and procedural error that did not substantially result in a loss of educational opportunities for the student or substantially impede parent's participation in the IEP process. The district cites a United States Circuit Court of Appeals decision stating:

> "Plaintiffs also have not shown that WCS's failure to provide notice caused any loss of educational opportunity to (the student). or seriously infringed on their opportunity to participate in the special-education process, since (the student's) parents continued to be closely involved in discussions with WCS about (the student's education despite the lack of prior written notice on the three occasions in question."

This court's finding is based on federal regulation 34 C.F.R. 300.513, which states that hearing officers must base their decisions on substantive grounds, and that when considering procedural violations, they may find that a child did not receive a free appropriate public education (FAPE) "only if the procedural inadequacies--

(i) Impeded the child's right to a FAPE;
(ii) Significantly impeded the parent's opportunity to participate in the decision-making process regarding the provision of a FAPE to the parent's child; or
(iii) Caused a deprivation of educational benefit."

While this regulation directly effects decisions of hearing officers, not state complaint investigators, it provides important guidance to investigators considering procedural requirements, such as the content of a PWN, exactly the issue in this Circuit court decision. There is no analysis in the report addressing whether any alleged deficiency in these PWNs "Significantly impeded the parent's opportunity to participate in the decision-making process regarding the provision of a FAPE to the parent's child," and the Appeal Committee sees no support in the report for such a conclusion.

In his response to the district's appeal of this issue, the parent argues the following:

1. This defense minimizes both the law and common sense. The IDEA (34 C.F.R. § 300.503) is explicit: prior written notices must describe the actions proposed or refused, the reasons, the data relied upon, the options considered and rejected, and other relevant factors
2. Compliance is not optional, and accuracy is not a courtesy. It is a procedural safeguard protecting parental participation.
3. When a district refuses to communicate or document decisions accurately, it effectively silences the parent's voice. For a family like ours, accuracy in the record is not bureaucratic perfectionism. It is the only way to protect a child who cannot speak for himself

The Appeal Committee understands the parents position that the district should be held to complete compliance with the law. However, the courts that have considered this issue regarding compliance with the many procedural requirements of special education law have all adopted a different view.

In Abigail P. v. Old Forge School District, 124 LRP 21769 (3d. Cir. 2024), this court said it was joining the 4th, 5th, 8th, 9th, and 11th Circuits, in concluding that an implementation failure must be material to be actionable and perfect adherence is not the standard. The court said, "Indeed, a requirement of perfect adherence would ignore the realities and the challenges that the IDEA was built to accommodate…A materiality standard affords local agencies some flexibility while still holding those agencies accountable for material failures and for providing the disabled a meaningful education benefit."

Also see, L.J. v. School Board of Broward County, Florida, 119 LRP 24771 (11th Cir. 2019), where the court cited the 5th, 2nd, and 4th, Circuit decisions, and said the statute is violated when there is a material deviation from the IEP, and added, "We see nothing in the text of the IDEA holding schools to a standard of perfect implementation…"

Kansas is in the 10th Circuit, and the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals has also ruled on alleged procedural violations, saying: "It is well settled that, without a claim that the FAPE was deficient, procedural defects are not actionable…Procedural defects alone do not constitute a violation of the right to a FAPE unless they result in the loss of an educational opportunity." T.S. v. Indep. Sch. Dist. 54, 265 F.3d 1090, 35 IDELR 128 (10th Cir. 2001). In a Kansas case, the 10th Circuit Court said, "technical irregularities do not produce a violation of Kansas law or the IDEA." Otoole v. Olathe Sch. Dist., 28 IDELR 177 (10th Cir. 1998), " Emphasis added.

For all of the reasons cited above, including that,

(1) there was no finding in the report that the subsequent PWNs provided to the parent after the parent requested more information were deficient; and
(2) even if the PWNs were deficient, there was no finding in the report that the deficiency significantly impeded the parent's right to participate in the decision making process or caused a deprivation of educational benefit to the student. There was no evidence that the parent was unable to make proposals or unable to participate in IEP meetings, or that the student was deprived of educational benefit as a result of allegedly deficient PWNs.

The Appeal Committee concludes that the conclusion of the investigator on this issue should be, and is, reversed. Corrective action ordered by the investigator regarding this issue is rescinded.

Next, we turn to the parent's appeal.

Issue One

The district failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by not providing the required amount of special education services during the 2024-25 school year.

The parent's appeal of this issue begins:

"ISSUE 1 — IEP Implementation (Service Minutes and Schedule Alignment)

Summary of Error: The report characterizes the father's concern about (the student's IEP service minutes as a "misunderstanding" related to scheduling changes from grade school to high school."

In support of this "Summary of Error" the parent asserts that he was correct that the IEP service minutes did not align to the student's schedule and so the investigator's conclusion misstates the evidence.

Noting that an appeal of a complaint report may contest only "findings or conclusions" in the report (See K.A.R. 91-40-51(f), the Appeal Committee reviewed the five findings related to Issue one on pages 7 and 8. None of these findings use the term "misunderstanding." Accordingly, there is no finding related to misunderstandings in this issue that can be reviewed on appeal.

The conclusion in the report that is related to Issue 1, does include this statement, "And, even though allowed by the IDEA, it is noted that this situation led to multiple misunderstandings between LEA staff and the student's father which could have been avoided if the information was uniformly reported in the same sections of both IEPs." This statement, however, is not the conclusion. It appears to be merely a comment about how information that is contained in successive IEPs would likely be more clear if that information were in the same sections of the two IEPs. Accordingly, who was "right" or "wrong" as to whether there was a "misunderstanding" is not a matter of a finding or conclusion in the report, and is not subject to review on appeal.

Moreover, the parent does not provide convincing evidence in this appeal that the investigator's conclusion that the February 5, 2024 IEP and the January 22, 2025 IEP both matched the student's 9th grade schedule was wrong.

The conclusion in the report on Issue 1 is sustained.

Issue 2

The district failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically the Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) by not providing the daily behavior reports to the parent during the 2024-25 school year.

The parent's appeal of this issue begins:

"ISSUE 2 – Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP)

Summary of Error: The report states that according to the LEA, the BIP was revised at the January 22, 2025 IEP meeting to add "Monthly data will be taken when the student is not complying with the directive and asking for 3 additional minutes before transitioning." No documentation or PWN exists to support this. The LEA unilaterally changed the BIP without parent consent.

Whether the LEA changed the student's BIP on January 22, 2025 without a PWN or consent is not the concern alleged in Issue 2. The concern alleged in Issue 2 is whether the district failed to implement the student's Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) by not providing the daily behavior reports to the parent during the 2024-25 school year. The investigator noted that there was nothing in the student's BIP that required daily behavior reports to the parent (Report, Finding of Fact 2, p. 11), and that the parent "acknowledged that the BIP does not require daily progress reporting (Report, p. 10)."

The Appeal Committee finds no error occurred with regard to the issue presented in this appeal. Note: The conclusion in Issue 2 was reversed on other grounds by the Appeal Committee.

*With regard to references the parent made in his appeal to "cafeteria clean-up" and "classroom visits" the Appeal Committee found no reference to these topics anywhere in the report or original complaint. Accordingly, there is no finding or conclusion regarding these subjects that are subject to appeal.

Issue 7

The district failed to appropriately respond to the parent's request for an IEP team meeting made on June 18, 2025.

The parent's appeal of this issue begins:

"Summary of Error: The report states no direct IEP meeting request was made and finds the LEA in compliance, contradicting documented emails and legal standards."

The parent's request for a meeting are well documented in the report. The report states that an "email dated June 18, 2025 at 8:02 a.m. written by the father stated, "I am writing to request a meeting to review several important updates. These matters impact the student's current and upcoming IEP, classroom supports, and long-term transition planning (Emphasis added)." Further, the email included a list of 12 topics/requests. (Report, Finding of Fact 1, p. 29). The parent did not specifically ask for an IEP meeting, but wanted to talk about the student's IEP, classroom supports and transition planning. These are all matters only the IEP team could effectively address. There should have been no misunderstanding of this request. The Appeal Committee finds that this email constituted a written request for an IEP meeting.

The issue, then, is whether the district appropriately responded to this request for an IEP meeting. The parent cites the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, in Ch. 4, Sec. C, as stating that an IEP team must meet "as soon as reasonably possible" after a request for an IEP meeting. The Appeal Committee reviewed Chapter 4, as well as the entire handbook, and could find no such statement. Nor is there any such requirement in law.

The Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services (OSERS) is an office within the United States Department of Education that provides guidance in special education matters. It has said:

> When an explicit timeline is not specified in the IDEA or its implementing regulations, the Department interprets that the requirement will be met within a > reasonable period of time. The Department has not defined "a reasonable period of time" but has explained with respect to implementation of services in a child's IEP, that "with very limited exceptions, IEPs for most children with disabilities should be implemented without undue delay following the IEP meetings…We believe that there is nothing in IDEA that would prevent a State from establishing a reasonable timeline in its rules implementing this IDEA requirement. (Emphasis added). Letter to Frumkin, 79 IDELR 233 (OSERS 2021).

Kansas has exercised the authority described by OSERS in its Letter to Special Education Directors RE: "Reasonable Time" to respond to parent request for evaluation, (Jan. 8, 2002). In this letter, the Special Education Director for the Kansas State Department of Education notified the special education directors in all Kansas schools of the following:

> We are instructing our complaint investigators that when the school district is required to provide parents with a written notice of the district's proposal or the district's refusal of a parent's proposal (whether oral or written) under K.S.A. 72-988(b)(2) (regarding the initiation, or a change of, identification, evaluation, placement or the provision of FAPE to a child with an exceptionality), unless there is some unusual circumstance, a reasonable time in which to provide such notice to the parents is 15 school days (emphasis added).

This policy letter is cited in the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook in Chapter 1, Section D and Chapter 2, Section E. While the letter specifically addresses the time in which a district must respond to a parents request for a special education evaluation, it has been consistently used by the Special Education and Title Services team (SETS) at the Kansas State Department of Education to apply to any timeline for completing any task for which the law requires but does not specify a time in which the task must be completed. This policy is consistent with OSERS guidance in Letter to Frumkin (See above). The policy was established with the understanding that Kansas school districts have periods during a calendar year when they are not operating for extended lengths of time (such as during the summer break).

Using this, long-established guidance, the Appeal Committee notes that the facts in this issue are largely uncontested, and include the following:.

June 18, 2025, the parent requested an IEP meeting (although the district disputes this fact, the Appeal Committee has determined that this request to meet was a request for an IEP meeting – see above). (Report, Finding of Fact 1, p. 29)

August 15, 2025, was the first day of classes. (Report, Finding of Fact 5, p. 30)

August 15, 2025, the LEA provided the father with a Notification of an IEP Team Meeting scheduled for September 3, 2025 at 1:30 p.m.. The father indicated in writing that he planned to attend this IEP team meeting and waived the 10-day prior written notice requirement on August 27, 2025. (Report, p. 31).

The parent requested this IEP meeting on June 18, while school was not in session. The first day of school was August 15 (or as the parent alleges in his appeal, August 14) and the IEP meeting was scheduled for September 3. There were eight (or 9 according to the parent) school days between the date the parent requested an IEP meeting (June 18) and the date the meeting was scheduled to occur (September 3). Based on these facts and the long-time interpretation of SETS regarding the time in which to respond to a parent's special education request, the Appeal Committee concludes that the district scheduled the requested IEP meeting within a reasonable time.

The decision of the complaint investigator on issue 7, that the district is in compliance, is affirmed.

Issue 8

The district failed to appropriately respond to the parent's request for a special education evaluation at the beginning of the 2025-26 school year.

The investigator found a violation on this issue, stating:

> In this case, the screening being proposed by the LEA in the August 19, 2025 PWN meets the IDEA's definition of an "evaluation" because the screening is being conducted to "determine if related services are necessary for the student to continue benefiting from his special education services and making progress towards his IEP goals". As such, the LEA is required to provide the father with a PWN proposing to conduct the screening and to obtain written consent prior to the screenings being conducted.

The Appeal Committee has reversed this conclusion for the reasons stated earlier in response to the district's appeal of Issue 8.

In his response to the district's appeal of this issue, the parent asserts,

> The district's argument that screenings are "pre-referral processes" is a gross distortion of both the IDEA and the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook. The investigator correctly determined that the district violated the law by denying an evaluation while simultaneously conducting screenings to determine eligibility for related services, actions that meet the IDEA definition of an evaluation under 34 C.F.R. § 300.15.

The Appeal Committee disagrees. Federal regulation 34 C.F.R. 300.302 says:

"The screening of a student by a teacher or specialist to determine appropriate instructional strategies for curriculum implementation shall not be considered to be an evaluation for eligibility for special education and related services." Kansas statute, K.S.A. 72-3428 has an identical provision. The Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP), the office in the United States Department of Education that writes the federal regulations, explained that,

> Child find activities typically involve some sort of screening process to determine whether the child should be referred for a full evaluation to determine eligibility for special education and related services (Federal Register, Aug. 14, 2006, p. 46636).

And that,

> An "evaluation," as used in the Act, refers to an individual assessment to determine eligibility for special education and related services, consistent with the evaluation procedures in Sec. Sec. 300.301 through 300.311. "Screening," as used in Sec. 300.302 and section 614(a)(1)(E) of the Act, refers to a process that a teacher or specialist uses to determine appropriate instructional strategies…Because such screening is not considered an evaluation under Sec. Sec. 300.301 through 300.311 to determine eligibility for special education services, parental consent is not required. (Federal Register, Aug. 14, 2006, p.46639). Emphasis added.

Another consideration, mandated by Kansas Administrative Regulation 91-40-7(c)(2), is that Kansas school districts are required to conduct general education interventions, before referring a child for a special education evaluation, or have data-based documentation indicating that general education interventions and strategies would be inadequate to address the areas of concern for the child or have data-based documentation indicating that before the referral or as a part of the referral, all of the following conditions were met:

(A) The child was provided with appropriate instruction in regular education settings that was delivered by qualified personnel.
(B) The child's academic achievement was repeatedly assessed at reasonable intervals that reflected formal assessment of the student's progress during instruction.
(C) The assessment results were provided to the child's parent or parents.
(D) The assessment results indicate that an evaluation is appropriate.

The only exception to this requirement is when: (3) The parent of the child requests, and gives written consent for, an evaluation of the child, and the board agrees that an evaluation of the child is appropriate. Clearly, as stated in the PWN, the district did not agree to conduct an evaluation.

The Appeal Committee concludes that the screening procedures proposed in the district's PWNs were not proposals to conduct an evaluation and did not require parent consent.

Technical and Editorial corrections:

This portion of the parent's appeal relates to errors and language used in the report. The parent objects to language the parent believes to be subjective, not neutral, and includes dates that are incorrect but were not used in making findings of fact or conclusions, and includes an incorrect name for the student's mother.

The Appeal Committee declines to address these issues on appeal as it does not have authority to do so. The regulation authorizing the complaint appeal process limits the subject matter of appeals to the "findings or conclusions" of a complaint report (See, K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)(1). The issues addressed in this portion of the parent's appeal are not part of the findings or conclusions in the report. However, the Appeal Committee acknowledges that the parent has provided credible information on the name of the student's mother, and that the report should have referred to her by her legal name, as stated in the opening paragraph of this decision.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained where it finds no violation of law and reversed where it finds a violation of law. All corrective actions are rescinded.

The Appeal Committee understands the parent's desire to have his child evaluated for eligibility for specific related services, (Speech and OT) and reminds district officials of their "child find" obligation to propose a special education evaluation, rather than continuing general education interventions, when they reasonably suspect that a child has a disability and is in need of specially designed instruction as a result of the disability.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 10th day of November, 2025.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #37
ON SEPTEMBER 11, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: OCTOBER 14, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, ------, by their guardian, ------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the guardian as "the Complainant."

The Complaint is against USD # 437, Auburn/ Washburn Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, the "School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #437.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on September 11, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ended on October 11, 2025.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), implemented the Student's Individualized Education Program (IEP), which included supports identified in the Student's Behavior Support Plan and Medical Plan. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), K.A.R. 91-40-19; 34 CFR §300.323.

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, limited the Complainant's right to ask for revisions of their child's IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16(a), K.A.R. 91-40-19(c), K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2); 34 CFR § 300.324.

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Complainant with a copy of the procedural safeguards at least one time during the school year and upon the request of the Complainant. K.A.R. 91-40-26(d); 34 CFR § 300.504.

ISSUE FOUR: Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided IEP access to each regular education teacher. special education teacher, related service provider, and other service providers who are responsible for its implementation. Background Information

This investigation involved a tenth-grade student enrolled at Washburn Rural High School in USD #437. The Student was receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). The Student is very observant and enjoys building relationships with school staff. The Student experienced significant disabilities and required a one-to-one staff member during their entire school day, including transportation to and from school. The Student had a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) that addressed behaviors such as physical aggression, eloping, self-injurious behaviors, eating too fast, and toileting challenges. The Student was non-verbal and used an Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC) device.

Findings of the Investigation

1. On September 17, 2024, an email thread between the Special Education Provider and the Complainant stated:
    a. The Complainant requested the Student's "dedicated bathroom breaks and drinking water schedule" for each day, stating the Student was using the bathroom at home more frequently during school days and had clear urine. In addition, the Complainant stated the Student was "soaking [their] pull-up, the beadsheets, [their] pillow and pillowcase, blanket and comforter" on school nights only.
    b. The Special Education Teacher stated the Student was drinking "anywhere between 20 and 24 ounces a day," adding the Student's last drink of the day "is typically before 6th hour, about 6 oz."
    c. The Special Education Teacher suggested using a larger water bottle to hold all of the water the Student is allowed for the day. They stated they could portion it out to the Student throughout the day to limit and track the amount of water the Student drinks.

d. The Complainant responded to the Special Education Provider's email on September 19, 2024, stating, using the larger water bottle "sounds like a good idea to try."

2. On October 2, 2024, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider to state the Student had exited the bus holding a sweatshirt and a T-shirt, which was against the Student's plan not to have access to clothing. The Complainant stated the Student was agitated because of the clothing and "tore up [their] parents' house, destroyed and shredded clothing, tired [sic] to destroy and throw away all of their parents' clothing, and was up ALL night." The Student had become physically aggressive with their Parents and had to be picked up early because the Student had been "violent and destructive over [their] obsession with clothing and destroying it to make trash." The Complainant stated they had made multiple requests for a meeting about these issues and stated there had been no meeting scheduled and the paraprofessional was still letting the Student access their backpack and was not following the Student's IEP. The Complainant sent an additional email to the Special Education Provider asking for a copy of the Student's most recent IEP.

3. An annual IEP dated December 17, 2024, included the following:

   a. The Student struggled to use oral language to express their basic needs and wants, request information, and communicate what they know. The Student struggled with managing and regulating their emotions, behaviors, and social situations. The Student demonstrated anxious behaviors, OCD tendencies, and had a PICA and Disruptive Mood Dysregulation Disorder.

   b. Transition goals were listed in the areas of education and training, employment, and independent living skills. Academic and Functional goals were listed in the areas of math, English language arts, communication, fine motor, emotional regulation, social skills, spelling, daily living skills, and personal hygiene habits.

   c. The BIP was included in the IEP and was dated May 24, 2024. The plan indicated the following:

      i. Problem behaviors included hitting, kicking, pushing, headbutting, grabbing, eating inedible objects, property destruction, tackling staff, pulling hair, biting, pinching, slapping, peeing on staff, smearing feces, tearing clothing, eloping, picking scabs, eating too fast, swallowing food whole, overeating, and overdrinking, leading to vomiting.

      ii. Precursor behaviors included anxious sounds, face scrunching, hitting the table, grabbing the staff's hand, forceful high-fives, restlessness, requests to go to the preferred area, noticing holes or imperfections in clothing, and seeing clothing or laundry items.

      iii. Antecedents included being hungry, a change in staffing, sensory needs not met, non-preferred tasks, new tasks, a change in routine, unclear expectations, unstructured time, being told 'no', hearing staff discuss bathroom or laundry, and being uncomfortable in clothes.

iv. The function of behavior was described as an attempt to avoid tasks, activities, or environments, or to gain a preferred activity.

v. Replacement behaviors were listed and indicated staff "should refer [the Student] to the icons on [the Student's] desk for break, calm down room, help, and then immediately provide what [they] requests [sic]."

vi. Proactive strategies included ensuring the Student had "access to two staff members who are trained in de-escalation strategies and who are familiar with [the Student's] routines and behavior plan" and ensuring the Student had "access to two staff members who know how to access help for emergent situations, such as knowing the number for the office and knowing the location of the intercom button" and ensuring staff are "aware of the PRN [as needed] medication that the nurse keeps available to [the Student]." Additional strategies included keeping the Student stimulated and engaged in learning activities, pre-teaching routines, familiarizing the Student with staff, offering choices, social stories, reinforcement with "thumbs-up and verbal praise rather than tangible items and rather than physical hand shakes, bumps, or high-fives," and using social reinforcement for transitioning onto the bus. According to the document, "a copy of BIP will be on the bus."

vii. Reactive strategies included alerting the nurse at the first sign of aggressive behaviors to administer PRN medication. The BIP stated, "This should be a known procedure by [the Student's] staff, administration, and the nursing staff. "Additional strategies included directing the Student to the calm space, reminding the Student of expectations, changing their activity, offering breaks, and the use of seclusion when the Student was being unsafe.

viii. Staff trainings included adding necessary staff training in the IEP, training on the procedure for the PRN medication, staff members who were trained in CPI to oversee de-escalation, new staff would receive training on de-escalation strategies, new staff would be trained on strategies the Student responds best to, and staff would have access to the Student's BIP.

d. The IEP team determined Extended School Year Services (ESY) would be necessary for the Student.

e. The following accommodations were listed:

i. Allow frequent breaks (as needed, while or after completing a work session), reinforcement system, Positive Behavior Supports System (PBIS), visual schedule, other mini schedules, alert student to transitions, other scheduled sensory movement breaks (twice a day for 15 minutes), and other supervision (for safety, in the restroom, transitions, and classroom).

f. Support for school personnel included indirect occupational therapy.

g. The IEP team determined transportation services were required.

   i. The IEP indicated the Student required a one-on-one bus aide, safety vest/harness, fewer people aboard the bus, and preferential seating (not by the window, aisle seat, not seated next to other students).

   ii. The IEP indicated the bus personnel needed training in de-escalation and CPI in order to provide services to the Student.

h. Service providers on the IEP included the special education classroom teacher, the school nurse, an instructional facilitator, an occupational therapist, and a speech and language pathologist. Services indicated they would be provided outside of regular education classrooms, programs, and other locations.

i. "[The Student] will have a 1-on-1 non-instructional behavior technician during non-instructional time. In addition, [the Student] will have another adult in the classroom (or restroom, hallway, transition areas, etc.) during non-instructional time."

j. The IEP indicated via a checkbox, "parent rights have been provided this school year to both parents (or educational decisionmaker) … in native language."

k. The service delivery statement indicated:

   i. The Student will have "a 1-on-1 instructional behavior technician" with an additional "adult in the classroom (or restroom, hallway, transition areas, etc.) during instructional time."

   ii. The Student will have "a 1-on-1 non-instructional behavior technician" with "another adult in the classroom (or restroom, hallway, transition areas, etc.) during non-instructional time"

   iii. The Student will have a 1-on-1 bus aide for transportation to and from school.

4. On December 17, 2024 a PWN indicated the IEP team met to review data to determine whether any changes or modifications to the special education and related services were needed to enable the Student to meet their goals as set in the IEP and to participate, as appropriate, in the general education setting. The document stated the LEA refused to initiate or change the provision of special education services and listed inclusion support, direct services for Speech, nursing, and OT, indirect services for OT and autism support, attendant care, and specialized transportation. It also described the need for a 1-on-1 "instructional behavioral technician" and a 1-on-1 "non-instructional behavior technician." In addition, the PWN indicated the Student would have inclusion services for three elective periods.

The Complainant signed their consent on the attached Request for Consent for Special Education Action form on March 7, 2025.

5. On January 14, 2025, the Student's daily schedule indicated:
   a. The Student ate biscuits and gravy, a Trix bar, a muffin, milk, apple juice, yogurt, a Pop-Tart, and an apple for breakfast.
   b. The Student ate refried beans, a banana, peaches, carrots, green pepper, crispitos, milk, ranch, and salsa for lunch.
   c. The Student had two walks, two breaks, and three trips to the bathroom.
   d. No Antecedent, Behavior, Consequence (ABC) data was provided for the day.
6. On January 15, 2025, the Student's daily schedule indicated:
   a. The Student ate biscuits and gravy, yogurt, milk, a Trix bar, a muffin, apple juice, a Pop-Tart, and an apple for breakfast.
   b. The Student ate orange chicken, chicken nachos, milk, sidekick icee, carrots, bell peppers with ranch, broccoli, and applesauce for lunch.
   c. The Student had two walks, one break, and five trips to the bathroom.
   d. No ABC data was provided for the day.
7. On January 16, 2025, the Student's daily schedule indicated:
   a. The Student ate biscuits and gravy, apple juice, a Trix bar, milk, a muffin, an apple, a Pop-Tart, and yogurt for breakfast.
   b. The Student ate goulash, pears, potato salad, garlic bread, cucumber, carrots, ranch, and milk for lunch.
8. On January 27, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider to request a copy of the Student's most recent IEP.
9. On January 28, 2025, an ABC data document described an incident at 2:10 P.M. during a science activity, which lasted 10 to 15 minutes and was rated medium intensity. The Student was denied an activity or item, and they responded with crying/whining/yelling/screaming, headbutting, and by hitting their head on the floor or wall. The form noted the Student was removed from the activity/ location and was offered a calming spot.
10. On January 30, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider stating they left them a voice message requesting the IEP be emailed that day.
11. On January 31, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider and the Assistant Principal, stating they did not receive the IEP after speaking with the Special Education Provider the previous day. They asked the Assistant Principal if they could get the IEP emailed to them, "since there seems to be computer difficulties" by the Special Education Provider. On February 2, 2025, the Assistant Principal emailed the IEP to the Complainant.
12. On February 7, 2025, an ABC data document indicated an incident at 2:00 P.M. during a transition that lasted one to five minutes and was rated medium intensity.

13. According to a staffing transition plan, for the week of February 28 through March 6, [2025], staff would observe Behavior Technician 1 with a “gradual release” occurring with feedback. The plan listed the Student’s needs, which included "intentionality, consistency, and programming. It added staff need to be able to “observe, ask questions, and gradually take over programming to make sure the level of support remains.” It stated the team was using Behavior Skills Training.
14. According to a staffing transition plan, for the week of March 7 through March 10, 2025, other staff would work with the Student while the Behavior Technician 1 observed and provided feedback and support. The plan stated staff would be "responsible for all facets of programming and data collection” while being able to ask questions. The plan stated Behavior Technician 1 would be assessing “fidelity levels, as staff need to maintain a high level of programmatic fidelity to ensure student success.”
15. According to a staffing transition plan, on March 11, [2025], Behavior Technician 1 would work with other students but be available if the new staff had questions about the Student.
16. On March 7, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider to address concerns around the Student’s behavior. They stated they were informed the Student was aggressive on the bus on Wednesday, and did not receive a report about it. They also stated they were informed the Student had been running from Behavior Technician 2, crying, yelling, and “regressing in [their] behavior and they had not received any documentation for that either. The Complainant stated they were concerned about the “lack of communication regarding [the Student’s] IEP, [the Student’s] experiences in the classroom and on the bus, and [their] behavioral support.” They stated they did not believe they were receiving "accurate or timely information,“ and requested a clear line of communication moving forward.
17. On March 27, 2025, the Special Education Provider emailed the Complainant to provide them with details about an incident. The email stated the Student was triggered when another student touched the Student’s iPad, but quickly regulated themself. The Student again showed signs of dysregulation when their timer finished, but class hadn’t begun yet. Behavior Technician 2 helped the Student do deep breathing and set a new timer for five minutes. When the Student was asked to get supplies, but the new timer hadn’t gone off yet, they clenched their jaw. Behavior Technician 2 moved the Student to the quiet room. The Student got agitated and hit, pulled the Behavior Technician 2’s beard, tried to run, and tried to head butt the walls. When they got to the safe room, the Nurse came and administered PRN. Behavior Technician 2 helped the Student with deep breathing. Behavior Technician 3 helped the Student take a deep breath. At around 2:40 P.M., the team determined the Student would be calm enough to ride the bus, and they helped the Student complete their end-of-day routine, which they followed with no issues. The Special Education teacher spoke to the bus driver, and there were no issues around getting the Student on the bus and "strapped in."

18. On March 28, 2025, the Special Education Provider emailed the Complainant with suggestions for support. They stated the team decided to increase the 'wait' timer to seven minutes at the start of class to allow the Special Education Teacher to get started. They agreed not to remove the Student at the first signs of escalated behavior, only after the Student has demonstrated aggression, and to remove students from table groups if the Student appears to escalate to violence. They asked if the Complainant wanted them to try 'tricking' the Student into "all done" if it appears the Student is going to escalate.
19. On March 31, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider stating:
    a. They agreed the Student "should not be removed from class at the first sign of [them] getting upset" because that would escalate the Student further.
    b. They stated a PRN could help at the first sign of any agitation.
    c. They did not see in the report where the team used the Student's iPad to allow them to communicate what they were upset about.
    d. They reiterated the importance of keeping the Student from handling or making trash.
    e. The Student should not be allowed to throw items they broke or destroyed, adding "this can make it harder for others to redirect [the Student] effectively."
    f. The Student should not be "allowed to get as much food as [the Student] wants." They shared, "[the Student] may begin to feel like [they're] more in control than [they] should be."
    g. They noticed the Student had tears in their clothing and broken pieces on their iPad, indicating the Student was "engaging in behavior [the Student] knows is outside of expectations," adding these behaviors could be signals that more significant behaviors were coming.
    h. They were seeing a "noticeable increase in the amount of urine in the bed-wetting during the school week." They added the Student's sheets, blankets, clothing, pillow, and diaper had been getting completely soaked. The Complainant reiterated that it was something addressed in the IEP and stated if it wasn't being followed could be "contributing to both physical and behavioral issues."
    i. They asked to have the Student's IEP and BIP followed "precisely and consistently."
    j. They recommended administering a PRN at the first sign of agitation, before the Student becomes aggressive, and added, if the Student needed seclusion, to limit the number of staff present, limit the talking, and remove items like the iPad, glasses, and headphones right away.

k. The staff staying with the Student should remain calm and "use simple, supportive language to help [them] de-escalate."

l. Removing items is an incentive for the Student because they will want them back, and they require safe behavior to get the items back.

20. On April 7, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider to follow up on issues the Student was experiencing at home. The Complainant asked for the Student's routine at school, including their bathroom schedule, how often they take breaks, and when and how much the Student is drinking at school. The Complainant stated they had noticed an increase in the Student's bathroom use after school, including large amounts of urine, and increased behavior issues around bathroom use. The Complainant added they heard Behavior Technician 2 had told the Student they could have more snacks when they got home, after the Student had asked for snacks while getting on the bus. The Complainant expressed feeling that the "IEP might not be followed consistently, particularly regarding structured eating, drinking, and bathroom routines. They asked the Special Education Provider to check with the paraprofessionals to confirm the Student's current daily routine.

21. On April 9, 2025, the Student's daily schedule indicated:

a. The Student ate biscuits and gravy, an apple, a Pop-Tart, yogurt, milk, and juice for breakfast.

b. The Student ate pulled pork, potato salad, fruit, beans, veggies, and protein milk for lunch.

c. The Student had three walks, three breaks, and three trips to the bathroom.

d. ABC data indicated a low-intensity incident at 12:00 P.M. during an art activity. According to the report, the Student was given a direction, task, and activity. They responded with refusal and destruction of property, tearing up their artwork. The consequences were redirection, and the duration was less than one minute.

22. On April 16, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider to follow up about previous emails. They stated they had heard the Student was kicking and headbutting the Bus Paraprofessional and another paraprofessional on the bus, and the Complainant had not received any documentation or an incident report. They asked for more details from that event and asked to have these events formally documented to better understand the Student's needs.

The Complainant described receiving ABC data which listed mild behavior and a headbutt, but stated they had been told the Student had another, more significant behavioral event in which they eloped, punched a paraprofessional, headbutted Behavior Technician 2, and the room had to be cleared. The Complainant asked for confirmation and documentation of this event.

The Complainant asked to review the Student's drinking and bathroom schedule and wanted to know how often [the Student] is drinking, how much they were drinking, and how often they were going to the bathroom. The Complainant reminded the Special Education Provider the Student "should not have unlimited access to food or drink."

23. On April 16, 2025, the Student's daily schedule indicated:

    d. ABC data indicated a medium-intensity incident at 2:00 P.M. during science, which lasted 1-5 minutes. The Student was in a transition and was given a direction, task, or activity. The Student responded with refusal, crying/whining/yelling/screaming, and headbutting. The consequences were redirection and "keeping the demand."
25. On April 24, 2025, a note from the Student's pediatrician described the Student's dietary needs, stating the Student needed to continue "a high protein diet with plenty of fruits and vegetables, while limiting sweets and fried foods." The note also indicated the need to "avoid food and drinks as a behavior management tool" to maintain a healthy body mass index (BMI). A Medical Statement to Request Meal Modification dated April 24, 2025, added specific foods that should be avoided. These included processed foods, high-fat foods such as ranch dip and heavy dressings, sugary foods like Pop-Tarts and snack cakes, and potato salad. Replacement foods listed included whole grains, whole fruits and vegetables, and unsweetened Greek yogurt. The statement addressed preventing the Student from self-serving to maintain portion control. The statement specified food should not be used as a motivator and should not be used to avoid aggression. Staff was directed to coordinate with nutrition services to "ensure consistency with medical recommendations.
26. On April 24, 2025, the Student's daily schedule indicated:

a. The Student ate biscuits and gravy, potatoes, a Trix bar, a Pop-Tart, grape juice, an apple, and milk for breakfast.

d. ABC data indicated no incidents.

27. On April 25, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider and requested to speak with them by phone or in person regarding the Student's care at school. The Complainant indicated this was a follow-up email, and previous emails had been sent with no response. The Complainant indicated they attached a doctor's note describing the Student's health needs. The Complainant stated they were concerned with how food and drink were being managed in relation to the Student's IEP. In addition, the Complainant stated they were informed about an incident on the bus in which the Student engaged in headbanging and hitting, and stated they had not received documentation or an incident report. The email also described the foods the Student had been allowed to have, which included biscuits and gravy, potato salad, Pop-Tarts, fries, fruit juice, and chips. The Complainant asserted the "amount and type of food is excessive and not appropriate for [the Student]." The Complainant added the Student was not supposed to consume processed foods or fruits in juice form.

The Complainant asked for a strict food plan and a scheduled bathroom and drinking plan. They added the Student required clear limits around food, drink, and bathroom use for behavior management.

31. On April 29, 2025, the Assistant Principal emailed the Complainant and stated that since the Special Education Provider was out for a few days, they would "connect with [the Student's] support staff to review their current procedures" adding their goal was to "ensure any necessary adjustments are made so they align more closely with [the Student's] food plan."

    Also on April 29, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Director to ask for assistance with the Student's food plan. 36. On May 5, 2025, an Emergency Safety Interventions (ESI) Report and Parent Notification was completed to document a restraint that began at 9:30 A.M. and lasted for two minutes. The Student engaged in physical aggression after they eloped into a potentially dangerous area and did not respond to directives. According to the notes, the Student struck the Behavior Technician 2 many times before running ahead of them. The Student pushed another student in their head and then hit a second student. Behavior Technician 2 then wrapped their arms around the Student, and they "both went down to the ground slowly." Behavior Technician 2 put their hands on the Student's legs until they calmed, and all students had left the area.

    According to the ESI Documentation Log, the Student needed to use the restroom while on their scheduled walk during the second hour. The Student was in a hurry, and the Behavior Technician 2 had to put their arm out to stop the Student from walking in front of a vehicle at the "cross stop." The Student was very upset and hit, scratched, and pulled the Behavior Technician 2's beard. Behavior Technician 2 used de-escalation strategies, but the Student reengaged when Behavior Technician 2 wouldn't let the Student use the restroom because there were too many other students in the hall. The Student ran from Behavior Technician 2, hit Student 1, and then hit Student 2, before Behavior Technician 2 restrained the Student.

The Student was crying/whining/yelling/screaming, scratching, hitting, and kicking, running away, headbutting, and hitting their head on the floor/wall. Consequences were redirection, physical prompt, verbal reprimand, calming spot, and "other: time-out." The duration was 10-15 minutes.
    e. ABC data indicated a low-intensity incident at 2:20 P.M. during the time with the nurse. The Student was in a transition. The Student refused by walking backward and freezing to avoid entering the room. Consequences were redirection, ignoring the problem behavior, and maintaining the demand. The duration was one to five minutes.

41. On May 9th, 2025, the Complainant forwarded an email to the Food Service Manager with the Student's doctor's note stating it was sent before they were aware Behavior Technician 2 was charging a la carte items to the Student's account. The Complainant requested blocking the Student's access and providing a specialized meal plan.
42. On May 9th, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Executive Director of Learning Services, the Director of Transportation, and the Director of Food Services and filed a formal complaint and requested immediate action. They stated the Student's IEP was not being followed and had led to behavioral escalation, medical concerns, and significant disruption in their learning. The Complainant formally requested a FBA be conducted. In addition, they requested an IEP meeting to review and amend "as necessary to support the structure [the Student] clearly needs."

    The Complainant stated their food account had a negative balance due to the Student charging a la carte food. The Complainant reiterated the Student had medical documentation and stated they had "been assured this would be enforced with a specialized diet and accommodations." The Complainant explained the Student did not have the capacity to make informed decisions about their food and beverage consumption or charging food, stating "these repeated, unauthorized food purchases reflect a broader breakdown in communication and supervision."

The Complainant stated the Student missed their 7th hour class with no explanation and stated the Student came home with food on their face, scratches, bruises, and in different clothes than what they were sent to school in. They stated they did not receive a written explanation, only a voicemail stating the Student had been given a PRN. The Complainant added the Student had picked at their scratches and had visible blood and no first aid was administered.

The Complainant stated staff appeared to be avoiding setting limits with the Student, which caused the Student to become aggressive and unsafe. They stated the Student had been obsessing about food and snacks and started to gain weight again, "which puts [the Student] at medical risk."

The Complainant stated they felt "the expectations and boundaries [they had] clearly communicated [were] not being honored." They requested the "[LEA] ensure full compliance with state and federal laws." The Complainant requested a written response "as soon as possible."

43. In an undated email, the Executive Director of Learning Services emailed the Complainant to state they were researching the concerns they identified and were developing a plan to move forward. The Executive Director of Learning Services stated the Assistant Director was leading the process, and they would provide a written response by the end of the day on May 20, 2025. They stated the response would include the next steps for the Student.

The Complainant requested they instead complete a thorough internal review. They requested the Executive Director of Learning Services review emails the Complainant sent during the school year, adding "these issues have been ongoing." The Complainant stated they were asking for a written response outlining "how the situation is going to be addressed," and added, "If an IEP meeting is more appropriate than an amendment, I'm open to that." The Complainant stated, "an FBA is also necessary and should be initiated as soon as possible."

On May 13, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Food Service Manager to discuss the Student's meal plan, including asking for no added sugar foods for the Student, including fruit juice and Pop-Tarts, and regular yogurt. The Complainant asked to continue to improve the Student's food options and stated they need to stay between 450 to 600 calories for breakfast and 750-850 calories for lunch. The Food Service Manager emailed the Complainant back, stating they would share the information with the Student's paraprofessional.

They stated the Complainant's email to the Executive Director of Learning Services had valid concerns and was "completely a result of [the Special Education Provider's] lack of communication." The Special Education Provider stated they had "tightened things back up" after they were made aware of the food situation.

51. On May 16, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider to state they felt the past events were "signs of a deeper breakdown in accountability, oversight, and follow-through."
    a. They added because the Student was non-verbal and unable to advocate for themself, the support they were receiving was not sufficient.
    b. The Complainant described a lack of training, citing Behavior Technician 2 allowed the Student to make extra charges to their student food account.
    c. They added a lack of boundaries and accountability impacted the Student having access to "consistent educational or therapeutic support required in [their] IEP."
    d. The Complainant stated they wanted to revisit the Student's FBA and IEP to address "concerning patterns."
52. The Complainant confirmed they spoke with the Food Service Manager in regards to the Student's dietary needs, which included no fruit juice, only whole fruit, and Greek yogurt with no added sugar. The Complainant stated they were told it was up to staff to ensure the Student's meal plan was being followed. The Complainant stated they had not received any documentation in regard to the May 5, 2025, incident. They asked the Special Education Provider why the Student was wearing different clothes, and whether the Student had an accident.

    The Complainant addressed the issues with the bus and the Student becoming physically aggressive, including banging their head on the window, with no incident report or documentation.

    The Complainant addressed the Special Education Provider's apology stating, "more than words, I need to see meaningful, lasting changes." They added they are seeing "not just academic decline, but deterioration in life skills and behavior that jeopardizes [the Student's] health, safety, and long-term ability to live in the community."

    The Complainant requested a concrete plan for how the issues would be addressed, including "immediate changes to [the Student's] daily structure, implementation of [their] IEP, staff training and oversight, food accommodations, transportation safety, and full documentation of all major incidents, including May 5 and the recent bus events."
53. On May 16, 2025, the Special Education Provider emailed the Complainant to let them know they would be able to remove the charges to the food account.

    The Special Education Provider stated they met with Behavior Technician 2, Behavior Technician 3, and the Head Principal to talk about what happened with the Student and make sure they were doing what they needed to be doing. The Special Education Provider stated the previous staff who had worked with the Student didn't write down all the things the Student needed to be successful, and the new staff didn't know. They stated that was why the Behavior Technician 2 would let the Student scoop their own potato salad and allowed the Student to take a heaping scoop.

On May 20, 2025, the Assistant Director emailed the Complainant to discuss options for their requests for an FBA. The Assistant Director stated there were a couple of options: conducting the FBA over the summer during ESY, noting transportation would look similar to the regular school year, but the classroom would be different as there would be no regular education students present. The Assistant Director shared, "The issues related to the Student's food service accounts, staff training, and school-to-home communication have been addressed." They added the area they felt needed clarity was in the IEP around the BIP or accommodations related to breakfast and lunch. The Assistant Director offered to meet to discuss changes at a team meeting after the FBA was complete or prior to ESY starting.

On May 20, 2025, the Special Education Provider emailed the Complainant to discuss an unannounced lockdown. They stated they got permission to have extra staff with the Student and allowed the Student to use the swing while they "waited it out." The Special Education Provider stated the Student transitioned with them and continued their normal routine without any escalations. The Special Education Provider sent an additional email to the Complainant responding to the Complainant's email from May 16, 2025. The Special Education Provider stated they were "committed" to ensuring "communication from me is no longer a missing piece." They added if the Complainant wanted to "talk live or meet this week," they were open and would welcome it.

They stated they wanted to go over "everything (all the emails)" with them. The Assistant Director replied to the Complainant's email with the dates they had available.
56. On May 28, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Director and agreed to have the FBA begin during the summer, but asked that it continue into the school year. The Complainant indicated there were issues with summer transportation and regular school year transportation. They stated concerns with timing, extended wait times, behaviors on the bus, and the transition between middle school and high school. They added they did not believe "the ongoing issues at school involving [the Student]" had been addressed.

57. On June 2, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider to request the meal modification form for ESY, stating they had already sent multiple emails and the doctor's note, and the meals had not reflected the Student's food requirements. The Special Education Provider emailed the Complainant in regards to the meals during ESY, stating it was the same for all students and contained a Pop-Tart, an apple, and milk for breakfast, and the lunch that day was a hamburger, a whole orange, and a bag of carrots. The Special Education Provider stated they would try to find out who provided the meal service, as it was different for ESY.

58. On June 4, 2025, in a PWN for Evaluation or Reevaluation, the LEA proposed "conducting a reevaluation," which required parental consent. The document stated it would focus on an FBA, which included observations both in the classroom and transportation settings during ESY. The form stated new data would come from those familiar with the Student and included staff and the Complainant. Other data would come from records such as the most recent evaluation report, IEP, and the doctor's notes. evaluation was "not intended to be the Student's triennial reevaluation, nor will it alter [their] 3-year reevaluation due date." The purpose was to inform the team of "potential updates to [their] [BIP], as well as to guide potential updates to [their] IEP". The Complainant provided electronic consent on June 6, 2025.

65. On July 3, 2025, an FBA was developed, which stated, "The observer saw so few exhibited problem behaviors over the duration of the observations that a typical FBA format of observations and report was determined to not be applicable at this time." The report indicated the Student "appeared to thrive throughout [their] time at ESY, and ultimately benefitted greatly from adhering to [their] daily schedule and working with adults whom [they] had a strong relationship with." The problem behaviors that were identified included the Student throwing their head back while seated, slamming their fists down on their desk, using a "closed-fist punching motion into the behavior technician's hand" in response to a high-five/fist bump, and slamming their fist on the behavior technician's arm while the Student was seated at their desk. The Student was observed consistently transitioning on and off the bus, and sitting quietly during the bus drive to and from the school building without incident.

    According to the observer, the problem behaviors that occurred were brief moments of frustration or dysregulation and were mitigated quickly due to the behavior technicians' knowledge of how to respond and due to the Student's ability to self-correct their own behavior. The report indicated because the problem behaviors were infrequent and a formal FBA was not warranted, there were no behavior intensities included in the report. The report stated the ESY environment was structured with limited exposure to peers that could potentially become distracted by the Student's behaviors. Regarding the incidents where the Student used a closed fist to punch a desk or the behavior technician's hand and arm, the observer stated there was not enough force to have caused bodily harm to the Student or to staff.

The report described fist-bumps and high-fives being used frequently throughout ESY as a positive reinforcement, "which [the Student] typically responded well to." The harder-than-necessary punch from the Student on one occasion was described as occurring due to the Student being "somewhat frustrated by something earlier in the day." Circumstances that appeared to come before behaviors included handwritten tasks with paper and pencil, disruption of the Student's routine, presence of new or unfamiliar staff, and unresponsiveness to the Student's communication attempts. Positive behavior supports that were attempted included timed sensory swing breaks, the use of noise cancelling headphones, one-to-one adult support for proximity, modeling, and prompting for emotional support and immediate feedback, frequent use of positive reinforcement such as high-fives, fist-bumps, positive verbal praise, and puzzle activities, use of visual communication aids, scented hand sanitizer, a consistent daily schedule, a low demand setting, regular opportunities for movement, flexible staff responses, alternate routes, offer choices, and clear and simple directions.

The Report indicated the Student's behavior had "minimal observable negative impact on [their] learning. "The Student consistently transitioned smoothly between activities, followed adult directions, and engaged in both academic and therapeutic tasks with appropriate support. The Student accessed instruction in reading, math, fine motor, and communication with "high levels of compliance and participation." According to the report, while there were isolated incidents, they were brief, the Student was easily redirected, and they did not interfere with task completion or instructional time.

The hypothesis described the Student engaged "in sudden, low-level physical aggression … to escape or avoid tasks, activities, or environments when unexpected changes in routine, adult interactions, or shift in attention occur during seated work tasks."

66. On July 15, 2025, the Assistant Director emailed the Complainant and stated the FBA had been completed based on observations on the bus and in the classroom during ESY. The Assistant Director asked the Complainant if they wanted to meet to review the report together or if they preferred reviewing the report independently without a meeting. On August 11, 2025, the Complainant replied to the Assistant Director, they would like to see the report first.
67. On August 5, 2025, an Advanced De-Escalation Skills presentation developed by the Assistant Director of Student Support Programs provided information on the science behind behaviors, de-escalation strategies, do's and don't's for adults, behaviors on the bus, and when to use ESI. According to the Behavior Technician 2's timecard, they attended work on the day of the presentation.

68. On August 11, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Director, the Food Service Manager, and the Assistant Principal of Student Services regarding the Student's Food Accommodation Plan. The Complainant asked to be given the specialized menu options for the Student, which included "whole grains, meat, whole fruits, and whole vegetables." The Complainant indicated they wanted to plan the breakfast and lunch options for the Student. In addition, the Complainant asserted they wanted to ensure the paraprofessionals were trained to avoid allowing the Student to charge additional food to their account or allowing the Student to self-serve large portions of food.

69. On August 12, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider and Assistant Principal of Student Services to follow up on the June 4, 2025, meeting and the changes they discussed for the Student's IEP. The Complainant indicated they knew the Special Education Provider "took notes on items to add or modify" and indicated they had not received anything in writing that confirmed the changes were being implemented. The Complainant wanted to "ensure the updates have been made and that [the Student] has a solid food plan and accommodations in place."

70. On August 14, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Principal of Student Services to state the food plan was "still not being followed," stating the Student had items such as "juice, muffins, and Pop-Tarts." They added the Student should be on a high-protein menu with whole fruits, vegetables, and whole grains. The Complainant stated they had repeatedly asked for menu options from the "lunch lady supervisor" and had received no response.

71. On August 18, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider and Assistant Principal of Student Services to follow up in regards to a meeting on June 4, 2025, where they discussed the Student's IEP needing a meal modification based on a medical note from the Student's pediatrician. In addition, the Complainant requested the Special Education Provider send a copy of what was submitted to the Assistant Principal of Student Services and to copy the Complainant. The Complainant wanted confirmation the Assistant Principal of Student Services received it and the School had it on file. The Complainant also asked to have the documentation sent to the Assistant Director to "ensure everything was officially recorded and the IEP accommodations were made."

72. On August 19, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Director and requested the following items:

    a. The name of the School Psychologist who observed the Student, the author of the report, and the specific time the Student was observed getting on and off the bus.

    b. A full FBA be completed during the regular school year, both at school and on the bus.

c. Clarification about the use of the swing for over 60 minutes and whether the Positive BIP was "reviewed and followed to fidelity."

d. Why the FBA treated high fives and fist bumps as positive reinforcements when the Student's plan "makes it clear these should not occur."

e. The Complainant questioned whether the Student's plan was being followed when the report indicated the Student avoided work "by saying 'bye,'" ran off the bus into the lunchroom, and was given low demands and allowed to do what they want.

73. On August 19, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Principal of Student Services and the Special Education Provider to state they were made aware Behavior Technician 2 was "using fist bumps and high-fives as a form of positive reinforcement" with the Student during summer school. The Complainant clarified that according to the Student's BIP, any type of skin-to-skin contact is considered a "precursor behavior that can escalate into aggression." They added, according to the plan, these actions were "not allowed." The Complainant stated part of the FBA "recently documented this as if it were acceptable," when it should not be. The Complainant requested the Behavior Technician 2 "receive proper training and immediately discontinue the use of fist bumps and high-fives." The Complainant expressed, "What may appear to be positive reinforcement actually increases the risk of aggression and undermines the safeguards in [the Student's plan]." The Complainant asked that this be addressed promptly.

74. On August 20, 2025, the Assistant Principal of Student Services emailed the Complainant and stated they were told by the Special Education Provider that a teacher who was working summer school, but not directly assigned to the Student, was the one who was giving the Student fist bumps and high fives as a way to build a relationship with the Student. The Assistant Principal of Student Services stated they and the Special Education Provider would "reemphasize this as part of the behavior plan" and address it with "anyone who might interact with [the Student]."

75. On August 20, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Director to request an Independent Educational Evaluation (IEE) for a second FBA. They requested the evaluators' contact information before the evaluation so they could review the Student's IEP, BIP, and interventions.

76. On August 21, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Principal of Student Services and copied the Assistant Director and the Special Education Provider, stating the information provided did not match the report. The Complainant described the report as showing "the behavior technician initiated high fives and fist bumps with [the Student] throughout summer school during class, not at dismissal." The Complainant stated the report indicated this was used "consistently by the behavior technician multiple times a day." The Complainant indicated they were concerned that the Assistant Principal of Student Services' response did not reflect what was in the report and stated they did not feel their concerns were taken seriously.

77. On August 22, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider and the Assistant Principal of Student Services to ask who would be conducting the FBA. The Complainant indicated they had asked for an "independent person not affiliated with the school." The Complainant stated they were "especially troubled by the May 5 incident," given they were still not aware of where the Student was that day. The Complainant described the event as the Student "almost got hit by a car and was either restrained or tackled by [the Student's] behavior tech[nician]," who was not CPI trained. The Complainant indicated the Student had bruises. They stated no one had come forward to fully resolve the matter with them. The Complainant reported that on August 20, 2025, the Bus Paraprofessional allowed the Student to remove their shoes and pick at their socks. The Student hit the Bus Paraprofessional and became physically aggressive with themself on the bus. The Complainant requested the bus footage be reviewed from August 20 to August 22, 2025, to determine if the reports were accurate. The Complainant shared they did not receive data indicating this had happened.

    On August 22, 2025, the Assistant Director emailed the Complainant, indicating they received the Complainant's request for an Independent Educational Evaluation (IEE) and stated an IEE "becomes an option following an initial evaluation or reevaluation." They added the FBA that was conducted during ESY was "not a reevaluation … and was conducted for the purpose of informing the IEP team of potential updates to [the Student's] BIP … and IEP Accommodations." The Assistant Director confirmed the Complainant had asked for specific information regarding behaviors in the classroom as well as on the bus, and had agreed to do an assessment during ESY, which was completed. The Assistant Director stated they would complete an additional assessment in the classroom environment once school started. They also stated a school psychologist who was employed with the LEA but not assigned to the School would be conducting the FBA.

    The Assistant Director stated, "In the report, it is mentioned that [the Student] was seated in the sensory swing at 10:15 a[.]m[.] on 6/11 (a little over an hour after [the Student's] frustration escalation during handwriting)" and added they do not see where it stated the Student was in the swing for over an hour. The Assistant Director clarified the report had stated the "sensory swing break occurred an hour after an escalated incident." The Assistant Director informed the Complainant they would be receiving a new PWN that would give them consent to begin the new FBA.

78. On August 23, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Director with a request to review video footage involving the Student on May 5, 2025.

79. On August 25, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Director to inquire about the Student being released early to board the bus. The Complainant added the Student engaged in behaviors that included "screaming for treats and banging [their] head against the bus window with such force that it was believed [they] could have seriously injured [themself]." The Complaint stated they were worried staff were bribing the Student with snacks to get on the bus. The Complainant asked for the video to be reviewed from that day, as well as footage from the previous week.

The Complainant sent an additional email to the Assistant Director to confirm they had received the medical statement requesting a meal modification. They stated the form was given to the Special Education Provider on June 4, 2025, so it could be initiated prior to ESY beginning.

80. On August 25, 2025, the Assistant Director emailed the Complainant stating they were working with the transportation department to review the bus video for the dates from the previous email and the latest email. They stated they were working to assign a staff member for the FBA and stated they would introduce them to the Complainant once they know who it will be.

81. On August 26, 2025, the Assistant Director emailed the Complainant to state they had begun reviewing the video footage from the dates the Complainant requested in August, and would complete their review the following day. They stated the requested video footage from the May 5 incident was "no longer available" due to the LEA retaining video records for a set period of time, and "that retention window has now passed." They added the timeframe for submitting a concern about the incident had also lapsed. They stated if the Complainant wanted to continue a conversation about the incident, they should let them know. In an additional email, the Assistant Director emailed the Complainant to confirm they had received the meal modification form.

82. On August 27, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Director stating they had already notified a school staff member, the Executive Director of Learning Services, on May 9, 2025, and added it was not "accurate to say that I missed my deadline for voicing concern," since they "never received the answers" they needed. The Complaint requested the policy the LEA was using that indicated the Complainant missed a deadline.

    The Complainant sent an additional email to the Assistant Director requesting that video footage from the bus be reviewed for August 27, 2025, for both the morning and afternoon routes involving the Student. The Complainant stated, "It was reported that [the Student] was biting [their] fingers during both rides." In addition, the Complainant stated they heard the Student "head-butted and struck [their] head backwards on the seat 14 times, hit [the Bus Paraprofessional] four times, and kicked [the Bus Paraprofessional] twice." The Complainant sent another email to the Assistant Director asking for a copy of the completed meal modification form for the Student.

83. On August 27, 2025, the Assistant Director emailed the Complainant, stating when the Complainant had emailed on May 9, they had requested a written response rather than a meeting, as well as an FBA. The Assistant Director indicated they provided a written response on May 20, and the FBA was initiated shortly thereafter. The Assistant Director referenced board policy GAAF and Kansas Administrative Regulations. They added the school psychologist would be contacting them soon for consent to complete the FBA.

The Assistant Director sent an additional email to share the information they received from the bus video footage for the Student from August 20 through August 22, 2025. They stated there were no shoe removals and no altercations with bus support on August 20, 2025. On August 21, 2025, the Student removed their shoes 4 times and rested their hand on their foot, but did not pick at their foot during the morning route. The Student did not remove their shoes or engage in an altercation with bus support during the afternoon route. On August 22, 2025, the Student had no issues on the morning route but displayed physical behavior toward the support staff member while they were getting buckled into their harness. The Assistant Director stated the staff member "followed the behavior plan in regards to responding to aggressive behavior on the bus." The Student stopped the aggressive behavior "immediately," and no other issues occurred for the duration of the route. There were no issues on the August 25, 2025, morning and afternoon routes.

84. On August 28, 2025, the Assistant Director emailed the Complainant stating the meal modification form they have on file "is sufficient for ensuring all individuals working with [the Student] have clarity and direction regarding [the Student's] nutrition." The Assistant Director sent an additional email to the Complainant in regards to the information they received from the bus video from August 27, [2025] that the Complainant had requested. The email stated the Student put their finger in their mouth on occasion on the morning route, and the Student became upset and engaged in hitting and head-banging behaviors on the afternoon route. Staff provided "reminders and reassurance and followed the behavior plan, and once the bus was headed home, [the Student] calmed and no further incidents occurred." The Assistant Director sent another email to the Complainant confirming receipt of the Complainant's email requesting additional bus footage and letting the Complainant know they would be moving forward with the FBA.

85. On September 2, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider a "potato salad" PDF and the Student's food plan accommodations form and doctor's note PDF.

On September 2, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Principal of Student Services, the Special Education Provider, and the School Psychologist. Their email stated they had attached the three-page accommodation form that they had submitted to the Special Education Provider on June 4, 2025, plus two doctor notes. The email claims the Special Education Provider only had the doctor's note on file and not the full form. The Complainant stated the form clearly states the Student should not be given potato salad, and added lunch records showed the Student was served potato salad on Friday. The Complainant added they have repeatedly asked the lunch staff to provide breakfast and lunch options so the Complainant could choose ahead of time, but had not received those options.

86. On September 8, 2025, the Student's daily schedule indicated:
    a. The Student ate a breakfast bagel, an orange slice, and milk for breakfast.
    b. The Student ate chicken fried chicken, mashed potatoes, veggies, and milk for lunch.
    c. The Student had one walk, seven breaks, and four trips to the bathroom.
    d. ABC data indicated no incidents.
87. On September 8, 2025, the School Psychologist scheduled a virtual meeting with the Complainant to discuss the Student's "school needs and help develop the best path forward for this FBA." They agreed on meeting on September 10, 2025, at 12:00 P.M.
88. On September 10, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Special Education Provider, stating on Friday, the Student had gotten into their backpack while on the bus and had a pill bottle in their hand when the Student got off the bus. They added the Student was "agitated getting off the bus" because there were three pill bottles in their backpack, and the Student thought the bottles needed to stay at school. The Complainant clarified the importance of not allowing the Student to have access to their backpack on the bus or access to medications inside the backpack. The Complainant asked to have it added to the Student's IEP. They also asked to have the Student's diagnosis of PICA added to their IEP because of the dangers of the Student eating medications. The Complainant stated the backpack should be with the bus driver or the paraeducator, and they should be the ones to provide the Student with their AAC device and books while on the bus.
89. A September 10, 2025 form titled, IEP Fidelity & Support System for [the Student] listed the purpose of the form, weekly staff actions, administrator oversight, parent communication, training cycles, and flow of support. The form also described actions through an 8-week training calendar, which showed the school psychologist as facilitator. The form described a "weekly IEP Fidelity Staff Check-In" in which staff members would determine if IEP accommodations were implemented as written, if progress monitoring occurred, any barriers identified and communicated to the case manager, and if team training occurred. The form also identified how and when communication would be provided to parents, and by whom.
90. According to an undated student schedule, on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, period 7 began at 2:14 P.M. and ended at 3:02 P.M. The schedule indicated on Wednesday, period 7 began at 1:49 P.M. and ended at 2:38 P.M. The schedule listed on early release days, period 7 began at 12:54 P.M. and ended at 1:32 P.M.
91. According to a Student Activity Report for the 2024-25 school year, the Student was scanned entering the bus before the end of the school day for 100 days throughout the school year. The earliest time scan was documented at 2:55 P.M.

92. A transportation report for the 2024-25 school year indicated the afternoon bus pick-up time for the Student was 3:08 P.M.

93. According to a Student Period Attendance Detail report generated on September 24, 2025, for all terms for grade 9, the Student had three tardies and was absent one day.

Food Service Manager Interview

94. In an interview with the Investigator and the Director of Secondary Special Education Services, the Food Service Manager spoke about their role in preparing the Students' meals. They stated by school rules, all meals offered, whether specialized or not, are low-sodium and low-sugar. They stated they take even greater care with the Student's meals.

95. The Food Service Manager stated the Complainant requested a high-protein diet for the Student, adding the Student's meals must be prepared specifically for the Student. They stated the kitchen made fresh chicken especially for the Student, and the bulk of the Student's meals consisted of ground beef, chicken, eggs, bagels, and fresh fruits and vegetables. The Food Service Manager stated the Student is only given "white" milk. "Breakfast is limited for us because we are a grab-and-go breakfast, so we are making [the Student's] stuff special for them every morning."

96. The Food Service Manager was not able to recall whether a food plan was provided to the Complainant. The Director of Secondary Special Education stated a food plan was given to the LEA by the Complainant and was signed by the Student's doctors.

97. The Food Service Manager stated at the beginning of the year, a paraprofessional was getting food for the Student, and the Complainant complained the Student was either getting too much food or the food plan was not being followed. After the concern from the Complainant, the Food Service Manager began packaging the Student's meals specifically for them.

98. The Food Service Manager stated the 2025-26 school year is the first year they have been tasked with providing meals to the Student.

Behavior Technician 2 Interview

99. In an interview with the Investigator and the Director of Secondary Special Education Services, Behavior Technician 2 shared on May 5, 2025, they took the Student on a walk on the school's track, which is across a frontage road from the main campus. At the end of the walk, the Student reentered the main campus to use the restroom. Behavior Technician 2 shared the purpose of daily walks with the Student was "to get some morning movement in to get 'em woken up for the day," adding, "second hour is a high intensity learning." Behavior Technician 2 stated they took a 10/15 minute walk before they went into the weight room because the Student struggled with weight training.

100. Behavior Technician 2 described the "struggles" with weight training as "fine motor skills, [their] ability to lift [their] arms the way demonstrated." Behavior Technician 2 stated they "do a lot of shoulder exercises and sometimes [the Student] gets frustrated with those. So to preempt that, we calm down with a walk."

Special Education Provider Interview

101. In an interview with the Investigator and the Director of Secondary Special Education, the Special Education Provider stated they were a special education teacher at the School as well as the special education department chair.

102. When asked about a schedule from May 13, 2025, the Special Education Provider stated it was a daily schedule for the Student. When asked about a second differing daily schedule with the same date, May 13, 2025, the Special Education Provider stated, "I can't tell you why they both are the same date." The Special Education Provider shared that it may be a simple error of staff miswriting the date.

103. The Special Education Provider stated "PRN" medication was given to the school by the Complainant to be used as a "preventative measure" when the Student may be "potentially violent." However, according to the Special Education Provider, school policy prevents special education staff from administering the medication without approval from the Complainant and the School Nurse. They stated "We have to get permission, but if the nurse makes a decision that it needs to happen, then we call [the Complainant] and let [them] know and we provide it." The Special Education Provider stated they "try not to use any PRN at all unless absolutely necessary," adding that was school policy. The Special Education Provider stated the medication was used when a student was escalated and already violent, and was used to keep the Student, other kids, and staff safe.

104. The Special Education Provider stated the Complainant asked staff to give the "PRN" preemptively, but they made a decision, along with Behavior Technician 1, to follow school policy, which was to wait until the medication was medically necessary for safety purposes. The School Nurse made the determination according to the Student's individualized health plan.

Director of Secondary Special Education Interview

105. In an interview with the Investigator, the Director of Secondary Special Education provided clarifying information about various LEA staff. They stated school begins at 7:58 A.M. and concludes at 3:02 P.M. Central Time. The Director of Secondary Special Education stated September 18, 2024 and October 2, 2024, were early release days for the LEA. They stated there were regular early release days throughout the school year.

106. Regarding an email from August 27, 2025, about concerns over the Student's safety on the bus, the Director of Secondary Special Education stated, "… the staff member addressed the behavior that was occurring and clarified to the Student that they were going home." They stated the behaviors, then stopped. They stated this was consistent with what was in [the Student's] behavior plan.

Complainant Interview

107. In an interview with the Investigator, the Complainant stated they had educational power of attorney for the Student, and the Student lived with them in a private placement.

108. The Complainant recalled a conversation they had with the bus staff on September 30, 2025, in which the bus staff informed the Complainant they did not have a physical copy of the Student's BIP, and the bus staff believed they were not legally allowed to have a physical copy on the bus. The bus staff told the Complainant they could look it up on their cell phones if needed. The Complainant stated the Student's IEP said it's supposed to be on the bus. The Complainant believed the bus staff had not read the IEP or BIP because they did not know a physical copy of the BIP was required on the bus.

109. The Complainant described a previous meeting with the Special Education Provider on June 4, 2025, stating the Complainant verified with the Special Education Provider the BIP wasn't being followed because staff were afraid of getting hit. The Complainant added staff didn't "want to tell [the Student] no" and deny them access to food, water, or trash. The Complainant reiterated the Student needed a BIP because they had "severe behaviors that get in the way of [their] education and are harmful to [themself] and to others."

110. The Complainant stated that they were receiving information about behavior incidents on the bus from other students, not the LEA. They stated they had to request information about incidents, but believed they were supposed to be automatically informed anytime there was an incident. They stated they had requested video footage from the bus several times and were frequently told by the LEA the cameras were not operational during the incidents. The Complainant described an incident when the Student came home with an injury, and on that occasion, the LEA was able to review the cameras and verify the incident.

111. The Complainant recalled the June 4, 2025, meeting was convened after the Student was "… hit by a car and they didn't let me know and I had to file an internal complaint … ." The Complainant reported they felt the Student should not be allowed in the cafeteria or outside because the Student was not listening to the staff. The Complainant stated, "[The Student was] supposed to be on a bathroom schedule and a water schedule." The Complainant believed the Student's plan was not being followed when the Student was allowed to drink water and use the bathroom "all day long."

112. At the June 4, 2025, meeting, the Complainant provided an LEA "medical accommodation" form, which included a food plan signed by a doctor. The Complainant recalled these changes were not made to the IEP.

113. The Complainant stated food was a trigger for the Student's behaviors. The Complainant reported that "in April or May [2025]" they received a $45 charge on the Student's food service account. When they inquired about the high charges, the Complainant was informed a paraprofessional allowed the Student to "charge excessive amounts of food" to their account. The Complainant realized the BIP was not being followed, and that explained some of the Student's behaviors. The Complainant reached out to the Student's doctor to create an official food plan, which was provided on the "medical accommodation" form submitted on June 4, 2025.

114. The Complainant described an event on May 5, 2025 they were not sufficiently informed of by the LEA. The Student was outside with Behavior Technician 2. The Student needed to use the restroom and ran away from Behavior Technician 2. According to the Complainant, the Student was hitting other people and was restrained. They stated the Student came home with bruises and a different pair of clothes on. The Complainant stated they got a phone call informing them the staff had to give the Student a PRN, and they were told, "everything's fine." The Complainant added, they didn't get any paperwork sent home other than the Student's daily schedule "with the A, B, C data." The Complainant shared they had "still never gotten an answer other than them telling me that I had missed a deadline" to review the video, which was 30 days.

115. The Complainant believed the school was regularly releasing the Student early from instruction because the Student received breakfast at the School. The Complainant clarified breakfast was not instructional time.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, implemented the Student's IEP, which included supports identified in the Student's Behavior Support Plan and Medical Plan. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), K.A.R. 91-40-19; 34 CFR §300.323.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3)(5)(B) and 34 CFR §300.323, each agency shall ensure that an IEP is in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year. Each teacher and provider is informed of the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-19, each agency, teacher, and related services provider shall provide special education and related services to an exceptional child in accordance with the child's IEP and shall make a good faith effort to assist the child to achieve the goals and objectives stated in the IEP.

The Complainant alleged that in April 2025, they reached out to the LEA to report that staff working with the Student, including transportation/bus staff, were not familiar with the Student's IEP and could not implement it.

The LEA denied they were in violation of implementing the Student's IEP, which included supports identified in the Student's Behavior Support Plan and Medical Plan. They responded the Student did not have a health care plan attached to their IEP, and the Special Factors section indicated the Student did not have a documented health condition that impacted their education. The LEA indicated the Student did have a separate health care plan that was managed by the school nurse and updated annually.

The LEA confirmed they implemented the Student's IEP, including both their medical support and BIP, during the complaint window. Medical support was provided with fidelity and documented through logs and nurse communications. Behavioral supports were implemented with fidelity, with one corrective instance regarding reinforcers (high-fives/fist bumps) promptly remedied once raised. The LEA maintains that the IEP was implemented as written, with responsive communication and documentation of both medical and behavioral supports.

The continuous use of physical contact (fist bumps and high fives) during the ESY directly defied the BIP, which mandated reinforcement consisting only of "thumbs up and verbal praise rather than tangible items and rather than physical handshakes, bumps, high-5, etc." The Student's BIP was violated when the Student exited the bus with a sweatshirt and t-shirt, which should have been stored in a "teacher area" inaccessible to the Student. This incident escalated the Student's agitation, resulting in destructive behavior at home and the loss of nighttime visitation access.

The BIP required staff to contact the nurse for administration of PRN medication "at first indication of aggressive behaviors, such as head banging and whining," as a known, proactive procedure. However, the Special Education Provider stated school policy was to "try not to use any PRN at all unless absolutely necessary" and to wait until the Student was escalated, already violent, and the medication was "medically necessary for safety purposes." While the School Nurse made the final determination per the Student's individualized health plan, this failure to follow the BIP's proactive measure was a direct violation. The BIP's proactive strategies—ensuring the Student had "access to two staff members who know how to access help for emergent situations" and are "aware of the PRN medication"—were undermined by the staff's stated policy of withholding the PRN medication until a crisis point.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to fully implement the Student's IEP, specifically the supports outlined in their BIP and Medical Plan, resulting in a material failure to implement the Student's IEP.

Issue Two

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, limited the Complainant's right to ask for revisions of their child's IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16(a), K.A.R. 91-40-19(c), K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2); 34 CFR § 300.324.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(a), each agency shall be responsible for initiating and conducting meetings to develop, review, and revise the IEP of each exceptional child served by the agency.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-19(c), nothing in this regulation shall limit a parent's right to ask for revisions of the child's IEP.

According to K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2), each agency shall ensure that the IEP team: revises the IEP, as appropriate, to address information about the child provided by the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters.

According to 34 CFR § 300.324, in making changes to a child's IEP after the annual IEP Team meeting for a school year, the parent of a child with a disability and the public agency may agree not to convene an IEP Team meeting for the purposes of making those changes, and instead may develop a written document to amend or modify the child's current IEP. Changes to the IEP may be made either by the entire IEP Team at an IEP Team meeting or by amending the IEP rather than by redrafting the entire IEP. Upon request, a parent must be provided with a revised copy of the IEP with the amendments incorporated.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to meet and update the Student's IEP after a serious incident. The Complainant requested an IEP meeting on May 9, 2025, and no meeting was held.

The LEA denied they were in violation of limiting the Complainant's right to ask for revisions of the Student's IEP. They responded regular IEP meetings were held for the Student. They stated the LEA responded to the Complainant's concerns and requests for revisions with emails, phone calls, or by offering meetings. The LEA stated they did not limit the Complainant's right to request revisions of the Student's IEP, adding in some cases, the Complainant declined offered meetings, preferring email correspondence or document review.

In April 2025, the Complainant requested an IEP amendment to include a "modified and accommodated breakfast, lunch, and food and drink plan and schedule," arguing the current food and juice were "excessive and not appropriate." They also requested a scheduled bathroom and drinking plan for behavior management. The Complainant sought official support, submitting a doctor-signed "medical accommodation" form for a food plan in June 2025.

The LEA responded by offering a FBA be completed during ESY to inform "potential updates to [the Student's] BIP... and IEP Accommodations." While this process was initiated and the parent consented to the reevaluation (FBA), the LEA did not act on the specific requested revisions.

The Complainant repeatedly followed up in August 2025 to confirm the medical food plan and accommodations had been integrated into the IEP. The LEA continued to focus on further assessment, stating they would complete an "additional assessment" and issue a new PWN for a new FBA, rather than making the requested revisions.

On September 10, 2025, the Complainant also requested the Student's diagnosis of PICA be added to the IEP due to the danger of the Student eating medications, another specific request that was not addressed.

The LEA processed the Complainant's request for revision by initiating an FBA to gather data as required by K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2), but failed to actually revise the IEP to address the parent's specific concerns regarding the food plan, drinking/bathroom schedule, or the PICA diagnosis.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to review or revise the IEP after multiple requests from the Complainant. Additionally, the LEA failed to ensure the IEP team revised the IEP, as appropriate, to address information about the Student provided by the Complainant when they failed to add the requested accommodations and modifications.

Issue Three

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Complainant with a copy of the procedural safeguards at least one time during the school year and upon the request of the Complainant. K.A.R. 91-40-26(d); 34 CFR § 300.504.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-26(d) and 34 CFR § 300.504, The agency shall be required to provide a parent with a copy of the procedural safeguards available to parents only one time during each school year, except that a copy shall also be provided to the parent in accordance with the discipline procedures in 300.507; and at any time, upon request of the parent.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to provide them with procedural safeguards and Parent Rights.

The LEA denied they were in violation of providing the Complainant with a copy of the procedural safeguards at least one time during the school year and upon the Complainant's request. The LEA notes , the IEP dated December 17, 2025, documented the Parents were provided with a copy of the procedural safeguards. The LEA stated the Complainant was provided a second copy of the procedural safeguards following an ESI incident on May 5, 2025, adding the documents were sent home in the Student's backpack and a phone call was made to the Complainant to notify them. The LEA reported they provided the Complainant with the procedural safeguards as required by law, both through the annual IEP process and again following the ESI incident, with no record of further requests being made.

The annual IEP dated December 17, 2024, indicated via a checkbox, parent rights had been provided during the school year to both parents (or educational decision makers). No other requests were made by the Complainant for procedural safeguards.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations*, it is unsubstantiated* that the LEA failed to provide the Complainant with a copy of the procedural safeguards one time per year and upon the Complainant's request.

Issue Four

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided IEP access to each regular education teacher,special education teacher, related service provider, and other service providers who are responsible for its implementation. K.A.R. 91-40-16 (4); 34 CFR § 300.321.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16 (4) and 34 CFR § 300.321, each agency must ensure the child's IEP is accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service provider who is responsible for its implementation. The public agency must ensure the IEP Team for each child with a disability includes, at the discretion of the parent or the agency, other individuals who have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child, including related services personnel as appropriate.

The Complainant alleged they were told by the Student's IEP team and bus drivers they did not know the supports in the IEP or even that the Student had an IEP. The Complainant did not receive documentation that confirmed staff were trained to implement the Student's IEP.

The LEA denied they were in violation of providing IEP access to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service providers who are responsible for its implementation. The LEA responded that the LEA ensured general education teachers, special education teachers, related service providers, and classified support staff had access to the Student's IEP and the information necessary to implement it through staff training during pre-service days, professional development (PD) sessions, and special education Team meetings.

Bus personnel informed the Complainant they did not have a physical copy of the BIP on the bus, violating the BIP's specific requirement that "A copy of the BIP will be on the bus." The staff also incorrectly stated they were "not legally allowed" to have a copy, suggesting a lack of training or proper information dissemination.

A Special Education Provider attributed instances of food-related non-compliance (e.g., a Behavior Technician allowing excessive food scooping) to the fact that previous staff "didn't write down all the things the Student needed to be successful and the new staff didn't know." This directly indicates that new or current staff were not provided adequate access to the IEP and BIP, which listed problem behaviors related to overeating and over-drinking that could lead to vomiting and choking.

During ESY, Behavior Technician 2 violated a core safeguard in the BIP by using fist bumps and high-fives as positive feedback. The BIP clearly stated staff should use "thumbs up and verbal praise rather than tangible items and rather than physical handshakes, bumps, high-5, etc." Subsequent FBA updates confirmed this repeated violation, demonstrating staff's lack of knowledge or failure to adhere to the plan.

The Complainant reported staff failed to follow the BIP's limitations on food and water because they were "afraid of getting hit" and did not want to tell the Student "no." This suggests staff were either unfamiliar with the BIP's de-escalation/behavior management strategies or untrained on how to implement them for the Student's specific needs.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations*, it is substantiated* that the LEA failed to ensure the Student's IEP and BIP were fully accessible and understood by all service providers responsible for implementation.

Issue Five

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the LRE for the Student, including non-academic and extracurricular services and activities, such as meals, recess periods, and other non-academic services and activities, to the maximum extent appropriate to the needs of the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.S.A. 72-3420, 34 CFR § 300.114

According to K.A.R. 91-40-21 and 34 CFR § 300.114 each agency shall ensure that the children with disabilities served by the agency are educated in the LRE. Each agency shall ensure that a continuum of alternative educational placements is available to meet the needs of children with disabilities. These alternative educational placements shall meet the following criteria: include instruction in regular classes, special classes, and special schools; and make provision for supplementary services, including resource room and itinerant services, to be provided in conjunction with regular class placement.

According to K.S.A. 72-3420, each LEA shall be required, to the maximum extent appropriate, to educate children with disabilities with children who are not disabled, and to provide special classes, separate schooling or for the removal of children with disabilities from the regular education environment only when the nature or severity of the disability of the child is such that education in regular classes with supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily.

The Complainant alleged the LEA was unable to determine the Student's location when the Student was not in attendance at their 7th-period class. The Complainant alleged the Student was released early daily and lost instructional time and access to a FAPE.

The LEA denied they were in violation of providing the LRE for the Student, including non-academic and extracurricular services and activities, such as meals, recess periods, and other non-academic services and activities, to the maximum extent appropriate to the needs of the Student. The LEA responded they considered and provided access to the LRE to the maximum extent appropriate to the Student's needs. The Student participated in general education classes, lunch, passing periods, and advisory with peer interaction and adult support. They added, the IEP team considered additional restrictions and determined the current inclusion was beneficial.

Due to staff failure to implement the Student's specialized food plan and limits, the Food Service Manager began packaging the Student's meals specifically for them to eat in the special education classroom. This practice indicates the Student was not participating in the typical cafeteria meal service with non-disabled peers. The Student's BIP required the Student to have attendant care in the inclusion environment for lunch and passing time (64 minutes, 5 days a week). The restrictions were severe enough that the Complainant stated they felt the Student should not be allowed in the cafeteria or outside because the Student was not following staff directions, underscoring the severity of the limitations placed on the Student's participation in non-academic activities.

The Student Activity Report showed the Student was scanned entering the bus before the end of the school day for 100 days during the 2024-25 school year, which indicated frequent and regular early removal from instruction/school environment, as early as 7 minutes prior to the end of the school day. The Student's daily schedule indicated their 7th hour class for the 24-25 school year was science, and it stated they would "leave classroom for bus at 3:02," which confirmed the Student's plan was to remain in class until the end of the school day. School Records indicate school ends at 3:02 daily except for early release days and Wednesdays. The frequency of early release from class demonstrated a consistent and cumulative removal from educational access throughout the school year, limiting the Student's access to FAPE.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations *it is substantiate*d that the LEA failed to ensure the LRE for the Student by imposing extreme restrictions on non-academic activities, specifically during mealtimes by limiting access to non-disabled peers. Further, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to provide a FAPE when the Student was dismissed early from class regularly over an extended period of time.

Additional Finding

During the course of the investigation, the Investigator found the LEA failed to provide the Complainant with a PWN indicating whether the LEA was initiating or refusing requested changes by the Complainant for IEP accommodations and modifications to the Student's IEP.

According to K.A.R. 90-40-26 and 34 CFR 300.503(a)(b), written notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child. The notice must include a description of the action proposed or refused by the agency, an explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action, a description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action, a statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under the procedural safeguards of this part and, the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained, sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions of this part, a description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected; and a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal.

The LEA responded, while PWN or Notices of Meeting (NOM) were not consistently issued for every interaction, the LEA maintained robust communication and offered opportunities for revisions in compliance with IDEA.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, the LEA failed to provide a PWN accepting or declining requested changes by the Complainant regarding the Student's IEP accommodations related to their food accommodations plan from their pediatrician, the addition of a scheduled bathroom break and water schedule, and accommodations for the PICA diagnosis.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. Violations occurred in the following areas:

A. State and federal regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), K.A.R. 91-40-19, and 34 CFR §300.323 specify the public agency must have in effect, for each child within its jurisdiction, an IEP, and each teacher and provider is informed of the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP. In addition, each agency, teacher, and related services provider shall provide special education and related services to an exceptional child in accordance with the child's IEP

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 437 did not fully implement the Student's IEP, specifically the supports outlined in their BIP and Medical Plan. Documentation from the LEA, the Complainant, and Interviews document this.

B. State and federal regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-16(a), K.A.R. 91-40-19(c), K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2), and 34 CFR § 300.324 specify that each agency shall be responsible for initiating and conducting meetings to develop, review, and revise the IEP of each exceptional child served by the agency. Each agency shall ensure that the IEP team: revises the IEP, as appropriate, to address information about the child provided by the parents; the child's anticipated needs; or other matters.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #437 did not revise the Student's IEP with information provided by the Complainant according to documentation, interviews, and the LEA Response letter.

C. State and federal regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-16 (4) and 34 CFR § 300.321 specifies each agency shall be responsible for ensuring the child's IEP is accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service provider who is responsible for its implementation. In addition, each teacher and provider is informed of the individual's specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP, and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 437 did not ensure the Student's IEP and BIP were fully accessible and understood by all service providers responsible for implementation through documentation, Interviews, and the LEA Response letter.

D. State and federal regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-21, K.S.A. 72-3420, and 34 CFR § 300.114 specify that each agency shall ensure that the children with disabilities served by the agency are educated in the LRE.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #437 did not ensure the LRE for the Student by imposing extreme restrictions on non-academic activities, specifically during mealtimes by limiting access to non-disabled peers through documentation, interviews, and the LEA Response letter.

Additionally, the Student was dismissed early from class regularly over an extended period of time throughout the school year limiting the Student's access to instructional minutes.

E. State and federal regulations at K.A.R. 90-40-26 and 34 CFR 300.503(a)(b) specify that written notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 437 did not provide required PWNs through documentation, interviews, and the LEA Response letter.

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #437 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing theIDEA at 34 CFR §300.323 and K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3), K.A.R. 91-40-19 by ensuring each teacher and provider is informed of the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the Student in accordance with their IEP. In addition, each agency, teacher, and related services provider shall provide special education and related services to the Student in accordance with the Student's IEP through direct training by the LEA.
2. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #437 shall submit a written statement of assurance to SETS stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at K.A.R. 91-40-16(a), K.A.R. 91-40-19(c), K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2) and 34 CFR § 300.324 and will hold an IEP meeting to review and revise the Student's IEP and behavior plan and will consider the Complainant's request to add accommodations/modifications to the Student's IEP that address their food plan needs, accommodations for drinking and bathroom use, and accommodations that support the Student's diagnosis of PICA.
3. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #437 shall submit a written statement of assurance to SETS stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at K.A.R. 91-40-1(z)(1)(2)(3) and K.A.R. 91-40-2(a)(1) and will ensure the Student attends school for the duration of the day unless explicitly stated in the Student's IEP and agreed to by the IEP team.
4. Further, by January 11, 2026, USD #437 will complete the following: (1) submit a written statement of assurance to SETS that the LEA's practices and procedures for reviewing and revising IEPs and staff training on IEP implementation including accommodations, modifications, and BIPs have been reviewed and revised as appropriate to be responsive and compliant with IEP procedures of the (IDEA and the Kansas Special Education for Exceptional Children Act.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 437
Auburn-Washburn Public Schools: 26FC437-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on September 11, 2025, by ----- on behalf of -----. In the remainder of this decision, ----- will be referred to as "the complainant," and Thomas will be referred to as "the student." ----- is an education decision maker for the student pursuant to a Power of Attorney, dated 4/21/2023, and signed by the student's father. The Power of Attorney specifically includes the power to make decisions with regard to "all special education programs and services under state and federal law..."

An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on October 14, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations with regard to Issues 1, 2, 4 and 5, and an additional violation for a failure to provide the Complainant with a PWN indicating whether the LEA was initiating or refusing requested changes by the Complainant for IEP accommodations and modifications to the Student's IEP.

Thereafter, the complainant filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, the complainant's notice of appeal, and the Local Education Agency's (LEA's) response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal Appeal

The appeal consists of seven concerns from the complainant:

First, Investigator and Conflict of Interest Restrictions:

> "the integrity of that process was compromised because LEA representative Heidi Carlson's involvement created an appearance of bias and a conflict of interest, and PRISM allowed it to continue even after I informed them of my fears of retaliation during my interview with KSDE..."

The Appeal Committee is aware that perceptions of bias and conflicts of interest can arise in the eyes of both parties in these kinds of disputes and investigations. However, these perceptions cannot serve as the basis of an appeal. The pertinent regulation is K.A.R. 91-40-51(f), which permits appeals only for the "findings or conclusions" in a complaint report. There is no appeal process available for this concern.

*When either a complainant or school personnel believe that a complaint investigator has acted in an inappropriate manner during an investigation we invite that feedback for consideration outside the complaint process.

Second, Altered PRN Medication and ESI Safety Incident

The appeal states:

> "In the KSDE investigative report, District staff reported that the school nurse and staff decided that they administer the student's PRN medication only when they determine it is "medically necessary," and defined that by active aggression, instead of as needed for agitation as prescribed by the physician. "

The complaint report found a violation with regard to this concern, stating:

> The BIP required staff to contact the nurse for administration of PRN medication "at first indication of aggressive behaviors, such as head banging and whining," as a known, proactive procedure. However, the Special Education Provider stated school policy was to "try not to use any PRN at all unless absolutely necessary" and to wait until the Student was escalated, already violent, and the medication was "medically necessary for safety purposes." While the School Nurse made the final determination per the Student's individualized health plan, this failure to follow the BIP's proactive measure was a direct violation. The BIP's proactive strategies—ensuring the Student had "access to two staff members who know how to access help for emergent situations" and are "aware of the PRN medication"—were undermined by the staff's stated policy of withholding the PRN medication until a crisis point.

> Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to fully implement the Student's IEP, specifically the supports outlined in their BIP and Medical Plan, resulting in a material failure to implement the Student's IEP.

Accordingly, the complainant does not contest this conclusion, and it shall stand.

The complainant then adds a list of other concerns, including:

- Whether there will be additional retaliation that comes from this finding and ongoing complaints
- Whether the district followed the required ESI-specific notification protocols and provided safeguards immediately after the restraint event, including providing an incident report, notice of procedural safeguards, falsifying documents claiming those steps had been taken,
- Whether KSDE should have investigated the incident under K.A.R. 91-42-2 regarding Emergency Safety Interventions (ESI)
- Whether the district was involved in active retaliation
- Whether the district's "restricted communication plan" limited the complainant's right to participate in education decision making on behalf of the student.

None of these "other" listed concerns are subject to appeal either because they are not special education legal issues or because they were not allegations in the original complaint. The Appeal Committee concludes that the first in this list of concerns was found to be a violation, and the remaining "other" concerns are not within the jurisdiction of the Appeal Committee. The report is sustained to the extent there is any application to the first concern.

Third, Denial of Parental Access and Retaliation

In this concern, the complainant describes what she believes to be a denial of meaningful parent participation. We make no determination on this issue because the alleged facts are not a part of this complaint. This complaint was filed on September 11, 2025 and the incident described in this concern occurred on October 14, 2025, a full month after this complaint was filed. Accordingly, the Appeal Committee is without jurisdiction to consider this concern.

Fourth, 4. Anticipated Retaliation and Escalating Pattern

Here the complainant asserts that she believes:

> retaliation will continue and intensify if this unlawful restriction is not rescinded immediately. It is evident that additional complaints will follow, and the pattern of violations already documented strongly suggests further findings of noncompliance are likely. I am notifying KSDE now so proactive oversight and enforcement can prevent further harm to my students and others.

Again, the appeal process is only available to contest the findings and conclusions in a complaint report. It cannot be used to address anticipated violations. Thus, the Appeal Committee is without jurisdiction to consider this concern on appeal.

Fifth, Pending FERPA Violation

In this portion of the appeal, the complainant advises KSDE that she in the process of filing two formal FERPA violation complaints and spoliation of evidence complaint. The Appeal Committee acknowledges receipt of this information.

Sixth, . Prior Notice to the Superintendent and School Board – Failure to Act on Disability Discrimination

In this portion of the appeal, the complainant advises KSDE that she has filed a complaint with the OCR. The Appeal Committee acknowledges receipt of this information.

Seventh, Systemic Manipulation of Evidence and Denial of FAPE, IDEA, and Procedural Safeguards

The complainant states: "Across every KSDE complaint and appeal I have filed — 22FC437-001, 23FC437-003, 23FC437-004, 26FC437-002, and 26FC437-003 — USD 437 has submitted inaccurate or altered information to KSDE to avoid accountability. I documented contradictions and falsehoods in each case, yet the district's statements were accepted as credible." She adds: "I formally request that KSDE take the following actions," after which is a list of allegations without supporting facts.

The appeal process is not an appropriate vehicle to present new allegations. The complainant is familiar with the complaint process and the requirement in that process to provide the facts that support each allegation in the complaint and to provide a copy of the complaint to the LEA (school district). KSDE will appropriately address any future complaint from the complainant that meets the minimum content required by law, but cannot address new complaint allegations or duplicative allegations through the limited appeal process as set forth by K.A.R. 91-40-51(f).

After a full review of this appeal, the Appeal Committee finds that sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is sustained in full.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 24th day of November, 2025.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a five-year-old kindergartener during the 2025-2026 school year. The student was new to the LEA and had not previously received special education services. On August 14, 2025, the parent notified the LEA that the student had a diagnosis of ADHD and provided an outside evaluation documenting the ADHD diagnosis along with information about trauma. On August 19, 2025, the Student Improvement Team (SIT) met with the parent (attending virtually) and decided to conduct an initial special education evaluation due to behavioral and education concerns and existing medical diagnoses. The outside evaluation listed medical diagnoses of Autism spectrum disorder, ADHD, Global Developmental Delay, Language Delay stating that they will impact the student's ability to participate and progress in the general education curriculum without specialized instruction. On August 20, 2025, a Prior Written Notice (PWN) was sent home requesting consent for the evaluation and the parent signed and returned consent on August 21, 2025. On August 22, 2025, a virtual initial eligibility and IEP meeting was held with the parent in attendance. The parent waived a 10-day notice and excusal form for the classroom and special education teacher. At this meeting, the student was found eligible for special education as a student with Autism and Other Health Impairment due to ADHD. It is noted that the evaluation report stated that since the student was new to the district ongoing reevaluation would be conducted to further determine educational needs, strategies, and related services (SPL, OT). An Individualized Education Plan (IEP) was developed on the same day with one goal, accommodations, special education minutes and consultative OT and speech minutes. The Prior Written Notice authorizing services was subsequently signed and special education services were implemented.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

USD #368, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), misclassified an IEP-related meeting as a "conference" despite proposing to change the student's educational services, circumventing the required procedural safeguards during the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.324(a)(4) state that changes to the IEP may be made either by the entire IEP Team at an IEP Team meeting, amending the IEP rather than by redrafting the entire IEP. Upon request, a parent must be provided with a revised copy of the IEP with the amendments incorporated.

Further, 34 CFR §300.322 describes the public agency's responsibility for ensuring parent participation to include:

1. notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure that they will have an opportunity to attend. (300.322(a)(1))
2. scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed on time and place. (300.322(a)(2))
3. informing the parents of the purpose, time, and location of the meeting and who will be in attendance. (300.322(b)(1)(i))
4. informing the parents of individuals that will participate on the IEP team who have knowledge or special expertise about the child. (300.322(b)(1)(ii))
5. providing the parent(s) a copy of the IEP at no cost (300.322(f))

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that the parent was informed of a meeting to discuss the student's progress and potential amendments to the student's services occurring on October 10, 2025, at 2:00 p.m. The meeting was designated as a "conference" despite the purpose of the meeting being to discuss changes to the student's IEP. The complainant wrote in the complaint that this mischaracterization of the name of the meeting impeded the parent's ability to fully participate in decisions affecting the student's education.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency responded that a conference was planned for October 10, 2025. It was requested by the parent as "a meeting with special education and behavior staff to review and improve data collection before using it for [student's] Functional Behavioral Assessment (FBA) or Individualized Education Program (IEP)." Although October 10, 2025, was proposed as the date of the meeting, no meeting was held.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The parent and district agree that the October 10, 2025, meeting did not occur.
2. Leading up to that decision, on October 8, 2025, the principal and school psychologist offered to meet with the mother on October 10, 2025, to respond to parent concerns and discuss the student's behavior. The principal informed the mother that the behavior specialist was not available to meet on October 10, 2025, and offered to delay the meeting to October 13, 2025, instead.

3. The parent asserted during her October 27, 2025 interview that principal had written in an October 9 email that "I would like to propose that we discuss a possible IEP amendment for more pullout since [student] needs appear to be more sustained as shown by progress monitoring data". Based on that she believed that this constituted an IEP meeting.
4. On October 9, 2025 the principal emailed the mother about an October 10, 2025 conference writing, "I do want to clarify that this is a conference and not an IEP meeting but I would like to propose that we discuss a possible IEP amendment for more pullout since [student's] needs appear to be more sustained as shown by progress monitoring data." The parent responded, "You have indicated that the upcoming meeting is a "conference," not an IEP meeting. However, you have also stated that one purpose of the meeting is to discuss a possible IEP amendment to increase pull-out services, based on progress monitoring data. Such a discussion constitutes a review and proposed modification of [student's] IEP, which places the meeting firmly within the scope of an IEP team function under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA)."

1. On October 10, 2025, the LEA emailed the parent that the October 10, 2025, meeting was cancelled and a formal IEP meeting would be scheduled instead.
2. The LEA staff stated during their interview on October 28, 2025, that the intent of the meeting was to clarify and explain behavior data and to set a date for an IEP meeting to discuss changing service minutes. The school psychologist stated that the LEA would never unilaterally change services. The LEA staff further stated that if a discussion about changing services came up in any conference with a parent the LEA practice is to stop and set up an IEP meeting that would be constituted with the appropriate participants and provided proper notice.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the Local Education Agency is in compliance because a meeting did not occur and therefore, no corrective action is required.

Since the meeting did not occur the investigator did not determine if the LEA did or did not misclassify an IEP meeting as a "conference" and thus if parent participation was denied based on misclassifying the name of the meeting. It is additionally noted that the student had a current IEP and if the LEA were proposing to amend the IEP the district's obligation would be to follow 34 CFR §300.324(a)(4) which may or may not have resulted in an IEP meeting.

Issue Two

USD #368, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to include the student's general education teacher and paraprofessionals in IEP meetings during the 2025-26 school year resulting in a denial of meaningful parent participation and the ability to develop an appropriate IEP for the student.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a)(2) and (4)(ii) states that the public agency must ensure that the IEP Team for each child with a disability includes not less than one regular education teacher of the child (if the child is, or may be, participating in the regular education environment) that is knowledgeable about the general education curriculum. Further, 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a)(6) states that at the discretion of the parent or the agency, other individuals who have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child, including related services personnel as appropriate. While federal law allows parents to invite anyone with relevant knowledge of their child to an IEP meeting, the school district may deny the request if it creates a conflict with a paraprofessional's job duties.

Further, 34 CFR §300.322 and K.A.R. 91-40-17 describes the public agency's responsibility for ensuring parent participation to include:

1. notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure that they will have an opportunity to attend. (300.322(a)(1)) K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(2) clarifies early enough to ensure an opportunity to attend as, at least 10 days in advance of the meeting.
2. scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed on time and place. (300.322(a)(2); K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(1))
3. informing the parents of the purpose, time, and location of the meeting and who will be in attendance. (300.322(b)(1)(i)); K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(1))
4. informing the parents of individuals that will participate on the IEP team who have knowledge or special expertise about the child. (300.322(b)(1)(ii)); K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(4))
5. providing the parent(s) a copy of the IEP at no cost (300.322(f))

Parent Position

The complaint alleged that upon being informed of a meeting to discuss the student's progress and potential changes to services the parent requested that the student's general education teacher and paraprofessionals assigned to work with the student attend the meeting. The parent alleged that this request was denied based on the grounds that their attendance was "not required," thereby impeding the parent's ability to fully participate in making decisions affecting the student's education.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA responded that a conference was planned for October 10, 2025, and the parent requested that the student's kindergarten teacher and paraprofessionals that work with the student attend this meeting. The district stated that these personnel were not necessary for the meeting and instead listed the staff that would be in attendance. They stated that the October 10, 2025, meeting did not occur and that an IEP meeting is being scheduled.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The parent and district agree that the October 10, 2025, meeting did not occur and that an IEP meeting was to be scheduled.
2. The parent stated on October 27, 2025 in an interview with the investigator that because the principal had mentioned a proposal to discuss a possible IEP amendment she believed the October 10 meeting was an IEP meeting and that the general educator and other professionals with expertise about the student were necessary.
3. On October 9, the Principal responded to the parent's email that the kindergarten teacher and paraprofessionals would not be in attendance on October 10, 2025, as requested by the parent. Additionally, the Principal wrote that the Principal, Special Education Director, Assistant Special Education Director, School Psychologist, and Special Education Teacher would attend.
4. The parent emailed the LEA on October 10, 2025
5. Furthermore, we must again formally request the participation - at least in part - of [kindergarten teacher], [student's] general education teacher, and the paraprofessionals assigned to [student]. These individuals have direct, daily interaction with [student] and possess critical insight into [student's] functioning, behaviors, and support needs within the school environment." Citing CFR 300.321(a)(6) and the Kansas Special education Process Handbook...Your current refusal to allow their attendance-despite my formal request-could be interpreted as an unlawful limitation of parental participation, which is a core tenant of IDEA. If scheduling concerns are at issue, as stated before we are open to these individuals attending only the relevant portion of the meeting or submitting written input in advance, as a reasonable compromise.
6. The LEA staff stated during the October 28, 2025, interview with the investigator that the general education teacher with the most familiarity of the student and knowledge of the curricular area would participate in a student's IEP. The special education teacher stated that it is the regular practice in the LEA that paraprofessional input is gathered ahead of time and shared as part of the IEP meeting as needed. This is due to the difficulty in reassigning a paraprofessional's duties during the school day and work hours. The director of special education said that in certain cases a paraprofessional may attend an IEP meeting when they possess specific information and are necessary for decision making, but it is not a general practice, and the decision is not solely based on a parent request.

Conclusion

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the Local Education Agency is in compliance and no corrective action is required because the October 10, 2025, meeting did not occur.

Both the LEA and parent described their understanding of 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a)(2) and (4)(ii), 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a)(6) and 34 CFR §300.322 and K.A.R. 91-40-17 that are pertinent to this issue. The obligations for IEP participants, notice and parent participation differ between a conference and an IEP meeting. Without the meeting occurring it is not possible for the investigator to determine if the meeting was planned as a conference or an IEP amendment meeting to apply the IDEA and Kansas regulations of IEP participants and thus parent participation.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 CFR §300.324(a)(4) and 34 CFR §300.322 was not found and no corrective action is required.
2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a)(2) and (4)(ii), 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a)(6) and 34 CFR §300.322 and K.A.R. 91-40-17 was not found and no corrective action is required.

Background

This complaint involves a 15-year-old boy who is enrolled in the 10th grade in his local high school. The student has been determined to be eligible for special education support under the categorical designation of Autism. He has also been diagnosed with Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder and asthma.

Issues

In her complaint, the complainant identified two issues. Eight separate allegations of special education violations were described under Issue One. Each of these eight alleged violations will be addressed separately under Issue One.

Issue One

The parents are not being included as meaningful participants in the IEP annual review for reasons specified below.

Allegation 1

Inadequate Notice of an IEP Team Meeting

Position of the Complainant:

The complainant contends that prior notice of a subsequently cancelled September 5, 2025 IEP team meeting for the student was sent home to the parent in the student's backpack with no prior communication with the parent regarding mutually agreed upon dates for that meeting.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations:

To address the requirement to strengthen the role of parents in the special education process, Congress mandated that schools afford parents the opportunity to be members of any decision making team for their child, including eligibility, initial evaluation and reevaluation, and development of an individualized education program (IEP) for the provision of a free appropriate public education (FAPE). Schools are to ensure that parents have the opportunity to be members of the IEP team that makes decisions on the educational placement of their child (K.A.R. 91-40-17).

Parents are to be provided with written notice of an IEP meeting regarding their child at least 10 days in advance of the meeting (K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(2)).

Investigative Findings:

On August 11, 2025, the student's case manager (special education teacher) sent an email to the student's parent proposing two dates (September 5 or 8, 2025) for the convening of the student's annual IEP review. On August 13, 2025, the case manager emailed the parent suggesting that the original proposed times (1:30 PM) be changed to 3:00 PM to minimize disruption to the student's instructional day. The parent sent an email to the case manager on August 15, 2025 writing:

> "Friday, September 5 at 3:00 p.m. works perfectly. Please go ahead and schedule us for that time."

The case manager responded via email on August 15, 2025 writing:

> "Thanks! It is on the calendar. Notice of meeting and consent for outside representative (pre-ETS) was sent home with [the student] today."

The LEA provided the investigator with a copy of a notice of an IEP Team meeting scheduled for September 5, 2025. That notice was dated August 15, 2025.

On August 29, 2025, the student's case manager (special education teacher) sent an email to the student's mother writing:

> "Due to unforeseen scheduling conflicts, we are requesting to reschedule [the student's] IEP annual review meeting. This will allow us to have needed personnel present as we make decisions regarding [the student's] IEP."

Summary and Conclusions:

The LEA has provided evidence to show that the student's mother and his case manager communicated via email to arrive at a mutually agreed upon time for the student's annual IEP review. Additionally, the parent was provided with more than 10-days written notice of that meeting which was scheduled for September 5, 2025. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Allegation 2

Failure to Provide the Parent With 10-day Notice of an IEP Team Meeting

Position of the Complainant:

The complainant asserts that the parents were not provided with 10-day prior notice of a rescheduled IEP team meeting held on September 8, 2025.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations:

As noted above, Kansas special education laws require that parents be provided with written notice of an IEP meeting regarding their child at least 10 days in advance of the meeting (K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(2)). Parents may waive the right to 10-days prior notice in order to expedite the rescheduling of a mutually agreed upon IEP Team meeting that has been cancelled.

Investigative Findings:

On August 29, 2025, the student's case manager (special education teacher) sent an email to the student's mother asking to reschedule a previously scheduled IEP Team meeting on September 5, 2025 "due to unforeseen scheduling conflicts." In her email, the case manager wrote:

> "Which of the following [rescheduled] times would work for you? Wednesday September 10 [at 8:00, 9:15, or 10:30 AM]?"

The parent responded via email at 9:48 AM on September 2, 2025 selecting the 10:30 AM time but at 11:11 AM sent a follow up email to the case manager stating that the complainant would not be able to participate in a meeting on September 10th. The case manager proposed September 8, 2025, but the parent wrote back to say that date would not work and offered September 9, 2025 at 2:00 PM. At 7:32 PM on September 2, 2025, the parent again sent an email to the case manager proposing to keep the September 8, 2025 date at 10:00 AM. The case manager wrote back to the parent stating that she had put that date "on the calendar."

On September 5, 2025, the parent wrote an email to the case manager asking for a notice of meeting for September 8, 2025. The case manager responded that she thought she had sent one home, and attached the notice to her message. The parent wrote back saying:

> "I saw the NOM that it was sent with [the student] on 9/3/25. I appreciate you doing that but going forward can we send these electronically. [The student]...often loses things or does not notify me. If a signature is needed, I'll sign the paper and bring it to the school if needed whether the same day or next day if it doesn't have a digital signature option, and I'll send you an email to let you know it's in there."

The LEA provided a copy of a meeting notice dated September 5, 2025 regarding an IEP Team meeting scheduled for September 8, 2025.

As will be discussed below under other allegations, the parent notified the district that she would be unable to participate in the scheduled meeting due to illness. The LEA opted to continue with the meeting as planned. The Executive Director of Special Education sent an email to the parent on September 8, 2025 writing:

> "The IEP team will convene today at the scheduled time, you are welcome to join us; we will discuss your additional requests [made by the parent in another email] and the request to reschedule. The IEP is due on Sept. 12; convening today will allow us to go beyond the annual due date."

The IEP Team meeting was conducted as scheduled. The parent was not in attendance.

Summary and Conclusions:

The student's mother was given only 3-days' notice of an IEP Team meeting held on September 8, 2025. While the parent might have waived the requirement for 10-day prior notice of the meeting had she been present, she did not attend due to illness.

Because the LEA did not provide the parent with 10-day notice of an IEP Team meeting, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Allegation 3

Failure to Schedule an IEP Team Meeting at a Mutually Agreed-Upon Time

Position of the Complainant:

It is the position of the complainant that the LEA conducted an IEP team meeting for the student after being informed that the parent could not attend due to illness.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations:

IEP Team meetings are to be scheduled at a mutually agreed upon time and place K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(1)). The school should work with the parent to reach an amicable agreement regarding scheduling.

Investigative Findings:

Email records provided by the LEA show that the student's mother and his case manager collaboratively discussed options for the scheduling of an IEP annual review meeting for the student on September 5, 2025. The parties then worked collaboratively to schedule another meeting on September 8, 2025 after the district cancelled the meeting of September 5th, and they mutually agreed on the time and date for that meeting.

However, on the morning of September 8, 2025, the parent notified the LEA that she would be unable to attend the IEP Team meeting due to illness. The parent returned the notice of meeting form to the LEA indicating that she was unable to attend the meeting as scheduled but wanted to schedule the meeting at another time or date. The parent asked the LEA to provide her with "three alternative dates and times." As will be discussed below, the LEA opted to convene the IEP Team meeting despite the parent's absence.

The student's case manager (special education teacher) followed up with a series of emails to the parent offering dates for yet another meeting. The case manager initially offered September 15 or 23, 2025 at 3:00 PM, changed the September 23rd date to September 25, 2025, then ended with an offer of September 18 or 23, 2025 at 3:00 PM. The case manager then added September 15, 2025 as a third option.

On September 9, 2025, the case manager also asked the parent whether she preferred to meet on September 15 or 23, 2025, and the student's mother wrote that "September 23 and 3pm [would] work."

In a series of email exchanges between September 10 and 22, 2025, the case manager and the student's mother discussed the notice of the September 23, 2025 meeting sent by the case manager on September 11, 2025. At the request of the parent, changes were made to that form to add the complainant as an attendee as well as a representative from the IT department for the district. The parent also asked that a new notice be developed that specified the actual time of the meeting (3:00 PM) rather than 12:00 AM as originally written.

Summary and Conclusions:

Ample evidence was provided by the LEA to show that the case manager and the parent collaborated to establish mutually agreed upon times to hold IEP Team meetings regarding the student on September 5, 8, and 23, 2025. However, when the parent notified the LEA that she could not attend the September 8, 2025 meeting due to illness, the LEA unilaterally decided to convene the IEP Team meeting anyway rather than mutually agreeing to a rescheduled meeting. For this reason, a violation of special education statutes and regulation is substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Allegation 4

Failure to Include a Required Participant in an IEP Team Meeting for the Student

Position of the Complainant:

The complainant asserts that the general education teacher(s) of the student was excused from participation in the September 8, 2025 IEP team meeting without the consent of the parent.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations:

The members of the IEP team are specifically identified and described in state and federal statutes and regulations. At least one of the general education teacher(s) of the child must be in attendance at an IEP Team meeting if the child is participating in the general education environment (K.S.A. 72-3404(u)(2)). This must be a teacher who is or may be working with the child to ensure success in the general curriculum and who implements portions of the IEP. The general education teacher is knowledgeable about the curriculum, appropriate activities of typically developing peers, and how the child's exceptionality affect the child's participation (involvement and progress) in the curriculum or other appropriate activities. General education teachers assist in the development, review and revision of the IEP including determining appropriate positive behavioral interventions and supports and other strategies for the child, as well as supplementary aids and services, program modifications and supports to enable general education teachers to work with the child (K.A.R. 91-40-17(h)).

If the child has several general education teachers, at least one must attend the IEP meeting. However, it may be appropriate for more to attend. The school may designate which teacher or teachers will serve as IEP team member(s), taking into account the best interests of the child. The general education teacher who serves as a member of the child's IEP team should be one who is, or may be, responsible for implementing a portion of the IEP. The school is strongly encouraged to seek input from the teachers who will not be attending the IEP team meeting. All general education teachers of the child must be informed by the IEP team of their specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

A required member of the IEP team is not required to attend an IEP team meeting, in whole or in part, if the parent of a child with an exceptionality and the school agree, in writing, that the attendance of the IEP team member is not necessary because the member's area of the curriculum or related services is not being modified or discussed in the meeting.

A required member of the IEP team may be excused from attending an IEP team meeting, in whole or in part, when the meeting involves a modification to or discussion of the member's area of the curriculum or related services, if:

- The parent, in writing, and the school consent to the excusal; and
- The IEP team member submits, in writing to the parent and the IEP team, input into the development of the IEP prior to the meeting (K.S.A. 72-3429(b)(2), (3); 34 C.F.R. 300.321(e)).

Informed parental consent means that the school must provide the parent with appropriate and sufficient information to ensure that the parent fully understands that the parent is consenting to excuse a required IEP team member from attending an IEP team meeting in which the member's area of the curriculum or related services is being changed or discussed and that if the parent does not consent the IEP team meeting must be held with that IEP team member in attendance (Federal Register, August 14, 2006, p 46674).

Excusals through written agreement or consent apply only to the required IEP team members.

Schools are encouraged to carefully consider, based on the individual needs of the child and the issues that need to be addressed at the IEP team meeting, whether it makes sense to offer to hold the IEP team meeting without a particular IEP team member in attendance or whether it would be better to reschedule the meeting so that person could attend and participate in the discussion (Federal Register, August 14, 2006, p. 46674).

Investigative Findings:

Written notice of a September 8, 2025 IEP Team meeting was sent via email to the parent by the case manager on September 5, 2025. According to that notice, the following district staff had been invited to participate in the meeting:

- the Assistant Principal,
- two counselors,
- a school psychologist,
- the Special Services Coordinator,
- the student's special education teacher, and
- one of the student's general education classroom teachers (PE and Health).

The complainant sent an email dated September 8, 2025 to the Executive Director of Special Education, the building principal, the student's special education teacher, and the student's mother. In her email, the complainant stated that the student's case manager (his special education teacher) had emailed the parent a set of documents that included - among other documents - a form allowing the absence of general education teachers at an IEP Team meeting scheduled for September8, 2025.

Additionally, in an email to the student's case manager dated September 8, 2025, the student's mother wrote:

> "After reviewing the Notice of Meeting, I have some concerns that key staff members are not listed, and I believe their participation is essential for developing an appropriate IEP for [the student]. For this reason, I think we should reschedule to ensure the correct team members can attend and meaningfully contribute.
>
> First, I noticed that assistive technology is not included. I spoke with [an AT staff member] from the district on August 27th, and he explained he would be sending a recommendation letter. We specifically discussed [the student] using a convertible Chromebook (tablet/keyboard function) that would allow him to utilize both keyboard and text-to-speech. This would address the issues he is currently having, since the tablet runs on Android while the Chromebook matches the district system. Having assistive technology represented at the meeting is crucial for this discussion.
> In addition, I saw a notice of excusal for a general education teacher. Since [the student] spends much of his time in general education settings, I believe a core teacher should be present—for example, a math teacher, as he is struggling in that subject. Their input is needed for realistic planning and supports. I also did not see a behavior specialist listed. Because [the student] is currently under evaluation, their presence is important. Similarly, I noticed no school social worker was included. I would like to add a social worker to the team so we can discuss the possibility of adding social work services to his IEP.

Finally, I believe there is a need for speech and language to be included to address social communication and self-advocacy skills. I also did not see any goal related to a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) or participation in a social skills group. I need clarification on whether this is being addressed by anyone.

I understand this is short notice, but I only received the NOM on September 5th and needed time to review it carefully. After reviewing it, we will need to reschedule the IEP meeting so that the proper staff are in attendance and [the student's] needs can be fully addressed. Without the right people in the room, we cannot develop a plan that ensures he is supported and has a successful year."

The case manager responded:

"Thank you for sharing your concerns. The IEP meeting is due Friday, September 12, so I have concerns about rescheduling.

The request for a different device can be discussed in the meeting today, and we can make changes as needed to the IEP draft. The excusal was created only for the event that the general education teacher has to leave early. There will be two general education teachers at the meeting. All teachers have provided input.

I apologize that the meeting participant list was not up to date; there will be more people in attendance than is listed. The social worker and behavior specialist will be in attendance.

The re-evaluation is in progress, and we will be meeting again to discuss the new data and make adjustments to the IEP. This includes speech-language needs and an updated Behavior Intervention Plan. There are currently 2 behavior goals included in the IEP draft, following directives and self-advocacy. I believe that meeting today, we can discuss all of the current data and make adjustments to the IEP draft as needed."

While the case manager's email states that two of the student's general education teachers would be attending the September 8, 2025 meeting, meeting notices provided by the LEA show that only the student's PE and Health teacher had been invited to attend. Signatures of the participants in the September 8, 2025 IEP Team meeting show that one general education teacher was in attendance.

Notes from the IEP Team meeting of September 23, 2025 show that 5 general education teachers attended the meeting. The notes reflect specific comments from the student's Health, ELA, and Science teachers.

Notes from the IEP Team meeting on September 29, 2025 also show that a general education teacher was present.

Summary and Conclusions:

Even though the parent was provided with a form requesting her consent for the excusal of a general education teacher from the IEP Team meeting held on September 8, 2025, a general education teacher did attend the meeting. A violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Additional Comments:

Written notice of an IEP Team meeting must indicate - among other things - the titles or positions of the persons who will attend the meeting on behalf of the school. The school may elect to identify participants by name, but the LEA is under no obligation to do so and may refer to a participant by title only (K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(1)).

The Notice of Meeting form related to the September 8, 2025 IEP Team meeting did not accurately inform the parent about who would be attending the meeting on behalf of the LEA. Signatures of the attendees at the meeting included the Director of Technology, a behavior specialist, and a social worker as attendees at the meeting even though these individuals were not shown to have been invited to the meeting on the meeting notice provided to the parent. (The social worker's name was included in the meeting notice provided to the parent, but she was erroneously labeled as a "Counselor.")

Because the LEA failed to properly inform the parent of those individuals who would be attending the September 8, 2025 IEP Team meeting on behalf of the school, a violation of special education statutes and regulations has been identified through this investigation.

Allegation 5

Predetermination of Services

Position of the Complainant:

According to the complainant, the parents were provided with prior written notice of actions proposed by the district before the IEP team meeting had been conducted.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations:

Predetermination of special education placement and services occurs when a school makes decisions about a student's IEP before the formal IEP meeting, without genuine input from parents or any meaningful consideration of the student's needs. This is a violation of special education law because the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) outlines an IEP process that specifically requires collaboration. IEP Teams - which include parents - must determine goals and services first, then decide what placement best serves the needs of the student, and then and only then seek the consent of the parent.

One of the procedural safeguards afforded to parents is the required Prior Written Notice of certain proposed special education actions. This notice must be provided to parents within a reasonable amount of time before the date the school proposes to initiate or change the

- identification,
- evaluation,
- educational placement of their child, or
- provision of special education and related services (FAPE) to their child (K.S.A. 72-3430).

The written consent of the parent is required before an LEA can make a substantial change in placement (more than 25% of the child's school day) or a material change in services (25% or more of the frequency or duration of any one service) or to add or delete a service.

Investigative Findings:

The complainant sent an email dated September 8, 2025 to the Executive Director of Special Education, the building principal, the student's special education teacher, and the student's mother. In her email, the complainant stated that the student's case manager (his special education teacher) had (on September 5, 2025) emailed the parent a set of documents that included - among other documents - a Prior Written Notice form dated September 8, 2025.

In a conference call with the investigator and representatives of the LEA on October 29, 2025, the student's case manager was asked why this document had been sent to the parent. According to the case manager, that form was sent in error. The Executive Director stated that it is not the practice of the district to send prior written notice of proposed action prior to the IEP meeting for a student.

The district was unable to provide a copy of the prior written notice form that was sent electronically to the parent on September 8, 2025 noting that as that form is revised, the earlier document is overwritten. However, the complainant was able to provide a copy of the draft that was sent to the parent. Both documents show the LEA to be recommending a material change to the student's special education services - an increase of more than 75% over what was specified in the student's September 13, 2024 IEP.

The LEA provided evidence to support their position that predetermination had in fact not occurred including the following:

On September 5, 2025, the student's case manager sent an email to the student's mother which included - among other documents - a draft IEP. In her email, the case manager wrote:

> "You will notice that the BIP has not been altered from last year. This is because the FBA has not been completed. It is in progress and we will meet when it is complete to create an updated Behavior Plan."

In an email to the student's mother dated September 19, 2025, the student's special education teacher wrote:

"Attached is an updated IEP draft that reflects data collected in the last couple of weeks. You will notice that baselines are adjusted, as well as success criteria in his goals."

The parent responded:

"I do have some questions regarding the adjusted baselines and success criteria noted in the updated draft. From my review of the progress reports and data provided, I do not see consistent supporting evidence that [the student] has mastered his current goals. For example, his math probe data still shows refusals and incomplete work, his comprehension accuracy remains around 43%, and there are no measurable baselines for writing or executive functioning. While the draft reflects adjusted baselines, there is no clear documentation or raw data provided to justify these changes. I respectfully request that the team provide the specific data sources used to determine the adjusted baselines and show evidence of where and how success has been measured. The Math progress reports show some probe data but many problems were left blank or marked as refusal. The 'growth' looks like a baseline adjustment more than real success. Drafts show baseline scores of 0 to 37 adjusted upward, with goal 'solve 2-step equations with 80% accuracy.' Compliance/Behavior progress report notes on refusals, shutdowns, or partial compliance. No consistent data points to show real mastery more anecdotal than quantitative. Draft IEP: baseline at 37% compliance goal 705. Self-advocacy the reports mention he sometimes asks for help with prompting, but there's no systematic data collection. Draft baseline adjusted from '3 times' to 10% to goal of 40-50%. Missing Reading: Comprehension probes = 43% accuracy, same as last year. No progress shown toward 80%. No baseline goal data chain in the 2025 drafts. Writing: Documents acknowledge 'brief responses, avoids writing' but no measurable baseline or criteria given. Executive Function: 'Often forgets to turn in assignments' is stated, but no baseline (e.g. % of work submitted) or measurable goal. Assistive Tech: AT listed in accommodations (tablet, audiobooks) but the AT section states 'not needed.' No baseline or criteria tied to AT usage or success. 'Comparing the Sept. drafts, I see baselines and criteria changed (e.g. Math 0 to 37; Self-advocacy 3 to 10) but the drafts do not include the probe data or logs supporting those changes, and there is no evidence that [the student] has met the stated criteria especially since reading and writing still lacks measurable goals; please provide the raw progress-monitoring data used to set these baselines and document any goal mastery. What specific data supports these adjusted baselines? Where is the documentation showing mastery of goals, beyond anecdotal notes? Can I see the raw probe scores or progress monitoring logs used to make these changes?"

The special education teacher replied:

"Attached is progress monitoring log for comprehension and algebra goals. You can view the behavioral data [with a provided link]. Comprehension should be: 62%. It must not have saved when I updated it. I have made that correction."

In an email to the student's mother dated September 23, 2025, the student's special education teacher wrote:

> "I will update the parent concerns in the draft prior to our meeting."

In a separate email to the case manager (special education teacher) on September 23, 2025, the student's mother asks that a "Parental Concerns Statement" be documented in the student's IEP. The parent specified her concerns related to math, written expression, reading comprehension, biology access, communication needs, behavioral supports, and assistive technology. She also listed a number of concerns that had been expressed by the student. These concerns are alluded to in the draft IEP document as follows:

> "[The student's] mother is concerned about his mental health and safety at school. She wants to ensure that he graduates on time, is able to access creative and career-based courses in animation and develop self-advocacy and coping skills. [The student's] mother is concerned about his academic needs in math, reading comprehension, and written expression as well as communication needs. She is also concerned about access needs in Biology, including missed instruction, peer conflict, and impact of teacher interactions on [the student's] mental health. She has concerns about his need for assistive technology as well as behavior and social-emotional supports."

The first properly constituted IEP Team meeting regarding the student took place on September 23, 2025. Both the complainant and the student's mother stipulate that the parties engaged in active discussions regarding the student's needs, and both agree that this discussion extended into a second IEP Team meeting on September 29, 2025.

Summary and Conclusions:

The student's case manager provided the parent with prior written notice of a material change in the student's special education services before any annual review meetings had been conducted. The LEA asserts that this form was sent to the parent in error. It is, however, easy to see why the parent and complainant would assert predetermination: the prior written notice sent to the parent before any IEP meetings had been held reads exactly the same as the prior written notice form provided to the parent after IEP meetings had been conducted.

The LEA states that it is continuing to provide services to the student in the manner outlined in the his September 13, 2024 IEP because the parent has not yet given written consent for the implementation of changes proposed by the LEA. Evidence provided by the district shows that the parent was involved in discussions about the student's new IEP and the services described therein.

Despite the "bad look" of this situation, the district has taken no action to implement a change in services without the consent of the parent. Under these circumstances, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Additional Comments:

The prior written notice document provided to the parent remains unsigned as of the writing of this report. It should be noted that this notice contains no reference to the fact that more than 10 additions were made to the "Accommodations/Modifications/Supplementary Aids and Services" section of the student's IEP. These additions constitute a material change in services for the student and should be called out in the prior written notice document. The LEA is strongly encouraged to take this opportunity to amend the prior written notice document to include these changes. A failure to provide the parent with prior written notice of these changes would be a violation of special education statutes and regulations.

Allegation 6

Conducting an IEP Team Meeting Without the Parents

Position of the Complainant:

The complainant asserts that on September 8, 2025 the LEA conducted an IEP team meeting for the student without parental participation.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations:

As noted above, the members of the IEP team are specifically identified and described in state and federal statutes and regulations. The parents must be members of the IEP team. Parents are equal partners and should be involved in the decision-making process throughout the development of the IEP (K.A.R. 91-40-17 (a).

If neither parent is able to physically attend the IEP team meeting, the parent and the school may agree to use alternative means of participation, such as video conferences and individual or conference telephone calls (K.S.A. 72-3429(b)(1); K.A.R. 91-40-17(c); 34 C.F.R. 300.322(c); 34 C.F.R. 300.328).

If the parents are unable to meet prior to the annual review date of the IEP and request that the IEP team meeting be extended for a short period of time until they can be involved in the meeting, the school may honor their request and document why the IEP has not been reviewed and when the IEP will be reviewed and revised. This situation should not be a common practice, and to avoid this issue it is best to schedule IEP meetings far enough in advance of the annual review date to allow for rescheduling if necessary. Schools should be aware that there is no exception permitted in the law to the requirement to annually review a child's IEP. But when schools schedule IEP team meetings too close to the annual review deadline, schools must balance the obligation to meet the annual review deadline with giving the parent required notice of the IEP team meeting and working with the parent to reach an amicable agreement about scheduling the meeting.

A school may conduct an IEP team meeting without the parent(s) in attendance if the school, despite repeated attempts, has been unable to contact the parents to arrange for a mutually agreed upon time or to convince the parents that they should participate (K.A.R. 91-40-17(e)(1); 34 C.F.R. 300.322(d)). The school must keep a record of its attempts to arrange a mutually agreed on time and place to secure the parents' participation. The record shall include at least two of the following:

- Detailed records of telephone calls made or attempted, including the date, time, person making the calls, and the results of those calls;
- Detailed records of visits made to the parents' home or place of employment, including the date, time, person making the visit, and the results of the visits;
- Copies of correspondence sent to the parents and any responses received; and
- Detailed records of any other method attempted to contact the parents and the results of that attempt (K.A.R. 91-40-17(e)(2)).

Districts are encouraged to use their judgment about what constitutes a good-faith effort in making repeated attempts to involve each family in the IEP process. At minimum, school districts must at least make two attempts, using at least two different methods, to involve the parents in the IEP team meeting.

Investigative Findings:

The LEA and the parent had mutually agreed to hold an IEP Team meeting on September 8, 2025 at 10:00 AM. The student's then-current IEP was ending on September 12, 2025. Prior notice of the meeting was provided to the parent via email from the case manager on September 5, 2025.

In an email to the student's case manager sent at 12:17 AM on September 8, 2025, the student's mother expressed concern regarding who would be attending the upcoming IEP meeting. The parent wrote:

> "I understand this is short notice, but I only received the NOM on September 5th and needed time to review it carefully. After reviewing it, we will need to reschedule the IEP meeting so that the proper staff are in attendance and [the student's] needs can be fully addressed. Without the right people in the room, we cannot develop a plan that ensures he is supported and has a successful year."

The case manager responded via email at 6:28 AM writing:

> "Thank you for sharing your concerns. The IEP meeting is due Friday, September 12, so I have concerns about rescheduling.
>
> ...I believe that meeting today, we can discuss all of the current data and make adjustments to the IEP draft as needed."

The Executive Director of Special Education also sent an email to the student's mother at 7:48 AM on September 8, 2025 writing:

> "We appreciate you sharing your additional questions and concerns. The IEP team will convene today at the scheduled time, you are welcome to join us; we will discuss your additional request and the request to reschedule. The IEP is due on Sept. 12; convening today will allow us to go beyond the annual due date. Do you have dates that you are wishing to meet? I know the re-eval is due next month; would you like to align the 2 and have one meeting?"

At 8:28 AM, on September 8, 2025, the complainant sent an email to the Executive Director of Special Education, the building principal, the student's special education teacher, and the student's mother. In her email, the complainant stated:

> "It was concerning to me that the parent appeared ill and likely unable to be a meaningful participant in this...IEP meeting. Therefore, I suggested [to the parent that she request] a later date to permit her meaningful participation."

The Executive Director responded to the complainant via email at 8:54 AM on September 8, 2025 writing:

> "I understand the concerns and we are happy to meet at a later date; the team is going to convene today and note that [the student's mother] requested to reschedule."

The complainant responded to the Executive Director at 9:00 AM on September 8, 2025 writing:

> "I instructed the parent to sign the NOM dated 9/5/25 for this 9/8/25 noting her request to have a meeting at a time she can attend to allow for her meaningful participation and to propose additional alternative dates she's available to participate."

The student's mother subsequently sent an email to the complainant at 9:09 AM copying the Executive Director and others stating:

> "Attached is the signed Notice of Meeting. Please note that I am unable to attend today's meeting as I am not feeling well. I remain committed to participating fully in [the student's] IEP process, so I kindly request that the meeting be rescheduled. Could you please provide three alternative dates and times so we can ensure the full team is present and I am able to attend."

The LEA convened an IEP Team meeting for the student at the previously scheduled time on September 8, 2025. Meeting Notes dated September 8, 2025 include the following statement:

> "Parents (sic) communicated that she was not going to attend the 9/8/25, due to personal illness. The IEP team met to review the content of the IEP and outline another meeting date for parents."

The LEA held the scheduled meeting on September 8, 2025 in the absence of the parent. After the meeting, the case manager sent an email to the parent offering two dates for another meeting - September 15 or 23 at 3:00 PM. The case manager then almost immediately sent another email offering September 25th instead of September 23rd. Ten minutes later, the case manager sent another email offering September 18 and 23, 2025. Five minutes later, the case manager sent the parent an email stating "Monday, September 15 3:00." On September 10, 2025, the case manager sent an email to the parent writing:

> "Please let us know which date you prefer to meet: Monday, Sept 15 3:00 [or] Tuesday, Sept 23 3:00."

The parent responded on September 11, 2025 writing "September 23 at 3pm will work."

In a telephone conversation with the investigator on October 27, 2025, the Executive Director confirmed that an IEP Team meeting for the student was conducted on September 8, 2025. The Executive Director stated that the parent had been notified of the meeting using two different methods, and the LEA did not want to be out of compliance by failing to conduct an IEP Team meeting before the student's then IEP lapsed.

The Executive Director reiterated her position during a conference call with the investigator on September 29, 2025 noting that it is the practice of the district to conduct an IEP Team meeting without the parent in attendance if there is a danger of not timely completing the annual IEP review so long as the parent has been notified of the meeting in two ways - in the case of this student via an email discussion and through the provision of a prior written notice form sent via email. It is the position of the Executive Director that before becoming ill the parent had agreed via email to attend the scheduled meeting, so the LEA felt it had met its obligation and thus conducted the meeting in the parent's absence. The Executive Director stated that a number of individuals from the district were scheduled to participate, and with a looming annual review deadline it would be difficult to reschedule, particularly because it was often hard to come to a mutual agreement with the parent on a meeting date.

The Executive Director of Special Education provided the investigator with an excerpt from the LEA's Process Guidance Document. That except - which addresses the topic of "Parent Participation Guidance" - includes the following bullet points:

- "The school district must ensure that one or both parents are afforded an opportunity to participate in the [IEP] meeting.
- Sufficient written notice (10 calendar days) must be provided to the parents to allow them to arrange to be present.
- The meeting must be scheduled at a mutually agreeable time and place.
- In the event that the parents cannot otherwise participate in the meeting, a telephone conference is acceptable.
- The school district may conduct an annual review meeting without parents in attendance only if it has made and recorded its unsuccessful attempts to arrange a mutually agreeable time and place to meet."

Summary and Conclusions:

in Doug C. v. State of Hawaii, 61 IDELR 91 (9th Cir. 2013), the United States Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit Court faced almost the exact situation, where a parent became ill and could not attend a scheduled IEP meeting. Faced with a situation where resetting the meeting would mean missing the annual IEP review date, the district elected to meet the required meeting date by conducting the meeting without the parent.

The court said, “The more difficult question is what a public agency must do when confronted with the difficult situation of being unable to meet two distinct procedural requirements of the IDEA, in this case parental participation and timely annual review of the IEP.” It answered its own question stating, “When confronted with the situation of complying with one procedural requirement of the IDEA or another, we hold that the agency must make a reasonable determination of which course of action promotes the purposes of the IDEA and is least likely to result in the denial of a FAPE. In reviewing an agency's action in such a scenario, we will allow the agency reasonable latitude in making that determination.” Even so, the court held that because a delay in holding the meeting would do less harm to the student’s interest than to the parent’s right to participate in the decision making process, “the Department's decision to prioritize strict deadline compliance over parental participation was clearly not reasonable.”

The court added, “There may, of course, be circumstances in which accommodating a parent's schedule would do more harm to the student's interest than proceeding without the parent's presence at the IEP.” For example, the court cited a case where “it was appropriate for the school to convene an IEP meeting without the parents' participation because the student was new to the school, and therefore did not have any IEP in place, and the student's parents were unwilling to reschedule for an entire month after having canceled a scheduled IEP review that was itself already almost one month overdue.” The court added, “We trust, however, that such circumstances will be rare given the central role parents have in helping to develop IEPs.”

In this complaint, the LEA acknowledges that it held an IEP Team meeting on September 8, 2025 without the parent in attendance only because the student's IEP was due for review by September 12, 2025 and the LEA did not want to be out of compliance by exceeding the 12-month window for an annual review. However, in convening this meeting the LEA ignored a key tenet of special education laws - that the involvement of a parent in the planning for their child is essential.

While the law allows LEAs to convene meetings without a parent present, it is clear that the decision to do so must be made only under those circumstances when a parent is proven to be unavailable or unwilling to participate in the process. In order to move ahead with a meeting in the absence of a parent, the LEA must demonstrate that, despite its best efforts, the parents were unreachable or refused to mutually agree on a time and date to meet.

In this case, the parent and the LEA agreed to meet on September 5, 2025, but the LEA found that they needed to reschedule that meeting. Both parties agreed to meet on September 8, 2025, but at the last minute, the parent was unable to attend because of illness. During the four days between September 8th and the upcoming September 12th deadline, the LEA could have proposed another meeting date for a time during that interval or could have explored other methods to secure parent participation (i.e. telephone or video conference call). No alternative options were explored. Instead, the LEA artificially impose a deadline of September 8 rather than the actual deadline of September 12 and conducted a meeting without a properly constituted IEP Team in attendance.

Special education laws expect LEAs to make a good faith effort to collaborate with parents. It was not the intention of the drafters to allow an LEA to simply hold an IEP meeting if a parent is unavailable so long as the parent has been given written notice by two methods. In this case, the parent had already shown herself willing to collaborate in determining a date and time to meet. The LEA had no reason to believe the parent would be unwilling to participate in a rescheduled IEP meeting -- she was simply too sick to come to a meeting on September 8, 2025. The fact that the LEA found itself in a time crunch did not obviate its responsibility to find a way to include the parent in the IEP meeting as they dealt with a looming deadline.

Because the LEA conducted an IEP Team meeting without the parent on September 8, 2025, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is substantiated on this aspect of this issue. Because the Executive Director has stated that the actions of the LEA in this case are in line with general directives given to staff regarding the convening of an IEP Team meeting in similar circumstances, a systemic violation has been identified through this investigation.

Allegation 7

Failure to Amend the Student's Educational Record

Position of the Complainant:

The complainant contends that the LEA has refused to amend the date of the student's IEP review to accurately reflect the date the first properly constituted IEP Team meeting was held (September 23, 2025).

Applicable Statutes and Regulations:

Parents have the right to request that their child's education records be changed if they believe something is inaccurate, misleading, or in violation of the student's rights of privacy. The LEA must decide whether to amend the information in accordance with the request within a reasonable time period of the receipt of the request. If the school does not agree that the education records should be changed, parents must be notified and informed of their right to a hearing (34 C.F.R. 300.618). A reasonable time period for an LEA to respond to a request from a parent is generally considered to be 15 school days. A hearing to challenge information in education records must be conducted according to procedures for such hearings under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) (K.A.R. 91-40-50-(b)).

Investigative Findings:

In an email to the student's case manager (special education teacher) dated September 23, 2025, the student's mother asks to have the student's IEP edited to reflect the correct date of the IEP team meeting (September 23, 2025) instead of September 8, 2025 - the date the LEA conducted an IEP meeting with an improperly constituted IEP Team due to the absence of the parent.

The LEA provided the investigator with an IEP for the student marked "Draft" which shows that the student's annual IEP review was conducted on September 8, 2025. The document also shows that implementation of special education and related services to the student began on that same date.

During a conference call between the investigator and representatives of the LEA on October 29, 2025, the LEA continued to state that three IEP meetings have been held during this school year, with the first on September 8, 2025. Since it is clear that the LEA did not believe the IEP should be amended to show September 23, 2025 as the date of the IEP, the district is obligated to inform the parent of that decision and notify her of her right to a hearing.

The Executive Director wrote in an email to the investigator on October 30, 2025 that the LEA had not provided the parent with prior written notice (PWN) of refusal to amend the date shown on the student's draft IEP noting that a PWN "is required when there is a refusal to a request to change the identification, evaluation, placement, or provision of special education services. Because the parent's request did not involve those things and was only about changing a date, we did not issue a PWN...Regarding the right to a hearing, the district sends procedural safeguards to all parents of special education students in August and offers them to parents at IEP meetings. [The student's case manager] offered the procedural safeguards at the September 23 [IEP] meeting, and the parent declined."

Summary and Conclusions:

While special education statutes and regulations do not specifically require an LEA to provide a parent with prior written notice of refusal to modify a student's educational records, those laws - which are spelled out in the Procedural Safeguards document - do require that the LEA respond in some manner to this type of request from a parent.

Special education laws describe what a "hearing" regarding a request for amendment of a student's record would look like.

In this case, the LEA did not offer any response to the parent's request but has indicated to the investigator that it considers the September 8, 2025 meeting to have been the first of three IEP Team meetings. It is the LEA's position that the date shown on the draft IEP given to the parents and on other documents reviewed as a part of this investigation is correct.

The September 8, 2025 meeting was not - for reasons previously explained - a properly constituted IEP Team meeting. Therefore, the date on the student's IEP should reflect the first properly constituted team meeting - September 23, 2025 - as the parent has requested.

The LEA has the opportunity to change the dates in the student's file while the IEP is still in draft form. However, because the LEA did not timely respond in any fashion to the parent's request for the student's records to be amended and did not - assuming the LEA intended to refuse to amend the student's record - inform the parent of her right to request a hearing, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Allegation 8

Failure to Properly Include the Student in His IEP Team Meeting

Position of the Complainant:

According to the complainant, the student - who was over age 14 - was not present for his IEP team meeting on September 8, 2025.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations:

Special education laws do not mandate the attendance of students under the age of 18 in every IEP Team meeting. The student must be invited to attend his/her own IEP meeting beginning at age 14, or younger, if a purpose of the meeting is consideration of the student's postsecondary goals and the transition services needed to assist the student in reaching those goals. If the student elects not to participate, the IEP Team must take other steps to ensure that the student's preferences and interests are considered in developing the IEP (K.S.A. 72-3429(c)(8); K.A.R. 91-40-17(f); (34 C.F.R. 300.321(b)(2)).

The LEA is not required to give students younger than age 18 the same notice of meeting that is required for parents but should document that the student was invited to the meeting.

Investigative Findings:

Notice of Meeting forms provided by the LEA show that the student was to be included in meetings on September 5, 8, and 23, 2025.

The IEP Team meeting of September 5, 2025 was cancelled by the LEA.

In an email to the student's mother dated September 7, 2025, the case manager wrote:

> "I just wanted to be sure that [the student] is planning to attend the IEP meeting tomorrow. If so, I will get him out of class and bring him down to the meeting."

The parent was ill and unable to attend the meeting scheduled for September 8, 2025. The student was also not present at that meeting. Meeting Notes dated September 8, 2025 reflect that transition planning for the student was not a topic of discussion.

Meeting notes from September 23 and 29, 2025 show that the student attended both meetings and participated in the team's discussion. The complainant also confirms the participation of the student in both meetings.

Summary and Conclusions:

Three IEP Team meetings were convened by the district between September 8 and 29, 2025. Evidence provided by the district shows that the student was invited to all three IEP Team meetings. The student did not attend the IEP Team meeting of September 8, 2025 (which was not a meeting of a properly constituted IEP Team), but evidence shows that transition planning for the student was not a topic of discussion during that meeting. The student did attend and participate in meetings on September 23 and 29, 2025 and contributed to the development of his IEP. Under these circumstances, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated on this aspect of this issue.

Issue Two

The student has been denied a FAPE because the LEA has failed to provide the special education support specified in his IEP which would facilitate his participation in a general education Biology class.

Position of the Complainant

The complainant asserts that the student did not attend his general education biology class between August 26 and September 23, 2025 and has not received the special education services in that general education setting that are required by his IEP.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.101, require states to ensure that a free appropriate public education (FAPE) is made available to all children with disabilities residing within the state. Accordingly, Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-2(b)(1) require that each school district makes FAPE available to each child with a disability residing in its jurisdiction. Federal regulations, at 34 C.F.R. 300.17, define FAPE, in part, as special education and related services provided in conformity with an Individualized Education Program (IEP).

Investigative Findings

The "Services Summary" section of the student's September 13, 2024 IEP states he was to receive 170 minutes of special education service in the general education setting for 5 days each week - or a total of 1,700 minutes over two weeks.

A Prior Written Notice for Initial Services, Change in Services/Placement and Request for Consent" dated September 16, 2024 shows that the district proposed that the student receive special education services inside the regular education setting for "340 minutes for 5 days every 2 weeks for English, math, science, and social studies" - a total of 1,700 minutes during the two week period.

The "Accommodations/Modifications/Supplementary Aids and Services" section of the student's September 13, 2024 IEP states that the student would be allowed "frequent breaks daily as needed" because he "can become overstimulated and/or dysregulated." The IEP also lists "alternate setting" as an accommodation to be provided on a daily basis for the student for the same reason he is to be provided breaks.

The Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP)included in the student's September 13, 2024 IEP states that when the student is frustrated and/or wants to avoid a task presented to him, he may

- use a disrespectful tone when speaking with adults;
- put his head down on the desk and close his eyes;
- fall asleep at his desk;
- verbally refuse to work;
- complain of ailments;
- ask to go to the bathroom;
- speak off-topic;
- attempt to start a conversation with the adult working with him; or
- attempt to argue with the adult working with him.

The BIP notes that these behaviors are most likely to occur in the general education classroom. The "Reactive Plan" to address these behaviors included the following:

- breaks/Calm Down Room;
- 10-minute breaks in the special education classroom (staff will start the timer and remain with him);
- Staff will not give the student academic expectations during this time;
- The student will return to his general education classroom at the end of the 10-minute period.

The IEP Team for the student met on April 30, 2025. Meeting Notes show that among a variety of topics the team discussed "current services and accommodations." According to the notes, the team talked about what "frequent breaks" meant to the student, noting that > "...at the beginning of the [2024-25 school] year, [the student] wanted to take those in the special education classroom. At this point in the year, when asked [the student] prefers to take a break in the general education room."

On several days, beginning on August 26, 2025, the student was in school but did not participate in his Biology class. According to the complainant, the student did not feel comfortable with either his Biology teacher or the paraeducator assigned to that classroom (who subsequently took another position). Rather than remaining in the classroom, the student went to the counselor's office on at least 5 occasions between August 26 and September 23, 2025.

According to the LEA and the complainant, the student was provided with a packets of curricular materials related to the course, and various staff district staff "checked on" the student from time to time. No special education support was given to the student while he was away from classroom. According to the LEA, some of the course content was reviewed with the student during the time he spent in the special education setting.

According to the LEA a new paraeducator was assigned to the Biology class in the first week of September. That individual was, however, assigned to work with both this student and another in the classroom and therefore did not leave the classroom to support the student at the center of this complaint.

During the time spent in the counselor's office, the student missed out on lab activities. While he was allowed to submit work that had been provided to him through the packet, the student was not allowed to make up labs, and his course grade was negatively impacted. Additionally, the student took but failed a test that was given during the period he was avoiding class. According to notes from a meeting on September 8, 2025:

> "[The student] is using his hot pass for the entire length of Science class."

However, The LEA took no action to address the student's avoidance until September 23, 2025. According to information provided by the district, the student's Biology class met on 10 days between August 26 and September 23, 2025. The student was absent from school on 2 of those days. The student missed 22 minutes of class on August 26, 2025 (attending for 63 minutes). He missed 34 minutes of class on September 2, 2025 (attending for 51 minutes) and 50 minutes of class on September 10, 2025 (attending for 35 minutes). The student did not participate at all in Biology classes held on September 16 and 18 - missing a total of 170 minutes. In total, the student missed 276 minutes of class - and special education support - during this time period.

In an email to the parent dated September 12, 2025, the student's case manager wrote:

> "I have noticed some improvement in class participation, and I am so glad he is enjoying some of his classes. I spoke to [the student's Biology teacher] and there is not an alternative for the labs, as those were hands-on activities. It is helpful that he is keeping up with his packet and his slides. He will have his unit test on Monday, 9/22, which is also the due date for all assignments for the unit. The study guide will be helpful in preparing. The plan is for him to take the test in my room with the para."

Notes from the September 23, 2025 IEP Team meeting state:

> "The science teacher is concerned with the amount of time that [the student] is missing class. [The student] does his (sic) 'hot pass' to head to the counselor office during science. While in the counselor's office, he is prompted by a variety of adults to help him process. [The student] communicated that he is struggling with feeling like he doesn't belong in the classroom. [He] wants to be treated as a part of a group.

> Parents reported that a situation occurred during science class that created tension with [the student]. The family has inquired about the possibility of changing his schedule. The team discussed the need to create a time frame and action steps to attempt to rebuild the relationship with the student in the classroom. If that resolution can't happen, then we could look into the possibility of changing the schedule. We will provide 5 class periods to repair student relationships...It would be reasonable to have the repair conversation completed by the end of the week (9/26/2025)."

Individuals who could help with this process were identified.

Since the date this complaint was received by the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE), the parent and the LEA have exchanged a number of emails regarding missed Biology classwork. The correspondence shows that the student has been making progress in completing missed work. Details regarding how the LEA is addressing grades for the quarter remain the subject of contention. On October 8, 2025 the student's mother sent an email to staff stating:

> "Please let me remind you that combining the two test grades is not acceptable. As clearly stated in a previous email and documented during the IEP meeting, we did not agree to averaging or merging scores as it did not comply with [the student's] IEP.
>
> [The student] did not receive the 595 minutes of specially designed instruction required by his IEP to access the Biology curriculum. Therefore, the first test administered without those mandated instructional supports should not be considered valid or included in his grade. The appropriate and equitable action is to eliminate the first test score entirely and count only the second assessment.
>
> Furthermore, I want the record to accurately reflect that the second test was based primarily on memorization from a key that was provided to him. This should not be misconstrued as evidence of instructional mastery or access to learning, but rather as a compensatory opportunity, as [the student] spent his time sitting in the office alone during periods designated for specially designed instruction that limited his opportunity to receive the instruction he is entitled to under his IEP."

The assistant principal responded: on October 10, 2025 writing:

> "I followed up with [the student's case manager, the Biology teacher] and the rest of the team and they confirmed that the decision was made to average the two test scores.
> At the conclusion of the previous IEP, the team was tasked with creating a plan for [the student] to gain access to learning that was missed while not in the Biology classroom. They stayed after the meeting to brainstorm how this may occur, taking into consideration the minutes he was present in the Biology classroom, absences he had from school, and time missed when he was utilizing his "hot pass" during the tests instructional window. After review, the team believed that an average of the original test and the re-test was appropriate

A plan of how to work individually with [the student] was planned, including organizing a way for [the paraeducator] to work directly with [the student] as the team acknowledged that [the student] has a strong relationship with him and making known of [the Biology teacher's] availability daily in seminar. It appears that this information...I am sorry if there was a misunderstanding about the test scoring and I would be happy to convene a team and schedule a time to discuss it with you."

Summary and Conclusions

The student opted to remove himself from his Biology class on 5 days between August 26 and September 23, 2025, going instead to the counselor's office. During each of those 5 days, he was to be receiving special education support in the general education classroom. While he was provided with curricular materials and checked on by various staff members during his absence from class, it was not until an IEP Team meeting on September 23, 2025 that a plan was put in place to reintegrate the student into the Biology classroom - where by all reports he is now finding some success.

The LEA asserts that the student was using a "hot button" accommodation in his IEP that allowed him to step away from the classroom, but no such accommodation is actually included in his September 13, 2024 IEP or referenced in a May 2025 amendment to that document. While the September 2024 IEP does allow the student to exit the general education setting to go to the special education classroom for a "break," a 10-minute timer was to be set, and the student was to return to his general education class. In May 2025, the location for the break was changed to a "general education classroom." There is no indication that the counselor's office would be considered a general education classroom.

Crediting 10 minutes per each absence (in line with what is specified in the student's September 13, 2024 IEP), the LEA still failed to provide the student with 250 minutes of special education support in the general education setting. The LEA asserts that time was spent working on Biology while the student was in the special education classroom at another time during the day, but doing so merely took time away from focusing on goals and objectives during that time. Those minutes do not count as support in the general education setting.

Because the LEA failed to provide the minutes of special education service in the general education setting required by the student's IEP, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is substantiated on this issue.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations on issues presented in this complaint. Specifically, violations have been identified with regard to

- K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(2), which requires that parents be given 10-day prior written notice of an IEP Team meeting;
- K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(1), which requires that IEP Team meetings be held at mutually agreed upon times and dates;
- K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(1), which requires notice of an IEP Team meeting include the titles or positions of the persons who will attend the meeting on behalf of the school;
- K.A.R. 91-40-17(a), which requires that a parent be a part of any properly constituted IEP Team;
- 34 C.F.R. 300-618, which grants parents the right to request an amendment of their child's educational record and to timely receive a response from the LEA regarding that request;
- K.A.R. 91-40-50(b), which requires the LEA to advise a parent whose request for an amendment of educational records has been denied that they have the right to request a hearing regarding that refusal; and
- 34 C.F.R. 300.101; K.A.R. 91-40-2(b)(1); and 34 C.F.R. 300.17, which require the LEA to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to a student by following that student's IEP.

Therefore, USD #231 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Submit to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) by no later than December 1, 2025, a written statement of assurance stating that it will comply with
    a. K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(2), by providing the parents of special education students with 10-day prior written notice of an IEP Team meeting;
    b. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(1), by scheduling IEP Team meetings at mutually agreed upon times and dates;
    c. K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(1), by providing notice of IEP Team meetings that include the titles or positions of all of the persons who will attend the meeting on behalf of the school;
    d. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a), by ensuring that a parent is a member of any properly constituted IEP Team;
    e. 34 C.F.R. 300-618, by providing a formal response to any parental request for an amendment of their child's educational record;
    f. K.A,R, 91-40-50(b), by advising a parent whose request for an amendment of educational records has been denied that they have the right to request a hearing regarding that refusal; and
    g. 34 C.F.R. 300.101; K.A.R. 91-40-2(b)(1); and 34 C.F.R. 300.17, by properly implementing this student's IEP.
2. By no later than December 1, 2025, USD #231shall
    a. Amend all IEP and Prior Written Notice documents related to this student which reflect an IEP Team meeting date of September 8, 2025 to show that the IEP Team meetings for the student were conducted beginning on September 23, 2025. Copies of these amended documents should be provided to SETS by no later than December 15, 2025.

b. Provide documentation to SETS to show that the next annual review for this student must be completed by no later than September 11, 2026 - 12 months from the date the annual review should have been completed during this review cycle.

c. To address the systemic violation identified in this complaint, develop and submit for review and approval by SETS procedures outlining the requirements for the scheduling of annual IEP reviews that include

   i. how to ensure the timely occurrence of those meetings in order to facilitate completion before the deadline for annual review;

   ii. what to do if the scheduled meeting is cancelled by the parent or the LEA;

   iii. alternative methods for ensuring parent participation; and

   iv. emphasizing that no annual review meeting should be conducted without the parent unless there is documented evidence that the parent has been notified (via two different methods) of two different meetings and has failed to respond or has refused to participate in the annual review process.

d. Once the procedures outlined above under Corrective Action 2c have been approved by SETS, the LEA shall train all special education staff on these procedures and complete that training by no later than January 31, 2026. Documentation that this training has been completed must be provided to SETS by no later than February 6, 2026.

e. Convene an IEP Team meeting for the purpose of clearly outlining how "breaks" will be implemented for this student and modify the student's IEP to include that clarification. Provide SETS with a copy of the revised IEP by no later than December 15, 2025.

f. Provide the parent with prior written notice of proposed changes to the student's IEP with regard to the addition of accommodations and request parental consent for these material change (25%) in services. Provide a copy of the prior written notice form to SETS by no later than December 15, 2025.

3. By no later than December 1, 2025, USD #231shall

a. Develop and submit for review and approval by SETS procedures outlining the requirements for providing parents with 10-day prior notice of an IEP Team meeting for their child. These procedures must outline the proper steps required to document that the parent has waived their right to 10-day prior notice of the meeting and agreed to convene the meeting with less than 10-day notice.

b. Develop and submit for review and approval by SETS procedures for providing parents with notice of those individuals who will be attending the IEP Team meeting on behalf of the district and what to do if the district subsequently determines that it wants to include individuals who were not initially listed on the notice form provided to the parent. Specifically, these procedures should address how these additions might impact the provision of 10-day prior written notice of the meeting.

c. Once the procedures outlined above under Corrective Action 3 a and b have been approved by SETS, the LEA shall train all special education staff on these procedures and complete that training by no later than January 31, 2026. Documentation that this training has been completed must be provided to SETS by no later than February 6, 2026.

4. Because the student's IEP was not properly implemented, the LEA failed to provide him with special education services in a general education (Biology) setting and instructional time was lost. In lieu of providing compensatory services to address lost special education support, and to ensure that the student is not penalized for an identified violation of special education statutes and regulations, the student's first test grade should be dropped and his course grade calculated without that score.

Further, USD #231 shall, within 20 calendar days of the date of this report, submit to SETS one of the following:

a) A statement verifying acceptance of the corrective action or actions specified in this report;
b) a written request for an extension of time within which to complete one or more of the corrective actions specified in the report together with justification for the request; or
c) a written notice of appeal. Any such appeal shall be in accordance with K.A.R. 91-40-51(f).

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 231
Gardner Edgerton School District: 26FC231-003

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on October 1, 2025, by ------- (Advocate), on behalf of ------- (Student). An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE). Following the investigation, a Complaint Report addressing the allegations was issued on November 3, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there were substantiated violations of special education statutes and regulations.

Thereafter, the school district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed, and it reviewed the parent's original complaint, the Complaint Report, the notice of appeal, and the response to the district's notice of appeal submitted by the parent, if any. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

The Appeal Committee limits its inquiry to the issues presented in the appeal. No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report issued on November 3, 2025. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function is to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The Complaint Report dated November 3, 2025 addressed two issues, including eight separate allegations of special education violations under issue one. The investigator found violations of special education laws for issues one and two, including five allegations under issue one. For both issues, the investigator stated appropriate corrective action. On appeal, the district disputes the findings in the Complaint Report (Notice of Appeal, p.1) for issues one (allegations six, and seven) and two. The district also takes issue with the investigator's additional comments in issue one, allegation five. The Appeal Committee will address both issues, including allegations five, six, and seven.

Issue One

Allegation Five

Did USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provide the parents with prior written notice of actions proposed by the district before the IEP team meeting had been conducted?

Any agency or complainant may appeal any finding or conclusion in a complaint report. K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)(1). Here, the district does not dispute the investigator's findings or conclusion in issue one, allegation five. Instead, the district asks the Appeal Committee to comment on and reverse the investigator's statement regarding the ten additional supplementary aids and services (accommodations) not referenced in the PWN provided to the parents. The Appeal Committee declines the district's invitation because appeals must only relate to an investigator's findings or conclusions. Additional comments by the investigator in the report do not constitute findings or conclusions.

The Appeal Committee recommends the district review the chart titled Requirements for Parental Notice and Consent in the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, Chapter 1, page 10, and note the line for adding a new service or completely deleting a service. The addition of a new service or the complete deletion of a service requires a Prior Written Notice.

Allegation Six

Did USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, allow the parents to meaningfully participate in the IEP annual review? Did USD #231 conduct an IEP team meeting with meaningful parental participation?

A school may conduct an IEP team meeting without the parent if the school, despite repeated attempts, has been unable to contact the parents to arrange for a mutually agreed upon time or to convince the parents that they should participate. K.A.R. 91-40-17(e)(1); 34 C.F.R. 300.322(d). Districts are encouraged to use their judgment about what constitutes a good-faith effort in making repeated attempts to involve each family in the IEP process. School districts must at least make two attempts, using at least two methods, to involve the parents in the IEP team meeting. In this case, the school was able to contact the parent to arrange for a mutually agreed upon time to conduct an IEP team meeting. The school and the parent mutually agreed to conduct the annual review of the Student's IEP on September 8, 2025 (Report, p. 18). Further, the parent was consistently reachable by email. (Report, p. 19). There was no need to convince the parent that they should participate in the annual review of the Student's IEP, as the Student's parent actively wanted to participate in the annual review of the Student's IEP and said as much in subsequent emails to the school.

Instead, the parent was unable to participate in the annual review of the Student's IEP due to illness. Kansas policy provides that if the parents are unable to meet prior to the annual review date of the IEP and request that the IEP team meeting be extended for a short period of time until they can be involved in the meeting, the school may honor their request and document why the IEP has not been reviewed and when the IEP will be reviewed and revised. Kansas Education Process Handbook, p. 68. When schools schedule IEP team meetings too close to the annual review deadline, schools must balance the obligation to meet the annual review deadline with giving the parent required notice of the IEP team meeting and working with the parent to reach an amicable agreement about scheduling the meeting. Kansas Education Process Handbook, p. 68.

Kansas policy is supported by Doug C. v. State of Hawaii. Though this 9th Circuit case is not binding on the 10th Circuit, of which Kansas is a part, this case is persuasive authority since it is the only appellate circuit decision on point. In Doug C. v. State of Hawaii, the district faced almost the exact same issue raised in this appeal. The Court stated, "When confronted with the situation of complying with one procedural requirement of the IDEA or another, an agency must make a reasonable determination of which course of action promote the purposes of the IDEA and is least likely to result in the denial of FAPE." Doug C. v. State of Hawaii, 61 IDELR 91 (9th Cir. 2013). The court held that because a delay in holding the meeting would do less harm to the student's interest than to the parent's right to participate in the decision-making process, "the decision to prioritize strict deadline compliance over parental participation was clearly not reasonable." Id.

Here, the district prioritized a strict deadline for compliance over parental participation. The district could have proposed another meeting date before the September 12th deadline or offered to secure parent participation through a telephone call or video conference call. These options were not explored (Report, p. 23). The district had no reason to believe the parent would be unwilling to participate in a rescheduled IEP meeting.

As for the identified systemic violation, it is enough that the Executive Director stated that the actions of the district in this case are in line with general directives given to staff regarding the convening of an IEP team meeting in similar circumstances. It was reasonable for the complaint investigator to infer that the district treats other parents similarly to the parent in this case, especially because the same practices and directives are given to staff regarding the convening of an IEP team meeting in similar circumstances. Therefore, the complaint investigator appropriately identified a systemic violation.

Allegation Seven

Did USD #231 fail to amend the Student's educational record?

Parents have the right to request that their child's education records be changed if they believe something is inaccurate, misleading, or in violation of the student's rights of privacy. 34 C.F.R. 300.618(a). The district must decide whether to amend the information in accordance with the request within a reasonable time. 34 C.F.R. 300.618(b). If the agency decides to refuse to amend the information in accordance with the request, it must inform the parent of the refusal and advise the parent of the right to a hearing under Section 300.619. 34 CFR 300.619(c).

In this case, the Student's annual IEP review began when the district met without the parent on September 8, 2025 and continued until September 23, 2025 when the IEP team met along with the Student's parent. The district was made aware of the parent's request to amend the Student's IEP to correctly state the date of the IEP team meeting on September 23, 2025 (Report, p. 24). The district refused to amend the date of the IEP team meeting. The district has the authority to accept or deny a parent request to amend a Student's educational record. However, the district must inform the parent of the refusal and advise the parent of their right to a hearing. Here, the district did not timely respond in any fashion to the parent's request for the Student's records to be amended and did not inform the parent of her right to request a hearing. The conclusion in the complaint report is sustained on this issue.

Issue Two

Did USD #231, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, deny FAPE to the Student when it failed to provide the special education support specified in the IEP which would have facilitated the Student's participation in a general education Biology class? In addition, is the corresponding corrective action of dropping the Student's first Biology test grade?

In Letter to Clarke (OSEP 2007), the Office of Special Education Programs emphasizes the missed services' impact on the student's progress and performance and notes a denial of FAPE is a determination that must be made on a case-by-case basis. FAPE is denied when there is an adverse impact on the student's education or parent's participation. In this case, there is insufficient evidence to show that the Student's progress and performance was hindered. It is not enough that the Student failed his first test (Report, p. 29).

Although there is no substantive violation, the evidence shows a material procedural violation of the implementation of the Student's IEP. The Student's September 13, 2024 IEP states he was to "receive 170 minutes of special education service in the general education setting for 5 days each week or a total of 1,700 minutes over two weeks" (Report, p. 27). The paraeducator assigned to the Biology class was to deliver special education services to the Student in the general education classroom (Report, p.29). Beginning August 26, 2025, the Student did not participate in Biology class (Report, p. 29). Rather than remaining in the classroom, the Student went to the counselor's office on at least five occasions between August 26th and September 23rd (Report, p. 29). The Student was provided with packets of materials related to biology and staff "checked on" the Student periodically (Report, p. 29). No special education services were provided to the Student while he was away from the classroom (Report, p. 29). This is inconsistent with the Student's IEP requiring special education services in the form of paraeducator support in Biology and other subjects. Thus, a procedural violation is found as it relates to the district's implementation of the Student's IEP.

Regarding the corresponding corrective action, any agency or complainant may appeal any finding or conclusion of a complaint report prepared by a complaint investigator. K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)(1). Corrective action is neither a finding nor a conclusion of the complaint report. The Appeal Committee only addresses corrective action if the corrective action is clearly erroneous. Here, the corrective action is reasonable, not clearly erroneous. The complaint investigator has broad authority when it comes to corresponding corrective action. Therefore, the Appeal Committee will not address or amend the corrective action required by the complaint report.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee sustains the investigator's finding in issue one, allegation six, specifically that the District failed to provide meaningful parent participation at the Student's IEP annual review meeting. The Appeal Committee also sustains the investigator's identification of a systemic violation.

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee sustains the investigator's finding in issue one, allegation seven, specifically that the District failed to timely respond to the parent's request to amend the Student's educational record and inform the parent of their right to request a hearing.

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee rejects the investigator's finding of a denial of FAPE in issue two. Instead, the Appeal Committee finds a material procedural violation as it relates to the district's implementation of the Student's IEP as written. As for the corresponding corrective action, the Appeal Committee sustains the investigator's corrective action for issue two, specifically that the Student's first test grade be dropped and the Student's course grade be calculated without the first test grade in lieu of compensatory services.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 1st day of December, 2025.

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #500
ON OCTOBER 2, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: OCTOBER 31, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, ------, by their parent, ------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #500, Kansas City Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #500.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term LEA in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on October 2, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ended on November 1, 2025.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), had an IEP in effect for the Student at the beginning of the school year. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(1-3); 34 § C.F.R. 300.323(a)(c)(2).

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Student's Individualized Education Program (IEP) was accessible to the special education teacher, related services provider, and any other service provider who is responsible for its implementation; and each teacher and provider was informed of their specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP, and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(4)(5); C.F.R. 300.323(d)(1)(2).

Background Information

This investigation involved a first-grade student enrolled at an elementary school in USD #500. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a developmental delay, a disability under the IDEA. The Student is described as able to follow directions with minimal redirection.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parents and staff in the LEA.

1. An IEP dated November 6, 2024 described the following:
    a. Parent 2, the Principal, the Special Education Teacher, the Kindergarten Teacher, and the SLP were in attendance. The annual review date was listed as November 5, 2025.
    b. Present Levels indicated the Student experienced "a developmental delay observed in the area of cognition, affecting the ability to meet age-appropriate milestones related to acquiring and understanding knowledge through thoughts, experiences, and senses. This impacts reading-related instruction, and tasks such as retaining and generalizing letters/sounds or phonics and decoding skills, identifying, using the spelling of [the Student's] name, and cop[y]ing lower and uppercase letters. This impacts math-related instruction, and tasks … ." Regarding communication, "The Student's delays impact [their] ability to get [their] needs met throughout the day and express [themself]."
    c. Required areas included: speech, language, reading, math, and social-emotional. The Student's current performance was described in the areas of language, social-emotional and speech. No information was provided for current performance in math, reading, or writing.
    d. Goals included:
        i. Goal 1, speech and language: "By November 2025, [the Student] will answer ['wh'] (who, what, where, when, why, how) questions about a structured/unstructured task using complete sentences with 80% accuracy when given visual supports and prompts/modeling."
        ii. Goal 2, speech and language: "By November 2025, in order to increase speech intelligibility, [the Student] will produce /s/ blends and /l/ blends at the phrase level with 80% accuracy when given up to two cues/prompts per trial."
        iii. Goal 3, writing: "By November 7th 2025, [the Student] will form 12 upper and lowercase letters using a preferred writing tool when given verbal and visual prompts with 80% accuracy and proper pencil grip."
        iv. Goal 4, math: "By November 7th 2025, [the Student] will accurately count to 30 using additional strategies (such as: 1-1 correspondence, identifying numerals by sight) when given verbal cues in 3 out of 4 opportunities."
    e. Special Education Services in effect from November 6, 2024 to November 5, 2025 were described:
        i. Speech and language services for 20 minutes, two days weekly, and writing/math for 30 minutes, four days weekly, outside of the general education classroom setting.

   ii. Writing/math for 30 minutes, four days weekly, and Writing/math 20 minutes, one day weekly, inside the general education classroom setting.

f. Progress reporting was listed as quarterly.

g. Placement was reported as "outside regular class less than 21% of time."

2. The Student's 2024-25 Report Card described the following:
   a. The key described the letter marks: "A/B": Meets Expectations; "C": Progressing; "I": Not Progressing.
   b. For quarters two through four, the report card indicated a total of nine absences.
   c. For writing, the only mark noted was a "B" for quarter three.
   d. For math, no marks were included for quarter 4.
3. The Student's 2025-26 Report Card reflected the same "key" as previously noted in 2024-25.
   a. The Student was neither absent nor tardy during quarter one.
   b. For writing, an "I" was noted with the comment: "… Is unable to write any words independently."
   c. For math, an "I" was noted for operations and algebraic thinking and mathematical practices with the comment, "… [the Student] needs to practice basic addition and subtraction facts to 10. It is an essential concept [the Student] needs to have in order to be more successful in math."
4. In an email exchange on August 7, 2025 and August 8, 2025, Special Education Coordinator 1 asked the Special Education Teacher if they had distributed the IEP-at-a-Glance for all special education students at the School to teachers and confirmed the Special Education Teacher had access to all the special education documentation for all special education students at the School.
5. Daily schedules dated August 12, 2025, August 14, 2025, and August 20, 2025 indicated the Student received:
   a. 30 minutes of reading/math "Collab," four days weekly.
   b. 15 minutes of reading/math "Collab," one day weekly.
   c. 30 minutes of reading/math "Direct," four days weekly.
   d. 30 minutes of reading/math "Direct," one day weekly.
   e. On October 27, 2025, the Executive Director indicated the "Reading" provided on the schedules provided in the materials was supposed to be "Writing" and was corrected in the October 20, 2025 version.
6. The LEA website listed the first day of school for grades K-5 as August 13, 2025. The 2025-26 Special Education Case Manager Handbook noted in the "Related Service Providers" section that the commencement of related services, "… begins the first week of school."
7. A Teacher Acknowledgement form dated August 14, 2025, indicated the General Education Teacher received a copy of the Student's IEP, understood the Student's accommodations and goals, and knew they were able to contact special education personnel with any questions.

8. From September 8, 2025 through September 25, 2025, the Student received speech-language services from the SLP, twice each week from 1:11 p.m. to 1:31 p.m., and three times during the week of September 29, 2025.
9. In an email exchange from September 17, 2025 through September 24, 2025, Parent 2 emailed Special Education Coordinator 3 to ask about the services the Student was receiving. Parent 2 mentioned they felt a significant amount of work was coming home with the Student. Parent 2 inquired about the teaching methods being used to support the Student and questioned whether "push-in" minutes were being completed. Parent 2 expressed concern about the skills the Student was learning. Parent 2 mentioned they communicated weekly with the General Education Teacher, and the General Education Teacher shared with Parent 2 the Student "becomes frustrated a bit within class." Parent 2 indicated that they "knew" at least some "pull-out" minutes were happening.

   The Director of Special Education responded to let Parent 2 know that they were taking leave and that the Principal and Special Education Coordinator 3 would handle the concerns. Special Education Coordinator 3 responded to clarify that they were not assigned to the School, and Parent 2 should reach out to Special Education Coordinator 2
10. Contact Logs dated September 18, 2025 through September 25, 2025 indicated Parent 2 reached out to several people in the LEA regarding "push-in services" for the Student.
11. For quarter one of the 2025-26 school year, the IEP Progress Reports dated November 6, 2024 through November 5, 2025, indicated the Student was not making progress on goal 1 (speech and language). Comments indicated, "[The Student] has shown some regression with this goal. With visuals and prompts/models, [the Student] answers 'wh' questions with an average of 60% accuracy, however [the Student] often requires multiple prompts and models to answer in complete sentences. [The Student] does better with what, who, where, but continues to show more difficulty with when, why, [and] how." For quarter one, the Student met goals two (speech and language), three (writing), and four (math).
12. On October 27, 2025, after their interview, and by request from the Complaint Investigator, the Virtual Case Manager shared the following information describing their communication with the Long-Term Substitute:
    a. On August 19, 2025, "I emailed the substitute teacher at [the School] to introduce myself. Briefly explain progress monitoring to [the Long-Term Substitute] and inquire about a date/time we can meet so I can go over that more thoroughly with [them]."
    b. August 21, 2025, "I met with the substitute teacher assigned to [the School] … to explain what students goals/benchmarks are and assessments to use throughout the quarter to monitor progress towards those goals/benchmarks."

c. September 12 and September 25, 2025: "I sent an email out … to the substitute teacher to provide instruction on the progress monitoring assessments."

Parent Interview:

13. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, when asked about the implementation of the Student's IEP, Parent 2 explained they initiated contact after the Student's Teacher reported that the Student was struggling with the pace of instruction, especially in math. They explained the primary implementation concern related to the lack of communication, as the Teacher confirmed they were not connecting with the Long-Term Substitute who was providing the special education pull-out services. Parent 2 stated this lack of communication raised questions about whether specified accommodations were being consistently applied in both the general education and specialized settings. Parent 2 explained they attempted to resolve the issue by contacting the Special Education Coordinator 3 at Other Elementary, but were initially met with silence, which required Parent 2 to escalate concerns to board members. Ultimately, it was discovered that the Director of Special Education had misidentified the coordinator for the Student's campus.
14. When asked about push-in supports, Parent 2 indicated their initial efforts to coordinate services led to the discovery that the Student was not receiving the required push-in supports. Parent 2 became aware of the push-in minutes stipulated in the IEP for subjects such as math and writing only after reviewing the November 2024 IEP. Parent 2 shared that, according to the Teacher, the Teacher later verified that no special education personnel were pushing into the general education setting during class time. According to Parent 2, this lapse in service was officially confirmed when the Director of Special Education responded to Parent 2's inquiry, stating that a schedule would need to be created for the push-in, which Parent 2 recognized as proof that the service had not previously been implemented.
15. Parent 1 and Parent 2 explained they felt math and reading were the subjects in which the Student needed the most help. Parent 2 shared they saw the Student bring home math work, mentioned an "amplify core" item, incomplete Student work, and some reading sheets.
16. Parent 2 indicated they persistently requested specific data and skill information from the LEA about the educational content being delivered during the Student's pull-out sessions. They recalled these requests, sent through multiple emails, were largely unanswered, and the communication was further complicated by the fact that the coordinator position changed various times. Parent 2 shared they never received the detailed information necessary to determine the exact skills being targeted by the Long-Term Substitute.
17. Parent 2 indicated they received one progress report via email at the end of the quarter. They recalled the information on the progress report was "contradicting," and they experienced confusion because it did not match what the Teacher was reporting in class about the Student.

18. When asked about their communication with the LEA, Parent 1 and Parent 2 expressed frustration with the LEA's overall lack of communication. Parent 2 shared that what the LEA was telling them, what they had seen, and what the Student had received did not "match up." Parent 2 stated, "But that's how the email communication has been. They don't want to call and talk to me … ."
19. Parent 1 explained the Complaint has "made things move" and "… has gotten people to where they actually feel … okay … . So we know that we [have] got to good communication."

Executive Director Interview:

20. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Executive Director described the various ways staff could access IEPs: via direct access to the IEP system, via the "IEP-at-a-Glance" document provided by case managers, and by requesting information directly from a case manager.
21. When asked who was providing Specially Designed Instruction (SDI) to the Student, the Executive Director stated the Long-Term Substitute and the Paraeducator were the service providers. The Executive Director confirmed the Special Education Teacher was the teacher last school year, as well as the teacher who started the 2025-26 year in the School, then left for another site.
22. The Executive Director confirmed progress reports were distributed four times a year at the quarterly report time via email. The Executive Director also shared that progress reports could be shared at IEP meetings by case managers.
23. When asked about the Allowed User Access document, the Executive Director stated, "[their] SLP teacher or related service provider and the [Special Education Teacher] both [were] down as users in the IEP system."
24. When asked about the Daily Schedule MTTF, the Executive Director established that the Paraeducator's "Para/Colab" schedule distinguished between "Collab," meaning "push-in" support inside the classroom, and "direct" time, which was identified as the pull-out service model. The Executive Director stated that the building staff created this schedule by aligning it with the classroom teacher's time to find slots for services and that all buildings operated on two different schedules due to early release on Wednesdays. They confirmed that the building determined when and where the Paraeducator would provide either push-in or pull-out supports.
25. The Executive Director stated they learned about the IEP not being implemented and the Parents' concerns after receiving the formal Complaint, and did not recall ever receiving direct communication about the concerns prior to the filing.

General Education Teacher Interview

26. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the General Education Teacher indicated they were the Student's first-grade teacher. They acknowledged they did not provide SDI in their classroom, as it was not their responsibility. The General Education Teacher stated the Special Education Teacher left after the beginning of the 2025-26 school year, and the Long-Term Substitute was responsible for SDI.

27. The General Education Teacher recalled being provided a copy of the IEP-at-a-Glance by the Special Education Teacher at the beginning of the year and signing the acknowledgement form. They were unaware of whether any paraeducators had read the IEP or IEP-at-a-Glance, or if paraeducators had access to those documents.
28. The General Education Teacher observed various paraeducators working with the Student in their classroom and noted they had a schedule to follow. They indicated, generally, some paraeducators were better at working with the Student than others. They stated staff absences may have affected the Student's services, however, they were unaware of any specific examples and reiterated they were not required to track service minutes.
29. Regarding the IEP-at-a-Glance, the General Education Teacher recalled "off hand" that the Student's goals included counting to 30, "wh-" questions, forming upper and lowercase letters in speech, and using four to five-word phrases. The General Education Teacher described they modified assignments for the Student by simplifying them and by providing access to learning tools.
30. The General Education Teacher observed the Student could not keep up in class, was below grade level, and had a hard time processing "directions" and "concepts." They stated Parent 2 asked for math work to be sent home for the Student to complete. They mentioned reading work was also available to take home if requested.
31. The General Education Teacher described their communication with the Parents as a weekly class newsletter and responding to any emails sent by the Parents.
32. The General Education Teacher perceived Parent 2 was "very concerned because of there not being a certified [special education] teacher … ." They stated they believed that was why the Complaint was filed.

Virtual Case Manager Interview

33. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Virtual Case Manager indicated they served the Student for one month during the 2024-25 school year, and from the beginning of the 2025-26 school year. The Virtual Case Manager described accessing the Student's IEP through the LEA's online platform, like other service providers, and indicated they provided the Paraeducator with the IEP-at-a-Glance.
34. The Virtual Case Manager described supporting the paraeducators and the Long-Term Substitute Teacher regarding the Student's goals and benchmarks. The Virtual Case Manager indicated they, "… met with them to go over what my assessments would look like quarterly to assess how [the Student's] doing towards each goal and benchmark … . And then the School has supported with gathering some materials to use throughout the week. And I have created … a drive, virtually, on Google, that's shared with them so they can look at resources and see what they can use that align with the goals. And we will meet weekly for that too. We meet weekly to go over what materials should be used for each goal … ."

35. According to the Virtual Case Manager, the Principal created the schedule for the Student's push-in and pull-out supports, and indicated that paraeducators and the Long-Term Substitute provided the Student with SDI, "… with my support and also the School support with providing materials and ensuring that they understand how the materials align to the goal, [and] how to implement the materials while working with [the Student]." The Virtual Case Manager explained their shared Google drive was organized by goal type and indicated they met with the Paraeducator weekly.
36. According to the Virtual Case Manager, the Long-Term Substitute "… is delivering services that are documented on [the Student's] IEP to ensure that [the Student's] receiving the services that we discussed as a team" in a pullout model.

Long-Term Substitute

37. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Long-Term Substitute shared they originally served as the School substitute, and when the Special Education Teacher changed roles at the beginning of the 2025-26 school year, the Long-Term Substitute Teacher stepped in to fill that role.
38. The Long-Term Substitute used the Student's IEP-at-a-Glance to identify areas of focus for the Student's work. They supported the Student with math and writing worksheets from K-5 Learning and consulted the General Education Teacher for guidance on academic needs. The Long-Term Substitute indicated they pulled the Student for instruction from 11:05 a.m. through 11:30 a.m. and indicated the schedule provided in the LEA materials for "direct" services was "… not the right schedule at all. That's the one that [the Special Education Teacher] started out with. It's totally different from that. I don't see [the Student] in the morning anymore that early." The Long-Term Substitute indicated the schedule was changed for various reasons.
39. After looking at the Student's report card from 2025-26, the Long-Term Substitute confirmed the Student was not able to write any words independently.

SLP Interview

40. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the SLP described accessing the Student's IEP via the special education computer program and shared they provided speech and language services to the Student twice each week for 20 minutes. They believed they began providing services on August 25, 2025.
41. The SLP described the regression noted in the Student's first quarter progress report and indicated the Student was not consistently answering "wh" questions and averaged approximately 60% accuracy as opposed to 70% accuracy. The SLP described that regression was not common in their practice and believed it was related to the summer break. The SLP shared, "… we just kept kind of trucking along and [the Student] was starting to get back into it. It's like [the Student] needed to get a refresher … ."
42. The SLP described a shared drive in which the service providers shared their schedules and indicated, "… I want to say there's one day of the week where we overlap just a few minutes."

Paraeducator

43. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Paraeducator indicated they worked "…. with the teacher, and I help the children if they need help with their math or their spelling or their lesson. [I] try to sit with them and help them with the lesson that's being taught." The Paraeducator shared they helped the Student with "… what's in [the Student's] IEP. I know … what [the Student's] IEP says … ."
44. The Paraeducator explained the Special Education Teacher provided them with copies of the Student's IEP. Additionally, the Paraeducator indicated the Student was strong in trying to write a sentence but needed more time with "getting the sentencing right" and described the Student tried very hard with math, a topic on which the Paraeducator also provided support.
45. Parent 1 filed the Complaint on October 2, 2025.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, had an IEP in effect for the Student at the beginning of the school year. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(1-3); 34 § C.F.R. 300.323(a)(c)(2).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(1-3) and 34 § C.F.R. 300.323(a)(c)(2), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of the school year and before special education and related services are provided. Those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law must be implemented no later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless a reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

The Parent alleged the Student did not receive the services outlined in the IEP.

The LEA indicated in their response that there was "… an active IEP in effect for the student at the beginning of the school year."

The 2025-26 school year officially began on August 13, 2025. The Student's existing IEP mandated that speech and language services (20 minutes, twice weekly) be in place from the start. However, the SLP did not begin providing these services until September 8, 2025, which was in the fourth week of instruction. This delay contradicts the regulatory requirement that an IEP be in effect at the start of the school year and the LEA's internal guideline noting that related services should begin "the first week of school." In Board of Education v. Rowley, 458 U.S. 176 (1982), the Supreme Court held that a FAPE means providing personalized instruction with sufficient support services to permit the child to benefit educationally from that instruction. However, without the provision of speech services until the fourth week of school, the Student was not provided the opportunity to make progress toward their speech goal. As a result, the LEA did not ensure the full provision of the Student's mandated speech services at the beginning of the 2025-26 school year, resulting in a denial of a FAPE.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to have an IEP in effect until the fourth week of school by not providing the required amount of speech and language services, resulting in a denial of a FAPE.

Issue Two

Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, ensured the Student's IEP was accessible to the special education teacher, related services provider, and any other service provider who is responsible for its implementation; and each teacher and provider was informed of their specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP, and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(4)(5); 34 C.F.R. 300.323(d)(1)(2).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(4)(5) and 34 C.F.R. 300.323(d)(1)(2), a child's IEP is accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service providers who are responsible for its implementation. Additionally, each teacher and provider is informed of their responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

The Parent alleged the substitute teacher was unaware of the services in the IEP.

The LEA indicated in their response that the Student's IEP was provided to teachers and related service providers in a variety of ways.

The LEA provided the Student's teachers and service providers access to the Student's IEP by several different means, depending on their role. The General Education Teacher, the Virtual Case Manager, and the SLP all accessed the IEP through the LEA's online platform. The Virtual Case Manager provided initial verbal guidance on goals and instruction to the Long-Term Substitute, who also indicated they received a copy of the Student's IEP-at-a-Glance. The Paraeducator also confirmed direct knowledge of the IEP's content. These steps fulfilled the requirement to ensure staff were aware of the Student's goals and accommodations.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to ensure the Student's IEP was accessible to the Student's teachers and related service providers or failed to inform them of their specific responsibilities, accommodations, and supports.

Issue Three

Whether USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, allowed the Parent to inspect and review all education records regarding the provision of a FAPE to the Student, specifically regarding the Student's accommodations. K.A.R. 91-40-50(a)(2)(b), K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1); 34 § C.F.R. 300.501(a)(2).

K.A.R. 91-40-50(a)(2)(b) defines educational records as documents or media on which information directly related to one or more students is maintained by a participating agency. According to K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1) and 34 § C.F.R. 300.501(a)(2), the parents of exceptional children shall have the right to examine all records relating to the child and to participate in meetings with respect to the identification, evaluation, educational placement, and the provision of a FAPE to such child.

The Parent alleged they did not receive a response from the LEA when they inquired about the strategies the LEA was using during the Student's pull-out instruction.

The LEA indicated in their response they were not aware there was a request to inspect or review the Student's educational records.

The evidence indicated the Parents asked about the Student's services, methods, and minutes, and recollected requesting "specific data and skill information," which constitutes a request for information, but is not explicitly a formal request to inspect and review a specific set of documents or educational records as defined by the law.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to allow the Parent to inspect and review all education records regarding the provision of a FAPE.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(1-3); 34 § C.F.R. 300.323(a)(c)(2) specify that IEPs must be in effect at the beginning of the school year.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #500 did not provide speech services for the Student until the fourth week of school. Materials provided by the LEA and interviews document this.

Based on the foregoing, USD #500 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #500 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. 300.301(c) and K.A.R. 91-40-8(f) by ensuring the IEPs for students with disabilities are in effect, including the provision of related services, at the beginning of each school year.

2. Further, by March 1, 2026, USD #500, the LEA shall provide the Student with compensatory services. The goal of compensatory education is to place the Student in the position that the Student would be in had the LEA provided the appropriate services in the first place.
    i) To address the denial of a FAPE, LEA shall provide the Student with 120 hours of compensatory speech and language services provided by an SLP.
    ii) A team composed of representatives from the LEA and the Parent shall meet no later than December 1, 2025. The team shall determine the schedule for the provision of the services. The team shall consider the Student's schedule for the school year, the educational setting, and the Student's ability to sustain attention and interest. Compensatory services should take place outside of the Student's regular school day, including instructional time, recreational time, and mealtimes. The meeting will be appropriately noticed.
        (1) Parental refusal to participate in scheduling or related meetings may result in a waiver of compensatory services in whole or in part, provided that LEA has documented good faith efforts to schedule the meeting at a mutually agreeable time and place.
    iii) The schedule for compensatory services shall be provided to SETS no later than January 15, 2026.
    iv) LEA shall be responsible for all costs and transportation associated with the compensatory services.
    v) Compensatory services shall be completed by March 1, 2026. Student absence shall result in the waiver of service scheduled for that day. Staff absence must be rescheduled. Any compensatory service declined or not utilized by March 1, 2026, shall be deemed waived (assuming LEA has made a good faith effort to timely commence and provide all compensatory service). Parents may choose to waive compensatory services in whole or in part. SETS requests that such a waiver be made in writing.
    vi) The LEA shall provide compensatory service logs to the SETS platform on a monthly basis until service minutes are complete.
    vii) Monthly logs shall contain a date, a brief description of the services offered, who provided the service, and a start and end time for each service rendered.
    viii) Student absence shall result in waiver of service for that day. Provider absence must be rescheduled.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 500
Kansas City Public Schools: 26FC500-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on October 2, 2025, by -------- (Parent), on behalf of his daughter, -------- (Student). An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE). Following the investigation, a Complaint Report addressing the allegations was issued on October 31, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there were substantiated violations of special education statutes and regulations in issue one. There were no substantiated violations of special education statutes and regulations in issues two and three.

Thereafter, the school district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed, and it reviewed the parent's original complaint, the Complaint Report, the notice of appeal, and the response to the district's notice of appeal submitted by the parent, if any. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

The Appeal Committee limits its inquiry to the issues presented in the appeal. No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report issued on October 31, 2025. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function is to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The Complaint Report dated October 31, 2025 addressed three issues. The investigator found violations of special education laws in issue one. For issue one, the investigator provided corrective action. On appeal, the district disputes the corrective action required by the Complaint Report (Notice of Appeal, p.1) for issue one. The Appeal Committee will address issue one, including related corrective action.

Issue One

Did USD #500, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, have an IEP in effect for the Student at the beginning of the school year? Is the required corrective action to be completed by USD #500 reasonable and supported by the findings of fact?

An IEP must be in effect for each exceptional student at the beginning of the school year and before special education and related services are provided. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(1); K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3); 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2). The services for which written consent was granted must be implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless a reasonable justification for a delay can be shown. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(2).

In this case, the Student's existing IEP mandated that speech and language services be in place from November 6, 2024 through November 5, 2025 (Report, p. 5). The existing IEP required speech and language services for 20 minutes, two days a week (Report, p. 5). The school year began August 13, 2025 (Report, p. 6). The school district did not provide the Student with the required speech and language services identified in the Student's IEP until September 8, 2025 or 3.5 weeks after the school year started (Report, p. 6).

The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) does not address make-up sessions when speech and language services are missed or not provided. The Appeal Committee looks to Letter to Clarke for guidance. In Letter to Clarke (2007), the Office of Special Education Programs emphasizes the missed sessions' impact on the student's progress and performance and notes a denial of FAPE is an individual determination that must be made on a case-by-case basis. The Supreme Court defines FAPE as providing personalized instruction with sufficient support services to permit the child to benefit educationally from that instruction. Board of Education v. Rowley, 458 U.S. 176 (1982). Here, the Student was not provided the opportunity to make progress toward their speech and language goal for the first 3.5 weeks of the 2025-26 school year. The Student's IEP Progress Report for quarter one of the 2025-26 school year indicated that the Student was not making progress on goal one (speech and language goals). In fact, the Student regressed regarding goal one for quarter one of the 2025-26 school year (Report, p. 7). Therefore, the school district denied the Student FAPE requiring corrective action in the form of compensatory services. Compensatory services are reasonable in this case because the missed speech and language service sessions impacted the Student's progress and performance.

Even though corrective action in the form of compensatory services is reasonable in this case, the corrective action requiring 120 hours (7,200 minutes) of compensatory speech and language services is both excessive and obvious clerical error. The Student missed 3.5 weeks of 20 minute, twice weekly speech and language services. Thus, the Student is eligible for 140 minutes of compensatory speech and language services.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee sustains the investigator's finding in issue one, specifically that the District failed to provide the Student with 20-minute, twice weekly speech and language services required by the Student's IEP. However, the Appeal Committee finds the compensatory services corrective action for issue one an obvious clerical error, especially because total compensatory services would equal 7,200 minutes. Therefore, the Appeal Committee amends the total compensatory services to equal 140 minutes. The Parent may accept the compensatory services in whole or in part, or waive the compensatory services altogether.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this XXth day of November, 2025.

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a nine-year-old student enrolled in the 4th grade at Garfield Elementary School in USD #503 during the 2025-2026 school year. The student's most recent reevaluation was conducted on April 18, 2023 and the multidisciplinary team determined that the student continued to be eligible for special education services under the exceptionality category of Autism.

The student was initially found eligible for early childhood special education services on May 15, 2020 and has always attended school in USD #503 with an IEP in place. The current IEP was developed on April 8, 2025 and amended on May 12, 2025 . The student currently receives special education instruction and supports during the entirety of his school day in a low incidence special education classroom with speech and language therapy, occupational therapy, attendant care, and transportation provided as a related service. The IEP calls for a shortened school day with the student attending school from 8:00 a.m. and leaving at 1:30 p.m. each school day.

It is noted that the student previously attended Guthridge Elementary School in a low incidence classroom but, because of district restructuring, the classroom was moved to Garfield Elementary for the 2025-26 school year.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

USD #503, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP, specifically by shortening the student's school day and restraining the student with a seatbelt when providing transportation as a related service as well as by not appropriately training transportation staff during the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.320(a)(4) require the IEP to include a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; to be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum, and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and to be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children in the activities.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.34(a) defines "related services" as transportation and such developmental, corrective, and other supportive services as are required to assist a child with a disability to benefit from special education.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.34(c)(16) defines "transportation as a related service" to include travel to and from school and between schools; travel in and around school buildings; and specialized equipment (such as special or adapted buses, lifts, and ramps), if required to provide special transportation for a child with a disability.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated the LEA has not been providing transportation as a related service during the 2025-26 school year as required by the student's IEP. First, the student is supposed to be at school each day from 8:00 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. On August 22, 2025, the Garfield Elementary School Principal drove the student home from school before 1:30 p.m. without notifying the parents. The RBT reported she was told by the Garfield Elementary School Principal that "she needed to be at the student's house before 1:30 p.m. because there would be days the student would be home before 1:30 p.m.". On September 1, 2025, the parent reported she was told by the Garfield Elementary School Principal that he was going to get the student early at school in case there were "hiccups" that needed to be dealt with but did not indicate to her that this meant the student could be leaving school early each day. The parent is not in favor of shortening the student's school day and would like to see an increase in the school day for this school year.

Second, transportation was not provided appropriately on August 20, 2025, the first day of school. The RBT was at the student's house when he arrived at 1:39 p.m. for his scheduled session but the student was crying and red in the face when he got off the school van. The RBT reported that the Van Paraprofessional said the student was not happy because he was made to wear a seatbelt on the van. The Van Paraprofessional indicated she had to hold the seatbelt on the student even though he was screaming and trying to get out of the seatbelt. The RBT reported the student continued to be extremely upset and dysregulated for "a long while after this before he was able to calm". The protocol for this type of situation was for the bus to pull over and call the parent to come pick up the child; however, this did not occur.

Third, the Van Paraprofessional and the Van Driver were not appropriately trained to work with the student or in crisis prevention and intervention (CPI). This resulted in the student being physically restrained on the bus and the student becoming very upset and dysregulated. The Van Paraprofessional told the parent that she was only told to ride the van with the student shortly before they left on August 20, 2025 and had not received any training to work with the student and was not CPI trained.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA reported that all staff that work with the student are trained appropriately to provide a safe ride to the student's house. When there were questions or some type of difficulty with the student on the van, the Garfield Elementary Principal stepped in to observe and model what to do if a difficult behavior occurred on the van. This mentoring was provided for multiple days to ensure staff felt comfortable and the student was safe.

The LEA did not intentionally shorten the student's school day. The Garfield Elementary Principal and the van driving team were apprehensive about the van ride home during the first couple days of the school year because of new staff and the new school building. The LEA reported the van driving team practiced and developed a plan for safe transportation and determined the van route during those first couple of days of the new school year, just as occurs with all students on a transportation route.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The student's IEP Amendment dated May 12, 2025 requires transportation as a related service from Garfield Elementary School to home in a van provided by the Tri-County Interlocal #607 using a "weight appropriate car seat with a 5-point harness" beginning April 8, 2025 through April 7, 2026. This transportation will be provided daily when school is in session for up to 20 minutes per day.
2. Interviews with the Van Driver and the Transportation Interview notes from the Tri-County Interlocal #607 Director showed the student rode the van on August 20, 2025 with only a seatbelt which caused the student to become very upset and dysregulated. A zip-front harness was then introduced at home and school and used on the van; however, the student now prefers to ride with just a lap belt. There have been no incidents on the van since the first day of school.

3. Interviews with the Van Driver and the Transportation Interview notes from the Tri-County Interlocal #607 Director showed the van ride is currently between 5 to 8 minutes long each day since the mother has moved to a new address. Previously, the van ride was between 2 and 5 minutes long each day.
4. The Garfield Building Principal stated, "On 8/22, I spoke with the RBT when we arrived at 1:32. She was not present when we arrived and was rude when she got there after a few minutes wait. She was complaining about the student being there early and I attempted to explain that all students have transportation wrinkles that need to be ironed out at the outset of each year and we would likely not typically be there that early, although that would be highly dependent on how much time we had to build in for transporting due to possible behaviors. It was quickly apparent that the student was highly motivated to return home and he has not attempted to remove his seat belt since, to my knowledge".
5. The Tri-County Interlocal #607 Director stated, "The instruction and training provided to Tri-County drivers is to ensure that all students are buckled when the vehicle is being driven. If a student unbuckles themselves then pull over. There are three things that occurred when the student took off his seat belt on the first day of transportation. a) The driver pulled over. b) The rider buckled the student back in. c) The rider held her hand over the seat belt locking mechanism so the student could not unbuckle the seatbelt. They drove the student home. Since safety is a number one priority for students, after this drive, reflection, a meeting and additional support were provided to staff. A harness was introduced to the student and the school attempted to use this in place of the seat belt. A harness was introduced but is no longer needed. The student is now able to ride in the van with just a seatbelt".
6. Interviews found that the Van Driver is also employed as a paraprofessional during the 2025-26 school year and is assigned to work with the student in the low incidence special education classroom.
7. CPI Training Records show that the Van Driver and the Garfield Elementary School Principal all hold current CPI certification.
8. Paraprofessional Training Logs show that the Van Driver and the Van Paraprofessional had received training in Emergency Safety Interventions (ESI) in August 2025 and prior to the first day of school on August 19, 2025
9. Interviews with the Van Driver and the Garfield Elementary Principal along with the Transportation Interview notes from the Tri-County Interlocal #607 Director all acknowledged the van did leave a little earlier for the first few days of school to ascertain what, if any behaviors were displayed by the student on the trip home since he had transferred to a new school building.
10. The Specia Education Teacher indicated that since those first several days of school when transportation issues were being addressed, the student is regularly in class until 1:30 p.m. each school day.
11. Neither the LEA or the complainant provided documentation showing the student's drop-off times at home following the van ride during the 2025-26 school year.

Conclusion

The student's current IEP is the May 12, 2025 amendment to the April 8, 2025 IEP which requires transportation as a related service in a van provided by the Tri-County Interlocal #607 using a "weight appropriate car seat with a 5-point harness" for five days per week for no more than 20 minutes when school is in session beginning April 8, 2025 through April 7, 2026. Interviews and documentation found that the student was provided with a seatbelt, a zip-front harness, and a lap belt but never the car seat as specifically described in the IEP during the 2025-26 school year. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT of compliance for providing transportation as a related service as required by the student's IEP and corrective action is required.

The concerns related to the shortening of the student's school day appear to come from the first weeks of the 2025-26 school year when the student had transferred to a new school building and was working with new staff. The LEA acknowledged the van did leave a little earlier for the first few days of school to ascertain what, if any behaviors were displayed by the student on the trip home since he had transferred to a new school building and to work out the van route and a plan for safe transportation on the school van. However, the Special Education Teacher reported that, besides those first couple of days of figuring out the transportation, the student is consistently staying in the special education classroom until 1:30 p.m. as required by the IEP. The LEA noted van routes are tweaked for all students during the first couple days of the school year and that same process is what caused the unintentional shortening of the student's school day for that brief time period. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found to be IN compliance because the unintentional shortening of the school day by several minutes while determining the plan for the route and safety did not deny the student with FAPE.

In regards to the allegations related to appropriate training for the Van Driver and the Van Paraprofessional, the interviews and documentation showed the Van Driver holds current CPI certification, was trained in ESI procedures in August 2025, and participated in Tri-County Interlocal #607 driver training prior to the start of the 2025-26 school year while the Van Paraprofessional was trained in ESI procedures in August 2025 and was assigned to work in the low incidence special education classrooms at Garfield Elementary School. The incident described by both the parent and the complainant indicated the student was physically restrained on the van ride on August 20, 2025, and the interview with the Van Driver and the Transportation Interview notes from the Tri-County Interlocal #607 Director found the Van Paraprofessional had used her hand to cover the seatbelt locking mechanism so the student could not unbuckle the seatbelt. This would be considered a type of mechanical restraint since the student was being forcibly kept from moving against his will; however, this was also a safety issue and both the Van Driver and Van Paraprofessional had been trained in ESI procedures in August 2025. Note that no findings can be made in regards to the use of ESI procedures because these do not fall under the jurisdiction of the IDEA.

Issue Two

USD #503, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to appropriately respond to the parent's requests for applied behavioral analysis (ABA) therapy to be provided at school to enable the student to meet IEP goals; to conduct a functional behavior assessment (FBA); and to develop a behavior intervention plan (BIP) for the student during the past 12 months.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.324(a)(2)(i) require the IEP to consider special factors when developing the IEP. In the case of a child whose behavior impedes the child's learning or that of others, the IEP team must consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address that behavior.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a) require public agencies to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE (free appropriate public education) to the student.

When parents provide written consent for an evaluation of their child, Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-408(f) require the LEA to complete the proposed evaluation withing 60 school days.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.306(a)(2) require the public agency to provide a copy of the evaluation report and the documentation of determination of eligibility at no cost to the parent.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that the parent has made multiple requests for the LEA to conduct a functional behavioral assessment to gather data to develop a behavior intervention plan to address the student's behavioral concerns with physical aggression towards staff and peers; however, an FBA has not yet been completed. In addition, the parent has made multiple requests for ABA therapy but these have been ignored.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA reported an FBA was completed at parent request in May 2025 and a new FBA is in the process of being completed at the student's new school building this time. The LEA indicated that, based on the FBA completed in May 2025, the IEP team considered developing a BIP but instead agreed to make changes to the student's IEP. The LEA is unaware of any parent requests made for ABA therapy during the past 12 months.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The student's IEP Amendment dated May 12, 2025 includes one goal and four accommodations to address behavior and sensory regulation. The IEP does not contain a BIP or ABA therapy as a related service.
2. During the past 12 months, the IEP team met on the following dates: March 25, April 8, May 6, and September 12, 2025.
3. The IEP team started the annual IEP review on March 25, 2025 but this meeting was not concluded. The IEP team met again on April 8, 2025 to complete the review and revision with both the parent and the complainant in attendance.
4. Copies of notes from the April 8, May 6, and September 12, 2025 IEP team meetings showed the student was receiving ABA therapy through IBT in the home and that the complainant shared strategies that were effective in that setting. The September 12, 2025 Conference Summary shows IBT offered to come to the school to "collaborate, oversee, and provide strategies and support for the student". However, there was no documentation found that reflected the parent requested ABA therapy as a related service to address the IEP goal for the student in the school setting.
5. During interviews, both the complainant and the parent indicated requests were made for ABA therapy to be provided at school; however, no written documentation was referenced.
6. The PWN dated April 11, 2025 showed the IEP team considered the development of a BIP but determined to wait until an FBA was completed.
7. The LEA uses the procedures outlined in the Tri-County FBA & BIP Guidebook to conduct an FBA. This document was created for the LEA through a collaboration between the Tri-County Interlocal #607 and Tommie Gonsalez, Educational Behavioral Consultant at Greenbush [Southeast Kansas Education Service Center].
8. The PWN dated April 15, 2025 proposed to conduct a reevaluation consisting of an FBA and the parent provided written consent on that same date.
9. The FBA Planning Forms dated April 15 and May 6, 2025 show the FBA team including the parent used the Basic Needs Questionnaire to gather historical and current information as well as current ABC [antecedent / behavior / consequence] data in the school setting to ascertain the function of the student's behavior, identify triggers as well as positive intervention strategies to address the negative behavior and increase the desired behavior. The May 6, 2025 notes indicate the function of the behavior was to escape and to seek sensory input. The notes included specific recommendations for interventions and the next step was to amend the IEP to include the identified supports and accommodations. It is noted that a BIP was not a recommendation resulting from the FBA. The notes also indicate that "Per IBT, their treatment plans cannot duplicate IEP goals".
10. The IEP was amended without a meeting on May 12, 2025 through written agreement between the parent and the 2024-25 Special Education Teacher.

11. The LEA did not provide the parent with a copy of an Evaluation Report resulting from the reevaluation for an FBA consented to by the parent on April 15, 2025 and completed on May 6, 2025.
12. The IEP team met on September 12, 2025 to discuss parent concerns and the transition to the new school building. The parent requested another FBA be conducted and the LEA provided the parent with PWN proposing to conduct a reevaluation of the student to include assessment in the areas of Health / Motor, Academic, and Social/Emotional/Behavioral including an FBA. The parent provided written consent for the proposed reevaluation on that same date. Currently, the reevaluation with assessment is being conducted by the LEA within the 60 school day timeframe.

Conclusion

In this case, interviews and documentation showed that the LEA did conduct an FBA through a reevaluation of the student in the spring of 2025. The parent provided written consent for the reevaluation on April 15, 2025. The LEA used the procedures in the Tri-County FBA & BIP Guidebook and the parent participated in completing the Basic Needs Questionnaire on April 15, 2025 as well as in the review of data and summary discussions held on May 6, 2025 where the function of the behavior was established and interventions were identified. Subsequently, the student's IEP was amended on May 12, 2025 without an IEP team meeting based on the information obtained during the reevaluation. However, the parent was never provided with an evaluation report summarizing the findings from the FBA which has caused confusion resulting in the parent not realizing an FBA was conducted. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT of compliance with the requirements to provide the parent with a copy of the evaluation report and corrective action is required.

Regarding the allegation that the LEA has not responded to the parent's requests for ABA therapy, documentation did not support a finding that the parent had requested this related service for the student. It appeared that the complainant and parent provided information about the ABA services provided in the home and shared strategies that were effective in that setting. While IBT offered to "collaborate, oversee, and provide strategies and support for the student", the LEA did not believe this was a parent request for ABA services as IBT had indicated their treatment plans could not duplicate IEP goals.

Regarding the allegation that a BIP be created for the student, documentation did not support a finding that the LEA failed to develop and include a BIP in the student's IEP. Documentation shows that a BIP was considered at the April 8, 2025 IEP team meeting but was rejected pending the completion of an FBA. Following the completion of the FBA on May 6, 2025, the IEP team did not recommend a BIP be included in the IEP and instead recommended amending the IEP to include the identified interventions resulting from the FBA. It is noted that IDEA does not require that a BIP be included in the IEP so long as the IEP includes goals, services, and accommodations and/or modifications to address the student's behavioral concerns.

Issue Three

USD #530, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate discipline procedures, specifically by not conducting a functional behavior analysis (FBA) when the student was out-of-school suspended (OSS) during the 2024-25 and the 2025-26 school years.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.530(f)(1) require that, if the LEA, the parent, and relevant members of the IEP Team make the determination that the conduct was a manifestation of the child's disability, the IEP Team must either conduct a functional behavioral assessment, unless the LEA had conducted a functional behavioral assessment before the behavior that resulted in the change of placement occurred, and implement a behavioral intervention plan for the child; or if a behavioral intervention plan already has been developed, review the behavioral intervention plan, and modify it, as necessary, to address the behavior.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that the LEA needs to conduct an FBA to address the multiple suspensions resulting from the student's "battery / assault / threatening" behavior. The complainant noted that the RBT is not able to evoke the same level of problem behavior being reported by the LEA. She also indicated that the LEA has been advised by TASN and provided with recommendations to address the student's behavior but the LEA has failed to follow these recommendations. In addition, the complainant has offered to "come assist" on multiple occasions but the school has not allowed it saying, ABA services at home and in the community are not the same as school.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA responded that the student was not suspended for more than 10 consecutive or 10 cumulative school days with a pattern during either the 2024-25 or 2025-26 school years and there is no requirement under disciplinary procedures that would require the LEA to conduct an FBA or develop a BIP for the student.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. Interviews and discipline documentation showed the student was suspended a total of two days during the 2024-25 school year on December 6, 2024 and again on May 6, 2025.
2. Interviews and discipline documentation showed the student was suspended a total of four days during the 2025-26 school year to-date on August 21, September 18, September 24, and September 30, 2025

3. During interviews with the parent and LEA, both parties acknowledged the student has not been suspended out-of-school for more than 10 days during the 2024-25 and the 2025-26 school year.

Conclusion

In this case, the student has not been suspended for greater than 10 consecutive school days or 10 cumulative school days with a pattern during either the 2024-25 or 2025-26 school years. As such, a manifestation determination meeting to determine if the student's behavior that was subject to disciplinary action by the school was a result of the student's disability has not yet been required. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found to be IN compliance with the requirements of 34 CFR §300.530(f)(1).

Background Information

This investigation involves an 18-year-old student enrolled at Levy Special Education Center in USD #259. The Student is currently receiving special education services due to their exceptionalities of Intellectual Disability and Emotional Disturbance per the IDEA. The Student requires close supervision at all times. The Student is considered to be active, likes to interact with their peers and staff, and can be a motivated learner.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Complainant and staff in the LEA.

1. The Student is a twelfth-grader at a special day school in the LEA. The Student enjoys interacting with peers and staff and enjoys their rewards.
2. An IEP amendment dated May 6, 2024 indicated the following relevant information:
    a. Due to increased behaviors, the Student qualified for a full day of Extended School Year (ESY), "Minutes are changed due to the increase in the behaviors that are being seen."
    b. The Student was eligible for services under the Intellectual Disability (ID) and Emotional Disability (ED) categories.
    c. Present levels of academic achievement and functional performance indicated the following:
        i. Impact of Exceptionality indicated "[The Student] [was] receiving special education services at a special day school due to [their] exceptionalities of Intellectual Disability and Emotional Disturbance and need for close supervision for [their] safety and the safety of those around [them]. [Their] disabilities affect [their] functioning in all areas and in all settings… . [They] require[d] individualized support, close supervision, attendant care during times of transition, recess/free time, and during lunchtime, and positive behavior expectations/ supports in a special day school setting… ."
        ii. Transition Assessments stated, "Needs close supervision at all times, especially during unstructured activities or during transitions."
        iii. "[The Student] has attendant care for 140 minutes throughout the day as in transitioning to and from the bus, staying in the bus area for [their] afternoon bus, transitioning to and from classrooms for specials, breakfast and lunch as well as recess time. [The Student] has struggled this year with afternoon buses and staying away from other students who are escalated."
        iv. Other indicated, " … [The Student] needs eyes[-]on supervision at all times, [they] [have] attendant care for transition to and from the buses, in the hallways for transition to special classes, at breakfast and lunch time as well as out 30 minute free time/recess."

d. Parent/Guardian concerns included the Complainant and the Foster Parent were focused on helping the Student improve their positive behavior choices and ensuring they received the support needed to learn to make these choices. They specifically felt the Student "needs close supervision at all times, especially in unstructured settings."

e. Behavior needs indicated by a checked box of "yes." Behavior impeded learning and indicated, "[The Student] becomes aggressive, destroys property, runs away from [their] assigned area/building, becomes verbally and physically aggressive when [the Student] becomes upset and/or doesn't get [their] desired request granted. [The Student] may also display these behaviors for no known reason. A behavior may come on very suddenly or increase in intensity over a period of time. If [they] [believe] someone has done [them] wrong [they] may target that person. Goals and accommodations have been written to help [the Student] be more successful in [their] [current] educational setting."

   i. A Functional Behavior Assessment (FBA) was not needed.

   ii. A Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) was needed.

f. Other considerations indicated:

   i. 140 minutes of daily attendant care provided throughout the school day.

   ii. Parent/Guardians "requested that [the Student] have a rider on the bus with [them] in the afternoons to help [them] stay on the bus and elope out the emergency exit or front doors." [sic]

   iii. Special Training required was checked "yes" and indicated "All staff directly working with [the Student] need to be informed of [their] BIP, reward system, and how to work with [them] effectively, as well as possible triggers to dangerous behaviors. [The Student] needs to build relationships with the attendant care individual in order for the service of the attendant care person to work. If [they] [do] [not] not like the individual, [they] will turn to eloping behaviors." Additionally, the staff should be aware of the Student's attendant care needs.

g. The Parents/Guardian was provided with a copy of the IEP via email.

h. The Student's goals covered reading, math, behavior, transition, and study skills, all provided by the special education teacher and applicable to ESY services.

i. Attendant care has been added to [the Student's] IEP to keep close supervision (eyes on) for structured (walking to and from specials) and unstructured activities (walking to and from the bus, waiting got the bus, lunch time, recess) as well as during transitions."

i. Transportation was noted as a related service.

ii. Student accommodation needs indicated:

1. The Student needed behavior accommodations in unstructured/unsupervised settings.

2. The Student [could] not be left unsupervised, and must have "line-of-sight by a pre-approved designated individual" indicated by: "[The Student] require[d] eyes[-]on supervision at all times. If upset, [they] may become verbally aggressive, then physical and or elope from the bus or bus area. Listening to music and explaining changes to an established routine [was] very helpful for [the Student] in dealing with [their] emotions. Building a relationship with [the Student] [was] key to [them] being successful on the bus. If asked, the address [they] would not be able to give it. [They] [could] give the first and last names of at least [four] people who [could] be called in case of an emergency. [They] cannot be left alone due to possibly harming [themself] (running away) or others."

iii. Vehicle Adaptions indicated the need for a seat belt and adult attendant care and supervision.

j. Supplementary Aids and Services (Accommodations and Modifications) indicated the following with the start date of April 4, 2024:

i. "Daily (or more frequently as needed) review of expectations and behaviors in the school setting. To be successful, [the Student] needs expectations to be frequently reviewed. Daily, sometimes twice daily[,] Homeroom class or other location as [needed. No more than [five] minute [in the] classroom."

ii. "A set visual schedule with advanced notice of changes when possible: [The Student] [did] best when [they] [knew] what is expected of [them], reviewed expectations for those classes that [they] [were] doing, as well as visuals to help [them] as well. Daily. Schedule should cover all activities during the school day. Schedule should cover all activities for the length of the school day."

iii. Every day at school, throughout the day, … to and from the bus, the Student "needs to have a [sic] adult supervision when transitioning throughout the hallways, to and from the bus, in the cafeteria, and making sure that [they] [get] on the bus after school [sic]. [The Student] needs to have adult supervision throughoutF [sic] the day to ensure the safety for [themself] and others. [The Student] has a history of eloping from the classroom as well as the school building and bus (after school)."

iv. "Bus area expectations reviewed daily: [The Student] has struggled this year with staying in the bus and staying in the bus area while waiting for [their] bus. [E]nd of the day, before walking to the bus loading area in the back of the school. [E]nd of the school day, bus loading area. [E]nd of the day until [their] bus pulls away with [them] on it."

k. The Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) was provided in a special day school.

3. A Behavior Intervention Plan dated May 6, 2024 indicated the following relevant information:

   a. The target behavior was described as "difficulty following directions and completing assigned tasks throughout the school day." The Student could become physically "aggressive" towards themself.

   b. Peak Behavior was described as, "cussing and/or threatening to staff or students … . [The Student] will elope out of the building. [The Student] will elope off the bus … ."

   c. The function of the behavior was described as attention seeking.

   d. The behavior goal was listed as, "By April 3, 2025, after being given daily expectations of behaviors and daily instruction with social and emotional, other behavior supports instruction, and with opportunities to practice, [the Student] will be able to identify strategies to de-escalate a behavior and then use a learned strategy in a real-life situation to help [them] refrain from eloping behaviors (outside of the building and school bus) and physically aggressive behaviors 90% of school days present for 3 month period. [The Student] [was] able to name strategies but has only used them when highly agitated or frustrated. [They] [were] about 19 times of eloping from the school, bus, or bus area from 9-16-2023 to 3-30-2024."

   e. The replacement behavior was described as "[The Student] [would] remain in class, participate in class activities, and refrain from physical aggression towards staff and peers as well as eloping from the school building and the bus."

   f. Strategies and Supports to Prevent behavior were listed as follows:

      i. "Provide attempts to distract from disruptive situations using a calm voice."

      ii. "A visual of the Zone of [R]egulation that [they] can easily see that lets [them] know what zone [they] [were] currently in. NOTE: [The Student] may tell you [two] different colors such as yellow and blue or blue and green. [They] usually [have] a good reason for choosing [two]."

      iii. "[The Student] needs frequent breaks that consist of physical/sensory activities, time with staff, music (a pre-determined playlist on a MP3 music player or classroom smartboard will be create[d] for [the Student] with appropriate music on it that [they] can earn), resting, running errands etc … ."

iv. "Extensive direct instruction and extensive supports in multiple settings to acquire, maintain, and generalize academic and functional skills necessary for application in home and school setting."

v. "Expectations and daily activities (visually and verbally) should be reviewed with [the Student] at the start of every day and more often when necessary."

vi. "Provide [the Student] a reward system that provide[s] choices for earned rewards. This reward system should be periodically reviewed and modified as needed while the basic structure should remain intact. [They] current [sic] has a number system where staff write 1-10, each task [the Student] completes, they mark a number off backwards, counting down. The reward that [they] [have] picked, is at the end of the number line. Small rewards just as a M&M or skittle are given to [them] after the completion of 1 tasks. Sometimes, breaks are given as well to get [them] moving around."

vii. "[The Student] may earn a long[-]term reward - [sic] such as at the end of the week. A goal [they] [were] working towards may be modified to include a certain behavior [they] [were] currently having such as eloping from the building, physical aggression, intimidation etc … ."

viii. "Use scripted responses in a calm voice when redirection is necessary. Use as few words as possible. Give [them] time to process what is being said. (at least 30 seconds)."

ix. "Increase verbal and nonverbal praise when [the Student] [was] doing the right thing. [C]atch [them] doing the right thing. Provide positive notes-emails-texts home for a good day."

x. "Provide daily instruction and frequent reminders of social and emotional instruction. Provide opportunities to role play, practice learned skills, discuss strategies when [they] [were] calm. Periodically [throughout] the day-ask [them] what Zone [they] thinks [they] [were] in? [They] [were] usually pretty accurate."

g. Strategies to teach replacement behaviors included those listed in the Social/Emotional Supports and Strategies section of the IEP. Additionally, the following strategies were listed:

i. "Direct Instruction with opportunities to practice and or discuss will be used to teach [the Student] expectations. Having [them] restate an expectation or answer a simple question about an expectation is helpful in checking if [they] understand what is expected of [them]."

ii. "[The Student] will participate in daily direct instruction and given opportunities to practice social-emotional skills including Zones of Regulation."

iii. "[The Student] will be taught how to ask for a break when [they] [were] upset. [The Student] will be given opportunities to practice this skill when [they] [were] NOT escalated."

iv. "[The Student] will be encouraged to follow directions without physical aggression toward people or eloping from the classroom/school/bus. This will occur by direct instruction, verbal reminders, practice, and positive praise when directives are followed."

h. Target behavior examples included the following:

i. "When [the Student] completes [their] assigned work and refrains from physical aggression and eloping per [their] reward system." The response to this behavior included, "A reward of [their] choice from an approved list. (basketball. football. time with adult of choice when possible, music, snack etc…)."

ii. "When [the Student] has had an exceptionally good day (no eloping, all work done on time, participated in all class activities, no verbal or physical aggression etc…)." The response to this indicated, "A text or phone call home and a walk with a staff member of [their] choosing (when possible) near the very end of the day or earning music on the way to the bus."

iii. "When [the Student] verbalizes that [they] [were] upset and asks for a break. The response included, "Verbal praise for asking for the break followed by the requested break (Depending upon the situation you may ask [them] to finish the task [they] [were] working on first.)

i. An IEP case manager, classroom, and school staff were responsible for monitoring the BIP and collecting data quarterly for parents.

4. A screenshot of a contact log with various dates included the following relevant communications with the family:

a. On January 29, 2025, at 4:30 p.m. an unknown person contacted the Complainant by phone. Comments indicated, "Call to let [Complainant] know [the Student] had jumped off transportation twice and [they] would need [to] [be] picked up. [Complainant] stated that we would have to figure it out until 5[:]30[.]"

b. On March 31, 2025, at 11:20 a.m. the Assistant Principal had in-person contact with the Foster Parent and they discussed the bus incident from January. The Foster Parent then called and spoke to the Safety Services Supervisor who confirmed the LEA policy on pick up. The Assistant Principal offered the Foster Parent to meet at a later time to discuss LEA guidance and the Foster Parent was asked to leave.

c. On April 2, 2025 at 3:34 p.m. the Principal contacted the Complainant by phone. Comments indicated, "Sent home the 10-day notice to [Complainant] after our conversation about waiving the 10 [sic] days and holding the annual IEP tomorrow and then having the Re-eval[uation] on the 25th. [They] also refused the parent rights."

5. In an email dated April 1, 2025 to the IEP Manager, the Assistant Principal inquired about scheduling the IEP. The IEP Manager stated they had called the Complainant and left a message.
6. An email dated April 2, 2025 showed the Complainant accepted the annual IEP. Additionally, on April 2, 2025 screenshots of text messages between the Complainant and an unknown person confirmed the scheduling of a phone conference and sending home a 10-day notice. The Complainant declined their parent rights.
7. A Notice of Meeting dated April 2, 2025 indicated a scheduled IEP meeting for April 3, 2025 at 2 p.m. via Teams Meetings. The purpose of the meeting was indicated with checked boxes next to:
    a. "If it is determined that your child is eligible, or continues to be eligible, for special education and related services, the IEP team will develop an individualized education program (IEP) for your child and determine the appropriate placement. … " "Conduct an annual review of your child's individualized education program (IEP)."
    b. A copy of the parent rights was indicated by an "x" in a box with a school representative's initials.
8. In an email dated April 3, 2025 to the Foster Parent, Campus Support confirmed the topics the two conversed about on March 31, 2025. Topics included the bus incident from January 2025, LEA pick up policy, communication with the Assistant Principal, their phone call with the Safety Services Supervisor regarding LEA policy, and next steps which included the Foster Parent requesting a meeting with the Assistant Principal and LEA representative.

    Additionally, an email on April 3, 2025 to the Principal, Campus Support shared they had asked the Foster Parent what they would like to happen regarding the January 29, 2025 incident, and the Foster Parent shared they wanted a meeting with the Assistant Principal and a "representative for the Administrative Center." Campus Support indicated they had passed the request on to the Principal for "next steps."
9. A screenshot of text messages dated April 3, 2025 between the Complainant and an Unknown Person discussed rescheduling the IEP meeting. The Unknown Person suggested "… just do it all on the 25th that way it's just one meeting." The Complainant responded with, "Okay[.]"
10. In an email dated April 9, 2025 the Principal followed up with the Foster Parent regarding the requested meeting. The Foster Parent responded with, "Yes please set a meeting up for me and [the Complainant] to attend."
11. A Notice of Meeting dated April 23, 2025 indicated a meeting for April 25, 2025 at 1:30 p.m. at the School's conference room to review results of a recent reevaluation.

12. An IEP dated April 25, 2025, indicated the following:
    a. Handwritten notes by an unknown person on the top page stated:
        i. "[School Social Worker] will set up meeting";
        ii. "Called [the Complainant] April 1, 2025";
        iii. "I could not make IEP sick[.]"; and
        iv. "Waive 10 days."
    b. The Complainant participated in person as indicated by the IEP Team Member section.
    c. The Parent/Guardian Statement indicated the Complainant received their parent rights on March 24, 2025 and the TFI Family Services Representative received their rights on April 25, 2025.
13. On April 25, 2025 the BIP was updated with the following relevant information:
    a.
    b. The target behavior was described as "Verbal Aggression."
        v. Examples stated, "Cursing, yelling and leaving assigned areas[.]"
    c. The peak behavior indicated physical aggression.
    d. The function of the behavior was described as "gain/access [to] Tangible/Activities."
    e. When the target behavior occurred, the following steps were identified:
        i. "When [the Student] complete[d] [their] assigned work and refrains from physical aggression and eloping per [their] reward system," [they] would earn, "A reward of [their] choice from an approved list. Examples included preferred sports activities and time with a preferred adult.
        ii. "When [the Student] verbalizes that [they] [were] upset and ask[ed] for a break," they would earn, "Verbal praise for asking for the break followed by the requested break (Depending upon the situation you may ask [them] to finish the task [they] [were] working on first.)"
    f. Staff would instruct the Student to take large breaths when yelling or cussing occurred.
    g. Staff would advise the Student when hitting or eloping occurred to take deep breaths, minimize the audience, and remind the Student of what they can earn.
    h. BIP data was collected by the IEP manager daily and was reported quarterly.
    i. The multidisciplinary evaluation team participants page indicated the Complainant participated by phone and their agreement was indicated by an "x."
14. On April 25, 2025, a PWN was sent to the Complainant after the team reviewed the Student's evaluation results and classroom assessments. The notice specifically indicated the IEP changes being made did not require parental consent by a checked box. The action proposed was that the Student would continue to receive special education services in a specialized day school. It stated that input was taken into consideration from the Complainant and Child Study Team. The team advised against not completing a thorough evaluation and decided against it due to the Student's "complex needs." The consent page indicated no signature.

15. A screenshot of an email dated July 1, 2025 from the Principal to unknown staff recipients, the Principal instructed staff to review the Student's BIP, then to send an email back to them confirming the completion of the BIP review task.
16. An IEP Amendment form dated August 15, 2025 indicated changes to the transportation drop off to "line of sight as close to [their] home as possible to prevent eloping." The box indicating "I agree to amend my student's IEP as described above" was unchecked and an unidentified signature on the Parent/Legal Guardian line stated "Accepted - August 15, 2025."
17. An IEP Amendment, dated August 15, 2025, was developed after consulting with the Complainant, whose signature appeared on the IEP Team Members list. The IEP changes included the following:
    a. The Transportation Student Accommodation Needs section indicated the Student may not be left alone and must be "received line-of-sight by a pre-approved designated individual."
        i. The explanation for the change stated, " [The Student] will need a door[-] to[-] door stop as [they] [require] eyes on supervision at all times. If upset, [they] may become verbally aggressive, then physical and or elope from the bus or bus area."
18. A PWN dated August 15, 2025 confirmed the update to the Student's transportation plan per the Complainant 's request and indicated Parental consent was not required. An unidentified signature was on the Parent/Legal Guardian line and dated "accepted - August 15, 2025."
19. In an email exchange dated August 20, 2025, the Director of Transportation alerted the team that the Student had eloped from the bus and was walking toward the School. The Principal immediately responded to the alert by physically going to the bus to assist. Subsequently, the Principal proposed solutions, including returning the Student to a transportation van, adding an extra male aide for support, and investigating why the Student's usual door-to-door stop had been incorrectly changed to a corner stop.
20. In an email dated August 22, 2025, the Technical Analyst Special Education Transportation emailed the Principal and Assistant Principal with the following instructions regarding the Student's monitoring, "[The Student] [was] to have a male monitor. Sometimes to do nothing more than talk with [them]. Make sure that [the Student] is on the inside, not the aisle."
21. First Serves Meeting Notes dated August 28, 2025 indicated the Student had a "conflict" with another student on the bus. The First Serves team implemented a second bus monitor on the route and added positive behavior strategies to the Student, examples given included giving the Student "tasks." The plan of action indicated follow up with the Assistant Principal and "caregivers" and to "monitor" the supports in place before taking action to make change.

22. In an email exchange dated August 29, 2025, the Complainant inquired about the status of the Student's two-week-old IEP amendment, which mandated a door-to-door stop due to the severe safety risk posed by his elopement history. The Director of Transportation confirmed the amendment was finalized and acknowledged the requirement for eyes-on supervision, but explained their team was having a safety assessment conducted to determine if the bus could safely turn around in the dead-end street for a stop closer than the current 180-foot location. The Complainant responded by assuring both the Director of Transportation and the Principal that buses had successfully navigated the cul-de-sac for five years and should not encounter any issues establishing the requested closer, door-to-door stop.
23. An undated screenshot of a Synergy Transportation tab indicated transportation for the Student for 72 minutes, 5 days, every week with a start date of April 25, 2025. Additionally, it stated, "… door to door stop as [the Student] required eyes on supervision … ." and "Everyday, to and from school, ensure that [they] stay on the bus throughout the ride to and from school to ensure [their] safety and the safety of others." Furthermore, an additional transportation detail screenshot indicated "[They] will need a door[-]to[-]door stop as [the Student] requires eyes on supervision at all times. If upset, [they] may become verbally aggressive, then physical and or elope from the bus or bus area. Listening to music and explaining changes to an established routine [was] very helpful for [the Student] in dealing with [their] emotions. Building a relationship with [the Student] [was] key to [them] being successful on the bus. If asked [their] address [they] would not be able to give it. [They] can give the first and last names of at least [four] people who can be called in case of an emergency. [They] cannot be left alone due to possibly harming [themself] (running away) or others."
24. A My Monitor Averages Report titled "Check in to Connect" for the Student with a start date of October 8, 2024 through October 31, 2025 indicated behavior data was collected for the following behaviors: following directions, safe hands, feet, and objects, and stay in assigned area.

Complainant Interview

25. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Complainant stated they had requested a meeting following a bus incident where they were told to come to the School "in a certain amount of time," or the police would be called. They wanted to further discuss the incident and what had happened, but according to the Complainant, the meeting never occurred. The Principal reportedly claimed they personally emailed the LEA to schedule it, but no progress was made. An IEP meeting was also eventually scheduled and then canceled due to a teacher's absence. Therefore, an opportunity to discuss the bus incident, as the Complainant intended, never happened.

26. Regarding the implementation of accommodations, the Complainant shared the belief that all but four were implemented consistently. They explained the daily review of behavioral expectations was inconsistent, which they attributed to the Student's frequent wandering around the school. When the Student left their familiar classroom, they encountered staff members who were unaware of their specific behavior plan. This lack of knowledge led to confusion, especially with the reward system. Specifically, other adults would give the Student unearned rewards like chips, candy, or drinks, which directly undermined the goals they were working toward in their own classroom. The Complainant was also not confident that non-classroom staff were familiar enough with the expectations to consistently remind the Student, creating a significant implementation gap.

    Additionally, the Complainant recounted a specific incident illustrating the inconsistency of the reward system as an accommodation. The day after the reported incident, the Student jumped off the bus, and subsequent investigation revealed the cause: they were denied a deserved daily reward. Although the teaching assistants were instructed to provide the reward, they failed to do so, prompting the significant behavioral reaction the following day. The Complainant concluded that the reward system was generally used correctly when a familiar teacher and the Principal were present. However, they noted that the system was not reliably followed when key personnel were absent, reinforcing the pattern of inconsistent implementation.

    Regarding the accommodation of close supervision, the Complainant shared the Student has been out in the hallway unsupervised and had managed to leave the building without anyone knowing, even locking themself in someone's car one time. The Complainant concluded these things would not happen if the Student was consistently closely supervised.

    Regarding the accommodation of adult supervision for transitions in the hallways, in the cafeteria, and to and from the bus, the Complainant stated it was sometimes implemented. They shared the Student had gotten off the bus and went back inside the School without staff knowing, and the Student jumped off the bus with staff following the Student instead of walking with them.

27. The Complainant shared the understanding that staff knowledge of the Student's accommodations was inconsistent. They noted only the Homeroom Teacher and the Principal reliably followed the Student's expectations, often having discussions about holding firm on demands, such as sending the Student back to complete assignments. The Complainant observed that when the Student experienced a lack of success, it typically coincided with staffing changes, like the introduction of a new teaching assistant or a transition to a different classroom or teacher. In fact, the Student had multiple teachers last year, and while the final one was "phenomenal," the expectations often differed significantly between each person working with the Student. It seemed like the Student's accommodations were less of a "plan" and more of a series of "suggestions" depending on who was in the room.

28. The Complainant detailed the Student's transportation accommodations, noting that they were moved from a regular bus to a van due to the behavior of jumping out while it was driving. Despite the van being intended to prevent escape, the Student eventually discovered how to exit the back door. The Student's formal accommodation included a bus aide, but the van often relied on other students' paraprofessionals to assist, which the Complainant felt led to inconsistent following of the specific behavior plan by the transportation staff. They confirmed, however, that the basic logistical accommodations, such as curbside pick-up due to elopement risk and mandatory adult-present drop-off, seemed to be followed. It seemed like, while the location of the ride was secure, the discipline of the ride was inconsistent.

29. The Complainant emphasized that consistency was critical for the Student's success and recounted the immense effort required, including a time when they and the Principal worked until 9:30 p.m. to safely secure the Student after they jumped off the bus. The Complainant stressed the importance of staff adhering to the plan and calling for help when needed. Significantly, the Complainant noted that since the LEA became fully aware of the situation last year, the dramatic behavior of jumping off the bus had stopped completely.

IEP Manager 1 Interview:

30. In an interview with the Complainant Investigator, IEP Manager 1 explained the IEP/BIP binder was kept on their desktop so all staff members could access it. They shared each week, they'd review the IEPs and have "general" conversations to ensure all staff knew what they were expected to do.

31. Case Manager 1 described several accommodations on the Student's IEP. The Student had one-to-one support and utilized an earning chart. They shared the Student also had opportunities to de-escalate and walk whenever they felt the need.

    Regarding the implementation of the BIP, Case Manager 1 stated that its primary focus was on "safe hands, safe feet," along with ensuring the Student stayed on the bus and did not jump off. They shared they were in communication with the bus driver so they could "support" them in anyway regarding the BIP.

    Case Manager 1 also detailed the staff's response to target behaviors like verbal aggression, cursing, yelling, and eloping. The strategy for staff, including Case Manager 1, was not to engage in a verbal argument with the Student. Case Manager 1 shared they were also the primary contact person, available to assist when the Student was out on a walk and became triggered, helping the Student de-escalate and find a way to return to their scheduled tasks. Furthermore, Case Manager 1 ensured that both the BIP and IEP were consistently implemented by all staff, noting that the BIP was typically the first point of reference when a behavioral incident occurred.

32. Case Manager 1 detailed their communication with the Complainant regarding scheduling IEPs. They attempted to contact the Complainant about scheduling the IEP, but never received a response. Case Manager 1 recalled that they reported the lack of communication to their administrator, who took over as the contact person and ultimately handled the scheduling with the family. Case Manager 1 reported they never received an IEP meeting request from the Complainant.

33. According to Case Manager 1, they had sent home copies of the IEP in the Student's backpack. Regarding the April 2025 IEP meeting and the updated copy, Case Manager 1 was not involved in that meeting. They shared the Complainant had never requested copies of service logs or IEPs from them.

Campus Support Interview:

34. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, Campus Support shared they met with the Foster Parent via phone on March 31, 2025 where the Foster Parent expressed their "frustration" over how the bus incident was handled by the Assistant Principal. Campus Support recalled they had discussed the elopement off the bus and, "Yes. And that had been problem- solved through …." They shared that at the end of the conversation, the Foster Parent had requested they'd like a "conversation" with the Assistant Principal and a "representative from the administrative center" to discuss the pick up policy. Campus Support stated they had passed this request off to the Principal.

Assistant Principal Interview:

35. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Assistant Principal explained they had initially made the phone call to the Complainant after the Student eloped off the bus. They stated the follow-up to that conversation was handled by the Principal, who met with the Complainant.

36. According to the Assistant Principal, the only meeting the Foster Parent had requested was with them and the Superintendent, but because the Foster Parent did not hold educational rights, there was "not a lot I could tell [them]." The Assistant Principal's understanding of the Foster Parent's meeting request was to discuss the pick-up policy.

Director of Transportation Interview:

37. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Director of Transportation shared the support in place for the Student while on the bus. They confirmed the Student received several transportation accommodations, including door-to-door pickup and drop-off, a bus monitor for supervision, and the requirement for "line of sight" communication between the driver and the receiver at home. These accommodations were communicated to the staff through a detailed paper input form and the daily route sheet, and via a digital input form on a tablet, which ensured both the driver and the monitor were informed. This essential information was shared daily with the contractor, First Student, who provided the paper copies to the staff.

38. According to the Director of Transportation, the Student's transportation input form's purpose was to communicate the accommodations from the IEP and BIP, along with additional information to best serve the Student and help the driver and monitor build a relationship with them. They confirmed the information on the Student's input form closely matched the Student's IEP and BIP. The Director of Transportation shared that a slightly more comprehensive and recent version of this information was currently available to drivers on an electronic "About Me" tablet form that drivers have access to on each bus.

39. The Director of Transportation stated that the First Serves Leadership Team met bi-weekly to discuss special education practices and transportation. The team's primary purposes were to problem-solve issues concerning individual students and to address questions from drivers or monitors regarding students' behavior data. The Director of Transportation confirmed the team had discussed supports for the Student at these meetings.

Principal Interview:

40. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Principal explained they had a "good relationship" with the Complainant. They had texted to schedule the annual IEP meeting directly with the Complainant and stated, "I'll do whatever we can do to make sure we're in compliance." The Principal shared that their primary form of communication with the Complainant was through text messages along with phone calls.

    The Principal recalled the Complainant once emailed the school nurses stating, "I do not remember the details because that was through the nurses. I do remember it was about food, [staff] giving [the Student] food all the time … . And [the Complainant] said we have it in the IEP, but if I need to ask for a meeting I can." The Principal noted that despite this communication, the Complainant "didn't request [a meeting] when [they] [were] communicating with the nurses."

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #259 in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA ensured the Student's IEP was accessible to all bus staff and they were informed of the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided to the Student; and the Student's behavior plan was implemented when Student jumped off the school bus in January 2025. . C.F.R. 34 § 300.323; K.A.R. 91-40-16 (b)(3)(4)-(5)(B); C.F.R. 34 § 300.323.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16 (b)(3)(4)(5)(B) and C.F.R. 34 § 300.323(d), LEAs shall ensure an IEP is in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of the school year. The child's IEP must be accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service provider who is responsible for its implementation. Each teacher and provider must be informed of the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

The Complainant alleged the Student's behavior plan was not followed when they eloped off a moving bus.

The LEA ensured the Student's IEP was accessible to all staff and all staff were informed of the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that were to be provided to the Student.

The Student's IEP, which was amended in May 2024 due to increased behaviors, documented their eligibility ID and ED, necessitating a special day school setting and close, "eyes-on" supervision for safety. The IEP detailed numerous social/emotional supports, strategies, accommodations, and a BIP. The IEP and BIP included numerous key supports to support the Student. Specific accommodations included a door-to-door transportation stop and a required "line-of-sight" transfer to an adult due to elopement risks.

The IEP mandated that all staff directly working with the Student needed to be informed of the BIP, reward system, and possible triggers. The Complainant, however, believed staff knowledge of accommodations was inconsistent, noting that only the Homeroom Teacher and Principal reliably followed expectations, and observed that lack of success coincided with staffing changes. They cited instances where the Student was unsupervised in the hallway, leaving the building, and jumping off the bus, which they attributed to the inconsistent implementation of the close supervision and transition supervision accommodations by staff, including those on the bus. Following an elopement incident in August 2025, the Principal and Director of Transportation addressed the incorrect change from a door-to-door stop to a corner stop and arranged for a male monitor. The Director of Transportation confirmed that the IEP and BIP accommodations were communicated to transportation staff daily via paper and electronic forms. The IEP Manager ensured the IEP/BIP binder was accessible on their desktop for all staff, and they had general weekly review conversations to ensure staff knowledge. The Principal instructed staff to review the Student's BIP and confirm completion via email, indicating an attempt to ensure awareness among school staff.

In contrast to the systems put in place, the Complainant provided multiple instances of implementation failure, suggesting a lack of awareness or adherence by many staff members.

The Complainant believed staff knowledge of accommodations was inconsistent, noting that only the Homeroom Teacher and Principal reliably followed expectations.

The LEA had mechanisms for making the IEP and BIP information accessible, including a binder, daily transportation forms, and communications to all staff members. The evidence points to implementation and knowledge of the IEP and BIP supports at the time of the bus incident in January 2025.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA made procedural violations by failing in effectively informing all staff members of the Student's IEP and supports when the Student was riding the bus.

Issue Two

Whether USD #259, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, responded to the Complainant's request for a meeting by either holding a meeting or notifying the Complainant of their decision not to hold a meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-26; K.A.R. 91-40-17, C.F.R. 34 § 300.503, C.F.R. 34 § 300.612 (a).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-17, C.F.R. 34 § 300.503 and C.F.R. 34 § 300.612 (a), each public agency must provide notice to ensure that parents of children with disabilities have the opportunity to participate in meetings. A meeting does not include informal or unscheduled conversations involving public agency personnel and conversations on issues such as teaching methodology, lesson plans, or coordination of service provision. A meeting also does not include preparatory activities that public agency personnel engage in to develop a proposal or response to a parent proposal that will be discussed at a later meeting.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-26, C.F.R. 34 § 300.612 (a), each agency must ensure written notice must be given to the parents of a child with a disability a reasonable time before the public agency proposes to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child; or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child.

The notice required must include a description of the action proposed or refused by the agency; an explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action; a description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action; a statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under procedural safeguards and, if this notice is not an initial referral for evaluation, the means by which a copy of a description of the procedural safeguards can be obtained; sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions of this part; a description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected; and a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal.

The notice required must be written in language understandable to the general public; and provided in the native language of the parent or other mode of communication used by the parent, unless it is clearly not feasible to do so. If the native language or other mode of communication of the parent is not a written language, the public agency must take steps to ensure that the notice is translated orally or by other means to the parent in his or her native language or other mode of communication; that the parent understands the content of the notice; and that there is written evidence that the requirements of this section have been met.

The Complainant alleged the LEA did not hold a meeting after the Complainant requested one and the LEA did not send any documentation denying the meeting.

The LEA holds that it complied with requirements pertaining to and in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing IDEA, including holding IEP meetings and re-evaluations meetings as well as regarding any meeting requests made by the Complainant by either properly noticing and holding a meeting or notifying the parent of its decision not to hold a meeting.

On March 31, 2025, the Foster Parent, who does not hold educational rights, requested a meeting to discuss the January 29, 2025 bus incident and the LEA's pick-up policy with the Assistant Principal and an administrative representative. This request was passed from Campus Support to the Principal. In April 2025, the Principal followed up, and the Foster Parent confirmed, "Yes, please set a meeting up for me and [the Complainant] to attend."

However, the Complainant claimed a meeting to discuss the bus incident never occurred, stating the opportunity to discuss the incident was lost when a previously scheduled IEP meeting was canceled. Although the annual IEP was rescheduled and eventually held on April 25, 2025, the Complainant's intent to discuss the elopement and pickup policy outside of the annual review was not definitively met with a separate meeting or a PWN declining the request.

The LEA upon receiving the confirmed request by the Foster Parent, to include the Complainant, who holds educational rights, in the meeting regarding the Student's safety, supervision, and policy, the LEA was procedurally obligated to either convene the meeting or provide a PWN formally refusing the request and explaining why. The Complainant stated that a meeting specifically to discuss the bus incident and pick-up policy never occurred. Although the annual IEP review was held on April 25, 2025, the opportunity to discuss the incident as intended by the Complainant was reportedly lost. No documentation, such as a PWN, was provided by the LEA to the Complainant to document a refusal to hold the requested meeting. The failure to provide the mandated response, holding the meeting or issuing a formal refusal, constitutes a procedural violation.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA made procedural violations by failing to formally provide the mandated procedural response, holding the meeting, or issuing a formal refusal.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

B. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.503 and state regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-26 require a public agency to provide a parent with PWN when the agency refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of a child, or the provision of FAPE. The failure to hold a requested meeting, which involved the BIP, accommodations and modifications on the bus, which represent provision of a FAPE, required a formal response.

   In this case, the evidence supports the finding that the LEA did not formally provide the mandated procedural response to the Foster Parent's confirmed request for a meeting to discuss the bus elopement incident and the BIP and supports in place. The LEA failed to either convene the requested meeting or issue a PWN formally refusing the request and explaining the reasons why.

Based on the foregoing, USD #259 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 60 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #259 shall conduct mandatory training for all special education administrators, IEP Managers, and relevant school principals regarding the procedural requirements for issuing a PWN . This training must specifically address:
   a. The circumstances under which a PWN is required, with a focus on documenting a formal refusal to act (propose or refuse) on a request for a meeting to discuss special education matters.
   b. The specific requirement to issue a PWN in response to a parent's written or confirmed request for an IEP or a FAPE-related meeting when the LEA chooses to refuse the request, pursuant to 34 C.F.R. § 300.503 and K.A.R. 91-40-26.
   c. The required elements that must be included in the PWN (e.g., description of action refused, explanation of the refusal, description of rejected options, and procedural safeguards information).
2. Within 60 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #259 shall submit an outline of the training curriculum, including training materials related to responding to parent meeting requests, and a list of all staff who completed the training to Special Education and Title Services (SETS).
3. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #259 shall immediately issue a PWN to the Complainant. This PWN must reflect the LEA's decision at the time to refuse or decline the request for a separate meeting concerning the bus incident. The PWN must include all components required by 34 C.F.R. § 300.503 and K.A.R. 91-40-26, including an explanation of why the agency refused the request.

4. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #259 shall submit a copy of the retroactively issued PWN to Special Education and Title Services (SETS).

Background Information

This investigation involved a third-grade student enrolled at Bryant Opportunity Academy in USD #259. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA. In July 2025, the Student relocated to a new foster care placement, moving in with the Complainant. In August 2025, the Student enrolled at the School, transferring from another district within the state. The Student's educational placement is a therapeutic day school in a self-contained setting due to behavioral needs. Upon transfer, the School maintained the existing IEP for the Student, and a team meeting to update the IEP was scheduled for October 27, 2025.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Complainant and staff in the LEA.

1. The Student's November 4, 2024 IEP was duplicated from the Previous LEA and formatted for the LEA. The IEP included the following relevant items:
    a. The Student's special education eligibility was "Emotional Disturbance," and the Student attended a "therapeutic day school program for [their] behavior." The program was "self-contained for all academics and does not have access to [the] general education curriculum." The Previous LEA IEP listed "Speech/Language Impairments" as a secondary disability. (D9, C1)

b. Present Levels included a list of "current accommodations provided."
    i. This included: "small group, heavy adult assistance, close proximity to adults, safety plan, BIP, visuals, frequent breaks, social story, frequent redirection, front load transitions, all grade level text read aloud at least one time before [the Student] reads, extended time to complete assignments, flexible seating (rocking chair, wobble seat, regular chair), and special writing paper with wide, heavy lines. [The Student] works better in a small group environment with few choices, [and] high structure in [the] order and presentation of content."
    ii. It was also noted the Student "currently attends a shortened day school."
    iii. The classroom teacher reported destruction of the classroom, "lashing out physically," classroom evacuations due to the Student's behavior, other students being "scared of [the Student] at times," and the Student's "awareness of others' thoughts and feelings." (D13)
    iv. The Previous LEA IEP indicated the Student was scoring "an average of 80% on [their] point sheets" and their "behavior will escalate when told 'no' [three to four] times a week and last for an average of 20-30 minutes." (C6)
c. Relevant medical information included a diagnosis of Attention-deficit/hyperactivity disorder (ADHD), Disruptive Mood Dysregulation Disorder (DMDD), and Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD).
d. Under "Behavioral Needs," it was confirmed the Student's behavior impeded their "learning, that of others, or their ability to access the general education curriculum." (D15)
e. Goals were included for reading, speech, writing, math, and behavior. The behavioral goal was also found in the BIP. (D17-D18)
f. Related Services included special education services in a special day school setting for the entirety of [the Student's] day, speech language services two times per week, counseling services twice per week, and transportation. (D19)
g. Accommodations and Modifications started on November 4, 2024 and duplicated the Previous LEA's IEP. They included:
    i. Read aloud for all assessments and activities anytime an activity contains reading material above kindergarten level, and in all school settings.
    ii. Frequent breaks anytime an activity contains reading material above kindergarten level, in a "designated safe spot," for two minutes.
    iii. Visual schedule, always available, in all school settings, for five seconds between classes. (D20)

h. The Least Restrictive Environment (LRE) section of the IEP indicated the Student attends a therapeutic day school. "While [they are] attending the day school, [they] will not be allowed to participate in any general education curriculum with [their] non-identified peers. As [the Student's] behavior improves, [they] will begin transitioning back to [their] home school." (D22)

2. The Student's November 4, 2024 BIP included the following relevant items:
    a. Target behavior was "noncompliance." The operational definitions of the target behavior included "noncompliance/refusals, aggression, elopement, and destruction of property." Examples of the Student's behavior included growling at the adult who was asking for compliance and aggressive behaviors.
    b. Peak Behavior was "physical aggression." Examples of this included screaming, yelling, hitting themself and others, kicking themself and others, biting and pinching themself and others, and destruction of property.
    c. The function and hypothesis of the target behavior were "avoidance of non-preferred tasks or situations."
    d. The expected behavior was following staff directions and demonstrating "appropriate skill/behavior."
    e. It was noted the Student was "moved to half-days" at the Previous LEA on September 18, 2024.
    f. The behavioral goal was "By the next annual IEP review, in an individual and/or small group setting, student will learn/utilize self regulation strategies to handle stressful situations (such as becoming upset, frustrated or angry 90% of the time in 30 minute interval tracked with behavior logs." The service provider for this goal was a social worker and the "score" for the goal noted, "Per [the Previous LEA] walk-in IEP, [the] Student currently has been handling stressful situations 85% of the time as tracked by [their] behavior logs."
    g. "Antecedent-Based Interventions" strategies/supports listed were: "parent contact, avoid power struggles, providing clear directions, avoid physical contact, reviewing rules, expectations, and reminders and/or prompts, frequent breaks, and structured environment." Each of these strategies/supports included the following as a "step-by-step instruction to implement": "Per [the Previous LEA] walk-in IEP, [the Student] will be taught strategies that will help [them] comply with a request with no aggressive behaviors within 2-3 prompts in a small group social work and one-on-one social work."
    h. Instruction and Strategy to teach replacement behaviors were:
        i. "Provide reminders/prompts/cues to use preferred calming strategies. … If [the Student] is able to use appropriate calming strategies, staff should attempt to process the emotions/ behaviors with [them] and then reinforce the appropriate choice(s)."

ii. "Provide instruction relating to social-emotional skills and social skills. Successful approximations of this should be reinforced/rewarded appropriately."

iii. Attempt to redirect/refocus the Student if they were beginning to escalate and if staff "notice in time." If the Student was able to be redirected, the same steps as listed above apply.

iv. When the Student was physically aggressive toward peers/staff, the adult response was, "If [the Student] is a danger to [themself] or others, staff will intervene and use methods to keep student(s) safe, such as evacuation and/or Emergency Safety Interventions (ESI)."

v. When the Student attempted to elope, "staff should follow [them] calmly and radio for support."

vi. When the Student was "growling, swiping objects, throwing [their] glasses and refusing to complete tasks," they will be "given space and time to settle down."

vii. "When [the Student] is becoming physically aggressive with staff or peers," staff should "call for a code red" to get assistance with de-escalation. (D4-D6)

i. Monitoring included daily data being collected (with no method listed) and then "analyzed by the Team" monthly, with progress on the goal reported to "parents" quarterly. (D7) Progress Monitoring on the Previous LEA IEP noted "charting/graphing" and "behavior tracking sheet/report" as methods that would be completed weekly. (C15)

3. In the Student's June 9, 2025 Psychological Evaluation, the Clinical Impression and Test Interpretation indicated "Reports of current suicidal ideation or intentions were denied. Homicidal ideas or intentions were denied. Insight and judgment appeared lacking due to [the Student's] young age. No signs of delusions, hallucinations, or other psychotic processes were apparent." (C63) Recommendations included the need for teaching the Student appropriate behaviors and a "highly structured environment with clearly defined rules, expectations, and daily routines." (C69)
4. An August 14, 2025 Walk-in Consultation form documented the Student would receive "comparable special education services from the previous district." The Family Advocate was listed as the person contacted for this consultation, by phone, on August 13, 2025. (D62)
5. An August 21, 2025 entry on the School Counselor's calendar noted a 30-minute "bullying prevention lesson" taught in the Student's classroom. An August 22, 2025 entry on the same calendar indicated the School Counselor was "sitting in [the Teacher's] class for [the Student]" from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. (D64)
6. The School Counselor recorded service with the Student on the following days:
    a. August 21 and September 19, 2025 for "Check-in."

b. August 27 and 29, 2025 for "IEP Counse … [remaining letters and words cut from page]."

c. September 30, 2025 at 12:00 p.m. and 1:00 p.m., and October 20, 2025 for "Safety." (D85-D86)

7. A timeline titled with the Student's name, authored by the Complainant, included the following relevant items:

a. August 18, 2025, the Student started attending the School, and "about two weeks after" the Complainant received a phone call "informing me that [the Student] was having good behavior … and will be moving to a Tier 2 classroom." (C72)

b. September 26, 2025, the Complainant learned the Foster Case Manager had not received any calls or email communication from the School. The Complainant shared their last contact was two weeks after the Student started school, and also had not heard anything since. (C72)

c. September 29, 2025, the Complainant received a call from the Foster Home Worker. The Complainant noted the Foster Home Worker told them "someone from [the School] called [them] and said that [the Student] was having suicidal ideations and needs an acute screen." They added the School was not going to call the Complainant because they "have history and they feared retaliation because [the Complainant has] an open lawsuit [against them]." The Complainant was informed by the Foster Home Worker that, according to the School, the Student was not receiving necessary mental health services because of the Complainant. (C72)

d. October 1, 2025, the Complainant received a call from the Department of Children and Families (DCF) Investigator "mirroring" what the Foster Home Worker reported and "stated the report [of the Student's suicidal ideations] was made on September 22, [2025]." The Complainant contacted the LEA, informing them they were not contacted when the Student was having a "mental health crisis." (C72)

e. On October 6, 2025, a meeting with the Complainant, the Director of the agency, the Foster Case Manager, the Foster Home Worker, a health insurance representative, and a DCF liaison was held at the Foster Care Agency. The Complainant stated the Foster Case Manager "confirmed" they had not heard from the School until October 1, 2025 and a social worker "was saying [the Student] was having suicidal ideations." (C73)

f. October 15, 2025, the Complainant and the Foster Home Worker attended a meeting at the School and noted the Teacher referenced "daily behavioral sheets" that the Complainant had never seen. "I asked about [the Student] having suicidal ideations. [The Teacher] said [the Student] often has suicidal ideations. I asked [the Teacher] why [I haven't been] notified of [the] suicidal ideations, [and the Teacher] said [they do] not know, [they] escalate those things to the social workers." The Complainant asked for dates and incident reports of these occurrences and what the School's protocol was. The School explained the protocol, and the Complainant asked who the School had called "because I have not received a phone call or email and [the Foster Case Manager] has not received anything." The Complainant requested documentation of these incidents and the School "did not find any incidents or documentation of suicidal ideations on [September 22, 2025] or any other date." The School told the Complainant the "protocol was to call [the Foster Care Manager] and notify DCF, not to notify [the Complainant]." (C74-C75)

8. A special education student contact log documented six contacts to the Family Advocate and two contacts to the Complainant, from the LEA, between August 13, 2025 through October 16, 2025. Relevant contacts included:
    a. August 13, 2025, Social Worker 1 contacted the Family Advocate by phone and notified them of IEP services that would be provided.
    b. August 14, 2025, Social Worker 1 contacted the Family Advocate by phone, and they discussed issues with an electronic form and the electronic parent system. The same day, they mailed the Family Advocate a letter with "Parent Rights" and "Walk-in Consultation letter" included.
    c. October 6, 2025, the LEA called the Family Advocate and left a message regarding setting up the annual IEP and "discussing LRE for [the Student]."
    d. October 7, 2025, the LEA called the Complainant after they "received an email from KSDE that [the Complainant] had concerns regarding the mental health of [their] foster child/children." They had a conversation about falsely filed claims, and they told the Complainant they would "let the Special Education Directors know." (D70)
9. A handwritten service log for Speech Language services indicated the Student had 20 minutes of service every Wednesday and Friday from August 20, 2025 through October 10, 2025, excluding September 10, September 19, and October 8, 2025 (three days). Two "make-up" sessions for October 8 and September 10, 2025 were noted as "20 min[utes] make-up" on October 23 and 24, 2025. (D71)
10. A service log from August 28, 2025 through October 24, 2025 documented "Individual Treatment" and "Counseling and/or Risk Factor Reduction" by three different providers. The number of minutes documented in sessions was as follows:
    a. Thirteen sessions for 20 minutes;
    b. Thirteen sessions for 30 minutes, with one outside the complaint date range;
    c. Two sessions for 35 minutes; and
    d. Two sessions for 40 minutes, both outside the complaint date range. (D58, D73-D83)
11. A document listing a summary of services included the following information:
    a. The weeks of August 18, 25, September 3, 22, 29, and October 13, 2025 (six weeks total) included two speech sessions and two counseling and/or social work sessions.

b. The weeks of September 8, 15, and October 6, 2025 (three weeks total) included one speech session and two counseling and/or social work sessions.
c. For the three missed speech sessions, two make-up sessions were provided on October 23 and October 24, 2025. (D59)

12. In an October 1, 2025 response letter to the Complainant regarding another investigation, the LEA stated, "[LEA] staff related that you requested the school exclude you from the contact chain in the event of a suicide crisis. It is important that you understand that when a student makes suicidal statements or shows risk of self-harm, the school is obligated to follow established safety protocols. This includes contacting a parent, guardian, or foster parent to ensure the student's safety and supervision before they leave school. The school cannot omit you from this process because doing so would conflict with its duty to protect the student. Kansas foster care policy also supports this expectation. The DCF Placement Standards Manual provides that 'family foster parents shall … communicate with the school regarding the student's academic progress and develop plans to address issues related to school performance.'" (C78)
13. An October 7, 2025 Notice of Meeting proposed a meeting on October 27, 2025 to discuss possible changes in the Student's IEP and an annual review of the IEP. The notice was unsigned, and a box was checked next to the statement "a copy of parent rights is provided." (D65-D66)
14. On October 7 and 15, 2025, a "BIP Fidelity Check" for the Student was logged by Social Worker 2, each lasting 20 minutes in the classroom with the Teacher. (D90-D92)

Complainant Interview

15. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Complainant explained the Student's complex guardianship. The Student lived with the Complainant as their foster parent. According to the Complainant, the Foster Care Agency was the Student's legal guardian and the Foster Care Agency assigned the Case Manager to supervise the Student's care, including mental health services. The State assigned an Education Advocate to the Student, and the Education Advocate had educational decision-making rights. The Complainant stated they had never communicated directly with the Education Advocate. They also shared the Foster Home Worker supervised them as a foster parent. (P1, 01:57; P9, 33:16; P10, 34:08; P10, 34:59; P10, 35:04)
16. The Complainant recalled the Principal contacted them two weeks after the Student began school to say the Student "was doing wonderful." The Complainant stated the phone call with the Principal was the only communication they received from the School. (P2, 03:09)
17. The Complainant confirmed the call with the Foster Care Worker on September 29, 2025. They stated the LEA never contacted them about the Student's suicidal ideations. The Complainant explained that the Case Manager, as designated guardian, had to request in-school mental health services. (P1, 01:57; P2, 04:18; P9, 33:16)
18. The Complainant confirmed they received a phone call from DCF on October 1, 2025 regarding the Student's mental health. According to the Complainant, the DCF agent reported the Student said "[they weren't] allowed to play with toys, [they] couldn't bring toys home." The DCF agent also informed them of a September 22, 2025 report of suicidal ideation. The Complainant stated they told the DCF agent they were unaware of any suicidal ideations and had not had any communication from the LEA about the Student's mental health. According to the Complainant, the "reports were found unsubstantiated." (P2, 05:07)

19. The Complainant asserted that, according to state foster care policy, they were to be contacted by the LEA in the event of a mental health crisis for the Student. They shared, as a state[-]designated foster parent, "I have a protocol that I have to complete." They stated they had previously confirmed this protocol with the State, due to an incident with a previous placement. (P3, 08:34; P3, 09:20; P4, 12:04)
20. Regarding the meeting on October 6, 2025, the Complainant clarified the meeting took place at the Foster Care Agency and included the Complainant, the Director of the agency, the Case Manager, the Foster Home Worker, a health insurance representative, and a DCF liaison. The Complainant stated no representative from the LEA was present. They expressed the purpose of the meeting was to "come up with a solution [for] why the school [was] not contacting me regarding [the Student's] behaviors … [and] … suicidal ideation." The Complainant perceived the meeting attendees were "confused" as to why the LEA was not communicating with the Complainant. According to the Complainant, the Case Manager was to refer the Student to the in-school mental health provider, and contact the Educational Advocate to schedule an IEP meeting. (P3, 10:19; P4, 11:12; P8, 30:11; P9, 31:43)
21. The Complainant reported the Case Worker had no direct contact with the LEA until they went in person on October 1, 2025. (P3, 10:19)
22. The Complainant stated an intake meeting for the Student's in-school mental health services was scheduled for October 13, 2025. They requested but never received the meeting link, and did not participate in the meeting. (P4, 16:22)
23. During a parent conference on October 15, 2025, the Complainant recalled being shown the Student's classwork journals with only a few pages completed. They shared the Teacher informed them the Student "doesn't like to do any work." The Complainant said the Teacher mentioned the Student "wins prizes in class and [was] scared to bring [them] home because [the Complainant would] throw [them] away." Therefore, the Teacher allowed the Student to spend class time playing with the toys. The Complainant clarified to the Teacher the Student had never brought any toys home from school and they had never thrown any of the Student's toys away. (P4, 16:22; P5, 17:23; P18:22)

    During the same meeting, the Complainant recalled the Teacher referencing daily behavior sheets for the Student. When the Complainant asked to see the sheets, they noticed the Student "has lots of behaviors." They inquired why they had not been notified. According to the Complainant, the Teacher responded, "it's nothing that I would notify a parent of because I can handle it." (P5, 18:22; P5, 19:29)

Subsequently, the Complainant recalled asking the Teacher about the Student's suicidal ideation, and specifically the September 22, 2025 incident. According to the Complainant, the Teacher said, "yes, sometimes [the Student] does have suicidal ideation." However, the Teacher was unable to find any notes or incident reports for September 22, 2025. The Teacher explained to the Complainant they pass on any "code white" incidents to the school social workers. During the meeting, the Teacher reached out to Social Worker 3, who was also unable to find any data for September 22, 2025. (P5, 19:29; P5, 20:39) The Complainant asserted they had never received any behavior data, notification of behaviors, or incident reports. (P5, 18:22)

24. Social Worker 3 informed the Complainant about an incident on October 4, 2025 where the Student "was refusing to get on the bus and ... was scared to go home." After a conversation with the Student, Social Worker 3 was able to get them on the bus. Social Worker 3 shared with the Complainant "their protocol ... [was] when a child says they're afraid to go home, ... they can't notify the parent." Social Worker 3 reportedly informed the Complainant that they had attempted to contact the Foster Care Agency on October 4, 2025, but were unsuccessful in speaking with anyone. The Complainant recounted that was the only incident report Social Worker 3 was able to locate. (P6, 21:45; P6, 22:43)
25. The Complainant shared they believed daily behavioral charts were to be sent home. They indicated the IEP required "progress monitoring ... to be ... reported weekly ..." and behavior data should be included in quarterly progress reports. According to the Complainant, the LEA had not fulfilled these requirements and they reiterated they had never received any behavior tracking data. (P11, 36:23, P12: 41:02; P12, 42:17)

Social Worker 1 Interview

26. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, Social Worker 1 described the "typical protocol" when a student has suicidal ideations. They called it a "code white" and explained when the term was called over their walkie-talkies, a staff member would speak to the student experiencing a mental health challenge. Social Worker 1 said after assessing the situation, a call would be made to a guardian to get permission to "complete the [suicide severity rating scale] SSRS ." They indicated the call "happens pretty early on." According to Social Worker 1, once the "SSRS" was completed, a student would either be picked up for further treatment or stay at school, and then be monitored at home. (P3, 04:36; P3, 05:20)
27. Social Worker 1 believed the "code white" incident with the Student was initiated when they expressed suicidal ideation and fear of returning home. However, Social Worker 1 confirmed they were not present for the incident. They stated the protocol was to avoid contacting the parent if there were safety concerns at home, which is why they believed the foster agency, as the Student's legal guardian, was contacted instead. (P3, 05:47; P4, 07:41; P4, 08:57)

28. Social Worker 1 stated they did not "complete" any "code whites" for the Student. They indicated the process was completed by the School Counselor. (P2, 03:51)
29. Social Worker 1 stated their only communication with the Complainant was during parent-teacher conferences and the Student's annual IEP meeting. They shared they "have not had anything come up … in [the Student's] counseling sessions … where I felt I needed to notify [the Complainant] of anything." (P3, 06:02; P4, 06:47; P4, 08:27)
30. Social Worker 1 indicated BIP fidelity checks were performed by qualified behavioral interventionists at least once per quarter per classroom. They stated they did not perform the fidelity checks. (P1, 01:16, P1, 01:40)
31. Social Worker 1 stated they believed daily behavioral logs were completed every 30 minutes by either a teacher or paraprofessional. They reported the logs were both hard paper copies and entered into a computer. Social Worker 1 indicated the data from the logs was used for progress reports and IEP reviews. They stated the logs were shared with parents "if it is requested … ." (P1, 01:48; P2, 02:33; P2, 02:49; P2, 03:10)

Teacher Interview

32. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Teacher stated they had no knowledge of the Student expressing suicidal ideation. (P2, 03:15; P2, 03:27)
33. The Teacher stated they had followed the accommodations listed in the Student's IEP. They indicated BIP fidelity checks had occurred in their classroom, however, not specifically for the Student. (P1, 01:21; P1, 01:58; P2, 03:49)

Written Follow-up

34. In a written response to the Complaint Investigator, the LEA clarified there was no SSRS completed for the Student on or around September 22, 2025. (D105)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #259, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the Student in accordance with the IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-27(C), K.A.R. 91-40-26, K.A.R. 90-40-16(B); CFR 34 § 300.323.

Rule: According to K.A.R 91-40-27(c), unless a judicial order specifies to the contrary, each agency shall recognize the biological or adoptive parent of an exceptional child who is a minor as the educational decision maker for the child if the parent exerts the parent's rights on behalf of the child, even if one or more other persons meet the definition of parent for the particular child.

According to K.A.R. 90-40-16(b) and CFR 34 § 300.323, each agency shall ensure an IEP is in effect before special education and related services are provided to an exceptional child. Those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless a reasonable justification for a delay can be shown. An IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year. The child's IEP must be accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service provider who is responsible for its implementation. Each teacher and provider must be informed of that individual's specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP; and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

Complainant Position: The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to provide notification regarding a serious medical concern for the Student.

Respondent/LEA Position: The LEA claimed the required accommodations, modifications, and supports specified in the Student's IEP were delivered, with the sole exception of a noted instance of missed speech time.

Analysis: The LEA generally met the requirements for providing related services as outlined in the Student's IEP. The IEP required both speech-language services and counseling services twice per week. Service logs indicate that speech services were provided with the required frequency, including two make-up sessions planned for three missed dates. Similarly, counseling sessions were documented as meeting the twice-per-week requirement. The Student's placement in a therapeutic day school program, which is self-contained for academics, aligns with the need for a highly structured environment and supports the implementation of instructional accommodations and Antecedent-Based Interventions detailed in BIP.

The IEP required weekly progress monitoring via "charting/graphing" and a "behavior tracking sheet/report," and the BIP required daily data collection. Despite reports that daily behavioral logs were created every 30 minutes, the requirement for reporting progress and contacting the “parent” was not met. The LEA did not provide prior written notice removing these accommodations from the Studen’ts IEP at the time they transferred to the LEA. The LEA failed to provide the Complainant with daily behavioral sheets or any notification of the Student’s behaviors. The Teacher's reported assertion that they would not notify a parent of behaviors they could "handle" directly contradicts the implied need for open communication of critical progress monitoring data, representing a failure to fully implement the IEP's monitoring and reporting requirements for the Student.

The evidence regarding whether the Student reported suicidal ideations at the School is conflicting and lacks definitive documentation. The Complainant was informed by the Foster Home Worker that someone from the School called and said the Student was having suicidal ideations and needed a screening. The DCF Investigator contacted the Complainant a few days later, mirroring this report and stating the report was made on September 22, 2025. The Complainant reported during a meeting with the Teacher, they referenced the Student often has suicidal ideations when asked about the matter.

While Social Worker 1 believed a "code white" incident was initiated when the Student expressed suicidal ideation and fear of returning home, the School was unable to find any incidents or documentation of suicidal ideations on September 22, 2025, or any other date. In the Complainant's provided timeline, they also asserted the School could not locate any documentation. The LEA clarified there was no SSRS completed for the Student on or around September 22, 2025, which further refutes the claim. In their interview, the Teacher stated they had no knowledge of the Student expressing suicidal ideation. This conflicts with the Complainant's recollection of the October 15, 2025 meeting. Additionally, the Student's Psychological Evaluation indicated that reports of current suicidal ideation or intentions were denied.

There is insufficient definitive evidence to confirm the Student reported suicidal ideations at the School. The claims were reported secondhand or are contradicted by direct interview statements and the absence of required school protocol documentation.

Conclusion:

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is substantiated the LEA failed to provide the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the Student in accordance with the IEP.

While this is a procedural error, the failure to provide the weekly behavior data impacted the Complainant's ability to meaningfully participate in the Student's education and support the behavioral plan. Without the behavior data or "parent contact," the Complainant was unable to know what behaviors were occurring, how frequently, which strategies were effective, and what needed to be reinforced at home. This lack of critical information made it impossible for the Complainant to partner with the School to implement a cohesive, structured, and consistent intervention plan, thereby precluding meaningful parental participation.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at CFR 34 § 300.323 and K.A.R. 90-40-16(b) specifies the IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #259 did not provide the Complainant with behavior data or "parent contact," as specified in the IEP. Documentation and Interviews document this.

Based on the foregoing, USD #259 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #259 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at CFR 34 § 300.323 and K.A.R. 90-40-16(b) by implementing IEPs for each exceptional child at the beginning of the school year.
2. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #259 shall provide the Complainant with the Student's behavior data from the 2025-26 school year. Additionally, a documented plan will be developed in coordination with the Complainant to disseminate the Student's behavior data in regular intervals agreed on by both parties. USD #259 shall provide the KSDE with this documented plan as evidence of compliance with the corrective measures.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 259
Wichita Public Schools 26FC259-003

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on October 16, 2025, by ----- on behalf of her foster child -----. In the remainder of this decision, ----- will be referred to as "the complainant," and ----- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on November 14, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the complainant, the Complaint Report, the school district's notice of appeal, and the complainant's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report identified one issue:

> Whether USD #259, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), provided the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the Student in accordance with the Individualized Education Program (IEP).

The investigator found that "The LEA generally met the requirements for providing related services as outlined in the Student's IEP (Report, p. 16)." However, the investigator also found that;

> "the requirement for reporting progress and contacting the 'parent' was not met. The LEA did not provide prior written notice removing these accommodations from the Student's IEP at the time they transferred to the LEA. The LEA failed to provide the Complainant with daily behavioral sheets or any notification of the Student's behaviors. Report, p. 17.

Based on this additional finding that the district failed to report progress and failed to provide a Prior Written Notice (PWN) to the complainant, the investigator concluded that, "the LEA failed to provide the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the Student in accordance with the IEP (Report, p. 18).

In its appeal of this conclusion, the district asserted that the conclusion was erroneous because the complainant was not the student's parent, meaning that the district had no obligation or even the ability to provide personally identifiable information about the student to the complainant. The district stated that this student had an educational advocate during the time period examined in this complaint and that the educational advocate had been fully informed of all relevant information.

In Kansas, an educational advocate serves as the parent of a child if there is no other person that meets the definition of "parent" or "person acting as a parent." An educational advocate is the Kansas equivalent of a "surrogate parent" in federal law (see, 34 C.F.R. 300.519). Additionally, in Kansas a foster parent cannot be a "person acting as a parent" unless the foster parent has been appointed as a student's educational advocate (KSA 72-3404(m)(6).

The Appeal Committee has confirmed that at all times covered by the allegations in this complaint, the student had an education advocate but the complainant was not the student's education advocate. Accordingly, any communication between the district and the parent required by the IEP or any notice required by law did not apply to the complainant.

In her response to this appeal, the complainant asserts that: "DCF foster care placement standards require schools to notify foster parents of behavioral incidents, safety issues, and mental health concerns including suicidal ideation regardless of educational rights status." This may be a correct interpretation of the DCF Placement Standards Manual, but it cannot be considered by the Appeal Committee because the special education complaint process (which includes both the initial investigation and this appeal) is restricted to only the requirements of special education laws and regulations.

Because the complainant had no parental rights under either state or federal law with regard to this student's special education program, the school district had no obligations to the complainant under these laws. As such, the district was incapable of violating any special education duty owed to parents of a child with a disability with regard to its interactions with the complainant. Any conclusion otherwise in the report is reversed.

In its inquiry as to the status of the complainant's rights with regard to this student, the Appeal Committee was advised that the student did have an education advocate, that was not the complainant. However, the complainant has now completed the necessary education advocate training and, as of November 19, 2025, is assigned as the education advocate of the student who is the subject of this complaint. As such, the complainant does now have all of the rights of a parent with regard to the special education program of this student.

The appeal committee has not ruled favorably to the complainant in this appeal but wishes to express gratitude to the complainant for being willing to do the necessary work to qualify for and to serve as an education advocate for this student in special education matters. Kansas needs such willing volunteers to do this important work.

Issue

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the conclusion of a violation of law set forth in the Complaint Report is reversed and all corrective action is rescinded.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 8th day of December, 2025.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 259
Wichita Public Schools: 26FC259-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on October 10, 2025, by ----- (the student's education advocate) on behalf of -----, the student. In the remainder of this decision----- will be referred to as "the complainant," and ----- will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on November 9, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. An appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the complainant, the Complaint Report, the districts' notice of appeal, and the complainant's response to the appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The report identified two issues. The report concluded that there was no violation of law with regard to Issue 1, but there was a violation with regard to Issue 2. The district appeals the conclusion in the complaint report with regard to Issue 2:

Issue Two

Whether USD #259, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, responded to the Complainant's request for a meeting by either holding a meeting or notifying the Parent of their decision not to hold a meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-26, K.A.R. 91-40-17; C.F.R. 34 § 300.501, C.F.R. 34 § 300.503, C.F.R. 34 § 300.612 (a).

In this issue, the Complainant alleged that the LEA did not hold a meeting after the Complainant requested one and the LEA did not send a Prior Written Notice or any other documentation denying the request for a meeting (Report, p. 26).

The pertinent facts are:

- The complainant is the Education Advocate for the student and a foster parent of the student;
- There is another foster parent of the student, who is not the Education Advocate of the student, who, on March 31, 2025, requested a meeting to discuss the January 29, 2025 bus incident and the LEA's pick-up policy (Report p. 26).

The investigator found that:

> The LEA upon receiving the confirmed request by the Foster Parent, to include the Complainant, who holds educational rights, in the meeting regarding the Student's safety, supervision, and policy. The LEA was procedurally obligated to either convene the meeting or provide a PWN formally refusing the request and explaining why. The Complainant stated that a meeting specifically to discuss the bus incident and pick-up policy never occurred. Although the annual IEP review was held on April 25, 2025, the opportunity to discuss the incident as intended by the Complainant was reportedly lost. No documentation, such as a PWN, was provided by the LEA to the Complainant to document a refusal to hold the requested meeting. The failure to provide the mandated response, holding the meeting or issuing a formal refusal, constitutes a procedural violation. Report, p 26-27.

Based on these findings, the report concluded that a procedural violation occurred because the district failed to "formally provide the mandated procedural response, holding the meeting, or issuing a formal refusal." Report, p. 27.

In its appeal, the district asserts that the conclusion is error because:

> The duty imposed by the IDEA to respond to a request for a meeting is one that the District owes to the parent or parents of an exceptional child (see KAR 91-40-26(a)). A request made by a foster parent – who does not have the educational rights of a parent - does not trigger that duty. See K.S.A. 72-3404(m). But the Complaint Investigator appears to have reasoned that because the Foster Parent had requested that the Complainant be included in the meeting, that was sufficient to trigger the District's duty to either convene the meeting or provide a prior written notice refusing the request.

The district further asserted:

The Complaint Investigator appears to have treated the Foster Parent as a proxy or delegee of the Education Advocate, with the authority to make requests on behalf of and otherwise exercise rights of the Education Advocate. Kansas law is clear, however, that this is not permitted. A foster parent of an exceptional child is a "parent" under Kansas law only if the foster parent is also the child's education advocate. K.S.A. 72-3404(m)(6), One becomes an education advocate exclusively through appointment to that role by the state board of education. K.S.A. 38-2218. Stated differently, a foster parent does not become an education advocate or acquire rights equivalent to those of an education advocate through the assignment or delegation, nor are those rights transferred or shared through matrimony.

The Appeal Committee agrees with the district's interpretation of law. Most compelling is the very definition of the term "parent" in the Kansas statute. K.S.A. 72-3404(m) defines the term "parent" to mean: "(1) A natural parent; (2) an adoptive parent; (3) a person acting as parent; (4) a legal guardian; (5) an education advocate; or (6) a foster parent, if the foster parent has been appointed the education advocate of an exceptional child (Emphasis added).

This definition contains a qualifier that applies to all foster parents. A foster parent who is not the education advocate of a child with a disability cannot, by statute, act as a parent or assert or exercise any right of a parent pursuant to the laws and regulations regarding special education. Accordingly, the school district had no legal obligation to respond to this request of a foster parent who is not the education advocate of the student with a Prior Written Notice, or by any other method.

In her response to this appeal, the complainant said:

Thank you for the opportunity to respond to the appeal filed by USD259 in regards to complaint number 26FC259-002. The obligation for USD259 to hold the meeting or issue a formal refusal was met on April 9, 2025, when the building principal acknowledged and responded through email to both of our email addresses confirming if "we" which included myself, would still like to hold a meeting. My husband responded, "Yes please set a meeting up for me and Jenna to attend." Thank you for your time in the matter.

The Appeal committee understands the logic behind this response, but it does not change the outcome of this complaint. in this response the complainant acknowledges that it was her husband that responded, not her. The district's obligation to respond is owed only to requests made by the education advocate.

The conclusion in the Complaint Report is reversed and corrective action is rescinded.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the Complaint Report is reversed on this issue. No corrective action is required and this complaint is closed.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 15th day of December, 2025.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #417
ON OCTOBER 17, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: NOVEMBER 12, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, --------, by their parent, --------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #417, Council Grove Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #417.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on October 17, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ended on November 16, 2025.

Allegations

The following issue will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #417, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), properly notified the Parent of the October 6, 2025 IEP meeting, and afforded them an opportunity to participate. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b)(1)(c)(e); 34 C.F.R. § 300.322 (a)(b)(1)(c-d).

Investigation of Complaint

The Complaint Investigator interviewed the Parent by video conference on November 3, 2025. The following LEA staff were interviewed on November 7, 2025: the Special Education Coordinator and the Special Education Teacher.

In completing this investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed documentation provided by the Parent and the LEA. Although additional documentation was provided and reviewed, the following materials were used as the basis of the findings and conclusions of the investigation:

District Materials

1. Notice of Special Education Meeting, 03/25/25
2. Individualized Education Plan (IEP), 04/08/25

Parent Materials

9. Emails, 10/07/25-10/14/25

Background Information

This investigation involved a seventh-grade student enrolled at a school in the LEA. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. On a Notice of Special Education Meeting dated March 25, 2025, the Parent and the Other Parent were listed as legal educational decision-makers (LEDMs) for the Student. (D3)
2. An undated PWN regarding a meeting on April 8, 2025 stated, "Both state and federal laws concerning the education of children with exceptionalities include many [LEDM] rights. Receiving notices of action the school wants to take in regard to this student and being a part of this student's educational planning team are examples of the rights these laws give you." (D34)
3. Incident Notes dated May 20, 2025 indicated the Parent was "verbally aggressive" with School staff and was trespassed from the building as a result. (D85)
4. Notes of direct messages between the Other Parent and the Special Education Teacher indicated:

a. On August 22, [2025], the Special Education Teacher was scheduling a meeting to review the Student's upcoming re-evaluation results and asked if the Parent would attend the meeting in person or virtually.
b. The Other Parent suggested October 6, [2025] and stated the Parent would not be "attending any meetings at this time."
c. The Special Education Teacher asked if they had to provide documents to the Parent or if there was a court order stating the Parent could not attend the meeting. They said, "I just want to [make] sure we do things correctly so [the Parent] doesn't have a reason to file a grievance."
d. The Other Parent replied, "All I know is [the Parent] cand [sic] be on [LEA] property as of May 2025. [The children] are placed in my custody and can't see [the Parent] until set up at the visitation center … I'll have to get clarification from their case worker on this."
e. The Special Education Teacher stated they would check with the Special Education Coordinator about the situation. (D91)

5. Additional notes of direct messages between the Other Parent and the Special Education Teacher indicated:
   a. On September 24, 2025, the Special Education Teacher asked the Other Parent if they had to let the Parent know about the Student's IEP meeting on October 6, 2025.
   b. The Other Parent replied the next day and stated the Parent was not able to be around the Student and their sibling and had not been involved with any plans pertaining to the Student since May [2025]. They reiterated the Parent could not be on LEA property and only had supervised visitation with the Student. They said, "So I would say no, [if] I need to get something in writing[,] I will from the Department for Children and Families (DCF) worker on that case."
   c. The Special Education Teacher replied that was enough, and they did not want to "not invite [the Parent] and [they will] be upset about it." (D92-D93)
6. On a Notice of Special Education Meeting dated October 6, 2025, the Other Parent was the only LEDM listed. The notice was in regard to possible changes to the Student's IEP. The notice said in part, "The results of the evaluation or reevaluation of your child are now available. By law, we must meet with either, or both, of you to review the evaluation results for your child … ." (D37) The Other Parent checked the box that they planned to attend the Student's IEP meeting and signed the document on October 6, 2025. (D39)
7. According to an Evaluation/Eligibility Team Report for re-evaluation, dated October 6, 2025, the Other Parent was present for the eligibility meeting and was part of the team's decision. On the Team Member Participation page, both parents were listed as LEDMs, but only the Other Parent had signed. (D41, D48, D49)
8. Both parents were listed as contacts on the Student's October 6, 2025 IEP, however, only the Other Parent was listed as a participant and provided input under the "Parent Input" section. The Other Parent was the only "Parent/Guardian/LEDM" included on the Meeting Participants page. Only the Other Parent signed the IEP on October 6, 2025. (D51-D54, D69)

9. An undated PWN was sent to the Other Parent, who was denoted as the LEDM, regarding the IEP meeting on October 6, 2025. (D73) The Other Parent selected they gave consent for special education placement and service actions for the Student listed in the PWN, and signed it on October 6, 2025. (D77)
10. The Special Education Teacher emailed the Parent copies of the Student's IEP documents on October 7, 2025. (P4)
11. The Step-Parent emailed the Principal on October 8, 2025. They indicated the Parent still had joint custody of the Student and said, "[The Parent] missed the IEP meeting for [the Student] … which [the Parent] was unaware was occurring, but still would not have been allowed to attend. [The Parent] would have liked the opportunity to have input prior to that meeting … ." (P1) The Principal responded they would discuss the situation with District administration. On October 14, 2025, the Principal replied and stated they would lift the no trespass order to allow the Parent to come onto the School property for their children's education. (P2-P3)
12. On October 21, 2025, the Director of Student Services emailed the Superintendent, the Special Education Coordinator, and the Principal, and stated they had missed inviting both parents to the IEP meeting. (D95)
13. In an email dated October 23, 2025, the Director of Student Services wrote the LEA acknowledged a procedural error and said, "The LEA failed to invite both legal educational decision-makers to the October 6, 2025 re-evaluation and annual review meeting." They indicated the LEA offered to hold a new meeting, and the Parent was willing to attend it. (D1)

Parent Interview

14. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent and the Step-Parent confirmed they had not received a notice of meeting for the October 6, 2025 IEP meeting prior to the meeting. (P3, 06:16)
15. The Parent stated they received an email after the meeting, which was their first awareness of the meeting. The Step-Parent added the IEP was attached to the email. They stated the IEP listed the Parent as a "legal decision-maker." (P2, 01:49; P11, 30:13; P11, 30:49)
16. The Parent reported the Special Education Coordinator indicated to them the Other Parent had told the Special Education Teacher the Parent's "rights had all been terminated … ." The Step-Parent added they believed the Other Parent verbally relayed this information, as there was no legal document indicating a termination of parental rights. The Parent stated the LEA never contacted them to verify termination of rights and asserted their rights had not changed. (P2, 02:12, P3, 06:49; P5, 12:00; P11, 31:23)
17. The Parent shared they had been trespassed from the LEA during the 2024-25 school year. They reported the LEA made no attempt to set up an alternative method of attendance. The Parent shared the Special Education Coordinator informed them alternative methods were possible after the meeting had already occurred. (P4, 10:36; P10, 29:22; P11, 29:42)

18. Regarding parental notification, the Parent reported the Principal told them "[I]t's not [the LEA's] responsibility to figure out who has custody … ." The Step-Parent asserted, "[W]e've had to supply the custody arrangements to the school almost every year just so [the Parent] can have access to things." (P5, 12:00; P5, 13:35)
19. The Parent acknowledged the Other Parent had temporary full physical custody of the Student due to an issue involving the Student and law enforcement during the 2024-25 school year. (P4, 07:09; P12, 31:59)

Special Education Coordinator Interview

20. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Coordinator stated they did not know the Parent was not invited to the October 6, 2025 IEP meeting. They shared "… in my understanding, … both parents had been invited … ." They recalled "I just assumed that [the Parent] couldn't come … ." (P1, 01:06; P3, 04:24)
21. The Special Education Coordinator confirmed the IEP and meeting notes were emailed to the Parent after the meeting. They were not aware of any notification occurring prior to the meeting. (P2, 03:00; P3, 06:37)
22. The Special Education Coordinator reported they were unaware of any trespass orders for the Parent, as it was unrelated to special education. They expressed if they had been aware, "I would've gone back and made sure." They shared they were also unaware of any legal change in the Parent's educational rights. They stated both the Parent and the Other Parent were listed on the IEP as legal decision-makers. (P1, 01:54; P1, 02:28; P2, 03:37; P4, 08:26)
23. The Special Education Coordinator reported the Special Education Teacher notified them of the trespass order and shared a conversation with the Other Parent, indicating the Parent's educational rights were "blurry" after the meeting had already occurred. (P1, 02:28; P3, 04:24)
24. The Special Education Coordinator indicated their first knowledge the Parent had not been invited to the October 6, 2025 meeting was when they received the complaint. They asserted they immediately contacted the Parent and set up a new meeting for them. That IEP meeting occurred on November 6, 2025. The Special Education Coordinator confirmed the Other Parent was also invited and declined to attend. (P3, 05:44; P5, 09:26)

Special Education Teacher Interview

25. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Teacher stated they asked the Other Parent if the Parent would be attending the October 6, 2025 IEP meeting "in person or virtually?" They reported the Other Parent answered "[the Parent] would not be attending the meeting at all." The Special Education Teacher also reported the Other Parent informed them of the trespass order and indicated the Parent was no longer involved with decision-making for the Student. When asked who they believed to be the Student's legal decision-maker, the Special Education Teacher stated, "It's my understanding that [the Other Parent] was." (P1, 01:16; P3, 07:56)

26. The Special Education Teacher stated they had not seen the trespass order against the Parent or any paperwork terminating educational rights for the Parent. They expressed, "I was going off what [the Other Parent] was telling me." The Special Education Teacher reported "My understanding was … [the Parent] didn't have rights to be at the meeting or on school grounds … ." (P1, 03:03; P2, 03:41; P2, 04:02)
27. The Special Education Teacher confirmed a notice was not sent to the Parent prior to the October 6, 2025 IEP meeting. They also confirmed an email with the IEP and meeting notes was sent to the Parent after the meeting. (P2, 04:27; P3, 06:36)
28. The Special Education Teacher stated they primarily communicated with the Other Parent, and had only emailed the Parent in regards to the November 6, 2025 IEP meeting. (P3, 07:06; P3, 08:20)

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #417, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, properly notified the Parent of the October 6, 2025 IEP meeting, and afforded them an opportunity to participate. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b)(1)(c)(e); 34 C.F.R. § 300.322 (a)(b)(1)(c-d).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b)(1)(c)(e), agencies are required to ensure that one or both parents of an exceptional child are present at each IEP team meeting or are given the opportunity to participate. This involves scheduling meetings at a mutually agreed-upon time and place, and informing parents of the required information. Written notice of any IEP team meeting, conforming to specific regulations, must be provided to parents at least 10 days in advance of the meeting, unless otherwise specified. This notice must clearly state the purpose, time, and location of the IEP team meeting, as well as the titles or positions of the individuals from the agency who will attend. If a parent cannot be physically present, the agency must attempt other measures to ensure their participation, such as individual or conference telephone calls. An agency may proceed with an IEP team meeting without parental participation if, despite repeated attempts, they have been unable to contact the parent or parents or convince them to participate.

The Parent alleged they did not receive notification of an October 6, 2025 IEP meeting for the Student, and was not given an opportunity to participate. The Parent claimed they received notification about the meeting after it had occurred.

In response, the LEA acknowledged its procedural error in failing to invite both LEDMs to the October 6, 2025, re-evaluation and annual review meeting. In an attempt to correct the situation, the LEA contacted the Parent on October 21, 2025, to apologize for the mistake and offer to hold a new meeting.

The Parent was documented as an LEDM on several district records. K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(1) mandates that written notice must be provided to parents at least 10 days in advance of a meeting. However, the evidence confirmed the LEA failed to send any prior written notice to the Parent. Both the Parent and the Special Education Teacher confirmed that the Parent's first notification regarding the meeting was an email containing the IEP documents after the meeting had already occurred on October 7, 2025, a day late. However, it is noted the LEA identified its own procedural error and took swift remedial action by scheduling and conducting a new IEP meeting with the Parent on November 6, 2025, which the Parent attended.

The LEA also failed to fulfill its independent duty to verify educational rights. The Special Education Teacher, despite initial concerns about following correct procedure, relied solely on the Other Parent's statements that the Parent would not attend, was no longer involved in decision-making, and had a no-trespass order from the LEA. The Special Education Teacher admitted they had not seen any paperwork verifying the termination of the Parent's educational rights or limiting their participation. The Parent asserted that their educational rights had not changed. Federal and state regulations require the opportunity to participate to be afforded to all legal parents; the "one or both" language means the meeting can proceed if the LEA has made documented attempts to secure the participation of all legal parents. The LEA's failure to verify the legal status of the Parent's rights, coupled with the lack of direct notification, constitutes a breach of its duty to the Parent as an LEDM.

Furthermore, the LEA failed to ensure the Parent was afforded the opportunity to participate, even while aware of the Parent's in-person access restriction due to the May 20, 2025, trespass order. K.A.R. 91-40-17(e) requires the agency to attempt alternative measures for participation, such as telephone or conference calls, if a parent cannot attend in person. Despite the Special Education Teacher initially considering a virtual option, the LEA did not attempt to contact the Parent directly to arrange a virtual or telephonic means of attendance after the Other Parent stated the Parent would not be attending. This omission denied the Parent an opportunity to provide input prior to the IEP and eligibility decisions. The Director of Student Services acknowledged this procedural error, confirming the LEA "failed to invite both legal educational decision-makers to the October 6, 2025 re-evaluation and annual review meeting."

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to provide the Parent, a recognized LEDM, with advanced written notice of the October 6, 2025 IEP meeting and failed to ensure an adequate opportunity for them to participate.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.322(a) and state regulation at K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b)(1)(c)(e) stipulate that each public agency must take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of a child with a disability are present at each IEP team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate, and that parents are provided with written notice of any IEP team meeting at least 10 days in advance.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #417 failed to notify the Parent, a recognized LEDM, of the October 6, 2025, IEP meeting and failed to offer an alternative means for the Parent to participate. Documentation, the Parent interview, the Special Education Teacher interview, and the LEA's internal email all document this noncompliance. It is noted that the LEA took corrective action on its own initiative by holding a make-up IEP meeting with the Parent on November 6, 2025.

Based on the foregoing, USD #417 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #417 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. § 300.322(a) and K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b)(1)(c)(e) by ensuring all parents/LEDMs are properly notified of IEP meetings in advance and afforded a genuine opportunity to participate, including offering and arranging alternative participation methods (e.g., telephone or video conference) when in-person attendance is not possible or restricted.
2. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #417 shall submit documentation of the Parent's participation in the subsequent IEP meeting held on November 6, 2025, including the following:
    a. A copy of the Notice of Meeting sent to the Parent for the November 6, 2025, meeting.
    b. The signature page of the IEP developed on November 6, 2025, showing the Parent's participation and/or input.
3. By February 1, 2026, USD #417 will complete the following:
    a. Submit a written statement of assurance to SETS that the LEA’s practices and procedures for parent notification of IEP meetings have been reviewed and revised as appropriate to be responsive and compliant with the notification and participation requirements of IDEA and the Kansas Special Education for Exceptional Children Act. This review must specifically address:
        i. The protocol for determining and confirming all legally recognized LEDMs when parents are separated or divorced.
        ii. The protocol for communication when one parent asserts that the other parent's rights have been restricted or terminated (requiring independent verification, not solely reliance on a single parent's statement).

iii. The protocol for ensuring alternative means of participation are offered and arranged when a parent cannot physically attend the meeting (e.g., due to a no-trespass order or distance).

b. Provide training to all Special Education staff (teachers, coordinators, and administrators) on the revised procedures, specifically detailing the requirements for notifying all LEDMs and documenting offers for alternative participation methods.

Right to Appeal

Either party may appeal the findings or conclusions in this report by filing a written notice of appeal with the State Commissioner of Education, ATTN: Special Education and Title Services, Landon State Office Building, 900 SW Jackson Street, Suite 620, Topeka, KS 66612-1212. The notice of appeal may also be filed by email to formalcomplaints@ksde.gov The notice of appeal must be delivered within 10 calendar days from the date of this report.

For further description of the appeals process, see Kansas Administrative Regulations 91-40-51(f).

Background Information

The Student attends the 7th grade in the LEA, in the second year since transition from elementary school. The Student's most recent comprehensive evaluation dated April 19, 2024, found eligibility in the categories of Specific Learning Disabilities in dyslexia, math, and written language; Other Health Impairment due to ADHD; and Speech Language. The Student's IEP dated April 19, 2024 included a Behavior Intervention Plan along with special education and related services in both special and general education settings. According to the Complainant, the Student's IEP and services worked well during her elementary years but problems began upon entering the middle school during the 2024-25 school year.

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: Did the LEA implement the Student's IEP by providing special education services and accommodations in the Student's special education settings?
2. ISSUE TWO: Did the LEA implement the Student's IEP by providing the special education support in general education settings?

3. ISSUE THREE: Did the LEA implement the Student's IEP by providing the required accommodations and modifications in the student's general education science class?
4. ISSUE FOUR: Did the LEA respond to the parent's concerns regarding the Student's behavior, including any behavior that limited the Student's ability to make progress?
5. ISSUE FIVE: Did the LEA measure and report the Student's progress accurately and in accordance with the IEP's requirements?

Issue One

Did the LEA implement the Student's IEP by providing special education services and accommodations in the Student's special education settings?

Applicable Law

Federal regulation at 34 CFR 300.39 defines special education as specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent to meet the unique needs of a child with a disability. Further 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) requires that the IEP include "a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child: (i) To advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; (ii) To be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum. . . and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and (iii) To be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children. " Each special education service is required to be accompanied by the projected date for the beginning of the service and the anticipated frequency, location, and duration of the service. (34 C.F.R. § 300.320(a)(7).)

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the Student was not being provided special education services in the time spent in the resource room. According to the formal complaint, the Student does not complete assignments during the scheduled special education resource room due to a lack of oversight, leading to misuse of study time, incomplete assignments affecting grades, and requiring parental follow up. "[The Student] has two study hall periods, yet instead of being used for academic support or completion of work, [the Student] is often assigned unrelated tasks (e.g., setting up for games, taking out trash, etc.). There is no reason [the Student] should have failing or missing assignments when this time should be used for structured support."

The District responded: "The [LEA] affirm[s} that the student consistently received all special education services and accommodations outlined in [the] IEP within designated special education settings. Services were delivered according to the schedule and specifications in the IEP."

Findings of Fact

During the 12 month period prior to the October 9, 2025 complaint and during the investigation period, three IEP documents were in place: the IEP dated April 19, 2024, the IEP dated March 31, 2025, and an IEP amendment which took place after the complaint was filed on October 21, 2025.

The Student's IEP dated April 19, 2024 included goals in math computation, writing a paragraph using alternatives to handwriting, using self regulation to reduce shutting down or yelling, reading a 5th grade passage and articulation of the R sound. The IEP dated March 31, 2025 included goals in articulating the R sound, math problem solving, using self regulation skills, and completing assignments. The IEP Amendment did not alter the IEP goals, but did alter services, accommodations, and data collection, as noted below.

The IEP dated April 19, 2024, required the following special education services to occur in the special education setting, beginning August 1, 2024, the first year in middle school: speech language for 20 minutes 1 time a week, and math and reading for 100 minutes 5 times a week. The IEP dated March 31, 2025 required the same services in the special education setting, with speech language for 25 minutes 1 time a week and math and reading for 100 minutes 5 times a week. The IEP Amendment dated October 21, 2025 increased the Student's time in special education to 150 minutes, 5 times a week (changing a general education study period to resource room time) and added social work services 20 minutes 1 time a week.

The Student's schedule for the 2024-25 and 2025-26 school year showed a special education setting for two periods (102 minutes) prior to the IEP Amendment of October 21, 2025, which added an additional period of 61 minutes to the special education schedule. The Student was in an additional general education study hall period, which was supported by a paraprofessional, further addressed in Issue Two.

The Student's PowerSchool records for these courses for the 2025-26 year showed 2 failed assignments in Social Studies and Academic Enrichment Math and 2 failed assignments in English and Science.

The Student's FastBridge reports show relatively unchanged scores in the reading and math scores across the time period in question.

Student progress reporting for the special education goals showed that the student did not make adequate progress to meet her goals in math, self regulation, and work completion at the end of her 6th grade year (May 16, 2025). The Student made adequate progress at the October 14, 2024; March 14, 2025; and October 25, 2025 monitoring.

According to an interview, the special education teacher provided math instruction during one of the period in special education. During the second period, the Special Education Teacher retaught needed content and provided support for the Student to complete other assignments in the resource room. Email correspondence further described in Issue Four showed that the Special Education Teacher communicated with the Parent regarding the Student's assignments and work in the resource room.

Conclusion

In this case, the evidence showed that the LEA scheduled the Student's required special education time in special education settings. Student progress was mixed, with a steady grade in the pull out math class, unchanged FastBridge scores, and a failure to meet expectations for one 9 week reporting period at the end of the 6th grade.

In this case, special education time was scheduled appropriately. Interviews and email communication documented that the Special Education Teacher provided the Student's math instruction and addressed the Student's assignments and reteaching during the study period in the resource room. It is noted that limited data were provided to the Investigator to document work completion in the resource room, which is further discussed in Issue Five.

Based on the foregoing, the allegation that the district failed to provide special education services in the special education setting is not substantiated.

Issue Two

Did the LEA implement the Student's IEP by providing the special education support in general education settings?

Applicable Law

Federal regulation at 34 CFR 300.39 defines special education as specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent to meet the unique needs of a child with a disability. Further 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) requires that the IEP include "a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child: (i) To advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; (ii) To be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum. . . and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and (iii) To be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children. "Each special education service is required to be accompanied by the projected date for the beginning of the service and the anticipated frequency, location, and duration of the service. (34 C.F.R. § 300.320(a)(7).)

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the LEA hired only two paraprofessionals for the middle-high school and that the LEA had not provided the instructional services required by the Student's IEP due to a shortage of personnel and paraprofessional absences. "My child often receives little or no support in the classroom, and the accommodations - modifications agreed upon in her IEP are not being provided. Simply having a para present in the room does not replace the special education services required by her IEP, especially when that para is inconsistent and stretched across multiple classes."

The LEA responded: "The District recognizes that consistent paraprofessional and or special education teacher support in the general education setting is essential to meeting the student's needs and providing services as outlined in the IEP. Staffing schedules have been structured to ensure that the student receives direct support in all core content classes in accordance with her IEP." The LEA added that the paraprofessional schedule had been confirmed and that a documentation chart "will be added to document accommodations used, refused, and not needed during each class period."

Findings of Fact

Findings in Issue One are hereby incorporated by reference.

The IEP dated April 19, 2024, required the following special education services to occur in the general education setting: (a) special education instructional support for 200 minutes 5 days a week in social studies, science, ELA or reading. The PWN dated April 19, 2024, stated that the paraprofessional support would be in social studies, science, ELA and one elective. The IEP dated March 31, 2025 required special education instructional support for 150 minutes 5 days a week in social studies, science and ELA.

The paraprofessional schedule for the 2024-25 school year showed that paraprofessionals were scheduled into the Student's social studies, ELA and science courses, for a total of 162 minutes. The paraprofessional schedule for the 2025-26 school year showed that paraprofessionals were scheduled into the Student's social studies, ELA and science courses for a total of 153 minutes.

According to the Special Education Teacher's response to a follow up question, the Student was scheduled into an elective, general education study period which had paraprofessional support for the first semester of the 2024-25 school year for 50 minutes. The schedule was changed at the beginning of the spring semester (January 7, 2025) to allow the student to have an additional elective based on her first semester progress. The IEP dated March 31, 2025 showed the updated paraprofessional support schedule of 150 minutes, 5 days a week.

Student Progress. The Student's semester grade reports for the 6th grade (2024-25) showed the following core class grades:

	Semester 1 (2024)	Semester 2 (2025
English	A-	B-
Science	B+	C
Social Studies	B-	C-
Academic Enrichment Math	A-	A

The Student's first 9 week grade report for the 7th grade showed: English (B), Social Studies (B), Science (A-), and Academic Enrichment Math (A-).

According to the Principal, a paraprofessional's illness required adjustment of the paraprofessional schedule, during which the para was scheduled for partial time in the student's classroom; during this time, the small class size of 10 students facilitated the general education teacher to provide the student's accommodations and instructional support. In an interview with the LEA, the Special Education Teacher stated that the paraprofessionals were experienced and interacted professionally in the classrooms. The Special Education Teacher reported that he conversed daily with the paraprofessionals to communicate about the Student's performance in general education classes, and that a para suggested and implemented tangible positive reinforcers for the student's work completion and self regulation in general education classes.

Conclusion

In this case, it appears that the paraprofessionals were scheduled into the Student's core academic courses, as required by the IEPs in place. In the 2025-26 school year, the minutes of support totaled 153 rather than 160 minutes of instructional support, which does not detract from full time support in core content courses The Student maintained positive general education performance during the period of time when paraprofessionals were partially scheduled into the Student's core courses. The first 9 week grades in the 2025-26 school year showed two B's and one A- grade in general education classes.

However, during the 2024-25 school year, paraprofessional support totaled 162 minutes during three core academic courses, and paraprofessional support was missing for the 4th elective course, a deficit of 38 minutes, for 11 weeks (49 school days) using the school calendar from January 7, 2025 to March 31, 2025 when the IEP was changed. When the Student's schedule was changed, an IEP amendment and Prior Written Notice was required.

The Student's grades fell by a grade level in each content course during the 2024-25 year. The Student passed with grades of C or above at the end of the 6th grade; however, it is noted that passing grades may be a result of the extra effort made by the Parent to ensure that assignments were completed at home. The IEP team added 50 minutes of additional resource time with the IEP Amendment dated October 21, 2025, in response to the Parent's concerns, and indicating that special education oversight of Student work was needed.

Based on the foregoing, the allegation that the Student did not receive special education support in the general education setting required by the IEP is substantiated due to lack of special education instruction in general education as required by the IEP.

Issue Three

Did the LEA implement the Student's IEP by providing the required accommodations and modifications in the student's general education science class?

Applicable Law

Federal regulation at 34 CFR 300.39 defines special education as specially designed instruction at no cost to the parent to meet the unique needs of a child with a disability. Further 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) requires that the IEP include "a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services, based on peer-reviewed research to the extent practicable, to be provided to the child, or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to enable the child: (i) To advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals; (ii) To be involved in and make progress in the general education curriculum. . . and to participate in extracurricular and other nonacademic activities; and (iii) To be educated and participate with other children with disabilities and nondisabled children. "Each special education service is required to be accompanied by the projected date for the beginning of the service and the anticipated frequency, location, and duration of the service. (34 C.F.R. § 300.320(a)(7).)

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the Student's accommodations were not being provided. According to the written complaint, "[The Science Teacher] has consistently failed to modify assignments or provide accommodations outlined in the IEP.. . . and does not respond respectfully to my child's needs. [The Student] feels she is not being taught, only given independent assignments to complete, despite her need for targeted direct instruction. . ." The Parent also alleged that the Student's use of noise canceling headphones would be precluded by new school rules, and that due to restrictions on the Student's use of the school provided Chromebook, assignments could not be completed at home. The Parent alleged: "·Homework expectations ignore the fact that the school has not only blocked the internet at school, but they have also blocked her access at home, as well, meaning the school's support must allow her to complete work primarily at school. However, the school has made it clear that they expect her to complete the inaccessible assignments at home."

The District responded that it "affirms that the accommodations and modifications in the IEP have been implemented in the general education science classroom. . .[and the LEA] met with the teacher and parent to review the IEP in detail and ensure understanding of the services and supports required." Further, "As a proposed solution for parental concerns the following actions are being initiated: Modifications of the IXL Science Assignments. . . Teacher supports [as] ongoing consultation with the special education and administration. . .to the science teacher regarding differentiation and implementation of accommodations and modifications. Accountability [as] the special education teacher will monitor and document implementation of IEP accommodations and modifications in the science classroom daily with check-ins from the building administrator as needed."

Findings of Fact

Findings of Issue One and Issue Two are hereby incorporated by reference.

The IEP dated April 19, 2024 included these accommodations for the student: a separate quiet setting, additional time to complete assignments, modified assignments and assessments to skill level and with notes, read text aloud to student, frequent breaks, scribe, word bank for grade level materials, manipulatives in math, calculator, review agenda and assignments with school staff member, and a copy of notes. Assistive technology required by this IEP was: text to speech, speech to text, audiobooks, and grammar/spell check. This AT was continued in the IEP dated March 31, 2025 and the IEP Amendment dated October 21, 2025.

The IEP dated March 31, 2025 included these accommodations for the student: additional time, chunking of assignments, frequent check ins during work time (15 minutes), use of manipulatives and other supports, separate testing, breaks as needed, checklists for task completion with staff and parent to monitor homework, redo assignments at less than 70%, copy of notes, word bank for science, reduced choices in test and assignments with multiple choice questions, use notes, graphic organizers, scribe on longer assignments.

According to the Special Education Teacher in an interview, the Science teacher was unable to provide reduced choices on the multiple choice items in the educational software "IXL." According to emails dated April 25, 2025 between the special education teacher and a paraprofessional regarding an unspecified accommodation, the science teacher provided a grade adjustment after the assignment was completed in lieu of the accommodation.

In an email dated August 12, 2025 to the Principal, Special Education Teacher, School Counselor, and the Student's general education teachers, the Parent explained the Student's assignment planner and asked the teachers to use it, asked for a quiet discreet plan to address tardiness and out of class behavior, asked for weekly check ins with the Counselor due to the Student's reluctance to go to therapy, asked the teachers to be informed by the Special Education Teacher regarding the Student's accommodations and asked the teachers to use the accommodations with the Student. In an interview, the Principal stated that meetings with the teachers at the beginning of the school year addressed these issues with the school staff.

On an exchange of emails beginning on October 8, 2025 at 7:09 a.m., the Parent emailed the Special Education Teacher to express concern over the School's block of access to the home internet, thus preventing the Student from completing the missed assignments "piling up" and preventing the Parent from helping.

In a reply on October 9, 2025 at 8:26 a.m., the Special Education Teacher wrote: "To address the internet access issue, [the Student's] Chromebook restrictions are part of the district's content block, which is in place to ensure devices are used only for academic purposes. This measure was implemented after multiple reports of non-instructional internet use during class time. Because of this, her Chromebook currently cannot connect to non-school networks. We understand this limits her ability to complete assignments at home, so we make sure she has time and support during the school day to complete her work." The Special Education Teacher also stated the accommodations and reteaching were occurring at school.

In an interview, the Principal stated that the technology team had, in error, installed additional blocks on the Student's Chromebook based on a misunderstanding of the content blocks being requested. The Principal stated that these were repaired when he understood the Parent's complaint during the October 21, 2025 IEP meeting.

The IEP amendment dated October 21, 2025 adjusted accommodations, data collection, and communication with the parent by: reducing the grade level of the science IXL program in lieu of reducing item choices, adding a shared google doc to monitor homework across school and home, implement data collection charts to track refusal to work and use of accommodations, and collecting baseline social emotional data by the social worker, anticipating a changed social emotional goal in the next IEP meeting, scheduled for November, 2025. Other adjustments included offering noise cancelling headphones, using a specific space for quiet assignments, and repairing access to home wifi.

Conclusion

In this case, there is some question about the clarity and implementation of the student's accommodations in the science class, at least upon one occasion which was addressed by the Special Education Teacher. In addition, the Student's accommodation could not be provided in the automated software used in Science. Although the Student continued to make progress as measured by her satisfactory semester and 9 week grades, the lack of Chromebook access to complete assignments and to provide the assistive technology required by the IEP, the failure to alter the IXL curriculum as required by the IEPs, and the failure to provide at least one accommodation documented in the emails combine to cast doubt on the LEA's provision of Student accommodations.

It is noted that remedies were put into place by the LEA at the October 21, 2025 IEP Amendment: to reduce the IXL curriculum difficulty by two grade levels, to add teacher support by the Special Education Teacher, and to add accountability check ins by the Principal.

Based on the foregoing, the allegation that the Student's accommodations were not provided in general education science is substantiated.

Issue Four

Did the LEA respond to the parent's concerns regarding the Student's behavior, including any behavior that limited the Student's ability to make progress?

Applicable Law

Federal and state statutes and regulations at CFR 300.324(b)(1)(ii)(c) and KSA 72-3429(f) require that the IEP team meets at least annually and that it revises the IEP as appropriate to respond to a parent's request for an IEP meeting to address a lack of progress, evaluation, the child's anticipated needs, information provided to or by the parents, or other matters. In Kansas, a reasonable time to respond to parental requests such as the request for an evaluation or for an IEP meeting is three weeks, or 15 school days.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the Student continued to refuse to do her work at school, resulting in incomplete and failing assignments reported in PowerSchool. In the written complaint, the Parent stated:"·Requests for the school counselor to counsel [the Student] have been ignored." The Parent alleged that staff allowed the student to refuse work without a consistent structure or intervention, calling the Parent to complain while allowing the Student to fail. "Despite repeated meetings and emails, no consistent plan has been implemented."

The LEA responded they have "consistently responded to the parent's concerns regarding the student's behavior and engagement in the learning environment." This included collaboration to identify patterns and contributing factors by using an Antecedent-Behavior-Consequence (ABC) data collection system to collect data and guide interventions. In addition, the LEA responded that parental concerns were addressed at the October 20, 2025 meeting, by reviewing the data and adding social emotional supports for the students including adding social work services (20 minutes one time a week), access to a quieter setting when needed for regulation or focused work completion, continued data collection on refusals, accommodations, and assistive technology, collection of new baseline data by the social worker to inform goal development at the next IEP meeting on November 14, 2025. "These actions demonstrate the District's ongoing, data-driven response to behavioral concerns and its commitment to supporting the student's success across both academic and social-emotional domains."

Findings of Fact

Findings of Issue One, Issue Two, and Issue Three are hereby incorporated by reference.

The Parent reported that past behavioral intervention plans had been effective in reducing the Student's problem behavior at school. The Student's IEP dated April 19, 2024 included a Behavior Intervention Plan that included a daily visual behavior chart. The Student's IEP dated March 31, 2025 did not include a Behavior Intervention Plan, instead providing two IEP goals on self regulation and work completion to address the Student's needs.

As noted in Issue Three, the Parent emailed the LEA on August 12, 2025, to explain Student's assignment planner, to ask for a behavior strategy to address tardiness and out of class behavior, to ask for weekly check ins with the Counselor due to the Student's reluctance to go to therapy, to ask the teachers to be informed by the Special Education Teacher regarding the Student's accommodations and urged the teachers to use the accommodations with the Student.

The Parent and LEA agreed that the Student's behavior included withdrawing and refusing to do work perceived as difficult. The LEA reported that the Student was not a discipline problem, had no office referrals, and appeared well regulated, according to the Principal. In an interview, the Special Education Teacher noted that the Student was able to get back on track after a behavioral incident, that the Student was offered the opportunity to go to the Counselor when upset, but the Student did not agree to speak to the Counselor.

The LEA and the Parent agree that the Parent provided a planner for the Student to use to record assignments. In an interview, the Special Education Teacher reported that the Planner was a means of communicating problematic behavior along with emails home if the problem was severe. The Planner, along with the ABC monitoring, were used to monitor the Student's behavior during the current school year. The Special Education Teacher reported that most incidents occurred in science class.

In an examination of the email file provided by the LEA that included 57 email documents from October, 2024 to October, 2025, on the following dates the Parent and the Special Education teacher exchanged emails about completing assignments, failing grades on assignments, and at times, problematic behavior at school. A duplicated count of issues showed these topics: planner use (10), missing work or help with work (10), refusal to work or other behavior (11) and strategies and accommodation use (4).

The LEA reported that an ABC chart was implemented October 3, 2025 and data were provided to the Investigator through October 15, 2025.

In response to the formal complaint, the LEA scheduled and held an IEP team meeting to amend the IEP to add weekly social work services and to increase special education resource time to complete assignments, as noted in Issue Three.

Conclusion

In this case, the Parent asked for "counseling" services to be provided to the Student at the outset of the 2025-26 school year. In response, the LEA offered the opportunity to go to the School Counselor as needed and a later IEP amendment added social worker services to the Student's IEP. It is noted that general education school counseling, while offered, was likely not what the Parent had in mind when asking for weekly counseling. However, social work service was added by the LEA when the IEP team met and amended the IEP.

The Parent and the Special Education teacher were in regular communication about the Student's behavior, including work completion and refusals. In response to an email by the Parent to explore the reasons for the Student's behavior, the Special Education Teacher began to take more systematic data to learn more. Further, the IEP amendment dated October 21, 2025 added special education resource time to the Student's daily schedule to assist with work completion.

It cannot be determined from this evidence whether action should have taken place during the prior school year. The LEA responded to the Parent's concerns by collecting data, offering school counseling as needed, and subsequently amending the IEP. Therefore, the allegation that the LEA did not respond to the Parent's concerns is not substantiated.

Issue Five

Did the LEA measure and report the Student's progress accurately and in accordance with the IEP's requirements?

Applicable Law

Federal statute at 34 CFR 300.320(a)(3) require that the IEP include a description of (i) How the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals described in paragraph (2) of this section will be measured; and (ii) When periodic reports on the progress the child is making toward meeting the annual goals (such as through the use of quarterly or other periodic reports, concurrent with the issuance of report cards) will be provided.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the information coming home was inconsistent and that the daily communication on student progress was not provided and seemed inaccurate when she assisted the Student to complete assignments.

The District responded: "The District has consistently reported progress toward IEP goals per the reporting schedule outlined in the IEP. However, the team recognizes the parent's request for more transparent, frequent communication regarding the student's academic progress. To strengthen this process the following is proposed: A Google Doc communication log will serve as a continuous record of homework completion, missing work, and progress updates shared between school and home. The special education teacher will review and verify progress monitoring data bi-weekly to ensure accurate reporting. Any necessary revisions to progress reporting procedures will be discussed at the November 14, 2025 IEP meeting to ensure clarity and consistency going forward. "

Findings of Fact

The Student's IEP dated March 31, 2025 included two goals that required teacher observation, student self monitoring, and work completion records.

"Goal 3: Given academic tasks that the student perceives as difficult, [the Student] will use self-regulation strategies (e.g., asking for help, taking a short break, using positive self-talk) to remain engaged and complete assignments in 4 out of 5 opportunities, as measured by teacher observations, student self-monitoring, and work completion records.

Goal 4: Given homework assignments, [the Student] will complete and submit them on time and to the best of their ability in 4 out of 5 opportunities, as measured by teacher records, student self-monitoring, and work completion logs." A benchmark on this goal included: "With teacher support, [the Student] will use a planner, checklist, or digital tool to track homework assignments daily in 4 out of 5 opportunities."

School software (PowerSchool) recorded Student grades and assignment completion. The LEA did not provide any data pertaining to student self monitoring (like a checklist or visual display); however, interviews indicated that the Special Education Teacher and paras generally discussed assignments with the Student.

As found in Issue Four, the Special Education Teacher and Parent exchanged emails regarding the Student's behavior and assignments, including how the planner was being used by the school and the Student. The Special Education Teacher reported in an interview that the planner was used to track work completion and behavior. The Parent reported that the planner was an important tool for the Student to use for her daily assignments and as found in Issue Three, asked for the 2025-26 teachers to support the Student's planner use.

The District and the Parent were asked to locate and provide copies from the Student's planners from the 2024-25 and 2025-26 school year, and neither party could provide the 2024-25 planner data. However, the 2025-26 planner was provided. The Planner showed that assignments were written in the planner 11 of 12 school days in August, 14 of 21 school days in September, and 9 of 21 school days in October.

Conclusion

In this case, the Student's planner was the means to provide communication on the student's behavior and work completion. Email and planner evidence show that the use of the planner was inconsistent, as alleged by the Parent, for periods of time during the 2024-25 and 2025-26 school years. The planner was the measure for IEP goals as well as the means by which the Student's general education progress was sustained, including how the disability was addressed educationally. That the planner was specifically mentioned in an IEP goal benchmark and provided the only evident means of student self monitoring underscores the importance of its use. Therefore, the allegation that LEA failed to measure and report the Student's progress accurately and in accordance with the IEP's requirements is sustained.

(2) If an appeal committee affirms a compliance report that requires corrective action by an agency, that agency shall initiate the required corrective action immediately. If, after five days, no required corrective action has been initiated, the agency shall be notified of the action that will be taken to assure compliance as determined by the department. This action may include any of the following:

(A) The issuance of an accreditation deficiency advisement;

(B) the withholding of state or federal funds otherwise available to the agency;

Background Information

The student named in this complaint attends the eighth grade at the district's middle school during the 2025–2026 school year. The student lives at home with both parents, an older brother, and a younger brother. According to the parents, the student was diagnosed with Autism around age three and received early intervention services through their previous school district, which included speech therapy. The student attended a self-contained classroom for students with Autism until third grade, when the family moved to the current district. Since that time, the student has received special education services within the general education setting. The most recent evaluation, dated March 4, 2022, states: "The team believes that the exceptionality category of Learning Disability (LD) is most appropriate moving forward and will provide [the student] with access to the services and supports [they] need."

At the time of the complaint the student's current IEP is dated November 12, 2024 with an IEP amendment dated November 22, 2024 and includes the following:

Goals -

1. Reading fluency
2. Communication - grammar and enunciation

Special Education and Related Services -

1. Speech/Language as a related service in the special education classroom for 20 minutes, one day per week.
2. English/Language Arts (ELA) special education direct support in the regular education classroom for 80 minutes, five days per week.
3. Math special education direct support in the regular education classroom for 40 minutes, five days per week.
4. Science special education direct support in the regular education classroom for 40 minutes, five days per week.
5. Social Studies special education direct support in the regular education classroom for 40 minutes, five days per week.

Accommodations/Modifications/Supplementary Aids -

1. Extended time to finish assignments/assessments which was added with the IEP amendment dated November 22, 2024.
2. Separate setting when given an assignment/assessment in all learning environments.
3. Read aloud when given an assignment/assessment in all learning environments.
4. Shortened/modified assignment/assessment in all learning environments.
5. Para will support [the student] as [the student] reads aloud given an assignment/assessment in all learning environments.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaints and interview with the complainants, three concerns that fall under IDEA or Kansas regulations were identified and investigated.

Issue One

Did USD #440 fail to implement the student's IEP specific to para professional support, as required by 34 CFR §300.323(c)(2) during the 2025-2026 school year?

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.323(c)(2) require that the LEA must ensure that as soon as possible after the development of the IEP, special education and related services are available to the student.

Parent Position

The parents' complaint stated, "…the IEP team has a failed IEP, evidenced by the inability to provide adequate support, services, and accommodations." When asked to clarify this statement during the October 22, 2025 interview, the parent explained, "About four to five times a week we ask [the student], and [they] say [they] aren't getting the help [they need]." The parents reported that the student stated, "I try to wait, but the para is too busy. There are also three or four other [students] who need help. I ask the case manager, and [they] say there isn't a para and that [the case manager] can't help me." The parents further stated, "We've requested a para log and haven't received a response."

LEA Position

The LEA response states, "According to conversations with members of the IEP team, when the team received [the student's] parents' concerns regarding paraeducator support, the school staff reviewed the paraeducator schedules, etc. to ensure that paraeducator support is available in [the student's] classes."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation and interviews with all parties.

Government class:

1. In an email to the parents on September 22, 2025 at 9:38 AM, the principal noted an issue of concern from the previous Friday, which was September 19, 2025. "Prior to that at around 10:50am, it was reported to me that [the student] was feeling overwhelmed in a class and the para helped [the student] through that. Here is the incident report from the para: 'This morning in Government class there was a sub. [The student] became very overwhelmed with an assignment. I let [them] know there was not going to be a grade for it. [The student] was still overwhelmed. [The student] asked to use the restroom, [they were] gone for 12 minutes. When [the student] returned to class [they were] visibly upset. I escorted [them] to the hall. [The student] did let me know how [they were] feeling, and that [they had] had an anxiety attack. We talked for a few minutes as I was trying to put [their] mind at ease. I had [the student] walk down the hall to get a cold drink of water. That helped for a moment. I asked [them] if [they would] like to chew gum and offered [them] a piece of gum or a mint. [The student] did take the mint. [The student] seemed able to return to class. Although after being in class for a few moments, it was obvious [they were] not ready to return and were visibly upset again. I picked up [the student's] belongings and had [them] come back out to the hallway. We spoke for a few moments, and I found an alternate environment for [them] to remain for the rest of class. There were no expectations as I left [the student] in the alternate environment. I'd only asked [them] to relax, and [said they] could go to lunch when [their] class did. There are no expectations for [the student] to finish any work from the class period [they] missed."
2. The parents replied to the principal at 11:39 AM on September 22, 2025, "There was an incident of an anxiety attack in history class as you mentioned. [The student] felt like [they] didn't understand the work and that [their] para was too busy with other kids to be able to assist [the student]. An anxiety attack followed. What's the alternative environment and was [the student] able to finish [their] work? What is the amount of hours that [the student] is receiving support in this class and others? It appears that several students need para support and there is only 1 para. [The student] doesn't seem to have the support as indicated in [their] IEP. Please investigate and provide a detailed log of the amount of time in each class that para support is being provided. I don't believe the school is providing the full hours as directed in the IEP."

3. In an email reply from the principal on September 22, 2025 at 4:48 PM the principal stated, "I need some time to process your requests above and meet with the appropriate people involved to make sure we have a plan to move forward. I will get back with you."
4. In an interview with the principal on November 4, 2025, they stated, "I didn't respond in an email to that concern right then because the superintendent and I were trying to figure out how to respond to the multiple parent requests."
5. In an interview on November 4, 2025 the paraprofessional who supports the student in government stated, "[The student] does not ask for help frequently, only occasionally. I give [them] a moment to process the assignment and make sure it is clear. If I am busy with another student, [the student] is patient about waiting, I will even ask if [they are] stuck on the same thing as other students and will help them both." The paraprofessional also shared, "[the student] does ask to leave the classroom and go to the restroom because [they are] frustrated, but I am not always sure [they are upset] until they come back, and then I make sure to clarify if [they are] upset so I can help." The paraprofessional also clarified, and the schedule confirms this, that there are two paraprofessionals in this classroom and that each has specific students they are responsible for supporting.
6. In an email exchange with the government teacher on November 7, 2025, they shared, "I have never seen [the student] ask for support and not receive it. If the para is working with another student, [the student] has historically been fine working on [their] own. If [they] didn't know what to do, then [they] would talk to me or wait for the para to finish helping the other student. I believe there is sufficient para support in my classroom for the class [the student] is in. The para that is in that classroom does an excellent job and provides the support [the student] needs. The para is not stretched so thin that [they] neglect any of the IEP students."

Math class:

1. On September 22, 2025, at 1:24 PM the parents sent an email to the math teacher, "Over the weekend [the student] brought home a couple of worksheets that were not complete. These worksheets were learning angles of triangles. [The student] had a complete meltdown because [they] said [they] had no idea how to even begin to complete these problems. [The student] said during class the para, when [they weren't] busy looking at Facebook or SnapChat, only provided the answers to the questions. [The student] asked the para how [they] came to the answer, but the para was not able to explain. [The student] said to the para that if [the student] doesn't know how to get to the answer then [the student] will fail her quiz. The para said 'don't worry about it, just go to the next question.'"

2. The math teacher responded in an email that same day at 5:36 PM, "I am sorry that the assignment caused issues at your home over the weekend. To clarify a few things about the assignment, I did 4 of the questions on the worksheet with the entire class, if I remember correctly, 2 from the front side and 2 from the back. On which I wrote all the steps, and the reasons behind them, along with the answers. Before we started talking about the worksheet we spent roughly 15 minutes reviewing interior and exterior angle rules, and how they applied to questions. Once I had completed the "teaching" portion of the lesson, the students who often leave for a separate setting, [the student] included, did that, along with the para. I have no way of speaking to whether or not the para knew how to do the questions. Obviously, paras are aware of the expectations in my room, and have always given appropriate assistance when needed to students they are legally responsible for. Today in class students were given additional work time on this concept. [The student] did not leave to go to the separate setting, which is completely [their] choice. As I made my rounds, I stopped at [the student's] desk, and I asked how things were going, [they] had a few small questions, which we proceeded to work through together. [The student's] work looked great, and I complimented [the student] on how far [they] had gotten."
3. The parents responded that same day at 5:57 PM 'Thank you for your email. This helps us understand the instructional process. We have no concerns with that or what you did. Our concerns are where does [the student] go when [they] leave the room with the para? To [the case manager's] room? The hallway? Somewhere else? Who provides oversight to the para if you are not? If the para doesn't know how to give instructions or guide [the student] with the math process/rules/steps etc, who does? What are the expectations for paras in your room and other rooms? Is using personal phones and being on social media acceptable/allowed? If so, why? We have more questions than answers here and maybe it is [the principal] that needs to answer these questions. I am glad to hear that [the student] got the concept and demonstrated [their] knowledge well, but would this have been the case if we had not assisted at home over the weekend? I am afraid there would have been a different result."
4. The principal replied to the parents on September 23, 2025, at 7:03 AM, "I need some time to process your requests above and meet with the appropriate people involved to make sure we have a plan to move forward. I will get back with you."
5. The principal's log of parent communication and followup reflects the principal's investigation of the issue raised by the parents and found no evidence that the paraprofessional used their phone during this class time.
6. In the November 4, 2025 interview, the principal shared that they, along with the school psychologist and superintendent, reviewed the paraprofessional schedule on September 29, 2025, considering the appropriateness of available paraprofessional support in each of the student's general education classes. There were no changes to the schedule as a result of this review.

7. The parents sent a follow-up email to the principal on September 30, 2025, at 6:51 PM, "We have not seen a response to this email sent a week ago. We have an ongoing concern that has not been addressed with the lack of para support for [the student] that is clearly documented in [the] IEP. This is the second time and in a second class that [the student] has reported [they don't] have enough para support due to the para being too busy with other students. We are requesting an IEP meeting and our parent concerns from this email and all the other emails are to be documented verbatim in the parent concerns section."
8. The parents sent an email on October 1, 2025 at 11:00 AM "[The student] has reported again not receiving para support in Math class today. [The student] presented to the office and was reportedly told by you that [they] had to wait for the superintendent. We [came] to the office to meet with you and [the student] to discuss this. We have not received any communication back to our email or request for an IEP meeting."
9. The principal replied on October 1, 2025, at 11:04 AM, "I'm sorry I missed you this morning. We are available to meet as a team tomorrow morning at 8:00 a.m. [The speech therapist] would not be available but everyone else would be, including [the superintendent]. We would have a hard stop time at 9:20. If we need more time than that, we can pause the meeting and finish it at another time." The parents were not available to meet at this time and offered other availability.
10. There were a number of emails sent back and forth between the school and parents in an effort to schedule a meeting to discuss the parents' concerns. October 10, 2025 was agreed upon but ultimately declined by the parents, as they wanted to wait until the student's annual IEP.
11. In the November 4, 2025 interview with the principal, they confirmed that the paraprofessionals are not required to keep logs of which students they helped during class.
12. In an interview with the case manager on November 4, 2025, they stated that the student knows to ask the classroom teacher questions if they don't want to wait for the paraprofessional's support. When asked if they had ever told the student they were too busy to help, the case manager replied, "No, of course not."
13. During the November 4, 2025 interview, the science and ELA paraprofessional shared, "If I'm helping someone else, I go to [the student] right after."
14. In an email exchange with the math teacher on November 6, 2025 they stated, "Para's are occasionally busy with another student and cannot provide support immediately, but I have never seen a para intentionally ignore or not assist a student in need, including [the student]." When asked what the student does when a paraprofessional is busy the teacher replied, "They seem to wait patiently. I have never heard [the student] be disruptive if [they are] waiting. If I see [the student] needing help when a para is busy I try to help [the student]. I feel like I have sufficient para support. Students are given a significant amount of support and accommodations."

15. In an interview with the director on November 4, 2025, they stated that the LEA does not have a policy that dictates the ratio of student to paraprofessional in a classroom. They further explained that how much paraprofessional support is needed in a particular classroom is determined by each student's IEPs and level of need for these students.
16. On November 7, 2025, the principal shared evidence that they confirmed with the case manager and classroom teacher that neither had witnessed any of the students' paraprofessionals on their cell phones during instructional time with the student.

Conclusion

34 CFR §300.323(c)(2) requires LEAs to implement the student's IEP as soon as possible, and in this case, specific to paraprofessional support.

The state of Kansas does not mandate a specific number of paraprofessionals in general education classrooms, nor does the LEA. Decisions about what is educationally appropriate are made by LEA staff based on the needs of the students and the requirements outlined in their IEPs. This student's IEP does not include a dedicated paraprofessional; therefore, the student shares paraprofessional support with other students. The principal, school psychologist and superintendent reviewed the school's paraprofessional schedule and determined that paraprofessional staffing levels were appropriate. According to the student's IEP, paraprofessional assistance is provided for 40 minutes in each core class, meaning a paraprofessional must be available during that time, but not exclusively for this student.

The parents notified the school of concerns related to paraprofessional support once for government and twice for math. Although there are no logs of when the student received paraprofessional support, interviews with LEA staff, the case manager, the math and government general education teachers, and the student's paraprofessionals all share that the student receives paraprofessional support when it is requested.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA is implementing the IEP specific to paraprofessional support. The LEA is IN compliance, and corrective actions are not required.

Issue Two

Did USD #440 fail to ensure parent participation as required by 34 CFR §300.324(a)(1)(ii) during the 2025-2026 school year?

Applicable Law

34 CFR §300.324(a)(1)(ii) states that concerns of the parents for enhancing the education of their child must be considered by the IEP team.

Parent Position

The parent shared in the October 22, 2025 interview, "The point I am trying to make is that we're trying to have meaningful participation with the district. We noticed that our child is having panic attacks, etc. It seems like the school is hearing our concerns but not creating goals or reevaluating [the student] to ensure the IEP is supporting [the student]."

LEA Position

The LEA response states, "Beginning in September 2025, parents began expressing their concerns regarding multiple topics. Some of the items were related to [the student's] special education services while others were not. The building administrator, [principal], would investigate/visit with additional individuals and respond to the parent's email. Phone calls were attempted by both building and district administration to engage parents in discussion; however, parents stated they would only communicate by e-mail."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties. The findings of Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.

1. The parents emailed the case manager on September 12, 2025 requesting an IEP team meeting to include the school psychologist as soon as possible due to allegations of bullying.
2. The case manager replied on September 15, 2025 offering September 17, 2025 for the meeting to which the parents agreed.
3. As a result of the September 17, 2025 IEP team meeting the team produced a list of 16 actions to be completed including additions to the social/emotional section of the student's IEP, alternative area for the student to change clothes for athletics or P.E., and early lunch dismissal with a lunch check-in. Due to concerns about the student's peer relationships and alleged bullying, the team also agreed to have the school psychologist implement a 6-8 week social/emotional intervention with the student.
4. The principal shared in an interview that the social/emotional intervention was not added to the IEP due to the short-term nature of the intervention and because it was the initial attempt to support the student's social/emotional behavior which has not historically been an issue for the student. They went on to state, "this is an intervention we would consider for any student regardless of whether the student had an IEP."
5. In a September 18, 2025 email the parents stated agreement with the social/emotional intervention proposed by the school psychologist.
6. The initial PWN sent home for the parent's signature for the September 17, 2025 IEP amendment meeting had a box mistakenly checked and the parents found it to be too general and replied, "Once this is updated please send the paperwork with [the student] or mail us a copy and we will review and sign". Following this email there were two additional attempts made by the school psychologist to gain parental consent including the addition of requested information and clarifying terms on the form.

Ultimately, this PWN was not signed; however, the issues were added to the November 4, 2025 annual IEP meeting agenda by the LEA.

7. According to documentation shared by the LEA, the superintendent called the parents on September 29, 2025 to get clarity on the numerous issues the parents had raised with the middle school staff in order to create a communication plan as a way to manage the follow-up for these issues. The parent answered the call but ended the call prior to any conversation.
8. The parent sent an email to the superintendent September 29, 2025 just after the call from the superintendent at 2:14 PM stating, "I am not going to get back to you. Is there something we need to talk about?" To which the superintendent replied at 2:19 PM stating, "Just call when you have a chance." to which the parent replied at 5:38 PM, "You can just email me."
9. On October 1, 2025 the parents sent the following email to the school psychologist, "All the rest of our concerns that have been submitted by email to [the principal]. All our emails have included a request for a formal written response. [The principal] advised [that they] would investigate all of these matters and get back to us. [The principal] has not replied to us in writing as [they] stated [they] would. This is a failure to address our concerns and this is not acceptable."
10. In an email on October 1, 2025, at 2:35 PM, the superintendent offered his support at a proposed October 10, 2025 meeting to ensure topics could be covered in the allotted two hours as the parents had expressed concern about having a "hard stop time" for the meeting.
11. In an email reply from the parents, they stated that, "This IEP team has been meeting for several years now and has never had an issue with staying on topic or being respectful of each other's time. I don't think we need the type of support you are suggesting."
12. The LEA provided evidence that the superintendent contacted the Kansas Association of School Boards (KASB) legal staff about having to communicate only through email with regard to addressing concerns from parents that are related to staff members or students, "I was advised that we should be careful when providing certain information via email as it may violate privacy laws. I was also informed that we do have the ability to request to meet in person to address concerns related to students or staff. Finally, I asked if we could have a hard stop at an IEP meeting and have a continuation of the meeting if needed. The KASB legal staff stated that we can have a hard stop at the meeting and that parents should not be able to request an unlimited amount of time from staff. I also confirmed this with the LEA cooperative director. As a result I followed up with the email below."
13. The superintendent stated that as a result of guidance from KASB the following email was sent to the parents on October 3, 2025, "I have attempted to set up an in person meeting with you via phone call and email to discuss any specific concerns. I will preface that I cannot discuss any particular situations regarding other students or personnel matters as it is my duty to protect student privacy under FERPA and personnel privacy as well.

From what I have been following through the email chains, your concerns have and/or are being addressed by multiple administrators. That being said, there have been a number of different strands of email communication. This is part of the reason why I have been trying to set up the personal meeting to ensure that we have addressed all questions and to confirm that I am not missing any questions you still may have moving forward. I think it is best and most effective for this to be done in person as there have been a number of emails sent. I often find that a face to face meeting is valuable, more efficient, and effective in addressing questions or concerns by parents. We can set up a specific meeting individually or I can join an IEP meeting if needed."

14. The LEA provided evidence that there was a meeting scheduled with the parents for October 10, 2025 to address concerns that had been emailed to the principal; however the parents declined the meeting noting that they would wait until the annual IEP meeting.
15. In an October 22, 2025 email exchange between the school psychologist and director, the psychologist noted honoring the parent's request to have information unrelated to the IEP included in the student's special education record, "I didn't know where to add [the parent email statement], plus their complaint included multiple names of other students and staff. So most recently I again added more clarifying information to the concerns/needs and I would add to the social emotional page [in the IEP], then I redacted their complaint and copied and pasted it into a staffing notes document so it could be included in [the student's] webkidss records that way. These last drafts [of the September PWN] were mailed to them on 10/10/25 and have not been returned."
16. In the November 4, 2025 interview with the principal they noted that the superintendent was planning to attend the November 4, 2025 IEP meeting. They also shared that the parents have not requested a reevaluation of the student in the 2025 fall meetings or emails and the parents declined the student's most recent notification for a reevaluation on February 6, 2025.

Conclusion

34 CFR §300.324(a)(1)(ii) requires the IEP team to consider parent concerns.

The protections offered under IDEA are often not clear to families. From a parent's perspective, their child is one individual who may need various supports, and it can be confusing to understand which of those supports are part of the IEP process. As a result, parents may develop expectations of what IDEA can provide that are not fully grounded in the law. The investigator has no doubt that, in this case, the parents are acting in their child's best interest and are exploring multiple avenues, including the IEP process, to ensure the student receives appropriate support.

It is noted that the principal responded to the parents' emails, indicating they would follow up after gathering additional information. Although the principal may not have replied to every message via email, they offered meeting dates and times to address the parents' concerns. The principal also requested the superintendent's assistance in managing and responding to the parents' communications. The superintendent attempted to speak with the parents by phone and offered to meet with them to discuss their concerns; however, the parents declined this support.

During the 2025–2026 school year, the parents raised multiple issues, many of which were not related to the student's IEP and therefore fell outside the protections of IDEA. The LEA provided evidence that IDEA-related concerns raised by the parents were considered by the IEP team. The team's responses to those concerns included:

- The parent's request that an email alleging bullying be included in the student's special education record.
- The parent's request for a September 17, 2025, meeting to amend the student's IEP, and the follow-up actions taken as a result of the team's agreements.
- Rescheduling the annual IEP meeting, originally set for September 23, 2025, to accommodate the list of additional staff the parents requested to attend, evidence of which is found in Issue Three.
- The superintendent's offer to meet with the parents on October 10, 2025, to ensure their concerns were being addressed.
- In response to the parent's concerns about paraprofessional support, a review of paraprofessional schedules on October 29, 2025, as noted in Issue One.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the IEP team did consider the parent's concerns in the 2025-2026 school year. The LEA is IN compliance, and corrective actions are not required.

Issue Three

Did USD #440 fail to provide a timely Prior Written Notice for the student's annual IEP meeting as required by K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(2) during the 2025-2026 school year?

Applicable Law

Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(2) requires LEAs to send parents a notice of meeting at least 10 days in advance of the IEP meeting.

Parent Position

The second parent complaint received by KSDE on October 16, 2025 stated, "The notice of meeting for the annual review of the IEP is dated 10/10/2025, the post mark is 10/15/2025. The notice of meeting for the annual review was received by mail on 10/16/2025. The [middle school] proposed meeting date is 10/22/2025 at 2:00 pm".

LEA Position

The LEA response states, "[The student's] annual IEP date is November 12, 2025. On October 10, 2025, the Notice of Meeting was completed. The IEP Case Manager contacted [the student] to ask [the student] to take the paperwork home as this has been the past practice. [The student] responded that [they are] no longer to bring paperwork home from the school. The IEP Case Manager placed it in the school district outgoing mail. The meeting was scheduled for October 22, 2025."

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following finding of facts is based upon a review of the documentation noted previously and interviews with all parties. The findings of previous issues are incorporated herein by reference. To clarify, the parent's concern was with a Notice of Meeting (NOM), which is addressed by K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(2), not a Prior Written Notice (PWN).

1. The director shared the process found in the LEA's handbook to ensure IEP meetings are scheduled in compliance with the 10-day notice requirement under Kansas regulations. This guidance recommends beginning the scheduling process approximately 35 days before the student's annual IEP due date, when possible.
2. During the November 6, 2025 interview, the school psychologist stated that the case manager identified the earliest date when all required IEP team members were available and prepared a Notice of Meeting for the parents, proposing October 22, 2025, as the meeting date noting that the student's annual IEP was due by November 12, 2025.
3. In the November 4 2025 interview, the case manager shared that on Friday, October 10th they attempted to give the Notice of Meeting to the student to take home, which has been the practice in the past. However, the student said that their parents no longer want them to be responsible to bring home papers from school.
4. The case manager put the Notice of Meeting envelope in the school mail on the afternoon of Friday the10th, 2025 but the envelope wasn't postmarked until the 15th, 2025 due to the weekend and Columbus Day.
5. The parents provided evidence that the envelope containing the Notice of Meeting was postmarked October 15, 2025 and reported receiving the Notice on October 16, 2025, only 7 days prior to the scheduled meeting on October 22, 2025.
6. In an email dated October 21, 2025, the case manager asked the parents to confirm their attendance at the IEP meeting scheduled for the following day, noting that the signed Notice of Meeting had not yet been returned.
7. The parents replied to the case manager on October 22, 2025, at 5:17 AM declining the meeting and proposing an alternative date.
8. The parents sent an email requesting additional school staff be in attendance at the student's annual IEP meeting, October 22, 2025, at 6:12 AM.
9. The LEA response states, "While these individuals are not a part of the required IEP team participants, the [middle school] team worked to identify a date/time that the required IEP team members may be present along with as many of the parent requested attendees that are available to attend. That date is November 4, 2025 at 2:00 p.m. at [the middle school]. A new Notice of Meeting for the annual review was completed on October 23, 2025 and provided by mail and e-mail to the parent."

Conclusion

Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(2) requires LEAs to send parents a notice of meeting at least 10 days in advance of the IEP meeting to ensure parents are able to attend the IEP and offer input.

The first agreed-upon annual IEP meeting date was October 22, 2025 for which the parents did not receive the Notice of Meeting at least 10 days in advance. However, the parents declined that date, requested additional staff be included, and proposed alternate dates. The team subsequently agreed on November 4, 2025, and the Notice of Meeting was emailed to the parents on October 23, 2025, 13 days prior to the meeting.

Based on the foregoing, it is found that the LEA provided at least 10 days notice to the student's annual IEP on November 4, 2025. The LEA is IN compliance, and corrective actions are not required.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 CFR §300.323(c)(2) was not found based on evidence of implementation of the IEP specific to paraprofessional support. Corrective action is not required.
2. ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 CFR §300.324(a)(1)(ii) was not found based on evidence of the LEA's consideration of parent concerns. Corrective action is not required.
3. ISSUE THREE: A violation of K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(2) was not found based on the LEA's provision of the Notice of Meeting to the parents for the student's annual IEP meeting held on November 4, 2025. Corrective action is not required.

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, --------, by their parent, --------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD #260, Derby Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #260.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state-recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the school district. In this case, the KSDE initially received the Complaint on September 18, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ended on October 18, 2025.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

Background Information

This investigation involved a third-grade student enrolled at an elementary school in USD #260. The Student began attending their current school in October 2024 and is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA, with the primary exceptionality of autism and a secondary exceptionality of Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). The Student is described as being sweet and creative and enjoys walks, magnetic tiles, Legos, and works better with adults than with peers.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. An IEP dated August 27, 2024, from the Previous LEA described the Parent's concerns, the Student's strengths and needs, goals, and accommodations and modifications. The IEP indicated the Student was attending school virtually.
2. A PWN dated September 18, 2024, described the following:
    a. The team met on September 23, 2024 to review information and determine special education and related services, placement, and additions, changes, or modifications to services.
    b. A "material change in services" and a "substantial change in placement" were noted.
    c. The actions proposed or refused included services from the previous school that would be discontinued and those from the current LEA that would be provided.
    d. An explanation of the proposal indicated, “The team has determined that the services listed will best meet [the Student's] needs as [the Student] was previously receiving [their] special education services online and will now be receiving services in person as the school district is able to meet [the Student's] needs in a general education building." The team reviewed the Student's previous IEPs and reevaluation as the basis for the action.
    e. Consent for special education placement and services specified in the notice was provided via signatures from the Parents and dated October 7, 2024.
3. On September 19, 2024, the Parent emailed the School Psychologist to indicate the Student would begin school on October 7, 2024 due to "too short of notice for me to try and adjust my schedule, especially my work schedule."
4. A PWN dated September 23, 2024, described the LEA's proposal to conduct a reevaluation to determine the Student's present levels and to determine if the Student continued to qualify for special education. Assessment areas and descriptions were listed. Consent for the reevaluation was provided via signatures from the Parents and dated October 7, 2024.
5. On October 17, 2024, the Special Education Teacher emailed the Parent to share the Student"... took a bin of markers from the teacher area and refused to give them back. When they were taken away, [the Student] escalated and began hitting staff and throwing chairs and knocking down desks. Due to the classroom needing to be cleared for the others [sic] safety [Emergency Safety Intervention] ESI paperwork has to be filled out." The Parent responded, 'Tt1is is unfortunate because I can't give you advice on [the Student's] problem behaviors because [the Student's] not aggressive c1 home. The most [the Student] will do is cry when [the Student] doesn't get a preferred item:1'
6. An FBA dated December 20, 2024, indicated data were collected over a 44-day period regarding elopement, physical aggression, and task refusal. The document indicated the team did not feel there were instructional, curricular, or learner-specific antecedents to the problem behaviors, and noted the Student did not like loud noises and performed better in structured situations. Additionally, the consequences of staff reaction and redirection were deemed "inconsistent" with regard to reinforcing the behaviors. The team hypothesized"... when [the Student] gets over[-]stimulated by environmental stimuli, [the Student] elopes the room in order to escape the sensory overload" and because of this, the Student required a SIP as part of their IEP.

7. A Notice of Special Education Meeting sent by mail on December 16, 2024, described a meeting scheduled for January 16, 2025 to review the results of the evaluation, to determine the Student's eligibility, and to develop an IEP or discuss possible changes to the IEP. This notice was acknowledged and initialed by the Parent on January 16, 2025.
8. Weekly behavior tracking reports were summarized in spreadsheets and described the Student's behaviors:
    a. On October 7, 2024, the Student experienced a total of 6 behaviors, with the two most frequent behaviors of dysregulated transition (3) and "other" behavior (3).
    b. From October 21, 2024 through the week of December 16, 2024, the Student experienced a total of 250 behaviors, with the four most frequent behaviors of elopement (54), yelling (53), refusal (43), and task avoidance (33).
    c. From January 8, 2025 through the week of March 10, 2025, the Student experienced a total of 368 behaviors, with the four most frequent behaviors of yelling (137), task avoidance (83), elopement (70), and refusal (40).
    d. From March 24, 2025 through the week of April 28, 2025, the Student experienced 221 behaviors, with the four most frequent behaviors of yelling (62), task avoidance (48), elopement (39), and refusal (35).
9. On January 15, 2025, the Special Education Teacher emailed the Parent to thank them for "helping calm [the Student] down" and attached a document entitled: "[The Student] Parent Letter for 3rd ESI."
10. An IEP dated January 16, 2025, included the following:
    a. The Student's reevaluation was completed on January 16, 2025.
        i. The reevaluation report indicated, "All required members were invited and in attendance." Team member signatures included the Parents, the Speech Language Pathologist (SLP), the OT, the Principal, the General Education Teacher, the School Psychologist, the School Social Worker, and the Special Education Teacher.
    b. Parent input included "hitting, fighting, crying does happen at home, overall concerned with [the Student's] behaviors at school."
    c. The Student's behaviors were noted as being addressed in a BIP.
    d. The "Motor" section indicated, based on the most recent evaluation and data collection, the Student had needs in this area that required special education and related services.

i. "The Student requires occupational therapy intervention to work with [the Student's] sensory differences to assist [the Student] in recognizing what [the Student] needs and learning strategies to utilize so that [the Student] can more fully access [their] educational environment."

e. The Student required special education or related services in the areas of communication, daily living, and math.

f. The "Social-emotional" section indicated the Student required special education or related services, "Since starting at [the School] in October, [the Student] has had 250 behavior incidents. [The Student] has eloped [from] the classroom 54 times and yelled/screamed 53 incidents accounting for 42% of [the Student's] total behaviors." Additionally, the Student was unable"... to participate in the general education setting with same-aged peers full-time due to demonstrated behaviors."

g. The following goals were described:

i. Goal 1: "By January 15, 2026, [the Student] will initiate and maintain conversations with peers, teachers, incorporating turn taking and active listening skills with 50% accuracy as measured by peers and classroom teacher conversations" documented by data accumulation, observation, and teacher input and provided by special education staff, an SLP, and a social worker.

1. Baseline: "Currently, [the Student] does not initiate and maintain conversations with peers, teachers, incorporating turn-taking and active listening skills. 0% accuracy."

ii. Goal 2: "By January 15, 2026[,J when presented with a non-preferred task, [the Student] will initiate and complete the task for 1O minutes without attempting to elope the designated area, with visual cues and verbal prompts, occurring 60% of the time, as measured by teacher observation and student work samples," provided by a special education teacher.

1. Baseline: "[The Student] has eloped the designated area 54 times since October 2024 when [the Student] started at [the School]."

iii. Goal 3: "By January 15, 2026, When asked to state [their] parents name [sic] and ... address, [the Student] will independently orally state and then write [the Student's] name and address, with 65% accuracy as measured by student writing samples and teacher[-Jcollected data," provided by a special education teacher.

1. Baseline: "When asked to state [their] parents [sic] name and address, [the Student] has responded correctly 0% of the time."

iv. Goal 4: "By January 15, 2026, given occupational therapy intervention and special education staff support, [the Student] will accurately and effectively perform three activities within a sensory diet in 3 out of 4 sessions" measured by an OT and special education classroom documentation and provided by "[an occupational therapist/licensed] OTR/L and/or [a certified occupational therapy assistant licensed] COTA/L; [Special Education] SpEd."

1. Baseline: "This is a new skill to be learned; baseline 0%."

v. Goal 5: "By January 15, 2026[,] when given exercises with subtraction, two digits, [the Student] will subtract two-digit numbers - with regrouping, improving number and operations in base ten skills from 30% accuracy to 80% accuracy as measured by student work samples," teacher-recorded data, and provided by a special education teacher.

1. Baseline: "[The Student] currently can subtract double[-] digit problems without regrouping by drawing out the numbers and then X'ing out the other number. [The Student] does better when a line i[s] drawn between the ones and tens digit. [The Student] solves double[-Jdigit problems with regrouping at 30% accuracy."

vi. Special education and related services were delivered in classrooms within the general education building; however, the documentation did not list the start or end dates. The services included the following:

1. Special education for all subjects was provided in a behavior classroom five times per week for the duration of the day, minus the minutes for related support services.
2. Direct speech-language services were provided in a behavior classroom twice per week for 20 minutes.
3. Social work was provided in the social work office or special education classroom, weekly for 30 minutes.

2. A review of the IEP, at least once a year, in the special education classroom, for as long as it takes to review.
3. Occupational therapy sensory regulation strategies, at least once per month, in a special education classroom, for the length of the new training, usually at least ten minutes.

ix. Transportation needs included specialized transportation and the provision of a bus aide.

x. Regarding the Student's participation with non-disabled peers, "[The Student] does attend the general education classroom for math and reading throughout [the Student's] day, however the time in general education i[s] dependent on [the Student] as [the Student] will elope the classroom when [the Student] feels [the Student] is done."

xi. The Parent initialed and dated the IEP on January 16, 2025 indicating they received disclosures and a copy of the IEP.

xii. Participants included the Parent, the General Education Teacher, the Principal, the Special Education Teacher, the SLP, the School Psychologist, and the OT.

        i. Instructional description: “The IEP team will model and role-play how to use the break cards or verbally ask for a break in different settings. The team will also provide cues to use cards/ask for a break when they notice that [the Student] is becoming upset."
        ii. Responsible parties: All staff.
    d. Prevention strategy description: "The team will provide clear directions and a routine schedule for [the Student]. We will provide [the Student] with frequent breaks throughout the day. The team will review the rules/expectations with [the Student] as needed."
        i. ii. Responsible parties: All staff.

e. Intervention description: "The team will provide prompts/cues, repeat expectations, and offer breaks as needed to ensure [the Student] is using the replacement behavior appropriately."

i. Intervention strategies: "Redirect, provide prompts/cues, repeat expectations, use visuals, offer a break, give physical space, increase proximity, and other."

ii. Responsible parties: All staff.

f. Consequences

i. Positive consequences description: "The team will provide [the Student] with breaks in the sensory room and/or a tangible reward. The tangible reward can [be] a preferred activity/item that is approved by the team. [The Student] does better with instant gratification so privileges/rewards should occur immediately after the replacement behavior occurs."

1. Positive consequences: "Earn privileges, earn token/ticket/points, verbal/nonverbal praise, note or call home, office visit, tangible reward, and other."

g. Triggers, behavior signals, and the person responsible for notifying the Parent were described in the "Crisis Response" section.

h. Progress monitoring included charting/graphing, a behavior tracking sheet or report and "other," completed quarterly. The "other" was described as the behavior"... will be tracked on [the Student's] own individual behavioral tracking sheet and via progress reports that are shared quarterly with parents. Parents will be updated regularly on both positive and negative behaviors that occur."

12. A PWN dated January 16, 2025, included the following:

a. The Student was determined to be eligible for special education and related services after the team met to review the evaluation data, special education and related services, placement, and additions, changes, or modifications needed for the Student to meet their goals and participate in the general curriculum.

b. A "material change in services" was noted.

c. The actions proposed or refused included proposing IEP goals in the areas of communication, daily living, math, social-emotional, and occupational therapy. Accommodations, specially designed instruction (SDI), and related services were listed.

d. The actions were proposed to help the Student meet their IEP goals.

e. Additional options were considered and rejected, and the data used as a basis for the proposed actions were listed.

f. Consent for the placement and services specified in the PWN was provided by the Parent via Parent initials on January 16, 2025 and Parent signature on January 19, 2025.

13. On March 4, 2025, the Parent was informed via Classroom DOJO the Student required seclusion for five minutes"... to keep [the Student] safe as [the Student] was trying to elope while escalated. You will receive ESI paperwork via email tomorrow." The Parent acknowledged receipt by commenting, "Ok thank you for letting me know"

14. The following email exchanges occurred between May 12, 2025 and May 16, 2025 regarding scheduling a meeting regarding the Student:

    a. On May 12, 2025, the earent emailed the School Psychologist an email entitled "Modify IEP," alerting them the Student had been unenrolled and asking about adjusting the Student' IEP to half days.

    b. On May 13, 2025, the School Psychologist replied, “We can call an IEP to discuss potential changes to [the Student's] IEP. I am adding [the Student's] team to this email as well so we can get a meeting set up if that is what you would like to do." On the same day;-the Parent replied, "A meeting would be great."

    c. On May 14, 2025, the Assistant Director [unclear text received by KSDE] the "unenrollment" process and indicated, "We can absolutely get together as an IEP team to discuss what services need to look like and how to move forward. What are good days for you to meet?" The Assistant Director wrote, "Several members of [the Student's] team will be in another meeting at 1 [p.m.]" and they agreed on a 2 o'clock virtual meeting.

15. The following email exchanges occurred between July 14, 2025 and August 3, 2025 between the Parent and the LEA regarding the Student:

    a. On July 14, 2025, the Parent wrote:"... I wanted to follow[-]up on our IEP meeting from May. We've decided that [the Student] will attend school on a half-day schedule, as we believe this best supports [the Student's] current needs."

    b. On July 16, 2025, the School Psychologist responded, "Most staff are still off for summer break but when the team gets back in the building, I will make sure they are aware of what you would like to do for [the Student's] schedule. We will need to determine specific times so that [the Student's] IEP providers can continue to provide services when [the Student] is here. I have added the IEP providers so that they are aware as well as [the Assistant Director] to this email in case there is anything we need to do on our end to ensure a successful beginning of the year for [the Student]."

    c. On July 22, 2025, the Special Education Teacher wrote, "As a team, I think it is imperative that we meet in person before school starts. [Parent], would you be able to meet on Aug 4th? If you could allow for an hour that would be great ... Also, here are some things that would be helpful for [the Student's] meeting if they apply: 1.

Complete the online enrollment form for this school year. 2. Bring any current diagnosis and/or prescription information. 3. Bring a list of current outside providers."

d. On July 23, 2025, the Parent confirmed a meeting for August 4, 2025.

e. On August 3, 2025, the Parent canceled the August 4, 2025 meeting and proposed dates to reschedule. The team eventually agreed to August 7, 2025 as the meeting date.

16. The Principal's notes from August 7, 2025 described the following:
    a. The Parent reported the Student had been more aggressive with their siblings, and the Student's screaming had increased.
    b. The Parent mentioned a need to get the Student into therapies.
    c. Outside services were noted, and the Social Worker and SLP provided resources.
    d. Physical aggression in the form of hitting and shoving had increased at home.
    e. The Parent shared concerns about the Student attending a full day of school with the Student's behaviors.
    f. "[A] PWN will be created to address parental concerns"
17. On August 7, 2025, the Parent emailed the LEA with a summary of the meeting earlier that day, "I'd like to provide a quick recap of today's meeting regarding [the Student] and [their] IEP. At this time, half-day services have been denied until [the Student] begins receiving additional support outside of school. Once those external services are in place, half-day requests will be reconsidered." On the same day, the Special Education Teacher replied, "You are welcome to have [the Student] attend half days, however, transportation would not be provided as attending school is [the Student's] least restrictive environment."
18. A PWN dated January 16, 2025, contained information from an August 7, 2025 meeting.[1] According to the PWN, "On 08/07/2025, we met to review the evaluation/assessment data on this student, including any evaluations or information you provided, current classroom-based assessments and observations, and teacher or other staff observations to determine, with your input" Two boxes were checked, "Special education and related services needed by this student" and "The appropriate educational placement to provide special education and related services identified in this student's Individualized Education Program (IEP)."
    a. The following box was checked in Section D: Change in Placement:
        i. "SUBSTANTIAL CHANGE IN PLACEMENT."
    b. The Section E placement box was checked and indicated other changes to the IEP, not involving services or placement.
    c. The actions proposed or refused included, "8/7/2025: On July 14, 2025, [the Parent] emailed the team requesting to meet and discuss [the Student] going half days, however school was not in session. An agreed[-]upon meeting was set up for August 4th, but the parent later was unable to attend an[d] the meeting was rescheduled for August 7th at 3:30 [p.m.]. The team, parent included, convened on August 7th [2025] where the parent shared the following concerns with the team: [The Student's] behaviors have escalated since [the Student] stopped attending school and has become physically aggressive towards siblings, screams and yells for minor events (i.e. not getting a cookie, waiting 5 minutes, or not getting to be on a phone) at home. [The Parent] shared that police have been called several times due to [the Student's] screaming over the summer. [The Parent] also shared that [the Parent] is struggling to find resources to help [the Student] but does have a Dr's [sic] appointment set up for August 12th [2025] to obtain a referral and a possible psychiatrist for [the Student] to meet with. [The Parent] shared that [the Parent] is also looking into [Applied Behavior Analysis] ABA therapy. [The Parent] proposed that they would like [the Student] to attend school half days and work up to full days. The school district is refusing the parent's request for the student to attend school on a half-day schedule."

[1] The Investigator cross-referenced the original January 16, 2025 PWN with the January 16, 2025 PWN that contained information from the August 7, 2025 PWN to identify differences.

d. The explanation provided included, "8/7/25: The decision to deny a half-day schedule is based on the absence of current and objective data from the home environment that demonstrates that a reduced school day would be educationally or behaviorally beneficial for the student. The IEP team requires data-supported evidence that a shortened day would improve access to the general education curriculum or address specific needs identified in the IEP."
e. The options considered and the reason for rejection included, "8/7/25 Option Considered: Implementation of a half-day schedule as requested. Reason Rejected: There is no documented behavioral or educational data indicating that a reduced day would result in improved student outcomes." The data used as a basis for the refusal included the following:
    i. "8/7/25: Classroom observations and teacher reports indicating that the student is able to participate in a full school day without significant difficulty."
    ii. "Progress monitoring data showing consistent attendance and performance during the full-day schedule."
    iii. "Review of existing evaluation reports and IEP goals indicating that the current placement and schedule are appropriate."
    iv. "Lack of home-collected data or professional recommendations from outside providers supporting a half-day schedule."
f. Other factors relevant included, "8/7/25: The school team is committed to providing appropriate supports and services within the school environment. A decision to reduce instructional time is considered a significant change in placement and requires evidence that it is in the best interest of the student's educational progress. Without supportive data, such a reduction would be inconsistent with FAPE (Free Appropriate Public Education)."

19. On August 25, 2025, the Special Education Teacher emailed the Autism Intervention Team (AIT) to request assistance, "I am responding to a team email from March of last year in regards to an AIT student consultation that we put in for [the Student]. [The Student] was put on hold for any assistance due to the number of evaluations. I am pleading for help and would like to request that we readdress [the Student's] situation. We would really like to have several eyes on [the Student], so that we get further input." The Special Education Teacher listed the accommodations they were utilizing and wrote, "With these things, and more that I am probably just not thinking of, we are still experiencing behaviors (ear piercing screaming, eloping, and hitting peers/staff) when [the Student] does not get to do exactly what [the Student] wants to do.... We have had to pull the float para[educator] as [the Student] requires someone to be with [them] at all times for [the] safety of [the Student] and those around [them]." The AIT team responded and indicated the Student would be first on the request list.
20. On September.5, 2025, the Parent emailed the LEA to share the Student's behaviors were only occurring at school and "There have been no updates to [the Student's] IEP or behavior plan, and your school continues to rely on outdated documentation from last year, which is clearly ineffective."
21. Between September 11, 2025 and September 29, 2025, the LEA and the Parent exchanged emails to schedule a meeting to discuss the Parent's concerns, eventually agreeing to an October 9, 2025 IEP meeting.
22. The Assistant Director's notes from a September 15, 2025 communication with the Parent indicated the Parent shared, "Only 3 people show up to [the Student's] meeting. [The Social Worker] SW is most of the time late, a special education teacher, and the principal. IEP meeting behavior plans were never discussed.... August 7th [2025] is the last IEP."
23. Enrollment and discipline information for the 2024-25 school year indicated the following:
    a. The Student's start date at the School was October 7, 2024 and their end date was May 22, 2025.
    b. The Student received 10 discipline referrals.
24. Attendance information for the 2024-25 school year indicated the following:
    a. The Student's attendance was marked other than "present" on 36 days from November 5, 2024 to May 22, 2025:
        i. 2/36 days: In-school suspension (155).
        ii. 2/36 days: Out-of-school suspension (OSS).
        iii. 4/36 days: Unexcused absence.
        iv. 28/36 days: Excused absence.
25. Enrollment, attendance, and discipline information for the 2025-26 school year indicated the following:
    a. The Student's start date was August 13, 2025.

b. The Student had been absent from school for five days by September 18, 2025.
c. The Student was suspended for two days.
d. The Student received eight referrals/incident notations from August 21, 2025 to September 16, 2025 for the following behaviors: elopement, insubordination, battery, and assault with physical harm.

Interview Summaries

The Parent

26. In an interview with the Investigator, the Parent remembered a May meeting they believed was an IEP meeting and shared, "I do know, I think some of them didn't show up. I don't know what was going on, but I mean, that's a normal thing. Not everybody comes, but I'm pretty sure it was an IEP meeting because ... we need to come up with something [the Student's] not learning anything. [The Student's] going into behaviors, and it's only at school, so what can we do? But yeah, nothing really came of it." The Parent recalled the presence of the Special Education Teacher and another person at the meeting.
27. Regarding the August 7, 2025 meeting, the Parent recalled the Special Education Teacher, the Social Worker, the Principal, and another person present at the meeting. The Parent remembered being "extremely upset" and indicated the Student was suspended and"this is the third suspension ... something's not working. The environment at School, obviously, it's too much if [the Student's] behaviors is only occurring at school [sic]."
    The Parent recalled sharing the Student could go to school for half days, with the idea the Parent could find therapy for the Student during the other portion of the day. The Parent indicated the LEA said, "'We don't have any proof and no data that we should do half days.' If I decide to still do half days, they're not providing me [with] transportation. So that was the condition" The Parent shared with the Investigator, "Well, I need transportation for [the Student] to go to school. I don't drive, so I don't have a choice but to abide by their conditions." Additionally, the Parent shared the only decision made at the meeting was"... they denied the request for half days." According to the Parent, the LEA informed the Parent of this decision in person and"... they also sent me a form afterwards that stated that the only decision made at the meeting was"...they denied the request for half days." According to the Parent, the LEA informed the Parent of this decision in person and "...they also sent me a form afterwards that stated that they denied the request for half days."
    The Parent recalled telling the School, "It [unclear text received by KSDE] them from the beginning;-[the Student] started in October of 2024. the behaviors [the Student] has only occurs in school. It's not at home... The fighting, the aggression, the biting, the Kicking, the throwing." The Parent indicated the Student-"'fights with their siblings, but was not violent at home. The Parent shared they left the meeting frustrated, noting the staff only repeated old questions about the Student's behavior at home. The Parent complained the School never provided information about what triggered the Student's behavior or how the School helped to decrease the incidents. The Parent shared the Student did not act out in the community or at home, insisting that something specific was happening at school.

28. When asked about requesting the OT at the August 7, 2025 meeting, the Parent shared, "I just felt like because there was things as far as [the Student's] speech and OT. I don't know any of what's going on with that because the only people that showed up now, maybe the OT was the [person] from the last one, but the only people that usually show up is the social worker, [the Student's] main teacher, and the Principal. But I want to know how [the Student's] doing with OT, [and] speech. I mean, they came to one meeting. That's the first time [the Student] came to the school.
Everybody was there, and then it's like nobody else's existence after that. Does [the Student] need additional help when it comes to that type of stuff, too? I don't know. Why is only a portion of people showing up to the Student's meeting?" The Parent shared, "I would like for everybody to attend so I can know where [the Student's] at on every level in every circumstance. I appreciate the [Special Education] teacher being there all the time. I appreciate that. But [the Special Education Teacher] doesn't deal with [the Student] for these 30 minutes of time, the Speech Therapist or the OT does."
29. When asked to describe the indicators the Student's needs were not being met, the Parent shared the following:
    a. "For starters, when [the Student] goes into behaviors, is there someone that can step in and help with those circumstances besides that general teacher?"
    b. "... If it's one teacher and [the Student's] dashing out [of] the room, who was there blocking [as a] safety precaution? [The Student's] already had [their] finger cut open because no one was watching [the Student]."
    c. "Is there anybody else with [the Student]? I mean a para[educator] or something, a one-on-one aid or something that can be with [the Student] to make sure, 'Hey, you have to sit at your desk. Hey, we can't run in the hallway. Hey, we can't run and hide in the bathroom.'"
    d. "... I'm being called all the time for behaviors that I don't know how to deal with because they're not happening here."
30. The Parent indicated the School communicated with them after a seclusion or if the Student needed to be picked up, "Other than that, I don't get an update on [the Student's] behaviors at all."
31. Regarding the Student's attendance from March 2025 to May 2025, the Parent shared the Student attended daily"... besides maybe if [the Student] needed an appointment" or if the Parent could tell there were going to be behaviors, 'We're going to avoid you going today, I can already tell you're going to be in behaviors."
32. When asked if the Parent had noticed differences in the Student's behaviors from second grade to third grade, the Parent shared, "I think it's either the same. I won't say it['s] gotten worse, but it's the same. The physical aggression, the elopement, I don't think there's been any improvement at all."

The Director

33. In an interview with the Investigator, the Director shared the difference between an IEP meeting and a parent meeting,"... It is not unusual for us to get into what we believe is a parent-teacher conference ... and then something IEP related might come out of that. And then at that time, we typically stop the meeting, have the parents either waive their 10-day rights and continue with that meeting, or we can set up a meeting for another time. It is my understanding for this particular meeting that they were just listening to [the Parent] and [the Parent's] concerns regarding kind of how the school year ended, what [the Student's] behavior looked like over the summer I know the staff had given [the Parent] resources in the past and I think it was more just catching up, if you will, and seeing where they were with those resources and continu[ing] to help.... It was more of that parent-teacher conference meeting."
34. Regarding decisions made during the August 7, 2025 meeting, the Director shared, "So I can harp on them a lot to make sure that there are any parent concerns, that they always document those. And I think that's what [the Special Education Teacher] was alluding to with the PWN, is to make sure that those Parent concerns were documented." Additionally, the Director shared,"... I did do some already preemptive corrective action" on the topics of the notice of meeting, stopping the meeting if it turns into an IEP meeting, "And then we went through the meeting that occurred on August 7th [2025] and looked at when it began to discuss half days and how that could have felt like to the Parent, an IEP."
35. The Director indicated they never found anything that indicated the Parent requested the presence of the OT at the August 7, 2025 meeting.

The Principal

36. In an interview with the Investigator, the Principal shared they interacted with the Student when the Student escalated and was harming others. According to the Principal, when calm, the Student was pleasant and took many supervised breaks throughout the building. However, when upset, the Student would throw things, hit, or kick. During a recent intervention, the Student struck the Principal in the face. The Principal shared the Student was able to attend their general education classes briefly, and recently, the team decreased the Student's demands to find opportunities for the Student to be successful.
37. The Principal recalled attending a meeting with the Parent, the Special Education Teacher, the Social Worker, and the SLP on August 7, 2025, in which the Parent expressed frustration over the Student's summer behavior, stating family outings like going to the waterpark or restaurants were impossible without the Student becoming escalated. According to the Principal, the Parent found the Student needed to be constantly busy to stay content. The Parent was concerned the Student's increased aggression with their siblings would become unmanageable as the Student grew older and larger, worrying the Parent wouldn't be able to physically restrain the Student.

38. When asked about the Parent requesting the presence of an OT at the August 7, 2025 meeting, the Principal shared, "I don't recall that request." Additionally, the Principal shared they did not consider the August 7, 2025 meetrng an IEP meeting but a" ... briefing on how the summer went for [the Student]." The Principal recalled the Parent wondering if the Student would be successful with half days,"... and we talked about what that would look like and we did not feel like that was beneficial for [the Student]" The Principal shared "No decisions were made" at the August 7, 2025 meeting.

The Special Education Teacher

39. In an interview with the Investigator, the Special Education Teacher shared the following regarding the Student's behaviors:
    a. The Student's primary behaviors consisted of elopement and, secondarily, task-avoidance. Additionally, when the Student was asked to perform a non-preferred activity, the staff would prompt, redirect, and say "No." When the Student indicated they did not want to perform the activity,"... [the Student] kind of gives the head shake, and then, if we're like, 'But this is math time, this is what our schedule is,' that's when [the Student] will be like, 'I said no.' And then [the Student] will hit whoever's around [them] ... and then [the Student] started yelling, screaming, and [the Student] elopes the classroom. And that's [the Student's] pretty typical behaviors we experienced all last school year."
    b. Because the Student had previously been in an online program and did not enroll in the School until October 2024, the staff initially had limited information on the Student's behavior. They initiated a full evaluation, which included an FBA, and began collecting data. They tracked the Student's behavior weekly using a classroom data tracker that documented the frequency of specific actions, and shared a handwritten report with the Parent. Following the Student's IEP meeting in January 2025, they transitioned to sharing the digital data tracker with the Parent, which listed the targeted behaviors and the number of times they occurred each week. Additionally, they communicated with the Parent via Classroom DOJO.
    c. Following the IEP meeting on January 16, 2025, parent conferences were held about a month and a half later. At that time, the Student's most frequent and concerning behaviors of elopement and task avoidance were still occurring. Because these were the consistent major concerns, the behavior plan had not been revised. Despite the ongoing behaviors, the Student did not have any out-of-school suspensions until April 1 and 2, 2025. A more severe behavioral incident occurred on April 28, 2025, and the Parent came to the School that day and chose to take the Student home. The Student did not return to school for the rest of the academic year.
40. Regarding IEP meetings, the Special Education shared there were no IEP meetings after January 16, 2025. Regarding the May 16, 2025 meeting, the Parent sent an email to the School Psychologist entitled "Modified IEP" on May 12th or 13th, 2025, and they recalled the Parent was"... just saying that [the Student's] behaviors had increased ... and ... we really provided the Parent with more resources because the Parent was at a loss of what to do with [the Student] and their increasing behaviors." The Special Education teacher recalled,"... and at that point in time, we decided that no IEP was needed or anything to be modified because [the Parent] was going to be looking for resources ... over the summer." The Special Education Teacher indicated they attended the meeting with the Parent, the Principal, and the Social Worker.

41. In July 2025, the Special Education Teacher recalled the Parent emailed the LEA, indicating the Student was going to "be receiving half-day services at the School and that [the Parent] was finishing up securing outside resources.
And so as a team, [we] felt it was necessary to have an updated information grouping to come together because none of us were sure what was really going on ... because we hadn't had communication with the Parent since our May 16th meeting. So we said, 'Let's go ahead and have a meeting' per [the Parent]. [the Parent] wanted to talk about things, too."
42. The Special Education Teacher recalled the August 7, 2025 meeting, "So when [the Parent] came [on] August 7th [2025], [the Parent] sat with myself and some of the other providers that [the Student] has Not all staff was back to school yet, based on our days. And so we kind of just let [the Parent] talk and [the Parent] shared where [the Parent] was with outside services, what [the Parent] was looking into Based on that meeting though, [the Parent] did share with us that [the Parent] has not secured any outside services "
The Special Education Teacher recalled sharing half days were a possibility, but at that moment,"... it didn't seem like [the Parent] really had anything going on and that [the Parent] was free to choose half days, but that ... transportation is not provided at that time [and] that if we needed to, we could address things. If [the Parent] had services, we could amend IEPs, we could change it to be half days to fit whatever schedule [the Parent] needed. And so that was kind of the very end of that conversation that we had with [the Parent] ...." The Special Education Teacher indicated they attended the August 7, 2025 meeting with the Parent, the Principal, the Social Worker, and the SLP, and indicated, “To my knowledge, there was no written communication or even at the time of the meeting, [a] request for the Occupational Therapist to be present."
43. Regarding decisions made at the August 7, 2025 meeting, the Special Education Teacher shared,"... there was really no decision we just said that we were going to honor [the Student's] IEP as it was written because it didn't seem like anything, there hadn't been any changes as far as services or anything outside of what we had already been doing." When asked if the August 7, 2025 meeting was an IEP meeting, the Special Education Teacher shared, "I do not feel so, no" and described their rationale, "We did not discuss any of the components of the IEP until the very last five minutes where I just kind of said, 'Hey, but to address what your email said, I think it would be best just to start the school year on full days. And if something changed or we needed to change something, we could call and amend [the Student's] IEP.' But the majority, the beef of the meeting was the Parent sharing how their summer had went and all the places they had gone [and] [the Student's] behaviors and just sharing kind of where [the Parent] was at with that..."

44. The Special Education Teacher explained the reasons the January 16, 2025 and August 7, 2025 PWN were on the same document. They did not know how to access a blank PWN and shared, "We're told to continually add to the original so that it is all considered part of the record." The Special Education Teacher shared the information in the PWN below the date of August 7, 2025, was related to that date. When asked about specific information listed below the August 7, 2025 date, including the description of the data used as a basis for the proposed or refused action, classroom observations, teacher reports, progress monitoring, and a data review, the Special Education Teacher indicated that not all of those items, specifically, were discussed. The Special Education teacher said, "And so the way the conversation was, that was not addressed specifically, but just saying that based on everything that had happened from the end of the school year and everything that we had, that [the Student's] behaviors were still very extreme behaviors that we didn't understand what a half-day would essentially provide"
45. The Special Education Teacher indicated there were no written agreements signed by the Parent regarding staff attendance at meetings.

The School Psychologist

46. In an interview with the Investigator, the School Psychologist indicated they completed the Student's reevaluation when the Student enrolled the previous school year. During this process, the School Psychologist learned many of the Student's behaviors in the classroom stemmed from the Student's difficulty with verbalizing the Student's wants and needs. The School Psychologist described during the FBA, behaviors were tracked and data were collected to determine the functions of the behavior and to tailor the BIP to meet the Student's needs.

    When asked to describe the Student's behaviors overtime since enrollment, the School Psychologist felt they had likely "gotten a little worse." Although the School Psychologist was not often in the classroom to witness the behaviors directly, they understood the worsening behavior involved a lot of screaming and task refusal. This refusal often occurred when the Student was fixated on a preferred activity and did not want to shift to the requested task.
47. Regarding the August 7, 2025 meeting, the School Psychologist did not attend but recalled the Parent emailing them over the summer, requesting the Student attend half days. The School Psychologist forwarded the email to the rest of the IEP team, including the OT, so they could schedule the meeting with the Parent. The School Psychologist did not remember the Parent specifically requesting the OT's presence.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #260, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, convened a properly constituted IEP team at IEP meetings. Specifically, whether the LEA ensured the attendance of all required members, including the OT whose presence was requested by the Parent, at the August 7, 2025 IEP meeting. K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(h-j), K.5.A. 72-3404(u), K.S.A. 72-3429(b); 34 § C.F.R. 300.321.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(h-j), K.S.A. 72-3404(u), K.5.A. 72-3429(b) and 34 § C.F.R. 300.321, the notice for an IEP team meeting shall indicate the purpose, time, and location of the IEP team meeting and the titles or positions of the persons who will attend on behalf of the agency, including, if appropriate, any other agency invited to send a representative to discuss needed transition services. The notice shall inform the parent that the parent has the right to invite to the IEP team meeting individuals whom the parent believes to have knowledge or special expertise about the child. Additionally, a regular education teacher of an exceptional child, as a member of an IEP team, shall participate to the extent appropriate in the development, review, and revision of the child's IEP. This participation shall include assisting in determining the appropriate positive behavioral interventions and strategies for the child, the supplementary aids and services needed for the child, and the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to assist the child. If qualified to do so, an agency member of the IEP team may serve in the role of two or more required members of a child's IEP team. In asking individuals with knowledge or special expertise about a child to be members of the child's IEP team, the party asking the person to participate shall have the sole discretion in determining whether the invited person has knowledge or special expertise regarding the child.

The Parent alleged most staff members consistently failed to attend the Student's IEP meetings. They reported a lack of transparency regarding the Student's team, noting they were not informed of who was on the team and that no documentation or attendance sheet was provided to verify meeting participants. Regarding the IEP meeting on August 7, 2025, the Parent indicated only three staff members were present, and they were particularly disappointed the OT. whose input they specifically requested, was absent along with other necessary team members.

The LEA indicated they "properly convened a parent-staff conference on August 7, 2025." The LEA opted for a parent-staff conference "rather than an IEP meeting to better understand what had transpired in the three months since they last saw [the Student] and to understand [the Parent's] intentions." After the meeting, the Assistant Director recommended the meeting discussion be documented via PWN. Additionally, "The team recognized that after the meeting was over, they were remiss in not stopping the meeting and garnering parental consent from [the Parent] to waive [their] 10-day rights in writing, as at some point in the meeting, it felt like it turned into an IEP meeting. yet no one, at the time, recognized it as such."

The January 16, 2025 IEP meeting was properly noticed and convened with the required team members. In contrast, the LEA labeled the May 16, 2025 and the August 7, 2025 gatherings as "parent meetings," not formal IEP meetings. Neither the May nor the August meetings were properly noticed nor attended by the required members of the IEP team. The May 2025 meeting in particular constituted a parent meeting and not an IEP meeting for these reasons. Additionally, there is no evidence to suggest the OT was specifically requested for the August 7, 2025 meeting. Despite the LEA's intention, the "parent meeting" on August 7, 2025 evolved into an IEP meeting when substantive decisions about the Student's placement were made. Partially substantiated.

Separately, the Parent essentially requested an IEP meeting with the title of their May 12, 2025 email, "Modified IEP" and inquiry about a half-day schedule for the Student. Although both the School Psychologist and the Assistant Director acknowledged an IEP could be convened, one was not scheduled until October 9, 2025. The Parent reiterated their desire for half days in their July 14, 2025 email, which prompted the LEA to gather a team to discuss the Parent's concerns at a meeting scheduled on August 7, 2025. While the LEA intended for the August meeting to be an informal gathering of information, the discussion formally culminated in the refusal of a half-day schedule, a decision documented in the PWN as a "substantial change in placement." This determination, which directly impacted the Student's services, was made without a properly convened IEP team or the necessary written agreement for the excusal of absent, mandatory members. As a result, the LEA's procedural failures violate the procedural prong of Board of Education v. Rowley (1982). These lapses prevented the collaborative planning required to meet the current substantive standard from Endrew F. v. Douglas County School District (2017), which requires an IEP to be "reasonably calculated to enable a child to make progress appropriate in light of the child's circumstances," thereby resulting in a denial of a FAPE. Additional finding is substantiated.

Additionally, the PWN documenting the August 7, 2025 decision was procedurally and factually inaccurate. Using an old date for a new decision related to a "substantial change in placement" obscures the timeline and was misleading about the date and scope of the actions taken. Additionally, the Special Education Teacher indicated the list of data reviewed for the basis of the refusal of half days was inaccurate. Additional finding is substantiated.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, USD #260 made procedural violations by failing to convene a properly constituted and noticed IEP meeting, a timely IEP meeting to address the Student's behaviors and needs, and by issuing an inaccurate PWN, thereby denying the Student a FAPE.

Issue Two

Whether USD #260, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, properly reviewed and revised the Student's IEP and BIP to address the Student's behavior. K.S.A. 72-3429(b); 34 § C.F.R. 300.324(b).

According to K.S.A. 72-3429(b) and 34 § C.F.R. 300.324(b), each agency shall ensure the IEP team reviews the child's IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved. Each agency shall also ensure the team revises the IEP, as appropriate, to address any lack of expected progress toward the annual goals and in the general education curriculum, where appropriate, the results of any reevaluation conducted under this section, information about the child provided by the parents, the child's anticipated needs, or other matters.

The Parent alleged the Student's IEP had not been updated or modified to reflect the Student's current needs and behaviors. The Parent claimed the School continued to follow the previous year's IEP despite clear evidence it was no longer appropriate. Additionally, the Parent reported the Student's BIP was never discussed during IEP meetings. They indicated they had only received one behavior report in January 2025 and received no updates or modifications before or after that date. The Parent also noted there was no discussion of the Student's triggers, calming strategies, or how the School was addressing the Student's physical aggression.

The LEA indicated they properly reviewed and revised the Student's IEP and behavior plan to address the Student's behavior, starting with garnering consent to evaluate when the Student began attending the School in October 2024. The LEA indicated the Student was evaluated, and the IEP team met on January 16, 2025 to complete a new IEP, review the FBA, and create a new BIP. Additionally, the LEA reached out to the AIT in March 2025 to assist with the Student's behaviors, but the team could not observe until April. According to the LEA, "By then, [the Student's] attendance had become sporadic, with [the Student] eventually leaving the district on April 28, 2025, so the AIT team was never able to observe."

The Student's behavior data from October 2024 to April 2025 showed a persisting and escalating pattern of behavior incidents, clearly indicating the Student's lack of progress. The baseline data collected during the reevaluation process documented 250 behaviors over roughly ten weeks. From January 16, 2025 through March 2025, the total number of behaviors increased to 368 over a similar period, with yelling and task avoidance becoming more frequent Despite the 368 new incidents in the weeks following the new BIP's implementation, the LEA did not convene a timely IEP team to review and revise the plan. Additionally, the Parent raised concerns about the Student's school behaviors in October 2024, May 2025, and August 2025. On August 25, 2025, the Special Education Teacher emailed the AIT, "pleading for help," 'and indicated the Student required additional staff for support, and the Principal indicated recently that demands placed upon the Student had been reduced, all indications that demonstrate a need for a review and revision of the Student's plan. Substantiated.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated the LEA failed to review and revise the Student's IEP/BIP when evidence indicated a need for both.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 § C.F.R. 300.321, and Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 97-40-17(b)(h-j), K.S.A. 72-3404(u), and K.S.A. 72-3429(b) specify the notice and participation requirements for an IEP meeting.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #260 did not properly notice or convene the required participants when the August 7, 2025 meeting became an IEP meeting.

B. Federal regulations at 34 CFR §§ 300.321, 300.322, and Kansas regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-17, specify that IEP meetings shall be properly noticed and attended by the required participants. Additionally, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 300.324 and Kansas regulations K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2) require an IEP team to revise the IEP to address a lack of progress.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #260 did not schedule an IEP meeting in a timely fashion after the Parent requested one on multiple occasions, nor did the IEP team review and revise the Student's IEP or BIP when a lack of progress was evident.

C. Federal regulations at 34 CFR § 300.503 and Kansas regulations K.A.R. 91-40-26 specify the notice requirements for a PWN.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #260 did not provide procedurally or factually accurate information on the August 7, 2025 PWN.

Based on the foregoing, USD #260 is directed to take the following actions:

1. As part of the materials for this case, the LEA submitted documentation regarding corrective action in the form of a training they have already provided on the steps to take when a meeting transitions from a parent meeting to an IEP meeting. No further training is required. However, within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #260 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 § C.F.R. 300.321; K.A.R. 91-40-17(b)(h-j), K.S.A. 72-3404(U), and K.S.A. 72-3429(b) by implementing the necessary requirements for the notice of an IEP meeting and by ensuring no substantive decisions are made about the services or placement of a Student without a properly constituted IEP team.
2. Further, within in 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #260 shall submit a written statement of assurance to SETS stating it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 CFR §§ 300.321 300.322, and Kansas regulation K.A.R. 91-40-7 7 and 34 C.F.R. § 300.324 and Kansas regulation K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2) that the LEA's practices and procedures for parent-requested IEP meetings and the review and revision processes for IEPs have been reviewed and revised as appropriate to be responsive and compliant with the IDEA and the Kansas Special Education for Exceptional Children Act.

a. Additionally, if an lEP meeting was not held after the filing of this Complaint on September 18, 2025, then one is scheduled within 15 calendar days of receiving this report, and notification of the completion of the IEP meeting is provided to SETS by December 15, 2025.
b. The properly constituted IEP team must review and revise the Student's IEP/BIP based on information from required parties to ensure the IEP is reasonably calculated for the Student to make progress.
c. Additionally, for the period of April 29, 2025 through May 22, 2025: The IEP team shall reconvene if an IEP meeting was held after the date of this Complaint, to develop a mutually agreed upon schedule to provide 90 hours of compensatory service for all special education and related services.
    i. The IEP team, including the Parent, shall determine the schedule for which the 90 hours of compensatory services will be provided.
    ii. The schedule for compensatory services must be provided to SETS within 10 days of the IEP meeting.
    iii. Compensatory services shall be completed by March 2, 2026. Student absence or refusal of the Parent to make the child available shall result in a waiver of service scheduled for that day. Staff absences must be rescheduled. Any compensatory services declined or not used by March 2, 2026, shall be waived.
    iv. The LEA must provide service provider logs verifying the completion of all compensatory services to SETS by the last business day of each month until the service is complete and all services have been verified.
d. Convene training for all LEA staff on the following topics to be completed within 45 calendar days of the date of this report:
    i. Legal requirements for convening an IEP team meeting; and
    ii. Triggers for reviewing and revising an IEP or BIP.
e. Certify all required personnel have completed the training and submit documentation to SETS by February 15, 2026.

3. Further, within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #260 shall submit a written statement of assurance to SETS stating it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 CFR § 300.503 and Kansas Regulation K.A.R. 91-40-26 regarding the notice requirements of a PWN.
    a. Additionally, train all LEA special education staff who participate in the production of PWNs on the following:

i. The purpose of a PWN;
ii. The factual elements required in a PWN; and
iii. The navigation of the LEA template to ensure accurate PWNs are generated.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 260
Derby Public Schools: 26FC260-002

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on September 18, 2025, by xxxxxxxx (Parent), on behalf of her son, xxxxxxxx (Student). An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE). Following the investigation, a Complaint Report addressing the allegations was issued on October 18, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there were substantiated violations of special education statutes and regulations.

Thereafter, the school district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an Appeal Committee was appointed, and it reviewed the parent's original complaint, the Complaint Report, the notice of appeal, and the response to the district's notice of appeal submitted by the parent. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

The Appeal Committee limits its inquiry to the issues presented in the appeal. No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report issued on October 18, 2025. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The Appeal Committee's function is to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

The Complaint Report dated October 18, 2025 addressed two issues. The investigator found violations of special education laws for issues one and two. For both issues, the investigator stated appropriate corrective action. On appeal, the district disputes the findings in the Complaint Report (Notice of Appeal, p.1) for issues one and two. The Appeal Committee will address both issues.

Issue One

> Did USD #260, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, convene a properly constituted IEP team at IEP meetings? Specifically, did the LEA ensure the attendance of all required members, including the OT whose presence was requested by the Parent at the August 7, 2025 IEP meeting?

An IEP meeting notice shall indicate the purpose, time, and location of the IEP meeting and the titles and positions of the persons who will attend. KAR 91-40-17(b)(1). The notice shall inform the parent that the parent has the right to invite to the IEP meeting individuals whom the parent believes to have knowledge or special expertise about the child. KAR 91-40-17(b)(4). IEP team means a group of individuals composed of: the parent, one regular education teacher, one special education teacher or provider, an agency representative directly involved in providing specially designed instruction, an individual who can interpret instructional implications of evaluation results, other individuals with knowledge or special expertise regarding the student, and the student. K.S.A. 72-3404(u). If qualified to do so, an agency member of the IEP team may serve in the role of two or more required members of a child's IEP team. KAR 91-40-17(i).

First, it must be determined whether the meeting on August 7, 2025 was an IEP meeting or a parent-staff conference. On May 12, 2025, the Parent emailed the School Psychologist an email entitled, "Modify IEP" (Report, p. 12). In the email, the Parent asked about adjusting the Student's IEP to half days. On May 13, 2025, the School Psychologist responded, assuring that an IEP meeting will be held. On May 14, 2025, the Assistant Director agreed to hold an IEP meeting. An IEP meeting was held sometime in May. During the May IEP meeting, it seems that a half-day schedule was discussed but the Parent or the school had not yet agreed to the schedule change (Report, p. 13).

On July 14, 2025, the Parent sent an email regarding the Student's placement and wanting a half-day schedule (Report, p. 13). On July 16, 2025, the School Psychologist responded and assured the Parent that they would make service providers and the Assistant Director aware. On July 22, 2025, the Special Education Teacher sent an email to meet as a team before school started. A meeting was held on August 7, 2025 (Report, p. 14). According to a PWN dated January 16, 2025, the August 7th meeting included a review of evaluation and assessment data, classroom-based assessments and observations, and teacher and staff observations (Report, p. 14). Further, a substantial change in placement was proposed in the form of a half-day schedule. In the PWN, it is noted that the District refused the Parent's request for the Student to attend school on a half-day schedule due to lack of data that a half-day schedule would be educationally or behaviorally beneficial for the Student (Report, p. 15).

Based on the facts stated above, it is the view of the Appeal Committee that the August 7, 2025 meeting was an IEP meeting. Th August meeting was a continuation of the May IEP meeting because, as of August 7, 2025, the IEP had not yet been amended to show substantial change in placement in the form of a half-day schedule. Thus, the District and the school had been on notice that the Parent desired to change the Student's placement in the form of a half-day schedule. As of the August 7, 2025 meeting, the schedule issue had not been resolved. Therefore, it is reasonable for a person, let alone a parent, to conclude that the next meeting would be to discuss the Student's placement. Since the August 7th meeting was an IEP meeting, the Parent must have been given notice and the full IEP team must have been in attendance unless properly excused.

There is no evidence suggesting all members of the IEP team were present at the August 7th IEP meeting.

The investigator also found that the District denied the Student FAPE because the IEP was not "reasonably calculated to enable the child to make progress appropriate in light of the child's circumstances." Endrew F. v. Douglas County School District (2017). The IEP was not reasonably calculated because the District failed to hold an IEP meeting addressing the Student's lack of progress. In addition, the investigator found that the PWN documenting the August 7, 2025 meeting was procedurally and factually inaccurate since it used an old date for a new decision relating to a substantial change in placement. It seems that the District may have been misinformed in previous training. Still, misinformation does not negate the fact that the District failed to provide an accurate PWN. These additional findings are undisturbed.

Issue Two

Did USD #260, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, properly review and revise the Student's IEP and BIP to address the Student's behavior?

Each agency shall ensure that the IEP team reviews the child's IEP periodically at least annually to determine whether the annual goals for the child are being achieved. 34 CFR 300.324(b)(i); K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(1). Further, each agency shall ensure that the IEP team revises the IEP, as appropriate, to address lack of expected progress toward annual goal and the general education curriculum, the results of any conducted reevaluations, information provided by parents, the child's anticipated needs, or other matters. 34 C.F.R. 300.324(b)(ii); K.S.A. 72-3429(f)(2).

In this case, the Parent alleged that the Student's IEP and BIP had not been updated or modified to reflect the Student's current needs and behaviors. An IEP dated January 16, 2025 noted in the "social-emotional" section that the Student required special education and related services because student was unable "to participate in the general education setting with same-aged peers full-time due to demonstrated behaviors," including elopement and yelling (Report, p. 7). The IEP noted several goals regarding the Student's behavior, including completing tasks for ten minutes without elopement (Report, p. 7). A BIP dated January 16, 2025 addressed the elopement behavior concern by allowing the Student to ask for breaks throughout the school day.

Contrary to the District's assertion that the Student's behavior incidents decreased once a BIP was implemented on January 16, 2025, the facts show that the Student's behavior incidents increased after the BIP was implemented (Report, p. 6). Based on data, the Student's behavior from October 2024 to April 2025 showed a persisting and escalating pattern of behavior incidents, indicating a lack of progress. In fact, from January 16, 2025 through March 10, 2025, the total number of behavior incidents increased to 368 in total which is an increase from the 250 behavior incidents recorded in the previous ten weeks. (Report, p. 6). During the following six weeks, from March 24, 2025 through April 28, 2025, there were 221 behavior incidents in total, which is proportional to the previous ten weeks when there were 368 behavior incidents in total. (Report, p. 6). In fact, the total number of elopement, which was the BIP's target behavior, stayed consistent even after the BIP was implemented on January 16, 2025. Additionally, the Parent raised concerns about the Student's school behaviors in October 2024, May 2025, and August 2025. (Report, p. 30). Based on the foregoing, the District was on notice that the Student's Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) was not effective. All indications demonstrate a need for review and revision of the Student's BIP.

The District's assertion that IEPs from previous school districts show the level of behavior the student displays at home is of no significance. Further, the alleged report of the Derby Police Department that, during the summer of 2025, 9-1-1 calls were made from neighbors regarding the Parent and Student's home is of no significance to the fact that the BIP the IEP Team created on January 16, 2025 was not effective in the school environment.

The investigator ordered 90 hours of compensatory services to be completed by March 2, 2026, because the Student did not attend school from April 29, 2025 through May 22, 2025. (Report, p. 32). The Parent, the Student's mother, emailed the School Psychologist alerting the school that the Student had been unenrolled on May 12, 2025. Though the District is required to provide special education and related services to students while they are at school, the District is not required to provide special education services to a student who fails to attend school. Here, the District was ready, willing, and able to provide Student with individualized special education services. It was the Student's absence from school and lack of enrollment that prohibited the District from provided special education and related services. As such, the corrective action requiring the District to provide the Student with 90 hours of compensatory services is overturned meaning this particular corrective action is no longer required by the District. The corrective action as it relates to scheduling an IEP Team meeting to review and revise the Student's IEP and BIP to ensure the Student makes progress remains in effect.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee sustains the investigator's finding in issue one, specifically that the District failed to provide the Parent with notice before an IEP meeting was held and to convene the entire IEP team.

For the reasons stated above, the Appeal Committee sustains the investigator's finding in issue two, specifically that the District violated the IDEA by failing to review and revise the Student's IEP and BIP when it was evident that revision was needed to ensure Student progress.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 18th day of November, 2025.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #204
ON OCTOBER 2, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: NOVEMBER 19, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education against USD #204 (Bonner Springs - Edwardsville Public Schools) on behalf of ------- by -------, an educational advocate hired by her parent. In the remainder of the report, ------- will be referred to as "the student" and ------- will be referred as "the complainant" or "the educational advocate". It is noted that the complainant provided a copy of written consent from the student's parent, -------, to share personally identifiable information about the student in regard to this investigation. In the remainder of the report, ------- will be referred to as the parent" or the "mother".

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student."

In this case, the complaint is against USD #204 (Bonner Springs - Edwardsville Public Schools) who contracts with the Wyandotte Comprehensive SPED Cooperative to provide special education and related services to students enrolled in the district. In the remainder of the report, both of these responsible public agencies will be referred to as "the Local Education Agency" and the LEA staff will be referred to as follows:

- Dr. JaKyta Lawrie, Executive Director of SPED
- Rebecca Lambert-Hugo, Special Education Coordinator
- Taryn Bramel, Special Education Special Education Teacher
- Theresa Canche, School Psychologist
- Karly Hoefler, Kindergarten Teacher
- Angela Martindale, Bus Driver

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 60-day timeline to investigate a complaint and issue a final decision from the date on which it was filed. A complaint is considered filed on the date on which it was received by KSDE. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on October 2, 2025 and the timeline for investigation was extended due to the number of allegations investigated.

Evidence Reviewed

During the investigation, the Complaint Investigator reviewed all evidence and documentation provided by the LEA and the parents.

The LEA made the Special Education Coordinator, School Psychologist, and Special Education Teacher available for a telephone interview on October 22, 2025 as part of this investigation. Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a seven-year-old student enrolled in the 1st grade at Delaware Ridge Elementary School in USD #204 during the 2025-2026 school year. She is currently receiving special education services through an IEP developed on March 25, 2025.

The student was initially evaluated and found eligible for special education in preschool under the eligibility category of developmental delay on May 5, 2022. The student also has a medical diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder from the KU Medical Center.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

USD #204, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to conduct a comprehensive and appropriate evaluation of the student during the past 12 months, specifically by not obtaining parental input and evaluating the student in all areas of suspected disability.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.303(b)(2) require that reevaluation must occur at least once every 3 years, unless the parent and the public agency agree that a reevaluation is unnecessary.

As part of a reevaluation, federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. §300.305 (a)(1) require that the IEP team (which includes the parents) and other qualified professionals, as appropriate, must conduct a review of existing evaluation data on the child including evaluations and information provided by the child's parents; current classroom-based, local, or state assessments, and classroom-based observations; and observations by teachers and related services providers.

On the basis of that review and input from the child's parents, federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 C.F.R. §300.305(a)(2) require school districts to identify what additional data, if any, are needed to determine whether the child is a child with a disability; the present levels of academic achievement and related developmental needs of the child; whether the child needs special education and related service; and whether any special education and related services are needed to enable the child to meet the measurable annual IEP and to participate, as appropriate, in the general education curriculum.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.304(a) require each public agency to provide notice to the parents of a child with a disability that describes any evaluation procedures the agency proposes to conduct and to obtain written consent prior to proceeding with any evaluation procedure proposed.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.304(b)(1)(i) require each public agency to use a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant functional, developmental, and academic information about the child, including information provided by the parent, that may assist in determining whether the child is a child with a disability.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.304(c)(4) require assessment in all areas of suspected disability, including, if appropriate, health, vision, hearing, social and emotional status, general intelligence, academic performance, communicative status, and motor abilities.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.306(c)(1) require public agencies to draw upon information from a variety of sources, including aptitude and achievement tests, parent input, and teacher recommendations, as well as information about the child's physical condition, social or cultural background, and adaptive behavior; and ensure that information obtained from all of these sources is documented and carefully considered when interpreting data for the purposes of determining eligibility and educational need of the student.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that on May 8, 2025, the district's reevaluation was incomplete and referenced the school psychologist noting that the student "shut down" and could not complete the cognitive testing. Despite this, the team concluded her skills were "average". Furthermore, despite a medical diagnosis of Autism from the KU medical center and behavioral concerns requiring specialized transportation, the team failed to conduct a formal Autism eligibility determination or a functional behavioral assessment (FBA) to assess transportation needs.

In addition, the parent's input was not obtained as part of the reevaluation of the student. Note that this issue will be addressed fully in Issue Five of this report.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA denies this allegation. The evaluation completed in the Spring of 2025 looked at all the areas of suspected disability and concern including motor, social/emotional, adaptive behavior, cognitive, academic performance, and communication. Tools were used in each of these areas and noted in the evaluation report. An Autism rating scale was also used which did not indicate concerns related to Autism in the school setting. A formal standardized cognitive score is not a required component to determine eligibility; the team noted that there were no concerns for the student's cognitive functioning in the school setting and used a rating scale as an alternative way to address this area in the evaluation. Parental input was included in the evaluation summary.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The student's initial evaluation was conducted on May 5, 2022 with the triennial reevaluation required to be completed no later than May 4, 2025.
2. The student's IEP was amended on May 21, 2024 to include transportation as a related service for door-to-door drop off and access to a bus monitor beginning in the 2024-25 school year. In addition, the IEP was amended to include an updated description of what it looks like when the student has sensory overload and some different activities that are calming and some activities to avoid because they increased the overstimulation.

3. The parent was provided with a Notification of Meeting dated November 13, 2024 for an IEP team meeting held that same date. The Meeting Notification did not include a purpose for the meeting other than "Parent Request".
4. During the interview, the School Psychologist stated that the IEP team discussed conducting the student's triennial reevaluation before the due date to gather information to consider revisions to the student's IEP at the November 13, 2024 IEP team meeting. The IEP team meeting notes dated November 13, 2024 provided by the LEA noted the School Psychologist talked about collecting additional data to inform accommodations and modifications.
5. The parent indicated that concerns were shared with social/emotional behavior, cognitive skills, language skills, academic skills, and the impact of the Autism diagnosis on the student's behavior in school and on the bus at the November 13, 2024 IEP team meeting.
6. The LEA provided the parent with a PWN proposing to conduct a reevaluation of the student in the areas of social/emotional, general intelligence, academic performance, and adaptive behavior assessments, observations, interviews, and rating scales on November 13, 2024; however, the parent did not provide written consent for the proposed reevaluation at that time.
7. The parent made a request for a speech/language evaluation and the LEA provided the parent with a PWN refusing to conduct this parent requested evaluation in the area of speech/language on March 11, 2025.
8. The parent provided written consent for the LEA to conduct the reevaluation proposed in the November 13, 2024 PWN on March 24, 2025.
9. The IEP team met on May 8, 2025 to review the evaluation results and to determine continued eligibility for special education.
10. The May 8, 2025 Evaluation/Eligibility Report includes summarized testing results in the following areas:
    a. Health/Physical/Motor/Sensory using The Developmental Profile 4 (DP-4)
    b. Social/Emotional using the DP-4, Autism Spectrum Rating Scales Short Form (6-18 Years) [ASRS Short Form (6-18 Years)] and Classroom Behavior Data Sheets
    c. Adaptive Behavior using the DP-4 and Adaptive Behavior Assessment System—Third Edition (ABAS-3)
    d. Cognitive using the Wechsler Intelligence Scale for Children – Fifth Edition (WISC-V) and Reynolds Intellectual Assessment Scales, Second Edition-Remote (RIAS-2 Remote)
    e. Academic Performance using the Kaufman Test of Educational Achievement – Third Edition (KTEA-3), i-Ready benchmark testing from the 2024-25 school year, and classroom observations.
    f. Communication using the DP-4

11. Interviews and documentation show that the DP-4, ASRS Short Form (6-18 Years), and ABAS-3 summarized in the Evaluation/Eligibility Report were only completed by the Kindergarten Teacher and the Special Education Teacher.
12. The Evaluation/Eligibility Report showed the student could not complete either individual administration of the cognitive assessments and stated the testing was "discontinued due to signs of frustration and disengagement, as well as the absence of concerns regarding her cognitive development".
13. The Evaluation/Eligibility Report concluded that the student no longer meets the eligibility criteria for developmental delay and is no longer eligible for special education services. There is no documentation to demonstrate that any other category of exceptionality was considered for the student in light of the medical diagnosis of Autism and the parent's concerns with the behavior which required specialized transportation, the student's cognitive skills for unfamiliar/novel tasks resulting in frustration and disengagement, adaptive behavior skills, as well as the functional impact of the Autism diagnosis in the school setting for receptive language of sensory integration.
14. The LEA provided the parent with a PWN proposing to dismiss the student from special education through a material change in services and a substantial change of placement. However, the parent refused to provide consent. The LEA is currently continuing to implement the student's most recent IEP dated March 25, 2025 while the parent pursues an independent educational evaluation (IEE).
15. Interviews and documentation show the School Psychologist sent the parent copies of the parent survey forms for the DP-4 and the ABAS-3 on May 16, 2025 in order to allow the parent to provide input into the areas assessed by these tests.

Conclusion

In this case, the interviews and documentation appear to support the parent involvement in the review of existing data that occurred during the November 13, 2024 IEP team meeting and resulted in the LEA proposing to conduct a reevaluation of the student with additional assessment in the areas of social/emotional, general intelligence, academic performance, and adaptive behavior assessments, observations, interviews, and rating scales. The parent provided written consent for this proposed reevaluation on March 24, 2025.

However, the summarized testing of the reevaluation in the Evaluation / Eligibility Report dated May 8, 2025 did not include parent information when gathering relevant functional, developmental, and academic information about the child. In fact, this input was only sought from the parent in the form of the DP-4 and ABAS-3 parent survey forms on May 16, 2025, which is after the completion of the reevaluation with additional assessment and the eligibility determination meeting held on May 8, 2025.

Based on the assessment results reviewed on May 8, 2025, the LEA determined the student no longer met the eligibility criteria to be identified as a student with a developmental delay. However, it appears that the IEP team failed to consider any other disability category, specifically Autism, in light of the medical diagnosis. The only data considered related to Autism was a 15-question survey completed by the student's general and special education teachers. The Evaluation/Eligibility Report did not include any information regarding the previous assessments which resulted in the student's Autism diagnosis and only mentioned a previous "outside medical diagnosis of Autism Spectrum Disorder from KU medical center according to her initial psychoeducational evaluation".

The Evaluation/Eligibility Report included multiple evaluation results which were not synthesized in the eligibility determination. In the area of Adaptive Behavior, the following statement was made: "There may be various strengths and weaknesses related to expressing needs, interacting with others, and adhering to societal norms, but overall there is sufficient development in this realm compared to peers" but the subtest scores or any description of the weaknesses and their frequency and/or intensity were not included. In addition, the Evaluation/Eligibility Report stated that the cognitive testing was not able to be completed due to the student's frustration and disengagement and concluded this information was not required due to the "absence of concerns regarding her cognitive development"; however, the IEP team determined that additional information in the cognitive area was necessary when it proposed the reevaluation on November 13, 2024.

Documentation also shows the triennial evaluation was not conducted within the required timelines and exceeded the three-year timeframe.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT of compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.303(b)(2) which require an evaluation to be completed at least every three years; at 34 C.F.R. §300.304(b)(1)(i) which require the use of a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant functional, developmental, and academic information about the child, including information provided by the parent, in determining whether the child is a child with a disability; and at 34 C.F.R. §300.306(c)(1) which require public agencies to draw upon information from a variety of sources and to carefully considered when interpreting data for the purposes of determining eligibility and educational need of the student in all areas of suspected disability.

Issue Two

USD #204, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate procedures when dismissing the student from special education services during the past 12 months, specifically by predetermining eligibility and denying the parents the right to participate in the eligibility determination.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.8(a)(1) defines a "child with a disability" as meaning a child evaluated and found to meet the eligibility criteria as having an intellectual disability, a hearing impairment (including deafness), a speech or language impairment, a visual impairment (including blindness), a serious emotional disturbance (referred to in this part as "emotional disturbance"), an orthopedic impairment, autism, traumatic brain injury, an other health impairment, a specific learning disability, deaf-blindness, or multiple disabilities, and who, by reason thereof, needs special education and related services.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.306(a)(1) require that, upon completion of the administration of assessments and other evaluation measures, a group of qualified professionals and the parent of the child determines whether the child is a child with a disability and the educational needs of the child.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.306(c)(1) require public agencies to draw upon information from a variety of sources, including aptitude and achievement tests, parent input, and teacher recommendations, as well as information about the child's physical condition, social or cultural background, and adaptive behavior; and ensure that information obtained from all of these sources is documented and carefully considered when interpreting evaluation data for the purpose of determining if a child is a child with a disability and the educational needs of the child.

Chapter 7, Section F - Determining Continued Eligibility in the Kansas Special Education Process Manual states:

Upon completion of the reevaluation, the team should compile all data (that which previously existed and/or was collected as part of the reevaluation) into a format that will be useful when the team convenes to make the continued eligibility determination. It is important that all the information be in an understandable format that allows the team, including the parent, to understand the child's strengths and weaknesses and how the child is progressing in the general curriculum in addition to information about the child's exceptionality and needs for special education. At the time the reevaluation is completed, the team should schedule a time to convene in order to make the determination of continued eligibility. Parents are to be provided an opportunity to participate in the eligibility meeting, which can be conducted at the same time as the IEP team meeting. The school must provide a notice of the meeting at least 10 calendar days prior to the meeting date . . . When the meeting is convened, the reevaluation team, including the parents, reviews the results of the reevaluation to determine:

- If the child continues to be a child with an exceptionality;
- whether the child continues to need special education and related services;
- the educational needs of the child;
- the present levels of academic achievement and the functional performance (related developmental needs) of the child; and

- whether any additions of modifications to the special education and related services are needed to enable the child to meet the measurable annual goals set out in the IEP of the child and to participate, as appropriate in the general education curriculum.

As is the case in all reevaluations, when making the determination of whether the child continues to be a child with an exceptionality and whether the child continues to need special education and related services, teams must take into account that the child has made progress since the time he/she was initially evaluated and determined to be eligible for services. The fact that the child's performance gap may be less than at the time of the initial evaluation would not necessarily mean that the child is no longer a child with an exceptionality and no longer in need of special education services. The data collected at the time of the reevaluation should assist the team in decision making. Teams should thoroughly discuss the child's present levels of educational performance and consider the child's rate of progress. Teams should also consider what level of support is needed in order for the child to access and progress in the general curriculum and whether that level of support would continue to require specially designed instruction. If at the time of reevaluation, a student needs only general accommodations, then the student is no longer eligible for special education, but should be referred for consideration of eligibility for a 504 plan. These careful considerations should drive the determination of continued eligibility.

Parent Position

The student's IEP most recent IEP was developed on March 25, 2025, which required special education and related services including specialized transportation as well as a goal for social interaction behavior and accommodations for sensory concerns. Then, approximately six weeks later, the LEA determined the student was ineligible for special education based on the incomplete May 8, 2025 evaluation. The district selectively used i-Ready data, highlighting broad percentile rankings while ignoring its own data showing the student is receiving instruction at an "Early K" level. The complainant believes this demonstrates a clear pre-determination to exit the student from special education.

Local Education Agency Position

THE LEA denies this allegation. The eligibility determination was not made until the full IEP team met at the May 8, 2025 IEP team meeting, which included the student's mother.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The findings from Issue One are incorporated herein by reference.
2. The Evaluation/Eligibility Report dated May 8, 2025 included a summary of the student's kindergarten i-Ready benchmark data from the 2024-25 school year. These scores are reported based on percentile ranks as compared to same grade peers. The scores in reading for the three benchmark administrations fell as follows: fall = 49th percentile; winter = 30th percentile; spring = 35th percentile. The scores in math for the two benchmark administrations fell as follows: fall = 40th percentile; winter = 22nd percentile. These scores were summarized as being commensurate with same-grade peers.

3. Statistics for standardized testing shows that percentile ranks are based on a mean at the 50th percentile with percentile ranks falling between the 25th and 75th percentiles being considered to fall within the "average range".
4. The IEP dated March 25, 2025 summarizes district-wide assessment data in a chart which shows the student falls at the "emerging K" level for all areas of reading and math except for high frequency words which falls at the "early K" level.
5. The March 25, 2025 IEP includes an IEP goal to address social interaction behavior with peers and requires 50 minutes per day of specialized instruction in the general education setting and 20 minutes per day of transportation as a related service.

Conclusion

In this case, interviews and documentation found the parent attended and participated in the May 8, 2025 IEP team meeting when the eligibility determination was made. The LEA provided the parent with PWN proposing to dismiss the student from special education and, because the parent disagreed with the proposed action, the parent refused to provide written consent as is her right under federal and state regulations. As such, the LEA is continuing to provide the student with the special education services to address the IEP goal as described in the last agreed upon IEP dated March 25, 2025. Based on the foregoing, it appears the LEA did follow the correct procedure to propose the student be dismissed from special education in May 2025 including not only providing PWN proposing the dismissal but also responding appropriately when the parent refused to provide consent.

The concerns raised regarding the reporting of the academic achievement data based on the student's district-wide assessment data do appear contradictory between the Evaluation/Eligibility Report and the IEP's present level of performance. However, this confusing presentation of this one set of academic data does not indicate that the district predetermined the eligibility status for the student. IEP team meeting notes dated May 8, 2025 show a discussion of the evaluation results and the parent sharing continued concerns regarding behavior in the classroom and on the bus should the special education supports be removed. Because the parent disagreed with the LEA's conclusions at the eligibility determination meeting does not mean the LEA predetermined the eligibility decision. Note that the complainant and parent's concerns with how the assessment was conducted are addressed in Issue One.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found IN compliance with the requirements to include the parent in the eligibility determination process and not predetermine eligibility status.

Issue Three

USD #204, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the student with a free appropriate public education during the past 12 months, specifically by dismissing the student from special education regardless of the lack of progress and not working on grade-level content.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.101 require a free appropriate public education (FAPE) be made available to all eligible children with disabilities. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.17 define FAPE as meaning special education and related services that are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge; and are provided in conformity with an individualized education program (IEP).

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.503(a) require public agencies to provide parents with prior written notice a reasonable time before they propose or refuse to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or the provision of FAPE to the student.

In addition, Kansas state regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-27(a)(3) require school districts to obtain parent consent before making a material change in services or a substantial change in placement. "Material change in services" is defined at K.A.R. 91-40-1(mm) as an increase or decrease of 25% or more of the frequency or duration of a special education service, related service, or supplementary aid or service specified in the child's IEP. "Substantial change in placement" is defined at K.A.R. 91-40-1(sss) as the movement of an exceptional child for more than 25% of the child's school day from a less restrictive environment to a more restrictive environment or from a more restrictive environment to a less restrictive environment.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that by failing to conduct a proper evaluation and making a predetermination for an exit from services, the district has denied the student the specially designed instruction necessary for her to make appropriate progress. The complainant believes the data from the district's own i-Ready system shows the student is not working on grade-level content, which is direct evidence of a continued need for support and a denial of FAPE.

Local Education Agency Position

THE LEA denies this allegation. The parent did not sign consent to exit the student from special education services and the required special education services required by the most recent annual IEP dated March 25, 2025 are continuing to be provided. IEP Goal Progress Reports for the 2024-25 school year show the student has consistently demonstrated progress towards her annual IEP goals and teacher reports from the 2025-26 school year indicate the student is successful in the grade-level curriculum with support provided in the general education classroom.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The findings from Issues One and Two are incorporated herein by reference.
2. The Evaluation/Eligibility Report noted the student's academic skills fell within the average range as compared to same grade peers in kindergarten based on district-wide assessment. Standardized assessment of the student using the KTEA-3 showed subtest scores falling between 88 and 96 and composite scores as follows: Reading = 91; Math = 92; and Written Expression = 90.
3. Statistics for standardized testing show that subtest and composite scores are based on a mean of 100 with average scores falling between 85 and 115.
4. Interviews with LEA staff found the student has continuously received the special education services required by the March 25, 2025 IEP in both the 2024-25 school year as well as the 2025-26 school year.

Conclusion

Again, interviews and documentation found the parent attended and participated in the May 8, 2025 IEP team meeting when the eligibility determination was made. The LEA provided the parent with PWN proposing to dismiss the student from special education and the parent refused to provide written consent as is her right under federal and state regulations because she disagreed with the proposed action. As such, the LEA is continuing to provide the student with special education services to address the IEP goal for social interaction behavior as described in the last agreed upon IEP dated March 25, 2025, which was designed to provide the student with FAPE.

It is noted that the summarized academic achievement assessment data in the Evaluation/Eligibility Report could have been confusing for the parent but did not indicate any concerns with academic achievement as compared to same-grade peers. Because there were no concerns in this area based on testing and teacher reporting, there was no need for the IEP team to consider adding academic goals to address an area that is not a concern for the student to receive FAPE.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found to be IN compliance with the requirements of state and federal laws for providing the parent with appropriate PWN proposing to dismiss the student from special education on May 8, 2025 and subsequently continuing to provide special education services to the student based on the March 25, 2025 IEP, which was developed to provide FAPE to the student when the parent refused to provide consent for this proposed action.

Issue Four

The LEA, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to appropriately respond to the parents' request for an independent education evaluation (IEE) during the past 12 months, specifically by not responding in a timely manner and imposing cost limitations.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.502(b)(1) state that a parent has the right to an independent educational evaluation at public expense if the parent disagrees with an evaluation obtained by the public agency.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.502(b)(2) require that if a parent requests an independent educational evaluation at public expense, the public agency must, without unnecessary delay, either file a due process complaint to request a hearing to show that its evaluation is appropriate; or ensure that an independent educational evaluation is provided at public expense, unless the agency demonstrates in a hearing that the evaluation obtained by the parent did not meet agency criteria.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.502(a)(2) require that each public agency must provide to parents, upon request for an independent educational evaluation, information about where an independent educational evaluation may be obtained, and the agency criteria applicable for independent educational evaluations.

If an independent education evaluation is at public expense, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.502(e)(1) require the criteria under which the independent educational evaluation is obtained, including the location of the evaluation and the qualifications of the examiner, must be the same as the criteria the public agency uses when it initiates and evaluation. However, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.502(e)(2) prohibit a public agency from imposing any other conditions or timelines related to obtaining an independent educational evaluation at public expense.

Chapter 3, Section H – Independent Educational Evaluation of the Kansas Special Education Process Handbook states:

If an independent educational evaluation is provided at public expense, the criteria under which the evaluation is obtained must be the same as the criteria that the school uses when it initiates an evaluation. These criteria may include the location of the evaluation and the qualifications of the examiner. The credentials of the independent evaluator or evaluators must be comparable to the school's evaluators. The school may set reasonable limitations on the costs for which it will be responsible. The school may have to exceed those costs if necessary to ensure that the independent educational evaluation meets the child's unique needs.

Parent Position

Because of the LEA's proposed dismissal of the student from special education services, the parent hired the complainant as the family's educational advocate and granted her permission to act on her behalf in regard to specific actions described in their contract, which included issues related to the LEA's most recent evaluation of the student. In response to the May 13, 2025 email written by the complainant which requested an IEE, the LEA waited four months to respond. The response date was September 9, 2025 and illegally imposed an $800 cost limitation on the IEE.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA acknowledged that the IEE information letter from the Wyandotte Comprehensive Special Education Cooperative was provided on September 9, 2025. When the family shared their chosen provider and estimated cost of $2,600-$3,200, the Executive Director of Special Education indicated that they would need to choose something that is closer to the $800 cost listed on the information letter.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The parent hired the complainant as an educational advocate to represent her and the student regarding special education issues and concerns and signed a contract to this effect on May 13, 2025.
2. On that same date, the parent sent a letter to the LEA which informed them of this decision and outlined the permissions the parent was granting to the educational advocate by stating:

   The complainant is fully authorized to represent me and act on my behalf in all matters pertaining to the student's special education services and rights. This authorization includes, but is not limited to:
   - Attending and participating in IEP and eligibility meetings
   - Requesting and reviewing educational records and evaluations
   - Engaging in communication with school staff and district personnel
   - Supporting the development, review, and monitoring of the student's IEP and services
   - Advocating for the student's rights under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) and Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) policies"
3. The email dated May 13, 2025 written by the complainant to the Special Education Teacher and School Psychologist describes the reasons the parent disagrees with the May 8, 2025 reevaluation of the student but does not request an IEE at public expense.
4. The complainant sent an email to the Special Education Coordinator on May 18, 2025 requesting an IEE in response to the LEA's reevaluation of the student on May 8, 2025 which resulted in a determination that the student was no longer eligible for special education.

5. The IEE request came to the district with only three days left in the school year as shown by the 2024-25 school calendar and LEA staff indicated the summer break was the reason for a delay in responding to the parent.
6. On September 8, 2025, the complainant emailed the Special Education Teacher again requesting the LEA's response to the IEE request.
7. The Special Education Coordinator responded on September 9, 2025 to the complainant regarding the IEE and attached a copy of the LEA's IEE Letter.
8. The LEA's IEE Letter listed three agencies that could provide IEEs and the IEE requirements for the location, the qualifications of the examiner, and the cost.
9. The complainant responded in an email dated September 10, 2025 and stated, Our preliminary research indicates that the current market rate for a comprehensive psychoeducational evaluation in the Kansas City area is between $2,000 and $5,000. The district's proposed cap of $800 appears insufficient to obtain a comprehensive evaluation from a qualified provider. Under IDEA, the district is obligated to pay the reasonable, customary rate for this service. We are happy to share our findings and work with you to ensure the chosen evaluator's cost is reasonable for the area.
10. The Special Education Coordinator sent an email to the complainant on September 11, 2025 explaining the IEE process as follows:

    . . . once you have selected a provider, please share their name, contact information, and projected cost with me. I will then forward the information to the Executive Director for Special Education for review and approval in accordance with cooperative procedures.

11. An IEP team meeting was held on September 18, 2025 and IEP team meeting notes reflect that the IEE request and process were discussed during this meeting.
12. A copy of the Independent Educational Evaluation Notice from the Meadowlark Psychology and Developmental Center located in Overland Park, Kansas was signed by the parent on September 24, 2025.
13. The complainant emailed the Special Education Teacher and Special Education Coordinator on September 25, 2025 and stated,

    The family intends to proceed with an evaluation by Meadowlark Psychology and Development Center, which has a projected cost of $2,600-$3,200. Under 34 C.F.R. §300.502, a parent is entitled to an IEE at public expense if they disagree with the district's evaluation. The district's evaluation, conducted on May 8, 2025, was inconclusive as the student was unable to complete the standardized assessments. Therefore, the evaluation was not sufficiently comprehensive to assist in determining her educational needs, which is a foundational component of FAPE. A district's policies or cost caps cannot be so restrictive that they effectively deny a parent their right to an IEE. The proposed $800 limit significantly hinders the family's ability to obtain a comprehensive evaluation from a qualified professional in this area. The projected cost for Meadowlark's evaluation is reasonable and customary for the scope of assessment required to gain a clear understanding of the student's needs—an understanding the district's own evaluation failed to provide.

14. The Special Education Coordinator sent an email to the complainant on September 29, 2025 indicating that the request for an IEE at Meadowlark Psychology and Developmental Center was denied and the parent would need to "select a provider that is closer to the outlined $800 from the IEE information letter".
15. The complainant provided a list of 18 agencies in the Kansas City area that provide comprehensive evaluations of students with disabilities. None of these agencies have a cost for this service that would fall within the LEA's cost limitation of $800. The estimated costs for the three agencies listed in the LEA's IEE Letter were projected to cost between $2000 and $5000.

Conclusion

In this case, the parent disagreed with the LEA's May 8, 2025 evaluation of the student and, because of this disagreement, hired the complainant to serve as the family's educational advocate. The parent signed a contract on May 13, 2025 which granted the educational advocate the right to request evaluations. The parent, through the educational advocate, requested an IEE on May 18, 2025 because she disagreed with the evaluation conducted by the LEA on May 8, 2025. The LEA failed to respond to this request in a timely manner and waited almost four months to provide the required information about where an independent educational evaluation may be obtained, and the agency criteria applicable for independent educational evaluations.

Once the required information was provided to the parent on September 9, 2025, the parent chose the Meadowlark Psychology and Developmental Center in Overland Park, Kansas to conduct the IEE at a cost of between $2600 and $3200. This agency meets the location and examiner requirements set by the LEA but the cost was well above the $800 cost limitation. The LEA rejected this IEE provider on September 29, 2025 and indicated the parent must choose a provider with a cost closer to the $800 cost cap. However, information provided by the complainant shows the current customary rate for comprehensive psychoeducational evaluations costs between $2000 and $5000 in the Kansas City area.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT of compliance with the requirements for responding to a parent request for an IEE in a timely manner and for limiting the parent's options for obtaining an IEE at public expense due to the cost limitations included in the LEA's IEE Notification Letter.

Issue Five

The LEA, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to provide the parents and their advocate with the opportunity to participate in meetings regarding the student's IEP and reevaluation during the past 12 months, specifically by failing to conduct these meetings at mutually agreeable times and places.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.501(b)(1) require that the parents of a child with a disability must be afforded an opportunity to participate in meetings with respect to the identification, evaluation, and educational placement of the child; and the provision of FAPE to the child.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.322(a) requires that each public agency must take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of a child with a disability are present at each IEP Team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate, including notifying parents of the meeting early enough to ensure that they will have an opportunity to attend; and scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed on time and place.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a)(6) allow the parent to invite other individuals they believe have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child to the IEP team meeting.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.30(a) defines the term "parent" as meaning a biological or adoptive parent of a child; a foster parent, unless State law, regulations, or contractual obligations with a State or local entity prohibit a foster parent from acting as a parent; a guardian generally authorized to act as the child's parent, or authorized to make educational decisions for the child (but not the State if the child is a ward of the State); an individual acting in the place of a biological or adoptive parent (including a grandparent, stepparent, or other relative) with whom the child lives, or an individual who is legally responsible for the child's welfare; or a surrogate parent who has been appointed by the state education authority (in this case, KSDE).

Parent Position

The district has repeatedly attempted to circumvent the family's retained advocate by contacting the parent directly, limited meeting times to suit staff convenience rather than the child's needs and failed to include the parent meaningfully in the evaluation process.

Local Education Agency Position

THE LEA denies this allegation. During the past 12 months, the IEP team met on several occasions at times agreed upon with the family and their advocate. When the family and advocate first expressed concerns regarding the evaluation in May 2025, the LEA staff attempted to contact the parent to set up a meeting to discuss the concerns. The parent did not respond to these contacts and the complainant sent an email reporting that the district could not contact the parent without the complainant's written permission. The LEA believes this is a misinterpretation of the role of an educational advocate and sent the complainant an email explaining their position.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The findings from Issue One and Issue Four are incorporated herein by reference.
2. Email dated May 13, 2025 written by the complainant to the Special Education Teacher and School Psychologist indicates the parent's disagreement with the reevaluation, requests documentation be provided to the complainant on behalf of the parent, and "invokes the stay-put" provision".
3. Interviews and documentation show the Special Education Teacher called the parent on May 19 and May 20, 2025 to schedule a meeting to discuss the parent's concerns regarding the parent's concerns with the eligibility determination and the Evaluation/Eligibility Report dated May 8, 2025.
4. The Timeline entry dated May 20, 2025 provided by the complainant states, "The advocate sends a formal email to LEA Special Education Coordinator demanding that all improper direct contact with the parent cease immediately".
5. The May 20, 2025 email written by the complainant to the Special Education Coordinator stated,

   As you are aware—and have previously acknowledged—I am serving as the student's educational advocate. This role is protected under IDEA (34 C.F.R. §300.501) and KSDE guidance, which both uphold the parent's right to designate a representative in all matters concerning the identification, evaluation, and educational placement of their child. You are not only aware of this representation—you have chosen to disregard it. The email then stated that "All communications regarding the student's evaluation, IEP, eligibility, or any dispute-related matters must be directed to me—not to the parent. Direct contact with the parent about special education decision-making is strictly prohibited unless I authorize it in writing. - This does not apply to urgent, real-time matters concerning daily attendance, immediate health, medical needs, safety, or behavioral emergencies. Please confirm in writing that you will comply with this directive and all applicable procedural safeguards.

6. The Special Education Coordinator responded to the complainant in an email dated May 23, 2025 and stated,

   I would like to respectfully clarify several important points. While I recognize and respect your designation as an advocate, under both IDEA (34 C.F.R. §300.501) and KSDE guidance, the parent remains the student's legal guardian and educational decision maker. As such, she retains full rights to receive notice, provide consent, and participate in all matters related to her child's identification, evaluation, and placement. The involvement of an advocate does not replace or override these parental rights. In fact, the school continues to have a legal obligation to ensure that the parent receives timely notice and is meaningfully included in the special education process regardless of whether the parent utilizes an advocate. There is no provision in IDEA or KSDE guidance that prohibits school staff from communicating directly with a parent who has chosen to be represented by an advocate.

7. The complainant sent the Special Education Coordinator an email on September 8, 2025 requesting an IEP team meeting to discuss a list of concerns and possible dates to hold this meeting within the next 10 school days.
8. The Special Education Coordinator sent an email to the complainant and the parent on September 9, 2025 offering two possible dates and times to hold the IEP team meeting within that timeframe and indicated the meeting would need to last no more than 45 minutes to allow the general education teacher to return to the classroom following her scheduled plan period.
9. The complainant responded on September 11, 2025 indicating the parent's willingness to sign consent to excuse the general education teacher should the IEP team meeting exceed the time limitation of her planning period.
10. The LEA provided the parent and complainant with a Notification of Meeting on September 11, 2025 scheduling an IEP team meeting for September 18, 2025. The parent signed consent waiving the required 10-day notification for scheduling this meeting.
11. IEP team meeting notes dated September 18, 2025 reflect the parent and complainant participated during the IEP team discussions.

Conclusion

In this case, documentation and interviews showed the parent requested the IEP team meetings which were held on November 13, 2024 and September 18, 2025. In addition, the parent participated in the IEP team meetings held on March 25, 2025 and May 8, 2025. No information was found to show the LEA scheduled IEP team meetings at times that prevented the parent and the complainant from participating in IEP team meetings.

In regard to the concern for the 45-minute limit to the IEP team meeting, it is not unreasonable for the LEA to set a limit due to the responsibilities of the general education teacher; however, the IDEA allows for the parent to excuse IEP team members in whole or part to facilitate parent participation as well as allows IEP teams to reconvene to complete lengthy discussions. In this case, the parent indicated a willingness to excuse the general education teacher in part if the IEP team meeting exceeded her plan period.

The second concern related to the complainant's belief that the LEA was trying to thwart her participation and representation of the student and the family. The problem appears to have originated when the parent was contacted by LEA staff on May 19 and May 20, 2025, which was after the parent hired the complainant to act as the family's advocate and the LEA had been informed about that representation on May 13, 2025. Following this contact, the complainant sent the LEA an email on May 20, 2025 which required the LEA to direct all communication regarding any special education issue to the complainant and that all contact the parent regarding special education issues stop effective immediately unless "authorized in writing" from the complainant.

The LEA responded correctly in the May 23, 2025 email written by the Special Education Coordinator indicating that this was a misinterpretation of the role of the advocate in this situation. While the IDEA allows parents to invite any person they believe has special expertise regarding the student to an IEP team meeting, the IDEA also includes a definition of who may act as the "parent" of the student. Nothing in the May 13, 2025 parent letter notifying the district of the complainant's hiring as "the authorized educational advocate" restricts the LEA staff from directly contacting the parent who remains the parent and thus the educational decisionmaker for the student because "authorized educational advocate" does not meet the IDEA's definition of "parent".

It is noted that the concern related to the parent not being involved in the evaluation process has previously been addressed in the investigation.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found to be IN compliance with the federal and state requirements in regard to scheduling IEP team meetings at mutually agreeable dates and times to allow for parent and advocate participation in these meetings and to continue to treat the parent as the educational decisionmaker for the student because the "authorized educational advocate" does not meet IDEA's definition of "parent".

Issue Six

USD #204, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to appropriately respond to the advocate's request for copies of specific student educational records on May 13, 2025, specifically by not providing copies of the finalized IEP, the autism eligibility worksheets, progress notes, and any internal communication to dismiss the student from special education.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.613(a) require that each public agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency under this part. The agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay and before any meeting regarding an IEP, or any hearing pursuant to §300.507 [filing a due process complaint] or §300.530 through §300.532 [disciplinary change of placement], or resolution session pursuant to §300.510 [due process resolution process], and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made.

Parent Position

On May 13, 2025, the advocate formally requested specific educational records, including the finalized IEP, autism eligibility worksheets, progress notes, and internal communication related to the decision to exit the student from special education. The district failed to provide a complete response furnishing only i-Ready data and progress reports.

Local Education Agency Position

The LEA denies this allegation. In response to the May 13, 2025 correspondence, the Special Education Coordinator replied on May 16, 2025 with answers to the identified concerns and attached the requested records which were in existence.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The findings of Issue Five are incorporated herein by reference.
2. An email dated May 13, 2025 written by the complainant to the Special Education Teacher and School Psychologist requested the following documents within three days:
    a. Finalized IEP from the May 8, 2025 triennial meeting
    b. Autism eligibility worksheet or justification for exclusion
    c. IEP progress reports and classroom data logs
    d. i-Ready benchmark results (Fall, Winter, Spring)
    e. Internal communications or notes about exiting the student from services
    f. All quarterly Progress Reports
3. An email dated May 16, 2025 written by the Special Education Coordinator responded to each item requested as follows:
    a. Explained that the purpose of the May 8, 2025 IEP team meeting was to review the evaluation results and determine eligibility for continued special education services. A new IEP was not developed because the LEA determined the student no longer needed special education services and provided the parent with PWN proposing dismissal from special education; however, the parent did not agree with this proposal and refused to provide consent. Therefore, the most recent IEP for the student continues to be the IEP developed at the March 25, 2025 IEP team meeting. Another copy of the March 25, 2025 IEP was not provided because the parent has already received a copy of this document.
    b. Explained that an Autism eligibility worksheet was not completed for the student and could not be provided as this document did not exist. Described the Prong 1 requirement that the student must demonstrate significant delays in verbal communication, nonverbal communication and social interactions which adversely impact educational performance and the Prong 2 requirement that, because of the significant delays, the student must require specialized instruction. Instead, the evaluation results including teacher observations, academic assessments, and standardized scores on the ASRS short form show the student is making adequate progress towards grade-level standards as compared to peers and does not require specialized instruction but only supports and interventions which can be provided in the general education setting.

c. Attached the IEP Goal Progress Reports for the March 2024 IEP for first, second, and third quarters of the 2024-25 school year as well as the IEP Goal Progress Reports for the March 25, 2025 IEP for the fourth quarter of the 2024-25 school year to the email response.

d. Attached i-Ready Diagnostic Results for three reading benchmark testing dates and for three math benchmark testing dates

e. Explained that no internal communications or notes regarding the proposal to exit the student from special education services exist so no documentation can be provided because eligibility decisions are made only during formal IEP team meetings to ensure that no decisions are predetermined and that all team members, including parents, participate in the process.

f. Explained that "Quarterly progress reports" are the same as "IEP Goal Progress Reports" and these are already attached to the email response.

Conclusion

In this case, the complainant requested six specific documents on behalf of the parent while acting in her role as the educational advocate. The LEA took three days to either gather the documentation or to provide an explanation for each request. Copies of IEP Goal Progress Reports and i-Ready Diagnostic Results were provided as requested. However, four of the requested documents did not exist and could not be provided including the May 8, 2025 IEP; the Autism eligibility worksheet; and internal communication regarding the eligibility determination. In each of these cases, the LEA provided an explanation for why a particular document did not exist and could not be provided.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found to be IN compliance with the federal and state requirements in regard to responding to a parent request for educational records in a timely manner as required by 34 C.F.R. §300.613(a).

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: Violations of federal regulations were found at 34 C.F.R. §300.303(b)(2), 34 C.F.R. §300.304(b)(1)(i), and 34 C.F.R. §300.306(c)(1). Corrective action is required as described below:

2. The LEA will approve the parent's choice for providing the student's IEE at Meadowlark Psychology and Developmental Center and pay for the full cost of this comprehensive IEE. The LEA will provide a copy of the paid invoice to SETS no later than 45 days from the completed evaluation by the agency.
3. Within 30 days from the date of this investigation report, the LEA will update the IEE Notification Letter with cost limitations that are commensurate with the current rates of the three agencies listed in the IEE Notification Letter. The LEA will provide SETS with a copy of the updated IEE Notification Letter no more than 45 days from the date of this investigation report.

ISSUE FIVE: Violations of 34 C.F.R. §300.501(b)(1), 34 C.F.R. §300.322(a), and 34 C.F.R. §300.321(a)(6) were not found. Corrective action is not required

Background Information

The subject of this complaint is a five-year-old kindergartener during the 2025-2026 school year. On August 22, 2025, the student was found eligible for special education as a student with Autism and Other Health Impairment due to ADHD. It is noted that the evaluation report stated that since the student was new to the district ongoing reevaluation would be conducted to further determine educational needs, strategies, and related services (SPL, OT). An Individualized Education Plan (IEP) was developed on the same day with one goal, accommodations, special education minutes and consultative OT and speech minutes. The Prior Written Notice authorizing services was subsequently signed and special education services were implemented.

Issues Investigated

Issue One

USD #368, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), refused to provide the morning drop-off accommodation for the student despite granting the same accommodation for afternoon pick-up during the 2025-2026 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) require school districts to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP. K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) further specifies those services for which written consent has been granted as specified by law are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless reasonable justification for a delay can be shown.

Parent Position

The child complaint stated that the school approved a special accommodation allowing the student to be picked up from the back of the building at the end of the school day, supervised by staff, to reduce the student's wait time and ensure safety. Based on this approved accommodation the parent requested this accommodation extend to the morning drop-off. The parent stated that the school's refusal to allow this accommodation to morning drop-off is a procedural preference rather than following the student's legal rights.

Local Education Agency Position

The Local Education Agency responded that the afternoon pick-up accommodation is not included on the student's IEP and is not a special education accommodation due to the student's disability. Instead, it was a building level decision to help the mother. The LEA stated they would be happy to discuss this accommodation with the IEP team.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

1. The Student's IEP dated August 22, 2025, includes with one goal, for the student to remain seated in an indicated area for up to 5 minutes during small or large group activities and accommodations specific to visual supports and visual schedules. No mention is made of a need for special drop-off or pick-up arrangements in the IEP or PWN.
2. An email chain on October 20, 2025, between the Parent and Principal document that the Parent requested that the morning drop off procedures be extended to the afternoon pickup of the Student and the Principal refusing the request.

Correspondents	Body
Principal to Parent	" I wanted to touch base regarding afternoon pick-up. I've noticed a few times that you've come up to the car line area on foot to meet [Student]. For safety and supervision reasons, our dismissal procedures require families to remain in their vehicles and go through the designated car line when picking up students. That said, if the current process has been challenging, we can make an alternate arrangement that might better support [Student]. We could have [Student] wait by the back doors with a staff member. This is where our daycare and preschool buses load. When we see your vehicle pull up, a staff member could walk him out to meet you. This option may help reduce [Student's] wait time after school dismisses at 3:10. Would this plan work for you? Thank you for your understanding and cooperation as we work to keep dismissal safe, consistent, and efficient for everyone."

Correspondents	Body
Parent to Principal	" The alternate arrangement you proposed as having [Student] wait with a staff member by the back doors where the daycare and preschool buses load will work perfectly fine. Please consider this our new pick-up and drop-off procedure moving forward in adherence to safety, consistency, and efficiency."
Principal to Parent	"To clarify this would be for pick up only. Please continue to use the drop off line in the morning."
Parent to Principal	"Thank you for previously offering the alternative pick-up arrangement for [Student]. However, I am concerned by the refusal to allow this same process for morning drop-off. You emphasized the importance of safety, consistency, and efficiency yet applying this only to one part of the day contradicts that message and disrupts [Student's] routine. I am requesting that the same back-door procedure be used for both drop-off and pick-up to support [Student's] needs consistently. Please confirm that this adjustment will be made."
Principal to Parent	"I need to clarify our expectations regarding morning drop-off. All parents are required to use the designated parent drop-off line in the morning. This procedure is in place for the safety of all students and to ensure an orderly arrival process. While we made a special accommodation for afternoon pick-up—allowing you to park behind the building and meet [Student] in the back of the school—this was a courtesy to help reduce his wait time. That arrangement was never offered for morning drop-off and will not be permitted. [Student] will be expected to enter the front of the school in the morning. Moving forward, please follow the standard morning drop-off procedures like all other families. The school will not allow exceptions to this policy, and any deviation from these procedures cannot be accommodated."
Parent to Principal	"Your refusal to apply the same accommodation for [Student's] morning drop-off that was granted for pick-up is not acceptable. Denying the same accommodation for [Student's] morning drop-off contradicts your stated goals of safety, consistency, and efficiency. [Student] is a disabled student entitled to reasonable accommodations that ensure equal access to education and school facilities…[Student] has the right to a Free Appropriate Public Education (FAPE), which includes reasonable accommodations such as access to an alternative entrance to the building. Refusing this accommodation for morning drop-off is discriminatory and violates both federal and state law. I am formally requesting that the back-door drop-off procedure be extended to morning drop-off as a reasonable accommodation for [Student]. Please provide written confirmation that this adjustment will be implemented promptly.

3. Later on October 20, 2025, the Parent notified the Superintendent and Principal of filing a child complaint with KSDE, writing, "regarding the district's refusal to provide consistent and reasonable accommodations for [Student's] morning drop-off, despite having granted such accommodations for [Student's] afternoon pick-up. This inconsistent treatment not only compromises [Student's] safety and access to education but also constitutes discrimination in violation of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act, the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), and Kansas state special education law." Later that same day the Superintendent replied to the Parent, "It is my understanding that [Principal] reached out to you to offer an alternative pick-up procedure, as you have occasionally parked and approached the car line area on foot to meet [Student], which does not align with our established dismissal procedures. These procedures are in place to ensure an orderly and safe dismissal process for all students. The alternative arrangement was offered to provide a quicker pick-up option for you and to support [Student]. This procedure is typically used by our preschool and daycare providers after school; [Principal] was attempting to assist within the framework of our existing protocols. Your request for a change to the morning drop-off procedure was not approved, as the current system is appropriate and functioning effectively. We have sufficient staff stationed at the front entrance each morning to receive students as they are dropped off by car. Alternative drop-off procedures are not part of our established morning routine and are not warranted at this time, as [Student's] current morning drop-off process is proceeding smoothly."

4. The Director of Special Education stated to the Investigator during the October 30, 2025, interview that the pick-up alternative was granted as a convenience to the Parent and was not a special education accommodation and therefore there is no IDEA obligation to provide an accommodation with drop-off procedures due to the child's disability status.
5. The Parent stated during the November 10, 2025, interview with the Investigator that she has had to make the accommodations that works for her child and causes the least amount of disruption for all students at the school. She stated she understands that this accommodation is not in the IEP and has not been successful in obtaining a date to update the Student's IEP.

Conclusion

It is found that the Student did not have any special education accommodations, goals or services that specifically related to the necessity for an alternative drop off or pick up location or procedure that obligated the LEA to provide this accommodation. It is noted that the LEA has offered to discuss adding an alternative drop-off procedure at the IEP that is currently being scheduled. Based on the foregoing it is found that the Local Education Agency is in compliance and no corrective action is required.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 C.F.R. §300.323(c)(2) and K.A.R. §91-40-16(b)(2) was not found and no corrective action is required.

Background Information

The Student transferred to the District at the beginning of the 2024-25 school year when beginning the 9th grade. At that time, the LEA offered a transfer IEP that continued special education and related services.

According to the Parent and LEA, the Student was evaluated by Children's Mercy and found to have dyslexia in 2021. According to the LEA, Prior Written Notice for Evaluation with a request for parent consent was sent in August, 2024 and October 3, 2024. According to the Student's reevaluation (2024), the Student had been previously diagnosed with Dyslexia, Autism, ADHD and Asthma. The Student qualified for special education in the categories of Specific Learning Disability and Autism, according to the 2024 reevaluation.

During the current school year, the Student attended the 10th grade and received special education and related services in a High School in the LEA.

Issues Investigated

1. ISSUE ONE: Whether the LEA conducted a comprehensive evaluation during the 2024-25 and 2025-26 school years after parental requests and when due as required by 34 CFR 300.303
2. ISSUE TWO: Whether the LEA altered the Student's diagnosis by removing dyslexia from the IEP without parental participation as required by 34 CFR 300.501(b) or prior written notice as required by 34 CFR 503(a)(b)
3. ISSUE THREE: Whether the LEA provided accommodations appropriate for the Student's dyslexia as required by 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) and 34 CFR 300.323(a)
4. ISSUE FOUR: Whether the LEA provided an accurate copy of the IEP to the Student's teachers as required by 34 CFR 300.323(d)?
5. ISSUE FIVE: Whether the Student's IEP contained required information regarding the time the Student would not participate in general education as required by 34 CFR.320(a)(5)

Issue One

Whether the LEA conducted a comprehensive evaluation during the 2024-25 and 2025-26 school years after parental requests and when due as required by 34 CFR 300.303

Applicable Law

Federal/State statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.303 require that reevaluations are conducted in accordance with 34 CFR.300.304-300.311 if the public agency determines a need for evaluation or the parent requests an evaluation, not more than one time per year and at least once every three years, unless the parent and public agency agree that a reevaluation is not necessary. Federal regulation 34 CFR 300.304 (b) states that public agency must use a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant information about the child to determine whether the child is a child with a disability and the content of the child's IEP, and not use any single measure or assessment as the sole criterion for determining whether a child is a child with a disability and for determining an appropriate educational program for the child; and use technically sound instruments. Federal regulation 34 CFR 300.304(c)(4) requires that the child is assessed in all areas related to the suspected disability and (6) that the evaluation is sufficiently comprehensive to identify all the child's special education and related services needs, whether or not commonly linked to the disability category in which the child has been classified.

Additional requirements for reevaluations found in 34 CFR 300.305 (a) state that the IEP team and other qualified professionals must (1) review of existing evaluation data including evaluations and information provided by the parent, current classroom based, local or state assessments and classroom based assessments, and observations by teachers and service providers and (2) on the basis of that review and input from the child's parents, identify what additional data if any are needed to determine whether the child continues to be a child with a disability, the present levels of academic achievement and related developmental needs of the child, whether the child continues to need special education, and whether any additions or modifications to the special education and related services are needed to enable the child to meet the annual goals in the IEP and to participate in the general education curriculum. The review of existing data may be conducted without a meeting (34 CFR 300.305 (b)) and without parent consent.

To determine eligibility and educational need, the public agency must draw upon information from a variety of sources, including aptitude and achievement tests, parent input, and teacher recommendations as well as information about the child's physical condition, social or cultural background and adaptive behavior, and ensure that the information obtained from all these sources is documented and carefully considered (34 CFR 300.306(c)). Also, 34 CFR 300.307 requires that a public agency must use the state criteria adopted in determining whether a child has a specific learning disability.

"Specific learning disability" means a disorder in one or more of the basic psychological processes involved in understanding or using language, spoken or written, that may manifest itself in an imperfect ability to listen, think, speak, read, write, spell, or to do mathematical calculations, including perceptual disabilities, brain injury, minimal brain dysfunction, dyslexia, and developmental aphasia. The term shall not include learning problems that are primarily the result of any of the following: (1) Visual, hearing, or motor disabilities; (2) mental retardation; (3) emotional disturbance; or (4) environmental, cultural, or economic disadvantage" (K.A.R 91-40-1(mmm)).

KAR 91-40-10(a)(2) requires that when eligibility is determined, each team member shall certify in writing whether the report reflects the member's conclusion.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the LEA failed to conduct a comprehensive evaluation when it was due in 2024, and that the Parent made a request for a new evaluation at a meeting on October 14, 2025. The formal complaint states: "[The LEA] failed to conduct the comprehensive evaluation I formally requested during both the 2024-25 and 2025-26 school years. Instead they used classroom based screeners and informal diagnostic tools instead of the required standardized formal assessments." The Parent added, in the formal written complaint, "…the school removed 'dyslexia' from [the Student's] IEP without informing me or requesting consent."

The LEA replied: "A comprehensive evaluation was completed during the 2024-2025 school year. On August 14, 2024, Olathe School District received transfer IEP documents from an out-of-district school for [the Student]. The Case Manager contacted [the Parent] on August 16, 2024, to discuss comparable services and on August 19, 2024, to discuss a possible reevaluation. The District sent a PWN, proposing a reevaluation on October 3, 2024. The reevaluation included a review of existing data and collecting additional data in the areas of Social/Emotional/Behavioral Status and Academic Performance." The LEA continued: "Following an IEP team meeting, held October 22, 2024, the School Psychologist emailed [the Parent] further discussing testing, specifically the WAIT, and seeking additional parent input. On November 4, 2024, the draft evaluation report and related documents were sent to the Parent. The Parent signed the evaluation report and eligibility documents on December 16, 2024."

With regard to the 2025-26 school year, the LEA responded: "A reevaluation has not been completed for the 2025-2026 school year. The IEP team is currently trying to schedule an IEP team meeting to discuss [the Parent]'s request for a reevaluation. To date, [the Parent] has declined to meet with the IEP team. . . At this time, the IEP team continues to try to work with [the Parent] to schedule an IEP team meeting to review existing data and discuss a reevaluation. . .It is the District's position that the IEP team has appropriately and timely responded to [the Parent]'s requests. The District has a reasonable amount of time to respond to parent proposals. In Kansas, a reasonable amount of time is 15 school days. According to the District's calendar, 15 school days from the date of the Parent's reevaluation request ends on November 7, 2025."

Findings of Fact

Student Reevaluation, 2024: An email dated Oct 3, 2024 at 3:03 p.m. from the School Psychologist to the Parent shows the scheduling of the Student's evaluation meeting and the provision of a consent to evaluate via docusign. In a reply email, the Parent indicated that she would complete and return the "checklist" which asked for input into the evaluation. The PWN for evaluation (PWNE) dated October 3, 2024 indicated two areas where new data would be collected, social interaction and academic performance. The PWNE was signed by the Parent giving consent during the morning of October 22, 2024, before the IEP Meeting occurred. According to an interview with School Psychologist 1, the request for new information in the PWNE was based on Parent input provided to Special Education Teacher 1, before the IEP meeting.

In an email dated Oct 21, 2024 at 3:30 p.m. from the Parent to the School Psychologist, the parent affirmed her attendance at the October 22, 2024 meeting, and in a second email that day the Parent asked for the meeting to occur virtually rather than in person.

The Parent and the District agree that an IEP meeting was held on October 22, 2024 and that the Parent attended and participated.

In response to follow up questions in an email to the investigator dated November 17, 2025, the LEA reported that the IEP team reviewed existing data, proposed updated goals and accommodations based on the Student's needs, made proposals based on the review of current and existing data, and gathered more information from the Parent about her concerns.

Content of the Evaluation Report: An Evaluation Report for the Student dated October 22, 2024, stated that the purpose of the evaluation was for the required three year reevaluation and "to help the school team and parents understand how much special education support is appropriate based on updated data and present levels of performance." The Evaluation Report began with a review of existing data including current support in the general education classroom, attendance, summary of previous assessments including evaluations, medical certification, information provided by the parents, state and district testing, and current classroom based assessment and performance in the general curriculum.

The Evaluation Report stated that a previous district, in 2021, determined no additional data were needed to determine eligibility and need. The Evaluation Report summarized previous testing from an Academic Language Reading Evaluation completed by Children's Mercy Hospital Hearing and Speech Clinic in February of 2021, listing scores from the Clinical Evaluation of Language Fundamentals-5, Test of Word Reading Efficiency- 2, Word Identification and Spelling Test, and Gray Oral Reading Test- 5. Cognitive and academic functioning and academic achievement results were summarized from an out of state evaluation report from 2019.

The Evaluation Report continued with Current Classroom Based Assessment and Performance in the General Curriculum. Three general education content area teachers and one special education teacher reported on their observations of social behavior, classroom performance, strengths and needs. Additional data included observation by the previous School Psychologist and the summarized results and recommendations from the administration of the Wechsler Individual Achievement Test- Fourth Edition, which is "an individually administered achievement test for ages 4-50 (grades PreK-12+) for use in a wide variety of clinical, educational, and research settings. This test includes 20 subtests to measure listening, speaking, reading, writing, and mathematics skills." Reading, writing and math needs were discussed in the test summary section. No testing date was provided for the WIAT-4 in the Evaluation Report.

The Evaluation Report listed additional sources of data: FastBridge in Reading, Math and Math Automaticity (Fall, 2024), IXL Reading and Math L Real-Time Diagnostic "that shows the student what they know and what they're ready to learn next" (Fall, 2024), a Phoneme Language Arts skill assessment given by the special education teacher, and Writing and Work Sample report summary from classroom assignments, and two 4th grade level reading comprehension assessments from EasyCBM.

The Evaluation Report summarized the assessment results in reading, math, and writing and addressed educational needs and made recommendations to access the general curriculum.

The Evaluation Report summarized eligibility stating: "[the Student] has an exceptionality. [the Student] requires specially designed instruction. The evaluation team reached consensus that [the Student] exhibits the following exceptionality: Autism, Specific Learning Disability. Eligibility was determined according to the criteria considered on the attached eligibility determination document(s). [the Student] meets the criteria for Dyslexia." The eligibility criteria attachments for Specific Learning Disability and Autism were attached to the report.

In an email dated Wednesday, October 23, 2024 12:55 p.m., School Psychologist 1 wrote that additional testing would be completed based on the October 22, 2024 meeting: the Wechsler Individual Achievement Test- 4 and additional curriculum based measures to determine the Student's performance in reading, math and writing. The LEA reported that the additional testing was completed on October 25, 2024 and a new evaluation report sent to the Parent on October 28, 2024, with an offer to meet to discuss the results.

Prior Written Notice and Parent Signatures: The LEA reported that a PWN for services was sent via docusign and certified mail November 4, 2024. Docusign and mail receipts showed the same. The LEA reported that "after multiple failed attempts to reach [the Parent] for consent, the PWN was sent home in [the Student]'s backpack. [The Parent] hand signed the PWN on 12.16.24 but dated it 10.22.24."

In an interview, School Psychologist 1 stated that both the Evaluation Report and the PWN dated October 22, 2024 were returned to the LEA signed by the Parent on December 16, 2024. School Psychologist 1 stated that several attempts were made to contact the Parent with offers to meet to discuss the additional testing completed following the IEP meeting on October 22, 2024. School Psychologist 1 stated that no Notice of Meeting was sent to the Parent because the Parent did not respond to indicate a need for an IEP meeting to discuss the additions (WIAT-4 assessment) to the Evaluation Report.

When asked, the Parent could not recall the details of signing and dating the PWNs provided by the LEA and referred the Investigator to the LEA records. When asked, the LEA acknowledged that the PWN should have been offered with the proper (December 16, 2024) date.

Request for Evaluation 2025: The LEA and the Parent agreed that an IEP Meeting was held on October 14, 2025 and that the Parent was present and participated. The LEA and the Parent agreed that the Parent requested an evaluation during the meeting.

An audio recording of the meeting showed that the IEP team members were unable to locate the 2024 Evaluation Report and discussed the process of requesting a new reevaluation, which the LEA IEP team members agreed to initiate. In an email dated October 14, 2025, Special Education Teacher 2 emailed the Parent a copy of the Student's 2024 Evaluation Report, offering to discuss it with the Parent.

On October 15, 2025, the Parent emailed the LEA IEP team members with concerns related to the 2024-25 reevaluation and requested changes to the IEP and a new re-evaluation, as had been discussed at the IEP Meeting on October 14, 2025. School Psychologist 2 responded the same day, addressing the Parent's concerns and suggesting the IEP team meet to discuss a reevaluation. An email exchanged showed that the Parent was not in agreement with the draft IEP discussed at the October 14, 2025, IEP team meeting, and School Psychologist 2 replied, offering a number of alterations to the IEP and requesting to meet to continue to discuss the concerns and reevaluation request and finalize the IEP. The Parent declined to meet until the LEA made new data available to discuss.

The LEA sent a Notice of Meeting dated October 21, 2025, for a meeting on October 30, 2025, and when the Parent was unable to attend at that time, the LEA offered additional meeting times.

On November 5, 2025, the LEA provided a revised copy of the IEP and PWN to the Parent listing changes to the IEP accepted and refused. Regarding the request for re-evaluation, the PWN stated: "On 10/15/25, [the] parent sent an email requesting a reevaluation. The team is currently reviewing existing data with the parent."

In a November 5, 2025, email to the Parent, School Psychologist 2 sent a review of existing data along with the revised IEP, and the Parent replied declining to meet due to the formal complaint in process. On November 6, 2025, the Special Services Coordinator sent an email to the Parent explaining the reevaluation process and the reason why the LEA requested to meet with the Parent to discuss the need for a new re-evaluation.

The LEA provided an PWN dated November 7, 2025, declining the Parent's request to re-evaluate. According to the LEA calendar, 15 school days from the date of the Parent's reevaluation request ended on November 7, 2025 (one day of no school is included in this

Conclusion

In this case, the Parent alleged that the Student's reevaluation was incomplete because it included only one standardized assessment and the reevaluation did not specifically address the Student's known medical diagnosis of dyslexia.

A review of the Evaluation Report dated October 22, 2024 showed that a variety of assessment tools were used to determine eligibility, need and present level of performance. These included: information provided by the Parent, current teacher reports of performance, strengths and needs, an observation by a school psychologist, a review of previous evaluation reports including the 2021Children's Mercy Report, absences, classroom work samples and classroom based performance tests, standardized progress monitoring measures, and a standardized assessment that addressed 20 subskills in listening, speaking reading, writing, and mathematics. Additionally, the Evaluation Report reviewed and included the Student's diagnosis of dyslexia along with the SLD eligibility checklist. The Evaluation Report provided related reading, writing, and mathematics recommendations in the evaluation and established the present level of performances in areas of identified needs.

IDEA requires that the child is assessed in all areas related to the suspected disability and that the evaluation is sufficiently comprehensive to identify all the child's special education and related services needs (34 CFR 300.304 (c)(4) and (6)). Federal regulations at 34 CFR 300.304 (b) state that public agency must use a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant information about the child to determine whether the child is a child with a disability and the content of the child's IEP, and not use any single measure or assessment as the sole criterion for determining whether a child is a child with a disability and for determining an appropriate educational program for the child; and use technically sound instruments. With the Evaluation Report dated October 22, 2024, the LEA did so.

Therefore it is found that the content of the Evaluation Report dated October 22, 2024 meets the required criteria.

Further, for a reevaluation, the IEP team must review existing data and based upon that review, determine the need and then conduct additional assessments in order to determine if the child continues to be a child with a disability, the present levels of academic achievement and related developmental needs of the child, whether the child continues to need special education, and whether any additions or modifications to the special education and related services are needed to enable the child to meet the annual goals in the IEP and to participate in the general education curriculum (34 CFR 300.305(a)).

At the October 14, 2025, IEP meeting, the Parent expressed concerns regarding the IEP and at that time, verbally requested a reevaluation, followed by a written request the following day. Participants in the meeting agreed to contact the School Psychologist to start the reevaluation process. It is understandable that, at this point, the Parent along with other IEP members at the meeting, believed that the Student's 2024 reevaluation had not been completed. However, evidence showed that the reevaluation had been completed the previous year, and the reevaluation report was provided to the Parent later the same day.

To respond to the Parent's request for a new evaluation, the LEA offered a review of existing performance data and NOM to discuss the need for new assessments. The Parent did not meet with the LEA at that time, and the LEA, on the 15th school day, provided PWNE declining to reevaluate the Student.

Therefore, it is found that the LEA properly responded to and provided PWNE to decline the Parental request for a new reevaluation during the 2025-26 school year.

However, during the investigation, the date of the Parent's signatures on the Evaluation Report dated October 22, 2024, and the PWN dated October 22, 2024 to initiate services did not agree with the documentation of when those signatures were provided. First, the LEA appropriately offered PWN within a reasonable time (34 CFR 300.503(a)) following the IEP meeting and then documented various and multiple means to contact the Parent for signatures. When the Parent did not respond, the LEA continued to send the same PWN, without updating its issuance date. Thus, the Parent signatures appear to be misdated (as October 22, 2024) and based on the documentation, could not have been signed on that date. Based on the documentation, emails and interviews, the PWN dated October 22, 2024 was signed on or about December 16, 2024. The LRE acknowledged that the PWN for services should have been updated with the proper date associated when it was re-offered to the Parent, several weeks following the IEP meeting.

The Parent's signature on the Evaluation Report (reevaluation) was dated October 22, 2024, as were the other members of the IEP and evaluation team. The School Psychologist added the additional testing requested by the Parent at the October 22, 2024 IEP team meeting after that meeting but the School Psychologist did not record the testing date or alter the date of the Evaluation report to indicate that the Parent reviewed the Evaluation report with the additional testing included. For these reasons, it appears unclear when that signature was collected; however, based on the provided interview and document evidence, the Evaluation Report was signed at the same time as the PWN (above) on or about December 16, 2024. Therefore, it is found that the Parent signature on the Evaluation Report is not in accordance with KAR 91-40-10(a)(2) which requires the team members to certify their agreement with the results of the report.

According to 34 CFR 300.324(b)(1)(i) and (ii) the IEP team must review the child's IEP periodically, but not less than annually, to determine if the IEP goals are being achieved and revises the IEP as appropriate to address any lack of expected progress in the general education curriculum and the results of any re-evaluation conducted under §300.303, information about the child provided to or by parents under §300.305(a)(2), the child's anticipated needs or other matters.

When the LEA agreed to and conducted additional testing based on the Parent request and PWNE dated October 22, 2024, after the IEP meeting of that date, the LEA should have provided a NOM to the Parent to discuss the results of the additional testing and whether the findings had any effect on the proposed IEP dated October 22, 2024.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to conduct a comprehensive evaluation during the 2024-25 and 2025-26 school years after parental requests and when due as required by 34 CFR 300.303.

However, violations of the following were found: 34 CFR 300.503(a)) which requires PWN to parents in a reasonable period of time, due to the late and/or misdated Parent signature described above; 34 CFR 300.324(b)(1)(ii) which requires the IEP team to review the results of any reevaluation conducted under §300.303, due to the failure of the LEA to ask for an IEP meeting after adding assessments to the reevaluation; and KAR 91-40-10(a)(2) which requires the team members to certify their agreement with the results of the report, due to the misdated Parent signature.

Issue Two

Whether the LEA altered the Student's diagnosis by removing dyslexia from the IEP without parental participation as required by 34 CFR 300.501(b) or prior written notice as required by 34 CFR 503(a)(b)

Applicable Law

Federal/State statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.501(b) require parent participation at meetings on identification, evaluation, educational placement and the provision of FAPE to the child. Federal statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.503(a)(b) state the prior written notice must be provided to the parent when the LEA proposes or refuses to initiate or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of FAPE to the child. The content of the notice must include: a description of the action proposed or refused by the agency; an explanation of why the agency proposes or refuses to take the action; a description of each evaluation procedure, assessment, record, or report the agency used as a basis for the proposed or refused action; a statement that the parents of a child with a disability have protection under the procedural safeguards; sources for parents to contact to obtain assistance in understanding the provisions of this part; a description of other options that the IEP Team considered and the reasons why those options were rejected; and a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal.

To be eligible for special education, a team of qualified individuals and the parent must ensure that the child meets the definition of one of the categories of exceptionality and, as a result of that exceptionality, needs special education and related services (i.e., 2 pronged test) (K.A.R. 91-40-1(k), (w); 34 C.F.R. 300.8). Specific learning disability means a disorder in one or more of the basic psychological processes involved in understanding or in using language, spoken or written, that may manifest itself in the imperfect ability to listen, think, speak, read, write, spell, or to do mathematical calculations, including conditions such as perceptual disabilities, brain injury, minimal brain dysfunction, dyslexia, and developmental aphasia (34 C.F.R. 300.8(10)).

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the District removed the Student's diagnosis of dyslexia from the IEP without the "notice, prior written consent, or required procedural safeguards." The Parent alleged that, due to this removal of dyslexia, the resulting IEP services logically could not address the Student's specific needs as a student with dyslexia.

The LEA responded: "On October 13, 2025, the IEP team sent [the Parent] a draft copy of the annual IEP ahead of the annual IEP team meeting. [The Parent] responded with concerns, including that dyslexia was removed from [the Student]'s IEP. However, dyslexia was never specifically identified in the student's IEP. The school psychologist explained to the Parent that a student's exceptionality is typically not listed in a student's IEP. Even so, [the Student]'s IEP documents, specifically, the categories of eligibility listed in the evaluation report do include SLD and list dyslexia as an identified exceptionality. This eligibility category has not been removed from [the Student]'s IEP documents, nor has the team ever suggested that it should be removed." The LEA continued: "As discussed in the email sent to the Parent on October 15, 2025, and in the PWN dated November 5, 2025, the IEP team agreed to add the medical diagnosis of Dyslexia to [the Student]'s IEP under the medical section of the IEP and update IEP language to include [the Student]'s diagnoses. The IEP team is waiting on consent from the Parent to make those changes."

Findings of Fact

Findings in Issue One are hereby incorporated by reference.

The LEA reported that an interim IEP was developed for the Student in August 2024 when transferring from another Kansas District. The PWN dated August 15, 2024 altered the number of IEP minutes from 500 special education support in general education and 875 minutes of special education in special education settings to 450 minutes of special education support in general education settings and 495 minutes of special education in special education settings. The Parent consented and Parent signature was dated August 15, 2024. No accommodation changes were listed on the PWN dated August 15, 2024.

The LEA and the Parent agree that the Parent participated in the IEP meetings dated October 22, 2024 and October 14, 2025. The Parent and the LEA agreed that the Parent consented and signed the PWN dated October 22, 2024 before changes to the IEP were implemented during the second semester of the 2024-25 school year.

The IEP dated October 24, 2023 from the previous district did not list dyslexia on the IEP. The Interim Process Documentation dated August 15, 2024, did not list dyslexia on the IEP. The IEP dated October 22, 2024 did not list dyslexia on the IEP.

Email and document review evidence showed that the Parent requested that dyslexia was added to the IEP at the time of the October 14, 2025 IEP meeting. The LEA offered a revised IEP on November 5, 2025, that used the term dyslexia. The PWN dated November 5, 2025 stated: "Per parent request, the team added [the Student]'s Dyslexia diagnosis to the medical section of the IEP. Per parent request, the team replaced "reading disability" with Dyslexia in the impact of [the] exceptionality box on the LRE page. Per parent request, the team included [a] percentage of time missed from general education for services."

Conclusion

In this case, the Parent was greatly concerned that the Student's IEP included dyslexia as definitional to the Student's unique circumstances. However, IDEA does not recognize dyslexia as a qualifying category; rather IDEA uses Specific Learning Disability as an eligibility category, and the definition of SLD includes dyslexia as one of example conditions. The IEP and evaluation team determined that the Student was eligible in the categories of SLD and Autism, as found in Issue One.

In this case, the term dyslexia was not removed from the Student's evaluation, where it was used specifically in the review of previous testing and in the SLD qualification statement, nor was it removed from the IEP, given that the previous IEPs did not use the term dyslexia to describe the Student's disability nor the impact of the disability on the Student's general education. The Parent was present at the October 22, 2024 IEP and evaluation team meeting where the IEP of that date was developed. The Parent signed consent for the IEP to be implemented and dated the signature October 22, 2024. Further, the LEA offered to change the latest proposed IEP dated October 14, 2025 to say "dyslexia" rather than "reading disability" at the Parent's request. It is noted that the term "learning disability" is used on the IEP and the LEA should update the PWN to appropriately reflect its offer to use the term dyslexia pertaining to the Student's reading problems, services, and accommodations. At the time of the report, the Parent had not further responded to the LEA on this issue.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD 233 altered the Student's diagnosis by removing dyslexia from the IEP without parental participation as required by 34 CFR 300.501(b) or prior written notice as required by 34 CFR 503(a)(b).

Issue Three

Whether the LEA provided accommodations appropriate for the Student's dyslexia as required by 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) and 34 CFR 300.323(a)

Applicable Law

Federal statutes and regulations at 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) require that the IEP includes a statement of the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services to be provided to or on behalf of the child, and a statement of the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will enable the child to advance appropriately toward attaining the annual goals, to be involved in and make progress in the general curriculum and to be educated with other children with and without disabilities. The LEA is required to have an IEP in place for each child with a disability at the beginning of the school year (34 CFR 300.323(a)).

To be eligible for special education, a team of qualified individuals and the parent must ensure that the child meets the definition of one of the categories of exceptionality and, as a result of that exceptionality, needs special education and related services (i.e., 2 pronged test) (K.A.R. 91-40-1(k), (w); 34 C.F.R. 300.8).

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that the District failed to include accommodations specific to the Student's dyslexia, although the District received and acknowledged the Student's official 2021 Children's Mercy Dyslexia Evaluation. In the written report, the Parent alleged that three events showed that the Student had not received accommodations as required in the Student's IEP.

The LEA responded: "[the Student]'s October 22, 2024, IEP does include accommodations that address his needs regarding dyslexia, specifically text to speech, extended time for assessments and assignments, taking a test in a quiet, non-competitive setting, and reduced number of test items. The annual IEP team meeting was held on October 14, 2025. This meeting was timely, and the Parent was in attendance. At the meeting the IEP team reviewed the IEP and discussed accommodations. On October 13, 2025, (prior to IEP team meeting) and November 5, 2025, (following the IEP team meeting) the school team sent the Parent draft IEPs which include numerous accommodations to appropriately address [the Student]'s dyslexia, such as text to speech, extended time on assignments and assessments, reduced test items, speech to text for writing assignments, testing in a separate location, and text to speech directions. [The Student] has been provided with his accommodations in the 2024-2025 school year and in the 2025-2026 school year. There is no indication in the record that [the Student] has not received his accommodations as written in his IEP."

10/7/25 Debate Incident: [The Parent] requested that [the Student] use a computer to read his debate case aloud for him, rather than having him read or present it verbally. [The Student]'s current IEP does not include an accommodation for "not reading allowed in class". This is an accommodation that the IEP team discussed at the October 14, 2025, IEP team meeting and the team agreed to add. [The Parent] has not signed consent for the change.

10/21/25 Physical Science Incident: [The Parent] reported that [the Student] did not receive the accommodation of "not being required to read text aloud" in class. However, as stated above, this accommodation is not in [the Student]'s current IEP. The IEP team did discuss adding this accommodation but [the Parent] has not consented to the change. Also, the science teacher clarified that [the Student] was not asked to read any text aloud. Instead, she used a projected wheel of questions, which she spun and read aloud, asking [the Student] to respond. When called upon, [the Student] stated that he had an accommodation excusing him from providing verbal responses. [The Student]'s current IEP does not include an accommodation excusing him from providing verbal responses to questions or being called upon."

Findings of Fact

Findings of Issue One and Issue Two are hereby incorporated by reference.

The PWN dated August 15, 2024 associated with the Interim Process Document showed changes of services as found in Issue Two and no changes in accommodations. PWN to implement changes to the IEP dated October 22, 2024 was signed by the Parent on or about December 16, 2024.

The IEP dated October 24, 2023 from the previous district listed the following accommodations: reduced number of questions, allowed to answer electronically, or verbally if electronically is not possible, adult support to assist [the Student] in the classroom, where/when noted, with his accommodations and modifications as well as behavior, curriculum differentiation, extended time of an additional 15-30 minutes on assignments/tests to allow for frequent breaks, access to speech to text and text to speech technology, chunking of assignments, adult support in planning project and homework completion, notes provided by the teacher before lecture or class if notes are given, check for understanding of directions, adults making sure [the Student] has followed the directions, and directions for assignments should be written and oral. Testing accommodations were: reduce number of test items, take test in a quiet non-competitive setting, text to Speech-reading passage, extended time, and text to Speech-directions/test.

The Parent and the District agree that an IEP meeting was held on October 22, 2024 and the Parent attended and participated.

The accommodations listed on the IEP dated October 22, 2024, were: Text to speech-reading passage, extended time for assessments and assignments, text to speech directions/test items, take the test in a quiet non-competitive setting, upon request reduce the number of test items by 25%. Testing accommodations on this IEP were: Extended time, Text to speech directions/ test items, text to speech-reading passage, and take the test in a quiet non-competitive setting.

The Student's first quarter grades, as reported in the review of current performance provided to the parent on November 5, 2025, were: Geometry: D; ASL: D; Physical Science: B; English 10: A-; Novice Debate: A; Intro to Psychology: C+; Resource: A+.

In the written complaint, the Parent reported that three incidents demonstrated failure to provide accommodations. "October 7, 2025. Debate Class. [The Student] was called to read aloud unfamiliar material. A direct violation of his dyslexia accommodation. [The Student] was embarrassed and reported it to me. October 21, 2025. Physical Science Class. The exact same violation occurred again. The teacher told [the Student] the accommodation was not in [the Student's] IEP. October 21, 2025. While baseline data was supposedly being collected, the school counselor [name] removed [the Student] from instruction to ask about [the Student's] weekend/birthday. During that time, [the Student] expressed confusion about why [the] dyslexia protections were not being followed, further proving [the] IEP is inaccurate."

Conclusion

In this case, based on three incidents occurring in general education classes, the Parent was concerned whether the Student's accommodations were being provided. As found in Issue Two, dyslexia is not an eligibility category; no disability category or exceptionality dictates the accommodations provided to a student. Rather, the IEP team uses the student's present levels of performance to guide the development of the IEP's goals and the services provided to reach those goals and to progress in the general education curriculum. The Student's accommodations in place at the time of the incidents were developed by the IEP team meeting, October 22, 2024, in which the Parent participated. These accommodations did not state that the Student was excused from the incidents as described in class. Following the IEP Meeting on October 14, 2024 and email conversations pertaining to it, the LEA offered revisions to the IEP and the PWN dated November 5, 2025 in order to make additional accommodations available to the Student based on the Parent's concerns and suggestions.

The Parent's concern that the Student be empowered to request and receive accommodations and instructional adjustments in class is both important and laudable. However, the needed accommodations must be listed on the IEP, and the Student prepared for self-advocacy in the general education class in order to be properly enacted. It is recommended that the IEP team consider these matters.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD failed to provide accommodations appropriate for the Student's dyslexia as required by 34 CFR 300.320(a)(4) and 34 CFR 300.323(a).

Issue Four

Whether the LEA provided an accurate copy of the IEP to the Student's teachers as required by 34 CFR 300.323(d)?

Applicable Law

"Once an IEP has been completed and consent for services has been obtained from the parents, the child's IEP must be accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related services provider, and any other service provider who is responsible for its implementation. Regardless of whether an individual participates in the IEP meeting, all individuals who are providing education to the child (regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and any other service provider who is responsible for implementation of the IEP) must be informed by the IEP team of (1) his or her specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP, and (2) the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP (K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(5); 34 C.F.R. 300.323(d)(2))" (Kansas Special Education Process Handbook, p. 90).

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged that, due to the errors in the IEP, the Student's teachers did not have an accurate IEP upon which to base their provision of classroom services and accommodations to the Student. The Parent alleged that the failure of the LEA to provide an accurate IEP to the Student's teachers then resulted in two incidents (October 7, 2025, and October 21, 2025) when the teachers did not provide the Student's accommodations in general education classes.

The LEA responded: "[The Student]'s teachers were provided a snapshot of the IEP on August 13, 2025. Additionally, all teachers have access to a student's "IEP at a Glance" and the full IEP through the District's record system. Teachers were also offered an additional opportunity to meet with case managers on August 29, 2025, to discuss specific IEPs and gather more information as needed. 34 C.F.R. §300.323(d) requires district to make sure that a child's IEP is accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, and related service provider. OSEP has stated that the mechanism a public agency uses to inform each teacher is best left to the public agency. It is the District's position that [the Student]'s IEP was appropriately provided to teachers."

Findings of Fact

Findings of Issues One, Two, and Three are hereby incorporated by reference.

The IEP dated October 22, 2024 was in place during the time of the two incidents.

According to an email dated August 13, 2025 sent to general education teachers, "snapshots" of IEPs were placed in teacher mailboxes. Teachers were advised to review and meet with special education teachers of their students if they had questions. An email dated August 27, 2025 showed the agenda professional development for teachers on providing accommodations for students.

Conclusion

The IEP team is responsible for the content of the IEP, and when that IEP is developed and any required PWN is provided to the Parent, the IEP can be implemented. In this case, the Parent alleged that the IEP had flaws and so teachers were mistaken if they implemented it. However, state and federal regulations require that the persons responsible for implementing the IEP have access to it and are informed of their responsibilities to implement the IEP. It is found that the LEA provided access to the Student's IEP and informed the general education teachers of their responsibilities to implement it.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to provide an accurate copy of the IEP to the Student's teachers as required by 34 CFR 300.323(d).

Issue Five

Whether the Student's IEP contained required information regarding the time the Student would not participate in general education as required by 34 CFR.320(a)(5)

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 300.320(a)(5) require explanation of the extent, if any, to which the child will not participate with nondisabled children in the regular class and in the special education and related services and supplementary aids and services that will be provided to the child.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The Parent alleged "failure to include legally required LRE service percentages despite the fact that [the Student] is in general education nearly 100% of the school day."

The LEA responded: "In her complaint, [the Parent] states that the LRE section of an IEP should include a percentage of time that [the Student] is not in the general education setting. However, there is nothing in IDEA or Kansas regulations that require a District to use percentages, or any other specific language, to describe when the student will not participate in the general education setting. Currently, [the Student]'s IEP indicates that [the Student] will participate in the general education setting and receive services in the special education setting as indicated on his IEP. On October 15, 2025, [the Parent], sent an email requesting that time in the special education setting be noted by percentages. Although not required, the school team does not object to including percentages in the LRE section of the IEP. On November 5, 2025, the school psychologist sent a PWN and an updated draft IEP to [the Parent]. The PWN proposes to update the LRE section with percentages as requested by [the Parent]. The team is waiting for consent to amend the IEP."

Findings of Fact

The IEP dated October 22, 2024 showed that each service listed was associated with the provider, instructional setting (general or special education), minutes, frequency, and duration, as found in Issue One.

Conclusion

The Student's IEP appropriately listed the frequency, location and duration of services required by 34 CFR 300.320(a)(5). There is no known requirement that a percentage of time is required to be listed in a student's IEP. However, 34 CFR 300.600(d)(1) requires states to monitor the implementation of FAPE in LRE, and 34 CFR 300.211 requires LEAs to provide information to the SEA to carry out SEA's duties. This does not require the LEA to record reporting categories on the IEP, although it is noted that many automated IEP systems do.

Based on the foregoing, it is not substantiated that USD #233 failed to provide required information regarding the time the Student would not participate in general education as required by 34 CFR.320(a)(5).

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

1. ISSUE ONE: A violation of 34 CFR 300.303 was not found. A violation of 34 CFR 300.503(a), K.A.R.91-40-10(a)(2), and 34 CFR 300.324(b)(1)(ii) was found based on facts above. Corrective action is required (as follows):

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #253
ON OCTOBER 24, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: NOVEMBER 27, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, ------- by their parent, -------. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the parent as "the Parent."

The Complaint is against USD # 253, Emporia Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #253.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on October 24, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ends on November 23, 2025.

Background Information

This investigation involved a second-grade student enrolled at a private school in the LEA where they have attended since kindergarten. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the IDEA and is described as kind, energetic, and happy. According to the Parent, the Student was first referred for a special education evaluation after their first quarter of kindergarten due to concerns related to speech, fine and gross motor skills, Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), and Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD). However, the eligibility and IEP were created before the results of ASD and ADHD screenings were received by the Parent. The Parent has since requested additional evaluation for areas of concern related to ASD, ADHD, and possible dyslexia or other learning disabilities. The LEA refused their request for evaluation based on the Student's district-wide assessment data. The Parent then requested an IEE, which the LEA also refused.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Parent and staff in the LEA.

1. An April 23, 2024 Vanderbilt Assessment Scale Student Summary Report stated, "[The Parent] Informant Inventory and the Teacher Inventory completed by [the Student's] art teacher each indicate concerns in 5 of 6 categories for the Inattentive subtype of ADHD and 1 or more concerns on performance questions. These scores bring [the Student] very close to a positive screening result. [The] Teacher Informant inventory completed by [the Student's] kindergarten classroom teacher indicates 7 categories a positive screening for ADHD Hyperactive/Impulsive Subtype and [Oppositional Defiance Disorder] ODD."

2. An April 17, 2024 Autism Spectrum Rating Scale evaluation report stated, "At this time [the Student's] screening score indicates several elevated characteristics of a possible [ASD]."
3. In a November 4, 2024 email to the Director of the Cooperative, the Parent attached a letter requesting "independent evaluation at public expense for [the Student]." They added a request to keep "all [email recipients] in copy on any replies" because the IEP team may need information "pertinent to this request."
4. In a November 6, 2024 email to the Director of the Cooperative, the LEA Home School Principal, and the Teacher, the Principal indicated they spoke with the Parent and asked "what [their] concerns were or what [they were] upset about" and "[The Parent] said [the Student's] pediatrician took [them] off [their] ADHD medication." The Principal noted, "I explained to [the Parent] that there are a lot of moving parts to [Special Education] … I told [the Parent] that [the Student] is making academic growth and [the LEA] is providing the necessary services for [the Student] to be successful. We are providing speech services and [Occupational Therapy] OT each week, and [the Student] is growing academically. … We test 3 times per year on [benchmark], we are meeting [the Student's] educational needs, and [their] test scores are too high for [them] to qualify for academic services." They added they thought the Parent "did not understand the entire process," but seemed "more at ease" after the conversation.
5. In a November 6, 2024 PWN, the LEA denied the Parent's request for an IEE by an outside agency at public expense.
    a. It was noted the Parent's request would be considered if they were "not satisfied with the results" following a comprehensive academic/cognitive evaluation of the Student, completed by the LEA.
    b. The reason the LEA denied the request was GEI data indicated the Student was "making academic gains" with tier three interventions and the Student's benchmark score in reading "increased from [the] 13th percentile to [the] 27th percentile" from the previous school year to the present.
    c. It was also noted the LEA needed "their own formal and comprehensive evaluation information to consider eligibility for special education placement and services."
    d. Data used for this decision was the IEP, eligibility documentation, PWN documents, GEI, progress monitoring information from the previous school year, and benchmark data.
    e. The PWN was delivered to the Parent by email on November 6, 2024 by the Director of the Cooperative.

6. A November 8, 2024 Notice of Special Education Meeting described the meeting as requested by the Parent to discuss the Student's present services and concerns for the Student in "the academic areas of reading, with specific interest in dyslexia characteristics." The Parent signed the meeting notice on November 13, 2025, confirming receipt of the Parents' Rights and Procedural Safeguards and agreeing to waive the right to a 10-day PWN of the meeting.
7. The Complaint Investigator confirmed in an interview with the School Psychologist that an email screenshot was sent to the Principal, the Speech Language Pathologist (SLP), the Teacher, the Occupational Therapist (OT), the Director of the Cooperative, and the LEA Home School Principal on November 11, 2025. In the email, the School Psychologist outlined three Special Education process items, three data reports, and one resource they would have available at the meeting with the Parent. They stated their intention in providing the seven items was to "provide continued access to the full range of resources available through the Cooperative through the [Tertiary Support Interdisciplinary Team] TSIT referral that led to [the Student's] screening."
8. November 13, 2024 Team Meeting Notes for a "Non-procedural IEP Team Meeting" documented the following:
    a. Attendees were the Parent, the Director of the Cooperative, the Principal, the LEA Home School Principal, the School Psychologist, and the Teacher.
    b. "Parent rights delivered and retained" was noted.
    c. The purpose of the meeting was "[the Parent] requested an IEP Team meeting to discuss [their] current concerns regarding [the Student's] observed difficulties in reading."
    d. The Parent described the Student's difficulties in reading and the Teacher relayed "things are beginning to connect for [the Student] in a better way and [they are] making progress."
    e. The Student's data was reviewed, and their broad reading assessment was in the 27th percentile. The School Psychologist "shared that for special education evaluation referrals, students are typically not making progress in the most rigorous of [GEIs], with percentiles in the 10th percentile and below, and with skills more than one and a half years behind their typical peers."
    f. The team discussed a PWN that was "drawn up after [the Parent's] request for an [IEE] was denied by the LEA."
    g. The Principal and the Teacher shared the Student was making progress and waiting "one more month for a second benchmark data point would help the team know whether an evaluation" would be needed.
    h. The Parent "agreed to not signing the [PWN] consent to evaluate form at this time" and it was noted the team would "reconvene to review [the Student's] winter academic benchmark data when it becomes available, at which time [the Parent] will decide whether [they] would like to move forward with an evaluation."

9. In a December 4, 2024 email to the School Psychologist, the Parent reported they were pursuing getting the Student evaluated "or at least continue with treatment for ADHD. After seeing [the Student] with [their] peers last night … it is very evident that [they have] behavioral issues."
   On December 5, 2024 the School Psychologist replied and acknowledged updates about outside evaluation and informed the Parent the most updated data for the Student indicated they were in the 27th percentile, which was "healthily above where we identify a special education level need for services in reading." They added information regarding the nuances of learning disabilities diagnosed in a clinical setting and explained "it is possible for a child to have a mild or moderately qualified clinical presentation of a learning disability … but not require special education services, because they are able to make adequate progress in the general education setting with appropriate reading interventions." They noted the Student's "adequate progress" in reading after interventions had continued "through to this fall."
10. On January 4, 2025, the Teacher replied to the November 4, 2024 email from the Parent and stated, "At our last meeting in November, it was decided to reconvene after winter [benchmark] testing to look at [the Student's] data and see where we go next." Multiple replies ensued to schedule a time and day.
    On January 9, 2025, the School Psychologist replied and asked the Teacher to "complete a [Quick Phonics Screener] QPS and a [Phonological Awareness Screening Test] PAST with [the Student]" prior to the meeting. They added, "If there is any curriculum-based work in grade level standards that we can review, that would be helpful, too. Since [the Student's benchmark] Early Reading percentile has dropped, it will be good to know if this deficit is indicated in [their] phonics and [Phonics Awareness] PA tasks and daily work."
    On January 12 and January 13, 2025, the Teacher replied, agreed, and noted there were updated scores from December 2024. The School Psychologist confirmed the December 2024 tests would "be just fine."
11. In a January 21, 2025 email to the Teacher, the School Psychologist provided a recap of a meeting with the Parent. They stated phonological awareness "seemed to be a need," and the Parent agreed the curriculum they were using was good for developing phonological awareness. "[The Parent] seemed to be leaning toward not requesting an evaluation due to [the Student being gone for medical issues] and due to [the Student's] intervention being favorable." The Parent thought it made sense to revisit progress data after the Student's medical issues were taken care of and they "had time to engage with the [intervention]." The School Psychologist indicated the Parent "seemed very satisfied with that plan."
    The Teacher replied the same day, confirming they would monitor the Student's progress and input the information appropriately, as they were hoping to have strong data to provide in March [2025].
    The Former Title 1 Instructor replied on January 28, 2025 noting they were progress-monitoring the Student and stated, "I started a [Tier 3] T3 log for [the Student] now that [they are] tier 3."

12. A January 29, 2025 (updated in April of 2025, with no specific update day listed) Request for Special Education Evaluation Form "that summarizes [the Student's] continued acquisition of early reading skills," included the following relevant information:
    a. Attendance record from August 2024 to April 3, 2025 was 30.75 absences, 8 tardies, and 1 time "left early."
    b. Services and supports the Student was "currently receiving at school" included "title/at-risk" and "speech/OT IEP."
    c. The reason for referral and specific areas of concern each listed the Student's inconsistency with their reading scores.
    d. Phonics, fluency, and comprehension were marked as reading concerns. Memory and "general" were marked as cognitive concerns. Following directions and organization/work completion were marked as social/emotional concerns and vision was marked as a health concern.
    e. Intervention data were provided as follows:
        i. Phonics intervention from September 23, 2024 to December 16, 2024 with the Student scoring "significantly lower" on their winter benchmark testing, so the team shifted the intervention.
        ii. Phonics intervention from January 7, 2025 to "current" was the smaller group intervention based on the previous data.
    f. PAST "Spring Scores 2025 (March 3, 2025)" indicated scores of six out of six in 12 categories, five out of six in three categories, and four out of six in one category.
    g. QPS "Winter Scores 2025" indicated the following scores:
        i. Task 1- 26 out of 26
        ii. Task 2- 26 out of 26
        iii. Task 3- 9 out of 10 and 20 out of 20
        iv. Task 4- 7 out of 10 and 9 out of 10
        v. Task 5- 7 out of 10 and 7 out of 10
        vi. Task 6- 7 out of 10 and 5 out of 10
        vii. Task 7- no scores reported
    h. QPS "Spring Scores 2025" indicated the following scores:
        i. Task 1- 26 out of 26
        ii. Task 2- 26 out of 26
        iii. Task 3- 10 out of 10 and 19 out of 20
        iv. Task 4- 10 out of 10 and 10 out of 10
        v. Task 5- 8 out of 10 and 9 out of 10
        vi. Task 6- 9 out of 10 and 9 out of 10
        vii. Task 7- 3 out of 10 and 1 out of 10
    i. Winter Scores for benchmark reading indicated 30 (8th percentile), 31, 9, NA, 13, and 8. Comparable Spring Scores indicated 41 (12th percentile), 28, 16, NA, 37, and 23.

13. An April 14, 2025 PWN for a Change in Services indicated the team met to review data for services needed, educational placement, and IEP revision. It noted the team updated the Student's IEP to "reflect [their] current levels of performance" and the Student would "continue to receive the same accommodations listed within [their] IEP." Data used included parent and teacher input, recent IEP goals, progress monitoring, classroom performance, and student response to special education supports/services. The Parent was asked for input and "expressed that [they were] worried about [the Student's] reading." The team agreed to meet and talk about that concern after the IEP meeting.
14. The Student's April 14, 2025 IEP indicated an initial evaluation on April 23, 2024 and consent was received for evaluation on February 29, 2024. The Student's primary exceptionality was listed as "DD" (Developmental Delay). The IEP included the following relevant items:
    a. Parental input outlined commentary on the Student's progress with holding a pencil and "speaking more clearly and is starting to break down words into sounds." It was also noted the Student needed adaptive paper, sizing letters was still a challenge, and the Student "continues to struggle to sound out words."
    b. Services included in the IEP were OT and Speech Language services, each for 20 minutes one time per week, for the duration of the IEP, in the special education classroom.
    c. In "Parent Concerns" it was noted the Parent expressed concerns about the Student's reading, "but it was discussed that they will have a meeting discussing [the Student's] reading following the adjournment of this annual IEP meeting."
    d. The presented IEP draft was "accepted as presented by all team members" and the information on the PWN was "presented and reviewed thoroughly." The Parent "gave signed consent for the PWN as presented."
    e. The IEP listed a handwriting "motor" and a communication goal, each with four benchmarks.
    f. Accommodations listed were for all settings for the duration of the IEP and included "repeated directions and reminders," "directions presented in a variety of ways," "preferential seating," "extended wait time," "consistent expectations and routines," "instruct to make corrections," and "3-lined paper."
15. April 14, 2025 meeting notes included the following relevant information:
    a. The Parent observed the Student's improved motor ability, they continued to struggle saying their own name, and they struggled with the "CH" and "ST" sounds. They added the Student was speaking more clearly and identifying more letter sounds by themself.
    b. It was noted the Student missed "nearly 40 days of school due to illness." The Student was "showing growth in progress monitoring and in [benchmark] (despite attendance issues)."
    c. The Student's absences from August, 2024 to April, 2025 amounted to "almost an entire quarter of lost instructional time."

d. The team "discussed that due to attendance[,] the exclusionary factor of lack of access to instruction can't be ruled out."
e. The team also discussed holding check-in meetings during the next school year to monitor the Student's progress.

16. An April 15, 2025 Progress report included the following relevant information:
    a. The Student's first goal was "By the end of the IEP year, [the Student] will write [their] uppercase and lowercase letters while using a functional grasp with 80% accuracy for memory, orientation, size, and placement in 1 of 3 trials."
        i. March 4, 2025 progress indicated "slight improvement."
        ii. December 19, 2024 progress indicated "mastered."
    b. The Student's second goal was "By the end of the IEP year (April 2024), [the Student] will produce /L/ and /V/ at the word level with 80% accuracy during speech therapy."
        i. February 28, 2025 progress indicated "moderate improvement."
        ii. December 12, 2024 progress indicated "moderate improvement."
17. The Student's 2024-25 Student Assessment Report provided a grading scale noting an "S" as "Satisfactory Progress" and a "/" as "Needs Improvement." The following relevant grades were reported:
    a. Reading Literature and informational text grades for quarter one were "/" in one category and three categories were not assessed. Quarter two indicated "/" in three categories and one category was not assessed. Quarters three and four indicated "/" in all four categories.
    b. Language Arts grades were "/" and "/" in both categories for all four quarters.
    c. Attendance for quarter one indicated four full days absent and two days leaving early.
    d. Attendance for quarter two indicated eight full days absent.
    e. Attendance for quarter three indicated 13 full days absent.
    f. Attendance for quarter four indicated five full days absent
    g. The Student was enrolled for 165 days and attended 134.25 days.
18. A September 9, 2025 letter from the Parent outlined a special education evaluation request for "a full comprehensive evaluation/reevaluation to include: speech and language to include pragmatic, medical/physical, sociological, cognitive to include all 7 G's (fluid reasoning, crystallized intelligence, short term memory, long term memory, long term retrieval, visual processing, auditory processing, and processing speeds), achievement to include (reading, writing, math, listening comprehension, and oral expression), formal adaptive, and behavioral/psychological evaluation to include all areas and related services including possible adaptive technology. [The Parent] listed all areas since [the Student's] initial evaluation only included speech, fine and gross motor skills (According to Written Consent)." They noted the Student had a screening for ADHD and ASD in kindergarten and this information did not end up in the Student's IEP. They added the Student was "having difficulties learning even with the current IEP supports" and they "strongly believe that the initial evaluation, which wasn't comprehensive, failed to identify all [the Student's] exceptionalities. … I have been pushing for intervention and keep being told let's wait[,] but [the Student] doesn't have much wait time left. … I'm requesting all areas be evaluated[,] not only to identify exceptionalities[,] but to also rule out any need in that area."

19. Email correspondence occurred between September 9 and September 10, 2025. Key excerpts from these emails are noted below:
    a. In a September 9, 2025 email to the LEA Home School Principal, with the Principal and the School Psychologist carbon copied, the Parent attached a letter "requesting evaluation/re-evaluation of [the Student]." A document titled "[The Student] 2025-26 Special Education Evaluation Request" was attached.
    b. In a September 10, 2025, 11:07 a.m. email to the School Psychologist, the Title 1 Instructor shared the Student's assessment results as follows:
        i. Phonics Screener- "Passed all Kindergarten and 1st grade skills, except silent 'e,' an end-of-1st-grade skill, which is often reviewed at the beginning of 2nd grade."
        ii. Benchmark Fluency- "Grade-level fluency" and considered "Tier 2" with "some risk."
        iii. Benchmark Reading and Benchmark Math- "Tier 1, on grade level."

        They noted the Student would be meeting with them in a small group for 30 minutes per day to focus on "phonemic awareness and phonics and applying what we learn in text."
    c. On September 10, 2025 at 11:42 a.m. the School Psychologist sent an email to the Director of the Cooperative and the LEA Home School Principal and noted the Director of the Cooperative's substantial involvement with the Student and the Parent. This involvement was attributed to the Cooperative "refusing a parent request for an independent evaluation" during the previous school year. "Attendance record and resulting lack of instruction were, and continued to be[,] a concern before and after that request was denied. We had several follow-up SIT meetings to review data, which [the Parent] and [he Director of the Cooperative] participated in." They added they would review data from the Title 1 Instructor, schedule a SIT meeting, and include them on the updated GEI.
    d. On September 10, 2025 at 11:51 a.m., the School Psychologist replied "all" to the September 9, 2025 email from the Parent, added the Director of the Cooperative, and acknowledged the Parent's request for special education evaluation for the Student. They noted the LEA and the School team would meet to "review [the Student's] current and historical academic data to determine whether it indicates a level of need where referral for special education evaluation is appropriate at this time." They added the law requires them to respond to the request within 15 school days and they would "respond to your request on or before [September 23, 2025]." They attached a copy of Parent Rights and a Parent Guide to Special Education.

e. On September 10, 2025 at 12:13 p.m., the School Psychologist replied to the September 10, 2025 11:07 a.m. email from the Title 1 Instructor and added the Principal, the LEA Home School Principal, and the Director of the Cooperative with an attached copy of the Student's "ongoing GEI." They also noted "attendance had become a concern" last spring and they "wanted to calculate the percentage of missed days for last school year in its entirety, and for each progress reporting period with regard to benchmark testing."

20. In a September 23, 2025 email to the Parent, the School Psychologist followed up on the request for evaluation and stated, "[The Student's] team reviewed present levels of academic performance, and they do not indicate a level of need that warrants an evaluation at this time." They noted there was a PWN attached to the email and two attachments were visible.
21. A September 23, 2025, PWN documented the following:
    a. The Special Education Cooperative refused to conduct an initial evaluation (parental consent not required).
    b. Explanation: The Parent requested a special education evaluation on September 9, 2025, and the School team met on September 22, 2025, to review existing data for present levels and academic performance. Based on the data, the following was determined:
        i. The Student's data did not indicate a level of need that supported a referral for special education evaluation.
        ii. The Student had passed all first-grade phonics skills except one, which would be reviewed at the beginning of second grade.
        iii. The Student's fall benchmark assessment for reading fluency placed them in the 22nd percentile and a tier 2 small group for reading support.
        iv. The Student's general reading fall benchmark assessment score was in the 30th percentile, which fell within the average range for grade-level performance.
        v. The Student's general math fall benchmark score was in the 70th percentile, which was considered grade-level.
    c. Options considered: Referring the Student for a special education evaluation based on the Parent's request. This was rejected due to the Student's present levels of academic performance "not indicating a concern that would warrant an evaluation at this time."
    d. Data used: Parent input, teacher input, strategist input, psychologist input, administrator input, district academic benchmark testing, academic intervention progress, curriculum-based testing, and academic history, including attendance.

e. Other factors: The Student would not participate in a special education evaluation and would continue to receive academic instruction in the general education setting.

f. The School Psychologist emailed the PWN to the Parent on September 23, 2025.

22. In a September 24, 2025 email to the School Psychologist, the LEA Home School Principal, the Principal, the Title 1 Instructor, and the Director of the Cooperative, the Parent requested copies of the benchmark testing from Kindergarten through second grade and "meeting notes or other testing that was used in making the decision not to do a special education evaluation" for the Student. They described the Student's benchmark scores declining from fall to winter and scores going up over the summer. They additionally requested all future communication be in person or in writing "to make sure everything is on the record." The Parent added legal information about the use of [Multi-tiered Systems of Support] MTSS or [Response to Intervention] RTI to delay an evaluation and indicated the Student "has been at tier 2 at the beginning of the year and tier 3 after [they] show signs of needing more help." They concluded the email requesting more "intensive instruction and/or more services," along with mentioning the Student's diagnosed ADHD, being on a waitlist for an ASD evaluation, and showing signs of dyslexia, "but no evaluation has been completed for special education to determine any needs for these disabilities."

23. On September 25, 2025, the Parent emailed LEA staff requesting an IEE at public expense because the Student "was denied a robust comprehensive evaluation by [the Special Education Cooperative]" based on the September 23, 2025 PWN. The Parent claimed the LEA had not provided an evaluation for suspected disabilities and special education needs outside of the speech and OT services the Student was receiving. The Parent added the Student was referred to an outside health agency based on results from a School ASD screening, and was diagnosed with ADHD, which was not part of the current evaluation or IEP.
    The Director of Student Services replied the next day, indicating they would review the information and contact the Parent "early next week."

24. Emails were exchanged October 1 through October 6, 2025 between the Director of Student Services and the Parent regarding an evaluation.

    a. On October 1, 2025 the Director of Student Services informed the Parent the LEA would not be evaluating and the team's decision had been shared in the PWN sent to the Parent. Another copy was attached to the email. The Director of Student Services also noted if the Parent disagreed, they had rights outlined in the Notice of Parental Rights, also attached to the email.

    b. On October 2, 2025 the Parent asked, "Is this a denial of my request for [an] IEE?" If so, the Parent requested a due process filing. If not, they asked for a response as required by law.

    c. On October 6, 2025 the Director of Student Services responded, "This is a denial of the requested IEE because [the LEA] has not completed an initial evaluation of your child in the additional area requested." The Director of Student Services referred to the September 23, 2025 PWN and referred the Parent to the Notice of Parental Rights (attached to the email) if they disagreed.

25. An October 31, 2025 Progress report included the following relevant information:
    a. The Student's first goal for "motor" was "By the end of the IEP year, [the Student] will write 2 sentences with 90% accuracy for size, placement, and spacing between words in 2 of 3 opportunities."
        i. October 16, 2025 progress indicated "slight improvement."
        ii. May 15, 2025 progress indicated "moderate improvement."
    b. The Student's second goal for "communication" was "[The Student] will produce 'th' (voiceless and voiced) and [their] name ['the Student's name'] with 80% accuracy at the sentence level without cues by the end of the IEP year (April 2026)."
        i. October 13, 2025 progress indicated "slight improvement."
        ii. May 8, 2025 progress indicated "moderate improvement."
26. The Student's 2025-26 Student Assessment Report provided a grading scale noting an "S" as "Satisfactory Progress" and a "\" as "Needs Improvement." The following relevant grades were reported for quarter one:
    a. Reading Literature and informational text grades were "S", "S", and "S-".
    b. Language Arts grades were "S" and "S".
    c. Attendance for quarter one indicated nine full days absent and for quarter two indicated two full days absent.
    d. The Student was enrolled for 52 days and attended 41 days.

School Psychologist Interview

27. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the School Psychologist recalled the IEP team meeting conversation where the School team and the LEA "did not support [an evaluation] … based on the Student's data. [They were] in interventions and … were making adequate progress in early reading skills in the interventions that [they were] receiving." They added both the Teacher and the Principal agreed the Student was making adequate progress and the IEP team, including the Parent, was in agreement, "that rather than evaluate at that time that we would meet [throughout the year] and include [the Parent]."
28. The School Psychologist noted "moving in from late winter into early spring of [the Student's] first-grade year, there were significant attendance issues. … Even though [the Student] had many absences, [they were] still academically progressing and, relative to academic benchmark testing, well above national percentiles where we would consider [the Student] being behind to the degree of a special education level need."
29. The School Psychologist reported, "At the beginning of this school year, [the Parent] requested an evaluation, and again, based on the Student's demonstrated need, [their] present levels of academic … performance, we determined that there was not academically a special education level need indicated." They added the Student still receives speech and occupational therapy services.

30. The School Psychologist indicated the Parent's current evaluation request made "after the denial at the beginning of this school year [2025-26]" is "a little bit different from what requests have been in the past." The requests had "always been a concern in reading" and now the Parent claimed the Student "may have a disability in either ADHD or autism." The School Psychologist confirmed, "none of our conversations with the School up to that point had ever indicated that [the Student] had social skills problems or behavioral maladaptations that was either impacting [the Student's] learning or the learning of [their] peers." They added there were no behavior logs, no disciplinary history, no history of social skills problems, and "no behavioral manifestations of emotional rigidity or inflexibility or physical aggression or verbal aggression or anything that would be considered a special education level need. … Given that and given that [the Student's] academic progress continues to be adequate and the gaps are closing for [them] consistently in reading … there's no demonstrative need being indicated in school data that would support [the Parent's] request for an evaluation." (
31. The School Psychologist noted the Parent had concerns about the possibility of dyslexia and they informed the Parent and the Teacher "the potential for ADHD, which at that time was not confirmed, … can look in early reading skills similar to dyslexia."
32. The School Psychologist reflected on a time they observed the Student in Kindergarten and it took them 20 minutes to determine which student was the Student because they were "not exhibiting behaviors or a level of engagement or functioning in the classroom that was markedly different to any of [their] peers." This is relevant to the data from the Student's current teachers who indicated the Student is "the highest student" in their targeted reading group. "We just have only seen the Student make sufficient adequate academic progress in academic skills."
33. When asked about the Student's attendance, the School Psychologist stated, "It's my understanding that the Student has significant upper respiratory history." They explained the School noted attendance being a significant issue and an early denial of academic services "had to do with the amount of absences and the potential for lack of instruction being an exclusionary factor."

Parent Interview

34. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Parent indicated they requested an independent evaluation at public expense in first grade because they "didn't feel like the initial evaluation was thorough. … [the School] wanted to use MTSS instead of evaluating [the Student]." They recalled a meeting in November [2024] to discuss the evaluation and the LEA "told me to wait until [benchmark] testing was out in December [2024] and we'd convene after that to determine if [the Student] still needed an evaluation." They noted there were a "couple more" MTSS meetings throughout the 2024-25 school year, but the Student "kept decreasing in reading comprehension."

35. The Parent described the beginning of the 2025-26 school year and they requested another evaluation "because I still didn't feel like [the Student] had gotten the services that [they] needed to succeed. … I think [the Student is] probably close to a grade-level behind [their] peers in reading and writing." They clarified the LEA denied this request and that is why the Parent filed the complaint. "I feel like [the LEA has] just kind of kept pushing me back … trying not to give [the Student] services that I believe [they] need."
36. The Parent discussed the Student's diagnoses of ADHD and clarified the pediatrician wrote a note, the Parent provided that note to the LEA, and "it felt like they just ignored the fact that I'd provided it to them." They also stated "It is impossible to get an evaluation for autism" and the Student's kindergarten screening through the School said the Student would "probably be autistic."
37. The Parent stated their "feeling is [the Student's] probably dyslexic or has dysgraphia" and provided an example of the Student struggling on a spelling test, "getting one out of 10 or zero out of 10, correct" and not understanding "when it comes to hearing the word and then putting it down on paper." They noted the extra time spent at school working on these skills. "But [the Student's] still not progressing … especially the writing part. … The reading part, [they'll] guess words sometimes or [they'll] skip words." They conceded there is no diagnosis for this, but these are "things that I've noticed."
38. The Parent recalled a meeting at the School, which was labeled by the School as an IEP meeting, where they "offered an evaluation, but then they … talked me out of doing the evaluation."
39. The Parent reiterated "General ed[ucation] is doing everything they can for [the Student], but I don't think that's enough. … [The Student] needs more instruction to help with the dyslexia, or possible dyslexia, … not being able to hear the sound and note letters. … [The Student is] not progressing like [they] should." They cited declining benchmark test scores as evidence of the Student not progressing and clarified the Student improved over the summer because the Parent worked with them "almost every day" to keep them from "falling too far behind."
40. The Parent indicated the Principal asked them not to re-enroll the Student when they were entering first grade because they thought the Student would "be better served if [they were] going to the public school instead of the private school." The Parent interpreted this as an inability for the School to meet the Student's needs and "if it was that bad, why weren't they evaluating her?"

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #253, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, identified, located, and evaluated the Student according to Child Find requirements. K.A.R. 91-40-7 (a)(1)(3)(b)(2)(A)(3); 34 CFR § 300.111(a)(1)(c)(1).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-7 (a)(1)(3)(b)(2)(A)(3), each board shall adopt and implement policies and procedures to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities residing in its jurisdiction, including children with exceptionalities who attend private schools and are suspected of being children with disabilities even though they are advancing from grade to grade. Each board's policies and procedures under this regulation shall include age-appropriate screening procedures that meet the following requirements for children from ages five through 21: observations, instruments, measures, and techniques that disclose any potential exceptionality and indicate a need for evaluation, including hearing and vision screening as required by state law. Each agency will ensure that the child was provided with appropriate instruction in regular education settings by qualified personnel. The parent of the child requests and gives written consent for an evaluation of the child, and the board agrees that an evaluation of the child is appropriate.

The Parent alleged the Student was referred for a special education evaluation by their private school teacher in late 2023 due to concerns, which initiated contact with the LEA. In November 2024, the LEA allegedly used a MTSS meeting to deny and/or delay a full special education evaluation, citing the Student's improvement over the summer and general education benchmark screening scores as justification. Despite the Student having a diagnosis of ADHD and suspected learning disabilities (Autism/Dyslexia), the LEA allegedly repeatedly refused a full evaluation, leading the Parent to assert that the Student's disabilities have not been adequately identified and evaluated.

The LEA contended they responded appropriately and legally in this issue and have taken steps to address the Parent's concern and the Student's needs. These steps included direct communication with the Parent, academic and attendance data review, and the provision of a formal evaluation.

The Parent explicitly requested evaluations for a broad range of suspected needs, including behavioral and psychological concerns (ADHD/ASD). The LEA dismissed these requests primarily because the School team had not observed behavioral issues or "behavioral maladaptations." While the LEA may consider school-based observations, the duty to evaluate is comprehensive. Given the Student's existing IEP, the documented "needs improvement" in the area of Language Arts, the Parent's report of an outside ADHD diagnosis, and the Parent's specific request for a behavioral/psychological evaluation to "rule out any need in that area," the LEA was required to conduct an evaluation to determine if these suspected disabilities resulted in a need for special education services, regardless of whether the Student's current academic data supported it.

The LEA's core reasoning for refusing to evaluate the Student in the areas of reading and cognition were the Student was making "adequate progress" in GEI/MTSS and benchmark scores were above the 10th percentile threshold. Child Find requires an evaluation when a disability is suspected. The existence of conflicting data, such as a low 8th percentile score, the consistent need for intensive Tier 2/3 interventions, and the Parent's repeated, specific concerns about dyslexia, created a duty to evaluate the Student for a suspected learning disability. Relying on an arbitrary percentile cut-off (10th percentile) or the Student's performance in MTSS/GEI to deny or delay an initial evaluation (or an evaluation for an additional, suspected disability) is a violation of the Child Find mandate and Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) Memo 11-07. This memo was issued to address concerns that some LEAs might be improperly using RTI strategies to postpone or reject initial evaluations. It clarifies that while RTI is supported for instructional purposes and is permissible as part of the criteria for a specific learning disability determination, it cannot be employed to delay or deny an initial evaluation that a parent has requested or the LEA has agreed to conduct in a timely manner.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is substantiated that the LEA failed to identify, locate, and evaluate the Student according to Child Find requirements.

Issue Two

Whether USD #253, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, conducted a full and individual initial evaluation before initial provision of special education and related services. K.A.R. 91-40-8(a)(1)(A)(B)(C)(2)(A)(B)(C); 34 CFR § 300.301.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-8(a)(1)(A)(B)(C)(2)(A)(B)(C), each agency shall ensure that a full and individual evaluation is conducted for each child being considered for special education and related services. Each evaluation shall include procedures to determine whether the child is an exceptional child. As part of an initial evaluation, each agency shall ensure evaluations and information provided by the parent or parents of the child, current classroom-based, local, and state assessments, and classroom-based observations are taken into consideration in the evaluation, and observations by teachers and related services providers.

Each agency shall on the basis of that review and input from the child's parent or parents, the evaluation team shall identify what additional data, if any, is needed to determine the following matters: whether the child has a particular category of exceptionality or, in the case of a reevaluation of a child whether the child continues to have such an exceptionality; what the present levels of academic achievement and educational and related developmental needs of the child are; and whether the child needs special education and related services.

The Parent alleged when the Student was referred for a special education evaluation in late 2023, the Parent received PWN on February 2, 2024, for assessments that were completed for the IEP meeting. The Parent alleged the OT and SLP repeated evaluations after the PWN because a step was missed, suggesting the initial assessment was incomplete and the IEP meeting and PWN were created before the results of the ADHD and Autism screening were shared with the Parent.

The LEA believed they responded appropriately and legally in this issue. They contended the team formally evaluated where the data identified needs.

The Student's April 14, 2025 IEP documents an initial evaluation on April 23, 2024, with consent received on February 29, 2024. Based on this, the Student was determined to have a primary exceptionality of developmental delay and began receiving OT and speech-language services. Additionally, the initial consent and evaluation are outside the statute of limitations for this complaint.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to conduct a full and individual initial evaluation before initial provision of special education and related services.

Issue Three

Whether USD #253, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, prevented the Parent from requesting a reevaluation. K.A.R 91-40-25 (2)(B)(1)(2); 34 CFR § 300.303 (a)(2)(b)(1).

According to K.A.R 91-40-25 (2)(B)(1)(2), each agency shall allow the parents of an exceptional child an opportunity to inspect and review all education records and participate in any meeting concerning their child with respect to the identification, evaluation, or education placement of the child and the provision of FAPE to the child. Each agency shall take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each meeting concerning their child or are allowed to participate. These steps shall include scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed-upon time and place, informing the parents, and providing prior written notice of any meeting.

The Parent alleged they were denied the right to request an evaluation or re-evaluation for the Student.

The LEA believed they responded appropriately and legally in this issue.

The Parent submitted multiple formal requests, including two requests for an IEE at public expense (November 2024 and September 2025) and a request for a full comprehensive evaluation/reevaluation (September 2025). In all cases, the LEA received and acknowledged the Parent's requests, thereby confirming the requests were not prevented. The Parent stated in the November 2024 meeting the team "offered an evaluation, but then they ... talked me out of doing the evaluation." The meeting notes confirm the Parent "agreed to not signing the [PWN] consent to evaluate form at this time" and would wait for winter data. While the Parent may have felt discouraged or deferred the evaluation based on the LEA's presentation of data, the Parent still retained and successfully exercised the right to submit a formal request for reevaluation.

The LEA's decision to refuse to conduct the evaluation or grant the IEE is not the same as preventing the Parent from submitting the initial request. The LEA's subsequent actions involved issuing formal refusals (PWNs) to conduct the requested evaluations or grant IEEs, which is a procedural response to a request, not the prevention of the request itself.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA prevented the Parent from requesting a reevaluation.

Issue Four

Whether USD #253, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, used a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant functional, developmental, and academic information about the Student, including information provided by the Parent, and whether the LEA ensured the evaluation was sufficiently comprehensive to identify all of the Student's special education and related services needs, whether or not commonly linked to the disability category in which the Student had been classified. Additionally, whether USD #253, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, used assessments and other evaluation materials that included those tailored to assess specific areas of educational need, and not merely those that are designed to provide a single general intelligence quotient, when they made the determination not to evaluate the Student. K.A.R. 91-40-9(3)(6) (b)(1), K.A.R. 91-40-9 (8); 34 CFR § 300.304 (c)(2); 34 CFR § 300.304 (b)(1)(6),34 CFR § 300.304 (c)(2).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-9 (3)(6)(b)(1), each agency shall ensure a variety of assessment tools and strategies shall be used to gather relevant functional and developmental information about the child, including information provided by the parent, and information related to enabling the child to be involved and progress in the general curriculum or to participate in appropriate activities that could assist in determining whether the child is an exceptional child and what the content of the child's IEP should be. Each agency shall make certain assessments, and other evaluation materials shall include those that are tailored to assess specific areas of educational need and not merely those that are designed to provide a single general intelligence quotient. Each child shall be assessed in all areas related to a suspected exceptionality.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-9 (8), each agency will ensure a single procedure shall not be used as the sole criterion for determining whether a child is an exceptional child and for determining an appropriate educational program for the child.

The Parent alleged, the LEA refused to do a full evaluation despite the Student having a diagnosis of ADHD and screeners showing a risk for Autism, with a new concern of dyslexia. Instead of using tailored assessments for these specific learning disability concerns, the LEA relied on FastBridge screening used for general education placement. The LEA then cites "improvement over the summer" as a reason to deny further evaluation, which the Parent argued violates guidance stating that grade progression is not a reason to delay or deny evaluation.

The LEA believed they responded appropriately and legally in this issue by utilizing a systematic, data-driven approach to inform their decisions. They contended they reviewed multiple data sources and targeted screeners, and made informed decisions supported by their multi-faceted data review and the results of the completed screeners.

The LEA met the requirement to use a variety of assessment tools and strategies when reviewing the Parent's September 2025 request for an evaluation, utilizing academic data like district benchmark tests (showing general reading in the 30th percentile, which is within the average range), curriculum-based testing (Phonics Screener), intervention progress, and historical information including attendance. The team did not rely on a single general intelligence quotient (IQ) score, instead compiling input from the Parent, teacher, strategist, psychologist, and administrators to determine the Student's present levels. The LEA concluded that this existing data, which showed the Student was making adequate academic progress and was "well above national percentiles where we would consider [the Student] being behind to the degree of a special education level needed," did not warrant an evaluation at that time.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to use a variety of assessment tools and strategies to gather relevant functional, developmental, and academic information about the Student. Additionally, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to use assessments and other evaluation materials that included those tailored to assess specific areas of educational need, and not merely those that are designed to provide a single general intelligence quotient, when they made the determination not to evaluate the Student.

Issue Five

Whether USD #253, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, either filed a due process complaint or ensured an IEE was provided at public expense after the Parent requested an IEE. K.A.R. 91-40-12(a)(1)(2)(b)(1)(2)(A)(B); 34 CFR § 300.502 (b)(1)(2).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-12(a)(1)(2)(b)(1)(2)(A)(B), each agency will make certain that the parent of an exceptional child shall have the right to request an IEE at public expense if the parent disagrees with the evaluation obtained by the agency. The parent shall be eligible for only one IEE at public expense in response to an evaluation conducted by the agency. If a parent requests an IEE of the child, the agency, without unnecessary delay, shall initiate a due process hearing to show that its evaluation is appropriate or provide information to the parent about where an IEE may be obtained. The agency will also either pay the full cost of the IEE or otherwise ensure that the evaluation is provided at no cost to the parent or initiate a due process hearing to show that the evaluation obtained by the parent does not meet agency criteria.

The Parent alleged the cooperative denied their IEE request, claiming the Parent did not have the right to an IEE because they had agreed to the IEP and because the cooperative had the right to conduct the initial evaluation. After a subsequent denial for a full evaluation, the Parent made a second IEE request, which the cooperative allegedly denied again at public expense, failing to either grant the IEE or file for a due process hearing to defend its initial evaluation.

The LEA believed they responded appropriately and legally in this issue.

An initial evaluation of the Student was completed on April 23, 2024.The Parent requested an IEE in November 2024 and September 2025 and, in both cases, the LEA responded with a PWN denying the requests. Subsequently, the LEA did not fund an IEE or file for a due process hearing to defend its current evaluation or refusal to evaluate. The District's position that they first needed to complete an evaluation at the time the Parent made the request for an IEE was flawed, as the initial evaluation had been completed and was subject to the Parent's request for an IEE.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is substantiated that the LEA failed to either file a due process complaint or ensure an IEE was provided at public expense after the Parent's request.

Issue Six

Whether USD #253, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided a FAPE to the Student and provided appropriate services related to all areas of need. K.A.R. 91-40-2(a)(1)(d)(1)(2)(e); 34 CFR § 300.17.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-2(a)(1)(d)(1)(2)(e), each agency shall provide a FAPE. Each agency shall make a FAPE available to any child with a disability, even though the child has not failed or been retained in a course or grade and is advancing from grade to grade. The determination of whether a child who is advancing from grade to grade is a child with a disability shall be made on an individual basis in accordance with child find activities and evaluation procedures required by this article. Each agency shall provide special education and related services based upon the child's unique needs and not upon the child's area of exceptionality.

The Parent alleged the LEA has not properly identified all the Student's disabilities and continually refused to conduct the necessary evaluation to determine their academic needs, which denies the Student a FAPE.

The LEA believed they responded appropriately and legally in this issue. They contended the Student's current IEP in the identified areas of speech and motor was being implemented, progress had been shared with the Parent, and the Student continued to receive interventions through the GEI process at the School.

The LEA repeatedly failed to fully satisfy its Child Find obligation and conduct a comprehensive evaluation, formally refusing the Parent's consistent and explicit requests to evaluate for suspected areas, including specific learning disability (dyslexia), ADHD, and Autism. While the LEA cited the Student was "healthily above" the internal academic thresholds, they improved reading and language arts grades, and they had "significant attendance issues" (missing almost 40 days) as justification for refusing the evaluation, this reasoning is insufficient to override the duty to evaluate, which is triggered by the suspicion of a disability. Consequently, without a thorough evaluation, the IEP team lacked the necessary diagnostic information to accurately determine the Student's unique needs. The existing IEP only provided goals and services for OT and Speech Language, entirely lacking specially designed instruction or academic goals for the Parent's primary concern of reading, and therefore was not reasonably calculated to enable the Student to make appropriate progress in light of their circumstances. The lack of an evaluation makes it impossible to know what progress could have been achieved if the true nature and scope of the Student's disabilities were known.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations it is substantiated that the LEA failed to provide a FAPE to the Student and to provide appropriate services related to all areas of need.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at 34 CFR § 300.111(a)(1)(c)(1), K.A.R. 91-40-7 (a)(1)(3)(b)(2)(A)(3), and OSEP Memo 11-07 specifies the LEA's responsibility to identify, locate, and evaluate all children with exceptionalities and not use GEI/RTI to deny or delay this evaluation.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #235 used GEI/MTSS to delay the Student's evaluation. Documentation, Interviews, and the LEA Response letter of November 4, 2025 document this.

B. Federal regulations at 34 CFR § 300.502 (b)(1)(2) and K.A.R. 91-40-12(a)(1)(2)(b)(1)(2)(A)(B) specifies the parent of an exceptional child has the right to request an IEE at public expense, and upon request, the LEA (without unnecessary delay) shall either initiate a due process hearing or provide the evaluation at their expense.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #235 did not fund an IEE or file for a due process hearing after two requests for IEE from the Parent.

C. Federal regulations at 34 CFR § 300.17 and K.A.R. 91-40-2(a)(1)(d)(1)(2)(e) specifies the parent of an exceptional child has the right to request an IEE at public expense, and upon request, the LEA (without unnecessary delay) shall either initiate a due process hearing or provide the evaluation at their expense.

In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD #235 failed to provide the Student a FAPE.

Based on the foregoing, USD # 253 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #253 shall submit a written statement of assurance to Special Education and Title Services (SETS) stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 CFR § 300.111(a)(1)(c)(1), K.A.R. 91-40-7 (a)(1)(3)(b)(2)(A)(3), and OSEP Memo 11-07.
2. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #253 shall submit a written statement of assurance to SETS stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 CFR § 300.502 (b)(1)(2) and K.A.R. 91-40-12(a)(1)(2)(b)(1)(2)(A)(B).
3. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #253 shall submit a written statement of assurance to SETS stating that it will comply with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA at 34 CFR § 300.17 and K.A.R. 91-40-2(a)(1)(d)(1)(2)(e).
4. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #253 will initiate the process for an IEE at public expense to evaluate the Student for ADHD, ASD, and a specific learning disability.
5. Upon completion of the evaluation, USD #253 will convene the IEP team to review the results and make necessary revisions to the Student's IEP. Where appropriate, the revised IEP should incorporate new Specially Designed Instruction (SDI) and related services.
6. Should the Student's evaluation reveal an additional exceptionality, USD #253 will provide retroactive services for 40 weeks, counting from the initial IEE request on November 4, 2024, up to the date of this report. These services will be based on the service minute determinations established for the newly identified exceptionalities.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #418
ON OCTOBER 30, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: DECEMBER 3, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with the Kansas State Department of Education on behalf of --------- by his mother, ---------. In the remainder of the report --------- will be referred to as "the student" and --------- will be referred to as the "complainant" or "the parent".

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student."

In this case, the complaint is against USD #418 (McPherson Public Schools) which contracts with the McPherson County Special Education Cooperative (McCSEC) to meet the requirements of the IDEA. In the remainder of the report, both of these responsible public agencies will be referred to as "the local education agency (LEA)".

In the remainder of the report, the LEA staff will be referred to as follows:

- Melissa Strathman, McCSEC Executive Director

Background Information

The student is a 7-year-old boy who is currently enrolled in the third grade in USD #418 for the 2025-26 school year. During the timeframe when the allegations being investigated occurred, the student was assigned to Roosevelt Elementary School, his neighborhood school.

The student began receiving early childhood special education services as a preschool student under the exceptionality category of Developmental Delay. The student was diagnosed with autism spectrum disorder and an accompanying language disorder at Veridian Behavioral Health in January 2022. The most recent reevaluation was completed on March 30, 2023 when the student was in kindergarten. At that time, the IEP team determined that the student continued to be eligible for special education and related services under the primary exceptionality category of Developmental Delay.

It is noted that the student is currently being reevaluated and the parent granted written consent for a reevaluation with additional assessment on September 25, 2025. In addition, both the parent and the LEA reported that the IEP team met and proposed a material change in services and a significant change of placement for the student to be placed in the positive behavior intervention and support (PBIS) classroom at Lincoln Elementary School beginning on October 20, 2025.

Issues Investigated

Based on the written complaint, two issues were identified and investigated.

Issue One

USD #418, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to implement the student's IEP on May 7 and again on September 30, 2025, specifically by not following the student's behavior intervention plan.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.300.324(a)(2)(i) require the IEP team to consider the use of positive behavioral interventions and supports, and other strategies, to address any behavior that impedes the learning of the student or that of others.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) require each public agency to ensure that as soon as possible following the development of the IEP, special education and related services are made available to the child in accordance with the child's IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(4) allow the parent and public agency to make changes to a child's IEP after the annual IEP Team meeting for a school year by making a written document to amend or modify the child's current IEP and, if changes are made to the child's IEP, the public agency must ensure that the child's IEP team is informed of those changes.

Parent Position

The parent reported that the student had a behavioral incident at school on May 7, 2024 when he was at a literacy fair in the cafeteria with over 40 students talking at the same time and 20-30 walking around listening to the presentations. The student became overstimulated and school staff failed to intervene and offer him a sensory break to help him regulate which resulted in the student becoming physically aggressive with three peers and multiple staff. However, the McCSEC Assistant Director informed me that there would be no disciplinary action taken against the student due to the staff failing to follow his IEP.

The staff again failed to implement the student's IEP on September 30, 2025 when his behavior escalated at recess which resulted in physical aggression and property damage. While reviewing the video footage of the incident, I was concerned about safety when the student was left outside on the playground alone for over 30 minutes even though he has a history of elopement. School staff indicated they were watching from inside the building and the playground is surrounded by a fence; however, the student can climb over the fence if he wants.

The staff also failed to follow his BIP when he sat outside "criss cross applesauce" for over 10 minutes before anyone interacted with him even though his IEP states that he will be prompted after 2-5 minutes. In addition, there were four staff working with the student during the incident when the IEP specifically states that no more than two people should be involved because too many adults is a trigger for the student.

LEA Position

The LEA acknowledged that the student' BIP was not followed on May 7, 2025, based upon an internal review of the incident. The BIP required that a staff person prompt the student to use his safe space when he first begins to be overstimulated or dysregulated. On that date, the paraeducator assigned to work with the student during the literacy fair was in the room but not in close enough proximity to prompt the student when his behavior began to escalate. No disciplinary action was taken because staff were not in close enough proximity to intervene and support the student appropriately. The LEA reported that staff working with the student were re-trained regarding the requirements of the BIP and "what proximity looks like for the student".

However, the LEA reported the student's BIP was followed during the behavioral incident that occurred on September 30, 2025. The LEA reported that no more than two staff members were interacting with the student at any time during the playground incident but noted that those staff members changed at various points and that there was a staff member in the vicinity acting as a recorder. As a result of that incident, which involved physical aggression towards students and staff as well as property destruction, the student received two days of out-of-school suspension. The LEA noted that the IEP team was reconvened on October 2, 2025 to debrief regarding the incident and consider if any revisions to the IEP were needed. In addition, the LEA indicated that IEP team subsequently met two more times in October to review data and consider revisions to the student's IEP.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based upon interviews and record review.

1. The student's IEP, which includes the BIP, was not followed during the May 7, 2025 behavioral incident as acknowledged by the LEA
2. The February 20, 2024 IEP was in effect during the behavioral incident which occurred on September 30, 2025. The Crisis Intervention Plan is included as part of the BIP and states the following procedures should be followed for behavior which might result in suspension or expulsion:
   When it appears that the student is beginning to escalate, he will be prompted to go to the safe space in the classroom. If he chooses not to go to that space, he may use the safe space in the special education classroom. It is best to use minimal words and give him time. While the student is de-escalating, it is best to not offer things to him or interact with him until he is ready. After two minutes, the student can be distracted if he wants a snack, a break or to share a story. It is important for the adult to use a calm and quiet voice. If student needs an ISS setting it should be in a special education setting so his academics can be monitored. If the student's behaviors continue to escalate and he becomes physically aggressive toward the adults working with him or peers in the classroom, the student will be given time then when ready will process with an adult. If the student becomes physically aggressive a second time the same day after given time to calm and then process, he will be in the special education classroom for the remainder of the day for ISS. If the student becomes physically aggressive for the third time the same day, the student will serve OSS.

3. The February 20, 2024 IEP was amended on September 22, 2025 and the parent provided with PWN. Both documents reflect that a copy of the student's BIP, including the Crisis Plan, will be provided to all staff working with the student. The IEP team meeting notes from the September 22, 2025 IEP team meeting stated,
The team took out the old crisis plan that was still in the current IEP. It should have been removed when the annual IEP was written in February. We talked about disciplinary actions and the needs for ISS/OSS. That decision comes from the building principal. The behavior plan is written to encapsulate possible behaviors, but the crisis plan allows for principal discretion. The crisis plan addresses property destruction or physical aggression.
4. Neither the IEP amendment nor the PWN from the September 22, 2025 IEP team meeting includes a description of the updated Crisis Intervention Plan that replaces the "old crisis plan" which was included in the February 20, 2024 IEP.
5. The LEA's response to the allegations states that the key components of the BIP/Crisis Plan include a) staff notified to assist with deescalation strategies; b) no more than 2 staff working with him during the time he deescalates; and c) staff working with him will process the situation to determine readiness to return.
6. The Student Processing Sheet includes a description of the updated crisis intervention plan as follows:
    - Step 1: Sit Criss cross applesauce for 3 mins, silently and with a still body
    - Step 2: 1st non-academic task (breathing movement, cross body tapping, hitting basic hierarchy of needs, mantras to repeat, music/sounds, etc.)
    - Step 3: 2nd non-academic task
    - Step 4: 3rd non-academic task
    - Step 5: 1st academic task
    - Step 6: 2nd academic task
    - Step 7: Discussion (What happened / Severity / Three Strategies for Next Time)
7. The parent and all LEA staff who were interviewed were able to accurately describe the current crisis intervention plan as outlined in the LEA's response to the allegations and as described on the Student Processing Sheet.
8. The parent reported that there were four staff involved with the student on the video recording of the incident on the playground including the Roosevelt Elementary School Principal, the Third Grade Classroom Teacher, the McCSEC Behavior Consultant, and another staff member.

9. The interviews with the Roosevelt Elementary School Principal, the McCSEC Behavior Consultant, and the Third Grade Classroom Teacher found that these three staff were involved with intervening with the student during the playground incident on September 30, 2025. One staff member acted as the lead during the intervention and communicated with the student while the other staff member focused on the safety of the student, the staff, and peers. The Third Grade Classroom Teacher and the Roosevelt Elementary School Principal took turns in these roles during the first part of the incident. The McCSEC Behavior Consultant came to Roosevelt Elementary School in order to gather data for a functional behavioral assessment and, towards the end of the incident, she "tagged in" to allow the Third Grade Classroom Teacher to return to her classroom. Paraeducator 2 acted as the recorder during the 48-minute incident according to the Playground Incident document.
10. The Student's Processing Sheet reflects that the first four steps of the plan were implemented on the playground while the final three steps were completed in the special education classroom.
11. During their interviews, the Third Grade Teacher and the Roosevelt Elementary School Principal reported that the student sat "criss cross applesauce" for the 3-minute timeframe for several attempts but would then re-escalate when asked to follow a simple non-academic command to demonstrate he was "ready". After approximately 45 minutes of this calming/re-escalation cycle, the student was able to complete the first four steps in the process. At approximately 11:00 a.m., he transitioned to the special education classroom to complete the two simple academic tasks, eat lunch and process the incident. He continued to be dysregulated and was sent home around noon.
12. Information contained in the September 30, 2025 Behavior Incident Log, the September 30, 2025 Student Processing Sheet, and the September 30, 2025 Playground Incident documentation, which is a timeline of staff communication and observations, corroborates the information obtained in the staff interviews. These three documents were completed by Paraeducator 2, the Roosevelt Elementary School Principal, the Third Grade Classroom Teacher, and the McCSEC Behavior Consultant.

Conclusion

In this case, the LEA acknowledged that the student's IEP, including the BIP, was not implemented during the May 7, 2025 incident and correctly did not take any disciplinary action against the student because the behavior which was subject to the disciplinary action was a result of the IEP not being implemented. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT of compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) which require public agencies to ensure the student's IEP was implemented as written during the past 12 months. As such, corrective action is required.

The September 22, 2025 IEP amendment to the February 20, 2024 IEP was in effect when the behavioral incident occurred on September 30, 2025. The amendment and PWN both refer to an updated Crisis Intervention Plan but the plan is not written in either document. The IEP

Team Meeting Notes indicate the IEP team "took out the old crisis intervention plan that was still in the current IEP" but again, did not include any specific description of the updated plan. However, interviews found that staff working with the student were aware of the changes made to the crisis intervention plan. Based on the foregoing, the LEA is found OUT of compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(4)(i) for failing to develop a written document to amend the student's IEP, specifically the BIP, which includes a crisis intervention plan. As such, corrective action is required.

However, interviews and documentation related to the September 30, 2025 incident found that the LEA and the parent agreed on what should have been included in the BIP, which includes a crisis intervention plan. Interviews with the LEA staff involved in the incident showed that all were aware of the new plan. These interviews and three separate documents related to the behavioral incident showed the LEA staff had followed the agreed upon plan on September 30, 2025.

Issue Two

USD #418, in violation of state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), failed to follow appropriate disciplinary procedures when the student was suspended for greater than 10 days during the 2025-26 school year.

Applicable Law

Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.530 require specific procedures to be followed when a student with a disability or suspected of having a disability are subject to a disciplinary removal because of a violation of the student code of conduct.

Disciplinary removals are considered to be "short-term" when a student is removed from their educational placement for no more than 10 consecutive school days or no more than 10 cumulative school days during a school year. In these situations, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.530(b)(1) allow for a public agency to remove a student with a disability who violates a code of student conduct from the student's educational placement to another setting, including suspension, without providing any services.

However, when a student with a disability who has violated a code of student conduct has been removed from the student's educational placement for more than 10 cumulative days during a school year, federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.536(a) require the public agency to determine if a pattern of suspensions exists. The public agency must consider the length of each removal, the total amount of time removed, the proximity of removals to one another, and the similarity of the behaviors resulting in the removals when determining if a pattern exists. If the public agency determines that a pattern does not exist, a manifestation determination meeting is not required to be held but the public agency must provide services to enable the student to participate in the general education curriculum (although in another setting) and to progress toward meeting the goals in the IEP according to 34 C.F.R. 300.530(d)(4).

Disciplinary removals are considered to be "long-term" when a disciplinary change of placement occurs. Federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.536(a) define a disciplinary change of placement as occurring when a student's educational placement has been changed because of disciplinary action resulting from a violation of the student code of conduct for more than 10 consecutive school days or for more than 10 cumulative school days when a pattern exists. When a long-term suspension occurs, the public agency is required to conduct a manifestation determination meeting to determine if the behavior resulting in the disciplinary action is related to the student's disability as described in federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.530(c,d,e,f). In this situation, the public agency is also required to provide services to enable the student to participate in the general education curriculum (although in another setting) and to progress toward meeting the goals in the IEP.

Federal regulations at 34 CFR §300.530(f)(1) require that, if the LEA, the parent, and relevant members of the IEP Team make the determination that the conduct was a manifestation of the child's disability, the IEP Team must either conduct a functional behavioral assessment, unless the LEA had conducted a functional behavioral assessment before the behavior that resulted in the change of placement occurred, and implement a behavioral intervention plan for the child; or if a behavioral intervention plan already has been developed, review the behavioral intervention plan, and modify it, as necessary, to address the behavior.

Parent Position

The parent reported that the student has been suspended for a total of 12 school days during the 2025-26 school year and believes that the IDEA special discipline procedures should have been triggered. However, the parent indicated she was told that only the five days of out-of-school suspension "counted" and not the seven days of in-school suspension (ISS) because, during ISS, the student can continue to work in his general education curriculum, can continue to receive his special education accommodations, and can continue to interact with general education peers as normal. The parent stated the student serves ISS in the special education class, has a separate recess, eats lunch in the resource room, and does not interact with his classroom peers. The parent indicated she wants to clarify what counts toward the IDEA disciplinary procedures.

LEA Position

The LEA reported that the student was suspended out-of-school (OSS) for a total of five days during the 2025-26 school year. The LEA acknowledged that the student did not receive the special education services required by the IEP on those five days. The LEA also reported that the student has received in-school-suspension (ISS) for a total of seven days during the 2025-

26 school year but indicated that the student serves the ISS in the special education classroom through the "Teach & Protect" intervention model. The LEA believes that no special disciplinary procedures have been required because the student has not been long-term suspended for greater than 10 consecutive school days or greater than 10 cumulative school days when a pattern exists during this school year.

Analysis: Findings of Fact

The following findings of fact are based upon interviews and record review.

1. The student's attendance record for the 2025-26 school year shows the student was suspended out-of-school on the following dates: September 19, 24, 25, 30 and October 1, 2025.
2. The student's attendance record for the 2025-26 school year shows the student was in-school suspended on the following dates: September 4, 5, 22, 26, 29 and October 2 and 3, 2025.
3. During interviews with the Roosevelt Elementary School Principal, the Special Education Teacher, and the Third Grade Classroom Teacher, all three LEA staff reported using the "Teach & Protect" model for the student to serve any assigned ISS days. On these days, the student is assigned to the special education classroom with an LEA staff member who works directly with the student under the supervision of the special education teacher to provide support, implement the BIP, and provide the IEP accommodations. The Third Grade Teacher goes into the special education classroom during the school day to teach the general education concepts covered that day, as well as assign and check the student's homework and assignments. The student receives his required special education services as scheduled in the special education classroom.
4. The Roosevelt Elementary School Principal reported the student had the following opportunities to participate with peers when he is assigned to ISS using the Teach & Protect model:
    - Recess with general education peers
    - Lunch (if the student has been safe or are regulated)
    - Morning school assembly
    - If the team finds other times within his school day where he shows safe behavior, we have scheduled for him to participate in those general education activities as well
5. An email written by the Roosevelt Elementary School Principal to the parent on April 2, 2025 described the "Teach & Protect" concept as allowing students to stay in school rather than be suspended. This was a strategy learned at the Midwest Behavior Symposium that staff from Roosevelt Elementary School attended in February 2024 which has been shown to be successful to keep students both at school and safe. It is a proactive strategy to more intently teach and practice behavioral expectations for success.

6. The student's IEP dated February 20, 2024 and amended on September 22, 2025 requires the following special education services:
    - Special Education services in the special education setting:
        - 30 minutes per day of specialized instruction in math
        - 20 minutes per day of specialized instruction in social skills and self-regulation
        - 25-minutes once per week of social work
        - 15-minutes twice per week of occupational therapy (OT)
    - Special education support in the general education setting "in place during language arts, ~~math instruction~~, and to check for understanding throughout the day. This in-class support is to help keep him on task and focused"

Conclusion

The student was suspended OSS on a total of five cumulative days without receiving special education services during the 2025-26 school year. And the student was assigned ISS using the "Teach & Protect" model for seven cumulative days during the 2025 school year. The pertinent question is whether the seven cumulative days of ISS should be considered when determining if the student has been suspended greater than 10 cumulative days in a school year, which would have triggered the IDEA's discipline procedures.

Page 46715 of the Federal Register / Vol. 71, No. 156 / Monday, August 14, 2006 / Rules and Regulations states,

> The Department's long term policy that an in-school suspension would not be considered a part of the days of suspension addressed in § 300.530 as long as the child is afforded the opportunity to continue to appropriately participate in the general curriculum, continue to receive the services specified on the child's IEP, and continue to participate with nondisabled children to the extent they would have in their current placement.

Based upon the LEA staff descriptions of the student's ISS using the "Teach & Protect" model provided, it appears that the student was provided an opportunity to continue to participate in the general education curriculum when the Third Grade Teacher provided direct instruction and the accompanying schoolwork.

In addition, it appears that the student was provided with his special education services described in the September 22, 2025 amendment to the February 20, 2024 IEP when he received special education services for math and social skills / regulation from the Special Education Teacher as well as support from the assigned paraeducator to keep him focused and on-task with his general education assignments.

The LEA reported that the student was provided with the opportunity to join with peers throughout the school day during morning assembly and at recess, even though the peers may not have been his classmates. The student was also provided with the opportunity to join his peers at lunch and at other identified times during the school day when the student was displaying safe behavior or was regulated in order to safely participate in these activities. However, based on these opportunities, it appears the student spends much more than 50 minutes per day in the special education setting when serving ISS. So, while it appears this student did have some brief periods of time with nondisabled children, he did not continue to participate with nondisabled children to the extent he would have in his current placement as described in his IEP.

In this case, there is a preponderance of findings to determine that the student has received a total of 12 cumulative days of suspension during the 2025-26 school year and the LEA was required to follow the IDEA disciplinary procedures and determine if a pattern of suspensions exists when he was suspended greater than 10 days beginning on October 2, 2025.

Based on the foregoing, the LEA is determined to be OUT of compliance with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.536(a) which require that public agencies determine if a pattern of suspensions exists when a student has been suspended greater than 10 cumulative days in a school year. As such, corrective action is required.

Summary of Conclusions/Corrective Action

ISSUE ONE: Violations of federal regulations were found at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) and 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(4)(i). Corrective action is required as described below:

1. Within 15 days of the date of this report, the LEA will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.323(c)(2) which require public agencies to ensure students' IEPs will be implemented as written.
2. Within 15 days of the date of this report, the LEA will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.324(a)(4)(i) which require public agencies to develop a written document to amend the student's IEP.
3. Within 10 days of the date of this report, the LEA will provide the parent with a written description of the BIP, including the crisis intervention plan, developed at the September 22, 2025 IEP team meeting. If the parent determines this description is accurate, the LEA will include this description in the September 22, 2025 IEP amendment. However, if the parent determines this description is inaccurate, the LEA will reconvene the student's IEP team within 20 days of the parent's determination to review and revise the student's IEP, as appropriate. The LEA will provide SETS with a copy of the final version of the student's BIP, including the crisis plan no later than 45 days after the date of this report.

ISSUE TWO: A violation of 34 C.F.R. 300.536(a) was found. Corrective action is required as described below:

1. Within 15 days of the date of this report, the LEA will provide SETS with an assurance statement that it will comply with federal regulations at 34 C.F.R. 300.536(a) which require that public agencies determine if a pattern of suspensions exists when a student has been suspended greater than 10 cumulative days in a school year.

2. It is noted that the student has transferred to Lincoln Elementary School within USD #418. The LEA will notify administrators and special education staff working with the student of the findings of this report and the requirement to follow the IDEA special education disciplinary procedures for any future disciplinary actions. The LEA will provide SETS with a copy of the communication provided to the Lincoln Elementary School staff.
3. Within 30 days of the date of this report, the LEA will review and revise the procedures for implementing the "Teach & Protect" model of ISS to either provide students with the opportunities to participate with nondisabled peers to the extent each student would have in their current placement as described in their IEP or the LEA will continue to implement current model and count these days as OSS for the purpose of determining when a student with a disability has been suspended greater than 10 days in a school year for triggering IDEA disciplinary procedures. The LEA will update all building administrators in the district who use the "Teach & Protect" model of ISS of this determination and provide SETS with a copy of the notification no later than 45 days following the date of this report.

Background Information

This investigation involved a freshman student enrolled at Washburn Rural High School in USD #437. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with a disability per the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) in the category of Other Health Impairment (OHI). The Student has a one-to-one paraprofessional assigned for the duration of their school day and bus accommodations, which include adult supervision. The Student was in a foster placement with the Complainant until October 31, 2025.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Complainant and staff in the LEA.

1. An IEP dated October 24, 2024, included an amendment dated April 24, 2025, and described the following:
    a. Transition assessments were identified, and service descriptions were listed for August 11, 2025 through May 23, 2029.
    b. The following goals were listed:
        i. "When [the Student] is given a directive to follow by an adult or peer, [the Student] will be able to follow directions on the first request by not arguing, negotiating, or seeking an alternative response with adults or peers at 95% by the end of the IEP as measured by Anecdotal Records." [The Student] will be able to follow directions on the first request by not arguing, negotiating, or seeking an alternative response with adults or peers 95% of the time."
        ii. "When given a modified assignment or assessment, [the Student] will be able to complete the assignment or assessment on time with at least 80% accuracy at 90% of the time by [the] end of the IEP as measured by Anecdotal Records."
        iii. "When feeling dysregulated, [the Student] will be able to verbalize [their] feelings and ask for a break at 50% of the time by [the] end of the IEP as measured by Anecdotal Records."
        iv. "When eating breakfast or lunch, practicing self-care of hygiene, [the Student] will be able to demonstrate socially appropriate eating behaviors by practicing table manners, pacing [themself] during meals (eating slowly and steadily), using polite behaviors (e.g., saying 'please' and 'thank you,' chewing with [their] mouth closed, not talking with food in [their] mouth, wiping [their] face with a napkin), engaging in appropriate mealtime conversations, reducing the amount of food on [their] clothing and proper nose blowing at 4 out of 5 observed opportunities by the end of the IEP as measured by Anecdotal Records."
    c. The "Parent Input" section included concerns regarding the Student's lunch location and training for bus personnel regarding the Student's BIP.
    d. A BIP and PBS document dated October 30, 2023, was included in the IEP:
        i. The Student's problem behaviors were described as defiance (refusing directives, arguing, and attempting to manipulate situations) and being off-task (inappropriate peer talk, working on unrelated assignments, and misusing technology during instruction).
        ii. Behaviors occurred when given a "non-preferred" activity, leading to task avoidance.
        iii. The settings and antecedents described the Student's behaviors as most frequent during ELA, where their compliance with directives was lowest at 70%. They also showed slightly lower compliance in social studies and PBS (92.5% and 90%, respectively). Conversely, they exhibited high compliance (97.5%–100%) in art, science, math, an unknown course, and advisory.
        iv. The function of the Student's behavior was "to gain access to preferred activities and to avoid the task that is being asked of them."

v. The Student required instruction in replacement behaviors that addressed several lagging skills across three main categories: Attention and Working Memory, Emotion and Self-Regulation, and Cognitive and Flexibility Skills. Specifically, the Student struggled with tasks such as persisting with difficult activities, managing feelings of annoyance or disappointment, and coping with changes to routines or rules.

vi. Proactive Strategies to prevent the problem behavior included:

1. "Give [the Student] praise when [the Student] is on task and completes tasks/directives."
2. "When [the Student] is beginning to demonstrate behaviors that include non-compliance with adult tasks/directives, [they] will be given up to three prompts to get back on task."
3. "When [the Student] is not responding to the directives given by the adult, staff will respond by telling [the Student], 'This is a non-negotiable.'"
4. "[The Student] will use self-regulation strategies to resist peer pressure / self-directed inappropriate activities, such as continuing to argue."
5. "[The Student] will leave [their] classroom materials in each classroom needed for the subject and [they] will not bring any other supplies with [them]."
6. "Teachers will refrain from giving [the Student] school supplies, food (unless a class party), or any other items."
7. "When [the Student] needs access to technology, [they] will be monitored and [their] [one] on [one] para[professional] will keep & carry the computer until [they] need it. [They] [are] not to use technology unless it pertains directly to the classroom assigned."
8. "Once [the Student] [is] on the bus, [they] are not allowed to exit the bus until [they] have gotten to school or home."
9. "[The Student's] behavior will be documented on a behavior tracking sheet provided by the school."
10. "During the unstructured times and passing periods, teachers will be monitoring the environment and will wait until the teacher enters the room before [the Student] enters the room [sic]."
11. "[The Student] will be escorted to the bus at the end of the day for [the Student] to get there on time."
12. "When [the Student] is found stealing from the cafeteria, [the Student] will make restitution to the school for the item/s."
13. "[The Student] will check out with an adult at the end of the day to review [their] day."
14. "[The Student] will have direct social skills instruction."

15. "Staff will refrain from having any personal conversations or educationally relevant information with or around [the Student]."

vii. Reactive Strategies for staff for when the Student demonstrated "resistance" to working in class included:

1. "Working or completing a task/following a directive for the first time given."
2. "Taking a 5-minute break with a preferred list of activities, such as drawing, writing, or reading (this needs to be monitored to ensure it is school-appropriate after completion of the designated task required by the adult[)]."
3. "When refusing to work, arguing, or defying adult requests to comply with simple requests, [the Student] will be given up to three redirections."
4. "If still exhibiting the above-mentioned behaviors, [the Student] will be sent to a 'buddy room' or 'office.'"
5. "If [the Student] refuses to leave and/or argues with the adult a member of the mental health team or support staff will be notified to come and walk [the Student] to an alternate location."
6. "If the behavior is considered to be a major behavior and/or a chronic behavior, [the Student] will have an Office Discipline Referral written and have a phone call home."
7. "[The Student] will then spend time in an alternate setting for a designated time according to the behaviors exhibited."
8. "All of this will be documented on [the Student's] tracking sheet."

viii. Progress monitoring methods included "[d]aily data collection."

ix. Staff training procedures indicated, "Include necessary staff training in the IEP. Staff should be trained with positive behavior supports and other reinforcement systems in order to implement the BIP with fidelity. [The Student's] bus staff needs to be trained in [the Student's] morning routine and when to be released from the bus. Bus staff and [one] on [one] para[professional] need to be trained on [the Student's] expectations, accommodations for [the Student][,] and provided with a copy of the BIP. [The Student's] para[professional] will help facilitate when there is a sub[stitute] in the class. Adults will be trained in trauma[-]informed responses along with [their] specific diagnosis (Attention Deficit/Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD), Reactive Attachment Disorder (RAD), Oppositional Defiant Disorder (ODD), Other Specified Disruptive Impulse Control and Conduct Disorder associated with developmental disability, Generalized Anxiety Disorder (GAD)[)]. [The Complainant] needs some formal documentation that training has been completed in the event of a substitute para[professional] or teacher or any other staff who works with [the Student]."

e. The "Transportation" section indicated that special transportation was required to and from school and noted that the Student's behavior was unsafe to themselves and/or others on the bus. Options included fewer people aboard the bus and preferential seating. Additionally, support for transportation personnel indicated, "[The Student's] bus staff need to be trained in [the Student's] morning routine and when to be released from the bus. Bus staff and [one][-]on[-][one] para[professional] need to be trained on [the Student's] expectations, accommodations for [the Student] and provided with a copy of the BIP."

f. An IEP Amendment Between Annual IEP Meetings document dated April 24, 2025, indicated the description of proposed IEP changes as, "Currently, [the Student] has 20 minutes of social work twice a month. [The Complainant] has requested that social work services [be] dismissed from the current IEP. Social work goals # 1 and 3 will be serviced through the Positive Behavior Interventions (PBIS) class. All other services will remain the same." The Complainant "agreed to amend this student's IEP as described above," and did "… not wish to convene an IEP meeting" as indicated by check marks. The Complainant's consent was indicated by a digital signature on the "Educational Advocate" line.

g. A Request for Consent for Special Education Action dated April 24, 2025, was signed by the Complainant.

2. On September 19, 2025, the Teacher emailed the Complainant the Student's weekly grades and behavior report.
3. A Notice of Meeting dated September 26, 2025, for an annual IEP meeting scheduled on October 22, 2025, was signed by the Complainant on September 30, 2025, which indicated they planned on attending.
4. A Progress Report dated October 8, 2025, indicated "Progress [was] adequate to meet annual goal" for all four IEP goals.
5. On October 9, 2025, the Teacher emailed the Complainant regarding an Unknown Person who emailed wanting to "connect." The Teacher confirmed they had not disclosed any information and informed the Complainant a "signed release" would be needed. The Complainant responded with "Yes, that should be fine." And requested they be included in all communication.
6. In an email exchange from October 10 through 13, 2025, the Parent, Assistant Principal, and Teacher discussed support and communication strategies for the Student. The Complainant inquired about the Student's IEP execution, participation in class parties, and positive behavior supports. The Assistant Principal suggested all communication go through the Teacher to "streamline" it.
   Additionally, the Teacher confirmed while at the party, "… "[the Student] had [three] cookies, no chips, and did have a Dr. Pepper to drink." The Teacher inquired about the Complainant wanting to meet prior to the IEP meeting and requested the Assistant Principal be a part of the meeting.

7. On October 16, 2025, the Director of Secondary Special Services emailed the Complainant and inquired about the approaching IEP meeting to verify the legal representation for the Student, so they could properly plan for the meeting. Additionally, on October 16, 2025, the Director of Secondary Special Services emailed the Complainant with an attached IEP progress report, grades, and behavior data. The attachments indicated the following relevant information:
    a. Behavior data dated October 13-15, 2025, for periods 1 - 7 for the behaviors of "attendance, argue, avoid task, profanity, and provoke."
    b. Grades denoted: PBS - A, Jewelry Making - A, JROTC - A, Advisory - "No concerns noted at this time," World History - A, Biology - C, English 9 - A, and Math - A.
    c. A Progress Report dated October 8, 2025, indicated "adequate" progress towards four IEP goals.
8. In an email exchange on October 14 through 17, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Teacher and Vice Principal and formally requested a new paraeducator be assigned to the Student, along with a formal request to meet prior to the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting.
   The Director of Secondary Special Services answered the Complainant and confirmed there would not be a change in the appointment of the paraprofessional as the Student had "made measurable progress, as reflected in [their] IEP goal quarterly progress reports … ." They also directed that if the Complainant had any queries, they should come to them directly, and they would provide a response.
9. On October 20, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Teacher to request soft food accommodations, specifically "something soft like a parfait," because the Student had undergone wisdom tooth removal.
   Additionally, on October 20, 2025, the Assistant Principal emailed the Director of Special Services Elementary, confirming Food Services had been informed of the soft food request by the Complainant and to inform the Complainant.
10. On October 21, 2025, the Director of Special Services Elementary emailed the Complainant to acknowledge they had " … connected with the school, and they confirmed that they are currently providing a parfait without granola for breakfast and selecting the softest available options for lunch to support [the Student] during [their] wisdom teeth removal recovery." The Director of Special Services Elementary then asked how long the Complainant would like the meal accommodations to continue.
11. On October 22, 2025, at 5:16 a.m., the Director of Secondary Special Services emailed the Complainant a "draft copy" of the Student's IEP for their evaluation.
12. IEP Meeting Notes for the Student dated October 22, 2025, listed the IEP team members present and indicated the meeting was held virtually. The Complainant requested the meeting be recorded, and the LEA agreed. The Complainant then shared they did not feel "prepared," and the IEP team offered to reschedule, choosing instead to address questions regarding the currently implemented IEP. The Student's current IEP was sent to both the Complainant and Witness 1 through email. The Student's post-surgery food accommodations were confirmed. The Complainant then made a statement about Hawaii and used obscene language. The High School Associate Principal asked if they were "okay" and ended the meeting.

13. An IEP Team Meeting Participants document dated October 22, 2025, indicated the following participants at the IEP meeting:
    a. General Education Teacher
    b. Special Education Provider
    c. LEA Representative
    d. The Complainant
    e. Witness 1
    f. Director of Elementary Special Services
    g. The High School Associate Principal
    h. Speech-Language Pathologist
    i. General Education Teacher
    j. Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps Instructor
14. The Student Bus Incident Statement dated October 22, 2025, indicated the Student engaged with the Bus Paraprofessional regarding sarcasm and male bus drivers. The Student stated they felt "targeted."
15. Behavior Tracking Sheets for the Student, dated September 8, 2025, through October 31, 2025, indicated daily tracking across class periods for the following behaviors: "Attendance, Argue, Avoid task, Profanity, Provoke," with a "Yes/No" to indicate whether the desired behavior was achieved.
16. On October 30, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Assistant Principal and other LEA recipients requesting all educational records related to the Student and the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting.
17. On October 31, 2025, the Director of Secondary Special Services received an email from the Education Advocate Program Director stating they found an advocate for the Student, and they cancelled the educational advocacy status of the Complainant dated that day.
18. Health Office Visit Reports for the 2025-26 school year indicated daily medical input for the Student starting on August 12, 2025 through October 30, 3025. The comments stated the following regarding post-surgery needs:
    a. "[The Student] enter[ed] [the] health room and voice[d] 'I have a suture string handing [sic] in my mouth.' Let [the Student] know that this nurse would not be able to cut the stitch and also not be able to contact [the Complainant] per administration[']s orders. Informed [the Student] to let [the Complainant] know when [they] get home from school. [The Student] voic[ed] 'Okay'[.]"
    b. "[The Student] quickly returns and shares 'I am tasting blood in my mouth.' This nurse looked with pen light and did not see any blood. [The Student] share[d] that [they] had [their] wisdom teeth out last weekend. [The Student] voice[d] 'I feel like I can taste blood.' Reassured [the Student] that at this time this nurse does not see any blood on the upper or lower right side of [their] gum/teeth."

c. "[The Student] brought into office by [their] paraprofessional, [the Paraprofessional]. Administered scheduled medication and monitored for compliance."

19. An undated Consent for Release to Third Party document indicated the LEA had no record of the prior written consent from the Complainant because "no release was necessary." The LEA stated the audio recording was not "released" or "shared" with any third-party entities or individuals, only accessed by LEA personnel and by the LEA's legal counsel "acting in official capacity on behalf of the LEA."
20. An undated Recording Communication document specified the steps taken by the LEA after the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting. The LEA "reiterated that all discussion of the meeting should remain confidential." The recording of the meeting was given to the Board Clerk for the "purpose of transcription," and "No written correspondence regarding the recording was generated or exchanged."
21. IEP Meeting Transcription with no date indicated Speaker Nine as the Complainant. The Complainant at minute 09:01 shared, "I would like this on the record that during this meeting, [Unknown Person] told me that [they] met me through my student, [Unknown Student]. And I do not have a student named [Unknown Student].

Complainant Interview

22. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Complainant stated they filed the complaint.
23. The Complainant described requesting accommodations for the Student because of oral surgery to remove the Student's wisdom teeth. The Complainant stated they emailed the School and sent a follow-up, but the LEA did not respond. The Complainant explained the LEA couldn't answer due to the communication plan, adding staff had been instructed "not to have any type of communication" with the Complainant. The Complainant said during the IEP meeting, the Director of Elementary Special Services asked whether they had received their email response. The Complainant indicated they did not receive the email because they "had tons of emails." The Director of Elementary Special Services asked the Complainant how long they had requested the accommodations to remain in place.
24. The Complainant stated that the accommodations included having the Student eat only soft foods and avoiding anything sharp that could "poke at the incisions." The Director of Elementary Special Services said they had followed the plan by providing the Student with a parfait without granola and soft foods. The Complainant stated the Student reported being served food they were unable to eat, and they felt there was a "discrepancy" between what the Student was reporting and what the LEA was reporting. The Complainant asked the Director of Elementary Special Services to confirm what the Student was eating, and the Director of Elementary Special Services responded they would check with staff. The Complainant stated they wanted the Director to respond, not the staff, since that was in the communication plan. The Complainant stated they were unable to fact-check due to communication restrictions with the IEP team.

The Complainant recalled the Student saying they were served crispitos, beans, chicken nuggets, hard rolls, raw broccoli, carrots, cauliflower, and cucumbers. The Complainant stated after the October 22, [2025] IEP meeting, they received emails regarding the Student going to the nurse because they thought they had blood in their mouth and thought their stitches were coming out.

25. The Complainant stated when they asked the LEA for the Student's records so they could review them, the LEA "refused to acknowledge their request" and did not provide documentation. The Complainant confirmed they emailed a request for a meeting, and the LEA did not set up a meeting. They added they had been requesting a meeting since before the communication plan began.
26. The Complainant described asking for the IEP meeting on October 22 [2025] to be recorded because they had "caught the district in so many different lies." The Complainant recalled the LEA stating they were unable to do a video recording because it wasn't working, and the LEA asked if it was okay to do an audio recording instead. The Complainant agreed.
27. The Director of Elementary Special Services asked the Complainant whether they'd received the draft IEP sent at 5:30 a.m. that morning. The Complainant stated they hadn't and expressed concern they were reviewing a new IEP when the Complainant had wanted to discuss the current IEP. They reiterated they had requested a meeting to review the current IEP and stated the Director of Secondary Special Services had never scheduled it. The Complainant stated the Director of Secondary Special Services responded to the Complainant's requests about replacing the Paraeducator who worked with the Student, but did not schedule the IEP review meeting.
28. The Complainant stated they were not prepared to discuss changes made to the IEP and noted the Director of Secondary Special Services offered to reschedule the meeting and review the current IEP instead. The Complainant recalled the Director of Secondary Special Services emailing a copy of the current IEP to them.
    The Complainant stated while they were waiting for the email, they began to have a "medical condition." The Complainant noted the team "disconnected" from the meeting. The Complainant reported the LEA had "released" the audio of them in "medical distress" to the DCF [Department for Children and Families] and told them the Complainant was "abusive, that the kids were in imminent danger, and that it was a safety risk."
    The Complainant stated they did not provide the LEA a release for them to provide the agency with the audio of the meeting. The Complainant disagreed that they were a risk to the kids and added the school shouldn't have released the students at the end of the day if they felt they were in "imminent" danger. The Complainant described the LEA's actions as "retaliation," adding they "didn't have the authority to release a [sic] protected information."
29. The Complainant described that the Student "felt targeted" by one of the paraeducators on the bus and added that the paraeducator "always picks on [the Student]."

Additionally, the other children shared the Student felt the paraeducator thought the Student was "sexist" because the Student treated the male bus driver better than the female bus driver. The Complainant stated, because of this situation, the Paraeducator and bus drivers were not following the Student's BIP or IEP.

30. The Complainant mentioned the progress reports for the Student had been completed by the Director of Secondary Special Services and stated the Director didn't provide "direct services" and was not involved with the IEP. The Complainant stated the data provided did not align with the Student's annual goals and indicated there was no data collection measuring the Student's goal regarding breakfast and lunch manners.
31. The Complainant asserted the IEP team was only tracking attendance, arguing, avoiding tasks, profanity, and provoking behaviors. They indicated the Student's self-regulation goals were not addressed. The Complainant clarified the tracking tool did not have anecdotal data to measure the Student's goals.
32. According to the Complainant, the Student said the Paraprofessional had given the Student answers to the safety test in their jewelry-making class, and the Student had reported they did not know the answers. According to the Complainant, the Paraprofessional had access to the Student's "portal." The Complainant stated they had received an email after the IEP meeting from the Director of Elementary Special Services that the Student had been injured in their jewelry-making class and had to be treated by the nurse.

Witness 1 Interview

33. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, Witness 1 shared they know the Complainant and the Student outside of school, and added, the Complainant "tells me things." They were requested to be a "witness" for "…some things that were not being done in [the Student's] IEP."
34. Witness 1 described the "things" the Complainant claimed were not being completed from the Student's IEP as, Witness 1 not being the paraprofessional at the High School for the Student, work not being modified, and no communication between staff and the Complainant. They stated, "Teachers are not following them" regarding IEPs.
35. Witness 1 stated that the Complainant received an email from the Director of Secondary Special Services indicating all communication would go through the Director of Secondary Special Services. Witness 1 shared the teachers and IEP manager would not respond to the Parent, the Director of Secondary Special Services would be the one to do so.
36. Witness 1 was unaware of the Student's progress monitoring.
37. Witness 1 recalled during the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting, they were asked to give their input on how best to serve the Student. They recollected the Teacher, Assistant Principal, PBS Teacher, as well as "another school principal," were in attendance.

Assistant Principal Interview

38. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Assistant Principal was joined by the Director of Secondary Special Services.
39. The Assistant Principal and the Director of Secondary Special Services stated they were not aware of the document the Student had written after riding the bus on October 22, [2025]. The Assistant Principal stated the document had not been shared with them, and therefore, it did not get shared with the Director of Secondary Special Services.
40. The Assistant Principal stated the Paraprofessional was assigned to the Student "from day one of the school year" and had not changed. They shared the Student had a different paraprofessional in middle school who "wouldn't have followed" the Student into high school.
41. The Assistant Principal and the Director of Secondary Special Services recalled the staff who attended the IEP meeting in late October as the Assistant Principal, the Special Education Teacher, General Education Teacher 3, the Director of Elementary Special Services, the JROTC Instructor, the PBS Teacher, the Complainant, Witness 1, General Education Teacher 1, General Education Teacher 2, and the Associate Principal.
42. The Assistant Principal explained the IEP meeting was held virtually, with some teachers and the Complainant on their computers, and other teachers in the room with the Assistant Principal. They added Witness 1 participated via phone. They stated all virtual teachers had their cameras on.
    The Assistant Principal stated General Education Teacher 1 had shared how the Student was doing and then had to leave the meeting. They added the JROTC Instructor asked to step out at the "very end" of the meeting to get information to their class. The Director of Secondary Special Services recalled General Education Teacher 2 stayed the whole time. The Assistant Principal said it was typical for teachers to move in and out of the meeting to provide feedback. The Assistant Principal confirmed there were no individuals at the IEP meeting who were not supposed to be there.
43. The Assistant Principal recalled an email dated October 30, [2025], from the Complainant requesting records. The Assistant Principal stated they believed the records request was filled, but added, since it wasn't their role to complete it, they couldn't say for sure that it had been done.
44. The Assistant Principal stated they were not aware of anything being released to DCFS.

Special Education Teacher Interview

45. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Special Education Teacher was joined by the Director of Secondary Special Services.
46. The Director of Secondary Special Services discussed an email from KVC Kansas stating someone from that organization reached out with some questions. The Special Education Teacher added the Complainant requested to be "kept in the loop" and that the worker from KVC had said they had the right to speak with "[the Student]." The Special Education Teacher recalled it was regarding putting the Student on a list for adoption.

47. The Director of Secondary Special Services clarified the agency was reaching out with "vague" questions. The Director stated they directed staff to stop communicating with the agency because they did not have a release of information for them.
48. The Special Education Teacher described behavioral checklists used to track the Student's progress in attendance, whether they argued, avoided tasks, used profanity, or provoked others. The Special Education Teacher stated the checklists were completed daily by the Paraprofessional and sent home so the Complainant could see the documentation.
49. The Special Education teacher confirmed they completed the Student's October 8, [2025] progress reports with collaboration from the PBS Teacher. They noted the data used to complete the progress reports came from the daily behavior checklists. The Special Education Teacher stated the behavior checklists were not formalized grades. The Special Education Teacher explained the Director of Secondary Special Services sent the progress reports to the Complainant because of the communication plan, which required communication to come from a single person. The Special Education Teacher stated, before the plan and with other students, they emailed progress reports themself to parents. The Special Education Teacher confirmed they emailed it unless a parent specifically asked for something different, such as printing and mailing it home. They stated they did not recall the Complainant had asked for a printed copy of the progress report.
50. The Special Education Teacher stated they were notified at 7:16 a.m. the day after the Student had dental surgery that the Student would need "soft foods" beginning that day. They shared they contacted the cafeteria and let the Complainant know they would take care of it. The Special Education Teacher confirmed the accommodations for soft food were not formally added to the Student's IEP.
51. The Special Education Teacher confirmed the Paraeducator was aware of the Student's accommodations. They added they met with the Paraeducator in the morning and at the end of each day to discuss the implementation of the IEP. The Special Education Teacher noted they emailed the Student's accommodations to general education teachers at the end of September when they became the case manager. The Director of Secondary Special Services explained general education teachers got emailed copies of IEP accommodations and could request a printed copy at any time.
52. The Special Education Teacher stated they tried to have an IEP meeting with the Complainant in October, but were unable to have the meeting because the Complainant became "erratic." The Special Education Teacher recalled the Assistant Principal, the Associate Principal, the PBS Teacher, and General Education Teacher 3 attended the meeting. They added the JROTC Instructor was also in attendance. The Special Education Teacher noted the team makeup was typical for an IEP meeting. The Director of Secondary Special Services indicated there was additional administrator attendance to support staff due to the Complainant sending "threatening emails and communication."

The Special Education Teacher was not aware of any teachers who were formally excused from the IEP meeting. The Director of Secondary Special Services confirmed no teachers were excused other than the JROTC Instructor, who left for a moment to check on their class. They added it was while the JROTC instructor was attempting to leave that the Complainant became "extremely disregulated."

53. The Special Education Teacher declared the Complainant never requested any meetings with them. They added the Complainant wanted to meet before the IEP meeting, "just to sit down and visit about [the Student] but stated it never happened. The Director of Secondary Special Services recalled the Complainant had reached out the week before the IEP meeting requesting to meet, to which the Director of Secondary Special Services agreed, but stated the Complainant never responded.
54. The Special Education Teacher could not recall the Complainant requesting records, and they were unaware of any records that were released to DCF.

Director of Secondary Special Services Interview

55. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Director of Secondary Special Services stated their role with the LEA.
56. The Director of Secondary Special Services described their role in sending out documents to the Complainant. They stated it began after the communication plan was implemented. They explained the plan reduced the volume of communication with staff, eliminated communication with outside agencies without releasing information documents, and ensured there was one point of contact after the Complainant involved legal counsel.

    The Director of Secondary Special Services stated their role in the communication plan was established because of their knowledge of special education. They explained it was the team's collaborative decision to assign them to "protect the team" from threats they were receiving and to be the main point of contact for the legal counsel. They noted the team consisted of the Executive Director of Learning Services, the Superintendent, the LEA's legal counsel, and the principal of the high school.

    The Director of Secondary Special Services explained when the Special Education Teacher took over as case manager, they realized the Complainant needed "a lot more communication" and created a system to email the Complainant every two weeks with behavior data for the Student. The Director of Secondary Special Services took over that role when the communication plan began.
57. The Director of Secondary Special Services stated they did not receive a response regarding an email sent on October 16, [2025]. They recalled trying to determine if the Complainant was going to bring counsel for the Student, so the LEA could also plan to have counsel attend the meeting. They stated the Complainant never responded, and their legal counsel did not join the October 22, 2025, meeting, so the LEA did not have their legal counsel join either.

58. The Director of Secondary Special Services described over the past year, they repeatedly agreed with the Complainant even when the team felt it was "not in the best interest of the student." The Director of Secondary Special Services added they began working with the team to determine what the Student needed and stated if something was "unnecessary" and they had data to prove it, they would refuse the request and would continue to work "collaboratively" with the Complainant.
    The Director of Secondary Special Services stated the Complainant only reached out when they were upset and added it was not collaborative. They shared the Complainant had refused mediation opportunities and clarified the Complainant prefers to communicate via email. The Director of Secondary Special Services reported the formal complaints began in September [2025] and described being "quite involved" since then.
59. The Director of Secondary Special Services shared the Complainant continued to reach out to staff members and added staff forwarded the Complainant's emails. The Director of Secondary Special Services stated they worked directly with staff to figure out an appropriate response and what information they might need to be able to respond. The Director of Secondary Special Services noted Complainant 2 communicated more since the October 22, [2025] IEP meeting.
60. The Director of Secondary Special Services described being forwarded a records request from the Complainant. They shared the communication plan had already been established when the request was received. The Director of Secondary Special Services explained they were uncomfortable sending anything because they had been made aware the "educational advocacy component" was being terminated for the Complainant. They added they had knowledge the Student had been removed from the home for a week as of the date of the record request. The Director of Secondary Special Services confirmed they did not send anything to the Complainant after the request was made.
61. The Director of Secondary Special Services stated they had no knowledge of records being released to DCF. They stated they communicated with KVC, which was the foster agency they had a release of information with, while gathering information on the Student's living arrangements. They confirmed they never had a conversation with bus staff regarding an incident on October 22, [2025].
62. The Director of Secondary Special Services shared they had listened to the audio-recorded IEP meeting from October 22, [2025]. The Director of Secondary Special Services recalled the Complainant asking all staff to state their name and describe how they were connected to the Student. They shared a teacher describing meeting the Complainant at "[a student's] meeting." The Director of Secondary Special Services noted the teacher did not use a last name or other "identifiable information" and was "simply making a connection" with the Complainant that they had met before.
63. The Director of Secondary Special Services indicated the Paraprofessional who worked with the Student at the middle school was not the same as the one who was working with the Student at the high school. They clarified although staff changed, the Student's IEP services remained the same. The Director of Secondary Special Services clarified it was not consistent with the "regulation" to send a PWN when staffing changes occur. The Director of Secondary Special Services explained the Complainant would have been notified of the staffing changes either at the end of the school year in June or in August, before school started back up. They added the Student's previous case manager was the staff member most likely to share the information.

Bus Paraprofessional Interview

64. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Bus Paraprofessional was joined by the Director of Secondary Special Services.
65. The Bus Paraprofessional stated they were not assigned to the Student on the bus. They explained the Student sat on the other side of the bus, and the Bus Paraprofessional sat with a different student. The Bus Paraprofessional described having assigned seating on the bus.
66. The Bus Paraprofessional stated they were unable to recall an incident or conversation on the bus from October 22 or 23, [2025] and added they do not typically interact with the Student. The Bus Paraprofessional clarified they try to stay quiet because when they talk, it "adds more volume to the bus" and encourages other students to talk.
67. The Bus Paraprofessional indicated they were aware of the Student's IEP and BIP accommodations and had access to them through their school email on their school laptop. They stated they were aware of the measures they are supposed to take, the topics to avoid, and the redirection instructions.

Paraprofessional Interview

68. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Paraprofessional was joined by the Director of Secondary Special Services.
69. The Paraprofessional described tracking the Student's behavior and stated that the Student was "a good kid" who self-regulated and "rarely" acted out. The Paraprofessional noted they document what the Student does throughout their day and added they support the Student for the entire day. The Paraprofessional clarified they are with the Student from the time they get out of a vehicle until they get back into a vehicle. They clarified they don't support the Student on the bus.
70. The Paraprofessional indicated they saved the behavior data at the end of the day and gave it to either the PBS Teacher or the Special Education Teacher, and added they were not sure what happened to it after that. They shared they met with the PBS Teacher "every morning" and met with the Special Education Teacher in the afternoons to discuss the Student's behavior.
71. The Paraprofessional reported the Student told them "once or twice" about the oral surgery. They stated they were aware the Student needed soft foods, but were not told when that expectation changed, adding the staff "just started giving [the Student] hard foods." The Paraprofessional noted the Student would get something they didn't like, but it was still a soft food.

PBS Teacher Interview

72. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the PBS Teacher was joined by the Director of Secondary Special Services.
73. The PBS Teacher described implementing the Student's BIP while in the PBS room. They stated the Student had a one-on-one support for their entire school day. The PBS Teacher noted when the Student argued, they gave the Student a directive about the situation being "non-negotiable." Additionally, the PBS Teacher shared the Student was not allowed to have any extra supplies other than just what was needed for the task. The Student did not have access to a Chromebook. If the Student was dysregulated, they were to be brought down to the PBS room to de-escalate for 5 to 10 minutes.
    The PBS Teacher shared when the Student became escalated, they questioned their situation, for example, why they couldn't have a Chromebook when the rest of the class could. They added the Student was "typically pretty calm" and smart, and added, de-escalation techniques focused on collaborative problem solving, the issue and finding a way to meet in the middle. The PBS Teacher reported the Student typically asked to come down when they were frustrated and didn't need to be told to go to the PBS room to de-escalate.
    The PBS Teacher noted the Student had come to the PBS room three times during the current school year to de-escalate. They recalled the Student stayed less than ten minutes before being able to return to class.
74. The PBS Teacher described the Student's accommodations as "centered around [their] one-to-one." They stated the one-to-one helped the Student wandering the halls, picking up things, and trying to trade them with other students. They explained many of the accommodations were solved by having an adult next to them continuously.
75. The PBS Teacher stated they talk with the Paraeducator "quite a bit" to get feedback on how the Student is doing in their classes, and then will talk to the general education teacher about accommodations, if there was an issue in class. The PBS Teacher recalled the Student's general education teachers received a "debrief" of the IEP and BIP at the beginning of the year. If they have questions after that, they would email the PBS Teacher or have an in-person conversation about accommodations.
76. The PBS Teacher explained when they received notice the Student needed soft foods, the kitchen staff brought yogurt to the PBS room within ten minutes so the Student would have immediate access to it. They added the kitchen staff forgot to cancel the Student's normal food order that first day, and it was delivered. The PBS teacher recalled telling the Student not to eat the regular food and to only eat the soft foods that were provided. They added the Student did not eat the regular food and stated it only happened that first day. They stated the Student ate soft foods for "roughly two weeks."
77. The PBS Teacher described the IEP meeting in late October as a hybrid meeting with some teachers in person, with other teachers and the Complainant participating virtually. They shared when the meeting started, the Complainant did not want to talk about "the future" or the new IEP and amendments the team wanted to make. The PBS

Teacher stated the Complainant wanted to talk about "historical events." They shared the meeting was "off track" from the start.

78. The PBS Teacher reported a teacher had asked to be excused to check on their class when the Complainant made a comment about "going to Hawaii" and something about "God." They described the Assistant Principal asking the Complainant if they were "okay." The PBS Teacher stated the Complainant "used some profanities" and yelled at the Assistant Principal, at which point they ended the meeting. The PBS Teacher stated the IEP meeting had not been reconvened because the Student was assigned a new educational advocate.

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, implemented the IEP as written, including the Student's post-surgery medical supports, BIP, and accommodations, including one-to-one paraprofessional support. Additionally, whether USD #437 properly trained the assigned paraeducator on the contents of the IEP and their responsibilities for implementation. K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3-5); 34 CFR § 300.323(a)(d).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16(b)(3-5), an IEP must be in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year. The child's IEP must be accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service provider who is responsible for its implementation.

Each teacher and provider must be informed of that individual's specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP, and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to implement the Student's IEP accommodations and post-surgery medical supports. Additionally, the Complainant alleged that on October 22, 2025, LEA staff engaged the Student in inappropriate conversations on the bus that violated their BIP. Finally, the Complainant alleged the LEA did not follow the Student's IEP as written and failed to properly train their assigned paraeducator regarding the provision of one-to-one paraprofessional support for transitions and supervision required by the IEP.

The LEA responded the Student's oral surgery was reported on Monday, October 20, 2025. The procedure and subsequent dietary needs were not related to the Student's IEP. Nevertheless, the team implemented the requested dietary changes immediately to ensure the Student's comfort and safety, even though the request fell outside the IEP's scope. The IEP team has consistently implemented the IEP as written.

Facts indicated the Student's post-surgery accommodations were not formally included in the IEP and therefore were not covered under the IDEA and Kansas state regulations. However, information provided indicated the Student was provided soft foods consistently for the duration of two weeks immediately following the oral surgery.

The IEP's staff training procedures indicated the one-on-one paraprofessional and bus staff needed to be trained on the Student's expectations, accommodations, and provided a copy of the BIP. The Paraprofessional and Bus Paraprofessional both confirmed they were aware of the IEP/BIP contents and accommodations. The Special Education Teacher also confirmed meeting with the Paraprofessional daily. Staff indicated they were unaware of an incident that occurred on the bus on October 22, 2025 and no reports were made.

According to the facts, the PBS Teacher described implementing the BIP, including the "non-negotiable" directive on arguments, restricted access to supplies, and one-on-one support. The Student utilized the PBS room for de-escalation three times and typically asked to go themselves. Behavior Tracking Sheets were used daily from September 8 to October 31, 2025, tracking "attendance, argue, avoid task, profanity, and provoke."

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to implement the IEP as written, including the Student's post-surgery medical supports, BIP, and accommodations, including one-to-one paraprofessional support. Additionally, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to properly train the assigned paraeducator on the contents of the IEP and their responsibilities for implementation.

Issue Two

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, included or appropriately excused all required members of the IEP team for the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting. K.A.R 91-40-17(h)(i), K.A.R. 91-40-19(a); 34 CFR § 300.321(a)(e).

According to K.A.R 91-40-17(h)(i), a regular education teacher of an exceptional child, as a member of an IEP team, shall participate to the extent appropriate in the development, review, and revision of the child's IEP. This participation shall include assisting in determining the appropriate positive behavioral interventions and strategies for the child, the supplementary aids and services needed by the child, and the program modifications or supports for school personnel that will be provided to assist the child. If qualified to do so, an agency member of the IEP team may serve in the role of two or more required members of a child's IEP team.

According to 34 CFR § 300.321(a)(e), the public agency must ensure that the IEP team for each child with a disability includes the parents of the child, not less than one regular education teacher of the child (if the child is, or may be, participating in the regular education environment), not less than one special education teacher of the child, or where appropriate, not less than one special education provider of the child, and a representative of the public agency who is qualified to provide, or supervise the provision of, specially designed instruction to meet the unique needs of children with disabilities, and is knowledgeable about the general education curriculum, and is knowledgeable about the availability of resources of the public agency. The team must also include an individual who can interpret the instructional implications of evaluation results. This may be a member of the team described above.

At the discretion of the parent or the agency, other individuals who have knowledge or special expertise regarding the child may be included, such as related services personnel as appropriate, and whenever appropriate, the child with a disability.

A member of the IEP Team is not required to attend an IEP Team meeting, in whole or in part, if the parent of a child with a disability and the public agency agree, in writing, that the attendance of the member is not necessary because the member's area of the curriculum or related services is not being modified or discussed in the meeting. A member of the IEP Team may be excused from attending an IEP Team meeting, in whole or in part, when the meeting involves a modification to or discussion of the member's area of the curriculum or related services, if the parent, in writing, and the public agency consent to the excusal, and the member submits, in writing to the parent and the IEP Team, input into the development of the IEP prior to the meeting.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to ensure all required IEP team members were present for the October 22, 2025, meeting.

The LEA responded all required IEP Team members were present at the October 22, 2025, annual IEP meeting.

The IEP Team Meeting Participants document for the October 22, 2025, meeting listed the following in attendance: General Education Teacher (2 listed), Special Education Provider, LEA Representative, The Complainant, Witness 1, Director of Elementary Special Services, High School Associate Principal, Speech-Language Pathologist, and Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps Instructor (JROTC). The Assistant Principal recalled one General Education Teacher sharing input and leaving, and the JROTC Instructor asking to step out at the end of the meeting. At least one general education teacher and all other required participants attended the entire IEP meeting. Additionally, it was noted the IEP meeting was ended before completion, and the IEP was not discussed per the Complainant's request.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to include or appropriately excuse any required members of the IEP team for the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting.

Issue Three

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided progress monitoring information as required. K.S.A. 72-3429(c)(3); 34 CFR § 300.320(a)(3).

According to K.S.A. 72-3429(c)(3), an IEP must include a description of how the child's progress toward meeting the annual goals will be measured and when periodic reports on the progress the child is making toward meeting the annual goals will be provided, such as through the use of quarterly or other periodic reports issued concurrently with general education report cards.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to provide accurate and complete progress-monitoring data and issued reports from personnel who did not directly serve the Student.

The LEA Response indicated progress reports were emailed to the Complainant on October 16, 2025. Prior progress reports were provided on May 21, 2025, March 13, 2025, and December 23, 2024, consistent with district and state policy requiring reports each academic quarter. The IEP does not require more frequent reporting, and any other information that needed to be provided to the Complainant was provided.

Progress monitoring methods included "Daily data collection." The four goals in the IEP were to be measured by "Anecdotal Records." The Teacher emailed the Complainant the Student's weekly grades and behavior report on September 19, 2025. A formal Progress Report dated October 8, 2025, indicated "Progress [was] adequate to meet annual goal" for all four IEP goals. This report was emailed to the Complainant on October 16, 2025, along with grades and behavior data. The Special Education Teacher confirmed collaborating with the PBS Teacher to complete the October 8, 2025, progress reports using the daily behavior checklists.

Behavior Tracking Sheets were collected daily, tracking "attendance, argue, avoid task, profanity, provoke." The Complainant alleged the tracking tool lacked anecdotal data to measure all goals, specifically the breakfast and lunch manners goal. The Special Education Teacher confirmed the daily behavior checklists were used for the progress reports. Although the LEA did not provide data-collection sheets regarding the Student's goal around manners while eating, the Special Education Teacher provided anecdotal data for the goal on the Student's progress reports, which meets the reporting requirement.

Based on the foregoing, and in accordance with the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to provide progress monitoring information as required.

Issue Four

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided adequate notice for the October 22, 2025 IEP meeting and afforded the Complainant the opportunity to participate. K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b)(1), K.A.R. 91-40-25(a)(2)(b)(c); 34 CFR § 300.322(a)(b).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-17(a)(b)(1), each agency shall take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each IEP team meeting or are afforded the opportunity to participate. These steps shall include scheduling each IEP meeting at a mutually agreed-upon time and place and providing written notice to the parents at least 10 days in advance of any IEP meeting. The notice shall indicate the purpose, time, and location of the IEP team meeting and the titles or positions of the persons who will attend on behalf of the agency, including, if appropriate, any other agency invited to send a representative to discuss needed transition services.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-25(a)(2)(b)(c), each agency shall allow the parents of an exceptional child an opportunity to inspect and review all education records and participate in any meeting concerning their child with respect to the provision of FAPE to the child. Each agency shall take steps to ensure that one or both of the parents of an exceptional child are present at each meeting concerning their child or are afforded the opportunity to participate. These steps shall include scheduling the meeting at a mutually agreed-upon time and place and providing PWN of any meeting to the parents of the child. The notice required shall indicate the purpose, time, and location of the meeting and the titles or positions of the persons who will attend on behalf of the agency or at the agency's request.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to provide timely notice for the October 22, 2025 IEP meeting, and failed to schedule a requested pre-IEP meeting.

The LEA Response stated the Notice of Meeting for the October 22, 2025, IEP was sent on September 26, 2025. The Complainant signed an acknowledgment of attendance on September 30, 2025. On October 14, 2025, the Complainant requested a meeting before the IEP. The Special Education Director responded on October 17, 2025, offering to coordinate directly with the Complainant and the case manager to address any questions or concerns. This response was consistent with the communication plan established on October 14, 2025. The Complainant did not reply to this offer.

Facts showed a Notice of Meeting dated September 26, 2025, for the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting was signed by the Complainant on September 30, 2025, indicating they planned to attend. This provided at least 22 days' notice. The Complainant participated in the meeting virtually. The IEP team offered to reschedule when the Complainant stated they did not feel "prepared" to discuss a draft IEP sent that morning. The team instead agreed to address questions regarding the currently implemented IEP. The Complainant had an opportunity to participate until the meeting ended prematurely due to the Complainant's behavior.

Facts indicate the Director of Secondary Special Services emailed the Complainant on October 16, 2025, to inquire about legal representation for meeting planning. The Complainant had also formally requested a meeting before the IEP meeting, and the Director of Secondary Special Services had agreed. Still, facts indicated the Complainant never responded to confirm.

Based on the foregoing, and in accordance with IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to provide adequate notice for the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting or failed to allow the Complainant to participate.

Issue Five

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided required PWN before changing the delivery of the Student's paraprofessional services when they transitioned from middle to high school. K.A.R. 91-40-26(a); K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2); 34 CFR §300.503(a)(b).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-26(a), in providing any notice to the parent or parents of an exceptional child regarding any action proposed or refused by an agency, each agency shall ensure that the notice includes a description of other options that the agency considered and the reasons why those options were rejected, and a description of other factors that are relevant to the agency's proposal or refusal.

According to K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(2), the parents of exceptional children shall have the right to PWN whenever an agency proposes to initiate or change, or refuses to initiate or change, the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the child or the provision of a FAPE to the child.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to provide PWN before changing the Student's paraprofessional service, when they did not allow the Student's assigned, trained paraprofessional to move with the Student from middle school to high school.

The LEA responded that a change in individual paraprofessional staffing does not require PWN because it does not alter the student's identification, evaluation, placement, or provision of a FAPE. They added a notice is required only when the District proposes or refuses an action in these areas. The staffing adjustment did not modify the IEP; all paraprofessional support continued exactly as written.

When the Student transitioned from middle to high school, the Paraprofessional at the High School was different from the one in the Middle School. The change in the individual providing the service was not considered a change in service delivery by the LEA; therefore, a PWN was not required, as the Student's services did not change during the transition between schools.

Based on the foregoing, and in accordance with IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to provide a PWN before changing the delivery of the Student's services when they transitioned from middle to high school, because services did not change; only the staff providing services changed.

Issue Six

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Complainant access to inspect or review educational records related to the Student prior to the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting, and when requested by the Parent. K.S.A. 72-3430(a)(b)(1); K.A.R. 91-40-50(2); 34 CFR § 300.613.

According to 34 CFR § 300.613, each participating agency must permit parents to inspect and review any education records relating to their children that are collected, maintained, or used by the agency. The agency must comply with a request without unnecessary delay, before any meeting regarding an IEP, and in no case more than 45 days after the request has been made. The right to inspect and review education records includes the right to a response from the participating agency to reasonable requests for explanations and interpretations of the records, the right to request that the agency provide copies of the records containing the information if failure to provide those copies would effectively prevent the parent from exercising the right to inspect and review the records, and the right to have a representative of the parent inspect and review the records. An agency may presume that the parent has authority to inspect and review records relating to his or her child unless the agency has been advised that the parent does not have the authority under applicable State law governing such matters.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-50(a)(2), "Education records" means any document or medium on which information directly related to one or more students is maintained by a participating agency. According to K.S.A. 72-3430(b)(1), the parents of exceptional children shall have the right to examine all records relating to such child and to participate in meetings with respect to the identification, evaluation, and educational placement of the child, and the provision of a FAPE to such child.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to provide IEP materials when requested before the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting, and failed to produce other educational records, including IEP recordings, bus video and audio, and related communications when requested.

The LEA responded that the only time the Complainant made a request for records between September 11 and October 30 was at the October 22, 2025, meeting, when they requested a copy of the IEP. The IEP was sent to the Complainant at that time.

Facts show the Complainant emailed the LEA on October 30, 2025, requesting all educational records related to the Student and the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting. The Director of Secondary Special Services confirmed receiving the request but did not send anything to the Complainant because they were “uncomfortable” sending records, having been informed of the termination of the Complainant's educational advocacy status and the Student's removal from the home for a week. The Complainant stated the LEA refused to acknowledge their request and did not provide documentation. Facts indicate the LEA did not provide the records and did not provide a PWN indicating why they were refusing the Complainant’s records request.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to provide the Complainant access to inspect or review educational records related to the Student as the LEA had been notified the Complainant’s educational rights for the Student had been terminated.

However, the LEA violated K.A.R. 91-40-26 and 34 CFR §300.503 when written notice about the LEA’s refusal to provide the requested records to the Complainant at the time they were in the role of parent for special education decision making rights.

Issue Seven

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, maintained confidentiality of personally identifiable information related to an audio recording of an IEP meeting by naming a student who was not the subject of the meeting; and additionally, by disclosing confidential information, including portions of the audio recording containing personally identifiable information regarding the Complainant and the Student, to unauthorized agencies without obtaining written consent. K.A.R. 91-40-50(a)(2-3)(b); K.S.A. 72-6311(b); 34 C.F.R. §§ 300.610, 300.611, 300.622(a)(b)(1), 300.623(a); 34 C.F.R. §§ 99.30, 99.31(a)(10).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-50(a)(2-3)(b), "education records" means any document or medium on which information directly related to one or more students is maintained by a participating agency, and "participating agency" means any educational agency or institution that collects, maintains, or uses personally identifiable student information to provide special education and related services to children with disabilities.

According to K.S.A 72-6311(b), every board shall adopt a policy in accordance with the student data privacy act and applicable federal laws and regulations to protect the right of privacy of any student, or pupil and such pupil's family regarding personally identifiable records, files and data directly related to such student or pupil. Such procedures shall provide for means by which any student or parent of a pupil, as the case may be, may inspect and review any records or files directly related to the student or pupil, and restricting the accessibility and availability of any personally identifiable records or files of any student or pupil and preventing disclosure thereof unless made upon written consent of such student or parent of such pupil.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.622(a)(b)(1), parental consent must be obtained before personally identifiable information is disclosed to parties, other than officials of participating agencies in accordance with the law, unless the information is contained in education records, and the disclosure is authorized without parental consent under the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).

Except as provided by law, parental consent is not required before personally identifiable information is released to officials of participating agencies for purposes of meeting a requirement of the law.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 300.623(a), each participating agency must protect the confidentiality of personally identifiable information at the collection, storage, disclosure, and destruction stages.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 99.30, the parent or eligible student shall provide a signed and dated written consent before an educational agency or institution discloses personally identifiable information from the student's education records, except as provided by law. The written consent must specify the records that may be disclosed, state the purpose of the disclosure, and identify the party or class of parties to whom the disclosure may be made. When a disclosure is made, if a parent or eligible student so requests, the educational agency or institution shall provide him or her with a copy of the records disclosed, and if the parent of a student who is not an eligible student so requests, the agency or institution shall provide the student with a copy of the records disclosed.

“Signed and dated written consent” under this part may include a record and signature in electronic form that identifies and authenticates a particular person as the source of the electronic consent, and indicates such person's approval of the information contained in the electronic consent.

According to 34 C.F.R. § 99.31(a)(10), an educational agency or institution may disclose personally identifiable information from an education record of a student without the consent required by law if the disclosure is in connection with a health or safety emergency.

The Complainant alleged that during an audio-recorded IEP meeting, the LEA named a student who was not the subject of the meeting. Additionally, the Complainant alleged the LEA disclosed confidential information, including a portion of the audio recording containing personally identifiable information related to the Complainant and the Student, to outside agencies without written consent.

The LEA denied any allegation of violating any federal or state student privacy laws. It made no unauthorized disclosures of student information and maintains student confidentiality. The Complainant alleged the team discussed another student during the meeting. As introductions were being made, one teacher introduced themself and mentioned to the Complainant that “we met at [student’s first name] meeting last year.” Nothing more was said, and the last name of the student was not mentioned.

During the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting, an IEP Meeting Transcription indicated the Complainant mentioned a teacher stating they met the Complainant at an "[Unknown Student]'s meeting," and the Complainant denied having a student by that name. The Director of Secondary Special Services recalled the teacher only mentioning meeting the Complainant at a "student's meeting" without using a last name or other identifiable information, intending to "simply mak[e] a connection." The teacher the Complaint claimed made the comment was not in attendance at the IEP meeting on October 22, 2025, and the Complainant is the only one who mentioned the [unknown student’s] name during the meeting.

The Complainant alleged the LEA "released" the audio recording of the Complainant in "medical distress" to DCF and described it as "retaliation." The Complainant stated they did not provide a release. The Assistant Principal, Special Education Teacher, and Director of Secondary Special Services were unaware of any release to DCF. The Director of Secondary Special Services confirmed communicating with KVC (a foster agency) with a release of information while gathering information on the Student's living arrangements. An undated Recording Communication document specified the recording was given to the Board Clerk for "transcription" and was accessed only by LEA personnel and legal counsel "acting in official capacity." An undated Consent for Release to Third Party document stated no written consent was needed and that the recording was not "released" or "shared" with any third-party entities.

Based on the foregoing, and in accordance with the IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to maintain the confidentiality of personally identifiable information related to an audio recording of an IEP meeting by naming a student who was not the subject of the meeting. Additionally, based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations*, it is not substantiate*d the LEA failed to maintain confidentiality of personally identifiable information to unauthorized agencies without obtaining written consent.

Issue Eight

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Student a FAPE, specifically related to the implementation of the IEP as written, and training the paraeducator on the IEP contents and their responsibilities for implementation. K.A.R. 91-40-1(z); 34 CFR §§ 300.17, 300.101.

According to K.A.R. 91-40-1(z), a FAPE means special education and related services are provided at public expense, under public supervision and direction, and without charge, meet the standards of the state board, include an appropriate preschool, elementary, or secondary school education, and are provided in conformity with an individualized education program.

According to 34 CFR § 300.101, a FAPE must be available to all children residing in the State between the ages of 3 and 21. Each State must ensure that the obligation to make FAPE available to each eligible child residing in the State begins no later than the child's third birthday and an IEP or an IFSP is in effect for the child by that date. Each State must ensure that FAPE is available to any individual child with a disability who needs special education and related services, even though the child has not failed or been retained in a course or grade, and is advancing from grade to grade. The determination that a child is eligible must be made on an individual basis by the group responsible within the child's LEA for making eligibility determinations.

The Complainant alleged the LEA failed to provide a FAPE by not implementing the IEP as written and not training the paraeducator on the IEP contents and their responsibility for implementing it.

The LEA responded it continues to implement the IEP with fidelity. The assigned paraprofessional had received appropriate training and support to carry out IEP requirements. The Student has not been denied a FAPE. The LEA affirmed that all services, supports, and procedural requirements under the IDEA have been implemented as written. The LEA responded it remained in full compliance with the corrective actions from previous investigations and continued to ensure that all staff were trained and all IEPs were implemented with fidelity. The LEA was committed to maintaining transparent, lawful, and collaborative practices in support of every student’s access to a FAPE.

The provided facts show the IEP was in place, services were provided, and the LEA documented daily progress tracking for selected behaviors and provided progress reports indicating adequate progress toward all goals. LEA staff interviews generally confirmed the training of the Paraeducator. Although the findings suggest the LEA failed to provide a PWN when it refused to provide records due to the Complainant's guardian status change, this did not affect the Student’s access to a FAPE.

Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated that the LEA failed to provide the Student a FAPE, specifically regarding the implementation of the IEP as written and training the paraeducator on the IEP contents and their responsibilities for implementation.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations. A violation occurred in the following area:

A. Federal regulations at K.A.R. 91-40-26 and 34 CFR §300.503; specifies each participating agency must provide a PWN to the parent when taking action, including refusing a parent request. In this case, the evidence supports the finding that USD # 437 did not provide a PWN to indicate they were refusing the Complainant's request to access to the Student's records.

Based on the foregoing, USD #437 is directed to take the following actions:

1. Within 15 calendar days of the date of this report, USD #437 shall submit a PWN to the Complainant, which indicates the LEA's refusal to provide the requested documentation due to the Complainant's change in educational decision-making status.

In the Matter of the Appeal of the Report
Issued in Response to a Complaint Filed
Against Unified School District No. 437
Auburn-Washburn Public Schools: 26FC437-005

DECISION OF THE APPEAL COMMITTEE

Background

This matter commenced with the filing of a complaint on October 30, 2025 on behalf of -------, by --------, the student's former Education Advocate. In the remainder of this decision, Ms. Hall will be referred to as "the complainant," and Trevor will be referred to as "the student." An investigation of the complaint was undertaken by a complaint investigator on behalf of the Special Education, and Title Services team at the Kansas State Department of Education. Following the investigation, a Complaint Report, addressing the allegations, was issued on December 1, 2025. That Complaint Report concluded that there was a violation of special education statutes and regulations

Thereafter, the district filed an appeal of the Complaint Report. Upon receipt of the appeal, an appeal committee was appointed and it reviewed the original complaint filed by the parent, the Complaint Report, and the school district's notice of appeal. The Appeal Committee has reviewed the information provided in connection with this matter and now issues this final Appeal Decision.

Preliminary Matters

A copy of the regulation regarding the filing of an appeal [K.A.R. 91-40-51(f)] was attached to the Complaint Report. That regulation states, in part, that: "Each notice shall provide a detailed statement of the basis for alleging that the report is incorrect." Accordingly, the burden for supplying a sufficient basis for appeal is on the party submitting the appeal. When a party submits an appeal and makes statements in the notice of appeal without support, the Committee does not attempt to locate the missing support.

No new issues will be decided by the Appeal Committee. The appeal process is a review of the Complaint Report. The Appeal Committee does not conduct a separate investigation. The appeal committee's function will be to determine whether sufficient evidence exists to support the findings and conclusions in the Complaint Report.

Discussion of Issues on Appeal

There were seven issues presented in the complaint. A violation was substantiated for only Issue 6. The district filed an appeal to address that issue.

Issue Six

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Complainant access to inspect or review educational records related to the Student prior to the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting, and when requested by the Parent. K.S.A. 72-3430(a)(b)(1); K.A.R. 91-40-50(2); 34 CFR § 300.613.

The investigator concluded as follows:

> Based on the foregoing, according to IDEA and Kansas special education regulations, it is not substantiated the LEA failed to provide the Complainant access to inspect or review educational records related to the Student as the LEA had been notified the Complainant's educational rights for the Student had been terminated.

The investigator then added:

> However, the LEA violated K.A.R. 91-40-26 and 34 CFR §300.503 when written notice (PWN was not provided) about the LEA's refusal to provide the requested records to the Complainant at the time they were in the role of parent for special education decision making rights. (Report, p. 38).

The district's appeal asserted that:

1. The District was informed by the foster agency that the student was living in a different home, and that the Complainant was no longer the educational advocate, and
2. A PWN's function is to inform a parent, guardian or educational advocate of proposed changes to identification, evaluation, placement or implementation of the IEP… Prior written notice is not required in relation to access to records under IDEA or Kansas regulation.

The Appeal Committee agrees with the district.

The complainant made a request for a copy of the student's IEP at an October 22, 2025 meeting and the district promptly provided that IEP (Report, p. 38). On October 30, 2025, the complainant requested all of the student's education records. The complaint report gave this summary:

> Facts show the Complainant emailed the LEA on October 30, 2025, requesting all educational records related to the Student and the October 22, 2025, IEP meeting. The Director of Secondary Special Services confirmed receiving the request but did not send anything to the Complainant because they were "uncomfortable" sending records, having been informed of the termination of the Complainant's educational advocacy status and the Student's removal from the home for a week. (Report, p. 38)

The investigator found a violation only because the district did not use a PWN when it refused to provide the complainant with requested records.

As the district asserted in its appeal, a PWN is required whenever a district proposes, or refuses, to initiate or to make a change involving the identification, evaluation, educational placement, or a change in services for a child with a disability. A request for access to education records is none of those. Accordingly, the district's obligation is to respond to such requests within 45 days (34 C.F.R. 300.613), but there is no requirement to respond with a PWN.

For these reasons, the Appeal Committee finds that a PWN was not required to refuse the complainant's request for the student's education records.

Conclusion

For the reasons stated herein, the conclusion in the Complaint Report that a violation occurred when the district failed to use a PWN to respond to a records request is overturned. The Corrective Action is rescinded.

This is the final decision on this matter. There is no further appeal. This Appeal Decision is issued this 23rd day of December, 2025.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #418
ON OCTOBER 30, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: DECEMBER 4, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office by ----- on behalf of her daughter, -----. For the remainder of this report, ----- will be referred to as "the parent" or the "complainant." ----- will be referred to as "the student."

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term " local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student. For the remainder of this report, USD #418 and the McPherson County Special Education Cooperative will be referred to as "the LEA."

Investigation of Complaint

The investigator spoke by telephone with the Executive Director for the special education cooperative on November 3, 2025.

The investigator spoke by telephone with the parent on November 6, 2025.

In completing this investigation, the complaint investigator reviewed the following materials:

- IEP for the student dated October 8, 2024
- IEP Amendment for the student dated September 2, 2025
- IEP for the student dated October 2, 2025
- Prior Written Notice for Identification, Special Education and Related Services, Educational Placement, Change in Services, Change in Placement, and/or Request for Consent dated October 2, 2025
- 2025-26 Public School Calendar for the LEA
- PowerSchool SIS Log Entries regarding the student's attendance during the period of September 2 through October 23, 2025
- Request for Medication to be Administered at School dated October 15, 2025

Background

This complaint involves a 7-year old girl who - between September 2 and October 24, 2025 - attended her neighborhood elementary school as a second grader.

According to the parent, the student has been given diagnoses of both Autism and ADHD. The student received special education services in both general and special education settings and had attendant care services during lunch and recess and when toileting. Additionally, she received both speech/language and occupational therapy services.

The parent has withdrawn the student from school and is now providing home-schooling for her daughter. The student is not currently receiving any special education services from the LEA.

Issues

Formal complaint is one of the methods available to parents of children with exceptionalities or others when trying to resolve special education disagreements with an LEA. A formal complaint must allege that - within the 12-month period prior to the receipt of the written complaint by the Kansas State Department of Education - a violation has occurred with regard to the requirements of the Individuals with Disabilities in Education Act (IDEA), the Kansas Special Education for Exceptional Children Act, or the corresponding federal or state regulations. A complaint investigator is only authorized to investigate violations covered under these laws.

Not every issue that arises with regard to a student who receives special education services will be covered under special education statutes and regulations. There may be times when an allegation may involve more than one law. In those situations, the complaint process will address only those aspects of the allegation that are covered under special education statutes and regulations. If an allegation is not covered under special education laws, that allegation will not be addressed by the investigator.

In her complaint, the complainant identified three issues.

Issue One

The parent suspects that the student has been abused while at school.

Position of the Complainant

It is the position of the parent that the student has on more than one occasion been physically abused while at school. The parent alleges that staff has physically abused the student or has allowed other students to physically abuse her. According to the parent, when she asked the teacher about the bruising she had observed on the student, the teacher brushed it off" and assured the parent that someone was always with the student and stated that staff would "keep more of an eye on her."

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

In Kansas, allegations of child abuse are investigated by the Kansas Department for Children and Families (DCF) and law enforcement agencies. The primary point of contact for reporting suspected child abuse is the Kansas Protection Report Center (1-800-922-5330). Reports can be made electronically through the Kansas Intake/Investigation Protection System (KIPS).

A complaint investigator does not have the authority to investigate allegations of abuse. Therefore, this issue was not investigated.

Issue Two

The parent believes that the building principal did not respond properly to the parent's request to observe the student in the classroom setting.

Position of the Complainant

According to the parent, she went to the student's school to speak with the nurse and to inquire about the possibility of sitting in class with the student to observe her. The parent asserts that when the student's teacher came out to speak with the parent, the teacher told the parent that the principal would have to be consulted regarding an observation. The parent reports that when the principal came to meet her, the principal told the parent that she would have to "schedule an observation."

It is the position of the parent that the principal treated her rudely and denied the parent's request for an observation stating it was a "breach of confidentiality for other students" in the classroom.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

The Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA), currently reauthorized as the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), includes, in Section 8101, the following:

> (39) PARENTAL INVOLVEMENT - The term 'parental involvement' means the participation of parents in regular, two-way, and meaningful communication involving student academic learning and other school activities, including ensuring -
>
> (A) that parents play an integral role in assisting their child's learning;
>
> (B) that parents are encouraged to be actively involved in their child's education at school;
>
> (C) that parents are full partners in their child's education and are included, as appropriate, in decision making and on advisory committees to assist in the education of their child;
>
> (D) the carrying out of other activities, such as those described in Section 1116.

Section 1116 (Parent and Family Engagement) includes the following statement:

> "(d) SHARED RESPONSIBILITIES FOR HIGH STUDENT ACHIEVEMENT
>
> ...each school served under this part shall jointly develop with parents for all children serviced under this part a school-parent compact...Such compact shall -
>
> (2) address the importance of communication between teachers and parents on an ongoing basis through, at a minimum -
>
> (A) parent-teacher conferences in elementary schools, at least annually ...
>
> (B) frequent reports to parents on their children's progress;
>
> (C) reasonable access to staff, opportunities to volunteer and participate in their child's class and observation of classroom activities (emphasis added); and
> (D) ensuring regular two-way, meaningful communication between family members and school staff..."

ESSA does not offer any rules regarding parents visiting classrooms. IDEA does not specifically address classroom visits (although the law does support the empowerment of parents in the special education process), nor does FERPA (the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act) - a law addressing the protection of student privacy. The development of policies and procedures regarding classroom observations by parents is, therefore, left to school districts.

Investigative Findings

In Section K (General Public Relations) of its Board of Education Policies, the LEA includes information with regard to "Visitors to the Schools:"

> "The board encourages patrons and parents to visit district facilities. Patron visits shall be scheduled with the teacher and the building principal.
>
> Notices shall be posted in school buildings to require visitors to check in at the office before proceeding to contact any other person in the building or on the grounds.
>
> Any person who visits a building and/or grounds of the district will be under the jurisdiction of the building principal who shall be responsible for developing rules and regulations governing the presence of visitors in the buildings."

The "Elementary School Handbook (Pre-K - 5th) for Students and Parents" for the 2025-26 school year includes the following statement under the section entitled "Visitors at School:"

> "Parents are welcome to visit classrooms or eat lunch with their child. Please check into the office and receive a visitor badge. The suggested time length for classroom visits is 30 minutes or less. In order to protect the educational programs from undue disturbance, visitors are requested to make visitation arrangements in advance through the classroom teacher...For student safety, all visitors must check in the office upon entering the building."

Summary and Conclusions

Once the investigator confirmed that this allegation did not involve a violation of FAPE (free appropriate public education), this issue was not considered further. While encouraging active parental involvement with regard to the provision of special education services for their children, special education statutes and regulations do not address policies and practices related to classroom observations by parents. The development and implementation of these policies are left up to the district. A complaint regarding the administration of the LEA's Board policies regarding classroom visits by parents would be properly directed to district administration or to the Board of Education for the district.

Issue Three

The LEA has not followed doctor's orders when administering medications to the student at school.

Parent's Position

While unable to identify any specific dates, the parent asserts that on more than one occasion when she had gone to the school between 1:00 and 1:20 PM to pick the student up from school for outside speech services, staff was unsure as to whether the student had received her medication. The parent states that the student was to receive her medication after lunch which, according to the parent, is at or before 11:40 AM.

Position of the LEA

It is the position of the LEA that while the student's IEP does not include a Health Care Plan and did not require that the student receive any specialized nursing services, the LEA did comply with the provisions of a medication plan - a plan required for any student who receives medication at school. The LEA contends that the student's medication plan was followed by building staff and that medications were administered appropriately on all days when the student was in attendance and present during the portion of the school days when medication was to be administered.

Applicable Statutes and Regulations

At 34 C.F.R. 300.8, federal regulations define a "child with a disability" in part as a child with "an other health impairment." "Other health impairment" is defined as "having limited strength, vitality, or alertness, including a heightened alertness to environment, that—

- Is due to chronic or acute health problems such as asthma, attention deficit disorder or attention deficit hyperactivity disorder, diabetes, epilepsy, a heart condition, hemophilia, lead poisoning, leukemia, nephritis, rheumatic fever, sickle cell anemia, and Tourette syndrome; and
- Adversely affects a child's educational performance.

The IEP Team for a student must identify each of the child's educational needs that result from their exceptionality and determine how to address those needs in order to ensure that he or she receives educational benefit.

Investigative Findings

When developing the October 8, 2024 IEP for the student, her IEP Team - which included the parent - considered her health needs. In response to the question "Does this student take Medications? If yes please explain below," the team wrote

> "...[The student] takes medicine to help her sleep and for mood regulation..."

A question in the "Health" section of the student's October 8, 2024 IEP reads, "Does this student require a Health Care Plan?" That question was answered, "No."

No changes were made to these entries when the student's IEP was amended on September 2, 2025 or at the annual IEP review on October 8, 2025. The parent was in attendance for both of these meetings.

The "Medication" section of the LEA's Elementary School Handbook (Pre-K - 5th) for Students and Parents contains the following statement:

> "When medication is necessary in order that the student remain in school, a "Permission to Medicate" form signed by the family physician must accompany the medication or treatment to be administered by school personnel. All medications, including prescribed and over-the-counter (e.g. aspirin, cough drops) are to be brought to school office in the original container, so that the "Permission to Medicate" procedures can be followed."

According to the LEA, a doctor's order for the administration of medications to the student while at school was received and a "Nursing Care Plan" for the student was developed by the school nurse on September 3, 2025. The care plan for the student provided by the LEA shows that "5 ml" of Methylphenidate was to be administered to the student "after lunch." That dosage was reduced to 3.75 ml on October 20, 2025 after the LEA received a form signed by the parent and the student's physician approving that change.

Medication was administered to the student before school by her mother. By report of the school nurse, the student's medication was administered at school around 1:00 PM each day approximately 60-90 minutes after the student's 11:20 AM to 11:40 AM lunch. A staff member brought the student to the nurse's office each day; two people (a nurse and another staff member) were always present when medication was given.

The "Medication Administration Record" maintained by the LEA shows that a Licensed Practical Nurse and two other "non-nursing school personnel" had been trained in the administration of the student's medication and, "at the discretion of the school nurse (RN)" could carry out the task of administering the student's medication.

Based upon the school district calendar, school was in session on 34 days between September 3 and October 24, 2025. The medication record shows that the medication was administered to the student by the school nurse (RN) on 17 of these 34 days. She received medications from other designed staff on 10 days.

The attendance record for the student shows that the student missed all or part of 16 school days during that same time period. According to the record, the student had a "weekly standing appointment" for an outpatient therapy session conducted between 10 and 11 AM on Thursdays; the parent brought the student to school following those sessions, typically arriving between 11:45 AM and noon. The parent also picked the student up from school on a weekly basis on Tuesdays for an out-of-town speech therapy appointment at 2:30 PM. According to the parent, she typically arrived at the school between 1:00 and 1:30 PM; the student did not return to school following those sessions.

On 7 of the 16 days when the student missed all or part of her school day (September 4, 10, 11, and 22 and October 1, 6 and 14, 2025), attendance log entries for the student show that she was not present to receive her medication after lunch during the 1:00 to 1:30 time frame. The medication record shows that the student was absent and did not receive her medication on Thursday, September 4, 2025. While it was standard practice for the parent to bring the student to school after her outpatient therapy session, the log entry regarding attendance for that date indicates that the student was absent for "appointments."

Summary and Conclusions

When developing IEPs for the student in October 2024 and September and October 2025, the student's IEP Team - which included the parent - did not address the administration of prescription medications to the student during the school day. The student's IEPs did not during the period of October 8, 2024 and October 25, 2025 require the LEA to provide daily medication to the student during the school day.

General school policies allow for a student to be given such medications so long as established procedures are followed. With the permission of the student's physician and the parent, a plan was developed which allowed the school nurse and other trained staff to provide daily medications to the student during school hours - "after lunch." These medications were administered to the student around 1:00 PM daily.

While the parent asserted that staff sometimes seemed unclear as to whether or not the student had received her daily medications, records provided by the LEA show that the medication plan was followed and the student received her medications every day that she was in school at the designated time - which sometimes coincided with the arrival of the parent to pick the student up to take the student to outside speech/language therapy.

Under the circumstances described above, a violation of special education statutes and regulations is not substantiated with regard to this issue.

Corrective Action

Information gathered in the course of this investigation has not substantiated noncompliance with special education statutes and regulations on issues presented in this complaint. Therefore, no corrective actions are ordered.

KANSAS STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SPECIAL EDUCATION AND TITLE SERVICES

REPORT OF COMPLAINT
FILED AGAINST
UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #437
ON NOVEMBER 5, 2025

DATE OF REPORT: DECEMBER 10, 2025

This report is in response to a complaint filed with our office on behalf of a student, -----, by the Complainant, -----. In the remainder of the report, the student will be referred to as "the Student" and the complainant as "the Complainant."

The Complaint is against USD #437 Auburn/Washburn Public Schools. In the remainder of the report, "the School" and the "local education agency (LEA)" shall refer to USD #437.

When a special education complaint is filed against a school district that is a member of a special education cooperative or interlocal, or that uses any other state recognized public agency to serve children with disabilities, the term "local education agency (LEA)" in this report will include the school district, the special education cooperative or interlocal, and any other agency that is recognized by the state as an administrative agency for public elementary or secondary schools and is serving the educational needs of this student.

The Kansas State Department of Education (KSDE) allows for a 30-day timeline to investigate a child complaint. A complaint is considered to be filed on the date it is delivered to both the KSDE and the LEA. In this case, the KSDE initially received the complaint on November 5, 2025, and the 30-day timeline ended on December 5, 2025.

Allegations

The following issues will be investigated:

ISSUE ONE: Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), implemented the Student's Individualized Education Plan (IEP), including the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided in accordance with the IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16 (b)(2)(3)(4)(5); 34 CFR § 300.323 (a)(c)(1)(2)(d)(1)(2).

NOTE: The Complaint Investigator reviewed the core issues presented in KSDE 26FC437-002 and in this Complaint, KSDE 26FC437-007, which both alleged the LEA's failure to implement the Student's IEP pursuant to the IDEA. However, the scope of this particular review focused solely on the language of the KSDE 26FC437-007's allegation regarding accommodations, modifications, and supports and was confined to the timeframe of September 12, 2025, through November 5, 2025.

ISSUE TWO: Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, reviewed and revised the Student's IEP when the Complainant provided documentation regarding medication to support the Student's behavior in school. K.A.R. 91-40-16 (a), K.A.R. 91-40-18(b); K.S.A. 72-3429 (B)(b)(1)(4)(B)(c)(4); 34 CFR § 300.324 (a)(6)(b)(1)(ii)(C)(D)(E).

NOTE: The Complaint Investigator determined during the interview process the "documentation" referred to in this allegation was the October 27, 2025 physician's note.

ISSUE THREE: Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, provided the Complainant with a Prior Written Notice (PWN) when there were changes to the Student's health plan needs that affected the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of the Student, or the provision of a free appropriate public education (FAPE). K.A.R. 91-40-26 (a)(1)(2)(c)(3); 34 § CFR 300.503(a)(1)(b).

NOTE: The Complaint Investigator determined during the interview process this issue referred to the provision of the physician's note on October 27, 2025 and the administration of the "as needed" (PRN) medication.

ISSUE FOUR: Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the IDEA, denied the Student access to a FAPE when they failed to provide the services and accommodations listed in the Student's IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-2 (a)(1)(2)(e); 34 CFR §§ 300.17, 300.101.

NOTE: As this allegation is related to Issue One, the Complaint Investigator determined the investigation of this issue was confined to the timeframe of September 12, 2025 to November 5, 2025.

Background Information

This investigation involved a tenth-grade student enrolled at a School in USD #437. The Student is currently receiving special education or related services as a child with autism per the IDEA. The Student was described as being observant and relational.

Findings of the Investigation

The following findings are based on a review of documentation and interviews with the Complainant, the Resource Parent, and staff in the LEA.

1. An IEP dated December 17, 2024, indicated:
    a. Present levels were described and goals were written for academic and functional needs.
    b. The Student's behavior impeded their learning or that of others, and the behaviors were addressed by a Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) and goals/accommodations. The Student experienced communication/assistive technology needs.
    c. A checkmark indicated the Student did not have a documented health condition that impacted their involvement and progress in the general education curriculum, the general education setting, and other education-related settings.
    d. A BIP and Positive Behavior Support (PBS) plan dated May 24, 2024, was incorporated into the IEP and included:
        i. Problem and precursor behaviors.
        ii. Precursor behaviors included: "Anxious vocal sounds (ie: whining, crying[,] grumbling), face scrunching, hit[ting] the table, grabbing staff's hand, forceful high-5, heightened vocal pitch and point to what [the Student] sees as wrong, restlessness, requests to leave the area for a preferred area to straighten up or pick (bathroom, kitchen, cluttered area). [The Student] sees replacement clothing, laundry[-]related items (basket, washer/dryer, laundry soap, dryer sheets, etc. [The Student] notices an imperfection in [their] clothing, such as a tiny hole in [their] shirt. [The Student] will point to the sink and [their] cup. [The Student] will use [their] talker to tell staff that [the Student] needs water, beyond the water intake of [their] same[-]age peers. [The Student] will watch to see if [their] staff is paying attention to [them]."
        iii. Setting events and antecedents included the following: hunger, a staff change, sensory needs, non-preferred tasks, new tasks or a change in routine, unclear expectations, unstructured time, not being offered choices, being told no, hearing laundry discussions or discussions about bathroom incidents, had uncomfortable clothing or diarrhea, a lack of staff engagement, and a new/different setting.
        iv. Hypotheses were listed.
        v. According to the BIP, "As soon as precursor behaviors are displayed, staff should refer [the Student] to the icons on [their] desk for break, calm down room, help and then immediately provide what [the Student] requests (ie. 'What do you need/want?')." The following replacement behaviors were listed:
            1. "If [the Student] chooses a break, provide [them] with a choice board (array of 5 sensory choice icons or less)."
            2. "If [the Student] chooses the break area, offer the door to be open or shut then provide [the Student] space."

3. "If [the Student] does not choose an icon, staff will point to the calm down icon and say, 'Do you need the break [sic]?' If yes, walk with [the Student] to the calm down space and say, 'Open or shut?' while presenting icons of open[,] then set a timer for 3 minutes[.] [S]hut and provide space."
4. "If [the Student] does not choose the break on [their] own, staff will say, 'Are you ready to work or do you need a break?' [The Student] will use [their] communication device to say 'I need a break' or 'ready to work.' If [the Student] says [the Student] needs a break[,] [the Student] is guided to the break area. If [the Student] says [the Student] is ready to work, [the Student] is then reminded[,] ['W]hen we work[,] we have nice hands, feet, and body.'"
5. "Teach [the Student] the process of asking for a break with modeling."
6. "Teach flexibility of thought, boundaries, my turn your turn language."
7. "Two rooms will be available to [the Student]. One is a calm[-]down room and one is for seclusion following district guidelines."
8. "If [the Student] begins to engage in escaping behavior, staff should refer to [the Student's] visuals and/or timer to remind [the Student] of expectations. Staff should continue to show [the Student] the visual of expectations and engage with [the Student] in a positive manner. [The Student] should also be offered sensory items that relate to given activities that [the Student] can be shown how to request."
9. "If [the Student] is obsessing over the restroom or laundry, staff should redirect [the Student] to [the Student's] scheduled activity. [The Student] should not be given choices. Staff should use common language, such as '[W]e are working.' Remove as many precursors and/or settings. For example, do not let [the Student] … see or hear discussions regarding the bathroom or laundry. Do not let [the Student] see [their] dirty clothes. Engage with [the Student] and maintain a safe, close proximity."

vi. Proactive strategies for staff were described:

1. "Ensure that [the Student] has access to two staff members who are trained in de-escalation strategies and who are familiar with [the Student's] routines and behavior plan."
2. "Ensure that [the Student] has access to two staff members who know how to access additional help for emergent situations, such as knowing the number for the office and knowing the location of the intercom button."
3. "Ensure that staff are aware of the [Lorazepam] PRN medication that the nurse keeps available to [the Student]."
4. Stimulate and engage the Student, pre-teach routines, and educate in a familiar setting with familiar staff, preferably a large male.
5. Provide the Student with a cubicle or partition to visually separate them, and pre-teach common phrases, including:

   a. "'Ready hands,' means to have [the Student's] hands folded and on the table."
   b. "'We are ___.' stated firmly is a reminder of the expectation."
   c. "'Stop,'"stated with the ASL sign, is a firm way to remind [the Student] to stop straying from the expectation."
   d. ""'I do'" or 'You do,' to indicate who is supposed to do the current task."
6. Provide verbal expectation reminders before and during transitions, and praise the Student during and after the expectation.
7. "Embed frequent non-contingent structured breaks doing preferred activities … using a structured mini schedule."
8. Reinforce with a thumbs up or verbal praise rather than items or physical handshakes or high-5s.
9. Offer choices, hallway walks (not during passing period), and social stories.
10. "Describe, Name, Acknowledge when [you] see aggressive behavior; Describe - name what [the Student] did; Name - how [the Student] feels; Acknowledge - what it is [the Student] wants to do."
11. Refer to the accommodations list, engage with the Student during breaks, provide icons for communication, and for known tasks, use least-to-most prompting.
12. For new targets and when precursor behavior occurs, use most-to-least prompting.
13. Utilize a finish tub for completed work tasks, increase age-appropriate structured activities, and rotate activity options frequently.
14. Teach what on-task behavior looks like, boundaries, and turn-taking language.
15. "SLEEP: bright lights, high rates of engagement, novel and engaging tasks, high rates of reinforcement, remove access to the area that [the Student] sleeps in."
16. "BATHROOM: visual instruction, visual schedule to show when [the Student] can have access, clear expectation, precorrection; supervision; special education bathroom should be used primarily when it is available. In the event it is unavailable, the general education restroom will be utilized. Staff need to provide supervision while [the Student] is in the restroom. Staff should provide assistance with cleaning self and properly washing and drying hands until [the Student] [is] able to successfully complete those tasks without assistance. Staff will take paper towels to the bathroom with them for [the Student] to use."
   a. "Staff will perform expected bathroom behaviors, call out to see if the bathroom is occupied, perform a toilet/trash check, stand in the doorway to supervise, and refer to the reactive strategy section for bathrooming."
17. For the gym and eating inedible objects, provide sensory needs/opportunities, clear expectations, visual supports, and precorrection.

18. For bussing, provide social reinforcement or a book, and pair positives with the driver and the paraprofessional.
    The Student should sit on an aisle away from the window and peers, and a staff member will ride the bus with the Student. A copy of the BIP should be on the bus.
19. Soiled clothing storage should be in an area the Student is not able to access. Communicate restroom and laundry issues via email so the Student does not see or overhear.

vii. Regarding reactive staff strategies, "At first indication of aggressive behaviors such as head banging and whining, contact the nurse to administer PRN medication. This should be a known procedure by [the Student's] staff, administration, and the nursing staff to prevent questions during a time of crisis." Reactive Strategies included the following:

1. Expectation reminders, showing visuals, changing activities, and offering preferred items and breaks.
2. "If [the Student] displays aggression, staff will say[,] 'Go to the calm down space' and guide [the Student] while using protective mats. Staff will offer the door to be open or shut with icons[.] [T]hen set the timer for [three] minutes and provide space. If [the Student] continues to be aggressive towards staff, and [the Student] is unsafe, administration will be called to support for seclusion."
3. "SLEEP: only there for a short period of time and have engaging activities available in another area of the room."
4. "BATHROOM: visuals of expectations and schedule, redirect attention to engaging and preferred activities. If clothing is ripped or soiled, change immediately and quickly. Remove dirty clothes from sight."
5. "GYM EATING NONEDIBLE OBJECTS: remind with visual instruction storyboard, redirect attention to engaging and preferred activities."
6. For aggressive behaviors inside the classroom:
    a. "Staff will say and sign[,] '[S]top/no' and 'I don't like hitting/kicking/head butting' in a firm tone of voice and a firm stop sign."
    b. "Staff will move away from [the Student], arm out to indicate space needed and stay an arms length away [sic]. If [the Student] tries to grab at staff's hand, staff will say[,] '[T]his is my hand.'"
    c. "Staff will provide expectations and say[,] 'I need your hands down;' 'Here is something you can sort;' 'I need your feet on the floor,' etc."
    d. If the Student "… has 2nd aggressive behavior or 1st intense behavior, staff need to remove other students in the classroom and give [a] directive to '[G]o to the blue room' and point to where [the Student] needs to go. Keep space/furniture between you and [the Student] … . Alert administration utilizing the walkie[-]talkies."
7. For aggressive behaviors not in the classroom:

a. "Staff will say and sign '[S]top/no' and 'I don't like hitting/kicking/head butting' in a firm tone of voice and a firm stop sign. Staff will walkie administration - 'I'm in this location and I need support.'"

b. "Staff will move away from [the Student], arm out to indicate space needed and stay an arms length away [sic]. If [the Student] tries to grab at staff's hand, staff will say[,] '[T]his is my hand.'"

c. "Staff will provide expectations and say[,] 'I need your hands down;' 'We are walking;' 'I need your feet on the floor,' 'First Walk, then _____ (puzzle, match, something reinforcing) etc. Walk back to class.'"

8. For behaviors in the hallway with other students:

a. Proactively teach the strategy, positive distraction, avoid sitting, and follow the "aggressive behaviors not in the classroom" section of the BIP.

9. For behaviors in the bathroom and on the bus, the "aggressive behaviors not in the classroom" section of the BIP should be followed.

viii. Data collection methods included daily data collection, Antecedent/Behavior/Consequence (ABC) data, and "data will be shared with family on a daily basis; a daily sheet outlining [the Student's] schedule and providers [the Student] is working with will be sent home daily."

ix. The "staff training" section noted the Student's need for PRN medication, [Crisis Prevention Institute] CPI training, de-escalation training, strategies that work best for the Student, and access to the BIP.

e. Extended School Year (ESY) services included instruction, special transportation, and related services.

f. Program modifications and supports included the following:

i. For all subjects, throughout the entire day, for the duration of the IEP:

1. Study carrel, reinforcement system, PBS system, weighted vest/blanket, other Augmentative and Alternative Communication (AAC) device, other mini schedules, fidgets, alert the Student to transitions, and frequent reminders of rules.

ii. Read aloud for all subjects throughout the entire day during reading tasks and during assessments for the duration of the IEP.

iii. Frequent breaks for all subjects as needed while/after completing a work session, for the duration of the IEP.

iv. A visual schedule for "other," the special education classroom, hallway, gym, and bathroom, throughout the entire day, for the duration of the IEP.

v. Other scheduled sensory movement breaks in "other," the special education classroom/hallway and/or gym, twice each day for 15 minutes.

vi. Other scripting for all subjects during instruction until the Student no longer needed scripting to prepare them for the activity.

vii. Other prompting/errorless teaching for all subjects during instruction until the Student completed the task without the use of prompting/errorless teaching.

viii. Other social story for all subjects during instruction and prior to transitions until the Student was able to complete transitions and no longer required social stories to assist with activity structure.

ix. Use of a calculator during math assignments until the Student no longer needed to use it.

x. Other supervision for all subjects because the Student required adult supervision for safety reasons, including in the restroom, transitions, and the classroom, until no longer needed for safety.

xi. Other headphones for all subjects throughout the duration of the day, as needed for the duration of the IEP.

g. Supports for school personnel included indirect occupational therapy services for 15 minutes every four weeks to observe the Student and collaborate with staff regarding the Student's needs. Additionally, instructional facilitator consultative services for 20 minutes per month, as well as engagement between the LEA and state and local organizations, were included.

h. Special transportation was required to, from, and between schools. A one-on-one bus aide, a safety vest/harness, fewer people aboard the bus, and seating on the aisle, away from students, were noted. Training for bus personnel included de-escalation and CPI training.

i. The service chart listed the following for all services at the School from December 17, 2024 through December 16, 2025:

i. Indirect special education services by an instructional facilitator for 20 minutes, every four weeks.

ii. Direct special education services in a regular education classroom by a special education classroom teacher for 144 minutes, 5 days per week.

iii. Direct special education school nurse services outside the regular education classroom by a school nurse for eight minutes, five days per week.

iv. Direct special education attendant care (non-instructional paraeducator) services outside the regular education classroom by a special education classroom teacher for 27 minutes, five days per week.

j. The Service Delivery Statement indicated the Student would have a one-on-one behavior technician and an additional adult during instructional and non-instructional time.

2. A schedule with photographs of the teacher and the behavior technician for each class, as well as goals, breaks, medication, bus, and service times was provided for August 29, 2025. A space for notes documented the Student's meals, specific activities, breaks, bathroom breaks, and nurse visits.
3. On September 9, 2025, the School Psychologist shared a document with the Complainant titled "[The Student's] Next Steps - Plan Proposal Draft." On September 18, 2025, the School Psychologist invited the Complainant to a meeting titled "[The Student's] plan proposal" scheduled for September 24, 2025. On September 25, 2025, the School Psychologist and the Complainant exchanged emails regarding a meeting for September 29, 2025 to review the Student's typical day and data sheet. The Complainant confirmed the following day.
4. From September 21, 2025 through September 25, 2025, the Complainant and the Case Manager exchanged emails regarding the Student holding hands with another student on the bus and the Bus Aide's training.
5. The undated draft "IEP Fidelity & Support System for [the Student]" described the purposes as creating systems to ensure consistency for the Student, providing accountability for the Complainant and Resource Parent, administration, and building staff capacity via training. The draft plan detailed weekly staff actions, including a "Weekly Fidelity Check-In Form," micro trainings, communicating barriers to administration and the Case Manager, administrator oversight, Complainant/Resource Parent communication, the training cycle, and the flow of support. Eight weeks of training were described, with the School Psychologist listed as the facilitator.
6. A PWN dated September 29, 2025, indicated the Student's IEP team met to review evaluation/assessment information to determine if there were additions, changes, or modifications needed to the special education or related services in the Student's IEP. It was noted that changes to the IEP that did not involve services or placement were discussed. The proposed action included a "fidelity and support system" comprising daily data sheets and weekly fidelity forms, reviewed by a case manager and an assistant principal. Additionally, support sessions would be held for members of the Student's team "to help support current services … ." The plan was proposed to support the Student's special education team and "as a response to parent concerns." The team considered conducting an early evaluation or an FBA, but this was rejected because "parent concerns" were related to the fidelity of the Student's plan. For this proposal, the team reviewed evaluation reports, IEPs, Functional Behavior Assessments (FBA), medical reports, daily sheets, observations, and reports from staff.

7. On September 29 and 30, 2025, the Case Manager and the Complainant exchanged emails clarifying the Student's water consumption. The Case Manager indicated they would add the information to an IEP amendment.
8. An IEP amendment dated September 29, 2025, described the proposed IEP changes with an effective date of October 20, 2025:
    a. Description of the proposed action: "The Student will receive attendant care services for breakfast (30 minutes) and lunch (30 minutes) in the resource/Sped setting (G). This is a change from the previous inclusion setting (C). These minutes are considered attendant care due to it being non-instructional minutes[.] The Student will be in a setting that is supervised by Special Education Teachers or Behavior Technicians."
    b. Proposed accommodations:
        i. "The accommodation line previously listed as study carrel will be changed to designated work space within each classroom due to safety for [the] [S]tudent and staff. [The Student] will have a designated spot in each classroom that does not change with new seating arrangements and allows space for [the Student's] Behavior Technician to sit next to [the Student] in order to keep [the Student] and other students safe."
        ii. "An accommodation will be added regarding [the Student] receiving an alternative activity when [the Student's] class will be going outside due to safety for [the] [S]tudent and staff."
        iii. "An accommodation will be added regarding [the Student's] meal modification plan which includes prepackaged meals due to health and well[-]being of [the] [S]tudent."
        iv. "An accommodation will be added for [the Student's] specified amount of water intake per parent request regarding [the] [S]tudent['s] medication."
        v. "Add water consumption plan and reference it like [a] meal plan":
            1. "[The Student] is not to have a water bottle in [their] workspace or unsupervised access to water; water must be brought to [the Student], kept out of sight to prevent obsessive requests and behaviors, and [the Student] is not permitted to drink from the drinking fountain."

vi. "The following information will be added to the current Behavior Intervention Plan in the replacement behavior section":

1. "It is imperative to follow [the Student's] doctor[-] recommended meal modification plan and water intake plan with fidelity due to [the Student's] health and medication. This includes prepackaged meals and one standard white milk carton for breakfast and lunch. [The Student] will have no access to any extra food, water, or liquid and will not go through the cafeteria or have access to the drinking fountain."

vii. The amendment was not signed by any party.

9. On September 30, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Case Manager regarding a conversation with the Student's bus driver, "When I asked the bus driver if they had a copy of [the Student's] Behavior Intervention Plan (BIP) on the bus, [the Bus Driver] told me no … legally they are not allowed to have a copy of [the Student's] BIP on the bus due to confidentiality reasons. [The Bus Driver] then added … [they] could pull it up on [their] cell phone, and … [the Bus Driver] has seen it there." According to the Complainant, "[the Student's] IEP specifically states that 'a copy of the Behavior Intervention Plan will be kept on the bus.'"
10. On September 30, 2025, the Case Manager emailed the Complainant, "To follow-up [sic] from our conversation in our meeting yesterday … I have created an amendment that could update [the Student's] IEP. As [the Student's] case manager, it is very important to me to get everything we discussed included in [the Student's] documentation. Please look over this amendment proposal. Please let me know if you have any questions, concerns, or changes you wish to make by the end of this week." The Complainant responded on October 3, 2025, with clarifications and additions regarding behavior technician vs. attendant care, the designated workspace, and accommodations. The Case Manager responded with comments on October 6, 2025.
11. On October 1, 2025, the School Psychologist emailed the Complainant and attached a copy of the PWN that outlined the IEP fidelity and support plan, indicating it was a draft that did not need to be signed because it did not propose changes to the Student's current services.
12. On October 6, 2025, the Nurse emailed the Complainant to alert them the Student was out of medication, and the medication bottles had been sent home several days ago. The Complainant replied the Student's medication was sent with the bus driver that day, and the Nurse confirmed receipt.
13. On October 7, 2025, the School Psychologist emailed the Complainant to "check in to see if you wanted to meet to talk about how things are going with [the Student's] day-to-day and check in about any of the paperwork changes we are working on. Once we have all of the amendment paperwork up to [date], then we hope to start diving into the current IEP[,] so we have plenty of time to work through it all before the December due date." The following day, the Complainant agreed to a check-in meeting.

14. Progress reports dated October 8, 2025 and October 9, 2025, showed annual progress report dates and progress for the Student's measurable annual goals. All dates for all goals indicated the Student's progress was adequate to meet their annual goals.
15. On October 9, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Case Manager requesting bus footage from that day, citing the Student was "out of control" during the ride home and was "physically aggressive toward [the Bus Aide]." The Complainant indicated the Student was escalated when they entered the bus, and no one contacted the Complainant to indicate assistance was needed. According to the Complainant, "This incident raises serious concerns about student and staff safety as well as adherence to [the Student's] Behavior Intervention Plan." The Complainant wrote, "It is also evident … the current plan and training approach are not working. [The Student] requires a certified behavior technician on the bus, and for safety reasons, this should be a male staff member, consistent with what has proven most effective for [the Student] at school." The Assistant Principal responded the following day, indicating they would contact the School Psychologist and the Case Manager to problem-solve.
16. On October 14, 2025, the Complainant accepted a follow-up meeting invitation scheduled for October 16, 2025.
17. On October 16, 2025, the Director of Special Education emailed the Complainant and attached a PWN and an amendment document.
18. The PWN dated October 16, 2025, described on September 29, 2025, the team met to review the Student's evaluation and assessment data and additions, changes, or modifications to the special education, related services, or placement needed for the Student to meet their goals. It was noted, "Other changes to the IEP, not involving services or placement," for which parental consent was not required, were discussed. The proposed actions matched the language from the September 29, 2025 amendment and indicated the team used ABC data, input from staff, and the Complainant/Resource Parent, previous evaluations, and the physician's notes, to propose the additions/adjustments for the Student's health and safety, noting the Student would not be eating meals with peers. The Consent/non-consent page was unsigned.
19. A Notice of Meeting dated October 21, 2025, indicated a virtual team meeting was scheduled for October 28, 2025.
20. On October 27, 2025, a physician's note described the Student's date of visit as October 26, 2025, and included the Complainant's signature and a "Parent Authorization to Administer Medication At School." In the section entitled "Healthcare Provider Authorization to Administer Medication at School," the physician's message said, "As of today, 10/27/25, the following medication has been prescribed for [the Student] … . In my opinion, this medication is necessary during the school day." Lorazepam and the dosage were noted, and the time for the provision of the medication indicated, "PRN-it must be given at the first sign of agitation, defined as whining, crying, restlessness, facial tension, and any other precursor behaviors listed in [the Student's] IEP."

21. On October 27, 2025, the Complainant emailed the Nurse to state they were recently informed the Student's PRN medication had been administered "later than intended" after signs of physical aggression, rather than at the "first signs of agitation." They added their understanding was the IEP team made the decision "based on what was interpreted as medically necessary." The Complainant indicated the prescribing physician's orders were inconsistent with both staff practices and the Complainant's communication. The Complainant wrote, "The physician's intent is clear: the PRN is to be administered at the first sign of agitation, not at the point of aggression. Delaying administration placed [the Student] and others in unsafe situations and is inconsistent with medical direction." According to the Complainant, the physician provided written clarification defining agitation as, "whining, crying, restlessness, facial tension, and any other precursor behaviors listed in [the Student's] IEP." On October 29, 2025, the Director of Special Education attached a medication form and wrote, "… we do not have any of the medication mentioned in the doctor's note, so if this form is completed and returned, we will also need the medication."
22. From October 28, 2025 through November 6, 2025, the following conversations were documented between the Case Manager and staff:
    a. October 28, 2025: "Talked to the SLP about getting updates every 2 weeks on progress and notes. Also discussed impromptu meetings if they are necessary for any major changes."
    b. October 29, 2025:
        i. "Spoke with BT [Behavior Technician] about [the] 7th hour and the expectation of minutes."
        ii. "Talked to APE [Adaptive Physical Education] teacher about getting updates 1 time a month. APE is on consult, meets with [the Student]/BT once every 2 weeks. Discussed increasing frequency if needed, but starting with 1 update a month."
        iii. "Talked to the SLP about the verbiage of 'talker' when we reference [the Student's] iPad."
    c. October 31, 2025: "[T]alked to BT to make sure food policies were followed on Halloween."
    d. November 6, 2025: "[T]alked to BT about daily sheets and notes."
23. On October 29, 2025, the Resource Parent emailed an attachment (agenda) which included items they "had wanted to discuss." The agenda included various verbiage changes and requests, including "Contact the nurse for the PRN medication as it must be given at the first sign of agitation, defined as whining, crying, restlessness, facial tension, and other precursor behaviors listed in this IEP." The Director of Special Education acknowledged receipt on October 30, 2025, and indicated, "The team will be working on updating the amendment and will send it to you to review once drafted."
24. On November 2, 2025, the Resource Parent emailed a replacement medication form for the one "… the school misplaced, as we provided one at enrollment for the 2025-

2026 school year." The Director of Special Education confirmed receipt of the form the following day but noted the end date was listed as June 30, 2025, and asked that the date be corrected. The same day, the Resource Parent emailed the corrected form and confirmed the Student's medications had been delivered to the School that morning. The Authorization for Administering Medications to Children and Youth described the medication, Lorazepam, should be given "at initial sign of agitation." The following medications were authorized via several different forms:

a. Risperidone, Olanzapine, Lithium, Lorazepam, Clonidine: Start: August 13, 2024; End: "school year"; signed by the Resource Parent on August 13, 2024.
b. Mupirocin: Start: August 14, 2024; End: May 20, 2025; signed by the Complainant on August 14, 2024.
c. Olanzapine: Start: December 10, 2024; End: July 1, 2024 [sic]; signed by the Resource Parent on December 10, 2024.
d. Lithium: Start: June 3, 2025; End: June 30, 2025; signed by the Resource Parent on June 1, 2025.
e. Olanzapine: Start: August 11, 2025; End: June 30, 2026; signed by the Resource Parent on July 30, 2025.

25. An IEP Amendment dated November 19, 2025, and effective the following day, was signed by the Case Manager on November 21, 2025. The PWN, dated November 19, 2025, described the LEA's proposals and refusals for changes to the Student's IEP that did not require parental consent. Both the amendment and the PWN include the language. "Adjust language related to PRN medication mentioned in BIP to reflect that the nurse will be called to consider use of PRN medication if behavior that is self-injurious (imminent danger to self or others) is present once all other reactive strategies have been attempted."
26. The Student's daily schedule listed the teacher, the behavior technician, activities, and included a space for notes for each hour/class period. The "Activities" section included when the Student exited the bus in the morning, breakfast location, bathroom break times, water consumption, Nurse visits for medication, a description of the OT and SLP schedule, lunch location, and bus entry times. The space for notes included notes from each hour/class period, including the Student's meals, topics of study, breaks, water, Nurse, Speech, and OT visits. An ABC and Intensity/Duration checklist was attached to each daily schedule. The following schedules were provided:
    a. 12 daily schedules from September 12, 2025 to September 30, 2025.
    b. 19 daily schedules from October 1, 2025 to October 31, 2025.
    c. 3 daily schedules from November 3, 2025 to November 5, 2025.
    d. Of the 34 schedules provided, only the October 30, 2025 document, included a completed ABC data form.
    e. Each daily schedule/ABC data sheet indicated the document was "checked by" the Case Manager.

27. The Student's transcript listed "A's" in all courses for the 2024-25 school year when the Student was a 9th grader. For the 2025-26 school year, the Student's "In-Progress Grades" report noted the Student was absent from six periods during the first semester. Additionally, the Student's "in-progress grades," reported for six courses included five "A's" and one "B."
28. The Student's 2024-25 Nursing Care Plan, dated September 9, 2024, and the 2025-26 Nursing Care Plan, dated August 20, 2025, included categories for assessment data, nursing diagnoses, outcome/goals planning/implementation, and evaluation. Both plans included symptoms of aggressive behaviors in the "assessment data" section. In the "planning/implementation" section for both plans, it was noted the Student should be monitored for inappropriate aggression, and intervention should occur "before exacerbation." Additionally, both plans described the supervised administration of the Student's medication, "according to written physician's orders," would occur in the Nurse's office. Four medications and their administration schedule were noted.

Interview Summaries

The Complainant Interview

29. When asked by the Complaint Investigator which accommodations, modifications, and supports they believed were not implemented after September 12, 2025, the Complainant shared they felt the food plan and the health and medication plans had not been implemented. Additionally, they shared, "I believe … the whole IEP is not being implemented. I have no verification or proof that it is." According to the Complainant, " … there is a piece of paper that comes home daily that kind of talks about activities … [the Student's] done … . And I know for sure … they're not implementing the food plan or the water plan … we agreed upon because it's not written on there as being implemented with how we agreed to it. And then I know the medication wasn't being implemented and services weren't being provided because in the report of the investigation, it said … they had changed the doctor's orders and were not implementing [the Student's] positive behavior support plan with the medication." The Complainant also indicated the Student's IEP was not being followed on the bus, "… whenever [the Student] has a behavior on the bus … I'm supposed to get ABC data and then there's a whole intervention that's supposed to be done on when [the Student] does A or B. This is supposed to happen, and I have no documentation … it's even happened, and I've never had the ABC data." The Complainant described an "extreme" incident where the Complainant had to help the Student off the bus, for which they did not receive ABC data. Additionally, the Complainant indicated they did not believe the study carrels were in place in each classroom before the change regarding a designated workspace.
30. The Complainant described they met with the School Psychologist on September 24, 2025 and on other occasions to discuss the School Psychologist's proposal for an IEP fidelity plan. According to the Complainant, the training plan and proposed actions from the School Psychologist were "stopped" by the Director of Special Education.

31. The Complainant indicated they agreed with the food and water sections of the September 29, 2025 amendment, but "the other things we were still working through. So I wasn't satisfied … I needed clarity …" regarding the Student's designated workspace. When asked if the amendment went into effect on October 20, 2025, the Complainant said, "My understanding is it did, but there was a couple of things … I still wanted." The Complainant shared they wanted a list of the food choices the Student would have for breakfast and lunch. The Complainant alleged the Student received the regular cafeteria food that did not meet the meal plan criteria. Additionally, the Complainant indicated the agreed-upon water consumption of eight ounces of water at each meal and with the Student's medicine was not implemented or properly tracked.
32. According to the Complainant, the School Psychologist and the Case Manager were working on accommodations when an October communication protocol was instituted. The Complainant shared the Director of Special Education "… sent something back that was different than what [the School Psychologist] and [the Case Manager] and I had been talking about, and [the Director of Special Education] sent something back that said it's all being implemented and … I didn't have any say in it, but that's not what we had agreed upon. So [the Director of Special Education] changed the accommodations … [the School Psychologist] and I had talked about."
33. The October 28, 2025 meeting, according to the Complainant, was a combined corrective action and IEP meeting. The Complainant indicated the subsequent amendment did not reflect the content of the meeting, and the PWN they received indicated parent permission was not required for implementation.
34. According to the Complainant, during the October 28, 2025 IEP meeting, the Nurse stated they did not have a current release on file for the Student's PRN medication, which had expired in early September and had been discarded. The Complainant indicated the information regarding both the expired medication and the missing release was new to them, noting they believed they had provided the release at the time of enrollment. The Complainant described being "shocked" to learn the LEA had not raised the issues sooner. The Complainant indicated the new release was provided at the time they provided the physician's definition of "agitation."
35. Regarding the administration of the Student's PRN medication, the Complainant shared, "… my understanding and what I expected was … they would give [the Student] [their] PRN at the first sign of agitation. That's what the doctor said. … "You can't wait until [the Student's] hitting and you have to put [them] in seclusion, then that's too late. The PRN is supposed to … prevent aggression." When asked if there were situations after they received the findings from a previous complaint in which they believed the Student required the PRN medication, the Complainant shared, "So my understanding is yes, definitely. But like I said, they're not following the behavior intervention plan on the bus at all … ." The Complainant was not aware of an occasion on which the Student was restrained or secluded after September 12, 2025.
36. When asked about the LEA's refusal to accept updated medical information from the Student's physician, the Complainant indicated the Director of Special Education would not accept the original form they submitted authorizing the School to administer medication and required a different one. The Complainant indicated the Resource Parent then submitted the requisite document.

The Resource Parent Interview

37. When asked by the Complaint Investigator which accommodations, modifications, and supports they believed were not implemented, the Resource Parent indicated the LEA was not administering the PRN medication as directed, "… [the LEA] is waiting until [the Student] gets completely physically aggressive … and it's supposed to be as soon as [the Student] starts getting agitated, they're supposed to administer [the Student's] PRN … helps [the Student] calm down … ." According to the Resource Parent, the intent was to use the PRN medication at the point of agitation to prevent restraint or seclusion. The Resource Parent indicated they were made aware of the LEA incorrectly administering the PRN medication at the October 28, 2025 meeting and from findings from previous complaints they had filed.
38. The Resource Parent indicated they had no knowledge of the Student being restrained or secluded between September 12, 2025 and the filing of this Complaint.
39. According to the Resource Parent, they initially provided the Nurse with paperwork for the Student's five medications, which included four daily doses and PRN medication, before the start of the 2025-26 school year. Additionally, at an IEP meeting on October 28, 2025, the School claimed they did not have the form specifically for the administration of the PRN medication. At the same meeting, according to the Resource Parent, the School noted they also needed more medication, which required the Resource Parent to obtain a new prescription and a physician's order from the psychiatrist. To resolve the issue, the Resource Parent signed and hand-delivered a new PRN medication form on November 3, 2025, after correcting a date error the School had pointed out on the previous form.
40. When asked if the Resource Parent or the Complainant requested an IEP meeting to discuss the PRN medication, the Resource Parent indicated the meeting was called by the LEA for "IEP corrections or corrective actions."
41. When asked about the LEA's refusal to accept updated medical information from the Student's physician, the Resource Parent shared before the October 28, 2025 IEP meeting, they provided a letter "… that said 'Parental Authorization to Administer Medication' signed by, not only [the Complainant], but [the Student's] treating psychiatrist, and the School refused to accept that. Instead … they stated we needed to put it on a form … they provided, which was a District form that was also requiring a physician's signature and also said something about mediation instead of medication."
42. According to the Resource Parent, the October 28, 2025 IEP meeting resulted in "Nothing really. The Prior Written Notice … they provided is … they were refusing to implement just about everything … we talked about."
43. The Resource Parent indicated they received a copy of the October 28, 2025 amendment on November 19, 2025.

Director of Special Education

44. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Director of Special Education described the September 24, 2025 meeting between the Complainant and the School Psychologist as an informal opportunity for the Complainant to share their concerns about the Student and brainstorm how the LEA could provide support. For example, the School Psychologist and the Complainant concluded an FBA was not the necessary course of action. The Director of Special Education indicated the Student Plan Proposal was another attempt to address the Complainant's concerns and determine who needed more training or support around a particular topic. Following a meeting with the Complainant, the School Psychologist would report to the Case Manager any topics requiring staff training or clarity for those supporting the Student, "Then … the Case Manager would connect with that team member who is in need of … additional clarity or training … and ensure that … is provided" and document accordingly.
45. The Director of Special Education indicated a copy of the Student's BIP was provided to the bus driver on September 30, 2025, the day they were made aware of the absence of a physical copy. According to the Director of Special Education, the Student's BIP described daily data collection to be shared with the family on a daily basis, but, "… there is nothing that would lead anybody to believe … data would need to be collected based on the bus ride."
46. The Director of Special Education explained the amendment dated September 29, 2025, with an implementation date of October 20, 2025, did not go into effect. They shared the amendment and a PWN to review and provide feedback with the Complainant on October 16, 2025 to which the Complainant never responded. The Director of Special Education explained, "We had a meeting 12 days later to gather more information. … So then the eventual amendment … I sent at a later date was this information here [on the September 29, 2025 amendment] plus more."
47. Regarding the medical documentation and the PRN medication, the Director of Special Education shared they received a physician's note on October 27, 2025 regarding the Student's PRN medication, the day before a scheduled IEP meeting. The Director of Special Education indicated they used the meeting on the 28th to get "more clarity because some of it felt unclear to us." According to the Director of Special Education, "We shared with [the Complainant and Resource Parent] at the time … regarding the PRN and the doctor's note, we did not have a form on file related to us being able to administer the PRN, nor did we even have that medication." The Director of Special Education recalled the family suggesting the authorization form had been provided at the start of the year, but the Nurse did not have it on file. According to the Director of Special Education, the form was signed and returned three days later with an incorrect date. The family resubmitted the proper documentation on November 3, 2025, two days before the filing of this Complaint.
48. The Director of Special Education was not aware of the PRN medication being administered between September 12, 2025 and November 5, 2025, nor were they aware of the Student being restrained or secluded during that timeframe.

Case Manager Interview

49. In an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Case Manager explained the fidelity and support plan had been implemented since they were assigned as case manager in September 2025. The plan required the Student's behavior technician to compile and submit daily activity sheets, which the Case Manager then reviewed and signed. They submitted the documents to an administrator every two weeks for the record. The Case Manager described communicating regularly with teachers and service providers to maintain consistent implementation of the plan. The Case Manager indicated the daily sheets were scanned and the original copies were sent home. The Case Manager described the ABC section of the daily sheet was blank if there were no problem behaviors identified that day.
50. The Case Manager indicated the amendment dated September 29, 2025, originated after meeting with the Complainant to address concerns about the Student's IEP. However, the amendment never went into effect because it was never signed. The Case Manager indicated the amendment kept getting revised after further family requests were added, preventing its finalization.
51. The Case Manager shared the Student has had a "fantastic" year and could only think of two instances in which the ABC chart was used to log problem behaviors. The Case Manager shared the following regarding the Student's BIP, and confirmed the utilization of these strategies from September 12, 2025 to November 5, 2025:
    a. Visuals and schedules, used daily.
    b. Proactive Strategies:
        i. Two staff members trained in de-escalation (a teacher and a behavior technician) who could contact the office in an emergent situation, and who were available at all times except transitions.
        ii. PRN medication information provided by special education case managers, including access to a copy of the Student's highlighted medication list.
        iii. Pre-teaching routines, easing of prompting, modeling, and education in a familiar setting were described.
        iv. A male staff member with a large stature was preferred by the family.
        v. Pre-teaching common phrases.
        vi. Verbal reminders, praise, non-frequent contingent structured breaks with preferred activities, reinforcement, choices, hallway/track walks not during passing period, social stories, describe and acknowledge aggressive behavior, engage during breaks, icons, errorless teaching, finish tub (not used much), age-appropriate structured activities with rotating options, teach on-task behavior and boundaries, and my turn-your turn language.
        vii. For sleep, bright lights, engagement, novel tasks, reinforcement, and the removal of sleep locations.
        viii. All bathroom and gym/inedible objects strategies.

ix. A copy of the BIP on the bus.

x. Storage for soiled and replacement clothing, and communicate laundry and restroom procedures out of the Student's earshot.

c. Reactive Strategies:

i. Expectation reminders, showing visuals, changing activities, and offering preferred items and breaks.

ii. Pair aggression with "Go to the calm place" and guide the Student, offering the door.

iii. All sleep, bathroom, and gym/inedible objects reactive strategies.

iv. All strategies were implemented as needed for aggressive behaviors in and out of the classroom.

Specifically regarding the provision of a cubicle or partition as a proactive strategy to separate the Student from distractions, in the BIP, the Case Manager shared the current School setting necessitated changing an accommodation from the Student's middle school IEP. Previously, the Student had a partition in [their] eighth-grade classroom to reduce distractions. Due to the different layout and size of multiple high school classrooms, this partition was impractical and created a safety hazard. Therefore, the proposed amendment removed the partition requirement and instead emphasized the Student having a designated, consistent seating spot in each classroom. The Case Manager reported a cubicle or partition was not consistently available in all of the Student's locations between September 12, 2025, and November 11, 2025.

Specifically regarding reacting to aggressive behaviors, including headbanging and whining, and the use of the PRN medication as noted in the BIP, the Case Manager shared, "[The Student's] biggest self-injurious behavior is the headbanging. So when [the Student] would get to the point of the self-injurious behavior, that was the time [when] we called the Nurse to get … PRN medication."

52. The Case Manager confirmed the utilization of the Student's program modifications and supports of reading aloud, frequent breaks, and a reinforcement system from September 12, 2025 to November 5, 2025. The Case Manager reiterated the study carrel was not implemented, but there was an amendment proposing to eliminate it. Additionally, the Case Manager confirmed the following were implemented, as needed, according to the location, frequency, and duration noted on the IEP from September 12, 2025 to November 5, 2025: PBS, weighted vest/blanket, visual schedule, other AAC device, mini schedules, fidgets, transition alerts, reminders of rules, other scheduled sensory breaks, other scripting, other prompting, errorless teaching, social stories, use of calculator and headphones, and supervision. The Case Manager confirmed all items under the "Transportation Options" section of the IEP were provided for the Student's specialized transportation.

53. According to the Case Manager, all services and supplementary aids on the IEP were implemented from September 12, 2025 to November 5, 2025.
54. When asked about the provision of ABC data for the Student's bus journeys, the Case Manager shared they created a Google Form for the bus aide to complete if there were problem behaviors exhibited on the bus. When the form was completed and submitted, the Case Manager forwarded it "on to the appropriate party."
55. The Case Manager was not aware of any occasions between September 12, 2025 and November 5, 2025 in which the Student needed the PRN medication or was restrained or secluded.

The School Psychologist Interview

56. The School Psychologist, in an interview with the Complaint Investigator, described the September 24, 2025 meeting with the Complainant as a meeting to hear the Complainant's concerns and exchange ideas. They described the October 16, 2025 meeting as an informal check-in and "trying to find a place between the District and [the Complainant]" regarding amendment paperwork. The School Psychologist recalled talking with the Complainant about their vision for the Student's next IEP.
57. The School Psychologist described the Student Plan Proposal as a "series of steps to help support the IEP fidelity and the IEP team" that did not have concrete start and end dates.

The Nurse Interview

58. During an interview with the Complaint Investigator, the Nurse shared they administer medications to the Student twice each day, around 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m.
59. When asked how staff were made aware of the Student's PRN medication, the Nurse said they "are made aware by the care plans … we put together at the beginning of the year … we make copies … and give it to all our Sp[ecial] Ed[ucation] teachers so everybody knows exactly what their medications are … what they're used for." The Nurse shared, "… I didn't find out about the PRN medication until October … ." The Nurse mentioned in October, on or about the 27th, they received correspondence from the Student's physician for the PRN medication indicating, "PRN must be given at the first sign of agitation … defined as whining, crying, restlessness, facial tension, and any other precursor behaviors listed in [the Student's] IEP." The Nurse shared the Case Manager was aware of the medication and "I'm not going to do anything unless I'm phoned by the staff saying … [the Student] is displaying these behaviors. And at that time, if that meets [the] criteria to administer this Lorazepam, then I would do that at that time."
60. The Nurse indicated they did not administer the PRN medication between October 27, 2025 and November 5, 2025. The Nurse said, "I didn't even have that medication to administer." The Nurse shared they alerted the family at the meeting (October 28, 2025) about the paperwork and lack of medication, and the Resource Parent disagreed. The Nurse shared the Resource Parent only provided paperwork for the scheduled medications, not the PRN medication.

The October 28, 2025 Meeting

The Complaint Investigator reviewed a transcript of the October 28, 2025 meeting and included the following relevant information:

a. The Case Manager indicated the purpose of the meeting was to "review the findings" (from a previous complaint) and provide "next steps for [the Student's] IEP implementation." The Case Manager shared the Student's "… new health plan will be added to the IEP. That includes the meal plan, the new doctor's note, and [the Student's] water consumption plan."

b. Regarding the BIP, the Case Manager shared an amendment was provided, and additional items were needed, including the new physician's note. The Team discussed the physician's note, the Student's precursor behaviors, and the definition of restlessness. Additionally, they discussed when to use de-escalation strategies and the PRN medication.

c. The Nurse stated they had the necessary documentation for the Student's daily medications for the current year, but lacked the required forms for PRN medication, and requested the Complainant/Resource Parent provide them. The Nurse also shared the Student's existing PRN medication had expired and was subsequently discarded, necessitating a new supply.

d. The IEP team discussed the School Psychologist's fidelity proposal, and the Resource Parent requested it be added to the IEP. The Director of Special Education clarified the "daily sheet component" was already a part of the IEP, and the proposal was a planning document. The Director of Special Education described the PWN "spells things out a little bit differently."

e. The Special Education Director clarified there were three components to the fidelity plan: the daily sheets, the administrative overview, and the support sessions, and indicated the support sessions had already begun.

f. The Complainant shared the meetings with the School Psychologist were helpful.

g. The Case Manager explained the Student's daily sheet outlined the Student's routine, but not their progress, and explained the proposed meetings with related service providers would be for the Case Manager to review the providers' progress notes over a two-week period.

h. The Case Manager explained the coding related to "attendant care," and the Resource Parent shared, "We're saying we want in the IEP … delineating that it's covered by special ed[ucation] teachers and the behavior technician." The Case Manager confirmed, "… that's exactly how it's listed" in the amendment.

i. The Director of Special Education shared while it was noted in the Student's behavior plan that males of a certain stature worked best with the Student, the LEA was not going to delineate the sex of the Student's supporter in the IEP.

j. The Resource Parent shared their preference for calling the Student's communication device a "talker" to provide continuity of vocabulary. Additionally, the Resource Parent requested the School-based SLP and the private provider collaborate regarding the Student's communication. The Director of Special Education indicated there was a Release of Information (ROI) for the private provider, and collaboration could continue.

k. The Resource Parent requested an additional iPad with preloaded videos for the Student to use on the bus to enhance engagement.

l. The Resource Parent said, "I think the only other issue, that's the last one … I've got … has to deal with an accommodation regarding remaining in [the Student's] seventh hour instructional setting until the end of the scheduled class period."

m. The Director of Special Education indicated the PWN for the fidelity plan had already been provided and stated, "… the components … we're desiring to add to the IEP, once we receive the information from you all, then we can put together what would be our proposed amendment in PWN, and we will send that to you to review. Not asking for consent at that point, but sending it to you to review. And then, if there is a need to meet again, we certainly can."

Positions of the Parties, Applicable Regulations, and Conclusions

Issue One

Whether USD #437, in accordance with state and federal regulations implementing the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), implemented the Student's IEP, including the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided in accordance with the IEP. K.A.R. 91-40-16)(b)(2)(3)(4)(5); 34 CFR § 300.323 (a)(c)(1)(2)(d)(1)(2).

According to K.A.R. 91-40-16 (b)(2)(3)(4)(5) and 34 CFR § 300.323 (a)(c)(1)(2)(d)(1)(2), Each agency shall ensure those services for which written consent has been granted, as specified by law, are implemented not later than 10 school days after parental consent is granted unless a reasonable justification for a delay can be shown. Additionally, each agency shall ensure an IEP is in effect for each exceptional child at the beginning of each school year, the child's IEP is accessible to each regular education teacher, special education teacher, related service provider, and other service provider who is responsible for its implementation; and each teacher and provider is informed of their specific responsibilities related to implementing the child's IEP and the specific accommodations, modifications, and supports that must be provided for the child in accordance with the IEP.

The Complainant alleged the LEA substituted the physician's orders to administer PRN medication "at the first sign of agitation" with a school policy only to provide it to the Student once they became "aggressive." The Complainant alleged this resulted in behavioral escalation requiring seclusion or restraints and unsafe behaviors, which violated the LEA's responsibility to implement all services as written in the IEP and health plan.

The LEA asserted the current Complaint repeats claims already investigated in KSDE 26FC437-002. Since that time, the LEA has taken all required corrective actions, and the Student's IEP continues to be implemented with fidelity. The Student received all mandated accommodations, modifications, and supports, including a 1:1 behavior technician and a 1:1 transportation paraeducator, both of whom share responsibility for ensuring the Student's supports are in place.

The LEA implemented most of the Student's documented accommodations, services, and supports between September 12, 2025 and November 5, 2025. Implementation concerns raised by the Complainant centered around five areas: the administration of the Student's PRN medication, the provision of a copy of the BIP on the bus, data collection on the bus, the food and water plan, and the provision of a study carrel/partition in all subjects throughout the day. The investigation revealed the following regarding each of those concerns:

1. Administration of the PRN medication: The BIP's "reactive strategies" required contacting the Nurse to administer the PRN medication at the first indication of aggressive behaviors. However, the Nurse was not in possession of the medication or the proper authorization until November 3, 2025, two days before the filing of this Complaint. There was no indication in the record the Student's behavior necessitated the administration of the PRN between November 3, 2025 and November 5, 2025. This allegation is not substantiated.
